What instruments are the ear and the brain! Nature in the process of time has protected man against unusual sounds which would wreck his peace. Will nature make us more free from sounds, which are peculiar to this age?

We do know that when intent on an object or sound, other sounds are not heard, though we know they are being made. But we also admit that these sounds which we shut out by our intentness on others are affecting us. But science says the sounds that other creations hear, we do not hear and yet are affected by them.

ATHLETES IN OLD CIRCUS

Students who have delved into Roman history know of the Circus Maximus in which the ancient Romans held their games. Work is going forward for exploration of the site of the old circus and there is a suggestion that valuable lore concerning ancient Rome may be discovered. The hint has been thrown out if the excavations prove a success it may be that the Olympic games may be staged in part in their ancient playground of the former conquerors of the world.

RADIO DEATH BEAMS

There is something medieval about the tales of death rays that crop up about as often as the sea serpent raises his shaggy head above the waters. An electric explode its gasoline—what is this but the familiar sorcerer's finger that has but to be pointed at a man to kill him? The belief in magic dies hard and gray beards refuse to grow up even in a scientific age that is supposed to measure and test before it accepts.

Ever since wireless became a reality engineers have been racking their brains to discover a way of concentrating waves in long, thin pencils on distant receivers. Their success has not been conspicuous. Marcoi's beam, for example, widens into a fan which ultimately embraces a whole continent. Much easier is the problem of reflecting light from a parabolic mirror. Yet even the best searchlight sends out nothing better than a luminous cone. Considering the utter impossibility of preventing any radiation from spreading and diminishing with discouraging rapidity, it follows that the energy required at the source of a deadly radio beam could not be much less than that of Niagara Falls.

War Offices supposed to be alarmed by the potentialities of death rays say nothing of protection. We have to hold up a hand to shut off the blinding glare of an arc lamp. So with this lethal beam. It can be blocked. The principles of shielding, now applied in preventing waves generated by ignition systems from drowning out telephone voices and telegraph signals which the pilot of a passenger plane must hear, should be effective against this hypothetical electric finger.

Curiously enough, the French, British and German Armies are all credited with possessing the new and dreadful electrical knowledge. Even Washington hints darkly at experiments in electric killing. Technical history has shown that important discoveries invariably become public despite the barbed-wire fences, automatic alarms and close questioning by gatekeepers, dear to the commanders of fortifications and the owners of chemical works. Yet there is no inkling in scientific literature of the manner in which deadly waves can be made to blow up a gasoline tank at a distance, which is reason enough for concluding that War Offices are no wiser about them than radio engineers. Even revolutionary inventions are based on known facts.

The incredible tale from Germany receives a specious support because of world-wide efforts to substitute Diesel for gasoline engines in the air. Gasoline is expensive and explosive; it is ignited by a spark. Heavy oil, the fuel of the Diesel engine, is cheap and safe; it is ignited by high compression when sprayed into cylinders. Bearing all this in mind, it is evident that neither the military nor commercial engineer needs a death ray to stimulate his interest in adapting the Diesel engine to the demands of fast flying.—New York Times.

DEVILS, DOCTORS AND ECONOMISTS

A great deal of scorn has been cast on the so-called "popular" books, books which try to treat of scientific matters in a manner intelligible to the layman. Probably Dr. Howard Haggard's "Devils, Drugs and Doctors" falls in this class, but nevertheless it is an interesting and stimulating book. It gives a vivid picture of the long period of slow groping after remedies for human ailments, and contrasts that with the rapid strides made toward the elimination of disease since science superseded superstition.

The symptoms of our economic ills are evident enough, but economists have not been able to reach a satisfactory agreement on either their clauses or treatment. Perhaps at no time in our history have we had so many vendors of economic panaceas each of whom proclaims that his remedy and his alone will end all our troubles. Their ballyhoo strangely resembles that of medieval quacks peddling unicorn's horn, or powdered Egyptian mummies. Some of these panaceas, notably high tariffs, have been given a thorough trial, but have merely served to aggravate the disease. Others are still in the experimental stage, and we await results impatiently.

Economists, even more than physicians have been handicapped by forces wholly illogical. People remain wedded to the worship of their tribal fetishes. Perhaps the most glaring example is the case of Dr. Schacht wrestling with Germany's tangled finances and thwarted at every turn by the necessity for governing his economic policies by the tenets of the Aryan myth. When we regard Germany with somewhat pitying contempt, we should cast our eyes about and see if we have no Golden Calves of our own, no Molochs of economic nationalism before whom we are sacrificing the well-being of generations of our people.—London Advertiser.

The happiness and misery of men depend no less on temper than fortune.—Rochefoucauld.

Men who have a great deal of experience learn not to lose their tempers.—V. Cherbuliez.

A wise man will hear and will increase learning; and a man of understanding shall attain unto wise counsels.—Book of

SIDELIGHTS

THE HOME FORUM

Discussing the events of the day, home gossip and general news topics as revealed by the home newspaper—under the evening lamp—and comments Grave and Gay. — Supervised by The Lamplighter.

NO OBLIVION

There can be no oblivion
In all this ever-changing Earth
Which circles round the flaming sun
With birth and death, with death and birth.

The rose may be a rose no more,
The lark's impassioned song may cease;
No thing may be as aught before,
No semblance of past strife or peace.

Yet when rose-petals fall to dust
Which on the wind is blown and tossed,
Those scattered golden grains still must
Have some import, not wholly lost.

The life-span of a dancing leaf
From green to gold, from gold to brown
Seems so immeasurably brief
As year on year the leaves drift down.

Yet no oblivion waits; all goes
In other fashion to arise,
Some part of what was once a rose
May beckon from your loved one's eyes!

—Aline Michaelis.

x x x

MUD SLINGING indulged in by Senator Huey Long, of Louisiana, from the floor of the Senate at Washington, has only added humor to the Front Page of the nation, and when General Johnston, the man entrusted with bringing the N.R.A. through its growing pains, notices Huey enough to make him the subject of a public address, broadcast on the radio, he is just doing the noisy Louisiana politician-racketeer a favor in giving him something else to rave about of more or less public interest. These blatherskites who obtain high positions where they can insult all and everybody out of step with them and promulgate impossible but enticing doctrines are just a public nuisance and should be treated as such. Too much attention to their diatribes dignifies them with an importance they are not entitled to. Huey Long promises the "Common People" a share in the wealth of the nation and even promises to divide his own wealth when it passes the million mark, he to be his own auditor. Folks who need money are not hard to cnnvince that Huey Long's doctrine is the real thing.

x x x

"DUTCH" SCHULTZ, New York City racketeer, took in as high as two hundred million dollars a year in the policy racket, and might have got away with it if he hadn't tried to gyp his Uncle Samuel out of a share in the loot. Now Uncle Sam is after the whole bag and is warming up a cell down at Atlanta for "Dutch" who has been branded as "Public Enemy No. —, something or other". The policy game is a lottery racket much favored by the negro citizens of Harlem, which is situated in the upper reaches of New York City, away up beyond Central Park and the brownstone section of the West Side. Harlem is mostly on the East Side, and the East Side of New York is the slum side, from the Battery to the Harlem River. Policy is played with numbers, a double column of numbers being compiled each day and at a stated time announced. Betting is generally upon "gigs", meaning three numbers. If one of the numbers comes out on top of the official list there is a winning, if two out of the three appear in either column there is a winning. If all three appear in either column there is a big winning. Policy gave birth to the 4—11—44 superstition. The negroes believe that 4—11—44 will come out at regular intervals and play their hunches and dreams. Dream books are published purporting to explain the meaning of dreams in policy numbers, f'instance, if one dreams of horses that means a hunch to bet on certain number combinations, hundreds of these tips being given. The game is illegal but it never stops, and the small sum returned to the players daily in cash prizes makes for gigantic profits for the promoters. Incidentally it may be stated that murder has stalked the policy game in Harlem for years and the Policy Kings have died quickly to make way for some other ambitious upstart. Sometimes the would-be kings are killed before the real kings stop any hot lead, which is better for the real king,—much better.

x x x

Doctor—Your husband is not so well today, Mrs. Maloney. Is he sticking to the simple diet I prescribed?

Mrs. Maloney—He is not, soor. He says he'll not be after starvin' himself to death just for the sake of living a few years

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 Years Ago

MARCH 19th., 1915.

Mr. John Griffin, president of the Griffin Amusement Company is in the city today looking after his local interests.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Fairfield, Coleman street, will celebrate the 50th. anniversary of their wedding tomorrow, March 20th., and they will be at home to their friends from 4 to 6 o'clock, in the afternoon.

Dr. John D. Doyle, who has been home on a visit, returned to New York today.

Messrs. Leslie Gordon and B. Taylor are in Stratford, representing the local Grand Trunk apprentices at a conference being held in that city.

Mr. Robert Day of this city has received a letter from his son Frank, who left here with the 34th. Battery, First Overseas Contingent. He is now in France and is within six miles of the firing line. All the Belleville boys with him are well and wish to be remembered to their friends.

30 Years Ago

MARCH 19th., 1905.

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church will give an entertainment in the lecture room of the church tomorrow evening. There will be an interesting debate argued by the legal against the medical profession.

The police yesterday weighed bread produced by local bakers and found all samples up to the proper standard.

The Philharmonic concert will take place this coming Thursday evening. Seats are on sale at Riggs' Music Store.

The funny cartoons now displayed in the Intelligencer office window are attracting much attention and are being favorably commented upon. They are the work of Mr. Charles Greenleaf.

Mr. William Garrett of Toronto is the guest of Mr. Merton C. Gordon, Church street.

40 Years Ago

MARCH 19th., 1895.

An ice boat was making good time on the bay today.

A number of men from the shanties in the northern part of the county were on the streets today.

There is no flow of sap yet.

Mr. Thos. Hanley, who has the contract to rebuild St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in this city, is getting material upon the ground.

Miss Roblin will hold her spring millinery opening on Wednesday of this week. (Advt.)

Mr. N. E. . alkiner, barrister, is in Toronto on business.

Mr. H. K. Smith, Game Warden, left today for Coe Hill.

Mr. T. J. Benson will shortly open a grocery store in the Cronk Block, Front street, a few doors north of the Intelligencer office.

Mr. W. J. McCamon, barrister, left last evening to attend the Grand Council of Chosen Friends which is now in session at Toronto.

50 Years Ago

MARCH 19th., 1885.

A Council of the Royal Arcanum will be organized in this city tomorrow night.

Although well advanced in the first spring month, no distinctive features of the season have been developed.

A meeting of the members of the Sportsman's Club was held last evening, Mr. R. Croft Hulme the president, occupied the chair. The office of treasurer having become vacant through the death of James Clarke, the offices of secretary and treasurer were amalgamated and Mr. Geo. N. Leavens, the secretary, was appointed to fill the dual office. The president, Mr. R. Croft Hulme, Dr. S. B. Burdett and Judge Fraleck were appointed a committee to prepare a constitution and by-laws for the government of the club. Mr. Thos. Ritchie was elected a member. It was decided to commence trap shooting as soon as the weather will permit.

A Thought for Today

"Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me."
—John 15:4.

One-Minute Interviews

Rev. G. N. Bell, French West Africa:

"People in this country seem to get a bit flighty when the subject of quinine is mentioned. I can even include the medical men in this case. Lots of ordinary citizens believe the drug is habit forming and it shouldn't be taken too often or in too large a dose. Down in West Africa, in the Sudan where I am stationed, they call that section one of the unhealthiest places on the west coast. Blackwater fever, malaria and other diseases are prevalent, and we take every-day doses of quinine that would make a lot of people shudder. If we didn't take it we couldn't keep going. Yet I do not find it habit forming and we apparently suffer no ill effects from it."

Mr. Geo. F. Ostrom, Chairman of the Belleville Harbor Commission:

"Citizens of Belleville should be apprised of the fact that the new dock extension is not being built just for the Harbor Board or for any other Board, but for the city at large. The new construction project was conceived and is now being designed for the good of the city as a whole. Every citizens should directly benefit by the new improvements which will allow larger boats to come in and dump cargoes where there is greater space and better facilities. The price of coal alone should be materially reduced after we have a place to unload and store it. The Harbor Board is spending its own money on the project for the benefit of the city and the immediate district."

Joseph E. Shortt, President Belleville Anglers' Association:

"Within two years or so in this district real fishermen will be able to get some real fishing, we hope. This year we are going to really tackle the problem of restocking some of the good streams in Hastings County with trout. It will take some time for them to propagate in sufficient numbers and become large enough to make worthwhile fishing, but we of the Belleville Anglers' Association believe that the results will be worth the effort."

Harry Crossen, Wood Dealer:

"Find an ironwood tree—one that is of any size at all. I've been cutting wood all winter in the back part of the township, and all the iron wood trees I've seen would not have made a load. I've had other wood dealers tell me the same thing. Maybe the climate is changing or something, but the fact seems to be that the ironwoods aren't growing half as big or are found half as often as they were just a few years ago."

Harry Akey, Lonsdale:

"Speaking about wolves, the modern wolf, in my experience, will say boo to a goose, but not to a man. Years ago it may have been different. The wolves then might have been like the old timers who settled the district rough and ready. I have heard my grandfather and other old timers tell me how they have had to fight off wolves, but they did not show me any wolf bites. I've never heard of any of our Hastings County wolves attacking a man."

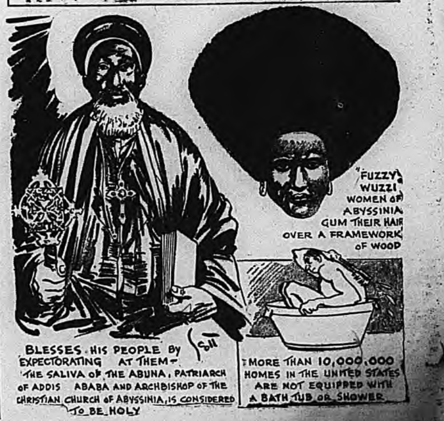
Martin Brant, Tyendinaga:

"In spite of the fact that most people get their wood already cut these days, I find the demand for axe handles just as brisk as it was years ago. I've been making them for years and can sell them just as fast as I make them. Most of my customers are old-timers who know a good, hand-made axe handle when they see one. When you make a handle you've got to have the heft just right in the right place. That's where most of the machine made ones fall down; the machine doesn't take into consideration the different grained wood being put through it. When I start to carve a handle It know the grain and the wood right to the last ounce."

Boston, March 19 (CP)—Scores of detectives today were on the trail of a large gang of murderers—murderers of the English language. The detectives are students at Emerson College who have been detailed by Dr. H. James Rockel, head of the literature department and an ardent purist, to investigate the use of slang by classmates and others.

The purpose of the survey is to make students speech-conscious.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK - - By R. J. Scott



Scott
BLESSES HIS PEOPLE BY EXPECTORATING AT THEM - THE SALIVA OF THE ABUNA, PATRIARCH OF ADDIS ABABA AND ARCHBISHOP OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH OF ABYSSINIA, IS CONSIDERED TO BE HOLY
"FUZZY WUZZI" WOMEN OF ABYSSINIA GUM THEIR HAIR OVER A FRAMEWORK OF WOOD
MORE THAN 10,000,000 HOMES IN THE UNITED STATES ARE NOT EQUIPPED WITH A BATH TUB OR SHOWER

ECONOMIC COUNCIL TO CONSIST OF 15 BILL INTRODUCED

Another Item in Reform Program Brought Down in House

TWO OTHER BILLS

All Members of Council To Serve Without Salary

OTTAWA, March 19—(CP)—The Government's proposal for an economic council of 15 men, to serve without salary, was before the House of Commons today. With the introduction of this legislation another item in the reform program was implemented by Legislation.

The bill, as introduced yesterday, received first reading after some discussion. It will probably be advanced through other stages during the week. Today the 1935 Unemployment Relief Bill will be introduced, and possibly the Minimum Wage Bill, another reform measure.

Sir George Perley, Acting Prime Minister, explained the economic council plan and predicted the next few years would see as much attention given to economic research as had been devoted to scientific research in the recent past. The new body is to be of an executive type and will have power to direct and conduct investigations of various kinds either by existing Government agencies or by experts specially employed for the purpose.

It will be attached to the Prime Minister's office and not more than seven of its fifteen members may be selected from the public service of Canada.

It was well known, he explained, that Minister of the Crown and especially the Prime Minister had too much detail work under the present Canadian system. Sir Robert Borden recognized this before the war and appointed a distinguished British Civil Service expert, Sir George Murray, to investigate and report. He had suggested a change to reduce the burdens of the Ministers but the war had caused the plan to drop out of sight.

Governments in recent years had to take more and more note of business conditions and this placed increasing burdens on the Ministers. The economic council could relieve them of some of this work. Any question whatever could be referred to the council said Sir George. As an example of a suitable question he mentioned the growth of the cities and the declining farm population.

This problem could be studied with a view to evolving a plan to make more people self-supporting on the land.

The council would not cost a large sum of money, said Sir George. It was expected the members would serve in any honorary capacity and that its functions would be purely executive and not in any respect administrative.

Research work in the natural sciences had produced amazing results in recent years and Sir George felt that in the immediate future greater attention would be devoted to and greater results obtained from research in social and economic problems.

The government service, the acting Premier continued, was broken up into various departments which had grown from small beginnings over the years. There was need of some central body to co-ordinate economic and social knowledge and experience gathered in the records of the departments and the experience of their staffs. The economic council would fulfill this function. Similar bodies had been set up in 25 or 30 other countries with varying powers.

As soon as the bill became law the government would call the council together so that a program of work could be drawn up.

The general duties of the Council, as laid down in the act, will be:

"(A) To study, investigate, report and advise upon questions relating to the general trend of social or economic conditions or to any social or economic problem of Canada, and to authorize the investigations in that behalf as hereinafter provided.

"(B) To make recommendations to promote and co-ordinate social and economic research within Canada.

"(C) To make recommendation to co-ordinate the activities of a social or economic character of the several departments of the Government of Canada;

"(D) To make recommendations as to the organization of statistics as the basic data required for social and economic investigations.

"(E) To publish such reports and findings as may be considered to be in the public interest."

◆

NO DATE FOR BUDGET

Toronto, March 19—(CP)—Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn said today he was working on the Budget but could not name a date when it would be presented to the Ontario Legislature.

"It keeps our staff busy answering questions," said the Premier, adding there are already about 180 questions on the order paper. Replies to them, he maintained, would increase administration costs as well as take time of civil servants. "We will answer those we want to answer," said Mr. Hepburn. "If we consider a question frivolous we will have it stricken from the order paper."

SHAMROCK TEA AT SHANNONVILLE

Shannonville, March 19 — The funeral of the late Mrs. Sam Fuller passed through the village to All Saints Church on Wednesday.

Mr. Bert Juby was lucky enough to shoot a large wolf on Monday while on a little hunting trip and saw several more.

Mr. K. R. Vivian made a business trip to Peterboro on Wednesday.

Milltown Mill is a busy place these days. Mr. Robert Little is sawing three days a week.

Mrs. Robert McFarlane and Jackie have returned home from spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. Fred Buskard is still quite ill at his home here. His many friends wish for him a complete recovery to his former health.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thompson have returned to Indian Point for the summer after spending the winter at their home here.

Mr. Sam Brant an aged gentleman passed away on Saturday at the home of Mr. Enoch Fuller. The funeral was held on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Morley Craig of Halloway were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Juby and spent the dinner hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ira Cook.

Sponsored by the Ladies' Guild a splendidly arranged Shamrock tea was held at the home of Mrs. Albert Mark on Thursday which was fairly well attended. The dining room with the decorations emblematical of old Erin looked very attractive. A program was arranged and thoroughly enjoyed by the guests after which lunch was served by the older members of the Guild.

Mr. John Kent of the Trenton airport staff spent the week end at his home here.

The crows are again seen which shows that spring is not far away.

Mr. F. J. McFarlane is in Toronto for a few days on business.

Mr. Lewis John has moved with his family to the Montrose dairy farm where he has been employed for a year.

Mrs. Herbert Houston and Miss Clara and friend attended the birthday party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Young in Belleville on Thursday night.

Albert Doherty who has been a patient at the Belleville General Hospital for the past three months is home much improved in health.

Mrs. Wilbur Sherry of Belleville, is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. J. F. McFarlane.

◆

LONSDALE WEEKLY NEWS BUDGET

Lonsdale, March 19—Everyone is glad to see the nice warm spring weather once again and people in this vicinity are thinking pretty strong of sugar making just now.

Miss Helen Hall has returned home after spending a week with her uncles Mr. Harry and Mr. F. McCullough.

Messrs. Billy King and Ralph Melburn had dinner Sunday with Mr. Harry McCullough.

Mr. Francis McCullough visited Mr. Jack McCullough on Saturday evening.

Mrs. Frank McCabe entertained her brother for a couple of days this week.

Miss Kathleen McCullough visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCabe on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. Harold McCullough sawed wood for Mr. Harvey Calberry one day this week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Asselstine have moved to this vicinity, he has rented the farm formerly owned by Mr. Chas. Melburn.

Quite a number from here attended the hard-time party at Mr. W. Scott's, Forest Mills on Tuesday night and all report a good time.

Mr. Ralph Melburn took tea Sunday with Mr. Jack McCullough.

The death occurred at Toronto on Feb. 28th, of an old and respected person, Mrs. Ann Jane Marlin, widow of the late Richardson Marlin at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ross Stuart, 224 Lee Avenue, Toronto. Mrs. Marlin had just celebrated her eighty-sixth birthday on Sunday, Feb. 24th. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Annie McCullough of Lonsdale, Mrs. Ross Stuart of Toronto, two sons, Maxwell Marlin of Marlbank, William G. Marlin of Stoco, one sister Mrs. Margaret McConnell of Lime Lake. Seventeen grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

The remains were brought to the home of her grandson Murney Marlin, Croydon, where she had always made her home and from where the funeral took place on Sunday to Reidville Church. The service was conducted by the Rev. M. R. Brown.

The remains were placed in Tamworth vault to await burial in the spring.

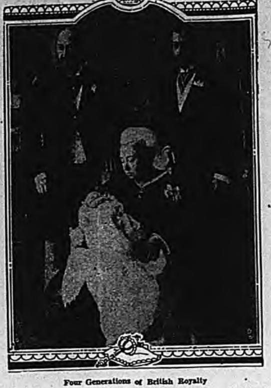
The pall-bearers were six nephews, Messrs. John, Charles McConnell, Willie, Fred, Donald Hall, and Fred Maxwell.

Stop Rheumatism At its Source

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. Urea, a blood impurity, should be extracted by the kidneys. If kidneys fail, and urea remains, it changes to uric acid which in minute crystals lodges in joints or between muscles causing excruciating pains. Avoid rheumatism by keeping your kidneys in good condition. Flush them every three weeks with Dodd's Kidney Pills—for over three generations the favorite kidney tonic and remedy. Non-habit forming. 34

Dodd's Kidney Pills

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee



Four Generations of British Royalty

HERE is a rare picture, four generations, and all rulers or rulers-to-be of the greatest empire in history.

Queen Victoria, greatest of all British Queens in the opinion of many historians, is holding the infant Prince Edward, who was later to become Prince of Wales, perhaps the most popular Prince in the history of British royalty. Behind Queen Victoria stands Edward, later King Edward VII and George, later Prince of Wales and King George V. Prince George, when this picture was taken in 1894, was the Duke of York.

But with all this recounting of births, marriages and deaths, the story of Prince George has been somewhat neglected.

Before the loss of his brother, the youthful Prince had become an expert seaman. From midshipman he had been promoted to sub-lieutenant, to lieutenant, and finally given command of torpedo boat No. 79, during naval manoeuvres. This was in 1899.

An interesting story is told of his first command:

It was during the manoeuvres of 1889. The weather was exceptionally rough and the young commander took his vessel to the rescue of another torpedo boat which had broken down, and was in peril among the rocks on the north coast of Ireland. He was compelled to make two separate efforts before he was able to get a towing hawser across to the endangered vessel.

There is another incident which throws light on the real manifested by the Prince in his naval work at this time. While No. 79 was still lying at Portsmouth before proceeding to the manoeuvres, the late Sir John Commerell, then port admiral sent for the Prince, and told him that he had received a message from King Edward, then Prince of Wales, who was attending the Goodwood races, asking leave for the Prince to come up for a day, and see the cup race. Although Admiral Commerell offered to make the necessary arrangements with the admiral in charge of the manoeuvre fleet, Prince George declined with thanks.

"No, sir," he said, "What is to become of my torpedo boat? I have orders to take the boat to sea today, and go I must and will," and a little later No. 79 was to be seen buffeting her way out into the channel in the teeth of an easterly gale. A newspaper correspondent who visited No. 79 whilst Prince George was in command wrote: "Prince George is very energetic in getting his boat in the most perfect order, and may generally be seen on board in white flannel trousers, blue cloth tunic and uniform cap, busily engaged about his work. He is quite unaffected and very popular."

COMMUNITY HONORS BRIDAL COUPLE

On Monday evening, March 11th, friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. J. Archibald, Cannifton to do honor to her daughter, Mrs. Ray Lockyer, a recent bride. During the evening Rev. W. Herrick asked the attention of the friends and requested the bride and groom to come forward after which the following address was read by Miss Myrtle Johns:

To Mrs. Raymond Lockyer:

Dear Myrtle:

Your many friends having learned with a great deal of interest of your recent marriage have desired to come together this evening to celebrate with you this very important and happy occasion of your life. Of course on an occasion like this it is natural for to become reminiscent, so tonight we cannot help but review our past association with you, and in doing so recall many happy experiences which form some very pleasant pictures upon the pages of our memories. We too realise the benefit we have derived from your untiring devotion to the league, Sunday School, choir and church. Undoubtedly your faithful services as organist and choir leader have made a very valuable contribution to our services. We would also like to say your cheerful presence, your natural enthusiasm, your personal loyalty to all that is good, has been a splendid example to us. Now because of this we desire to assure you of our sincere appreciation of your worthwhile contribution to our church and community life, and while we are sorry to lose you we are glad to have had the benefit of your presence and talent up to the present time.

However to assure you that our appreciation is not just a matter of words we ask you to accept the gifts from your many friends, not only as a token of our appreciation, but also as a tangible evidence of our very best wishes for happiness and success to attend you both all along the future path of your married lives.

Signed on behalf of your friends: Myrtle Johns, Elsie Smallhorn, Pauline Bird and Annie Mills.

Miss Smallhorn and Mrs. Harold Bird then presented the bride with beautiful table linen, Kenwood blanket, silk bed spread, etc., after which Mrs. Lockyer made a pleasant reply thanking her many friends for their kindness to her, and assuring them that she had always been glad to have been a service to the Cannifton church.

After a very pleasant social evening and a dainty lunch had been served the gathering broke up with singing, "For She's a Jolly Fellow."

◆

New Trial is Ordered In N. S. Murder Case

Ottawa, March 18—(CP)—A new trial was granted by the Supreme Court of Canada to Nicholas Markadonis, convicted in Nova Scotia Courts on a charge of murdering his sister-in-law, Mrs. Cleo Markadonis, at Glace Bay, N. S., last July.

◆

GERMANS IN CANADA ARE INTERESTED

Montreal, March 18.—(CP)—Decision of Chancellor Adolph Hitler of Germany to rebuild the German army with the help of compulsory military service may directly affect a great number of Germans living in Canada who face the possibility of being called home to the Fatherland for a term of military training.

HEALTH MEANS CHARM AND HAPPINESS

Sparkling eyes and smiling lips speak of health and vitality. Clear skin attracts. The healthy active girl is both happy and popular.

Perhaps you are not really ill yet when the day's work is done you are too tired to enter into the good times that other women enjoy. For extra energy, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It tones up your general health. Gives you more pep—more charm.

Remember that 98 out of 100 women report benefit. Let it help you too.

TROUT FISHING IN SCOTLAND

(Dr. William Robertson, in The Scotsman)

Trout fishing opened in Scotland on the 15th. of March, and on the 1st. of April proceedings may begin in the South of England. It is cheering to know, as the years roll on, that the Waltonian following is rapidly adding to its numbers. This cannot be because the promise of good baskets is better than it used to be. Rather must it be that a pleasing form of sporting expectancy, the open-air life, the casting behind of worry, the silent communing with Nature, together with the good fellowship of other angling devotees, are enticing people to wander in search of a health-giving and attractive pastime.

Various theories have been advanced which bear on the undoubted falling-off of trout-fishing yields. Depletion by over-fishing, lack of fresh stocking of lochs, and unpropitious weather can all be offered as explanations. But neither singly nor in the aggregate can these be set down as the sole causes for the decline in the average baskets that are now-a-days being creeled. Even the famous Loch Leven does not yield the catches that many used to enjoy. Surely no one can affirm that under-stocking or depletion are to blame for the reduced averages got on Loch Leven; since, to use a colloquialism, the loch is full of fish. The evening rise proves that when the surface of the loch on a calm night looks like boiling water.

Declining Yields

A little over fifty years ago 27 competitions were held on the Leven. The aggregate catch for 472 rods was 2,475 trout; an average of 5¼ fish for each rod. In 1933 there were 267 competitions, and the rods numbered 3,823. The trout caught totalled 11,045. This gave an average of 2¾ fish per rod. Only on nine occasions in the year 1933 were more than five trout got per rod. The last good year on Loch Leven was in 1929, when the total catch of trout reached the high figure of 52,605, and in no other season had the total catch been greater than 40,000. In almost every other part of Scotland a similar story can be told. While, therefore, trout fishing continues to be good in many places, the consensus of opinion is that the fishing "is not so good as it used to be." On lovely Loch Affric, which is very carefully preserved, the keepers will tell the angler that the sport is not nearly so good as it was some 20 years ago.

As far back as 1844 Loch Leven offered the angler very indifferent sport but in 1850 a chronicler writes: "A complete and utterly unaccountable change in the habits of the trout and in the character of the loch unexpectedly developed . . . How and by what cause the extraordinary change was produced has always been and, it is feared, will ever remain, a mystery." It is since that leap into fame that Loch Leven has been the Mecca for trout anglers. The writer always harbors a sense of regret that July and August invariably show a distinct falling-off in the yields of trout. For it is then, especially in August, that the holiday-seeker is best able to get away for his much-needed rest. If he has already been inoculated with the angling fever, he faces probable disappointment with a philosophic calm. But to the beginner, who has been advised that there is no holiday to compare with one spent on a loch among heather-clad moors, drifting leisurely in a small boat under the canopy of unsullied skies, his monotonously unproductive drifts will tend to dishearten him. Yet despite such occasional discouragements, the recruit may discover angling centres where trout continue to take the fly even in August. And, though they may be few and far between, there are holiday places for the angler who may find set trout showing "a certain liveliness" during the latter part of August.

In Shetland, especially in the sandy Voes, sea trout may be caught with regular frequency with bait on ordinary Loch Leven flies. But September and October are the best months for these lovely sport-providing fish, though I do not forget that sea trout abound in several areas during early spring. There are, indeed, few finer or more health-offering holiday places than the Shetland Isles. The time factor has to be considered, because several days are lopped off one's holiday period by the passage to and from Shetland. Once there, however, with simple, wholesome fare, lovely stretches of pure sand, bracing air, and a sun that sheds unadulterated ultra-violet rays, the visitor will realize that a holiday surrounded by simplicity is really hard to beat.

Selecting the Lure

Every angler, no matter how experienced he may be, is usually keen to discover some new or attractive lure. And should any fisher return with a good basket his fellows immediately want to know which fly it was that had proved its deadliness. Next day the indicated fly may be affixed to several casts. But it doesn't follow that the lure will repeat its success. In other words, what does well one day on a particular loch may prove abortive on other occasions and on other fishing grounds. Examples of that experience fail to be recorded at the majority of angling resorts. Exceptions do occur. On Loch Ruthven, the Inverness-shire, it is the rule to employ the May-Fly during the earlier part of the season. It is (on favorable days, of course) a very deadly lure on this loch. On Loch Affric the somewhat clumsy looking Worm-Fly attached to the tail of one's cast is seized with whole-hearted alacrity by the grand fighting trout. Usually, however, regular anglers cling to what they consider to be their "fail-me-nevers." The old-timers rarely change their flies. The late P. D. Malloch, of Perth, was a master hand with the rod. If the trout were dour, or if he saw a hatch of some special insects on the water, he had no hesitation in turning to his fishing-book to select something like the flies that made a sudden appearance. Often one admires and marvels at the success of the expert angler, but even he cannot explain his almost unfailing success. P. D. Malloch, for instance, could apparently see and sense rises when no other one in the same boat was able to detect the smallest evidences of moving trout.

The choice of flies is not necessarily the sine qua non. On a favorable day, when the fish are really anxious to seize the artificial flies cast on the surface of the water, a duffer can get good sport. Conversely, on unfavorable days, the cleverest angler on Loch Leven will return to the pier without having seen or felt a trout. Generally speaking, however, the sportsman who is keen and expert and follows the rule of keeping his flies constantly on the water records the best catches. As the saying goes, "There is generally a daft trout swimming about and ready to take the fly." That experience is not infrequent on what are recognized as "bad days." An esteemed friend of mine a well-known angler in the Outer Isles, completely ignores the usually accepted belief that bright flies should only be used on bright days and sombre flies only on dull days. On some lochs he finds the guady looking Alexandra highly successful on cloudy days. In some parts of Scotland, especially on Lochs Watten and Calder, the boatmen almost insist on the employment of large-sized Loch Leven flies, and even scoff at small flies. Probably the tempestuous weather with heavy waves accounts for that preference. On not a few lochs when the fishing conditions are unfavorable for ordinary casting some surprisingly good results and big trout may be expected by paying out thirty or forty yards of line and trolling about in search of fish. Loch Morar offers a very good example of that type. On Loch Leven trolled flies now and again pick up a wandering trout. Other lochs prove barren to trolling.

When one comes to select flies the list is a very long one. The Zulu, the different Butchers, Peter Ross, Black and Blae, Greenwell's Glory, Cinnamon and Gold, the Woodcocks, Jungle-Cock, the Grouses, the Teals, Colonel Downman, the Red Palmer, Heckman-Pekham, and a few others remain general favorites. In fact, one may safely say that casts made up of such flies are certain to provide good results. If they fail on one loch or on a particular day they are almost certain to succeed at another time or place. But one quotation from a well-experienced angler may be cited to indicate that there is a great deal of uncertainty regarding the selection of what one might term the "best flies." The quotation is taken from a book called "The Loch Leven Angler," written by the late Robert Burns-Begg, Sheriff-Clerk of Kinross-shire, and grand-nephew of Robert Burns. This is what he says: "On the subject of flies the angler frequenting Loch Leven will find many ingenious and plausible looking theories afloat, but he would be wise to trust a good deal to his own ideas, and to be guided to a considerable extent by his own personal experience; and occasionally he will find it to be to his advantage to strike out a perfectly independent course for himself by fishing right in the teeth of all generally accepted dogmas." Then he proceeds to cite the instance of an angler on Loch Leven who returned to the pier with an excellent basket of trout. Few of those who had been out that day had enjoyed success. When asked to account for his luck, the fortunate angler explained that he had, contrary to the advice given to him, used flies that were considered to be quite unsuited to Loch Leven. The lesson is one that should not be overlooked.

◆

WEEKLY NOTES OF MADOC JCT.

Madoc Jct.—Mr. and Mrs. William Kelly of Foxboro were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Ashley for a few days.

A number of friends spent Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pitchett.

Mrs. Oliver Stapley spent an afternoon calling on friends in the neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kelly and family were Sunday visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Ashley's.

Mrs. M. Prest passed away on Tuesday evening after being ill for some time. The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon at Halloway Church. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Mutton, preached a very comforting and impressive sermon. Friends extend sympathy to the bereaved husband and family.

League was held at Eggleton Church on Thursday evening at the usual hour. Wesley Lake was in charge and opened the meeting with a hymn. The Scripture lesson was read by Dorothy McMullen. The roll call and minutes were read by Lenora Stapley. Readings were given by Marion McMullen, Stanley Cooke and Clifford Wannamaker. Another hymn was sung and the meeting closed with prayer.

Eggleton W.M.S.

The regular meeting of the Eggleton W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Nathan Wannamaker on Thursday night, March 14th.

The president, Mrs. H. Clarke opened the meeting with a hymn. The Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison; the Scripture lesson, Psalm 24, was read by Mrs. Harry Clarke. A reading, "Heaven", was given by Mrs. Warren Harlow. Mrs C. Pitchett read the minutes. Roll call was answered by six members and three visitors. Collection was taken and the meeting closed by the singing of a hymn and prayer by Mrs. Raymond Chambers.

Solemnly Swears

MRS. ADGOA NORMANDIN

Mrs. Normandin, 1367 Lagauchetiere Street, Montreal, tells in a sworn statement how her constipation and indigestion were completely relieved by Fruit-a-tives. She explains that she is now entirely well and full of life and energy. So you can be certain of the truth of her statement, Mrs. Normandin made it under oath before a notary. She states,—"I was sleepy and dizzy after meals. I suffered badly from indigestion. Everything I ate formed a lump in the stomach and gas which caused heartburn. I found that by taking Fruit-a-tives my indigestion disappeared. I am lively and energetic all day now."

Copy of Mrs. Normandin's complete sworn statement will be sent on request. Write Fruitatives Limited, Ottawa, Ontario.

FRUIT-A-TIVES—25c and 50c EVERYWHERE

WHEN YOU'VE JUST HAD WORD TED HAS WON THAT SCHOLARSHIP . . . AND YOU'RE PLEASED AS PUNCH . . . AND SO IS HIS MOTHER . . .

Don't just take it out in smiling. Tell him he's a chip off the old block . . . via Long Distance.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF CANADA

● Long Distance is ready under any circumstances. It's easy to use, and the cost is small. For as little as 30 cents you can talk 100 miles or so. See the rates in the front pages of your directory.

G. W. PROCTOR
Manager

Fresh from the Gardens
"SALADA"
TEA
22

Weddings

TRYON—KELUSKY

An interesting wedding took place at Bridge Street Church Parsonage last evening, when Mr. Melford Harold Tryon, son of the late William Tryon and of Mrs. Tryon of Bancroft, was united in marriage to Miss Veola Leila Kelusky, daughter of the late William Kelusky and of Mrs. Kelusky, Bancroft. Rev. Dr. James Semple officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Tryon will reside in Bancroft.

POUND—COLE

Cannifton United Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding at four o'clock on Saturday afternoon, when Lola Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cole, Corbyville, became the bride of Mr. Roy Cephus Pound, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pound, Thurlow. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. R. Merrick.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, entered the church as wedding music was played by Mrs Lockyer. She wore a lovely gown of brown crepe with net, with matching hat and carried a bouquet of Supreme roses and sweet peas. Miss Pearl Cole, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore a smart frock of medium blue crepe with navy hat and accessories and carried Briarcliffe roses and sweet peas.

Mr. Harry Britton, of Toronto, was groomsman and Mr. R. Clazie acted as usher.

During the signing of the register the bride's Sunday School Class sang.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home, Mrs. W. Cole, mother of the bride, attired in black crepe with corsage of roses and Mrs. J. Pound, mother of the groom, also wearing black crepe, with roses, received with the young couple. About thirty guests were present and buffet luncheon was served by Misses Mary Donaldson, Mary Merrick and Margaret Smallhorn.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Pound left on a motor trip to Toronto, the bride travelling in a smart ensemble of brown. Upon their return they will take up residence in Thurlow.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Britton, Mr. Ernest Britton, Toronto, and Miss Grace Pound, Trenton.

◆

FOXBORO W.M.S

Foxboro,—The regular monthly meetings of the two societies were held on Wednesday March 13th at the home of Mrs. J. Jacques. Twelve members and three visitors were present. Guild was opened with singing a hymn. Bible reading Third Proverbs by Miss Verna Peacock. Prayer by the President. Roll call and minutes of the last meeting were heard and approved. Reading by Miss Nellie Bell an "Live as You Pray" and "Ten Ways to Kill a Society". The topic was on the subject of "Tithing". Each one giving her views. Periods such as these, serve to create a sense of duty within us all and the thought was unanimous that we should by all means lay aside one tenth for the Lord's work and give what we can cheerfully over and above that. For the Lord loveth a cheerful giver. Honour the Lord with all thy substance and with the first fruits of all thine increase. So shall thy barns be filled with plenty, and thy presses shall burst with new wine. Every Christian should set aside a definite percentage for the support of the church, and that percentage should be at least one tenth. Miss Bessie Spencer gave a paper on "Train on Time". A hymn was sung and the meeting closed with prayer.

Mrs. (Rev.) Hill took charge of the W.M.S. in the absence of the President Mrs. George McCullough. The meeting opened with a call to worship singing a psalm and prayer by Mrs. Hill. Miss Spencer read the Scripture lesson. Cards of thanks for flowers sent to the homes of Miss Hamaan and Mr. George McCullough were received. A very interesting paper was read by Miss Nellie Bell on the life and work of one of the pioneer missionaries, the late Dr. Leslie McKay who served in Formosa for a number of years. Offering was taken and the meeting closed with singing a hymn and the Benediction. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess and a social while spent together.

Owing to a MASS MEETING
of the Registered Hairdressers
and Barbers of Ontario to be held in Toronto, the following will be absent from their shops

WED'Y, MARCH 20.

Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Ramsay, Mrs. Cole, Helen Darrah, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Effie Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. Snair, Charles Morean, Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Greenwood and Miss Davidson.

◆

QUILTING PARTY VERY SUCCESSFUL

An enjoyable all day quilting party was held at "Fair Haven Cottage" the home of Miss B. Jones, Rednersville, by the Albury Ladies' Aid and the Women's Guild on Wednesday, with a goodly number present and a very enjoyable time was had. After a sumptuous dinner quilting was resumed and merrily the conversation and needles flew. The Scripture lesson was taken by Miss Jones from St. Luke's 2nd. chapter 25 to 52 verses thoroughly discussed and enjoyed especially Simeon's gratitude to God in verse 29.

One of the pleasant features of the afternoon was the presentation of a lovely piece of Limoges china, with an address by the president, Mrs. Harry Dempsey, and presented by the secretary Miss Hattie Peck to Mrs. John Hall, stating their thanks for her loyal friendship and willing services and their regrets at her leaving this community.

Mrs. Hall was taken absolutely by surprise, but thanked them all for the beautiful gift. All joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." Then the ladies of the Aid and Guild entertained the Misses Cairne of Scotland and Miss McCracken of Hamilton, as their supper guests. These young ladies are holding special evangelistic services every evening.

◆

TAX RATE UP MILL

BRANTFORD, Ont., March 19 — (CP)—Sitting until early this morning city council approved a tax rate of 43.50 mills on the dollar, an increase of one mill over last year.

Patricia Ellis and behind the clown makeup is Joe E. Brown, in "Circus Clown" showing tomorrow (Wednesday only) at the Capitol.

Personals

Miss Edna Booth of Kingston spent the week-end in Belleville.

Mr. H. D. Roseveár of Toronto, spent the week-end in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Richards of Trenton, spent the week-end in Belleville at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Melchior.

Mr. Raymond Ross, interne at Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, spent the week-end at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Spencer have returned to the city after having spent the past few months in Florida.

Mr. G. A. Freeman of the Stephens-Adamson Company has returned to the city after spending the past week in Chicago.

Misses Helen Doyle and Lillian Calcutt spent the week-end in Toronto and attended the hockey match.

Mr. Ira Anderson, Selby, is visiting at the home of his son, Mr. Gordon Anderson.

The many friends of Miss Ruby Nevins, 3 Starling Street, will be sorry to hear she is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital in a serious condition.

Mrs. L. G. Harris returned to the city yesterday after spending a few days in Toronto.

Mrs. A. L. Houlihan of Montreal has returned home after spending the week-end with her father, Mr. M. R. Doyle, Grove Street.

Mr. Frank Bowyer of Fort Whyte, Man., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bowyer, Everett Street.

Miss Grace Graham and Mr. Bruce Graham returned yesterday from Nassau, B.W.I., where they have been spending the winter.

Rt. Rev. J. F. Nicholson, V.G., was in Kingston today to preside at the ceremonies of religious profession at Providence Novitiate when several young women were received into the community of the Sisters of Charity.

At the Aajmaa Club euchre last evening the following were prizewinners, Mr. G. Riggs and Mr. F. Andrews, first; Mr Geo. Frechette, second; Mr. G. Howie, third; ladies, Mrs. J. Little, first; Mrs. C. Bowler, second; Mrs. Ellis, third; Miss Grant, fourth.

Mr. Walter Sweetnam of 43 Hillside Street, accompanied by his sister, Miss Lulu Sweetnam, Reg. N. of Toronto, has returned from a very pleasant trip to Pasadena, California. They visited the huge Carlsbad Cave of New Mexico, with its crystalized Onyx drippings which form such fantastic and fairy-like beauty, also the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, enroute.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cleeton, Trent Road, was last evening the scene of a house party which was attended by over fifty persons and it proved to be a most enjoyable affair. The host and hostess did all in their power to entertain their guests which was appreciated. In the early part of the evening progressive euchre was indulged in with eleven tables in play. Competition for the appropriate prizes offered was keen and those fortunate in securing same were as follows: Ladies' 1st, Miss M. Oram; 2nd, Mrs. J. Sine. Gents, 1st, Earl Pope; D. Tucker, 2nd. Three were tied for the consolation prize and Mr. John Tanner proved to be the winner. At the conclusion of the cards the floors were cleared and dancing was in order. Suitable music was provided for same, the musicians being, L. Paul, violin, Ernie Pope, ukelele, Fred Pope, guitar, and Edward Pope, mouth organ. Several games were indulged in some of which caused merriment. Later a delicious lunch was served followed by dancing until the wee sma' hours of the morning. All present voted Mr. and Mrs. Cleeton ideal host and hostess.

A brilliant event of last evening was the annual St. Patrick's Dance held by the Y's Men's Club in the Johnstone Academy. Decorations in keeping with the season gave the hall a gala air and made a charming setting for the lovely gowns of the feminine guests. A large number were present including many from out-of-town. The Commodores presented a splendid dance program and their medley of Irish airs met with much applause. Spot dances added variety to the program while the balloon dance was a popular and colorful number, and these were won by Mrs. Bolton, Misses Doris Duminie, M. Ray, L. Curry, Dr. Bird, Messrs. S. Curry, Vic White and Ted Green. A dainty lunch was served at midnight. Mr. Jack Wilson and Mr. H. Poste acted as chairmen for the dance, all members of the club assisting in planning and carrying out arrangements for the highly successful affair.

NASAL CATARRH
... Just a few drops up each nostril ......
VICKS VATRO-NOL CLEARS HEAD QUICKLY

A MENDED HEART
A story without words
"B.O."
THANKS, FRIEND LIFEBUOY—FOR ENDING "B.O."
NOT AT ALL, MY BOY! I DO THE SAME FOR MILLIONS—IMPROVE THEIR COMPLEXIONS, TOO
LIFEBUOY Health Soap
LIFEBUOY HEALTH SOAP

LIFEBUOY'S deep-cleansing, deodorizing lather ends that common yet never forgiven fault, "B.O." (body odour). Leaves the complexion glowing with health.

Try Lifebuoy

Play safe—bathe regularly with Lifebuoy. Its fresh, clean quickly-vanishing scent tells you Lifebuoy is different—gives extra protection. Its rich hygienic lather purifies and deodorizes pores—stops "B.O."

with blue sashes.

Of course, we all know that personality changes with costume. But this is almost like the birth of a new race — or perhaps more like the rebirth of an old race. And it has taken so short a time, not only for the girls to be transformed, but for the boys, beholding them, to be completely made over too!

◆

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN
Copyright 1935
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Quite the thing for Southern evenings is an ensemble in white net, tucked on the reverse side, with a wide and frothy self-ruche at the hemline. The decolletage is square, and there are slim shoulder straps. The little detachable cape is also tucked and ruched.

Still around town is the beret. This favorite type of headgear is available in both fabric and straw. To complement a blue suit with a brown blouse, one girl wears an off-the-face beret in soft brown straw, the drape caught by a brown and turquoise blue ornament.

Not all is color this Spring. Many of the smartest ensembles are in black with just a touch of white or color. An afternoon ensemble is in black sheer, with a long, slim, skirt, a loose jacket and a blouse of pale, green and white plaided georgette. Both skirt, belt and jacket buttons are of black patent leather.

Running along with blue as a favorite color for young women, is brown. A smart evening ensemble is in brown net with an all-over embroidery of gold thread polka dots and a finger-tip wrap is supple gold metal cloth.

Don't be content to wear just what every other woman is wearing. Seek that which is different from the current fashions. Thus, while every woman is wearing the usual type of hat, one fashionable chooses a black paper Panama tricorne with a squarish visor front. It is edged with narrow pink belting ribbon and has a round veil with the eye portion in maline and the rest in fine net.

In tune with Spring is an afternoon ensemble with bright blue redingote and a print frock in a circle design in white, blue and black on a white ground; the same print lines the circular cape of the coat.

◆

SCOTT'S W.M.S.

The March meeting of the Women's Missionary Society, of Scott's Church and Ladies' Aid dinner was held at the home of Mrs. Carmen Frost on Wednesday, March 13, with an attendance of eleven members. Meeting opened with responsive reading on World Day of Prayer, theme, "Bear Ye One another's Burdens."

Reading by Mrs. H. Dafoe on "The New Commandment," also readings by Mrs. A. Sine and Mrs. A. Murdoff. Prayer was offered by Mrs. H. Dafoe and Mrs. M. Sine. The business meeting was then taken over by the president, Mrs. M. Sine. Minutes of last meeting were read and adopted. Roll Call was given and offering taken.

Mrs. A. Lott gave a very interesting reading on Temperance. Hymns 177 and 142 were sung. Meeting closed with the Lord's prayer.

◆

Now You Can Wear
FALSE TEETH
With Real Comfort

FASTEETH, a new, pleasant powder, keeps teeth firmly set. Deodorizes. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. To eat and laugh in comfort just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. Get it today at all drug stores.

Maintain Daily Health Chores To Keep Beauty

(The Beauty Box)

Pat Paterson

Keeping fit keeps her beautiful

By HELEN FOLLETT

Keep fit and look fine. Carry your beauty banners high, wide and handsome, no matter what happens. Don't let anything discourage you, Madam Beauty Seeker. Maintain mental and physical health, attend to your daily beauty chores.

The stop-and-go system is a waste of time. Every night have your sudsy bath, give the complexion a banquet of cold cream, the hands a feast of lanoline or hand lotion. Don't overlook the needs of the neck, which oftimes develops wrinkles long before a single tracing of time appears upon the face.

Tuck thumbs and finger tips under the precious finger wave, then lift it lightly to give the hair the air. Massage the scalp gently. Arrange your ringlet curls so they won't get so wuzzy in the night.

Tucked under the blankets, stretch your arms and legs, neck and torso, relaxing completely after each muscle tug. Breathe deeply fifty times, and Mr. Sandman will be there right away.

Have you noticed that some of the smarties are using their curls as hat trimmings?

A cute trick is to wear a little pillbox chapeau over one eye, usually the left one. A line of locks is cut at the right side, curled upward to fluff over the hat like a pretty feather.

No, silly, you don't always have to wear the same hat. The curls look pretty, anyhow, and can be tucked under a bonnet of more ample proportions.

◆

ST. ANDREW'S GILEAD W.M.S.

The regular meeting of the Gilead W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Guy Leavens on Friday March 8th. The president Mrs. J. O. Huffman was in charge and opened the meeting by singing of a hymn.

Mrs. Belcanquel read the minutes of the last meeting followed by the business. Collection $1.50 with 17 members present.

The program of the World's Day of Prayer was followed consisting of hymns, prayer, readings and responsive readings. Mrs. Everett Yorke gave a reading telling how the World's Day of Prayer originated. Mrs. Belcanquel Mrs. Wilmot Clare, Mrs. Fred Yorke and Mrs. J. O. Huffman led in earnest prayer.

A chapter of the study book entitled ""The Beginning of Wisdom" was read by Mrs. Guy Leavens, Mrs. Wilfred Clare and Miss Greta Huffman. The Lord's Prayer and benediction by the president closed the meeting.

Mrs. Everett Yorke's group was hostess at the lunch hour and refreshments were served and a social intercourse was enjoyed by all.

◆

ZION MISSION BAND

The Wide Awake Mission Band meeting was held on Thursday afternoon at the school house. The meeting was opened by singing hymn "Jesus Sees the Little Sparrow Fall". Call to worship period was led by Miss Jean Sills president. Soft music by Miss Margaret Tufts. Prayer by Mrs. Sheffield. Scripture Lesson was read by Ernest King, Mark 16:1-7. Douglas Sills gave the memory verse, John 13:34.

Offertory sentence was led by Miss Jean Sills. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary Miss Phyllis Beatty. Roll call each member responded with a verse from the Bible beginning with "A". Business was discussed. Donald Sills gave a short tak on Korea. Elmer King gave a story about Canada. Inspiring duet was rendered by Misses Margaret Tufts and Geraldine McAvoy. Mrs. Sheffield gave a delightful talk from the study book "Listening In" The meeting closed with the Benediction John 3:16.

Centenary W.M.S.

A very pleasant and profitable time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Ray on Thursday when the Women's Association met there for the March meeting. Twenty-seven sat down to a bountiful dinner at the noon hour provided by the hostess and the ladies. The meeting opened with hymn 109. Mrs. P. Aikens, the president gave an interesting talk on the "Home". Mrs. C. Ray then led in prayer. Much business was done and the meeting closed by repeating the 23rd Psalm in unison and Rev. Mr. Plant repeated the benediction. Proceeds $7.10. Proceeds from the "At Home" held at the home of Mr. D. Thrasher on Valentine night were $6.60.

W.M.S.

The March meeting of the W.M.S. of Centenary Church was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Ray. Mrs. Roy Thrasher president opened the meeting with hymn and Mrs. Milton Vanderwater led in prayer. Mrs. Thrasher reminded all of the motto "Others" and the key word for the next meeting will be one's favorite verse.

Group leader No. 2, Mrs. Will Ray then took charge of the programme opening with hymn 151. Rev. Mr. Plant led in prayer and Mrs. P. Glover read the Scripture lesson Psalm 17.

Mrs. Calvert gave a reading her favorite hymn. Mrs. Sutherland gave the temperance reading and Mrs. R. Hart and Miss Anabel Adams sang a duet "Alone". Mrs. Hermon gave a reading "Here Am I Send Me" and Mrs. Harold Garrison, Peace secretary gave a reading on "Peace". Hymn 97 was sung, after which Mrs. P. Aikens read a selection "The Cleansing Stream." Mrs. Jas. Ray a poem "I Will" and all joined in singing "I've a Story to Tell to the Nations," and meeting closed with Mizpah Benediction.

The World's Day of Prayer service was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Judson Kelley. Those taking part in the programme were the President of the Centenary W.M.S., Mrs. Roy Thrasher, who was the leader. Mrs. Jas. Radford, Miss Johnson, Mrs. J. Kelley, Miss Mildred Phillips, Mrs. Fred Aikens, Miss Vera Plant who gave a solo, and Rev. Mr. Plant who gave a splendid talk on the origin of the Day of Prayer. Rev. Mr. Plant presided at the organ and a very profitable time spiritually was spent. The hostess served light refreshments at the close.

◆

MRS. CHAS. BEATTY HOSTESS TO LEAGUE

Plainfield—Mr. Horace Palmer and Mrs. Arthur Hall sang a duet on Sunday evening at Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Outwater and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Erle Denyes.

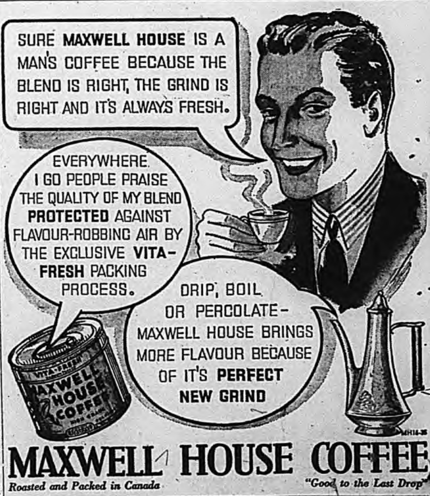
League met at the home of Mrs. Charles Beatty on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Arthur Hall, President of W. M. S. and Mrs. Clarence Hall and Miss Mary Wright attended the W. M. S. Convention at Picton on Thursday and Friday.

◆

HEADS OSGOODE SOCIETY

Toronto, March 18.—(CP)—John R. Anderson has been named President of the Osgoode Hall Legal and Literary Society for 1935-36.



SURE MAXWELL HOUSE IS A MAN'S COFFEE BECAUSE THE BLEND IS RIGHT, THE GRIND IS RIGHT AND IT'S ALWAYS FRESH.
EVERYWHERE I GO PEOPLE PRAISE THE QUALITY OF MY BLEND PROTECTED AGAINST FLAVOUR-ROBBING AIR BY THE EXCLUSIVE VITA-FRESH PACKING PROCESS.
DRIP, BOIL OR PERCOLATE—MAXWELL HOUSE BRINGS MORE FLAVOUR BECAUSE OF IT'S PERFECT NEW GRIND
VITA-FRESH MAXWELL HOUSE COFFEE
MH16-35

MAXWELL HOUSE COFFEE
Roasted and Packed in Canada
"Good to the Last Drop"

Read the Classified Rental Property Listing on this Page

Business Directory

AUTO LOANS

AND REFINANCING
Direct with Owner Car Financing of All Kinds.
S. J. FISHER & SON
30 Bridge St. East Telephone 165
Representing
Campbell Auto Finance Co. Ltd.
Toronto - Ottawa - London - Windsor

CHIROPRACTOR

R. A. WYATT, Ph.C., SPECIAL EXAMination with the Radioclast reveals all diseases in the early stages. Foot disorders corrected — all diseases treated. Phone 909 or write 228 Coleman St., Belleville.

VERA R. PITCHER, CHIROPRACTOR, and H. R. Pitcher, Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment, Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations and Electrical Treatments. 42½ Bridge St. E., Belleville, Ont., Phone 1274.

DENTIST

DR. ROBT. H. EMPSON
DENTIST
X-Ray
Phone 462 249½ Front St.
17-3m

RADIO SERVICE

JOHN A. DEWAR
RADIO TECHNICIAN
Registered — Graduate
245 John St. Phone 217
a1-tf

SURVEYORS

FRASER AYLESWORTH
Ontario Land Surveyor and Registered Professional Civil Engineer. Land Surveys, Plans and Descriptions, Etc., promptly attended to.
PHONE 6 — P. O. BOX 60
MADOC, ONT.

INSURANCE

Protect yourself against accidents with our Automobile Insurance
SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
Life and Fire Insurance
251 Front St Phone 120

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile, Accident and Plate Glass
278 Front St. Phone 1154-W

STOCKS & BONDS

EDGAR AND CRAWFORD, MEMBERS of Toronto Stock Exchange. Phone 1738. P. H. Wills, branch manager. N5-1y

LEGAL

MALCOLM WRIGHT, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Etc. Office; Campbell St., Belleville.

T. Y. WILLS, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Etc. 15 Campbell St., Belleville. Telephone 74. m4-tf

PORTER, PAYNE AND ARNOTT, BARristers, Solicitors and Notaries Public. Chas. A. Payne, K.C. R. D. Arnott. Offices: 219 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

PONTON AND GRAHAM, BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Commissioners. Office: 28 Bridge St. East. Solicitors, Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages. W. N. Ponton, K.C. R. J. E. Graham. Office: Belleville.

DONNAN AND BUTLER, B. C. Donnan, K.C., E. O. Butler, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public and Commissioners. Offices: Court House Building, Belleville, Ont. Phone 238.

WALLBRIDGE, CAMERON AND CO. (Successors to the late F. S. Wallbridge). Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Money to loan. Dominion Bank Building, corner Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ontario.

216

DUFFERIN AVENUE

To-Let

A Beautiful Home

Hardwood floors throughout — lovely living room — coal fireplace — four bed rooms — Sleeping porch — full basement — furnace — wired for electric range. Garage.

EXCLUSIVE AGENTS

Belleville Locators

GEO. N. GORMAN, PROP.
166 Front Street
Phone 99 House Phone 687

BUY NOW! AND MAKE WORK

PHONE 99
Classified Ad. Rates

SOCIAL NOTICES—Births, 50c; Marriages and Engagement Notices, $1.00; Deaths and Funeral Notices, $1.00; In Memoriam, $1.00; Memoriam Poetry, minimum charge, $1.00 for 10 lines, over that 10c per count line; Ladies' Receiving Announcements, minimum charge, 75c.

CLASSIFIED — (For Sale, Wanted, Etc.)—1½c per word each for first TWO insertions, subsequent insertions 1c per word, minimum 20 words.

COMING EVENTS—75c per insertion for 25 words or under, over that amount 3c per word.

PROFESSIONAL, LEGAL AND BUSINESS CARDS (Yearly Contract)—$3.00 per month per inch.

OFFICIAL, MUNICIPAL AND GOVERNMENT NOTICES (including those concerning Legal Sales)—15c per agate line (14 lines to inch) for first insertion; 10c per line for subsequent insertions.

AUCTION SALE—3c per word, heading to count as 12 words minimum 25 words for 75c; consecutive insertions, 3c per word.

An initial or figure counts as one word.

In estimating allow five words to the line.

Telephone your Want Ads when it is more convenient. PHONE 99.

The Ontario Intelligencer will not be responsible for more than one insertion of an incorrect ad. Phone us if it is wrong.

Advertisers may have their replies addressed to Box Number care of the Ontario Intelligencer.

SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY for highly respected, middle-aged man well known in Belleville and vicinity

Good remuneration
WRITE BOX "F"
Ontario Intelligencer
m16-2t

WANTED

EXPERIENCED SINGLE MAN OR BOY to work on farm by month or year. Write Box "R" Ontario Intelligencer. M19-1t

ONE OR TWO GENTLEMEN BOARDers. Phone 1325-F. Private home. Rates reasonable. M19-1t

THREE ROOMS FURNISHED FOR light housekeeping, suitable for father and two sons. Write stating particulars Box "G" Ontario Intelligencer. M19-1t

GIRL TO ASSIST WITH HOUSEWORK in village. No children. Write Box "W" Ontario Intelligencer, stating wages expected. M19-2t

YOUNG MAN DESIRES POSITION IN Dairy, Creamery or Condensery. Has had 15 years' experience. Write Box 167, Sydenham, Ont. M18-4t

WANTED BY APRIL 1 — RELIABLE maid for general housework. Three in family. References. Write Box "M" Ontario Intelligencer. M18-6t

FOR SALE

NEW AND USED DELCO LIGHT plants, electric washer, pump, 32-volt radio and a large filing cabinet. Delco Sales, John Steven, Thomasburg, phone 87r2. M19 21 23

ONE USED ELECTRIC WASHER IN good working order to clear at $20.00. Weaver's Music Store, 214 Front street. M19-3t

1927 CHEVROLET SEDAN IN GOOD running order. Apply to 281 Station street. M19-2t

BROWN MARE, 1400 POUNDS, GOOD worker. Will exchange for cattle or pigs. Apply Jas. Lazier, Shannonville. M18-3t

MASON RISCH PIANO — SCARCELY know it had been used. Will sell cheap for cash. Write Box "B" Ontario Intelligencer. M19-3t

ONE BEATTY WASHER JUST LIKE new. Will sell at big discount off new price. Weaver's Music Store, 214 Front street. M19-3t

FORDSON TRACTOR — WILL TAKE stock. Apply S. W. Bird, R. 5, Belleville, phone 153r31. M18-3t

REGISTERED SEED BARLEY, O.A.C. No. 21. Banner oats and brood sows. Jos. Hollinger, Foxboro. M18-3t

ON MARCH 22, BRITISH COLUMBIA White Leghorn Chicks from blood tested matings. 11 cents each. George Cotten, Harold, Ontario. M18-3t

ONE FLOOR MODEL AUTOMATIC Ironer priced right, owner leaving town. Terms arranged. Box "L" Ontario Intelligencer. M16-3t

TO LET

FRONT BED SITTING-ROOM, EAST Hill, all conveniences. Apply 152 Charles after seven o'clock. Phone 549-J. M19-1t

FARM TO LET

THE SOUTH HALF OF LOT 8 IN FIFTH concession Tyendinaga. This is a good stock and grain farm. Brick house. Frame barns. Well located for schools, churches, cheese factory, market and highways. Apply to C. J. Carleton, Thomasburg, Ontario, or at law offices of Collins & Cushing, Belleville, Ontario. M13 15-16 19 21 23

SIX ROOM HOUSE, 23 EARL STREET, conveniences, also garage, small garden. Possession April 1. Apply 30 Howard street. M18-3t

LARGE BED SITTING ROOM OR TWO rooms, furnished, five minutes to Front street. 56 West Moira street. M18-3t

206 GEORGE STREET — 8 ROOMS, conveniences except furnace, double garage. Possession April 1. Apply W. J. Hall, 278 Front street, phone 1154w. M14-TF

SOUTH HALF BRICK HOUSE 293 Charles street, conveniences, garage. Possession April 1. Apply 38 Sinclair street, phone 113-w. M11-TF

PERSONAL

CONSTIPATION IS THE PRIMARY cause of much sickness. Remove it with Kipp's Unequalled Herb Tablets. Dolan the Druggist, phone 138. M19-1t

BELLEVILLE BURIAL COMPANY
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
27 Campbell St.
Phone 774-W Day and Night
J. W. IMLAH
Proprietor
Mausoleum Crypts For Sale

Thomas C. Thompson
Funeral Director
Funeral Home
38 Everett St. Phone 62
Office
228 Front St. Phone 32

TICKELL & BROWNE
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
We Serve for Less
FUNERAL HOME
Corner Church St. and Victoria Ave. Phone 2295

SPECIAL SALE

Used Tires, all sizes, $2.00 up
USED TIRE SHOP
391½ Front Street
Opposite Upper Bridge

IN THE SURROGATE COURT OF THE COUNTY OF HASTINGS

IN THE ESTATE OF JAMES ALEXANDER, Deceased.

NOTICE is hereby given that all persons having claims against the estate of James Alexander late of the Township of Sidney in the County of Hastings, Gentleman, deceased, who died on or about the 5th day of February 1935, are required to forward their claims duly proven to the undersigned executors or their Solicitors on or before the 27th day of March 1935.

AND NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that after the said date the executors will proceed to distribute the estate having regard only to such claims as they shall then have had notice.

DATED at Belleville, Ontario, this 26th day of February, A. D. 1935.

Franklin Finlay Reid,
Belleville, R. R. No. 3,
James Alexander,
32 Hillcrest Avenue,
Belleville, Ontario.

Executors of the Will of James Alexander.

By PORTER, PAYNE & ARNOTT,
219 Front Street,
Belleville, Ontario, their Solicitors.
F26 M5 12 19

IN THE SURROGATE COURT OF THE COUNTY OF HASTINGS

IN THE ESTATE OF ELIZABETH JANE McCOY, deceased.

NOTICE is hereby given that all persons having claims against the estate of Elizabeth Jane McCoy late of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, widow, deceased who died on or about the 29th day of December 1934 are required to forward their claims duly proven to the undersigned executors or their solicitors on or before the 27th day of March 1935.

AND NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that after the said date the executors will proceed to distribute the estate having regard only to such claims as they shall then have had notice.

DATED at Belleville, Ontario, this 26th day of February, 1935.

George K. Clements,
Charles T. Clements,
Executors of the Will of Elizabeth Jane McCoy

Belleville, Ontario.
By PORTER, PAYNE & ARNOTT,
219 Front Street,
Belleville, Ontario, their Solicitors.

NOTICE TO SLOT AND PIN MACHINE OPERATORS

Licenses for the operation of Slot and Pin Machines in the City of Belleville are now available at the office of the City Treasurer. Parties operating these machines without a license, after the appearance of this notice, will be subject to a fine.

Operators must sign an application to operate, before a license will be granted. These are obtainable at the office of the City Treasurer.

H. B. STOCK, City Treasurer.
M19-3t

NOTICE TO CREDITORS AND OTHERS

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF CATHERINE AURELIA VERMILYEA, late of the City of Belleville in the County of Hastings, Widow, deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN pursuant to the Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1927, Chapter 150, Section 51, that all creditors and others having claims against the estate of Catherine Aurelia Vermilyea, late of the City of Belleville in the County of Hastings, who died on or about the fifth day of October, 1934, are requested to forward their claims, duly proven, to the undersigned, on or before the 19th day of April, 1935.

AND NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that after the said date the executor will proceed to distribute the estate, among the parties entitled thereto having regard only to such claims of which he shall then have notice.

DATED at Belleville this 18th day of March, 1935.

Wallbridge, Cameron & Company,
Barristers &c.,
Belleville, Ontario.
Solicitors for the Executor.
M19 26 A2

PUBLIC AUCTION SALE

Sale of registered Ayrshire cattle, horses, sheep and farm implements, etc. at Kervyn Farm, 2½ miles south of Madoc Village, on Thursday, March 28, at one o'clock. Terms of sale, cash.
HENRY WALLACE, Auctioneer.
M19 21 23 26

BUSINESS LINERS

Baby Chick Feeds and Supplies at Bishop's Seed Store. M19-1t

Fresh Tested Seeds for your Hot Bed at Bishop's Seed Store. M19-1t

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL

Special Request Feature Tomorrow "Circus Clown" is Riot of Fun

Joe E. Brown has come into his own, as one of the few great comedians of the screen.

Those who have liked him have always felt his potentialities of greatness. Those who have thought that he was funny simply because nature had provided him with an extraordinarily large and mobile mouth, need only to see him in "The Circus Clown", which comes to the Capitol Theatre tomorrow for a one day engagement. For in this hilarious comedy he "has everything".

It is a great show. It is a complete circus, serving as the background for the comic. It is farce comedy, but beneath the farce is a real story, replete with love interest, thrills, excitement. The children loved it—so did the grown-ups.

Joe E. is at his comical best when he has plenty of "stunts" to perform, and "The Circus Clown" is filled with them. He has a brush with a lion, in which, incidentally, he nearly lost his life; his escapades on the flying trapeze; his being made the object of a knife thrower's jealousy; his experiences with hyenas, elephants, the chimpanzee, all are thrilling, and all are funny.

Joe is the boob property boy of the circus, the butt of everyone's jokes. His love affairs are as funny as the rest, even his infatuation for the female impersonator whom he thinks is a woman.

Joe E. started as a circus performer before he was nine years old; he gives evidence every minute of the picture that he has not forgotten it. Incidentally, he reveals himself a remarkable acrobat. Never has he had so great an opportunity as that which Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby have written for him in this picture.

Pretty Patricia Ellis, in the leading feminine role, playing her part "straight" is an excellent foil for Joe, while Dorothy Burgess gives a clever performance as the wife of the knife thrower who is in love with a bareback rider.

Donald Dilloway, as the bare-back rider who is also a female impersonator, brings howls of laughter by encouraging the infatuated Joe to make love to him under the impression that he is a woman.

Others in the cast who do excellent work include Gordon Westcott, Charles Wilson, Harry Woods, Ronnie Cosby, John Sheehan, Spencer Charters, Tom Dugan, Earl Hodgins, Bobby Caldwell, and a score or more famous circus performers who take part in the picture.

ADDED ATTRACTIONS

Several excellent short subjects including two big comedians cartoons and musical reels will be shown preceding the feature presentation.

Feature at 3.30; 8:15; 10.15.

LAST TIMES TONIGHT

"Enter Madame", featuring Elissa Landi and Cary Grant.

"Du Barry" Bread and Butter Plates tonight.

VIEWS NEW DEAL

Mr. H. G. Wells, noted English man of letters, is visiting the United States to get a close-up view of the new deal in operation, and was a luncheon guest of President Roosevelt at the White House. He is pictured arriving at the executive mansion to break bread with the founder of the "new order"

AT THE BELLE

"The Silver Streak"

Love and Daring Blaze a New Thrill with the Fastest Train on Earth

Gasps, thrills and laughter are on tap in large quantities at the Belle Theatre Tonight, and Wednesday, matinee and evening where "The Silver Streak" is the feature offering. Exciting and dramatic as the film is, it nevertheless has a quality that is equally important, the graphic story of the struggle of American railroads to vie with the airplane.

The plot of the story takes many a turn and moves at an ever-increasing speed, climaxing in the most thrilling episode the writer has seen in many a year. This is the Transcontinental run of the "Silver Streak", from the World's Fair at Chicago to Boulder Dam, on an errand that means either life or death for a number of men. In the latter stage of its trip the train runs "wild", with nobody at its throttle—for the hero is engaged in mortal combat with another character.

Hurtling through space at 150 miles-per-hour, it careens around sharp curves and through switches that close just in the nick of time. It shaves freight cars that barely get clear on their sidings and the cattle that stray on the tracks. Drawbridges close with only hairline intervals and other thrills follow one another in such rapid succession that the spectator is left gasping and breathless, so real is it all. An absorbing love story further intensifies the interest.

Sally Blane is most alluring in the role of the railroad president's daughter, and Charles Starrett is admirable as the young inventor. Other notable performances are contributed by Hardie Albright, William Farnum, Irving Pichel, Arthur Lake and Theodore von Eltz.

Raft-Lombard Dancing

George Raft and Carole Lombard, the sensational dancing stars of "Bolero" repeat that early success on an even more lavish scale in Paramount's "Rumba", the second feature offering on the same program.

An enthralling and dramatic story set to the rhythmic tom-toms of Cuba's fascinating dance rhythms, the picture combines musical innovations, drama and handsomely mounted photography to furnish spell-binding entertainment.

Few more delightful treatments of dance and drama have been seen on the screen. "Rumba", with its special Ralph Rainger score, elaborate Le Roy Prinz dance routines and its amazing variety of entrancing dance steps is a show well worthy of your patronage.

Prominent in the supporting cast of the picture are Margo, a petite Mexican beauty, Lynne Overman, Monro Owsley, Iris Adrian and Gail Patrick.

Edwin C. Hill introducing important world events as picturized in the popular Belle News completes an excellent varied program of screen fare.

"The Silver Streak" will be presented daily at 2.40, 7.20 and 9.50 p. m. "Rumba" will be presented daily at 3.45 and 8.30. Complete performance commence daily at 2.30, 7.10 and 8.30 p. m.

◆

'NEGLECT' FOUND IN BOY'S DEATH

Physical Condition Unable to Withstand Shock of Fall

ROTHESAY, N.B., March 19. —(CP)— Further investigation was being made today into the death of Roderick McLean, 21, following a recommendation by a Coroner's jury. The cripple youth whose legs had been amputated below the knee after being frozen two years ago, died Friday from a fracture of the skull and shock. The jury found that through "neglect" the youth's physical condition was unable to withstand the shock caused by the fracture "received in some unknown manner".

Mrs. E. A. McLean, his stepmother, collapsed after the verdict was returned. Dr. R. A. H. Mackeen, Provincial Pathologist, testified Roderick's body was emaciated and poorly developed.

Mrs. McLean testified she had occasionally whipped the youth with a leather belt because of his alleged unsanitary habits. He died soon after she found him at the foot of a stairway, added the witness, and she concluded he had fallen down.

◆

APPROVE GRADING

New Westminster, B.C., March 18 —(CP)—British Columbia sheep breeders have gone on record as approving meat grading in their industry and the Dominion Department of Agriculture will be asked to include the inspection of sheep products in the duties of the marketing board.

COLLEGE STUDENTS AT HOME TO FRIENDS

Many Out of Town Guests Are Present at Entertainment

On Friday evening, March 15th the students of Albert College held their annual "At Home." The guests were most graciously received in the beautiful rotunda of the College by Mrs. T. C. McMullen, Mrs. R. J. E. Graham, Miss Elizabeth Corbett, Mrs. H. B. Simpson and Miss Jessie B. Tuite.

The long corridors leading to the Ackerman Hall were charmingly decorated with the College colours, black, green and gold. Ackerman Hall presented a most delightful picture. The few tasteful decorations against the grey walls made a most effective background for the beautiful and gayly colored gowns worn by the ladies.

After the fourth selection by the orchestra, the Principal, Rev. Bert Howard, welcomed the guests on behalf of the Faculty and Students' Council of Albert College, in a few well-chosen words. He expressed the wish that the guests should find the evening spent at Albert College one of the happiest of the season.

About eleven o'clock supper was served, during which former students availed themselves of the opportunity of renewing old friendships and of becoming acquainted with the present student body.

Brightly colored balloons added much to the gayety of one dance number, while the Grand March was made quite distinctive by presenting each of the ladies with a beautiful red rose.

At twelve thirty a very enjoyable evening was brought to a close by "God Save the King" and a lusty rendering of the College yell.

The College has been distinctly successful in carrying out, once more, its tradition of endeavouring to mingle friendliness and the very finest type of good time with dignity and beauty.

Among those present were the following former students: Mr. L. Ferrier of Kingston, Mr. Solomon of Granby, Que., Mr. J. Barnard, of Peterboro, Mr. J. Wright of Brighton, Mr. R. McDonald of Toronto, Mr. W. Dougherty of Marmora, Mr. M. Rowland of Stirling and guests from Toronto, Montreal, Kingston and Peterboro.

◆

Plan Break-Ins After Reading Society Columns

Windsor, March 18—(CP)—Burglars are using the society columns of the newspapers as a medium for planning break-ins is the opinion of Magistrate D. M. Brodie.

In police court today Col. Brodie, dealing with the case of Allan Muir, 22, charged with housebreaking, remarked: "There is a lot of this thing going on. They are even reading the society columns now to find where parties are being held. When the revelry is at its height they climb the porches and go through the wraps and purses. Those staging celebrations might be well advised to give no advance notice of them to the newspaper."

Muir was sentenced to six months determinate and one year indeterminate in Ontario Reformatory at Guelph on each of three counts. The sentences to run concurrently.

◆

7 Bullets Found, But Calibre Differs

Toronto, March 18.—(CP)— Possibility of a new lead in the search for the murderer of Abraham Appleby, manager of the Roxy Theatre shot three weeks ago yesterday, faded when it was discovered seven revolver bullets, found in a lane near the theatre wrapped in a shirt with a razor, shaving brush and a pair of socks, were not the same calibre as those in the Appleby case.

Earl Blackburn, 16, of Windsor who found the parcel, said "somebody said there was a reward of $1,000 in it for me if the bullets belonged to the man who did the murder".

◆

Bequest to Tilsonburg To Build Skating Rink

Toronto, March 18—The will of the late William Edwin Wilcox, Tillsonburg, has been entered for probate by the Canada Trust Co., sole executor and trustee. After bequests to relatives, the residue of the estate goes to the town of Tillsonburg for the building of a suitable skating rink for the public. This payment is contingent upon the town contributing a sum sufficent to make up a total of $35,000 and agreeing to build the rink within two years.

◆

THREE YEAR TERM IMPOSED

Welland, Ont., March 18—(CP) —Ernest Daboll, Crowland, was sentenced by Magistrate J. C. Massie today to three years in Portsmouth penitentiary for theft of goods from a Canadian National Railways freight train at Fort Erie Jan. 12. On a similar charge, Walter Horvath also of Crowland was sentenced to 18 months definite and one year indeterminate at the Ontario Reformatory.

PRESIDENT'S SON PULLS HARVARD OAR

While his father, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, guides the ship of state from the White House in Washington, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. pulls an oar on the junior rowing crew at Harvard University. He is shown in the Harvard shell where he pulls No. 4 oar as the crew work out on the Charles river in their first outdoor warm-up.

EMILE GIROUX'S DEATH PROBED

Wife Says She Was Threatened With Death by Husband

Montreal, March 18—(CP)—Officials of the coroner's court today probed the death of Emile Giroux, 25, found suspended from a window latch shortly after his wife entered a police station, here head and body marked with bleeding wounds and declared he had tried to kill her.

In hospital today Mrs. Germaine Giroux, 22, was reported as progressing favorably after treatment for head wounds and cuts about the body.

To escape from her husband, who was chasing her after striking her with a hammer, Mrs. Giroux told police she leaped through the glass in a second-storey window and landed in a snowbank.

A recent bride, Mrs. Giroux, according to police, left her husband three weeks ago as the result of a quarrel.

◆

DEATHS YESTERDAY

By The Canadian Press

London—Major-General Sir Richard Ruck, 84, war-time commander of London defences.

Kansas City—Dr. Jabez North Jackson, 66, President of the American Medical Association in 1926.

North Bay, Ont.—James Blee, North Bay merchant and for 18 years on the Public School Board.

ALL SECURITIES TO BE APPROVED

Commissioner Admit as Much in Address to Club

Toronto, March 19 (CP)—Possibility all securities issued in Ontario would be required to receive approval from his department before being offered for sale was held out by J. M. Godfrey, Ontario Securities Commissioner in an address at the Canadian Club. Under the existing situation, Mr. Godfrey explained, securities issued by members of Toronto Stock Exchange or the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada need not be passed upon by the securities department.

"Well, gentlemen, we have just about decided to bring all these issues under the Act," said Mr. Godfrey. The department considers such issues should have approval just as do mining stocks.

His department has closed 40 brokerage houses and caused 200 salesmen of irregular stock to depart from the city, he said. The department had a deficit of $14,000 last year, Mr. Godfrey said. He expected this year he would be able "to send over a few thousand to help Minister of Welfare David A. Croll in his relief work."

When he took office, Mr. Godfrey continued, Toronto was "infested" with United States stock racketeers, who had been driven out of that country by the Federal Securities' Legislation. They were attracted to Ontario by the boom in gold stocks.

RADIO PROGRAMS

TUESDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club.
11.00—Galaxy of Stars—NBC
11.30—U. S. Marine Band—WJZ
1.15—Radio Gossip Club—WGR
1.30—Music Guild—WEAF
1.30—Rex Battle's Orch.—CRCT
2.15—"Princess Ida"—WJZ
3.00—Columbia Variety Hour — WABC
4.00—Betty and Bob—WJZ
4.45— Dick Messner's Orch. — WABC
5.30—Singing Lady—WJZ
6.15—Midweek Hymn Sing—WEAF
6.30—News; Jim Hunter—WGR
7.00—Myrt and Marge—WABC
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.15—Morton Downey—WJZ
7.30—Musical Memories; Edgar A Guest and Co —WJZ
7.30—Easy Aces—WEAF
8.00—Leo Reisman's Orch.—WEAF
8.00—"Lavender and Old Lace"—WGR
8.00—Crime Clues—WJZ
8.00—Borah Minnevitch's Rascals —WOR
8.30—Wayne King—WEAF
8.30—Melodiana—WABC
8.30—Lawrence Tibbett—WJZ
9.00—Grace Moore soprano—WJZ
9.00—Ben Bernie, Phil Baker, —WEAF
9.00—Bing Crosby, baritone; the Mills Bros.—WABC; CFRB
9.30—Ed Wynn, Graham McNamee, Eddy Duchin's Orch. —WEAF
9.30—Isham Jones' Orch., guest stars—WABC
9.30—Cleveland Orch.—WJZ
10.00—Glen Gray's Orch.—WABC
10.00—Beauty Box Theatre; Operetta; Nat. Shilkret's Orch.—WEAF; CRCT; WLW
10.30—Captain Dobbsie's Ship of Joy—WABC
11.45—Jan Garber's Orch.—WGN

◆

WEDNESDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ
10.30—Breen and de Rose—WEAF
11.30—Army Band—WJZ
1.15—Radio Gossip Club—WGR
2.00—Two Seats in the Balcony—WEAF
2.00—Radio City Matinee — Enric Madriguera's Orch. and Jan Garber's Orch—WJZ
3.00—Kate Smith's Matinee Hour —WABC
4.00—Betty and Bob, drama—WJZ
4.30—Rochester Civic Orch.—WJZ
6.30—Jim Hunter, News—CFRB
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.00—Myrt and Marge—WABC
7.15—Plantation Echoes—WJZ
7.15—Stories of the Black Chamber "Secret Ink"—WEAF
7.30—Red Davis, sketch—WJZ
7.45—Dangerous Paradise, sketch —WJZ
8.00—Mary Pickford and Co.—CRCT
8.00—"Voice of the Front Page"—CFRB
8.00—Penthouse Party—WJZ
8.00—Diane and Her Life Saver—WABC
8.15—Edwin C. Hill, news—WABC
8.30—Broadway Varieties—WABC
8.30—Wayne King's Orchestra—WEAF; WTAM
8.30—Lanny Ross, tenor; Orch.—WJZ
8.30—Opening Nights—CRCT
9.00—Warden Lewis E. Lawes in 20,000 Years in Sing Sing—WJZ
9.00—Fred Allan's Revue—WEAF
9.00—Andre Kostelanetz Orch.—WABC
9.30—Adventures of Gracie—WABC
9.30—John McCormick, tenor — WJZ
9.45—Jan Garber—WGN
10.00—Pleasure Island; Guy Lombardo's Orch., Ricardo Cortez, narrator—WEAF
10.00—Jack Pearl—WABC
10.30—Ray Noble's Orch.—WEAF
10.30—Concert Hall—WABC
10.00—Ray Noble's Orch.—WEAF
11.00—Four Aces of Contract Bridge WABC
11.30—Ink Spots—WJZ
12.00—Art Jarrett's Orch.—WEAF

Be Sure

To have your Auto Insurance re-instated before taking out your car this Spring. If you have no insurance, do not take further chances of serious loss. All that is necessary in either case, or in the event of you changing your car, is to telephone us (1364). We will immediately protect you and get full particulars later. This is part of our service.

JAMIESON BONE & CO.
INSURANCE INVESTMENTS

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, March 19—(CP)—The mining market was a lot more cheerful today though the cause of it was not apparent in the news aside from a gain of a few cents in the price of bar gold in London.

While Lake Shore advanced 20 cents to $57, Wright Hargreaves was steady around 9.20, Bralorne lost 5 cents, McIntyre gained 50 and Pioneer was 10 cents higher.

McWatters, God's Lake, Pickle Crow and Prospectors Airways, each held a gain of 5 to 10 cents. Macassa, Little Long Lac, Central Patricia, Reno, McKenzie and San Antonio were unchanged to slightly higher.

In the silvers Nipissing firmed 5 cents and Eldorado was steady at 1.18. Oils were slow with Ajax slightly higher and Home Oil unchanged.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March, 19—(CP)—A little splurge in the distillery stocks and in Ford A relieved a generally drag morning session of Toronto Industrial Share market today.

Walkers Common held at 28 1-2 this afternoon, up a point. Distillers Seagrams gained 1-2 to 16 and Industrial Alcohol at 8 5-8 had a gain of 1-4.

Ford moved along to the 28 1-2 mark to show a fractional advance. Brazilian, C. P. R. and Nickel moved in the same direction:

International Petroleum, McColl and Supertest ordinary dropped 1-4 to 3-8 each. In the foods, Canada Packers Pfd. and Westons took losses of 3-4 to 1 1-2, the former selling ex-dividend.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Mar. 19 (AP) — The stock market regained a semblance of composure today under the impetus of recovery in commodities and a modification of tension in international politics, while the gains in most cases were small, selling pressure subsided in a number of key stocks.

Cotton futures were the bright spot in the commodities markets with gains of 85 cents to more than $1.00 a bale. Wheat and other grains at Chicago averaged ½ to more than a cent a bushel higher and moderate improvement occurred in other commodities, such as sugar, hides and rubber.

Among shares of Canadian companies, fractional gains were recorded by Dome, McIntyre, Canadian Pacific and International Nickel. On the curb, Hiram Walker advanced moderately, while Lake Shore held even. Dominion Government 4's were a bit lower. Canadian funds improved ¼ of a cent at 99.00 cents.

American Crystal Sugar Preferred gained 4 points and improvement of around 1 was shown by Cuban American Preferred, South Porto Rico, and Great Western.

UNLISTED MINES

Unlisted Mines furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co today:

Afton 51-54
Ardeen 4-7
Bankfield 81-84
Bathurst 3¾-4¾
Bousquet 29-31
Can. Pandora 7-9
Casey Contact 29-31
Dunlop 1.1¾
El Bonanza 10-12
Forty Four 10.25-11.00
Gabrielle 38-42
Gold Eagle 37-39
Great Bear Lake 41-44
Hard Rock 72-75
Johnson Nip 6½-7½
Lafayette 5¾-6¾
Lamaque 135-150
Lagoon 12-14
McLeod 7¾-8¾
Magnet 11-13
Matachewan 13½-15
Mosher 4.5
Murwood 25s
North Shores 4-4½
Oklend 40-43
Red Lake 30-33
Rice Lake 3½-4½
Smelters 14-16
Sigma 135-150
Shawkey 44-47
Sturgeon River 89b
Wells 14-16
Wingold 15s
Young Davidson 22s

FINANCE — TRADE

Ottawa, March 19 — (CP) — A substantial increase was shown in Canada's Domestic Exports during February when they totalled $46,719,000 compared with $37,842,000 in the same month last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Domestic exports to British countries amounted in value to $24,971,000, an increase of 46 percent in comparison with $17,027,000 in Feb. 1934. An increase of 46 percent was also shown in exports to the United Kingdom at $19,714,000 against $13,478,000 in the same month last year.

Exports to foreign countries totalled $21,748,000, an increase of nearly $1,000,000 against $20,816,000 last year.

Stock Markets

Quotations furnished by Biggar and Crawford, P. H. Wills branch manager. Quotations at 2.10 p.m.

MINES

Ashley 16½b
Ajax 1.02b
Acme 23½b
Breth Treth. 2b
Barry Hollinger 5½b
Base Metals 42b
Bobjo 26
Big Missouri 44½
Bradian 1.61b
Bagamac 7¼b
Bralorne 8.55b
Castle Treth. 63b
Coniaurum 2.10b
Central Pat 1.47
Coast Copper 1.40b
Dome 39.25b
Dominion Explorer 5½b
Eldorado 1.20
Falconbridge 3.60
God's Lake 1.40
Goldale 15½
Granada 30½
Greene Stab. 29b
Hollinger 16.95b
Halcrow 3½
Home Oil 57b
Hudson's Bay 11.90b
Howey 89
Inter. Nickel 23¾
Kirkland Lake 50
Kirkland Townsite 24b
Lake Shore 56.80
Little Long Lac 5.75
Macassa 2.30
Malartic 65b
Maple Leaf 7½b
McIntyre 44.75b
Mining Corporation 90b
McLeod River 1¼b
McKenzie 1.12b
McWaters 1.81
McVittie 29
Nipissing 2.20b
Noranda 34.75b
Pioneer 9.75b
Parkhill 23
Premier 1.58b
Reade Auth. 75b
Reno 1.29
St. Anthony 25
Sherritt 45b
Siscoe 3.04
San Antonio 4.26
Stadacona 20b
Sudbury Basin 1.35b
Sylvanite 2.32
Teck Hughes 4.15
Ventures 92
Wayside 18¾
Waite Amulet 51b
Wright Hargreaves 9.20b
Pickle Crow 2.78b
Paymaster 17

NEW YORK

American Can. 114
American T. and T. 100 1-4
American For. Power 2 1-8
Anaconda 8 1-2
Auburn 15 1-4
Case 48 1-8
Chrysler 33 1-8
General Motors 27 3-4
Elec. Auto Lite 20 5-8
Inter. Telephone 5 3-4
North American 9 5-8
Montgomery Ward 23 1-8
Phillips Pet 15
Radio 4 1-8
Standard Oil of N.J. 36 1-4
Standard Brands 14 7-8
Stewart-Warner 7 3-8
U. S. Smelters 114 1-2
U. S. Steel 28 5-8
United Aircraft 10 3-4
Vanadium 14 1-4
Westinghouse 34 3-4

TORONTO

Bell Telephone 131B
B. A. Oil 14 7-8B
Brewing Corp. 3 1-2B
Braz. Trac 8 5-8B
Can, Bud Brewery 7 1-2B
Can Cement 6 1-4B
Can. Dredge 19B
Can. Ind. Alcohol 8 3-4
C.P.R. 9 7-8B
Can. Malting 30 1-8
Can. Vinegar 27B
Canada Car 6 1-2B
Cons. Bakeries 12 1-2
Con. Smelting 130B
Dominion Stores 9B
Dist. Seagrams 16
Ford "A" 28
Gypsum 5 1-4B
Imp. Oil 16B
Inter Pet 29 1-4B
Imp. Tobacco 12 1-8B
Loblaw 18 1-4B
Massey Harris 3 1-2B
Mont Power 29B
McColl Frontenac 13 5-8B
Power Corp. 8B
Steel of Canada 43B
Supertest 23 1-4
Shawinigan 16 1-8B
Walkers 27 3-4B
Walkers Pfd. 17 5-8B
Walkerville Brewery 3B

Grain Markets

Closing quotations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co., today:

	High	Low	Close
Wheat—
May	83 1-4	82 5-8	83 1-8
July	82 1-2	82	82 1-2
Oats—
May	37 1-2	36	37 1-4
July	37 3-8	36 1-8	37 1-4
Barley—
May	43 3-4	42	43 3-8
July	44 1-8	42 1-2	43 3-4

Produce Markets

(By United Farmers Co-Operative Company)

Toronto. — Wholesale prices on product delivered at Toronto as supplied by the United Farmers Co-operative Co. here to-day were:

Buying Prices

Eggs—
Grade A, large doz	.16
Grade A, medium, doz	.15
Grade A, pullets, doz.	.15
Grade B, doz.	.14
Grade C, doz.	.13
Butter—
Ontario No. 1, Creamery, lb.	.23¾
Ontario, No. 2, Creamery, lb.	.23¼
Churning Cream—
No. 1 lb.	.24
No. 2, lb.	.22

(F.O.B. shipping point)
Poultry

	Live "A"	Dressed "A"	Dressed Milkfed "A"
Hens—
Over 5 lbs.	.11	.14
4 to 5 lbs.	.10	.13
3 to 4 lbs.	.08	.11
Old roosters	.06	.08	..
Spring Chickens—
5½ to 6 lbs.	.12	.16	.18
5 to 5½ lbs.	.11	.15	.17
4½ to 5 lbs.	.10	.14	.16
Under 4½ lbs.	.09	.13	.15
Broilers—
1¾ to 2½ lbs.	.11	.15	.17

Selling Prices

United Farmers Co-Operative Co. today were offering products to retail dealers at the following prices:

Eggs—
Grade A large, loose, doz.	.21
Grade A, medium, doz.	.20
Grade B, medium, doz.	.19
Grade C, doz.	.18
Butter—
No. 1 Creamery, prints.	.26½
No. 2, Creamery, prints	.26

Hay and Straw

No. 2 timothy hay, baled ton, $15.50 to $16.50; No. 3 timothy hay, ton, $13.00 to $14.00; straw, wheat, baled, ton, $10.00; oats straw, $8.50 to $9.50.

Clover Seeds Prices

Following are the prices for clover seed, in the dirt, to the farmer, f.o.b. at shipping point, according to quality: Red clover, $12 per bushel; alsike, $12 to $13; alfalfa, $9 to $10.

Graded Egg Prices

Toronto dealers today were paying the following nominal prices for graded eggs, cases free:

Grade A, medium, doz.	.18
Grade A, large, doz.	.16
"A" pullets, doz.	.15

Fruit, Vegetable Prices

(By F. G. Lister and Co., Toronto)

Fruits (Domestic)—
Apples, cooking, hamper	1.25	1.50
Vegetables (Domestic)—
Carrots, bag	.35	.40
Mushrooms, lb.	.30
Onions, 100 lbs.	1.75	2.00
Ontario Potatoes	.60
Turnips, bag	.40

Dressed Meat Prices

Toronto. — Wholesale dealers are quoting the following prices to the trade for dressed meats:

Beef forequarters cwt	$ 6.00 to	$ 9.00
Do., hindquarters	12.00	15.00
Carcasses, choice	11.00	14.00
do medium	9.00	11.00
Calves, medium	9.50	11.00
Heavy hogs, cwt.	9.00	10.00
Abattoir hogs, cwt.	13.00	14.00
Lambs, cwt	13.00	15.00

Hides, Skin and Wool

Following prices are being quoted in Toronto for hides, skin and wool: City hides, green, 4c; brands, 3c; bulls, 3c; city calfskins, 7c; city kip, 6c; country hides, cured, 4c; hides, green, 3c; country calf, cured, 6c; country kip, cured, 5c; lamb skin, 20 to 35c each; horsehides, Nos. 1 and 2, at $1.50, with damaged and ponies at 75. Fleece wool, fine, 9c; medium, 8c; coarse, 8c; rejects (Burry, seedy, grey, black and cotted fleece) 4c; flat wool 7c, all delivered, Toronto.

Livestock Quotations

(Toronto)

Steers, up to 1,050 lbs., good and choice	5.50	5.75
do, medium	5.00	5.50
do. common	3.75	4.75
Steers, over 1050 lbs, good and choice	6.00	7.25
do, medium	6.00	6.50
do., common	5.00	5.75
Heifers, good and choice	5.50	6.00
do, medium	4.75	5.25
do., common	3.50	4.50
Fed calves, good and choice	7.00	8.00
do., medium	5.00	6.00
Cows, good	3.00	4.25
do., medium	3.00	3.50
do, common	2.50	3.00
Canners and cutters	1.50	2.25
Bulls, good	3.00	3.75
do., common	3.50	4.00
Milker's and Springer	40.00	45.00
Stocker and feeder steers, good	4.50	5.00
do., common	2.75	3.00
Calves, good and choice veals	6.50	7.00
do, common to medium	4.00	6.00
do, grassers	3.00	3.50
Hogs, bacon f.o.b.	7.25
do., off cars	8.00
do., off truck	7.60
Good ewes and wether lambs	7.00	7.25
do., medium	6.50	6.75
do., bucks	6.00	6.50
do., culls	5.00	6.00
Sheep, good weight	3.50	4.00
do., heavies	2.50	3.25
do., culls	1.00	2.00

17 MILLION MEN ARE MOBILIZABLE

(Continued From Page 1)

1,128 planes.

Italy—at a cost of $212,000,000 annually, Italy maintains a standing army of 700,000 with an equal number in reserve. Service is universal and compulsory.

The Italian air force has more than 25,000 men with 840 fighting planes in the first line and 800 in reserve. She has 32 regiments of field artillery and 23 regiments of heavy artillery.

Military Mystery in Russia

Russia — behind the Russian standing army of more than 700,000 men stands one of the military mysteries of the world. She appropriates $600,000,000 and trains 800,000 men yearly. The fighting strength she would be able to equip has been estimated at 6,000,000 men. An additional 30,000 men man her air force variously estimated at from 750 to 2,000 planes.

Germany—one thing only is sure of Germany's fighting force and that is in the future she will have a standing army of 500,000. Handicapped by the Versailles Treaty limitation to 100,000 men of voluntary long-time enlistment, by inaugurating military training for police forces and private militia organizations, she is estimated to have trained 750,000 men in the last five years.

The German mobilization strength is said to be 1,500,000.

UNITED STATES PRESERVES TONE

(Continued From Page 1)

The French Ambassador had an extended conversation with Sir John and an unconfirmed report said the British Minister might go to Berlin by way of Paris as a result.

Moscow View Capitulation

MOSCOW, March 19. — (AP) — Authorized Russian circles today termed the British note to Berlin on Germany's conscript decision an undeniable success for Germany and "an even greater capitulation by Great Britain than could have been expected."

These sources said the asserted capitulation applied to the question of German armaments as well as the scheduled conversations in Berlin between Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary.

Strong Front Urged

Russians expressed the opinion instead of the "weak" note, as the British message is characterized here the moment demanded a strong united front of the powers against Germany.

The Soviet attitude, as expressed in the Press, has been one of suspicion England would make concessions to Germany which might wreck the chances for a European peace agreement with Russia participating. Captain Anthony Eden, British Lord Privy Seal, is expected to come here about March 28 after spending two days with Sir John Simon, Foreign Minister, in Berlin and the Berlin discussions will have important bearing on talks in Moscow.

Bonus For Re-enlistment.

Paris, Mar. 19 (AP)—The Chamber of Deputies Finance Committee today approved the appropriation of 20,000,000 francs ($1,320,000) for bonuses for re-enlistment in the French army.

The bill had been in the hands of the committee for some time. Following the events since Saturday it was promptly brought out today and started on its way to the Chamber of Deputies.

Bomb "Play" Over Berlin.

Berlin, Mar. 19.—A squadron of German bombers and pursuit planes roared over Berlin today in the first military air manoeuvres here since the war as Germany exulted in Reichfuehrer Hitler's announcement that Germany was rearmed.

Germany's fighting planes appeared suddenly over the capital this afternoon. The roar of their motors filled the streets with thunder. For almost an hour they crossed and criss-crossed the city.

The entire population rushed out of houses and offices. The people stood in the streets and hung out of windows, shouting and waving.

The city's normal life was halted as the people watched Air Minister Hermann Wilhelm Goering's practical proof that Germany is no longer bound by the Versailles Treaty.

From 100 to 150 planes were estimated to have participated.

Obituary

THE LATE FR. McCARTHY

Pall-bearers yesterday morning at the funeral of the late Father T. McCarthy, Read, were the following members of St. Charles' Parish: Henry Larkin, Dennis Meagher, Michael Hanley, Joseph Candan, Thos. Shannon and Frank O'Connell.

Osgoode Entrance Requirement Raised

Toronto, March 19 (CP)—Students belonging to what is known as the matriculant class who wish to enter the Osgoode Hall Law school on academic standings obtained after Feb. 21, 1935, will be required to have earned 60 per cent of the marks given for each paper in their qualifying examinations, instead of 50 per cent as hereabouts.

EUCHRE AND DANCE HELD BY LIBERALS

C. A. Cameron, Candidate For Riding is Present at Function

A euchre and dance was held in the Liberal Club rooms last night there being 48 tables of euchre and six of bridge. The winners were ladies, Mrs. Whalen 1st, Mrs. T. Cousins 2nd, Mrs. Bert Asselstine 3rd. The gents, Mr. A. McNab 1st, Mr. S. Jenners 2nd, Mr. H. Boyle 3rd. The bridge winners, Mr. E. Vermilyea and Mrs. Fred Temple. The door prize was won by Mr. Dan Rush. After cards lunch was served, then Mr. Ed. McQuaide gave a short address and read a very welcome letter from the Hon. J. A. Faulkner, then the candidate Mr. C. A. Cameron was introduced and gave a short address. Mr. P. C. MacLaurin also gave a short address, then the prizes were given out by Mr. C. A. Cameron.

The euchre was very successfully handled by Mr. G. Davison and Mr. A. Keegan who also had charge of the floor. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing to the strains of Jack Denmark and his Aces which was very pleasing and of the very best. At 2 a.m. everybody went home tired but happy.

SOCIETIES

HOLLOWAY ST. Y.P.P.

The Young People of Holloway Street United Church entertained the Young People's Union of Bridge Street Church to a social last night.

Mr. Joe Anderson, President of Holloway Street Church commenced the evening's entertainment by giving a word of welcome to the young people from Bridge Street Church. Mr. Taylor Franklin, President of the Bridge Street Young People's Union then took over the chairmanship duties. The program was put on by Bridge Street. It consisted of:—

1.—A sing song led by Miss Erma Dickson.
2.—Solo—Miss Lorna Ridley.
3.—Two Irish Numbers — Miss Arbuckle.
4.—Brief address by Mr. Ken Bird, "The Isle of the Patron Saint"
5.—Solo—Miss Evelyn Reddick.
6.—Skit—The Highway Man, the principal characters were the Misses Sparling, Anderson, Stewart, Davidson, Gilroy. It was directed by Miss Helen Sulman, Miss Ketcheson was the musical accompanist for the program.

After the program, Mr. Charles Dracup social convener for the Holloway Union took over his duties. Many contests were enjoyed under the leadership of Mr. Dracup. A dainty lunch brought an enjoyable evening's entertainment to a close.

UNCONSCIOUS WOMAN IS SAVED FROM FIRE

Captain Bolton Rescues Mrs. Watkins at St. Catharines

St. Catharines, Ont., March 19—(CP)—Mrs. Alice Watkins was rescued from her burning house today by Captain Albert Bolton, neighbor. Captain Bolton noticed the fire as he arrived. He found Mrs. Watkins lying unconscious on the floor, overcome by smoke and suffering from slight burns.

'Joiner' Policeman Also Robbed Of Gas

Toronto, March 19—(CP)—When members of a fraternal organization discovered last night their automobiles had been drained of gasoline, they promptly returned to the meeting place and informed one of their fellows, a police officer. He promised to report the matter — but on climbing into his own auto, he found he was one of the victims of the thieves.

Lt.-Col. John Bruce, Admiralty Registrar Dies

TORONTO, March 19.— (CP) — Lt.-Col. John Bruce, Registrar of the Admiralty Court for Ontario, died today in his 84th year.

In his youth, Col. Bruce was a star lacrosse player and a keen rifle marksman. He accompanied the Canadian Bisley team to England in 1896 in the capacity of Adjutant. Besides his shooting trophies, Col. Bruce won many cups at golf.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR BRIDE-TO-BE

At the home of Mrs. E. Stapley on Monday evening, a pleasant little surprise party was held for Miss Kathleen White, bride-to-be. The greater part of the evening was occupied by cards and games followed by dancing until a late hour. During the evening a delightful buffet luncheon was served. Miss White was the recipient of many household gifts.

Winnipeg Plans To Tax R. R. Property

Winnipeg, March 19 (CP)—City Council moved today to tax railway property within the city limits, at present exempt, and increase revenues by an estimated $450,000 annually. The Council will request the Manitoba Legislature to change the Railway Taxation Act and the Winnipeg Charter to give the Council authority to remove railway property from the exempt list.

12.25 per ton Buy Disco 12.25 per ton

The Wonder Fuel

IDEAL FOR FURNACE, STOVE, RANGE OR FIRE PLACE.
Before you buy any more fuel
"TRY DISCO"
IT WILL SURPRISE YOU!
Sold only by
THE F. S. ANDERSON Company
Telephone 231 209 Front Street

Who May be Who in 1935

By BILL BRAUCHER
© CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, INC.

Hornsby Gives Clift Idea, And Harland Hits 14 Homers

HARLAND CLIFT

The St. Louis Browns are in spring training (1934) at West Palm Beach, Fla. Harland Benton Clift, a young man fresh from the Texas league, takes his turn at the batting cage. Behind the cage stands Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Browns, and one of the greatest batters that ever wore a spiked shoe.

The rookie takes a poke at a fast one, fouling the ball high over first base. Hornsby walks around the cage to the plate and takes the batter's bludgeon.

"Hold it like this," says the Rajah gripping the bat at the end of the handle. "You're too big a boy to be a choke-hitter. Swing that bat dont' jab with it. Let's try a few more."

Clift follows the Rajah's orders—and strikes out. But Hornsby, who is one of the most persuasive persons in the game, pleads with the recruit to give the advice a thorough trial.

Homer Off Hubbell

The Giants come to town for an exhibition game. Carl Hubbell, National league ace, is on the mound. The recruit goes to the plate. Here comes the screw ball. There's the swing. Bang! A home run deep into left centre.

When Clift felt his bat crash against the horsehide, he gained new confidence. Encouraged by Hornsby, he gradually became a dangerous batter that every American League pitched handled with care. And though he hit only .260 in 1934, his first major league year, he drove out 14 home runs, 30 doubles and 10 triples, and the Rajah predicts he will hit .300 in the season to come. If the Browns go higher than sixth, as Hornsby threatens, Clift is sure to play an important role.

Clift, only 22 years old, plays a flashy game at third, making errors now and then, but most of his errors result from his eagerness to go after everything in sight. He can dash equally well to left or right and gets the ball away fast. During 1934 he figured in 28 double plays, a department in which Higgins of the Athletics and Owens of the Tigers were the only third basemen who bested him.

Clift is a native Oklahoman, born in El Reno, Aug. 12, 1912. He started professionally with Wichita Falls Tex., in 1931, and followed the franchise to Longview in 1932. Playing for San Antonio in 1933 he hit .273.

WOMAN IS SHOT WHILE AT WORK

Police Investigate Strange Shooting Without Clues

Olds, Alta., March 19—(CP)—Mysterious murder of a 43-year-old mother on her farm near here occupied Royal Canadian Mounted Police attention today but there were no clues.

Mrs. Rose Edith McConnell, farming near Sundre, 37 miles west of here, was shot yesterday while at work in the barnyard. Her 12 year old son Benjamin ran to a neighbor's house seeking aid and shouted "my mother has been shot twice by some man."

Instead of returning home Benjamin proceeded further eastward but was apprehended by police and held for questioning.

~~White Space~~

Profits FOR SALE

. . . If You Run A Business, This Message Is For You

YOU, as a business man, are interested in profits. We, as a newspaper, are interested in helping you get them. We believe that furnishing profit-building ideas to make our white space more valuable to you is one of the biggest jobs we can do.

No one knows better than we do that no two advertising problems are precisely alike. But long experience has given us a very wide understanding of the buying habits of people who read newspapers. And so every selling idea The Ontario Intelligencer offers you has been given the same test: Has it sold goods to newspaper readers or hasn't it? This testing saves you money. It avoids wasted effort. It lowers your year-round selling cost.

Famous Meyer Both Service Free to You!

Many of these selling ideas are twice-tested. They are the ideas furnished by the Meyer Both advertising service; ideas that have been developed after research on a nation-wide scale. They are selling goods right now for merchants all over the United States and Canada. No one else but The Ontario Intelligencer advertisers may use these Meyer Both tested ideas in Belleville. No one else may utilize the illustrations, copy suggestions, layouts and merchandising plans which are your simply for the asking.

We want you to feel free to call upon our staff for help whenever you have an unusual advertising problem. Satisfying you keeps us in bread and butter. And that's what we're in business for.

The Ontario Intelligencer

Guardians of the Desert

By TOM GILL

CHAPTER FOUR

A growl of suppressed anger rose from Solon Lowell. "Do you think I'll let a handful of desert rats stand in the way of my plan to bring water to the Verde country?" His voice strengthened, thrilled by the immensity of his dream of empire. "I intend to make that desert the most fertile, prosperous part of all the Southwest. Within three years I'll change it into a land of homes and everlasting productiveness." Then, in a lower tone, he added, "Since the day when Sari laid that plan before me we have bought nearly a million acres of desert, and by the Heavens, I'll make a great and productive domain out of the cactus and sand."

The cigarette dropped from Dick's mouth. He seemed as one utterly lacking interest in his surroundings, but now, beneath the half-shut lids, his eyes with curious intensity were watching Sari in the inner office. Lazily at last he broke the silence.

"Men say it took all Sari's influence and yours to get that land at your own price."

Impatiently the older man shook his head. "That no longer concerns me. The land is mine and Sari's, and by bringing water to that country we are creating values undreamed of in all that arid land. Sari has had two surveys made and the plan is feasible but costly. We have taken care of that by issuing stock. I don't want to be too closely connected with it, but I do want a representative of mine on the ground, and—" his lip curled a little "even you may be suitable for that. The real work Sari can take care of. Heaven knows you've made little use of your engineering training, and I want you to complete the survey of our boundaries. They'll be contested ——every foot." Then, as if angered at his son's lack of interest, the older man burst out, "Are you taking in exactly what I say?"

Dick had shifted slightly in his chair. His eyes, shaded by one hand, were still alert, still fixed on the inner office. He lighted another cigarette.

"Dear Dad, I'm even taking in a few things you're not saying." Then as if seized with a sudden thought, he rose abruptly. "Before I make a decision I want to see those maps and surveys. Let me see them now!"

Walking to the door of the inner office, Solon Lowell threw it open, and as Sari looked up, said, "Let Dick have your file on the irrigation work."

Sari turned quickly. "Tonight?"

"Now."

Instantly his dark face flushed. "The papers aren't in very good order, Mr. Lowell. Tomorrow morning I could——"

With characteristic impatience Solon Lowell shook his head. "Never mind the order. Put them on your desk now. I want to get this over with."

With a visible reluctance that brought a twinkle of amusement to Dick, Sari unlocked a small safe, and taking out a bundle of papers, carried them to his desk where, from the outer office, Dick watched him open them and begin to unfold a large map. An instant later Dick started to his feet—his eyes again took on that look of sudden intensity and he moved quickly toward the inner office. "Don't bother arranging them, old dear. I never could understand anything that's too orderly."

Sari turned and for the merest fraction of time those tawny eyes held a glint of unmistakable hostility. Slowly he closed a drawer of the desk. "I better go over it with you, Dick," he said evenly.

Dick smiled into his face. "Could not think of it. I'll just ramble through them in my own simple fashion and when I come across the big words I'll call for help."

Again the two men stood at hostile gaze, then from his desk Solon Lowell called, "Let him look them over alone, Nick. There's something I want to say to you."

Again Sari hesitated. "I think it would be better—" he began, but at a peremptory gesture from Solon Lowell he ceased, and unwillingly drew the door closed.

For a time Solon Lowell drummed with his fingers on the desk, while through the glass door Sari's eyes were fixed moodily on Dick's back, bent over tracings and the mass of papers before him.

The grey eyes of the older man seemed suddenly weary as slowly he reached forward and tore from a small calendar the last day of the old year. "Another step toward the end of the game—and so much yet to do." His voice had fallen to a low monotone.

"Men call me fortunate in having two sons. I wonder. I dreamed great dreams for them, Nick, but they have chosen to go their own way. Bruce, out on the ranch and Dick here—always a battle between their wills and mine. Not one of them has worked with me as you have worked—not one." His face turned savagely toward the inner door. "Well, this one, unless he obeys me, goes out of my life tonight." He smiled thinly. "Success and power, Nick, are very little things when weighed against the loneliness of a deserted old age."

Sari was watching him closely. "You will never be old. I couldn't picture you as getting old. And whatever comes—you have my loyalty always." His voice, soft and soothing, held almost a mesmeric quality.

"I know, I know. Nick, from this night on it is my wish that we go forward side by side."

Sari's tawny eyes gleamed, then quickly lowered: "I already owe everything to you," he murmured.

"The past is nothing. We are only beginning, and with my help you can go far. We will conquer this hostile world together, Nick, bend it to our will, and at my death, or even before, you will be envied by every man in the border country." Some of the old, undying fire had come back into the man's eyes, and defiantly he closed his fist.

"Power, Nick. That is something men like you and I must always have, for power means possessions and freedom from the frustrations that shackle smaller men. It means money, and domination, and in a long life I have found that the domination of men is by far the best of life's game. I say this—I who have found it impossible to dominate my own two sons." Again his long fingers drummed absently, then picking a newspaper from the desk, he handed it to Sari. Once more he had become the cold, unyielding fighter.

"Here's what I want to talk about. Read this last attack from the Verde Times. We've got to shut that newspaper up, Nick. For months it has been turning the people of Verde against our work and we can't afford to have a solid wall of enmity built up again us. Maybe we'd better buy the darned thing after all.

To Dick only a confused, dull murmur of the two men's words came through the closed door as he ran rapidly over the records that told of the birth and progress of Sari's and his father's plans. He thumbed the papers impatiently, then studied carefully a large map showing in detail the proposed location of the irrigation ditch. On it were notations of lands bought from ranchers whom he knew, and in red figures the amount paid for each. Once his lips hardened as he scanned the pitiably small sums that had been given these men for land whose possession had meant years of unrelenting battle against drought and killing sun, against rustlers and the eternal enmity of the desert.

But now Dick's eyes had dropped to the desk. Attentively he listened to the low, even rumble of voices from the next room, then very carefully, almost without a movement, his body never changing position, one hand moved slowly down and pulled the desk drawer open a few scant inches. He waited, motionless, and again, with infinite caution, the hand moved slowly forward and drew out a small packet of papers.

On top lay a folded tracing, a series of lines and figures, and clipped beneath it, a torn letter. At sight of the handwriting Dick half rose with an involuntary start. He read the few scrawled sentences on the torn page, then very carefully studied the tracing, and in a few moments had rapidly copied the outline on a sheet of paper, checked it with the original and, with infinite caution, thrust in his pocket.

For a time he sat there like a brooding, immobile statue, eyes fixed intently on that torn letter before him, then reaching forward, he took up a pencil, wiped the soft lead on his thumb, and pressed a smudged imprint upon the margin. At the result a smile flickered on his lips. Slowly and silently the drawer closed.

Pushing back the mass of papers, Dick rose, and the eyes that a moment ago had been so eager and alert were veiled again in studied apathy. He pulled a cigarette from his pocket, and thrusting it in the corner of his mouth, opened the door, then crossed the room to where the two men still sat.

Sari's eyes rose anxiously, but the man's face was immobile as a mask. Directly in front of him Dick halted.

"Got a match, Nick?" he asked suavely, and as Sari held a match before him a slow smile touched his lips. "Somehow,' he drawled, "I always seem to be coming to you for light."

Like a symbol of smouldering hatred, that wavering point of flame glowed upon the two men—as if something in their very natures had decreed eternal enmity between them. They stood there, face to face, with tense, level eyes. then quick footsteps hurried down the long corridor and the night watchman laid a telegram on Solon Lowell's desk.

Absently he tore it open, his tired eyes fixed thoughtfully on his son, then slowly they fell to the yellow paper in his hand.

"God!" It was a choking gasp of agony that broke the silence of the little room. Blindly Solon Lowell rose, knotted finger clutching frantically at his collar, as if for air, and those grey eyes, a moment ago so stern and relentless, were suddenly helpless and terror stricken. He stood fighting for words, but only a hoarse, inarticulate whisper came, and with shaking hand he thrust the message toward his son.

CHAPTER FIVE

In quick alarm Dick stepped forward. Swiftly he held the telegram beneath the light and read the blurred words: Your son, Bruce Lowell was shot and killed tonight near the ranch. Murderer unknown. No details. Barnes.

Silence. The bitter, final silence of death itself. A sudden chill seemed to have crept in upon them from the winter night, and for a moment the world went black before Dick's eyes. This brother, this younger brother of his, he who a few months ago had left Dick with a gay wave of the hand as he rode out toward the desert. And now he was lying on that self same desert, cold, lifeless and forever done. Convulsively Lowell's hand crushed the paper. Again the room reeled, and his lips moved stiffly.

"Bruce!" The voice was choked and changed. "Old Bruce!"

Like slow delirium the agony of that moment passed, but its shadow was to remain across Dick's spirit for many days. Yet it was typical of the man that not for long could even this crushing news hold him unprepared for action. His eyes fell upon Sari, and even as he rapped out his commands all trace of emotion had vanished.

"Call the airport. I want a plane and pilot ready in the next half hour. Call the apartment. Have my bag packed and sent down. I'm going back to the ranch. Tell them to wire ahead for connections—and phone for a taxi.

It may have been something in Dick's voice that struck a responsive chord in the father, for at those words Solon Lowell rose to his feet and slowly straightened, as if throwing off some well nigh intolerable burden.

"You're flying West tonight, Dick?"

Instantly the reply came. "Tonight. Now."

"And then?"

"I'm going to get that killer."

The words, so quietly spoken, seemed to echo, to linger in the hushed room. They were a pledge, those words, a pledge to the dead, and as Sari and Lowell looked into the unswerving eyes of the man before them, they knew beyond the shadow of any doubt that to this task he would dedicate himself until the end—whatever that end might be.

Once more the quiet, resolute voice was speaking. "And when I find him—when I know I have him —I'll kill him without mercy, as he killed Bruce."

Fleetingly Sari's eyes studied that firm, determined face, then passed inscrutably to the blackness of the window, and a moment later he picked up the telephone. In silence Solon Lowell walked heavily across the room, and a wave of pity seized Dick to see how his father's steps had shortened, how, in spite of that effort to hold himself erect, he already bent a little beneath this last cruel bludgeoning of destiny. His hand dropped to his father's shoulder, gripped it, and looking down into those world-weary eyes, a sudden pity seized him, a vast compassion for this man, suffering and lonely, whose life lay too remote for Dick or his brother ever to have touched. And even in that moment came a realization of the strange, unequal character of his father, to whom the death of a son he had ever thwarted and opposed now brought a burden of added years.

For a time the older man stood at the window looking out into the night, then at last turned to Sari.

"I am going with Dick," he announced shortly. "Do what ever is necessary here until I return. And one more thing. Wire Verde that Bruce is to be buried beside his mother. At once. I couldn't—"

He stopped and his eyes rose in mute appeal to Dick. Then again he straightened, and with a short nod followed his son down the long, dark corridor, leaving Sari, still silent, still quietly regarding them with those tawny, unhurried eyes.

Just outside the taxi waited, and they were driven swiftly through the almost deserted center of the city, down Fourteenth Street and across the frozen waters of the Potomac. As the car drew up at the flying field, Dick heard the low sound of a motor, and across the snowy field, now bright with flood lights, he made out a low, single-motored monoplane. The plane taxied nearer and Dick nodded in satisfaction. It was one of the fastest of the fleet. Well, nothing could be fast enough that night. No plane could keep pace with his driving, goaded thoughts. Quickly he completed his arrangements in the little office, then walked the length of the platform, waiting for the pilot's word.

It came even sooner than he thought, and helping his father through the narrow doorway in the fuselage, he confirmed the route with the pilot, pulled the door closed, and settled down in his seat.

Slowly the plane taxied out over the hard, snow-powdered field, then turning directly into that cold north wind, the pilot opened the throttle, and with a roar and a swirl of frozen snow the plane was off. Twice circling the field, it gained altitude while the white, rolling country unfolded into the distance, broken only by the long, dark, winding line of river and blurred by the lights of Washington that dotted both banks to the north. Far to the right the luminous dome of the capitol stood forth, brilliant and majestic against the lowering January sky. Dick watched it drop beneath the horizon and with its passing he seemed to have severed the last faint bond that held him to the East—ahead lay the desert and a task to be fulfilled.

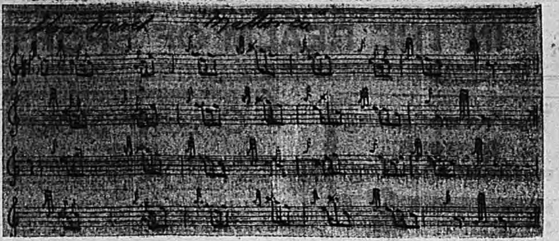
So, with a roar of the engine and amid a drifting of scudding clouds, they whirled westward into the darkness.

It grew colder. Eyes fixed on his instruments, the pilot opened a thermostat, then closed the throttle of the engine to cruising speed. The glare of the city died. Two thousand feet beneath gleamed the scattered lights of small villages, separated by bleak stretches of white, cut only by a network of roads that looked like dull black ribbons against the snow.

(To Be Continued).

(Copyright 1933 by Tom Gill,)
(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THE PRINCE OF WALES COMPOSES PIPE MUSIC; TO TAKE LESSONS



The Prince of Wales (LEFT), who has recently taken lessons in bagpipe-playing from Pipe-Major Forsyth, piper to the King, has comosed a slow march for the pipes called "Mallorca" (Spanish for Majorca), after the Balearic island which he has more than once visited. Both Pipe-Major Forsyth and Pipe-Major Robertson of the Scots Guards, to whom it was offered, were enthusiastic over it, and the pipers' band of the Scots Guards rehearsed it with a view to playing it at the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace. They gave it for the first time at the Tower of London. t has been described as a very fine march with a beautiful melody and a stirring lilt. Now the news comes that Piper Fletcher of the Scots Guards, has been appointed to teach His Royal Highness the advanced technique of playing the bagpipes.

It is interesting to Belleville folk to know that Pipe Major Albert Johnstone, Dundas Street, recently received a copy of this music from a friend in the Old Country.

STORK SEES BUSY SPRING AHEAD IN HOLLYWOOD

Norma Shearer (Mrs. Irving Thalberg)
Grace Kibbee (Mrs. Guy Kibbee)
Molly O'Day (Mrs. Jack Durant)
June Collyer (Mrs. Stuart Erwin)
Virginia Webster (Mrs. Richard Dix)
Gloria Stuart (Mrs. Arthur Sheekman)

Spring will bring the stork to some half dozen homes in Hollywood The expectant mothers are pictured above. You will recognize most of them. Their married names are given, too.

SPRINGBROOK NEWS OF WEEK

Springbrook—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Thompson were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Runnalls on Sunday last.

Among those who attended the funeral of little Carman Gay were Mr. and Mrs. C. Bartlett of Bowmanville; Mrs. Harry Phillips and daughter of Roslin; Mr. and Mrs. Morrison of Corbyville.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rupert of Havelock, visited Mrs. Rupert's aunt Mrs. Walter Heath on Tuesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Morrow and family of Peterboro, called on a number of relatives here on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Heath spent Sunday in Deloro.

Mrs. L. Garrison is visiting in Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. James McMullen, Bessie and Malcolm of Campbellford, are moving here soon. The community welcomes them.

Mrs. Elizabeth Reid of Belleville, visited at Mr. T. Morgan's recently.

Miss Myrtle McKeown spent the week end at her father's, Mr. T. H. McKeown's in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Murney Ray and Gordon of the 8th. concession, spent Sunday at Mr. Stewart Ray's.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford McInroy and family were Sunday visitors at Mr. T. McKeown's of Norwood.

Miss Alma Nichol of Malone, is spending a month with Mrs. C. Gay and family.

Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Meiklejohn visited Mr. and Mrs. G. Meiklejohn on Friday.

Mrs. E. Ovens has returned home after spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Donald Bush, of Bayside.

Mrs. Jason Baker of Bonarlaw, spent Friday with relatives in the village.

The World's Day of Prayer Service was held in the United Church, Springbrook, for the surounding congregations on Friday afternoon. The service was under the leadership of Rev. H. W. Foley of Springbrook, and Rev. Canon Swayne of Bonarlaw. The program for the service was used, being supplied especially for that occasion. The theme: "Bear ye one another's burden." Quiet music was played by Mrs. Carman Sine. The meeting opened with a call to worship read by Rev. H. W. Foley, The hymn, "O Master of the waking world" was sung. The responsive reading. "The Law of God," was succeeded by "Jesus Lover of My Soul."

Rev. Canon Swayne read "The New Commandment" and took charge of the period of thanksgiving. Hymn, "Go Labor On." The responsive reading, "Our Pattern" was taken by Rev. Swayne, followed by prayer in unison. Mrs. Carman sang a pleasing solo. Rev. H. W. Foley read "Bear ye one another's burdens." The hymn "Lord Speak to Me" was sung. Responsive reading, was followed by a hymn. The Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. Others who assisted in the program were Mrs. G. Bailey, Mrs. (Rev.) Foley, Mrs. W. Tanner.

CRAWLED 4 MILES ON HANDS, KNEES

Fell And Broke Ankle in Remote Section of Township

Huntsville, Ont., March 19—(CP) —Experience of crawling four miles over ice and snow with a broken ankle before she was able to reach help was related in hospital here by Miss Amy Bahan of Stisted Township. Leaving her home early last night to walk six miles to the home of a relative, she fell and broke an anble in a remote section of the township and on a road little frequented in winter. She had covered only two miles of her journey but she was determined to push on For 10 hours in darkness and in an exhausted condition, she crept over the rough road on hands and knees. Several times she lost consciousness and lay still, only to revive and continue her journey.

Finally with daylight breaking today she reached the top of a hill in sight of her objective. With a last ounce of energy she called out and then swooned to the road. Her cry was heeded and relatives carried her to the house. Examinations revealed a fractured ankle, bad body bruises and raw and torn knees.

The night was mild and although her condition is serious she is expected to recover.

Toronto Archbishop

Enthroned this week as archbishop of Toronto will be His Excellency Most Rev. James Charles McGuigan, formerly of Regina. Archbishop McGuigan is a native of Prince Edward Island where his mother still resides.

RAIL "CZAR"

LAZAR KAGANOVITCH

Lazar Kaganovitch who built the Moscow subway, has been appointed commissar for transportation in Soviet Russia. Kaganovitch, who succeeds Andrei Andreyeff has been Joseph Stalin's right-hand man.

FALL IN POUND GIVEN AS CAUSE

Brussels, March 19 (CP-Havas)—The government of Premier Georges Theunis resigned today.

The Theunis cabinet, which went into office last Nov. 20, has had the continued opposition of the Socialists. In recent weeks the cabinet has been criticized sharply by industrialists because of the falling exports due in part to the fall in the pound.

Keep on the SUNNY SIDE

Haven't you noticed that your happiest hours occur on days when you feel your best?

Have more of these happy days. You and all your family. Guard health while you have it. Keep to the sunny side of life.

The greatest enemy of health is common constipation. It may cause loss of appetite and energy. Certainly it kills enthusiasm! Yet it can be banished by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's All-Bran supplies "bulk" and vitamin B to relieve common constipation. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in All-Bran is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much pleasanter to eat this delicious ready-to-eat cereal than to take patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

THE NEW Elizabeth Arden
ECONOMY BOX
$2.60 Value for
$2.00
A Most Attractive Week-end Box Containing:
CLEANSING CREAM; VELVA CREAM; AMORETTA CREAM; SKIN TONIC; FACE POWDER
A rare opportunity of purchasing these five basic Elizabeth Arden Preparations at Economy prices.
ON SALE FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY
Doyle's Drug Store
Wouldn't you like to Call up 326 and Have One Sent up on Approval

285-287 Coleman St.
SILCO SERVICE SATISFIES
Phone 1584
CONTRACTORS and DISTRIBUTORS
SATIN FINISH HARDWOOD FLOORS
Laid and finished
OLD FLOORS RE-SURFACED AND RE-FINISHED
Using the Electric Process by Trained Workmen
ASK US FOR ESTIMATES
Arthur A. Sills Co.
BELLEVILLE

Hockey
Current Sport

IN THE REALM OF SPORTING EVENTS

Basketball
Bowling

CAN ATTEND SCORING END

Games in N. H. L. Have No Bearing on Standings

(By the Canadian Press)

All worries about making the play-offs out of their minds, National Hockey League players can attend to the business of improving their personal scoring records tonight, when three games close the schedule.

At Toronto the Leafs met St. Louis Eagles with the intention of holding George Boucher's team scoreless so George Hainsworth, their goalie, can tie Alex Connell, of Montreal Maroons, for the shutout record. They also intend giving Harvey Jackson as many passes as they can so he may have a chance of finishing second to Charlie Conacher in scoring points.

Boston Bruins prepare for their N.H.L. title series with Leafs by playing Maroons in Boston tonight and Chicago Black Hawks and Canadiens meet at Montreal.

◆

SUDBURY WOLVES DOWN MAGEDOMAS

Win Right to Meet O.H.A. Senior Defeating Brockville on Round

HAMILTON, Ont., March 19.—(CP)—The Sudbury Wolves were howling at the door of the Ontario Senior Hockey Championship today.

Result of their 5-4 victory over Brockville Magedomas in an overtime tussle here last night, the Northerners were in line to meet Toronto All-Stars, possibly Wednesday night, for the provincial supremacy. Last night's victory in the return game of the semi-final series gave Sudbury the round by a 9-7 score and Senior "B" title.

Although play was rather ragged at times, the team skated at breakneck speed and some rare hockey resulted. Neither outfit showed any marked superiority either offensively or on the defence but in the closing seconds of the overtime period the Wolves of the Nickel Belt mustered the stamina and drive, that swept them to triumph.

Conick threw a fright into Brockville in the first few minutes with a close-in shot, that Tice barely turned back. The battle was on. When Anderson drew a penalty, Brockville introduced power plays in an effort to tally.

Extended Lead

Sudbury went defensive and weathered the attack. At 17.50 minutes in the first period, Sudbury extended their lead on the round—having won 4-3 at Toronto Friday night—when Cooper registered a bullseye.

In the middle stanza, however, Brockville rallied strongly and outscored Sudbury 3-1 to take the lead in the series. Both teams rallied once in the third, tying up the round and necessitating some extra play. An indication of the excitement the game provided lies in the fact Brockville tied up the round one minute and five seconds before the third period closed.

Tied on the round, but with Brockville one goal up on the night's play, the teams went into overtime. Thrills were packed into the last 65 seconds of play as Anderson of Sudbury slapped in a fast one on McArthur's rebound, and some seconds later, his teammate, Runions, scored on a solo flight.

◆

CHECKERS

Invitations to all checker players in Eastern Ontario have been mailed by the Belleville Checker Club to attend the Eastern Ontario Checker Championship that is to be held in the Belleville Y.M.C.A. on Monday, March 25th.

The territory included in this championship series comprises the counties of Prince Edward, Hastings, Northumberland, Peterboro, Renfrew and all counties east to the Quebec boundary. Mr. H. S. Colliver ex-M.P.P. for Prince Edward County has donated a beautiful silver cup, which is to be played for each year and awarded as a grand prize, other lesser prizes also will be contributed.

The usual entrance fee and tournament rules will be in vogue and a general gala day's silent competition is expected. Players are requested to bring their own boards and checkers, when possible. Invitations were mailed by Secretary James Rolston at the request of President Jas. Livingstone, further information relating to the tournament is available at the local Y.M.C.A.

HEMORRHOIDS OR "PILES" are promptly and thoroughly relieved by the use of
Dr. CHASE'S
OINTMENT

"You're not going to work without shaving!"

● Leave it to a woman's intuition to know when a man is risking his job by not shaving regularly!

Whatever excuse men may have had for skipping a shave frequently, they have no excuse now. For shaving with a Gillette "Blue Blade" is easy, pleasant. This blade is especially processed to shave even the most sensitive skin daily, or even twice daily, with perfect comfort. Buy Gillette "Blue Blades" today.

Highest Quality Positively Guaranteed

Gillette Blue Blades
NOW 5 for 25¢ · 10 for 50¢

Owner of Buffalo Bisons is Through With Pro Hockey

Accuses Syracuse Team of Giving Cleveland a Chance

Buffalo, N.Y., March 19 (CP)—Suspicious of the now famous Cleveland-Syracuse game of last Sunday, Frank B. Baird, Jr., young millionaire owner of the Buffalo Bisons of the International League, was in his own words, definitely through with professional hockey today.

Baird declared the game, which Syracuse won 13-7, thus enabling Syracuse and Cleveland to qualify for the playoffs and shutting out Buffalo, was an "obvious deal." The Buffalo owner accused the Syracuse team of lying back, allowing Cleveland to score at will in the last period of their game. In a telegram to Charles S. King, President of the League, he demanded yesterday that both Cleveland and Syracuse be dropped from the loop. The alternative, he said, would be Buffalo's withdrawal.

It was after Baird had received a reply from King that he announced he was quitting professional hockey.

King's telegram, as made public by Baird, said:

"Much grieved on receipt of your telegram. Will have both managers in my office tomorrow morning, but, as nothing can be proved, nothing further can be done about the matter."

Later, in Windsor, King said he already had been in touch with Cecil "Babe" Dye, referee of the game, and that Dye reported nothing suspicious occurred.

"Dye said Cleveland was well-beaten, put on five forwards in a last desperate attempt to qualify for the playoffs."

King said Baird's telegram "made no definite charge upon which action could be taken."

Meanwhile, denial of Baird's charges came from Harry Holmes and Eddie Powers, managers respectively of the Cleveland and Syracuse Clubs.

Powers said the Stars had clinched the game when they obtained a 10-2 lead in the opening minutes of the third period and then set out to fatten their scoring averages. Organized teamwork and the Falcons were forgotten.

Not Party To Agreement

"Before the game," said Holmes in his reply, "Mike Brophy (Cleveland captain) and Bud Cook (centre) came to me and suggested that we go out to score all the goals we could. I disagreed and said, 'We'll go out to win or tie, and if we can't do that then we'll go in for scoring only.'"

In announcing his determination "not to be a part of any professional sport, that does not take immediate action against such performers," the wealthy Baird emphasized that the Bisons would not join next season with the Canadian-American League, another minor pro circuit.

Baird said he would contrate next season on promotion of hockey.

As a result of the game, Cleveland Syracuse and Buffalo all finished in a tie for third place on points. But both Syracuse and Cleveland had a higher total goal standing than Buffalo and thus qualified for the play-offs. Cleveland's margin over the Bisons, as the result of the Falcons' seven goals on Sunday, was too goals.

Baird's sensational charges overshadowed the fact that League play-offs open tonight in Detroit and London. At Detroit the Olympics will entertain Syracuse, while Cleveland plays the Tecumsehs at London. The return games will be played Thursday at Syracuse and Cleveland. The third game, if necessary, will be played Saturday in London and Detroit.

PALE HOSE PITCHER

One of the rookies who hope to make berths on the hurling corps of Chicago White Sox this summer. He is Vernon Kennedy, right-hander.

Y. M. C. A. ALLEYS

In the Ladies' Afternoon League the Troopers got all four points from Smile and Try.

In the C.N.R. League the Locomotives got all four points from the Boilermakers. In the same league at 9 o'clock the Road Department got three points to the Car Knocker's one.

Ladies' Afternoon

Troopers 4 points
Mrs. Black	86	181	94—381
Mrs. Cooper	183	105	205—493
Mrs. Fisher	139	102	156—397
Mrs. Kelley	141	127	194—462
Mrs. Shorey	116	119	123—358
Total			2071

Smile and Try 0 points
Mrs. Pyne	143	150	144—437
Mrs. Hitchon	157	69	118—344
Mrs. Singer	89	113	190—392
Mrs. Barragar	95	123	139—362
Mrs. Doe	100	118	93—311
Total			1846

C.N.R.

Car Knockers 1 point
H. Robinson	197	151	159—507
Raynor	223	132	149—504
Rowbottom	142	193	222—557
Clement	127	129	105—361
Daynard	95	141	107—343
Total			2272

Road Dept. 3 points.
C. Meens	176	178	145—499
G. Bly	180	209	127—516
G Clark	81	148	176—405
A. Bridge	133	108	160—411
Maracle	141	167	138—446
Total			2277

HOCKEY SCORES

Allan Cup Elimination
Sudbury Wolves 5; Brockville 4.
Sudbury wins round 9-7.

O.H.A. Junior A. Final
Oshawa 3; Kitchener 2.
Oshawa wins championship.

American Association Final
St. Louis 4; Tulsa 3.

Western Canada Senior
Edmonton 2; N. Battleford 1.

Ottawa and District Senior Final
Les Canadiens 12; Westboro 7.
First of total-goal series.

Quebec Junior Final
Cranes 2; Verdun 1.
Verdun wins round 5-4.

Memorial Cup Elimination
Winnipeg Monarchs 6; Port Arthur 2.
Monarchs win round.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

Yesterday morning the attendants at the Belleville Arena commenced the long tedious work of removing the ice from the Arena. Due to the fact, that there is something like 10 to 13 inches of ice on the playing surface at the Arena its removal will naturally take some time. Attendants have already started the process of elimination and expect to have the playing surface free from ice before April 1st. For the spring season boxing bouts and wrestling are both to take a prominent place in the activities at the arena, while other events of a public nature are also being planned for later in the season. Allan Meagher, local wrestling promoter, expects to have the "grunt and groan" showmen back before the first of the month, while dates for boxing at the Arena have already been let. In other words the Belleville Arena is to be a 12 month a year project in the future instead of merely a hockey and skating arena.

Promoter Clem Allen of the S. W. A. A. C. phoned in to tell us that after considerable controversy with the A.A.U. of C. he had regained the Golden Gloves boxing tournament after the parent body had lowered the local rating to the Silver Gloves tournament. At any rate all of the important papers have been signed and the winners of the various classes during the Golden Gloves tournament to be staged in Belleville will advance right into the provincial final tournament at Toronto. Under the Silver Gloves tournament set-up the local winners would have been matched with non-winners, but as the situation now stands those successful during the tournament in Belleville will be called upon to step in against the best boys procurable in the larger centres. Of course had the original Silver Glove arrangement materialized and local boxers been successful in the non-winner bouts at Toronto, then they would have been matched in the final Golden Gloves for the provincial championships, which after all is about the same set-up, only a more lengthy procedure. The local Golden Gloves will be staged about April 8th.

Congratulations to P. J. Mahar, noted hockey star at the beginning of the century, born in Halifax 59 years ago today. He played with Halifax Crescents in the City League for many years. When the Stanley Cup was competed for by amateurs, Mahar's team one year entered the final round of play for that now historic pro hockey trophy.

With the advent of spring-like weather and the breaking up of the Moira River sportsmen of the warmer climes are seen daily talking in small groups in relationship to the approaching season. Both local golf clubs are preparing for their annual meetings and election of officers while the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club is expected to convene before the end of the month. Incidently the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club has made tremendous advances in both competition and club membership since moving to their new and spacious greens at the Exhibition Park. A drive for new and younger members met with marked successs last year and will be repeated again in 1935. The same holds good for the two golf clubs as new and youthful golfers are seen trying to imitate Bobbie Jones each spring.

During the course of the general conversations at Saturday's C.O.B.L. meeting in Oshawa, Secretary Newt Thompson stressed the point of forwarding all O.B.A.A. transfers to Secretary Snyder before Friday of this week in order that they might be dealt with at the sub-committee meeting of the parent body next week end. If one could believe all the rumors, that were floating around the Genosha Hotel on Saturday, there will be at least fifteen transfers presented from C. O. B. L. clubs as well as two from Napanee and an equal number going out of Picton.

Previous to the defeat of the B. C. I. hockey team in the interscholastic finals and after they had won the C.O.S.S.A. title, Sam Curry, editor and publisher of the Tweed News had the following to say in his "sport notes"—Judging from the showing made by Belleville Collegiate this year, we wonder why Ed Thomas didn't grab off some of the youngsters from the school for his juniors instead of assembling his team from Trenton, Wellington and other near-by points. Coach Lester Shiels has some promising material with the Collegiate team.

War or no war, sport promoters in Germany are seeking to have Max Baer meet Max Schmeling in a heavyweight title bout in Hamburg. It is said the champion would be guaranteed a purse up to $300,000.

Eastern Ontario hockey fans will have to be satisfied with one championship this year, the Oshawa Majors, who won the junior O. H. A. title last night, but are not out of trouble yet owing to complications regarding overage players, while the Brockville Magedomas were eliminated by the seasoned Sudbury Wolves who incidently really come from Frood Mines. There is considerable "smoke" in relationship to the Oshawa club having used overage players, Bagnell of Bowmanville being suspended just before last night's game when the Majors won the junior honors. Naturally Ed Wiley and his Toronto Young Rangers are howling "we've been robbed" and may demand another crack at the junior title. Despite the fact the Oshawa fans howled to the high heavens following the Kitchener kids victory in the Motor City, perhaps the result of last night's game will change their minds.

After the interscholastic hockey finals at Kingston last Saturday the Limestone City sport scribe has the following to say regarding the past season's activities in and around the Jock Harty Arena; he says:

"And the Ottawa-Belleville game was the last performance of the 1934-35 season of the Harty Arena! When all is said and done, it was probably one of the poorest seasons in years and it's just as well it's all over now.

Financially and artistically the season was somewhat of a flop and there is little question but that some thing different will have to be served up for the fans next year. Poor crowds and poor games were the rule rather than the exception this season."

◆

At the Training Grounds

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN

San Bernardino, Calif., March 18—(AP)—Pittsburgh's Pirates will swing into the 1935 National League pennant race with a sturdy front line but questionable reserve strength.

Pittsburgh's title hopes rest on the chances of an improved pitching staff and the chance injuries will not make inroads on its weakest points. The addition of Guy Bush, John Salveson, Jim Weaver and Cy Blanton, manager Pie Traynor believes, will more than offset the loss of Larry French, who went to the Chicago Cubs and Leon Chagnon, traded to New York Giants.

Waite Hoyt, Bill Swift and Red Lucas fill out the regular mound corps with one other to be selected from a group of rookies toiling here for recognition. Traynor is willing enough to admit the preponderance of portside hitters has him worried.

To be sure, there is hitting strength, for Paul Waner led the league last year with a .362 average; Floyd (Arky) Vaughan hit .333, Floyd (Babe) Herman had a .304 with Chicago, spending considerable time on the bench, and Lloyd Waner, leadoff man, hit .283 although he was ill during quite a spell.

The outfield will shape up with the Waner brothers and Herman seeing most of the action with only Forrest Jensen in reserve.

Under present plans the infield combination will remain undisturbed with Traynor at third; Vaughan, short stop; Harry Lavagetto, second and Gus Suhr, at first.

Allan Cup Playdowns

(By the Canadian Press)

For the first time since Winnipeg's Elmwood Millionaires brought the Memorial Cup to Manitoba in 1932, a representative from Winnipeg entered the Western Canada Junior Hockey final today.

The Monarchs won that honor last night by defeating Port Arthur Juniors 6-2 in the second game of the Manitoba-Thunder Bay series. They took the first game in their stride, 8-0.

Saskatoon Wesleys, conquerors of the Alberta and British Columbia contenders are the other finalists in the Western Classic, that opens March 28 in Winnipeg.

In the Senior Section, Edmonton Superior continued their victory march with a 2-1 win over North Battleford Beavers. The game was the first of the Alberta-Saskatchewan series with the second at Saskatoon Wednesday.

Port Arthur Bearcats will meet the winner of the Superior-Beaver struggle in the Western Senior windup.

Ontario's complex Senior situation has been considerably clarified. Sudbury Wolves, champions of the North for the second successive year, managed to get a 5-4 overtime victory over Brockville Magedomas and won the round 9-7.

Victory gave Sudbury the right to meet Toronto All Stars, O.H.A. "A" winners, in the Ontario Allan Cup final. The date has not yet been decided but today Wednesday night seemed likely.

Oshawa Wins

At the end of the third period the teams were tied on the two-game-total-goal round. Two great goals in the extra period by Gordie Anderson and Doug Runions gave the Wolves the victory.

Oshawa Majors won the O.H.A. "A" Junior Championship when they defeated Kitchener 3-2 in the third and deciding game of the series. Majors qualified to meet Sudbury Cub Wolves in the Memorial Cup Playdowns.

Bert Bagnell, who played for Oshawa all season was suspended before the game for being over age but so far there has been no protest as to Oshawa's right to continue on the playdown trail.

Verdun Maple Leafs are Junior Champions of Quebec Province by virtue of their 5-4 round victory over Montreal Cranes. Last night they lost 2-1 to Cranes but had piled up sufficient margin to win on the round.

Wednesday night Les Canadiens, Ottawa and District Senior Amateur Champions will carry a five-goal margin into the second game with Westboro, Ottawa and District Intermediate winners. Canadiens won 12-7 in the first game for the right to advance to Allan Cup play.

OSHAWA MAJORS JUNIOR CHAMPS

Defeat Kitchener in Third Game By 3 to 2 Count

Toronto, March 18—(CP)— Big Bill Hancock, moulder of mighty junior hockey teams, is back in the Memorial Cup field today with another powerful challenger— Oshawa Majors. The Ontario Hockey Association recognizes the Majors as its junior "A" champions, the team to proceed in the playdowns.

Just a few hours after the O. H. A. executive had held a hurried meeting and suspended Bill Bagnell, Oshawa player, as over the junior age limit, the Majors defeated Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 3-2 last night in the third and deciding game of the finals. It was understood the Kitchener club would not protest Bagnell having played in the first two games.

Bagnell did not play last night and, while Kitchener was content with the O.H.A.'s decision, it was believed further protests might be laid by Toronto Young Rangers and other teams, that have been eliminated from the O.H.A. race by Oshawa.

◆

Recreation Alleys

SWAAC LEAGUE

Radio 3 points — H. Gilbert 567; D. Lee 476; F. Stirland 526; H. Evans 553; T. Colden 431. Total 2553.

Office, 1 point—W. Ristow 493; R. Lennox 545; F. Ethier 482; H. Brown 530; M. Little 423. Total 2475

Shop 3 points—R. Belnap 582; W. Hammett 609; D. Ford 619; C. Allen 551; G. Sinfield 427. Total 2788.

Automatics—L. Turner 666; D. Kemp 539; W. Page 544; J. Allin 567 C. Fagler 469. Total 2785.

LADIES' LEAGUE

Ciceri and Bolton, 0 points— D. Canning 436; M. Charlton 341; E. Scott 412; P. Donaldson 442; B. Shannon 527. Total 2158.

Loblaw, 4 points— J. Fordyce 430 D. Croft 433; E. Ross 494; F. Waldron 537; J. Croft 501. Total 2395.

NEW

STANDARDS OF STYLE—of VALUE

A new season, new, smart styles, new standards of value giving!

Styles you'll see on the best dressed men this season.

SUITS and TOPCOATS

Quick & Robertson

First in Style, Quality and Reasonable Price.

FOOTBALL STAR IS BASEBALL ROOKIE

MILLARD (DIXIE) HOWELL

Hero of the Rose Bowl football game, New Year's Day, when he ran wild against Stanford University, Millard (Dixie) Howell, former forward passer de luxe of the University of Alabama football team, is pictured for the first time in his new role, as an outfield candidate in the spring training camp of the champion Detroit Tigers in Lakeland, Fla.

BICYCLES

For a Full Season's Use Buy Now

Complete Range of Models, Sizes and Colors.

THE MOTORBIKE SUPERB	Gold and Blue
THE SPORT ROADSTER	Silver and stripe
THE ROAD RACER	Cream and Red
THE STANDARD	Blue and Maroon

Our "Quinte" and "Cleveland" Bicycles have won an enviable reputation for easy running dependability. We pride ourselves on giving "real service for Bicycles" to make you a contented customer. TO MAKE ROOM FOR MORE BICYCLE DISPLAYS WE OFFER:

Badminton Racquets
Regular up to $11.50 each
YOUR CHOICE .... each $5.00
No. 1 Tournament SHUTTLECOCKS
$2.95 Dozen

Heavy Duty
Radio Batteries
$1.98 $2.65 $3.95
No. 6 DRY CELLS .... each 40c
22½ Volt C. BATTERIES $1.49

Stephen Licence

299 Front St. Bicycle & Sport Goods Phone 985

Daily Short Story

HEARTQUAKE

By Arlie Paul

(Copyright 1933 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

It was exactly ten minutes after three when Audrey Gordon and Gracie Lee reached their rooming house on Oak Street. As they let themselves in with Gracie's key, tiptoeing to their room on the third floor, inclined to giggle a little at their awkward attempts not to arouse the other tenants, Gracie whispered: "Wagy was crazy about you." But somehow Audrey didn't approve. "Don't be silly," she said.

Safe in the tiny square of a room at the end of the hall Audrey suddenly felt that the whole evening had been flat. She'd had a good time but not a very exciting one for it was just the usual repetition of dining and dancing. With men who were no different than the thousands of other men in San Francisco. Just men who were a little old, a little tired, a good deal wrapped up in their own importance—taking an evening off for a binge. With girls they were not particularly interested in save as playmates.

"Rowdy wants us to go on a yachting trip Sunday," Gracie glowed, stripping off her frail silk stockings.

Audrey was in her gay yellow pyjamas now cold creaming her face. "Gracie, I'd be bored to death," she murmured. "Besides I think if I encouraged Wagy he'd become a handful. Maybe you'll think I'm crazy, but I'm getting all fed up with rushing about with fellows that don't mean a thing to me. Harmless, but demoralising. They make you forget the real value of things. Like falling in love—getting married—or having ambitions. I'd rather stay home Sunday, and sleep—" she began yawning, her words tangling together. She was sleepy and conscious that the glamour of being young and pretty was wearing thin.

"Oh, you!" said Gracie disdainfully. "Ever since Grant Carr moved in the room across from us you've been getting moony-eyed and dreamy. Don't be a fool over a guy that hasn't a red nickel."

"I think he's grand," flushed Audrey.

"You would!" Gracie was affectionately scornful. "A guy that doesn't even know you're alive." Audrey had never told her about the cheap counter dinners at a tiny restaurant on Geary or the trips to the Cliff house in in Grant's shabby roadster. She hadn't said a word for fear Gracie, in her blunt way, would scoff the glitter off her dead romance. For it was dead now. All of a sudden, without warning, Grant had withdrawn into himself. Giving her jerky boyish bows in the hallway. Exchanging commonplace platitudes with exaggerated care to make them brief. What had she done to change him? How often Audrey had asked herself that painful question lately—and how often it had remained unanswered.

Gracie opened the door softly. "I'm going to take a sneak down the hall to the bathroom." Audrey crawled into bed and lay on her back with her arms crossed under her head.

Suddenly Audrey tried to sit up but the bed was swaying so violently she fell back on her pillows with a nauseated gasp. Faintly a strange dull rubble came to her from outside and the globe of the ceiling lamp jiggered. Feeling as though she were living in a nightmare she managed to crawl from the bed and reaching the bedroom door she flung it open to find that the hall was already seething with frightened roomers.

"Earthquake!" someone screamed.

Everyone dashed for the stairs but as Audrey crowded in between Lila Johnson and her husband, Grant Carr stopped her with a steady hand.

"We're safer here," he told her. "In the street there's falling bricks and broken wires." His large-featured face was calm, but his dark blue eyes betrayed his nervousness.

Gracie dashed by, trailing a white bath towel after her. "Come on, Audrey," she shrieked. "The ceiling might fall." But Audrey's trust in Grant was magnificent. She controlled her mad desire to follow Gracie and even managed a jittering smile when the chandeliers began to sway again.

"Here," said Grant putting both his arms about her and holding her firm. "It can't last much longer. Since the house stood the first shake I'm sure the walls will hold."

Clinging to him, a little hysterically, Audrey thought: "If I'm going to die I ought to be happy in his arms." And then she did a perfectly shameful thing. She lifted her lips and kissed him. At least their lips clung together for a long second. Just long enough to tell them one thing. They were terribly in love with each other.

"I shouldn't have done that," Grant's wide mouth twisted a little, "when I'm leaving Sunday and we'll probably never see each other again."

A hot pain seared Audrey's heart. "Leaving? Oh, Grant. And she clung to him a little tighter.

He looked over her head, straight at the wall behind her, and he told her, gently: "You're a city girl, Audrey. Used to its glamour, excitement and luxuries. I've seen the men you and Gracie sometimes go out with. Men with money in their pockets—fine cars— some day you'll strike it lucky and marry one of them. Have a suite at the Fairmont—drive a Rolls—get all the breaks a lovely little thing like you should have." His fingers bit into her shoulders but she didn't flinch. "I'm a small guy. Working my way up. The firm's sending me up into to Sierra Nevadas. To Englemine where they have copper holdings. It's a crude place, compared to the city, and I probably won't get an advancement for a couple of years.

"So I guess it's goodbye, honey. Seems I've had a lot of tough breaks in my life but meeting you has been the hardest. I won't get over you for a long while—"

She said quickly: "Why should you? What's your salary, Grant?"

He looked at her, for the first time, straight in the eye. "A hundred and twenty-five, with promises of a fifty dollar raise when things pick up."

The girl's answer was freighted with relief. "Grant, that's ample if one knows how to manage. And I can—oh, you'll see. I can!"

And then when he didn't answer, "Grant, I'm not a bit like you think—not a bit! I'm a frightful romancer and love, to me, means everything. If you could peep into my heart and see how I've missed you these last few weeks—since you have been so standoffish and different—you'd not hesitate to take me with you."

The floor beneath their feet trembled ever so slightly. Grant's hold had relaxed but now he tightened it about her slim waist.

"You lovely, brave darling!"

"You do love me, Grant?"

"More than my life."

From the stair-well, Gracie screeched up at them. "You crazy goops—don't you know there's been an earthquake?"

"What do we care about earthquakes?" called back Audrey. "We're getting married tomorrow."

◆

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was reeding the paper before supper, saying, My my, what a thing for a woman to do to her own husband after 25 years of happily married life, truth is certainy stranger than fiction in more ways than one.

Well G, ma, suppose I made up some fiction and told you I terned 6 summersalts in the air and landed on the floor and didn't brake a leg or even a arm, wouldn't that be stranger than truth, ma? I said, and ma said, No it wouldn't because it's just an absurd impossibility and not even werth the breth you waist on it.

Why is it, ma, why isn't it? I said, I've saw trapeze acrobats in a circus tern 6 summersalts, I said, and ma said, Well if they did then it's truth and not fiction as far as theyre concerned, so you see you cant argew with me, hee hee.

G, that's rite, ma, and you was rite in the ferst place anyways, because I axually did do it, I said, and ma said, Now Benny, dont add delibrit faltshoods to premalitated lies.

I aint, ma, gosh, I mean I didn't axually do it personly but I made somebody elts do it, and do you know who? I said, and ma said, I know whose going to get smack for persistent obstinate pervarication.

Well wait a minnit, ma, till I tell you who it was, it was that little dressed up doll that fits over your powder box, I said. Your bed was supposed to be the net where she landed safe and sound, and ferst she did 3 summersalts perfeck, and then 4 and then 5, and when she tried 6 it was too much for her and she missed the net and landed on the floor without breaking a arm or even a leg just like I told you. All she broke was a hunk off the end of her nose, and I've got the hunk and you're such a swell fixer wit glue I know nobody wont ever know the diffrents, I said.

Being the beginning of the sad part.

◆

SHOWER HONORS BRIDE AND GROOM

6th. Tyendinaga—The event of this last week was the shower given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Treverton at which a large crowd was present. The bride received a number of useful and costly gifts, showing the goodwill of their many friends and neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Boldrick, Mrs. J. Boldrick, Jack and Bessie, visited at Mr. George Boldrick's on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Treverton and Hilda, Mr. and Mrs. C. Treverton and Mr. and Miss Sherry spent the tea hour with Mrs. R. F. Elliott on Tuesday.

Mr. Gerald Swan spent a few days this week with Mr. C. L. Goodman.

Miss Martha Treverton of Peterboro Normal School, spent the week end under the parental roof.

Mrs. C. L. Goodman spent Tuesday with Mrs. T. Parks.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles Benedict spent the week end the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Emerson.

Mrs. H. Lawrenson, Willie and Bert visited Mrs. J. Boldrick on Wednesday evening.

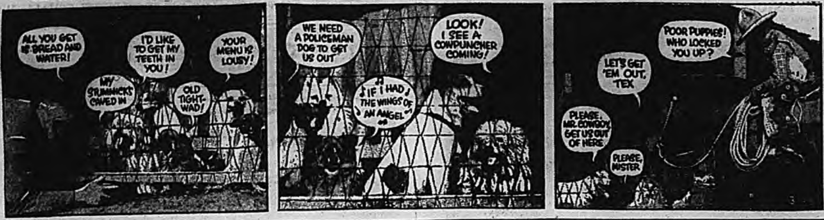
Mrs. W. Conley is very ill.

Mr. Don Boldrick of Tweed spent the week end with Mr. Arthur and Miss Helen Boldrick.

TEX AND HIS PALS (ActualPhotographs) In Jail And Hungry

Copyright, 1935, by Harper Features, Dallas, Texas, U.S.A. All Rights Reserved

By Leslie A. Hill



ALL YOU GET IS BREAD AND WATER!
MY STUMMICKS CAVED IN I'D LIKE TO GET MY TEETH IN YOU!
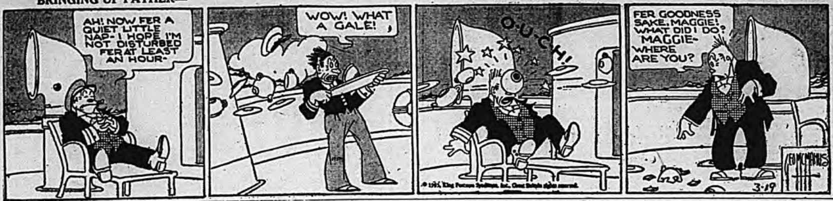
OLD TIGHT-WAD!
YOUR MENU IS LOUSY!
WE NEED A POLICEMAN DOG TO GET US OUT
IF I HAD THE WINGS OF AN ANGEL
LOOK! I SEE A COWPUNCHER COMING!
LET'S GET 'EM OUT, TEX
POOR PUPPIES! WHO LOCKED YOU UP?
PLEASE, MR. COWBOY, GET US OUT OF HERE
PLEASE, MISTER

BRINGING UP FATHER—

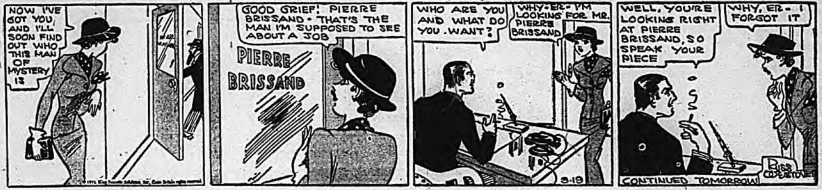
By George McManus



AH! NOW FER A QUIET LITTLE NAP- I HOPE I'M NOT DISTURBED FER AT LEAST AN HOUR-
WOW! WHAT A GALE!
O-U-C-H!
© 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.
FER GOODNESS SAKE, MAGGIE! WHAT DID I DO? MAGGIE- WHERE ARE YOU?
GEO McMANUS
3-19

TILLIE THE TOILER—

By Russ Westover



NOW I'VE GOT YOU, AND I'LL SOON FIND OUT WHO THIS MAN OF MYSTERY IS GOOD GRIEF! PIERRE BRISSAND - THAT'S THE MAN I'M SUPPOSED TO SEE ABOUT A JOB
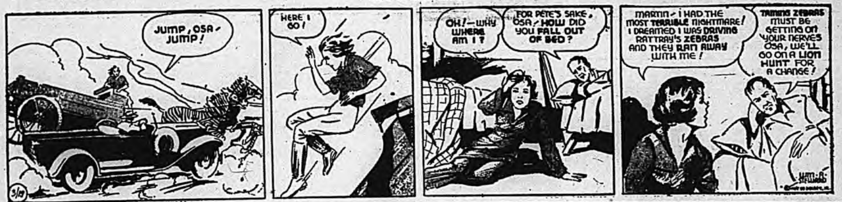
PIERRE BRISSAND
WHO ARE YOU AND WHAT DO YOU WANT?
WHY-ER- I'M LOOKING FOR MR. PIERRE BRISSAND
3-19
WELL, YOU'RE LOOKING RIGHT AT PIERRE BRISSAND, SO SPEAK YOUR PIECE
WHY, ER- I FORGOT IT
RUSS WESTOVER
CONTINUED TOMORROW

DANGER TRAILS—

STRIPED NIGHTMARES

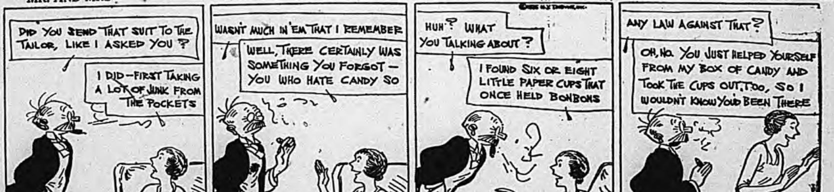
By The Famous Explorer Martin Johnson



JUMP, OSA- JUMP!
3/19
HERE I GO!
OH!—WHY WHERE AM I?
FOR PETE'S SAKE, OSA- HOW DID YOU FALL OUT OF BED?
MARTIN- I HAD THE MOST TERRIBLE NIGHTMARE! I DREAMED I WAS DRIVING RATTRAY'S ZEBRAS AND THEY RAN AWAY WITH ME!
TAMING ZEBRAS MUST BE GETTING ON YOUR NERVES OSA, WE'LL GO ON A LION HUNT FOR A CHANGE!

MR. AND MRS—

By Briggs



DID YOU SEND THAT SUIT TO THE TAILOR, LIKE I ASKED YOU?
I DID—FIRST TAKING A LOT OF JUNK FROM THE POCKETS
WASN'T MUCH IN 'EM THAT I REMEMBER
WELL, THERE CERTAINLY WAS SOMETHING YOU FORGOT — YOU WHO HATE CANDY SO
HUH? WHAT YOU TALKING ABOUT?
I FOUND SIX OR EIGHT LITTLE PAPER CUPS THAT ONCE HELD BONBONS ANY LAW AGAINST THAT?
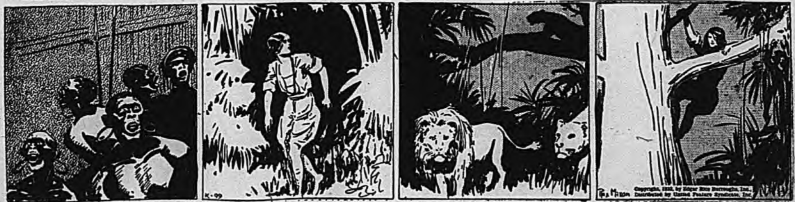
OH, NO. YOU JUST HELPED YOURSELF FROM MY BOX OF CANDY AND TOOK THE CUPS OUT, TOO, SO I WOULDN'T KNOW YOU'D BEEN THERE

TARZAN THE UNTAMED—

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)



K-99
Copyright, 1933, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Tarzan, speeding through the jungle, left behind him an awakened and terrified village of cringing blacks, who would forever after connect that eerie cry of his with the disappearance of their white prisoner and the death of their fellow-warrior.

Meanwhile Olga, the spy, hurrying through the same jungle along a well-beaten game trail, thought only of putting as much distance as possible between herself and the village, before daylight could permit pursuit of her. Whither she was going she did not know.

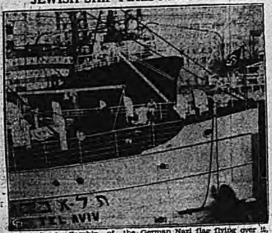
Nor did her destination matter much to her, since death must be her lot sooner or later. Fortune favored her that night, for she passed unscathed through the most savage and lion-ridden section of all Africa.

She had fled for two hours through this hunting ground, which white man had not discovered, when her attention was arrested by the sound of animals moving about, muttering and growling close ahead. Fearful of new peril, she climbed into a large tree.

PISTOLS AT DAWN—AND A SHOT IN THE ARM

Pistols at dawn—and a shot in the arm. That tells the story of recent meeting on the field of honor—in this case it was the famous Parc des Princes Sports grounds in Paris—between Maitre Cesar Campinchi (left), noted Paris barrister, and Horace de Carbuccia, who conducts the aggressive Paris political weekly, Gringoire. Both are members of the chamber of deputies and M. Campinchi took offence at an article in Gringoire that hinted that his clients usually received death sentences. So the usual sequence of events took place; they exchanged cards; their seconds met, and then they met on the field of honor, with small calibre pistols and at the moment that the lens snapped on the duelling field, the duellists had fired at each other, and the smoke of the shot is seen rising from Campinchi's gun, at left. Campinchi who is 52, received a bullet through his right forearm. He is shown again (inset centre) after the duel. Carbuccia, 50, escaped injury, and so was honor avenged on the field of an empty sports stadium on a morning in March, 1935.

JEWISH SHIP FLIES NAZI FLAG



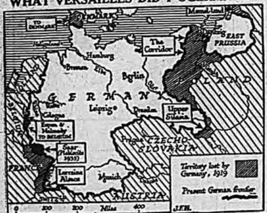
When Tel-aviv, flagship of the first all-Jewish steamship line, arrived from Palestine, persons in Genoa, Italy, were startled to see German Nazi flag flying over it, as photo shows. Officers and crew of the ship are Jewish, but it is German-owned.

Undergoes Operation

QUEEN ALEXANDRINE OF DENMARK

Queen Alexandrine of Denmark, in Sweden for festivities accompanying engagement of Crown Prince Frederik and Princess Ingrid, was hurried to a Stockholm hospital for an appendicitis operation.

WHAT VERSAILLES DID T OGERMANY



Germany lost the Great War. In doing so, the Allies were able to dictate the terms of peace. It was President Wilson of the United States who drew up the clauses for the Versailles treayt. Attempting to apportion Europe according to its nationality, he took little notice of the economic situation of the continent. Germany lost heavily; Eupen and Malmery were given to Belgium; Alsace and Lorraine were returned to France; rich Saar basin was placed under League of Nations Commission. It was recently returned to Germany as result of plebiscite. Germany also ceded Schleswig to Denmark; Memel Land went to Lithuania; the major provinces of West Prussia went to Poland, as did part of Upper Silesia. Map ABOVE, reproduced from "Atlas of Current Affairs" (Ryerson Press) shows areas lost by Germany under Treaty of Versailles which she has now officially denounced in a new program of intensive re-armament.

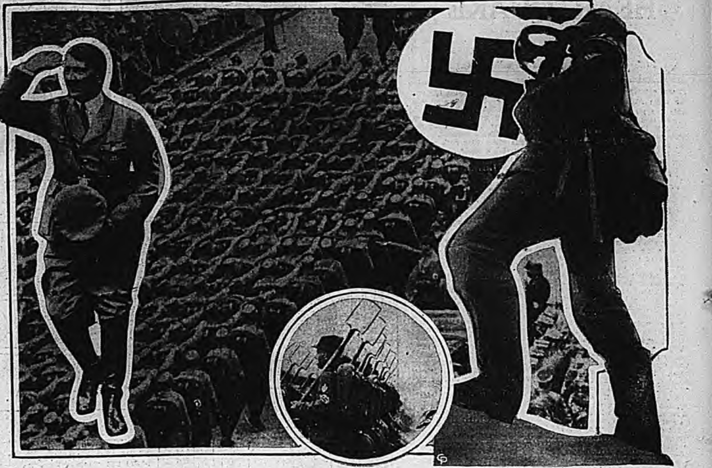
DYING OF GRIEF

Dowager Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, who is dangerously ill from grief over the death of her husband, King Albert, fifteen months ago. Since her husband's death from a fall from a mountain peak over a year ago, the queen has been unable to reconcile herself to life without him. She is forced to remain in bed all the time, spending most of the hours of each day, aslep.

SOVIET YOUTH TRAIN FOR WAR

Recognizing how important a part gas attacks will play in the next war, Russian youths are making themselves familiar with the means of defence. The government has placed a park in the centre of Leningrad, at the disposal of the youth organizations. Here every kind of military training is given the boys. Expert ex-soldiers with battle experience are responsible for the courses and the teachers. While the boys in former times were proud of the wooden swords and guns; the boys of the present day go in for the real thing. The purpose is to train the civil population of the cities to make them familiar with their respective tasks in case of war. Sanitary courses are also included. All this training is part of the regular school course and all boys must attend. It may be seen clearly from the picture what deep interest the Russian boys are taking in their lessons. The leader here is not the oldest boy in the group, he is getting the job of explaining the workings of the gas mask to his comrades.

DEUTSCHEVOLKE, DIE TROMPETTE SCHALL. WIR MUSSEN SICH ARMEN.



"Deutschevolke die trompette schall. Wir mussen sich armen!" "People of Germany, the bugle sounds. We must arm." That, in effect, is the cry of reichsfuerher Adolf Hitler who has decreed conscription of all Germany's manpower. He will immediately increase the size of Germany's standing army from 100,000, allowed them by the Treaty of Versailles, to 320,000. Hitler has openly, once and for all, officially broken the Versailles Treaty, which he has damned a thousand times in his speeches to the German people. While rearming, Hitler professes that Germany wants only peace and security. France and Britain are asking for the same things as they extend budgets to the breaking point for arms. (Coincidental with Hitler's latest move is the rise of at least 5½ points in stocks closely allied with the armament interests, on the Paris Bourse). The British Government has launched an official protest to the German Reich and it is believed that the Simon-Hitler conversations, postponed once because of the "white paper" and Hitler's cold, are again to be cancelled. Layout shows LEFT Hitler, a German bugler, signifying the call to arms, a battalion of Nazis, whose number is not included in the figures for Germany's standing army. Inset shows Nazis marching with spades. Perhaps the time has come when they can "lay down the ploughshares and beat them into swords."

DR. MANION'S SON WEDS

A wedding of wide interest in Canada took place in Toronto on Saturday, when Jean Alice Reeb, of Port Colborne, Ont., only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederick Reeb, became the bride of Paul D. Manion, son of Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, and Mrs. Manion, Ottawa. Picture shows couple leaving St. Michael's cathedral after ceremony.

TO LEAD ARMIES

GENERAL ERICH LUDENDORFF

Right hand man of Hindenburg during the war, and famous German military leader. It is reported that General Erich Ludendorff will re-assume a leading role in the rearming of Germany. Ludendorff is quoted as saying about Hitler's sensational plan: "It is the only thing that could be done for the Fatherland under the circumstances That's the very thing old soldiers like me have been working for incessantly."

SALT MINE LIKE FAIRY CAVES

A scene in one of the numerous salt pits, or mines, 1,500 feet below the surface of the ground at Salzburg, Australia . The famous salt works, for which this city is most noted, are, unlike coal mines, visions of cleanliness and tidiness. And although the works are in full action, neither workmen no machines are to be seen. For salt mining consists of nothing more than a series of waterpipes which continually spray the sides of the mine with water under high pressure. This water, bringing with it salt from the mine-side, falls to the bottom of the shaft, accumulated in reservoirs and then pressed overhead where the salt crystals are retained in large pans. About 120 million pounds of salt are extracted from the works at this mine every year. A veritable fairyland of chambers has been left by the water's action during all the years the mines have been worked.

NO HOLDS BARRED IN THIS GROAN-AND-GRUNT MATCH BETWEEN PUPPY AND GANDER

"Fowl," cries the gander.

"You got me pal," says pup

"Going down," admits gander

"It's a draw," say both.

THE WEATHER

Moderate easterly winds; fine; showers in southwest counties tonight. Thursday—Fresh southerly winds; mild with occasional rain.

The Ontario Intelligencer

TEMPERATURES

	Max	Min.
Today	46	27
Year Ago	35	17

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 20, 1935

FORMER ALLIES CONFER AT PARIS ON SATURDAY

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Atlanta, March 20 (CP)—Chivalry of the old south lives in the heart of G. C. Redfern. While driving in his car he answered the signal of a comely young woman at the curb. Yes, she would accept his offer to accompany her home.

She mentioned she would enjoy a sandwich. Redfern went into a lunch shop.

The young woman slipped behind the wheel and drove off. Later she stopped Redfern's car on a railroad track and —went to sleep. A freight locomotive charged down upon her. Just in the nick of time, she leaped from the automobile as the engine demolished it.

Police took the woman to headquarters.

But—chivalrous to the end — Redfern wouldn't prosecute.

. . . .

Chicago, March 20 (CP)— The gunmen who set a new record last week by staging nine robberies in an hour had a real example in record-breaking Tuesday.

Four criminal court judges sentenced 26 defendants to prison during the day. Most of the prisoners, arrested within the last 30 days, were charged with theft or robbery.

. . . .

Oklahoma City, March 20 (CP) The pleated pants of T. V. Chaney depleted his wealth.

Arraigned before Judge J. B. Barnett yesterday, Chaney pleaded not guilty of failure to provide for his wife and children.

Judge Barnett noted the pleated trousers with disfavor. He ordered Chaney to jail pending trial. There a search disclosed the trousers held $70.

. . . .

Washington, March 20 (CP) — So thoroughly aroused has Representative Jack Nichols of Oklahoma become as a result of the great dust storms he warns the United-States midwest farming section may go the way of the Garden of Eden unless the nation takes warning.

Because the soil was not conserved, but was allowed to wash away to the sea, the Garden of Eden is now a barren wasteland," he explains.

. . . .

Washington, March 20 (CP)—Anaida Hermann, girl artist, is a red-haired, blue-eyed beauty, but she says if she has to paint women, she wants them homely.

But she'd rather paint rugged-faced men than either pretty or homely women. She points to Walter Huston, Toronto actor, as her best subject. The portrait she did of him hangs in the Shubert Theatre in New York.

. . . .

Teulon, Man., March p0 (CP) Four-year-old Stephen Hnatiuk is dead and his three-year-old sister Steffie is in hospital today suffering from severe burns received when their clothing caught fire while they played with a kerosene can near a kitchen stove. Little hope is held for recovery of the girl.

. . . .

Edmonton, March 20 (CP) — The Edmonton District Market Gardeners' Association has asked the Alberta government to undertake a study of the possibility of distillation of fuel alcohol from low-grade potatoes. The association promised aid in the work.

SENATE DEBATE TO BE POSTPONED

Constitutionality of Measures Passed in House to be Discussed

OTTAWA, March 20.—(CP)—Debate on constitutionality of the Government's Employment and Social Insurance Bill has a slim chance of being staged today in the Upper House between Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Senate Leader, and Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Liberal Leader.

The prospects are contingent on the advance made by the Banking and Commerce Committee with the patent measure. Government measure which was initiated in the Red Chamber, Senate members are determined to lift the Canadian Patent Law situation out of chaos and pass to the House of Commons a perfect peice of remedial legislation.

Several bills are listed to go forward today through second reading. These comprise measures for a weekly day of rest, amending the Fisheries Act to empower the Department of Fisheries to prescribe fees for fishery licenses and approving the protocol supplementary to the Canada-France Trade pact.

HYDRO REJECTS KINGSTON PLAN $40,000 TRANSFER

$50,000 Rebate is Allowed Consumers of That City

RELIEF IS SOUGHT

Chairman Lyon Tells Deputation Profits Can Not be Transferred

Toronto, March 20—(CP)—The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission today turned down the request of a delegation from Kingston City Council and Public Utilities Commission for permission to transfer $40,000 from the commission funds to general revenue of the city.

The Commission consented, however, to a rebate to consumers of 20 percent of their last year's bills. This was estimated to be about $50,000.

Under the Power Commission Act it was not legal to sanction the transfer of the sum requested, said Stewart Lyon, Chairman of the Commission, who with another member, Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, received the delegation.

Mr. Lyon said the only way to meet the Kingston request was by the system of rebates on consumers' bills.

James Halliday, Chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, introduced the Kingston case, stating the Utilities Commission had a $40,000 surplus from operations of the electricity department. He asked permission be given to turn this over to the city's general revenue in order to keep down the tax rate.

The city faces a drastic increase in the tax rate, perhaps three and one-half mills, said Mr. Halliday, and he asked the Commission grant the request to relieve the taxpayers.

Need of additional sources of revenue was stressed also by Mayor J. C. Reynolds. He said one clause under the Power Commission Act states any profits made on power might be returned.

Mr. Lyon replied the city actually owed the Utilities Commission money for lighting and power supplied for pumping water and this more than offset the amount asked for.

The conference which was closed to the press lasted nearly two hours. It followed a meeting of the Utilities Commission Monday which approved Mayor Reynold's proposal to have the $40,000 transferred to civic revenue.

'Germany Awakes' Film Cancelled in Ontario

Toronto, March 20 (CP)—Threats to bomb and boycott Madison Theatre if the German film, "Germany Awakes", is shown there next Sunday, have resulted in cancellation of the show planned by a group of Toronto Germans, William Brady, owner of the West-end Theatre, said today.

J. B. Hardwick, chairman of The Ontario Board of Censors, said the film was "undesirable" for Ontario. "It will not be shown in any theatre in Ontario," he said.

THE FATE OF THE WORLD LIES IN THE HANDS OF THESE BRITISH AND EUROPEAN STATESMEN

TOP ROW, LEFT to RIGHT: MR. ANTHONY EDEN, Lord Privy Seal, England, who along with SIR JOHN SIMON, is scheduled to hold a conference with ADOLPH HITLER, (Centre). Next to MICHAEL KALININ, president of the all-Russian council, spokesman for the Soviet government who has lashed out at "capitalist" countries. Extreme RIGHT is HERMANN GOERING who is head of Germany's air force, now a vital factor in the arms disputes. He is also a power in German affairs, and Hitler's right hand man. LOWER ROW. PREMIER PIERRE FLANDIN, of France, who along with PIERRE LAVAL, French foreign minister, drew up a strong note of protest to send to Germany. Next is the familiar figure of MUSSOLINI whose attention is directed both in Abyssinia where troops are massing to Europe where the same thing is happening. Next to Il Duce comes JOSEPH GOEBBELLS, German minister of propaganda who is responsible for defending Germany's stand. In the circle is CHANCELLOR SCHUSCHNIGG, of Austria, who, it is reported, favors Germany's action and may follow suit in denouncing Versailles treaty. Extreme RIGHT, is MAXIM LITVINOFF, Soviet foreign minister and dubbed Europe's cleverest statesman who seeks all Europe alliance for peace.

In the hands of these statesmen lies the fate of Europe— perhaps even the world. In the recent crisis which has arisen out of Hitler's latest conscription move, embassies and foreign offices are tense with apprehension. The threat of war has hung like a macabre shadow over Europe for so many years now, that a break is expected almost any time. The men shown in the above layout are the statesmen responsible; they are the spokesmen who will take all the glory if things go right, and all the blame if they go wrong. They act for the respective governments, though they have in themselves, particularly men like Hitler and Mussolini, dictatorial power in their own right. The game of political hide-and-seek of international intrigue is on with a vengeance and to the cleverest wits will probably go the victory. These men have been and will continue to be outstanding news figures; one misstatement from any one of them may plunge the world into war.

FRANCE VIGILANT FLANDIN DECLARES

'Soldier Will be Filled With Spirit in Emergency'

Paris, March 20—(AP)—Premier Pierre - Etienne Flandin told the Senate today France must be "vigilant" in the face of a re-armed Germany.

The Premier declared he had "complete confidence in the country's fighting strength" and gave a picture of the Nation's air, land and sea forces.

"Our soldiers", he declared, "would be filled with the same spirit of sacrifice in case of an emergency as they were in 1914."

Replying to a friendly interpellation designed to give a vote of confidence the Premier said German rearmament "imposes upon us the duty to be vigilant as was stated in the British white paper.

"The facts made known about German rearmament have existed for a long time. We were informed

(Continued on Page 12, Col. 4)

Swift March of Political Events Shown in European Arms Situation

Events moved swiftly in the European arms situation today. These were the developments:

London. — Apparently to meet French and Italian protests over the "weak tone" of its note to Berlin, the British government announced a tripower conference will be held in Paris Saturday. Britain's delegate will be Capt. Anthony Eden.

Paris.—The French cabinet decided to cite Germany's violation of the treaty clauses of the Versailles Treaty to the League of Nations and to send immediately a strong note of protest to the Berlin government. It was announced Foreign Minister Pierre Laval, and Under-Secretary Fulvio Suvich of the Italian Foreign Ministry would confer with Capt. Eden Saturday. Havas said it learned these three would confer again after the Anglo-German talks in Berlin.

Berlin.—A government spokesman pointed out the Anglo-German conference now is turned into a conference of absolute equals so far as armaments go, saying this puts Germany in a proper position to discuss universal arms limitation. Berlin underwent another military air raid in which dummy bombs were dropped.

Royal Black Knights Oppose Division of School Taxes

Chapters of Ontario East Meet in Trenton

Trenton, March 20.—(Special)—The Grand Black Chapter of the Royal Black Knights of Ireland of Ontario East are in session here for the 59th annual convention. The Grand Loyal Orange Lodge the Grand Orange Young Britons and the Grand Orange Ladies' Benevolent Association are also convening in Trenton for their annual session.

Tuesday afternoon, the Grand Black Chapter held the election of officers for the Grand Lodge of Ontario, East. They were in session from 8 a.m. till 6 p.m. at the local L.O.L. hall on Dundas street. The meeting was in charge of Grand Master Everett Bell of Belleville. He was assisted by the Deputy Grand Master R. Ritchie of Peterboro and the assistant D. G. M. A. C. Farquharson of Ottawa. Reports were presented and all pointed to additions both numerically and financially with a good bank balance showing. All camps were reported in good condition. A resolution of sympathy was passed for the late Grand Treasurer, J. A. Tysick of Perth, who passed away about three weeks ago. He has held the Grand Treasurer's office for the past five years and he was greatly missed at the convention.

Support Financially

A resolution also carried in the support of Rev. Rahard of Montreal, who is at present awaiting the verdict of a blasphemy charge in Quebec. It was resolved to support him financially if necessary. The Orange Sentinel was recognized as the official paper of the Orange lodge.

The Separate School question was discussed. The Grand Master reported that the recent demands made by Roman Catholic Ratepayers Association to the Provincial Government had aroused the people

(Continued on Page V, Col. 4)

FINDING REPORTS AGAINST HATFIELD

Captain Will be Extradited to Canada Says Commissioner

Manchester, N.H., Mar. 20 (AP)—United States Commissioner Charles D. Barnard today announced a finding against Captain Freeman Hatfield whose extradition has been sought by the Canadian government to answer charges of defrauding the Dominion of $71,000 in war reparations claims. Commissioner Barnard said he would recommend Hatfield's extradition.

In 1930 Senator Hance J. Logan, acting as solicitor for Captain Freeman Hatfield, his boyhood friend, placed a claim before Errol McDougall, Dominion Reparation Commissioner, that the Gypsum Queen had been torpedoed when it sank off the Irish coast, July 31, 1915.

After hearing the evidence of Hatfield and other witnesses the Commissioner made an award of $71,000 which was paid in March, 1931. Later enquiries led the Dominion government to believe the vessel had been lost by stress of weather. Chief Justice Horace Harvey of Alberta, sitting as a royal commissioner in 1932, made findings reflecting on Hatfield and Logan.

After a three-year search Captain Hatfield was arrested last October at Manchester and held for extradition proceedings on the Dominion government's charge of fraud.

Meanwhile a civil action against Hatfield and Logan in the Exchequer Court of Canada for recovery of the $71,000 has been heard. The judgment in this case is pending.

Five Year Sentence Imposed on Beiber

STRATFORD, Ont., March 20.—(CP)—Henry Beiber, 27, of Exeter district was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary when he appeared before Magistrate J. A. Makins today, convicted of several charges of breaking and entering the Rannoch Grist Mill, stealing grain and entering a Rannoch garage. Police said he had spent seven of the last nine years in jail.

BOOTLEG CLEAN-UP

London, Ont., Mar. 20 (CP)—City Clerk K. Grant Crawford today sent an official communication to the police commission demanding a clean-up of bootlegging joints in the city.

LONDON EXPRESS ATTACKS POLICY

Pleads For Britain to Stand Out of Any March to Battle

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 20 (CP Cable)—The master pieces are swiftly moving across the European chessboard. For the second time this week Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon today reported to his colleagues at a full Cabinet meeting.

"Count that day won," says Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, "whose low-descending sun fails to disclose one or other of the Cabinet making a pact for Britain to fight some foreigner's battle. You will not count many."

In a news page appeal for the formation of "splendid isolation clubs," The Express said: "The war clouds are gathering over Europe. If the powers march to battle, Britain must stand resolutely outside that madness. We have no quarrel with any nation in the world. We must make it plain to all we will not engage in war for any purpose except to repel an invasion of our country or its possessions."

And the mysterious figure of Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Hitler's personal arms emissary, hangs on the outskirts. Now he is reported at a London hotel; now he is reported elsewhere.

Cooking School Will Open One Half Hour Earlier

Those Attending Will Have More Leisure For Shopping

In order to give the housewives of Belleville and District a little more time to do their shopping after the cooking school is over for the day, the hour of opening has been changed to 1.30 instead of 2.00 P.M. as announced Monday.

It will mean, of course, that the noon meal will have to be hurried a little but the extra leisure at the end of the day will be of greater convenience to those who will wish to do some shopping before returning home.

Judging from the response, the inquiries and enthusiasm exhibited over the announcement made Monday that the Ontario Intelligencer had secured the services of Miss Claire Andree of the famous De Both Cooking and Home Making Schools, to conduct its fourth annual School, it will be more popular than any of the previous schools.

As in other years the school will be held in the Capitol Theatre and will consist of four sessions. The first will be Tuesday afternoon, beginning at 1.30 o'clock and other afternoon sessions will follow on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The stage of the auditorium will be made over into a model kitchen and by a clever arrangement of lights and spacing, everyone in the audience will be able to see each move the teacher makes and they'll want to.

"Kitchen tasks," Miss Andree says, "should be made less difficult, more certain, their required time shortened and the whole culinary unit be standardized." And she starts right in practicing what she preaches. The cheery kitchen will feature all the latest labor saving devises, and will be arranged to save steps. Adjacent to it will be a model dining room with perfectly

(Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Note by Hon. J.R. Cooke Said, 'People Simply Cannot Pay'

Trust Company Seeks Ruling on Notation on Envelope

Toronto, March 20.—A notation on the back of an envelope, written under the date of January 1, 1934, by Hon. John R. Cooke, who died last August, cancelling all arrears of interest on mortgages and notes "as people simply cannot pay," will be the subject of discussion in Osgoode Hall in the near future.

It will come up by way of a motion by the National Trust Company, executor of Mr. Cooke's estate, who want to find out if a further notation—"Bonds, $5,000; cash in bank, $25,000; mortgages, $32,350; notes, $4,250"—made by Mr. Cooke, is a valid disposition of the arrears of interest owing on notes whereby the executor is bound. The executor also wishes to determine whether written notices sent by Mr. Cooke to several persons indebted on promissory notes, announcing his intention to reduce the interest rate from 6 to 3 per cent is a valid disposition of the interest by which the executor is bound.

POISONOUS FISH BONES PUT IN BED CHARGED

Fisherman Accused of Attempt to Injure Sweetheart

Port of Spain, Trinidad, March 20.—(CP Cable)—A fisherman accused of planting poisonous fin bones of Trinidad's deadly "devil fish" in his sweetheart's bed was committed for trial in Supreme Court.

Ribo Mason, fisherman, was accused of attempting to injure the girl, Olive Edwards. She testified only a neighbor's warning had saved her from lying on the bones as she retired.

TRUE BILLS RETURNED

Perth, Ont, March 20.—(CP) — When court convened here this morning the Lanark County Grand Jury presented true bills on each of the indictments of manslaughter and illegal operation against Dr. W. J. Hobson, 39, and Rupert Mackler 38, both of Perth.

FRANCE MAY PUT ARMAMENT ISSUE BEFORE LEAGUE

Britain Agrees to Parley in French Capital With France, Italy

FRENCH NOTE PLANNED

Sir Anthony Eden Will Attend to Represent Britain

By HAROLD P. BRAMAN
Copyright 1935
By The Associated Press

London, March 20—The cabinet today agreed to send Captain Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, to Paris Saturday for a conference with representatives of France and Italy on the subject of Germany's rearmament.

It was officially announced Captain Eden would represent Great Britain, Fulvio Suvich, Italian Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, would represent Italy, and Pierre Laval, Foreign Minister of France, would be their host.

The British were described as having yielded to pressure brought to bear by France and Italy for the conference.

Simon Will Not Attend

It was said Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, who goes to Berlin with Capt. Eden Sunday for conversations next Monday and Tuesday with Reichsfuehrer Hitler, would not attend the Paris conference because he wants to do nothing to damage what the British believe to be satisfactory progress toward their goal of getting Germany back into the League of Nations.

The Cabinet was understood to have opposed the idea of sending a large group of Ministers.

Officially it was stated the conference was being held at the suggestion of the British government and the decision to call the conference was made after a consultation with the French and Italian governments relative to their desires for such a meeting.

The Cabinet's decision was made at its regular Wednesday session.

Joint Questions Drafted

The purpose of the conference is to draft a list of questions representing the joint views of great Britain, France and Italy on Germany's future policies toward the League of Nations, Austria, disarmament, and eastern European securities pact, and a mutual aviation pact.

These questions are to be asked of Reichsfuehrer Hitler by Sir John and Captain Eden.

The British from the first had

(Continued on Page 12, Col. 3)

WEATHER

Toronto, March 20 (AP)—A shallow depression centred near Anticosti has caused some snow and rain in Quebec and the Maritimes and the weather is becoming colder with snow in the western provinces but it has been comparatively mild in other parts of the Dominion.

Lake Superior—Moderate to fresh shifting winds; partly cloudy with lower temperature in eastern portion.

Kenora and Rainy River—Fresh easterly winds; mostly cloudy; probably some light snow towards night.

Manitoba—Fresh easterly winds; cloudy; becoming colder in northern districts with snowflurries.

Saskatchewan and Alberta—Fresh winds, shifting to northerly; becoming colder with snowflurries in northern districts.

Coming Events

"ALL IN THE FAMILY" THREE ACT comedy directed by Miss Lloyd Thursday, March 21, 8.15, Baptist Sunday, School Rooms. Silver collection. M20-2t

SONS OF SCOTLAND CARD PARTY after meeting Thursday, March 21, at Oddfellow's Hall. Cards 8.30 sharp. Good prizes and refreshments. M20-1t

EUCHRE AND DANCE, PRINCE OF Wales School, Friday, March 22, eight o'clock, in aid of Mr. C. Phelps. Silver collection. Everybody welcome. M20-1t

HEAR HON. DR. J. A. FAULKNER AND C. A. Cameron at Sidney and Thurlow Twentieth Century Club At Home and Dance Friday, March 22, Wallbridge Town Hall. Ladies bring refreshments. Plainfield orchestra. Everybody welcome. Silver collection. M20-1t

OPEN MEETING CO-OPERATIVE Workers of Belleville, for the purpose of accepting grievances and re-organizing. Friday evening, March 22, at 7.30 p.m., Y.M.C.A. building. M20-3t

TYENDINAGA CONSERVATIVE CLUB will hold a euchre and dance, Melrose Town Hall, Friday, Mar. 22. Five good prizes. Ladies kindly bring refreshments. Admission, gentlemen 25 cents. Everybody welcome. M18 20

City and District News

FALL WHEAT IN FINE CONDITION

This section will be blessed with good and abundant crops during the coming year, in the opinion of leading agriculturists of the district. Fall wheat, its shoots already showing four and five inches above the ground on many farms, is in remarkably fine condition, it was stated today by Mr. Elvin Gray, Tyendinaga. Everywhere throughout the district are the same indications that the year will be a bountiful one. Only in a few places where the frost has penetrated deeply, causing heaving of the ground is any damage to the roots reported, but with favorable weather conditions lately the season has been one of the best on record. Wells throughout the section are also reported well filled, to further assist the agriculturists.

BLUE BIRDS ARRIVE BACK FOR SUMMER

Colorful blue birds arrived in the city and district this week and were observed on the streets throughout the residential section of the city today by several residents. A small flock of the birds were reported seen in the trees along East Dundas St. this morning. Blackbirds have also been reported sighted, while the carolling of robins has been evident for the past several days.

A. A. ROBINSON IS SPEAKER AT RALLY

Speaking before a thinly scattered audience of ex-service men at the city hall last evening, A. A. Robinson of the Ontario Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion gave an interesting and instructive survey of the present pensions act and pensions administration. Mr. Robinson pointed out to his interested listeners some of the lesser known facts of pensions, adjustments and the working of the Act.

TWENTY SIX MEN IN COUNTY JAIL

A total of twenty-six prisoners are incarcerated in the Hastings County gaol at the present time. Many of the prisoners are in for long terms. Harold W. Vermilyea, the county's chief prisoner is included in this number.

WELFARE CLUB HOLDS EUCHRE

A successful euchre party was held last evening in the South End Club rooms under auspices of the Quinte Welfare Club.

Prizes were awarded the following —ladies' first, Mrs. Dewick; second Mrs. Thorn; third, Mrs. Thompson. Gentlemen's first, Mr. L. Rushlow; second, Mr. H. Keller; third, Mr. W. Dix. Mr. H. Thompson won the lone hand prize and Mr. J. Reid the consolation prize.

These delightful euchre parties sponsored by the Quinte Welfare Club are held regularly and are constantly increasing in interest and popularity.

BABIES

CLAPP'S BABY SOUP
and
VEGETABLE SOUP

Cooked in Glass Containers with Superheated Steam

CONTAIN ALL ACTIVE INGREDIENTS

15c
2 for.... 25c

McKeown's
Drug Store

ALL IN THE FAMILY

a three-act comedy to be presented in the SUNDAY SCHOOL rooms of VICTORIA AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH. Thursday, March 21st. at 8.15 by the B.Y.P.U., under the direction of Miss Mildred Lloyd. Everybody welcome; silver collection.

Thursday, March 21

NOW IS THE TIME TO SELECT YOUR CAR

At the present time our stock comprises nearly every make and model

OVER 40 CARS TO CHOOSE FROM

PRICED FROM $50.00

This week we have selected the following cars for quick clearance at special prices.

1933 FORD V-8 TUDOR

1931 PONTIAC SPECIAL COACH

1928 PONTIAC COACH

1930 FORD TUDOR

1934 FORD V-8 HALF TON TRUCK

TRUDEAU
MOTOR SALES
125 FRONT ST. PHONE 765

Fish foods are good for growing children because of their Vitamin D, content.

ANOTHER BIG DOUBLE BILL!

Natural enemies . . . and the best of friends! One creates mysteries . . . the other solves them! Gilbert K. Chesterton's famous fiction character brought to life on the screen.

Adolph Zukor presents

"FATHER BROWN, Detective"

with
WALTER CONNOLLY
PAUL LUKAS
GERTRUDE MICHAEL

2ND. FEATURE "SING SING NIGHTS"
Thrills! Suspense! Mystery!
Conway Tearle. • Boots Mallery

CAPITOL
THURS., FRI., SAT.

CAPITOL SUPER NEWS

Lucky Programmes
1176: 1822: 1601: 1622: 909

Complete Shows
2.30: 7.00 9.10

TONIGHT: JOE E. BROWN in THE CIRCUS CLOWN

I cordially invite you to be present tonight at 8... WHEN I STEAL THE MOST PRECIOUS GEMS IN THE WORLD!
Flambeau
I'll be there!
Father Brown

BUY BEST SEED SAYS INSPECTOR

Be Sure of Your Grade in Buying Seed For Sowing

trict against buying low grade seed was given today by Mr. Wm. Micheel, Dominion see inspector for this district.

"When they buy seed they should buy on grade. The majority of the farmers, I have noticed, when they buy seed usually ask if the seed is government graded. This doesn't mean a thing. When a dealer sells seed he should state the grade, either 1, 2, or 3 grade. There is a big price range in this grading.

"In the case of No. 1 grade, there are practically no obnoxious weed seeds. No. 2 grade is allowed 4,800 to the bushel and No. 3 grade a total of 24,000 to the bushel.

"The farmer should demand and see that he gets No. 1 grade when he asks for it. If he has to buy No. 2 or 3 grade seed he should ask to see the certificate."

◆

DR. WALTER BOYCE DIES SUDDENLY

Oldest Practising Physician Was Former Chief Coroner

A long and useful life devoted to the relieving of suffering and to the betterment of health conditions came to a close Tuesday evening when Dr. W. W. Boyce passed away at his home, 25 Victoria avenue, in this city. News of his death brought forth general expressions of regret as Dr. Boyce was prominent in his profession and held in the highest esteem by all who knew him as a personal friend or in a professional way. For several weeks he had been ill, but his immediate death was not anticipated; his passing came suddenly.

The late Dr. W. W. Boyce was born in Warkworth, Northumberland county, 77 years ago, his parents being the late John W. and Jane Boyce. After graduating from the Cobourg high school, he entered the University of Toronto, from which institution he graduated with the degree of M.D. For some time he practised in Wooler and Grafton. About forty years ago he came to reside in Belleville and was successful in establishing an extensive practice. At the time of his death he was the oldest practising physician in the city. For twenty years he was senior coroner of Hastings County and for 25 years he filled the important and responsible position of medical officer at the Ontario School for the Deaf. In his work in connection with the school he took a very deep interest; he loved the children and their welfare was of deep concern to him; for a long time to come his regular visits will be greatly missed by the members of the staff and the pupils by all of whom he was well liked and held in high respect. In religion he was a Presbyterian and attended St. Andrew's Church.

Dr. Boyce was a good citizen, a friendly man, a clever and kind physician and he will be long remembered by many in this city where he had made his home for so many years.

Surviving to mourn his passing are one daughter, Mrs. Harold O. Fisher, and one son, Mr. William Boyce, both of Belleville, and one sister, Mrs. John Douglas of Campbellford.

◆

CHEESE INDUSTRY SUBJECT OF TALK

Hon. Robert Weir is Speaker at Kingston Tuesday

..Fifteen or more local residents interested in the cheese industry in the district journeyed to Kingston last evening on the occasion of the dinner arranged by the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. A very instructive and interesting address was given during the evening by the Hon. Robert Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture, who dealt directly with matters pertaining to the cheese industry as a whole. Mr. Weir in his talk stressed the value of the cheese industry to the province and the dominion and gave an outline of what was being attempted to foster production and increase sales of the valuable product by his department.

Included among those from this district who gave brief addresses during the evening were Mr. W. H. Montgomery, president of the Belleville Cheese Board of Trade, and Mr. Chas. Fraleigh, Bloomfield, secretary of the Prince Edward County Cheese Producer's Association.

About one hundred and fifty attended the dinner which was held in the La Salle Hotel.

Dense fog which settled over the district late in the evening gave local motorists considerable difficulty on the return trip, it was reported by Mr. E. V. Illsey of the city today.

Personal Service

AT McFEE'S all eye-examinations are made personally. None is delegated to salaried employees or commission salesmen. A thorough analysis of your visual set-up is of vital importance to your general nervous state. For that reason it should not be hasty. When you come allow plenty of time. A telephone appointment avoids waiting.

J. A. McFEE
EXPERIENCED OPTOMETRIST

CADET CONCERT MUCH ENJOYED

The grand final demonstration of the Salvation Army Cadets in the Citadel on Monday evening was a conspicuous success. The program was a very elaborate one, superbly picturesque right through. The auditorium being filled to capacity, and the chair being occupied by Adjutant A. W. Martin, of the local corps. The opening scripture portion was read in dialogue form by Cadets Pierce and Jones.

The programme consisted of the following numbers. Descriptive song, "There's Something About the College"; Recitation, "Bro. Jones," by Cadet Stewart; Vocal quartette, "Look Away to Heaven"; Action song, "There's Something in the Open-air" led by Cadet Shaver; Tableau, "The Veteran Bandsman," Captain Payne and Mr. Adjt. Martin and the Cadets; Cornet solo, Deputy Bandmaster Jack Green of the Citadel band, "Peregrinations of the War Cry" was a thrilling description of war cry selling in office, Chinese laundry and beverage room.

The Cadets instrumental party rendered a stirring march followed by an action song "In the Army" led by Cadet Fitch. The Citadel Songsters also gave a vocal Psalm selection. The final tableau most fittingly served as a climax to the whose seven days campaign. Its title "The Ninth Hour" suggested the healing of the lame man at the gate beautiful, and in the beautifully colored setting of the Temple scene, the Cadets depicted the miracle at the temple steps, when the lame beggar, in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth arose and walked. Its gracious influence moved the congregation to solemnity, and increased the number of altar-seekers to eighty for the whole campaign.

Never before has there been such a stir in the local corps, and it is said that the community has received much good. Salvationists are on fire for there God-given work and a greater revival should be the outcome. It is estimated that all persons, young and old who attended all gatherings for 7 days number five thousand.

◆

ADDRESS GIVEN ON "OLD IRELAND"

Sponsored by the Alert Bible Class of Holloway Street United Church, an interesting program was given in the church parlors last evening. Rev. J. D. P. Knox teacher of the class, acted as chairman and the feature of the evening's entertainment was the address on Ireland delivered by Rev. W. J. Walker. The program was as follows:

Prayer—Rev. R. E. Newman.
Solo—Mrs. S. P. Hagerman.
Reading—Miss L. Smith.
Piano Solo—Mr. Clifford Templer
Reading—Mrs. J. C. Cordes.
Solo with harp accompaniment—Mrs. J. S. McMullen.
Solo—Mr. William Colclough.
Illustrated address on Ireland — Rev. W. J. Walker.
Reading—Mr. Charles Dracup.
Duet—Mr. J. D. Bankier and Mr. Harold Howard.
Reading—Mrs. Sweetnam.
Solo—Mr. William Colclough.

The program was concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

◆

COURT HOUSE OFFICE RANSACKED IN NIGHT

Legal Papers of Importance Had Been Placed in the Safe

Gaining entrance by means of removing the letter plate covering on the door, burglars are believed to have entered the office of W. C. Mikel K. C., local Master in Chancery, in the Court House Building some time last night. Although the door was found locked this morning upon the arrival of Mr. Mikel at his office, the letter plate was found lying on the floor adjacent. A careful check-up was made of the office papers, but nothing of value was reported missing except a fountain pen. Various desk drawers had been ransacked, but fortunately all legal papers of any value had been deposited in the safe outside the office. The burglars gained entrance by taking the letter slot off the door and reaching inside and unlocking the door, Mr. Mikel stated he believed. No disturbances were reported by Court House officials during the night and an air of mystery surrounds the entire proceedings. Local police were notified and are investigating.

Miss Claire Andree who will conduct the Ontario Intelligencer Homemaker's School beginning March 26 and continuing until March 29.

CAR SKIDS ON SLIPPERY ROAD

Turns on Side in The Ditch But Driver Escapes

When the automobile which she was driving skidded on the wet slippery pavements near Riley's Pavilion six miles west of Belleville at 8.00 a.m. today Mrs. Ida Elliott, 286½ Coleman St., escaped with minor head and facial lacerations when the vehicle turned over in the south ditch.

According to police version of the accident Mrs. Elliott was proceeding westward at the time of the accident. The vehicle skidded on the wet icy pavement and got beyond control skidding into the south ditch where it turned over on its side. Mrs. Elliott was able to crawl out of the right-hand window and summon assistance.

Highway Traffic police investigated the accident after it had been reported by Mrs. Elliott. Although the vehicle was badly damaged during the accident, Mrs. Elliott miraculously escaped serious injuries when she only sustained slight head and facial lacerations.

◆

Obituary

DANIEL H. MACDONNELL

Relatives in the city have received word of the death of Daniel Herbert MacDonnell which occurred at Fairfield, Pa., Tuesday morning, March 19th., after a brief illness.

The late Mr. MacDonnell was born in Belleville, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Archibald MacDonnell. He was educated in the city schools and was popular with his school fellows, and his old friends here will regret to learn of his death. During his residence here he was a member of St. Michael's Church. Early in life he went to make his home in the United States and for some time had resided at Fairfield, Pa.

Left to mourn his passing are the widow, formerly, Miss Loretta Dunbar of Virginia; one brother, Mr. Charles A. MacDonnell of Pittsburg, Pa.; five sisters, Mrs. R. H. McIninch, Montreal; Mrs. Paul H. Franklin, Pittsburg; Pa.; Mrs. C. M. Stork, Belleville; Mrs. F. J. Temple, Belleville and Mrs. T. H. Hammel, Windsor.

EDDIE HARNEY JR.

Information relating to the sudden death of little Eddie Harney Jr., aged 5 years, residing at Astoria, Long Island, N.Y. was today received in the city by his great grandfather, Mr. Thomas Ramsay, College Street. According to the information received little Eddie was crushed under the front wheel of a laundry truck and died two hours later in the Astoria Hospital. Eddie Harney Jr., was known in Belleville, where he spent his summer holidays last season. He is also the grandson of Mr. Herb. Collins of this city. The news of the little fellow's untimely death was felt keenly by all who knew him and had learned to love him.

LATE MRS. NETTIE E. CONLEY

The funeral of Mrs. Nettie E. Conley, widow of Willard Conley, took place from her late residence in the sixth concession of Thurlow, Tuesday afternoon and many friends were present to pay their last tribute of respect. The service in the home and at the graveside in Madoc Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. J. F. Everson, pastor of the United Church Plainfield circuit.

The bearers were Messrs. J. F. Treverton, Robert Elliott, Walter Treverton, John Emerson, George Martin and Clarence Goodman.

Wright's Radio Service
312½ Front St. Phone 65
Belleville, Ontario.
M. G. Wright. Geo. Sweetnam
Manager. Radiotrician
M 13-tf

CHICKS
and
CUSTOM HATCHING

Baby Chicks, Barred Rocks and Leghorn Chicks. Chicks ready March 25th. and hatch-off each week thereafter. Custom Hatching. Each tray hatched separately in a sanitary hatcher. Price to suit the times.

H. BRENTON
Corbyville Phone 320r5
m15,19,20

C. V.
PAINTS
and
FLOOR ENAMELS

A guaranteed product of the highest quality — made by the Canada Varnish Co. All colors and white

95c quart
Pints 55c ½ Gals. $1.80

C. V.
VARNISH STAINS
and GROUND COLOR
95c quart

SMITH HARDWARE
PLUMBERS & TINSMITHS

Announcing A Spring Showing of Suits and Coats
on Thursday, March the Twenty-First

You are cordially invited to inspect this showing of the latest models. A representative of this firm will be here for the purpose of taking special orders.

NELLIE SMITH
Kresge Building (Upstairs), 266 Front St. Belleville

ACUTE SCARCITY OF HORSES SEEN

Prices For Matched Teams Nearly Equal to Boom Years

With more interest being displayed in horses by farmers of the district than in years, it is reported, that an acute scarcity of really good animals is noted throughout this district. Good matched teams are reported bringing prices almost as good as those paid in boom years. One well known resident of Tyendinaga was reported to have refused an offer of $375.00 for one team, while even single horses are being purchases at prices ordinarily paid for a team during the last few years. Many horses were said to have been purchased for shipment to the United States.

◆

40 HOURS DEVOTION AT SAINT MICHAEL'S

Concluding exercises of the Forty Hours' Devotion were held last evening in St. Michael's Church. Previous to the recitation of the Rosary by Rev. C. E. Baker, the choir sang "Sweet Sacrament Divine". The sermon of the evening was delivered by Rev. E. M. Leacy of Deseronto. Father Leacy spoke of the promises made by the Christian in the Sacrament of Baptism and explained the necessity of fulfilling those obligations to secure happiness in this world and salvation in the next.

Harold Davison sang "Dear St. Joseph", the feast of St. Joseph being observed yesterday. After the Litany of the Saints was chanted by the choir, the Blessed Sacrament was carried in procession beneath a canopy of gold cloth borne by four men of the church. Officers of the Holy Angels' Sodality, the Children of Mary, the Holy Name Society and a guard of honor composed of the Fourth Degree Knights took part in the procession together with sanctuary boys and clergy.

Rt. Rev. J. F. Nicholson, V. G., celebrated Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament assisted by Rev. E. M. Leacy, Deseronto, as deacon and Rev. J. J. Collins as sub deacon. Rev. Father Corrigan, Kingston, formerly parish priest at Picton and for several years assistant in St. Michael's Parish was present in the sanctuary and his many friends were grateful to see him again after a prolonged illness. At the end of the service, "Holy God We Praise Thy Name" was sung by the choir.

Monsignor Nicholson addressed the congregation at the conclusion of the devotions, expressing appreciation of the magnificent way in which the parishioners had taken part in the various exercises. It was most gratifying to see such large numbers present at all devotions and approaching the Holy Table.

◆

ODDS ON THE DERBY

St. Louis, March 20 (CP)—Kentucky Derby odds on Chance Sun which may be ridden by Wayne Wright were down today from 6 to 1 to 4 to 1 in the Tom Kearney futures book. Wright has a long string of victories at Florida tracks.

Odds on other leading Derby entrants remained the same with Commonwealth and Omaha at 8 to 1, Psychic Bid, Play Eye and Boxthorn at 12 to 1, and Roman Soldier and Nellie Glad at 15 to 1.

COOKING SCHOOL WILL OPEN EARLIER

(Continued From Page 1)

appointed table, from which the hostess who prepares for her own parties, may gather helpful hints.

"A meal can be as gay and smart as a regiment," Miss Andree continues, "and it should be right scientifically. We all know that no chemist would be tolerated who tossed a little of this and some of that together without the formality of weighing ingredients painstakingly. Yet that sort of chemist would be no more danger to the community than the cook who tosses ingredients together, feeding her family under-done, over-done, indigestible, too rich, too heavy or other food stuffs not adapted to perfect digestion and assimilation."

This outstanding cooking school authority has made it her mission in life to glorify your dinner table, its food and appearance; your kitchen and laundry as well. If you appoint yourself to be her pupil, you'll like school as you never did before. All her lessons are varied, each with its distinguishing features that especially recommend it. So if cooking has become something you dread to do, and life seems to have gone humdrum all of a sudden, consider this your invitation for the correct antidote.

Baskets of groceries, kitchen utensils and other valuable gifts will be given away daily. In the new season's repertory are the things you've been waiting for. Don't let anything keep you from them.

You'll Learn About Young Love From Her!

GRAND OLD GIRL
MAY ROBSON beloved star of "Lady for a Day"
with MARY CARLISLE
FRED MacMURRAY
Claudette Colbert's new screen find. Perhaps you saw him in "The Gilded Lily."

HIT NO. 2
The Champagne musical Romance of 1935 . . .
"All the Kings Horses"
with
—CARL BRISSON
—MARY ELLIS.
Edward Everett Horton—Katharine DeMille — Eugene Pallette.
Extra! "IRELAND THE EMERALD ISLE" in beautiful Technicolor

TOMORROW
BELLE
2.30: 7.10. Last Complete Show 8.30

TODAY ONLY
"THE SILVER STREAK"
GEORGE RAFT in "RUMBA"
7.10 — Last Show — 8.30

Secondary Education Subject Of Talk by School Principal

Inter-City Visit of Picton Kiwanians to City Enjoyed

A splendid address by Harold Fox, principal of Picton High School, an enjoyable evening following a successful luncheon, were the highlights of an inter-city visit from the Picton Kiwanis Club to the Belleville organization on Tuesday evening, the happy affair taking place at the Queen's Hotel. There were fifteen members over from the Picton Club, while the attendance of the local members was entirely satisfactory, augmented by a large number of guests.

Cliff Barrager, president of the local club with Phil Browne, president of the Picton organization, were joint chairmen of the meeting and kept things moving at a rapid rate. The tables were most tastefully decorated for the occasion, the green of the shamrock being most prominent. Irish clay pipes were placed at each plate and the boys created a considerable fog when they went into action. Claude Tice and Bert Tulley acted as song leaders with Eddie Logan in charge of the fine box, although he lost it on several occasions.

Bridge Tournament

George Griffin gave a three minute talk on "What I get out of Kiwanis", and it was most interesting. George classified the benefits under "friendship", "social" and joy of service. Ross Stiver was booster for the meeting and gave a splendid talk on Hydro and the art of seeing. The address given by Mr. Fox, introduced by Phil Browne, and Kiwanian appreciation expressed by P. C. MacLaurin, was well received. At the conclusion of the meeting a bridge tournament was organised, which was really enjoyed. The winners of the boost were Eddie Logan and J. W. Davison. The address as given by the principal speaker follows:

Secondary education is on trial. Many leaders, who have given serious consideration to the place of secondary schools in society, are beset with doubts as to whether our schools can ever achieve their highest purpose under the present limitations of organization and curriculum. These critics while admitting all the achievements and advances made on this level, are asking whether secondary education as conceived in existing schools is adapted to a society that is conscious of the idea of "planning". They raise the question: "How can secondary schools be an integral part of the community in which they are located?" It is about this question that I wish to briefly speak to you this evening.

Our secondary schools have a long and honourable history which antedates even the University. In fact some of our traditions go back as far as Charlemagne who began court schools more than 1100 years ago. However, the most of our traditions are closely connected with the university. The 11th and 12th centuries marked the rapid rise of great universities in Europe. At Oxford, Paris, Bologne, and Salerno great crowds of students appeared, eager to participate in the new scholastic learning. As early as 1219, eight thousand students were attendants at the University of Paris, a universty almost without buildings and in which instruction was entirely in Latin. Teaching was done in the streets, the students sitting on pallets of straw. About the only entrance requirement was a knowledge of Latin. This language became the international medium of expression in the universities and as a result the rapidly developing secondary schools stressed its study. Although Latin had ceased to be the dominant medium of instruction in the universities by the 16th century, a knowledge of it has remained an important part of a student's entrance requirements to the present day. When the study of astronomy and other branches of science found their way into the university, mathematics gained an added importance in the secondary school. The study of modern languages, English and history entered the secondary school during a later period

Prepare Students

From this very brief outline you will, no doubt, gather that the chief purpose of the secondary school was to prepare students for the university. Until the beginning of the twentieth century this was practically its only aim. To the elementary schools was left the task of training for citizenship; the secondary schools prepared a select few for the teacher's training schools and the universities. The increasing complexities of modern life and the rapid rise in our standards of living since 1900 have brought an insistent demand for citizenship training beyond the elementary school. As a result there has been a tremendous increase in our secondary school population. During the first part of this period our leaders tritely assumed that training for the university was synonymous with training for citizenship. Thus we have witnessed the spectacle of great masses of students attempting a traditional and difficult matriculation course designed to train a select few for higher education. Since the majority of these students did not continue their education at these higher institutions, it was inevitable that leaders should demand that the matriculation course be made more liberal. This movement however, has not progressed very far, not because educational leaders did not want it, but because large sections of the population would not support the more liberal program. It is difficult to understand why this should be; but several forces have been at work. Many parents wanted for their children the opportunity which had been denied their own childhood. There was, and still is, a widespread misunderstanding of the original purpose of the matriculation course. But of greatest importance is the fact that the matriculation certificate has unfortunately become a label identified with the opportunity of a white-collar job. As a result of these and other forces, thousands of our children are still entering a course from which they can obtain meagre benefit. Nor is this condition likely to change until we have a widespread change of public opinion, for our schools are democratic institutions largely dependent upon local support.

After the war there was a growing demand for a more practical education. In almost every advanced nation the demand that every child be trained to earn a living became a slogan. A rapid development in vocational education followed. In Ontario the resistance to liberalization of the traditional high school made the movement so difficult that separate, highly-subsidized vocational schools were established. It is only during very recent years that vocational schools have been housed in the same buildings as high schools and, where such composite schools do exist, vocational departments are set apart, operating under a different set of regulations.

Parents Must Decide

As a result of this situation our elementary school graduates, on beginning their secondary education, must decide the course of study which they are to follow. Not only the majority of the students, but their parents as well, are quite unprepared to make a wise choice. It is like dividing the sheep from the goats and is not surprising that the majority choose what they think is the sheep-fold. Nor is it easy to turn back, for having travelled some distance along one of our educational paths, it is no easy matter to change to a more suitable one.

Since the majority of our students are entering courses, that prepare for the normal schools or universities we should be interested in knowing how many arrive at this ultimate goal. Out of one hundred Canadian boys and girls that enter the elementary school about two-thirds reach the final year. About fifty enter a secondary school and about twenty reach the matriculation year. Slightly more than ten of these enter a professional school or university and about three get as far as a university degree. What about the forty that drop out? Fortunately some attend vocational schools and receive a practical training, but too many are fanned out of the mill like chaff and left to face the problems of life with two handicaps, the lack of a practical training and an inferiority complex due to being branded as a failure.

Too long have we shaped our educational system in the interests of the few and made incomplete arrangements for the rest. Is it not time that we reversed the process? We need not look far, for the results of this policy. Look at the chaotic condition of many of our municipalities, the lack of public conscience, lack of civic pride, our unplanned streets where buildings look as if they had rained down. Consider that many of our citizens, most capable of rendering public service, shy away from the mud of local politics. The people responsible for these things were in our schools only a short time ago.

I hope that the day is not far distant when an aroused public opinion will support secondary schools whose chief aim will be training for citizenship; training the forty, first and the ten afterwards. In that school I would like to see one course, a course with a small core of compulsory subjects and a variety of options, increasing as the student progresses through the school. An integral part of such a school must be an adequate guidance program. Our citizenship school must be a school of activity where students are seeking practical solutions for real problems.

Educate Adults

I look to a school of the future that will educate not merely the youth but also the adults. We know little of what our world will be like ten years from now but this much is certain; it will have undergone great changes. Ours is a changing world. We live in a moving present. Whether we like it or not, change is the very foundation of all things. There was a time when things changed slowly but the tempo of modern life is one of rapid change. No longer can we say," "My education is finished," for to stand still in the swiftly running currents of life is to go backward. As a people we must revise our ideas of education and look upon it as a continuous process throughout the active period of our lives. I look to the school of the future as a coordinating power, guiding and developing all the avenues of adult education in the community.

But our school of the future must not merely teach our people how to find their way through a changing world. It must not merely teach us how to make a living. It must also teach us how to live. It must make it possible for us to lead richer fuller lives. It is in the fulfilment of this function that our citizenship school will become a community-school. The art of living reaches its highest attainments when cultivated in dual soil the field of work and the field of leisure. Our school of the future must teach us a wealth of leisure-time activities. I have long deplored the overlapping uncoordinated action of our numerous organizations that sponsor leisure-time activities. As president of the Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association this year, I have found myself in a veritable world of athletic organizations whose letter combinations seem more numerous than those of the American New Deal. I hope that our school of the future will act as a co-ordinating and guilding influence in this field also. I hope that it will be open twelve months of the year and that it will hum with community life from morning until late at night.

Train For Citizenship

But what are we going to do about training for leadership? What about specific preparation for the university? I gravely doubt whether all the specific training in mathematics, language and science is either necessary or wise. In fact I think that we could profitably forget about preparation for the university until our students have completed four years of training in a citizenship school. Moreover, I do not think that graduation from high school should provide entrance to the university. In fact I would like to see the graduation certificate entirely divorced from university entrance examinations. Let us develop leaders in our community first and then, through community enterprise, see that those children whose talents warrant higher education are enabled to get it regardless of how little wealth they possess.

How are they to be selected for the university? I would suggest a psychological examination to ensure a native ability capable of profiting from higher training; a general examination to ensure an adequate background of experience and thought, and an examination in a specific field of the student's choice. Having been accepted by the university, students whose choice of options in the high school had not provided sufficient specific subject training, could be sent back to the high school for a year or more of intensive training in their deficiencies.

You may wonder why I am speaking to a group of laymen on this subject. It is because educational progress fundamentally rests upon the support of public opinion. Those of us who want a change in our educational system, too often blame educational leaders and departmental authorities because it does not come as rapidly as we wish. We repeatedly forget that we cannot hope for educational success without strong public support.

I urge you as citizens of a thriving community to support educational reform. It cannot come overnight. It must be developed gradually. Your local school is attempting a number of innovations. Find out about them and draw the attention of others to them. I have no hesitation in saying that education is the most important tax-supported project in this or any community. It is worth your careful thought. Won't you join your educational experts in an effort to make a great enterprise greater still.

BAHR BROKE?

Andrew Bahr will get a hero's receptions when he returns to Seattle after spending more than three years driving a herd of 3,000 reindeer from Alaska to the Mackenzie river for Canadian Eskimos. But Bahr will find his life savings wiped out, it is reported, by sales of his property to creditors who wouldn't wait until he got back.

Carl Brisson and lovely Mary Ellis in the gorgeous musical romance "All the King's Horses" coming to the Belle tomorrow. Double bill.

Inherited Tendency to

ASTHMA

"My mother had Asthma, so I suppose I come by it naturally," wrote Mrs. C. W. Thompson, Stirling, Ont. "On the way out west, 11 years ago, I caught cold. Asthma started. A friend in Belleville suggested

RAZ-MAH

"The first dose gave me great relief. I slept soundly all night. Am glad to say that Asthma no longer troubles me." You'll be able to sleep well and work in comfort once you start taking Templeton's RAZ-MAH. No more battling for breath, wheezing, choking. No harmful drugs. No bad reaction afterward. Clean Capsules. Easy to take. Good for Head and Bronchial Colds, irritating cough of Chronic Bronchitis. 50c and $1 everywhere. Get RAZ-MAH today. 271

Don't choke, gasp, wheeze—Use THE GENUINE - TEMPLETON'S

RAZ-MAH

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT OF OUR

EARLY SPRING SALE OF

Jack and Jill

HEALTH SHOES

for boys and girls

ONLY THREE DAYS

Thursday, Friday and Saturday

MARCH 21st, 22nd., 23rd.

Perfect Fitting - Fine Styles - Wonderful Wear

Sizes 2 to 6 $1.15
Boots $1.25
Sizes 5 to 7½ $1.59
Boots $1.98

Sizes 8 to 10½ $1.98
Boots $2.29
Sizes 11 to 2½ $2.29

Jack and Jill Shoes are the popular children's shoes today. At these prices they are wonderful value.

Jack and Jill shoes are the only shoes fitted by the Visible Fitting System. It convinces you of perfect fitting.

Visible Fitting patented 1929

LESLIE'S Shoe Store

255 Front Street BELLEVILLE Phone 553

The Ontario Intelligencer

Invites the Ladies of Belleville and District to the

DeBoth Cooking School

- Tuesday, March 26
- Wednesday, March 27
- Thursday, March 28
- Friday, March 29

FOUR AFTERNOONS STARTING AT 1.30 p. m.

Capitol Theatre

Secure Your Tickets at

The Ontario Intelligencer Office

or

The Capitol Theatre

During the Hours of the Matinee or Evening Performance

To avoid confusion in accommodating those desiring to attend the Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School, only enough tickets will be sold to comfortably fill the Theatre.

Tickets will be on sale beginning Thursday, March 21st, and it will be wise to secure yours early. Mail orders will be received from those out of the city desiring to attend.

Admission 10c Daily—By Tickets Only

Special effort is being made to make this year's school a real attraction. Each afternoon will see a different programme of Menus and Hints on General Housekeeping.

Each Afternoon at 1.30 p.m. Prizes Every Day

RIOTERS RAGED THROUGH HARLEM

Charged Agitators Incited Negroes And Whites to Violence

New York, March 20—(AP)—Rioters raged through Harlem, largest negro settlement in United States, last night and early today, bringing injuries to at least 100, besides smashing store windows and looting them of their contents.

Seven hundred policemen broke up mob gatherings but could not prevent guerilla outbreaks. About 100 prisoners were booked at one station.

Police officials charged agitators with inciting the negroes and whites of the area to violence by telling them employes of a store had killed a young negro caught pilfering a pocketknife. The store managed had turned the boy loose although he had bitten the two floorwalkers, who caught him.

Not until 2 a. m. today — 10 hours after the trouble began — could the police find the boy to prove he was alive. Then he sat alone in a police station, indifferent to the hysteria which raged about him.

Roving bands of negroes assaulted white persons or smashed windows and fled at the approach of policemen. Officers and detectives repeatedly fired into the air to disperse rioters and, on occasion, shot to bring down their man.

Two stores were set on fire. In each case the damage was confined to the premises.

"Let it burn," spectators shouted to firemen.

Seven men were shot and one was stabbed.

Lyman Quarterman, 34-year-old negro, was in Harlem hospital in critical condition from a gunshot wound in his abdomen. An unidentified white man, his skull fractured, was reported dying in the same hospital.

Several others were seriously hurt. Officials at the Harlem hospital estimated they alone treated about 70 victims.

Police News

Since the innovation of warmer weather a marked increase in the number of transients to apply at the police station for a night's lodging has been observed by police authorities. Steadily increasing nightly the line-up of transients passing through the city mounted until 22 were accommodated in the police station last night.

Clarence Salisbury, 246 Charles St. complained to the police today that a valuable motor rug had been stolen from his garage during the night. Last evening George Saunders, 67 South Front St., appeared at the police station to inform the authorities that his automobile had been in an accident on the bay bridge road earlier in the evening. According to the information given Mr. Saunders was driving south on the bay bridge road, when the vehicle skidded on the wet slippery pavement and crashed into the guard-rail fence, breaking off four guard rail posts. The Saunders car was badly damaged about the front fender and headlight, while a front wheel was also broken.

One lone intoxicant occupied the police cells along with the 22 transients last night. The "inebriate" was allowed his liberty early today, but was instructed to appear in the local police court on Friday. While allegedly intoxicated the man was causing a disturbance at the upper end of Front St where he was "pan handling."

Chicken thieves were active in the city last night when they entered the chicken coop, the property of Mrs. Clarke, 106½ Station St., and removed six valued chickens. Police were notified early today and investigated but the thieves had made a successful escape with their loot.

Local and traffic police were today busy testing the brakes of local motor vehicles. Two bicycles are reposing at the police station, having been found abandoned by the police at different intervals.

PROPRIETOR FINED

Stratford, Ont., March 20—(CP)—Pleading guilty to operating a slot machine, that did not vend mints, J. Walker, pool room proprietor, was fined $10 by Magistrate J. A. Makins in police court today.

THE ADS ARE Part of THE NEWS

HOW OTTA WA AVOIDS SEASONAL FLOODS

Ottawa and district have hurried their annual precautions against spring flooding. Prospects of a sudden breakup loomed high last week end, so blasting operations on the Rideau river channel were rushed. When the ice starts moving, and the water rises, the work is very hazardous. If the water rises rapidly the men are called upon to work at nights and as a precaution wear safety belts to which ropes are attacked. Barriers are strung across the river at the head of the falls so that any person carried down stream on ice cakes may have an opportunity to save themselves. Boats are also kept on hand for emergencies. As usual, during the blasting operations, many are on the ice with nets to catch any fish stunned by the explosion.

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

THE GERMAN ACTION

How far Germany will go with her breaking of the bonds of the Versailles Treaty cannot be foretold as it is impossible to state how far her former enemies will allow her to leave the path.

One thing is clear—Germany seems to be standing alone. Russia seems to be showing a hand, almost seeming to fear a possible weakening of the bonds forged during the early days of the Great War when Britain, France, Italy, Russia and other nations stood together. But today Chancellor Hitler seems with the Germans to be more alone than ever he was during 1914-1918. He is fenced in with nations who may be foes if he misbehaves too much.

Hitler's last move may be a German attempt to go as far and as bluntly as he can without starting war. No doubt the German loss of colonies, costly to her in peace and yet a sore loss because of abandonment of hope of colonial expansion is one of the most potent agents stirring in the German mind. Doubtless the Germans do not want to go into any agreements leading to diminution of armaments while they can gain by bluffing. It may be that they can as a so-called unarmed nation say almost what they like without fear of being called to account, and so trust and hope that Germany will better her position before she enters any agreement.

Great Britain and other signitories to the Versailles Treaty did not intend it to be permanent but deemed it an expedient until the time when the nations should have had opportunity to let their problems work out to a sort of solution. Unfortunately that time has not arrived and it may be that since Germany has torn up another "scrap of paper" she may find that unwillingly the rest of the nations will be forced to take such steps to guard the peace of the world, which will delay Germany's arrival at the desired position, for many years, as the decision has started an armament race and delays that day of general disarmament towards which some are looking.

WHAT NEW YORK PREACHERS SAY

Man is fast becoming a cog in the machine of specialization, said Bishop Ivins in the Little-Church-Around-the-Corner, New York City, warning that life had to be full and rounded. "Man cannot go on living from day to day, doing a job that is a monotonous grind. We must find that factor which gives life its motivating power and fills it with homesiness and meaning."

"Mistaken assumptions drawn from modern science have caused a recession of faith," said Rev. Dr. Merrill. "It is so easy to assume that modern science makes it difficult or impossible to believe that the human mind has marched on, leaving God somewhere in the desert."

Enmity that exists between God and man and causes organizations of an infidel society to denounce God is the result of man's sins, was affirmed by Rev. Harry Zimmer of Duluth speaking in New York. Reconciliation with God is possible only by accepting Christ as the Saviour. Man has found that a present sorrow cannot wipe out wrongs.

The highest step of Christian love is reached when a person loves his neighbour better than himself, said Bishop Peach of Philadelphia, speaking in the First Reformed Episcopal Church, New York City. "There is such a thing as loving some one better than yourself. Truthfully speaking, we have never loved a neighbor as well as ourselves, but Jesus Christ did and that is the love He wants us to possess."

Being a heathen does not mean that an individual possesses no right to Heaven, said Dr. A. Wilde of the New Church (Swedenborgian), asserting that the outpouring of the divine love is the same for all. Dr. Wilde said that the missionary movement was founded on the belief that the heathen would undoubtedly go to hell when they died, and Heaven was believed to be reserved for those who in this life, had heard about and acknowledged the Redeemer and Saviour, Jesus Christ. The point of view today had changed, he said. "We have gained a new conception of the nature of God. He is not as He was to those of old—a fierce, implacable tribal deity. He is a God of love, who broods in tenderness over all His people, striving to win all men to Himself. We realize today that He loves the evil just as much as He loves the good, that His tender compassion broods over them not less than over those who love His name and follow Him. We now too that He loves the heathen quite as much as He loves the Christian. Instead of regarding them with anger, He keeps alive in them as far as possible the little lamp of truth. His love streams out toward all."

Wealthy persons who exploit the poor and poor persons who condemn the rich and want to exterminate them as a class were censured by Mgr. F. J. Sheen preaching at St. Patrick's Cathedral. "Unfortunately many minds are being led into one of these two extremes today. It is left for the church to emphasize the golden mean. That is what I am doing today and in doing it I am apt to be misunderstood. There are those who will say. 'The speaker at the cathedral condemned the rich' and a second type of mind will say 'He condemned the poor'. I am doing neither. I am glorifying the poor in spirit." Mgr. Sheen took issue with those who claim that Christianity is favorable to the old regime, holding that wealth should be concentrated in the hands of the few……Our Lord does not stand for recognition to destitution. The Gospel poor were not destitute. Christianity is not a glorification of the rich as such or the poor as such, but of the poor who are poor voluntarily and of the rich who are rich unselfishly."

Mgr. Sheen declared that Communists and others who would "confiscate, disperse and annihilate" the property of the rich are not poor men but rich men without cash."

Rabbi S. H. Goldenson at Temple Emanu-El, referring to the late Justice Holmes' will, said that human life is cheapened and distorted by the inordinate preoccupation with things and their possession. Justice Holmes gave to the government at the very time when there is so much uncertainty about the Government and so much fear of its purposes and programs. He did not give the major share of his estate to worthy persons or clauses, although he drew up the will when such individuals and institutions were in need of funds and were crying out for help."

In bequeathing $250,000, his residuary estate to the government of the United States, former Justice Holmes may have symbolically protested against the overvaluation of material things and acknowledge that individual wealth is ultimately derived from the whole commonwealth, the rabbi said.

"Man's influence, the shadow he casts upon those with whom he comes in contact is one of the immortal forces of life and should be exerted for goodness," declared Rev. T. D. Bateman of Columbus, Minn., Miss., preaching in New York, adding, "With everyone urging you to care for your money, time and reputation, let me urge you to care for the shadow which your soul casts."

TO RECAPTURE RAIL TRAFFIC

Railways in the United States are asking Congress to place water transportation, inland and coastal, under federal regulation as to rates; to regulate the rates of highway transportation upon a basis similar to that upon which railway rates are regulated and also to modify provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act applicable to long and short hauls.

Neither in Canada nor in the United States have the railways ever sought more than an even chance with the motor truck and the motor bus. It is common knowledge that they have not had any such fair chance. Not only are the highway services exempt from the regulation and restrictions under which the railways are compelled to operate, but they are in the advantageous position of being able to pick the best traffic, that is to say, the most profitable, that is offering. This competition, too, has been keenest in short-haul business. In other words, the motor truck and other unregulated transportation services have been able to take the cream of the railroad traffic. Correction of this condition is long overdue, but it seems now probable. The public are commencing to realize that they cannot do without the railways, this being true particularly of the farmer, and that the railways cannot go on rendering service at a loss. The action of Congress will be awaited with interest. It might be awaited with confidence but for the fact that Congress does not always place justice above politics, being in this respect similar to the House of Commons at Ottawa.—Montreal Gazette.

THE BIBLE ON BROADWAY

It seems certain that in the history of the American theatre Richard B. Harrison, "de Lawd" of "The Green Pastures", will stand with Denman Thompson of "The Old Homestead" and James A. Herne of "Shore Acres," if not quite on the same level with Joseph Jefferson of "Rip Van Winkle" as a player whom a vast public took permanently to its heart.

In the case of the Negro impersonator of a racial Jehovah the achievement is all the more remarkable because of the times. The earlier actors won the affections of a simple, sentimental age. Mr. Harrison's lines were cast in a hard boiled, sophisticated, rough and tough post-war page of disillusion and "realism." As the Lord in a modern miracle play he wrought the miracle of drawing tears from the sophisticates.—New York Times.

I think that I shall never see
A poem lovely as a tree.
Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.
—Joyce Kilmer.

Prosperity tries the fortunate, adversity the great.—Pliny the Younger.

Reckon any matter of trial to thee among thy gains.—T. Adams.

SIDELIGHTS

THE HOME FORUM

Discussing the events of the day, home gossip and general news topics as revealed by the home newspaper—under the evening lamp—and comments Grave and Gay. — Supervised by The Lamplighter.

TWO SELVES

One of my selves is like a mouse,
So quiet, slipping through the house
With steps quite soundless here and there,
In nursery, down hall and stair;
This self is busy all its hours
With making beds and growing flowers
And stitching seams and darning socks
And helping babies build their blocks.

The other self, so different,
Is restless, groping discontent,
She longs to cross far lands and seas,
She hears exotic melodies
Which ring across her dream-filled days
With luring hints of distant ways
The mouse it is my friends all love;
Yet, strangely, though I cannot prove
Just how I know the truth and why,
The other self is really I.
—Aline Michaelis.

x x x

"AM I MY BROTHER'S KEEPER?" What thought goes through your mind as as you stand at your front door listening to a plea for something to eat from some stalwart young man who has been driven by hunger to ask for food. You have just left a warm room and the happy company of your family. You have everything you need for comfort and happiness. What has he?—a long vista of roads leading everywhere and nowhere, of hard looks and requests from police to move on, his bed a plank in the police station, where vice and vermin meet. Police Magistrate George Wright, of Brockville, says yes to the query, "Am I My Brother's Keeper" and heartily approves and assists the welfare hostel conducted in the police station there whereby transients are given hot meals and kindly greeting. Through the generosity of merchants and citizens the meals cost very little beyond the effort of getting them up, and an excellent cook has been secured in a transient who glories in his work. Householders when transients come to the door direct them to the police station for food and shelter in the certain knowledge that it will be freely and kindly given. Belleville was generous-minded for several winters but this winter no steps were taken to provide food for the hungry transient nor a place of shelter other than the "tramps' room" at police headquarters. Perhaps we are not our brother's keeper here any more.

x x x

Here are some more "howlers": Bison: A prehistoric cow. Lynx: An animal which is found by golfers. Gondola: A kind of cheese made in Italy. Caruso: A shipwrecked sailor. Swastika: A thing for killing flies.

x x x

Please drink the health of the new arrival at my house.

For he's a jolly good yeller.

x x x

A negro woman called regularly at a bank to draw her weekly pay. As she could neither read nor write she used to make an X on the receipt. Then one day she made a circle.

"What's the matter, Liza? Why don't you make an X as usual?" asked the cashier.

"Well, sar," replied Liza, "Ah done got married yesterday and changed my name.",

x x x

Ikey went to order a new suit and his wife went with him. After inspecting a number of materials he found one to his liking but discovered that the suit would cost him six guineas. Ikey considered this excessive, and said so.

After some argument, the tailor said: "The price of this suit is six guineas; I'm sorry I can make no reduction."

Ikey still seemed to hesitate, when his wife, losing patience, snapped, "Oh, Ikey give the man his money, and don't be so Scotch!"

x x x

Jackson was celebrating the occasion of his 21st birthday. As midnight drew near it became obvious that he had dined well but very unwisely, and one of his friends undertook to escort him home.

Some time later the pair arrived at the road in which the young man lived.

"I say, old boy," said the obliging friend, "what's the number of your house?"

"Don't arsk silly questions," replied the other, "Itsh on the gate."

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 Years Ago

MARCH 20th., 1915.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farley, Trent Road, celebrated the fortieth anniversary of their marriage on March 17th. An enjoyable evening was spent by about thirty friends and neighbors who gathered at their home to offer their good wishes and congratulations. A feature of the evening was the presence of three persons who were present at the wedding forty years ago. They were, the bridesmaid, now Mrs. Rose of Bayside; Mrs. McMullen, Commercial St., Belleville, and Mr. Manley Farley, sister and brother of the bridegroom.

The Rev. Dr. Speer of Toronto is a guest at the Parsonage, 246 Church street.

Between the hours of four and five o'clock yesterday afternoon the fire alarm was sounded and immediately the fire fighting apparatuses were hurrying rapidly to the city building where it was stated the fire was located. It proved to be that the alarm was sounded as a test in consequence of an official of the Underwriters' Fire Association being in the city. The hose carts made excellent time. To test the water pressure, etc., 8 leads of hose of 250 feet in length were run out and attached to hydrants on Front street, Bridge street and Pinnacle street. When streams were turned on from all the branches the pressure was most satisfactory in every respect.

30 Years Ago

MARCH 20th., 1905.

Militia changes. The following changes in reference to the Fifteenth Regiment have been gazetted: To be Adjutant, Captain William S. Conger; to be Captain, Lieut. David Barragar; to be Provisional Lieutenants, Ernest Albert Peek, Daniel Alexander Cameron, Charles Clifford Walker; to be Chaplain, with honorary rank of Captain. Rev. George Ross Beamish, M. A., vice Rev. M. W. Maclean, retired.

Mr. Ed. Henthorne, who has been residing in Brockville, has returned to make his home in Belleville.

Mr. E. Westcott, who has been in the city for some time, left today for Winnipeg.

Mr. E. T. Williams of Marmora, has been engaged to act as principal of the public school in Stirling.

Mr. Allan Badgley and family of Mount Zion were presented with a highly eulogistic address and a handsome secretary prior to their removal to Tweed.

40 Years Ago

MARCH 20th., 1895.

Mr. H. A. Massey has evinced the true spirit of liberality, having signified to the management of Albert College that he will give to them the sum of $10,000.00 for new buildings or for the remodeling of the old buildings, providing a similar sum be raised in the city. The management has taken the matter in hand in an energetic manner with the result that the responses have been extremely liberal and there is no doubt that Mr. Massey's liberal offer will be complied with.

Mr. Daniel Coyle is in Toronto today.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hunt are spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. John Day of Gananoque is renewing acquaintances in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Duncan have taken up residence at Hotel Quinte.

Mr. J. C. Jamieson of the Intelligencer is spending a few days in Peterboro and Toronto on business.

50 Years Ago

MARCH 20th., 1885.

Mr. S. S. Young of Trenton received $6.00 from County Treasurer Thos. Wills for a wolf scalp a few days ago.

Brockville had a telephone concert last night which was listened to by subscribers in Brockville, Prescott, Gouverneur and Watertown.

At a meeting of the Curling Club last evening it was decided to have a dinner on Friday evening next to wind up the season. The bill of fare will no doubt include the traditional "beef and greens" and as a prominent member suggested "sheep's head and trotters". The arrangements were left in the hands of a committee composed of Messrs. W. H. Ponton, Thos. Ritchie, D. M. Waters, W. H. Biggar and C. G. L. Kelso.

Mr. and Miss Caverly of this city will take part in a concert at Stirling next week.

Louis Riel is causing dissension among the halfbreeds of Prince Albert and an outbreak is momentarily feared.

Cool Reception For R. Churchill

Liverpool, England, March 20—(CP Cable) — Young Randolph Churchill who recently contested the Wavertree by-election here as an Independent Conservative, got a chilly reception today when he tried to join up with the regular Conservative Association.

Churchill's candidature, backed by the "die-hard faction, was credited with causing the loss of the seat for the Government to Labor.

He walked into the Association offices today and planked down five shillings ($1.25) saying he desired enrolment.

"I think you had better send a written application," the secretary dubiously replied.

TOUGH JOB AHEAD

BRANTFORD, Ont., March 20—(CP)—Announcement was made today the directors of the Y.M.C.A. accepted the resignation of George Mosley, physical director, to enable him to accept a call to Owen Sound to become General Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. there. The Owen Sound Institution has been closed for the past three years and he will undertake to place it on active basis.

◆

INFORMATION TABLED

Ottawa, March 20—(CP)—Canada's legations in Paris and Japan cost the Dominion Government $670,744 during the four years from Jan. 31, 1931 to Jan. 31, 1935. Total cost of the Paris legation was $344,222 and the Japan legation $328,522. The information was tabled in the House of Commons by Sir George Perley, acting government leader.

ONTARIO BUDGET COMING MARCH 28

Throne Speech Debate Likely to Conclude Next Tuesday

Toronto, March 20 (CP)—Before members have their last chance of speaking in this year's Throne Speech debate in the Ontario Legislature, today was scheduled to be devoted to discussion of various bills.

Participation of private members in the debate will end tomorrow night and next Tuesday Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn and Opposition leader George S. Henry will wind up the debate. Every effort will be made to bring the budget down March 28.

It is understood no more Conservatives will participate but several other members have yet to be heard. Farquhar Oliver (U.F.O., Grey South) will be the first speaker tomorrow.

With Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn absent in Ottawa to attend a testimonial dinner to Rt. Hon. W. L. M. King, Federal Liberal Leader, Provincial Secretary H. C. Nixon is Acting Premier. Attorney-General A. W. Roebuck is also in Ottawa.

Two Conservatives, T. A. Kidd, Kingston, and W. A. Baird, Toronto High Park, and four Liberals spoke yesterday. The Liberals were: W. C. Nixon, Temiskaming, J. W. Freeborn, Middlesex North, F. H. Avery, St. Catharines, and H. N. Carr, Northumberland.

Mr. Kidd, former Speaker, attacked the Government on its dismissal of returned soldiers, warned hands must be kept off Hydro in Eastern Ontario and charged the Premier with failing to keep a pre-election promise of calling a special session of the Legislature last fall.

Also, he declared "the people of this Province are anxiously waiting for some definite announcement as to what the Premier of this Province intends to do in regard to relief."

"Politics in Northern Ontario spelled defeat for the last administration," said Mr. Nixon and he labelled as a "blot" on the administration its action in allowing the Federal Government to take close to $5,000,000 in gold taxes from Ontario mines.

◆

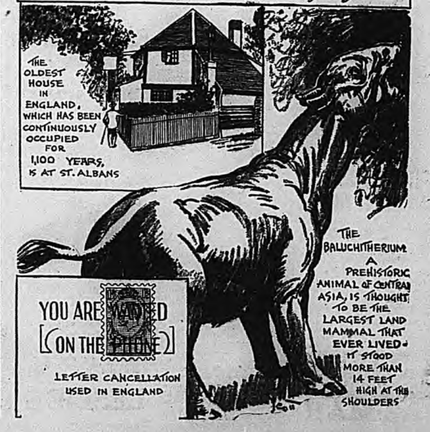
HOUSES SHOULD NOT LACK BEAUTY GRACE

Toronto, March 20—Even a private dwelling was to a marked extent a public matter, Murray Brown, president of the Ontario Association of Architects, told that body's activities committee here today. He thought that since all buildings had to be seen constantly none should or need lack in beauty, certainly none should be ugly. They were occupied constantly two, he said, and hence should not be even remotely unsafe or dangerous to health. Mr. Brown held it also important that buildings of all kinds be not wasteful of space nor yet cramped in any particular. A modern building could and should be well suited to both its purpose and location. In concluding, he charged the committee and architects generally with the responsibility of making known at large the greater profit and desirability of sound design and construction for every class and type of building.

◆

Salmon, trout, whitefish and several other species of fish are taken commercially in waters of the Yukon territory.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK - - - By R. J. Scott



THE OLDEST HOUSE IN ENGLAND, WHICH HAS BEEN CONTINUOUSLY OCCUPIED FOR 1,100 YEARS, IS AT ST. ALBANS
THE BALUCHITHERIUM A PREHISTORIC ANIMAL OF CENTRAL ASIA, IS THOUGHT TO BE THE LARGEST LAND MAMMAL THAT EVER LIVED - IT STOOD MORE THAN 14 FEET HIGH AT THE SHOULDERS
YOU ARE WANTED ON THE PHONE
LETTER CANCELLATION USED IN ENGLAND

TWEED

IRISH PLAY GIVEN IN OPERA HOUSE

"Irish Eyes" Presented by Young People of St. Carthagh's

Tweed—An interesting program was arranged for the meeting of the Senior Literary Society of Tweed High School on Friday afternoon. The students of the upper forms gathered in Form III class room at three o'clock and with their President Dorothy Barnett in charge presented the following programme:

"Sing Song", Cora Moffat in charge. Minutes, read by the secretary, D. Quinn. Business, Jack Arber was nominated Current Event speaker for the next meeting. Recitation, "The Stove Pipe Hole", Keith Cotton. Talk, "The World's worst train wrecks", Graham Mouck. News Reporter, Herb Leal. Piano Duet, "The Juggler", Alice Nicholson and Enid Connor. Talk, "Hockey", Bert Courneyea. Male Quartette, "Down by the Old Mill Stream" and "An Ear Full of Music", Norman Bowers, Stan Luffman, Frank Tummon and John Doran. "Canada's Wheat Problem", discussed by Bern Rashotte. Some ideas and wit of the members of Forms 3, 4 and 5, Audrey Prust. Criticisms, Mr. T. E. Moffat, B.A., Principal. God Save The King.

Mr. Arthur Leman of the local Forestry Branch, left on Friday for a lengthy holiday at Tampa, Florida, where his father, Arthur Leman Sr., who is General Manager of the Toronto Maple Leaf Baseball Club, has opened the spring training season of the Leafs. Mr. Leman will visit Cuba, and Daytona Beach, where Sir Malcolm Campbell is attempting to establish a new world's speed record.

Mr. P. K. Newton has been confined to his home through illness for sometime.

Mrs. T. Clarence Graham who was recently operated on in Belleville General Hospital is making favorable progress.

Mrs. W. H. Richardson who underwent a serious operation in Kingston General Hospitals about three weeks ago is making slow progress towards recovery. Her condition is still regarded as quite serious.

Mr. W. E. Dark of Tweed Foundries Ltd., spent the week end at his home in Toronto.

Messrs Thos. Calnan, B.A., and J. Borden Rollins, B.A., motored to Toronto on Saturday.

Mr. M. J. Quinn who has been confined to his home through illness for some weeks was taken to Belleville General Hospital for treatment.

Miss I. C. Campbell spent the week end in Ottawa.

Mr. Alex Nicholson was operated on in Belleville General Hospital for removal of tonsils last week.

Miss Florence Blaney was in Toronto during the week end.

Mr. C. H. Kerr motored to Toronto on Thursday. Mr. Arthur Kerr, B.A. and Miss Ethel Kerr returned home with them.

Miss Jennie Wright spent a few days in Toronto last week on business.

Miss Margaret Kerr is spending two weeks with relatives in Toronto.

Mrs. Arthur Beach who was operated on in Kingston General Hospital recently, is getting along nicely.

Miss Dorothy Sager, A.T.C.M., of Peterboro formerly of Tweed, spent a few days in Ottawa as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sager last week. She was guest soloist at Southminster United Church on Sunday morning and at Stewarton United Church in the evening. On Monday she sang several selections at the Rotary Club luncheon at the Chateau Laurier.

Mr. Geo. McCutcheon of Pharmacy, Toronto, spent the week end at his home.

The popularity of the week end cent a mile excursion on the C.P.R. was indicated by the number who boarded the 3.33 a.m. train on Saturday for the city of Toronto. Tickets in excess of fifty were sold for the excursion.

Mrs. Claude Barnett, Mrs. W. S. Gordon, and Mrs. Carmen Kleinsteuber attended the W.M.S. Presbyterial in Picton last week. Mrs. Barnett remained with friends in Belleville, returning home on Sunday.

Miss Grace Houston, teacher of Tweed Consolidated School who was recently operated on for appendicitis at Belleville General Hospital has returned to her home.

Miss Alice Nicholson, a pupil of Miss Laurene Scott, A.T.C.M. was successful in obtaining a pass standing in Harmony, Grade Four, and first-class honour standing in History of Music, grade Five in the recent Toronto Conservatory Examinations.

Miss Lois Richardson visited her mother Mrs. W. H. Richardson in Kingston General Hospital on Saturday.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Hugh Coulter of Chapman took place on Friday afternoon at 2 p.m. from the home of her son, Harry, to Bethel United Church where Rev. H. B. Herrington had charge of the services. Mrs. Harry Grier of Tweed sang a beautiful solo. The bearers were Dr. Harold Welsh, Roslin, Dr. Robt. Beatty, Madoc, Harold Beatty, Lorne Carleton, Norman Hall and Orlie Parks.

The late Mrs. Coulter was born in Thomasburg on March 11th, 1850 and had just celebrated her eighty-fifth birthday. Her maiden name was Louise Jane Beatty, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Beatty. She married Hugh Coulter in 1873. Surviving are three sons, Harry and Sam of Chapman and Addison of Foxboro, also two daughters, Mrs. Fred Blakely, Chapman, and Mrs. Albert C. Porter, Thomasburg. One brother Albert Beatty, lives at Chapman.

The deceased, one of the oldest residents of Chapman district was a life long member of the United Church and was actively interested in the work of the W.M.S. Her passing has occasioned deep regret among her many friends. Interment was in Thomasburg Cemetery.

The following members of Tweed Branch of the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada attended a function of the Belleville Branch last Tuesday evening: President G. P. Bowlby; Secretary John Stokes, Geo. Shewring, Fred Mitchell, Arthur Beach, Chas. McCaw, and Walter Leal.

A splendid three act play entitled "Irish Eyes" was presented at Tweed Opera House on Friday, March 15th by the Young People of St. Carthagh's Roman Catholic Church under the direction of Mr. Thomas Calnan, B.A.

The cast of characters were:

John Brady—Shannon LaFontaine.
Lanty—Bert Shanque.
Eileen Brady—Brigid Rashotte
Dan Riley—Joe Marsh
Shane O'Brien—Lawrence Rashotte
Kathleen Barry—Cecilia Quinn.
Peggy Riley—Colleen LaFontaine
Earl of Bray—John Ryan
Captain Danforth—Ovila LaFontaine.

The play, a three act comedy of Irish life, was given in a realistic manner by the young actors and drew rounds of well-merited applause from a capacity audience of nearly five hundred people who occupied every available seat and filled the standing room space available at the rear of the hall.

Wealthy John Brady's (Shannon LaFontaine) pretty daughter Eileen (Brigid Rashotte) is determined to thwart his ambition to marry her to a rich suitor, when she really loves a poor law student, by a worthy Irish lad. John's brother-in-law Dan Riley (Joe Marsh) arrives from the West, sees Eileen's predicament and begins to tell the story of their early lives in Galway. Dan loved Kathleen Barry (Cecilia Quinn). The Earl, her father was opposed to the match. Dan threw away a book of poems which Kathleen had sent him not aware that it contained a note telling him of her love. In company with his sister and her husband he goes to America. Finally Kathleen comes to America to find Dan, a search in which she is successful.

All the performers portrayed their parts in an excellent manner giving attention to the little details which is essential to a successful performance.

In the interval between the first and second acts, Mr. Jack Marchen sang two Irish songs "Mother Machree" and "Come to the Fair", accompanied by Raphael Rashotte. Choruses, Irish songs, Dorothy Quinn, Brigid Rashotte, Reta Ryan, Catherine Shanque.

Between the second and third act Bert Shanque sang a group of Irish songs. A clever bit of tap dancing was done by Catherine Shanque. Several selections were played by the orchestra composed of Louise O'Leary, Anthony Quinn, Roy Kitchen and Jack Marcher. They played a number of old favorite Irish melodies.

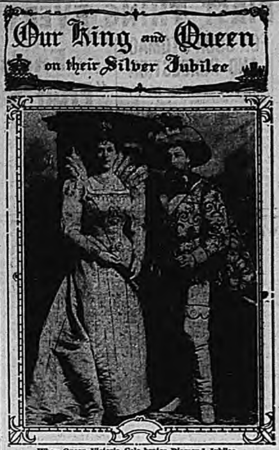
The March meeting of the W. A. of Tweed United Church was held on Thursday afternoon. Tables were set for afternoon tea, decorated in a manner appropriate to the season with shamrocks, daffodils and decorations in keeping with St. Patrick's Day. The arrangements for the meeting were in charge of Mrs. H. P. Purdy's group. After the business part of the meeting was concluded, a dainty afternoon tea was served for which a small charge was made. A number of contests suitable to the occasion were held.

PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1 must go!

The "common" cold is the real Public Enemy No. 1. If you catch cold, kill it immediately. Take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Grove's has what it takes to stop that cold quickly and effectively. At all Druggists. Ask for Grove's. They're in a white box. 466

Grove's LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee



When Queen Victoria Celebrates Diamond Jubilee

KING GEORGE and Queen Mary have been resting at Devonshire House for the past few weeks, to prepare themselves for the arduous duties attending the Silver Jubilee ceremonies.

This picture was taken in the same house thirty-eight years ago on the occasion of another Jubilee—that of Queen Victoria, who that year celebrated her Diamond Jubilee. The picture shows the King and Queen, then the Duke and Duchess of York, at a fancy dress ball. Note the aristocratic beauty of the Duchess; "every inch a queen" it has been written many times and few pictures display it more than does this.

King George and Queen Mary were married in 1893. When this picture was taken in 1897, three children had been born to them—Edward, Albert and Mary. Edward is today Prince of Wales, Albert is Duke of York and Princess Mary is the Viscountess Lascelles. The cares of attending to three children did not appear to rob the Duchess of York of any of her girlhood beauty.

The Duke at this time, was still a sailor, and the life of a seaman was his prime interest in life next to his three children.

His more or less carefree life, however, was not destined to last much longer, for within four years (1901) Queen Victoria died, Edward VII, ascended the throne and George became Prince of Wales. In those days the Prince of Wales was not allowed the same freedom of action as our present Prince.

Car Door Flies Open And Lifts Bicyclist

Windsor, March 20—(CP)—William Cullen is being treated for shock and bruises at his home today, the result of a peculiar accident as he was riding his bicycle. Dr. James M. Young was driving in the same direction when the door of his car flew open and swept Cullen from his bicycle according to a report made to police.

Convicted of Smuggling Parts For Automobile

Niagara Falls Ont., March 20—(CP)—Robert Rae of Toronto today was fined $75 and costs or 30 days in jail when found guilty of smuggling auto parts in his auto He also had his auto confiscated.

Rae told Magistrate Hopkins he would take the jail term and was sent to Welland.

PICTON

NORMAN MASTERS ACCIDENT VICTIM

Funeral Services Held in Home in West Lake

A sad fatality occurred on the West Lake shore, on Friday afternoon, March 15th, when Norman Masters of Hallowell Township, twenty-two years of age, lost his life. Mr. Masters, with a party of young men, were exploring the shore in search of muskrat houses, in preparation for the trapping season. A short distance from shore the ice gave way and Mr. Masters was plunged into the icy water. When taken from the lake a few minutes later by his companions it was found that he had drowned, and all efforts failed to revive him. The deceased was a son of Sam Masters and his wife Leah Sayer. He lived with his parents just outside the western town limits of Picton, near the county road house. He was born in Hillier Township, and had spent his entire life in the county. The funeral service was held at the residence of his parents on Monday morning March 18th at ten o'clock. Rev. S. M. Scott conducted the service and interment was made in Wellington cemetery.

MRS. CHARLES STORMS

In P.E.C. Hospital, where she had been a sufferer since Dec. 28th last, the death occurred on Friday, March 15th of Sarah Jane Winters, beloved wife of Charles Storms of Cressy, aged sixty years. The deceased was born in this county, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Winters. Since her marriage she had resided in Cressy. The funeral service was held at her late residence, on Monday, March 18th at 2 p.m. Rev. J. M. Foster conducted the service and interment was made in Cressy cemetery.

On Friday evening twenty-five friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Will McWilliams invaded their home at the Court House, for a surprise party, and jolly evening with them. Mr. and Mrs. McWilliams warmly welcomed the party. Progressive euchre was enjoyed with Mrs. W. McWilliams and Mr. Jack Vanterfelt carrying off the favours. The consolation prizes went to Mrs. McFarland and Claus Vandervelt, and the "Travelling Salesman" to Mr. J. Wannamaker. At twelve o'clock the visitors served a delicious supper with table decorations, cakes, sandwiches, and candy carrying out the St. Patrick colour and motifs. Mrs. Guy Welsh and Misses Maude and Alice Dayton assisted with the serving. The party broke up at one o'clock, all voting the evening a very enjoyable one.

Mrs. Jas. Cronkwright is home again from hospital, and has her daughter from Syracuse, N.Y. with her for a time.

Mrs. Jas. Mouck is again seriously ill at her home on Union St.

Mr. Wm. Turpin who has been a patient for the past five weeks in P.E.C. Hospital is making very slow progress towards recovery.

Mrs. Florence Kelher is confined to her home with a severe attack of flu.

Miss Alberta Hickson who has spent the winter ill at the home of Nurse Dora Rose is much improved and was able to be removed by ambulance to her home at Waupoos on Monday.

Mr. Merlin Hicks of Toronto University spent the week end with his parents Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Hicks, Paul St.

Mr. Thos. Shaw has accepted a position in Toronto, and with Mrs. Shaw and Patricia will take up residence in the city in the near future. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Shaw will conduct the grocery business of Mr. Shaw for a time.

During the high wind of Sunday morning, the firemen responded to four alarms. The residences of James Branscombe, Patrick Shannon, Charles Hand and Geo. Andrews were all threatened, when chimneys caught fire. In each case the fire was soon extinguished with slight damage to property.

Mr. Edgar Jubey has returned to Picton after spending the winter months with his daughter Mrs. Smith, Rochester, N.Y.

On Monday evening a group of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willet T. Noxon, who celebrated their golden wedding on Sunday, March 17th, to offer felicitations on this happy occasion. After a pleasant evening with music and visiting the bride and groom of fifty years ago were presented with a floor-lamp.

Birth, at their home, Centre St., Picton, on Friday, March 15th, to Mr. and Mrs. Glendon [illegible], a daughter.

How Are Your Kidneys?

WHEN pain over kidneys or bladder irregularities keep you getting up at night and you feel nervous, despondent, heed the warning. The kidneys may not be working as they should. Drink plenty of pure water and get Dr. Pierce's Anuric at any drug store. Read what Mrs. H. [illegible] of 124 St. David's St., Toronto, Ont., said: "I was in the hospital for two months and when I came out my kidneys seemed to fail. I found sleep impossible, my back and limbs ached, headaches were frequent, and my hands and ankles would swell. But Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets soon corrected all this trouble."

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory, Fort Erie North, Ont., for a trial package.

Values

THURSDAY, FRIDAY and SATURDAY

at ALL I.D.A. Drug Stores

The approaching Easter Holiday Season, with its increased demands on the family funds, has prompted us to repeat our great STAR DRUG SALE of last Spring, in order to offer you an opportunity of obtaining your drug needs at prices that will positively save you money. A remarkable array of drug values is listed below and space alone prevents us from bringing to your attention the many other money-saving opportunities at your I.D.A. Store. Visit or telephone your nearest I. D.A. Store so that you may share in the profits of this great pre-Easter sale.

10 Days to Go in I.D.A. $500.00 Contest ★

Your Contest Blank must be at your I.D.A. Druggist's by Midnight, March 30th.

Winner of Special $15 prize for 2 weeks ending March 16th.
MRS. J. J. THOMASSON, P.O. BOX 456
Long Branch, Ontario

★ COLDS?

This combination sold on a satisfaction or money-back guarantee.

25c Laxative Cold Tablets
60c Bronchial Cough Syrup
85c Value. Both for 49c

SPECIAL! 35c Tube LAVENDER SHAVING CREAM and 5 Gillette-Made Lucky Stroke Razor Blades 60c value ALL FOR .29

SPECIAL! 50c tube N'AMEL TOOTH PASTE and 50c English made ADDIS Tooth Brush $1.00 value BOTH FOR .49

VELVETTA BALM ★

Soothing Healing and Whitening to rough skin. Produces a velvety softness

4-oz. Bottle 25c
8-oz. Bottle 39c

Cod Liver Oil, 16 ozs., Dee-Tee	39c
Ironized Yeast Tablets	89c, 2 for $1.75
Qu-O-Tone Tonic, 16 ozs. I.D.A.	98c
Grove's L.B.Q. Cold Tablets	.24c
I.D.A. Chest Rub, 3 oz. jar	39c
Mecca Ointment	19c, 37c, 69c
Hospital Cotton, 1-lb. roll	29c
Gillette Blue Blades	25c, 50c
Ipana Tooth Paste	39c
Pepsodent Tooth Paste	39c

J. and J. MODESS "Certain-Safe" 14 in box 2 for .45

Russian Mineral Oil, 40 ozs.	79c
Nujol Laxative Oil	59c, 89c
Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, 12 ozs.	39c
I.D.A. Milk of Magnesia, 16 ozs.	35c
Andrews' Liver Salts	29c, 49c
Seidlitz Powders	2 boxes 25c
A.B.S. & C. Tablets, 100 in bottle	2 for 23c
Bromo Seltzer	23c, 44c, 87c
Kidney Pills, 48 in box .. 50c. size	29c
Baby's Own Tablets	22c

POND'S TOILETRIES CREAMS Cold Vanishing Liquifying 29c 55c
FACE POWDER A shade for your complexion ★ .25 .50

COLD CREAM Theatrical 1-lb. jar 58c

JAD SALTS Condensed Take off Weight 55c

FACE-ELLE CLEANSING TISSUES 300 in package 21c 2 for 41c

Steedman's Teething Powders 7 in box 22c

FASTEETH Plate Powder Free Trial Size with reg. size at 35c

TOILET TISSUE Sanitary, Soft, Sterilized BIG 5 4 rolls for 19c

SHOP WITH CONFIDENCE at any of these I. D. A. DRUG STORES

DOLAN'S Phone 138
GEEN'S Phone 131
DOYLE'S Phone 326
SCHRYVER'S Phone 49
LATTIMER'S Phone 67
OSTROM'S Phone 105

COVETED CUP WON BY ZION'S HILL

Tie Game With West Huntingdon Gives Round To Zion's

Stirling—On Saturday a large number of fans gathered in the Stirling Arena for what was the last important hockey fixture of the season. The final game of the play offs between Zion's Hill and West Huntingdon for the Hill Cup. The game ended in a tie, 2-2, giving Zions the round by the score of 6-5. In spite of the warm weather and the soft, water-covered ice, the game was fast and exciting throughout. Real sport was exhibited freely by both teams. A great deal of amusement was created in one group of fair spectators, when some one during intermission brought in a live mouse. The ladies climbed high and their screams were deafening. During the play the onlookers were splashed as the players raced through the water which gradually grew deeper as the game progressed. The crowd was in a happy mood and saw the funny side of everything, remaining so, even when the rink was plunged into darkness by the fuses burning out.

Hardly had the players taken to the ice when most of them became ringing wet from spills. G. McGowan caused a laugh, when on one occasion with no one near him he sat down in a puddle remaining there for several seconds with a smile a mile wide. Shortly after the face-off, Mott, Wright and Kerby made a lovely passing play that tied the teams on the round when Mott beat Seeley on a pass from Wright. J. McGowan drew the first penalty and Zions pressed hard. The boys from West Huntingdon were kept real busy, especially Sarles in goal. Zions were finally rewarded when Ketcheson scored on a long shot from centre, again putting Zions one up on the round. West Huntingdon made several fine attempts throughout the remainder of the period but couldn't score, the period ending 1-1.

Penalties—J. McGowan, Townsend, and G. McGowan.

Second Period

In this period there was little difference in the two teams, even the players seeming to get a lot of fun out of the play, with each face off, the referee received a shower bath, adding to the merriment of the crowd. Early in the second period Caverly scored the final goal for his team, going in alone on Sarles. As Sarles came out to meet him he was injured, holding up the game for several moments. As play resumed the honors were about equally divided by the two forward lines with neither being able to score. The period ended 2-1, for Zions.

Penalties—Caverly and McGowan.

Last Period

Early in the last period it looked as if West Huntingdon were about to tie it up on the round, when, after scoring on a lone rush, Mott urged his team on to greater speed, keeping most of the play behind the Zion's blue line, but the good clearing of the defence, and the work of Seeley in the Zion net kept them from scoring. Hope was shattered for West Huntingdon when with less than two minutes to play, Mott received a minor penalty, and the game ended while he was still in the box. The score was 2-2, on the game, and 6-5, on the round for Zions.

Penalties—J. McGowan, G. McGowan and Mott.

After the game the presentation of the cup was made by Mott of West Huntigdon to Zion's Hill boys who really earned it. Thus closes a great hockey season for the Stirling fans who have always received value for their money at these games.

Line Up

Zion's Hill—Goal, Seeley. Defence, Ketcheson and Hay. Wings, Parks and Townsend. Centre, Caverly. Alternates—Fargey, Chapelle, Brough and Sills. Manager, Hall.

West Huntingdon—Goal, Sarles. Defence, McGowan and McGowan. Wings, Wright and Kerby. Centre, Mott. Alternates, Cook and Thompson.

Referee—Ross Burt, Trenton.

..WHEN CHILDREN COUGH AT NIGHT.. GIVE VENO'S COUGH SYRUP "The First Sip Soothes It"

QUEENSBORO

Queensboro—Miss Mildred Gawley spent last week-end at the home of Mrs. Hamm in Madoc.

Mrs. Geo. Keene of Toronto has been visiting Mrs. Chas. Thompson.

Mrs. T. Tanner, Mrs. A. Holmes and Mrs. B. Leslie were guests of Mrs. Wm. Fitzgerald at Remington on Wednesday.

Mrs. R. A. Sager was the guest of relatives in Toronto over the week-end.

Mr. Demoss Bosley is spending a few weeks with relatives in Flinton.

The Ladies Aid held a quilting at the home of Mrs. M. Dyer on Thursday afternoon.

Miss Mollie James spent the week-end with relatives in Madoc.

Mr. Chas Thompson and John Thompson were in Havelock on Saturday.

Miss Jessie Green was the guest of friends in Toronto over the week-end.

Mrs. Jas. Cassidy returned home on Monday after spending some time with her son near Belleville.

Miss Josephine Belcher of Madoc spent Sunday with Miss Marion Alexander.

The weekly meeting of the Young People's Society was held in the Church on Monday evening with the president in charge. Prayer was offered by the pastor. Minutes of the last meeting were given by the secretary followed by roll call.

The Convener Miss Mable Sager took charge of the programme. After singing hymn 99 the scripture was read and explained by the convener. A reading "The Daily round" was given by Miss Jennie Sager. Mr. Bruce Leslie contributed a solo and Mrs. Doggett read a poem "Driving Home the Cows". Miss H. Meredith gave the topic 'The Land of the Humming Bird' followed by an organ solo by Miss Marion Love. The meeting was closed by singing hymn 91 and the Mizpah Benediction.

Mr. Ronald Doggett went to Oshawa on Monday.

Obituary

MRS. ROBERT MELVILLE

Rawdon, March 20 (Special)—Mrs. Robert Melville, Mount Pleasant, died in the Belleville General Hospital late Tuesday, having undergone a major operation some ten days previous. She was born near Madoc 39 years ago, being the daughter of Robert Pounder and the late Mrs. Pounder and as a young girl came to Rawdon Township, where she has continuously resided.

The deceased was an active member of Mount Pleasant United Church and was highly respected in her community. Left to mourn are a husband, three children at home, Evelyn, Gerald and Bruce, her father, one brother, John Pounder of Rawdon and two sisters, Mrs. George Gazley of Belleville and Mrs. Carl Dunham of Rawdon. Her mother predeceased her six years ago. The funeral will be held on Thursday in Mount Pleasant Church.

Tragedy Marks Trip to The Soviet

Halifax, March 20—(CP)— Her holiday trip to the Soviet marred by tragedy, eight year old Glena Gregerieff was on her way back to Toronto to find a home with her grandmother.

Several months ago Glena sailed from Canada to Russia with her mother. In Russia her mother died and Glena, alone and bewildered, was placed aboard a boat sailing for England. She landed here Monday, and was put on a train bound for her home.

A Thought for Today

ne getting of treasures y a lying tongue is a nity tossed to and fro f them that seek death."
—Proverbs 21:6.

Personals

Miss Teresa Donahue spent the week-end visiting relatives in Hamilton.

Mrs. M. Kennedy was in Kingston yesterday attending the ceremonies at Heathfield, Providence Novitiate, Kingston.

The B.Y.P.U. of the Victoria Avenue Baptist Church entertained the Sidney and Picton Young People's Societies to a St. Patrick's social Monday evening. Mr. Lorne Andrews, President of the Victoria Avenue B.Y.P.U. was chairman for the evening. The basement of the church was decorated with green trimmings, appropriate for the occasion. Games and contests took up the major part of the evening after which a dainty lunch was served. The evening's entertainment closed with the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

At a regular meeting last night of Quintena Rebekah Lodge No. 133 after general business and the draping of the charter for a deceased member, a presentation took place. Mrs. W. J. Jordan, a Past Noble Grand of the lodge and Past District Deputy Mistress who with her husband is leaving the city to reside in Toronto, was the recipient of an appropriate gift and regret was expressed at her removal from the city. At the conclusion of the lodge meeting ice cream and cake were served after which cards were indulged in for some time.

Ceremonies of religious profession took place in Heathfield, the Novitiate of the Sisters of Charity, House of Providence. A very large number assembled in the beautiful chapel of the institution. In the absence of Archbishop O'Brien, Rt. Rev. J. F. Nicholson, V.G., officiated at the ceremonies assisted by Rev. M. Brady, chaplain at the Novitiate. The hymns during the service were sung by the sisters' choir. Seven postulants entered religious life and ten young ladies took the vows, among whom were, Miss Helena O'Neil, Marmora, in religion Sister Mary Josephine; Miss Isabel McConville, Trenton, in religion Sister Mary Agnes Clare; and Miss Eileen Donnelly, Trenton, in religion Sister Mary Frances of Rome.

A very interesting meeting of St. Thomas' A.Y.P.A. was held last evening. Miss Rose Lazier, president, was in the chair. Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Jones, of the Bank of Montreal staff, who gave an interesting address on Africa. Miss Lazier expressed the appreciation of the audience and the program was followed by enjoyable contests.

◆

TABERNACLE W. M. S.

The regular meeting of the Tabernacle Church W.M.S. was held on Thursday, March 14th. Mrs. Gerow, president, presiding. The opening hymn, "Take Time to be Holy" was followed by prayer and Call to Worship by president. Mrs. Palmer read the Scripture Lesson, John 16, verses 23 to 33. "Speed Away on Your Mission of Light" was followed with prayer by Mrs. Sprackett. In the business meeting it was requested that a letter be sent to some sick members. Reading, "The Gift of a Loving Heart" was given by Mrs. Froats. After a discussion regarding a special Easter programme, Mrs. Gerow read a leaflet, "What Shall We Make It?" The hymn, "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone?" was sung. A reading by Mrs. Fisher, "The Auxiliary Meets Today" was much enjoyed. Hymn, "Go Labor On" and Mizpah Benediction concluded the meeting.

◆

MAY RESTORE MONARCHY

NAPLES, Italy, March 20.—Former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, leader of the unsuccessful Greek revolt, forecast the policies of present Greek Government would lead to restoration of the monarchy. Venizelos said Greece's Government is "tending to establish a dictatorship, which will lead inevitably to restoration of the monarchy."

WOOLER W. I. TO EQUIP STAGE

Members Take Charge of Making Curtains And Wings

Wooler—Rev. Harry Perry and Mrs. Perry of Wellington spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Esli Terrill.

Eva Masters spent Tuesday evening with Anna Bell in honor of her birthday anniversary.

Ila Shaw of Bloomfield is spending this week with Edith Austin.

What might have been a serious accident happened on Friday morning when Mrs. N. McColl was crossing the street and a car driven by Mr. Little of York Road struck her, throwing her down striking her head causing stitches to be put in a cut. Dr. McMullen was called and she was taken to Belleville Hospital for X-rays. However, she is not serious.

Mrs. Bert McColl returned home after spending a few weeks in Picton.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wainsforth spent the week end at East Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Rowe entertained Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McMasters, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wessels and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Dorland.

The Wooler branch of East Northumberland Women's Institute met on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sam Palmer. The President, Mrs. George Anderson presided. Mrs. J. J. Way, Sec.-Treas. gave an excellent report of the business and the new business being carried on.

The procedure of the making of new curtains and wings for the stage in the Town Hall will be in charge of the Institute. The library will be exchanged.

Mrs. Orvis gave a paper on the subject "The Institute as a builder in national life". The roll call "My Holiday" was of interest. Two captains, Mrs. P. Crews and Mrs. A. Austin were chosen to compete in a membership drive. Lunch was served by Mrs. Ervon Scott, Mrs. L. Leavitt and Mrs. S. C. Terrill.

Mrs. Percy Gooding is very poorly with heart trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Elgin McMasters entertained to dinner on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Montgomery and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Terrill.

Mr. and Mrs. Corke of Bloomfield called on Mr and Mrs. Esli Terrill on Friday.

Lorne Terrill spent the week end in Toronto.

Bert Wilkins of Trenton spent the week end with friends.

Rev. and Mrs. Harry Perry of Wellington spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Esli Terrill.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Wessels and Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Wessels spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McMasters.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Putnam and Alice McColl, Reg. N. were called to Belleville Hospital on Friday as Master Harold Haggerty had an operation on his broken hip.

Eva Masters spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lawson.

Mrs. J. W. Down opened her home to a group quilting on Tuesday with a pot luck lunch at noon.

Anna F. Bell spent the week end at Port Hope.

Bernice Sharpe is spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Aylesworth Warkworth.

Rev. Asa Rogers is very weak and not able to go out to services.

A large number attended the auction sale on the farm of N. E. Mabee, ex-M.P. on Friday.

A. G. Austin, Robt. Read, Mrs. Ashley and Mrs. Anderson were in Campbellford on Tuesday as a committee to look after stage furnishings for the Town Hall. The Women's Institute are in charge of the curtains.

◆

MARCH MEETING OF ROSLIN W. I.

Roslin—The March meeting of the Roslin Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon, March 14, at the home of Mrs. F. C. Beazer, with an attendance of sixteen members and visitors.

The president, Mrs. H. Sills was in charge of the meeting which was opened as usual with the singing of the Institute Ode followed by repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. The roll call was answered with Irish jokes. After the business Rev. F. C. Beazer gave an address on the "Housing Problem" and Mrs. J. Chisholm a paper on "Don't Coax Children to eat." The National Anthem was sung and a dainty lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. N. Sills and Mrs. C. Bailey.

Mrs. H. Chisholm entertained a number of friends at a St. Patrick's Party at her home on Tuesday afternoon March 2th. The early part of the afternoon was spent playing progressive euchre. Prize winner swere Mrs. R. Copeland and Mrs. R. Preston.

Several contests were enjoyed and a delicious lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Welsh of Toronto spent a few days recently with Dr. H. E. and Mrs. Welsh.

Mr. Joseph Colden is seriously ill.

◆

WALLBRIDGE MISSION BAND

The March meeting of the Wallbridge Mission Band presided over by Miss Ella Phillips was opened with hymn 261 and was followed by repeating the Lord's Prayer. The treasurer's report by Mary Phillips, and the secretary's report, by Dorothy Sine, were given. In discussing general business it was decided to have a "Birthday Box" in which persons, having a birthday are to deposit a cent for each year of their age. Scripture lesson was read by Audrey Nicolson. The Watch Tower report given by Evalyn Sine and Mae Shorey gave an interesting reading.

Collection was taken up and a closing hymn was sung. Mr. Nobes closed the meeting with prayer.

CHILDREN'S CONSTIPATION Ended!

Mrs. H. T. Rowsome, Athens, Ont., writes, "My baby boy was troubled with constipation. I gave him Baby's Own Tablets as directed . . . Before I had given half the box the constipation was righted." By relieving constipation, Baby's Own Tablets prevent more serious ailments developing. Much easier to take than nauseating laxatives and perfectly safe for all little folk from the wee babe to children of school age. 25c package.

Dr. Williams' 14G
BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Unguentine
Antiseptic Surgical Dressing
Norwich
Dont SUFFER NEEDLESSLY KEEP A TUBE OF— Unguentine ALWAYS HANDY for BURNS & SCALDS

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Copyright 1935
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HOSTESS DUTIES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. This month my class is giving its annual formal party, and as I am to be the hostess, I would like to know what a good hostess should do? 2. A number of the chaperons I have never met. What should I do in this case?

M.

1. As hostess of this party you would do just as you would do as hostess of a party in your own home — greet the guests cordially, be hospitable and gracious in seeing that everyone is having a happy time, be especially alert about making introductions, seeing that congenial combinations are made, seeing that the guests are directed to the room in which refreshments are being served.

2. Introduce yourself at once to the chaperons — this is very important, since they are really in the position of being co-hostesses with you.

Graduation Announcements it may appropriately be sent to a

1. Is it proper to send announcements of a High School graduation to friends, when one is not able to enclose tickets for the exercises The exercises will be held in the High School auditorium and there are seats enough for only a limited number of guests. Does it sound too much like "Gift", which certainly would not be the intention?

2. Is it proper to leave the small piece of transparent paper with the card, or should this be removed before sending?

P.

1. This depends on the form of wording of the card. If the card is an invitation, then it should be sent only to those to whom you can also send tickets of admission. If the card is an announcement, then it may appropriately be sent o a larger number of friends.

2. It is best form to omit the tissue paper. After the engraving is thoroughly dried, the work of the tissue paper is finished.

Informal Evening Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have been invited to an informal evening wedding, and would like to know what we should wear? The wedding is to be held in a church, with a small reception at the bride's home later but the invitations were written by the bride's mother. Would a dinner dress be all right, and if I wear that, should I wear a small hat? Should my husband wear a Tuxedo, or would a dark blue serge be all right?

E.

To this informal wedding, your husband would wear his dinner jacket (Tuxedo suit), and you might wear a dinner dress, with, if you wish, a small hat of the type appropriate for evening wear with a dinner dress — of lace or tulle, something like that.

TEA WAGON

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a controversy, will you kindly advise me for what purpose the tea wagon is used? Should the entire dinner be served for the hostess to the dinner guests from the tea wagon?

B.

A tea wagon may be used as a tea table, or it is a very convenient kind of table for the hostess to use as a service table, at her right at dinner, to be used as a supplementary table.

WEDDING PRESENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper to send a gift to a friend's wedding when asked to sing at the ceremony? I am not a professional, and have been asked to stay overnight at the home of the bride, as it is out-of-town. Perhaps it would be expected?

N.

If the bride is a close friend of yours, you would quite naturally wish to send her a wedding present. The fact that you are asked to sing at the ceremony doesn't make any difference with your giving her a gift.

DISTINGUISHING THE NAMES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

If there is a third male member in the family and his name is identically the same as the other two, should his name be written:

John J. Jones, 3rd or John J. Jones, 111

Interested

Either form is correct.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

Frilly "Real Girls" Bringing Back Love and Chivalry

Copyright 1935
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Have you noticed the spring styles? And have you ever seen clothes as ruffly and frilly and flauntingly feminine as they are for the spring and summer of 1935.

Hair is getting longer, too; it's sneaking back in tiny little rolls hardly bigger than a walnut at the nape of the neck, or two little arrangements like doughnuts over the ears. The more courageous young ladies affect magnificently braided coronets wound 'round the head, which you know must have been bought at the hairdresser's For the boyish bob could not have changed into this crowning glory over night.

But the interesting part of all of this, it seems to me, is not only that there has been a change of fashion — for fashions perpetually change — but that this change has had an effect on boys and young men that is actually bewildering.

It seems ridiculous to say that flounces and furbelows are actually bringing back good manners on the part of boys and girls. We had become so used to the lack of anything like politeness, given or demanded, by girls who dressed and acted more like boys than boys themselves.

Boys liked these strange beings very much, and frequently fell in love with them; but there is no question about it, these girls had to put up with a good deal of date-breaking, indifference and neglect, generally speaking.

It's hard to account for masculine psychology, but I suppose it is easier to break a date with a girl and fail to send her an excuse, when she can out-smoke and out-drink you, than it is to be rude to a girl who looks bewitchingly feminine.

These straight and sturdy girls were overflowing with what they called "common-sense views." They declined special protection if they had to walk several city blocks at night, and often they insisted on paying for their own meals in a restaurant and their own taxi fares —so it seemed natural enough to be a good many young men to let them have their own way.

They looked independent, and they protested they wanted to be independent. And that seemed to settle it.

The girl of the spring and summer of 1935 may say and feel that she needs no masculine protection. But what youth will believe her or decline to protect anything that looks so alluring

Young men didn't know they could feel so protective toward anything in the world as they now feel toward these slender girls in their frilly frocks and turned-up hair, stirring up all kinds of emotions that their grandfathers experienced when they beheld young ladies in poke bonnets and muslin dresses

COMRADE CLUB'S TENTH BIRTHDAY

Interesting Event in Tabernacle Church Parlors

In the parlours of Tabernacle United Church last evening an interesting event took place when the Comrade Club observed its tenth birthday at a delightful St. Patrick's dinner and program. Sixty guests were present and the evening is one they will long remember.

The long tables were charming with baskets of daffodils, tall green tapers and silver appointments. The colorful St. Patrick favours and menus added a dainty touch in the decorative scheme. A delicious dinner was served by young ladies of the church. The honor of cutting the beautiful birthday cake was accorded the first president, Mrs. George Gulliver.

Mrs. McBride, president of the Club, who acted as toastmistress, graciously welcomed the guests and called upon Mrs. W. Wonnacott to propose the toast to the King. Mrs. Wonnacott spoke of the twenty-five years the sovereign has reigned over the greatest empire the world has ever seen, ruling with graciousness, kindness and consideration. A monarch honored by all the world, his position on the throne and in the hearts of his millions of subjects is more secure than ever before. The response to the toast was made by all present singing the National Anthem.

Mrs. S. McGuire proposed the toast to the visitors, sincerely welcoming the guests and special friends of the club and expressed the wish that from the evening's fellowship all would carry away the happiest of memories. Mr. L. E. Walmsley responded to the very royal welcome extended the visitors, congratulating the club on the accomplishments of the past ten years and wishing its members continued success.

Toast to Church

The toast to the church was eloquently proposed by Mrs. R. Edmonson. She referred to the years in which the Tabernacle Church had served the community, furthering the cause of Christianity and offering guidance and aid to the congregation. Rev. I. B. Naylor in a thoughtful address answered the toast, expressing congratulation on the club attaining its tenth birthday and on the wonderful spirit of enthusiasm that exists among its members who are guided by thoughts of service for church and others.

"The church," said Mr. Naylor, "is not merely a meeting place, consisting of bricks and wood, pews and organ, the church is the body of men and women who have become part of the body of Jesus Christ." Mr. Naylor recalled that the Tabernacle Church was the very cathedral of the Methodist Episcopalian Church in early days in Canada and spoke of the past year's accomplishments with the united effort of all organizations.

History of Club

The history of the club was given in a unique way. Mrs. G. Gulliver, the first president, outlined the aims of the organization...... to assist in the work of the church, to support the missionary and maintenance fund, the C.G.I.T. and philanthropic enterprises. It was organised on May 15, 1925, and has at present eighteen active members. Money was raised by means of teas, bazaars, talent projects, rummage sales, etc. Mrs. Gulliver then called upon succeeding presidents each of whom gave a resume of their term of office. They were Mrs. Cecil Lent, Mrs. S. Joss, Miss Grose, Mrs. A. Naylor, Mrs. W. D. Embury, and Mrs. McBride.

Mrs. F. Nicholson, Napanee, paid a heartfelt tribute to the work of the Comrade Club in a toast to the club in which Mrs. E. V. Robson made a charming reply.

An interesting program was given during the evening, the numbers including readings by Miss Mildred Lloyd, solos by Mrs. M. P. Duff and Mrs. Bradley and a piano solo by Miss Florence Davis. Community singing, led by Mrs. Gordon Miller with Miss Davis at the piano was much enjoyed. The vote of thanks to assisting artists and those who served was moved by Mrs. McGuire and seconded by Mrs. Lent. The very friendly and happy gathering closed with amusing games and contests.

◆

WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE

Toronto, March 20—(CP)—Mayor James Simpson announced he would not run as a Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidate in West York in the forthcoming Dominion election. His Worship has been approached to enter the field.

◆

CONFESSES THEFTS OF CLIENTS' MONEY

Toronto, March 20—(CP)—James Gilchrist, Toronto lawyer, was today sentenced to one year definite in the Ontario Reformatory and six months indefinite b. Judge James Parker. He plerded guilty to six charges of theft of money from clients.

◆

EIGHTH MOTOR FATALITY RECORDED AT TORONTO

Toronto, March 20—(CP)—Toronto's eighth fatality from automobile accidents was recorded today when Albert Arthur Jones, 57, died following injuries he received last night when struck by a car allegedly driven by Harold Clark.

FIRST THING EVERY MORNING

FOR SOUR STOMACH AND INDIGESTION

Don't suffer from after-eating discomfort. Eno's "Fruit Salt" will soon set you right. Eno neutralises the acid condition and sweetens the stomach almost like magic—safely!

And more—Eno gets at the root of the trouble and prevents recurrence. It regularises intestinal activity, keeps the eliminative tract free from poisonous waste.

A dash of Eno in a glass of water, morning and night, soon normalises and revivifies the entire inner system. Doctors recommend Eno and take it themselves because they know it's safe! Eno acts gently, effectively, forms no habit. 'Phone the druggist now.

Eno's "Fruit Salt"

HANDY SIZE
50 CENTS
Household size, 85 cents

SOLD FOR OVER 60 YEARS
AT ALL DRUGGISTS

WHITE'S CHURCH YOUNG PEOPLE PRESENT PLAY

The Young People of White's Church staged their play "Sammy" last Friday evening to a large and appreciative audience.

Under the capable leadership of Mrs. Casey Ketcheson, as Director of the play, the Young People played their parts remarkably well and deserve credit considering the short time they had with which to practice. The following is the cast of characters:

"Leander Perkins": A prosperous farmer; George Bonisteel.

"Miranda Perkins": His wife; Edith Harry.

"Samantha", (Sammy for short) their daughter; Gladys Rush.

"Clem": Their son; Jack Bonisteel.

"Susy": Their youngest; Mary Rush.

"Adoniram Hawks": A young farmer neighbor of Perkins: William Faulkner.

"Robert Spear and Malcolm Richards": Two college boys; Edgar Harry and Cecil Jeffrey.

"Cyrus Field": A Canadian Capitalist; Jack Ketcheson.

"Natalie Field": His daughter: Clarabelle Bonisteel.

"Junior Field": His son; Norman Hunt.

"Irene Gray": His ward; Eleanor Saylor.

"Miss Leila Barton": His sister-in-law: Miss G. Rollins.

"Annie": Miss Barton's confidential maid; Muriel Jones.

Gerald Frost favored the audience with selections on the guitar and harmonica between the acts, also Ethel Rush and Margaret Green rendered vocal solos during the play, with Miss R. Hunt as accompanist.

At the close of the performance Mrs. Casey Ketcheson was asked to come forward and was presented with a box of chocolates by Miss Edith Harry, vice president of the Y.P.S. for her patience and untiring efforts during the hard working hours she had trained them.

THIRD OF THURLOW

Third Thurlow, March 20— Mrs. Wm. Casey and Mrs. Frank Walker attended the Belleville Presbyterial held in Picton on Thursday and Friday of last week.

Mrs. E. W. Brown spent a few days in Belleville with Mrs. W. Brown.

Misses Edith and Hazel Walker took tea on Tuesday evening with Miss Verna Huffman, Gilead.

League was well attended on Tuesday evening, Miss Reta Clarke had charge of the missionary program.

Miss Stella Bradshaw spent a day this week with Miss Hazel Walker.

Mrs. Lydia Way is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Casey.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Eggleton and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Job Clapp, Sidney.

Mr. Horace Casey had the misfortune to break his nose by a flying stick while engaged in sawing wood at Mr. W. H. Clarke's on Monday.

Misses Edith and Hazel Walker have returned home after spending a few days with their aunt, Mrs. Wilfred Clare, Gilead.

Miss Helen Hicks, Carmel, spent the week end with Miss Eva Casey.

Mrs. J. E. Cooley is in Belleville General Hospital receiving treatments. Her many friends hope for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Wm. Doxtator spent Tuesday evening with Mrs. Wm. Reynolds, Cannifton.

◆

INJURY PROVES SERIOUS

Toronto, March 19—(CP)—John Lapchak, who police said stabbed himself in the abdomen after chasing his wife into the home of neighbors, today was in critical condition in hospital here. It was reported there was considerable internal bleeding from the four-inch wound.

Police said Lapchak suddenly seized a long knife while his wife was cleaning a window and rushed at her shouting: "You send me to jail, I'll send you to jail."

S. S. EXECPTIVE OF TOWNSHIP HOLDS MEETING

Centre, March 20—Mr. Delbert McCurdy of West Huntingdon has been visiting his sister Mrs. Earl Fox and other friends in this vicinity the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Black of Schoharie.

The township S.S. executive met at the home of the secretary Miss Audra Brickman on Thursday afternoon to plan the programme for the township convention to be held in Victoria Church.

Mr. Frank Branagh and W. N. Redner tapped their bush on Saturday but report returns slow. The weather has not been favorable for sugar making as yet.

Mrs. G. W. Pyear and Miss Ruth Pymer of Rednersville were Wednesday visitors at Mr. Delbert Pulver's.

The assessor for the township, Mr. Harry Redner has been calling in this vicinity the past week.

Mrs. Roy Giles and Mrs. J. Dehaney, Mrs. (Rev.) Mullen also Mrs. L. R. Brickman attended the W.M.S. Presbyterial at Picton the past week.

Friends of Mrs. Louisa Vandervoort of Wellington are very sorry to hear of her very low condition of health.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Redner also Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner are attending the golden wedding anniversary of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Willet Noxon of Picton Monday evening the 18th.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Fox, Mrs. Julia Fox also Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Townsend and family.

Mrs. Anna Allison spent a few days the guest of Mrs. Willie Fox and family.

◆

It has been found, through experimentation, that feeding cod liver oil to hens in the right proportion increases the fertility and hatchability of eggs through increased virility in the brood.

If Jewellers sold it~ they would call Sunlight

22 Karat Soap

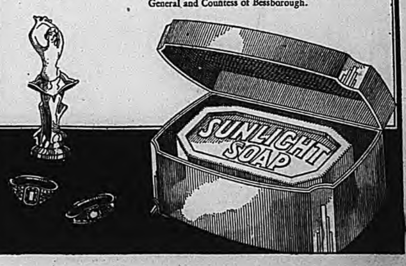
● Just as it is possible to fashion a "gold" ring from part gold and part baser metals . . . so it is possible to make a soap from part pure soap and part substitutes. The karat mark on the ring tells you of its purity, but what mark is there on soaps to guarantee their purity?

● With Sunlight soap . . . the "karat" mark of purity is on every bar. It reads: "Guaranteed Pure."

● Sunlight is the only laundry soap with a standing guarantee that it is all pure soap. Being pure, Sunlight dissolves readily . . . forming plenty of suds very quickly . . . suds which are lively and lasting. They wash more clothes beautifully clean without harm to fabric or colour . . . and Sunlight's pure, gentle suds never could roughen or hurt your hands.

● Lever Brothers Limited, Toronto—Soapmakers by Appointment to their Excellencies the Governor-General and Countess of Bessborough.

Because Sunlight is all pure soap, it is the most economical.. bar for bar it washes more clothes than common soap.



Read the Classified Rental Property Listing on this Page

Business Directory

AUTO LOANS

AND REFINANCING
Direct with Owner Car Financing
of All Kinds.
S. J. FISHER & SON
30 Bridge St. East Telephone 165
Representing
Campbell Auto Finance Co. Ltd.
Toronto - Ottawa - London - Windsor

CHIROPRACTOR

R. A. WYATT, Ph.C., SPECIAL EXAMination with the Radioclast reveals all diseases in the early stages. Foot disorders corrected — all diseases treated. Phone 900 or write 288 Coleman St., Belleville.

VERA R. PITCHER, CHIROPRACTOR, and H. R. Pitcher, Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment, Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations and Electrical Treatments. 42½ Bridge St. E., Belleville, Ont., Phone 1274.

DENTIST

DR. ROBT. H. EMPSON
DENTIST
X-Ray
Phone 462 349½ Front St.
17-3m

RADIO SERVICE

JOHN A. DEWAR
RADIO TECHNICIAN
Registered — Graduate
245 John St. Phone 217
a1-tf

SURVEYORS

FRASER AYLESWORTH
Ontario Land Surveyor and Registered Professional Civil Engineer. Land Surveys, Plans and Descriptions, Etc., promptly attended to.
PHONE 6 — P. O. BOX 69
MADOC, ONT.

INSURANCE

Protect yourself against accidents with our Automobile Insurance
SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
Life and Fire Insurance
231 Front St Phone 139

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile, Accident and Plate Glass
278 Front St. Phone 1154-W

STOCKS & BONDS

BIGGAR AND CRAWFORD, MEMBERS of Toronto Stock Exchange. Phone 1738. F. H. Wills, branch manager. N5-1y

LEGAL

MALCOLM WRIGHT, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Etc. Office; Campbell St., Belleville.

T. Y. WILLS, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Etc. 15 Campbell St., Belleville. Telephone 74. m4-tf

PORTER, PAYNE AND ARNOTT, BARristers, Solicitors and Notaries Public. Chas. A. Payne, K.C. R. D. Arnott. Offices: 219 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

PONTON AND GRAHAM, BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Commissioners. Office: 28 Bridge St. East. Solicitors, Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages. W. N. Ponton, K.C. R. J. E. Graham. Office: Belleville.

DONNAN AND BUTLER, R. C. Donnan, K.C., E. O. Butler, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public and Commissioners. Offices: Court House Building, Belleville, Ont. Phone 238.

WALLBRIDGE, CAMERON AND CO. (Successors to the late F. S. Wallbridge). Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries. Money to loan. Dominion Bank Building, corner Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ontario.

216
DUFFERIN AVENUE
To-Let
A Beautiful Home

Hardwood floors throughout — lovely living room — coal fireplace — four bed rooms — Sleeping porch — full basement — furnace — wired for electric range. Garage.

EXCLUSIVE AGENTS
Belleville Locators
GEO. N. GORMAN, PROP.
166 Front Street
Phone 99 House Phone 687

BUY NOW! AND MAKE WORK

PHONE 99
Classified Ad. Rates

SOCIAL NOTICES—Births, 50c; Marriages and Engagement Notices, $1.00; Deaths and Funeral Notices, $1.00; In Memoriam, $1.00; Memoriam Poetry, minimum charge, $1.00 for 10 lines, over that 10c per count line; Ladies' Receiving Announcements, minimum charge, 75c.

CLASSIFIED — (For Sale, Wanted, Etc.)—1½c per word each for first TWO insertions, subsequent insertions 1c per word, minimum 20 words.

COMING EVENTS—75c per insertion for 25 words or under, over that amount 3c per word.

PROFESSIONAL, LEGAL AND BUSINESS CARDS (Yearly Contract)—$2.00 per month per inch.

OFFICIAL, MUNICIPAL AND GOVERNMENT NOTICES (Including those concerning Legal Sales)—15c per agate line (14 lines to inch) for first insertion; 10c per line for subsequent insertions.

AUCTION SALE—3c per word, heading to count as 12 words minimum 25 words for 75c; consecutive insertions, 3c per word.

An initial or figure counts as one word.

In estimating allow five words to the line.

Telephone your Want Ads when it is more convenient. PHONE 99.

The Ontario Intelligencer will not be responsible for more than one insertion of an incorrect ad. Phone us if it is wrong.

Advertisers may have their replies addressed to Box Number care of the Ontario Intelligencer.

WANTED

AGENTS WANTED
EARNEST WORKER, CHRISTIAN MAN or woman to distribute religious literature. Good pay with opportunity to advance to travelling position. Write Winston Company, Dept. RE, Toronto. M20-1t

PASSENGERS FOR CAR GOING TO Dr. Locke's, immediately. Phone 12. M20-1t

WORK BY DAY DURING HOUSE cleaning. Phone 1112-W. M20-3t

BOY — MORNING PAPER ROUTE. Write Box "E" Ontario Intelligencer. M20-1t

BY YOUNG COUPLE, MODERN HOUSE by April 17, garage. Write Box "O" Ontario Intelligencer. M20-1t

YOUNG HORSE WEIGHING NOT LESS than 1300, must be quiet and broken single. Phone 2240. Reid's Dairy. M20-2t

A SMALL MODERN HOUSE OR A FIVE roomed duplex or apartment, must be wired for electric stove, and up to date in everyway. Reply to Box "S" Ontario Intelligencer. M20-1t

GIRL TO ASSIST WITH HOUSEWORK in village. No children. Write Box "W" Ontario Intelligencer, stating wages expected. M19-3t

YOUNG MAN DESIRES POSITION IN Dairy, Creamery or Condensery. Has had 15 years' experience. Write Box 167, Sydenham, Ont. M18-6t

WANTED BY APRIL 1 — RELIABLE maid for general housework. Three in family. References. Write Box "M" Ontario Intelligencer. M18-6t

FOR SALE

ESSEX DE LUXE COACH IN FIRST class condition, new tires, will sell cheap. Phone 381-F or apply 118 West Bridge street. M20-3t

WICKER BABY CARRIAGE, CRIB AND wicker go-cart. Phone 225 or call at 164 Ann street. M20-2t

ONE USED ELECTRIC WASHER IN good working order to clear at $20.00. Weaver's Music Store, 214 Front street. M19-3t

1927 CHEVROLET SEDAN IN GOOD running order. Apply to 181 Station street. M19-2t

MASON RISCH PIANO — SCARCELY know it had been used. Will sell cheap for cash. Write Box "B" Ontario Intelligencer. M19-3t

ONE BEATTY WASHER JUST LIKE new. Will sell at big discount off new price. Weaver's Music Store, 214 Front street. M19-3t

FORDSON TRACTOR — WILL TAKE stock. Apply S. W. Bird, R. 5, Belleville, phone 153r31. M18-3t

REGISTERED SEED BARLEY, O.A.C. No. 21. Banner oats and brood sows. Jos. Hollinger, Foxboro. M18-3t

ON MARCH 23, BRITISH COLUMBIA White Leghorn Chicks from blood tested matings. 11 cents each. George Cotten, Harold, Ontario. M18-3t

TO LET

SIX ROOM HOUSE, 23 EARL STREET, conveniences, also garage, small garden. Possession April 1. Apply 30 Howard street. M18-3t

LARGE BED SITTING ROOM OR TWO rooms, furnished, five minutes to Front street. 56 West Moira street. M18-3t

208 GEORGE STREET — 8 ROOMS, conveniences except furnace, double garage. Possession April 1. Apply W. J. Hall, 278 Front street, phone 1154w. M14-TF

SOUTH HALF BRICK HOUSE 293 Charles street, conveniences, garage. Possession April 1. Apply 38 Sinclair street, phone 113-w. M11-TF

PERSONAL

FOOT COMFORT FOR SURE — USE Cress Corn or Bunion Salves. Sold by all I.D.A. and other good drug stores. M20-1t

Students Leave School, 93 To Find Jobs

Windsor, March 20—(CP)— Principal W. D. Lowe, in a report of the Board of Trustees of the Windsor-Walkerville Vocational School, stated 93 students left the school during the month of February for jobs or prospective jobs.

"Pupils are still leaving for employment so there will be a further drop reported in the figures for March attendance," the report said.

IN MEMORIAM

HARRIS—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, George T. Harris, who passed away March 20, 1934.

He was taken from this world of sorrow,
Taken from this world of care:
But oh, how we miss his welcome foot steps,
His cheery voice and face so fair.

Sadly missed by wife, Lelia and Conrad. M20-1t

DIED

BOYCE—In Belleville on Tuesday, March 19, 1935, Walter W. Boyce, M.D., C.M., in his 77th year.

The funeral will take place from his late residence, 25 Victoria avenue, Friday afternoon, March 22, at two o'clock. Interment Belleville Cemetery. Please omit flowers. M20-1t

---

Thomas C. Thompson
Funeral Director
Funeral Home
33 Everett St. Phone 62
Office
283 Front St. Phone 62

BELLEVILLE BURIAL COMPANY
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
27 Campbell St.
Phone 774-W Day and Night
J. W. IMLAH
Proprietor
Mausoleum Crypts For Sale

TICKELL & BROWNE
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
We Serve for Less
FUNERAL HOME
Corner Church St. and
Victoria Ave. Phone 2295

SPECIAL SALE
Used Tires, all sizes, $2.00 up
USED TIRE SHOP
391½ Front Street
Opposite Upper Bridge

BELLEVILLE MADOC BUS
Leaves Madoc .... 9.00 a.m.
Leaves Belleville .. 5.30 p.m.
Daily Except Sunday
Parcel Express
PHONE 1340

NOTICE TO SLOT AND PIN MACHINE OPERATORS

Licenses for the operation of Slot and Pin Machines in the City of Belleville are now available at the office of the City Treasurer. Parties operating these machines without a license, after the appearance of this notice, will be subject to a fine.

Operators must sign an application to operate, before a license will be granted. These are obtainable at the office of the City Treasurer.

H. B. STOCK, City Treasurer. M19-3t

BUSINESS LINERS

Gov. Tested Clovers and Grass Seeds at Bishop's Seed Store. M20-1t

LOST

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON — CHILD'S Hurlbert Chocolate Boots, size 6½. Finder return to this office. M20-1t

HEAD AND LEGS TAKEN FROM BODY

Police Start Probe on Newest Torso Murder Case

London, March 20 (AP)— The body of a human being from which the head and legs had been hacked was found in the Grand Union Canal near Brentford—starting police on their newest torso murder case.

The two arms still remained on the body, which was that of a man but a hand had been severed from one.

The remains were discovered near the Great Western dock to which Scotland Yard investigators were hurried as soon as the report came into police headquarters.

The discovery came three weeks after two severed legs had been found on a surburban railroad train in the Waterloo Station and the theory was immediately advanced the gruesome find might be the torso from which the legs were cut.

In the investigation of the "legs mystery" the police several times had dragged the Thames between Brentford and Richmond.

Interest was immediately revived in Brighton's two trunk murder mysteries of last summer, neither of which was solved.

◆

APPROVE GRADING

New Westminster, B.C., March 18—(CP)—British Columbia sheep breeders have gone on record as approving meat grading in their industry and the Dominion Department of Agriculture will be asked to include the inspection of sheep products in the duties of the marketing board.

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE BELLE

"Grand Old Girl"

High School Romance in Thoroughly Delightful Picture

Rich in humor and emotional appeal, "Grand Old Girl" comes to the screen as a thoroughly delightful picture possessing exceptional human interest qualities.

This new picture centers around the story of an elderly school teacher who lives only for "her boys and girls".

Under the spell of May Robson's artistry, the character of Laura Bayes gallantly courageous principal of Avondale high school, assumes heroic proportions.

As "Old Gunpowder", the fighter, she is magnificent. As the kindly counsellor and ever sympathetic friend, she evokes tender memories in every mind. As the loyal public servant, faithful to her ideals of duty even at the cost of dismissal and the ignominious end of her career, she reaches right down into the hearts of everybody.

In entrusting this splendid vehicle to Miss Robson, R. K. O. Radio has given it to one star in Hollywood who could do full justice to it.

John Robertson has directed with superb skill and sympathy. Supporting performances are outstanding. Mary Carlisle and Fred MacMurray, Fred is Claudette Colbert's new find. Perhaps you saw him in "The Gilded Lily", he is great in "Grand Old Girl". they both score convincingly in the youthful romance which runs through the story. Alan Hale gives a strikingly effective performance an Click Dade, a menace character who in the end proves to have a heart.

Comedy reaches a hilarious level in scenes where Miss Bayles wins a large sum of Dale's money with his own crooked dice. Pathos has its inning when the courageous teacher is discharged for having dared to interfere with a place secretly protected by the town's wealthiest citizen.

In a stirring climax which arouses the impulse to stand up and cheer, the President of the United States, one of Laura Bayles former pupils, comes to the aid of his former teacher.

"All the King's Horses"

Comedy, songs, spectacle and romance in a hilarious story of royal lovers makes Paramount's "All the King's Horses", the second feature offering on the same program one of those pictures nobody can afford to miss. Introducing Mary Ellis, lovely singing star of the stage, to screen lovers everywhere it stars Carl Brisson and features Edward Everett Horton, Katherine DeMille and Eugene Pallette in the principal supporting roles.

Colorful and beautiful settings, an elaborate dance sequence designed by LeRoy Prinz and the talented direction of Frank Tuttle are other elements which make "All the King's Horses", the champagne musical romance of 1935 and superior entertainment.

A special extra on the same program, and one appropriate to the season is the exhibition of a delightful traveltalk entitled "Ireland", produced in beautiful full Technicolor, it is anticipated that this offering will prove a very popular addition to the program.

2 Features Tonight

Charles Starrett and Sally Blane in the thrilling railroad drama, "Silver Streak" and George Raft and Carole Lombard in "Rumba".

AT THE CAPITOL

"Father Brown, Detective"

Walter Connolly Brings Famous Sleuth of Magazine fame to the Screen

A character endeared to millions by the Saturday Evening Post stories and the books of Gilbert K. Chesterton assumes real flesh and blood and comes to life on the screen in "Father Brown, Detective," which opens a three day engagement at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow.

As acted by Walter Connolly, he is the same amiable, eccentric and foxy old character who catches thieves with kind words and intelligence where the police of the world had failed with their modern detective methods.

The story of "Father Brown, Detective" is built about the Flying Star diamonds in Father Brown's possession and the efforts of Flambeau, notorious jewel thief, to get them.

Although Father Brown has the thief well within his grasp several times, he refuses to apprehend him and turn him over to the police until he has recanted of his own free will.

The fight for the diamonds thus resolves itself into a battle of wit and will, with a beautiful girl who loves Flambeau taking a hand in the fight.

At last Flambeau, convinced of the error of his ways, gives himself up freely to the police, hoping to recant his crimes and earn the respect of the girl he loves. And Father Brown plays the double role of sleuth and Cupid.

Paul Lukas and Gertrude Michael are cast in the principal supporting roles. and Robert Loraine, Una O'Connor and Halliwell Hobbes appear in the featured cast.

"Sing Sing Nights"

Second Big Feature

Probably the most cleverly constructed plot ever to gladden the hearts of mystery fans is that presented in "Sing Sing Nights", which is shown on the same program. It's filled with intrigue, mystery, suspense and action, and all of the essential elements so dear to lovers of drama.

The new Mystery film tells the gripping story of three men, each of whom has confessed to the murder of a famous newspaper correspondent. They are about to die for their self-acknowledged crime, when aroused public opinion declares that three men should not pay the penalty for a crime which only one of them could have committed.

At his wits' end, the governor of the state summons a noted criminologist, Professor Varney, to use his lie-detecting machine in one last effort to save the two who are innocent. Going to their cell at Sing Sing the night before the execution, Professor Varney prevails upon each of the men to tell his story of the crime, whereupon the plot enters into three fascinating retrospects, filmed against the intriguing backgrounds of a Chinese war, a South American revolution, and American big business.

Conway Tearle, an old favorite of the screen, appears in the leading role. His work is excellent, as are the performances of the others in the cast.

Capitol News of latest world events will be shown at each performance. Complete shows 2.30: 7.00: 9.10.

Tonight Only

"The Circus Clown" starring Joe E. Brown in the funniest show on earth.

◆

CHRISTIAN STREET

Christion Street, March 20 — Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cross and Willet spent Tuesday with Mrs. Clarence Sprague and family of Mountain View.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Werden spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morden.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Noxon entertained eighteen of their friends at a delightful party at their home on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cross spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Calnan.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Werden and Mrs. M. M. Werden attended the meeting of Burr's Ladies Aid on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ross Burr at Burr's.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Noxon and Mrs. Harold Cross attended the meeting of Quinte Chapter No. 59, O. E. S. at Ameliasburg on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Werden spent Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Calnan.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Bongard, Betty and Jerrold of Crofton spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cross and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Noxon and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bovay and Georgia attended a birthday party on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Noxon of Picton in honor of the host's birthday.

Mrs. Harold Cross called on Mrs. John Dunkley of Picton on Saturday afternoon.

A large number from the neighborhood spent Saturday in town.

'NEGLECT' FOUND IN BOY'S DEATH

Physical Condition Unable to Withstand Shock of Fall

ROTHESAY, N.B., March 19. —(CP)— Further investigation was being made today into the death of Roderick McLean, 21, following a recommendation by a Coroner's jury. The cripple youth whose legs had been amputated below the knee after being frozen two years ago, died Friday from a fracture of the skull and shock. The jury found that through "neglect" the youth's physical condition was unable to withstand the shock caused by the fracture "received in some unknown manner".

Mrs. E. A. McLean, his stepmother, collapsed after the verdict was returned. Dr. R. A. H. Mackeen, Provincial Pathologist, testified Roderick's body was emaciated and poorly developed.

Mrs. McLean testified she had occasionally whipped the youth with a leather belt because of his alleged unsanitary habits. He died soon after she found him at the foot of a stairway, added the witness, and she concluded he had fallen down.

◆

Smelts, caught mostly on the Atlantic coast, are exported in large quantities to the United States where a good market is obtained.

STIRLING

ODDFELLOWSHOLD ANNUAL AT-HOME

Splendid Program Enjoyed by Large Number of Guests

Stirling, March 20—On Friday, March 15th, the spacious lodge rooms of Stirling I.O.O.F. No. 239 were filled to capacity with members and friends who heartily enjoyed a splendid entertainment. The program was carefully planned and those in charge exercised unusual judgment in the choice of the artists taking part.

The gathering was called to order by Mr. George Weaver, G.M. who was the chairman. The first number on the program was a selection by St. Paul's Sunday School orchestra—Maurice Ball, leader. Mrs. (Rev.) E. W. Rowland, Mary Hulin, Evelyn Davidson, Reg. Mathison, Don Scott, Ted Hilderbrand, Lloyd Rowland, Gerald Sprentall, Bob Luery, Harold West, Harry Vandervoort—Miss Betty Conley, a soloist of St. Paul's, then sang two fine numbers, "Lights are Gleaming," and the "Carnival," accompanied at the piano by Mr. Charles Allen. Maurice Bell then rendered a banjo solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Rowland. A reading, "Old Robin" given at this time by Jack Thompson created a great deal of comment because of the fine manner in which it was given. Miss Alice Calow contributed a violin solo, "Caprice" and willingly responded to the long applause with an encore. The next number was a vocal solo by Mrs. Ellis, "Until", and as an encore she offered, "If no One Ever Marries Me." These artists were accompanied by Mr. Charles Allen. An instrumental duet, "Post and Peasant," overture, by Miss Mae Currie and Mr. Charles Allen, was the final number on the musical part of the program. Mr. Alex Parks gave a very humorous reading, entitled, "The Birth of St. Patrick," and he too, found it necessary to give an encore.

At this period the tables were arranged for lunch, and as every one took their places, Mr. S. A. Murphy acted as toast master. After the toast to the King, Mr. H. C. Martin proposed a toast to the church and clergy, which was responded to in a very fine manner by Rev. E. W. Rowland and Rev. A. S. McConnell. The toast to the press by Rev. J. A. Koffend was responded to by H. Tompkins, editor and proprietor of the Stirling News Argus. His name coupled with a toast to the guests, Mr. Ells was very entertaining with an original trend of humor that caused a great deal of merriment. In putting over a good story, Mr. Ells is willing to be the one upon whom the laugh is centered. In addition he makes some philosophical statement to create thought in the minds of his listeners. A toast to the artists was proposed by Mr. W. L. Anderson, and responded to by Mrs. Ells and Mr. Charles Allen. Last but not least, Mr. Harry Hulin proposed a toast to the ladies, to which Mrs. Elliott responded in a fine manner. The entire evening was a most enjoyable one, and it was well past midnight before any one thought of departing for home. The committee in charge of the evening, headed by S. A. Murphy, W. L. Anderson, H. Hulin, and Jack Thompson deserve a great deal of credit for organizing such a fine evening's entertainment.

The regular meeting of the Stirling Girl Guides was held on Friday evening in the assembly hall of the High School. In the absence of Miss K. Mundy the meeting was directed by Lieutenant Lenora Ward. After a general review of the health rules and a period of games, the remainder of the evening was spent in music. A presentation was recently made by the members of the Guides to Miss Helen Murduff, who left on Saturday morning with her parents for Boston. The gift was a whistle and lanyard.

Many friends gathered to pay their last tribute at the funeral of the late George E. Reynolds which was held on Saturday afternoon in St. Paul's United Church. The late Mr. Reynolds passed away in his seventy-ninth year, at his home on Thursday, March 14th, after a lengthy illness. Born in Stirling, where he resided all his life, he conducted a successful shoe business for many years. His death marks the passing of one of Stirling's oldest and most valued citizens; popular and widely known throughout the district.

The funeral cortege proceeded from his late residence to St. Paul's Church where service was conducted by Rev. E. W. Rowland, assisted by Rev. P. Joblin. Miss Betty Conley, soloist, sang "Home Ties," during the service. Mr. Rowland read the 90th Psalm, and took for his text, verses 6, 7 8, of 2nd Timothy, 4th chapter, delivering an inspiring message Left to mourn his passing are two daughters, Mrs. Nina Morton and Mrs. Nora Westcott, both of Stirling. The pall bearers were Messrs. Clinton McGee, Wm. Fitchett, Wm. Fox, C. P. Linn, J. S. Morton, and Sam Hatton. Interment was in Stirling cemetery.

The many beautiful tributes paid silent tribute to the esteem in which hte deceased was held, and were as follows: Pillow, daughters, Mrs. Nina Morton, Mrs. Nora Westcott, Stirling. Wreaths, Mrs. Cathrine Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wells, Marmora, Mr. and Mrs. F. Sandy, Lindsay; Mr. Victoria Dennis, Miss Ella Fox, Mrs. Effie Lint, Detroit; Mrs. N. Fox, and Miss Sadie Fox, Mount Pleasant, Mich.; Mrs. Wallace Weir, Mr. and Mrs. J. Vail, Mr. and Mrs. T. Weir, and Mrs. J. Weir, Lapeer, Mich.; Spaye, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Weir, Detroit; St. Paul's Women's Association, Stirling; Mrs. Lillian Wallace, Harold, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Beacock, Stirling; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Emery, Stirling; Miss Betty Conley, Stirling; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Murray, Burnbrae, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Eggleton, Stirling; Mr. Hamilton Johnson, Stirling; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Martin, Stirling; Mr. L. Hutchison, Toronto. The Stirling Community Welfare Club, a pilow.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brown and family of Hoard's Station; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sharp and family of Mount Pleasant; and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Armstrong and family of Belleville, spent Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Armstrong, Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mason and family spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bateman of Springbrook.

Mr. Lindsay Meiklejohn spent the week end at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Clifford Hatton, in Toronto.

Among those who were in Stirling to attend the funeral of the late George E. Reynolds on Saturday, March 16th were Mrs. F. Sandy of Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wells and Mrs. Cathrine Reynolds of Marmora, Mrs. Steve McGuigge of Havelock, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hamlin, Foxboro, and Mr. and Mrs. I. Murray of Burnbrae.

Misses Lois and Nina MacIntosh of Toronto spent the week end at the home of their brother, Mr. Sheldon MacIntosh.

Mr. Horace Budd and Mr. Melville Lockhart of Toronto, were visiting friends in Stirling on Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Lucille Lawrence of Toronto spent the week end at her home here.

Mr. Wallace Lawrence of Marmora, visited at his home over the week end.

Miss Luta Campion of Marmora, visited friends in Stirling on Sunday.

Miss Dorothy Joblin was in Toronto over the week end.

Mr. Fred Elgie visited friends and relatives in Toronto over the week end.

The high winds of Sunday were a source of worry to a number of residents in this district, when chimneys in many homes became overheated, where wood was the fuel used for heating purposes. Only one case, however, was serious enough to turn in an alarm, and little difficulty was encountered by the fire department in getting it under control. The call came from the home of Mrs. Mary Morrow, and the efficient response of the local fire brigade resulted in it being extinguished before serious damage was done.

Miss Winnie Ward returned home on Saturday, after spending a few days with friends in Gananoque.

Mr. Art Duncan spent Saturday with friends in Belleville.

Miss Helen Mallory of Peterboro Normal School spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mallory.

Mr. Harper Rollins left on Saturday for a few days in Toronto. It is expected that Mrs. Rollins, who has been visiting there for the past week will return home with him.

Mr. Morgan Rowland of Victoria College, Toronto, visited over the week end at the home of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Rowland.

Mrs. (Dr.) J. T. Shea of Belchertown, Mass., is spending a few days at the home of Dr. Shea's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Shea.

Word has been received that Mr. E. Goodwin, formerly of the Royal Bank staff here, who was transferred to Hanover, has since been transferred to North Bay.

Miss Ellen Shea who is teaching at Stoco, spent the week end at her home here.

Mr. Ezra Nicholson suffered a painful accident on Thursday while cutting wood. A piece flew up and struck him in the eye.

Mr. Wm. Bolte of Consecon, visited friends in Stirling over the week end.

◆

MARMORA

Marmora, Mach 20 — Miss Madeline Bertrand, Reg. Nurse of St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto spent the week-end at her home here.

Mr. Lloyd Bailey of the Dominion Bank staff, Madoc visited at his home here on Sunday.

Miss Beatrice Lee of Toronto is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lee.

Mr. M. Moss of Kingston was in town on Friday.

Mr. Vincent Jackson of Madoc was a Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. O'Connor.

Mr. J. Langman of Aurora was a visitor in town over the weekend.

Miss Estelle Hinch of Kingston visited friends in town on Sunday

Misses Margaret and Lena Sullivan and Mrs. S. McWilliams spent Sunday with relatives in Toronto.

NNwoh YMH L

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bowen are moving into the residence recently vacated by Mrs. Riordan.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Linton and family of Wyevale were guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilkes over the week-end.

Mrs. C. Clemens and baby of Sudbury are spending a couple of weeks with the former's father Mr. Wm. Forestell.

Miss Ferga Burns returned to Toronto on Saturday after visiting at her home here for the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Lavender and family visited relatives in Glanmore on Sunday.

Miss Mae Bronson spent Sunday at her home in Eldorado.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Reeves of Madoc were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Spry on Sunday.

◆

Many Willing to Testify Upon Housing Plans

Ottawa, March 20—(CP)— The House of Commons special committee on housing met in camera to decide what witnesses it will call at future open meetings.

The committee was understood to have been flooded with offers of public-spirited persons to testify and to be experiencing some difficulty in reducing their number to reasonable proportions.

RADIO PROGRAMS

WEDNESDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ
10.30—Breen and de Rose—WEAF
11.30—Army Band—WJZ
1.15—Radio Gossip Club—WGR
2.00—Two Seats in the Balcony—WEAF
2.00—Radio City Matinee — Enric Madriguera's Orch. and Jan Garber's Orch—WJZ
3.00—Kate Smith's Matinee Hour—WABC
4.00—Betty and Bob, drama—WJZ
4.30—Rochester Civic Orch.—WJZ
6.30—Jim Hunter, News—CFRB
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.00—Myrt and Marge—WABC
7.15—Plantation Echoes—WJZ
7.15—Stories of the Black Chamber "Secret Ink"—WEAF
7.30—Red Davis, sketch—WJZ
7.45—Dangerous Paradise, sketch—WJZ
8.00—Mary Pickford and Co.—CRCT
8.00—"Voice of the Front Page"—CFRB
8.00—Penthouse Party—WJZ
8.00—Diane and Her Life Saver—WABC
8.15—Edwin C. Hill, news—WABC
7.30—Broadway Varieties—WABC
8.30—Wayne King's Orchestra—WEAF; WTAM
8.30—Lanny Ross, tenor, Orch.—WJZ
8.30—Opening Nights—CRCT
9.00—Warden Lewis E. Lawes in 20,000 Years in Sing Sing—WJZ
9.00—Fred Allan's Revue—WEAF
9.00—Andre Kostelanetz Orch.—WABC
9.30—Adventures of Gracie—WABC
9.30—John McCormick, tenor—WJZ
9.45—Jan Garber—WGN
10.00—Pleasure Island; Guy Lombardo's Orch., Ricardo Cortez, narrator—WEAF
10.00—Jack Pearl—WABC
10.30—Ray Noble's Orch.—WEAF
10.30—Concert Hall—WABC
10.00—Ray Noble's Orch.—WEAF
11.00—Four Aces of Contract Bridge WABC
11.30—Ink Spots—WJZ
12.00—Art Jarrett's Orch.—WEAF

◆

THURSDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ
10.30—Mrs. Aitken and Horace Lapp—CFRB
10.30—Banjoleers and Radio Sweethearts—WGY
11.00—Galaxy of Stars—WBEN
11.15—Tony Wons—WJZ
11.30—The Carnival—WBEN
11.30—Navy Band—WJZ
1.15—Radio Gossip Club—WGR
2.00—Music Guild—WJZ
3.00—Castles of Romance—WJZ
3.00—Roadways of Romance—WABC
3.15—Little Symphony—WJZ
4.00—Betty and Bob, drama—WJZ
4.15—Salvation Army Band—WABC
6.30—Jim Hunter, News—CFRB
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.15—Gems of Melody—WJZ
7.30—Dixie Dandies—WEAF
7.45—College Prom.; Ruth Etting, songs; Red Nichols' Orch.—WJZ
8.00—Rudy Vallee—WEAF
8.00—"Hour of Charm"—Phil Spitalny's Girl Ensemble WABC
1.30—"Red Trails," serial—WJZ
8.30—Forum of Liberty, Edwin C. Hill—WABC
8.45—Kay Kyser's Orch.—WGN
9.00—Show Boat—WEAF
9.00—Death Valley Days, drama—WJZ
9.00—Neilson Program—CFRB
9.00—Glen Gray's Orch.—WABC
9.30—Fred Waring's Orch.—WABC
9.30—Unsolved Mysteries—WLW
10.00—Paul Whiteman's Music Hall—WEAF
10.00—Melodic Strings—WJZ
10.30—Captain Dobbsie's Ship of Joy—WABC
11.00—News—CFRB
11.00—Little Jack Little's Orch.—WABC
11.30—Eddie Duchin's Orch.—WJZ
12.00—Herbie Kay's Orch.—WABC

FIXING OF RATES BY COMMITTEE IN MINIMUM WAGES

Government Does Not Propose to Set Rates of Pay

OTHER BILLS PASSED

Estimates For Defence Criticised in Sharp Debate

Ottawa, March 20 (CP)—Nothing short of war delays progress in the House of Commons. In steady succession a long series of varying government bills and resolutions dealing with unemployment relief, minimum wages, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, a National Economic Council and estimate for the Trade and Commerce Department are passing on toward law.

Speed seemed to be the order of the day yesterday as the opposition complacently bowed to the will of the government and refrained from attack or criticism. Late in the session, however, Hon. Grote Stirling, Minister of National Defence sought approval for some of his estimates and at once involved the House in a long discussion of war.

J. S. Woodsworth (Labor Winnipeg North Centre), staunch advocate of peace and disarmament, set the discussion going, when he asked what was the purpose of spending money on armed forces, which would not be large enough to protect Canada in the event of attack.

From that point he swung around to the prospect of a European war and declared Canada should not participate in another such conflict without taking a national plebiscite. He believed a majority of the people of Canada were loyal to the Empire but still opposed to participation in the Empire's wars. In fairness, he suggested the government should advise the United Kingdom to this effect so that Canada would not be counted upon to send troops abroad.

Minimum Wage Bill In

Two new government bills made their appearance yesterday and received first reading. The Minimum Wage Bill is a part of the government reform program and provides for the setting up of a committee to fix minimum rates of wages in commerce and industry. The bill itself does not fix rates. The committee would be composed of a representative of the Department of Labor with representatives of employers and workers. Heavy penalties are provided for infractions of the law with a maximum fine of $1,000 fixed for individual employers and $5,000 for corporations. The bill will not interfere with any provincial minimum wage laws.

◆

PURIM FESTIVAL IS CELEBRATED

Seventy-five Guests Present at Banquet at Synagogue

On Sunday, March 17th., the Jews of Belleville and vicinity assembled in the auditorium of the Synagogue to celebrate the Purim Festival.

About seventy-five guests were present at the banquet. The tables were laden with a bountiful supply of eatables and a sumptuous repast was had by all. The young people of the synagogue put on a play entitled "The Purim Gift". It was written and directed by Rabbi Ben Gertsel. The play was based upon an ancient custom that took place in the old country years ago. In those days the members of the wealthier families arranged gifts and interchanged them between themselves. Those taking part in the play were dressed in costumes of the time and period when the custom was observed.

The chairman of the evening was Mr. J. Berger, Secretary of the Sons of Jacob Synagogue. The first speaker to be called upon was Alderman Ben Safe. He was given a letter to read by Mr. Berger. The letter was sent to Mr. Berger by the Consul-General of the Czechoslovakian Republic, Dr. Pavlasek, of Montreal. It was a reply to the telegram the Jewish Community of Belleville, sent to Dr. Pavlasek on the occasion of the eighty-fifth birth day of Dr. T. Masaryk, President of the Czechoslovakian Republic. The letter—

"March, 13th., 1935.

"Belleville Jewish Community,
"Care of Mr. J. Berger, Secretary,
"Belleville Ont.,

"Dear Sirs,—

"I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your telegram of March 6th and to inform you that I have transmitted it to the President of the Czechoslavak Republic T. G. Masaryk.

Thanking you for your kind thoughts on the occasion of the 85th birthday of our President, I am

Yours very truly,
"Dr. P. Pavlasek,
"Consul."

Other speakers were Mr. J. Diamond, chairman of the Belleville Synagogue; Mrs. A. Safe, President of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Mr. B. Springer and Mr. H. Safe. The celebration closed with the singing of God Save the King.

BRIDAL COUPLE FETED BY FRIENDS

Halloway—There was no church service at this appointment on Sunday last owing to the pastor conducting a funeral at Marsh Hill.

On Thursday afternoon the funeral of the late Mrs. Albert Prest was conducted in this church by Rev. Mr. Mutton with quite a large attendance of relatives and friends. Interment was made in Guffin's cemetery. The bearers were four nephews of deceased, L. Prest, C. Prest, W. Prest, J. Prest and W. Cadman and G. H. Rose.

The L.O.L. held a social evening on Friday night in the hall. The first part of the evening was spent in progressive euchre and checker playing. Ladies prizes were won by Mrs. P. Kelly and Mrs. R. Bartelle. Men's prizes by H. Kelly and T. McGee. Rev. D C. Hill of Roslin gave a short address followed with readings from Mrs. Hayton and an instrumental number by Mr. H. Carter and son. At the close refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Wilson had tea on Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Forestal of Madoc spent Sunday at Mrs. Ryan's.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. S J. Kelly on Tuesday evening a complete surprise was given Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Turner of Marlette, Michigan by about thirty of their relatives and friends, whom they had visited while on their wedding tour and presented them with the following address which was read by Mr. Harold Blakely.

Dear Lillian and Raymond:

Since you are the first edded couple among our Michigan relatives who have honored us by a visit while on their honeymoon trip we a few of your family connections and friends have met here tonight to spend a social evening with you before you return to take up the duties of your new home. We wish for you the best of luck, good health and prosperity and hope you may be spared to make us another visit before many years go by. We ask you to accept this envelop with its contents and get something for your new home by which to remember your Canadian friends. Signed on behalf of your Canadian relatives. Both very graciously responded and invited them all to Michigan to visit them in their home. All joined in singing "For they are jolly good fellows". The rest of the evening was spent in social chat, refreshments being served at the close.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson had tea on Sunday evening at Mr. Herbert Townsend's.

Mr. E. Hough and son Francis of Frankford were guests at Mr. S. W. Hamilton's on Tuesday.

Mr. D. Smith of Tyendinaga spent Thursday at the home of his parents Mr. W. Smith.

Mrs. Ryan has returned home from Madoc after spending a few days with her Daughter.

Mr. Newman, evangelist, had tea recently at the home of Mr. McLelland's.

Mrs. J. McMullen, Miss B. Spencer, Miss B. McMullen and Mrs. R. Townsend attended Ladies' Guild and W.M.S. at the home of Mrs. Lake, of Foxboro on Wednesday.

Mrs. G. Cadman had dinner with Mrs. W. Smith on Wednesday,

Mr. and Mrs. B. McMullen attended a party at Mr. H. Carter's on Tuesday night which was given in honor of Mr. Carter's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. McGregor from Fort William.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Townsend and Mr. and Mrs. R. Turner called on Mrs. H. Clarne of Belleville on Saturday afternoon.

Msr. R. Blakely has returned home to Belleville after spending a few days at the home of her parents Mr. S. Townsend.

Miss Vera Rose and Mrs. Percy Kelly attended the W.M.S. Presbyterial in Picton as delegates from this branch.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Townsend spent Sunday with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson near Centenary and visited her sister Pearl, who was home for the week end from Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Hamilton were given a surprise on Saturday evening before leaving this week for their new home at Foxboro.

Rev. and Mrs. Hill and family of Roslin had tea with Mrs. R. Townsend on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Embury Hough had dinner recently with Mr. and Mrs. D. Haggerty of West Huntingdon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Phillips of Belleville spent a few days this week at the home of Mr. W. P. Frederick.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Gough spent Tuesday afternoon with their daughter Mrs. F. Wilson.

Miss Helen Goodfellow spent last week with her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Rose.

Quite a number from this viciniyt andtetonw.M.vedipD mo b ity attended the funeral of the late George Bird at Chatterton on Sunday.

The annual institute dinner was held at the home of the President, Mrs. E. B. Finkle, on Friday last. There was not as good attendance as usual perhaps owing to postponement and bad condition of roads.

Miss E. Lowery visited her sister Mrs. S. Rose on Tuesday last.

Mrs. B. O. Lott spent Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. W. Cadman.

Many are still convalescing with bad colds.

◆

FISH BOAT FIRST OUT

Sarnia, Ont., Mar. 19 (CP)—The tug R. G. Cooper, owned by a fish company at Port Huron, holds the distinction of being the first craft to move into Lake Huron this year. The tug went twenty miles out in the lake to place gill nets. Considerable ice was encountered during the trip.

MOST PEOPLE ARE WRONG ABOUT THE COST OF A NEW PLYMOUTH

SOME THINK THE PRICE IS $100 MORE THAN IT ACTUALLY IS!

YOU GET THE GOOD THINGS FIRST FROM CHRYSLER MOTORS

Ride Relaxed

Women delight in driving the New Plymouth because it steers so easily. Clutch operates with half the usual pressure. Gears are quiet in all speeds. Gears shift simply and easily. Plymouth has Floating Power engine mountings and an ALL Steel body.

YOU CAN BUY A NEW PLYMOUTH FOR AS LOW AS $797 DELIVERED IN BELLEVILLE

Plymouth has moved the weight of engine and passengers forward. Passengers ride cradled between the axles. Front and rear springs are tuned together—you don't get bounced.

Luggage slides into Plymouth's big trunk with the greatest ease . . . it's protected from dust and is out of the way. If you wish, the spare tire is carried on a rack in the bottom of the trunk.

You'll be proud to have this New Plymouth parked in front of your home.

Step in or Step out—with ease

JUST turn and step out. Everybody is surprised at the ease of getting out of the New Plymouth. In the first place you are sitting in a seat the height of a chair—so you get up without a struggle. Then, the door is very wide at the bottom, so you have lots of room. And, finally, the floor is almost on a level with the running board. Get into a Plymouth and try it yourself.

Plymouth is the only car in the lowest price field equipped with Hydraulic Brakes. They stop you instantly without swerving. Hydraulic Brakes are always equalized—they cannot be otherwise.

Plymouth is the best Enqineered car in the Lowest price Field...

121 Front St. J. T. WARREN Phone 933

CHILD IS NAMED BURGESS GHOST

Perth, March 20,—The "ghost of Burgess", which caused so much consernation in this district two months ago, has been "laid". Provincial Constable Robert Wannell of Perth today took into custody a 13-year-old boy whose home is in Burgess and who is charged with arson following the destruction by fire of the barn of Michael McFarland of Burgess, a neighbor of the boy's parents. The loss of the barn, which was a large one and contained a considerable supply of feed, is estimated at $2,000.

The youth was brought to district No. 9 Provincial Police headquarters here and questioned by Inspector Sidney Oliver. Police state that the boy confessed not only to firing the barn but to being responsible for the hoax which mystified the entire countryside in January, when crowds flocked to the home of John Quinn on the shores of Black Lake, near here following reports of weirdly breaking windows, walking flatirons and bouncing crockery. The allegedly "ghostly" happenings stopped after the farm had been visited by police and newsmen.

The police are not holding the boy in jail here, but, after having detained him for some hours in a local hotel, turned him over to the care of J. H. Devlin, Inspector of the Lanark County Children's Aid Society. He will appear in juvenile court here on Friday.

WAR THREAT IS PERIL TO SPIES CAUGHT IN EUROPE

War alarms in Europe have increased the peril of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Switz, of Orange, N.J., and 28 others indicted by French in biggest spy cleanup since first world war. Rising feeling against spies may make it inexpedient for government to liberate the Switzes (shown at top with their attorney) in accordance with the original plan to free them in return for turning "state's evidence" against other members of the ring, including (LEFT to RIGHT) Mme. Lydia Stahl divorced wife of New York businessman; Mme. Chana Salman and Mlle. Riva Davidovici.

DIFFERENCES IN EMOTIONS OF THE SEXES

Women's Emotional Lives More Highly Sensitized Than Men's

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright 1935 King Features

Some people claim there is no difference between a man's mind and a woman's mind; others claim that the difference is very great.

What we must remember, however is that the mind is a most complex organism, and that in studying the differences between masculine and feminine, as regards the mind, we must try to separate the component parts.

The simplest division of mental faculties is into intellectual and emotional processes. By "intellectual" we mean the faculties of reasoning, remembrance and the powers of inference. By "emotional" we take in those states of feeling which stir the mind to love, fear or hate.

Woman is certainly man's intellectual equal. If women have not developed as much knowledge as men, it is because of lack of opportunity and custom.

A girl student is just as quick and alert as a boy—often more so. In fact, women tend to be much more conscientious in their studies than men.

On the other hand, when we consider the emotional mind differences between men and women, we find them marked. Women's emotional lives are more highly sensitized and, therefore more variable than men's; and that is the reason—and there is no other—why the product of women's minds is neither so constant nor so effective.

Most of women's motherhood feelings usurp and supercede their intellectual endowments. If it were not for that, the intellectual performances of women would be equally as numerous and equally as excellent as men's.

In writing, for example, men write from the brain, whereas women write from the heart. This difference may be noted in most of the things done by men and women.

There are women, of course, whose minds have decidedly masculine attributes. Likewise, there are men whose minds have a feminine quality. Women could duplicate, if not surpass, anything that men have accomplished, if it were not for the preventing deep-rooted emotional factor.

But men can never duplicate, let alone surpass, women in the particular spheres to which their emotional life is so wonderfully adapted.

Imagine a man trying to take care of a child without the help of a woman! Yet there is nothing requiring brain power that a woman can't do —if she is properly trained —without the help of man.

DR. BISCH'S DAILY DIET HINT

Meat is a valuable food because it contains so much concentrated protein. Usually, also, it yields a considerable quantity of fat. Pork contains the most protein and the highest percentage of fat, the former being 25 per cent and the latter 14.4 per cent. Breast of veal comes next, while lamb and mutton follow with about 19 per cent. protein and 14 per cent. fat.

Joe E. Brown as "The Circus Clown" at the Capitol tonight only.

Paul Lukas and Walter Connelly in a scene from "Father Brown, Detective", which also features Gertrude Michael, and which comes tomorrow to the Capitol theatre.

Guardians of the Desert

By TOM GILL

Keeping well beneath the drifting clouds that crowded ever thicker as they plunged south, the plane skirted the eastern front of the Blue Ridge. Heavier clouds here. Several times during the next hour the pilot shook his head, as if apprehensive of what lay ahead, and at last, to break the maddening insistence of his thoughts, Dick leaned over and shouted, "Let me spell you for a while."

For a second the pilot hesitated, then rose from his seat. "It's against orders, but I've seen you fly and heard enough about you," he smiled. "Keep on this course and as high as you can without getting into the clouds. We won't try to cross the mountains until dawn. Meantime, I'll grab an hour's sleep."

Dick's feet touched the familiar rudder bar, and his hands fell lightly to the wheel. It was better here at the controls, better to have something to think about, to tear his thoughts from that fateful telegram and the gnawing uncertainty that lay ahead.

Once he looked back to see if his father were dozing, but the older Lowell sat with head hunched forward, gazing out into the surrounding night, and Dick knew that he too was bearing with him a host of unwelcome thoughts.

The illuminated clock on the instrument board told him it was nearing five. Two hours until day light, and by that time they should be nearing Nashville. Dick thrust the wheel slightly forward, depressing the nose of the plane, and at even that slight change the pilot was instantly awake, leaning over Dick's shoulder.

"Clouds are getting thicker," Dick called. "I'm going to take it a bit lower."

The other nodded and resumed his seat, but he no longer slept.

CHAPTER SIX

Flying low and fast through those hours of early morning with the north wind ever behind them, they passed over fields and villages looming up suddenly out of the darkness over some little Virginia or Carolina town, to be gone with a roar into the night again. But ever through that mad dash southward five words kept Dick relentless company: "Shot and killed. Murderer unknown." Like some maddening refrain the words became a part of the engine's whirring, adding to the grim firmness of Dick's mouth as he sat there at the wheel, impatient even with the terrific speed of the little monoplane, eager to be back again at the ranch and come at last to grips with the unknown enemy.

Abruptly he shook his head and resolutely thrust from him those crowding, discordant thoughts—time for that when he reached Verde.

Yet those last few hours had changed Dick Lowell. The task ahead had steadied him. That reckless, careless spirit, that half amused, half contemptuous attitude toward life as of one never quite able to take seriously the endless succession of trivialities that made up living—suddenly all this was altered. It was as if his reserve had put upon him a solemn obligation to be fulfilled before there could again emerge that careless, laughing Dick Lowell who had loved the dangerous by-paths of the world so wholeheartedly and had been so well beloved.

They sped on. A cold, misty sun rose reluctantly to the left, and beneath them the world became suffused with a light of tarnished grey. It grew brighter, and soon the pilot relieved Lowell at the controls and turned at last toward the mountains. Gusty and bumpy here. They were forced by low clouds to fly perilously near the whitened wintery peaks where in all that tumbled country a forced landing meant an almost certain crash, and more than once the pilot looked anxiously at his dwindling supply of gas. Cross currents buffeted them, racing clouds obscured their view, and wet snow beat viciously against the windows. With each mile they were forced still lower, while the gale with ever increasing savageness swooped down upon the plane.

Suddenly the world was blotted out by an enveloping cloud of snow. For many anxious moments they flew blindly through the whirling whiteness until again the cloud lifted, revealing a low line of jagged peaks to the left, then closed again—and now the little plane trembled through its length as it hurtled through the blinding, swirling snow. Already the gasoline gauge stood close to empty—only the small emergency tank remained, and the pilot turned it on.

He glanced anxiously at Dick, but the man only smiled.

Then, quickly as it had come, that white veil parted, revealing the mountains already behind them. Ahead were welcome level fields, and a little to the right lay the Nashville airport. Banking the plane sharply, the pilot grinned his relief.

"Thank God's that's over," he shouted, and a moment later they landed.

But here fate conspired to delay them. Almost as their wheels touched the muddy field the long delayed storm burst and mechanics hurried the plane into the shelter of a hangar. Dubiously the pilot telephoned for weather conditions to the west.

They were not reassuring. Union City, snow and fog. Memphis, fog and heavy rain. Mail plane held at McAlester. No service through west Texas for twenty-four hours.

Dick cursed beneath his breath, and reluctantly they drove to a nearby hotel, where the little party breakfasted. Later, after more fruitless telephoning, Dick paced the length of the lobby savagely watching the drifting snowflakes and the hostile, leaden sky. The pilot, more philosophic, buried himself in the morning paper, and toward noon struck up a conversation with the blonde custodian of the cigar counter.

That enterprising young lady had been watching Dick with frank approval.

"Who's your friend that's been doing the marathon all morning?" she asked at last. "He's walked about eleven dollars' worth of linoleum off the floor."

The pilot smiled. "That's Dick Lowell."

"Dickey doesn't seem to be in the best of humors."

"He's disgusted because I can't see flying in this blizzard. Inaction's poison to him. Well, that bird may have a charmed life, but I haven't."

"Charmed life?"

"That's what they say about him in the Air Service. He commanded a squadron of fliers in the last Mexican revolution and was the wildest of them all but came through without a scratch. Well, there has to be a first time for everything."

The pilot opened a magazine, while with increasingly approving eyes the girl watched that tall figure still pacing, still glancing out into the whiteness of the storm.

"He looks as if he's lived, don't he?" she murmured, "Like the kind of man who does pretty near as he feels like—the kind a girl would make a fool of herself over— and he wouldn't even know it."

But the pilot was already deep in a detective story.

Slowly the day passed. Toward evening the snow slackened and Dick, again phoning ahead, learned that the weather was clearing beyond Memphis.

But the pilot looked doubtfully out and at length shook his head. "I can't afford to take the chance, Mr. Lowell," he said at last. "I'm the one responsible, and we've orders not to take off in a storm under any conditions."

Dick laughed. "You call this a storm?"

The pilot's face flushed, but he only answered, "I'm sorry. The best I can promise is to leave at dawn, provided this rotten weather clears up."

"That's final?"

"I think it is, Mr. Lowell."

The day grew darker. Dick and his father finished an early dinner in almost absolute silence, but as the older man lighted a cigar he growled, "Do we spend the night here?"

Dick rolled a cigarette. "Not unless you want to," he answered quietly, "I'm taking that plane West tonight."

"And leave the pilot here?"

"Why not?"

Dick's father nodded. "That would get us in Verde by morning. Do you know anything about the plane?"

"I've never flown this model until today."

Again Solon Lowell smoked in silence, then announced shortly, "I'll go with you." But as he caught the look of quick approval in his son's eyes, he added gruffly, "It wouldn't be the first time you got me in a hell of a jam."

Together they left the hotel, and in a few moments were on their way to the flying field, where already the tanks had been refueled, and after a hasty examination Dick took his seat at the controls, and touched the starter. A moment later they were in the air, and without circling for altitude Dick headed straight across the city.

As the sound of the familiar motor roared overhead a thunderstruck pilot rushed to the steps of the hotel in time to see his monoplane disappear into the graying West.

"By the knock-kneed Jove!" He turned on consternation toward the blonde girl. "I might have known he'd do that."

"Sure you might of." Her eyes were just a little wistful. "Didn't I tell you he was that kind?"

Straight west they headed, flying fast and low beneath the waning storm. Monotonously the hours droned on, while, one by one, Dick checked on his map the landmarks that passed beneath him in the night. Crossing the Tennessee River, they passed to the north of Jackson, then dipped lower as they sighted dark waters of the Mississippi. Unseen to the cloud-banked north rose the Ozarks, and now, with a strong wind behind them, they were heading toward the Oklahoma border. Mile after mile, hour after hour, passed, while the engine hummed ist steady, confident monotone. By now the storm had been left far behind, and beneath a cloudless sky Dick held the plane high over the double line of rails that curved and gleamed under the winter stars. Twice they landed at airports for fuel, and at Santa Fe, the last stop, Dick looked at his watch. Four o'clock in the morning and a little over five hundred miles to go. He turned to the silent figure behind him.

"We'll be there by dawn, Dad."

But Solon Lowell, worn out by the long vigil was sleeping.

CHAPTER SEVEN

Just west of Sante Fe they crossed the shallow Rio Grande and headed toward the Mexican border. One by one the stars paled and a little before seven Dick caught the first faint rays of sunrise striking the wing tip of his plane, while in shadow beneath lay the unawakened mystery of the desert.

Steadily the light broadened, grew brighter, then suddenly a great flame of sunlight smote the world to living vibrant color. It cast long spears of shadow across the mesas, threw into bold relief the deep-gashed arroyas, and, silhouetted against the cobalt sky the faroff hills of Mexico. Sliding back the window, Dick felt the sudden rush of desert air, smelt the fragrance of the earth beneath him and the tang of sagebrush. Like wine it tingled in his every vein, and, head back, he drew in gratefully the healing breath of the desert.

In spite of that grim homecoming his whole being thrilled. The desert again! His desert, and soon—Nora. The man's eyes grew softer and hungrily he looked down upon that silent world, bathed in all the glory of early sunrise, stretching endlessly undulating to the far horizon. His country, his home, part of his earliest memories, part of the very stuff that made him. Each red-tiled ranchhouse, flanked by low adobe walls, told him he was nearing Verde. Every grove of feathery eucalyptus became increasingly familiar. The flaming crimson of the desert dawn heightened, touching to fire the low lying clouds to westward, and his eyes rose to where the long line of foothills stretched, green and cool, down to the desert's edge. He knew every path up there, knew every park that dotted the deep green sea, of pine. He leaned forward eagerly, his eyes straining to catch the first sight of Verde.

Solon Lowell slept on.

Closing the throttle, Dick glided still lower. Near a clump of mesquite a herd of cattle looked up from their grazing in quick alarm, then lumbered clumsily away, heads lowered, tails high in the air. A sheep herder bending over his tiny fire straightened to watch the plane's passing. Then, almost in the next moment, he saw it—Verde!

There, on the edge of the desert a little cluster of adobe dwellings threw back the sun's rays. Low and rambling they surrounded the small shaded plaza that still remained as a token of the town's Spanish ancestry, in the proud days before the Gringo. Beyond, dominated by the old vine-covered cathedral, lay Verde's modern section, and further out toward the desert, dusty and contented, lazily stretched the colorful Mexican Quarter. Yesterday and today, Latin and Anglo-Saxon, romance and reality. The leisurely courtesy of old Spain, the careless swagger of the border ranchmen—all this was Verde.

To the east a long, precipitous wall of rock stretched behind the city, dividing the desert from the hills and north of this, just where the dark rampart of pine reached down out of the foothills, Dick caught a gleam of the blue waters of Azure Lake.

No time to see more. Already he was gliding lower, circling, seeking a suitable landing field close to town. Satisfied at last, he throttled down the engine, and amid the low singing of wind through the wires he guided the little monoplane over a fringe of tamarisk and into a pasture beside the main Verde road. The wheels touched gently, the plane ran within a few feet of the wire fence, then stopped as Dick cut the switch, and opening the door he jumped out to stretch his cramped legs. He looked down the deserted road toward town, then called back to his father, "I wired from Santa Fe while you slept and asked Barnes to send a car when he heard us fly over." Again he flexed his powerful muscles. "Lord, I'm tired," he added.

Still seated in the obscurity of the plane, Solon Lowell placed a black, unlit cigar between his teeth, while with a kind of baffled pity Dick looked in at him. Perhaps he suffered—he must be suffering—yet he was so inaccessible, so utterly withdrawn from the world and from those who might help him.

One thought alone brought Dick comfort—Nora. Nora would understand and aid. He remembered the great bond of sympathy that had endured between this hardfisted, well hated warrior and the slender brown-eyed girl that all the border loved. And as he stood there waiting by the road his vagrant memories ran back to the girl, this childhood playmate who through the years had wrapped herself so completely about his very living there on the desert's edge, and now at thought of seeing her again his eyes relaxed something of their strained intensity, and the square line of his jaw became less grim.

Distantly the rumble of a car broke in upon reverie, and down the road from Verde a low roadster hurtled at full speed. Amid a cloud of desert dust it stopped just beyond the barbed wire fence, and with a sudden thrill of pleasure he saw a girl sitting at the wheel, her thick brown hair tossed by the wind, her cheeks flushed and glowing, either at the sight of Dick or whipped by the keen air of that early morning. White teeth sparkled between full, blood-red lips, and with a wave of a gauntleted hand she jumped from the car and ran to the fence. Without a word the tall man leaned over raised her in his arms, and lifting her across the barbed wire strands, held her, looking for a long moment into her eyes. And those eyes, dark and intelligent and just the least slanting, filled with quick sympathy as they raised to his and found his loss.

(To Be Continued).

(Copyright 1933 by Tom Gill,)
(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

MDIVANIS' NAMES TAKEN FROM SHOW

Ordered Removed From Bright Review Running in London

LONDON, March 20.— (AP)—Climaxing the mountainous publicity occasioned by Princess Barbara Hutton Mdivani's announcement that she will divorce her husband, the names of both of them were removed today from a comedy scene of the review "Stop Press" on request of the official censor of the British stage.

The Lord Chamberlain, in his official capacity as censor, issued a summons upon Clifford Whitley, producer of the show.

Princess Barbara, who was in a bad temper over the disclosure yesterday that she plans to cut off Prince Alexis without a penny when she gets her Reno divorce, said she had received "many letters from friends urging her to protest" against the show.

Whitley and his associates, however, insisted she had not taken any action and that the summons was issued independently of her. Beginning tonight the stage skit will be entitled merely "Famous American Heiress Meets Foreign Prince", and the characters will not have the names of the Prince and Princess Mdivani. Dorothy Dickson, the American actress who played the part of Princess Mdivani, will still be "smothered in jewelry" as described by the show directors, and will still sing "The nickels and dimes I've got bought me an awful lot" and "Eeny meeny miney mo, catch a prince by the toe."

The revue was a success in New York under the name "As Thousands Cheer."

CONVENT DESTROYED

Sudbury, Ont. March 20—(CP)—Word was received here today the convent at Foleyet was totally destroyed by fire Monday. The convent is operated by the Sisters of the Holy Cross who teach in the Separate School there.

CANADIAN FLYING IS FORGING AHEAD

Relatively More Passengers Carried Here Than in United States

Montreal, March 20—Scheduled air services in this country have been reduced and maintained at a very low figure for reasons of economy, yet twenty-five per cent. more passengers per 1,000 of population were carried by aircraft in Canada during the past year than in the United States, the respective totals being approximately 75,000 and 600,000. Furthermore Canada leads the world in the utilization of aircraft for developing her resources in outlying districts. These observations were made last night by H. O. Young, manager in this country of Canadian Colonial Airways, speaking before members of the Canadian Railway Club in the Windsor Hotel.

Some indication of the progress achieved in this country during the last few years was afforded by comparative figures. Whereas 764,000 pounds of air express were carried during 1931 the volume last year was in excess of 13,000,000 pounds. In addition 542,000 pounds of air mail were flown by Canadian aircraft last year, representing some 21,000,000 letters, based on a conservative estimate of forty letters to a pound.

During the seven years between 1926 and 1933, the number of passengers flown in the United States on air routes increased from 5,782 to 550,000 in twelve months, and the volume of air mail advanced from 433,000 pounds in 1926 to 7,665,000 pounds in 1933. Planes of established air transport companies flew 40,000,000 miles in 1933, Mr. Young stated. "I do not think it is necessary with people such as yourselves to discuss the subject of safety other than to remark that safety is foremost in the minds of all air transport operators, who have achieved a high reputation. During the first six months of 1934, only fourteen passengers were killed, or one for every 5,000,000 miles flown."

Much Safety Equipment

Equipment for enhancing the safety element in aviation was described by the speaker, who explained that beacons have been erected in the United States for night flying, while radio beacons supply pilots with constant signals that enable them to follow a set course. All transport planes are also equipped with two-way wireless telephones, which enable them to maintain constant communication with various airports, and to obtain information about weather likely to be encountered. Aircraft may even land in fog before long, a radio device being developed whereby a pilot may be enabled to follow a wireless wave that will direct him to the surface of an airport on which he can make a three-point landing with complete confidence.

Another instrument is being developed to provide a pilot with exact information concerning his distance from the terrain below his plane. An electrical impulse transmitted from the aircraft will be reflected from the ground and register on a dial before the pilot his height above the ground. "As this new equipment is developed and improved, it is utilized by the transportation companies, and renders flying just that much safer.

The design and manufacture of airplanes and engines has also progressed materially, Mr. Young observed. Whereas Canadian Colonial Airways was operating out of Montreal twelve months ago a machine with a cruising speed of 105 miles an hour, today the two hundred miles between here and Albany are covered at an average of 180 miles an hour. Furthermore, planes are now much quieter, and they are equipped with all the conveniences that one expects to find in a first-class Pullman. Sleeper planes are being flown between New York, Buffalo, Detroit and Chicago, and from Fort Worth to Los Angeles. Berths are a little narrower than in a regular Pullman car, but six inches longer. They are very comfortable, and are well patronized.

Slower European Services

Conservative as they are by nature in Europe, relatively slow advances have been achieved, moderate rates of speed with large aircraft actually luxurious airliners, being the trend. Imperial Airways operate air transportation services from London to the Continent, continuing through the Near East to India and Singapore. Within the last two or three weeks, the first through air mail service has been established between England and Australia, Mr. Young observed. Although air transportation has progressed in Europe on an extremely sound basis, night flying has not been developed there as in the United States.

Discussing the situation in Canada, the speaker explained that aviation in this country has experienced many changes. Until three years ago, there were scheduled air mail and passenger services out of Montreal to Saint John and Moncton in the east, to Toronto and Detroit, whence connections were maintained with Winnipeg and through Regina to Calgary and Edmonton in the west. In addition to these daily services, there were other season operations that involved contacts at Rimouski with incoming and outgoing ocean liners, winter operations along the north shore of the St. Lawrence to Seven Islands and beyond, and other services were maintained. Economic conditions involved cancellation by the Government of many mail contracts. This had had a very serious effect on what would have been the natural growth of scheduled air transportation throughout Canada. Mr. Young declared, but it would appear that the sun would rise on a new day for aviation in this country, and it was expected that within a reasonable time Canada would take the place with other nations in the development of aerial transportation.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop and ma was going out to play bridge, more for ma's sake than for pop's, and he was still reeding the paper and ma said, My lands Willyum, patience is rapidly ceesing to be a virtue. If you dont get ready immeeditly we'll be late and those people will think we're awful. You know how important the element of time is to bridge players, and there you sit like a statue of peace and plenty. My goodness dont you ever worry? she said.

Why should I, I can always find somebody to worry for me, look at you rite now, for instants, pop said, and ma said, Well I must say I think that's a very selfish viewpoint. I cant say that I'm a socialist about everything, but I do say that everybody should do their own worrying, she said.

Count me out, pop said. I never intend to worry. Even when I have one foot in the grave I'm not going to worry if the other one is a little bit late. Wich reminds me of a good epitaff for my tombstone. It will go something like this:

Here lies the genial Willyum Potts
Who smiled his way through life,
He ony saw the brightest spots
And left his worries to his wife.

Now Willyum what a way to tawk when we're both blessed with the best of health and awt to appreciate it and be properly grateful ma said, and pop said, But the ony way to be sure of a decent epitaff is to write it yourself. Now this one mite be even better:

Here lies old Pottsie, Willyum P.
As merry a sole as there could be,
When asked how he lived to a hunderd and 3
He gave Dont Worry as the recipee.

Now Willyum, I wont listen to any more, do you hear? ma said, and pop said, Have you stopped worrying about being late? and ma said, Yes, my goodness, yes, and pop said, Then let's go.

Wich they did.

AT THE FIRST TOUCH OF DYSPEPSIA

TAKE BISURATED MAGNESIA

IT will give you relief at once because this combination of bismuth in magnesia is soothing, healing and neutralizing. Simple forms of indigestion or dyspepsia, with attendant heartburn, flatulence, gas, nausea, etc., yield very quickly to Bisurated Magnesia. It is harmless and sure. . . . Has no bad after-effects. Can be given to children.

Bisurated MAGNESIA IS BISMUTH IN MAGNESIA NOT A LAXATIVE

Because Bisurated Magnesia is Bismuth in Magnesia, it is more effective in correcting acid stomach and kindred complaints, than either bismuth or magnesia used alone.
72H

NEW YORK

. . . . Gay MUSIC and dancing—only two of the many attractions of this big NEW hotel that spell the difference between dull holiday and a grand vacation—yet, you pay no more.

The GOVERNOR CLINTON is near shopping districts, theatres, Wall Street, Churches and every important point of interest.

Four fine restaurants provide a pleasing variety—Food of supreme excellence prepared by skilled chefs.

The delightful Cocktail Terrace, overlooking the Lobby, is a swell spot for your favorite drink.

Dance at Dinner or Supper . . . in the smart new Balloon Room . . . Anthony Trini's music—one of New York's best dance orchestras.

1200 Bedrooms, tastefully furnished, immaculately clean; each with outside exposure, bath, servidor, radio, circulating chilled drinking water.

$3 UP daily

C. W. Ramsey, Jr.
manager

HOTEL
GOVERNOR CLINTON
7th AVENUE at 31st STREET
NEW YORK

DON'T SUFFER PILES

Two Special Preparations
By the makers of Mecca Ointment

QUICK RELIEF!

Two kinds—No. 1, for Bleeding (sold in Tube with pipe for internal use), soothes and heals. No. 2, for Itching or Parasitic Piles. Sold in Jar, for external use only. Kills the Parasite and stops itching.

MECCA PILE REMEDIES

Coal Service

YOUR FUEL SUPPLY

is practically as near as your telephone when you use our modern coal service. A simple call to our office, and—presto! —your cold-weather worries can be banished from your mind. Your order will be filled promptly with coal of the highest quality; and delivered directly into your bins without fuss or muss.

HARRY SMITH
150 PINNACLE STREET. PHONE 2071

"I CANNOT TELL A LIE"

You can trust advertisements .... and the companies that advertise. Because written selling is a pledge of faith. No established business can afford to put a wrong in writing. To advertise an inferior product is simply to hasten its failure.

Make the hard part of your shopping easy—as you sit in a comfortable chair at home. This newspaper reviews the shopping news of the day. Advertisements point the way to genuine bargains. They recommend variety for menus .... they present the honest merits of products you need.

A few quiet moments, spent with the advertisements, will save you many hectic hours of shopping around. And when your buying is done, you'll find that you have reliable things, bought at fair prices and giving genuine service as promised.

Hockey
Current Sport

IN THE REALM OF SPORTING EVENTS

Basketball
Bowling

N. H. L. Schedule Completed With Toronto, Chicago and Maroons Winning Final Games

Players Take no Chances in Getting Hurt Before Playoffs

RECORD NOT BROKEN

Toronto Comes Within 599 of High Attendance For Circuit

(By The Canadian Press)

Another schedule in the long history of the National Hockey League was complete today as the six teams that survived four months of hockey went on to the play-offs starting this week-end. In the long grind that started November 8 and saw each team contest 48 games only New York Americans, St. Louis Eagles and Detroit Red Wings were eliminated.

Games in Toronto, Montreal and Boston last night closed the 1934-35 schedule. None of them meant a thing as all playoff places had been clinched but the teams went through the motions with enough spirit to provide interesting contests.

At Toronto the Leafs took Eagles 5-3, Chicago beat Canadiens 4-2 at Montreal and Maroons defeated Boston 4-2 at Boston.

Leafs went into the tussle with Eagles with the idea of giving George Hainsworth a shutout so he could tie Alex Connell of Maroons for tops in that department and to help Harvey Jackson gain second place to Charlie Conacher in scoring points.

They failed in both undertakings, Ossie Osmundson, Vic Ripley and Carl Voss beating Hainsworth and Jackson failing to appear in the summary. Conacher won the scoring race with 36 goals and 21 assists for a total of 57.

Syd Howe Second Best

Syd Howe of Detroit was second with 48 points, Larry Aurie, Detroit third with 45 and Jackson fourth with 44.

Leafs fans also fell down in making another record. If 7,127 of them had attended last night's game a new season attendance record for the N.H.L. in Canada would have been made but they fell 599 short of tying the mark.

Leafs got three goals in the first period through Conacher, Harold Cotton and Pep Kelly and rapped in two more late in the third, Cotton scoring again and Frankie Finnigan getting the fifth.

Lorne Chabot, Chicago goalie, won the Georges Vezina Trophy when he held Maroons to two goals, finishing the schedule with 88 scores against him, compared to 92 against Connell, his closest opponent for the honor.

Third period goals by Louis Trudel and Howie Morenz broke a 2-2 tie to give Hawks the game. Paul Thompson and Doc Romnes had scored for Chicago in the first and Pete Lepine and Wildor Larochelle had split the Canadien counters.

Bob Gracie, a former Bruin, was the standout at Boston, scoring two goals against his former teammates that made the difference between the teams. Gus Marker and Cy Wentworth got the other Maroon goals and Marty Barry and Charlie Sands scored for Bruins.

DEATHS YESTERDAY

By the Canadian Press

Berlin—Carl Duisberg, 74, founder and president of the powerful German Dye Trust.

Johannesburg, South Africa—J. G. Macdougall, President of Macdougalls, Limited, and Macdougalls Trust, Limited, important London grain concerns.

Brookville, Pa.—Anthony Wayne Cook, 75, one of the leading lumbermen of the United States.

Toronto—Lt.-Col. John Bruce, 83, Registrar of the Admiralty Court of Ontario.

Toronto—Francis Bowden, 79, President of the Bowden Lumber and Coal Company.

Chicoutimi—Abbe Joseph Appolinaire Gingras, 88, Dean of Roman Catholic Clergy in the eastern part of Quebec.

Palmo Springs, Calif.—Clifford S. Heinz, 52, Vice-President of the N. J. Heinz Company.

THE BIG SEVEN

(By The Canadian Press)

Charlie Conacher, Toronto Maple Leafs' great right winger was the only marksman among the Big Seven who increased his average in the National Hockey League's concluding schedule engagements last night. He scored one goal to bring his total to 36 with 21 assists.

The standing:

	G	A	Pts
C. Conacher, Toronto ..	36	21	57
Howe, Detroit	22	26	48
Aurie, Detroit	17	28	45
H. Jackson, Toronto .	22	22	44
Boucher, Rangers	12	32	44
Chapman, Americans .	10	33	43
Lewis, Detroit	16	26	42

Patrick Counts On Rangers as 'Money Players'

By BOB CAVAGNARO

Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, March 20—(AP)—Silver haired Lester Patrick, manager and coach of the slump-stricken New York Rangers, is counting on his blue shirts' reputation as "money players" to carry them past Montreal Canadiens in their first assignment in National Hockey League playoffs and ultimately to gain the Stanley Cup, symbol of the world's championship.

Rangers make their debut in the post-season competition here Sunday night at the start of a two-game, total-goal series between the teams which finished third in their divisions.

"Consider our case," suggested Patrick. "We started our season in a slump, that lasted something like seven weeks. Then we changed goalies and added a bit of strength to our defence and for the next six weeks we didn't lose a game, climbing from last place to the top.

"And then what happened! Starting with Feb. 24 and winding up last Sunday night we are able to win only one game out of 10. That doesn't span six weeks but it comes close enough for us to expect another reversal in form.

"These last few weeks we've been playing wide-open offensive hockey. Many times I've had five forwards on the ice and occasionally six. After all the fans want action and we want to win ball games.

"Well those tactics weren't successful so we've junked them and starting Sunday night we're going to play play-off hockey, which we hope will be pay-off hockey."

What Patrick meant was that defence men would stick to their posts seldom rushing and that the front line would pay more attention to back checking.

N. H. L. STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Bob Gracie, Maroons, scored two goals that made up the Montrealers' margin over Boston.

Louis Trudel, Chicago, notched the winning goal when Hawks defeated Canadiens.

Harold Cotton, Toronto, bagged two counters in the game with St. Louis.

HOCKEY SCORES

National League

Toronto 5; St. Louis 3.
Maroons 4; Boston 2
Chicago 4; Canadiens 2.

International League Playoffs

London 5; Cleveland 4.
Twenty minutes overtime.
Detroit 4; Syracuse 1.

Maritime League Senior Finals

Halifax 4; Edmunston 1.
First of total-goal series.

American Association

Kansas City 7; Tulsa 4.

TECS, OLYMPICS WIN PASTIMES

London Forced Into Overtime to Defeat Cleveland

By The Canadian Press

Major honors of initial playoff skirmishes in the International Hockey League rested today on the broad shoulders of Eric Pettinger, London Tecumsehs' smart playmaker from Regina.

It was Pettinger, with the aid of Eddie Ouellette and Bernie Brophy, who ended 80 minutes of gruelling hockey against Cleveland Falcons last night. He scored the winning goal in the second overtime period to win 5-4.

The other playoff bracket, saw Detroit Olympics and Syracuse Stars in action. The O's had little difficulty in getting a 4-1 victory. The teams meet again Thursday in Syracuse.

Connie King and Desse Roche put the Detroiters ahead in the first period and Desse scored again for the only second period goal. Wally Kilrea drew assists on Detroit's first three markers.

Syracuse's lone reply came through Scottie Martin on a pass from Brother Ron in the third session. All it did was avert a shutout, for two minutes later Blake got the goal back for Detroit.

London in Overtime

The Cleveland-London game was a struggle from start to finish. There was no score in the first period but at the end of the second London was ahead 3-1. Then Falcons put on a third-period scoring burst to make it 4-3 and Ouelette tied it up and sent the game into overtime.

Two thousand fans watched Pettinger, Ouellette and Brophy snap the game out of the fire for the Tecs. It was Pettinger's second goal of the game.

The big Reginan opened the scoring in the second period. Brophy added another and then Will Cunningham scored his first of three goals for Cleveland.

Toupin came through with another London tally before the second frame finished but the third period went to Cleveland by a wide margin.

Patsy Callighen scored for the Falcons and then Cunningham added two more. Ward and Toupin aided Ouellette in knotting the count.

The first overtime period was scoreless. The battle was so even, that there were only 55 seconds of the second extra frame left, when Pettinger blossomed forth with the winning counter.

LEAGUE LEADERS

(By The Canadian Press)

Canadian Section

Section: Toronto, won 30; lost 14; tied 4; points 64.

Points: C. Conacher, Toronto, 36 goals; 21 assists; 57 points.

Goals: C. Conacher, Toronto 36.

Assists: Chapman, Americans 33.

Penalties: Horner, Toronto, 125 minutes.

Shutouts: Connell, Montreal 9.

American Section

Section: Boston, won 26; lost 16; tied 6; points 58.

Points: Howe, Detroit, 22 goals; 26 assists; 48 points.

Goals: Dillon, Rangers 25.

Assists: Boucher, Rangers 32.

Penalties: Seibert, Rangers, 84 minutes.

Shutouts: Thompson, Boston, Chabot, Chicago 8.

Oshawa Majors Deprived of Junior O.H.A. Title by Playing Bagnell, Declared Over Age

Allowed However to Continue in Memorial Cup Playdowns

MUST PLAY SERIES

Lions, Rangers, Kitchener Brought Back For Chance

Toronto, March 20—(CP)—Faced with one of the most explosive situations to arise in years, the sages of the old Ontario Hockey Association have apparently reached a solution to a junior play-off mix-up, that is satisfactory all around.

Oshawa Majors, who played through the season with an overage player, Bill Bagnell, were deprived of their Junior "A" title by the O.H.A. executive late last night and ordered to win it all over again without Bagnell, if they could. Toronto Lions, Toronto Young Rangers and Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts were brought back from the shades of elimination for another try.

But the Memorial Cup show must go on. Tonight Oshawa plays Sudbury Cub Wolves here in the first of a two-game series and if the Northern Ontario champions win they will proceed as Ontario's representative in the Memorial Cup playdowns. That much is settled to Sudbury's satisfaction.

Should Oshawa eliminate the northerners, they must defeat the ultimate winners of a series involving Lions, Rangers and Kitchener to qualify for the Canadian playdowns. Lions and Rangers will play a series and the winner will play Kitchener. In the event of Oshawa losing to Sudbury, the Majors will engage in a series with Lions, Rangers or Kitchener for the O. H. A. "A" title only.

Two games of the Kitchener-Oshawa O.H.A. final series had been played when the Greenshirts protested Bagnell's eligibility and a quick investigation revealed the player overage. He was suspended. Oshawa and Kitchener played the third game under an agreement that it would decide the series. Oshawa won.

But Lions and Rangers had previously been eliminated by Oshawa and they rose to protest. So the O. H. A. opened up the series to give them all another chance.

For SAFETY'S SAKE

have Your BRAKES and WINDSHIELD WIPER INSPECTED NOW!

Don't endanger your life by driving while your view of the road is obstructed. Let us inspect and adjust your brakes, also your windshield wiper to assure clear vision ahead. Drive in tomorrow . . .

FOR SAFETY'S SAKE
Have the reflectors of your headlights resilvered for better road illumination

CHRIS LEWIS
QUINTE BATTERY SERVICE STATION
4 Dundas Street

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

Early this week a determined effort to establish a soccer football team in Belleville was started by the floundering Belleville United soccerites." For some seasons past the "United" team has played innumerable games of English football throughout the district with mediocre success. As a matter of fact the local soccerites have repeatedly met with better success while playing games away from home, at least we should say more successfully in the matter of finances. In late years soccer football has been crowded off the local sport map by such warm weather sports as baseball, lacrosse, softball, golf, etc., but, once again a determined effort to bring the British national pastime before local sport followers has been launched. It is understood there are a number of "old country" soccer players about the town, all of whom are anxious to see the game flourish locally and are ready to assist in any way possible. Incidently we understand that Harry Williams, local tobacco traveller, is an ex-member of the Manchester United, one of the truly great English football teams.

Those endeavoring to elevate soccer football in Belleville are not leaving a stone unturned in their path as it was announced today that an effort to revive the game in local public schools would also be made. It is understood, that a silver trophy was donated by the late Senator Harry Corby for public school football competition many years ago and is at present lying dormant some place in the city. According to information received this trophy was last seen reposing in the officers' mess at the Armouries and an effort will be made to once again place it in competition among public and separate schools football teams. Whether youthful Canada of today will take to soccer football or not remains to be seen, but doubtlessly there will be a goodly following of interested spectators among the old countrymen today residing in this immediate community. Without fear of contradiction it must be admitted that the sponsors of the game are surely commencing at the proper point—for educational purposes—"the schools."

Congratulations to Josephine Laba, born in Halifax, 21 years ago today. She made a name for herself first in junior track ranks. Her world record of 11 3-5 seconds for the junior 100 yards still stands. Josephine also has won the Canadian championship with the eight-pound shot.

"What's the matter with including our B.C.I. senior basketball team in your proposed city cage play-offs?" asked Coach George Laughlin in relationship to the city basketball series between the Deacon A C Juniors and the "Y" intermediates. "Not a thing, but are they strong enough to stack up against these powerful squads", we came back. "Strong enough, well I'll let you know, that in a round robin series with those other two outfits our "collegians" will not have to take any back seat," rejoined Coach Laughlin, with such an assured air that we actually believe he is right. At any rate the Deacons are anxious to get a crack at the "Y" intermediates while the Morden-coached aggregation from the Campbell Street association are biding their time until they can get a crack at "those cocky juniors". A series for the city basketball championship should attract a large following as Belleville sport fans have become more basketball-minded this season owing to keen competition in the E.O.B.A.A. At any rate the question of a round robin basketball series between B.C.I. seniors, "Y" intermediates and the Deacon A.C. juniors is seriously being considered.

Naturally with all the controversy going on following the Oshawa-Kitchener junior series, Manager Ed Wiley of the eliminated Toronto Young Rangers officially notified Secretary Bill Hewitt of a protest being lodged by his Club against the Majors. Well, if all stories pertaining to the Oshawa-Kitchener series be true, one cannot really blame Mr. Wiley and his backers. Of course the O.H.A. will have the final say-so in the matter, however.

Young, old and all other categories of checker players are practicing faithfully these days in preparation for the Eastern Ontario checker championship tournament to be staged in Belleville on March 25th. Those in charge of the tournament are preparing to accommodate over 100 participants this year at the "Y".

Oarsmen at the Vancouver rowing club have already started training. But only the big boys who pull sweep oars in the eight boats. Singles, doubles and fours will go on the water about the end of March.

At the Training Grounds

(By Alan Gould, Associated Press (Sports Editor)

Lakeland, Fla., March 20 (AP)—Widespread contention, that Detroit Tigers benefitted from a rare collection of good breaks last season and generally were fortunate to land on top of the American League after a lapse of 25 years is not entirely accurate.

Manager Gordon Stanley (Mickey) Cochrane is willing to admit any club "has to be lucky to be on top" but he adds:

"We forced the breaks last year, too. We came through in the tough spots because we produced the two things that count most—power and pitching."

"We are aching for one more good crack at those Dean boys," says Mickey. "It looks like most of the clubs will be stronger this year but the one outfit I think we have to beat is the Yankees."

Tigers last season came up with the year's pitching sensation in Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, who equalled the league record with 16 consecutive victories and combined with the brilliant Tommy Bridges to register 46 triumphs, only three short of the output of the Dean brothers.

The "iron man" infield of Hank Greenberg, Charley Gehringer, Billy Rogell and Marvin Owen played 153 games together and furnished the defensive backbone as well as the main source of batting power. The quartet drove in the amazing total of 462 runs last season.

Letters to the Sports Editor

Napanee, March 19, 1935

Sport Editor,
Ontario-Intelligencer, Belleville,
Dear Sir:

This is the letter which I promised you, stating why we in Napanee do not feel, that we should jump to the C.O.B.L. this year.

The whole question boils down to the fact, that a Napanee Senior team simply could not pay its way and we are not in any position to adopt a policy, which we know from experience would prove a failure.

We base our decision on the following points:

(1) Size of town.
(2) Size of gates.
(3) Known running expenses.
(4) Difficulty of getting necessary time off for all-day trips.

Size of Town

Napanee with a population of only about 3,500 people could not hope to make ends meet when Peterboro with a population of 23,000 and with a winning club apparently lost $400.00. Right now we feel that we are getting to our games all the ball fans in Napanee and vicinity we can hope to attract no matter what we may do. Furthermore, we know from past attempts that we cannot increase our prices.

Size of Gates

Somebody must have been leading you astray on this point, and I will give you a few facts and figures.

You said in your comments in the paper that you had been told that our attendance ran 700 people last year per game. Even with winning a championship we only had three games where our total attendance was 700, and this was not paid attendance but gross attendance. Only twice all season was our grandstand filled. It holds 550. That was when we played against Picton and Southampton. As a matter of fact, with all our "A" games, exhibition, league and O.B.A.A. championships our average was only 340, less than half what your informer said it was. And remember that was not paid but gross, including children let in free and unemployed who were not charged a nickel.

Now in connection with our gates the A's played 27 games of ball last year, championship, exhibition and league. The average gate for the 27 was $87.15, and this included several championship gates which ran into several hundred dollars. So you can see that throughout the season they must have been considerably lower. As a matter of fact we had nine league games here and our average gate was $55.72. Senior clubs played in Napanee seven times and the average for the seven was only $63.70. This gave us an average for the league and senior exhibition games of only $59.21, and it must be remembered too that a lot of the senior games were played on holidays when we would draw absolutely the limit from Napanee.

The prospect of losing $40.00 a game is absolutely too much for us.

Expenses

We figure we would need an average of $100.00 gate per game to make ends meet with the following rough figures in mind:

$40.00—Travelling.
35.00—Home game expenses.
25.00—Toward uniforms, upkeep of park and club equipment.

These figures cannot be so far out because Walter Gerow tells me that when he had the Belleville club they used to figure that they needed $100.00 per game to come out even.

Time Off

It also must be remembered that our factory is just a relatively small one, and when you take out the number that are playing on the ball club, it leaves the factory pretty well disorganized. We have no men to fill these positions and it ties up our production. The greater number of games played in the C. O. B. L. and the longer jumps would mean that the players would be off work more, the all-day trips being almost more than we could stand.

We cannot see why you are trying to force Napanee into Senior ball and passing up Cobourg which at one time played Senior and still holds a C.O.B.L. franchise.

It has been rumored that these intermediate teams are kicking at playing with us. This may be true to an extent but, mind you, just the same they would be tickled to death to have us because we have been the team that drew the gates all around the circuit for the last two or three years.

Those Intermediate teams now are confident that something can be worked out and are anxious to keep Napanee in Intermediate ball in order to keep the league in some kind of shape financially.

Good baseball towns in Western Ontario, such as Kitchener, Guelph, etc. are kicking at making the jumps which are necessary to play Senior ball to-day. If those good ball towns and teams of their size cannot do it, how can it be expected of a town of 3,500 like Napanee.

Much has been said about me promising that our club would play Senior ball this year if we won the Intermediate championship. I think, if you will remember correctly, I said that if we won the Intermediate championship it would then be time enough to think about playing senior. However, in view of the gates which we got last year with a winning team and the prospect of no larger gates this year, we feel that playing Senior is out of the question.

Yours very truly,
Signed: G. E. Gibbard.

Recreation Alleys

Mercantile League

Ciceri and Bolton—F. Ellis 437; R. MacLean 716; A. Ciceri 633; J. Darvell 544; B. Kitchen 594—2924.

Gold Medal—W. Kemp 512; W. Easton 491; W. Hopping 385; J. Jackson 423; L. Barrett 516—2327.

National (4)—H. Cordon 534; H. Akey 454; D. Philips 538; F. MacDonnell 503; H. Kemp 547—2576

Percival.—H. Graydon 427; R. Burtt 545; M. Moorman 419; T. White 432; H. Brown 428—2251.

Loblaw (3)—G. Fordyce 571; J.

C.D.S. (1)—W. Baker 516; L. McLaughlin 489; D. Gariepy 640; G. Fisher 616; H. Mason 492—2703. Childs 580; C. Gee 496; H. Green 587; E. Graves 426—2595

Senior League

Rovers—R. Browning 507; S. Munning 508; H. Boyce 531; A. Stewart 587; H. Salisbury 519—2652

Schneiders (4)—F. Ellis 496; R. MacLean 615; A. Ciceri 633; B. Kitchen 458; J. Darvell 675—2877

Black Hawks (3)—C. Scopis 630; J. Black 506; R. Hardwick 614; L. Lennox 584—2334

Ponies (1)—R. Simpson 484; D. Robinson 414, R. Burtt 619, D. Hyde 617—2134.

Bank of Montreal (3)—S. Barton 688; W. Tiers 467; W. Skoog 536; M. Adams 443; S. Walroth 591—2725.

Deacon Shirt (1)—J. Shappee 574 H. Moxam 515; W. Vantassel 630; D. Ridley 601; T. White 391—2711

Y. M. C. A. ALLEYS

In the Ladies' Afternoon League the Y Ladies got three points to the Aviators one.

Ladies' Afternoon

Aviators 1 point
Mrs. Sills . ..	177	172	208—557
Mrs. Doe	110	103	90—303
Mrs. Reid . ..	124	162	148—434
Mrs. Mather ..	121	154	171—446
Mrs. Graves ...	116	68	11[illegible]—299
Total			2039
Y. Ladies 3 points
Mrs. Shortt ..	117	10[illegible]	118—[illegible]
Mrs. Houston ..	181	138	119—438
Mrs. Logan ..	168	130	161—459
Mrs. Richard ..	157	176	135—468
Mrs. Morgan ...	106	164	97—367
Total			2074

Spring SHIRTS

If you want to see really smart shirts and if you're looking for a change, we advise you to looking in this direction.

NEW COLORS
NEW PATTERNS
NEW STRIPES
NEW COLLAR STYLES

Mr. T. J. Doyle of the Wm. H. Leishman Company will be in our store Thursday and Friday for the purpose of taking special measurements.

Quick & Robertson
First in Style, Quality and Reasonable Price.

CHOSEN AS ALL-STAR GOAL-TENDER

LORNE CHABOT

Lanky net-minder for Chicago Black Hawks, who was chosen to tend goal for the mythical all-star N.H.L. team selected by sport writers this season, Chabot was yesterday awarded the Georges Venzina trophy emblematic to the year's best goalie, succeeding the late "Chuck Gardiner, whose place he fills in the Black Hawks nets, as all-star twine tender.

Daily Short Story

"SOCIAL"

By N. Florence Ross

(Copyright 1933 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Racy and Stephen Shaw weren't talking. It was the third week of their silence and the air was charged with hostility. Racy knew a tiny gesture—even a half gesture—would bring them together again. All she needed to do was to reach across the breakfast table and touch his hand. Stephen, who had long wanted to take her in his arms, recognized it, too. Why, then couldn't he take the first step?

The answer is simply that Racy and Steve were human. Each wanted truce—but each wanted victory, too. Whoever held up the white flag would be written down the loser. And nobody likes to be vanquished in the battle of marriage.

Accident, then, provided both armies with an avenue of dignified retreat. It was one of those rainy evenings when anything may happen—and nothing usually does. The telephone rang and Racy heard the news first. Steve's mother was dangerously ill. Almost before she knew it, she was saying, "Oh, darling, we'll have to rush to the hospital. Your mother—" They were in each other's arms then—and it was over.

When Mrs. Shaw's illness was a thing of the past, together with their bitter quarrel, things went along smoothly for a few weeks. They stayed at home a good deal, talking about each other, just as though they hadn't been married for three years. It was loads of fun, but of course, it didn't last.

It didn't last because Racy wasn't the kind of girl who liked to stay at home. She was, as she enjoyed describing herself "a social person" and social persons need other social persons to be social with. Steve, on the other hand, got a great kick out of one or two friends, but meeting strangers either terrified or bored him. Besides, he was always too tired, after dinner, to do very much. And he never hesitated to say so. "You may be a social person, at the end of the day, darling, but I'm just a tired man. The insurance business takes a lot out of me."

At first they compromised. When Steve insisted that he couldn't move a muscle, they did stay home. But when he was able to drag himself around, they went out.

One night, when they returned quite late from a party, and Steve had had two drinks (two drinks always gave him courage) he said: "Listen, sweetheart, I want to make a bet with you. I'll bet you a fur coat against a pipe that if you had a job you wouldn't be too anxious to go places all the time. You'd have to be carried home on a stretcher."

Racy giggled. "What kind of fur?" she asked, shrewdly.

"Oh, any kind—squirrel, seal or titmouse."

"You're on. But will you help me get a job?"

Steve didn't mention the fact that he'd already arranged the matter. He merely said, "Sure, I'll call up Sam Harvey and ask him if he knows of one."

And so, the following Monday morning, Racy Shaw left the breakfast dishes for the new maid, hopped into a street car, and reported at the offices of Harvey and Gould, brokers. She was placed in charge of a department of typists and told to make them work.

The first thing she did, however, was to make the girls like her. She knew this was the shortest cut to obedience. Then she familiarized herself with the routine of the office, assuming responsibility for a hundred little tasks that would ordinarily be foisted upon Harvey, himself. As a result, within a month, she became an important member of the office staff. Also, as a result, she was pretty tired at the end of the day.

Now most people, when they are tired, and have sense, go to bed. Or else lie around wishing they had enough energy to go to bed. But not so Racy. She wasn't going to live with "I told you so" for the rest of her life. She wasn't going to submit meekly and say, "Yes, darling, you were right. I'll get you that pipe you wanted. I really don't want to leave the apartment tonight." Racy had too much fight in her to give up so easily.

So what happened. So Racy and Steve continued to seek excitement when all they wanted was rest. Steve, however, was biding his time. He knew that the human body is not as obstinate as the human mind and he was content to let nature prove his point.

And nature did. It was a Saturday night, and they were having dinner with the Robertson's in the grill of a large hotel. Racy was dancing with "Butch' Robertson, who wasn't much to look at, but who could dance. Steve and Alice just sat and talked. Suddenly Alice clutched Steve's arm. "Oh, my God," she shrieked. "They're carrying Racy off the floor."

Steve did a flying hurdle over the group that surrounded his wife. "Get a doctor," he ordered, "and bring water." Racy came to in a few minutes, and the three of them took her home. The doctor said he couldn't tell, from a cursory examination, what the trouble was.

The next day, being Sunday, Racy was persuaded to stay in bed, but on Monday, she was up early. "Don't you think you'd better take it easy for a while, dear?" Steve suggested. "Perhaps you'd feel stronger if you took a leave of absence for a week?"

Racy knew what he was driving at. "I feel quite well now, thank you," she said, and jammed on her hat.

That night dinner was a sorry affair. "I'm rather glad you're sticking close to your job," Steve told her, because I've—well, I've lost mine."

He didn't offer much in the way of explanation, although he did mention office politics and a dirty trick some petty executive had played. "Buot don't worry darling, I don't think I'll have much trouble getting placed. I never do, do I?"

But his optimism was grounded on sand, for ten days passed and Steve hadn't found a thing. Insurance companies weren't taking on new managers—they were still shaving expenses. And now, when Racy came home from the office, it was she who suggested that perhaps they ought to "just sit around." But Steve was malicious. "Oh, I don't know," he would say, "I feel like doing things. Plenty of pep in the old boy, tonight." And out they would go.

It was beginning to get on Racy's nerves. After all, he wasn't doing anything during the day. Just staying home and calling people up. But she worked hard, and had to get up early, in the morning. Why couldn't he understand? Men were cruel.

"Stevie, it seems to me that you might try a little harder. Why don't you canvass the insurance companies and take any kind of a job temporarily?"

Steve laughed a little bitterly. "So you've lost confidence in me. Well, I' mnot taking on errand boy chores just to prove I can get a job. I don't believe in it."

Later that afternoon, Steve, lounging about the house, smoking his pipe, heard the doorbell ring, then a key turn in the lock. It was Racy, with Sam Harvey, her boss. She was paler than he had ever seen her. "She's not feeling well, Shaw," Harvey said, "and I thought she needed a rest."

After Steve had put his wife to bed, Harvey took him aside. "Not that I want to tell you your business, old man," he apologized, "but if I were you I wouldn't let her work. She's not built for it."

This time it only took the doctor fifteen minutes to discover what was wrong. It wasn't serious, he said. Perfectly natural. A baby takes its toll .

Steve's eyes glistened. He hugged Racy quite shamelessly right there in front of old Doc Lawson. "Oh, darling, I'm the happiest prospective father you've ever laid eyes on," he mumbled foolishly. "Do you mind?"

"I don't mind at all, you idiot," Racy said, "but of course, I would like to think of you as a prospective and employed father."

"What do you bet I get a job tomorrow?" he boasted. "All a guy needs is something to work for." Racy smiled and said nothing, for she hoped it was true.

The following afternoon Steve telephoned, and his voice rather than his words, told the story. "I've won my bet so you can have anything you want. I'm a working man again, love."

Racy almost wept. Wasn't Fate kind? First a storm, then a soft, warm wind to make you forget the clouds. It was too wonderful.

"What kind of job and whom are you working for-" she asked.

"A swell job, more money and I'm with the Rex Insurance Company, in charge of their midtown branch. Aren't you proud of me?"

"Not so proud that I wouldn't ask you to stop at the butcher shop and order the lamb chops," she suggested.

Ten minutes later she changed her mind. She didn't want lamb chops. She wanted lamb chops and a great big box of red roses. She'd call him at the office and tell him.

She looked through the telephone directory. "Reth, Revere, Rewskowitz, Rezare—" No Rex. She called the operator, who was crisp and quite firm. "We have no telephone listed for that name." Yes, she was sure.

Racy had just put down the receiver when Steve entered. "Hello, hello, hello," he yelled. "Guess what I brought, and all for you."

Racy turned slowly. "Why have you lied to me?" The words were like hard little balls of clay that small boys send through beanshooters. "Why did you feel it necessary to lie to me?"

Steve pretended not to know what she was talking about.

"I've just tried to get the Rex people on the phone," she told him. "You know the rest."

He put down the large box of flowers and the package of groceries. "Listen, darling," he said, "and promise not to interrupt. I am working. I'm back at my old job. In fact, I've never left it. I merely took my summer vacation a few months earlier. I had to do it to prove that you were wrong—that you can't be a 'social person' and a job holder at the same time."

Racy's eyes dimmed. He'd given up a two weeks' vacation to show her how to be happy. He must care a lot.

"I suppose I've lost my bet," she wailed, "and I don't get that fur coat."

"But you do. You can have a big fur coat for yourself, and a little fur coat for the baby."

Once more Racy and Steve Shaw weren't talking. But this time, it was because you can't talk and kiss at the same time. Not very well.

TEX AND HIS PALS (ActualPhotographs)

Free!

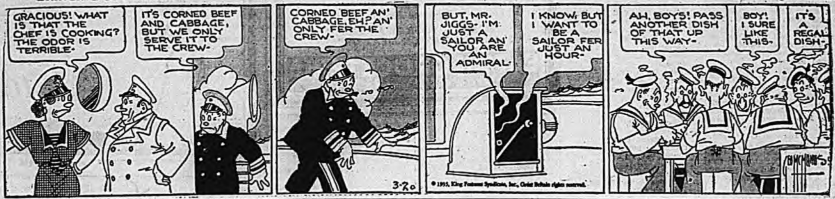
Copyright, 1935, by Harper Features, Dallas, Texas, U.S.A. All Rights Reserved

By Leslie A. Hill

HOW'LL WE GET'EM OUT, SPUNKY?
THAT'S SIMPLE JUST TIE YOUR ROPE AROUND THAT WIRE AND I'LL PULL THE WHOLE FRONT OUT!
YOU CAN'T DO IT FAST ENOUGH TO SUIT ME!
NOR ME!
THAT WAS SIMPLE, WASN'T IT SPUNKY?
SURE, LITTLE PARTNER, EASY AS PIE!
HURRY, GANG, BEFORE THE OLD MAN SEES US
4
PIPE DOWN AND LET'S GET GOING!
WE BETTER HURRY. HE HASN'T SEEN US YET
COME ON WITH ME, PALS, I'LL TAKE CARE OF YOU
WHAT A BREAK TO GET OUT OF THAT DUMP!

BRINGING UP FATHER—

By George McManus



GRACIOUS! WHAT IS THAT THE CHEF IS COOKING? THE ODOR IS TERRIBLE-
IT'S CORNED BEEF AND CABBAGE, BUT WE ONLY SERVE IT TO THE CREW-
CORNED BEEF AN' CABBAGE, EH? AN' ONLY FER THE CREW-
3-20
BUT, MR. JIGGS- I'M JUST A SAILOR AN' YOU ARE AN ADMIRAL-
I KNOW, BUT I WANT TO BE A SAILOR FER JUST AN HOUR-
© 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.
AH, BOYS! PASS ANOTHER DISH OF THAT UP THIS WAY-
BOY! I SURE LIKE THIS-IT'S A REGAL DISH-
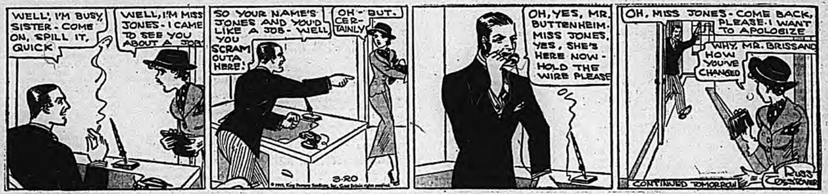
G. McMANUS

TILLIE THE TOILER—

By Russ Westover

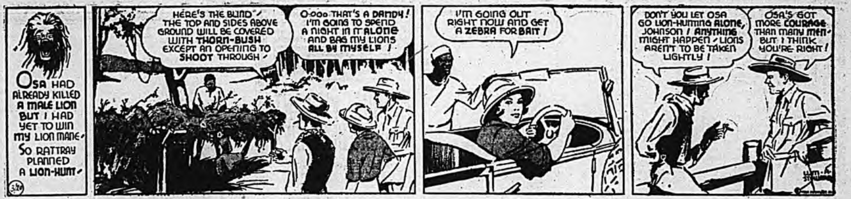


WELL, I'M BUSY, SISTER - COME ON, SPILL IT, QUICK
WELL, I'M MISS JONES - I CAME TO SEE YOU ABOUT A JOB
SO YOUR NAME'S JONES AND YOU'D LIKE A JOB - WELL YOU SCRAM OUTA HERE!
OH - BUT. CERTAINLY
3-20
OH, YES, MR. BUTTENHEIM. MISS JONES, YES, SHE'S HERE NOW - HOLD THE WIRE PLEASE
OH, MISS JONES - COME BACK, PLEASE - I WANT TO APOLOGIZE
WHY, MR. BRISSAND HOW YOU'VE CHANGED
CONTINUED TOMORROW
RUSS WESTOVER

DANGER TRAILS—

By The Famous Explorer Martin Johnson

"GETTING READY FOR "CATS"



OSA HAD ALREADY KILLED A MALE LION BUT I HAD YET TO WIN MY LION MANE - SO RATTRAY PLANNED A LION-HUNT -
3/20
HERE'S THE BLIND - THE TOP AND SIDES ABOVE GROUND WILL BE COVERED WITH THORN-BUSH EXCEPT AN OPENING TO SHOOT THROUGH - O-OOO THAT'S A DANDY! I'M GOING TO SPEND A NIGHT IN IT ALONE AND BAG MY LIONS ALL BY MYSELF !
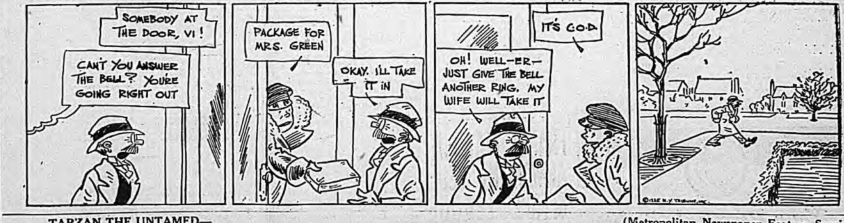
I'M GOING OUT RIGHT NOW AND GET A ZEBRA FOR BAIT !
DON'T YOU LET OSA GO LION-HUNTING ALONE, JOHNSON ! ANYTHING MIGHT HAPPEN - LIONS AREN'T TO BE TAKEN LIGHTLY !
OSA'S GOT MORE COURAGE THAN MANY MEN - BUT I THINK YOU'RE RIGHT !

MR. AND MRS—

By Briggs



SOMEBODY AT THE DOOR, VI !
CAN'T YOU ANSWER THE BELL? YOU'RE GOING RIGHT OUT PACKAGE FOR MRS. GREEN
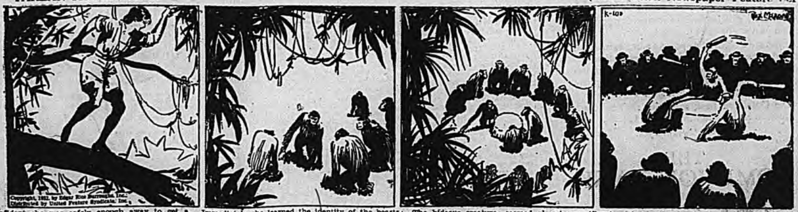
OKAY. I'LL TAKE IT IN
IT'S C.O.D.
OH! WELL-ER- JUST GIVE THE BELL ANOTHER RING. MY WIFE WILL TAKE IT
©1935 N.Y. TRIBUNE, INC.

TARZAN THE UNTAMED—

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)



Copyright, 1932, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
K-109
Rex Maxon

Confident she was safely enough away, to get a good start ahead of the pursuing black in the morning Olga's intention was to spend the balance of the night in a tree. Soon she had reached a comfortable branch, and stopped to look about.

Immediately she learned the identity of the beasts she had heard. Below her, clearly visible in the bright moonlight, was a thing that held her spellbound—fully twenty huge, shaggy, man-like apes. Their glossy coats glistened under the moon.

The hideous creatures seemed almost magnificent in appearance. Soon others, in groups or singly, joined the little band, until fifty of the beasts, of all ages, sex and size, were gathered together. Presently the group formed a circle.

They gathered about a small, flat-topped mound of earth in the clearing's centre. Squatting about this were three old females armed with stout clubs, with which they began to pound upon the ground. Olga heard it give forth a dull, booming sound.

Be Sure

To have your Auto Insurance re-instated before taking out your car this Spring. If you have no insurance, do not take further chances of serious loss. All that is necessary in either case, or in the event of you changing your car, is to telephone us (1364). We will immediately protect you and get full particulars later. This is part of our service.

JAMIESON BONE & CO.
INSURANCE INVESTMENTS

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, March 20 (CP)— The mining section of Toronto Exchange lacked steam today and both volume and prices were inclined to lag. A sharp drop in the London price for bar gold helped to take the life out of the market. There was some improvement in the early afternoon however.

Central Patricia, McWatters and McKenzie traded in considerable volume and were selling at noon slightly under their closing prices for Tuesday. San Antonio was off 10 cents, Buffalo-Ankerite 7 and Beattie 5 while stocks holding steady included Sylvanite, Reno, Little Long Lac and God's Lake. McIntyre with a gain of 75 cents was one of the strongest of the senior golds. Teck Hughes and Lake Shore were a little stronger and Wright Hargreaves and Pioneer were unchanged.

◆

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, March 20—(AP)—Financial markets maintained an even keel today as Wall street divided its attention between Washington and Europe.

Foreign Exchange dealings were calmer, with Gold Bloc holding firm and Sterling sliding back a little.

Steel shares held up fairly well. Farm implements and mail order issues were up a little. Motors and rails were about steady.

Coca Cola was a strong feature, opening 3 points higher and extending its gain to 5. Oils were also in modest demand, as Crude Futures showed a firm tendency. Standard of New Jersey pushed up a major fraction.

Soft spots included some of the non-ferrous metals and tobaccos.

Among Canadian stocks, International Nickel and McIntyre held about unchanged while Canadian Pacific receded slightly. On the curb, Lake Shore and Hiram Walker were both a shade lower. Dominion Government bonds ruled steady.

◆

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 20—(CP)—The industrial section of Toronto Exchange killed time today while awaiting the Ottawa budget which, rumor has it, may have some surprises for the stock trading fraternity. Prices held fairly steady.

Bell Telephone and Consumers Gas traded in considerable volume, the former at a loss of a fraction and the latter a loss of a point. Beauharnois improved the smallest board fraction and the other power issues were unchanged.

Nickel, Ford A. C. P. R. and the oils and distillery stocks with exception of International Petroleum which held a gain of 5-8 at 29 5-8 were unchanged. Supertest ordinary was sold at 22 1-2 unchanged.

◆

Stock Markets

Quotations furnished by Biggar and Crawford, P. H. Wills, branch manager. Quotations at 2.05 p.m.:

MINES

Ashley 16B.
Ajax 93.
Acme 23.
Breth. Treth. 2B.
Barry Hollinger 5 1-2B.
Base Metals 43B.
Bobjo 25 1-2.
Big Missouri 44.
Bradian 160B.
Bagamac 7 1-4.
Bralorne 850.
Castle Treth. 63 1-2.
Coniaurum 202B.
Central Pat. 143.
Coast Copper 141B.
Dome 3940B.
Dominion Explor. 5 1-2B.
Eldorado 116B.
Falconbridge 358B.
God's Lake 138.
Goldale 16.
Granada 31.
Greene Stab. 26B.
Hollinger 1700.
Halcrow 3 1-2B.
Home Oil 60.
Hudson's Bay 1185B.
Howey 88 1-2.
Inter. Nickel 23 1-8B.
Kirkland Lake 47 1-2B.
Kirk. Townsite 23 1-2B.
Lake Shore 5750.
Little Long Lac 565.
Macassa 229.
Malartic 62B.
Maple Leaf 7 1-2B.
McIntyre 4550.
Mining Corporation 76B.
McLeod River 1 1-4B.
McKenzie 117.
McWaters 175.
McVittie 26B.
Nipissing 214.
Noranda 3450.
Pickel Crow 272.
Paymaster 17.
Pioneer 990.
Parkhill 23 1-2.
Premier 180.
Read Auth. 78.
Reno 148.
St. Anthony 25.
Sherritt 45 1-2B.
Siscoe 295.
San Antonio 420.
Stadacona 25 1-4B.
Sudbury Basin 133B.
Sylvanite 227B.
Teck-Hughes 413.
Ventures 92.
Wayside 17 3-4.
Waite Amulet 50B.
Wright Hargreaves 935.

TORONTO

B. A. Oil 14⅜B
Brewing Corp. 3⅜B
Braz. Trac. 8⅜
Can. Bud Brewery 7½B
Can. Cement 6¼B
Can. Dredge 19¾B
Can. Ind. Alcohol 8¼B
C. P. R. 9⅜
Can. Malting 30¼
Can. Vinegar 26½B
Canada Car 6½
Cons. Bakeries 12½B
Con. Smelting 130B
Dominion Stores 9
Dist. Seagrams 15¼
Ford "A" 27⅜B
Gypsum 5¼B
Imp. Oil 16¼
Inter. Pet 29¼
Imp. Tobacco 12¼
Loblaw 18¼B
Massey Harris 3½B
Mont. Power 29B
McColl-Frontenac 14B
Power Corp. 8B
Steel of Canada 44B
Supertest 22½B
Shawinigan 16B
Walker's 27½B
Walker's Pfd. 17⅜
Walkerville Brewery 3B

New York.

American Can 113⅜.
American T. and T. 101.
American Foreign Power 2½.
Anaconda 8⅜.
Auburn 16⅜.
Case 48
Chrysler 33⅜.
General Motors 28.
Elec. Auto Lite 20½.
Inter. Telephone 6.
North American 10¼.
Montgomery Ward 23½.
Phillips Petroleum 15.
Radio 4⅝.
Standard Oil of N. J. 37¼.
Standard Brands 15.
Stewart Warner 7¼.
U. S. Smelters 113⅜.
U. S. Steel 28⅜.
United Aircraft. 11⅜.
Vanadium 14⅜.
Westinghouse 34⅛.

◆

Grain Markets

Closing quotations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as furnished by A. H. Ketcheson & Co., today:

	High	Low	Close
Wheat—
May	84	83 1-4	83 7-8
July	83 3-8	82 5-8	83 3-8
Oats—
May	39 1-8	37 1-2	38 3-4
July	39	37 1-2	38 3-4
Barley—
May	45 3-8	43 1-2	45 3-8
July	45 7-8	44 1-8	45 7-8

Your Personal Credit

A steadily growing savings account is one of the best possible bases of personal credit.

If you are ambitious to possess a business of your own some day . . . to make an investment requiring both cash and personal credit . . . to establish a reserve fund for future opportunities—open a Savings Account as the first step.

The Dominion Bank maintains savings departments in all its offices throughout Canada.

Interest added twice a year.

THE DOMINION BANK
ESTABLISHED 1871

Belleville Branch B. C. Sisler, Manager

BRANCHES THROUGHOUT CANADA AND OFFICES IN NEW YORK AND LONDON

Thursday Specials

AYLMER BRAND
TOMATOES 5 No. 2 Squat Tins 24c

SINGAPORE
Sliced PINEAPPLE tin 9c

HOUSEHOLD BRAND
WASHING SODA 2 pkgs. 9c

FRESH LEAN
STEWING BEEF 3 lbs. 25c

1 POUND PORK LIVER
½-LB. SLICED PEAMEAL ROLL ....for 23c

FRESH GROUND
HAMBURG STEAK 3 lbs. 25c

PHONE 800—Grocery orders of $1.00 or more Delivered FREE

PHONE US YOUR MEAT ORDER
FREE DELIVERY ON MEAT ORDERS

EATON GROCETERIA
"Where It Pays to Shop"

◆

UNLISTED MINES

Unlisted mines furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co. today.

Afton 51-54
Ardeen 4-6
Bankfield 84-87
Bathurst 3 1-4—4 3-4
Bosquet 29-31
Can Pandora 7-9
Casey 32-34
Dunlop 1—1 3-4
El Bonanza 11-13
Forty Four 1025-1150
Gabrielle 38-42
Glenora 4 1-2—5 1-2
Gold Eagle 37-39
Gt. Bear Lake 41-44
Hardrock 72-75
Johnson Nip 6 1-2—7 1-2
Lafayette 6 1-4—7
Lamaque 135-150
Lagoon 11 1-2—13
McLeod 6 3-4—7 3-4
Brennan 26-30
Desantis 27-29
Chib 90-100
Magnet 11-13
Matachewan 13-14 1-2
Mosher 4-5
Murwood 25S
North Shores 4- 4 1-2
Oklend 39-42
Red Lake 31-33
Rice Lake 3 1-2—4 1-2
Smelters 15-17
Sigma 150S
Shawkey 48-51
Sturgeon River 91-95
Wells 14-16S
Wingold 15S
Young Dav. 22S

◆

FRANCE MAY PUT ARMAMENT ISSUE BEFORE LEAGUE

(Continued From Page 1)

fully agreed to the pleas from France and Italy for a united front but they wanted to arrange the list of questions through regular diplomatic channels so that there would be less chance of causing any new difficulties with Germany before the scheduled conversations in Berlin.

Another tripower conference after Sir John and Eden return from their trips is under consideration, official quarters state, but nothing has yet been decided regarding it.

Action at Geneva

It was authoritatively stated Great Britain is not liely to make any decision regarding France's expected protest to the League of Nations until after the two foreign office envoys return from Berlin.

British officials said they felt any hasty action in roshing to Geneva might ruin the chances for the success of the conversations with Hitler.

United Action Against Germany.

Paris, Mar. 20 (CP-Havas)—In a series of rapid moves by France, Great Britain and Italy, Germany was suddenly confronted today with the possibility of united action resulting from its violation of the Versailles Treaty in decreeing compulsory military service.

Three events of major importance were:

(1) Decision by the French cabinet to protest German rearmament, specifically inauguration of military conscription, to the League of Nations, and expected to result in summons for a meeting of the League Council.

(2) Agreement among France, Britain and Italy to hold a private parley quickly in Paris before the scheduled meeting in Berlin Monday of British Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon and Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

(3) Decision by the French cabinet to send an individual note of protest to Berlin, protesting strongly violations by the Reich of Articles 11, 164 and 213 of the Versailles Treaty dealing with the disarmament of Germany.

◆

MRS IDA TOVELL SLIGHTLY INJURED

Mrs. Ida Tovell, 231 William Street is confined to the hospital under the medical care of Dr. G. S. Cronk, the result of an accident on the Point Anne Highway. Mrs. Tovell and others were passengers in a car driven by Dr. Guthridge, and near the railway crossing, which intersects this road a pile of gravel was struck but not before the driver had applied his brakes. Mrs. Tovell was thrown slightly and received a back injury. The condition of the patient today is fair according to her physician.

◆

FRANCE VIGILANT FLANDIN DECLARES

(Continued From Page 1)

and figures we were given were even smaller than the reality."

Disarmament Not Dropped

"Shall we resign ourselves to German rearmament?" the Premier asked, "Shall we resign ourselves to what would be bankruptcy of the disarmament conference? France intends to continue her disarmament efforts through pacts of mutual guarantees for security."

Flandin defended the lengthening of French military service by decree as a quicker method "avoiding long debate." He justified keeping the army at its old strength because of unsettled conditions and declared "if our concern was legitimate March 15 how much more so it ought to be since the proclemation of obligatory service in Germany?"

"If the conception of Hitler's proclamation were accepted by the world," Flandin continued, "it would mark the destruction of peace founded on the League of Nations."

The Premier rejected the idea Reichsfuerer Hitler was spurred to action by the British white paper saying "Germany's 12 army corps and 35 divisions already existed. Moreover eight days earlier the official decision to create military aviation was made public."

◆

Royal Black

(Continued From Page 1)

of this province to their senses. He said he was glad to see other fraternal as well as school boards and churches taking up the matter of the defence of our Public School system. He closed with the remarks, "Let us stand together on this question until it is finally settled and we have one public school system."

It was resolved that "the efforts to appropriate any taxation of the Protestant portion of Ontario to the uses of the Separate School system be resisted, that we continue in our efforts until the Separate School system as known to us as a charge upon our taxation and prejudicial to the Public School system is abolished."

The local committee was commended on the fine manner and order carried out for the visiting delegates. They were unanimous in their praise in the manner, that Trenton had welcomed them.

The election was carried on under T.G.M.'s H. A. Graham of Kingston and T. K. Allen of Kemptville and were as follows: Grand Master, R. Ritchie of Peterboro; Deputy Grand Master, A. C. Farquharson, of Ottawa; Assistant D.G.M., G. E. Raaflaub of Pembroke; Grand Chaplain, Rev. A. L. Geen of Belleville; Grand Registrar, H. P. Leslie of Ottawa; Deputy Registrar, W. A. Chambers of Manotick; Grand Treasurer, George F. Reid, of Corbyville; Deputy Grand Treasurer, J. V. Moore of Bellamy's; Grand Lecturers, J. E. Macgladry of Ottawa and A. J. Gough of Foxboro; Grand Censors, H. W. Smith, of Lindsay and T. S. Shaw of Pakenham; Grand Marshall, W. A. Andrews of Kemptville; Grand Standard Bearers, G. E. Purcelle of Athens and M. C. Reynolds of Foxboro; Grand Auditors, D. J. Sutherland of Ottawa and George Porter of Peterboro; Grand Pursuivants, P. Chase of Little Britain, and F. Hall of Westboro; business committee, Sir Knights, E. C. Way, J. D. L. Leach, C. D. Beckett, W. A. Milligan, L. Helmer, F. Sager and C. Lowe. Honorary Grand Chaplain, Isaac Barlow of Havelock; Grand Correspondence Committee, R. J. Clarke, T. K. Allan, J. P. Sager, C. Lowe and A. C. Swerdfeger; Grand Finance Committee, G. E. Raaflaub of Pembroke, C. D. Beckett of Kemptville; C. Devitt of Burketon, J. E. Macgladry of Ottawa and D. Kernaham of Madoc; Grand Suspension Committee, W. Milligan of Cornwall; Fred Hall of Westboro; J. D. L. Leach of Pembroke; E. Jenks of Consecon; E. N. Mitchell of Lindsay; Grand Petitions Committee, H. W. Smith, of Lindsay; H. Hooey of Blackstock, M. C. Reynolds, of Foxboro, R. Blakeley of Eldorado, G. Porter of Peterboro; Grand Returns Committee, A. J. Gough of Foxboro; P. Chase of Lindsay, J. V. Moore of Bellamy's; T. S. Shaw of Pakenham, W. Reynolds of Cannifton; Grand Resolutions Committee, R. Ritchie, S. Scully, R. H. McIlwain, R. A. Wood, W. McMeechin.

Roy Westfall Elected

Trenton, March 20.—(Special)—A small vote was cast yesterday for the office of one councillor to fill the vacancy of Henry LaFleur, who recently resigned. Roy Westfall was elected with a majority of nearly 200 over the next contestant, Lawrence Crosby. J. F. Day was third. The election assumed a political aspect with the Liberal being elected. Crosby was backed by the Conservatives, while Day was Independent.

◆

Obituary

MRS. NANCY J. ADDISON

Mrs. Nancy J. Addison, widow of John Addison, passed away this Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. B. F. Jennings, John Street, after a lengthy illness.

The late Mrs. Addison was one of Belleville's oldest citizens, having been born in this city 92 years ago, her parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen H. Smith. All her life was passed in the city of her birth with the exception of a few years spent in Rochester, N.Y. During her long and useful life she attracted and held many friends by her many fine traits of character; she loved her home and her family and was ready at all times when age and health permitted to assist in the performing of church and charitable work. She was a devout member of the Church of England and associated with St. Thomas' parish. Mrs. Addison was a woman of remarkable vitality and up to a few months ago she retained her complete mental faculties.

All her old friends have passed on years ago, but those of later years who knew her, will long retain pleasant memories of her.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Burton F. Jennings and Mrs. D. F. Ackerill, Belleville, and one son, Mr. Charles E. Addison of Rochester, N.Y.

The funeral will be on Friday; announcement will appear later.

THE CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED

Thursday—One Day!

Special Showing

Afternoon Frocks
In the Latest Spring Modes
by Majestic Dress

It's one of those rare style-events which every woman will love to attend. Here, at the C. D. S. Thursday will be displayed a gorgeous array of "what's new" in lovely Afternoon Frocks. You'll simply adore the intriguing styles with their detail interests and trimmings. FILMY SILK CREPES—SHEERS of almost cobweb fineness and frocks with those crisp taffeta touches which are a highlight this season—all are in the selection and may be ordered in your own individual size. Sample frocks, too, may be purchased from the representative in charge.

They're a treat to view and are unusually modest in pricing from

10.95 to 22.50

CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED

HAVE YOU TRIED VI-CO!

"Renew Your Pep" with This Tasty New

YEAST CHOCOLATE DAIRY DRINK TODAY!

MADE FROM RICH WHOLE MILK—NOT FROM SKIM MILK and THE HIGHEST GRADE CHOCOLATE OBTAINABLE

THIS DELICIOUS AND REFRESHING DRINK CONTAINS VITAMINS A AND B. TRY IT TODAY AND NOTICE THAT TIRED AND PEP-LESS FEELING VANISH.

12c a Quart

OFF THE WAGONS. ASK YOUR DRIVER FOR IT

PHONE 374

List of Front Street Merchants Handling VI-CO

BILL COOK'S CIGAR STORE.
UNITED CIGAR STORE.
SENATE CIGAR STORE
LATTIMER'S DRUG STORE
KRESGE STORE.
BLUE'S MARKETERIA.
THOMAS' CIGAR STORE (Both Stores)

MONTROSE DAIRY
BELLEVILLE PHONE 374

BOB'S TOBACCO & NEWSSTAND
374 FRONT ST.
PHONE 1515 BELLEVILLE

THE WEATHER

Westerly winds; mostly cloudy and mild. Friday—Fair with stationary or somewhat lower temperature.

The Ontario Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, MARCH 21, 1935

TEMPERATURES

	Max.	Min.
Today	37	32
Year ago	36	14

Weather—Foggy.

MACDONALD, SIMON WILL ATTEND ROME PARLEY

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Atlanta, March 21 (CP) — H. H. Landegrebe, a salesman, has a new story. He was driving near Newman last night when his aeromobile crashed into something which suddenly loomed up in the dark—an elephant.

Landegrebe was cut and bruised. The mahout riding the elephant a carnival attraction, was taken to a hospital for examination.

The elephant? unhurt.

. . . .

New York, March 21 (CP) — Out of the Harlem rioting came the story of a Chinese laundryman who shared the fears of other shop owners that hoodlums would smash their show windows.

Then the Oriental noticed negro shopkeepers were painting on their windows with huge, white letters the word, "colored."

Up went a sign on the laundry: "Me colored too."

The window was smashed.

. . . .

Jackson, Miss., March 21 (CP) —Ted Logan, 23, was released from jail for 30 minutes yesterday to marry Miss Ruby Steadham who he wooed and won from his cell. Ruby lives across the street from the bastile.

The ceremony over, Logan, charged with robbery, was escorted to his cell by his "best man," jailer Bob Rucker. The bride returned home.

. . . .

Tokyo, March 21 (CP)—Tokyo celebrated the advent of spring today in an unseasonable snowfall. The flakes swirled about the blossoms of the cherry trees which appeared this year two weeks ahead of season.

In the sanctuaries of the Imperial Palace, Emperor Hirohito, clad in ancient priestly robes, presided over the ages-old Shinto festival of the Vernal Equinox.

. . . .

Chicago, March 21 (CP)—Chester Novak, 30, made good his boast he was "the toughest guy that ever got the hot seat," and paid twice in the electric chair early today for the murder of a robbery victim.

The "double penalty," two trips to the electric chair was meted out when a prison physician detected signs of life in the convicted man's body after the usual charges had been sent through him.

Officials said his resistance to the powerful electric current was extremely unusual.

. . . .

Quincy, Mass, March 21 (CP)— The car cost 75 cents. To ride a block in it cost $100.

William H. Lynn, 19, was fined that amount yesterday for operating an uninsured automobile.

He bought the car from a junkman, turned it up, started for a spin. One block from his home police stopped him.

. . . .

Rochester, Ind., March 21 — (CP)—The usual procedure in divorce suits has been reversed by Wilbur Landis, a farmer.

Landis asks $1,000 alimony from his wife, Eunice, and custody of their seven children.

The farmer alleges he was forced to part from his wife because of cruel treatment.

. . . .

North Sydney, N.S., March 21— (CP)—The old town jail, renovated after a playful prisoner overturned a hot stove and set fire to the building, almost went up in smoke again when Malcolm McLean, locked up for drunkenness, started a merry blaze by filling his bed with burning coals. McLean shouted and after much straining he outdid the town band, holding practice in the hall above. Piccolo and tuba players found McLean overcome by heat and smoke. He was later fined $29.

FIND 13 ROUNDS OF AMMUNITION

TORONTO, March 21.— (CP) — Search for clues hoped to lead to the murderer of Abner Abraham Appleby, owner of the Roxy Theatre, continued today as police revealed they were in possession of a number of rounds of ammunition of the same type as used in slaying of the burlesque show proprietor-manager.

A boy found two rounds of this ammunition in High Park. A check revealed the place of manufacture and a further search by the boy's father and the police led to the discovery of eleven more rounds. Appleby was shot in the back of the head in his office Sunday morning March third.

NEW CONSTITUTION FOR THE DOMINION IS URGED TODAY

Assistant Law Clerk, M. Olliver Makes Suggestion

PACT WITH PROVINCES

Unanimity of Provinces on Language, Faith, Education

Ottawa, March 21 (CP)— The House of Commons British North America Act Committee today sent telegrams to Provincial Premiers and Attorney-Generals outlining the terms of the reference under which the committee is considering proposed amendments to the Canadian Constitution. The Provinces were asked to send delegates or written briefs outlining their views.

The committee also invited three university professors, constitutional law authorities, to come to Ottawa. They were: W. P. M. Kennedy, University of Toronto; Frank Scott, McGill University, Montreal, and Norman Scott, Queen's University, Kingston. Louis St. Laurent, Quebec Attorney, was also considered as a possibility to appear before the committee.

Ottawa, March 21 (CP)—Drafting of a new constitution for Canada by a committee set up by parliament was urged today before the House Committee on the British North America Act by Maurice Ollivier, assistant law clerk of the House of Commons.

First Step

Mr. Ollivier suggested the first step should be agreement with the provinces whereby the B.N.A. Act could be amended by a two-thirds majority vote of the House of Commons, subject to ratification by the provinces within one year.

Failure of a province to ratify or denounce any such Act of the Dominion Parliament within a year would be taken as tacit approval.

Mr. Ollivier's suggestion was a majority of provinces would prevail in the consideration of these constitutional amendments except in respect to language, religion, education and laws on solemnization of marriages. On those matters there would have to be unanimity.

Basis Outlined

Should amendments be rejected by the Senate, a second approval by the House of Commons within one year would over-ride the Senate's veto, under Mr. Ollivier's proposal.

He outlined a basis for a Constitutional Act to be divided into seven parts, as follows:

(Continued on Page 13, Col. 1)

Premier's Health Reported Excellent

Ottawa, March 21 (CP)—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett's condition today was reported "excellent" by one of his associates who had just come from his bedside. Mr. Bennett's recovery has now been uninterrupted for more than a week but it was the intention to have him continue the rest cure in bed until next week.

FARMER GOES WILD KILLS ONE PRIEST WOUNDS ANOTHER

Mission at Yorkton, Sask., Scene of Fatal Attack

FARMER SHOOTS SELF

YORKTON, Sask., March 21.— (CP)—A farmer went wild with a revolver in the Greek Catholic Mission here today, killing one priest seriously wounding another and then facing capture by police, turned the weapon upon his own head.

The dead:—

Father Delforge.

The wounded:

Father Bala and a farmer, Steve Elash.

Both Father Bala and Elash, who police stated did the shooting, are near death in the local hospital.

From the Mission it was learned after the shooting Elash ran headlong through a glass door at the end of the entrance hall, not stopping to open it. His wild dash led him toward the business centre of Yorkton.

Father Delforge came to Yorkton from Belgium only eighteen months ago, while Father Bala, head of the mission, has been here nineteen years, but came originally from Czechoslovakia. He had been in charge of the Ruthenian church in Saskatoon.

CONCURRENT SENTENCES PASSED

London, Ont., March 21—(CP)— Concurrent prison terms were meted out today to Franklin G. Taylor and his wife Rosa Taylor by Chief Justice Hugh Rose after the couple pleaded guilty to two charges in connection with the blackmail ring, smashed here some months ago.

Taylor was sentenced to five years in Portsmouth Penitentiary while his wife was sentenced to one year in Mercer Reformatory. Both sentences are to date back to the time of the original sentences when the couple were sentenced for theft of $200 from "Mr. D."

Miss Andree Will Present Many New Ideas at the Cooking School Next Week

Demonstrator Constantly Experiments to Perfect New Menus

NEW STANDARDS

Everyone knows how easy it is to fall into a rut.

Everyone does it if they don't watch out. And it is precisely for this reason that The Ontario Intelligencer is bringing Miss Andree of the De Both Home Makers Schools, to Belleville, to conduct its annual Cooking and Home Making Schools.

The school will be conducted at the Capitol Theatre beginning Tuesday, March 26, and will continue through three other stimulating and fun-provoking sessions.

"I know there are thousands of families fed exclusively from the frying pan," Miss Andree argues. "I know there are thousands of families who never use their kitchen ovens. I know there are thousands of menus that vary but little from day to day and are so unimaginative that they may as well be meals in a penal institution. The cause of this may be any number of things, but usually is found to be due to a lack of cookery knowledge. When the kitchen can be made into a studio for pleasant creative work, simply by a change of mind and attitude, why treat it with such disregard, even contempt?" And Miss Andree considers it her pleasant duty to demonstrate what adventures may be found in the room that has occupied so much of her thought.

Without being too revolutionary, this cookery expert sets aside old standards, substituting others that embody the worth-while of the old and much that is new. She is the monarch of the kitchen and the counsel she gives so casually during her school, is accepted as law by the listening housewives.

With virtually no other training you can learn to tell when dinner is right. You can learn to know that even a pie may be saucy and a cake impertinent. Each year the Ontario Intelligencer gets many inquiries asking, "could I learn to cook a little at the school, even if I don't know a thing about it?" Well, the answer is YES.

Miss Andree constantly keeps the novice in mind. She expects people to go to cooking school who know nothing about the household arts and she talks and demonstrates for their benefit. Also she knows that many good cooks and home makers are in her audiences. And just like the famous dressmakers who tirelessly design clothes for the fashionables every month in the year, Miss Andree constantly experiments in her spotless kitchens to give the older and more experienced cooks the extra frills and finer points for which they are seeking.

Incidentally, Miss Andree's audiences are always eager for that first glimpse of the teacher. In her smart and spotless frocks, her appearance wins quick approval, and her ready smile puts all at their ease.

Valuable gifts from associated advertisers will be given away at each session, as well as the many dishes made before the audiences— dishes that play havoc with the olfactory nerve.

Get in tempo with the gay new spirit and go to the Cooking School.

DEFENCE URGES WITHDRAWAL OF INDICTMENT LAID

Judge Allows Hobson Trial to Continue at Perth

DOCTOR ON STAND

Tells Court What Happened in His Office When Girl Died

Perth, Ont., March 21—(CP)— When the trial of Dr. W. J. Hobson, charged with manslaughter and performing an illegal operation, resumed at the Spring Assizes here today Hugh A. O'Connell, defence counsel moved there was no evidence to warrant the manslaughter count and urged it be withdrawn.

The charges were laid following the death Feb. 14 in Dr. Hobson's office of Lila Pickering, 28-year-old textile mill worker of Carleton place.

Crown Attorney Charles H. Bowyer, K.C., said "Dr. Hobson was performing an illegal operation according to the crown's evidence. He took no precaution and the administration of an anaesthetic was part of an illegal act."

Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy said he would not withdraw the manslaughter count in the indictment but said he would pay special attention to it in his charge to the jury.

Dr. W. J. Hobson was called to the witness stand. He said he graduated from the University of Toronto and had been practicing in Perth since 1921.

Witness said the girl came to his office on the evening of Feb. 11 apparently for a consultation and examination.

"She went away and I saw her the following evening, Feb. 12. She was alone at first and came back to complete the consultation of the previous evening," said the Doctor. "As a result of what she told me I completed the consultation and started an examination of the girl.

"From the examination I learned her condition and from what she told me I learned she used some foreign object on herself.

"I later got in touch with her boy friend. I advised him it was a dirty mess for a doctor to do anything with but because he was a friend and a patient of mine and in view of the condition of the girl I would take the responsibility."

Insisted on Being Paid

Continuing the doctor said he insisted on being paid and paid well for his services because, he said, other patients had not paid him on other cases and he was not going to do it any more.

In explaining the receipt for $100 given to Rupert Mackler, Dr. Hobson said it was given for services, which were expected to be completed by Feb. 28.

"When the girl visited me on the evening of Feb. 14, she was pale," said the doctor.

"During my examination she seemed to be in grant pain and I advised a slight anaesthetic to which she agreed."

He said the girl did not need much of an anaesthetic.

The doctor said, while he was making the examination she ceased breathing and turned a pale ashy color. He said he called his nurse and commenced artificial respiration.

"So little was the anaesthetic that it was not enough for an ordinary person to relax their muscles." said the doctor.

Named Friend of Girl

"The friend that was with the girl on her second visit was Rupert Mackler," the doctor told the jury when cross-examined.

Asked by the crown attorney, why he did not have his nurse assist the patient to the operating table in his surgery on her visit in Feb. 14, Dr. Hobson said his nurse never worked in the evening.

Dr. Hobson said, what he did to the girl that night, to put into position a misplaced organ, was not considered an operation but a treatment to remedy an internal trouble.

He said he made an examination of the girl before giving the anaesthetic and found the woman was not of the "status lymphaticus" type

"I made a more thorough examination than has been reported here," said the doctor.

FISHING SMACK SINKS

LANDS END, England, March 21. —(CP-Havas) — Three men lost lives when the fishing smack Coppmare was sunk in a collision off the coast of Cornwall with the steamship Vimemoor during a heavy fog. Coastguard stations announced today.

LUDENDORFF AGAIN HOUR'S MAN

Erich Ludendorff, now 70, greatest of the German generals in the first world war, is expected to be called back to duty as organizer of the Reich's vast new army. He was associated with Hitler, with whom he is seen, LOWER LEFT, in the famed "Beer Putsch" in the beginning of Nazism. Other photos show him (UPPER LEFT) at time he entered army; with (UPPER RIGHT) Von Hindenburg, his superior in name only; in close-up with his medals and as a civilian.

Camp Worker Gives Vivid Description of Camp Life

Denies Reports Given Out by Disgruntled Men From The Towns

EXCELLENT MEALS

STEENBURG, Camp 3.— (By Special Correspondent) — Be it known first, last and always the writer of this article has no axe to grind, no grievances to air, nothing to gain by making an erroneous or misleading statement and no desire to say other than the plain unvarnished truth regardless of who is affected thereby. It is written for the sole purpose of correcting some false impressions gained from conflicting reports favorable and unfavorable from men coming out from the different camps and consists simply of facts gained from personal experiences in at least three of the six camps and extending from the middle of January to the present.

First, I will mention existing conditions in the camps themselves. Crawley and McCracken, the nationally known caterers have a contract with the Provincial Government to "feed the men". At each camp they have a competent commissary man with a general store carrying everything essential to comfort and convenience for the workers which is charged and deducted from our pay. A very great convenience.

Sample Menus

Their experienced chefs and assistants pride themselves in spotless cleanliness and efficient service in every department. Here is a sample bill of fare: Breakfast— stewed prunes 60-70 large and meaty Oatmeal porridge alternating with a delicious wheat cereal, corn flakes. Pork sausages, alternating with prime bacon and eggs, wheat cakes, corn syrup, marmalade, fried potatoes, bread and butter, two kinds of cake, coffee, milk. Dinner—Hot soup, (equal to any we got at home) roast beef, brown gravy, alternating with roast pork, baked heart or other choice meats, salmon on Friday; boiled potatoes, two other vegetables, cabbage, turnips or carrots, pickles, bread and butter; different kinds of cake and pie, tea, milk. Supper—Same as dinner only cold meats, sliced corned beef, potted meats, bologna with fruit as peaches or prunes in place of pie; delicious flaky, sweet buns. If any man goes hungry any meal it is his own fault. He may eat all he wants of everything.

Clean Bunk Houses

The bunk houses are kept clean swept every day and scrubbed often as necessary. Camp chore boys

(Continued on Page 9 Col. 5)

CULT LEADER SUED

Musician Asks $100,000 of Negro For Alienating Wife

New York, March 21— The name of Father Divine, Negro whose followers hail him as God, was brought before the courts again this week. He was made defendant in a $100,000 suit in Supreme Court charging him with "wilfully and maliciously" enticing one of his disciples away from her husband and eight children and into one of his Heavens, at 35 West 115th Street.

The plaintiff, Carl Davenport, a Negro, is an oboe and saxophone player and is said by his attorneys to have been a chauffeur for Andrew Mellon.

Davenport said in his complaint that his wife, Alice Davenport, had married him in 1915 and that until February, 1933, they had lived happily but after she had been subjected to public and private exhortation by Father Divine and his "servants and employees" her affections were alienated.

TWO VICTIMS AT LEVEL CROSSING

Northern Pacific Train Strikes Car in Snow Storm

Winnipeg, March 21—(CP)—Two persons are dead and two the in the hospital critically injured today as result of a level crossing collision between an automobile and a northern Pacific Railway express train in a snow storm at St. Jean, 46 miles south of here.

The dead:

Andrew Robertson, 600, Winnipeg driver of the car.

James Gardener, Jr. six, Winnipeg.

The injured:

James Gardener, Sr, 40, Winnipeg.

Muriel Gardener, 10, Winnipeg.

Mr. Gardener with his son and daughter, was returning to Winnipeg in Robertson's car, when the accident occurred.

Simon Hits at Germany; Question of Pact Value Raised by German Act

League May Demand Agreements From Germany

BERLIN CONVERSATIONS

British View Holds That it is Right to Continue Visit

LONDON, March 21—(CP-Havas) —Premier Ramsay MacDonald and Sir John Simon, it was reported here this afternoon, will represent Great Britain at a conference of the former Allies at Rome under the chairmanship of Premier Benito Mussolini next week.

(By George Hambleton)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, March 21.—(CP Cable) —Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon had some plain and frank words for Germany this afternoon as he spoke during debate on German rearmament and the International situation.

He spoke of the profound shock which Germany's abrupt announcement of conscription had created throughout Britain. It had inevitably provoked protests from the British, French and Italian Governments alike, he said.

"The real point of the difficulty is this," he added. "The object of the intended Berlin discussions was to promote adjustment by agreement. But the German announcement was the very reverse. It was an adjustment by a unilateral pronouncement."

Values of Agreements

He continued: "A unilateral denunciation, whatever the explanation may be, inevitably raises the question of the value of agreements and that is a very bad preparation for future agreements. I am sure everyone will agree that in the circumstances we were bound to protest."

Yet he thought to continue with the visit to Berlin as planned was the wisest course. To cancel the visit would lead nowhere.

"We demand assurance that the scope of the conversations would in no way be restricted," he declared. "We are satisfied the present state of suspicion and unrest in Europe cannot be allayed without security by negotiation and in those circumstances, having made reservations and protest, we have taken the view it is necessary and right to continue this visit."

Laborite Fears Arms Race.

George Lansbury, Labor opposition leader, declared Germany demanded the right to tear up the Versailles Treaty and embark on a policy of armaments which the world knew "would inevitably lead to an armaments race which must ultimately plunge us into war and the destruction of civilization."

"Events in Germany Saturday and Sunday," he declared, "sent through this country a feeling of shock, almost despair, to be compared only with what happened in August, 1914."

He told the Commons Sir John Simon, due to confer with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler soon, should take an entirely new mandate to Berlin, making it clear to Germany and the other powers Britain's policy of peace is based on disarmament and not rearmament.

Challenge to Peace.

"We should fling down the challenge on the conference table," he declared, "and say that Britain is ready with other nations to give up aerial warfare everywhere and agree the great airways of the world should be internationalized and made open to all countries."

The Laborite declared there had been a great mistake in not reassembling the world economic conference.

"There should be a world conference brought about to deal with all questions that divide nations today," he said.

Sir Hubert Samuel, leading the Liberal opposition, declared: "The French note, from the juridical point of view, is not answerable by Berlin, but events of the last sixteen years have undermined the moral basis in which any juridical action might be taken."

Complete Frankness.

Sir John Simon replied: "I hope I may have in a very few days frank discussions with the Chancellor of Germany, for the visit calls for complete frankness."

In reply to a question by Sir Percy Harris, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald said Britain had no knowledge of the probable cost of German rearmament. Pursuing, Sir Percy said, "I am asking whether an estimate has been made by the British government as to the probable cost of the increased armaments."

The prime minister did not reply.

(Continued on page 15, Col. 4.)

Germany is Startingly Firm Against French Protest

ITALY SENDS NOTE

France Accuses Germany of Violations of Treaty

Berlin, Mar. 21.—The German government, with startling firmness, declined today to entertain the vigorous French protest against its rearmament program.

Baron Konstantin von Neurath, Reich Foreign Minister, took the official French protest from the hand of Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet and then remarked:

"The arguments adduced in the French note do not take the actual situation into account, wherefore the German government must decline to entertain the protest."

The Italian ambassador, Vittorio Cerrutti, received the same curt reply when he delivered Premier Mussolini's protest to the foreign office two hours later.

Germany Confident.

This action was interpreted in official circles as a further warning Germany already feels confident of her military power.

Vienna, Mar. 21.—Austria took another step toward military preparedness today by tightening and strengthening laws governing the commandeering of private vehicles and civilian skill for military purposes in peace time.

The revised laws provide for what amounts to universal commandeering of male skilled workers insofar as their services may be needed to further transport of men and materials for army purposes.

The new laws authorise military commanders to requisition automobiles, airplanes, motorcycles, horse-drawn vehicles and steamboats as well as the services of civilians who may be operating or servicing them.

Paris, Mar. 21.—France today accused Germany of violating treaty obligations in a note which the Reich refused to consider and, at the same time, asked the League of Nations to put Germany on trial.

The French government requested "an extraordinary session of the league council for the examination."

(Continued on page 15, Col. 4.)

WEATHER

Toronto, March 21—(CP)—Synopsis—A disturbance which was over Nebraska yesterday morning has moved northeastward to Lake Superior causing snow in that region and rain in Southern Ontario. An area of high pressure and cold weather has come in over the western provinces from the north and moderately cold weather prevails over the St. Lawrence Valley and Maritime Provinces.

Lake Superior— Fresh to strong shifting winds, with some snow or part sleet.

Kenora and Rainy River—Fresh winds, shifting to northerly; partly cloudy with occasional snow.

Manitoba — Moderate to fresh northerly winds; scattered snowflurries, then clearing and moderately colder.

Saskatchewan—Northerly winds; clearing and moderately cold.

Alberta —Moderate winds; fair; stationary or a little higher temperature.

Coming Events

FRIDAY, MARCH 22, MEETING OF Young Conservative Women of Belleville in the club rooms at 8 o'clock. M21-1t

MEMBERS OF CANADIAN CONCERT Association. Second concert by Adolph Wantroff, Russian baritone, Wednesday, March 27, Collegiate, 8.30 o'clock. M21-1t

RUMMAGE SALE Y.M.C.A. SATURDAY, March 23, seven o'clock, auspices Christ Church. Leave rummage at Y or phone 767-W. M21-2t

REGULAR WEEKLY EUCHRE EVERY Friday evening at South End Club rooms, eight o'clock sharp. Good prizes. Everybody welcome. Admission 25c. M21-1t

ORANGE EUCHRE AND DANCE, FRIday, March 22. Regular prizes. Melodymakers orchestra. Admission 25c. M21-1t

TO-NITE "AAJMAA CLUB" EUCHRE— regular Thursday prizes. Electric range will be drawn to-night. Admission 25 cents includes free draw on electric range. Everyone welcome. M21-1t

"ALL IN THE FAMILY" THREE ACT comedy directed by Miss Lloyd Thursday, March 21, 8.15. Baptist Sunday School Rooms. Silver collection. M20-2t

OPEN MEETING CO-OPERATIVE Workers of Belleville, for the purpose of accepting grievances and re-organizing. Friday evening, March 22, at 7.30 p.m., Y.M.C.A. building. M20-3t

City and District News

Injured Fireman Being Brought Home

Mr. Wm. Nickle, Belleville Canadian National Railway fireman who lost his leg in a railway crash at Minden on February 15, will arrive home in the city on Sunday. Mr. Nickle has been a patient in the Hamilton General Hospital, since the accident, recovering from an operation, which removed the injured leg. He will be accompanied back home by Mrs. Nickle, who will leave for Hamilton on Saturday.

DESERONTO MAN GIVEN APPOINTMENT

Mr. Roy Sharpe of Deseronto, has been notified by the Ontario Department of Highways of his appointment as examiner of applicants for chauffeurs' and operators' licenses for Deseronto and district.

MOIRA RIVER IS NOW FREE OF ICE

In one of the quietest floods in memory the Moira River which broke up along its lower length through the city during the latter part of last week is now almost free of ice. Only a few scattered patches here and there remain. Piling up below the lower car bridge, the loosened ice has been disappearing gradually, carried under the still firm ice of the river mouth to the bay. The water level was raised only slightly by the spring thaw.

W. E. SANDERCOCK ATTENDS FUNERAL

After having attended the funeral of the late Joseph Storey, who for many years had been superintendent of the Brantford Home For The Aged, Mr. W. E. Sandercock, Supt. of the Hastings County House of Refuge returned to the city from Brantford on Monday. The funeral was attended by superintendents of county homes from throughout the province.

Premier Recovering Says Mr. Tummon

Fairly rapid and steady recovery from his recent illness is noted in the condition of the Hon. R. B. Bennett, Foster Ward Conservatives of this city were told last evening by Mr. W. E. Tummon, M.P. for South Hastings.

In a brief message to residents of the ward at their "at home" held last evening, Mr. Tummon informed them that the Hon. Mr. Bennett would soon be able to return to his active duties in the House of Commons and take part in some important legislation, which he had asked to have held over until his recovery from his illness would permit him to continue.

"The reform policy brought in by Mr. Bennett is being advanced step by step through the House", Mr. Tummon assured his hearers.

BABIES
CLAPP'S BABY SOUP
and
VEGETABLE SOUP
Cooked in Glass Containers with Superheated Steam
CONTAIN ALL ACTIVE INGREDIENTS
15c
2 for.... 25c
McKeown's
Drug Store

SPECIAL
C. V.
QUICK DRYING
FLOOR VARNISH
A clear Varnish of highest quality, suitable for Floors, Linoleums and General Purposes. Fully guaranteed. Regular price $1.55 quart.
98c quart
½ Pints 29c. Pints 54c
½ gals. $1.89. Gals. $3.49
WE RECOMMEND IT.
SMITH HARDWARE
PLUMBERS & TINSMITHS

Wright's Radio Service
312½ Front St. Phone 65
Belleville, Ontario.
M. G. Wright, Manager. Geo. Sweetnam, Radiotrician
M 19-11

Ladies' Hats
Cleaned, Remodelled and Retrimmed
Straw or Felt 75c
TANNER'S
1A Bridge St. West
M14-21-28

RISK LIVES TO SALVAGE WOOD

At the imminent risk of slipping through and being carried away by the swift current underneath, several men and youths were observed picking their way over the piled up ice cakes of the Moira River below the car bridge late Tuesday afternoon bent on salvaging waste wood brought down by the flood. A few sections of logs piled on the ice were finally hauled to shore after a long line had been secured to them.

GIVEN TIME TO PAY HIS FINE

Charged under the Excise Act of having in his possession a still suitable for the manufacture of "moonshine" and also a quantity of mash, Charles Lake appeared in the County Police Court in Belleville yesterday and pleaded guilty, as charged Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., the presiding official, assessed Lake $100.00 and costs or in default of payment three months in the common jail. Lake asked to be given until the last day of March in which to raise the fine. The request was granted by the court.

Lake was arrested by the R.C.M.P. after a search and been made of his premises during which time the Provincial Police assisted in the matter. A large still and a barrel of mash was found on Lake's property, but was not in operation. The case was presented by the R.C.M.P.

LOCAL YOUNG MAN COMPOSES HYMN

Another of Belleville's young men is becoming prominent in the person of Mr. Eric O. Naylor, well-known in this city.

Last Sunday afternoon during the "Eventide Hour Broadcast" over CKCL at 5:30 p.m. a hymn composed by this young man entitled "A Song of Encouragement", was sung.

This is the first of his writings to be broadcast, but by no means his first composition.

◆

Campbell Decides to Abandon Attempts

Daytona Beach Fla., March 21—(AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell decided today to abandon further attempts here this year to break his own automobile speed record of 276.816 miles an hour. He ordered Bluebird crated and will leave as soon as possible for England.

DEBOTH HOMEMAKERS SCHOOL
under the auspices of THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER at the CAPITOL THEATRE, TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, HURSDAY and FRIDAY, March 26th. to 29th. at 1.30 p.m.

New Ideas at Each Session—Valuable Gifts Daily — be sure to buy your tickets early and please come early to avoid a last minute rush and confusion. Only sufficient tickets will be sold for each session to assure the comfort of all attending.

Please read the Ontario Intelligencer daily for complete details.

TWO HALLS NEEDED ACCOMMODATE CROWD

Conservatives of Foster Ward Hold Enjoyable Euchre

Two different club houses at the south end of the city were necessary last evening to hold a large gathering of Conservatives, on the occasion of the At-Home and euchre held by Conservatives of Foster Ward.

Although only the South End Club room buildings had been chartered by the ward workers, the capacity crowd, which assembled overflowed these quarters and it became necessary to set up tables in the Wharf Street Debating Club rooms. About forty tables of guests enjoyed the euchre games during the earlier part of the evening, with the prize winners being listed in order named. Mrs. H. Collins; Mr. Harold Kellar and Mrs. O'Neil. The door prize was won by Mr. Wm. Nicholson, and a consolation prize, the unwrapping of which afforded considerable amusement, to Mr. Chas. Tebworth.

Following the cards refreshments were served by the ladies in attendance.

Owing to the lateness of the hour, Mr. W. E. Tummon, M.P., guest speaker of the evening addressed the meeting only briefly. Arriving from Ottawa but a few hours earlier in the afternoon, Mr. Tummon brought an encouraging report of the condition of the Hon. R. B. Bennett, recovering rapidly from a recent illness, and told his audience, that sure and steady progress was being made in the advancement of the reform policy brought in by Mr. Bennett some time ago. With the return of Mr. Bennett to his duties in the House, further important legislation will be enacted, Mr. Tummon promised.

Mr. R. H. Ketcheson presided during the evening, introducing the speakers and announcing the prize winners.

In his brief address, ex-Mayor George A. Reid referred to Foster Ward as "the barometer of the city". "If this large turnout is any indication of what is to come at the next election, then we have no cause to worry at all," he said.

◆

Will Celebrate Silver Jubilee In This City

Martial airs of army bands, the massing of uniformed soldiers of local units and the flying of flags in front of bunting decorated stores and homes throughout the city will give Belleville a festive air on the occasion of the Silver Jubilee of King George and Queen Mary on May 6, next, according to plans being made at present.

It is very probable, that the day will be observed in the city as a public and school holiday following a proclamation to that effect expected to be issued by Mayor George O. Tice.

Tentative plans being made call for a turnout of the Argyll Light Infantry regimental pipe and brass bands and the massing of the battalion on the Market Square following a parade through the streets. Storekeepers through the business section will be asked to display flags in front of their places of business, and householders throughout the residential section will also be requested to contribute to the decorative effect.

With the formation of the battalion and the various units of ex-servicemen on the Market Square a brief prayer will be offered by the Rev. Major Beauchamp Payne, padre, after which a fusillade will be fired by the infantry. Several selections will be played by the two bands, followed by "God Save the King" at the conclusion.

◆

INFANTILE PARALYSIS DEATH AT BRANTFORD

Brantford, Ont., March 21 (CP)—The Health Department this morning reported the death of a two-year-old child from infantile paralysis. This is the first such death this year.

Shop if you like... but you can't beat these USED CAR BARGAINS
LOWER PRICES—greater selection—easy payment terms. These and many other reasons make it obvious that here is the best place in town to buy used cars. Come in and look them over. See the fine condition they are in. Then as you check the price, consider that our reputation stands behind every automobile we sell.
We Have the Following to Offer
1931 CHEV. COACH. (new motor)
1930 BUICK 5-PASS. SEDAN. (newly painted)
1928 DODGE COUPE (newly painted)
1933 FRONTENAC 4-CYL. SEDAN (economical)
1932 PONTIAC SEDAN (a real buy)
1932 CHEV. SEDAN (first class)
1931 ESSEX ROADSTER (AL)
1928 HUDSON 4-PASS. COUPE.
1934 CHEV. SEDAN (like new)
1934 PONTIAC COUPE (less than 3,000 miles).
1934 CHEV. SPORT COUPE (Rumble Seat.)
1934 OLDS. SEDAN (low mileage)
1930 FORD COUPE (newly painted)
1929 HUDSON SEDAN (good).
SEVERAL GOOD CARS PRICED FROM $65.00 TO $165.00
Also the Following Trucks
1930 HEAVY DUTY DODGE (stake rack.)
1930 1½ TON DODGE (stake rack).
1930 CHEV. PICK UP.
1931 CHEV. 1½ TON TRUCK (Stake rack.)
1929 FORD TRUCK (stake rack)
1927 CHEV. TRUCK. (Stake rack)
AS WELL AS GOOD CARS WE HAVE GOOD SERVICE. TRY US.
(OPEN EVENINGS)
J. B. BOYCE
Phones 704-705 Belleville 350 Front St.

Police News

Continuing to pass through the city in increased numbers, nineteen transients remained in the city over night, when they presented themselves at the police station requesting a warm night's lodging.

Early today the police department answered a call on Foster Avenue where a dog had been run over by a motor car. Upon investigating the matter it was disclosed that the unfortunate animal's back had been broken. Upon the request of the owner the injured canine was removed by Thos. Thorne, city dog catcher, to be destroyed.

A thorough check-up of all infractions to motor vehicle laws has been ordered in Belleville, stop street by-laws, speeding infractions and all other violations of the motor laws are to be thoroughly enforced, police announced today.

The cell block at the police station remained unoccupied insofar as confined prisoners were concerned last night, transients having sole possession of the cell block all night.

It was announced by the Highway Traffic Patrol Constable today that Thursday had been set aside by His Worship, Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., as "traffic police court day" in this district. It is understood that as far as possible all traffic cases will be heard on this day each week, thereby relieving Monday and Friday's court materially.

◆

Obituary

MRS. JAMES HUBBLE

Rawdon, Mar. 21 (Special)—Mrs. James Hubble, aged and respected resident of Mount Pleasant in Rawdon township died at her home on Wednesday afternoon after an illness, which extended a week. She was born in Wooler, 75 years ago being the daughter of the late James Ellis and Esther Lohnes. The deceased was married in 1880 to James Hubble, who predeceased her one year ago, and came to Rawdon township, where she continuously resided. The late Mrs. Hubble was a member of Mount Pleasant United Church and until ill health prevented was an active worker in that congregation. Left to mourn her loss are two sons, William at home, Frank at Detroit, Mich., two daughters, Mrs. H. Tucker, Tweed, Mrs. L. Taylor, Cobourg, four sisters, Mrs. S. Wrightmeyer of Peterboro, Mrs. T. J. Wallace of Windsor, Mrs. M. Holder of Frankford, Mrs. J. Young of Picton and three brothers, Lorne of Windsor and Walter and Bruce of Wooler. The funeral will be held in Mount Pleasant Church on Friday with interment in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

MRS. ROBERT SHARPE

Rawdon, Mar. 21 (Special)—Word was received at Mount Pleasant of the death on Tuesday at Duck Lake, Sask., of Hattie Merrick, beloved wife of Robert Sharpe, who for many years was a resident of this community. She was born in Rawdon township 88 years ago being the daughter of the late Isaac Merrick and Charlotte Lane. At the time of her marriage she went to reside at Hoard's and after her husband's retirement from farming, the couple lived in Stirling, later moving to the west to live with their daughters. It is understood the body will be brought to Hoard's for interment, the funeral to be held on Tuesday next. She was a member of the United Church and left to mourn are a husband, three sons, Walter and Arthur of Hoard's, Oscar of Prince Albert, Sask., two daughters, Mrs. R. Anderson and Mrs. James Bryce of Duck Lake, Sask., also two sisters, Mrs. John Johnson of Mount Pleasant and Mrs. Adam McKay of Duluth, Minn.

Miss Claire Andree who will conduct the Ontario Intelligencer Homemaker's School beginning March 26 and continuing until March 29.

◆

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:
Ontario Intelligencer:
Dear Sir:

I wish to express my appreciation to the taxpayers and members of the Thurlow Township Ratepayers' Association, held at the Prince of Wales School, Tuesday, March 19th which was a large and enthusiastic gathering, and due appreciation was given to the president and his committee for the good work they were doing and the unselfish and untiring energy that they were putting forth, to solve the problems for the benefit of the residents and to work in co-operation with the council.

Considerable discussion was centered around the correspondence of the past and of the government's action, in regard to their many pledges of "a new deal and a time for a change" and were the people of this vicinity going to get a repetition of the past in regards to the outstanding grievance of the past 9 years, many thought that the faith of the people, in dealing with the Hydro previous to 1927 was satisfactory evidence to prove to this government that should have no fear in the people, in regards to patronage of Hydro, and that this government should dispense with the 20 or 5 years contract and enlighten the service charge for the benefit of all, which in due course would add revenue to the Hydro.

The members greatly appreciated the good work that was being done by Dr. Faulkner in trying to serve the people without class or distinction, although some members were of the opinion, that this matter was let slide as it had been in the past, but were informed by the chairman, that this was not the time to give up, but fight on for freedom and justice, and that the members put their shoulders to the wheel of unity as unity meant strength.

It was also moved by a member that the council be approached in regard to the deplorable condition of the many sidewalks including those of Bull Street and Stoney Lonesome, and that the matter be brought up in regard to a sidewalk on Herchimer Avenue to connect with a sidewalk to school No. 20, as the children have to walk on the highway and this was a menace to traffic on the highway and was not in the interest of Safety First, and also caused a great deal of anxiety to the parents of these children. The chairman also was of the opinion that this would give work to our unemployed.

In closing the meeting the president thanked the many members for the wonderful attendance and co-operation and good faith in their association.

W. Turner, Sec., Pro Tem.

◆

WINTER'S CURTAIN IS NOW LIFTED

March 21 Officially Listed as First Day of Spring

Although residents of the city and district shivered in temporarily discarded overcoats in a cold grey fog and biting east winds, Spring arrived at the downtown corner of Front and Bridge streets, this morning exactly on schedule.

Today, because the sun crossed the meridian, ushering in the beginning of the vernal equinox and making the period of darkness and daylight of equal duration, winter's curtain was officially lifted. But there was little of spring in the air. Robins, chirping cheerily and carolling for the first time in the branches of trees throughout the residential sections during the past few days of sunny warmth, were conspicuous by their quietness, and overcoats and mufflers again come into play.

Further signs of actual warm weather just in the offing were given residents of the section. Red wing blackbirds have returned and are congregating in large flocks in nearby marshes. Song sparrows have been seen and heard. Wild geese have been flying north for the past several days and the plaintive notes of killdeer flying high above the city in the darkness for the past evening or so have been plainly heard. The strongest note of all, however, is the statement by the weatherman, that thunderstorms are expected today or tomorrow.

◆

Golden Wedding Is Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Frederick of 7 Murney Street, Belleville, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Monday, the 18th March, 1935. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick were both residents of Massassaga, when married fifty years ago. After marriage they resided on the groom's farm for a number of years and then sold it and bought the general store at Mountain View, Prince Edward County, which they conducted for a few years. Twenty-one years ago they moved to Belleville and Mr. Frederick is a valued employee of McIntosh Bros. store at the present time.

They received some thirty cards and telegrams of congratulation from Chicago, Michigan, Toronto and other points and many telephone messages. Plants and flowers sent by friends were artistically arranged in the living room. They have one son living, Mr. C. I. Frederick, Principal of Queen Mary School, Belleville. One son was killed Overseas.

Mrs. Frederick has four brothers living, G. F. Lent, Belleville; E. E. Lent, Toronto; J. M. Lent, Michigan, and W. W. Lent, Chicago, and one sister, Mrs. Anna Roberts, Chicago A number of relatives and friends gathered in the evening to congratulate the bride and groom of fifty years.

◆

CROSSING GUARDS URGED

Windsor, Ont., March 21 (CP)—A recommendation additional brakemen be employed to guard crossings was made by the jury which inquired into the circumstances surrounding the death of Junior Meek, 6, who lost both his legs and later his life when he slipped under the wheels of an Essex terminal freight train. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

STROUD'S
VARIETY STORE
Week-End SPECIALS
SILVER
Pie Plates
With Pyrex lining, lovely pierced design
1.95
WATER LILY
Centre Piece
With 2 blooms and bud, four leaves, complete with mirror
98c
A BIG ASSORTMENT of good quality Ladies'
Purses
Latest designs from New York... Any purse
1.00
LAST TIME TO PURCHASE
Aluminum Pieces
at the low price of
79c
Teakettles, Potato Pots, Double Boilers, Percolators, and many other articles
THE SMALL BOYS'
Coaster Wagon $1.69
Steel Body, Rubber Tires.
GALVANIZED
Pails 23c
REVERSIBLE
Dust Mops 49c
GROCERY SPECIALS
Any Corn Flakes 2 pkgs. 15c
Amber Honey, No. 5 pail 39c
Black Pepper .... lb. 35c
Choice Green Tea ....lb. 39c
Pure Lard .... lb. 12c
Macaroni .... lb. 5c
Corn brooms 39c
Wonderful Soap, 10 bars 29c

CAPITOL STARTING TODAY

A sly old Fox!
The genial, smiling face conceals the shrewd, sharp mind that makes him a worthy opponent for the world's most daring plunderers of diamonds and hearts!
Adolph Zukor presents GILBERT K. CHESTERTON'S famous fiction character
"FATHER BROWN, Detective"
A Paramount Picture with
WALTER CONNOLLY
PAUL LUKAS
GERTRUDE MICHAEL SECOND FEATURE —
"SING SING NIGHTS"
Sensational Drama with a strange plot starring CONWAY TEARLE and BOOTS MALLORY.
Complete Shows 2.30: 7.05: 9.10
Lucky Capitol Programmes
3: 66: 41: 22: 90

Spring Festival of CERTIFIED Hits!
Don't Miss One of Them
You'll Learn About Young Love From Her!
GRAND OLD GIRL
With May ROBSON
Beloved star of "Lady for a Day" in a grand and glorious comedy-drama.... with MARY CARLISLE FRED MacMURRAY Make it your business to give yourself this pleasure.
2ND. FEATURE
ALL THE KING'S HORSES
CARL BRISSON MARY ELLIS
This feature at 3.45 - 8.30 p.m.
BELLE
EXTRA! "IRELAND" (Travel talk in Technicolor
"Grand Old Girl" 2.40: 7.20: 9.50
STARTS TODAY

SATURDAY
90 MINUTES OF ROARS
"RUGGLES of RED GAP"
CHARLES LAUGHTON
MARY BOLAND - ZASU PITTS
CHARLIE RUGGLES - ROLAND YOUNG
Coming "THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL"

ONE MAN CABINET IS ASSAILED BY LIBERAL LEADER

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King Gives Address at Ottawa

CO-OPERATION NEEDED

Banquet Great Manifestation of Liberal Loyalty to Leader

Ottawa, March 21 (CP)—Canadian Liberals today looked back on a great demonstration of loyalty to their Dominion Leader, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, and a declaration of party unity, in the face of a general election. They also had heard him assert that "collective wisdom is the wisdom, that alone can guide the destines of this country," as he stressed the need for taking cabinet colleagues into full confidence, as well as for maintaining intact principles of responsible government.

Referring to the fact the majority of provinces now have Liberal governments, Mr. King predicted, that if his party is victorious at the coming election a spirit of co-operation with the provinces would prevail. The same ideals, which prevailed in the Federal field would also animate the provinces and the result would be an atmosphere of amity and mutual assistance.

Guest of honor at a large banquet sponsored by members of the house of Commons, the Liberal Leader received from the hands of Senator Cairine Wilson, only woman in the Upper Chamber, a loving cup, while just previously Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice in the King administration, had read him a beautifully engrossed address. The address referred to him as "a worthy successor of Laurier," and assured him of "the whole-hearted co-operation and unfailing confidence and loyalty" of Liberals.

Provincial Premiers Speak

The dinner, as noted by Rt. Hon. George P. Graham, who presided, took place on the anniversary of the election of William Lyon Mackenzie as first mayor of Toronto. Seated at the head table with Mr. King were two provincial Premiers, Hon. Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario, and Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Saskatchewan. Both spoke, expressing their hearty support of the Liberal Leader and their belief, that the Liberal party would be successful at the coming election. Greetings from the other provinces were expressed in brief speeches.

Extreme measures and intolerance would get nowhere, said Mr. King, in giving the opinion, that it was great conciliators, who had done most for the world. He depreciated growth of the dictatorial form of government—the rule of might and force, which, he believed, was at the root of much of the trouble in Europe. Canada, he feared, was moving in the same direction. The great majority of measures in parliament, he said, were introduced by the Prime Minister, and other members of the cabinet had little to say.

◆

Edmonton, March 20 (CP) — Proposal that the Alberta Government enter the liquor manufacturing business was made in the legislature last night by Milton C. McKeen (LFA., Lac Ste. Anne) during the budget debate. He declared establishing of a distillery in this province would mean a greater home market for Alberta wheat.

Remember the Name— BROCK'S when you buy BIRD SEED

Like children, Dick must have just the right food if he is to be happy and healthy!

When you give him BROCK'S Bird Seed—with the Bird Treat—he is assured of a perfect balance of many varieties of clean, wholesome seeds. The Treat rounds out the perfect diet.

Do not overlook the ONE WORD that earns for you Dick's hearty song of thanks—

15

BROCK'S BIRD SEED and TREAT

NICHOLSON & BROCK, LIMITED
125 George St., Toronto

12.25 per ton Buy Disco 12.25 per ton

The Wonder Fuel

IDEAL FOR FURNACE, STOVE, RANGE OR FIRE PLACE.
Before you buy any more fuel
"TRY DISCO"
IT WILL SURPRISE YOU!
Sold only by
THE F. S. ANDERSON Company
Telephone 231 209 Front Street

SHIRLEY TEMPLE REAALY MAKES HER MARK

Winsome Shirley Temple makes her mark for posterity. She is shown as she pressed her tiny hands and feet into a square of wet cement in the forecourt of Grauman's Chinese Theatre in Hollywood, Calif. Her foot and hand prints right alongside of those of Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and many other screen notables, will remain to excite the curiosity of coming generations.

Parliament Hill Hears

◆

(By WILFRID EGGLESTON)

A. E. Munn, the Liberal member for Vancouver North, carries a very valuable watch with the following inscription: "From the employees of the Munn Lumber Company, Whitney, Ontario, in remembrance of August 25th., 1911: 'Inasmuch as you did it unto the least of one of these you did it unto Me'."

This is the story: Away back in 1911, A. E. Munn was operating as the Munn Lumber Company at Whitney, Ontario, running a mill with two shifts, one hundred and twenty-five men on each. One of the employees of the night shift lived out in the country about five miles. He had been on duty the night of August 24th and about ten o'clock on the morning of the 25th, a messenger came in to the mill stating that when the man was leaving home one of his little girls, about two years old, had followed him, got lost, had been in the woods all night and could not be found. The messenger was asking for help to find the child.

Mr. Munn realizing that to set one or two men on such a search would be futile, closed the mill, ordered out both shifts, and very soon the region near where the child had last been seen was being systematically and thoroughly combed. The day wore on, without result; and anxiety grew. It was known that the little child had on only a thin cotton dress, there were bears and other animals in the woods, and the night had been chilly. Finally, after a strenuous day, a party headed by Mr. Munn happened to strike a winter road which branched off the trail taken on the previous night by the child's father, and in the dust they saw the footprint of a small bare foot. Following up this clue they soon had the little child back in her mother's arms. The presentation of the watch was made a few days afterwards.

• • • •

"Jimmy" Stitt, the popular member for Selkirk, was accosted by one of the carpenters from the "lower regions" of the parliament buildings the other day.

"Say, Mr. Stitt," he said. "Something must be going to happen to you."

"Oh, why do you say that?" inquired the Conservative member.

"Because I had a dream, in which I saw you and Mrs. Stitt down here being photographed. They must be going to put you in the cabinet—or something."

"Thanks," replied the Selkirk member, with a touch of melancholy. "I only wish you were a cabinet maker, instead of just a carpenter!"

• • • •

I hear—that to make three trips among the Main Block of the parliament buildings covers a mile—that the official temperature of the Green Chamber is precisely 68 degrees—that is what the thermostats are set at—the officials admit that occasionally in the very torrid weather the figure has been known to rise to 72—the official humidity is 40—if the air being supplied the Chamber has less moisture than this, the deficiency can be made up by the spray stream which cleans the air—the daily 'population' of the Centre Block when parliament is sitting is about 1200—the large room which is designated the Speaker's Dining Room, situated just back of the Speaker's Chair, across the hall, was built as a 'Common Room' in which members of all parties could mingle with one another, and with the press—it is quite likely that in the next parliament this room will be restored to its original purpose—at present there is no place where all members feel free to met—there used to be such a room in the Old House, and 'Drinks' were served there, which assisted in breaking down any political barriers—don't know whether this feature would be restored.

• • • •

I didn't know before—that Hon. Hugh Guthrie was a cricketer in his younger days— that Hon. Ernest Lapointe used to wear a 'beret' in the House— that he was taught English, or at least inspired to learn it, by the late Senator Jacques Bureau — that Sir Robert Borden was once mistaken by a kindly old lady for the 'condensed milk man', the lady being quite disappointed when she found out he was only the Prime Minister of Canada—that Hon. E. N. Rhodes used to be known at school as "Dusty" same as most others of his cognomen—that the Minister of Finance was one of the best bridge players in the country —that Vincent Massey and Hon. 'Bill' Herridge were classmates at Toronto Varsity—that Miss Macphail was born in a log cabin—

• • • •

I owe the above fascinating facts to Charles Vining, and his delightful book "Bigwigs", published by MacMillans and containing thirty-seven sketches and caricatures of leading citizens— I enjoyed every word of it, and commend it to readers—Among the federal leaders delineated are Messrs. Bennett, King and Woodsworth, Senator Meighen, Hon. H. H. Stevens and the others mentioned above.

• • • •

One sentiment about Mackenzie King may be passed along in the form of comfort to those uneasy souls among his followers who are restive because he hasn't done anything spectacular yet in reply to Premier Bennett's Reform Program:

"He (Mackenzie King) has a tendency to procrastinate until a crisis is upon him and he then improvises under fire with a skill which sometimes has transported his followers from desperation to delight."

• • • •

The Dominion Archives, which is the most wonderful store house of the raw stuff of history in Canada, largely due to Dr. A. G. Doughty and those who made his work possible, contains some striking last letters of famous men.

What is believed to be the last letter ever written by Sir John A. MacDonald throws a vivid—if rather pathetic gleam—on the political instincts which flourished in the very shadow of death. Writing to 'Jack' Macdonell, he admits that he is really in pretty bad shape, but he doesn't want the Grits to know about it, because it would raise their stock!

The Archives possesses also the last letters of Montcalm and Wolfe, and these two illuminate the characters of the men who wrote them. Montcalm, on his death-bed, pleads with Wolfe, who, though he is unaware of it, lies mortally stricken also, to spare his brave men. Wolfe, answering the criticism of his brigadiers over the location at which he has chosen to engage the enemy, says if he is proved to be wrong he will be sorry, but he is prepared to answer to his King and his country for the consequences. Events proved that he was right and his colleagues were wrong.

One of the exhibits which catches the visitors' eye consists of the meat ration cards of King George and Queen Mary, used during the war, and signed by their own hands!

Don't Get Up Nights

No More Getting Up One to Ten Times Every Night From Bladder or Prostate Trouble

Send for FREE Trial

If you have to get up nights on account of weak bladder due to irritation of the prostate gland send the coupon for a free trial of a wonderful treatment that stops this trouble. Get two or three good nights' sleep from this trial and see what a world of difference it makes. Hundreds write like this: "I want to tell you what your Home Treatment has done for me. Before I took your medicine I had to get up three and four times in the night. Since I took your treatment I can go to bed and sleep until morning. I have had this trouble for about three years. I saw an advertisement in our home paper about your treatment so I sent to Windsor for the sample, and then I sent for the four weeks' treatment. I sure have received good results and am feeling fine now. If I require more I have the address here. I will be only too glad to give anyone information about your medicine." Wm. Munroe, Edmonton, Alberta.

If you have pain in the back, if you have a burning sensation and get up frequently at night—if you think your kidneys are weak—or if the irritation in the bladder keeps you awake and you are all worn out in the morning, this free trial treatment will bring you such wonderful relief you will be delighted beyond words.

Send me no money, just your name and address on the coupon below. Don't delay another day. Mail coupon now.

FREE TRIAL COUPON
F. L. McWethy, Dept. 255-A
345 Sandwich St. West,
Windsor, Ontario.
Send me free your Trial Treatment for Weakness and Irritation of the Bladder.
Name ....
Address ....
City .... Prov. ....

BILL ATTACKED BY CONSERVATIVES

Claims Amendment to Power Commission Bill Patronage

Toronto, March 21—(CP)—Exactly a month after the Ontario Legislature Throne Speech Debate started, participation of private members was to end today so Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn and opposition leader George S. Henry can wind up the debate next Tuesday.

Farquhar Oliver (U. F. O., Grey South) will be the first speaker and several Government members will follow. It is understood no more Conservatives will take part in the debate.

The session yesterday was brief with the only excitement developing during second reading of the Bill of Minister of Highways T. B. McQuesten to amend the Power Commission Act.

Designed to have Government appointments to local power commission, be at pleasure instead of for the previous two-year term and to be retroactive to Aug. 1. 1934, the measure was attacked by Leopold Macauley (Cons. York South) as "The introduction of the spoils system by statute."

"Patronage is a terrible thing, a hellish thing, when it is practised by anyone but a Tory government," retorted Provincial Secretary H. C. Nixon, acting Premier in the absence of Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, after opposition members attacked the bill.

◆

CROFTON ITEMS OF INTEREST

Crofton, Mar. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Covert and Miss Betty Bongard were in Picton on Saturday.

Mrs. B. Jones returned home on Sunday after spending the past week with her father, Mr. James Clement at Big Island.

Mrs. George Tompsett and Miss Laura Doolittle of Wellington called on Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Crook on Sunday afternoon.

The wind on Sunday morning uprooted a couple of trees along the road.

Mr. Arnold Peters of Napanee is remodelling Mr. Wesley Frink's house preparatory to their moving on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Bongard, Miss Betty and Jerrold were Sunday guests of Captain and Mrs. Bongard at Glenora.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Frink and Bert took dinner on Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Crook.

IDEAL TO SERVE AT ANY TIME
But Especially Tempting for the Lenten Season.
FISH and CHIPS
Order from BEAN'S
IDEAL FISH and CHIP CAFE
331 Front St. We Deliver Promptly. Phone 1543
STORE OPENS MONDAY AT 5 P.M.

OUR CUSTOMERS SAY WE HAVE
The Smartest Hats in Town!
Hundreds from which to Choose
Woodley's Furriers
273 Front Street

SURPRISE PARTY FOR MISS HICKS

Carmel, Mar. 21.—The sawing machine is making its rounds in this neighborhood.

Quite a few from this line attended the surprise party given Miss Margaret Hicks before she entered the hospital for training.

Mr. Carman Dafoe is recovering from the chicken pox.

Mr. Levi Latone spent Monday at Mr. F. Guay's.

Mrs. J. Walmsley of Chicago spent Thursday with Mrs. G. Vandewater.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brintnell spent Sunday in Stirling.

Mr. Charles Simpson and Mrs. Margaret Martin of Sturgeon Falls were callers at Mr. and Mrs. Earl Denyes on Monday.

Mrs. M. Martin of Sturgeon Falls spent the week-end with Mr. Chas. Simpson's and mother and also Mrs. G. Vandewater.

Miss Evelyn Whitney took dinner at Mr. Frank Guay's on Sunday.

WALLACE NEW WELTER CHAMP

Defeats Tommy Bland in Twelve Rounds at Vancouver

Vancouver, March 21. (CP) — Gordon Wallace, 24-year-old Vancouver fighter, who took to the logging camps a couple of years ago in an effort to build up the stamina necessary to stand the rigors of ring warfare, today sat on the Canadian welterweight throne to give the Far West its first Dominion Champion in that rank.

Wallace reached the top of Canada's welters last night when he gained a 12-pound decision over rugged Tommy Bland of Toronto in a bout which the Canadian Boxing Federation had sanctioned as for the title.

The Vancouver fighter's victory was not impressive but he managed to get the call of the two judges and referee through his harder punching. Bland landed more blows but they were ineffective. The Easterner, however, proved much the better boxer as he bobbed and weaved under vicious smashes or tied his opponent up in the clinches. A proof of his boxing ability was the fact that not once during the 12-round did Wallace land a clean blow to the chin.

◆

COMMUNITY HALL SCENE OF PARTY

Union Vale—Quite a number from here attended the Wilson and Gibson party at Gilead Community Hall on Wednesday night, where about one hundred of their friends were entertained at a dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Tubbs accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Leavitt of Picton spent a few days last week with friends at Consecon.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Orser were Friday evening visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Hubbs of Bloomfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvard VanCleaf of East Lake spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clare Pearsall.

Mr. L. Allen spent the week end with his parents at Adolphustown.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pearsall, Reta and Leland were Saturday evening visitors with Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Orser.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Vincent and George and Mr. Finley Vincent were tea hour guests on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Alton Vincent.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Orser were Sunday evening callers at Mr. and Mrs. C. Pearsalls.

◆

Tokyo, March 21 CP (Cable)—Canada's touring Battleford Beavers hockey team today hung up their second victory of their Japan visit when they defeated a Japanese inter-Varsity team 14-1. The Canadians won the opening game of the tour here last Sunday when they downed the Nikko Club, 19-3.

MOTHERS!

Do you have a difficulty in having your children's feet properly fitted.

Naborhood gives the same attention and service in the fitting of Children's Shoes as in Adults. Foot ailments can be prevented by having your children's feet properly fitted in

NABORHOOD CHILDREN'S SHOES

Our new Spring stock of Children's Shoes is very complete. We carry all widths and sizes in both strap and oxford styles. Mothers bring your children here and have their feet properly fitted.

NABORHOOD
SHOE STORE
242 FRONT ST. PHONE 919
Belleville
Where Shoe Fitting is a Science

The Ontario Intelligencer
Invites the Ladies of Belleville and District to the DeBoth Cooking School
• Tuesday, March 26 • Thursday, March 28
• Wednesday, March 27 • Friday, March 29
FOUR AFTERNOONS STARTING AT 1.30 p. m.
Capitol Theatre
Secure Your Tickets at
The Ontario Intelligencer Office
or
The Capitol Theatre
During the Hours of the Matinee or Evening Performance

To avoid confusion in accommodating those desiring to attend the Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School, only enough tickets will be sold to comfortably fill the Theatre.

Tickets will be on sale beginning Thursday, March 21st, and it will be wise to secure yours early. Mail orders will be received from those out of the city desiring to attend.

Admission 10c Daily—By Tickets Only

Special effort is being made to make this year's school a real attraction. Each afternoon will see a different programme of Menus and Hints on General Housekeeping.

Each Afternoon at 1.30 p.m. Prizes Every Day

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

MARRIAGE IN DANGER

Judge Ben Lindsey predicts the early doom of marriage in the United States "unless we open our eyes to reality and change our whole concept of the relation of the sexes." Unless a change comes in outlook he sees nothing but "free love, domestic chaos and sexual anarchy." He said he himself was for the "old-fashioned marriage." Against the forces of human nature which are running wild, he would employ but the one remedy,—sudden reversion to science to meet the altered conditions of the day, to religion and to education.

Judge Lindsey recently had before him allegations of wife-trading in a quadrangular divorce suit and he was so shocked that he said, "I am supposed to be an advanced thinker in this field, but nevertheless I am for a good old-fashioned marriage until death do us part.

"I believe our grandparents were happier and spiritually more successful than we are. Whatever we may think of these ideas, those ideas are gone, and the old-time home, based on it, has either passed or is passing." In place of it he sees a flippant, irresponsible attitude towards marriage regard for it as a temporary affair which so long as it ministers to passions and pleasures, pleases and when it fails they go to a lawyer.

The judge sees one of the causes in the economic stress which prevents marriage for any in the ideal marriage years between twenty and thirty, for he says if men do not marry until after thirty, it means women are forced to a life of celibacy.

He sees that "religion has failed to keep up with the thoughts and lives of people under the new conditions and a consequence is that religious training has lost some of its influence on people and failed to impress them with their duties to their children and God.

The judge advocates maternal insurance to stimulate the birthrate among "superior people" for he says that "the majority of children are born to the less intelligent classes of married couples."

The judge contends that as the state reaches into the home and taxes the child to be its defender in time of war, the state should bear all or part of the cost of bringing a baby into the world and caring for it during the days of its infancy. Charity does this for about one quarter of all babies born, because it has to. He argues that it is for the good of the state that the government should do this.

Those who look with concern upon so many of the evidences of the weakening of the matrimonial ties and the flippancy with which so many people refer to marriage cannot but ponder over the statements of Judge Lindsey who has been before the public for thirty years or more with his pronouncements on matters of public morals.

TOWN FARMING

The day is not far off when the city and town farmers will be planning their work. Though the growing of vegetables and roots of late years has not reached the proportions of city farming as in the years of war, a considerable amount of produce is grown in city gardens and on otherwise vacant lots by amateur gardeners.

Market gardeners have attacked an employment which gives intense satisfaction because the work is creative. Man helps nature and together man and nature produce food. But the food, good as it is and necessary as it is, is not the only profit—there is the result in morale, in satisfaction, and in learning that in the soil lies man's hope. The unemployed man can help hiself and the country by work in the lot or garden. Such a man deserves praise of all men but even if he does not receive that universal acclaim he has an inward satisfaction to know that he is a builder.

WHO ASKED APPLE PIE?

Apple Pie is the chief of desserts. The Town Hall Club of 1800 in New York City has spoken for steak as favorite food and the apple pie as the prince of desserts.

Those who attend chicken suppers and all sorts of banquets, and those who manage to get a meal in a neighbor's house know that the apple pie is the favorite here too.

Gatherings in the country where dinners are served are marked by one thing—the demand for apple pie and if not apple, then pie of other fruits.

What a relief after the war restrictions it was to go to one of those rural festivals and be free to eat as many pieces of pie as the fair waitresses would put before one!

How organizations which put on banquets and furnishes food freely can make any money in view of the rage for apple pie, is difficult to understand.

PROTECTION FROM THE SHARK

There is no more easy prey for the selling agent than the man or woman without knowledge of finance but with money on hand. This class of persons must be protected from their own weaknesses and any security shark must be driven away. There is no place for him. He is a foe to the welfare of the country like the criminal and one and all must be protected against him. Stricter laws make more careful salesmen.

THE OUTLOOK FOR PEACE

Whilst the German Chancellor talks peace in tones which are universally welcome, his Minister of Propaganda, Paul Joseph Goebbels, reveals the manner in which preparations have been made for war and the "spirit" in which the people of Germany, especially the youth, are being organized and trained. Germany, he declares, in the course of a statement issued to the world press, already possesses a powerful, well-equipped army with excellent artillery and huge reserves of trained men, and war material is being supplied from German arms factories in an ever-increasing volume. This sabre-rattling broadcast does not tell the world anything that it was not already aware of, but evidently Herr Goebbels intended to make international flesh creep. He is a very stupid man, ever unmindful of the terrible danger of entertaining vain illusions. It was Goebbels who prepared a map showing what the Third Reich "should be." It includes Schleswig, all of Holland, most of Belgium, a slice of Northern France, most of Switzerland, all of Austria, a major portion of Czechoslovakia, and about half of Poland. Little dependence can be placed upon Hitler's professed devotion to peace if the gigantic army Goebbels boasts about is to be in control of a genius akin to the one that is responsible for the aforesaid map.

With eyes wide open and mind alert, Sir John Simon, when he undertakes this important mission, will be able to judge the sincerity of Hitler's expressed pacific intentions and form an enlightened opinion whether Germany's armed force is intended to lead to an attempt to vindicate Herr Goebbels' fantastic map, or whether it reflects, as Hitler says it does when pledging himself to the cause of peace, a disciplined patriotism, and is the illustration of an independence acquired through casting off the "inferiority complex" put upon the nation by the restrictions of the Versailles Treaty. It is a great expectation to entertain, but hope will persist—if the unity of the other powers is maintained—that the forthcoming mission of Sir John Simon to Berlin will have an appreciable measure of the success which is heartily and sincerely desired.—Montreal Gazette.

CARELESS DEBTORS

The creditor can resort to law, but costs are frequently a deterrent. We take a more tolerant view of debtors than we used to, or than they do now in, for instance, Abyssinia, where debtor and creditor are esntenced to be tied together until the obligation is discharged, a practice that with us would be very embarrassing. Imagine a doctor, for instance, going his rounds with all his debtors handcuffed to him in a long chain.

There are good reasons for the proposal of Auguste Comte, the positive philosopher, that legal processes for the recovery of debt should be abolished, for if the law did not enforce the payment of debt people would be very cautious for whom they performed services without payment on the spot. Our cash-and-carry stores are evidence of the practical realization of the undesirability of extending credit to each and every comer, just as they demonstrate a realization, perhaps, that ethical standards are not as high as they should be. Unless debtors generally recognize their responsibility, people who perform services will insist more and more on payment at the time of performance.—Hamilton Spectator.

EMOTIONAL CONTROL

Can it be that the English are beginning to lose control of their emotions? Sir Austen Chamberlain, on hearing of Hitler's army decree, said, "Good gracious!" Seventeen years ago, when the news arrived that Ludendorff had broken through the British front and that the Channel ports were in danger, Lord Balfour said, "How annoying!"—New York Times.

Exit the hockey player and enter the baseball player all ready to perform. Baseball shows no mercy to the winter sport and is ready to crowd the late winter entertainents off the sport pages as soon as the ground and weather will permit. Canadians have fortunately in winter, spring, summer, autumn sports of all kinds which give plenty of exercise in the open air.

Friends of the footpath have not forgotten the necessity of paths whether the tie be opportune to spend money in that work or not. Highways are rather too dangerous for walking and some day paths will be built.

One cannot understand the action of any German living in Canada subject to recall to military training who would answer that summons once he has known of the glories of Canadian freedom.

SIDELIGHTS

THE HOME FORUM

Discussing the events of the day, home gossip and general news topics as revealed by the home newspaper—under the evening lamp—and comments Grave and Gay. — Supervised by The Lamplighter.

NOW CLOSE THE DOOR

Now close the door. What if it be a door
Made not of any wood or iron or steel?
Thought's viewless stuff can sometimes serve far more
Than barrier's eyes can see and hands can feel.
The door is shut, the world lies there, outside,
And not one echo, not one whisper falls
To hint of all its folly, pomp or pride
Within this sure retreat of viewless walls.

Here only what you welcome can have known;
Your choice of shining wonders you come
in,
You may have pride set free from any sin
And love, like Earthly passion nobler grown,
You may have all things that you hold most dear;
This is your Heaven which you fashion here!!

—Aline Michaelis.

x x x

AWAY OUT IN THE GREAT OPEN SPACES this Great Family Journal is read and enjoyed, as well as close to home. Here's a message from faraway Montana —Bitter Root Stock Farm, Hamilton, Montana, which says: "I enclose a check to cover subscription. You are publishing a real newspaper and I read it with interest. C. A. Crawford." Mr. Crawford is Vice-President, Treasurer and Manager of the Bitter Root Stock Farm, and as can be seen is very discerning in his choice of the best in current literature.

x x x

WE HAVE THE ROBINS with us again —and the sparrows we have always with us—also the age-old problem "Who killed Cock Robin?".

x x x

THE LARGEST TELESCOPE in the British Empire will be the boast of Canada shortly and it will be situated in an observatory at Richmond Hill, north of Toronto, in a 177-acre park. This is being presented to Canada by Mrs. D. A. Dunlap, as a memorial to her late husband, D. A. Dunlap, prominent mining man, associated with the Timmins Brothers in the Larose silver mine at Cobalt, the Hollinger in Porcupine, and other properties. Mr. Dunlap was a lawyer practising in Mattawa, and became associated with the Timmins brothers, storekeepers at Mattawa, in mining matters when silver was discovered at Cobalt. The Larose mine made the Mattawa men rich and then they moved on to Porcupine and the Hollinger mine and town of Timmins resulted. The Dunlap Memorial Observatory will be surmounted with a huge steel dome within which will be located the telescope with a 74-inch reflector, the entire assembly weighing about fifty tons. The steel dome is sixty-one feet in diameter with a parallel opening fifteen feet wide. Mechanism is provided to move the telescope at will. The entire construction and equipment is under the supervision of Prof. C. A. Chant, head of the Astronomy Department of the University of Toronto.

x x x

A weary traveller was compelled to spend the night in the hotel of a small village. At breakfast he remarked to the proprietor: "I wish I had come to this hotel when I passed this way six weeks ago."

"Oh," said the proprietor, "I am glad to hear that,"

"Yes," continued the traveller, pushing his plate from him, "that egg would have been a lot fresher then."

x x x

The inspector was examining the class.

"And, my boy," he said to a glum-looking boy in front, "in what condition was the king at the end of his life?"

The child looked at him almost pityingly. "Dead, o' course!" he said in a bored tone.

x x x

The diner addressed the waiter.

"This chicken was hatched in an incubator."

"How do you know that, sir?"

"Because no bird that had known a mother's tender care could turn out as tough as this."

x x x

Sign in a small Ghetto restaurant in New York City:

"Coffee, three cents."

"Coffee, five cents, but coffee."

WOMAN OF MYSTERY REMOVED FROM TRAIN

Carrying $173,000 in Bonds and Currency in Envelope

Battle Creek, Mich., March 21—A woman carrying $173,000in currency and bonds in a sealed envelope was removed from a Grand Trunk train after the conductor reported that she was acting strangely.

She was taken to a hospital for observation. Physicians said that she was hysterical. She later quieted down and refused to answer questions concerning herself or the money.

The woman first said that she was Mrs. Isabell May McHie, Elgin, Ill, but later said that she was Mrs. Isabell May McCoy, New York City. She had a Chicago to Montreal ticket.

The train crew became interested when the woman was apparently careless with large sums of money. A pullman porter gave officers a $5 bill, which she dropped on the floor. After she was taken off the train $600 wrapped in a cloth was found in her berth,

SERVE PASTRY OF LEBANON

Toronto, March 21—An interesting item on the menu of the dinner tendered by the Roman Catholic clergy of the diocese of London to Most Rev. R. H. Dignan, new bishop of Sault Ste. Marie at the Hotel London, Tuesday afternoon, was a pastry served with the dessert. It was the national pastry of Lebanon which was supplied by Sir Louis Peters and Isaac Abroham of Windsor. The donors were thanked by Rev. Father Brennan, the toastmaster.

FROM RUSSIA

Dressed in a $250 fur coat and telling of the wonderful meals she had, and of people in tattered clothes begging, nine-year-old Glena Gregorieff arrived back in Toronto after spending two years in Moscow. Glena's father is aiding in the building of the Moscow subway. Her mother died there about a year ago and Glena made the journey home alone. She will stay with her grandmother.

BRITAIN TO CONFER WITH REICH ON ARMS

Sir John Simon (LEFT), British Foreign Minister, and Captain Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, left London for Berlin where they are to confer with Realmleader Hitler in a meeting of world-wide importance. Germany's fuehrer is expected to explain by what means he decided to conscript an army of half a million men in defiance of the Versailles Treaty. From Berlin Captain Eden will continue on to Poland and Russia to interview the heads of those nations on the treaty's abrogation by Germany. Sir John will return to London and prepare a report.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 Years Ago

MARCH 21st., 1915.

Maple syrup is selling at 40c per quart.

A group picture of the members of the Board of Education is to be placed in the high and public schools. A roll of honor giving the names of former scholars of the city schools now serving at the front is to be prepared and placed also in the schools.

Mr. F. B. Mallory of Sidney township has left for the province of Manitoba where he will address a series of meetings in behalf of the Patriotic and Production campaign.

Mr. George Eccles of Toronto is spending a few days in town.

Belleville will raise $30,000.00 for the National Patriotic fund. The campaign will open on March 25th.

Within a week it is expected that 1,200 or 1,300 soldiers will be in Belleville barracks.

30 Years Ago

MARCH 21st., 1905.

Mr. A. E. Fish left today on a business trip to the Soo.

Mr. W. C. Mikel went to Lindsay today having been appointed prosecuting attorney at the assizes which open in that town today.

Mr. Alex Henry of Napanee is a visitor in the city today.

Every business man in this city, whether he be a member of the Board of Trade or not should attend the special meeting of that body called for Friday night in the city hall. The question of a free bay bridge will be the chief business of the meeting. The special committee appointed to deal with the matter has met the lessee of the bridge and there is an excellent prospect, we are told, that matters may be satisfacorily arranged.

Mrs. C. W. Craig of Toronto, formerly of this city, is visiting relatives here.

40 Years Ago

MARCH 21st., 1895.

Mr. J. Silver of Toronto bought a number of fine horses on the streets here today for the spring horse show in that city.

The spring birds have been slow in coming north this season and they have therein shown that they know their business.

Oliver Wardhaugh found a bag containing potatoes and parsnips on Catherine street yesterday and they are now at his second-hand store.

The Rev. M. W. Maclean, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, attended the meeting of the Kingston Presbytery in Cooke's Church, Kingston, on Tuesday.

Mr. R. L. Sewell of this city will be purser on the Richelieu Company's steamer Corsican this season.

50 Years Ago

MARCH 21st., 1885

The sun crosses the equator today, days and nights are now of equal length.

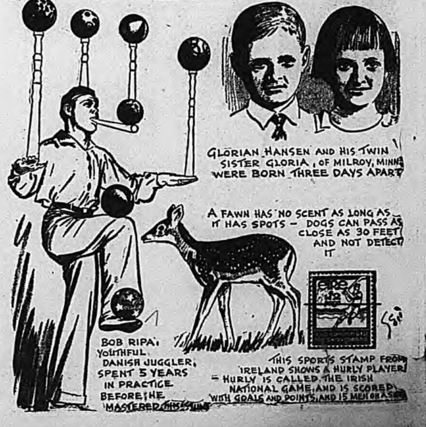
Anyone naming anything that is worse than a woman at market with a big basket can secure a ticket free to the first circus at his office.

The Trent Valley Advocate has been enlarged and the name changed to Trenton Advocate.

Mr. E. A. McDowell, who is well and favorably known here, has secured from the management of the Madison Square Theatre in New York, the right to produce the successful comedy "The Private Secretary", and will present it here at the opera house next Friday and Saturday evenings.

The newly organized Belleville Council of the Royal Arcanum commences existence with eighteen charter members. The following are the officers: Past Regent, J. P. Thomas; Regent, W. B. Northrup; Vice Regent, A.L. Geen; Orator, W. J. Diamond; Secretary, C. P. Hunter; Collector, W. W. [illegible]; Treasurer, J. P. Thompson; Guide, Thos. Cook; Warden, J. C. Jamieson; Sentry, R. H. Sanderson; Trustee, Geo. H. Pope, S. S. Lazier, A. Brignall; Physician, Dr. Gibson.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK - - By R. J. Scott



GLORIAN HANSEN AND HIS TWIN SISTER GLORIA, OF MILROY, MINN. WERE BORN THREE DAYS APART
A FAWN HAS NO SCENT AS LONG AS IT HAS SPOTS - DOGS CAN PASS AS CLOSE AS 30 FEET AND NOT DETECT IT
BOB RIPA, YOUTHFUL DANISH JUGGLER, SPENT 5 YEARS IN PRACTICE BEFORE HE MASTERED THIS STUNT
THIS SPORTS STAMP FROM IRELAND SHOWS A HURLY PLAYER = HURLY IS CALLED THE IRISH NATIONAL GAME, AND IS SCORED WITH GOALS AND POINTS, AND 15 MEN ON A SIDE
EIRE

FOR HEALTHY Refreshment

what YOU need is a good cup of TEA

ANYTIME IS TEA TIME

Mount Pleasant Young People Entertains Hoard's Society

Rawdon, Mar. 21. — Over fifty members of Hoard's Young People's Society with their pastor, Rev. F. McTavish, journeyed to Mount Pleasant Church Hall on Friday evening and the two leagues enjoyed a social time together.

Mr. John Coggins, president of Mount Pleasant Y.P.S. opened the meeting with a hymn and Rev. F. G. Joblin offered prayer. Mr. Coggins heartily welcomed the guests from Hoard's and turned the meeting over to their president, Mr. Ray Williams. He graciously replied to the welcome and then gave an address, "The Legend of St. Patrick", as the program centred around that theme. Mrs. Frank Heagle and Miss Mildred Heagle contributed a piano duet. Miss Doris Rainnie read a humorous story entitled "A cure for rheumatism".

Eight male adults delighted with a one-act play entitled "The Change Artist", representing eight characters, Chairman, Pied Piper, Charles I, Henry VIII, Hon. R. B. Bennett, Premier Mitchell Hepburn, Blacksmith and Major General.

A dialogue was given by Pat impersonated by Mr. Kenneth Milne and Mike impersonated by Mr. Mitchell Rainnie.

Five young men delighted with a song, "Pretty Kitty Kelly".

Mrs. Carman Gunning read "The Courting of Paddy and Nora". Mr. Jack Hughes sang a solo and Pat gave a brief address which Mike finished. Six young men rendered a song entitled "My Wild Irish Rose".

A violin and piano number was given by Mr. Mitchell Rainnie and his sister. The pianists for the evening were Messrs. Doris Rainnie, Olive MbConnell, Mrs. Frank Heagle. The program closed with two verses of "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and prayer by Rev. McTavish.

Several games and stunts were then enjyoed and later a lunch of cake and sandwiches and coffee was served the guests and all enjoyed a delightful social half hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sharp, Douglas and Aubrey of Mount Pleasant, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sharp and son of Hoard's spent the week-end in Toronto visiting relatives.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Powers of Picton during the Presbyterial and on Friday evening she was a supper guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Unger, Yerexville, and also had the pleasure of visiting "The Old White Chapel", the historic church of Prince Edward County.

Mr. Harold White spent Sunday at Bethel the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Andrews and Faye and Mrs. H. Higgs were guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Lake on Sunday evening.

On Sunday evening at Mount Pleasant Miss Olive McConnell and Miss Edna Thrasher delighted with a duet, "Jesus My Saviour."

Messrs Charles Sharp and Claude Sharp spent a few days last week with friends in Toronto.

Mrs. Ernest White visited Mrs. George White and Mildred in Stirling last week and she also called on other relatives and friends.

Mr. Clifford Chambers underwent an operation in Belleville Hospital on Thursday, March 14, and he is slowly recuperating.

Mr. Howard Mills of Northport is holidaying with his cousin, Mr. Carleton Potts this week.

Mr. Angus Johnson and his sister Jessie of Wellman's spent a few days last week with their cousin, Miss Mildred Sharp.

Messds. Norman McConnell and Harold Rowe and Miss Olive McConnell spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Allan Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hubble of Detroit are spending this week with his mother, Mrs. James Hubble who is very ill. Mrs. Herman Tucker of Tweed and Mrs. Louis Taylor of Cobourg have both been to see their mother.

On Friday, March 1 5, Mrs. Hubble fell as she was going from her bed to the clothes room and fractured two ribs. On aSturday she suffered from shock and Miss Mary Vandervoort has been in attendance. Little hope is held out for her recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Eileen and Ormel visit ed the former's mother, Mrs. E. MacMullen at Springbrook on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cooney and Howard attended the funeral of Mrs. Anderson at Frankford on March 13.

Rawdon folk were very sorry to hear of fire which destroyed the lovely home and most of the contents of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morrison.

Messrs. George and Kenneth Weaver, James and Percy MacMullen moved the household effects of Mrs. E. MacMullen to her new home on the ninth concession of Rawdon last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doxiator of Shannonville and Mrs. Percy Ray of Zion spent a day last week with Mr. and Mrs. Warren Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dracup and family of Peterborough spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dracup.

Mrs. William Sassidy is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Fred Martin for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. James MacMullen, Malcolm and Bessie of Campbellford are moving this week to the Outwater farm on the ninth concession of Rawdon.

Mrs. Mary Wellman is very ill at her home in Rawdon and friends hope she speedily recovers.

Mr. Lorne Wallace has returned to his home at Menie after spending the past month with Mr. Charles Dunham.

Miss Lillian Barnes spent last week in Belleville a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bristol.

Miss Grace Daynam, Fred Wellman's Young People's Society with "The King's Business" and prayer by the pastor.

Mr. Omar Dracup opened his citizenship program with "Faith of Our Fathers". Mr. Jack Hutcheson read the Bible lesson found in the twentieth chapter of St. Matthew. Mr. Everett Maybee delighted with two numbers on his piano-accordion.

Rev. F. G. Joblin gave an address on the theme "Courage and Citizenship". Mr. Frederick Beckett contributed a guitar solo and Miss Priscilla Cook a piano solo.

Miss Dorothy Durham read a poem entitled "The Young Carpenter".

This helpful meeting closed with "Abide With Me" and Miss Carolyn Johnson staged an apple contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell of Belleville were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gummer.

Mrs. John Hay was rushed to the Belleville hospital on Saturday.

◆

MANY ATTEND AT PRAYER MEETING

Malone—Miss Leona Gawley spent last Thursday under parental roof.

Mrs. Albert Nickle and baby Doris spent Tuesday with Mrs. Ed. Robinson.

Messrs Morrey Nickle, Isaac Allt and Dan Allt of Madoc spent last Thursday in Malone.

Messrs K. Weese and L. Wannamaker spent a few days last week at the home of Mrs. T. L. Wiley, laying a hardwood floor.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ellis and baby Joan and Mr. Bill Ellis of Belleville spent Sunday in Malone.

Messrs Les Pack, Clarence Weese and Alex Gawley of Glenmire spent the week end in Malone.

Mrs. Ethel Pack has returned home from an extensive visit in Belleville and Marmora.

Mrs. Clarence Weese and son Donnie spent last Tuesday with Mrs. Edward Robinson.

Mr. Bill Fox of the northern highway spent the week end in Malone.

Mr. Fred Fox is very much improved and is able to be about the house in a wheel chair.

Many of the citizens in the vicinity had the pleasure of attending prayer meeting last Tuesday evening held by Rev. Mr. Hollingsworth at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Nickle. The meeting was an enjoyable one and it is hoped the minister will be able to hold them each week in Malone as the church is so far away and people are glad to be able to have the opportunity of having the prayer meeting so close to home. Prayer meeting was held this Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fox.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Conway and sons of Toronto were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Weese and Mrs. John Ellis.

Mrs. John Pack and Ruby spent one day last week in Malone.

Miss Helen Kelly of Marmora spent the week end under parental roof.

Mrs. John Ellis and Rita spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. Pack.

Master Harry Wiley spent Sunday at the Weese home.

◆

"Saying that one dollar shall henceforth be known as two dollars does not change the amount of corn that must be fed to a hog or the amount of wheat that goes into a loaf of bread."—Samuel Crowther.

STIRLING

GUILD MEMBERS DISCUSS WAR

Arthur Duncan Presents Topic of Evening's Meeting

Stirling, March 21—On Sunday evening after the regular service, a large group remained for the fireside service. The meeting opened with a selection by the Sunday School orchestra, "Tender Thoughts." Those taking part were: Mary Hulin, Evelyn Davidson, Mrs. Rowland (at the piano) and Don Scott, Harold West, Reg. Mathison, Lloyd Rowland, Mr. F. C. Mallory led the discussion in a fine address. He compared the present day home life of Canadian people with that of his boyhood days, reviewing very carefully, incidents of great interest which remained clearly in his mind. He drew a vivid word picture of his own home, taking the audience into the dwelling place where he spent his early life. There was a large log fire place in the living room around which the entire family would gather, sometimes to listen to music played on an old fashioned melodeon, sometimes in an understood quietness, and at other times to freely discuss problems of the day. Happiness entered the home in those days. In the light of the fire, the joy of living beamed from the faces of men and women whose labours made them physicially and mentally fit. Today, every one is in search of happiness, a happiness that is elusive and uncertain, when the read happiness is to be found within the confines of their own home and family circle. We do well to stop in the busy routine of everyday life, to enjoy an hour at a fireside meeting such as this, which serves to revive cherished memories in the lives of some of the older folk. Mr. Mallory, in the course of his discussion, gave a splendid talk on St. Patrick. The meeting was brought to a close with a selection by the orchestra, "Shepherd's Morning Song."

St. Andrew's Young People's Guild

The regular meeting of St. Andrew's Guild was held in the church parlours on Monday evening, March 18th. The meeting was directed by Mr. Harold Baker, who acted as chairman for the evening. After the opening hymn all repeated the Lord's prayer. Mr. Charles Allen gave a fine piano solo, and following the singing of the second hymn Mrs. Fred Hulin sang a soprano solo, "In the Garden." Miss Evelyn Drury read the scripture lesson found in Matt 5, verses 43 to 48. Art Duncan introduced the topic for the evening, "War the Enemy of all Mankind."

"War had played a major part in the history of man," he said. "Out of the 3400 known years of world history, 3152 have been taken in local and general wars. Upon these figures is based the belief that war is inevitable, a natural condition, and the best procedure for society. But man is evolving into a higher state of mind. The movements in the direction of world peace are the result. Only a few years ago, when all propaganda was directed into the channels of recruiting men, our ministers, many of them who now strive for peace, sanctioned war, and encouraged it. Some even stated that to die while on active service was to be sure of access into the Kingdom of God. Swayed by mob rule there men preach peace in time of peace and war in time of war. Right or wrong they remain with the masses. But who of these peace crusaders would have dared voice their dislike for militarism and war in 1916?

The whole world was hympotized by the beat of the drum and marching feet, and in a mild state of insanity. Now with our clear and steady, we view the disaster of it all, and realize that instead of gain it was loss. The Allies fought for the safety of democracy. Is it safe?

The war to end wars, the greatest conflict of all time, which was closed with iron-bound treaties to insure world peace gained for the world nothing but chaos and ruin. Those carufuly planned treaties are considered just a scrap of paper. Peace can never come through the forces of war. It can only be brought about when through an educational system we instruct future manhood that their existence is for the mutual benefit of all mankind and not for selfish individual gain. A greater amount of the doctrine of brotherly love rather than personal achievement at any cost. "Love thy Neighbour" sayeth the Lord of the universe. Can war have a place in such teachings?—War will eventually be outlawed forever when man rises to a level closer to God through the acknowledgement of Christ's teachings. This fine meeting was closed with a hymn and all repeating the benediction.

Personals

Mr. George Wallace of Campbellford spent a few days at home, returning to his work at Ormsby on Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid. Mason, Mrs. J. Ketcheson and Miss Elda Mason of Springbrook were Tuesday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mason.

Rev. J. A. Koffend left on Monday for a few days in Toronto. Mr. Morgan Rowland of Victoria College returned to Toronto with them after spending the week end with his parents in Stirling.

Mr. Earl Green mechanic, of E. G. Bailey's garage is in Toronto taking a two days course of instruction on the new cars being placed on the market by General Motors Ltd.

Six full grown men were seen playing marbles on the street on Monday. What causes that? Could it be the spring?

◆

COL. GASCOIGNE ELECTED

Ottawa, Mar. 20 (CP)—Lt. Col. F. A. Gascoigne, Montreal, was elected president of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association at the annual meeting today. He succeeds Lt. Col. R. C. Crowe of Guelph, Ont.

POT LUCK DINNER HELD AT GILEAD

Gilead, Mar. 21.—Nearly everyone has completed sawing their wood and a few have tapped the sugar bush.

The roads in this district are in good condition.

Mr. Ernest Leavens, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Leavens and Carl spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred.

Miss Agnes McWilliams spent the week-end with her sister in Belleville.

A number from this line attended the funeral of the late Rev. Father McCarthy of Read.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Leavens spent Sunday with Mr. John Lidster of Bethel.

Everyone was sorry to hear of the sudden death of Mrs. Conley of the sixth line.

A pot-luck dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Hubel on Tuesday evening. Everyone enjoyed the dinner which they received just pock-luck, also the musical numbers, solos, readings, etc., which followed.

Mrs. Jordon Latchford and baby Rose Marie spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Leavens.

◆

"Boys are always reasonable; schoolmasters generally; parents never!"—Dean Inge.

◆

"It is never too late to do the right and the wise thing."—Hugh S. Johnson.

TO REACH YOUR GOAL

Most people have an objective they would like to reach—protection for old age, travel, education. Regular savings deposits of even small amounts, accumulating at compound interest, lead step by step to security and the attainment of one's goal.

THE ROYAL BANK OF CANADA

WHERE QUALITY COUNTS
DOMINION STORES LIMITED

Are Your Looking for Food Values?

You're Sure

Of course! every keen shopper is constantly on the alert for Better Values in Better Foods. To every modern housewife, "Dominion Stores" is an emblem and a guarantee of Lower Costs in Finer Foods!

DOMINION STORES

RED RIVER CEREAL - Pkg. 23¢
FLOOR WAX Hawe's 1-lb. Tin 42¢
COOKING FIGS - 3 lbs. 25¢
CREAMETTES 8-oz. Pkg. 3 for 25¢

SARDINES BRUNSWICK 6 TINS 25c

GINGER CREAMS Christie's lb. 25¢
MACARONI - 10-oz. Pkg. 2 for 19¢
WHEATHEARTS - - Pkg. 10¢
TAPIOCA or SAGO, Bulk - lb. 9¢

KETCHUP HEINZ TOMATO Large Bottle 17c

BISCUIT MIX Mother's Pkg. 10¢
Kraft VELVEETA CHEESE - - ½-lb. Pkg. 15¢
SALT Iodized or Free-Running 2-lb. Pkg. 6¢
Heinz Chow or Sour Mixed PICKLES - - - - Bottle 19¢

PRUNES SANTA CLARA MED. SIZE 3 lbs. 29c

Domino Baking Powder 1-lb. Tin 19c
Domino Soap Chips 5-lb. Carton 39c
Domino Coffee - 1-lb. Pkg. 33c
Domino Rice FANCY - 2 1-lb. Pkgs. 25c
Fine Salt - - 50-lb. Bag 39c

All Brands Tomato Juice No. 1 Tins 3 for 14c
CUSTOM-GROUND—ALWAYS FRESH Richmello Coffee 1-lb. Tin 39c
GOOD QUALITY CORN No. 2 Tins 3 for 25c
Comfort Soap 8 Bars 25c
QUAKER Corned Flakes 2 Pkgs. 15c

CORNED BEEF BOVRIL or EMERY 12-oz. Tin. 10c

Choice Quality BLUEBERRIES 2 No. 2 Squat Tin 19c
H. P. SAUCE Bottle 27c

SALADA TEA YELLOW LABEL ½-lb. Tin 27c BROWN LABEL ½-lb. Pkg. 31c

FRUITS and VEGETABLES
NO. 1 COOKING Onions 10 lbs. 19c
NO. 1 SPY Apples 6-quart Basket 43c
CRISP CELERY .. 2 stalks 15c
Imported Carrots ..2 bchs. 15c
PARSNIPS, 6 qt. bsk. 19c
MUSHROOMS .... lb. 33c
NEW CABBAGE .... lb. 9c
FRESH SPINACH ...... lb. 15c

FREE One Cake of LIFEBUOY SOAP with purchase of package Rinso Large Pkg. AT 23c

DOMINION STORES LIMITED
WHERE QUALITY COUNTS

Woodley's Furriers

March Lay-Away Sale

Choose Your Fur Coat in March.

- BIG SAVINGS
- DEFERRED PAYMENTS
- FREE STORAGE

Have you seen the new CAPES and SWAGGERS?

Telephone 421 FOR FUR STORAGE The day you take your coat off.

BELLEVILLE'S OLDEST FUR STORE.
273 Front St.

Personals

Mrs. H. Goodman (nee Edith Vallance) of Buffalo, N.Y., is in the city visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Vallance, 12 Highland Avenue.

Miss Nadine Hall, 21 Dunbar Street, admitted to Belleville Hospital for an appendicitis operation on Monday last is progressing favorably.

The weekly card party was held last evening in the Moose Auditorium with a large number in attendance. Two door prizes were awarded last night, the winners being Mrs. Angell and Mr. Robertson. The euchre prizes were won by Mrs. Scott, ladies' first, Mrs. Mason, second, Mrs. Corey, third, Mrs. Doherty, fourth, Miss Pearl Aselstine, fifth, Mrs. Parker, sixth, and Miss Maude Edison, special. Mr. McNab won the men's first, A. J. Everett, second, Jack Lee, third, M. Todd, fourth, Max Connors, fifth, and Fred Mott, sixth. Mrs. Charmian won the rummy prize. After cards, lunch was served and the Commodores played for dancing.

Mrs. E. Gordonsmith was hostess to the birthday group of John Street Church W.M.S. at a delightfully-arranged afternoon tea yesterday. Many guests were present and spent a very happy afternoon. Mrs. Robert Hall presided at the tea table which was attractive with gay yellow daffodils. Members of the Group assisted in the serving and Mrs. Gordonsmith was assisted by Mrs. Denike.

Mr. Edmund Sherry and Mr. Stapley are attending the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East in Trenton this week.

Mrs. C. M. Sheehan, Chicago, Ill., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas O'Hara, Coleman Street.

ENJOYABLE PARTY FOR HOCKEY TEAM

Niles' Corners—A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Dafoe on Friday evening last by the members of Rosehall Hockey Team and their ladies. Progressive euchre was indulged in and contests were also features of the evening's program. Mrs. Dafoe furnished a delicious lunch, assisted in the serving by Betty Fillingham and Helen MacDonald. At the close of the evening a speech in form of a motion was put forth by Frank Brimley and seconded by Leonard McCartney thanking Mr. and Mrs. Dafoe for the hospitality shown by them. Three hearty cheers were given and the evening closed by the singing of "They are Jolly Good Fellows."

Miss Edna Dafoe spent the weekend at the home of her parents here.

Mrs. Albert Anderson and children are staying for a time with her parents Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Channell.

All are sorry to know of the illness of D. P. Trumpour, 3rd concession.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Cruickshank of Melville spent Thursday last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ellis.

Mr. Joseph Ellis was a Sunday guest of his sister Mrs. Geo. Newson of Rosehall.

Mr. Wm. Fillingham of Rosehall spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. N. Dafoe.

Mrs. Will Ellis visited relatives at Bloomfield on Thursday last.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Dafoe and Vernon were guests of Mrs. Ernest Pierson, Pleasant Bay, on Monday night.

Douglas McPaul, Jr. and sister Lela also Mr. and Mrs. C. Ellis were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Thompson, Pleasant Bay on Friday evening of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Duffell moved to Oshawa on Sunday.

C. B. Clapp was a Sunday evening guest at A. N. Dafoe's.

UNKNOWN JUMPS IN CANAL

Niagara Falls, Ont., March 21 (CP)—An unidentified man jumped to his death from Lundhy's Lane bridge today. A woman saw the man jump into the Queenston-Chippawa Power Canal. The body has not been recovered but it is expected it will be caught in the screens at the Queenston Power House.

FOR LITTLE HUNGER STRIKERS

A Food Drink Which Builds Appetite and Promotes Growth

If you are worried over Janie's appetite—try Vip.

WANT your youngsters to have young, vigorous appetites—ready for every meal—eager for their cereals or vegetables as much as for the sweets? Make Vip their regular beverage. They will love it—and it contains in abundance the vital element which promotes appetite and growth in children,—Vitamin B₁.

Here's the Proof

Mrs. Blackstock of Toronto writes, "Dianne simply would not touch solid food—I bought a large tin of Vip. My trouble with Dianne ended there. At 2 years, Dianne weighs 35 pounds, strong, sturdy and happy." Vip contains 27% wheat germ—the vital hearts of wheat and one of the richest known sources of Vitamin B₁—the appetite and growth vitamin. Tests have been made in Toronto and in American cities which show that adding wheat germ to an otherwise satisfactory diet will largely increase the rate of growth in children over those not given this vital element. (American Journal of Diseases of Children, May, 1930; October, 1930; February, 1932.)

Smiling appetites mean smiling health.

Everybody can benefit from VIP

Vip was specially designed to overcome two common deficiencies in our diets—lack of vitamin B₁, lack of iron, both of which affect our general health. For this reason it helps prevent constipation (vitamin B₁); it builds red blood (iron); it promotes strong nerves (vitamin B₁); it builds resistance to colds and other infectious diseases (vitamin B₁ and iron).

Ask your doctor about Vip.

THREE SIZES
29¢ 59¢ 98¢
VIP

★ Every claim for the vitamin and the iron content of VIP has been proved in laboratories with actual feeding tests, and is certified accurate. F. A. J. Zeidler, Ph.D., F.C.I.C.

Money-Back Guarantee

It will cost you nothing if Vip fails to satisfy you. If you feel that it falls short of our claims, return the unused portion of the tin and your money will be cheerfully refunded. Get Vip from your druggist or grocer. Scientific Food Products, Ltd., Toronto.

THE ONLY DELICIOUS CHOCOLATE BEVERAGE CONTAINING 4 VITAMINS AND IRON

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

Harmony in Marriage Demands Similar Ideas About Money

Copyright 1935

King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I have been engaged for nearly three years, to a young man who is much better off than well-to-do. In fact, I met him when I was doing secretarial work in the firm which looks after his family property. Everyone thought I was making the match of the year, and it wasn't mercenary on my part, because I really loved him.

"After we became engaged I began to notice a strange miserliness on his part about all sorts of things. This stinginess often caused him to spend much more money in the end than if he had parted with the initial few dollars in the beginning.

"He constantly made excuses about not giving me an engagement ring, though there were plenty of old rings in his family which I should have been glad to take as a pledge of our engagement. When I got up my courage to speak to him about this, he was always evasive.

"I thought surely he would give me a ring this last Christmas. I even suggested it. But when Christmas came, he gave me a modest dressing case which was not even fitted up.

"That settled me, and I broke the engagement forthwith. I really do love him, but have no intention of making up with him. Now what do you think of a constitutional tightwad, like my former fiance?

Lucille

It seems to me this girl did very wisely in breaking her engagement. Indeed, it was the best thing which could have happened to both of these young people. Saving was the man's passion, and the sensible thing for him to do would be to find a girl whose interest in thrift is as great as his own.

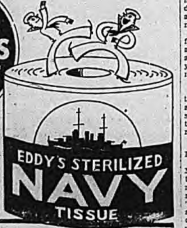
Two misers can be ecstatically happy in scrimping on pennies. Even cutting down on the actual necessaries of living — being a little chilly to save fire and a little hungry to have the cold roast last for another day. Some people warm their hearts over a bargain, and their religious worship is directed toward a steadily growing bank account.

Certain rich men, who deny themselves and even their families almost every comfort in life, get their great thrill out of leaving an enormous fortune for some benefaction. The late Russell Sage was of this ilk. He refused to have the old-fashioned pull-door-bell repaired on his Fifth Avenue residence, with the result that the rusty wire snapped in his wife's hand one day, and she fell backwards down the stone steps.

Uncle Russell cheerfully paid for the nursing and her doctor's bill, meanwhile taking great satisfaction in having had his own way about the bell for two years.

When one of the partners in a marriage is niggardly and the other generous — that way lies misery. In the present instance, it was lucky for the man who didn't give the girl a ring for Christmas, and more lucky for the girl that she broke with the man.

WHEN PENNIES COUNT



Save with safety by asking for NAVY Toilet Tissue. Soft . . . absorbent . . . pure . . . sterilized. Don't take chances on unknown brands. NAVY is a big value Tissue made by Eddy's.

The E. B. EDDY Co. Limited
KINGSTON BRANCH:
189 Ontario Street

Smith Township Woman Shows Great Fortitude

Peterborough, Ont., March 21—(CP)—A story of heroic fortitude was revealed today as Mrs. Joseph Snelgrove, 82, dying from want of food and water and suffering the agony of a broken hip, was rushed by ambulance from her lonely farm house in the Township of Smith to Nicholl's hospital. Little hope is held for her life.

The tragedy was discovered by a little neighbor girl who went to investigate the strange silence which had hung about the Snelgrove farm since Monday night March 11. People of the district knew the old lady had been living alone lately and became uneasy when they failed to see her about.

Observing the absence of smoke from the chimney last night, Robert Carter, a farmer who resides about a mile distant, sent his little daughter to he Snelgrove home to find out if all was well.

The little girl knocked on the door and heard a faint response from within. Entering she found Mrs. Snelgrove lying helpless on her bed. The girl reported her discovery and shortly afterwards Dr. H. I. Moore of Lakefield was summoned. Still conscious the aged woman recited her story.

Stepping out of the door of the farm house Tuesday of last week, she slipped on the ice and fell fracturing her hip while trying to shake some floor mats. She managed to pull herself into the house and on to the bed.

She lay all through the week until help came. She was unable to move to get food or water which was almost within her reach.

The aged woman was born in North Dummer Township of pioneer parents, and the modest little house on a 200-acre farm has been her home for the last 50 years. During the present winter her granddaughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. John Preston, lived with her. However, they left recently. The aged woman accompanied them to Peterborough, but longing for the home which she had known so long, she returned to live alone.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN
Copyright 1935
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

A real desire on the part of the designers to give us practical clothes that look luxurious results in some striking modes. A smart ensemble is in rosy henna brown woolen with a simple frock and a loose open coat with collar and tuxedo revers of snowy leopard.

Sheer delight are the new evening frocks in sheers of tulle, net and fine chiffon. A new frock is in turquoise blue tulle with shoulder straps of strass links; tiers of ruffles at the hem are worked in pointed treatment.

A strong contender for feminine favor is the scarf print with border treatments. A nice afternoon frock uses the border of the print to outline the neckline and the sleeves, which are slashed from shoulder to wrist. The print is in white, pink and green leaf outlined on a brown border, while the border is in green and white.

A full drawer of blouses is necessary if one is to get the best out of the smart suits now being shown. To make the suit more formal there is a lovely blouse in dusty pink crepe with cut glass ball buttons, a big flat bow and fagotting that outlines a bosom effect.

In the swim are the new crinkled rubber bathing suits. A new model in dark blue has white mesh inserts and a white rope neckline. White star buttons add extra accents.

Not forgotten in the fashion parade is the coat. Although suits are highlighted all over the country, many women prefer smart coats. One model is in green ribbed tweed with deep dolman sleeves and a big shawl collar of beige fox.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

DEAR MADAM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Some of the staff here have entered into a discussion as to what salutation should be used when writing to an unmarried woman. They claim that an unmarried woman is addressed the same as a married one, namely, "Dear Madam", but my contention is that by addressing her as such implies a married state.

No doubt I am wrong, but I refuse to take the word of anyone but an authority on the subject, being a stubborn creature. I would thank you to give me your advice in the matter.

B.

If we do not know the name of the woman to whom we are writing a business letter, we use, in the salutation, Dear Madam, whether the woman is married or unmarried.

Wedding Present Unnecessary

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am secretary to a business man. My employer's daughter is engaged to be married, and I would very much appreciate your good advice regarding gift giving. I have "known" her for about ten years, as she comes into our office occasionally and we have exchanged greetings and a few casual remarks while she is in the office. We are friendly toward each other, and that is the attitude assumed at all times when she comes into our office. I am wondering if you think that I should give her a wedding gift, and, if so, how small or large a gift it should be.

Thank You

While your relationship with this young lady has been a friendly one, it has been, naturally, a very casual one, and to me it doesn't seem at all to warrant your sending her a wedding present.

Progressive Dinner Party

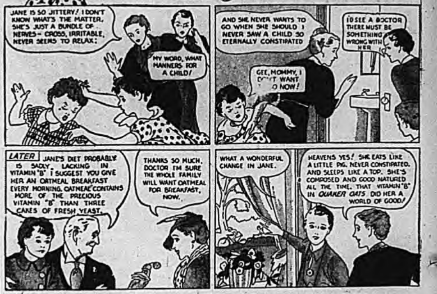
Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A mixed group of twelve young people are planning a progressive dinner party, and we will greatly appreciate any information you can give us, as we do not understand just how to go about it. Inasmuch as the meat course seems to be quite expensive, would it be all right to have about three of the girls share that expense?

K.

A progressive dinner party simply means that each course of the dinner is served at a different house ..and a very delightful party it can be. And it would be very wise and thoroughly proper to have three of the girls plan courses and share the expense.

HOW ONE THING NATURE STORES IN OATMEAL SOLVED HER 3 BIGGEST PROBLEMS!



JANE IS SO JITTERY! I DON'T KNOW WHAT'S THE MATTER. SHE'S JUST A BUNDLE OF NERVES – CROSS, IRRITABLE, NEVER SEEMS TO RELAX.
MY WORD, WHAT MANNERS FOR A CHILD!
AND SHE NEVER WANTS TO GO WHEN SHE SHOULD. I NEVER SAW A CHILD SO ETERNALLY CONSTIPATED
I'D SEE A DOCTOR THERE MUST BE SOMETHING WRONG WITH HER GEE, MOMMY, I DON'T WANT TO GO NOW!
LATER
JANE'S DIET PROBABLY IS SADLY LACKING IN VITAMIN "B". I SUGGEST YOU GIVE HER AN OATMEAL BREAKFAST EVERY MORNING. OATMEAL CONTAINS MORE OF THE PRECIOUS VITAMIN "B" THAN THREE CAKES OF FRESH YEAST.
THANKS SO MUCH, DOCTOR. I'M SURE THE WHOLE FAMILY WILL WANT OATMEAL FOR BREAKFAST, NOW.
WHAT A WONDERFUL CHANGE IN JANE.
HEAVENS YES! SHE EATS LIKE A LITTLE PIG. NEVER CONSTIPATED. AND SLEEPS LIKE A TOP. SHE'S COMPOSED AND GOOD NATURED ALL THE TIME. THAT VITAMIN "B" IN QUAKER OATS DID HER A WORLD OF GOOD!

And so, mothers, take a tip from Jane's experience! Serve Quaker Oats every morning for breakfast!

● Start tomorrow this more appetizing, natural way of getting the vitamin that tones up nerves and digestion. You'll find Quaker the most delicious oatmeal you ever tasted, because of the special Quaker process that roasts the oat kernels whole. The complete energy breakfast. Rich in carbohydrate and protein energy. Reinforced with Sunshine Vitamin D. Order from your grocer today.

Quick QUAKER OATS

LOVELY ENGLISH CHINA. If you like beautiful china—and what women doesn't—buy the Quaker Oats package marked CHINAWARE—every one contains a piece of china in a new blue and white scenic pattern.

FREE! Amazing Booklet on Child Feeding.

The QUAKER OATS COMPANY, Peterborough, Ont.

Please send me free a copy of Dr. Bundesen's 32-page book, "Foods for the Growing Child" with 54 helpful illustrations, and many charts showing value, uses and preparation of foods to build healthy children.

Name____________________

Address__________________

City______________ Prov._______

Illustrated Address Delivered Before Bonarlaw Men's Club

Bonarlaw— At the regular meeting of the St. Mark's Men's Club on Tuesday of this week with a somewhat larger attendance than usual Mr. Lionel K. Crawford of Deloro delighted those present with a very interesting and instructive address which was later illustrated with a number of lantern slides.

After the meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. Canon W.G. Swayne, the club President, Mr Baker introduced Mr. Crawford as the guest speaker of the evening. Mr. Crawford introduced the following speakers who accompanied him, viz. Rural Dean A.B. Caldwell, Hon. President of St. Paul's Men's Club, Marmora. Mr. W. J. Cottrell, President of St. Paul's Men's Club, and Mr. Thos. Cousins of Deloro. Mr. Crawford's address preceded the lantern slide lecture and was listened to with rapt attention as he took them with the second Division of the Canadian Expeditionary Force from Val Cartier Que. to the front line trenches in France Mr. W. J. Cottrell gave a splendid talk as the slides were shown giving many interesting facts in connection with the pictures and many of his own experiences as a soldier overseas. Mr. Thos. Cousins also recounted his experiences with the C.E.F. in a very interesting speech. Rural Dean Caldwell expressed his pleasure at being present and hearing the addresses.

The president also called on Messrs. Morley Stocker and Harry Skerritt, returned soldiers of St. Mark's Club who responded with humorous war stories. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Crawford and his companions for their splendid addresses.

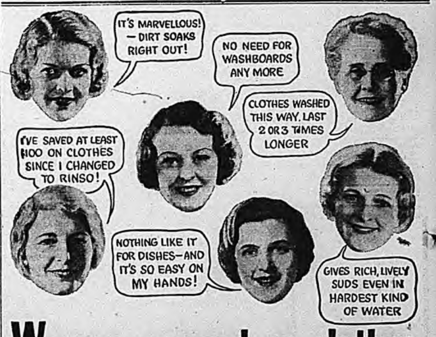
After singing the national anthem the refreshment committee assisted by other members of the club, served a dainty lunch during which a social half hour was enjoyed by all.

Real Spring weather is being enjoyed by all in this vicinity now and quite a number of persons owning a sugar bush have tapped.

Mr. Mel. Fitzgerald loaded a large car of hogs C.P.R. on Wednesday of this week. More hogs came in than he has had before for several months.

◆

Edmonton, March 21 (CP) — Legislation requiring bills of health by prospective bridal couples before marriages are performed was before the Alberta Legislature today, sponsored by Hon. George Joadley, Minister of Health. Last year a similar bill introduced caused widespread interest and was finally withdrawn as it was felt the public was not sufficiently informed.



IT'S MARVELLOUS! — DIRT SOAKS RIGHT OUT!
NO NEED FOR WASHBOARDS ANY MORE
CLOTHES WASHED THIS WAY LAST 2 OR 3 TIMES LONGER
I'VE SAVED AT LEAST $100 ON CLOTHES SINCE I CHANGED TO RINSO!
NOTHING LIKE IT FOR DISHES—AND IT'S SO EASY ON MY HANDS!
GIVES RICH, LIVELY SUDS EVEN IN HARDEST KIND OF WATER

Women amazed as clothes come 4 or 5 shades whiter —without scrubbing or boiling!

No wonder 53 cooking school experts recommend these richer suds!

BECAUSE it washes clothes the whitest ever — because it saves the wear and tear of scrubbing — because it's wonderfully easy on the hands—the cooking school experts of 53 leading newspapers recommend Rinso.

The makers of 23 famous Canadian washing machines recommend it, too—for whiter washes, for brighter washes, for safety! One box lasts and lasts. Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps—even in hardest water.

Just try it for dishes! Grease goes in a flash. Rinso makes all cleaning easier. Get a package at your grocer's today.

MILLIONS USE RINSO IN TUB, WASHER AND DISHPAN

Read the Classified Rental Property Listing on this Page

Business Directory

AUTO LOANS

AND REFINANCING
Direct with Owner Car Financing
of All Kinds.
S. J. FISHER & SON
30 Bridge St. East Telephone 185
Representing
Campbell Auto Finance Co. Ltd.
Toronto - Ottawa - London - Windsor

CHIROPRACTOR

R. A. WYATT, Ph.C., SPECIAL EXAMination with the Radioclast reveals all diseases in the early stages. Foot disorders corrected — all diseases treated. Phone 900 or write 288 Coleman St., Belleville.

VERA R. PITCHER, CHIROPRACTOR, and H. R. Pitcher, Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment, Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations and Electrical Treatments. 42½ Bridge St. E., Belleville, Ont., Phone 1274.

DENTIST

DR. ROBT. H. EMPSON
DENTIST
X-Ray
Phone 462 249½ Front St.
17-3m

RADIO SERVICE

JOHN A. DEWAR
RADIO TECHNICIAN
Registered — Graduate
245 John St. Phone 217
a1-tf

SURVEYORS

FRASER AYLESWORTH
Ontario Land Surveyor and Registered Professional Civil Engineer. Land Surveys, Plans and Descriptions, Etc., promptly attended to.
PHONE 6 — P. O. BOX 60
MADOC, ONT.

INSURANCE

Protect yourself against accidents with our Automobile Insurance
SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
Life and Fire Insurance
251 Front St Phone 120

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile, Accident and Plate Glass
278 Front St. Phone 1154-W

STOCKS & BONDS

BIGGAR AND CRAWFORD, MEMBERS of Toronto Stock Exchange. Phone 1738. F. H. Wills, branch manager. N5-1y

LEGAL

MALCOLM WRIGHT, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Etc. Office: Campbell St., Belleville.

T. Y. WILLS, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Etc. 15 Campbell St., Belleville, Telephone 74. m4-tf

PORTER, PAYNE AND ARNOTT, BARristers, Solicitors and Notaries Public. Chas. A. Payne, K.C. B. D. Arnott. Offices: 219 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

PONTON AND GRAHAM, BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Commissioners. Office: 28 Bridge St. East. Solicitors, Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages. W. N. Ponton, K.C. R. J. E. Graham. Office: Belleville.

DONNAN AND BUTLER, B. C. Donnan, K.C., E. O. Butler, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public and Commissioners. Offices: Court House Building, Belleville, Ont. Phone 238.

WALLBRIDGE, CAMERON AND CO. (Successors to the late F. S. Wallbridge). Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries. Money to loan. Dominion Bank Building, corner Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ontario.

216

DUFFERIN AVENUE

To-Let

A Beautiful Home

Hardwood floors throughout — lovely living room — coal fireplace — four bed rooms — Sleeping porch — full basement — furnace — wired for electric range. Garage.

EXCLUSIVE AGENTS

Belleville Locators

GEO. N. GORMAN, PROP.
166 Front Street
Phone 99 House Phone 687

BUY NOW! AND MAKE WORK

PHONE 99
Classified Ad. Rates

SOCIAL NOTICES—Births, 50c; Marriages and Engagement Notices, $1.00; Deaths and Funeral Notices, $1.00; In Memoriam, $1.00; Memoriam Poetry, minimum charge, $1.00 for 10 lines, over that 10c per count line; Ladies' Receiving Announcements, minimum charge, 75c.

CLASSIFIED — (For Sale, Wanted, Etc.)—1½c per word each for first TWO insertions, subsequent insertions 1c per word, minimum 20 words.

COMING EVENTS—75c per insertion for 25 words or under, over that amount 3c per word.

PROFESSIONAL, LEGAL AND BUSINESS CARDS (Yearly Contract)—$3.00 per month per inch.

OFFICIAL, MUNICIPAL AND GOVERNMENT NOTICES (including those concerning Legal Sales)—15c per agate line (14 lines to inch) for first insertion; 10c per line for subsequent insertions.

AUCTION SALE—3c per word, heading to count as 12 words minimum 25 words for 75c; consecutive insertions, 3c per word.

An initial or figure counts as one word.

In estimating allow five words to the line.

Telephone your Want Ads when it is more convenient. PHONE 99.

The Ontario Intelligencer will not be responsible for more than one insertion of an incorrect ad. Phone us if it is wrong.

Advertisers may have their replies addressed to Box Number care of the Ontario Intelligencer.

WANTED

TO RENT IMMEDIATELY — SMALL house or apartment. Phone 1716 after 4 p.m., stating all particulars. M21-1t

WANTED — TO BUY — USED ENGlish Pram in good condition. Write Box "H" Ontario Intelligencer stating color, condition and price. M21-1t

POSITION BY MIDDLE AGED LADY as practical nurse companion to elderly lady or gentleman. Phone 2064-W. M21-3t

WORK BY DAY DURING HOUSE cleaning. Phone 1112-W. M20-3t

YOUNG HORSE WEIGHING NOT LESS than 1300, must be quiet and broken single. Phone 2240. Reid's Dairy. M20-2t

YOUNG MAN DESIRES POSITION IN Dairy, Creamery or Condensery. Has had 15 years' experience. Write Box 167, Sydenham, Ont. M18-4t

WANTED BY APRIL 1 — RELIABLE maid for general housework. Three in family. References. Write Box "M" Ontario Intelligencer. M18-6t

FOR SALE

ONE PEKINGESE FEMALE, 4½ LBS., Fox Terrier, male, and a Pom cheap. 42 Murney street. M21-1t

FIELD PEAS, O.A.C. 181; OATS, 144, yield last year over eighty bus. to acre; Barley, O.A.C. 21, from reg'd. seed, two years. Cash with order. Samples and price on request. W. T. Mullett, Moira, Ont. M21 28

143 ACRES, ROSSMORE, ALL TILED, ploughing done. Large basement barns, good stables. Seven room house, fifty-five hundred. 3 acres, Stirling, choice seven room brick house, twenty-two hundred. 5 acres on Herchimer avenue, six room house, barn and hen house, seventeen hundred. Norman Montgomery, 163 William street. M21-1t

CABIN CRUISER—CAN BE SEEN AT Saunder's Marine Service, Belleville. Apply to Fred Croft, 153 West Moira street, phone 872-M. M21-6t

A QUANTITY OF GOOD MIXED HAY. Inquire Seldon's Drug Store, 328 Front street, phone 11. M21-2t

A TAN ENGLISH PRAM, ALMOST NEW, reasonably priced. Apply 274 George street. M21-1t

NEW AND USED DELCO LIGHT plants, electric washer, pump, 32-volt radio and a large filing cabinet. Delco Sales, John Steven, Thomasburg. phone 87r2. M19 21 23

ESSEX DE LUXE COACH IN FIRST class condition, new tires, will sell cheap. Phone 331-F or apply 110 West Bridge street. M20-3t

WICKER BABY CARRIAGE, CRIB AND wicker go-cart. Phone 225 or call at 164 Ann street. M20-2t

ONE USED ELECTRIC WASHER IN good working order to clear at $20.00. Weaver's Music Store, 214 Front street. M19-3t

MASON RISCH PIANO — SCARCELY know it had been used. Will sell cheap for cash. Write Box "B" Ontario Intelligencer. M19-3t

ONE BEATTY WASHER JUST LIKE new. Will sell at big discount off new price. Weaver's Music Store, 214 Front street. M19-3t

TO LET

FARM TO LET

THE SOUTH HALF OF LOT 8 IN FIFTH concession Tyendinaga. This is a good stock and grain farm. Brick house. Frame barns. Well located for schools, churches, cheese factory, market and highways. Apply to C. J. Carleton, Thomasburg, Ontario, or at law offices of Collins & Cushing, Belleville, Ontario. M13 15-16 18 21 23

208 GEORGE STREET — 8 ROOMS, conveniences except furnace, double garage. Possession April 1. Apply W. J. Hall, 278 Front street, phone 1154w. M14-TF

SOUTH HALF BRICK HOUSE 293 Charles street, conveniences, garage. Possession April 1. Apply 38 Sinclair street, phone 113-w. M11-TF

AUCTION SALE

of Choice Furniture, Chesterfield Suite, Piano, Twin Beds, Moffat Electric Stove, &c., Mrs. A. E. LaRoche, 228 Dufferin, Thursday, March 28, one o'clock. Terms cash.
Norman Montgomery, Auctioneer,
163 William St., Phone 1170
M21 27

AUCTION SALE

Farm implements, grain, horses and Holstein cows, Lot 25, Concession 4, Thurlow, Wm. Badgley, Tuesday, Mar. 26, one o'clock. Terms cash.
Norman Montgomery, Auctioneer,
163 William St., Phone 1170
M21 23

DIED

ADDISON—In Belleville on Wednesday, March 20, 1935, Nancy Jane Addison, widow of John Addison, in her 82nd year.

The funeral, which will be private, will take place from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. D. H. Ackerill, 208 John street, Friday afternoon. Please omit flowers.

Interment Belleville Cemetery. M21-1t

TICKELL & BROWNE
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
We Serve for Less
FUNERAL HOME
Corner Church St. and Victoria Ave. Phone 2295

Thomas C. Thompson
Funeral Director
Funeral Home
28 Everett St. Phone 62
Office
222 Front St. Phone 62

BELLEVILLE BURIAL COMPANY
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
27 Campbell St.
Phone 774-W Day and Night
J. W. IMLAH
Proprietor
Mausoleum Crypts For Sale

SPECIAL SALE

Used Tires, all sizes, $2.00 up
USED TIRE SHOP
391½ Front Street
Opposite Upper Bridge

THE BAY OF QUINTE FIRE INSURANCE CO.

Pays you the full amount of loss and gives you insurance at cost.
NEW BUSINESS for 1934 reached the surprising sum of $1,442,065.00.

Write or phone
C. W. BURR
Office: 311 Front St.
Residence: 18 Bellevue Apts.
Phone 2306J

PUBLIC AUCTION SALE

Sale of registered Ayrshire cattle, horses, sheep and farm implements, etc. at Kelvyn Farm, 2½ miles south of Madoc Village, on Thursday, March 28, at one o'clock. Terms of sale, cash.
HENRY WALLACE, Auctioneer.
M19 21 23 26

NOTICE TO SLOT AND PIN MACHINE OPERATORS

Licenses for the operation of Slot and Pin Machines in the City of Belleville are now available at the office of the City Treasurer. Parties operating these machines without a license, after the appearance of this notice, will be subject to a fine.

Operators must sign an application to operate, before a license will be granted. These are obtainable at the office of the City Treasurer.
H. B. STOCK, City Treasurer.
M19-3t

NOTICE

$20.00 REWARD

The above reward will be paid for information leading to recovery of following articles missing from 254 Church street since February 1933: .38 cal. revolver, all nickel plated, pearl handles; two bronze powder flasks; bullet moulds. E. H. TICKELL.
M16 21

TREASURER'S SALE OF LANDS
City of Belleville in the County of Hastings in the Province of Ontario

To Wit:

By virtue of a warrant issued by the Mayor of the City of Belleville bearing date the eleventh day of February 1935, sale of lands in arrears of Taxes in the City of Belleville will be held in the Council Chambers, City Hall, Belleville at the hour of ten o'clock in the morning of the eighteenth day of June 1935, unless the taxes and costs are sooner paid. Notice is hereby given that the list of lands for sale for arrears of taxes is being published in The Ontario Gazette on the second day of March, the sixth day of April and on the fourth day of May 1935, and that copies of the said list may be had at my office.

Treasurer's office this seventh day of March 1935.
H. B. STOCK, Treasurer.
M21 28 A4 11 18 25 M2 9 16 23 30 J6 13

BUSINESS LINERS

NEW ABEL TOMATO SEED. Earliest of all, 10c packet at Bishop's Seed Store. M21-1t

Fabric of Airplane Lost in 1930 Found

Leamington, Ont., March 20. — (CP)—The three-by-six foot piece of aeroplane fabric found on the shore of Lake Erie here has been definitely identified as being from the wing of a plane that crashed in the lake near Bell's Point, five years ago this month. The aeroplane was carrying mail between the mainland and Pelee Island when engine trouble forced it to land in the lake.

READ Before You BUY!

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL
"Father Brown, Detective"
Walter Connolly at His Best as the Genial Priest Who Outwits Scotland Yard

Gilbert K. Chesterton's famous foxy old sleuth of the magazine pages, "Father Brown Detective," who has delighted millions of readers with his amiable eccentricity and odd methods of crime detection, finally assumes flesh and comes to the screen in the person of Walter Connolly. The picture opened a three days engagement at the Capitol today.

Ably assisted by Paul Lukas and Gertrude Michael, Connolly gives what might easily be rated as his best screen performance in the role of the little priest-sleuth who outwits Scotland Yard and its man-hunting personnel by his rule-of-the-thumb deductions.

The picture is devoted to the apprehension of Flambeau, world feared jewel thief, who is intent on stealing the four Flying Star diamonds in Father Brown's possession.

Flambeau has already stolen the other six of the Flying Stars from a private collector when Father Brown gets on his trail. Discovering romantic complications, Father Brown decides to play the girl to get his man.

He is intent, too, on reforming Flambeau. Consequently, although he has Flambeau within his grip several times, he refuses to give him up to the police, preferring to wait until the thief has had a change of heart and is willing to surrender voluntarily.

Perhaps the best sequence in the picture is that in which Father Brown and Flambeau, disguised as a priest, take a walk through London, while Father Brown does a number of erratic stunts to leave a trail for the police. The sigh of the amiable little cleric tipping over vegetable carts and climbing lamp posts provide many hilarious moments. Paul Lucas, in the role of Flambeau is his usual and engaging self. Gertrude Michael is charming in the leading feminine role and others in the cast include Una O'Connor, Robert Lorraine and Halliwell Hobbes.

"Sing Sing Nights"

Thrilling mystery, tingling suspense and the most novel detective plot ever presented on the screen are the features of "Sing Sing Nights," which will be shown on this same bill.

Featuring an outstanding cast which includes Conway Tearle, Mary Doran, Boots Mallory, Hardie Albright, Jameson Thomas and Ferdinand Gottschalk, the new film tells the story of three men, each condemned to die for the murder of a famous newspaper correspondent, and the novel means utilized by a criminologist to determine which man actually committed the crime.

Each of the trio has confessed the murder. All are condemned to death. Public opinion declares that three men should not die for the murder which only one could have committed, and the governor summons Pofessor Varney, noted scientist, to use his lie detecting machine in one last effort to find the real murderer.

Professor Varney prevails upon each man to tell the story of the killing, whereupon the story enters into three fascinating retrospects filled with action, suspense and adventure in South America, China and New York.

The work of Conway Tearle, in the leading role, is excellent, while splendid performances are turned in by all of the players. Other members of the cast, who must also be mentioned, include Berton Churchill, Lotus Long, George Baxter, Henry Kolker and Richard Tucker.

Capitol News will be shown at each performance. Complete shows at 2.30; 7.05; 9.10.

AT THE BELLE
"Grand Old Girl"
Make It Your Business to Give Yourself this Pleasure, Tonight

At last the true role of the school teacher is portrayed in the new screen drama "Grand Old Girl," the feature attraction at the Belle Tonight and Friday, matinee and evening.

Here is a picture none can afford to miss. It is one of those all-too-rare human interest stories certain to tickle every sense of humor and just as sure to touch the heart.

May Robson stars in the role of an elderly school teacher. To say that she is superb is to let it go at that, because this writer can't think of a stronger or more fitting word. Only magnificent artistry and absolute sincerity could evoke the gales of laughter and wring the tears that Miss Robson does as Laura Bayles.

R. K. O. Radio has taken a theme which appeals to the tender memories of every individual who has ever entered a schoolroom, and has entrusted it to the one actress in all Hollywood who could do it perfect justice. Excellent supporting characterizations combine with John Robertson's understanding direction and Miss Robson's great performance to make this a sparkling gem of entertainment.

The picture is really a glorification of the school teacher. It pays a fine and stirring tribute to a profession which gets far too little recognition.

The central plot centers about the gallant and courageous fight of the High School Principal, portrayed by Miss Robson to rid the town of a sinister influence which threatens the morals of her pupils, she steps outside of the realm of the school room and conducts a one-woman campaign to eradicate it.

Underlying the central theme is a colorful boy and girl romance which gives Mary Carlisle and Fred MacMurray, the new screen find, perhaps you saw him in Claudette Colbert's last picture "The Gilded Lady", exhibited at the Belle recently, opportunity to sparkle in effective scenes.

Laugh-Studded Musical

Mary Ellis, singing star of the London and New York stage, makes her long-awaited film debut in Paramount's "All The King's Horses", the second feature offering on the same program. The picture, a light spirited and colorful comedy with music, stars Miss Ellis with handsome Carl Brisson, while crochety Edward Horton, alluring Katherine DeMille and jovial Eugene Pallette appear in the supporting cast.

Among the most attractive features of this fast-paced comedy film are the musical score by Sam Coslow, including "A Little White Gardenia," and the elaborate and beautiful dance sequences designed by LeRoy Prinz.

"Ireland the Emerald Isle" a beautiful Technicolor, will be exhibited on the same program. "Grand Old Girl" will be presented daily at 2.40, 7.20 and 9.50 P.M. "All the King's Horses" will be presented at 3.45 and 8.30 P.M. Complete shows will be presented at 2.30, 7.00, last complete show at 8.30 P.M.

SCHOHARIE NEWS OF COMMUNITY

Schoharie—A number from this neighborhood attended a jolly dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wilson at Gilead Hall on Wednesday evening last.

Miss Ila Shaw returned on Sunday after having spent the past week with friends in Wooler.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Leavitt on the birth of a baby son at Prince Edward County Hospital on Wednesday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Walters and Rose and Homer were among those who attended the shower given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Leavens at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Leavens on Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Leavens have taken up residence in Picton.

Quite a number from this neighborhood attended the card party at Bloomfield Town Hall given under the auspices of the Bloomfield Library Board on Friday evening.

Miss Rose Walters who spent the past week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Thompson, Consecon, returned to her home on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson

STRUCK BY PUCK LIP BADLY GASHED

West Lake—At the Pentecostal prayer meeting at A. E. Kleinsteuber's on Tuesday night there was a good turn out, a number coming from Picton, Bloomfield and other places.

Mrs. S. McQuade and little daughter spent last week at Tamworth with her mother Mrs. Philip McKim.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McConnell and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Furze were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Jackson on Wednesday night.

Mrs. Lillian Hogg entertained on Saturday for her son Manley in celebration of his birthday.

Raymond Wright had his lip very badly gashed at the hockey game in Picton last week when he was struck in the face with the puck.

The United Church Young People put on their play "The Power of Attorney" at Cherry Valley on Friday night with a good turn out, and Monday night at Wellington town hall.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Furze entertained Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McConnell and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown at the tea hour on Sunday.

Roy Crawford's many friends are very glad to see him able to be around again, after several weeks' illness.

F. W. Haycock spent Saturday in Napanee.

Arrangements are being made for special meetings at the United Church in the near future.

Mrs. D. Maitland has been quite ill with a bad cold.

and baby of Cherry Valley also Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson of Picton were guests of Mr. John Benson and Mrs. Mildred Benson on Friday.

◆

"Good taste is necessarily helpful."—Emily Post.

RED & WHITE

Get ACQUAINTED OFFER
1 16oz. CAN RED & WHITE BAKING POWDER and 1 BOTTLE VANILLA EXTRACT
Both for 29c

Your Money Back

Red & White Baking Powder has won favor with all who have used it. Uniformly good results have always followed its use . . . and like all other Red & White products it is sold with a money-back guarantee. If you do not find Red & White Baking Powder all that is claimed for it return the can with a portion of the contents and your full purchase price will be refunded.

Greater Money-Saving Values This Week

Soda Biscuits McCormick's Fresh and Crisp 2 1 lb. bags 23c
Chef Ready Meals Irish Stew, Hot Pot, Lamb Fricasse 2 tins 25c
Crosse and Blackwell's Chili Sauce 2 12 oz. bottles 29c
Sweet Mixed Pickles Falcon 32 oz. jars 23c

Sockeye Salmon
Rich, red juicy salmon steaks cut from the choicest part of the fish.
No. ½ Can .21
No. 1 Can .38

RED & WHITE COFFEE
If you are particular about coffee, try Red & White fresh vacuum packed lb. can .42

OLD COLONY MAPLE SYRUP
Special Value 16-oz. jugs
25c

Other Outstanding Values

GOLD SOAP Quality Soap for the Laundry 10 bars 39c
Red and White Toilet Tissue 3 rolls 23c
Crosse and Blackwell's Catsup 2 14 oz. bottles 25c
Santa Clara Prunes 50s 60s 2 lbs. 25c
Supreme Shortening All that the name implies lb. 12c
Gold Medal Sardines Small Fish 2 tins 25c
Blue Damson Plums Real Value 2 tins 19c
Hereford Corned Beef 2 tins 25c
OVALTINE A Food Beverage Builds Up Strength small 38c med. 58c
Red & White Peas Sieve 4 2 tins 23c Corn 3 tins 29c

FANCY MIXED Biscuits 2 lbs. 29c
FREE—1 Cake Lifebuoy HEALTH SOAP with the purchase of One Package Large Rinso 23c
FRESH SALTED Peanuts lb. 15c
Delicious Fudge lb. 25c

QUALITY ALWAYS HIGHER THAN PRICE

ENJOYABLE PARTY AT HUDSON HOME

Wallbridge, Mar. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Ketcheson were host and hostess at an enjoyable party at their home one evening last week.

The Ladies' Aid of the United Church here held a St. Patrick's supper in the town hall on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. William Blackburn, John and Jay of Eldorado have returned home after spending the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Fair and baby.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hazard and Franklin of Plainfield spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. James Hinchliffe.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McMullen, Ruth and Lois were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Barton Hinchliffe and June on Sunday.

Prayer meeting was held in the church ehre on Wednesday evening and the regular church service on Sunday evening in charge of the pastor, Rev. Johnson.

Mrs. William Nobes called on Mrs. Charlie Fair on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. John Hogg whose home is at Wallbridge is seriously ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Leonard Hendricks in Frankford.

Mr. George Pollard, cheesemaker at the factory here, had a bee to get up the year's supply of wood one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Sine entertained Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Shorey and Mrs. John Hinchliffe on Wednesday last.

◆

"We do not always find that the men who are reaching four score reveal a less eager radicalism than those of younger generations."—Havelock Ellis.

◆

"Employment assurance and the banishing of fear should be our real objectives."—Gerard Swope.

GALA RADIO NIGHT

Special Broadcast of Dance Music

WRIGLEY'S
ALL STRING DANCE ORCHESTRA

with MARION ROCKWELL
SIDNEY JOHN SMITH
JIMMY NAMARO
STAN LAUREL

from the grand ball room of the ROYAL YORK HOTEL, Toronto. Gala night of Canadian Radio Manufacturers Association.

TONIGHT CFRB - CRCT 11.15 to 11.45

ALLISONVILLE WEEKLY NOTES

Allisonville, Mar. 21.—The Ladies' Aid met at Mrs. Ross Burr's Thursday with a good attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Pulford gave a party to their friends on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. George Huffman and Mrs. Merritt Adams spent Tuesday evening with Mrs. C. L. McHenry.

Mr. Earl Boyd called to see his mother here Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spencer entertained at a delightful party on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Loral Boyd and Mrs. Spafford Healey spent Saturday in Belleville.

Mr. Frank Osterhout and Mr. George Huffman and Mr. C. L. McHenry and Mr. Merritt Adams attended the hockey match in Wellington Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Blakely and Miss Doris were tea hour guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Doolittle Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Hubbs were Sunday guests at Mr. and Mrs. C. L. McHenry's.

◆

"If it is not too good for a man to think too highly of himself, the converse is equally true."—Harold Bell Wright.

RADIO PROGRAMS

THURSDAY

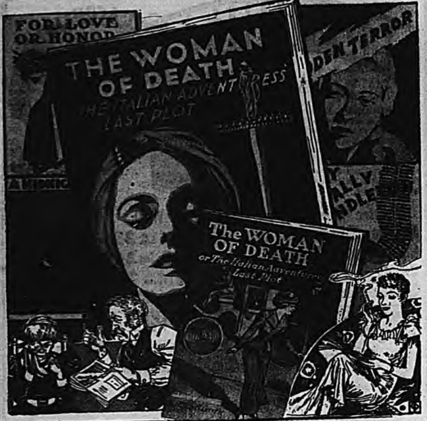
9.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ
10.30—Mrs. Aitken and Horace Lapp—CFRB
10.30—Banjoleers and Radio Sweethearts—WGY
11.00—Galaxy or Stars—WBEN
11.15—Tony Wons—WJZ
11.30—The Carnival—WBEN
11.30—Navy Band—WJZ
1.15—Radio Gossip Club—WGR
2.00—Music Guild—WJZ
3.00—Castles of Romance—WJZ
3.00—Roadways of Romance—WABC
3.15—Little Symphony—WJZ
4.00—Betty and Bob, drama—WJZ
4.15—Salvation Army Band—WABC
6.30—Jim Hunter, News—CFRB
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.15—Gems of Melody—WJZ
7.30—Dixie Dandies—WEAF
7.45—College Prom.; Ruth Etting, songs; Red Nichols' Orch.—WJZ
8.00—Rudy Vallee—WEAF
8.00—"Hour of Charm"—Phil Spitalny's Girl Ensemble WABC
8.30—"Red Trails," serial—WJZ
8.30—Forum of Liberty, Edwin C. Hill—WABC
8.45—Kay Kyser's Orch.—WGN
9.00—Show Boat—WEAF
9.00—Death Valley Days, drama—WJZ
9.00—Neilson Program—CFRB
9.00—Glen Gray's Orch.—WABC
9.30—Fred Waring's Orch.—WABC
9.30—Unsolved Mysteries—WLW
10.00—Paul Whiteman's Music Hall—WEAF
10.00—Melodic Strings—WJZ
10.30—Captain Dobbsie's Ship of Joy—WABC
11.00—News—CFRB
11.00—Little Jack Little's Orch.—WABC
11.30—Eddie Duchin's Orch.—WJZ
12.00—Herbie Kay's Orch.—WABC

FRIDAY

10.30—Mrs. Aitken and Horace Lapp—CFRB
11.00—Music Appreciation Hour, Walter Damrosch—WEAF
11.30—Army Band—WABC
1.15—Radio Gossip Club—WGR
1.30—Rex Battle's Concert Orch.—CRCT
2.30—"Kitchen Party"—WEAF
3.15—Minneapolis Symphony — WABC
4.00—Betty and Bob, sketch—WJZ
6.30—News, Jim Hunter—CFRB
7.00—Myrt and Marge—WABC
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.15—Plantation Echoes, Mildred Bailey—WJZ
7.15—Stories of the Black Chambers—WEAF
7.30—Red Davis—WJZ
7.45—Uncle Ezra's Radio Station—WEAF
8.00—Irene Rich—WJZ
8.00—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt —WABC
8.00—Concert, Lucille Manners, soprano,—WEAF
8.15—To be announced—WJZ
8.15—Edwin C. Hill, news—WABC
8.30—Court of Human Relations—WABC
8.30—Al Goodman's Orch.—WJZ
8.30—Musical Memory Book—WOR
9.00—Waltz Time, Frank Munn, tenor; Abe Lyman's Orchestra—WEAF; WTAM
9.00—March of Time—WABC
9.00—Beatrice Lillie, comedienne—WJZ
9.00—Horace Lapp's Orch.—CFRB
9.30—Phil Baker—WJZ
9.30—Hollywood Hotel, Joe E. Brown, guest—WABC
9.30—Pick and Pat, comedians—WEAF
10.00—"Circus Night in Silvertown"—WJZ
10.00—First Nighter, drama—WEAF
10.30—"The Pause That Refreshes" —WEAF
11.00—News—CFRB
11.00—Hal Kemp's Orch.—WJZ
11.30—Press News—CRCT
12.00—Claude Hopkins' Orch.—WABC

Old Thrillers in New Covers Sell Again

New Generation Turns to Refurbished Paper Backs of Other Days and Buys Millions of Copies



FOR LOVE OR HONOR
THE WOMAN OF DEATH
THE ITALIAN ADVENTURESS' LAST PLOT
DEN TERROR
The WOMAN OF DEATH or The Italian Adventuress' Last Plot

How the old dime novels look in new covers, and, inset, as they used to appear.

Old wine in new bottles! That's another way of saying old dime novels are in new covers.

Anyway, the reading public is rediscovering the thrillers of three and four, even five, decades ago. A Cleveland publishing house, which was one of the two leaders in the paper-backed field when paper-backed books had their heyday, succeeded in selling two million dime novels last year in United States and Canada after he had modernized their covers. He expects to sell four million copies in 1935.

The old thrillers are coming back to life from the same plates off which they were originally printed. They differ from their early editions only in the cover designs.

In other words, they have been dressed up in modern clothes. For instance, the story entitled "The W omanof Death or the talian Adventuress' Last Plot", had a picture of a girl in a ridiculous hat and an equally ridiculous dress — from the point of view of 1935 styles. And she stood in front of a horse-drawn hack, a vehicle which appears even more ridiculous in this decade of the twentieth century.

Now the colored paper cover which tempts people to spend a dime to read about the Italian adventuress' last plot shows the face of a woman who might be a siren of the screen.

And a dagger on the jacket helps to suggest that blood flows through the pages of the book.

One of the best customers for these books is a Chinese department store in Hongkong.

"There's a large British colony in Hongkong," an official explains, "and it seems that the English-speaking customers of the Chinese store want to read about "Sierra Sam, the Detective's and 'Della's Handsome Lover' and such old favorites."

Law Costs—How Are They Fixed?

The evidence brought out in the Stevens' investigation at Ottawa has focused attention upon prices in various callings including the practise of law.

For the purpose of giving information to readers a reporter interviewed W. C. Mikel, K.C., Local Master of the Supreme Court, one of whose duties is taxing bills of costs and fixing the remuneration of lawyers.

"How are the law costs arrived at?" was asked by the reporter. Mr. Mikel stated that there were two general classes of law costs, one for proceedings in Courts or other tribunals, and the other class for business that does not come before a court. For the latter class there is no fixed tariff. This class comprises the preparation of wills, deeds, mortgages and agreements, the prices for which usually run from $1.00 up. Letters from 25c up Papers for Probate and Letters of Administration in small estates $400 and under do not require a solicitor, but are prepared by the Clerk of the Surrogate Court free of charge. In larger estates, the price runs from $10 up for Probate and Letters of Administration. Commencing a division court action $2 and up; ordinary attendance in Police Court $2, and up. Commencing action in the County Court $15. Commencing an action in the Supreme Court $25.

The total cost depends upon the amount of services necessarily rendered. Drafting by-laws $10. Drafting bills for the legislature and parliament $50.

"How much will an action for divorce cost?" was asked. Mr. Mikel replied "from $100 up."

Mr. Mikel stated that at one period lawyers were not allowed to make any charge, their remuneration depending simply upon the generosity of their clients. At another period lawyers could charge whatever they wished, but thoroughout the British Commonwealth of Nations for a great many years a tariff or list of fees has been provided for many items of service. No action can be brought by a lawyer in Ontario for his Bill of Costs until it has been rendered for a month so that the client may have an opportunity of having his bill taxed or fixed by an independent taxing officer.

The remuneration of lawyers is such as to make it impossible for any person to become wealthy by the practise of law alone. Some lawyers have amassed wealth by utilizing their superior knowledge when engaging in financial transactions. A lawyer, however, is not permitted to engage in commercial undertakings.

It has been said by an eminent Judge that the history of lawyers is "to work hard, live well and die poor."

In the lawyer's union a lawyer may charge as much less than the tariff of fees as he desires, or work for nothing. In all other unions the members may charge as much more than the tariff as they wish, but never less.

Mr. Mikel said that it has often been observed that "only fools and knaves go to law." Nevertheless wise and honest persons are often forced into litigation. "A bad settlement is better than a law suit," but often a settlement cannot be made. "Every man who is his own lawyer has a fool for a client." "A little learning is a dangerous thing." therefore only lawyers, trained in the law should be entrusted with legal business.

Municipal Councils, Boards of Education and other bodies are continuously passing by-laws. The Provincial Legislature and Parliament each year make laws. The rules of interpreting all these laws are highly technical and should only be applied by persons of training and experience in law. Technical rules are also applied to the interpretation of agreements.

Two of the most prolific sources of litigation are 1. Wills prepared by untrained persons. 2. Agreements not put in writing.

Every person above twenty-one years of age should have a will made, if only to dispose of their clothing, trinkets, wages, etc., or to give family history. Few people know the Christian names of their great grandparents, many do not know the Christian names of their grandparents.

LABOR MINISTER RAPS MOTION OF CANADIANMAYORS

Dominion Not to Bear Direct Relief Costs, Statement

COST PROHIBITIVE

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP)—When Mayors of Canadian cities meet in Montreal next Monday they will be faced with opposition from Labor Minister Wesley Gordon in their fight to induce the Dominion to relieve them of direct relief costs.

The Labor Minister made his position clear in the House of Commons yesterday when he said it would cost the Dominion too much money to set up machinery to watch its money being spent. At the same time he announced a Dominion-Provincial Conference will be held to extend direct relief agreements, which lapse at the end of the month.

"What kind of machinery," Mr. Gordon asked, "is available to the Federal State to administer direct relief, where it not only is apparent in our large cities but trickles right back into every little hamlet in the country? There is only one machinery—Provincial and Municipal machinery set up in the various units of our country. It is not possible for the Federal State to administer relief in Canada without setting up machinery that would involve expenses entirely unjustified."

House Debates Bill

In the short session yesterday, the House debated the Government's new relief bill, extending blank cheque power to the administration for the fifth time. It will be used, the Labor Minister said, to renew agreements with the provinces and "before this session ends other measures will be presented, looking toward providing work for our citizens."

Led by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former Minister of Justice, Liberals announced they would oppose the Bill because they considered it was an admission by the Government of its inability to cope with unemployment and distress. They particularly disliked the blank cheque feature but were ready to vote any sum of money named by the Government under definite terms.

Early in the day, Agnes Macphail (Prog. South-East Grey), returned to her dispute with Minister of Justice Hugh Guthrie over language credited to Inspector Dawson of the Penitentiary Staff. She sought a wide-open investigation into Penitentiary management and fortified her claim that Inspector Dawson used "abusive and profane" language concerning her with an affidavit from Alfred G. Hall, a prisoner, who claimed to be present at the time Dawson was credited with the words. The affidavit quoted the Penitentiary Inspector as saying "Aggie made a fool of herself in the House of Commons but when we are finished with her she will never be able to lift up her head in the House again.'

SEATTLE ONE GAME UP

Seattle, March 21. (CP)—Seattle Seahawks were one game up today in their five-game series with Vancouver Lions for the championship of the Northwestern Professional Hockey League.

Hawks took the lead by scoring a 4-1 victory over Lions in the opening game of the series last night. The second game will be played at Vancouver Friday night.

Years ago it was

Sassafras Tea

YEARS AGO mothers used to give sassafras tea, sulphur and molasses, or some other "spring tonic" for "spring fever."

"Spring fever," with its days of listlessness, is many times nothing more or less than plain, ordinary constipation—due to insufficient "bulk" in the meals you eat.

Your grocer supplies the modern way to correct this condition ... in a delicious cereal called Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoonfuls daily of this pleasant natural food furnish the "bulk" required to maintain regular habits. How much better than taking old-fashioned "spring tonics." ALL-BRAN also provides vitamin B, and food-iron, an important element of the blood.

Of course, if you feel actually ill, after being cooped up indoors all winter, you should consult your doctor. ALL-BRAN corrects only common constipation, makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. Serve as a cereal with milk or cream, or cook into delicious muffins, breads, waffles, etc. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Kellogg's
ALL-BRAN
FOR CONSTIPATION

Keep on the Sunny Side of Life

A&P
LAST 3 DAYS!!
19c SALE

Take advantage of these notable values - - - while they last!

"DAILY EGG" FEEDS
Laying Mash 100 lbs. $2.19
Scratch Feed 100 lbs. $1.99
Regular or Chick Size
Oyster Shell 100 lbs. 99c
Poultry Grit 100 lbs. 59c

"Daily Growth" CHICK FEEDS
Chick Starter 100 lbs. $2.63
Growing Mash 100 lbs. $2.25
Chick Grains 100 lbs. $2.25

'DANDY BRAND'
Bran 100 lbs. $1.42
Shorts 100 lbs. $1.46
Middlings 100 lbs. $1.66

SALT
Fine 50 lbs. 39c
Coarse 50 lbs. 55c
Block Iodized 50 lbs. 59c
Block Plain 50 lbs. 50c

Butter
Silverbrook 25c
Sunnyfield 26c

BULK JAPAN RICE 4 lbs. 19c
AUSTRALIAN SULTANAS RAISINS 2 lbs. 19c
BULK Rolled Oats 5 lbs. 19c
ROYAL OAK—IMPORTED Sardines 2 TINS 19c
CHOICE QUALITY Wax Beans 2 No. 2 Tins 19c
PURE GOLD—ASSORTED Jelly Powder 5 PKGS. 19c
QUICK, EASY, SANITARY Sani Flush TIN 19c
AYLMER Tomato Juice 2 No. 2½ Tins 19c
SUGAR CRISP Corn Flakes 3 PKGS. 19c
DEL MAIZ CORN CREAM STYLE 3 8 oz. Tins 19c
COLEO—TOILET SOAP 5 CAKES 19c
THE WORLD'S LARGEST SELLING SOAP P. & G. Soap 6 CAKES 19c
LIBBY'S Sauerkraut 2 No. 2½ Tins 19c

SWIFT'S GOLDEN WEST Fowl 4 to 5 lb. Average lb. 19c
SMOKED PICNICS Shankless lb. 19c

A & P QUALITY BEEF ROASTS
RUMP Round End [illegible] 17c
SQUARE SIDE, lb. 25c
POT ROAST Boneless and Rolled lb. 12c
BLADE lb. 13c
SHORT RIB lb. 14c
FRESH CUTS YOUNG ROASTING
PORK BUTTS lb. 17c
SHOULDERS lb. 13c

MILK-FED VEAL
LEGS Whole or Half lb. 17c
RUMP Fillets lb. 19c

FRESH ATLANTIC COD By the Piece lb. 12c
Centre Cuts and Steaks, lb. 14c
SILVERBRIGHT Salmon By the Piece lb. 12c
Centre Cuts and Steaks, lb. 14c
SMOKED CISCOES lb. 19c
FANCY RED SPRING Salmon By the Piece lb. 18c
Centre Cuts and Steaks, lb. 20c

CALIFORNIA NAVELS ORANGES DOZ. 31c
FLORIDA CELERY STALKS Bunch 10c
TEXAS Carrots 2 Bunches 11c
CALIFORNIA Lemons DOZ. 18c

Extra Special!
GILT-EDGE BREAD FLOUR
50 lb. Bag $1.15 98 lb. Bag $2.29

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC

MAY ROBSON CE LEBRATES 50 YEARS ON STAGE AND SCREEN

Above: May Robson and Mary Carlisle in scene from "Grand Old Girl" now on the Belle screen. Upper left: Miss Robson star of "Lady for a Day". Lower left: Miss Robson in "One Man's Journey."

Guardians of the Desert

By TOM GILL

Almost hungrily he regarded her—nothing about her had changed. Then for a fleeting second his lips touched her hair. Slowly, reluctantly, he released her, and for a brief space they stood held in closer communion than any words could bring. And when that searching moment had passed she laid her hand on his arm and asked quietly in a low, vibrant voice, "Dick, what can I say?"

Gently shaking his head he stopped her. "Let's just not talk about it—yet. There's time enough ahead."

In quick comprehension of his mood she nodded, then looking toward the plane asked, "Is Uncle Solon there?"

"Yes."

Running to the open door she climbed in, and without a word flung both his arms about that hunched figure in the gloom, holding his bowed head tight against her breast as she might have held a little child. At last, vibrating through her own body, she felt the depth of his sigh—a sigh that was almost a groan, and her eyes were bright with tears as she bent closer, whispering, "I know, dear, I know." But her own voice trembled, and again her soft hands caressed the wrinkled cheek until those weary eyes looked up at her and the tight lips tried to smile.

"Dear child." Lowell's voice echoed and stroked her hand while his moment of weakness passed, then once more he looked up into that young, eager face bending over him in the light of early morning.

"Let me see you." Again, and very tenderly, he touched her cheek. "Yes, you grow more beautiful, Nora girl. Never stop being beautiful, Nora. The world has great need for beauty like yours. Perhaps we need beauty even more than strength." He spoke lightly, as one regretting that fleeting show of emotion, then followed by the girl, stepped down from the plane, and together they walked to the fence, where Dick had opened a narrow gate.

Heavily Solon Lowell climbed into the car, and together they turned back over the rutted road toward Verde.

CHAPTER EIGHT

Verde that bright January morning was too busily engrossed in its own pursuits to notice either the car or its occupants as they passed down the wide street to the business centre.

Less than six months ago Dick had left it a little sleepy cow-town forgotten by the world, dosing contentedly on the Mexican border. But now he looked out in amazement. For where saddle horses once stood beside a winding, rutted road that led out into the desert, cars were thickly parked the length of a broad, newly paved street. Even at that early hour men were hurrying to work, heavy ladep trucks rumbled by them, and even the Mexican peons trudging along the sidewalks seemed to share in this spirit of brisk activity. New buildings everywhere—everywhere bustle and a sense of busy achievement, and in wonderment Dick raised his eyes to a tall stone structure still surrounded by scaffolding. In bright red letters a sign announced: "Azure Lake Irrigation Company—Offices." Boom days had come to Verde.

Turning to his father the girl asked, "To the ranch, Uncle Solon?"

But Lowell shook his head. "Not yet. Who knows about this murder?" He spoke without emotion, his armour of insensibility once more secure.

"It was Will who found Bruce."

"Your brother?"

She nodded.

"Where is Will now?"

"At the office."

Grimly Solon Lowell directed, "Take me to his office."

The Verde Times, the only newspaper of the little border town, was printed in a low adobe building where Nora's brother had his office as editor. As they entered Dick caught sight of him standing in short sleeves before his desk, one hand holding a green eyeshade. Casually observed, Will Barnes might have belonged to the student-dreamer type. High forehead and hair habitually disarranged, deep, sensitive eyes that seemed always to be regarding not only what one said but what lay behind the words themselves. Long, nervous fingers were continually in motion and a little stoop had come from years of bending over a desk. Yet all this was in marked contrast to the tanned clear skin that spoke of long riding the desert ranges, and his steady gaze.

The older Lowell gave Barnes no opportunity for any expression of sympathy, but after a perfunctory handshake lighted the cigar still clenched between his teeth, and looking at him from beneath his shaggy brows demanded, "Will, how did Bruce die?"

Without answering, Barnes closed the door and for a time played with a large blue pencil before him. At last he raised his head.

"I'll tell you all I know—it isn't much. Bruce had been to my ranch for supper. He stayed with Nora and me until about ten o'clock. I thought at the time he had something on his mind, something he wanted to tell us but couldn't. He seemed unusually serious for Bruce, and bitter about—"

"About what?"

Barnes looked directly at Lowell. "About your irrigation scheme." In a lower voice he went on. "When Bruce left I sent one of the boys out to the corral for his horse. It was a cold night and I didn't wait until he mounted, but went back to the house. An hour later my office called me about a message I'd been waiting for. My car was laid up in Verde for repairs so I saddled and took the short out. It was one of those black, wintry nights and I kept it at a gallop. Then, just beyond the line that divides the ranches, my horse shied suddenly and almost threw me."

Will's fist clenched. "It was Bruce. He lay face downward in the sand and his horse was standing not fifty yards away. He had been shot in the back, directly between the shoulders blades, with a thirty-eight automatic. He was quite dead."

Dick looked up. "Were there signs of a struggle, Will?"

"None. The man must have ridden beside him and fired from very close range, for the powder had stained Bruce's coat. There were faint impressions of riding boots and an imprint as of one kneeling beside Bruce's body, then fresh horse tracks that turned South toward the Mexican border."

A convulsive shudder seized Solon Lowell, and Nora, standing beside him, laid both hands on his shoulders.

"I raised a posse within an hour," Barnes went on, "and followed those tracks south. We couldn't go far, for the wind soon wiped out every trace, but the man must have been bound toward Copper Canyon."

Barnes opened a drawer, and pulling out the empty shell of a .38 automatic cartridge, laid it on the desk.

"Next morning I found this near where Bruce lay. Since then we've learned nothing except that the Mexican authorities at Laredo are holding a man on suspicion."

Outside the large news presses were running, filling the little office with the steady clicking of wheels and the soft rustle of paper.

Dick asked suddenly, "What might have been the motive, Will?"

Barnes shook his head and again those long fingers played with the pencil. "Bruce had no enemies. I've been trying to think of people who might have personal grudges against him, but I can't —they don't exist. All I can offer is the changed condition around Verde. It's a far different Verde you've come back to. A crowd of human derelicts flocked in when the irrigation work began. We've had killings both here and up Copper Canyon, where most of the men live who work on the dam. Of course, the motive could have been robbery."

"Had anything been taken?"

"I found his coat opened. That looked odd because of the coldness of the night. But his watch was untouched."

The elder Lowell shook his head. "We don't have robbers out here—not that kind. It was something else—probably revenge. Bruce was headstrong and willful." Lowell's eyes fixed for a moment on his remaining son. "I seem to have sired wild stock."

Something in the bitterness of his voice pierced Nora like a physical pain. "There wasn't a man in the desert who didn't like Bruce—not one, even to the peon sheepherders," she reminded him gently.

No one spoke, each troubled with unanswered thoughts, while the wheels outside turned complainingly, heaping up great piles of paper still damp and warm from the presses.

At last Dick broke the baffled silence. "What had Bruce been doing the last day of his life?"

Barnes paused in the act of rolling a cigarette, then shook his head. "I don't believe he said." He looked at Nora, who stood frowning as if trying to recall some half forgotten word. Presently her face cleared. "I remember. He had been surveying a piece of land."

"Surveying!" A note of pent-up excitement crept into Dick's voice. "Where, Nora?"

"It must have been near the dam. He came direct to our ranch from there."

"And that night he seemed different—just how?"

The girl hesitated. "He seemed unhappy and troubled."

"He spoke of father's irrigation work?"

Again she hesitated, and the older man, reading her thought, urged, "Answer him, Nora, I'll understand."

Reluctantly she replied. "Bruce's words here were, 'This dirty land steal by Sari and his tools is only just beginning.' I asked him what he meant but he shook his head."

"By heaven, thats it!" With flushed face Dick had kicked back his chair, and now his tall, straight form dominated the little room. Like some terrifying avenger he stood there, a clenched fist raised above his head, the square jaw locked, and in his eyes the flaming light of battle. Slowly the hand dropped to his side

"I think you've given me the answer."

In wonder all faces turned toward him as he walked across the room. Hand on the door, he turned. "You won't see me for a week—perhaps longer. If anyone asks where I am tell them—" He hesitated, and the ghost of a smile crossed his lips. "Tell them I've gone to Laredo."

Desperately Solon Lowell hurried forward and clutched his arm with trembling hands.

"But who was it, Dick? Who was it—quick!"

Intently the son looked into the father's face. "Remember what I said in Washington. When I find out who did this thing I'll kill him. But until I am sure, I'll say nothing."

"Not even to me?"

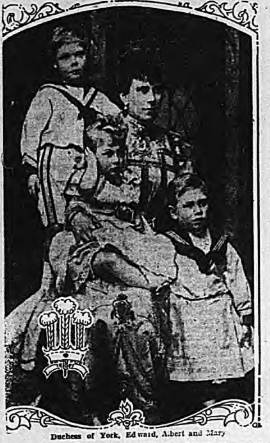
A strange look had come to Dick's eyes. "Least of all to you." He turned, and with that silent tread, he left them.

(To Be Continued)

(Copyright 1933 by Tom Gill,)
(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

"There is more to life than laughter."—Maurice Chevalier.

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee



Duchess of York, Edward, Albert and Mary

THOUGH her official duties as Duchess of York exacted a great deal of time, Queen Mary never permitted herself to slacken for a moment her untiring interest in her home and family.

When the above picture was taken in 1899, the Duke and Duchess, who were soon to be King and Queen had three children. The picture shows the Duchess with Edward, Albert and Princess Mary.

One does not need to look twice to see the resemblance between the lad standing at the back and the Prince of Wales as we know him to-day.

Queen Mary lavished every possible attention on her children; there is no doubt that she many times would rave preferred to stay at home with them when official engagements called. But she was not one to forget her duties, and much as both she and her husband cherished their children, they nevertheless paid first attention to the demands made upon them by their station in life. Popular everywhere, leader of British society, travelling "ambassadors," they were given all too little time to think of their home life.

In the year this picture was taken (1899) the Duke and Duchess of York made a tour of Ireland. The following year, Prince Henry, now the Duke of Gloucester, was born. In 1901, Queen Victoria died, and in the same year the couple visited many parts of the empire, including Canada, as the Duke and Duchess of York. Later in the year, the Duke was invested as Prince of Wales, Duke of Cornwall, Duke of Rothesay, Earl of Carrick and Baron of Renfrew.

Surely the life of royalty is anything but a peaceful one!

CAMP WORKER GIVES DESCRIPTION OF LIFE

(Continued From Page 1)

keep wood in and fresh water to drink. Hot water to wash. It has been said at home by some returned men that the camps are cold. That is entirely their own fault. The commissary clerk never refused to issue me an extra blanket on a cold night if I requested it. The night man keeps fires going all night in every stove in camp, making the rounds every hour.

There is a first aid equipment in every camp with the necessary medicines, pills, etc., for all common camp ailments, supervised by the camp clerk who is always ready to cater to the wants of any man with a cold, a headache, a cut finger or any minor ailment and for more serious cases Dr. Smith of Coe Hill is on call night and day and responds to a call from any camp promptly regardless of the hour, removing the patient to the hospital at Coe Hill if necessary.

The Work

So much for camp life, now a word about the work. The business of building the Highway. Each camp is governed by an experienced camp super, every one of whom is fully competent, understanding thoroughly not only the business of building highways but also the handling of work crews to the best advantage for all concerned and is untiring in intelligent effort to see that all is well. Our own good old George Giffin, supt. of head camp, No. 2 at Gilmour is a sample therefore nothing more need be added to the subject. Next, the working crews are handled by foremen, in camp parlance—straw bosses, four or five in each camp, all under direct supervision of the camp super, who "runs the line" every day to see that all is well. Each straw boss is experienced in the work he is doing, and thoroughly competent to place his crew each in the job he is best fitted to perform as drillers, muckers, dump men, laborers, etc, etc., to work to the best advantage of all concerned.

Trouble Makers

It has been said at home by some returned man that straw bosses are slave drivers and nigger killers. Let me say right here from my own experience and personal contact backed up by the experience of every man who came up to any camp to really make an effort to earn his money that statement is false, untrue and intended to deceive the folks at home. I personally almost daily have heard men say to others: "You are a fool to work, I came up here because the eats are better than I get on relief at home."

I ask you good citizens at home, "If you were a straw boss and were unfortunate enough to draw one of that class in your crew, just what would you do about him?" I think a slave driver would be a cheerful little playmate compared to yourself or myself in that position.

Many Excuses

Now here is the thing that concerns every citizen of Belleville personally and I now speak for Trenton as well as some other South Hastings municipalities including Frankford and Tweed. Beginning Thursday and continuing until Saturday every week a steady line of men from above named municipalities walk into the camp office and say, "I am going out for the week end. I have a cold and I need some clean clothes, etc., etc., I will be back Monday or Tuesday."

Just try to picture the situation that here confronts the entire organization. These men care nothing about the disorganization of the straw bosses' crews. They care not that each straw boss must lay a report on the Camp super's desk every night stating number of yards of rock or earth moved, number of loads of material hauled out of the cuts. They care not if his entire crew is demoralized or if he is compelled to tear his hair to reorganize a partial crew of drillers, muckers, dumpmen, laborers, etc., in order to have a reasonable showing at night. They care nothing for the extra work and inconvenience of clerks and commissary checking them out and in again, etc. They care nothing about the business in hand of building a highway. They care nothing about how the Hon. Dr. Faulkner, affectionately known to all Hastings as "Bert", worked day and night in our interests, not only to give us a real highway to beautiful North Hastings, but to give us work as well. All other serious considerations are swept aside in the interests of lazy indolent selfishness.

Care in Minority

Fortunately these men are in the minority. They are not going to retard the progress of this wonderful undertaking. We are not going to permit them to "let Dr. Bert down", because there are many good settlers in the north anxious to take their places and be happy for the privilege of doing an honest day's work. There are thousands of men in Toronto and other Ontario centres crying out for the privilege of taking their places and let me tell you good citizens, the straw bosses are not going to stand for this thing any longer. They are already seriously placing the matter before their camp supers, who in turn are taking it up with higher authorities and these "worthy citizens" may sooner than they expect be told, "yes, you may go out and stay out. You are no further use here. Good-bye."

In conclusion we ask the powers that be at home, "when these men are fired and go home kicking about conditions in camps. Fired for incompetence and indolence are they going to be put back on relief and actually fed at the expense of decent citizens?" We ask you. Think it over; that's all.

THE DRAMA

Irish Play Presented To Capacity Audience In St. Michael's Auditorium

St. Michael's players distinguished themselves last evening in their fifth annual "St. Patrick's" entertainment when "Peg O' My Heart" by J. Hartley Manners was presented in the Academy Auditorium in a flawless manner under the auspices of the Children of Mary. The achievements of this group have been watched with considerable interest and the usually large audience which greeted the players spoke well of their successes of the past.

Last evening, however, the result of their training under the direction of Miss Jessie B. Tuite and their natural ability were never more clearly demonstrated. Each member of the cast gave an admirable performance and the audience was unanimous in praise of the fine effect achieved.

Everyone, of course, is familiar with the story of "Peg" the light-hearted Irish colleen introduced into the fine home of her relatives and her attempts to break down the cold reserve shown her. Last evening's heroine was Miss Catharine Smith and a more bewitching Peg could not be imagined. The delightful brogue and the real Irish spirit behind her words made the character most convincing. The role was very exacting and Miss Smith's performance was masterly. Miss Mary McLellan as Mrs. Chichester, Peg's aunt, and Miss Alice Peets, as Ethel Chichester, had unsympathetic parts to play and were splendid in these difficult roles. The former showed Mrs. Chichester to be a most unpleasant person, indeed; her daughter was even less likeable. Both parts called for real acting on the part of the young ladies. Miss Mary Meagher as Bennett, the maid, was charming in her brief appearances.

Gerald Hurley as the "Jerry" of the story gave a very finished performance as the only real friend Peg found in her strange surroundings. To Jack Darlington, however, go much of the honors of the evening. As Alaric Chichester he was admirable and was never out of part. His interpretation of this amusing character kept the audience in roars of laughter and his proposal to Peg was one of the highlights of the play.

As Chris Brent, a friend of Ethel's but not of the family, Michael Roe's part required skill and his presentation left nothing to be desired. As the dignified legal adviser, Edward Lally was splendid and his very agreeable voice is a wonderful asset. Bernard Dolan was Jarvis, the butler, and sustained his role in fine style although it must have been a great effort to remain unsmiling to Peg's merry quips. "Michael" and "Pet" the lovable dogs in the cast proved themselves capable actors, too.

The fine stage arrangements were in charge of Mr. Bill Britton and his assistants.

A very enjoyable musical program was presented during the evening. Mrs. James Grant played a medley of Irish airs as the audience assembled. Vocal solos were contributed by three well-known artists, Miss Katherine Bawden, Mr. Harold Barrett and Mr. Edward Brown, Mrs. Grant acting as accompanist.

At the conclusion of the play Miss Tuite was presented with roses by the Children of Mary and the cast as a tribute to her keen interest and tireless efforts in directing the play.

The cast and those who assisted in the program were entertained by the officers and councillors of the Sodality after the play. The tea table was effectively arranged with daffodils and tall green tapers. Miss Alice Doyle, President of the Sodality, in a gracious speech, expressed appreciation to Miss Tuite, the cast and all who had assisted in the success of the evening.

THE UTMOST IN TRAVEL VALUE

Cosy public rooms and cabins . . excellent food and plenty of it . . good sun decks . . happy days of sport and fun . . fine, steady ships.

TO EUROPE

$144.50 RETURN FARE 3rd. CLASS

Ask about the Reduced Excursion Rates for sailings until April 30th allowing 15 days in Europe.

CUNARD WHITE STAR LIMITED
ANCHOR-DONALDSON

Apply to your local agent or to 217 Bay Street (Elgin 3471) TORONTO

Weak Kidney Action
From Exhausted Nerves

Digestion and other bodily functions
Are the result of muscular contraction.
The action of the heart in pumping the blood,
As well as that of the kidneys in eliminating poisons,
Is entirely dependent on the nervous system.
If nerve force is running low
The kidneys become tired and weak and sluggish,
Just as you suffer from fatigue and languor.
To pep up the action of the kidneys
And ensure a proper filtering of the blood,
It is advisable to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
This treatment is well known, almost everywhere,
As a most satisfactory restorative of the nervous system.
New nerve force is sent tingling through the body,
Bringing new pep and vigor and energy
To every organ of the body.

BACK ACHES USE RUMACAPS

Backaches gone after using RUMACAPS—they give quick and sure relief.

DOLAN THE DRUGGIST

EDWARDSBURG
CROWN BRAND
REGISTERED
PURE
CORN SYRUP

ERNEST JOSEPH WESSON —8 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wesson, Toronto. Fed "Crown Brand" Corn Syrup since birth.

Could you wish for a HEALTHIER CHILD ?

HIS little body is straight as a young tree. He is plump, rosy and full of happiness. His skin is velvet-soft and without a blemish. He is a "CROWN BRAND" BABY.

EDWARDSBURG "CROWN BRAND" CORN SYRUP was prescribed in first feeding formula. It has become a fixture in his daily diet. He loves it and thrives on it amazingly.

"CROWN BRAND" is wonderfully rich in Maltose and Dextrose, the great energy producing elements. Its easy digestibility enables even delicate children to assimilate all the body-building nourishment it contains. Doctors and Children's Hospitals recognize the vital importance of "CROWN BRAND" in infant feeding. It is a delicious table syrup too, that every member of the family will enjoy.

Your grocer sells EDWARDSBURG "CROWN BRAND" CORN SYRUP. Ask for it by name. Then you are sure of getting one of the greatest food values money can buy.

HERE is what MRS. WM. WESSON says about her beautiful child.

"We have fed our son on Edwardsburg 'Crown Brand' Corn Syrup practically since birth and have found it most digestible and suitable from every point of view. He now weighs 20 lbs. at 8 months old, and we heartily recommend Edwardsburg 'Crown Brand' Corn Syrup to all mothers."

Mrs Wm Wesson

FREE GIFT OFFER to users of Edwardsburg "Crown Brand" or "Lily White" Corn Syrups—A valuable recipe book entitled "Canada's Prize Recipes" will be sent to you, FREE—simply write your name and address plainly on the back of a label from a can of either of these famous Syrups and mail it to The Canada Starch Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. This offer is for a limited period only, so send in your label to-day.

THE CANADA STARCH COMPANY Limited, TORONTO and MONTREAL
Manufacturers also of Benson's Corn Starch, Benson's Golden Syrup, Lily White Corn Syrup, Mazola Salad and Cooking Oil and other famous brands.

EDWARDSBURG
CROWN BRAND
CORN SYRUP

Listen to these Outstanding Radio Programs: "SYRUP SYMPHONIES," 8 to 8.30 Every Monday Evening over a Canadian network. From CFRB Toronto, CRCO Ottawa, and CKLW Windsor: "MRS. AITKEN AND HORACE LAPP," 10.30 to 11 a.m. Every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. From CFRB: "JOLLY JUNIORS CLUB," Saturday, 5.30 to 6 p.m.

Hockey
Current Sport

IN THE REALM OF SPORTING EVENTS

Basketball
Bowling

Canadian Record for the Mile Lowered by Glen Cunningham At Hamilton Athletic Meet

Clips Off Distance in 4.16.6 to Beat Record of 4.18

CHASED BY VENZKE

Stella Walsh Scores a Double Win in Sprints

Hamilton, Ont., March 21 (CP)—The mile-running team of Glenn Cunningham and Gene Venzke, having brushed the Canadian record in their first duel on this side of the border, moved along to Toronto, today with the idea of shaving a few more seconds from the mark. They are billed to compete in Maple Leaf Gardens tomorrow night.

Venzke, the Pennsylvanian, who has been doing the same thing for two indoor seasons, chased Cunningham to the tape in a 4:16.6 mile at the 91st Highlanders A.A. Games here last night. It was a new Canadian record for Cunningham, lowering the 4.18 mark held by Les Wade of Montreal.

When the former Kansas University powerhouse left New York three days ago he made it plain, that he was not seeking records in Canada. His idea was to run the mile in something like 4.20 for Hamilton and Toronto crowds. The outdoor season, he said, is close and it's been a tough season. A little leg-stretching would do for Canadian crowds.

But Glenn's shadow, the pace-setting Venzke, left Cunningham no alternative but record-breaking last night. He led for most of the journey and rather than be beaten, Big Glenn had to turn it on in the last lap. He passed Venzke at the bell and sprinted around the bowl to a four-yard victory.

Bill Daley of University of Detroit finished third, about 200 yards behind the leaders with Wade fourth and Bill Zepp of Michigan College, fifth.

Other features of the meet included Stella Walsh's double sprint triumph and a world-record equalling effort by the Polish girl in a 200-yard handicap event; the victory of Charlie Rogers, Brantford, Ont., schoolboy, over Bill Christie, Toronto's Canadian champion, at 60 yards; and Ray Lewis' win at 600 yards.

Miss Walsh, Olympic sprint champion, captured the 40 and 60 yards dashes before she lined up in a handicap field and was beaten a yard by Annette Rogers of Chicago, who started with a three-yard advantage. Stella's time of 26.4 equalled her own indoor record.

◆

HOCKEY SCORES

O.H.A. Senior A
Toronto 12, Sudbury 0.
O.H.A. Intermediate A
Niagara Falls 5, Toronto Royals 3
O.H.A. Junior A
Sudbury 4, Oshawa 3
O.H.A. Junior B
Barrie 6, St. Michael's 3
Quebec Play-Offs
Montreal Royals 10, St. Jerome's 1
Canadian-American League
Philadelphia 14, Providence 5
American Association
Minneapolis 5, Eveleth 0
Senior Western Canada
North Battleford 6, Edmonton 3
Northwestern Play-offs
Seattle 4, Vancouver 1

Topcoat Days Are Here Again!

Now is the time and Shaw's is the place to choose your new Spring Topcoat.

QUALITY IS NOT EXPENSIVE AT

SHAW'S MEN'S WEAR

The Store of Fashion

SUDBURY TAKES OSHAWA MAJORS

Score Four Goals in Last Period to Win 4-3

Toronto, March 21—(CP)—Northern Ontario's bid for Canadian amateur hockey titles was one-half squelched today. Sudbury's Cub Wolves remained on the Memorial Cup trail, while the senior Wolves from Sudbury were in full retreat from the Allan Cup sector.

In a double-header here last night that attracted a crowd of 7,000, the junior Cub Wolves staged a smashing third period rally to defeat Oshawa Majors, disputed "A" champions of the Ontario Hockey Association by 4-3 and take a one game lead into the second of the best of three game series Saturday night.

But northern supporters had boomed their final salvo of cheers by the time the juniors departed and the senior Wolves came out to do battle with Toronto All-Stars, senior "A" O.H.A. champions. The All-Stars hammered out a 12-0 decision and the Wolves decided they wouldn't bother playing the second game of this series.

Don Grosso and Chuck Shannon were heroes of the junior struggle, but they left their good works almost until it was too late. The Majors had a decided edge in the going for two periods, scoring a goal in the first period and two more in the second, while the Woofers managed to look ordinary.

Graboski Scores Two

Tony Graboski got two of these tallies and Chisholm scored the third. It seemed, that the Cubs were not quite fast enough to cope with a team that had polish and great speed. But all the dope was wrong.

Grosso had collected three goals for Sudbury before the third period was seven minutes old and suddenly it had become a battle. Shannon, the game outstanding performer, skated through the whole Oshawa team eight minutes later, pulled the goalie to one side and fired the winning shot.

The senior tilt was one-sided from the start. Toronto's scoring four goals in each period. They outskated the northern champions with ease and seldom were threatened. George Parsons and Kenny Grivel bagged three goals each and Don Hodges and Pud Kitchen scored a pair. The others being credited to Teddy Oliver and Shorty Robinson.

◆

Recreation Alleys

Major "B" League

American Hardware (3)—O. Mangold 602; J. Rundle 526; H. Hanton 630; E. Dunnett 517; P. Drumm 649—2924.

Garage Supply (1)—A. Hallam 572; P. Gettis 597; B. Holway 481; H. Gilbert 652; L. Barrett 546—2848.

Tip Top (0)—B. Simpson 576; A. Meens 497; S. Robinson 753; D. Pointer 448; J. Smith 418—2786

Grills' Garage (4)—G. Barriage 468; H. Moxam 491; A. Whalen 643; W. Spafford 594; G. Anderson 741—2937

S.W.A.A.C. (0)—J. Kerr 559; R. Kemp 522; E. Summers 707; M. Little 396; P. Belnap 684—2868

Ont. Intel (4)—J. Ling 585; H. Ridley 868; C. Ling 490; D. Gariepy 666; R. Hardwick 689—3298.

Mixed League

Trojans (1)—Miss S. Melchior 513; L. Tetrault 401; Miss M. MacLean 521; H. Gilbert 549; Miss J. Fairbairn 496; D. Flagler 549—3029

Out Throats (3)—Mrs. J. Fordyce 433; G. Fordyce 509; Miss D. Canning 369; J. Diamond 508; Miss J. Croft 560; L. Barrett 690—3069

Our Gang (1)—Miss B. Black 328; Miss H. McQuaid 416; Miss L. Judge 359; J. Belair 461; E. Leeming 339; J. Barrett 454—2347

Sunworthies (3)—N. Wilbur 608; Mrs. H. Wilbur 364; Miss A. Barlow 262; S. Wilbur 372; Mrs. L. Miles 358; R. Miles 509—2473

Tail Enders (0)—Miss M. Gymer 385; Miss I. Holway 399; Miss Vi Lewis 491; A. Hallam 588; W. Holway 547; O. Lloyd 459—2869

Beer Barons (4)—Miss J. Kelleher 531; R. Simpson 439; Miss M. Kelleher 424; S. Robinson 715, H. Pointer 787; Miss H. Smith 302—3388.

DEATHS YESTERDAY

(By the Canadian Press)

NEW YORK — Louis Wiley, 65, business manager of the New York Times.

MONTREAL— George French, 82, prominent advertising authority.

QUEBEC—Robert J. Bradley, 88, oldest member of the bar in the Quebec district.

BROOKLYN, N.Y.—Robert Fraser 97, one of the oldest tournament checker players in North America.

CARELESS APPEARANCE BRINGS BROKEN ROMANCE

Girl Feared Future with Man Who Neglected Shaving

● She couldn't picture herself happy with a man who neglected his appearance... who risked his job and the respect of others by failure to shave regularly.

Today there's no excuse for this neglect. With the remarkably keen Gillette "Blue Blade," even men with tender skin may shave daily or twice daily with perfect comfort. This blade is scientifically honed and stropped to make it the smoothest-shaving razor blade ever produced. Buy Gillette "Blue Blades" today.

Highest Quality Positively Guaranteed

Gillette Blue Blades

NOW 5 for 25¢ · 10 for 50¢

Allan Cup Playdowns

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto All-Stars, a hockey machine gathered together from mercantile teams, received the plaudits of Queen City fans today as both senior and junior playdown machinery went into high gear.

The champions of the Senior "A" Ontario Hockey Association last night brought all their vaunted power into action and scored four goals a period against Sudbury Wolves in the Ontario semi-final.

It was the first of a two-game total-goal series and the helpless Northern Ontario champions didn't even make a reply. Sudbury decided to default the second game.

Showing of the Cub Wolves, Sudbury's junior edition, was in sharp contrast to the 12-0 performance of the Seniors, however. They managed to come from behind in the Junior Ontario final to score a 4-3 decision over Oshawa Majors. Majors, O.H.A. "A" Junior titlists had things pretty much the way they wanted them till the third period. Then the Cubs scored four goals. Just enough to win.

George Parsons and Kenny Grivel with three goals each led the Stars in piling up their tremendous lead. Don Grosso was the hero of the Junior affair, ripping through the Majors for three goals in the last period.

Les Canadiens, Ottawa and District Senior titleholders marched into the Allan Cup playdowns with an 8-4 victory over Westboro, Ottawa and District Intermediate winners. Les Canadiens won the two-game round 20-11 and will meet either Sudbury or Toronto All-Stars for the Ontario title.

Montreal Royals, Senior champions of Quebec, scored a lopsided 10-1 victory over St. Jerome, Quebec Intermediate winners. Ultimate winner of the best-of-three series will be the Province of Quebec's Allan Cup entry.

At Saskatoon, the North Battleford Beavers, champions of Saskatchewan tied up their best-of-three series with Edmonton Superiors. Alberta representatives, by winning the second game 6-3. The third game of the Western Canada Senior semi-final will be played Friday. Superiors won the first game.

Barrie Colts took a one-game lead in the first of the O.H.A. Junior "B" series by defeating St. Michael's College of Toronto 6-3. Date of the second meeting has not been decided.

Y. M. C. A. ALLEYS

In the Ladies' Afternoon League the Athletics got three points to Just Us one.

In the men's Evening League the Maple Spillers got all four points from the Teachers.

In the same league the Alley Cats mixed it up with the live wires from the Ont. Hydro to get three points to the Hydro one.

Maple Spillers— Davidson 468; Lent 406; Crooks 550; Johnson 530; Austin 530—2484

Teachers—Kells 377; Christie 335 Fairman 470; Frederick 451; Mott 561—2194

Ont. Hydro—Munnings 485; Blaker 530; Poste 586; O. Munnings 471 Davies 567—2629

Alley Cats—McMurray 494; Blake 562; Stewart 514; Weeks 612; McCreary 577—2759

Athletics—Mrs. Rowsome 434; Mrs. Arnott 432; Mrs. Wardaugh 428; Mrs. Newman 368; Mrs. R. Arnott 403—2065.

Just Us—Mrs. Wilson 344; Mrs. Cooke 414; Mrs. McGuire 276; Mrs. Watkin 567; Mrs. Robson 42—2043.

SPRING ON WATERFRONT—A sign of spring is observed at Neponset, Mass., where the racing sloop Yankee is prepared for races.

STOP THIEF

WHEN YOU BUY A

Quinte Bicycle

you can have it insured against loss by theft

at

STEPHEN LICENCE

"REAL SERVICE FOR BICYCLES"

299 Front St. Phone 985

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

It begins to look as though the O.H.A. has poked its nose into another jamble in relationship to the present junior hodge podge. Most any other organization or association would have suspended the club at fault, Oshawa Majors, without hesitation, but not the O.H.A. Once again an opportunity was grasped to open another series, that might prove of financial value to all concerned and more especially the parent body and the Maple Leaf Gardens. After Kitchener protested Bagnell's age, and it was discovered that he was too old to play junior, the Oshawa club was only chastised to the extent of the loss of his services. Then the Toronto Lions and Young Rangers entertaining a feeling of "they done us wrong", stepped into the picture and shouted—"the Majors eliminated us with the services of Bagnell, where do we fit in this picture?" Naturally by now the fat was in the fire and quite a blaze was in progress. Well, to make a long story longer, the O.H.A. decided that discretion being the better part of valour, maybe it would be a good idea if their entire junior play-downs were to commence all over again, so today we find Oshawa deprived of their junior O.H.A. championship but they are still to play off with Sudbury mind you, while Kitchener, Toronto Lions and Young Rangers are hitting it off in a round robin series, with the winner meeting the ultimate winner of Oshawa vs. Sudbury Wolves for the now unawarded junior crown. (Some fun, that is if the entire set-up makes any sense whatsoever.)

Had the O.B.A.A. been asked to handle such a situation the decision would have been rendered without hesitation or in reality — "before Jerry could write the note." The baseball moguls are strick in Ontario and live up to their constitution without fear or favour. Had the diamond moguls been faced with the similar situation the Oshawa Majors would have been removed from further competition and stripped of their championship, as was the Columbus juvenile baseball team last fall, when a similar situation arose, the Toronto juveniles were apprehended playing a player over age. There was no quibbing, the Columbus team was immediately disqualified. Maybe the O.B.A.A. are too strict in their rulings, but at least all teams are treated in a similar manner whenever the matter of violations of the association's constitution or bylaws are concerned. At least that's one page the O.H.A. could take from the O.B.A.A. book of ethics.

Yesterday we received and published a letter from G. Ernest Gibbard, Napanee's baseball maestro, explaining in detail, the whys and therefores as to sundry reasons why the Gibbards, champions of all intermediate baseball throughout the province, should not play senior ball in the C.O.B.L. in 1935. Mr. Gibbard gives four reasons, all invented and conceived by himself, as to why his club should not play senior ball. First he says the town of Napanee is too small, second gate receipts are inadequate, thirdly, having regards to the cost of operating a senior club and lastly the difficulty in getting his players off for long trips, such as are needed in the C.O.B.L. To all those excuses, except possibly the first one, we say "nerts". Maybe Napanee is not large enough to stand the financially strain of a senior baseball club, but it must be remembered, that the Gibbards are an attraction for miles around and have drawing facilities from every direction, namely, north, south, east and west. Again it must be remembered that there is a much larger following in senior baseball than there is in intermediate and naturally this should be taken into consideration. Insofar as the size of the gates are concerned, we visited the Geo. W. Gibbard Memorial Park at different intervals last season and are firmly of the opinion, that the Napanee gates receipts equalled those of Belleville, to say nothing of other C.O.B.L. towns. Incidentally Mr. Gibbard left today for Florida and baseball training grounds.

Today we are publishing another letter sent by Mr. Gibbard to President Max Swanston in relationship to senior baseball and the Gibbards A.C. One thing we first want to contradict is the statement, that the Belleville seniors were granted $300.00 by the city council. A recommendation to give the local ball club $200.00 has been introduced, however. In today's letter to President Swanston, Mr. Gibbard seems to think that the C.O.B.L. is trying to "tear down his organization," as he terms it. Such is not the case, however, the C.O.B.L. is endeavoring to construct, not destroy. Tomorrow we expect to publish a third letter written by Mr. Gibbard to the President of the O.B.A.A., Mr. W. A. Smith of Galt, along the same lines as the former two—"the reasons why the Napanee Gibbards should not play senior ball in Ontario."

Congratulations to Gordon B. "Duke" Keats, stickhandling firebrand of the old Western Canada Hockey League, National League and American Association before he became a club owner in Edmonton. Born in Montreal 40 years ago he was a major leaguer in 1916 and captained Edmonton Eskimos in Stanley Cup finals against Ottawa Senators in 1923.

Without actually using the phase our Peterboro contemparary comes to bat to mildly inform us to "mind our own business in regards to whatever baseball players are at present residing in Peterboro and were not included on the Petes' roster of 1934." He firmly refers to us as "that Belleville scribe, who tries to write sport." Well there really is some satisfaction in knowing, that our efforts are still in the "trying" category, as that is about all one person can do in this world when aspiring success—that is "TRY." Who was it once said: "Tis better to have TRIED and failed, than never to have tried at all." (Orchids, my fran.)

Looks as though the proposed city baseball championships may see realization after all in a series including the "Y", Deacons and B.C.I. "collegians". Incidentally the Ontario Provincial volleyball championships are being played at Toronto on March 30th this year and a goodly number of local volleyball players are contemplating the trip, the Boston-Toronto N.H.L. play-offs are on that week end, maybe that's the answer to the enthusiasm around the "Y" in volleyball circles this week. Instructor Ralph Morden has practically arranged an inter-city swimming meet to be held in the Albert College pool on the night of March 29th. Swimmers from Peterboro, Kingston, Belleville and intermediate points have been invited for various events.

◆

Letters to the Sports Editor

Napanee, Ont., Mar. 19, 1935.

Mr. Max Swanson,
President C.O.B.L.,
500 Driscoll Terrace,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir:

The C.O.B.L. may think that they can force us into Senior ball, but I think they are going to be fooled. You will see a letter which I have written to the press, and I am enclosing copy of letter which we have written to the President of the O.B.A.A.

We are not going to let any organization tear down everything we have done to build up ball in Napanee and in this section of the Province. The C.O.B.L. have their C.O.B.L. towns and they have every right to operate them, but we do not think that they should force themselves into territory where they are not wanted.

We will be at the annual meeting and can discuss the matter then. By the way, as far as I know our club was not given an invitation to attend the meeting in Oshawa. I was invited, I am under the impression as an O.B.A.A. representative, but no intimation was given that this matter was going to be rehashed. We have given a final "No" so many times that we did not think the matter was still under discussion. If the O.B.A.A. wants to kill baseball in Napanee all they have got to do is grant the C.O.B.L. their wish.

We cannot see how a town of this size could support a senior club, especially when a town the size of Peterboro goes behind.

Much has been said about the park we have here and what the loss would be if we did not operate. However, I will have more money in the bank six months from now if we do not play baseball at all. I want to play ball for the summer sport and so do the rest of the boys, but we are not going to adopt a policy whereby we know we would lose money and the support of our town.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) G. E. Gibbard.

P.S.—We noticed the other day that the Belleville Club got a grant of $300.00 from the City Council to help them operate. Support such as this is not forthcoming in Napanee.

Last year we were "invited" into the C.O.B.L. to help round out a four team league—you have your four teams this year.

G. E. G.

◆

POTATO-ALCOHOL RESEARCH IS URGED

Edmonton, March 21 (CP)—The Edmonton District Market Gardeners' Association has asked the Alberta Government to undertake a study of the possibility of distillation of fuel alcohol from low-grade potatoes. The association promised and in the work.

Mr. T. J. DOYLE

of the

Wm. H. LEISHMAN COMPANY.

will be at our store for the purpose of taking special orders

Today and Friday
March 21st and 22nd

Quick & Robertson

First in Style, Quality and Reasonable Price.

Who May be Who in 1935

By BILL BRAUCHER
© CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, INC.

Escaped Bull Pen Sentence to be a Starter

When big Johnny Murphy was graduated to the Yankees from Newark last spring, the former Fordham flinger was sentenced to bull pen duty. He had succeeded as relief hurler in the International league, therefore he would be a relief pitcher for the Yankees.

But things happened to the regular Yankee slabsters. Illness and injury removed Johnny Allen and Russ Van Atta from the pitching picture. McCarthy called on Murphy as a starting pitcher and the New York boy showed he had what it took to beat any team in the league.

This year he will be one of the regular first-line grenadiers, and he is one reason why Manager McCarthy figures his club is a pennant contender.

Johnny is a native New Yorker, and will observe his twenty-seventh birthday, July 15. He came directly to the team from Fordham, where he was graduated. At Fordham he was a pitching sensation.

Steadiness of a Veteran

Sent to Newark in 1933, Murphy proved remarkable steadiness, considering his lack of experience. He appeared in 40 games, and pitched about that many more warming up in the bull pen. He won nine and lost six, allowing 86 hits in 103 innings.

Last year, when Manager McCarthy was hard up for pitchers after Johnny Allen's arm went bad, and Van Atta proved unable to finish a game, Murphy was used as a starter. Though he hasn't as much natural "stuff" as most major league pitchers, he knows how to pitch to a weakness. He won 14 games with a crippled team behind him, while four of his 10 defeats were taken as a relief hurler.

He beat each team in the league at least once, taking three each from the White Sox and Indians, two each from the Athletics, Browns and Red Sox, and one each from Tigers and Senators. He lost three each to Tigers and Red Sox, the only teams to beat him more often than he beat them.

Johnny Murphy . . . fits into the breach nicely

At the Training Grounds

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Orlando, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Gone but not forgotten are the days of the "Daffy Dodgers," rollicking, happy-go-lucky crew, that argued and fought, ran bases the wrong way or took a fly-ball on the head occasionally just to prove it could be done with impunity.

Gone, too, is the shepherd of the flatbush flock, grand old "Uncle Robbie." His memory also lingers on but the fans on the other side of New York's East River have taken a new leader to their hearts, Charles Dillon Stengel.

Grizzled, under-slung and gabby, Stengel not only has personal color but he has rare qualifications as a baseball tactician and leader.

He crowned his first season on the job with complete success from Brooklyn's standpoint, by administering the final crusher to the hated Giants. They have added a character player to the cast this year in Frenchy Bordagaray, who may be an outfield sensation. But otherwise it's the same club that finished sixth in 1934. They have the fastest fast-ball flinger in the League, Van Lingle Mungo, and the top-ranking backstop in Tampa Al Lopez.

"I'm not kidding myself or anybody else," says Stengel, "about where we may finish this year. But we won't be any push-over for anybody. We came strong at the finish last year and we will be stronger this season.

Most striking development in the Brooklyn camp is the potential comeback of William Watson Clark, veteran southpaw. Three years ago Clark was a 20-game winner for the Dodgers but he started to slip. Whether it's old surroundings, Stengel's influence or just plain luck, Clark's flipper seems sound and his confidence is restored.

Junior Farmers Attend Competition

Thomasburg, Mar. 21.—The regular weekly Lenten service was held in the Anglican Church on Thursday evening at 8 p.m. "I will arise and go to My Father, and will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against Heaven, and before Thee, and am no more worthy to be called Thy son", was the text chosen by the rector, Rev. F. C. Beaser, for this service. Special Lenten hymns were also sung.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Fitchett of Roslin spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morton.

Mrs. D. Elliott is confined to her bed. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Roy Barnes of Copper Cliff is spending this week at the parsonage the guest of her sister, Mrs. H. B. Herrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morton and family and Mrs. Beatrice Morton were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Vance at Tweed.

Mr. Howard Thompson commenced his new duties on Monday as cream collector in this district for Belleville Creamery.

A large number from here attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Hugh Coulter at Bethel United Church on Friday afternoon. The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved ones.

Mrs. Harold Morton was in Picton last week attending the ninth annual meeting of the Belleville Presbyterial Women's Missionary Society of the United Church in Canada, held in the United Church at Picton on Thursday and Friday, as deledate from the United Church Society here.

Messrs. Willard McTaggart and Wallace McTaggart visited the former's mother, Mrs. H. McTaggart of Tweed on Sunday who is seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Morton and Miss Verna and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Morton were Saturday evening guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hall at Latta.

Mrs. W. S. Embury is visiting in Belleville this week with friends.

Mr. Melburn Adams is able to be out again following his recent illness.

Mr. Burton Elliott and Miss Eva Elliott of Napanee spent Sunday night with the former's mother, Mrs. D. Elliott, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Morton entertained a number of their friends at tea on Wednesday evening.

Some of the farmers of this district have already tapped their maple sugar bushes.

Rev. H. B. Herrington and Mrs. Herrington and Miss Lucille and Mrs. Barnes attended the banquet given by the Young People's Society of Tweed United Church on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Adams entertained a number of their friends on Friday evening at a progressive euchre party.

Among those from Tweed Junior Farmers' Club from here who attended the grain judging competition and banquet at Cobourg on Thursday were Messrs. Murney, Willie, Everett, Harry and Stanley Geen and Messrs. Morton English and Kenneth Jeffery.

◆

COMPLETE QUILT MADE BY STUDENTS

Huff's Island, Mar. 21.—On Wednesday afternoon the Island ladies met at the home of Mrs. E. Hall and quilted a quilt, the blocks of which had been worked by the pupils while Miss Van Dusen was here. At the completion of the quilting the hostess served a dainty lunch and a social time was enjoyed.

A number from the island attended the three one-act plays put on by the collegiate pupils Thursday evening.

Misses Mary Ellen Black and Marion Weese were supper guests of Miss Mabel Hatfield on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Black, Doris and Murray were Saturday evening callers at Mr. W. Black's.

On Friday evening the Y.P.S. met at the home of Mr. J. Hatfield. The program, an educational one, was in charge of group A with Miss M. Hatfield as leader.

Rev. T. H. H. Hall showed slides picturing the development of the religious life of Canada. At the conclusion of the pictures a geography match was held. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Hatfield for the use of their home and to Rev. Hall for the slides and lecture.

Miss Mary Ellen and Mr. John Black were supper guests at Mr. W. H. Montgomery's on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hall, Avondale were Sunday visitors at Mr. E. Hall's.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Barber, Mr. and Mrs. R. Redner, were Sunday callers at Mr. W. Black's.

There was no church service here on Sunday owing to the illness of Rev. T. H. Hall.

◆

Hydro Contracts' Revision Statement

Toronto, Mar. 21 (CP)—On the eve of his departure for Ottawa where he will attend the dinner to Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Dominion Liberal leader, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn intimated within a day or two of his return he would have an announcement to make regarding government revision of the Hydro contracts with Quebec power interests.

◆

BOYS ARE SOUGHT

East Windsor, Ont., Mar. 20 (CP)—Two boys were sought by police today following the disappearance of $1,000 in cash from the home of Peter Gorski, East Windsor. The money made up of six $100-bills and $400 in $10 and $20 bills, was secreted in a small tin can in a cold air vent. One of the boys is said to have told a friend he was leaving at once "for Sunny California".

Lewis Quality Glasses at Usual Low Prices

Eye Comfort Assured

At Lewis' a trained and experienced Optometrist prescribes and fits you accurately.

Our Optometrist will also assist you to select the proper type of frame to suit your individual appearance.

PHONE 1406 FOR APPOINTMENT

LEWIS

285 Front St. Opposite Loblaw's

Cost of Education is Debated Rotarian Argues with Rotarian

Jamieson Bone Upholds Argument Cost is Too

MacLAURIN DEFENCE

"Is the cost of our present system of education excessive?" was the subject of a miniature debate at the Belleville Rotary Club meeting Monday with Jamieson Bone upholding the affirmative and P. C. MacLaurin the negative. Mr. Bone contended that costs of education had risen out of all reason and at present constituted one-third of the municipal taxes. This, he claimed, was a burden on many property owners and contributed in large part to many homeowners throughout the province having their properties sold to satisfy accumulated tax arrears. Children are forced through a long series of educational process leading to matriculation, with the examinations growing harder each year. When they accomplish their object they are over twenty and are disappointed and unsatisfied, with several years lost in which they might have been working and finding out what they were best fitted for gone by. He mentioned a number of men who attained prominence, fame and fortune in literature, arts and sciences who had left school before fifteen years of age. He recommended the Scottish idea of education which taught thoroughly the three R's and then let the lad specialize in some calling which appealed to him.

Thousands on the bread line today owe their presence there to lack of education, said Mr. MacLaurin in upholding his contention that the cost of education is not excessive. While a few men without much education made good, many others had attained outstanding success because of their education. The cost of education was only 3.5 leaving 96.5 for other things perhaps not so important. In the speaker's opinion much more money could profitably be spent upon education without making the cost excessive compared with the benefits. Who would like to live in a community without schools? One-quarter of the population is in the class room daily where preparation is being made for better citizenship. In computing the cost of schools in Belleville it must be borne in mind that the province and the county contribute $50,368.67 toward this.

The cost of education in Belleville per day per pupil is 3.7 cents, less than the price of a five-cent cigar. Much more money is spent each year upon tobacco, upon confectionery, upon beverages than upon education and the nation could well afford to give up any one of these luxuries, if necessary, in the cause of education to make better citizens. The world suffers more from the price of ignorance than from the cost of education, said the speaker.

Would it be good business to make education cheap? Quality is demanded in everything else.

A noted Frenchman once said, truly, open schools, close the jails.

Education is more than a preparation for life, it is life itself in the best possible environment, the harmonious development of all powers for a complete living in the creating of a better citizenship.

Mr. MacLaurin set out very clearly his ideas of the advantages of education, contending that the cost was very low in proportion to the benefits received.

Mr. Bone had five minutes to reply and with great good humor closed a very interesting debate necessarily limited by the brief time available.

Bob Dewar occupied the chair and a three-minute humorous talk by Chas. Cameron preceded the debate.

Join the Old Dutch Limerick Parade WIN
$5.

Old Dutch Cleanser

If each cleaning day fills you with dread
And scratched surfaces make you "see red",
Let Old Dutch keep things bright
With its pure Seismotite,
You'll be dollars and dollars ahead.

Written by Mrs. Thomas D. Russell, Brockville, Ont.

Old Dutch is unique in the service and satisfaction it gives. No other cleanser can equal Old Dutch because one of its important, valuable ingredients is seismotite . . . a scratchless cleaning and polishing material which is absolutely different in its cleaning action from anything else, and therefore in the results it gives.

You can use Old Dutch on any surface water will not harm. It doesn't scratch; cleans quicker; saves your time and energy.

Saves you money, too, because its flaky, flat-shaped particles cover more surface and do more square yards of cleaning per penny of cost. Try Old Dutch.

$5 HERE'S HOW $5

Made in Canada

Write a limerick about Old Dutch on the back of an Old Dutch Cleanser label (or a reasonable facsimile) and send it to us. We will pay $5.00 in cash for each limerick which we publish and publication will include the writer's name and address. All limericks become the property of Cudahy Soap Works.

Cudahy Soap Works
Dept. 66 —64 Macaulay Ave., Toronto, Ont.

◆

MOUNTAIN VIEW COMMUNITY NOTES

Mountain View, Mar. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. John Black, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson and Miss Lillian Sprague spent the tea hour on Tuesday night with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Noxon of Christian Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Sprague and Eleanor and Misses Elizabeth Jordan, Audrey Way and Miss Gertrude Wallbridge and Messrs. Norman and Douglas Wallbridge of Massassaga spent Tuesday evening with Mrs. Asa Foster and Mr. Harry Alder of Bethel.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rikley and children of Foxboro spent Monday evening with the latter's mother, Mrs. Walter Minaker and family. Miss Doris Minaged returned home with them to spend a few days.

Mrs. Howard Bovay of Wellington spent Wednesday with Mrs. John Bovay.

Mrs. J. Gay returned home last week after spending the past few weeks visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cross and Mr. Willet Cross of Christian Street spent the dinner hour on Tuesday with Mrs. Clarence Sprague and family.

Mrs. Clement Frederick of Belleville spent Thursday afternoon with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Sprung.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Channell of Picton and Misses Elizabeth Jordon and Audrey Way spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bowness.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hubbs and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hubbs and son of Belleville were Sunday afternoon callers of Mr. H. J. Parliament.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Sprague and Eleanor and Mr. and Mrs. James Way and Lora of Bowerman's spent the tea hour on Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. John Rodgers of Frankford.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sprague and Miss Elsie McConnell of Big Island spent the dinner hour on Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sprague and family.

Messrs Dick and Sid Cretney spent a few days last week in Oshawa and Toronto returning home on Saturday.

Miss Audrey Way and Eleanor Sprague spent the week-end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Way of Bowerman's.

Mrs. Howard Calnan and Jimmie spent a couple of days this week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bovay of Crofton.

Mrs. Fred Motley and Sylvia of Huff's Island spent the tea hour on Monday night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Vanwart.

Mrs. Arthur Wynne and baby of Centre spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. J. D. Keeble.

Miss Olive Vanwart spent Monday night with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Dickson and family.

Mrs. John Bovay spent Tuesday with relatives at Shannonville.

Miss Lillian Sprague called on Mrs. George Neal on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Waterhouse of Toronto were Monday afternoon callers of Mrs. Jay Sprague.

The Y.P.S. held their weekly meeting on Monday night under the citizenship leader, Mr. Garnet Catton. The meeting opened by the use of hymn No. 347. Rev. D. J. Campbell led in prayer. Roll call was responded to by "something we wish most".

Mr. Garnet Catton read the Scripture taken from Peter, first chapter, "Peter speaks of good citizenship". The business part was, then discussed. Miss Audrey Way gave a paper, "Can Religion Save Canada?" Mr. Garnet Catton gave a reading, "Has Jesus a Social Message".

The offering was then taken by Alex Bass. Closing hymn was No. 284 and the closing Benediction by Rev. Campbell. A social half hour was then enjoyed by everyone.

◆

'I Crave Excitement When I'm Drinking'

Windsor, Ont., March 20—(CP)—"When I get drinking I seem to crave excitement," explained Kenneth Nolan, 22, colored, when he appeared for sentence in Magistrate's Court today on a charge of breaking and entering. His excuse was he was drunk.

Nolan ran into unexpected excitement when he invaded the home of Arthur Daragon some ten days ago. Daragon, his wife and a neighbour all combined to subdue him in a battle that lasted thirty minutes, Mrs. Daragon applying the finishing touches when she broke a chair over Nolan's head.

"I can see now I can't take it," continued Nolan. He was sentenced to two years less one day determinate and two years less a day indeterminate.

◆

POINT ANNE ITEMS OF NEWS

Point Anne, Mar. 21. — Mr. and Mrs. George Sweanor of Point Anne are visiting their children in Toronto.

Miss Hazel Stewart of Toronto is visiting her sister, Mrs. Leo Roluf.

Miss Betty Stewart of the Belleville General Hospital spent Sunday the guest of her sister, Mrs. Leo Roluf.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Bowler and family spent Sunday in Trenton the guests of Mrs. Margaret Bowler.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Juby spent Sunday in Kingston.

Mr. Earl MacDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank MacDonald, who is attending Queen's University, spent the week-end the guest of his parents.

A large crane paid a visit to the bay shore in front of the Canada Cement Co. club house Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kerr of Roslin spent Sunday in Point Anne the guests of their daughter, Miss Ena Kerr.

Mr. C. H. MacDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. George MacDonald, was operated on for appendicitis by Dr. Robertson at the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday.

Mrs. Peter Green who is still confined to the Kingston General Hospital for radium treatments is doing very well. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Peter Green and daughter Gladys spent Sunday visiting Mrs. P. Green at the Kingston General Hospital.

Mr. Robert Duval of Montreal spent the week-end in Point Anne the guest of Mrs. John Bell.

Miss Mildred Darlington of Deseronto spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Darlington.

Miss Leona Bell spent Sunday the guest of Miss Ilean Williams.

Miss Lily Tulk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Tulk, who has been a patient in the Belleville General Hospital for the past week has returned home.

Mr. John Seals of Deseronto spent Sunday in Point Anne the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Darlington.

Mr. John Ross spent the week-end in Toronto the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Paul.

Mr. Jay Murphy who has been ill for a couple weeks at his hame in Point Anne is able to be about again.

Mrs. Leman Bradshaw spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey.

Mr. Arthur Wilson is still confined to the Belleville General Hospital. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Miss Bessie Bowler of Trenton spent last week in Point Anne the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Bowler.

● Salada Orange Pekoe Blend will prove a sheer delight to lovers of fine tea.

42

'SALADA' TEA

JACK & JILL
Peanut Butter

TRUMPET COFFEE

LOBLAW
GROCETERIAS COMPANY, LIMITED

Special JACK & JILL PEANUT BUTTER
Very Popular with the Kiddies
Crystal Tumbler Century Pattern
11-oz. Tumbler 15¢

SPECIAL—FRANKFORD BRAND PEACHES No. 2 Squat Tin 15c

SPECIAL—CROSSED FISH Sardines 2 tins 25c
In Oil or Tomato, Baby Size

SPECIAL—CLARK'S COOKED Spaghetti 16-oz. Tin 8c

SPECIAL—CHATEAU PLAIN or PIMENTO Cheese 2 ½-lb. Pkgs. 25c

SPECIAL—HELLMANN'S HOME STYLE Salad Dressing 8-oz. Jar 17c
"The Dressing with Little Oil"

"Specials" in Good Values on Sale all week, March 21-27.

GOOD VALUE! Choice Quality TOMATOES No. 2½ Size Tin Eastlake Brand 7c

GOOD VALUE! St. Williams' Strawberry and Raspberry JAM 32-oz. Jar 27c with added pectin

GOOD VALUE! Quaker OATS Quick or Regular Large Package 21c

GOOD VALUE! BULK ROLLED OATS 3 lbs. 11c

GOOD VALUE! P & G SOAP 10 bars 31c

GOOD VALUE! Choice Pink—Caledonia Brand SALMON Halves 2 tins 15c

SPECIAL SWEET JUICY SEEDLESS NAVEL ORANGES 45c Dozen, large size ....

SPECIAL TEXAS SEEDLESS GRAPEFRUIT Medium size 3 for 19c

New Crop California LEMONS 19c Large Size, dozen ....

EXTRA GOOD VALUE! LOBLAWS TRUMPET COFFEE One of our Fastest Selling Lines 1-lb. Cellophane Bag 25¢

Loblaws—'Special' Black TEA lb. 33c

GOOD VALUE! Finest Rich Red Sockeye obtainable RED KING SALMON Halves Tin 16c Tall Tin 29c

SPECIALISTS NECESSARY TO ADVANCEMENT

If Specialization Should Cease Progress Would Also Cease

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D. Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright, 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Specialists are often criticised for being narrow and bigoted. Often the charge is justified. For too often specialists, in their zeal to perfect themselves in a special line, lose their breadth of vision. Too often specialists fall into the habit, quite unwittingly, of interpreting everything in terms of their own particular vocations.

The danger in so doing cannot be denied. But to use this as an argument against specialization is short-sighted and destructive of progress.

We must remember that it is only within the last three hundred years that science has really developed. The advent of such men as Francis Bacon, Galileo and Descartes marked the end of the mysticism of the Middle Ages and ushered in the dawn of a new era.

This new civilization soon became significant because of its tolerance of thought, its search after truths and its scientific achievements. Branches of learning hitherto unsuspected and unknown cropped to the surface. Investigations in all lines of research were hotly pursued. The fields of endeavor and interest became broad and wide and open to everyone.

But no single scientist could cover it all. Therefore, scientists made single subjects a life-work. That is how specialists and specialization came to be. If specialization should cease, progress would also cease.

Knowledge is becoming more and more detailed, thorough and refined. Its branches are spreading wider and wider, and new twigs are constantly growing from parent stems.

But a specialist should primarily have a general training as a foundation upon which to build. The neurologist, for example, should first have a college education, then a medical degree, then practice general medicine and then—and then only—specialize in nervous disorders. The same applies to engineering, architecture—to all professions in which specialists are found.

Impatience to specialize is bad. A solid, encompassing, rich background should be a prerequisite in each case. In this way, specialists—whom the world sorely needs—avoid narrowness and bigotry.

Among medical practitioners especially, a custom has risen that is known as "group practice." In other words, a number of doctors in different specialties combine their interests. A patient who visits one of them is sent finally to all the others before a complete diagnosis of his case is made.

Although patients sometimes complain that "group practice" raises the fees and that so many examinations are not really necessary the fact does remain that such thorough analysis of a patient's case overlooks nothing. In the end it is the patient rather than the doctors who profits.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

During the first few months of life, a normally-developing baby increases its weight about eight ounces each week. As much as 50 calories per pound of its weight are required each day by the infant during the first three months, for its energy purposes alone.

During the second three months, the requirements are almost as high. From the sixth to the ninth month 50 calories per pound of body weight are used for energy; from the ninth to the twelfth month 35 calories.

◆

QUEBEC ENTERS CLAIM AGAINST DAVIS ESTATE

Montreal, March 20. — (CP) — Claim for $3,282,211 from the estate of the late Sir Mortimer Davis, Montreal financier, as succession duties interest and penalties for alleged infringement of the Succession Duties' Act was entered by the Quebec Treasury in Superior Court tıoday.

A Quicker
Brighter Better
Shine
ZEBRA
LIQUID or PASTE
STOVE POLISH

On Marketing Board

Professor Archibald Leitch, recently appointed chairman of the Dominion marketing board, to succeed Dr. H. Barton, deputy minister of agriculture, is a native of Cornwall, Ont., 53 years old and a graduate of Toronto University. Has been superintendent of Ontario livestock and dairy farms, assistant professor of animal husbandry at Iowa State College and lately has been professor of agricultural economics at the Ontario Agricultural College. He is author of numerous books on dairy farming.

CLOSE COLLEGIATE TO REDUCE TAX RATE

This Request Being Made by Orillia Council

Orillia, Ont., March 20—(CP)—Council today took steps to interview the Ontario Department of Education heads in regard to closing the Orillia Collegiate Institute as a means of reducing the tax rate.

"Factories are being closed down today because they can't sell their production," Mayor Johnston said. "Why not the collegiate? It is turning out pupils year after year and there are no jobs or demands for them."

After the legality of such a measure was questioned, Alderman Paul Copeland said there was a provision in the Statute for such a closing providing consent of the Minister of Education is received.

◆

ENTERTAIN L. A. AT PARSONAGE

Ameliasburg, Mar. 21.—Mr. Albert Lont is a patient at Belleville hospital at present. His many friends wish to see him home again much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Eber Alexander, Miss Kathleen Adams and Howard Alyea were entertained to dinner at "Valley View" on Sunday evening the guests of Miss Luella Pile.

Mr. E. T. Casson has opened an up-to-date barber shop on Main street opposite the Masonic Hall and reports business good.

Mrs. P. C. Pile, Miss Luella Pile, Miss Bartow and Miss Lena Cunningham attended the funeral of the late Mrs. David Robinson at Trinity Church, Consecon, on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Russell of Toronto were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Russell the past week.

The Ladies' Aid of the United Church were entertained at the parsonage on Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. John Campbell being the hostess.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Crosby who were quietly married at Belleville on Saturday. They will reside in Oshawa where the groom has a lucrative situation with General Motors.

Sunday last being the second Sunday in Lent, and also the 17th inst. the rector, Rev. Arthur Strother, gave a very lucid address on Saint Patrick which was very interesting.

Mr. Fred Russell and Messrs. James, Earl and Monty Masters attended the funeral of the late Norman Masters at Picton on Monday. The relatives have the sympathy of the community in this tragic drowning accident which occurred on Friday last at West Lake in which this promising young man of twenty-two lost his life.

One of our business houses has posted the following slogan in their office: "Spend your money where you get your accommodation — in your home town". This will be commended by all fair-minded thoughtful people who receive many favors from the local merchants every year. Although some forget to return the compliment and buy their goods elsewhere, especially the mail order houses who do nothing towards keeping up our roads, schools, churches, and who do not provide any place of amusement for our young people. Think it over.

The game of Bagatelle continues to be the chief amusement for our young people in this vicinity. In last week's tournament Archie Cannons was the successful competitor.

◆

THIRD THURLOW NEWS BRIEFS

3rd Thurlow Miss Mable Rogers of Belleville spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Copeland.

A large number of friends and neighbors attended the wedding on Saturday of Mr. Roy Pound and Miss Lola Cole at Cannifton United Church.

Mr. E. A. Hall is out again after having a severe attack of the flu.

The farmers have been busy the past week drawing coal to the cheese factory for Mr. M. Johnson, the cheese maker.

Mrs. Britton and son Ernie of Toronto spent a few days last week at the home of Mr. Wm. Cole and also attended the Pound-Cole wedding.

Mr. M. McAvoy of Saskatoon is visiting at the home of his brother, Mr. T. McAvoy and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pound and Ross called on Mr. and Mrs. Orval Beer on Monday evening last.

ELDORADO W. I. SPONSORS GALA ST. PATRICK'S DANCE

Eldorado, March 21—Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chambers were recent visitors at the home of Mr. Wesley Wickens.

Mr. Albert Harvey spent the week end in Toronto.

Mesdames Albert Empey, H. Parnell, Albert Harvey and Miss Annie Holmes motored to Picton on Thursday and attended the ninth annual meeting of the Belleville Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society held in the United Church, Picton.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Fox of Wooler, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Boyle.

Mr. M. Wright and Mrs. Holland and Edith visited Mrs. J. McAdams of Cooper on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bronson spent Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Sanford.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilson of Bannockburn were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. O'Brien.

Quite a large number of the young people attended St. Patrick's dance held at the home of Mrs. Wm. McEwen on Friday evening under the auspices of the Women's Institute. All report an enjoyable evening.

Mrs. Blackman of Madoc was the guest of her brother, Mr. Harold Bailey on Saturday.

Mrs. Harry Tate and Miss Helen were Sunday guests at the home of Mrs. James Harris at Bannockburn.

Rev. C. Brazill accompanied by Mr. J. Donly spent a couple of days in Toronto last week.

Miss Molly Hunter spent the dinner hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. Chambers.

Mrs. Harry Whiteman and family are spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilson of Bannockburn.

Miss Iva McCann spent the week end in Toronto.

Y.P.S.

On Wednesday evening March 13 the Eldorado and Union Young People entertained the Cooper Young People. There were about 60 in attendance.

Mr. Vernon Strebe president presided and opened the worship period and the Cooper Young People then put on a splendid programme with Miss Reynolds, president of the Cooper Young People presiding.

After the programme all gathered in the basement where games and contests were enjoyed in charge of Misses Freda McCann and Annie Thorpe, after which a delightful lunch was served which closed a very enjoyable evening.

Madoc Township Council

Madoc Township Council met on Monday, March 4th at one o'clock, all members were present. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Nickle-Moorcroft — That the council go into committee of the whole on by-laws with Councillor Miller in the chair. Carried.

A by-law appointing path masters, pound keepers and fence viewers was introduced and passed.

A colonization and road machinery by-law was introduced passed its first and second readings and ordered submitted to the Department of Northern Development for approval.

Council resumed.

Miller-Sager — That Arthur Bird be paid $7.00 for trucking men to work (charity). Carried.

Moorcroft-Gawley — That E. T. Nayler be paid $117.20 for liability insurance premium. Carried.

Miller-Sager — That council adjourn to meet on Monday, April 10th at 12 o'clock. Carried.

Earl Burnside, Clerk.

◆

Suffered For Years With Backache

But Dodd's Kidney Pills Soon Made Her Well

Mrs. Simmonds Strongly Recommends Dodd's

Cornwall, Ont., Mar. 21 (Special) —"I have no hesitation whatever in recommending Dodd's Kidney Pills," writes Mrs. I. Simmonds, 418 Adolphus St., Cornwall, Ont. "I am twenty-seven years of age and have suffered for a number of years with pains in my back.

"About three years ago, after trying nearly every kind of medicine available, I was advised to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I have used them, on and off, for about two years and now I can go about without suffering pain. Whenever I am troubled again I shall immediately turn to Dodd's Kidney Pills, which I have named the 'King of Tonics'."

Mrs. Simmonds now knows, as do thousands of others that backache is usually the first sign of kidney trouble. It is nature telling you that the kidneys are failing in their important duty of removing the impurities from the blood.

◆

DUST STORMS RAGE

Kansas City, March 21— (AP) — Dust storms that have tormented the southwestern plains region for the last week were shipped into a new fury today.

Schools at Great Bend were closed when the dust became so thick vision was reduced to a few feet. Business houses turned on electric lights.

Phone 2380
FOR SNAPPY SHOPPING SERVICE
FREE DELIVERY

BLUE'S MARKETERIA
Belleville's Largest Independent Market

Phone 2380
FOR SNAPPY SHOPPING SERVICE
FREE DELIVERY

VISIT OR PHONE
Belleville's Most Modern Meat Market This Week
for

1. Low Prices
2. The Finest Quality Beef, Lamb or Pork
3. 16 Ounces to the Pound
4. Quick Delivery

Fresh Sliced Salmon 2 lbs. 25c
Boneless Rolled Veal 16c lb.
Fresh Young Legs Lamb 22c lb.
Blade or Short Rib Roast 12c lb.
Rolled Ribs Beef 18c lb.
Fresh Sliced Bologna 2 lbs. 25c

MISS VAN DUSEN
Will be in Our Store All This Week—Demonstrating Vi-tone and Eggo Double Acting Baking Powder. Drop in for Your Sample.
1 lb. Tins EGGO 24c 12 oz. VI-TONE . 44c
8 oz. Tins EGGO 14c 6 oz. VI-TONE . 24c

Cup and Saucer FREE with
1 lb. High Grade
Orange Pekoe Tea 65c
SEE OUR WINDOW FOR CHINA DESIGN

SPECIAL OFFER !
COCKTAIL SHAKER Filled with VINEGAR each 19c
THIS OFFER POSITIVELY WILL NOT BE REPEATED.

FRUIT and VEGETABLE SPECIALS
Pines 23c
LARGE SEEDLESS Oranges 39c
COOKING APPLES 24c Peck
LARGE Grapefruit 2 for 15c
Carrots 6c bunch

GROCERY DEPARTMENT SPECIALS
Hand Packed Tomatoes 2 for 15c
O.K. Jelly Powders assorted 3 for 13c
32 oz. Crosse & Blackwell's Jam 29c
8 oz. Brookfield Cheese 2 for 25c
INGERSOLL
Cream Cheese 2 for 25c
Heinz Soup . . . . . . 2 for 25c
PURE LARD 2 lbs. 23c
2-LB. PACKAGE
McCormick's Sodas 21c
2½ SILVER RIBBON
Tomato Juice . . . . . 3 for 25c
White Beans . . . . . 4 lbs. 15c
Chocolate Biscuits . . . 2 lbs. 25c
Fig Bars . . . . . . 2 lbs. 25c
Interlake Toilet Tissue 3 for 25c
1's Club Sockeye Salmon 31c
1-2's Club Sockeye Salmon 16c

FREE—1 Lifebuoy Soap with 1 Large RINSO at - - 21c
1 Ivory Soap FREE with Purchase of 3 for - 14c

FOURTH THURLOW WEEKLY NOTES

Fourth Thurlow, Mar. 21. — The Bethany W.M.S. held their at home Wednesday evening, March 20. Mrs. S. Cooley opened her home for the occasion.

Mr. Frank Garrison spent Tuesday of last week with his son. Mr. Roy Garrison and Mrs. Garrison of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walker attended the wedding on Saturday, March 16, of the latter's sister, Miss Lola Cole, of Cannifton, to Mr. Roy Pound, Third of Thurlow.

Mrs. Lydia Way spent Thursday and Friday of last week in Picton visiting her son, Mr. Horace Way and Mrs. Way.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Martin visited Wednesday of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Martin.

Mrs. Ed. Treverton called Thursday afternoon on Mrs. George Sills and small son of Salem.

Mr. J. W. Yateman was a weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Yateman, Trenton.

Mrs. Arthur Balcanquel, Gilead, spent Wednesday of last week with Mrs. Fred Garrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorland Clapp of Belleville were tea hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Beer Friday evening of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Cole and Harold visited a day last week with Mr. and Mrs. Harry MacPherson, third line.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cranston and Joan, Stirling, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Miller.

Mrs. Robert Miller is spending a week with her brother, Mr. Earl Cole and family, Belleville.

Considerable damage was wrought on Sunday by the terrible windstorm that raged all day.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hagerman and Bernice, Miss Helen Leslie of Salem, Mr. Bruce Sherman, third of Tyendinaga, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Garrison took tea Thursday evening of last week at the home of Robert Miller and family.

League was held on Tuesday evening with Miss Stella Bradshaw, missionary vice-president, in charge of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith moved last week from this line.

Fire of an unknown origin completely destroyed Mr. Sam Way's sugar shanty and boiling equipment early Friday morning last.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brenton and Gerald, Corbyville, Mr. and Mrs. George Denike and Harold, and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Martin and Duane and Mr. Roland Davignon were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Ritz on Sunday.

THIRD HILLIER NEWS ITEMS

Third Hillier, March 21—Miss E. Harvey underwent an operation for appendicitis at Prince Edward County Hospital on Monday.

Mr. G. Carter, Weyburn, Sask. is visiting relatives in the county and called on Mrs. George Hardy on Monday.

Mrs. Will Foster formerly of Hillier, has returned home from Prince Edward Hospital, much improved in health, since her operation.

Mr. Orville Trumpour is sawing wood for Lyle Leavens and Will Dainard this week.

The boys are preparing their trap lines these days, season opens the 25th.

Mr. and Mrs. King Terry entertained on Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford McFaul of Bowerman's, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Benway and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Will Luffman and Russell.

Mr. Will Bedell is this week at Napanee in the interest of Cloverdale Cheese Factory.

Master Elmer McFaul, still continues ill.

Mr. Richard Haggerty returned home on Monday from the North Country, where he has been working the past two months.

Mr. Danford Trumpour is under the care of Dr. Robertson of Wellington.

◆

AMATEUR PLAY AT SALEM CHURCH

Minto—The play "Wild Ginger" put on by Fuller talent was given in Salem Church on Friday evening. Those who attended were given a real treat and Fuller is to be congratulated for having such professional actors.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Belcour of Madoc spent a few days visiting at the latter's father's Mr. P. Cook.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McMaster entertained Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stewart and Pearl on Sunday, March 10.

Miss C. McMurray of Havelock spent the weekend at her home here.

Mrs. Chas. Morgan was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mason, Stirling.

Messrs Gordon Grier and John Bateman attended the play here on Friday evening and also visited friends.

Rev. Mr. Lacky took tea with Mr. and Mrs. C. Mumby on Friday evening.

Miss Edna McMaster visited Miss Pearl Stewart recently.

WOLF IS ROUTED BY NATIONAL ANTHEM

Fort William, March 20 (CP)—The strains of "God Save the King" were too much for a wolf that menaced George Dubetz, section foreman. Dubetz, unarmed, steeled himself for the wolf's attack by whistling the National Anthem. The wolf fled.

QUIVERING NERVES

When you are just on edge . . . when you can't stand the children's noise . . . when everything you do is a burden . . . when you are irritable and blue . . . try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. 98 out of 100 women report benefit.

It will give you just the extra energy you need. Life will seem worth living again.

Don't endure another day without the help this medicine can give. Get a bottle from your druggist today.

Lydia E. Pinkham's VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Ciceri - Bolton

PHONE 926 — FRONT - VICTORIA — PHONE 926

SPECIAL! CREAMERY BUTTER 25c

SWIFT'S BROOKFIELD CHEESE 2 1-2 lb. pkg. 25c

BRUNSWICK SARDINES 6 tins 25c

HAPPY VALE CATSUP - - 2 for 19c

SPECIAL! PASTRY FLOUR 24 lb. bag 63c

AMMONIA POWDER 2 pkgs. 11c

CRIDLAND'S 1-LB. PRINTS Pure Lard 2 lbs. 25c

Sweet Mixed Falcon Brand PICKLES 28 oz. Bottle 23c

CROSSE and BLACKWELL'S Rasp. - Straw. JAM jar 27c

926 ← PHONE → 926
FREE DELIVERY

SPECIAL Pumpkin 3 tins 20c

McCORMICK'S SODAS 2 pkgs. 23c

TOMATOES 3 for 20c

ROLLED WHEAT 5-lb. bag 23c

SPECIAL GREEN TEA 28c lb.

BONELESS ROLLED with Dressing VEAL FILLETS - lb. 15c

SCHNEIDER'S SLICED BREAKFAST BACON lb. 25c

SLICED BOLOGNA 2 lbs .25c

FRESH KILLED LAMB FRONTS - lb. 13c

ROUND STEAK - lb. 16c

SUNKIST ORANGES - 27c

GRAPEFRUIT - 6 for 25c

HEAD LETTUCE 2 for 13c

CARROTS - - 2 for 13c

SPINACH - - 2 lbs. 25c

BARGAIN FARES

From BELLEVILLE—March 22-23
to

DETROIT $6.90 | CHICAGO $9.75

RETURN LIMIT
Lv. Detroit not later than 2.30 a.m. March 26
Lv. Chicago not later than 11.59 p.m. March 26

ROUTE
Via Pooled Services to Toronto, thence Canadian Pacific only
For full information ask for handbill and consult nearest agent.

CANADIAN PACIFIC
CANADIAN NATIONAL

m18,-21

NEW CONSTITUTION FOR THE DOMINION

(Continued From Page 1)

1. Preamble and preliminary.

2. Those provisions which affect the Federal power alone and where the consent of the provinces would not be required for the purpose of amendment.

3. Provisions affecting the internal constitution of the provinces without the consent of the Federal Parliament.

4. Ordinary sections requiring for purposes of amendment the consent of a majority of the provinces.

5. Certain sections which would require the consent of all the provinces before they could be amended. (Language, religion, education and marriage laws).

6. A section providing that in case amendments relate to only one or to a restricted number of provinces the consent of that province or those provinces alone would be sufficient.

7. A section providing in the manner described for a mode of amendment to the constitution.

◆

Paul Lukas and Gertrude Michael in a thrilling scene from "Father Brown, Detective," now on the Capitol screen.

Young Britons Elect Officers

TRENTON, March 21.—(Special) — Grand Lodge Orange Young Britons have elected officers for the coming year as follows:

Rt. Wor. Immeriate Past Master, A. E. Percival, Ottawa; Rt. Wor. Prov. Grand Master, Dr. M. L. Pratt, Manotick; Rt. Wor. Deputy Grand Master, Lloyd Morrow, Russell; Rt. Wor. Jr. Deputy Grand Master, R. I. Little, Ottawa; Rt. Wor. Immediate Past Mas-Bride, Richmond; Rt. Wor. Grand Director of Ceremonies, P. Bradfield Ottawa; Rt. Wor. Grand Secretary, W. A. Chambers, Manotick; Rt. Wor. Grand Treasurer, T. Ambrose, Ottawa; Rt. Wor. Sr. Grand Orator, C. Hamilton, Russell; Rt. Wor. Jr. Grand Orator J. Duncan, Ottawa; Rt. Wor. Dep. Rec.-Sec. E. Jones, Westboro; Rt. Wor. Dep. Grand Treasurer, G. E. McGuire, Ottawa.

The election was conducted by Most Worshipful Brother G. S. Sloan, Ottawa, Grand Master of British America while Right Worshipful G. B. Swayne, Smiths Falls, conducted the installation of officers.

Ex-Mayor William Stewart of Toronto, addressed large audience on "Citizenship" Wednesday evening as part of Grand Lodge programme.

Grand Orange Lodge, Ontario East and Ladies' Benevolent Association will elect officers today to conclude the sessions.

◆

HONOR ROLL

S. S. NO. 18, TYENDINAGA

V Class—Frances Corrigan 73.

Sr. IV.—Wilfrid Corrigan 79, Edna Roache 63.

Jr. IV.—Ione Brennan 77, Nora Williams 70, Francis Crawford 60, Willie Corrigan 54, Bernard Corrigan (absent).

Jr. III.—James Murphy 56, Pauline Farrell 39.

II.—Mildred Brennan 76, Eileen Corrigan 61, Mildred Roache 60, Harry Roache 43, Hazel Crawford 40.

I.—Dorothy Williams 69, Charlie Corrigan 49.

Kathleen Walsh, Teacher.

2 BIG DAYS | Friday and Saturday | 2 BIG DAYS

DOLLAR DAYS

Read Every Item Carefully It May Be Just What You Need

MEN'S Fine Cottonade Stripe Work Trousers $1.00

SPECIAL Ladies' New Spring MILLINERY $1.00

BOYS' BROADCLOTH BLOUSES 3 for $1

LADIES' ALL WOOL SKIRTS for Spring $1.00

SPECIAL Domet and Chambray Work SHIRTS 2 for $1

BOYS' Striped Flannelette PYJAMAS Assorted sizes in the lot. 2 Suits $1

MEN'S Cotton Merino Work Sox 8 pairs $1

Clearance of Corsets, Girdles and Corselettes Reg. $1.69 for $1.00

Lovely new Silk Crepe BLOUSES Colors of blue, white, egg shell, flesh, pink, etc. Reg. $1.69 for $1.00

EXTRA! Ruffled Curtains At a Low Sale Price 3 Pairs $1.00

A bright, cheery outlook for spring can be found in these lovely curtain sets of excellent quality material easily set up because they are ready-made—with sunny colored frills and tie backs on ivory and white grounds.

SPECIAL IN Men's Fine Shirts Plain colors and fancy striped patterns 2 for $1

Now is the Time to Brighten up Your Home

Cheery Floral Patterns Cretonne 36 inches wide 6 yds. $1

Special, 36" wide Cotton Broadcloth various colors 8 yds. $1

Fancy Curtain Net 36" wide. Special 8 yds. $1

Ladies' New Spring Millinery New styles and colors $1.00

Men's RED-BACK BIB Overalls 8 oz. Cloth. Special $1.00

Clearance of MEN'S Felt HATS Value up to $1.95 for $1.00

Ladies' Full Fashioned Service or chiffon HOSIERY In all the new spring shades, an astonishing value at 2 pair 1.00

Note This Dollar Days' Attraction! 75 Pairs Only
$1 Women's Smart Street Shoes, pr. $1
Values up to $1.95; calf and kid leathers; straps and ties and pumps. Sizes in the lot 3 to 6, but not all sizes in each style

Fine White Cotton Pillow Cases Size about 32 x 42. Sale with hemstitched border. 5 for 1.00

EXTRA SPECIAL! You'll be astounded at the variety of styles found on our racks of SILK CREPE Dresses for only 1.95

LADIES' NEW SPRING Coats In the new Tweed materials, priced as low as 8.95

SPECIAL! Men's Suits Some have 2 pair pants Clearing at 10.00

MEN'S Silk and Wool and Lisle HOSE Sale price 4 prs. 1.00 A few fine silk hose included in the lot

Men's Tweed CAPS 2 for 1.00

ALEX. Lipson's
CHAIN OF POPULAR PRICED STORES

MEN'S ALL WOOL Work SOX 7 prs. 1.00

Daily Short Story

The 'Vangelist

By Charles Sloan Reid

(Copyright 1933 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Summer was in full dress. The hills were radiant in wild azaleas, hydangea and rhododendron. It was just the season for a long walk over the mountains. Equipped with a light pack containing blanket and small camping outfit, with some provisions, I had set forth upon a tour of the hills afoot. The roadway which led up the Stump-house mountain was almost spiral in its ascent, winding as it did about the sharp spurs of the ridge and the heads of the ravines which fell away toward the valley below. There was a riot of fragrance in the air, and joy at every turn in the vistas which lay before one's eyes as it gazed toward the open country I was in no hurry. This was something to be taken at leisure. The sound of a voice came back upon my ears from somewhere beyond my visual range of curvature of of the road.

"Whoa, come 'ere, Bally! G-e-e, Buck!" were the words I heard, accompained by the squeak of wooden axels and the odor of tar which was used as a lubricant for the spindles upon which the wheels turn.

Soon the wagoner fell within my view, my speed afoot being somewhat greater than that of the mountaineer's ox team. The driver of the team was a boy of eighteen. In his hand he held a long whip and he was walking beside his team, as the oxen dragged the heavy burden of the wagon and its contents.

"Good morning!" I greeted the boy.

"Good mornin', Mister," came his response, as he looked around, at the same time making a sweeping survey of my person with his eyes. "Goin' fur?" he queried.

"Well, yes: I hope to cover a good deal of territory in the next few weeks.

"Wal' of yuh'll stick along o' me till we git to the top o' the mountain, we can git in an' ride a spell. Hit's a long way to the river on t'other side; an' these steers'll find it easy goin' down hill."

"Thank you; I believe I will."

A conversation about the hills and creatures followed. Jerry Land was well informed about his own country of the Blue Ridge, a thing of which not too many Americans can boast.

"How long have you been driving oxen, Jerry?" I asked.

"I reckon about twelve year. I ain't a re-collection' much back o' thet."

"Well, that is pretty good."

"Yeah, I reckon hit is. G-e-e, Buck!" Jerry brought a smart "crack" in the air just above the head of one of the steers, with his whip.

Soon we came upon a cabin perched some yards above the road, on four sawed-off posts, the back ones being about four feet high, whilt the front ones were fully eight feet, to take care of the declivity in the hillside. The cabin was very old, builts of logs which bore the weather marks of a century or more.

"Why, hello, Jerry," I observed "here is a fellow with his house built well above the high-water mark, I imagine?"

"I reckon so. Thet's whar the 'vangelist lives.

"The evangelist ?"

"Yeah, Ol' Aunt Marth Sawyer lives thar — an' everybody round these parts calls her the 'vangelist."

"No; she ain't no preacher; but she's a converter. An' they say as how a converter is a 'vangelist."

"I shall have to agree that it is the idea of an evangelist to be a converter, at any rate. But you have me interested. How did Aunt Marth Sawyer come to be 'a converter?"

"Wal', yuh see; hit was this way." Jerry gave another command to his team before going on with his story. Aunt Marth is old — she's been old a moughty long time. Mister, her nose an' her chin ain't a likin' so moughty much o' meetin' fair; an' ef she's got airy tooth, I ain't evver see'd it. Aunt Sawyer, wuz born thar in that house. They say as how ol' Jeff Sawyer, her grand-daddy, built it the Lord knows how long ago I reckon yuh know this is the Stump-House mountain?"

"Wal', some say as how hit wuz caled Turnip-top afore ol' Jeff built thet house. When Sawyer came here to put up his shanty, he jest cut off four trees, leavin' the stumps adazac'ly in the right place, two short an' two long an' he built his cabin on them stumps. Arter thet they called this mountain Stump-house."

"Very appropriate," I agreed.

"Yeah, I reckon so. In course, as them stumps rotted out they set up saw-ed off logs under the cabin."

"But the logs of the house itself — it seems they might have rotted in this time?" I suggested.

"Lord, no; them's black locust— they don't never rot. Ez I was sayin', hit wuz a good many year ago thet Aunt Marth got to be called a 'vangelist. Hit wuz afore thet last long post wuz set up under, an' the old un had got in a bad way, likin' to crumble, reckon. Ol' Bill Toland, as lives over on the War Woman creek wuz powerful dringin' feller, an' he pestered everbody in the hul Stump-house settlement. Folks allers hated to see ol' Bill a comin'. He wuz so big, nobody could do anything with'im. He could tote a turn as no other two 'lers could tote an' everybody give him room when he tuck a notion fer room, which wuz frequent—he being most o' the time in liquor.

"Wal', Aunt Marth's house jest about half-way over the mountain, an' mountain travellers stops hyer a heap, an' hez the ol' woman to make coffee fer 'em Aunt Marth's the best coffee maker in this' hul country—an' I'm sayin' hit as ain't no kin to her. Wal' one night Bill Toland wuz comin' up the mountain an' he wuz deep in liquor as wuz common; and when he got to Aunt Marth's he tuk a notion he'd have some coffee, though hit wuz past midnight, I reckon. So he went to to the low side whar the door is, an' he hammered and hollered an' an' squealled till he woke up the ol' woman.

"Who in tarnation is thet?" says Marth from inside.

"Hit's Bill Toland," says Bill from outside,' I want some corfee,' says Bill.

"Wal, yuh'll git no coffee hyer this night," says Marth.

"Wi' thet Bill he started to r'arin' When I says corfee, hit's corfee I mean to have, says Bill "Open this door, an' let me in thar?

"Narry a open,' says Marth. An' you git on away from hyer this minute!"

"Narry a git!" 'lows Bill, till ye make me that corfee.

"Ye're drunk, Bill Toland,' says Marth; an' yuh better be a movin'"

"Narry move, yells Bill," an' with he hammered on thet door some more.

"Listen Marth,' says 'ee; 'ef yuh don't open this door an' make thet corfee, down comes yuhr dinged ol' shanty!"

"Whut ye mean, yuh triflin' skunk,' hollers Marth.

"Why, I'll pull them long posts out, an' let ye drop into the ravine, cabin an' all — yuh hyear me

"Yeah, I hyear yuh. But jest ye try it, Bill Toland.

"Bill said no more, but round the house he went, an' laid holt o' thet weak post. ut he ain't made more than a tug or two afore something happen'. When Marth' went to bed she'd left a pot o' bilin' water on the fire. Wal' she didn't do nothin' else but git a bucket o' thet hot hot water, flung open the little window in thet low corner. Bill wuz tuggin' away, an Marth could feel the cabin a givin' like. Wal' she emptied thet pot o' scaldin' water right down on ol' Bill's back. They do say, Mister, as how the hide come off along o' Bill along with his clothes, when [illegible] got home thet night."

Jerry paused. "I reckon ye're a wonderin' now about the 'vangelist part?" he went on directly. "Yuh see, nex' fo'th Sunday arter the wuz meetin' day at Long Branch. Bill Toland went over thar thet day an' jo'ned the church; a'n he ain't never drunk no liquor sence. The folks all said as how Marth had converted 'im."

* * *

Little Benny's Note Book

Sattiday I was suppose to go downtown shopping with ma, and I was up in my room changing into my good clothes kind of slow on account of getting dressed with my hands and reeding my Paul Peppy book with my eyes, and ma called up, Benny, are you hurrying? and I called back, Yes, mam, G wizz.

Wich I was all I could considering I was reeding at the same time, and pritty soon ma called up again, Benny, I'm putting on my hat, how neerly ready are you?

Mam? Half, I said.

Wich I pritty near was, and ma said, Well my goodness for land sakes what have you been doing? and I said, Getting dressed, gosh.

Not saying my Paul Peppy book was open on the floor and I was stooping over reeding it while I put on diffrent things, and just then I heard ma running upstairs and I hurry up and kicked the book under the bed just in time, ma saying, Well look at the state you're still in, when it comes to snales you're the original tortiss.

Meening slow, I said, Well jimminy, ma, the tortiss beet the hare in the fable, and she said, Well you're not in a fable though goodness knows you often seem to belong in one with your peculiar actions.

Well I tell you what, ma, I said, You be the hare and I'll be the tortiss, and let's see if I can catch up to you before you get to the trolley car, I said, and ma said, O keep quiet, you can just stay home and have the whole rest of the day to get dressed in, the ideer. I was going to take you to a picture show if we got through in time, but people who dont even get started cant possibly get through in time, that's one of the ferst laws of nature, she said.

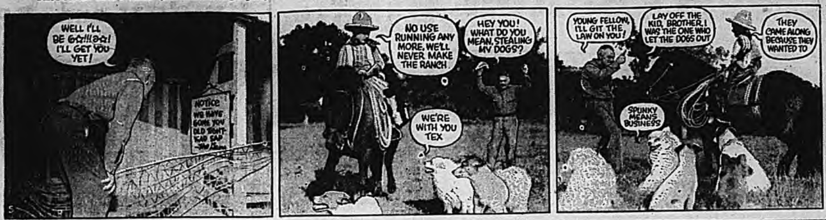
And she went mad, me thinking, O, a picture show, gosh.

And I got the rest of the ways dressed so fast I cawt up to her just as she was part ways in a trolley car, proving the fable was rite.

TEX AND HIS PALS (ActualPhotographs) Tex and His New Buddies Are Pursued

Copyright, 1935, by Harper Features, Dallas, Texas, U.S.A. All Rights Reserved

By Leslie A. Hill



WELL I'LL BE G☆!!@☆! I'LL GET YOU YET!
NOTICE WE HAVE GONE YOU OLD TIGHT-WAD SAP
NO USE RUNNING ANY MORE, WE'LL NEVER MAKE THE RANCH
HEY YOU! WHAT DO YOU MEAN, STEALING MY DOGS?
WE'RE WITH YOU TEX
YOUNG FELLOW, I'LL GIT THE LAW ON YOU!
LAY OFF THE KID, BROTHER, I WAS THE ONE WHO LET THE DOGS OUT
THEY CAME ALONG BECAUSE THEY WANTED TO SPUNKY MEANS BUSINESS

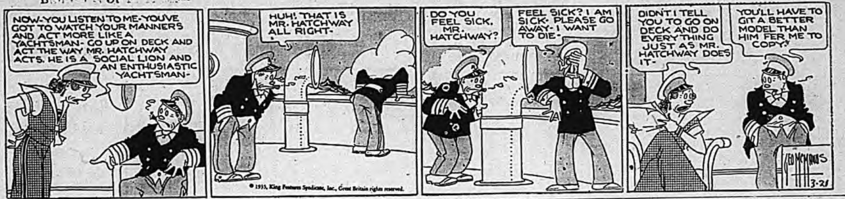
BR UP By George McManus



NOW-YOU LISTEN TO ME-YOU'VE GOT TO WATCH YOUR MANNERS AND ACT MORE LIKE A YACHTSMAN- GO UP ON DECK AND ACT THE WAY MR. HATCHWAY ACTS. HE IS A SOCIAL LION AND AN ENTHUSIASTIC YACHTSMAN-HUH! THAT IS MR. HATCHWAY ALL RIGHT-
DO YOU FEEL SICK, MR. HATCHWAY?
FEEL SICK? I AM SICK- PLEASE GO AWAY- I WANT TO DIE-
DIDN'T I TELL YOU TO GO ON DECK AND DO EVERYTHING JUST AS MR. HATCHWAY DOES IT-YOU'LL HAVE TO GIT A BETTER MODEL THAN HIM FER ME TO COPY!
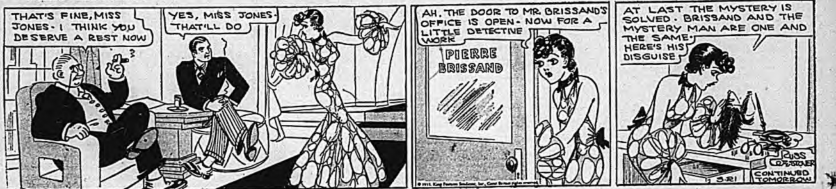
© 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.
GEO McMANUS
3-21

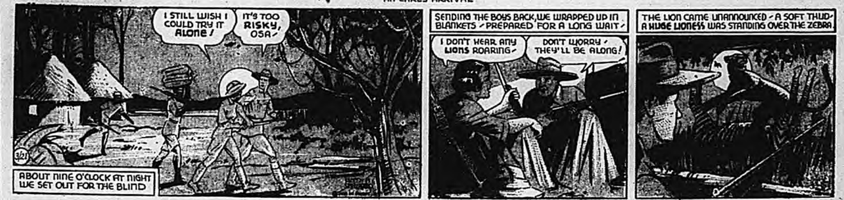
TILLIE THE TOIL By Russ Westover



THAT'S FINE, MISS JONES- I THINK YOU DESERVE A REST NOW
YES, MISS JONES- THAT'LL DO
AH, THE DOOR TO MR. BRISSAND'S OFFICE IS OPEN- NOW FOR A LITTLE DETECTIVE WORK
PIERRE BRISSAND
AT LAST THE MYSTERY IS SOLVED. BRISSAND AND THE MYSTERY MAN ARE ONE AND THE SAME- HERE'S HIS DISGUISE
RUSS WESTOVER
3-21
CONTINUED TOMORROW

DANGER TRAILS AN EARLY ARRIVAL

By The Famous Explorer Martin Johnson



I STILL WISH I COULD TRY IT ALONE!
IT'S TOO RISKY, OSA-
ABOUT NINE O'CLOCK AT NIGHT WE SET OUT FOR THE BLIND
3/21
SENDING THE BOYS BACK, WE WRAPPED UP IN BLANKETS - PREPARED FOR A LONG WAIT-I DON'T HEAR ANY LIONS ROARING-
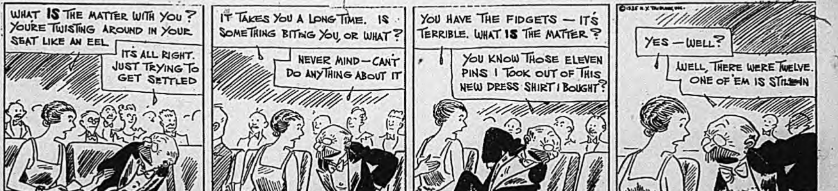
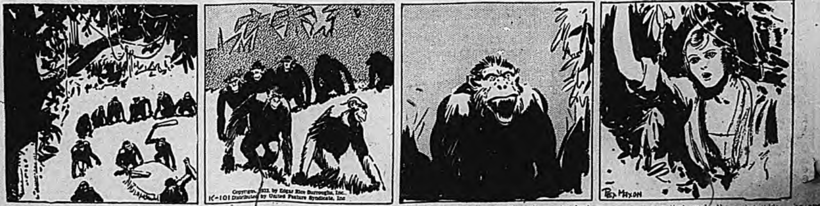
DON'T WORRY- THEY'LL BE ALONG!
THE LION CAME UNANNOUNCED - A SOFT THUD - A HUGE LIONESS WAS STANDING OVER THE ZEBRA

MR. A D By Briggs



WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH YOU? YOU'RE TWISTING AROUND IN YOUR SEAT LIKE AN EEL
IT'S ALL RIGHT. JUST TRYING TO GET SETTLED
IT TAKES YOU A LONG TIME. IS SOMETHING BITING YOU, OR WHAT?
NEVER MIND-CAN'T DO ANYTHING ABOUT IT
YOU HAVE THE FIDGETS — IT'S TERRIBLE. WHAT IS THE MATTER?
YOU KNOW THOSE ELEVEN PINS I TOOK OUT OF THIS NEW DRESS SHIRT I BOUGHT?
YES — WELL?
WELL, THERE WERE TWELVE. ONE OF 'EM IS STILL IN

TARZAN THE UN (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)



K-101
Copyright, 1935, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc
REX MAXON

Watched by Olga, the apes commenced to move about restlessly. Presently the drum settled into a heavy rhythm, to which the apes kept time with measured tread and swaying bodies. Slowly the mass separated into two rings.

The outer one was composed of shes and the very young, the inner one, of mature bulls. The former squatted upon their haunches while the bulls moved slowly about the drum, all now in one direction. Then a new sound came faintly to Olga

From the direction of the village she had escaped came a weird and high-pitched cry. The effect upon the apes was electrical! They stopped, standing intently listening a moment. Then the hugest fellow raised his face to the heavens.

In a voice that made the girl shudder, the ape answered the far-off cry. Again the beaters drummed, the slow dance went on. The savage ceremony held the girl spell-bound. For a half hour the drums' cadence gradually increased.

Be Sure

To have your Auto Insurance re-instated before taking out your car this Spring. If you have no insurance, do not take further chances of serious loss. All that is necessary in either case, or in the event of you changing your car, is to telephone us (1364). We will immediately protect you and get full particulars later. This is part of our service.

JAMIESON BONE & CO.
INSURANCE INVESTMENTS

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, March 21 (AP)—The Stock Market limped along at a snail's pace today and prices hovered closely around the levels of the previous day.

Although selling pressure was somewhat lifted from tobacco shares, leaders continued to tilt backward with losses of less than a point shown by American Tobacco "B", Reynolds, Lorillard and Liggett and Myers. A crop of rumors purporting to give the reason for weakness in this group on Wednesday ranged all the way from prospective tax increases to some sort of Government investigation of the industry.

In the Canadian section of the list, shares of McIntyre, International Nickel and Canadian Pacific ruled quiet and steady. On the curb Lake Shore and Hiram Walker were about even. Dominion Government bonds were inactive. Canadian funds improved 1-32 of a cent at 98 7-8 cents.

Only extremely modest offerings were required to bring about declines of minor fractions to a point in such trading favorites as General Motors, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, American Can., National Dairy Products, J. I. Case, Eastman Kodak, Standard Oil of N.J. and American Telephone.

On the other hand, continued accumulation of Coca Cola, star performer on Wednesday, brought about a gain of more than a point in this stock and modest buying in public utilities was reflected by minor advances in Consolidated Gas, Public Service of N. J. and American Water Works. Among other shares advancing fractionally were Schenley Distillers, National Distillers and Johns-Manville.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Mar. 21 (CP)—A generally firm note was maintained by the senior gold shares in the mining department of Toronto Exchange in the morning session but the list turned heavy in the early afternoon.

Lake Shore held at $57 and losses up to 50 cents appeared among the others including Wright Hargreaves, Pioneer and Hollinger.

Little Long Lac drifted down 15 cents to 5.45. Prices weakened also for God's Lake, Sylvanite, San Antonio, Siscoe and Central Patricia and held firm to strong for McKenzie, Pickle Crow and McWatters. McKenzie sold up 5 cents to 1.22.

Base Metals Corporation sold at 54 for a gain of 9 cents. Noranda was off 40 cents to $34 and Falconbridge at 3.60 was a couple of cents better.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Mar. 21 (CP)—A decidedly drab session of Toronto industrial share market this morning saw little outside of Walkers Common, C.P.R., Brazilian and Imperial Oil changing hands.

Walkers Common was unchanged at 27¾, Industrial Alcohol "A" was off ½ and Distillers Seagrams up ⅛. The brewery group recorded no changes.

A loss of ⅜ for Brazilian and a similar set-back for Imperial Oil were the only changes elsewhere in the interlisted group. Nickel, Ford "A", C.P.R., B. A. Oil and International Pete were steady.

Loblaw stocks worked lower, Westons dropped a fraction and Dominion Stores ⅛ while Consolidated Bakeries gained a small fraction. Steels were irregularly lower and in the utilities Bell Telephone fell more than a point to 129¾.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, Mar. 21 (AP) — The strongest upswing in the public utility issues in months pulled the stock market out of its rut into a sturdy rally in the late trading today.

The rise of one to two points in the utility issues was accompanied by varied unconfirmed rumors in brokerage circles. One was that none of the $4,800,000,000 of federal work relief funds would be spent for municipal power plants. Another was that New York City had given up its plans for a plant. Brokers said the market had been ripe for a rally, and that it did not take much to touch off a flurry of short covering.

UNLISTED MINES

Unlisted as furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co, today.

Afton 51-54
Bankfield 85-88
Bosquet 26-30
Casey 33-36
El Bonanza 10-13
Forty Four 1025-1150
Gabrielle 36-42
Gold Eagle 37-39
Gt. Bear Lake 41-44
Hardrock 72-75
Lamaque 145-155
Lagoon 11-13
McLeod Cockshutt 5 1-2—7
Magnet 11-13
Matachewan 13-15
Murwood 25S
Oklend 36-39
Red Lake 31-33
Rice Lake 4-5
Springer Sturgeon 138
Smelters 15 1-2—17
Sigma 150S
Shawkey 48-51
Sturgeon River 86-92
Wells 14-16
Wingold 15S
Young Dav. 19-22

Stock Markets

Quotations furnished by Biggar and Crawford, P. H. Wills, branch manager. Quotations at 2.05.

MINES

Ashley 17
Ajax 90B
Acme 20B
Breth Treth 2B
Barry Hollinger 5 1-4B
Base Metals 56
Bobjo 25
Big Missouri 44
Bagamac 7B
Bralorne 850B
Castle Treth 63
Coniaurum 208B
Central Pat 140
Coast Copper 140B
Dome 3925
Dominion Explor 5 1-2
Eldorado 115
Falconbridge 360
God's Lake 131
Goldale 15B
Granada 31
Greene Stab 25B
Hollinger 1700
Halcrow 3 1-2B
Home Oil 56B
Hudsons Bay 1130
Howey 85B
Inter Nickel 28 1-8
Kirkland Lake 48 1-2
Kirk Townsite 24
Lake Shore 5700B
Little Long Lac 545B
Macassa 223B
Malartic 58B
Maple Leaf 8
McIntyre 4465B
Mining Corp. 96
McLeod River 1 1-2
McKenzie 120
McWaters 170
McVittie 25B
Nipissing 214B
Noranda 3410
Pioneer 990B
Parkhill 23B
Premier 150B
Reade Auth. 76
Reno 140
St. Anthony 26B
Sheritt 46
Siscoe 295
San Antonio 405
Stadacona 25
Sudbury Basin 131B
Sylvanite 227
Teck Hughes 404B
Ventures 91
Wayside 17
Waite Amulet 50B
Wright Hargreaves 920B
Pickle Crow 271
Paymaster 17B

TORONTO

Bell Telephone 129B.
B. A. Oil 14 5-8.
Brewing Corp. 3 1-8B.
Braz. Trac. 8 1-2B.
Can. Bud Brewery 7 3-4.
Can. Cement 6B.
Can. Dredge 20B.
Can. Ind. Alcohol 8 3-8B.
C.P.R. 9 5-8.
Can. Malting 30 3-8B.
Can. Vinegar 26 1-2B.
Canada Car 6 1-4.
Cons. Bakeries 12 3-4B.
Con. Smelting 131B.
Dominion Stores 8 3-4B.
Dist. Seagrams 16.
Ford "A" 27 5-8.
Gypsum 5 1-4B.
Goodyear 135.
Imp. Oil 14 5-8B.
Inter. Pet. 29 1-2.
Loblaw 18 1-4.
Massey Harris 3 5-8.
Mont. Power 29B.
McColl-Frontenac 13 5-8B.
Power Corp. 7 7-8B.
Steel of Canada 43 3-4B.
Supertest 22 1-2B.
Shawinigan 16B.
Walker's 28.
Walker's, Pfd. 17 1-2B.
Walkerville Brewery 3 1-8B.

NEW YORK

American Can. 113 1-2.
American T. and T. 100 1-4.
Amer. For. Power 2 1-2.
Anaconda 8 3-4.
Auburn 16 1-4.
Chrysler 32 7-8.
General Motors 27 3-4.
Elec. Auto Lite 20 1-8.

Grain Markets

Closing quotations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co., today.

Wheat:	High	Low	Close
May	84½	83¾	84⅛
July	83⅝	83¼	83⅝
Oats:
May	39¼	37⅝	38¼
July	39¼	37⅞	38
Barley.
May	46⅛	44½	45
July	46⅜	46	45⅞

Produce Markets

(By United Farmers Co-Operative Company)

Toronto. — Wholesale prices on product delivered at Toronto as supplied by the United Farmers Co-operative Co. here to-day were:

Buying Prices

Eggs—
Grade A, large doz	.16
Grade A, medium, doz	.15
Grade A, pullets, doz.	.15
Grade B, doz.	.14
Grade C, doz.	.13
Butter—
Ontario No. 1, Creamery, lb	.23
Ontario, No. 2, Creamery, lb.	.22½
Churning Cream—
No. 1 lb.	.24
No. 2, lb.	.22

(F.O.B. shipping point)
Poultry

	Live "A"	Dressed "A"	Dressed Milkfed "A"
Hens—
Over 5 lbs.	.11	.14
4 to 5 lbs.	.10	.13
3 to 4 lbs.	.08	.11
Old roosters	.06	.08	..
Spring Chickens—
5½ to 6 lbs.	.12	.16	.18
5 to 5½ lbs.	.11	.15	.17
4½ to 5 lbs.	.10	.14	.16
Under 4½ lbs.	.09	.13	.15
Broilers—
1¾ to 2½ lbs.	.11	.15	.17

Selling Prices

United Farmers Co-Operative Co. today were offering products to retail dealers at the following prices:

Eggs—
Grade A large, loose, doz.	.21
Grade A, medium, doz.	.20
Grade B, medium, doz.	.19
Grade C, doz.	.18
Butter—
No. 1, Creamery, prints	.26
No. 2, Creamery, prints	.25½

Hay and Straw

No. 2 timothy hay, baled ton, $15.50 to $16.50; No. 3 timothy hay, ton, $13.00 to $14.00; straw, wheat, baled, ton, $10.00; oats straw, $8.50 to $9.50.

Clover Seeds Prices

Following are the prices for clover seed, in the dirt to the farmer, f.o.b. at shipping point, according to quality: Red clover, $12 per bushel; alsike, $12 to $13; alfalfa, $9 to $10.

Graded Egg Prices

Toronto dealers today were paying the following nominal prices for graded eggs, cases free:

Grade A, medium, doz	.17
Grade A, large, doz.	.16
"A" pullets, doz.	.15

Fruit, Vegetable Prices

(By F. G. Lister and Co., Toronto)

Fruits (Domestic)—
Apples, cooking, hamper	1.25	1.50
Vegetables (Domestic)—
Carrots, bag	.35	.40
Mushrooms, lb.	.30
Onions, 100 lbs.	1.75	2.00
Ontario Potatoes	.60
Turnips, bag	.40

Dressed Meat Prices

Toronto. — Wholesale dealers are quoting the following prices to the trade for dressed meats:

Beef forequarters cwt.	$ 6.00 to	$ 9.00
Do., hindquarters	12.00	15.00
Carcasses, choice	11.00	14.00
do medium	9.00	11.00
Calves, medium	9.50	11.00
Heavy hogs, cwt.	9.00	10.00
Abattoir hogs, cwt.	13.00	14.00
Lambs, cwt	13.00	15.00

Hides, Skin and Wool

Following prices are being quoted in Toronto for hides, skin and wool: City hides, green, 4c; brands, 3c; bulls, 3c; city calfskins, 7c; city kip, 6c; country hides, cured, 4c; hides, green, 3c; country calf, cured, 6c; country kip, cured, 5c; lamb skin, 20 to 35c each; horsehides, Nos. 1 and 2, at $1.50, with damaged and ponies at 75. Fleece wool, fine, 9c; medium, 8c; coarse, 8c; rejects (Burry, seedy, grey, black and cotted fleece) 4c; flat wool 7c, all delivered, Toronto.

Livestock Quotations

(Toronto)

Steers, up to 1,050 lbs., good and choice	5.50	6.25
do, medium	5.00	5.50
do, common	4.00	4.75
Steers, over 1050 lbs, good and choice	6.50	7.25
do, medium	6.00	6.50
do, common	5.25	6.00
Heifers, good and choice	5.50	6.00
do, medium	5.00	5.50
do, common	4.00	4.75
Fed calves, good and choice	6.75	7.25
do, medium	5.50	6.50
Cows, good	3.00	4.25
do., medium	3.00	3.50
do, common	2.50	3.00
Canners and cutters	1.50	2.25
Bulls, good	3.50	4.00
do, common	3.00	3.25
Milker's and Springer	40.00	45.00
Stocker and feeder steers. good	4.50	5.00
do., common	3.00	4.25
Calves, good and choice veals	7.00	8.00
do, common to medium	4.00	6.50
do, grassers	3.00	3.50
Hogs, bacon f.o.b.	7.35
do, off cars	8.10
do., off truck	7.75
Good ewes and wether lambs	7.00	7.25
do, medium	6.75	7.00
do., bucks	6.00	6.50
do., culls	5.00	6.00
Sheep, good weight	3.50	4.00
do., heavies	2.50	3.25
do., culls	1.00	2.00

SIMON HITS OUT AT GERMAN ACT

(Continued from page one)

Geneva, Mar. 21.—The League of Nations faces the gravest crisis in its history today, in the opinion of many observers, as a result of France's protest against Germany's rearmament declaration.

As the French communication asked an extraordinary session of the council be convened, J. A. C. Avenol, secretary-general of the League, immediately consulted members of the council concerning the date on which the body should meet.

A German spokesman said his nation, whose resignation from the League becomes effective in October would ignore the council session and send no representative to defend her program.

Generally it was believed the session would not be held until early April. Some interested powers said they would prefer to have it take place after the tri-power meeting which representatives of Great Britain, France and Italy are expected to attend after Captain Anthony Eden, British Lord Privy Seal, returns from his Moscow visit.

League Guarantees Likely.

London, Mar. 21. — Guarantees now may be required before Germany is permitted to resume full membership in the League of Nations.

The French Ambassador, Charles Corbin, today called on the foreign office with the formal copy of the French appeal for league examination of German rearmament. The appeal, while couched in general terms, raises sharp new issues.

On the appeal itself, Britain has as yet taken no definite stand. She was not consulted before the appeal was drafted but it is recognized in British circles Germany's full participation in the League — even if Germany is willing to return to Geneva—will need special consideration in the light of her adoption of conscription.

Collective Security.

Collective security is linked with the League system in British policy and it is felt before full League co-operation with Germany can be resumed she will have to make clear what her attitude towards collective security is likely to be. That will be one of the main topics before Sir John Simon, Captain Anthony Eden and Adolf Hitler in Berlin next week.

Government officials, having received nothing but unofficial word of the German rebuff today to the French and Italian ambassadors, were startled but withheld comment until the receipt of official advices.

Naval Matters on Agenda.

London, Mar. 21.—Naval matters, in which Great Britain has a traditionally vital interest, will be included in the scope of the Berlin conversations between Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, and Reichsfuehrer Hitler, informed circles said today.

It was understood Sir John his intimated through the British Embassy in Berlin his desire to learn the full extent of German conscription plans for all services including the navy.

Whatever nervousness the fast-moving European events may have occasioned among various sections of the British public were allayed somewhat by last night's speech by James H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominions, in which he voiced the opinion fears of an imminent war were not justified.

No Real War Danger.

"I see no warrant whatever in the foreign situation and the political situation," the Dominions secretary said, "for believing there is any real danger of war.

"The sooner we get out of this war mentality, war spirit and war talk, the better it will be for all concerned."

The subject of Germany's violation of the Versailles Treaty and its consequences for Europe was discussed in the House of Commons.

Labor opposition leader, George Lansbury, is scheduled to speak and Sir Herbert Samuel for the opposition Liberals. Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, was chosen to present the government viewpoint. The House also considered the proposed three-power parley to be held between British, French and Italian statesmen in Paris Saturday and Britain's note of protest sent to Berlin.

GERMANY FIRM AGAINST PROTEST

(Continued from page one)

The note to Germany said the German action "was clearly contrary" to treaties and agreements and raised "the most formal protest."

The French communication was similar to one deposited by the Italians in the Wilhelmstrasse. The Berlin foreign office announced officially neither note would be considered.

Whereupon the French government disregarded a suggestion from Berlin and immediately made public the note which covered three typewritten pages.

Germany Warned.

It warned Germany the decision to reestablish its army was "clearly contrary to the contractual engagements written in the treaties that Germany signed" and declared it France's "duty to raise the most formal protest against these measures with regard to which it now had formulated every reservation."

Ambassador Francois-Poncet left the note at the German Foreign office which "accepted" the document but told the ambassador the note disregarded the real situation and therefore could not be taken into consideration.

This was taken by French officials in Berlin to mean neither the French nor the Italian notes would be answered further than by acknowledgments of their receipt.

Rome, Mar. 21.—The Italian government "cannot accept a situation determined by a unilateral decision annulling obligations of an international character," Italy said today in her note protesting the Reich's rearmament program.

The note, delivered in Berlin, says the Reich's decision is "particularly serious because of the state of uncertainty which it excites in all countries."

Government circles said Premier Mussolini is preparing an important speech on the German rearmament declaration to be made later today or tomorrow before either the senate or the chamber of deputies.

It was expected Il Duce would voice his support of France in formation of a united Anglo-French-Italian front in opposition to German rearmament and will also support France's recourse to the League of Nations even though it is known he does not believe this to be the best method to follow.

EATON GROCETERIA makes News with

A LENTEN SPECIAL
CATELLI'S MACARONI
SPAGHETTI or VERMICELLI
SAVE PREMIUM COUPONS
For those who like to cook up a delicious Lenten meal dish, here is the makings—Bake it in a casserole—all golden cheese encrusted. A package of each would be a frugal buy.
3 pkgs. 25c

A Tasty Biscuit Value. SELECT Assorted BISCUITS
lb. 15c

A Candy Treat: PATTERSON'S
ASSORTED KISSES
The children's candy — chewy and wholesome—give them a surprise when you go shopping by having a pound in your parcel.
2 lbs. 25c

FRUITS and VEGETABLES
NAVEL ORANGES
Med. Size. doz. 37c. Large 47c
LEMONS
Large size .... doz. 17c
SEEDLESS GRAPEFRUIT
Med. Size .... each 5c
HEAD LETTUCE
Good size .... 2 for 15c
FRESH SPINACH 2 lbs. 25c
NEW CARROTS
2 bunches 15c
We also carry Green Peppers, Shallots, Cucumbers, New Beets, etc.

Phone 300 — Grocery Orders of $1.00 Delivered Free
All Meat Orders Phoned In — Delivered Free

THIS IMPORTANT SAVING STOCK UP SALE OF HEINZ FOODS
Heinz Foods are different—they savour of those loved old-time family dishes we used to have—homey in flavour—delightful to sniff—to taste—to pass back for more—a godsend on busy days for they are ready to heat and serve—a square and scrumptious meal free from work and worry—fill up your shelves—accompanied by savings.

Heinz Oven-Baked Sauce Drenched
PORK and BEANS Med. Tin 2 tins 21c Small 2 tins 15c
HEINZ—ITALIAN STYLE SAUCE COOKED
SPAGHETTI Med. Tins 2 tins 23c Small 2 tins 15c
Heinz—ready to serve—homemade style—creamed
ASSORTED SOUPS 2 Med. tins 25c
VEGETARIAN BEANS Without Pork Med. tin. 2 tins 21c

ATTENTION HOME BAKERS—HERE'S A SALE FOR YOU—
PURITY FLOUR 24 lb. bag 73c
An all-purpose flour of proven dependability used by Canadian housewives for over twenty-seven years—light flaky pastry—fine textured cakes—and also bread that makes you proud of your baking skill. Buy this excellent flour tomorrow. The price is extra special. 7 lb. bag 23c

FOR PROVEN GOOD TEA VALUE—USE EATON'S
PALAWAN TEA 1-2 lb. bag 25c
Every Eaton Tea is skillfully blended by our own expert from fine teas imported direct—you can be sure that cup for cup you are getting good value—for example: Try Palawan this week — it will be a convincing trial.

MORE SPECIALS FOR YOUR VALUE LADEN BASKET.

TRY A TIN . . . NEW! O-Cedar WAX
Spring and bright sparkling floors go hand in hand—
1 lb. tin 43c
OXO CUBES 4 in a box 12c 10 in a box 26c
MAGIC Baking Powder 16 oz. tin 34c
Shirriff's Lushus Jelly Powders 3 pkgs. 23c

FRESHLY GROUND—Eaton's Fine
EMPIRE COFFEE 1-lb. Tin 35c
CHASE & SANBORN'S "dated" Coffee lb. tin 39c
Makes Delicious Oatmeal Cookies QUICK
QUAKER OATS Large Pkg. 22c
You use Plenty During Lent—OLD
NIPPY CHEESE lb. 21c
Extra Special—A Fine Laundry Soap
GOLD SOAP 7 bars 25c
Manufacturer's Offer—one full sized cake of Lifebuoy Soap with each large package of Rinso both for 21c
IT CLEANS—IT SCOURS
CLASSIC CLEANSER Tin 5c

LOOK WHAT THE MEAT DEPARTMENT OFFERS YOU for FRIDAY and SATURDAY.
BLUE BRAND BEEF Government Graded
English Style PRIME RIB ROAST
A specially prepared roast partially boned and tied to give a very meaty family roast that is easy to carve.
Extra Special lb. 19c
BLADE or SHORT Rib Roast lb. 12c
CHUCK OR SHOULDER ROAST - lb. 10c
SALE OF FRESH VEAL
HALF OR WHOLE LEGS lb. 17c
Rumps - - lb. 17c
Loins - - lb. 17c
Rolled Roasts lb. 15c
MEALED BACK BACON ½-lb. Package 14c
Diamond-E-Sugar Cured SMOKED HAMS
A meal becomes a feast with a Diamond-E Ham at the head of the table. lb. 25c
SMOKED Weiners 2 lbs 29c
FISH SPECIALS
SILVER BRIGHT SALMON lb. 13c
FRESH, FROZEN OR SMOKED Fillets - - lb. 14c
Come to Eaton's for your fish—where selection offers variety and low prices make for thriftiness.

EATON GROCETERIA "Where It Pays to Shop"
FRONT ST. BELLEVILLE

MRS. J. SCHORR ARRIVES IN CITY

Mrs. Jack Schorr of Ontario, California, arrived in Belleville by bus this afternoon and after leaving her baggage at a hotel, went to the Hastings County buildings and met Gaoler G. H. French in reference it is believed, to an interview which she hoped to obtain with Harold W. Vermilyea, who is awaiting execution six weeks from today for the murder of his mother, Mrs. Nathaniel Vermilyea, of which he was convicted over three weeks ago.

Gaol Governor French had received last week a communication from Mrs. Schorr asking if she might have the privilege of seeing Vermilyea, and it is said that her arrival here is the result of the reply which the gaoler made.

To a reporter Mrs. Schorr said she did not care to grant an interview.

Mrs. Schorr, a widow, knew Mr. Vermilyea and his family in California and evidence given by Aurelia Vermilyea, daughter of Vermilyea, before commission at San Bernardino, California, was to the effect that she would have been pleased to have Mrs. Schorr as a mother. This evidence was read at the trial of Vermilyea.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why external remedies as applied to sore and painful Piles are only local in effect and do not reach to true circulatory cause?

Why Piles may "come back" even after a first removal by cutting?

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal?

That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the veins flabby, the parts lifeless?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy for itching, bleeding or protruding piles discovered by Dr. Leonhardt, known as HEM-ROID and sold with your money back if not joyfully satisfied with the help one bottle gives?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by relieving congested circulation and helps to heal and restore the sore surfaces.

HEM-ROID is so successful in even the most stubborn cases that J. S. McKeown and other good druggists advise every sufferer to get a bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets today—take them as directed—then if not completely satisfied with results—your money back.

DEBOTH HOMEMAKERS SCHOOL

LADIES ATTENTION!

The very latest in the art of Culinary and Home Making to be demonstrated by popular Claire Andree of the DeBoth School.

May we suggest Madam that you buy your ticket as soon as possible and that you come early?

Please read the Ontario Intelligencer daily for complete details.

STATEMENT GIVEN OF CANADA BANK

Central Bank Deposits Increase Says Weekly Statement

OTTAWA, March 21.—(CP)— A reduction in Dominion Government deposits and an increase in the deposits from the Central Bank are shown in the weekly statement of the Bank of Canada made public today. The statement gives the assets and liabilities as at Wednesday, March 20.

The statement with the corresponding figures for the previous week in brackets follow:

Assets:

Reserve—Gold coin and bullion $106,584,358, silver bullion $986,363 (unchanged); reserve in Sterling Funds $195,722 ($192,250); Reserve in U. S. funds $196,018 ($202,625); Total —$107,962,462 ($107,965,593).

Subsidiary coin $300,108 ($297,335).

Investments— Dominion Government short term securities $34,824,900; ($24,846,294); other Dominion Government Securities $115,013,636, ($115,013,636); Total $149,838,537, ($149,859,930).

Total assets $259,682,600 ($3,259,314,757).

GERMAN WREATH IS TORN FROM CENOTAPH

Three Placed Under Arrest, Charged With Wilful Damage

Vancouver, March 21—(CP)—Three men were under arrest today after about 100 people late last night tore from the cenotaph on Victory Square a wreath laid by Captain Gunther Lutjens of the German cruiser Karlsruhe.

Albert Duffy, 45, was charged with wilful damage. Donald Alexander, 35, and Norman LeGrange, 21, were charged with vagrancy.

The crowd approached the cenotaph formation and made a rush for the wreath, when they reached the foot of the memorial. Other wreaths were trampled in the action.

Posses And Police Searching For Boy At Shannonville

Norman Corby, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Corby, missing from his home near Shannonville since yesterday, when he started for school is believed to have fallen in the Salmon River. Police and posses are searching.

CLAIM MAY BE GENUINE

Kingsville, Ont., March 21 (CP)—Georeg "Babe" Butler, employed at the Kingsville Waterworks, has what he claims to be a genuine Stradivarius violin. On the inside of the instrument there appears on paper pasted to the wood the inscription "Antonius Stradivarius Cremonsis Faciebat Anno 1713." And in the lower right hand corner inside a half inch circle is a small footnote mark together with the letters A. S.

SESSION MAY BE EXTENDED

Montreal, March 21. —(CP)—Possibility the meeting of Canadian Mayors which opens a two-day session Monday to discuss unemployment relief and other problems may be extended several days was expressed by organizers of the meeting today. It was learned at least 100 citizens, towns and municipalities will be represented at the Conference and doubt was expressed business of the meeting could be concluded within two days.

MR. S. J. FISHER

wishes to announce that he is resuming his

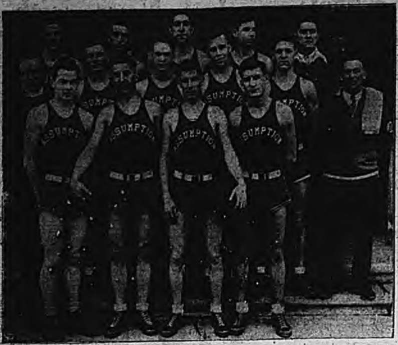
Auctioneering Business

after an absence of 3 years.
All sales will be given prompt and careful attention.

SALES CONDUCTED ANY TIME OR ANY PLACE.
For Particulars Phone 1671F

S.J.FISHER
171 Bridge Street East,
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

Halifax Wolverines, Maritimes' Strong Allan Cup Contenders



Here is the senior hockey club Maritime fans are depending upon to win the Allan Cup this year — Halifax Wolverines. Handicapped by their league being outlawed, they were restored to grace because of their efforts to abide by the wishes of the C.A.H.A. Wolverines then went on to win a three-club league and annex the playoff honors in the Maritimes. They will enter the Allan Cup playoffs with 11 players, 10 of whom are shown above. Bill (Red) Stuart of Toronto St. Pats and Boston Bruins fame, is their coach, while Ald. Jack Conn of Halifax manages the team. The above group. LEFT to RIGHT, BACK ROW — "Daddy" Dubar, goal Reg Shields, right wing "Chummie" Lawlor, utility forward; Ron Hudson, right wing; Art Whittaker, defence (since returned to Toronto, ineligible); Frankie Graham, right defence; Jack Andrews, trainer. FRONT ROW — Mickey McGlashen, centre; Frankie Lavigne, left defence; Ernie Mosher, centre (captain); Vince Ferguson, left wing and sub defence; Owen Lennon left wing (leading scorer this year). Everett Porteous, right-winger, is not shown in this picture.

Who May be Who in 1935

By BILL BRAUCHER

© CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, INC.

Philadelphia Lots Send Shortstop To Browns

Connie Mack overlooked Alan Strange six years ago when the young man was playing baseball on the Philadelphia sandlots. Now Strange pops up as shortstop of the St. Louis Browns, and a bangup infielder at that.

Bill Whiteman, former player, manager and scout, saw Strange back in 1929 and recommended him to Albany then in the Eastern league. The young Philadelphian then was only 19 years old, his birth date being Nov. 7, 1909.

Improves as Hitter

"Inky," so nicknamed because of his winter avocation as a printer, found his way finally to Hollywood, Cal. Back in 1933 Rogers Hornsby spotted him, and to land him sent Shortstop Jim Levey, Pitcher Wallace Hebert and Outfielder Smead Jolley to Hollywood. In the Pacific Coast league that year Strange had hit for .323 and sparkled at short.

Coming to the Browns, Inky showed several batting faults which his healthy average at Hollywood did not reveal. Correction of batting weaknesses is one of Hornsby's fond professions. Under the patient guidance of the Rajah, he improved steadily during his freshman year, and it is predicted that his sophomore semester will find him raising his batting mark from .233 to the charmed region of .300.

Shows Infield Ability

It was at short that Strange showed his true value as a ball player. He showed the old college-try spirit, and while he was charged with 21 errors, several more than he would have been given had he adopted a more conservative policy, the young man won many followers by his courage. He figured in 84 double plays in 125 games, comparing very favorably with Joe Cronin's 86 double-killings in 127 games.

If he hits up to expectations of his teammates this year, Strange will become a rival of Rogell, Knickerbocker, Cronin and McNair for top honors.

Alan (Inky) Strange . . . makes good as printer and shortstop

Calls it "Irish Whip"

Dan O'Hahoney, from Ireland demonstrates his "Irish whip" manoeuvre with Abe Goldberg as the subject during a training season in a New York gymnasium. The powerful Irishman has literally played "crack the whip" with several opponents.

MICKEY PROMISES ANOTHER WIN

Mickey Cochrane promised the Tigers would repeat when Frank Navin, president of the Detroit club, arrived at Lakeland, Fla., to look over club. They're seen together.

WAGNER IN CAMP—Honus Wagner, 61, is found fit by Dr. C. A. Jergensen as he begins training with the Pirates at San Bernardino

GOMEZ GOES

Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, star twirler of the New York Yankees, who recently signed a two-year contract calling for $20,000 a season, is shown here at the Yankee camp in St. Petersburg, Fla., where he is rounding into shape for the 1935 American league campaign.

C. D. S. FRIDAY BARGAINS!

Men! A Big Sale of Smart New Ties
Usual Value to 1.00 each

Walk, Ride, Thumb your way, but by all means get down for this big sale of TIES at 39c EACH! They're made by a famous neckwear house in Toronto, and noted for fine quality, correct cut and the most up to date patterns. Freshen up your stock on Friday, ties in the group that will go with many different outfits—and in those neat checks, stripes and dot effects which men invariably choose. Light and dark shades, ties for both Spring and Summer wear, all smartly wool lined for that good shape retaining quality. They'll knot well, too, and are made from rayons and silks. Usual value $1.00 each. Save by Shopping Friday, early!

39c

Men's Store

Broken Lines of Foundation Garments Half Price!

- Girdles
- Solitaires
- Combinations
- Corsets

Side fastening and step-in girdles, front lacing corsets, and one-piece garments, all clearing at just half the regular pricing. Here is a splendid opportunity to select a fine quality foundation garment at a substantial saving in price. Famous makes in the group—but on account of the broken size range we are clearing them to make room for new Spring stock. Regularly these would sell anywhere from 1.95 to 16.50 each. Shop early for them in the Corset Department, Second Floor.

Reg. $1.95 to $6.50

97c to 8.25

[illegible]

Wardrobe Closets

The previous shipment cleared in practically no time. Buy one of these heavy corrugated cardboard closets for putting away your winter coat, furs, etc. Strongly made and equipped with hanger bar at top and domed on side. Treated for moth protection. Size about 14" x 20" x 60" high. Special, each

79c

New! In Colorful Spring-Like Designs
300 Yards Novelty
Cotton Flock Voiles

Dainty with almost the breath of Spring in every piece. The weave is fine, and firm, the patterns delightful and refreshing. In dark grounds of navy, brown or black, with very attractive patterns in beaded effect. First quality and marvellous value Friday, yard ....

35c

—Main floor, rear

Cotton House Frocks

Cotton prints, linene (cotton) — Cotton Voile — short and sleeveless styles in both plain and printed effects. Broken sizes the reason for this bargain: Reg. $1.00, each

69c

— Second floor

Special Sale of Floor Paints

Your opportunity to give inside floors, hallways, and verandah floors a bright, clean finish at a big saving in price. Reliable quality, smooth spreading floor paints that will dry quickly and leave a hard, brilliant finish that resists wear and preserves the wood. In half gallon tins only. Friday, half gallon

Colors—Slate Brown and Yellow.

98c

30" - 36" Cretonnes

Assorted patterns and colorings in this group—30 and 36 inches wide. In a fine firm weave, which answers excellently for those many house renovating purposes at this time of year. Buy it for cushions, draperies, slip covers, aprons, etc. Reg. 20c. Clearing, Friday, yard ....

15c

—Main floor, rear

Durene (Cotton) Hosiery

A fine quality of cotton makes these hose and they are made with a fashioned leg for better fit. Top is in a knit which allows it to stretch well. In gunmetal, taupesan, and Ball (sand.) Sizes 8½ to 10. Pair ....

39c

—Main floor, left

CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED

SPORT FLASHES

by HARRY "RED" FOSTER

Built on the lines of a bungalow, short, stocky and bulky, Eddie Shore is again chosen on the N. H. L.'s all-star team. This is third time in the last four years.

In 1933 Boston's bulky battering ram bowled his way through opposing sextettes, to be the leading goal getter for defence men, compiling 35 points.

Frank Patrick, the Bruin's mentor, tells this one on himself.

Back in the nineteen twenties Eddie Shore could not catch a berth on the Vancouver Lions and Patrick could not see Shore as an "up and coming" defence man. In consequence Patrick gave him the go-by. But today Patrick wouldn't trade him for that whole line-up.

Never has there come out of the west quite so colorful a player as the one pictured above, who right from the start of his turbulent career has always made news.

Shore's meteoric rise to stardom while swift, has not been on any plush magic carpet. The bulging biceps that this battling Bruin uses to bowl over opposition were developed on our western prairies, following a plow, railroading and generally leading the hard rugged existence of a worthy son of sturdy Canadian forefathers.

Here's a thumbnail sketch of his career:

Purchased by Boston Bruins from Edmonton Eskimos in 1926, weight 188 pounds, height, 5' 11", 30 years of age, born in Saskatchewan. Club affiliations: Melville Millionaires, 19, 24 and 25; Edmonton, 19, 25, 26.

Married, his home, Edmonton, where, in off season, he retires from the limelight to lead the life of an average Canadian rancher, which is probably the reason why he reports to training camp in superb condition at the start of each year.

Tempestuous though he may be on the ice, Shore is nevertheless a quiet-spoken, normal individual in private life.

◆

JURY ACTS TWICE

Galt, Ont., March 21. (CP)—A coroner's inquiry at Rockton last night into the three deaths in two recent highway accidents near here, the same jury officiating twice, returned an open verdict in the deaths of Barbara Hunter and Norma Rodden, Toronto, on the night of March 2 and in the case of 11-year-old Eleanor Hargraves, Toronto, the verdict exonerated all parties, the fatality being attributed to icy road conditions.

In the latter case the jury commended Frank Vanstone, Toronto, driver of the truck in the collision, who drove his truck into the ditch in an effort to avoid the accident.

◆

EARTH SHOCK FELT

Calcutta, India, March 21.—(AP)—A severe earth shock was felt here today occasioning some anxiety lest there be a repetition of the disaster in Bihar Province in January, 1934, in which 8,000 lives were lost.

No damage was caused in Calcutta, nor had any reports been received from the interior. Meteorologists said the shock probably was intense at its epicentre, believed to have been somewhere in India.

FOR HARVARD— Emile Dubiel, Harvard pole vaulting star, is caught by the camera at the top of a jump at Boston

OUTDOORS:—Massachusetts Institute of Technology crew braves the breezes by working out on the Charles River at Cambridge

THE ADS ARE Part of THE NEWS

RICH RED BLOOD is what You need

Take C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets
For Health--Strength--Vigor

HAVE YOU STOMACH TROUBLE? Have you Stomach Pain, Belching, Headache, Heartburn, Bloating, Gas, Spitting of Mucus, Gnawing, Empty Feeling, Lump in Stomach, Food Disagree, Pain Before or After Eating, Coated Tongue, Sore Mouth, Indigestion? When caused by a run-down condition you need C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets, and at once. They will build up the system and thus relieve you quickly and permanently; improve appetite, digestion and general health.

THE BLOOD Pimples, Blackheads, Sores, Blotches, Pale, Eczema, Malaria, Chilly, Feverish, Run Down, Debilitated, Weak, Emaciated? You surely need C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets. They, by reason of their tonic effects, help to restore strength and fibre to the blood, so it will furnish nourishment to the whole body. C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets contain Yeast, Iron and Extract of Cod Liver—three great tonics in one.

THE NERVES Nervous Debility, Weakness, Jerking, Jumping, Excitable, Tired, Worn Out, Feel Like Falling When Eyes Closed and Feet Together, Restless at Night, Poor Memory, Melancholy, Despondent, Wake Up Unrefreshed, Weak Trembles, Dizzy, Fainting Spells, Hands or Feet Numb, Lack Energy, Strength, Ambition? You need C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets. They, by reason of their tonic effects, help to restore nerve tissue to normal condition, steady the nerves, banish the blues, make you feel full of life, vigor, ambition, and many years younger.

THINNESS Under Weight, Hollow Cheeks, Flat Chest, Scrawny Neck, Dyspepsia, Thin Blood. C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets help to build you up in every way. Will thereby improve your appearance.

REGAIN LOST PEP AND VITALITY C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets act directly through the stomach, enriching the blood, building up the nervous system, generate vitality, create nerve force, restore full strength, pep and vigor—so you can enjoy life's pleasures to the fullest.

C.C.&B. TONIC TABLETS are for sale at all Drug Stores. Go to your druggist today and order a supply. It means the beginning of a new life for you—opening the door to a brighter world and happier existence. The tablets are inexpensive. The prices are 50c and $1. Three $1.00 Boxes for $2.50.

Get C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets from
DOLAN THE DRUGGIST

THE WEATHER

Moderate winds fine. Saturday—Fresh winds; partly cloudy and mild; showers in some districts.

The Ontario Intelligencer

TEMPERATURES

	Max.	Min.
Today	37	32
Year ago	36	14

Weather—Foggy.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, MARCH 22, 1935

SURPLUS ON ORDINARY ACCOUNT IS SHOWN

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

New York, March 22 (AP)—Eerie voices of undetermined origin, wafting through the inky blackness of a darkened cabin plane as it soared 4,000 feet above New York, gave spiritualists a topic of Paramount interest today.

The voices identified themselves as belonging to the spirits of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, famed creator of Sherlock Holmes and a firm disciple of spiritualism; Roald Amundsen, explorer; Horace Greeley, crusading newspaper editor of a past era, and Lincoln Beachey and Floyd Bennett, aviators.

The airplane seance took place last night through efforts of a group of New York spiritualists to overcome "interference."

Batum, Georgia, U.S.S.R., Mar. 22 (CP)—A woman who lived for 36 hours inside an overturned barge after three of its crew of four drowned was rescued when the barge was towed into port. Port workers heard her pounding on the walls of the tiny compartment in which she was imprisoned and cut into the hull to free her.

Sudbury, Ont., March 22 (CP)—Arthur N. Elliott, head of the Elliott Produce Company, was committed for trial today on a charge of theft by conversion. He is alleged to have retained for his own use $8,474.72, received from merchants on terms requiring him to turn it over to the packing company of Stratford.

Brantford, Ont., March 22 —(CP)—Provincial officer Carl Farre today was investigating the shooting of Jack Fearman, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Fearman, South Dumfries, who had a bone in his hand shattered by a rifle bullet Tuesday. The lad was bending down looking into a hole under a tree with his hand pressed against the tree. The bullet passed through his hand, and lodged in the tree.

Toronto, March 22 (CP)—Principal for the last four years at Eglington public school, previously principal at Kitchener public school for 16 years and for more than 30 years a member of the teaching staff of Toronto public schools, William N. Colvin 59, died today. He became principal of Kitchener school in 1915 and served until 1931, when he went to Elington.

He took an interest in soccer football and coached several of his pupils' teams. His wife, one son, John, and three sisters in Toronto survive.

Bowmanville, Ont., March 22 —(CP)—Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, and Denton Massey, recently appointed Federal Conservative organizer will be guest speakers here tonight when the Bowmanville Liberal-Conservative Association holds its annual at home.

Welland, Ont., March 22 (CP)—Dominic Polillo today was sentenced to two months imprisonment for keeping liquor for sale. A quantity of beer found on Polillo's premises was ordered confiscated and the residence was placed out of bounds for a year by order of Magistrate J. C. Massie.

DOMINION'S DEBT UP $117,700,000

Guarantees Under Relief Acts Drop 27 Millions

Ottawa, March 22 (CP)— The debt of the Dominion increased $117,700,000 during the present fiscal year, Minister of Finance E. N. Rhodes said in his budget speech today.

The debt included a Canadian National Railways deficit of $48,400,000. The corresponding figure for the previous year was $133,500,000, indicating an over-all improvement of $15,800,000.

The net debt increased from March 31, 1930, to March 31, 1935, by $669,900,000.

TRIAL TRAVERSED

Perth, Ont., March 22—(CP)—Trial of Rupert Mackler of Perth on charges of manslaughter and illegal operation, was traversed to the Fall Assizes of the Lanark Count Assizes today.

Decision to hold the trial in the fall followed a delay in court opening, scheduled for 10.15 o'clock this morning.

Year of Mounting Revenues, Progress Shown by Rhodes Budget; C.N.R. Deficit Greatly Reduced

Employment Gain of 15.1 Per Cent is Reported

1,229,935 ON RELIEF

Trade Expansion Seen by Minister of Finance in Budget Address

Ottawa, March 22.—(CP)—A surplus of ordinary revenues over ordinary expenditures of $2,700,000 was shown in the Budget delivered in the House of Commons today by Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes. But extraordinary and capital expenditures turned the favorable balance into a net deficit of $69,300,000. It was the first surplus on ordinary account since 1929-30.

Delivering his fourth Budget address Mr. Rhodes was in a position to review a year of increasing revenues, expansion in trade, improved commodity price levels, and rising employment figures. The small surplus on ordinary account was compared with a deficit last year of $22,000,000 and $43,000,000 the year before.

The deficit on all operations of $69,300,000 was compared with $76,300,000 last year. Adding the Canadian National Railway deficit of $11,400,000 the total increase in debt for the year was $117,700,000 compared with $133,500,000 last year.

Tax Receipts Up

For the first time since 1930 taxation receipts yielded the estimated return, the estimate given in the Budget last year having been $306,000,000 an increase of $34,200,000 over the previous year.

Total ordinary revenues were estimated at $350,300,000 and total ordinary expenditures $356,300,000 which was $2,200,000 less than the amounts authorized by votes and statutes.

Total trade for the eleven months ended with February 28, 1935, was valued at $1,082,347,000, an increase of $168,777,000 over the previous year. For the fourth consecutive year there was a surplus of exports over imports, the balance during the eleven months being $134,000,000.

Year Marked By Progress

It was his good fortune, Mr. Rhodes said, to review the course of business and finance during a year "which has been marked by continued and substantial progress, and a nearer approach to sound and satisfactory business and financial conditions."

Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports showed the physical volume of business in Canada to have risen in February to this year 48.5 per cent above the low point of the depression.

Forestry Industries were more active than any year since 1930. Output of electrical power was the highest ever recorded in Canada.

Carloadings showed an appreciable increase over the previous year and railway earnings were up. Canadian National gross operating revenues increased 11 per cent and Canadian Pacific 10.2 per cent., as compared with 1933.

Field Crop Values

Estimated total value of all field crops was $544,975,000 in 1934, an increase of $91,377,000 over 1933. A bright feature of the Livestock Industry was the recent revival of exports of live cattle to the United States. Shipments during the three months ended with March 15 were approximately double the total for the entire year 1934.

Employment in 1934 had gained 15.1 per cent over the previous year according to Bureau of Statistics figures which estimated that total increase in employment during the year was 65,000 persons, and the increase since April 1, 1933, the low point, 340,000.

Individuals on relief in February numbered 1,229,935, a decrease of 117,285 from February of last year.

MERCHANT IS CHARGED

North Bay, Ont., March 22—(CP)—Remanded by Magistrate J. H. McCurry on request of J. A. S. Plouffe, K. C., Sudbury, Aime Fortier, field merchant, will appear in court April 5, charged with theft of more than $5,000 belonging to the Province of Ontario

WERE LOST IN CONGO JUNGLES

Forced down in an aeroplane somewhere in the Congo's swampy cannibal-infested jungles, Gov.-Gen. Edouard Renard of French Equatorial Africa, and his wife, the former Mrs. Michael Winburn above were feared to have perished together with five French companions. The party started out on a long air tour of inspection. The party was later found safe.

Highlights of Rhodes' Budget

OTTAWA, March 22.—(CP)—Following are highlights of the Budget financial and economic review for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1935, delivered in the House of Commons today by Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes:

Surplus of ordinary revenue over ordinary expenditures of $2,700,000 as compared with deficit $22,000,000 last year.

Excess of all expenditures over all revenues of $69,300,000 (not including railway deficit) as compared with last year's $76,300,000.

Total revenue from all sources $362,374,000, an increase of $38,000,000. Total expenditures $480,074,000 an increase of $22,000,000.

Canadian National Railway deficit $48,400,000, a decrease of $10,500,000 due to increased gross operating revenues.

Taxation revenues $306,050,000 just $50,0000 more than estimated and an increase of $34,200,000.

Relief expenditures $60,448,000, an increase of almost $26,000,000 over previous year's actual disbursements. Loans to four Western Provinces under Relief Act $23,000,000 bringing total to $74,600,000.

Total unmatured funded debt $3,061,940,421 with annual interest charge of $127,074,231. Total liabilities $3,204,841,000 and assets $2,847,678,000.

Total trade for eleven months ended February 28, 1935, valued at $1,082,347,000, an increase of $168,777,000. Surplus of exports over imports $134,000,000.

Increase in employment 1934 as compared with 1933, estimated 15.1 per cent, with 259,918 families on relief in February last, a decrease of 23,756 families as compared with February 1934.

General increase in commodity prices, security values, production and construction activities, ahd lowering of interest rates.

Belgian Soldier of Fortune Arrives Here on His Travels

Is Son of Soldier Who Lost Life in War of 1870-71

CRIPPLED IN WAR

Undaunted by the fact that he has only one arm and one leg, both of which were torn from his body by a mine explosion in the Great War in which he served as gunner in the Belgian army, Jean de Vaudreuil, claimed descendant of the old French nobility, soldier of fortune extraordinary, linguist, and former resident of Brussels, Belgium, is circling the world at the age of 67.

Vaudreuil, who so far has visited nine countries on foot, travelling a distance of about 40,000 miles with knapsack on his back and stout cane in hand to assist his cork leg, entered Belleville today and will spent the day resting up before continuing his journey to the west and eventually Mexico, via the United States on his trip. The aged but erect and vigorous "marcheur" expects to finish his tour by the end of 1938.

Equipped with a smattering of nearly all languages, and with a quick and ready wit as well as a twinkling sense of humor, the veteran marcheur or globe trotter said today to the Ontario Intelligencer that so far he has experienced little trouble making his way through the remote countries he has so far visited. These include Russia, Germany, Turkey, Greece and Italy as well as the principal central European countries.

"I like it, yes, this travelling about," he said in his clipped but easily understandable English. "I see lots of the world, yes. I expect to see a lot more before I finally finish walking."

The hardy veteran who served not only with the Belgique guns in the World War, but with the 7th Suffolk Regiment in the Boer War, carries sewn to his clothing the many badges and regimental numbers of the various army units in which he had enlisted. On his travels he carries a heavy knapsack, strapped to his back, and bulging with various pictures, scenes and descriptive literature of the countries he has visited. Thousands of signatures are also included. A heavy overcoat protects him from the inclement weather, and a tiny, brown, knitted skull cap perches on an unruly shock of iron-grey hair. A heavy goatee of typical Belgian style adorns his chin, but the remainder

(Continued on Page 12, Col 4)

ROBOT AIRPLANE FLIES 700 MILES TO SHIP AT SEA

Test Flight Through 'Blind Area' Is Undertaken

LIGHT RAIN FALLING

Hours After Flight Started Machine Still in Air Over Pacific

OAKLAND, Calif., March 22. —(AP)—A message relayed through the Fresno Department of Commerce Radio station showed the Department of Commerce experimental "Robot" plane was still safe and in the air at 9.50 a.m.

OAKLAND, Calif, March 22—(AP)—Heading into a lowering sky and promise of rain, the United States government's radio compass plane took off from Oakland airport today on a test flight that will take it 700 nautical miles out to sea.

ORANGE G. LODGE NAMES OFFICERS

Rev. Dr. Semple Preaches Annual Sermon to Societies

A plea against "divisions among our people" was made here by William J. Stewart, C.B.E., ex-Mayor of Toronto, in addressing a public meeting in connection with the sessions of the Orange Grand Lodge of Ontario East at Trenton.

"It is my earnest belief," said Mr. Stewart, "that it is not necessary to make divisions among our people. This is a day for unity, in an effort to pull our country back to better times."

Every Orangeman, the speaker said, would concede the right of separate school supporters to enjoy all their legal privileges, but beyond that limit they would not go with the consent of the Orange Order.

"We of the Orange Order," he proceeded, "are not bigots. To fear God, honor the King, and obey the law, are the things we stand for. We have too many people fearing only the law because of the consequences of not so doing.

"I have many good friends in the Roman Catholic faith. I concede to all their right to religious belief, but I believe we must be at one to promote unity in our country. What I say is in the best of good-will. Let us leave the British North America Act alone, but if we are to do anything, let us go back and have but one school—a national one."

(Continued on Page 12 Col. 3)

C. N. R. DEFICIT DOWN$10,500,000

Increased Earnings And Decrease on Exchange Charges Cause

Ottawa, March 22 (CP)—The deficit of the Canadian National Railways in 1934 was $10,500,000 less than in 1933, it was shown in Budget Speech delivered today by Hon. E. N. Rhodes. The Dominion Treasury had to put up $48,400,000 for 1934, $58,900,000 for 1933.

Increased earnings on the one hand," Mr. Rhodes said, "and decrease in charges for exchange involved in payment of interest abroad were the main factors in this improvement.

"In addition to provision for the deficit the Dominion furnished by way of loan $579,000 for capital expenditures and $10,170,000 for retirement of miscellaneous maturing debt, making a total paid on all accounts in respect of the operations in the year 1934 of $59,100,000. The budget of the railways, as presented to Parliament, provided for a total amount of $65,200,000. It will be seen, therefore, that the net requirements for the year were $6,000,000 less than estimated, accounted for mainly by savings in capital expenditures."

"The debt of the Canadian National Railway System, outstanding in the hands of the public is now $1,238,000,000, having been reduced by $15,000,000 in the past year. Of the amount outstanding, $956,000,000 are obligations guaranteed by the Dominion.

"A further improvement in railway earnings is anticipated in the year 1935."

SPECTRE OF WAR SEEN AS PASSING BY PIERRE LAVAL

German Navy, But Not Colonial Question to be Discussed

HOPE IN CONVERSATIONS

French Chamber Approves Franco-Italian Accords

Paris, March 22 (CP-Havas)—The spectre of war in Europe is receding, Foreign Minister Pierre Laval, told the Chamber of Deputies today, saying he was optimistic international measures now in sight would end the threat to continental peace foreseen in German repudiation of the vital clauses of the Versailles treaty. The Chamber approved the Franco-Italian accords of Jan. 7 by 555 to 9

Council to Discuss Project

Geneva, March 22 (CP-Havas)—The council of the League of Nations will meet to act on France's protest against German rearmament in the first week in April it was formerly announced today.

'Ironing Out'

(By Louis E. Sharkey, Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press).

Geneva, March 22—Predictions were heard today in circles close to the League of Nations that France's protest against German rearmament might never come to "trial" before the League Council.

New undercurrents of speculation today were based upon the possibility the whole situation might be ironed out through the forthcoming conversations of Sir John Simon British Foreign Secretary, with Reichsfuehrer Hitler in Berlin.

Discussion of German Navy

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer).

London, March 22 (CP Cable)—A German navy will not be barred in the Berlin talks next week between Adolf Hitler and Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon and Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal.

But, it was learned today, there will be no question of the return of the old German colonies to Germany. They are outside the scope of the agreed basis of discussion.

Naval matters will be discussed because they naturally follow developments in the air and military policies of the Reich. Germany's navy was drastically cut down by the Versailles treaty just as her army and air force were restricted.

Fair Californian Lady Talks Through Cell Bars With Condemned Man

SHIPMAN SHIELD WON BY TRENTON

First Time Lodge Has Competed For Fine Trophy

Trenton, March 22 (Special) —Grand Lodge honors will rest in the Trenton L.O.L. 206 as the local degree team captured the Shipman shield in competition against the Rayborough team. Rayborough won the trophy last year at the Grand Lodge convention in Pembroke. The local team are to be congratulated as they never competed before. H. C. Shipman of Peterboro, donor of the shield and Past Grand Master of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East, made the presentation.

The Trenton degree team was composed of W. E. Donaldson, W.M. George E. White, D.M.; Lloyd Tyler, P.M.; Orval Stacey, Chaplain; Harry Onyon, 1st Lect.; William Patterson 2nd Lect.; Gordon Strong, Marshall; Wilfred Gordineer, Rec.-Sec.; Don Smith, Fin.-Sec.; William Potts, Treasurer; William Taylor and Arthur Jackson, Conductors; Ray Oldrey, Tyler; George Woods, Musician; Cecil Marchand, Candidate.

The losing team was Ranald Smith, W.M.; Lewis Soles, D. M.; Elwood Smith, Chaplain; Delbert Hickson, D. of C.; Walter Reid, 1st Lect.; Edgar Reid, 2nd Lect.; Robert Calvert, Fin.-Sec.; Weston Reid, Rec.-Sec.; George Smith, Treas.; Clarence Endicott, 1st Comm.; James Robinson, P.M.; Lloyd McKay, Tylr; Victor Sloan Musician; Ross Parks, Candidate.

Car Recovered

The local police recovered a stolen Olds special sedan that was stolen in Toronto early this week. Three lads, Frank Locke, Harry Mallard and William Carson, all of Toronto, were locked up and later an officer from that city arrived in town and escorted the prisoners to Toronto to stand trial. They were apprehended after a slight accident on Front St. They claimed the car belonged to their father but communication with the Toronto authorities disproved their claim as the car was stolen in Toronto and belonged to J. K. Joseph, 44 Lauder Ave.

Mrs. 'Jac' Schoor Faces Newspapermen, But Talks Little of Self

CASE NOT DISCUSSED

Petite Friend of Vermilyea Family Bravely Wards off Queries

Frail, blonde and petite Mrs. "Jac" Schoor, comely widow, ended her 3400-mile trip from Ontario, California home town of Harold W. Vermilyea, condemned to death for the slaying of his aged mother in this city on October last, in this city at noon yesterday and within a short while of her arrival here conversed with Vermilyea.

Following her arrival in Belleville by bus after she had switched from the train at Toronto in a successful attempt to elude dozens of reporters and cameramen of that city, Mrs. Schoor, close personal friend of the condemned man's family, went directly to the Hastings County jail, where, after a conference with jail officials, she held a brief conversation between the bars of his cell corridor, with Vermilyea under the watchful eyes of guards. She was forced to ask direction to the county buildings from a local citizen after her arrival here.

Dark Glasses Worn

Dressed in quiet black, relieved only by a white collar and cuffs on her gown, and wearing large, dark-colored goggles in an attempt to disguise herself from the curious stares, Mrs. Schoor, speaking in a cultured and educated voice, refused to comment upon the tragic circumstances that led to the arrest and conviction of her former personal friend, Harold Vermilyea.

"I have nothing to say, absolutely nothing," she reiterated over and over again to a reporter of the Daily Ontario Intelligencer who sought her out.

In the grim corridors of the Hastings County jail, Mrs. Schoor more the picture of a decorous primly and neatly dressed school teacher, appeared out of place in her surroundings. Seated in a chair in the entrance to the cell corridors, a tiny black beret slanted over trim blonde curls she replied

(Continued on page twelve, Col. five)

New Recipes, New Styles Will Feature at the Cooking School Next Week

The Newest in Household Appliances Will be Shown Daily

MANY CHOICE GIFTS

Talking with women here and there throughout the city, one comes to the conclusion that a style show of foods is being assembled.

And a style show it is in the truest sense of the word. According to Miss Claire Andree who will conduct the Ontario Intelligencer Cooking and Home Making School in the Capitol Theatre next week, foods have a timeliness and attractiveness quite as great as do clothes.

"Fashions change in cooking just as much as in dress," says Miss Andree. "No one ever used to know or care about the vitamin content or the caloric value of food. No one used to know or bother about well balanced meals." It is fetish that they eat green vegetables, and with people so generally have become apostles of food dictates, it is natural that they are interested in seeing this well known teacher work.

"It isn't at all remarkable that women are as eager to go to a kitchen revue as a fashion revue," Miss Andree said. "They can't all buy clothes at frequent intervals, but the purchase of food is a daly event. Now that they are so foodwise and refuse to eat just anything prepared any sulpstick way, they want to know all the whys and wherefores. And that is the explanation of the kitchen revue."

The De Both School of Cooking and Home Making, of which Miss Andree is a member studies meth-

The ball starts rolling Tuesday ods to simplify labor and features short cuts to house and laundry work as well as cooking. It may sound prosaic, but the subjects grow in glamour when this vivacious teacher takes them in hand. She takes you into the laundry figuratively speaking, and demonstrates the way to reduce wash-day fatigue to a minimum. She tells how to remove stains, and does it, and gives out so many hints of value to the home-minded person, you'll want to write down every word she says.

Just about as soon as Miss Andree steps out on the stage, for no sooner is her greeting over than she is busy with some concoction or other. Simply to watch her hands and see how deftly she creates a tempting dish, almost makes you ache with hunger. And the cheering thought is that you may be the very one to get that dish. She gives them all away, and in addition to that you have a good chance of winning baskets of groceries, kitchen utensils and a variety of other choice gifts. You can't afford to miss it, and that's why it would be clever to arrange your time now to attend the kitchen style show. Don't forget the hour—doors open at 12.30, Tuesday and the school begins at 1.30.

Reminiscent of Western Coach Days is Holdup

Kitchener, Ont., March 22 (CP)—A daring highway holdup in which two men are said to have employed methods reminiscent of western stage coach days is under investigation today.

A. W. Fisher, salesman for a Kitchener foundry told police as he was driving from Hamilton to Galt late last night a car suddenly backed across the highway and stopped in his path.

Two men got out, he said, and "frisked" him, taking $43 in cash. Then, without a threat or without displaying a gun, they got back in their car and sped off toward Hamilton.

The hold-up occurred just two miles east of Galt.

MOTION OF CENSURE

NNew Delhi, March 22—(CP-Havas)—The Indian Assembly today voted a motion of censure against the government in connection with the killing of 37 and the wounding of 10 Moslems by police in disorders in Karachi Wednesday. The vote was 67 to 52.

Coming Events

RUMMAGE SALE Y.M.C.A. SATURDAY, March 23, seven o'clock, auspices Christ Church. Leave rummage at Y or phone 767-W. M21-2t

OPEN MEETING CO-OPERATIVE Workers of Belleville, for the purpose of accepting grievances and re-organizing. Friday evening, March 22, at 7.30 p.m., Y.M.C.A. building. M20-3t

THURLOW CONSERVATIVE CLUB euchre and dance in the Hall, Cannifton, March 28. Cards 8 o'clock. Good orchestra. Members kindly bring lunch. Admission 25c. M22 25 27

DANCING TO-NIGHT AT QUINTE INN —Jack Denmark and his Aces. Admission 35c. M22-1t

THE QUINTE WELFARE CLUB WILL meet Monday, March 25, in True Blue Hall. Music and speakers. M22-1t

FRIDAY, MARCH 22, MEETING OF Young Conservative Women of Belleville in the club rooms at 8 o'clock. M22-1t

City and District News

R. C. M. P. Inspector On Inspection Tour

Inspector Savoie, of headquarters of R. C. M. P. at Ottawa, accompanied Sergeant T. S. Moore of Brockville today on a tour of inspection of this district. It is Inspector Savoie's first visit to Belleville, the local detachment being in the Ottawa sub-division of the R. C. M. P. under the supervision of Sergeant Moore. Lance-Corporal J. C. McPhee is in charge of the local detachment stationed at Belleville. A general inspection of all activities of the "Mounties" will be made during the next two days.

ACTIVITIES IN SUGAR BUSH BEGUN

Activities in the maple bush have begun according to Mr. R. B. Hamilton of Foxboro. The sap was running very freely on Wednesday but slowed up considerably yesterday due perhaps to a slight drop in temperature and a brisk wind.

HIGHWAY WORKER HAS EYE INJURED

While engaged as a driller on highway construction work near Kaladar this week, John Yorski, Plevna, suffered a painful accident when a bit of the steel drill chipped off and flew, striking him in the eye. After first aid had been given him by Dr. Mather, he was ordered to Belleville, where Dr. Chant, specialist in eye trouble took him in charge. The sight of the one eye may be impaired.

POLICE COURT

Infractions of the motor vehicle acts composed the major portion of today's local police court, when seven such cases were heard, two others being enlarged. Charges of operating motor vehicles with defective brakes, speeding on the highway, driving a motor car without first procuring an individual operator's license to do so, reckless driving and operating trucks and transports illegally composed some of the major charges. Fines ranging from two to ten dollars were imposed, although in a great many cases no costs were assessed. One motorist failed to answer to his name when called. "Ten dollars and costs", stated Magistrate E. J. Butler K. C. as he issued a bench warrant for the man's arrest.

Harold McClellan, 18, giving his address as Perth Ont, pleaded guilty to a charge of the theft of $30.00 from his employer, Mr. A. Eggleton of Holloway. McClellan was arrested by the Provincial police after a diligent search throughout Eastern Ontario during the past two weeks. McClellan was remanded for sentence for one week. The accused youth was previously a ward of the local Children's Aid Society, Inspector T. D. Ruston being in the court to take charge of the youth had it been necessary.

CAPITOL 'til SAT.

It takes a thief.. to catch a thief.

Adolph Zukor presents

"FATHER BROWN, Detective"

A Paramount Picture with

WALTER CONNOLLY

PAUL LUKAS

GERTRUDE MICHAEL

2ND. FEATURE

"SING SING NIGHTS"

With CONWAY TEARLE

BOOTS MALLORY

A Baffling Mystery Drama

CAPITOL NEWS

Complete Shows Start 2.30: 7.05: 9.10

SATURDAY ONLY

TAILSPIN TOMMY
Episode 3
"SKY BANDITS"

BABIES

CLAPP'S BABY SOUP

and

VEGETABLE SOUP

Cooked in Glass Containers with Superheated Steam

CONTAIN ALL ACTIVE INGREDIENTS

15c

2 for.... 25c

McKeown's Drug Store

Wright's Radio Service

313½ Front St. Phone 65

Belleville, Ontario.

M. G. Wright, Manager. Geo. Sweetman Radiotrician

M 13-tf

SAP PANS

WELDED STEEL SAP PANS

Ideal for Syrup Making

Write for Prices

Belleville Foundries Ltd

Belleville, Ont.

MARTIN-SENOUR

100 Per Cent. Pure

PAINT

The paint for wear and weather. The guarantee of purity is on every can.

1.25 quart.

PINTS 70c.... ½ GALS. 2.35

White and high colors slightly higher in price.

SENOUR'S FLOOR ENAMEL

It wears and wears and wears

1.25 quart.

SMITH HARDWARE

PLUMBERS & TINSMITHS

CHICKS

Barred Rocks

FOR IMMEDIATE SHIPMENT

Day old 12c; 3 weeks 18c; 4 weeks 20c; 5 weeks 22c. Special low price on cockerels and pullets separately. Every bird sired by Government Approved Male. All breeders blood-tested.

THE MILLS' HATCHERY

Box B, Napanee, Ontario.

m22-3t

500 GUESTS ENJOY SUPPER AT ST. ANDREWS

Delightful Musicale Given While Supper Is In Progress.

Five hundred guests enjoyed the delicious turkey supper, the annual St. Patrick's event sponsored by the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church and held last evening in the spacious church parlors. The ladies of this church have a city-wide reputation for the excellence of the suppers they serve and events of this nature are keenly anticipated. Supper was served at small tables seating ten. Gay flags of Erin, green tapers, Irish cobblers and other seasonable favors were used in the decoration of the tables. The menu for the supper included every imaginable delicacy, perfectly cooked and served.

As the guests assembled and waited their turn for supper a musicale was given by Prof. Wheatley assisted by Miss K. Simpson, Mr. Tom McRae and Mr. George Wardell.

1. Egyptian Suite (Stewart), Prof. Wheatley.
2. Londonderry Air (cornet solo), Mr. Wardell.
3. Carrilon of Bruges (organ).
4. "Rose of Tralee", Mr. T. McRae.
5. Hymns with Descants (cornet and organ).
6. Two Irish songs, Miss K. Simpson.
7. Prelude in C (Vorodinski), organ.
8. The Lost Chord, cornet solo.
9. Canadian Fantasia (Wheatley), organ.

ROLEX Prince

THE WORLD'S FINEST WRIST WATCH

ROLEX holds 25 World Records for Timekeeping

Use Our Deferred Payment Plan.

SPECIAL — 1 ONLY

Man's Rolex Chronometer Movement

WRIST WATCH

18k Solid White Gold Case— very smart in design—Regular $100.00

SPECIAL $50.00 CASH

Angus McFee JEWELLERS SINCE 1860

DEBOTH HOMEMAKERS SCHOOL

under the auspices of THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER at the CAPITOL THEATRE, TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, HURSDAY and FRIDAY, March 26th. to 29th. at 1.30 p.m.

New Ideas at Each Session —Valuable Gifts Daily — be sure to buy your tickets early and please come early to avoid a last minute rush and confusion. Only sufficient tickets will be sold for each session to assure the comfort of all attending.

Please read the Ontario Intelligencer daily for complete details.

Police News

The largest number of transients to be afforded a night's lodging at the police station passed in front of the sergeant's desk last night, when 36 signed the register and jammed their way into the cell block. Of the 36 to pass into the building only 35 were allowed to proceed on their many ways this morning, one being held on a charge of intoxication.

A transient giving his name as Albert Muir and no address, stepped into the police station late last night in quest of a night's lodging. At the time the man seemed quite normal, but subsequently became noisy and upon investigation it was discovered that he was quite intoxicated. When brought out of the cell block at 10 a. m. today to be taken before the court on a charge of intoxication, the transient was still quite unsteady on his feet and in no proper condition to stand trial. He was taken back to the cell proper to "sober up".

The local police drive against motorists who break numerous motor vehicle laws is still being carried out to the letter in Belleville. Yesterday two truck drivers, who parked on Front St. longer than necessary, found police tickets on their vehicles, while still another was apprehended on the out-skirts of the city still bearing 1934 licence plates. Today's check-up of brakes is being engineered by police.

Yesterday afternoon the local police stepped aboard a west bound railway train and removed a Napanee woman, who was wanted for desertion. A warrant for her arrest was held in Napanee, where she was alleged to have left her children. The woman was taken back to her home last night.

No motor accidents of a serious nature were reported locally yesterday.

WEATHER

Toronto, March 22—(CP)—Synopsis:—A storm centred in Newfoundland has caused some light snow in many parts of Quebec and the Maritimes and a moderate depression is approaching Lake Superior from the West. Pressure is high over Ontario and Manitoba and in the Eastern States and the weather has become rather cold throughout the Western Provinces.

Lake Superior, Kenora and Rainy River— Moderate to fresh winds; partly cloudy; becoming a little colder.

Manitoba—Mostly fair, not much change in temperature.

Saskatchewan and Alberta—Moderate east to southeast winds; partly cloudy with somewhat higher temperature.

Authority on Tourist Traffic Speaker at Annual Meeting of Local Chamber of Commerce

D. Leo Dolan of Ottawa to be Present on March 26th

GROUPS INVITED

Hastings County Has Much to Offer Tourists is Opinion

Arrangements for the annual meeting and dinner of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, which will be held at the Queen's Hotel on the evening of Tuesday, March 26th, are now complete and a most enjoyable and profitable evening is assured to those who attend. The guest speaker of the evening will be Mr. D. Leo Dolan, Ottawa, Director of the Canadian Travel Bureau, which is operated in connection with the Canadian National Railways. Mr. Dolan is a most entertaining speaker and an authority on tourist traffic. The increasing of tourist traffic in this district has been receiving serious consideration from the directors of the Chamber and it is hoped that valuable assistance in attaining their objective will be received from Mr. Dolan. In order that other representative bodies in the county might profit by the assistance received from Mr. Dolan the directors invited representatives of the North Hastings Board of Trade with headquarters at Bancroft, and the Warden and members of the Publicity Committee of the Hastings County Council to be present at the meeting. Letters have been received accepting the invitation from Mr. Jas. J. Bronson, Warden of the County, and from Mr. G. W. Jones, President of the North Hastings Board of Trade, Bancroft. Both letters of acceptance are interesting. Warden Bronson in accepting writes as follows:

"Having received your kind invitation to attend a meeting on March 26th, I take great pleasure in saying I shall be glad to attend if at all possible. I have written our Clerk (Mr. Denyes) asking him to have publicity committee attend.

"I am sure your idea is a good one and realize that the Belleville Chamber of Commerce has been a large factor in bringing many industries to the city and county.

"The tourist trade has become an industry and we sure want our share of the trade, as I feel we have something for the tourist to enjoy."

The letter from Mr. Jones, the President of the North Hastings Board of Trade, reads as follows:

"Thank you very much for your invitation to myself and other members of our Board of Trade to attend your meeting in Belleville on March 26th.

"The following members will, I believe, motor down on the 26th, if road conditions are at all passable: Mr. E. L. Reid, Mr. Thos. McAlpine, Mr. W. E. Wiggins, Mr. R. H. Dewar, Mr. J. G. Carlisle, Mr. Harry Price, and the writer.

"We agree with you that Hastings County has not been getting the tourist business that its natural advantages entitle it to. One of the chief handicaps has been, I believe, lack of good roads. Both your Chamber of Commerce and this Board of Trade have worked for many years for better highways into the northern part of the County. At last we see our efforts bearing fruit and within the next two years we will have splendid motor highways the entire length and breadth of the County.

"The completion of these highways will bring a tremendous expansion of the tourist business in the Hastings, Haliburton and Peterboro districts and, organizations such as ours, should spare no effort in seeing that the best possible advantage is taken of the wonderful opportunity we will have of making North Hastings one of the most popular tourist districts in the Province. Along this line, I believe, we can do some of our most useful work."

Other Boards Invited

At the meeting of the directors on Thursday it was decided to invite representatives of the Boards of Trade at Trenton, Picton, Brighton, Deseronto and Napanee to be present at the meeting and it is hoped that a good representation from these towns will be present to hear Mr. Dolan.

Vice-President E. P. Bernstein reported that the directors, who attended the banquet recently given by the Brighton Board of Trade enjoyed the event very much and that in every way it was a great success.

The final report on the course of lectures given under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, was received and considered to be very satisfactory. In this connection, the Secretary-Manager, Mr. J. O. Herity, read a letter from Prof. Walker of Queen's University, Kingston, stating that from the reports he had received he considered the course to have been a marked success. All the professors from the University, who lectured during the series had expressed themselves as having been well pleased with their visits here. Prof. Walker offered his assistance in arranging for a series of lectures next year and his kindly interest is much appreciated by the directors.

Mr. Herity reported that at a recent meeting of the Open Forum Committee in connection with the Chamber, Mr. R. J. S. Dewar was elected Chairman and that the committee is at work arranging a series of meetings at which interesting matters will be considered.

Mr. W. A. Parker, a Past President of the Board, was a guest at the meeting and was heartily welcomed by President J. B. Boyce and the directors.

The following were present at the meeting: President, J. B. Boyce; E. V. Illsey, W. C. Springer, H. E. Fairfield, W. H. Morton, Leo B. Riggs, E. P. Bernstein and the Secretary-Manager, J. O. Herity.

ALREADY ON LAND IN THIS DISTRICT

Spring Plowing Started Weeks Ahead of Previous Years

With the land fast drying under the influence of the warm sun during past week or so, and helped by the fact, that spring rains so far have been almost entirely absent, farmers of the district are already engaged in their spring plowing, weeks ahead of ordinary time, preparatory to spring seeding.

This year, according to agriculturists of the section, will be a record year for crops. Conditions have been entirely favorable during the past winter; sufficient snow had fallen to ensure a warm blanket for the seed already in the ground and to date on many farms fall wheat is showing inches above ground. The spring thaw has been gradual and little heaving of the ground, with consequent damage to the roots was noted this year.

Roads throughout the county have also come through the winter in excellent shape, according to reports, and a minimum of labour will be required to put them into condition for summer traffic, it was said. Only in the back section where the clay roads have not been gravelled is any trouble being experienced by ordinary traffic.

"RUGGLES" A RIOT

Here is the comedy smash of the season! It's packed with enough fun and laughs to make the high-brows and the low-brows shout with glee. Laughton gives one of the greatest comedy characterizations that the screen has ever known.

It ought to bring the patrons back a second time so that they can get another chance to hear the dialogue because they will miss most of it the first time.

And incidentally, wait until you hear Laughton recite Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. It is one of the high-lights of the picture that will rate a hearty round of applause. You did not hear Lincoln, but you will hear Laughton.

Just don't get any silly notions that "Ruggles of Red Gap" is a western. The locale is purely the background for the story. But take our word for it, this one is a box office honey.

"CHICK" LEWIS.
Showmen's Trade Review.

Folks! Take my word for it "Ruggles of Red Gap" coming to the Belle Theatre, tomorrow, BACKS TO THE HILT every word of praise I might give it.

GEO. J. FORHAN

Obituary

THE LATE DR. W. W. BOYCE

The funeral of Dr. W. W. Boyce took place this Friday afternoon from his late residence, 26 Victoria Avenue and was largely attended.

Friends assembled in the home at two o'clock where an impressive service was conducted by the Rev. W. J. Walker, minister at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. At the conclusion of the service the funeral procession proceeded to the Belleville Cemetery where interment was made in the family plot. The service at the graveside was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Walker. The floral tributes were beautiful and many in number.

The bearers were—Dr. Stoble, Dr. Robertson, Dr. Morgan, Dr. Branscombe, Mr. S. R. Burrows and Mr. C. A. Cameron.

CHARLES CONLEY

Madoc, March 22 — (Special — Charles Conley, retired farmer, and resident of Madoc district all his life, died at his home late Thursday night after a short illness. He was born in Madoc Township 68 years ago being the son of the late William Conley and Phoebe Weese. He farmed on the homestead, which is just outside the village and after retirement continued to live on the homestead. He was a member of the United Church and fraternally was identified with Madoc L. O. L. No. 160. Left to mourn are a wife, two daughters, Mrs. Carl Bird, and Mrs. Arthur Bird, Madoc, one brother Peter Conley of British Columbia and one sister Mrs. Thomas Bailey of Madoc. The funeral will be held under Orange direction on Sunday.

DR. A. B. DEYNARD, Owen Sound

Owen Sound—March 22.—(CP)—Dr. Albert B. Deynard, prominent medical practitioner in Owen Sound and district in the 80's distinguished specialist and world traveller, died March 21st, at the home of his nephew, Dr. A. B. Deynard, in this city. He had been ill for several weeks. He was 86 years old. Dr. Deynard was a native of Prince Edward County, the youngest child in a family of 14, whose lineage included German, French, Welsh, Scotch and Egyptian blood. His paternal grandfather was a Hessian, a member of the German troops hired by King George III to quell the rebelling American colony. He was born in the Township of Athol, attending school there, later graduating from the Peterboro High School. He began the study of medicine in Philadelphia, but continued his training in Ontario, graduating from Queen's University medical school in 1876. During his young manhood he identified himself with the Canadian militia, attended the Royal Military College at Kingston and qualified to command a battalion in a brigade. He took post graduate work in the hospitals of Chicago, London, Paris, Rome and Vienna, commencing his practice in Chicago. He returned to Canada in 1882 and practised at Williamsford, Chatsworth and finally Owen Sound. He went to New York City in 1888, where he was identified with microscopic work, and subsequently served on the staffs, of Bellevue hospital, Vanderbilt clinic, and the Manhattan Eye and Ear hospital. Dr. Deynard also served as a surgeon in the Great War. He travelled in many lands, and was interested in literature and the arts and sciences. Of recent years, he passed the greater part of his time in New York and Washington, coming to Owen Sound for the summer season. He was unmarried, and is survived by one brother whose home is in Prince Edward County.

Graduate of Local College Won Fame in Empire's Service

Sir Allan Grannum Writes Principal, Telling of Career

Sixteen years afterward, a former student of the late Mr. J. W. Johnson, former principal of the Ontario Business College of this city has learned of the death of his former mentor and has written from a remote island off the west coast of Madagascar to Mr. I. L. Moore of this city, and present principal of the college commenting upon it.

The letter received by Mr. Moore is from Sir Allan Grannum, Kt. C.M.G. of Floreal, Mauritius, Indian Ocean, one of the most distinguished of the many scholars, who have passed through the classes of the local institution. It contains an acknowledgement of a favor received from Mr. Moore as well as a brief resume of the student's activities since leaving the local business college. The letter read in part:

"Dear Mr. Moore:-

"I have heard of the death of my old friend, Mr. W. B. Robinson, but not of that of my old friend Mr. J. W. Johnson. The great assistance by both of these gentleman and by their principal assistant Mr. Blanchard, during my stay at the college is still fresh in my memory as are also the happy days I spent at the institution.

"After five years' service as auditor of the West African Colonies of the Gambia, Sierra Leone, and the Gold Coast, I was appointed auditor of Cyprus in the Mediterranean, where I remained for seven years. In 1909 I came to this colony as Auditor-General and about two years later was promoted to the office of Receiver General, which I held until 1923, when I was appointed Colonial Secretary (Chief Secretary to the Governor of Mauritius.) From this post after I had administered the government of the colony on several occasions I retired at the end of 1931.

"My brother, Cligton, retired some years ago and now resides at Nairobi, Kenya Colony, East Africa. My elder brother, Dr. Belfield Grannum, died in 1922. All of us were students of the College.

"I am, yours very truly,
"Allan Grannum."

In faraway Berbice, British Guiana, Dharessar Jhaffan, 18-year-old high school student longs for the time when he can complete his present course of private school and high school studies and journey to Belleville where he can complete his education by taking a business college course.

Written in the carefully formed script of one who has been forced to learn the English language, a communication has been received by Mr. I. L. Moore, principal of the local Ontario Business College in which the longing to attend the local school is expressed.

"The fame of the Ontario Business College is world-wide," stated the writer.

PLAY A HAWAIIAN GUITAR, TENOR BANJO OR UKELELE

LESSONS 50c

THIS COUPON IS GOOD FOR 3 FREE LESSONS with any guitar bought at this store during the remainder of March and April.

IF PUPILS DESIRE WE WILL GIVE A FREE GUITAR WITH COURSE. LESSONS 50 EACH

All lessons are given by our teacher, HARRY WAGNER — pupils being taught individually. Come in and have the course explained to you.

Weaver's Music Store

214 FRONT ST. PHONE 1031

FARM INSURANCE OUR SPECIALTY

Our Companies do business from coast to coast. They maintain adequate deposits with the Dominion Government.

FIRE EXTINGUISHERS WITH FARM BUSINESS MAY BE HAD AT NO EXTRA COST.

HAIG BROS.

(Successors to S. J. Fisher & Son.)

168 Front St. —Open Saturday Nights—Phone 168

Laura Secord

CANDIES

FOR SUNDAY

There are many good makes of chocolates, but Laura Secords still head the list

2 lbs. $1.00 1 lb. 50c
½-lb. 25c

DOLAN

THE DRUGGIST

I.D.A. Druggist Phone 138

The CRITICS say:
"It's Bound to Be One of TEN BEST PICTURES OF 1935"
The Famous HARRY LEON WILSON Comedy Hit
A Paramount Picture
"RUGGLES of RED GAP"
with CHARLES LAUGHTON ★
as Ruggles Cultured English Valet Who Marked Red Gap's "400" Down to $3.98
MARY BOLAND ★
She'd Fight a Rattlesnake And Give It the First Two Bites
CHARLIE RUGGLES ★
The Horseplayboy of Red Gap Who Won Ruggles in a Paris Poker Game
ZASU PITTS ★
She Hoped Ruggles was a Gentleman—and Hoped He Wasn't Commencing
TOMORROW
BELLE ADDED TREATS
"OUR GANG" in "Honkey Donkey"
BELLE NEWS
TODAY ONLY
MAY ROBSON "GRAND OLD GIRL"
"ALL THE KING'S HORSES"

SATURDAY MATINEE: 'THE MYSTERY MOUNTAIN'

PRISONERS RIOT FIRE SHOPS AT PORTSMOUTH 'PEN'

Fourth Major Disturbance at Kingston in 2½ Years

GUARDS BATTER DOORS

Inspector Hurries From Ottawa to Open Investigation

Kingston Ont., March 22—(CP)—Brigadier-General D. M. Ormond, Federal Inspector of Penitentiaries, opened an investigation today into the fourth major disturbance to unsettle Kingston Penitentiary in two years and a half—twin fires that caused heavy damage to two prison workshops last night.

The inspector hurried here from Ottawa on instructions of Minister of Justice Hugh Guthrie. It was believed he would interview prisoners and guards to determine the leaders in a sudden revolt by a body of 50 convicts and those directly responsible for setting fire to the boot and mail-bag shops.

Damage in the simultaneous fires that broke out about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon was described as heavy by Fire Chief James Armstrong of Kingston. He said both shops were "gutted" by the flames and flooded by water poured into them by fire department hose.

The revolt itself centred in the boot and clothing department, a section of the industrial building where convicts are employed. About 50, it was said, locked themselves in the big room, where flames had started and refused to leave.

Guards battered down the door to gain entrance and then were forced to struggle with the prisoners, who turned a hose on them. In a grim struggle, that followed the guards were successful, the half-hundred convicts being taken to their cells. No one was injured, it was reported.

First Protest Since 1934

The incident was the first protest against authority in the Lake Ontario prison since May, 1934, when fire in the change room caused damage estimated at from $30,000 to $40,000. That was three months after Mr. Guthrie announced in the House of Commons, that several serious situations had arisen in the prison.

The first of these occurred in October, 1932, when 900 convicts rioted, barricading themselves in the tailor shop and threatening to burn themselves to death. Troops entered the penitentiary, that time and the revolt was terminated momentarily, when they left.

But rebellion flared again, and more violently, three days later. Machine-gun and rifle fire was used in an effort to stop the rioting among 200 defiant men, who smashed furniture and caused heavy damage to property. Troops were called and finally tear gas brought quiet.

No Yammering Heard

The institution had been without disturbance for many months, when yesterday's fires started. Residents living near the prison said there had been no signs of revolt such as the yammering and howling, that preceded previous outbreaks.

A report, that firing had been heard from within the prison walls about the time the fires were reported could not be confirmed. No one in the neighborhood had heard shots. Penitentiary officials refused to give out information of any kind.

The fires in the two departments were well under way. when one-half of Kingston's fire brigade rushed to the scene. The other half was at Sydenham, 18 miles north of here, fighting a blaze, that caused heavy damage to several buildings. Deputy Fire Chief Fred Reibe was in charge of the prison group.

Later Fire Chief James Armstrong made an inspection and announced damage to the shoe and mail-bag shops was considerable. The interiors were virtually destroyed, he said, but the mail-bag building itself suffered little.

◆

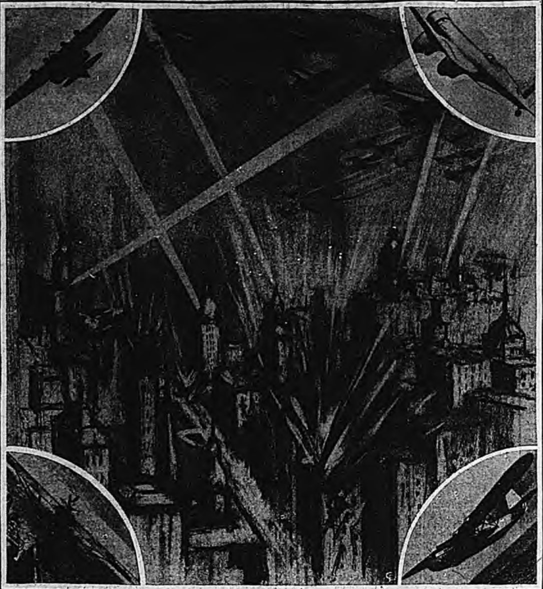
PERTH PHYSICIAN FOUND NOT GUILTY

Jury Deliberates on Evidence Two Hours, Five Minutes

PERTH, March 22.— (CP)—Dr. W. J. Hobson of Perth, Thursday night was acquitted by a Lanark County assizes jury of charges of manslaughter and performing an illegal operation, preferred following the death February 14, of Lila Pickering, 28, textile mill worker of Carleton Place. The jury was out two hours and five minutes.

Charles Boyer, K.C., of Brampton, special prosecutor for the Spring assizes, stated tonight that the trial of Rupert Mackler, 39 years old, also of Perth, friend of the late Miss Pickering, would begin tomorrow morning. Two days ago a grand jury returned true bills on charges of manslaughter and performing an illegal operation against Mackler.

NATIONS OF THE WORLD STRIVE TO DOMINATE THE AIR



Because she lags behind other nations in aerial armaments, Britain has announced a drastic extension to her air defences, including an appropriation of £23,851,000 to be spent within the next year. At present, France, Russia and the United States have the largest air forces in the world, not only in number but in size of aeroplanes. In the layout is shown Upper Left, the giant Russian 'plane, largest in the world; Right, the new U.S. fighting machine, said to be the deadliest of its kind; Lower Left, a huge German seaplane, one of the type Germany announces she will build in defiance of the Versailles treaty; Right, the new French seaplane, construction of which has just been completed. George Paginton, Central Press Canadian artist, has graphically visualized the consequences of a sudden air attack on a large city. Most of the cities in Europe are holding mock attacks in order to coach the populace in what to do in case of such attack by a large force of enemy aeroplanes. It is conceded by most military experts that the next war will be fought in the air, particularly against civilian populations.

Contest Winners Banquetted By Losing Y. P. S. Group

◆

Tweed, March 22—The first annual banquet of the Young People's Society of Tweed United Church was held on Monday, March 18th at 6.30 p.m. in the church parlours. The banquet was the outcome of an attendance contest sponsored by the Y.P.S. during the winter. The "Blues" as the losers were obligated to entertain their victors, the "Reds", at the end of the season and the splendid supper and entertainment was the result. The Young People are deeply indebted to the members of the Women's Association who assisted in the preparation of the banquet and in arranging and setting the tables, which were tastefully decorated in keeping with the season and in memory of Ireland's patron saint, St. Patrick. Favours, typically Irish harps, pipes, pigs, potatoes were placed beside each plate. Pots of daffodils and hyacinths typified the spring season and gave a note of cheer. The tables were laden with every good thing that would tempt the appetite.

While the crowd was gathering Irish music was despensed by the orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Walter E. Dark. At the conclusion of the banquet, to which the capacity assembly did full justice. the Toastmaster, Mr. S. H. Connor called on Rev. Clarence Ferguson B.A., of Northport to take charge of community singing. This hearty sing-song was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

The Toast list was headed by a toast to King George V. which was followed by the hearty singing of the National Anthem. Miss Bessie Gordon B.A. President of the Y.P.S. in her address welcomed the audience to the first Y.P.S. banquet particularly the young people from Bethel, Thomasburg and Sulphide. She referred to the contest which the society had conducted and expressed the hope that all would thoroughly enjoy the evening's entertainment. Miss Gordon spoke appreciatively of the efforts of Mr. Dark in organizing the orchestra, concluding with a reference to the obligation felt towards Rev. Clarence Ferguson B.A. the guest speaker for being present to assist in the programme.

The toast "To Our Country" was proposed in a capable manner by Francis Tummon who recalled Scott's words:

"Breathes there the man with soul
so dead.
Who never to himself hath said,
This is my own my native land."

Patriotism is deeply rooted in the human heart. It has, however, its responsibilities as well as its pleasures. We should make ourselves worthy of the heritage into which we have come, and strive to make our country worthy of our love and patriotism.

Mr. Harold W. Clark in one of the ablest speeches of the evening responded to his toast. When speaking of Canada, he said, we usually refer to her great natural resources and material wealth. During the past few years, however, with the world facing the greatest economic crisis in its history, Canada has stood with her head high and shoulders square. Her credit is sound and her volume of trade places her among the leading nations. Her forward march may be attributed to the type of men and who pioneered this country and laid the firm foundations on which she stands today. The Canada of tomorrow will only be great as the Canadians of today continue the pioneering spirit of those who laid these foundations.

A delightful Irish song "Killarney" was sung in splendid style by a quartette composed of Dr. and Mrs. M. G. Dales and Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Connor.

The toast "To our Community" was coupled with the names of Miss Audrey Prust and Ronald Sayers. In proposing the toast which Miss Prust did in a delightful little speech she referred to the organization for which the ancient Romans had a particular genius and the influence which they have had upon succeeding generations. They developed the idea community life. Small villages were common, and had little, if any, fortification. Such a community is our own village of Tweed with its fine schools, and churches. Tweed has much that her citizens have a just right to be proud of.

Ronald Sayers, in responding, referred to the advantages possessed by a small community in comparison with larger centres.

The toast "to our Church" was proposed in a fine way by Miss Dorothy Barnett, leader of the Christian Fellowship department of the Y.P.S. The church universal was the basis of Miss Barnett's address, which traced the growth of the world's greatest institution from earliest times down to the present day. The first members of the Christian Church were the disciples. The influence of the church upon the lives of men has been far reaching in its effect.

In responding to this toast, Rev. H. B. Herrington of Thomasburg referred particularly to the United Church of Canada of which he was proud to be a member because it faced the facts of life, beginning in the days of Union, when unwilling to be restricted by the "dead hand" of the past, it laid off the accidentals and retaining the vital things, entered Union. The way in which the United Church is attempting to deal with the economic situation in Canada, and its attitude towards war are instances of this principle.

At this juncture a beautiful ladies' trio, "Take My Life and Let it Be" was sung by Mrs. M. G. Dales, Mrs. S. H. Connor and Mrs. H. A. Grier.

In a very witty and delightful manner Rev. R. R. Nicholson, pastor of Tweed United Church introduced the guest speakers. Miss Susie Denike, convener of the publications of the Young People's Union, of Belleville Presbytery, spoke of the paper prepared by the organization. Miss May Reynolds of Belleville and formerly of Tweed expressed her pleasure at having an opportunity of renewing friendships with the Tweed young people. Miss Hazel Horton, of Cannifton spoke of the important place which the young people of Canada occupy in the scheme of things and urged them to fit themselves for the life before them and to follow the example of the Master.

Rev. Clarence Ferguson B.A. of Northport the guest speaker of the evening is the president of the Young People's Union of the Belleville Presbytery. He delivered one of the finest addresses which the young people of Tweed have been privileged to hear. He brought greetings from other societies of the Presbytery, 92 in number. The young people of Canada must have a real purpose in life he said. They have a place in history which demands all the ingenuity, Genius and creative ability with which they have been endowed. In the meetings of the Y.P.S. each week there must be a definite ideal and purpose before the minds of the members. They must enter upon their programme with enthusiasm. They must have as their motto "It is our aim and ideal as members of this Young People's department to be loyal to each other and to Jesus Christ, our Saviour, and to do all in our power to make His principles effective in our lives and in the world."

The programme must touch all parts of life to be effective. The spirit of Christ must be dominant in their lives. They, through the Missionary edpartment, learn to know the world and its people and experience the joy which comes from giving to those less fortunate than themselves. In Christian Citizenship, an opportunity is afforded for making a practical application of Christianity in a study of economic problems, war, and temperance and other issues.

The Literary and cultural department makes possible the development of the aesthetic side of one's [illegible] [illegible]cluding the speaker urged the young people to fit themselves for leadership in their church, having always in mind the thought not "what is the church doing for me, but what can I give to the church."

Several selections were given by the orchestra.

The concluding toast "To the Ladies" was handled capably by two of the young men of the society. In a witty speech, Grant Shorey referred to the ladies as needing no eulogy as they speak for themselves. They are the fairest work of the great author, the edition is large, and no man should be without a copy. In a humorous vein Kenneth Alexander ably seconded the remarks of the preceding speaker.

In his concluding remarks the toastmaster paid tribute to the excellence of the addresses delivered by the young people in proposing and seconding the toasts, given in a manner which reflected considerable credit upon themselves. Rev. R. R. Nicholson was called upon to pronounce the Benediction which brought to a close an evening which will not soon be forgotten by those privileged to attend.

"TOWARD WAR"

George Lansbury

"With an armed Europe we are not marching toward peace, but toward war," declared George Lansbury, British leader, in British House of Commons, on debate on recent European crisis.

SYDENHAM SWEPT BY $100,000 FIRE

Hotel, Bank and Store is Burned—Kingston Brigade Helps

Sydenham, March 22—(CP)—Fire which started in the three-story frame American Hotel here Thursday, spread through a bank, a frame dwelling and a general store, doing damage estimated between $60,000 and $100,000.

It was the most disastrous fire in the history of the village, which is situated eighteen miles north of Kingston in Frontenac County.

With the aid of Kingston firemen and apparatus, the blaze was under control at eight o'clock Thursday night, but for a time it was feared that a block of frame dwellings adjoining the Royal Bank would be destroyed.

The places levelled by the fire were Mrs. Joseph Woodruff's American Hotel, the branch of the Royal Bank, L. T. Wick's general store and the frame dwelling of J. Lafrance.

After the blaze, of unknown origin had been discovered in the hotel, bucket brigades were formed. The village has no other means of fighting fire. Citizens removed most of the furniture from the building.

A brisk wind soon had the building enveloped in flames, against which the bucket brigade was virtually helpless. In less than half an hour, the hotel was burned to the ground and the fire had spread to the bank building and the general store.

Kingston fire department was notified, and a pumper was ordered to the village. Able to hook up only one line of hose in the village, the firemen did their best. In the half-hour required for them to make the trip, however, the bank building had become a blazing furnace.

The roof caved in and the flames shot 50 feet in the air. Paints, varnish and oil in the Wicks' store caught fire and it was almost impossible to get close to the blazing building. A small frame house, south of the American Hotel, was ignited by sparks and was destroyed. It was occupied by J. Lafrance. All the furniture had been removed before the fire consumed the small structure. Breaking through the north wall of the bank building, the crackling flames consumed a small wooden shed. After that the firemen were able to control the blaze.

◆

SHANNONVILLE

BOY FOUND SAFE AT MILLHAVEN

Quest of Shannonville Boy Ends at Home of Relative

Norman Corby, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Corby of Shannonville, who was missing from his home since early Wednesday morning was found safe and sound visiting relatives at Millhaven near Bath, Ont., early last evening by Traffic Officer Sam Ervine of Belleville. Although extensive searches of surrounding railway tracks and the dragging of the Salmon River were in progress, as police and posses looked for the little lad, he safely sojourned among friends and relations at Millhaven. "I got lonesome and just hiked down here to see my auntie," stated little Norman to the police when he was discovered last evening.

Norman Corby left his home in Shannonville, early Wednesday morning, for school, but did not reach his destination as he decided to make the trip to his old home and haunts as he was school-bound. Last sight of him by any Shannonville resident was when Damon Hinchey observed the lad wending his way eastward and toward the Salmon River. When the little lad failed to return from school on Wednesday evening, anxious parents and villagers started a twenty-four hour search for the missing child. Railway tracks, the rivers and the streams in the surrounding district were thoroughly searched. Later his mother intimated that little Norman might have gone to Millhaven where the Corby family had previously resided. Traffic Officer Ervine at once left for that point where the lad was found. The relatives had no knowledge of the lad's escapade. Norman was left at his aunt's home, and the anxious parents notified of the fact of his safety.

◆

POPE PIUS WRITES PLEADING FOR PEACE

VATICAN CITY, March 22—(AP) Prelates said Pope Pius is writing an encyclical letter to be published at the conclusion of the Holy Year, in which he again will plead for peace and disarmament. The preparation of the allocution and the encyclical, a prelate said, explains why the Pope, who usually takes advantage of world occasions to make a pronouncement, has not yet made known his thoughts on the present situation.

He is also preparing an allocution on the Arms solution to be read to the April 1st consistory.

BERLIN BOUND

A military pact between Germany and Japan, long expected, is reported to be in offing with Gen. Sadao Araki, former Japanese war minister, bound for Berlin. Foreknowledge of the pact is believed to have induced U. S. S. R. to end its quibble with Japan over Chinese Eastern Railroad and send its troops back to western borders.

TWEED

WILL PETITION FOR GRANT

Horticultural Society Makes Plans For Season

Tweed—A meeting of the Horticultural Society executive was held in the council Chambers on Tuesday evening, with the president Rev. R. R. Nicholson in the chair. Members present were Mesdames A. C. Blakely, J. W. Kingston, S. G. Way, D. W. Sills, H. M. Countryman, M. Drinkwater, Dr. W. A. Paul, S. H. Connor, C. H. Kerr. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Several important items of business came before the directors. It was decided the the President and Dr. W. A. Paul be a committee to interview the council for the purpose of asking for a grant to aid in carrying on the society's work for the year 1935, and to ask that the caretaking of Royal Bank be undertaken by the council as part of their relief scheme under the supervision of the Horticultural Society.

The approval of the executive was given to the action of the Options Committee which had selected as options for members one year's subscription to the Canadian Horticulturist, three boxes of annuals or fall bulbs to the value of forty cents. A communication was received from Mr. John F. Clark, lecturer of the Horticultural Branch of the Department of Agriculture.

A communication was received from Mr. J. B. Belshaw, Stirling, District Director, regarding a lecture to be given by Mr. J. S. Hall, lecturer on horticulture.

A committee composed of the President and First Vice President was named to revise the prize list and submit it to the executive at the next meeting. Members were asked to submit any suggestions to the committee.

Canvassers were appointed as follows:

South Victoria, from the railroad tracks—Mrs. M. Drinkwater.

Main Street—Mr. G. A. Meiklejohn.

North Victoria, from Bridge St. —Mrs. N. Champagne.

Colborne Street and south—Mrs. A. C. Blakely.

River Street—Mrs. D. W. Sills.

Metcalfe St.—Mrs. S. G. Way, Mrs. C. H. Kerr.

Chapman—Mrs. Harry Coulter.

Arthur Street (across the river) —Mrs. D. W. Sills.

A motion was passed instructing the Secretary to order a Record Book as approved of by the Department of Agriculture.

The success of the Bird Box Competition sponsored by the Society last year has encouraged them to hold another contest his Spring. The competition is open to all the children attending the Separate and Consolidated Schools of Tweed village and is divided into two groups as follows —

(a) Fourth Classes:
1. Martin Box.
2. Wren House.
3. Bluebird or Tree Swallow Box
(b) Third Classes and Under:
1. Martin Box.
2. Wren House.
3. Bluebird or Tree Swallow Box.

The society will awad three cash prizes for each of the boxes in group (a) and four cash prizes for each box in group (b).

POLICE TO CURB H.T.A. VIOLATIONS

All Breaches Will Be Checked up And Fines Imposed

War has been declared in Belleville. Today local police authorities announced, that drastic measures would be taken in relationship to repeated violations of motor vehicle laws in this city. "It has got so that many motorists refuse to obey any and all motor laws in this city and a general check-up as well as clean-up has been ordered", stated one police official this morning.

Early this week local police started a drive against defective brakes on all motor vehicles. Last night a check-up on automobiles being left parked all night in the downtown area revealed that eleven motorists were found negligent in this respect, police "tickets or stickers" were affixed on the cars and the owners instructed to report at the police station today. As pointed out by the police department, a local city by-law was passed prohibiting all night parking in the downtown area in order that the city sweeper might proceed with its work without the impediment of parked cars Those finding police stickers on motor vehicles this morning were for the most part, motorists from out of the city and were allowed to proceed after receiving a warning from the police.

Late this morning the police started a drive against one of the most unrecognized motor vehicle by-law in the city, the "stop street" by-laws in the city, the 'stop street' out of the police station five minutes he saw two local motorists driving rapidly past a stop sign. They and others seen were sent to the police station and after being warned were allowed to proceed.

When speaking to the press this morning local police officials emphatically stated, that a general clean-up of all motor vehicle law breakers in Belleville was now in progress and the maximum fines would be imposed after a warning had been given. Speeders also are to be curbed.

◆

LEGISLATURE TO MEET IN FALL

Impossible to Estimate Relief Cost Until Parliament Over

Toronto, March 23—A fall session of the Ontario Legislature is assured.

In view of the mooted social legislation still pending at Ottawa, which promises to affect vitally every Province, but the effect of which cannot be known until after the present session of Legislature has adjourned, it will be impossible definitely to work out the Province's program.

Premier Hepburn acknowledged this situation Thursday night.

Many of the problems confronting the Administration are involved in the action of the Federal Parliament. It is impossible, for instance, to estimate the cost of relief. Mr. Bennett has notified municipalities which are now carrying on certain relief works that Federal contributions will stop on March 31.

The great general question of taxation and condition of municipal exchequers is involved in possible Dominion action and the prospect of a change in Government at Ottawa renders the situation more complex.

On the matter of relief works, Hon. David A. Croll, Minister of Welfare, last night cited the fact that not a single contribution had been received from the Dominion Government for direct relief work since the eventful day of June 19 last. "Not a single red cent have they contributed," he said. There were certain works promulgated before that date calling for a three-way contribution, Federal, Provincial and Municipal, all to be completed by March 31, the end of the fiscal year.

Some of these have not been finished and cannot be within the time limit, but notification has been received from Ottawa that, in view of the uncertainty of the political situation, contributions will cease from March 31.

One of these works is the Orillia power project and delegation from that municipality waited upon Mr. Croll yesterday afternoon to see what could be done toward completing the work. The Minister advised that the O.K. of the Federal Government be obtained if possible; that the Province was ready to carry out its end of the bargain. jects affected the same way.

DR. BISCH'S DAILY DIET HINT

As early as six months of age, babies should have strained and mashed vegetables each day. Only one teaspoonful should be given in the beginning, the same being increased every other day until the child is receiving a tablespoonful by the end of the month. After that, the increase should still be gradual until, by the ninth month, three tablespoonfuls are taken daily.

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

SPRINGTIME FOR MOTORISTS

There is no better time for motorists before they begin the season's driving to take a little time to put their minds on the essentials of motor-driving. And there is no better time for the police to pursue offenders and lay charges.

When the traffic is in full sweep a few months hence it will be more difficult to impress the people with the absolute need of careful driving. Though today the traffic is much lighter than it will be, and there is consequent less danger of accident except for the moist and greasy roads, motorists must be taught a lesson.

The police have gone out early this year to pick up offenders. A test two days ago brought out the fact that ten cars were found with defective braking. A defective brake today is a potential accident for most streets are greasy from the winter's accumulation of dust and grime or are wet most of the time, so that a car approaching stop-streets unless properly braked may run into a collision.

Police are also looking at the stop-street observance.

To race up to a street giving the idea that the driver is not going to stop or maybe unable to brake his car properly may frighten or inconvenience a pedestrian who may have to wait for fear lest he be struck.

It takes but a moment to halt at intersections, and it takes but a little time to have brakes looked after so that there is no excuse for any offenders. The motorist being able to make much faster time than the pedestrian, who is satisfied with his speed, should be made to observe the rules even if it does take a couple of seconds.

There is also the fast-driving motorist who picks out certain streets for his speeding. Such streets as main arteries, and the residential streets where there is danger of running over children should be free from the motor speeder.

RELIGIOUS OUTBREAK

The truth that religious trouble easily flares up is shown in the incident at Karachi, India, this week when British troops were obliged to fire upon a mob. 20,000 Moslems were planning to avenge a fellow believer who had been hanged by the authorities for the murder of a Hindu who was alleged to have written an offensive work about the Prophet Mohammed. The firing took place only after police had been driven back by the seething Mohammedan throng. Twenty-three Moslems were killed and seventy wounded.

Moslems were carrying the hanged man whose body they had exhumed. Barrages of stones and bottles were used by the crowd to make their way through a defile and when they finally were stopped, the soldiers fired in air, this only angering the marchers who closed around the troops menacing them. At last the order to fire was given.

In seething India where the people are most religious, such scenes are possible and it requires a firm hand to control such a situation. Only persons on the ground and with experience of India can handle such a situation.

SMALLER BILLS

It is stated that the chartered banks of Canada are going to follow the course set by the new Central Bank in reducing the size of the bills used in paper currency. There will, therefore, be a uniform issue of paper money corresponding in dimensions to that used in the United States or possibly slightly larger.

This innovation will be welcomed by the people generally, for it has been felt, especially since the United States reduced the size of their paper bills, that the Canadian paper currency was unnecessarily bulky.

There is a good deal of objection also to the large copper cents in circulation in this country. If these could be conveniently withdrawn it would be in the interests of progress. The smaller one-cent piece is popular where that type of currency is used. Of course there is the consideration for the mining industry, and the currency naturally utilizes a part of the production of copper mines in Canada. The larger cent is useful in this way and that may be the principal reason why the government continues to authorize their circulation.—Sarnia Canadian Observer.

WESTERN MEDICINE IN CHINA

The Chinese aversion to Western medical treatment, especially to surgery, is now practically overcome, and one does not meet it except in the case of very ignorant people. The battle has lasted any years and science has triumphed in the end. In many households today, western medicine is exclusively used, though of course many age-old Chinese prescriptions are still kept handy by those who are slow to give up the beliefs of their ancestors. So far as leprosy is concerned much propaganda and instruction on the subject appears to be needed and it is this aspect of the subject which we think might be proceeded with at an early date, so that when a modest leper settlement appears in the Colony, a host of inspectors will not be necessary to ferret out cases, but those who have the misfortune of being afflicted with the disease will have the sense to avail themselves of the amenities of such an institution.—Hong Kong Press.

REWARD IS NATURE'S PLAN

The scheme of Nature is a scheme of rewards and punishments.

When Nature equipped the earth with plants and animals, endowed with the capacity to grow, evolve and be fruitful, it was necessary to choose between two plans of development.

If all living things were to be automatons, incapable of independent action, forced to function in the right and beneficial way, each forward step in their development would require another miracle.

If they were to have independent life and contain within themselves the seed and the capacity for endless evolution and development, they must be given freedom of action and empowered, under the law, to work out their own destiny.

The second plan was adopted and all life was made free.

But freedom brought a second problem. If all living things were free to choose right, they would also be free to choose wrong. What if they should refuse to do the things that were necessary to their survival and growth? In a little while all of them would be dead.

To overcome this difficulty, Nature devised her scheme of rewards and punishments. If a certain act is necessary to a creature's welfare, it suffers until the act is begun. Having obeyed Nature's law, it finds gratification in completing the act. And its reward for obedience is new vitality, health and growth.

This inducement to do right is offered to all living things, the grass, the trees, insects, fishes, birds, beasts and men. The law is universal and unchanging.

If the grass sprouts in shadow, it suffers until it reaches out to the sunlight; if the tree lacks water, it suffers until it sends out roots to find peranent moisture.

When man needs water or food, he suffers until the need is supplied; and in the act of supplying his need, he has the reward of pleasure and delight. He is tormented until he does the things necessary to his survival and growth, and he suffers when he does anything that is harmful to himself or his race.

That is the whole of Nature's morality: to do the thing that is beneficial and avoid the thing that is harmful.

Any fault or hurt or evil in the world is not a fault of the scheme of things, but a result of violating the scheme. There is no accident, but only a good or bad result that comes of asking for it.—Fountain Sun (S.C.) Tribune.

A LIGHT IN THE DARKNESS OF EUROPE

Europe has a European statesman, President Masaryk of the Czechoslovak Republic. His utterances are in refreshing contract with the wild words of the dictators. In a book shortly to be published he affirms his faith in democracy, that is, in man, in his spiritual character and in his immortal soul. This, he says, is the true and the real equality. Democracy is not merely political. It is an outlook on life. It rests on faith in man, in humanity and in human nature. Its enemies say that there is no such thing as equality. In the sense that there are moral and intellectual differences that is true. But intellectual superiority and strength of will do not give any man the right to lord it over his fellows. On this point President Masaryk says:

> I know that people are not equal. Nowhere on earth, neither amongst peoples nor in nature is there equality, there is variation. This natural variation has to be organized through a division of work and through a hierarchy of functions. No organization of people is possible without superiors as to functions and subordinates. But it is all of it a matter of organization, and not of privilege. Not any aristocratic governing, but mutual service. Democracy needs leaders, not rulers. Aristocracy says, I am the master, you the servant, or slave. Democracy says, I am a master, you are a master. The democratic ideal is not merely political. It is also social and economical. Democracy from the social point of view means an overcoming of the degradation of poverty. A democracy does not permit individuals or classes to exploit their fellow-citizens. In democracy man must not serve man as an instrument.

It is true that in countries under dictatorship, aristocracy in the old sense has been abolished along with monarchy. There is no longer fixed superiority founded on birth and rank. Inferiority in this respect does not prevent a Mussolini or a Hitler from rising to a power more absolute than that of the old monarchs.—London Advertiser.

The hardest trial of the heart is, whether it can bear a rival's failure without triumph.—Aikin.

If you would reform the world from its errors and vices, begin by enlisting the mothers.—Simmons.

SIDELIGHTS

THE HOME FORUM

Discussing the events of the day, home gossip and general news topics as revealed by the home newspaper—under the evening lamp—and comments Grave and Gay, — Supervised by The Lamplighter.

HOSPITAL WARD

Happiness flowered in the ward today;
Gloomy old place with its walls of gray,
Brimming with memories of pain;
Dull as the drip of November rain!
Someone lay on a narrow bed,
Barely able to turn her head,
Spent and limp from past agony
Almost glimpsing death's mystery;
Yet, as life's forces came creeping up,
Joy swelled high in her being's cup;
Bliss, to lay hold of life again....
Ah, but the ward was lovely then!
Every tall window, so stark and bare,
Had in that beauty its glowing share,
And far beyond it on every side,
Fair lay the world, so bright and wide!
Happiness bloomed in the ward today,
None would have guessed it was bleak and gray.

—Aline Michaelis.

x x x

MAN'S MOST FAITHFUL FRIEND, as the dog is sometimes called, is frequently eulogized in print by authors who have revelled in a dog's affection and appreciated the faithful ways of the canine pet. To own a dog and to love and be loved by a dog is an experience rich in sentiment and happy memories. A Belleville family recently lost a household pet which on account of advancing years, failing eyesight and hearing, failed to get out of the way of a speeding automobile and died. A friend in Denver, Colorado, hearing of the dog's demise, and appreciating the feelings of the family over the loss, sent the following unique expression of how a dog might feel toward humans if it were endowed with the faculty of deep thinking—and a constant reader of this column sends it on with the thought that it would be interesting to the entire Sidelight Family—so here tiz:

A Dog's Prayer

(By Will Judy)

O Lord of humans, make my master faithful to his fellowmen as I am to him. Grant that he may be devoted to his friends and family as I am to him. May he be open-faced and undeceptive as I am; may he be true to trust reposed in him as I am to his.

Give him a face cheerful like unto my wagging tail; give him a spirit of gratitude, like unto my licking tongue. Fill him with patience like unto mine that awaits his footsteps uncomplainingly for hours; fill him with my watchfulness, my courage, and my readiness to sacrifice comfort of life. Keep him always young in heart and crowded with the spirit of play, even as I am. Make him as good a man as I am a dog; make him worthy of me, his dog.

x x x

SIDELIGHT READER ASKS that suggestions recently published in this column at the instance of a prominent citizen as to slogans which could be adopted and lived up to by all citizens with general benefit, be reprinted. Here they are:

KEEP BELLEVILLE'S STREETS CLEAN.

PLEASE DO NOT THROW PAPER ON THE STREET.

PLEASE SWEEP SIDEWALKS DAILY OF SNOW, SAND, OR WATER.

PLEASE PLACE ALL GARBAGE IN GARBAGE CANS.

PLEASE SEE THAT YOUR CHIMNEY IS CLEANED AT LEAST ONCE A YEAR.

ASK THE CITY TO PROVIDE WIRE BASKETS TO HOLD WASTE PAPER.

Suggestions of any helpful kind for the betterment and beautification of Belleville are welcomed and will find voice in this column.

x x x

SMUGGLING HAY would seem to be a sizable proposition, yet the St. Lawrence River banks opposite Brockville are being patrolled by state troopers and special customs agents in an effort to apprehend hay smugglers. Owing to a shortage of hay caused by the drought in some states the price has advanced in the land of Uncle Sam to a considerable figure over that quoted in Canada, hence smuggling is profitable if it succeeds. President Roosevelt removed a duty of five dollars a ton on hay in behalf of states where the hay crop failed and this rather complicates the case for the U. S. customs authorities. All kind of things have been smuggled from diamonds to flying machines, and a little thing like a ton of hay should not present much difficulty.

RELIGION AND THE GROPINGS OF THE SOUL

There is a Spiritual Side, Craving Expression in Everybody

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D, Ph.D., Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The mystery of man's relationship to the universe has been of vitally absorbing interest since the beginning of history. Throughout the ages, every human being has felt an indefinable something—a power activating all things.

He has questioned it. He has theorized about it. He has tried to explain it with names. Nature, spirit, world-soul, over-soul, life—and God—all these, and others besides, we find it studying different beliefs.

Man's make-up demands an explanation of some sort. Consciously or unconsciously, he feels his own inferiority as compared to the mighty forces in earth, sky, sea and air.

True man's ingenuity has harnessed many forms of energy and made them yield to his will. Yet how small the victory compared to the forces still eluding science and invention!

There is no way of denying it—there is a spiritual side craving expression in everybody. It may be strong or it may be weak. It may insist upon recognition early in life, or it may not obtrude itself until old age. Nevertheless, it is there.

An ancient adage says: "Just as a candle cannot burn without a fire, men cannot live without a spiritual life. The spirit dwells in all men, but not all men are aware of this."

Religion offers an explanation for this instinctive spiritualism. Furthermore, it brings us in harmony with the great unknown, makes us a part of its workings.

Religion no matter what the creed, offers hope, comfort, peace. It promises something better than we now possess. Religion lifts us up out of the purely sordid and worldly to higher planes of thought and feeling. Religion rekindles us with expectancy, revitalizes us with energy. To get the best out of life, the call of the spirit cannot be ignored.

The question is not that of which religion is right, or which belief you adopt. Accept the one that comes nearest to satisfactorily answering the promptings from within. There is an explanation for every one of us, if we will but seek it out. And, incidentally, do you suppose religion would have survived all this time if it didn't supply something that nothing else can do so well—in short, if it wasn't necessary?

A Thought for Today

"And whosoever shall exalt himself shall be abased; and he that shall humble himself shall be exalted."

St. Matthew 23:12

A treat for green tea drinkers

"SALADA"

JAPAN TEA

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 Years Ago

MARCH 22ND. 1915.

Mr. John A. Mastin has arrived home from Calgary to spend a short time.

Judge Fraleck is holding Division Court in the northern part of the county.

Mr. P. R. Mulheron of Campbellford is spending a few days in the city with friends.

Mrs. John MacLaren of Brockville is visiting relatives in the city.

Mexican 5 pesos which look somewhat like a genuine Canadian five dollar bill are being circulated in Belleville. Some of these have passed through the hands of local merchants and have found their way to some of the banks. The local branch of the Stnadard Bank sent one of these bills to New York and asked for a quotation as to their value. The answer came back that "at present they are worth about 25 cents." Keep your eyes open for this phoney money as it is easy to have one passed on you.

Mr. Charles H. Ketcheson, Reeve of Sidney, and Warden of Hastings County, and a number of the county councillors left today for Toronto to attend the annual meeting of the Good Roads' Association.

Mr. Reginald J. Elliott of this city, who is attending Toronto University, is qualifying for the rank of lieutenant and expects to leave for the front.

30 Years Ago

MARCH 22ND. 1905.

Miss Florence Moynes is visiting friends in Toronto.

Mr. James Best of Bancroft, a members of the County Council is spending a few days in the city.

Mr. Dennis Gillen of Madoc has been appointed clerk of the Sixth Division Court of the Coun- of Hastings in place of Mr. Arthur W. Coe.

The work of cutting the channel in the ice on the western side of the river is progressing and will be completed soon.

Jules Verne, the noted novelist, is dangerously ill at his home in France and it is feared he will not recover. He was born at Nantes in the year 1828.

Miss Kate Gillick left today for Syracuse, N.Y.

40 Years Ago

March 22nd., 1895

Mr. Cameron Brown, editor and manager of the Belleville Daily Sun, entertained the members of the staff at his home last night. All present spent a very pleasant evening and greatly appreciate the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Brown.

A new cheese company has been incorporated in Tweed, under the name of the Murphy Cheese and Butter Manufacturing Company. A factory is to be built in the 7th concession of Hungerford. Mr. Patrick Murphy is President and the Board of Directors is composed of Messrs. D. S. Larkin William Healey, Thos. Murphy and John Gartlin.

Dr. D. W. Houston is home on a visit from Troy, New York.

About two o'clock this morning, as Police Officer Cook was making his rounds trying the back doors of buildings along Front street, he saw a man coming from the rear of John Panter & Son's grocery store carrying a sack of flour under each arm. He gave chase, but the thief dropped the plunder, and being a young man and fleet of foot, he soon outdistanced the policeman. Upon investigation the officer found other goods near the rear door of the store ready to be taken away. The police have a strong clue to the identity of the thief and hope to secure his arrest. The intruder had entered through a back window which had been left insecure.

50 Years Ago

March 22nd., 1885

Capt. N. Allen of the schooner Freeman, signed bills of lading this morning for the first cargo of barley this season for Oswego.

Mr. George Hynes took first prize and Mr. John Way took second prize at the skating carnival.

Successful revival meetings are being conducted at University Church, near Albert College.

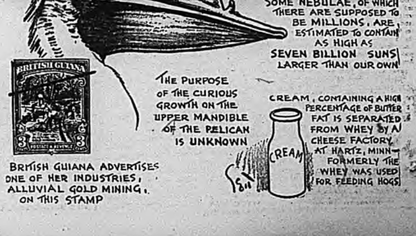
Judge Fraleck will start on his circuit next Monday.

A novel runaway was witnessed on Charles street to-day. A shepherd dog attached to a sleigh took offence at a passing spaniel and gave chase. The youthful rider was left in the snow until the dog was overtaken and done up, when the sagacious animal returned for its cargo.

The ice went out of the river on March 26th., last year.

Roads in the country are badly drifted.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK - - - By R. J. Scott



SOME NEBULAE, OF WHICH THERE ARE SUPPOSED TO BE MILLIONS, ARE ESTIMATED TO CONTAIN AS HIGH AS SEVEN BILLION SUNS LARGER THAN OUR OWN BRITISH GUIANA
3
THE PURPOSE OF THE CURIOUS GROWTH ON THE UPPER MANDIBLE OF THE PELICAN IS UNKNOWN
CREAM, CONTAINING A HIGH PERCENTAGE OF BUTTER FAT IS SEPARATED FROM WHEY BY A CHEESE FACTORY AT HARTZ, MINN - FORMERLY THE WHEY WAS USED FOR FEEDING HOGS
CREAM
BRITISH GUIANA ADVERTISES ONE OF HER INDUSTRIES, ALLUVIAL GOLD MINING, ON THIS STAMP

Ministerial Association of Centre Hastings Meets

Regular Monthly Gathering Held at Madoc Parsonage

Madoc—The monthly meeting of the Centre Hastings Ministerial Association was held at the Trinity United Church parsonage on Monday afternoon. Reverend Rowland of Stirling led the discussion on the topic "What God means to Me". The hostess, Mrs. Rivers, assisted by Mrs. Lough, served a lunch to the visitors. Among those present were Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Rowland and Rev. Mr. and Mrs. McConnell of Stirling; Rev. Mr. Joblin of Rawdon; Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Foley of Springbrook; Canon and Mrs. Swayne of Bonarlaw; Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Herrington of Thomasburg; Mrs. Barnes of Copper Cliff; Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Beazer of Roslin; Rev. Mr. Fletcher of Eldorado; Rev. Mr. Doggett of Queensboro; Rev. Mr. Lahey of Ivanhoe; Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter of Madoc and Rev. Mr. Rivers of Madoc.

Irish Concert

The annual St. Patrick's concert held under the auspices of the Sacred Heart of Mary Church was presented in the Masonic Hall on Monday evening. An excellent program was provided in the form of a play entitled "That Red Lady". Too much credit can not be given to Mrs. Leslie Ashley, the directress and Mr. Harold Mulholland for the creditable manner in which the play was produced. A very tasty lunch was served to the guests and music for dancing was provided by the Madoc orchestra.

The story of the play was highly amusing. Bobbie Baxter, in love with Jane is not a very eligible suitor to her uncle who favors the courtship of an elderly gentleman. In order to receive the legacy of her deceased father, Jane must get married on a certain date. Bobbie is badly framed by Jane's uncle but diligently starts in to prove that he is not guilty. With the aid of a college chum, he successfully impersonates, a notorious actress with whom the uncle has been stepping out. He is discovered by Jane however but the arrival of the real actress on the scene causes many interesting and ludicrous situations. However all is cleared up and everything turns out for the best.

Mr. Chas. Leonard as the uncle turned in an excellent performance Miss Marena Birket, his niece, looked very charming in a maize spring ensemble and in the second and third acts was strikingly dressed in a pale green afternoon frock.

Harold Mulholland as the hero and the impersonator played his part to perfection, indeed, making a very charming young lady. Miss Marguerite Feeney was well cast as a very pretty actress. Mr. Bernard Jackson had a difficult role to act as the elderly suitor and slightly inebriated lover. His penchant for writing poems was interesting. Miss Harriet Nayler belies her age by appearing as a spinster of uncertain age but of not so doubtful yearnings for cupid's visit. Dorian Stewart provided an excellent aide to the love sick hero, his efforts however sometimes having the opposite reaction to that intended. Dan O'Connell was a large good-natured coloured boy always looking for his 2 percent share. Miss Reta Courneyes looking quite chic and demure was one of those pretty French maids so often read about but seldom seen.

Between acts Mr. Stanley Hawthorne sang the "Rose of Tralee" and Mr. Chas. Leonard rendered a violin solo "Danny Boy".

Madoc Masonic Lodge No. 48 A.F. and A.M. paid homage to St. Patrick with a very interesting program at their regular meeting on Tuesday evening, March 19th. The guest speaker was Rev. Dr. Semple of Bridge Street United Church and Belleville Masonic Lodge. Mr. Geo. White, Master of the Madoc Lodge was the chairman. Rev. Mr. Rivers introduced the speaker. Dr. Semple spoke on Ireland and St. Patrick. He outlined the life and work of the Irish patron Saint and traced the influence of his work down to the present day. While St. Patrick was born in Scotland, he was taken to Ireland, as a prisoner and later on he adopted Ireland as his native land.

St. Patrick was a great diplomat. He secured the influence of the Irish kings and recruited his clergy from among the upper class. He taught that people should join with one another and that emergent religions while working towards the same end, should work in harmony. He adopted as his watch word "The Gift of God".

St. Patrick was a well educated man, receiving his training in a convent of Southern France and was a pupil of the famous Martin of Tours.

Ireland is well named as the Emerald Isle. There is no more beautiful spot in the world and the Irish people so renowned for their wit and humor, are a generous, happy and very religious people.

Mr. Will J. Hill moved a vote of thanks to the speaker which was extended to him by Mr. White and vouched for very capably by those present.

A musical program was provided by Will Hawthorne who sang "The Low Back Car", by Mr. Will Fletcher, who sang "Bells of the Sea", by Mr. George Maybee, a piano selection "Medley of Irish Airs" and a song by Mr. Ralstone "Killarney".

Short addresses were made by Mr. A. Appleyard, Mr. R. R. Casement, Mr. Harker, Mr. Ralstone and others.

Among outside guests were Dr. Semple, Belleville; Mr. R. E. Noble, St. John's, Cobourg; Messrs Hoacke, Kilpatrick, Pack, Curtis of Marmora; Mr. J. Harker, Belleville, Mr. A. Appleyard, Leta, Toronto; Mr. C. Buskard, P.D.D.G.M., Marmora and Mr. W. Ralstone, P.M. of St. John's, Omagh, Ireland.

The regular weekly meeting of Trinity United Church Young People's Society was held in the basement of the Church. Miss Minnie Ferguson had charge of the meeting. The program was very short so as to enable the members to attend the play being presented by the Young People of Sacred Heart Church. At the meeting a debate will be held, "Resolved that Canada should maintain and operate her own navy." Teams representing Eldorado and Madoc will meet to decide the issue. Mr. John Bristol and Mr. Mervyn Rutherford will represent Madoc. The program was presented as follows: The topic "In the steps of Jesus" was given by Miss E. Marcette. Master Stanley Hawthodne sang "Rose of Tralee" Mr. Rivers gave a short discussion of the topic. The meeting was closed by singing hymn 223 and repeating the Mizpah Benediction.

ABDOMINAL PAINS Overcome

Now Plays His Favorite Game

Thanks to the formula of the Head Stomach Specialist of a famous London, England, Hospital, thousands of former stomach sufferers now know sustained good health. They enjoy everything they eat. This formula, available under the name of Maclean Brand Stomach Powder, has definitely cleared up thousands of cases of indigestion, gastritis, flatulence, heartburn, dyspepsia and similar stomach troubles. "I have been a great sufferer from abdominal pains," writes Mr. W. W., Margate, England. "For 8 years I had to discard my favorite game of 'bowls'. Now thanks to your wonderful formula I am once again able to join in the good old sport." Get Maclean Brand Stomach Powder from your druggist. The genuine is always marked with the signature, "Alex. C. Maclean." In bottles, 75c. Also in tablets. Never sold loose.

MACLEAN BRAND Stomach Powder

Prepared in the Laboratories of MACLEANS LTD., London, England. Distributors: The Rigo Agencies, 102 Atlantic Ave., Toronto. 41

AMUSING COMEDY WELL PRESENTED

Carrying Place — Never, it seems has spring come in more welcome fashion or at more welcomed time than this year. Exceptionally fine weather has been granted us, and all are quick to appreciate it. One of the fine features of the recent weather is the drying-out on the top of roads and lawns. It may be that there will not be the customary trouble with heaving roadbeds that is usual in spring. The heavy wind of last Sunday assisted materially in disposing of some of the excess water lying about, even though it made houses and barns creak and weave. Robins are singing locally, the first of them being reported more than two weeks ago.

When Salmon Point players presented their laugh-provoking comedy, "Here Comes Charlie" at the United Church Hall last Friday evening, many members of the audience were surprised to find that Charlie was a girl. The story concerned a young lady of "ol Kaintucky", "a hill-billy-ette", so to speak, who faced with the problem of making her way into the hearts of stylish city people with whom Fate has brought her to live.

Mr. Allan Barker of Trenton spent Tuesday evening with Mrs. E. H. Hennessey and family.

A number of hockey fans from the community attended the hockey match at Trenton Arena on Monday evening when High School won the Courier-Advocate trophy and the championship of the T. & D. H. L. by the virtue of their 2-1 win over Benedict- Proctor. The final series proved disappointing to fans. Robbed of the services of several of their most effective players the Benedicts were not the same team that put Wooler out in two straight gam[illegible] Local interest centred with the silver platers largely because they were the ones who put the locals out of furth[illegible] competition.

An unkno[illegible] motorist, apparently not acquainted with the contours of the uncompleted Trenton highway, came to grief when he crashed and demolished the checkerboard at the point where the detour leaves the approach the canal late on Saturday last. The lights of a car stopped at that point were seen by a number, and a later search in the neighbo[illegible]od of the accident revealed a m[illegible]cellaneous collection of sewing-machine parts strewed over the concrete.

CHAPEL IN FLAMES WORSHIP GOES ON

500 Calmed While Attendants Remove Burning Debris

New York March 21—A statue of St. Joseph, enveloped in flames, toppled from an altar and was smashed amid the cries of more than 500 worshippers at a mass in observance of the saint's feast day Tuesday morning in the Roman Catholic Church of Mary Help of Christians at 438 East Twelfth Street, near First Avenue.

Most of those in the church were women. Before the mass many of them had knelt at the altar of St. Joseph's Chapel to the right of the main altar, and had lit candles before the statue.

At 8:20 A.M., during the solemn period when Father Peter Pelegrino was serving communion to fifty persons and the heads of the worshipers were bowed in prayer a candle fell unnoticed out of its holder in the little chapel.

Jack Gulino, the sexton, came out of a storeroom behind the chapel just as the flames leaped from tapestries and embroidered altar cloths to highly inflammable artificial flowers of wax on a five-foot wooden arch framing the statue of St. Joseph. In strained whispers he called to ushers in the room and beat the flames with his bare hands as molten wax rained down on him.

Then the flames shooting upward fifteen feet attracted the attention of the congregation. A murmur rose and Father Pelegrino paused momentarily over those receiving the communion at the altar rail. Father Paul Zolin, the pastor, who was assisting him, said in a calm voice that there was no danger. Only an usher left the church to give an alarm.

Father Zolin rushed to Gulino's side and struggled to bring down the wooden arch. He got the frame loose and it fell forward, but the four foot plaster statue crashed with it, breaking.

About 200 women crowded around the chapel, but Father Zolin again told them to be calm and to resume their seats. With Gulino and the ushers he got the flaming arch and altar cloths into the storeroom where the flames were stamped out while the service continued outside. The damage was estimated at $1,500.

◆

WEEKLY BUDGET FROM SALEM

Salem — League on Tuesday night was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie McLaren, Literary programme was in charge of Mr. Jay Haight.

Miss Bernice Robinson spent a few days last week with Miss Helen McFarlane Melrose.

Mrs. Clifford Hagerman has returned home after spending several days with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Fuller.

Much sympathy is extended to Mrs. Dorland Ross in the loss of her mother Mrs. Conley.

Mr. John Cole spent the week-end with friends at Bethany.

Mrs. Albert Gibson has returned to her home at Latta after visiting for the past two weeks at the home of Mr. Dan Smith.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. George Sills on March 7, a son. (Garnet Fredrick.)

Miss Irene Murphy was a week end guest of Miss Bernice Robinson.

Misses Bernice Robinson and Mary Lockhart, also Merle Robinson attended the Pot Luck Supper held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Hubble, Gilead on Tuesday night and contributed several numbers on the programme.

Mr. George Badgley is able to be out again after a week's illness.

◆

SIDNEY CROSSING WEEKLY LETTER

Sidney Crossing—Mrs. W. B. May accompanied by Mrs. J. Chapman of Belleville took tea on Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hogle.

Mr. and Mrs. Casey Ketcheson entertained a number of young people at their home on Monday evening.

Miss Annie Stickle, who has been spending several weeks with relatives in this neighborhood has returned to Johnstown.

Miss Edith Hogle and Little Ronald Elmy of Belleville spent Friday last with Mrs. Ernest Outwater.

A few from here attended the play, presented in White's Church on Friday evening of last week.

Mr. Robert Cowey of Colborne has been spending a few days with Mr. Bruce Hogle.

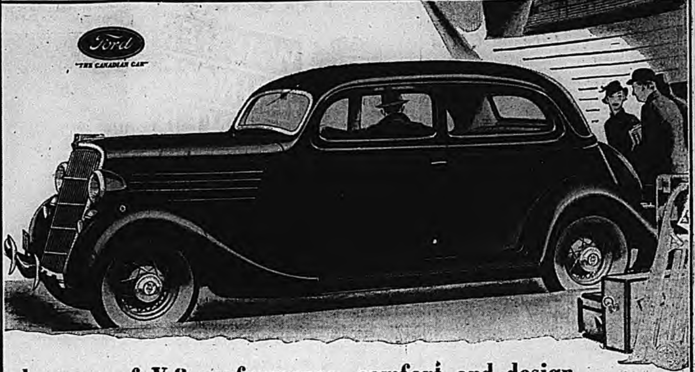
◆

200 Relief Families Notified of Eviction

East Windsor, Ont., March 21 (CP)—Tom Raycraft, ex-alderman and Communist leader of East Windsor, in an interview today said 200 families on relief, including his own, had been served eviction notices by trust companies. The families, he said, had been advised to move to Windsor.

"This is nothing less than a form of deportation on a wholesale scale," continued Mr. Raycraft. "It looks as though they're trying to build up a slums district in Windsor," he added. The trust companies, he declared, were trying to collect cash rent and higher rent than they are getting at the present time.

THE CAR FOR EVERY MOTORIST



because of V·8 performance, comfort and design

NO WONDER the 1935 Ford V-8 is making motor car history . . . serving to a greater extent the country's transportation needs. V-8 performance and economy, an entirely new conception of riding comfort, and a restrained though beautiful modern style make it the balanced car for today and tomorrow. And there are many, many other features that make it a great car to own.

Go over the New Ford. Note the new easier-to-operate brakes, softer clutch, finger-touch steering. Try the restful wider seats, roomier interiors. Examine the rich upholstery and appointments. You'll be astonished at the number of "expensive-car features" that are standard equipment on this Ford. It has many new improvements.

These improvements were adopted only after tests had shown that they would help make the New Ford better looking, more comfortable . . . easier to drive . . . safer for your family . . . more economical for you to run and keep running. See this motor car at your Ford dealer's. Take it out on the road. Drive it!

TUNE IN the FORD SUNDAY EVENING HOUR. Symphony orchestra and celebrated guest soloists. 9 o'clock Eastern Standard Time, Columbia System. FRED WARING AND HIS PENNSYLVANIANS. Thursday evening at 9:30 Eastern Standard Time, Columbia System.

NEW REDUCED PRICES

$32 a month and a reasonable down payment now buys a Ford V-8. See the nearest dealer for details.

"WATCH THE FORDS GO BY"

SEE THE ABOVE AT

TRUDEAU MOTOR SALES

FRONT ST., BELLEVILLE LOCAL DEALERS ONE DOOR SOUTH OF CAPITOL THEATRE

SIDNEY L. A. GUESTS AT PARTY

4th Sidney—A very enjoyable evening was spent on Thursday evening last when about fifty of the Ladies' Aid members and their husbands and families gathered at the home of the president Mr. and Mrs. A. Wood. A contest, music and games filled the evening for young and old, after which tea, sandwiches, cake and tarts were passed to which all did ample justice. At midnight all wended their way home feeling that a very enjoyable time was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Holmes also Miss A. Bailey spent Thursday at Roblin.

Mr. M. Hannah and mother spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. H. Hannah of Marsh Hill.

Mr. W. Holmes had the misfortune of losing a horse last week.

Miss M. Lloyd was a week end guest of her sister Miss Keitha Lloyd at Toronto.

Mrs. S. Johnston of Weston, Ont., is visiting his brother Rev. and Mrs. H. D. Johnston.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Lough and children were Sunday guests of her parents Mr. and Mrs. A. Wood.

Mrs. T. Shears has returned to her home at Whitby having spent a few days with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Roy MacMurter.

◆

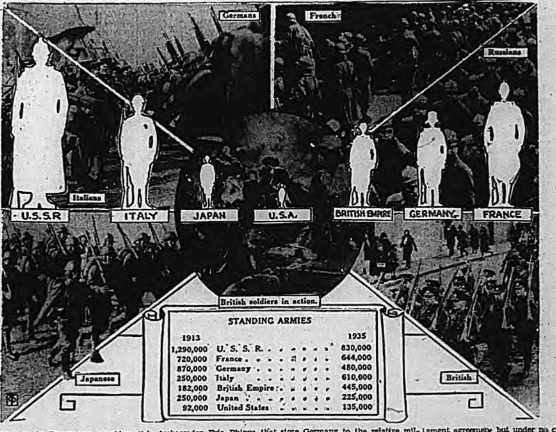
HEARD ADDRESS ON CHEESE MARKETING

Melrose—The officers of the Melrose cheese factory held a meeting at the Township Hall on Monday evening. Mr. Jos. Wilson, Stirling, the Hastings County Agricultural representative, in a very interesting manner gave an outline of the systematic marketing of Ontario cheese. Mr. Howie, cheese inspector and Mr. Pierce, were also present. Mr. S. Anderson, cheese maker also attended the meeting.

Donald Kimmett who had the misfortune to fracture his arm while engaged in sawing wood is still at the Belleville Hospital and doing as well as can be expected as it was a compound fracture. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. L. Ross who is ill is quite low.

TENSION IN EUROPE RELIEVED AS GERMANY AGREES TO DISCUSS ARMS



STANDING ARMIES

1913		1935
1,290,000	U. S. S. R.	830,000
720,000	France	644,000
870,000	Germany	480,000
250,000	Italy	610,000
182,000	British Empire	445,000
250,000	Japan	225,000
92,000	United States	135,000

Tension in Europe was considerably lessened when the German government, after receiving a British protest against unilateral abrogation of the military clauses of the Versailles Treaty, informed British Ambassador Eric Phipps that Germany still is ready to discuss general disarmament. Reichsfuehrer Hitler's announcement of a conscript army, estimated to reach a total of 480,000 men, will not restore Germany to the relative military position she enjoyed prior to 1914, German Foreign Office sources said Germany desires to help settle outstanding European problems and to secure a real disarmament agreement but under no circumstances would she discuss her new conscript army. Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, is preparing to discuss the entire question with Hitler.

Mrs. W. Smith and family have moved on their farm formerly owned by Mr. J. Morden.

Mrs. C. Haight returned home on Saturday from Picton where she attended the W.M.S. Presbyterial and visited relatives.

The play which was presented by the Carmel Young People at Melrose Church Hall on Friday evening was greatly enjoyed by a large attendance. The music by Mr. Pitman between acts was also very much appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Snider were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. Sills, Salem.

Mrs. F. Davis is spending several days with her daughter Mrs. E. Sayers, Halloway.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Haight also Mr. and Mrs. E. Badgley were Monday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. E. Simpkins.

Personals

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Holland announce the engagement of their daughter, Grace Marion, to Rochester Webb Smith, son of Mr. Charles H. Smith, of Toronto, Ontario. The marriage will take place early in May.

Mrs. James Little and grandson, Shannonville, spent Tuesday with friends in Belleville.

Reeve L. E. Neal of the Township of Marmora and Lake and Township Clerk Chas. Jones was in the city yesterday on matters connected with township business.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Wright of Brockville were in the city today to attend the funeral of the late Dr. W. W. Boyce.

Mr. Robert Fenp is quite ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Bush, Dundas Street East.

Mrs. D. M. Lees of Cobourg also Mr. A. G. Bowyer of Watertown, N.Y., and daughter Norma, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bowyer, Everett St.

Frank Wilson, of this city, who underwent a serious operation in the Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday is progressing as well as can be expected.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Fisher of Fonthill, Ont., Mrs. R. Gilpin, of Toronto, and Mrs. John Douglas and her son, Mr. Ross Douglas, of Campbellford, attended the funeral of the late Dr. Boyce in this city today. Mrs. Douglas is a sister of the late Dr. Boyce.

Mr. and Mrs. F. McLean have returned after a trip to Toronto.

Mrs. Violet Westfall, Brock St., is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Fred Adams of the Metropolitan Store staff has left for the St. Thomas branch where he has been transferred.

Mr. J. G. McCarthy who has been ill at his home, Charles Street, is making favourable progress toward recovery.

Mr. Charles E. Addison, Rochester, N.Y., is in the city to attend the funeral of his mother, the late Mrs. Addison.

Another successful euchre party in the Aajmaa series was held last evening. The winners were: ladies' first, Mrs. Ellis; second, Mrs. Osler; third, Mrs. Boyle; fourth, Miss Behan; men's first, Mr. E. Moreau; second, Mr. Herrington; third, Mr. Simpson; fourth, Mr. Dean Ford.

A miscellaneous shower, honoring Mrs. Ray Lockyer (nee Myrtle Archibald) was held on Wednesday evening by Miss Carrie Canning and Miss Helen Aselstine at the latter's home. Mrs. Lockyer received many lovely gifts for which she graciously thanked her friends. After the delightful evening delicious lunch was served.

◆

Medical Science Responsible for Life of Child

Newburgh, N. Y., March 22—(AP)—Science claimed initial victory today in a struggle to keep alive Robert Earl Linsig, the baby without a throat. Robert will be five weeks old Saturday.

Thanks to a hole cut in his stomach he has taken food regularly and has gained in weight from five pounds, 13 ounces, at birth, to seven pounds, five ounces.

In this growth Dr. W. Barton Harris reads the hope baby Robert will live a normal life span. "Of course for perhaps seven years he will have to be fed through the artificial mouth which was cut in his stomach the day after birth," the doctor said.

"At the end of that time a 'rubber throat' will have to be inserted by means of surgery, so Robert can eat his food in the normal way. Meanwhile it is a question whether he will develop a sense of taste."

..Patricia Farr and Maurice Murphy in "Tailspin Tommy" thrilling serial showing at the Capital theatre Saturday only.

Antacid
STOMACH POWDER
I.D.A.
Effectively and pleasantly corrects stomach distress.
3 oz. tin
Reg. 75c. 49c
At Your I.D.A. Drug Store

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

Copyright 1935
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Didn't Know When He Was Well Off

Dear Miss Fairfax:

When I was a child, I had an accident which resulted in permanent lameness. This has kept me from dancing, taking long walks, playing games, or indulging in other youthful amusements and sports. Then along came the girl, and I think she cared more for me, on account of this handicap — she was that kind.

I can't explain the perversity which possessed me, but loving her to distraction, I began to do insane things, like drinking too much in her presence and telling vulgar stories sometimes. She tried to prevent me from drinking, and she would look distressed when I treated her to a smoking-room brand of humor. But a devil within me spurred me on.

Then one day she wrote me a letter and told me everything was over between us, and as she has left town I have not been able to write or follow her. I seem to have been one of those fools who didn't know when he was well off.

Lame.

Surely this girl must have some friend or relative from whom you can get her present address. And if you get it, I hope that you will ask her to forgive you and tell her, as you have me, of the perverse streak which prompted your behavior. Even if she does not take you back again, you owe her this explanation.

Your perversity, my dear friend, came from a complex which had to do with a physical disadvantage. Now that you see that your lameness did not prevent a lovely woman from loving you, live down this complex. Her devotion has shown you are as worthy of love as any other men.

Very Much Upset About Her Freckles

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am one of those freckle-faced girls with light brown hair, and I'm so unhappy when I see other girls with such nice clear complexions. I Know several boys, but never make any dates with them except in the evening when we go to a party or to a show.

I am positive if they found out I had those freckles, they wouldn't take me out with them. Please advise me what to do about them? I've tried many solutions, but as I'm unable to go in for very expensice treatments, they never go away.

These horrid, rusty-looking spots have spoiled my life.

Lorraine

That dusty, golden powdering we call "freckles" is by many authorities considered extremely fascinating. I think you've let yourself become a bit morbid about them, my dear Lorraine. An English novelist who died a few years ago wrote a book that ran into many editions. The heroine had freckles, the novelist was W. L. George, and the title of the book, if memory serves me, was "The Second Blooming".

Expects Her To Treat Always

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have a boy friend who is two years older than I am and can never keep a job more than a few months at a time. When he was unemployed, I fell into the habit of taking him to the movies and buying the admission — just to keep up his spirits. Then I would treat to coffee and cakes on the way home. He got to expecting this, and I don't seem to be able to break him of the habit, which seems so unmanly.

Sometimes his folks send him money, as much as twenty-five and fifty dollars at a time, but he never treats me to as much as a chocolate bar or an ice-cream soda. I am beginning to get tired of this friend, especially as he is very jealous and objects if I go out with anyone else.

Don't you think it would be well for me to cut loose from this entire acquaintance, especially as I do not love him?

Lou Ann

From the contents of your letter, all of which I have not space to print, it seems to me that you spoil this young man pretty thoroughly, and what with your treating and coddling, your affection for him seems to have disappeared.

As you no longer care for him there is no reason to make you keep on taking him out and paying for his entertainment, unless you do this in a spirit of pity.

VICKS COUGH DROP
... Real Throat relief! Medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub
OVERCOMES BAD BREATH

3 Machines for the price of 1
THOR
WASHER WRINGER IRONER
All three for $99.50
See Thor's Quality Features
9-Vane Super-Agitator—Free Rolling Wringer—Sealed Mechanism Amazing Value!
THOR - FRIGIDAIRE
SALES AND SERVICE
333 Front Street. Belleville Phone 837

LET YOUR FACE AND HANDS
Mirror the Beauty of Spring
•
Call 719M Today for A
Facial and Manicure
FACIALS - - - single $1.00
OR SET OF SIX FOR $5.00
MANICURES - - - each 35c
MISS POLLY ELVINS
283½ Front Street Phone 719m

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Copyright 1935
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

SUNDAY NIGHT SUPPER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I would like to entertain in honor of two of my friends, one a bride of a year, the other to be married next month. There will be ten girls. What I would like to know is, whether or not a Sunday night supper and bridge is appropriate and if the following menu is proper to serve?

Cocktails and hors d'oeuvre — to be served in the living-room. Chicken-a-la-king on toast, mashed potatoes, wax beans. Then, as a separate course, avocado pear, orange and grapefruit salad or endive. Angel food cup cakes with chocolate sauce and whipped cream, and coffee. Then there will also be relishes and rolls.

2. Is five-thirty o'clock a good time to serve and then play bridge in the evening?

S.

1. Your plans for this supper party are very good and thoroughly appropriate. The only items in your menu that I would suggest you change are the mashed potatoes and the wax beans. If you have appropriate and important relishes with your chicken a la King, and heated and buttered rolls, you will have a more sophisticated and better-balanced course. With this course, try, for instance, sauted peaches or apricots (they are delicious with chicken a la King), or sauted quarters of stuffed oranges which you can buy in glass jars. Or serve any one of these, and also serve your salad with this main course. If you serve your salad as a separate course, plan to serve an interesting cheese with it, or a choice of two or three kinds of cheese. And with these serve crackers that have been buttered and toasted. Your dessert is an excellent choice.

2. Yes.

IN THE FAMILY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Because of a large family of sisters, it has not been the custom for my sister, who is to be married quietly next month, to make special friends with other girl. I know there are several good friends who would like to attend a shower for her, but they do not feel that they have been intimate enough for any one of them to give her a party.

Would it be improper for any of the three married sisters, or myself, an unmarried sister, to give such a party for her I would dearly love to do this, myself, but would not care to put myself in the position of asking her friends to bring her gifts if it is very improper. If it were possible, I feel that the guests would understand.

L.

Since it is customary to take for granted that a bridal shower is given by close friends of the bride-to-be, and since, as you say, your sister hasn't, because of circumstances, had the opportunity of surrounding herself by close friends, it seems inconsistent to me that this shower should be planned. If you and your sisters wish to give a party for your engaged sister, this would be charming and of course definitely appropriate. But I can't feel that it would be appropriate for you or your sisters to "promote" a shower, which in this case has to take for granted that not-very-close friends would be expected to contribute shower presents. Since your sister's friends "do not feel that they have been intimate enough" with her to plan this party. I don't see how you could logically take for granted that they are intimate enough friends to contribute shower presents. Do you?

◆

Sharing the spotlight with blue and brown is gray, especially for suits. A new model is in light gray diagonal woolen and has a loose, open coat collared in platinum fox. It is worn with a blouse in coral pink linen marked by much drawn-thread work.

Never too many suits for the wardrobe of the active girl. A useful model is in Harris tweed with a cream ground and dark brown line checks. There are four pockets, and the jacket is outlined with stitching in dark brown.

BEE HIVE
GOLDEN
CORN SYRUP
A GREAT ENERGY FOOD

Exercising Is Route to Beauty

PLENTY OF FRESH AIR IS VERY ESSENTIAL, SAYS EXPERT

Jean Parker

An outdoor girl, she knows the value of exercise

By HELEN FOLLETT

To carry fashionable dry goods in a distinguished manner the feminine figure must be slender of limb, trim of waist and well developed at the chest. That means exercise, my hearties. Without exercise, the chest does a cave-in and the waist thickens.

Mention exercise to some women and they fall into a state of collapse. They can tear around all day, dance all night, but they can't face calisthenics. Too bad, because the fabric of beauty is made up of good circulation, vitality, animation, good digestion and a nervous system that can be depended upon even if the roof blows off.

These components of good looks cannot be attained without washing the lungs freely with fresh air, giving muscles plenty of work to do.

At least, one can clip off a three-mile walk each day. One must maintain a vibrant posture, trot-trot with a spirited step. Ten minutes of bending, stretching and torso twisting each day will tighten fibers, make roses bloom on pretty faces.

Medium brunettes, those brown-eyed girls with fair skins, have a wide range of color choices. They wear peach and coral well, also Chinese red. Dark blues are becoming. Black isn't so good unless it is brightened with red or jade green. All browns are safe selections, and beige is friendly if it carries a pinkish cast. Purple, green and orange are doubtful.

◆

Fashion Flashes

Copyright 1935
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Seen everywhere is the little lace ensemble in various tastes, as well as white and black. The favored silhouette shows a slim line with fulness near the hemline and a simple bodice. The jacket buttons tightly down the front with rhinestone buttons and there is a demure turn-down collar.

A set idea is the Spring hat with matching scarf. Such a set shows a shallow Breton sailor in shiny black straw with the rolled-up brim revealing a facing of red, yellow and black plaided taffeta. The crown band and bow are of the taffeta; the scarf, which is also of the plaided taffeta, is fringed at the edges.

Leisure hours are made more pleasurable by the lovely negligees and pajama suits now on display. A new model is in pink semi-sheer fabric with a bias of white satin and bands of silver paillettes outlining the model and edging the panel sleeves.

Why not a pink hat to greet the Spring?. Most attractive is a hat of pale pink felt with round flat crown and wide brim turned up sharply in back. The brim is stitched at the edge with brown silk and is trimmed with matching dark brown grosgrain with a pink composition ornament.

◆

AFTERNOON TEA HONORS BRIDE

2nd Thurlow.—Mr. and Mrs. Milton Bird, Stirling, spent one day recently with the latter's mother, Mrs. Stickney, who all are glad to hear, is able to be up for some time each day.

Mr. and Mrs. John Donaldson, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Greatrix Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Will Gray, Jack and June were entertained to tea at Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boulstridge's on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins and family spent the tea hour on Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Grills.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell and Garnet took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Toppings, Belleville.

Miss Belle Clazie spent one day recently with Mrs. John Donaldson.

A delightful afternoon tea, arranged by Mrs. A. McDonnell, Mrs. F. Barlow and Mrs. F. Doxtator was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Huff, on Tuesday afternoon from three to five in honour of Mrs. Gordon Craig, a recent bride. During the afternoon some interesting contests were enjoyed, after which Rev. Mr. Pepper expressed the good wishes of the guests to the bride and Mrs. McDonnell and Mrs. Barlow carried in a small table laden with gifts and presented them to the bride.

Mrs. Craig in a few well-chosen words expressed her thanks and invited one and an to come and see them in their new home.

The ladies were then invited to the tea room which was beautifully decorated in white and green and shamrocks emblematic of Ireland and St. Patrick. The table was prettily decorated in the same colours and tea was poured by Mrs. Pepper and lunch was served by Mrs. McDonnell, Mrs. Barlow, Mrs. Doxtator, Mrs. Bovey, Betty Barlow and Annie Lazaruik.

Mrs. Alex Milne is spending some time in Ottawa visiting with her sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boulstridge accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Edison Rion, Belleville, spent the week-end in Toronto, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Norman.

Mr. Shymzyshyn has returned to his home after being in the hospital for about nine weeks. All hope that he will continue to improve.

Mr. T. Vivian, Mr. G. Greatrix, Mr. Fred and Mr Harry Greatrix and Arnold Mitchell attended the Grand Lodge held at Trenton on Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. O'Brien (nee Sadie Bibby) is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital. All hope she will soon be well again and able to return home.

Little Miss Joan Rion returned to her home in Belleville on Monday after spending a week with her aunt, Mrs. C. Boulstridge.

The regular monthly meeting of the Neighbours' Aid was held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Arthur Keene with a good attendance of around seventy. A lovely dinner was served at noon which all enjoyed. During the afternoon two quilts were quilted and in the afternoon the meeting was held which was opened by singing "the Ode" followed by repeating the Lord's Prayer. The minutes of the last meetings were read by the secretary, Mrs. E. Leeming, and approved. Some business matters were discussed and several letters of thanks for fruit and flowers were read. Laura and Ila Keene delighted the ladies with music and singing. Mrs. Craig invited the members to her home for the April meeting. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

FOR LITTLE HUNGER STRIKERS
A Food Drink Which Builds Appetite and Promotes Growth
WANT your youngsters to have young, vigorous appetites — ready for every meal—eager for their cereals or vegetables as much as for the sweets? Make Vip their regular beverage. They will love it — and it contains in abundance the vital element which promotes appetite and growth in children, — Vitamin B_1.
If you are worried over Janie's appetite—try Vip.
Here's the Proof
Mrs. Blackstock of Toronto writes, "Dianne simply would not touch solid food—I bought a large tin of Vip. My trouble with Dianne ended there. At 2 years, Dianne weighs 35 pounds, strong, sturdy and happy." Vip contains 27% wheat germ—the vital hearts of wheat and one of the richest known sources of Vitamin B_1—the appetite and growth vitamin. Tests have been made in Toronto and in American cities which show that adding wheat germ to an otherwise satisfactory diet will largely increase the rate of growth in children over those not given this vital element. (American Journal of Diseases of Children, May, 1930; October, 1930; February, 1932.)
Smiling appetites mean smiling health.
Everybody can benefit from VIP
Vip was specially designed to overcome two common deficiencies in our diets—lack of vitamin B_1, lack of iron, both of which affect our general health. For this reason it helps prevent constipation (vitamin B_1); it builds red blood (iron); it promotes strong nerves (vitamin B_1); it builds resistance to colds and other infectious diseases (vitamin B_1 and iron). Ask your doctor about Vip.
★ Every claim for the vitamin and the iron content of VIP has been proved in laboratories with actual feeding tests, and is certified accurate. F. A. J. Zeidler, Ph.D., F.C.I.C.
THREE SIZES 29¢ 59¢ 98¢
Money-Back Guarantee
It will cost you nothing if Vip fails to satisfy you. If you feel that it falls short of our claims, return the unused portion of the tin and your money will be cheerfully refunded. Get Vip from your druggist or grocer. Scientific Food Products, Ltd., Toronto.
21-35
THE ONLY DELICIOUS CHOCOLATE BEVERAGE CONTAINING 4 VITAMINS AND IRON

I FLEW OFF THE HANDLE AT STOPPED-UP DRAINS UNTIL I USED
It cuts right through all clogging matter . . .
There's nothing like Gillett's Pure Flake Lye to clear drains in a jiffy! Use it regularly and you'll keep sinks, tubs and toilets running freely. Pour it down full strength —it will not harm enamel or plumbing. Kills germs and destroys odors as it cleans. Keep a tin on hand.
• Never dissolve lye in hot water. The action of the lye itself heats the water.
FREE BOOKLET—The Gillett's Lye Booklet gives dozens of practical hints for using this powerful cleanser and disinfectant. Also gives full directions for soapmaking, thorough cleansing and other uses on the farm. Write for free copy to Standard Brands Limited, Fraser Ave., and Liberty St., Toronto, Ontario.
GILLETT'S LYE EATS DIRT

Foods For Beauty

Seekers of Loveliness Should Know Them, Authority Declares

CLAIRE DODD

knows her beauty foods and with them she keeps her complexion clear.

By HELEN FOLLETT

Do you know that onions, tomatoes, carrots and lettuce are first-class beauty foods? They supply elements that are good for the well being of the complexion.

Citrus fruits are valuable, especially if a woman is afflicted with a sallow skin. You know, that greenery-yallery cast that makes her look like a victim of biliousness.

Let her begin the day with a glass of water to which the juice of half a lemon and a pinch of salt have been added. Once a day she needs a salad of lettuce and rwa tomatoes, slices of raw onion.

Deleted from the vocabulary of the coiffure reporter is the' word sculptured. Let's chuck it into the rubbish bin, for it's all worn out and frazzled. Ever since the finger wave slapped hair down like paint on wood, hairdresses have displayed the sculptured effect. Are we tired of that skull tight tress cap? Fifty million women holler yes.

Locks must be soft and silky. The fashionable wave lifts slightly from the head, gives a bit more fullness. Points out on the cheeks, relics of other days, are taboo. The hair is neat, every tendril in its place. The effect to be attained is that of naturally curly hair, combed through but not flattened.

There sroula be a low enacted

There should be a law enacted forcing beauty seekers to stay long enough under the hair dryer so that the coiffure can be combed out. Trailing about with an undressed finger wave, isn't much more ladylike than appearing in paper curls.

Dry, faded hair needs plenty of brilliantine. It comes to life if the manipulations excite sebaceous glands which send forth an oily fluid to keep hair shafts from breaking.

Be canny about the shampoo medium. See that a bland soap is used and then rinsed away with a strong current of water applied by a spray.

Dry shampoos are not cery satisfactory, for there are times when a woman must resort to them. A good medium is a mixture of equal parts of corn meal and powdered orris. Apply with a salt shaker and remove with a brush. Have a final brushing with cotton placed over the bristles.

A CHILD CAN SEE THE DIFFERENCE

I LOVE NICE CLEAN THINGS TO PUT ON SO OFTEN
ALL MY CLOTHES SMELL SO SWEET AND FRESH NOW, MUMMY
THAT'S BECAUSE I'M WASHING THEM A NEW WAY, BETTY—
I'M USING RINSO IN THE WASHING MACHINE NOW. REMEMBER? —I SENT YOU FOR A BOX LAST MONDAY
OH, YES—THAT'S THE SOAP THE GROCER SAID EVERYBODY'S USING
I'M NOT SURPRISED EVERYBODY'S USING IT! RINSO WASHES CLOTHES 4 OR 5 SHADES WHITER, AND IT'S SAFE EVEN FOR BABY'S FINEST COTTON DRESSES!
LOOK, MUMMY—IT SAYS ON THE BOX TO USE IT FOR DISHES, TOO
Rinso

Read what Jessie De Both, famous expert, reports:

● "By hundreds of actual tests we have found Rinso to be a wonderful work and time-saver in the washing of clothes. In our demonstrations we show how a little Rinso gives a lot of creamy, lasting suds—and how snowy it gets the clothes.

"First, we put a batch of badly soiled clothes to soak in a tubful of Rinso suds. Later we show how every bit of dirt loosens and floats off in the water. All that is left to do is rinse! No scrubbing—no boiling are necessary.

"We have found that Rinso is a complete soap, perfectly safe for your finest cottons and linens, white or colours. In fact, we know of nothing better for tub or washer. And, best of all, it's economical. To try Rinso is to become a Rinso 'fan'."

DE BOTH HOME-MAKERS' SCHOOLS

Jessie M. DeBoth

The makers of 23 famous Canadian washers and the home-making experts of 53 leading newspapers recommend Rinso. It's great for tub-washing, too—soaks out dirt, saves scrubbing. Clothes last 2 or 3 times longer—you'll save lots of money. Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as light-weight, puffed-up soaps—even in hardest water. Wonderful for dishes and all cleaning. So easy on the hands.

Rinso

A PRODUCT OF LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED

Millions use it in tub, washer and dishpan

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE RELIES ON RINSO IN ALL HER DEMONSTRATIONS

Attend Miss Andree's fascinating demonstrations in the Capitol Theatre next Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Learn why modern home-making experts use Rinso for a "Whiter Wash".

Jessie M. DeBoth

S.S. CLASS ENJOYS SOCIAL EVENING

West Huntingdon, March 23 — The Endeavours class held their monthly social evening at Mr. and Mrs. John Moorcroft's home. Their were fourteen membres present and one visitor. The worship period consisted of singing some of the good old gospel hymns. Melville Donnan read the Scripture lesson. Marguerite and Irene Elliott gave a duet. Roll call was answered by giving the name of a flower, corresponding with the first letter of your name. Mrs. Clifford Elliott gave a reading. A contest and lunch were much enjoyed. Messrs. Melville Donnan and Foster Wilson closed the meeting with prayer. A vote of appreciation was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Moorcroft for use of their home.

Mr. Charles Redcliffe had the misfortune to cut his foot with the axe while assisting Mr. Melville Donnan in the woods.

Mr. Delbert McCurdy spent last week visiting friends at Consecon and Centre.

Mrs. Ross Sprague and Amy of Big Island are visiting at Mrs. S. Fargey's this week.

Miss Ida Scott spent Sunday as guest of her friend Miss Annie Cooke.

Mrs. Jas. McGown is spending this week with friends in Murray.

Mrs. Chester Sills was called to Kingston on Sunday to see Mrs. Eliza Ann Sills who is critically ill at hospital in Kingston.

Doris Pauline Donnan young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Donnan attended Sunday school on Sunday morning for the first time.

Mr. Harry Moorcroft of Toronto is visiting his brother, Mr. John Moorcroft this week.

Miss Georgia Pitman attended the W.M.S. presbyterial meeting held at Picton last week. She represented the local branch here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hammond attended the funeral of Mrs. Anderson at Frankford on Wednesday.

Mr. and rMs. Philip Carr and family spent Sunday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Brummell of Massassaga.

The Misses uby Bray, Leah Carr and Mr. A Carr were entertained at the parsonage on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fargey spent Sunday with the latter's parents at Lindsay.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins of Thurlow called to ee Mrs. Sarah Fargey on Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Lorne Brough and Billy, Mrs. William Tuft of Zion's Hill and Mr. B. Lee of Belleville were Tuesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sandy McCurdy.

Keep GOING with

PEP

BETTER BRAN FLAKES

You can tell Kellogg's PEP Bran Flakes by flavor and crispness. And you can be assured they are genuine bran flakes. Full of flavor and nourishment. Children love them.

These truly better bran flakes have enough extra bran to be mildly laxative. Always fresh and ready to eat with milk or cream. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

Kellogg's
PEP
BRAN FLAKES
WHEAT

LENTEN SERMON SERIES AT AIKEN'S

Third Sidney—There was a fair attendance at Aiken's Sunday School and Church on Sunday morning. Rev. H. B. Johnston chose as his text Luke 13:3 "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish" and warned his congregation that true repentance meant a complete change of heart, with a Christ-like attitude toward all worldly affairs. Mr. Johnson's series of sermons during the Lenten season are followed closely by the Aiken's congregation.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hazard of Thurlow also Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Hinchliffe spent a day recently at the home of Mrs. H. Hubble.

Mrs. Henry Kells and Mr. Bob Kells left on Thursday last for their new home in Manitoba.

Mrs. Oden Fenn has returned to her home after spending a few days with relatives in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Grills spent the week end in Toronto.

Miss Aletha Parry had Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Bart Hogle.

Mrs. O. Fenn spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. S. Westover.

Mr. Everett Hubble spent a few days with relatives in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg Dracup of Belleville were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Cooke.

Miss Jean Craighead of Belleville spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Orr.

CELEBRATE 40TH ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR WEDDING

Melville— Messrs Will Morton, Lewis McFaul and Reeve Murney Parks attended council meeting at Hillier on Friday.

Rev. R. A. McRae Mrs. A. Carley and Mrs. A. Cruickshank were among those who attended the W. M. S. Presbyterial at Picton on Thursday afternoon and Friday.

Billie Wood and Raymond Joyce spent Saturday afternoon in Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Warner Wood spent Saturday evening at Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carley were in Belleville on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carley and Elmer, Mr. and Mrs. E. Carley, Dorothy and Clarence were pleasantly entertained at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carley on Thursday evening when they celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary.

Mr. Will Morton sawed wood this week for Mr. Fred Morton and Mrs. Jas. Morton.

Rev. R. A. McRae and Joyce, Miss Bowen, Mr. Fred Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Will Joyce and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hicks attended the supper held in Allisonville Hall under the auspices of Bowerman's Ladies' Aid on Friday evening.

PLAINFIELD NEWS OF NEIGHBORHOOD

Plainfield— The W. M. Society held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. J. W. Hamilton.

Mrs. E. Sills spent one day this week with her mother Mrs. Salisbury who is ill.

Mr. R. Hall attended the funeral of the late Mrs. H. Coulter on Friday.

League on Tuesday night was in charge of Mr. Bill Doran.

Mrs. S. Hazard and Franklin have returned home after spending some time with relatives in Wallbridge and Belleville.

Miss A. Hamilton spent last Thursday with Mr. M. Fargey, Roslin.

Mrs. W. Hall, Mrs. W. Elliott and Mrs. G. Swan spent last week with relatives at Napanee.

—Mrs. S. Hall is visiting her brother, Mr. W. McCreary.

YOUNG PEOPLE OF SPRINGBROOK PRESENT PLAY

..Springbrook—Mrs. Fannie Linn returned home on Wednesday after spending the past few months with relatives at Beamsville.

Mrs. Mary Danford and Mr. John Danford also Miss Mabel Mason were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Reid on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Joyce and family of Foxboro were Sunday guests of Mrs. Carrie Joyce.

Mr. John Wiley who is employed at Northern Ontario spent a few days at his home here in the village last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg McKeown spent Sunday in Peterboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKeown, 10th concession, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Runnalls.

Mr. Newton White and his little grand daughter Francis White are spending a few days with relatives in Toronto.

Miss Laura Foley spent the week end with friends at Rylestone.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Bailey of Harold were guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. Mason on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Moon entertained relatives from Madoc on Sunday.

Mrs. Newton White, Mrs. Hiram Mumby and Mr. Lorne Bateman spent the week end in Peterboro.

Mrs. Frank Runnalls spent Monday at the home of Mr. Clarence Runnalls.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barton of 10th concession spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Orrie Barton.

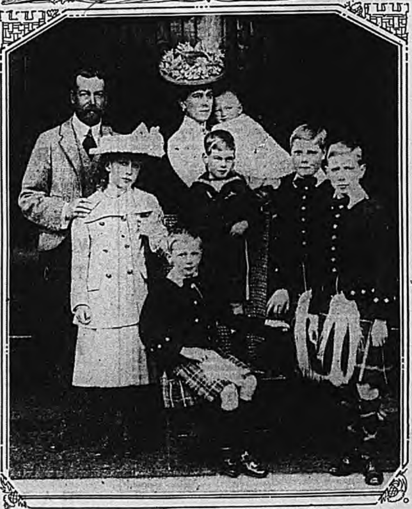
Miss Marie Chute of Vienna is visiting her sister Mrs. John Wiley.

The Young People's League of Springbrook United Church staged their three act play "The Winning of Joy" in the Orange Hall here on Friday, March 15. The cast of characters were.

Joy King—Miss Laura Foley; Uncle Joe Reves—Mr. Clayton Burkitt; Dave Reeves—Mr. Ritchie Mason; Pa Vernon—Mr. Granville Mieklejohn; Ma Vernon—Miss Evelyn Bailey; Kate Vernon—Miss Edna Stillman; Bill Vernon—Mr. Lorne Bateman; Hettie Sims—Mrs. Granville Meiklejohn; Ben Assafetity—Mr. Lorne Bailey; Rev. Phineas Barker—Mr. Garnet Heath. Between the acts the audience was favored with duets by Misses Jeanne Robinson and Laura Foley; also piano solos by Miss Evelyn Barnum. The entertainment closed by all singing "God Save The King". Much credit is due to the players who took part in the play in the capable manner in which they acted their parts.

ATHLETE'S FOOT
Ringworm Infection
Skin Troubles
YIELD QUICKLY TO
D.D.D.
Dr. D. D. Dennis' Liquid Prescription, made and guaranteed by the makers of Campana's Italian Balm. Trial bottle 35c at your druggist.

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee



The Prince and Princess of Wales (1906) and thei r six children.

OUR last picture showed Queen Mary and her three children when she was Duchess of York in 1899. Seven years have elapsed since that picture and the one shown above.

Seven years of sorrow, bloodshed, war, death and trial it was. For in that period between 1899 and 1906, Britain's greatest queen died; the Boers in South Africa waged war against the empire; there was the Boxer uprising in China; and to the horror and disgust of the British people, pro-Boer and anti-English campaign of villification was being carried on in the French press, directed particularly against Queen Victoria.

The South African war started in 1899 and with it the trials of the Duke and Duchess of York were trebbled. They had to bear the burden of the official duties of both Queen Victoria and the Prince of Wales, who were both busily engaged in war work.

Queen Victoria died on Jan. 22, 1901, and Edward VII ascended the throne. In November, the Duke and Duchess of York became Prince Princess of Wales.

But during all this trying period, Mary and George never neglected their family. In 1900, Prince Henry was born; in 1902, Prince George (now Duke of Kent) was born—just a few months before this picture was taken in Scotland, Prince John was born. Prince John died in 1919.)

So our picture to-day shows the Prince and Princess of Wales with their family of six children, Edward, Albert, Mary, Henry, George and John.

In the following year (1907), the Prince of Wales was promoted to the rank of admiral. He was known then throughout the entire world as "the sailor prince," just as he is known to-day as the "sailor king."

RECEIVE GIFTS FROM COMMUNITY

Foxboro—Mrs. Byron Lott spent Saturday with Mrs. J. G. Sills.

A large number of neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Young on Wednesday evening to spend a social time ere they left for their new home in Deseronto. In the early evening Mr. and Mrs. Young were given prominent chairs and an appropriate address read by Mrs. Everett McCaughan after which Messrs Arthur Walt and Hubert Gay presented them with a very pretty kitchen cabinet and a pretty scarf to each of the boys, Hubert and John. Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Young, who has since been bereft of her father (Mr. Johnston) who died in the Belleville Hospital on Tuesday.

Messrs Murney Reynolds, Arthur Gough, Richard Clarke, Earl Bird and Clifford Wilson attended Grand Lodge at Trenton this week.

Mrs. Harry Hoard of Hastings spent the week end at Mr. John Stewart's.

Mrs. M. Huffman of Trenton called on her mother Mrs. H. Gay on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Arthur Sheffield spent Thursday afternoon with Mrs. W. Hodgen.

Mr. and Mrs. Eali Denyes and boys of Plainfield called at Mr. J. G. Sills on Sunday afttrnoon.

Mrs. S. C. Gay and Mrs. Walter Wickett attended the Presbyterial at Picton last week.

Quite a number attended Mr. I. B. Gay's on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Priest entertained a number at their home on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart and Clifford had Sunday dinner at Mr. C. C. Davis'.

Mrs. John Gowsell Sr., is quite ill with pneumonia.

Mr. Ronald Longwell is staying for a time with his sister Mrs. Clare Finkle.

Mrs. L. Hagerman returned home on Sunday after spending the winter with relatives at Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wannamaker entertained some friends at their home on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Montgomery and daughter spent the week end at Mr. W. Hodgen's.

Quite a few attended League on Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Marion Daniels.

A program on Citizenship was given while Mrs. Hodgen gave some thoughts on "What Kind of a citizen are you." Contests were given and lunch served.

for RHEUMATISM
Pour Minard's into a warm dish. Rub liniment gently in; then apply as according to directions . . . and soon you'll get relief!
MINARD'S
"KING OF PAIN"
LINIMENT

Budget Speech (In Part) as Delivered by Hon. E. N. Rhodes

Ottawa, March 22—(CP)— The Hon. E. N. Rhodes said, in part, in his budget speech this afternoon:

"Mr. Speaker, one year ago in presenting the budget I stated that the low point in the long depression had been reached and passed, that considerable progress had already been made in this and other countries in the restoration of normal conditions, and that the prevailing economic trends were in the direction of further progress.

In actual experience the accuracy of this statement and forecast has been established and it is my very good fortune to review the course of business and the trend of public finances during a year, which has been marked by continued — and substantial—progress, and a nearer approach to sound and satisfactory business and financial conditions.

Volume up 48.5 Percent

"If we take the most comprehensive index of Canadian economic activity compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, we find that the physical volume of business in Canada was in February of this year (based on preliminary figures) no less than 48.5 per cent above the low point of the depression.

When we keep in mind, that this means practically at 50 per cent increase, on the average, in the number of automobiles, barrels of flour, pounds of sugar, pairs of shoes, tons of steel, tons of newsprint, feet of lumber, yards of cloth, tons of mineral, kilowatt hours of electricity and corresponding units of other articles produced by practically all our leading industries, as well as freight cars loaded, construction contracts awarded, and the volume of trade, we cannot belittle its significance.

No less important is the fact that the improvement is continuing, for this index after a slight recession has again risen to the peak reached last May and is now 15.2 per cent higher than in February, 1934.

Progress Better Than in 1933

Moreover, the progress in 1934 was more general than in 1933, as gains were registered in nearly all branches of activity. In view of the unsettled international conditions during the past eight or 10 months, this may well be regarded as a real achievement for Canadian business.

"In this respect Canada's record compares most favorably with that of other countries. The League of Nations publishes monthly a table showing general index numbers of industrial production for nearly all the leading countries. If we take the 15 countries for which the figures are available for one of the last three months of 1934 and compare the increases in industrial production since January 1933, we find that in the degree of advance from January 1933 to the end of 1934 Canada easily occupies first place.

"Canada's progress reflects in part the world-wide recovery based on the automatic working of normal economic forces which have always brought an end to previous depressions but it is apparent that the greater speed and consistency of our advance must have some real relation to the sound policies which this government has instituted in order to preserve the integrity of our economic and financial structure, to restore equilibrium in our economy and to stimulate the forces making for recovery."

Farmers To Be Helped

Mr. Rhodes then reviewed improvements noted in individual industries, manufacturing, mining, forestry, transportation and agriculture.

"However, it must be admitted that conditions in agriculture still leave much to be desired," he continued. "It is for this reason that so much of the legislation sponsored by this government during the last two or three years has been devoted to improving the condition of the farmer. I refer particularly to the Natural Products Marketing Act, the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act and the various amendments to the Canadian Farm Loan Act designed to provide agricultural credit at low rates, and also to the assistance given by way of guarantee to prevent demoralization in wheat prices.

"The unsatisfactory conditions in agriculture and certain other primary industries are in the main due to the low level of international trade resulting from the spread throughout the world of exaggerated economic nationalism, excessive interferences with trade through quotas and exchange controls, and fluctuating currencies."

It was idle to expound free trade theories in the face of the world situation, said the Minister. The government had to face facts. He then outlined the steps taken by the government to increase external trade. The empire pacts, the treaty with France, negotiations with the United States and other countries.

Employment was at a higher level in 1934 but large numbers were still on relief. The total, including dependents, in February was 1,229,935, a decrease of 117,285 from February last year. The next few months would likely produce a further substantial decrease.

Wholesale Prices Up

"In the budget a year ago were reviewed the steps which the government had taken to foster a rise in commodity prices and promote a lowering of interest rates," the Minister said.

"These efforts have been continued but because of obvious international factors the movement towards rising price levels has made comparatively slight progress during the past year. In Canada fluctuations in wholesale prices during 1934 were of minor importance. But while the tax as a whole remained comparatively stable, a most reassuring development occurred in the form of a considerable correction of some of the disparities which the drastic fall of prices had created and which constitute the most serious aspects of a depression. Thus during the year ending March 1, the wholesale prices of Canadian farm products rose by no less than 8.6 per cent, as contrasted with practically no increase at all in the general index.

"Interest is one of the rigid factors in our price structure, and as the burden of interest charges still constitutes a pressing problem for most public bodies and many private individuals, it is gratifying to record the rather striking success which has attended the comprehensive program sponsored by the government to bring down interest rates to a level more in line with other prices and with our present productive capacity.

"With our encouragement, the rate paid on savings deposits by banks and other financial institutions, which is the basic rate in our interest rate system, has been lowered in two or more successive stages to a minimum of two per cent.

"In the last five years this government has converted over $1,100,000,000 of public debt with an attendant saving in fixed charges of over $14,600,000 per year. During the present year, if market conditions continue favorable, we expect to effect further substantial economies through the same process.

Bond Price Rise

"That our efforts have been successful is amply confirmed by the rise in high grade bond prices and by the high prices at which obligations are currently selling in the investment markets. This improvement in the yield of Dominion bonds has been reflected in more or less similar advances in provincial, municipal and corporate bonds depending on the credit of the particular borrower.

"It appeared that the time was fast approaching where practically all public bodies could secure the advantages of refunding outstanding issues at substantially lower interest rates, but a temporary clogging of the market and certain unfortunate, widely heralded statements have clouded the outlook for the time being. It is to be hoped that this situation is only a temporary one but it behooves all debtors to remember that credit is a tender plant and must be carefully cultivated.

"The benefit of steps which have been taken to reduce interest rates is not confined to the lessened burden of fixed charges to public bodies and private borrowers.

Cheaper Money Available

Perhaps a more important advantage will accrue from the powerful stimulus, which lower interest rates exert on business recovery," he said. "Already in Canada there are evidences that more and cheaper money is becoming available for mortgage purposes. This augurs well for further revival of the construction industry in which activity has been abnormally depressed and unemployment serious.

"In the banking field the feature of the year has been the establishment of the Bank of Canada which began operations on March 11. The management which has been provided for this new institution commands, I am certain, the entire confidence of the Canadian people.

"I also expect much from the disinterested and competent advice on financial matters, which it should be able to give, not only to the Dominion Government but also to Provincial Governments, which may have found it difficult to keep closely in touch with conditions in the world's financial markets and which may in future avail themselves of the bank's services.

"The bank will also provide an effective mechanism by which Canada may at the appropriate time execute such national policies as may be determined upon in regard to our future monetary standard.

Currency in Chaotic Condition

"I have already referred to the retarding effect upon international trade of the chaotic condition of the world's basic currencies. For Canada, so heavily interested as she is in foreign trade and with such huge obligations payable abroad, this monetary instability is a factor of major importance.

"For a time last year it appeared, that an approach to stability was gradually being achieved and that the working of economic forces was beginning to reveal the natural rates of equilibrium between certain countries, which would make de facto stabilization possible. Recent events, however, indicate upon how slender a thread hangs the integrity of certain currencies, and suggest the possibility of a period of renewed fluctuations with consequent disturbances to trade and finance.

Political Friction

That would be the case if we could consider solely our own position. But in these days nations do not live unto themselves alone. Perhaps least of all Canada.

"And no one can look out upon the world today without recognizing the political political frictions that exist. The apparent beginning of a new armament race among the nations, the social and economic tensions that persist in many countries.

"The expansion of our eternal trade has continued on an accelerated scale. In the previous fiscal year the total of imports and exports showed a gain of 15 per cent over the year before.

Increase Notable

In the 11 months' period ended Feb. 28 last, the rate of increase was 18 per cent over the corresponding period of 1933-34. The actual increase was $168,000,000 and the total volume was the best since 1931. Imports expanded at a rate of 23 per cent over the previous year, and exports by 15 per cent. In the earlier stages of trade recovery exports were increasing faster than imports.

"World statistics show, that in 1934 Canada again occupied fifth place in export trade, and stood ninth in imports and eighth in total international trade.

"A statement of the total trade for the 11 months ended February 28, with comparative figures, follows:

(000 omitted in figures below)

Eleven months ended

	February 28, 1934	February 28, 1935	Increase
Imports —	$386,279	$474,240	$87,961
Exports:
Canadian Produce —	521,706	601,376	79,670
Foreign Produce —	5,585	6,731	1,146
	$913,570	$1,082,347	$168,777

"For the fourth successive year Canada's exports have exceeded imports. The favorable balance in the 11 months' period being nearly $134,000,000. This figure is for merchandise only and does not include the export of current gold production which adds a further $100,000,000 annually to credits available in external markets for the liquidation of interest due abroad and other debit items in international settlements.

Trade Agreements Effective

"The effective operation of the empire trade agreements is reflected in the statistics of intra-empire trade. In the 10 months ended Jan. 31, the latest date to which figures of trade by countries are compiled, exports to the United Kingdom, our largest market, recorded an increase of nearly 22 per cent. For all empire countries the increase was 24 per cent. Exports to Australia showed a gain of 52 per cent, to New Zealand, 72 per cent, to British India, 21 per cent, and to South Africa, 76 per cent.

On the other hand, exports to foreign countries increased by only six per cent. Exports to all countries increased by nearly $71,000,000 in the 10 months' period and of this amount, $56,000,000 or 79 per cent was accounted for in increased exports to empire countries.

"Imports from the United Kingdom have increased in the last 10 months by $8,000,000, or nine per cent. In 1934 they exceeded those of 1933 by 31 per cent. The main increases in imports were in textiles, iron products and chemicals. Imports from other empire countries increased in the 10 months' period as follows: Australia 19 per cent; New Zealand 22 per cent; and British India 31 per cent.

(Figures following on revenues and expenditures for the year 1934-35 are estimates, as the year ends March 31).

"For the first time since 1930, receipts from taxation will yield the expected return. When presenting the budget last year, the outlook for a greater volume of business was so promising that substantially increased yields from current rates of taxation were forecast. Notwithstanding some loss in revenue due to changes made in taxation measures when the budget was before parliament, the receipts from taxation will amount to $306,050,000, almost the identical figure estimated in the previous budget.

International Trade up

"This is an increase of $34,200,000 over the previous year and is all the more satisfactory in the light of the substantial reductions in taxation effected last year, particularly the 50 per cent cut in the sugar tax and in the special excise tax on imports under the British preferential tariff which, together, involved a loss in revenue of not less than $18,000,000.

"Reflecting the continued, even though moderate, expansion in international trade, customs import duties will yield $77,300,000, an increase of $11,000,000 over the previous year. Excise duties, imposed chiefly on liquors and tobaccos, will amount to $44,600,000 exceeding the collections of 1933-34 by $9,000,000.

"The income tax, the rates of which were not altered last year, will bring in a total of $65,600,000, the highest figure for four years, and $4,300,000 in excess of the previous year's collections.

Sales Tax Up 11 Millions

"To the extent of about $3,100,000 this increase is due to credits transferred from the gold tax at the end of the fiscal year to be applied, in accordance with the statute, against the income tax liability of gold mining companies.

"Upwards of $11,000,000 more than in the previous year will be obtained from the sales tax, the yield from which will be $72,600,000. The other special excise taxes will bring $39,800,000, a decline of $5,300,000 from the year before due to the reductions in taxes already referred to.

"The gross collection from the gold tax to the end of the fiscal year will be $7,064,000.

Summary of All Revenues

(000 omitted)

	1933-34	Estimated 1934-35
Receipt from
Taxation	$271,862	$306,060
Non-tax revenues	52,210	53,324
Consolidated fund receipts ..	$324,062	$359,374
Special Receipts	418	3,000
Grand total	$324,480	$362,374

"The ordinary expenditures for the year it is estimated, will be $356,600,000 which is approximately $2,200,000 lower than the amounts authorized by vote and statute.

While there is an increase of $10,000,000 over the figure of the year before, it is $26,000,000 below the ordinary expenditure in the year 1930-31.

Direct Relief Greater

"The disbursement for direct relief have been much greater than the actual expense incurred in the fiscal year period. In the first place, it will be remembered that the Relief Act of 1933 limited the amount, which could be expended for direct relief to $20,000,000. This resulted in a carry-over from last year amounting to $9,360,000 which has been disbursed in the present fiscal year.

Four Provinces Assisted

"It has again been necessary, as in the previous three years, for the Dominion to assist the four western provinces by the granting of loans to enable them to finance, in part, provincial and municipal expenditures for relief and to make loans to farmers in distressed areas for the purchase of seed grain, feed, etc."

"It is gratifying to note that the operations of the Canadian National Steamships have shown a marked improvement over the previous year. The cash deficit of the West Indies service amounted to $567,000 as compared with $968,000 in 1933. The ships remaining in the Canadian government merchant marine fleet operated in 1934 at a cash loss of $127,000 as compared with $18,000 in the previous year.

480 Millions Expended

"The grand total of expenditures for he year, under all heads, in- for the year, under all heads, in- will be $480,000,000. This is an increase of $22,000,000 as compared with 1933-34, which is more than accounted for by the increase in unemployment relief outlays.

"Taking the ordinary revenues for the year at $359,300,000 and ordinary expenditures at $356,600,000, there is a resulting surplus on ordinary account of $2,700,000. This is the first surplus on ordinary account since 1929-30, and compares with a deficit of $22,000,000 last year and $43,000,000 the year before.

"There are, of course, to be taken into consideration, capital and special expenditures, less special receipts, and loans and advances non-active, to arrive at the net result for the year on government operations. These amount to $72,000,000 and wipe out the surplus on ordinary account, producing a deficit of $69,300,000.

"The fixed and uncontrollable expenditures of government in the current year will total about $233,000,000 and the controllable, $138,000,000; that is out of every $100 spent by the government, nearly $63 is required for interest, pensions, provincial subsidies, ex-soldiers' care, and similar items. This computation, as in past years, excludes the cost of unemployment relief and the Canadian National Railway deficit.

IN BED WITH NEURITIS EVERY WINTER

Until Kruschen Brought Relief

"For three years", writes a woman, "I have been sick in bed about three months every winter with neuritis in my hips and legs. Last winter I started taking Kruschen Salts, and got relief from the first dose. This winter I have not been in bed at all."—(Mrs.) D. M.

Neuritis is a result of impurities in the blood. And it is impure blood, circulating all over the system and setting up inflammation in the tissues, that causes those excruciating pains. Kruschen Salts can be safely trusted to set the matter right. Because Kruschen contains just what Nature needs to persuade your internal organs back into a healthy, normal condition.

CHAS. L. HYDE
PLUMBING — HEATING
TINSMITHING
Satisfaction Guaranteed
Stoves, Paints and Tinware
Oil Burners and Stokers
Rural Water System a Specialty
Phone 38 292 Front St.

Conway Tearle, Boots Mallory and Hardie Albright in a scene from "Sing Sing Nights" now on the screen at the Capitol.

Ontario Intelligencer
COOKING
AND HOME MAKERS
SCHOOL

DEBOTH HOMEMAKERS SCHOOL

AT THE
CAPITOL THEATRE
FOUR SESSIONS
Every Afternoon at 1:30 p.m.
Tuesday, March 26
Wednesday, March 27
Thursday, March 28
Friday, March 29
ADMISSION
10c
25
MARKET BASKETS OF GROCERIES
GIVEN AWAY
DAILY
and OTHER MAJOR AWARDS

A four session School of the very newest developments in home cookery and household aids, is our contribution to the welfare of local homes and hearths.

NEW RECIPES and DEMONSTRATIONS

How to prepare tasteful dishes at small cost is to be revealed by the cooking expert in charge of our annual school. Provided with a complete selection of new recipes, none of which have been presented here before, she will demonstrate the preparation of each one. Making it clear just what should be done and when—to have best success.

APPLIANCES

A galaxy of ingenious appliances and contrivances, electrical and otherwise, designed to facilitate every household task, will be on the stage and will be demonstrated by the lecturer to show the great progress made in providing labor saving devices for the household—and what the up-to-date kitchen should have.

GIFT BASKETS

There will be a daily distribution of 25 gift marketing bags each containing a large number of valuable grocery and other products.

A FEATURE OF EACH AFTERNOON
A Fashion Revue by The J. A. McNABB Ltd.
— MILLINERY BY WOODLEY'S —

Talented Miss Claire Andree to Preside

Part of the value of cooking school attendance is to watch the speed and precision with which the lecturer turns out a perfectly remarkable number of most delicious dishes—and the charm with which she invests the performance. Everything is planned well in advance so that the best use is made of every single minute and no time is wasted. Our lecturer is one of the leading women in her profession and is known from Coast to Coast as a cooking expert of extraordinary ability.

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE
Lecturer of DeBoth
Home Maker Schools

NOW FOR THE BIG EVENT OF THE YEAR — BE SURE TO ATTEND

Read the Classified Rental Property Listing on this Page

Business Directory

AUTO LOANS

AND REFINANCING
Direct with Owner Car Financing of All Kinds.
S. J. FISHER & SON
30 Bridge St. East Telephone 165
Representing
Campbell Auto Finance Co. Ltd.
Toronto - Ottawa - London - Windsor

CHIROPRACTOR

R. A. WYATT, Ph.C., SPECIAL EXAMination with the Radioclast reveals all diseases in the early stages. Foot disorders corrected — all diseases treated. Phone 900 or write 358 Coleman St., Belleville.

VERA E. PITCHER, CHIROPRACTOR, and H. E. Pitcher, Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment, Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations and Electrical Treatments. 42½ Bridge St. E., Belleville, Ont., Phone 1274.

DENTIST

DR. ROBT. H. EMPSON
DENTIST
X-Ray
Phone 462 305½ Front St.
17-3m

RADIO SERVICE

JOHN A. DEWAR,
RADIO TECHNICIAN
Registered — Graduate
245 John St. Phone 217
a1-tf

SURVEYORS

FRASER AYLESWORTH
Ontario Land Surveyor and Registered Professional Civil Engineer. Land Surveys, Plans and Descriptions, Etc., promptly attended to.
PHONE 6 — P. O. BOX 60
MADOC, ONT.

INSURANCE

Protect yourself against accidents with our Automobile Insurance
SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
Life and Fire Insurance
251 Front St Phone 120

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile, Accident and Plate Glass
278 Front St. Phone 1154-W

STOCKS & BONDS

BIGGAR AND CRAWFORD, MEMBERS of Toronto Stock Exchange. Phone 1738. P. H. Wills, branch manager. N5-1y

LEGAL

MALCOLM WRIGHT, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Etc. Office: Campbell St., Belleville.

T. Y. WILLS, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Etc. 15 Campbell St., Belleville. Telephone 74. m4-tf

PORTER, PAYNE AND ARNOTT, BARristers, Solicitors and Notaries Public. Chas. A. Payne, K.C. R. D. Arnott. Offices: 219 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

PONTON AND GRAHAM, BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Commissioners. Office: 28 Bridge St. East. Solicitors, Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages. W. N. Ponton, K.C. R. J. E. Graham. Office: Belleville.

DONNAN AND BUTLER, B. C. Donnan, K.C., E. O. Butler, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public and Commissioners. Offices: Court House Building, Belleville, Ont. Phone 238.

WALLBRIDGE, CAMERON AND CO. (Successors to the late F. S. Wallbridge). Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Money to loan. Dominion Bank Building, corner Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ontario.

300 Charles St.

(North of Victoria Avenue)

TO LET

Solid brick house, living room, dining room, kitchen three bed rooms, bath room hot air furnace, hardwood floors down stairs and in hall upstairs.

Belleville Locators
GEO. N. GORMAN, Prop.
166 Front Street
Phone 99 House 'Phone 687

BUY NOW! AND MAKE WORK

PHONE 99
Classified Ad. Rates

SOCIAL NOTICES—Births, 50c; Marriages and Engagement Notices, $1.00; Deaths and Funeral Notices, $1.00; In Memoriam, $1.00; Memoriam Poetry, minimum charge, $1.00 for 10 lines, over that 10c per count line; Ladies' Receiving Announcements, minimum charge, 75c.

CLASSIFIED — (For Sale, Wanted, Etc.)—1½c per word each for first TWO insertions, subsequent insertions 1c per word, minimum 30 words.

COMING EVENTS—75c per insertion for 25 words or under, over that amount 3c per word.

PROFESSIONAL, LEGAL AND BUSINESS CARDS (Yearly Contract)—$3.00 per month per inch.

OFFICIAL, MUNICIPAL AND GOVERNMENT NOTICES (including those concerning Legal Sales)—15c per agate line (14 lines to inch) for first insertion; 10c per line for subsequent insertions.

AUCTION SALE—3c per word, heading to count as 12 words minimum 25 words for 75c; consecutive insertions, 3c per word.

An initial or figure counts as one word.

In estimating allow five words to the line.

Telephone your Want Ads when it is more convenient. PHONE 99.

The Ontario Intelligencer will not be responsible for more than one insertion of an incorrect ad. Phone us if it is wrong.

Advertisers may have their replies addressed to Box Number care of the Ontario Intelligencer.

WANTED

AN EXPERIENCED UPHOLSTERer. Apply 184 Front Street, Belleville.

A BOY THAT IS ANXIOUS TO GET experience in practical business and who is willing to take small pay while learning. Must be neat appearing and not afraid of work. Apply to Box "A" Ontario Intelligencer in own handwriting stating age, height and salary expected. M22-3t

BY APRIL 20 — TWO UNFURNISHED rooms, rent about $10.00. Preferably East Hill. Write Box "K" Ontario Intelligencer. M22-2t

THREE UNFURNISHED ROOMS WITH conveniences, preferably two on ground floor. Phone 2364. M22-1t

GOOD GIRL OR MIDDLE AGE WOMAN to help with housework, fair wages. Apply Mrs. Nelson Shaw, R. R. 4, Belleville. M22-2t

TO RENT IMMEDIATELY — SMALL house or apartment. Phone 1716 after 4 p.m. stating all particulars. M22-1t

SALESMAN WANTED BY LARGE manufacturer, good opportunity for ambitious man. 364 Front street. M22-3t

STUDENTS WITH LABORATORY EXperience. Apply in writing stating full particulars to Box "T" Ontario Intelligencer. M22-3t

POSITION BY MIDDLE AGED LADY as practical nurse companion to elderly lady or gentleman. Phone 2064-W. M21-3t

WORK BY DAY DURING HOUSE cleaning. Phone 1112-W. M20-3t

WANTED BY APRIL 1 — RELIABLE maid for general housework. Three in family. References. Write Box "M" Ontario Intelligencer. M18-6t

FOR SALE

USED ELECTRIC WASHER, TWENTY dollars, also repossessed washer, will sell for balance owing. 364 Front (open evenings). M22-3t

ONE RUGBY TRUCK, 6 FT., 3 NEW milch cows, baled timothy hay. Will take car in good condition, one good work horse on deal. Apply Roy Harry, R. R. No. 7, Trenton. M22-2t

GAS ENGINE, SIX HORSE-POWER Gilson, good as new, cost two fifty, will sell for eighty, 364 Front. M22-3t

ROLL TOP DESK — A BARGAIN. 19 Campbell street. M22-1t

ONE 3½" TO 4" RACHET DIE, TWO sets from ⅝" to 2", all in first class condition, a real buy. Write Box "C" Ontario Intelligencer. M22-1t

CABIN CRUISER—CAN BE SEEN AT Saunder's Marine Service, Belleville. Apply to Fred Croft, 153 West Moira street, phone 873-M. M21-6t

A QUANTITY OF GOOD MIXED HAY. Inquire Seldon's Drug Store, 228 Front street, phone 11. M21-2t

FARM FOR SALE OR RENT

218 ACRES OF THE LATE CHARLES McLean, 2nd Concession Hungerford. Good buildings, barns, stables, drivehouse, hog-pen, hen-house, garage and eight room house. Good dairy farm. Apply I. A. Booker, Roslin. M22 27 30

TO LET

SIX ROOM HOUSE, 22 EARL STREET, conveniences, also garage, small garden. Possession April 1. Apply 30 Howard street. M22-3t

186 FOSTER AVENUE — ALL CONveniences except furnace. Possession May first. All newly decorated. Phone 368-W. M22-3t

208 GEORGE STREET — 8 ROOMS, conveniences except furnace, double garage. Possession April 1. Apply W. J. Hall, 278 Front street, phone 1154w. M14-TF

SOUTH HALF BRICK HOUSE 293 Charles street, conveniences, garage. Possession April 1. Apply 38 Sinclair street, phone 113-w. M11-TF

LOST

DUST BAG FROM PREMIUM VACUUM cleaner. Likely carried away by dog. Finder kindly phone 1682. M22-1t

PERSONAL

KIPP'S UNEQUALLED HERB TABLETS recommended and sold by Dolan the Druggist, phone 138, are unequalled for constipation. M22-1t

YOU'LL BE AMAZED — USE EITHER Cress Corn or Bunion Salves. At all I.D.A. and other good drug stores. M22-1t

IN MEMORIAM

STORR—In loving memory of Bennotta Storr who passed away March 22, 1932.

Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory turns back every leaf.
Sadly missed by mother. M22-1t

IN MEMORIAM

MASTIN—In memory of Everett Mastin, who died March 22, 1932. Lovingly remembered by wife and daughter. M22-1t

IN MEMORIAM

RAMSAY—In loving memory of Mrs. Thos. Ramsay who departed this life March 22, 1934.

In the graveyard softly sleeping
Where the flowers pretty wave
Lies the one we loved so dearly
And the one we could not save.
Just a thought of you, dear friend,
Just a memory fond and true,
And a token of affection
That our hearts still ache for you.
Ever remembered by Mr. and Mrs. James Barnhart. M22-1t

DIED

ROSS—In Tyendinaga Township on Thursday, March 21, 1935, Letta A. Beatty, beloved widow of the late Philip Ross, in her 89th year.

The funeral will be held from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles MacFarlane, 3rd Concession Tyendinaga Township on Sunday, March 24. Service in Salem United Church at 1.30 p.m. Interment Salem Cemetery. M22-1t

TICKELL & BROWNE
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
We Serve for Less
FUNERAL HOME
Corner Church St. and Victoria Ave. Phone 2295

Thomas C. Thompson
Funeral Director
Funeral Home
18 Everett St. Phone 67
Office
288 Front St. Phone 32

BELLEVILLE BURIAL COMPANY
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
27 Campbell St.
Phone 776-W Day and Night
J. W. IMLAH
Proprietor
Mausoleum Crypts For Sale

SPECIAL SALE

Used Tires, all sizes, $2.00 up
USED TIRE SHOP
391½ Front Street
Opposite Upper Bridge

BUSINESS LINERS

Royal Guaranteed 500 Chick Brooders $12.95 at Bishop's Seed Store. M22-1t

ORDER RESTORED AT PORTSMOUTH

Convicts About Work Outside Walls as Usual

Kingston, Ont., March 22—(CP)—Order apparently was restored at Kingston penitentiary today and as convicts went about their work outside the prison walls there was nothing to indicate there had been a disturbance last night.

Warden R. M. Allan refused today to discuss the fires, which broke out simultaneously in two prison workshops and other officers declined to talk of the disturbance, which ended after a long period of quietness among the prisoners.

It was reported General D. M. Ormond, Dominion Superintendent of Penitentiaries, came to Kingston last night but today there was nothing either to confirm or deny the report. It was understood General Ormond came to the city with Warden Allan, who had been in Ottawa on leave.

No Work in Shops

No work was being done in prison workshops pending an investigation by General Ormond, it was understood. It was learned from well-founded sources convicts in the tailor shop attempted to hold the instructors as hostages, while the shop was burning but failed. Another report said one of the instructors was blindfolded and shoved out of the tailor shop.

Extensive damage was caused by the blazes in the tailor and shoe shops and in mail bag department, it was reported, and damage would be between $25,000 and $50,000.

◆

Obituary

MRS. J. O. SPARLING

Campbellford, March 2—(CP)—Mrs. J. Orme Sparling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Wood of Campbellford and a former resident of Wayne, Alberta, died suddenly Mar. 21st in Peterboro following an operation. Besides her husband she leaves one small son, James.

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

Cast as the perfect gentleman's gentleman in Paramount's "Ruggles of Red Gap," coming tomorrow to the Belle Theatre, Charles Laughton, eminent English actor, shows just a few of the various of expressions of which his mobile features are capable. Laughton is featured with Mary Boland and Charlie Ruggles in 'Ruggles of Red Gap."

COMEDY ROLE WELCOME TO CHARLES LAUGHTON TIRED OF HEAVY ROLES

Charles Laughton, eminent English actor, who forged to the forefront of stage and screen stars with a long series of characterizations of horrifying and sinster characters, finally wins the opportunity to portray a thoroughly lovable person in the title role of Paramount's "Ruggles of Red Gap" which comes tomorrow to the Belle Theatre for three days.

"Two more years of what I've been through", says Laughton, "and I would have been in some psychopathic ward."

For years, cinematically speaking, Laughton has frightened small children. Beginning with pictures such as "The Devil and the Deep" and "The Island of Lost Souls." Laughton has poisoned plotted and beheaded his way until he reached the climax of his villainous personalities in his extraordinary and artistic Nero in "Sign of the Cross."

Won Academy Award

Even when he played a father as in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," he was not permitted to act the indulgent parent, but rather the cruel, tyrannical and overbearing old man who drove his daughters out of the house.

His characterization in "The Private Life of Henry VIII," replete with humor though it was, did not make the Bluebeard of England a sympathetic character. Laughton's artistic integrity and his knowledge of character prevented that and incidentally won him the Motion Picture Academy award for that role.

"There is a certain temptation in playing parts such as the ones I have played in the past," says Laughton. "I suppose it is because there is something bizarre about the characters which gives the actor latitude and a chance for our imaginative reconstruction of their personalities."

Feels Like 'Ruggles'

"But I need an escape from them. Quite frequently you know, actors assume the personalities of their most distinguished roles. I don't want to behead my charming wife as poor Henry did. That is one of the reasons why I was glad to get the chance to play 'Rugles.'

"Besides I feel that I know just how 'Ruggles' felt when he was transported from England to Red Gap. I felt the same way when I first came to this country. I wanted everyone to like me and I didn't quite know how to go about it. My experience helped."

In the cast supporting Laughton in "Ruggles of Red Gap" are Mary Boland, Charlie Ruggles, Roland Young and ZaSu Pitts. The picture, adapted from Harry Leon Wilson's famous novel, is the story of the American tourists who won an English butler in a poker game and brought him home to show up the four flushers.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Father Brown, Detective"

Walter Connolly a Natural for this Engaging Character of Magazine Story Fame.

A new screen personality made his debut at the Capitol Theatre yesterday in the person of Gilbert K. Chesterton's short story hero "Father Brown, Detective".

This priest, very ably played by Walter Connolly brings a new note to detective story films. Despite the calm background of the character himself, the picture is full of breathtaking action, adventure and a good share of comedy.

Robbery, instead of murder, is the theme. Flambeau, an international crook, comes to England to steal a set of famous diamonds. Four of them are in the possession of Father Brown, while the balance, to help complicate the plot, belong to the uncle of the girl with whom Flambeau has fallen in love.

This Continental Raffles outwits Scotland Yard at every turn, and, by a clever ruse, obtains the uncle's diamonds, thus losing the love of the girl. It is Father Brown who gives him his big battle of wits, and the kindly priest leads the entire cast into a series of adventures before he succeeds in outwitting the crook and smoothing the path of love.

Paul Lukas gives a very deft portrayal of the gentlemanly but wily Flambeau who occasionally loses his patience over the cunning of Father Brown. Together with Walter Connolly, he provides the major interest in the picture.

The love interest is provided by Gertrude Michael, an actress who has a personality which gives her more interest for the audience than just her ability to look pretty and get her man.

A very fine supporting cast adds much to the enjoyment of the picture including as it does such well known players as Una O'Connor, Robert Lorraine and Halliwell Hobbs.

Second Big Feature

"Sing Sing Nights"

A murder mystery without the usual accompanying shrieks in the still of the night!

A murder mystery with no concerted search on the part of police or private sleuths!

A murder mystery with three men confessing to the deed before the coroner announces the causes of death.

These features alone are enough to distinguish "Sing Sing Nights" from other mysteries which have found favor with lovers of this type of screen entertainment.

But there are other features which set this picture apart from others, the main one being the introduction of the lie-detecting machine to illustrate how the contrivance may be used by officials to solve crimes.

The machine is no imaginary object contrived to please an audience with its meticulous precision in determining the truth of statements.

Where mere questioning or third-degree proceedings will reveal only surface emotions in the case of a hardened criminal, the lie-detector will show variations made by the beat of the suspect's heart. As the questions are answered the machine records on a soot-covered paper molded on a cylinder. As long as the answers are truthful, the suspect is at ease, but as soon as he lies, his heart-beat betrays him and the machine records his inner emotions.

"Sing Sing Nights". in which the detector makes its bow as a means of solving crimes, marks the return to the screen of Conway Tearle, famous star of silent days. Tearle has the featured lead with Mary Doran appearing opposite him.

Others featured in the production are Hardie Albright, Boots Mallory, Ferdinand Gottschalk, and Berton Churchill.

Capitol Latest News Scoops will be shown at each performance.

Complete shows 2.30: 7.05: 9.10.

Tomorrow Only

"Tailspin Tommy", thrilling air serial taken from the popular cartoon strip.

Says Television is Far Away, Sending Problem is Unsolved

A. S. Edgar Declares Sight Equipment Will be Addition to Sound

Toronto, March 21.—Television, like love and prosperity, is possibly "just around the corner"—but what a corner! Lest the public absorb a wrong impression on the subject from irresponsible and over-enthusiastic sources, and get the idea that it will be possible to conjure Garbo into the living room with a ten-dollar televisor by 1940, A. S. Edgar, president of the Radio Manufacturers' Association of Canada, today let fall a few observations. One of these referred to an obstacle called financing, and there was mention of "hundreds of millions". Another, more cheerful in tone, scored the point that the public may buy modern radio receivers with assurance because when television comes sight apparatus will be an addition to, not an adaptation of, the sound receiver.

"The problem confronting television," said Mr. Edgar, "is not a receiving one. Rather it concerns the sending equipment, which at its present stage of development and cost, is out of all proportion and could not possibly be financed under any circumstances."

Mr. Edgar added: "Almost every radio manufacturer in our association is capable of placing television sets on the market within two or three months but the cost of constructing and equipping television sending stations would run into millions of dollars."

Comparing radio broadcasting station investment to a similar network of television stations, Mr. Edgar said that to cover Canada with a television sending network would cost perhaps 100 times as much.

"When television sending stations are constructed and operating," concluded Mr. Edgar, "it will call for two radio instruments, the sound receiving and the sight receiver. The present radio receiving set as now in use, will be the main unit in television reception. The sight receiver will have to be added."

Some Canadian papers recently published a significant statement by R. A. Hackbusch, Chairman of the engineering division of the Radio Manufacturers' Association, to the effect that it will be at least four or five years before television becomes domesticated.

◆

BETHEL Y.P.S. REGULAR MEETING

Rawdon—Mr. Walter Warren opened Bethel Young Peoples' Society with a service of worship and the pastor offered prayer.

Miss Lauretta McMullen presided over the missionary program and opened with a hymn. Mr. Harry Preston read the Bible lesson Mr. Ernest Holland gave an interesting topic on "Conditions in New Ontario." Rev. F. G. Joblin led in the helpful discussion period.

Mr. Wesley Farrell read a letter of interest from Mrs. (Dr.) Hayward, (nee Ruth Eggleton) and a letter of appreciation will be sent in reply to her.

Miss Helen Farrell gave a vocal solo with guitar accompaniment entitled "God's Radio" and as an encore "My Mother and Dad". Mrs. Thomas McMullen gave a reading "The Touch of the Master's Hand". Mr. Gordon Green closed with a contest "Towns and Cities of Canada."

Mr. Albert Dorland, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Miller and children, Misses Marie and Audrey Sharp, spent Sunday in Consecon with Mrs. A. Babcock and Mr. S. Weeks. Mrs. Charles Sharp accompanied them home.

Mr. and Mrs. Redg. McGee and Donna were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKeown.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hinds and children moved last week to the Vandervoort house on the sixth concession.

Miss Edna Thrasher attended the Masonic Banquet last Friday evening in Stirling.

Owing to the serious illness of Mrs. Robert Melville in Belleville Hospital, her husband and also her father, Mr. Robert Pounder stayed in the city with her. The three children, Evelyn, Gerald and Bruce visited their mother at the hospital on Tuesday and Mrs. Carl Dunham also visited her sister. Mrs. Melville passed away on Tuesday evening in her 39th year.

Miss Aleatha Hoover spent a day last week with Miss Jean McCaughen in Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howes of Campbellford are moving to the seventh concession to reside.

Mr. Eugene King is wiring the house of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hutchinson for electricity.

Mr. Ross Hoard and James visited Mrs. Ross Hoard at Kingston on Sunday Mrs. Hoard is still confined to her bed at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harry Ketcheson.

Mr. H. V. Hoover and Stuart spent a day last week with friends at Kitchener.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bailey, Mr. Earle McAdam, Mr. and Mrs. George Weaver and Mrs. G. W. Hagerman attended the I.O.O.F. banquet in Stirling on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed McKeown entertained Mr. and Mrs. Bert Eggleton, Dorothy and Freddie one evening last week.

A galaxy of talent from Fuller present the play "Wild Ginger" to an attentive audience in Salem United Church on Friday evening.

Mr. Wm. Kelly and Miss Aileen Kelly of Madoc were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Elliott.

Mrs. Isaac McInroy entertained Springbrook Women's Institute at her home and the main address was given by Rev. Canon Swayne on "The League of Nations."

Mr. and Mrs. M. Mason and Lois spent Sunday with her mother at Trenton.

Miss Myrtle McKeown of Belleville O.S.D., spent the week end with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKeown.

Miss Marion Carlisle is holidaying with relatives at Northport.

Messrs John and Allan Bailey of Mount Pleasant received word of the death of their sister Mary E. Bailey, relict of Hiram T. Johnson of Sarnac, Michigan.

Deceased was a daughter of the late John and Jane Bailey of Rawdon and was born at Harold on July 28th, 1859. In December, 1881 she married her husband who survives with one daughter Mrs. Nettie Stark and one son Norton Johnson and two grandchildren. In 1934 she with her husband celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary.

She leaves three sisters, Mrs. Sarah Archer of Havelock, Mrs. Lyba Gunning and Mrs. Carrie Belshaw of Stirling, four brothers John and Allan of Mount Pleasant, Chas. of Campbellford and James of Belleville. Rev. F. G. Wright conducted the funeral services and the interment was made in Saranac cemetery.

2ND AMELIASBURG INTERESTING NOTES

2nd Ameliasburg—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reid spent Wednesday with her parents Mr. and Mrs. F. Hawley.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox, Mrs. Julia Fox and Mr. Delbert McCurdy took tea with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Townsend and family on Thursday evening.

Mr. John Conkell of Shannonville spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Giles and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Young spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Young.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Branagh, Isobel, Ted and Shirley were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. Rock Hubbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dehaney, Jane and Winnifred were Sunday afternoon callers at Mr. and Mrs. Harold Young's.

Mr. Will Giles, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner and family were Sunday visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Barber's.

Miss Marion Adams spent Monday with Mrs. Eldon Adams.

Mrs. Annie Allison returned to her home in Sophiasburg on Monday.

The Centre Ladies' Aid held a pot luck dinner and an all day quilting at the home of Mrs. Cecil McFaul and Mrs. W. J. McFaul on Wednesday. About twenty ladies were present.

READ Before You BUY!

Mr. and Mrs. Eben Fox of Northport visited at Mr. and Mrs. Mac Giles on Wednesday and Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Adams took tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Fox on Wednesday evening.

A number from this street attend the V.A.C. meeting at Mr. and Mrs. Barber's at Mountain View on Wednesday evening.

◆

Japan Independent Of Alumuinum Supply

Tokyo, March 21—(CP)— Japan will supply practically all her aluminum requirements and need little or none from Canada and elsewhere after this summer if reported production plans of the Nichiman Aluminum Co., are carried out.

This company has announced it expects to complete its plant at Iwase in Toyama prefecture, on the sea of Japan coast, by the end of March; to start operations; and to begin selling its products in May.

The company is capitalized at 5,000,000 yen ($1,400,000) half paid up. At first it will produce 1,000 to 1,200 metric tons of ingots annually, later to be increased up to 5,000 tons a year.

◆

TWEE DRESIDENT PAYS LIQUOR FINE

Charged with the illegal possession of beer, Harry Courneyea of Tweed was fined $100.00 and costs in today's County Police Court held at the Court House at noon before His Worship Magistrate E. J. Butler K. C. after he had pleaded guilty. A previous charge of keeping liquor for sale, laid against Henry Courneyea proprietor of Huyck's Hotel in Tweed, was dismissed when no evidence was offered by the prosecution. The two cases arose out of the confiscation of a quantity of beer in Courneyea's hotel by Chief Hayes of Tweed assisted by the Provincial police. I. C. Corcoran, Tweed barrister, appeared for the defendants while B. C. Donnan K. C., represented the Crown.

If you wear
FALSE TEETH
Try this
New Improved Powder
FREE Are your plates loose? Do they slip and slide? If so try FASTEETH—the new and better denture powder AT OUR EXPENSE.
Your druggist has a free trial sample all ready for you. FASTEETH is pure. Keeps the mouth and breath sweet. It's soothing and pleasant, and holds false teeth so securely nobody would know you wear them. Trial size supply is limited. See your druggist TODAY.
IF NOT PLEASED WITH TRIAL SIZE YOUR DRUGGIST IS AUTHORIZED TO REFUND YOUR MONEY ON REGULAR SIZE.
Distributed in Canada by
W. K. BUCKLEY LTD.
TORONTO

RADIO PROGRAMS

FRIDAY

10.30—Mrs. Aitken and Horace Lapp—CFRB
11.00—Music Appreciation Hour, Walter Damrosch—WEAF
11.30—Army Band—WABC
1.15—Radio Gossip Club—WGR
1.30—Rex Battle's Concer. Orch.—CRCT
2.30—"Kitchen Party"—WEAF
3.15—Minneapolis Symphony — WABC
4.00—Betty and Bob, sketch—WJZ
6.30—News Jim Hunter—CFRB
7.00—Myrt and Marge—WABC
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.15—Plantation Echoes, Mildred Bailey—WJZ
7.15—Stories of the Black Chambers—WEAF
7.30—Red Davis—WJZ
7.45—Uncle Ezra's Radio Station—WEAF
8.00—Irene Rich—WJZ
3.00—Mrs. Franklin D Roosevelt —WABC
8.00—Concert, Lucille Manners, soprano,—WEAF
8.15—To be announced—WJZ
8.15—Edwin C. Hill, news—WABC
8.30—Court of Human Relations—WABC
8.30—Al Goodman's Orch.—WJZ
8.30—Musical Memory Book—WOR
9.00—Waltz Time Frank Munn tenor; Abe Lyman's Orchestra—WEAF; WTAM
9.00—March of Time—WABC
9.00—Beatrice Lillie, comedienne—WJZ
9.00 –Horace Lapp's Orch.—CFRB
9.30—Phil Baker—WJZ
9.30—Hollywood Hotel, Joe E. Brown, guest—WABC
9.30—Pick and Pat, comedians—WEAF
10.00—"Circus Night in Silvertown"—WJZ
10.00—First Nighter drama—WEAF
10.30—"The Pause That Refreshes' —WEAF
11.00—News—CFRB
11.00—Hal Kemp's Orch.—WJZ
11.30—Press News—CRCT
12.00—Claude Hopkins' Orch.—WABC

SATURDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ
11.00—Galaxy of Stars—WBEN
11.00—Cincinnati Conservatory of Music—WABC
11.15—Tony Wons, poetry—WJZ
1.15—George Hall's Orch.—WABC
2.00—Metropolitan Opera—Geraldine Farrar—WEAF
3.00—Emery Deutsch's Dance Rhythms—WABC
WABC
5.00—Eddie Duchin's Orch. — WEAF
5.30—Int'l. B'cast from London—WABC
5.30—"Jolly Juniors Club—CFRB
6.30—News Jim Hunter—CFRB
6.45—Sport Parade—WEAF
6.45—Beauty Program—WABC
7.30—Outdoor Girl Beauty Parade —WABC
7.30—Jamboree, variety show—WEAF
7.30—Book Review—CRCT
7.45—Grace Hayes, songs.
8.00—Roxy Revue—WABC
8.00—Phil Cook's Show Shop. —WJZ
8.00—Sigmund Romberg, composer —WEAF
8.00—Old Time Frolic—CRCT
8.30—Art Jarrett's Orch.—WJZ
8.45—St. Louis Blues—WABC
8.45—Big Moments in Sports—CFRB
9.00—N.H.L. Playoffs—CRCT
9.00—Radio City Party—WJZ
9.00—Songs You Love—WEAF
9.00—Andre Kostelanetz's Orch.—WABC
9.30—Barn Dance—WJZ
9.30—The Gibson Family—WEAF
9.30—Studebaker's Champions — WABC
10.00—Minneapolis Symphony — WABC
10.30—California Melodies—WABC
10.30—"Let's Dance"—WEAF
11.00—Kay Kyser's Orch.—WGN
11.00—Glen Gray's Orch.—WABC
11.30—News—CRCT
11.30—Johnny Green's Orch.—WABC
12.15—Ted Weems Orch.—WGN

Hockey
Current Sport

IN THE REALM OF SPORTING EVENTS

Basketball
Bowling

JACK MARKLE BEST SCORER

Wins Out in Last Scheduled Game of Season

Windsor, Ont., March 22—(CP)—Black-haired Jack Markle, former Owen Sound, Ont., Junior star, led the scoring parade in the International Hockey League this season in behalf of Syracuse Stars. President Charles King has released final official scoring records.

Scoring three goals and one assist in the last scheduled game of the season, Markle slipped in ahead of Eddie Convey of Windsor Bulldogs and Frank Daley and Bud Cook, scoring aces of Cleveland Falcons who were tied for second place.

Markle scored 23 goals and had 20 assists during the campaign for a total of 43 points, two more than Convey, Daley and Cook. Convey was the only other player in the circuit to get more goals than Markle. He had 24.

Eddie Ouellette, star London centre, placed fifth with 40 points, made up of 15 goals and 25 assists, and Mike Brophy of Cleveland was sixth with 35 points.

HOLDERS OF STANLEY CUP

Montreal, March 22—(CP)—President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League has delved deeply into the storied travels of the Stanley Cup to discover what teams have possessed it since Lord Stanley of Preston then governor-general of Canada, handed it to the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association team in 1893 as a challenge cup.

The records show that M.A.A.A. held it through 1894, but they don't tell how. Mr. Calder does. He says Osgoode Hall, then champions of the Ontario Hockey Association, put in a challenge, but the match was blocked because the ice disappeared. There was no artificial ice in those days.

Only once in the 42-year history of the Stanley Cup was "no winner" declared. That was in 1919, the year following the end of the war. Montreal Canadiens journeyed to Seattle that year to contest the cup finals with the Pacific coast champions. There was "no decision". The series was stopped by an epidemic of influenza.

The amateurs battled for the cup for many years before the professional game adopted the trophy and made it emblematic of the world's championship. Sometimes it changed hands twice during the season. It has travelled as far west as Victoria and Seattle and as far east as Quebec and Boston. Halifax Crescents came up to Montreal in 1900 and played Montreal Shamrocks for the trophy, but lost in two straight games, 10-2 and 11-0.

Since 1914 the Stanley Cup has remained among major league teams. Only the Pacific Coast League, Western Canada and N.H.L. have provided winners since then and now it stands as the brightest prize on the N.H.L.'s shelf.

Holders of the Stanley Cup at the season's end, down the years since it was donated follow:

1893—Montreal A.A.A.
1894—Montreal A.A.A.
1895—Montreal Victorias
1896—Winnipeg Victorias
1897—Montreal Victorias.
1898—Montreal Victorias.
1899—Montreal Victorias.
1900—Montreal Shamrocks.
1901—Winnipeg Victorias.
1902—Montreal A.A.A.
1903—Ottawa Silver Seven
1904—Ottawa Silver Seven
1905—Ottawa Silver Seven
1906—Montreal Wanderers
1907—Montreal Wanderers
1908—Montreal Wanderers
1909—Ottawa Senators
1910—Montreal Wanderers.
1911—Ottawa Senators
1912—Quebec Bulldogs
1913—Quebec Bulldogs
1914—Toronto
1915—Vancouver Millionaires
1915—Montreal Canadiens
1917—Seattle Metropolitans
1918—Toronto Arenas
*1919—No winner.
1920—Ottawa Senators
1921—Ottawa Senators
1922—Toronto St. Patricks.
1923—Ottawa Senators
1924—Montreal Canadiens
1925—Victoria Cougars
1926—Montreal Maroons
1927—Ottawa Senators
1928—New York Rangers
1929—Boston Bruins
1930—Montreal Canadiens
1931—Montreal Canadiens
1932—Toronto Maple Leafs
1933—New York Rangers
1934—Chicago Black Hawks.
1935—?

*Final series between Montreal Canadiens and Seattle was halted by epidemic of influenza.

INSULL DEPORTED

Detroit, March 22—(AP)—Martin J. Insull, freed of charges which developed from the collapse of the Utilities Empire built by his brother, Samuel, was deported to Canada today as a British subject.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

Over in Picton they are preparing for a boom baseball season just as you and I. The recent election of officers of the Picton Baseball Club saw drastic changes in the personnel of that body last week when nearly all of last year's officers were replaced. Once in office, however, the new executive body was split in twain regarding the category of O.B.A.A. baseball in which the Picton club should participate next summer, some wanting to remain in the intermediate "A" class, while others shouted "nay, nay", let's drop back to intermediate "BI" in order to eliminate any chances of meeting Ernie Gibbard's "packed squad." After a few days wrangling pro and con it was finally decided that maybe the better procedure would be to evade any competition embracing the Napanee outfit, so the latest stories coming out of Picton are "BI" baseball or bust.

Candidly speaking a mighty smart BI intermediate group could be organized in the Bay of Quinte district embracing Picton, Belleville, an amalgamated team of Trenton and Brighton and possibly one other central point. The Belleville Baseball Association moguls intimated they would be interested in sponsoring a "B" team in the intermediate ranks, providing a suitable grouping could be procured. Naturally with a senior club in competition in this city there will be sufficient material at hand, when the wheat is separated from the chaff to assure a fairly good intermediate team in Belleville, although possibly not a strong intermediate "A" club.

The third and final epistle penned by G. Ernest Gibbard, mentor of all baseball in Napanee, relating as to why his club should not play senior O.B.A.A. baseball in 1935 appears in today's issue. Mr. Gibbard kindly consented to write us and explain his views in the matter and it must be admitted, that his side of the question has been fairly taken. Later he forwarded us a copy of similar letters written to President Swanston of the C.O.B.L. and today's issue carries his letter to President W. A. Smith of the O.B.A.A. Although all three letters are somewhat on the same lines, Mr. Gibbard does give different reasons in all three letters, depending solely upon the situation and the destination of the letter in question. What final action the parent body will make cannot be foretold until after the association's meeting on April 6th, but Secretary Newton Thompson of the C.O.B.L., has forwarded the resolution and recommendation of his league, requesting Napanee be elevated to a senior rating and play in the C.O.B.L. to the parent body. The final decision now rests with the O.B.A.A. regardless of all controversy.

A rather humorous story is being rumored about the local streets today. It seems that five young and interested sportsmen of this fair city decided to take in Wednesday night's twin bill at the Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto, when the Sudbury seniors and juniors were to have been the feature attraction. All went well as the quintette arrived at Toronto's palatial sport gardens and procured "bald headed row" seats, of course being out for the day they naturally had to "put on the dog". The sad part of the story started when the Toronto seniors started [illegible] wallop the Sudbury-Frood Mine team so our heroes decided, that enough was enough and they left the game high in disgust in the second period. Cranking their trusty gas buggy, they struck out King Street homeward bound and in none too good spirits, as the hockey games were not quite up to their expectations and it's a long motor drive from Toronto to Belleville especially after the midnight hour. All of a sudden a tire went flat then when they arrived near Cobourg "chug, chug" and the car stopped without warning. Some said—"It's out of gas" others contended that was impossible, why hadn't they put a whole gallon in at Toronto? and arguments ensued. One brave young feller volunteered to walk into Cobourg and get some gas. Returning it was found that there was plenty of gasoline in the tank, but the horn of the car had dropped from its fastening and was causing a short circuit. By now it was raining quite hard and were their faces red? The difficulty was soon overcome, by tying the horn to the top of the engine hood and the disgrunted quintette jumbled into Belleville with the horn 'rattle de tattle' against the hood at exactly 8.00 a.m. yesterday. Motto: "It is a silly fish that is caught twice with the same bait."

Congratulations to Rocky Parsaca, quarterback and forward passer of Sarnia Imperials, Canadian senior football champions 1934, born in Oakfield, N.Y., 27 years ago today. He joined Sarnia in 1932, having previously starred for University of Detroit. Also to Joe Kirkland, Canadian open golf champion in 1933, born in Australia 56 years ago today.

It was officially announced today that the proposed city basketball championships would not commence until possibly the first of April. At that time it is believed that another team may enter the series, making a four teamed group to face the barrier .. April 9th was definitely announced as the date of the local Golden Gloves boxing tournament in this city .. Complete plans for a gala inter-city swimming meet have been completed and the races will be staged in Belleville on March 23rd.

William "Torchy" Peden and Jules Audy, famous six-day bicycle riders intend to be the world's champion team.

Peden and Audy are Canadians. Peden, a 29-year-old, 225-pound giant held the worlds six-day championship in 1932 and 1933 and believes he will repeat this year. Audy, 22 is a platinum blond.

Letters to the Sports Editor

"Napanee, Ontario,
March 21, 1935

"Mr. W. A. Smith,
"President,
"O.B.A.A.,
"Galt, Ontario
"Dear Sir,—

"It has just been called to our attention that the C.O.B.L. are asking the O.B.A.A. to force us to play in their league this year.

"We cannot understand their action. Napanee never has been a C.O.B.L. town nor has it ever held a C.O.B.L. franchise. We maintain that this town is not large enough to finance and support a Senior Club, especially with such long jumps as are required to play in the towns of Peterboro and Oshawa. It must be remembered that these towns are 110 miles from Napanee. The best we can hope to get in Napanee are gates of $50.00 and $60.00 an average throughout the season, and it would require at least $100.00 per game to finance a C.O.B.L. club.

"Our factory is just a small one, and when the number of men who play on the team are taken out for the time necessary to make these long jumps and play the heavy schedule, it leaves our factory very much disorganized. We have no reserve staff to put in these positions and it would tie up our production. This is a very important fact and if we receive an adverse ruling, it will likely mean that we will not be able to play baseball here this year and the O.B.A.A. will lose what we think is one of its best Intermediate towns. Our Company directors have always been very considerate and lenient in connection with our ball club, but such a drastic step as this might mean that we would lose their co-operation. While we have played a good deal of ball in the past, the games have always been arranged when it was possible for us to get away. In the C.O.B.L. a great deal of twilight ball is played, which would certainly be most inconvenient for us.

"Much has been said about the writer stating that we would play Senior ball this year if we won the Intermediate Championship. They have hounded us so much about playing Senior that we say almost anything to try to stop the discussion, and what was said was that if we won the Intermediate Championship it would then be time to consider playing Senior. However, after seeing the very small gates which we got last year and the prospect of even smaller gates this year, we certainly could not take the heavy financial loss.

"Our club will be represented at the O.B.A.A. meeting. If this matter comes before the convention, we will naturally be there to defend ourselves. Apparently the C.O.B.L. proposes to bring it before the Association, although my impression is that it should be dealt with by the Executive.

"We do not want anyone to get the impression that we are afraid to play Senior Ball, but in view of the above facts it is absolutely impossible for us to do so this year. We cannot see any reason why we should be railroaded into almost certain losses and Cobourg let go Scot free when they already hold a C.O.B.L. franchise

"We feel that our place is in Intermediate ball in Eastern Ontario, and we think that when we have done so much to build up the sport in this part of the country we should be given every consideration.

"Yours very truly,
"Gibbard "Athletics" Baseball Club".

GIVES SELF UP

Hackensack, N.J., March 22.—(AP)—Already wanted in Toronto, police said, in connection with alleged fraudulent stock sales, two Grantwood bankers faced trial here today on charges of making false statements to State Bank examiners.

Joe Louis Called to Beat Carnera, Schmeling, Lasky

By DAMON RUNYON

Copyright by Central Press Canadian

Miami, Fla., March 22—"How good is Joe Louis?"

One of the best known pugilistic observers in this country now in Miami, reported the writer's question, and then said:

"I've seen him in several fights In my opinion, he can take Primo Carnera, Max Schmeling and Art Lasky down into a cellar with five-ounce gloves on, and bring them up on his back one after the other. That's how good he is right now, and he's only starting."

"How about Baer?" the writer asked.

"It would be a great fight," was the quick answer. "It would be the slugging match of the pugilistic ages. Two terrific young hitters. Louis may possibly need a little more experience before meeting Baer, but I'm not so sure about that, either Jim Jeffries won the championship in his eleventh professional battle, and Louis is as good a fighter now as Jeffries was then. Baer and Louis is the million dollar match of the future."

The writer was marveling at this opinion from a man whose judgment he respects, when announcement came from New York that Joe Louis, "The Dark Dynamiter", is to appear there this coming summer under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club. Apparently the new organization has secured the key man of the heavy weight situation.

Mike Jacobs, president of the Twentieth Century, which controls the polo grounds and the Yankee stadium, says that Louis will meet the best opponent that can be secured, the preference being one of the so-called leading heavyweight contenders.

The news will interest the pugilistic fans of the Atlantic seaboard who have read and heard so much of Louis, that they are anxious to view him in action. Not in many years has a heavyweight fighter come up as suddenly as Louis or aroused such widespread interest, the answer being that he is a puncher.

The last of the great negro heavyweights was Harry Wills, "The Brown Panther of New Orleans," a tremendous drawing card in New York. He arrived at the peak of his drawing ability and distinction as a "black menace" somewhat late in his fistic life.

Wills Frightened Them

As a matter of fact, Wills' greatest battles were far behind him when he was frightening most of the white heavyweights of the land, half out of their senses by the mere suggestion that they fight him. A dozen of them ran for their very lives when offered matches with Wills, though he was then one of those well-known "hollow shells," and the bubbling young Jack Sharkey of the period proved it.

In these times a negro heavyweight who can really fight would have none of the trouble of his predecessors in getting a title match, because the heavyweight title is no longer the sacred emblem that it used to be, and the old "color line" could hardly be invoked by a timid white gladiator.

As a matter of fact, money is so scarce among the fighting gentry that they eagerly accept matches with Louis because he can draw in the customers. He has more offers than his manager, John Roxborough, can consider, and they come from all parts of the country.

The answer again is he is a puncher. The pugilistic customers are tired of seeing fighters who cannot dent a derby hat with their blows. The scientific phases of the manly art of scrambling ears are all right in theory, but the customers will not pay to see the scientists. Joe Louis socks his opponents into insensibility and that is what the customers wish to see.

Allan Cup Playdowns

Moncton Red Indians, Maritime Junior Hockey Champions, held a council of war today and plotted new strategy for use in the second game Saturday against Ottawa Rideaus, Junior representatives of Ottawa and district.

Indians made a gallant stand against Rideaus in the first of their Memorial Cup playdown engagements last night but crumped in the third period to lose 11-3.

Edgar Mentzel scored three times for Ottawa with Brown and McEwan twice. Gould, Calhoun and McArthur scored for the redskins.

While Rideaus humbled the Indians, Halifax Wolverines, Nova Scotia Senior Champions, stamped onto the Allan Cup trail with a 13-3 victory over Edmunston. Wolverines won the two-game round 17-4, taking the Senior Maritime honors to Halifax.

Y. M. C. A. ALLEYS

In the Ladies' Afternoon League the Y Ladies got all four points from the Crescents.

Ladies' Afternoon

Crescents 0 points.
Miss Fairbairn	136	193	122—446
Miss Sine . . .	90	110	79—279
Mrs. Thompson	101	171	141—413
Mrs. Ward	141	118	96—360
Mrs. Maybee ..	85	116	98—299
Total			1787

Y. Ladies 4 points.
Mrs. Shortt ...	134	164	144—442
Mrs. Houston ..	119	110	84—313
Mrs. Richards .	165	172	186—533
Mrs. Logan ...	144	138	146—428
Mrs. Morgan . .	133	181	133—447
Total			2163

BATTERY SHOOT

The 34th C.F.A. held the sixth shoot of their annual competition last night at the Belleville armouries, the scores being as follows, out of a possible of 20.

Siglr. H. Little	20
Q.M.S., G. H. Smith	20
Gnr. R. Liddle	20
Q.M.S. L. Gould	20
Siglr. D. Carr	19
Sgt. H. A. Fry	19
Bdr. R. Fair	19
Siglr. H. Plummer	19
Siglr. L. Noakes	18
Sgt. H. J. Wells	18
Siglr. E. Fry	17
Gnr. W. Ironsides	16
Bdr. J Nayler	16
Gnr. F. Law	16
Gnr D. Munro	16
Siglr. R. Stewart	15
Gnr. G. Buker	14
Sgt. W. Laney	13
Bdr. L. Boyle	13
Gnr. G. High	6
Gnr. W. Fair	5

IS JOE LONESOME?—Manager Joe McCarthy watches his Yankees hitting at St. Petersburg, Fla. There's no Babe Ruth and no crowd.

LONDON TECS TO MEET OLYMPICS

Syracuse And Cleveland Eliminated in International

By The Canadian Press

London Tecumsehs, green-garbed champions of the International Hockey League, will defend their title against Detroit Olympics. Even as the finalists prepared for the Windup series, Cleveland Falcons and Syracuse Stars, eliminated last night, were disbanding.

With Eric Pettinger scoring the winning goal, London Tecs, knocked out Falcons 1-0, while Detroit beat back the Stars' challenge 3-1. London and Detroit start their best-of-five series Saturday night.

It took London 80 minutes of struggling to get a 5-4 win over Cleveland in the first game and last night Falcons provided just about as stiff opposition. There was no scoring in either the first or second periods. Sammy Godin, Tecs right winger drifted a pass to Pettinger, who made no mistake with the shot and scored the only goal of the game.

Desse Roche led Detroit's marksmen against Cleveland, scoring two goals. Ronnie Moffat notched the first counter in the second period.

Art Jackson saved Stars from a shutout by converting a pass from Ken Doraty and Nick Metz midway through the third period.

Recreation Alleys

MAJOR

B. Fruit 3 pts—P. Orlando 750; C. Bryant 662; L. Rossitti 659; H. Robinson 618; B. Miles 627. Total 3316.

B. Golf—H. Ridley 749; C. Davison 620; J. Marsh 456; B. Wray 510 J. Legault 757. Total 3242.

Christie Cake, 0 pts—Belnap 486; Hetherington 613; Whalen 634 Tobe 563; Shiels 709. Total 3005.

Rec. 4 pts—G. Lynch 600; A. Wesley 575; W. Walrath 609; N. Wilbur 640; F. Domenico 652. Total 3181.

AFTERNOON

Hit Miss, 1 pt— Mrs. Strachan, 348; Mrs. Fordyce 412; Mrs. Windover 391; Mrs. Johnston 489; Mrs. Smith 323. Total 1953.

Juvenile 3 pts—Mrs. Shaw 419; Mrs. Chambers 401; Mrs. Nixon 465; Mrs. Cross 391; Mrs. Wardaugh 435. Total 2111.

Lucky Strikes, 4 pts— H. Blaind 661; M. Novak 434; M. Grant 378; J. Grotto 371; Mr. Parker 393. Total 2237.

East Hill, 0 pts—Mrs. Davis 370; Mrs. Huffman 266; Mrs. Boyle 419; Mrs. White 326; Mrs. Black 334. Total 1717.

MERCANTILE

B. Telephone 3 pts—V. Smith 539; Shappee 583; Goodier 518; Proctor 478; Jones 407. Total 2525.

Scopis Stars, 1 pt — Scopis 545; Black 4401; Peck 496; Walsbe 520; Huffman 485. Total 2487.

MAJOR

De Luxe 4 pts—D. Pointer 740; P. Drumm 517; B. Boyce 543; H. Fenn 742; H. Bawden (2) 467. Total 3128.

Ontario Intelligencer 0 pts— Fitzpatrick 541; Baker 593; Tice 398; Hardwick 393; Barlow 523. Total 2553.

HOCKEY SCORES

International League Playoffs
Detroit 3; Syracuse 1
London 1; Cleveland 0
Detroit and London meet in finals.

Allan Cup Eliminations
Halifax 13; Edmunston 3
Halifax wins round 17-4

Memorial Cup Playdowns
Ottawa Rideaus 11; Moncton 3
First game

Northwestern Pro League Playoffs
Seattle Seahawks 4; Vancouver Lions 1
Seattle leads series by one game

Exhibition
Battleford Beav 14; Japanese All-Stars 1

Brinkley Cup Series Finals
Halleybury 5; Cobalt 4
Cobalt wins round 12-11

Mr. T. J. DOYLE
of the
Wm. H. LEISHMAN
COMPANY.
IS AT OUR STORE for the purpose of taking special orders
TODAY
Quick & Robertson
First in Style, Quality and Reasonable Price.

UNION CRAFTSMEN
IN HEALTHY, AIRY SURROUNDINGS

For twenty-five years Tip Top Tailors have kept the thought of service and value uppermost in their minds.

Tip Top Tailors realized in the beginning and have maintained through these twenty-five years that they could only sustain this service and value by employing capable craftsmen at a fair wage and under pleasant working conditions.

Tip Top clothes are tailored by Union craftsmen who work in a building that is admittedly a model of its kind. Conditions are ideal—air and sunshine in every nook and corner of the tailoring workshops. Rest rooms, recreation rooms, hospital, cafeteria—all spotlessly clean.

A Tip Top suit or topcoat is made by all union labor — satisfied and well paid craftsmen who give you the most for your money.

UNRESTRICTED CHOICE OF BRITISH WOOLLENS
$23.75
TAILORED TO YOUR MEASURE

TIP TOP TAILORS
TAILORING BY UNION CRAFTSMEN

N. C. WILBUR, Manager .... Phone 2154
298 Front Street .... Belleville

Guardians of the Desert

By TOM GILL

CHAPTER NINE

Slowly the door swung closed.

A foreboding, uneasy silence filled the office, a feeling as of some impending evil dimly sensed. Only the girl, with understanding eyes, watched Dick's tall figure as it disappeared into the bright sunshine of that winter morning.

For a time Solon Lowell sat brooding, the great bulldog head thrust forward, then, abruptly dismissing his son's departure, he turned again toward Barnes.

"Will, I've been reading in your paper too many attacks on Nick Sari. He and I are partners in this work out here and we're going through with it. You see," Lowell added with slow significance, "I don't want a fight unless it's forced on me."

Barnes flushed. "A partner of Sari should be ready for anything," he answered. "Nick Sari is a menace to Verde. I've been saying that for over a year. I believe the way our ranchers were frozen out of the land they worked and starved for was one of the rottenest frauds in the history of the border country. Who was responsible for that?—Sari."

"Don't forget he was exonerated in the Governor's investigations."

"Exonerated! He was whitewashed—through political influence."

"Mine?"

"I think so—yes. It's no secret that the Governor owes his place to you." Barnes had leaned forward, his deep-set eyes burning. "This talk is not of my choosing, Mr. Lowell, and I am willing to let it rest here. But it's best that you know beyond all doubt I intend to fight any influence anywhere that tries to cheat and rob the ranchers of Verde."

For a moment Lowell's eyes narrowed, then he asked abruptly, "You spoke a while back of changed conditions. Just what has changed?"

"Everything—and for the worse." Barnes' low voice had taken on a new intensity. "For one thing, Sari has turned the border country into two armed camps that now stand ready to fly at each other's throats."

"How?"

"It was Nick Sari who first proposed the irrigation work and persuaded the ranchers of Verde to buy stock and pledge their land with promises to bring water to this country. And wasn't it Sari's company that six months later went into bankruptcy, taking with it most of the ranchers' land and every cent they entrusted to him? I know what you're going to say—that the company is completely reorganised and that Sari was exonerated of all guilt. But the fact remains that today Nick Sari owns title to over half the land about Verde and is selling the same land for many times its old value on the same promise of irrigation."

Barnes' hand closed on the desk. "Well, we're not going to let him get away with it. The ranchers have dared Sari to evict them. They have refused to let Sari's surveyors go over their land and if he tries to throw them off their ranches, he'll have to do it at the point of a gun. Already he has fenced off the water holes and is patrolling the land with his henchmen. And yet you talk about having a fight forced on you. Why, Sari wouldn't dare do this if he weren't sure of your backing and your influence with the Governor." For a moment he hesitated, then added, "There is one thing has always been a mystery to all of us here in the desert—how you have let yourself be hoodwinked by Nicholas Sari and accepted his word in preference to your own son's."

Again that stubborn look crept into Solon Lowell's eyes, and Barnes stopped as he felt the hand of his sister gently touch his arm. Then calmly but very earnestly he added, "As long as I live I'll publish the truth about this rotten steal until the stench becomes so great every decent man in the Southwest will demand justice."

"What will you sell the Times for?"

"The Times is not for sale to you or Sari at any price."

For a silent moment Lowell looked searchingly into the other's face, then laid his hand heavily on Barnes' shoulder. "Still the old crusader of the desert, eh? Well, I like your fire, Will. Let's hope that if the day ever comes when we must be enemies we can be friendly ones."

Lowell looked toward the girl and his eyes softened. "After all, there isn't enough sand in all this state to make up for losing the friendship of Nora."

He straightened his tall, spare figure. "I leave for Phoenix tonight to see the Governor, and tomorrow a bad situation in Washington calls me East. I shall not come back this way. But before I go—" the man's eyes raised painfully and he turned to the girl. "I want you to take me to where Bruce lies."

She said no word, but slipped her arm through his.

It was a gentle, sunlit knoll just back of Verde, where for turbulent generations the men of the desert had buried their dead. Names of the adventurous vanguard of many lands were carved in those time-worn stones— names of fighting Irish, of British younger sons, and restless men of the North. Proud, sonorous names of Spanish conquistadores who for their brief span lorded it over this domain—all these had made history within the border country and in passing bequeathed the memory of those days as a heritage to the next generation— all these, their striving over, lay at last in that quiet, sunflecked burying ground that looked out over the eternal desert.

Shaded by tamarisk and cypress, the two solitary figures came slowly down the well-worn path and stopped at last before a grave, newly turned and flower covered, where no headstone yet stood. Beside it a white shaft bore the name of Solon Lowell's wife. Uncovered the graying man stood there, in utter silence, while high above him the wind sighed among the tamarisks and caused the crisp dead grasses at his feet to rustle like sand. Dry-eyed and motionless he looked down in stoney contemplation, then slowly shook his head. "Too much of me lies buried here on the edge of the desert." It was as if the voice came from far away, so low it was, so emptied of any human passion, except perhaps regret.

"We were strangers," the voice went on. "Ever since his birth we were strangers—and now—too late." He looked at the girl standing so close beside him, her eyes bright with tears. "Too late. What curse was laid on me, Nora, that always my own flesh must be strangers to me? Always something between. Where is the fault? Is it mine?"

She pressed his hand tight in both her own, and her voice in answering was softer even than her eyes. "Perhaps there is no fault—not really. But you've built a wall about yourself, Uncle Solon, and only you can tear it down. I wish so much, so very much, you and Dick might be closer that you might understand each other better. He's all you have now and as the years pass I know you're going to be proud of him." In an almost inaudible whisper she added, "Just as I already am proud of him."

He looked down at her, then with a long, thin finger raised her face toward his. "You love him, little Nora." A note almost of dismay had crept into the man's voice.

With wide, frank eyes she returned that searching scrutiny. "I think I have always loved him." The words, clear and fearless, carried an exultant quality that in some strange way made the man's own heart beat faster. Her fearless, love-filled eyes held him for a time irresolute, as if weighing in his mind the wisdom of saying more, then with bent head and slow pace he passed down that tamarisk shaded path while silently, wonderingly, she walked beside him. At last he turned.

"I wonder if any man is worthy of a love like that. I wonder," he repeated, and after a moment added, "Remember, little Nora, that love is a blind, defenceless thing, bringing unhappiness more often than it brings ecstasy, and I would do much to keep unhappiness ever from touching you." He stopped, hesitated, then went on. "I should not want to trust your happiness to Dick, even though he is my own son. There is something in the blood of us Lowells, Nora girl, forbidding us to rest or be content or bring happiness to any woman—long."

The shadow of a low flying cloud fell across the hillside, obliterating the dark outlines of the tamarisk, touching those two silent figures, chilling, as with an unexpressed foreboding, the light that glowed in the girl's upturned eyes.

Still avoiding her troubled, questioning gaze, Lowell leaned forward and touched his straight lips to her forehead.

"I'll walk back alone," he said, and turned down the long, winding path.

CHAPTER TEN

It was six days later that Will Barnes looked up in mild surprise from the porch of his ranch house to see a tattered, bedraggled figure ride slowly out of the desert and tie a rickety, time-worn horse to the corral fence. No derelict sheep herder ever wore a shabbier array of rags and cast-off garments than this bent, sombreroed figure who, head down and with shuffling gait, trudged slowly toward the hacienda. Half way up the steps he stopped as if exhausted extended a dirty paw toward Barnes and whined, in the singsong Spanish of the Mexican peon, "Tengo hambre, Senor, mucha hambre."

Smiling in spite of himself, Barnes laid down his paper. "Hungry, eh? Hombre, you make me hungry just looking at you." His eyes passed again to the wreck of a horse that now leaned out of sheer weariness against the corral. "Follow me around back and we'll see what the cook's got."

But as Barnes started forward the half bent figure straightened, rose to its full height, and a dirty, suntanned face grinned openly beneath the sombrero.

"Well, make it snappy, old son." The voice, too, had miraculously changed. "Personally, I could eat a raw dog."

"Dick!" Barnes' look of blank amazement turned to a smile of quick delight. He gripped Lowell's hand. "Thank God you're back." Then again his eyes fell to the rags and tattered sombrero and he laughed outright. "But why in the name of Heaven all this masquerade?"

"First give me a real cigarette—haven't touched one in days. And tell your cocinera I don't give a whoop how my eggs are done just so they're done quick."

"You don't deserve a mouthful after letting Nora and me worry about you far nearly a week."

As he spoke Barnes hurried to the kitchen, and returning, found Dick curled luxuriantly in a chair, inhaling the fragrance of a cigarette. "What news in Laredo? he asked.

Dick watched the blue smoke curl upward. "I never went near Laredo. Never had any intention of going. The man they were holding there had nothing to do with Bruce's death." Dick's voice dropped. "Whoever the murderer is, we'll find him nearer home, Will—never forget that. After I left you I collected this somewhat sketchy costume and bought yonder noble animal all for five pesos gold. An hour later a Mexican peon with ears very wide open and a questioning turn of mind had taken the place of Dick Lowell."

For a moment Barnes watched him with a look of puzzled admiration. "The only thing I've learned to expect from you is the unexpected. But I never knew a man could disappear so completely. Where did you go?"

"Up and down the border—where ever sheepherders light a campfire and men gather to talk of the really important things that never reach newspaper offices. I even spent two nights here on the outskirts of Verde."

"Without letting us know "

"Naturally. Otherwise I couldn't have picked up much knowledge down in the Mexican Quarter. In those few days I've learned—" Dick hesitated, "enough perhaps to bring together the pieces of an intricate puzzle." His eyes grew speculative and serious. "I haven't all the pieces of that puzzle yet, but I think I see where the trail leads.

"Why are editors so dull, Will?' Dick tossed away his cigarette stub and looked with a smile at his friend. "I'll gamble that in the past five days I've learned more about what is going on under the surface than you have in the past year. Give me a cantina or a sheepherders' camp, old boy, and I'll bring you news that you won't find printed in the scholarly columns of the Verde Times. I wonder if you know why Nick Sari is raising wages of laborers at the dam who happen to be handy with the revolver? Or do you know that Sari has ordered his scouts to enlist all the renegades on both sides of the border for a drive against the ranchers who won't move off his land? There's a clash coming soon, Will, and if your ear's close enough to the ground you can get the first rumbles."

Barnes' deep-set eyes were thoughtful. "But what has all that to do with finding the murderer of Bruce?"

Reaching over, Dick took another cigarette. "Everything. The big game Sari is playing lies behind Bruce's killing and made his death necessary. Bruce got in their way and they killed him. Now I'm going to get in their way." Dick's fist closed. "I'm going to smash Nick Sari's scheme to loot the desert country and bring Sari himself into the open.' Lowell's face grew tense. "I tell you there's a gigantic game being played out with Verde and all this country about Verde as the stakes. The man who fired the shot that ended Bruce's life was only a tool. The governing brain, the centre of the circle, lies elsewhere. The real murderer is the one who ordered that shot fired and by heaven Will, he's the one I'm out to get."

"Sari?"

"Nick Sari. It came to me last night as I lay out on the desert what I've got to do. I'll goad him into trying to get me just as he got Bruce—but this time I'll make him do his own shooting."

"Too risky." Barnes shook his head. "Much too risky. Sari's the most dangerous thief in the border country. And how do you know it was Sari's gang?"

"Every sign points that way. I tell you Sari alone would have anything to gain from Bruce's death. Listen. Do you know what happened to the man who had charge of surveying Sari's irrigation work?"

Barnes shook his head

" He was found dead in a San Francisco alley three months ago."

"Well?"

Dick's low pitched voice sank. "Bruce spent the last day of his life surveying not far from that dam."

A quiver of horror passed over Barnes' face.

"He kept his survey notes in a leather bound book," Dick went on. "That last day he sent a boy back to the ranch with his transit—the book he put in his pocket. He had it when he left your ranch that night."

Barnes' mind darted back to the prostrate body and the unbuttoned coat. "Then it was taken by the man who killed him—why?"

"Because it told a tale that Sari wants to keep hidden."

"What tale?"

"That's one of the questions my nights on the desert havent answered. But I can tell you this. My whole plan in going East six months ago was to watch Nick Sari. Bruce and I were certain he was playing an underhanded game with Father, so we split forces. Bruce stayed here to keep track of what happened in the border country while I went back to watch Sari himself.'

Barnes nodded.

"I hoped to find out enough about Sari's methods to show him up before the Verde ranchers," Dick went on. "Sometimes I think Nick suspected. He felt things tightening, and before long I found my mail had been examined and twice my apartment was gone through. Then the last night that I spent East, Sari, much against his will, laid out all the papers on the irrigation work. I'd never been able to get sight of the plans and survey for Sari kept them in his safe. While I was talking to Father in the other office, I could see him laying out the papers, and I saw him put one of them in his desk drawer. That paper was a letter in Bruce's handwriting, and attached to it was a column of survey notes. That letter had been written to me. Everything but the figures and a few words were torn away.

"I believe that letter brought about Bruce's death. While Sari was in the other office with Father, I copied the survey figures as they lay in the desk drawer, then left my thumbprint in the corner plain enough for Sari to see."

(TO BE CONTINUED)

DEBOTH HOMEMAKERS SCHOOL

LADIES ATTENTION !

The very latest in the art of Culinary and Home Making to be demonstrated by popular Claire Andree of the DeBoth School.

May we suggest Madam that you buy your ticket as soon as possible and that you come early?

Please read the Ontario Intelligencer daily for complete details.

A NEW LINE OF

Baguette

WRIST WATCHES

Slender dainty cases with 15-Jewelled Movement

Regular $15. for 12.00

Dependable Time Keepers

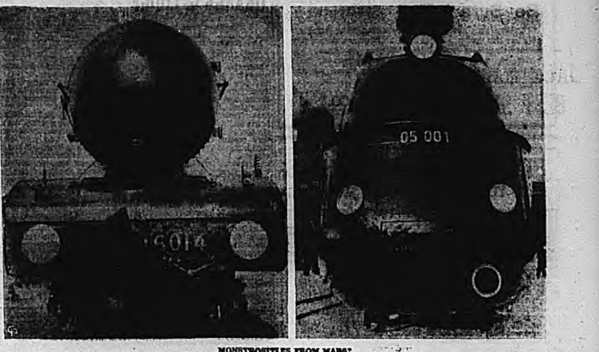
Other lines of girls' wrist watches from $4.50 up

J. R. O.

McCURDY

224 Front St. Phone 515

RADICAL DESIGNS FEATURE BRITISH AND GERMAN LOCOMOTIVES



MONSTROSITIES FROM MARS?

Designs from the imagination of a futurist? Mais non! Locomotives—a la streamline. At left the bullet-nosed front of the new streamlined locomotive at Swindon, England. The unique shape of the locomotive's nose tends to lessen wind resistance and give the engine more speed, the object of the engineers. The locomotive, called the "King Henry VII", has been built in the utmost secrecy, this picture having been taken at its first trial run. At right a closeup view of the new German streamlined engine, constructed at the Borsig engine plant as it started out for its first trial run on especially built rails. It has an average speed of about 150 kilometres an hour.

ZION Y. P. SOCIETY REGULAR MEETING

Zion.—The Young People's regular meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Hawley on Monday evening.

Mrs. F. Thrasher and Mrs. W. Tufts and Mrs. Lorne Brough spent Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. E. Kennedy.

Several from here attended the play-off games in hockey between Zion and West Huntingdon teams on Tuesday ad Friday nights, the final score being a one-point victory for the Zion team which entitles them to the Hill cup.

The Phillipston-Zion Institute met at the home of Mrs. Billa Ketcheson on Tuesday afternoon.

Teacher training classes are being carried on by Rev. Everson at the home of Mr. Cecil Ketcheson on Wednesday evenings.

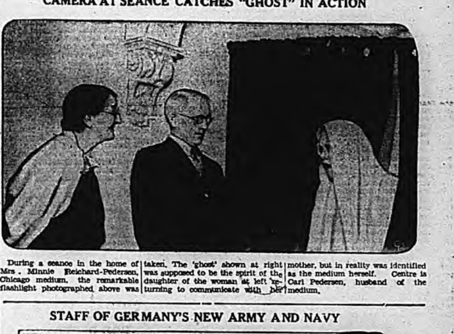
Little Dale Cranston is better after being sick with a heavy cold.

Bethel W.M.S. was held on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Lee Ketcheson.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Calver and Marilyn of Napanee spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. A. Stevenson.

Mrs. Sam Way spent Monday with her sister, Mrs. M. Cronkwright.

CAMERA AT SEANCE CATCHES "GHOST" IN ACTION



During a seance in the home of Mrs. Minnie Reichard-Pedersen, Chicago medium, the remarkable flashlight photographed above was taken. The 'ghost' shown at right was supposed to be the spirit of the daughter of the woman at left returning to communicate with her mother, but in reality was identified as the medium herself. Centre is Carl Pedersen, husband of the medium.

STAFF OF GERMANY'S NEW ARMY AND NAVY

Pl[illegible] of these four men, engineers of new German war machine, have Krupp plant at Essen (left) working at wartime speed and capacity to supply this typical German soldier (right) and 500,000 others with most advanced death-dealing equipment. The four men forming the general staff to handle the Reich's army and navy are: (bottom to top) Admiral Erich Raeder; Gen. Freiherr von Fritsch, chief of staff; Gen. Werner von Blomberg, war minister; Gen. Hermann Goering, Hitler's air minister.

AS ARCHBISHOP McGUIGAN TOOK OVER TORONTO DIOCESE

An elaborate and impressive reception and ceremony was tendered Archbishop McGuigan, formerly of Regina, on his arrival in Toronto. The Archbishop, youngest prince of Catholic church on this continent, took over the Toronto diocese most important English - speaking diocese in Canada. Archbishop McGuigan is shown (LEFT) as he greeted a group of children on arrival. TOP RIGHT, with Most Rev. Andrea Cassulo, papal muncio to Canada. Both are wearing their soutanes. LOWER RIGHT, a guard of honor at the station by fourth degree members of the Knights of Columbus.

Be Sure

To have your Auto Insurance re-instated before taking out your car this Spring. If you have no insurance, do not take further chances of serious loss. All that is necessary in either case, or in the event of you changing your car, is to telephone us (1364). —We will immediately protect you and get full particulars later. This is part of our service.

JAMIESON BONE & CO.
INSURANCE INVESTMENTS

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 22—(CP)—Thursday's late rally in the Industrial department of Toronto Exchange was absent from the morning session today and prices were on the soft side.

Canadian Industrial Alcohol moved up to show a net gain of 1-4 while Walkers' Common at 27 1-2 was off 1-2 and Distillers Seagrams at 16 was down 1-4. The brewery list was dull.

Small losses were boarded for International Petroleum, Imperial Oil and the McColl-Frontenac issues.

Fanny Farmer fell back half a point and Canada Bread had the same setback while small gains were boarded for National Grocers and Canada Packers Pfd.

Losses of nearly a point were showing for Bank of Montreal and Pressed Metals.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, March 22—(CP)—The mining list was nicked for a row of losses in a draggy session of Toronto Exchange today.

Losses of a few cents to 10 each were boarded for Pickle Crow, McWatters, Central Patricia, Mackenzie, God's Lake and Macassa. San Antonio dropped 15 cents.

Dome weakened 55 cents and recessions of 5 to 25 cents were chalked up for McIntyre, Hollinger, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves.

Base Metals Corporation held a small gain at noon. Noranda and Mining Corporation came out unchanged.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Mar. 22 (AP)—Financial markets showed signs of being weary today and retreated quietly into a state of drowsiness where small price changes ruled.

In the Canadian section of the list, McIntyre improved a small fraction, while Dome, Canadian Pacific and International Nickel were all narrow. On the curb, Lake Shore and Hiram Walker ruled a shade lower. Dominion government bonds were steady. Canadian funds gained ⅛ cent at 99 1-16.

Utilities such as Consolidated Gas, Public Service of N. J. and North American erased early losses and Commonwealth and Southern Preferred gained more than a point.

U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, Schenley Distillers and American Can dipped a trifle but sufficient support appeared to check the decline and a few leaders including Johns-Manville, Pennsylvania and Radio Corporation of America advanced minor fractions.

UNLISTED MINES

Unlisted mines furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co. today.

Afton 53-56
Ardeen 4-6
Bankfield 85-88
Bathurst 3 1-2—4 1-2
Bosquet 28-30
Can Pandora 4 1-2—6 1-2
Casey 32 1-2—34 1-2
Dunlop 1-2
El Bonanza 10-12
Forty Four 1050-1150
Gabrielle 38-43
Glenora 4 1-2—5 1-2
Gold Eagle 36-39
Gt. Bear Lake 41-44
Hardrock 70-73
Johnson Nip 6 1-4—7 1-4
Lafayette 6-7
Lamaque 145-155
Lagoon 10-12
McLeod 6—7 1-2
Brennan 30S
Desantis 27-29
Springbrook Sturgeon 13S
Franklin 36-38
Chib 95-100
Magnet 10-12
Matachewan 13-15
Mosher 4-5
Murwood 25S
North Shores 5-6
Oklend 36-39
Red Lake 30-32 1-2
Rice Lake 4-5
Springer Sturgeon 13S
Smelters 15-17
Sigma 150S
Shawkey 47-50
Sturgeon 85-92
Wells 15S
Wingold 15S
Young Dav. 19-22

Grain Markets

Closing quotations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as furnished by A. H. Ketcheson & Co., to-day:

	High	Low	Close
Wheat—
May	84 7-8	84 1-2	84 3-4
July	84 1-4	83 7-8	84 1-8
Oats—
May	39 3-8	38 3-8	38 7-8
July	39 1-4	38 3-8	38 7-8
Barley—
May	46 1-2	45 5-8	46
July	47	46 1-4	46 1-2

Stock Markets

Quotations furnished by Biggar and Crawford P. H. Wills, branch manager. Quotations at 2.20 p.m.

MINES

Ashley 16½
Ajax 90
Acme 22
Breth. Treth 2⅛B
Barry Hollinger 5¼B
Base Metals 52B
Bobjo 25
Big Missouri 42½B
Bradian 160
Bagamac 7B
Bralorne 880
Castle Treth. 60½B
Coniaurum 205B
Central Pat 145
Coast Copper 140B
Dome 39.50
Dominion Explor. 5½B
Eldorado 117
Falconbridge 365
God's Lake 126
Goldale 13½B
Granada 31B
Greene Stab 28
Hollinger 1680
Halcrow 3½B
Home Oil 55B
Hudson's Bay 1210B
Howey 86
Inter. Nickel 23 1-2
Kirkland Lake 48B
Kirk Townsite 23
Lake Shore 5680
Little Long Lac 580
Macassa 309
Malartic 61
Maple Leaf 7B
McIntyre 4460B
Mining Corporation 90
McLeod 1 1- 4B
McKenzie 114
McWaters 173
McVittie 25 1-2B
Nipissing 212B
Noranda 3360B
Pickle Crow 206B
Paymaster 17 1-2
Pioneer 1000
Parkhill 23
Premier 159
Reade Auth. 76
Reno 140B
St. Anthony 24 1-2
Sherritt 46B
Siscoe 292
San Antonio 416
Stadacona 25B
Sudbury Basin 129
Sylvanite 230
Teck-Hughes 403
Ventures 90B
Wayside 17 1-2B
Waite Amulet 50B
Wright Hargreaves 915B

TORONTO

Bell Telephone 128½B
B. A. Oil 14¾
Brewing Corp. 3¼B
Braz. Trac. 8⅝
Can. Bud Brewery 7¾B
Can. Cement 6B
Can. Dredge 20B
Can. Ind. Alcohol 9B
C. P. R. 9⅝B
Can. Malting 30¼
Can. Vinegar 26 3-4B.
Canada Car 6¼B
Cons. Bakeries 13B
Con. Smelting 133
Dominion Stores 8¼
Dist. Seagrams 16¼B
Ford "A" 28B
Gypsum 5¼B
Goodyear 129¾B
Imp. Oil 16B
Imp. Tobacco 12
Inter. Pet. 29⅝B
Loblaw 18½B
Massey Harris 3¾
Mont. Power 29½B
McColl-Frontenac 14.
Power Corp. 8B
Steel of Canada 44¼B
Supertest 22½B
Shawinigan 16½B
Walker's 27¼B
Walker's Pfd. 17⅞
Walkerville Brewery 3¼B

NEW YORK

American 114⅞
American T. and T. 101⅝
Amer. For. Power 3
Anaconda 9⅛
Auburn 17
Case 50¼
Chrysler 34⅛
General Motors 28¼
Elec. Auto Lite 21¼
Inter. Telephone 6½
North American 11½
Montgomery Ward 24⅛
Phillips Pet 15½
Radio 4⅜
Standard Oil of N.J. 37 3-8.
Standard Brands 14⅜
Stewart-Warner 7¼
U. S. Smelters 115⅛
U. S. Steel 29⅛
United Aircraft 11⅝
Vanadium 14 3-4.

$8,500,000 Expenditure Upon Relief Program

Ottawa, March 22 (CP)—Actual disbursements on the $40,000,000 public works program launched last year as a relief measure, will be only $8,500,000 at the end of March, 1935, Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes told the House of Commons in the course of his Budget address today. Contracts and commitments made to date, however, total $25,000,000.

ORANGE G. LODGE

(Continued From Page 1)

Mr. Stewart was introduced by William Ireland, Chairman and former M.P.P. for East Hastings.

Thursday concluded the four-day convention of the Grand Lodges of the Loyal Orange Lodge Royal Black Preceptory Orange Young Britons and the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association of Ontario East. Yesterday the Grand Orange Lodge and the L.O.B.A. held their election of officers. More delegates were present than ever before in the history of the Grand Lodge conventions. In the morning the visiting delegates from the four grand lodges attended church service at King Street United Church where a most inspiring sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. Semple of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville.

The L.O.L. elected their officers at the Masonic Temple and the ladies convened in the church parlors at King Street United Church. The business of the session last evening and a dance in the Masonic Hall concluded a most successful meet.

Officers of the L.O.L. for the Grand Lodge of Ontario East were elected as follows: G. Master, E. P. Reid, Peterboro'; D.G.M.; E. N. Mitchell, Lindsay; Assistant D.G.M. S. T. Hudson, Kingston; Grand Chaplain, J. L. Hodgson, Ottawa; Grand Sec., D. J. Sutherland, 147 Flora street, Ottawa; Grand Treas., G. H. Wood, 456 Princess street, Kingston; Grand Lect., C. W. Hodgson, Haliburton; Grand Marshall, Creghton Devitt, Burketon; D. G. Lect., J. Dawson, Ottawa.

Resolutions referring to the separate school question were referred to without discussion, to the Legislation Committee. It was decided to hold the next annual convention in Prescott in 1936.

The Grand Lodge of the L.O.B.A. elected the following officers for the year: Rt. Wor. Prov. G. Mistress Sister Kirkham, Smiths Falls; R. W.P.G.D.M. Sister Caton, Picton; R.W.P.G. Jr. D.M. Sister Moore, Lindsay; R.W.P.G., Chaplain, Sister Sword, Merrickville; R.W.P.G., Sec., Sister Blake, Ottawa; R.W.P. G. Treas., Sister Greer, Burritts Rapids.

Obituary

SAMUEL J. WEDDEN

Samuel John Wedden, 106 North Front Street, died shortly before noon today in the Belleville General Hospital. The deceased was admitted but two days ago, blood poisoning developing from a scratch of a pimple, which formed on the top of his head

The late Mr. Wedden was born in England 73 years ago being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Wedden, but for 50 years has resided in this city, where he was well and favorably known by a wide circle who will exceedingly regret his demise. For many years, the deceased was superintendent of the Belleville Cemetery but has been living retired for some years. He was a member of Emmanuel Church and fraternally a life member of the Sons of England, also a member of the Belleville Lodge A.F. and A.M., No. 123. In the former order he took an active part and was always ready to serve in any capacity.

Left to mourn are his wife, three daughters Lelia at Kingston, Norma and Edna at home, one son Harry of this city also two brothers George and William of England and one sister Mary also in England.

The funeral date will be announced later.

BRIDAL SHOWER FOR PICTON GIRL

Mrs. Gordon Crake is Honored by Friends And Associates

Picton—The home of Mrs. Milton Gilmore, Elizabeth street, was the scene of a happy gathering on Wednesday evening, March 20th., when Mrs. Gilmore entertained delightfully at a miscellaneous shower in honour of Mrs. Gordon Crake (nee Florence Millman), a recent bride. Thirty guests gathered to honour Mrs. Crake, who had been asked to call at Mrs. Gilmore's house on that evening, and on arrival, was completely taken by surprise at being the guest of honour at the shower. After some time spent in visiting, little Misses Audrey McGinnis and Betty Jones, presented beautiful gifts of silver crystal, linen and kitchen utensils in a gaily decorated pink and white basket to the bride. Each gift was accompanied by a witty verse which was read by Audrey McGinnis. Florence thanked her friends, for the lovely gifts and good wishes in a few well-chosen words.

Progressive euchre was then played, with Mrs. Bert McGinnis carrying off the pretty favour, and the consolation prize falling to Mrs. Fred Wright. A delightful lunch was served at the quartette tables with Mrs. Earl Gilmore assisting the hostess. The lovely rooms were gay with softly shaded lights, spring flowers and potted plants. A most enjoyable evening was brought to a close by all singing: "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow".

On Saturday afternoon the staff of the local branch of the Bell Telephone Company, presented Mrs. Gordon Crake, local representative, with an electric coffee percolator as a wedding gift. Miss Marie Stafford made the presentation, which was accompanied by verses, expressing all best wishes for future happiness.

Mrs. Robert Ebsall and small niece Marilyn Weston of Syracuse, N.Y., is the guest for two weeks of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Scott, Bloomfield Road.

Mrs. H. E. LeHeup was hostess of a charmingly arranged card party at her home on Mary street, on Tuesday afternoon. Two tables were in play with Mrs. Charles Patterson winning the dainty favour. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the game.

Mr. and Mrs. "Warpy" Phillips, who have been visiting in Bloomfield, are leaving this week for their home in Meaford.

In the L.O.L. Hall on Elizabeth street on Monday evening, the usual large crowd gathered for the weekly euchre party. The prize winners were Mr. Jack Vestervelt and Mrs. Chas. Patterson with Mr. George Haylock and Mrs. W. McWilliams carrying off the consolation prizes. The ladies served refreshments at the close of a much enjoyed evening.

Mrs. Yerex has re-opened her confectionery store, just East of the Regent Theatre, and has now a gay little candy shop that reminds one of those seen in the larger cities.

BELGIAN SOLDIER OF FORTUNE

(Continued From Page 1)

of his face is closely shaven.

Armed with a cheery optimism and broad philosophy of life, Vaudreuil makes an instant personal appeal to the hundreds of people he meets each week. His magnetism enables him to hold large audiences interested to the end of his occasional lectures held by him from time to time to gain funds to carry him along.

Back in Brussels, in the year 1920, de Vaudreuil, typical soldier of fortune, conceived the idea of seeing the world afoot. Despite his handicap of missing limbs, he made preparations for the tour and received the signature of Albert, King of the Belgians as the first step toward this end. In the little black book he now carries, hundreds of other signatures and messages of good will, solicited on his trip through the various countries, appear. While in Belleville he secured the signature of Mayor Geo. O. Tice and City Clerk Wilfrid E. Holmes and expects to annex names of judges and court officials.

De Vaudreuil's trip through Russia took nine months, and was completed in 1923. He travelled from the north to the south through that country and admits that he found little excitement during the tour. "But that was before they turned the country upside down," he added.

A bachelor, he has no home ties and his steps lead where fancy dictates. "Soon I'll be in Mexico, and then after that, I'll probably go to India," he said this morning. "After that I don't just know where I'll go."

More erect, more vigorous and healthier than a man many years his senior, de Vaudreuil owes his condition to the fact that he has lived constantly in the open and has never dissipated.

"Belgians are supposed to like wine and beer; I've never taken a drink. I don't smoke and haven't any other bad habits that most men are supposed to have," he said. "Perhaps that's the reason," he added when his healthy appearance was commented upon by a reporter.

Vaudreuil has spent the past three and one half years in Canada and has found the people "very kind and helpful". In his wanderings he averages about fifteen miles per day, with an occasional day's stop over for a good rest. "I never ride."

THE DRAMA

"All in the Family" Presented By Victoria Ave. B. Y. P. U.

The Sunday School room of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church was crowded last evening for the presentation of the comedy-drama by the members of the B.Y.P.U. "All in the Family" was very ably given by the cast under the direction of Miss Mildred Lloyd and included in the interesting program were musical numbers between acts which were greatly enjoyed by the audience. Rev. Alexander Grant Sinclair, pastor of the church; welcomed the guests and introduced the various numbers.

"All in the Family" offers many amusing situations, cleverly woven together in an interesting plot. Into the modern home of a gentleman farmer, Henry Dennison, comes the patronizing letter of a niece from abroad who refers to an anticipated visit to the "quaint" home folks. The Dennisons plan a little deception and transform their very charming home, and themselves, into the "truly rural" conception their niece seems to have. Meanwhile Mr. Dennison is concerned over the suspicion cast on his son, employed in the bank, over a shortage of funds and there is the mystery of a lost paper which would have meant much in the Dennison fortunes. And of course there is the romantic note as the son of the host and the step-daughter of the London visitor meet and are attracted to each other. The element of comedy is introduced by the hilarious courtship of the Dennison maid by Tobias Pocket, in search of a third wife and the play ends happily for all.

Mr. Bert Orr and Miss Edith Looker took the parts of the gentleman farmer and his wife, the former kindly, genuine and indulgent, the latter equally likeable although a little inclined to be extravagant and strive to attain fashionable heights. These two young actors deserve high praise for their fine performance. Miss Violet Hobson as Ella Hathaway, a great friend of the family showed this character to be most sympathetic and understanding and was well suited to the role. Mr. Lorne Andrews as the lawyer friend, showed splendid stage presence.

Mrs. Joe Blackburn was especially good as Mrs. Julia Lane Whitcombe-Pendleton, the niece from abroad, who sensing the comedy being played, begins a bit of acting heself and she and her step-daughter, who enters into the plot reluctantly, give fine impersonations of proud, overbearing relatives. Miss Bessie Hart as Miss Eloise Pendleton made a charming heroine and the part of Dick Dennison, the son of the household, was presented by Bill Hales in a very accomplished manner.

Miss Mabel Peck as Voila Fitch, the Dennison servant, was ideal and her drawl was very well done. In the confusion and counterplots about her, Viola remained undisturbed and had a knack of turning the serious moments of the household into comedy with her naive questions. Mr. Bert Girling had a difficult part to play as Tobias Pocket and his every entrance was the signal for [illegible]ment. Mr. Ted Russell as Alfred Henson, a bank examiner, made the most of a brief part. The setting of the play was very charmingly arranged.

At the conclusion of the play the popular director, Miss Mildred Lloyd, was presented with roses by the cast. Between acts, Holloway Street Sunday School orchestra gave an interesting group of selections. Other numbers were: Vocal solo, Miss Phyllis May; Piano trio, Mrs. L. Grills, Mrs. H. Hamilton, Miss E. Wheeler; Cornet solo, Mr. Jack Green, "Silver Threads." A vocal octette, "Soldiers' Chorus" and instrumental sextette "Across the Sea" were contributed by the following musicians of the Salvation Army: Messrs. Jack Green, Fred Wardle, Arthur Wynn, Roy Wardle, Eric Naylor, Vic Mason, Bill McCoy and Mr. Adams. Miss Evelyn Muncaster was in charge of arrangements for the musical part of the program.

The appreciation of the B.Y.P.U. was expressed by Mr. Lorne Andrews to all who assisted in making the evening a success.

After the program a delicious banquet was served to the cast and to those who assisted during the evening. The long table was delightfully decorated with spring flowers and tall tapers and the guests spent a very enjoyable social hour.

FAIR CALIFORNIAN LADY

(Continued From Page 1)

slowly and thoughtfully to the questions addressed to her by a reporter.

No Comment on Case

"No I have no comment to make upon any angle of this case. All I can say is that I am here. I came to see Harold Vermilyea. Please don't ask me questions."

"No, I don't know how long I am going to stay. I can't even say where I am stopping while I am here. Perhaps it is just as well."

The suggestion that the visit might signal the first step toward a battle for freedom from the gallows in the yard of the county jail on the morning of May 2 next met with a stony silence. Mrs. Schoor was singularly uncommunicative. "I would rather not answer that," or "please don's ask me unfair questions," she repeated over and over again.

Avoids Reporters

Travelling by train and bus Mrs. Schoor was able to elude reporters on her long trip to Belleville. At Toronto a tip that several newspapermen were awaiting her arrival enabled her to change her method of transportation and dodge them.

"Ever since this terrible thing has happened it's been the same thing, reporters and cameramen. They've been taking pictures of people that were not really me at all," she said.

Everyone so far in Belleville and Ontario has been "kind" said Mrs. Schoor. "I am thankful for that much at least," she added.

"Have you known Harold Vermilyea long," questioned the Daily Ontario Intelligencer.

"Yes, quite a while. But that's another question I would just as soon not answer."

"Do you intend going to Ottawa while you are in Canada, Mrs Schoor?" asked the Daily Ontario Intelligencer. "I'm sorry, I can't answer that."

"What sort of a trip did you have from California?" "I was bothered by reporters nearly all the way."

Paged on Train

In an attempt to etsablish contact with Mrs. Schoor on her trip to Ontario so that interviews could be arranged with reporters of the papers of larger cities en route, Mrs. Schoor was paged constantly on the train.

"But I didn't answer any of them," she added.

A slow smile crept over her features on Friday morning during the second brief interview with the Daily Ontario Intelligencer at the court house buildings as she told of her successful attempt to dodge a swarm of reporters assembled with note books and cameras at the Union Station awaiting her arrival.

"How did you dodge them?" she was asked. "I can't tell you that. You see I have to go back to California again."

"How did you come from California, Mrs. Schoor, by bus?" "Perhaps."

Posed For Cameramen

Dressed in the same quiet black fur-trimmed coat, topped with a tiny black hat, instead of the diminutive beret worn by her on Thursday, Mrs. Schoor finally consented to pose on the steps of the court house for several pictures taken by photographers. Court house officials were plainly annoyed by the intrusion of the reporters and cameramen but finally gave in when Mrs. Schoor smilingly consented.

"I take a terrible picture," she confessed while flashlight bulbs winked. "That one I saw in one of your papers was an example. If you are bound to take them, I suppose they might as well be taken right."

Reporters Shooed Away

"How long do you intend to stay in Belleville?" was asked as the pictures were finally taken. "I can't even answer that," she replied.

Court house officials finally shooed reporters away and Mrs. Schoor was whisked into an inner room.

Mrs. Schoor will be allowed certain intervals of conversation with Harold Vermilyea, it was intimated today by Gaol Governor French, but the conversation will be limited to but a few moments at a time between the bars of the cell corridor and under the gaze and within hearing of the jail guards.

It is rumored that the chief purpose of the trip made by Mrs. Schoor is connected with the disposition of Harold Vermilyea's two children, Aurelia and Than at present in California and fast friends of Mrs. Schoor.

SAMUEL WHITTLE GIVEN 3 MONTHS

Pleads Guilty in Police Court to Two Charges of Forgery

Samuel Whittle, Bonarlaw, farm employee, was sentenced to serve not less than three months nor more than two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory by Magistrate E. J. Butler K.C., in today's local police court after the accused man had pleaded guilty to two charges of forgery.

Whittle appeared in today's court for sentence, having previously pleaded guilty to a charge of the forging of a cheque for $52.50, when he forged his employer's name. Before sentence was passed Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., read a further charge, that Whittle did unlawfully forge a cheque for $16.70 at Madoc, having all knowledge of the circumstances. The prisoner pleaded guilty to the second charge.

"This is a serious matter and deserves fitting punishment and although I realize this young man's youthful age, he will have to understand, that this is a serious crime," stated His Worship before passing sentence.

LORNE F. GREEN IS LEAVING POST

Superintendent of Employment Bureau Since 1919

Mr. L. F. Green, Superintendent of the local office of The Employment Service of Canada, will relinquish his appointment on Mar. 31., the position which he has held for the past 16 years. He received the appointment under the Drury Government, in 1919.

In conversation with a reporter Mr. Green put in a word on behalf of the unemployed, among whom he is well and favorably known. "All kinds of organizations and individuals are engaging in employment work to some extent, because all have friends out of work. There is a tremendous competition on the part of the individual who is out of a job, as he trails from factory to factory, and from place to place looking for work of some kind." he said.

"In fact, I marvel at the optimism of the unemployed man who is being driven from here to yonder in his search for employment. These men are putting up with inconceivable hardships, which must often mean torture, in a frenzied effort to get a job, and they know perfectly well that even if they get the job it means long hours at paltry wages. All over the country they are looking for those little jobs, like men looking for water in a desert. I am losing patience with the multitude of individuals many of them in public life, who talk about the waster, the ne'er-do-well, and the professional idler. They are people who are making snap judgment without knowing the facts. The unemployed constitute a pretty decent cross-section of the public with the best and the worst, and all that goes between," stated Mr. Green.

Mr. J. D. Ross, will succeed Mr. Green as superintendent.

MESOPOTAMIA IS SUBJECT OF TALK

Dr. G. S. Cronk Recounts Experiences at Veterans' Gathering

A totally different evening was held by members of the 21st and 2nd Battalion Clubs in the Armouries last evening, when the Clubs were host to several ex-nursing sisters and ex-medical officers of health of various Canadian overseas units during the Great War. Representatives of W.A.A.C.'s, the V.A.D.'s and other nursing services were present.

A sparkling and vivid account of his experiences in Mesopotamia and China as Captain in the medical service during the Great War was given in a brief talk delivered by Dr. G. S. Cronk of the city.

One of the guests present was Col. E. H. Pense, D.S.O., M.C., Kingston, and former O.C., of the 21st Overseas Battalion.

The evening was concluded with refreshments.

MR. S. J. FISHER
wishes to announce that he is resuming his Auctioneering Business
after an absence of 3 years.
All sales will be given prompt and careful attention.
SALES CONDUCTED ANY TIME OR ANY PLACE.
For Particulars Phone 1671F
S.J.FISHER
171 Bridge Street East.
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

285-287 Coleman St.
SILCO SERVICE SATISFIES
Phone 1584
CONTRACTORS and DISTRIBUTORS
For the First Time!
A TRIAL SIZE OF AULCRAFT ENAMEL at HALF PRICE!
Reg. Price 30c
30c
March 25 to 30 Inclusive
Next Week
15c
10% OFF OUR PRICE ON ALL PAINT and VARNISH
W.-O. SPECIAL HOUSE PAINT $2.00 Per Gallon

AULCRAFT
4-HOUR PAINT
The Original
4-Hour House Paint
MPANY

Arthur A. Sills Co.
BELLEVILLE

Daily Short Story

"JEALOUS"

(Copyright 1933 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

As he opened the door that led to her inner sanctum—at least so he called it—Winston Jackson remembered his own witty saying to Louise:

"I envy the fly and the spider, because they can prowl about where no ordinary male has the privilege."

But he was seizing the privilege now. Of course Louise was not in. He knew that. Her parents had told him that she had not yet returned from the beauty parlor. And while he was waiting a sudden whim took hold of him. So gingerly he [illegible] the room.

It was no different than hundreds of other rooms occupied by girls. A bed and a dresser and a few tables and reading lamps and plenty of gimcracks. But to him—every little item was invested with a particular charm and fragrance. For Winston—or Wil as he was known—was in love with Louise. And everything that belonged to her was like a little bit of heaven to him.

He took his time about examining the room—the curtains and pictures. He even opened the door to her wardrobe closet and saw the shimmering silks and laces. Then he walked to the dresser. Suddenly a black cloud passed before his eyes. A framed picture was nestling behind a scented bottle and atomiser. He looked closely—the picture was not his.

Will did not exactly expect to find his photograph framed in the intimacy of Louise's room. Although it was within the realm of possibility. After all hadn't they vowed eternal passion for each other? But at the same time, he never expected to find the photograph of another there.

He looked closely at the photograph. Rather handsome— the possessor of that face. Of course he would find faults in it. The mouth and chin looked a bit weak, and the forehead slightly receding. All the more reason—why that photograph should NOT be there. Slowly his anger rose in his heart. He reopened the door gingerly. Her parents were not in the adjoining room. He tip-toed out, stepped into the corridor, took his hate and coat and departed . .

Heart-Heavy

Heart-heavy and with his self-confidence considerably shattered, Winston Jackson trudged home. How five minutes had crushed the dreams of twenty years or fifty years to come!

He began to recollect all the disagreeable and disappointing mannerisms of Louise. He remembered how she had snubbed him the first time they met. She had refused to dance and looked at him rather sourly.

He remembered other scenes. After they had grown acquainted and even chummy. The habit she had of always mentioning handsome movie stars and thrilling over their looks. How much more reserved she would be in his presence and how gay and infectious she could become with others.

Still their acquaintanceship ripened into friendship and then into love. Even the memory of her first kiss seemed to rankle a trifle in his memory, it had seemed to him as if it lacked the warmth and the opportunity that he had expected.

That was before he had given her a job in his office as secretary. Of course in the office she had to act reserved and standoffish. He wondered if part of her love had not been unconsciously induced by the fact that he gave her a position.

Of course, not all their moments together had been cold and matter-of-fact. There had been times when their spirits were in unison. How warm and sweet unutterably charming she had been.

But as he thought it all over now—with the vision of another's framed picture in his mind— he even began to wonder whether she was not a consummate actress. Well, it was all over now. He wouldn't even tell her why and wherefore he had left her home so impatiently. He would keep silent on that subject.

When she was to arrive at the office tomorrow, he would simply say: "My dear, Let's call it quits. You can continue in your job as long as you wish. But as for anything more—it's all off. What's the use of prolonging the agony. You don't love me and never will be able." And that would be that!

Phone Rings

The phone was ringing violently and steadily when he reached his apartment. For a moment he was tempted to leave at once so that the ringing should not annoy him. He had a premonition it was Louise who was calling. But on the other hand—perhaps it was someone else. So he answered it. Of course, it was Louise.

"I'm sorry dear," he said. "I'll see you tomorrow in the office. No. Nothing serious. Just that I sort of had a feeling—that maybe it was better so. Maybe we should not be too hasty. I'm not so sure you know your own mind yet."

She was sobbing over the phone: "What in the world got into you? I've never known you to act temperamental. What started it?. What's the trouble?"

He felt it would not be proper to bring up the subject of the framed photograph. He did not want to show he was jealous. But he found it more and more difficult to offer any coherent explanation.

"Well, honey," she continued sobbing, "why don't you come back? You're not feeling sick I hope. Shall I drop over to see you?"

It was getting quite serious. Certainly, he didn't want her to drop over to his place. It would look too much like a plot. Well, he might as well face it the same night as the next morning. So he agreed to go back.

His attempted coldness and austerity melted before the warmth of her glance. Oh, she could be absolutely entrancing if she chose. He knew that her allure for him was beyond his powers to resist. Still he steeled himself.

They talked and hemmed and hawed — and finally she put it squarely up to him. "Be honest," she said, "I have always tried to be with you. What happened?"

Will broke. He took her hand and led her into the room: "A fine way to prove your love for me," he said, pointing to her dresser, "and the picture of another man right before your eyes before you go to sleep and when you awaken."

Louise's peel of laughter stopped short the tirade he had planned. She seized his head in both her hands and hugged it tightly. Then she planted a hearty kiss on his forehead. A kiss that would melt even a man who had never been under her subtle spell. It certainly melted Will.

"That picture," she said "is that of my brother. He has been away now for three years and sent us this photo only a month ago. Golly, how stupid men are."

"Well," answered Will, considerably abashed, but trying to preserve a shattered dignity," I have been thinking it over and I'm too sensitive a person to keep on going like this. So what I've decided—you are fired from your job tomorrow—and tomorrow you get yourself another. After, of course going with me to the license bureau."

"I guess you're right," she said, "but listen—you must promise you'll never again step into my room — without permission."

Instead of answering—he kissed her.

Copyright 1935
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

◆

Little Benny's Note Book

Me and pop was taking a wawk before supper and pop said, By gollies I bleeve this is the bilding Dr. Tweed has his office in. I've been told he's an exter good dentist and it's time my teeth were looked over, I think, I'll look him up, I'm sure this is the bilding.

Meening a red bilding with a colored man outside rolling barrils of ashes, and pop said to him, Are you the janiter here?

I does superintending around here. Is the superintendent, the colored man said.

Being a little round colored man with shoes looking as if they was proberly bigger than his feet, and pop said, Okay, supe, does Dr. Tweed have an office here?

It seem to me there was a Dr. Tweed what done move before I all come to work here, the colored man said, and pop said, Suppose I ask the elevator boy?

You means the elevator operater? Sure, he mite know, the colored man said, and pop said, Well I'll ask the titled gentleman. I thawt this Dr. Tweed was a dentist but now I think perhaps he's a molar master or perhaps even an ivory artist.

And we went inside to see the elevater boy and pritty soon the colored man came running in saying to pop, You're the man was asking for Dr. Tweed?

No, I'm the hom sapiens who prepounded the said query, pop said, and the colored man said, Well anyways if you still wants Dr. Tweed I recollect now he done move to the bilding just cross the street.

Thank you, supre, pop said.

And we went over and found Dr. Tweed's office, being gold letters on the door saying, Dr. W. Clarents Tweed, Surgical D.D. and Extractionist.

BACKACHE

IF you have backache, dizzy spells, headaches, do not neglect your kidneys. Take Gin Pills for prompt relief at the first sign of these symptoms. You will feel better, look better —be better, if your kidneys are functioning properly. 245

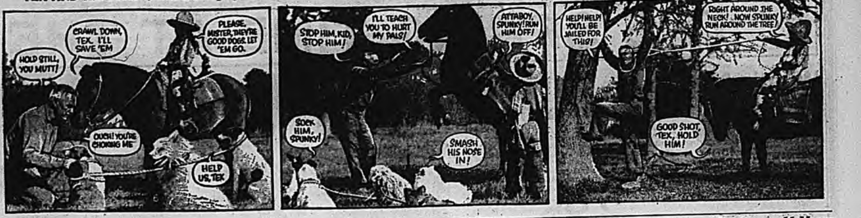
GIN PILLS
FOR THE KIDNEYS

TEX AND HIS PALS (ActualPhotographs)

Spunky to the Rescue

Copyright, 1935, by Harper Features, Dallas, Texas, U.S.A. All Rights Reserved

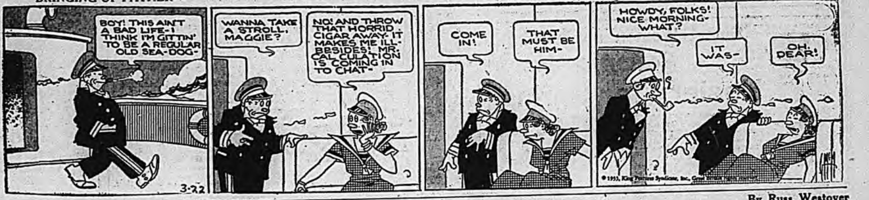
By Leslie A. Hill



HOLD STILL, YOU MUTT!
CRAWL DOWN, TEX. I'LL SAVE 'EM
PLEASE, MISTER, THEY'RE GOOD DOGS. LET 'EM GO.
OUCH! YOU'RE CHOKING ME
HELP US, TEX
STOP HIM, KID, STOP HIM!
I'LL TEACH YOU TO HURT MY PALS!
ATTABOY, SPUNKY! RUN HIM OFF!
SOCK HIM, SPUNKY!
SMASH HIS NOSE IN!
HELP! HELP! YOU'LL BE JAILED FOR THIS!
RIGHT AROUND THE NECK! NOW SPUNKY RUN AROUND THE TREE!
GOOD SHOT, TEX, HOLD HIM!

By George McManus

BRINGING UP FATHER—



BOY! THIS AIN'T A BAD LIFE-I THINK I'M GITTIN' TO BE A REGULAR OLD SEA-DOG-3-22
WANNA TAKE A STROLL, MAGGIE?
NO! AND THROW THAT HORRID CIGAR AWAY- IT MAKES ME ILL- BESIDES! MR. CAL CULATION IS COMING IN TO CHAT-COME IN!
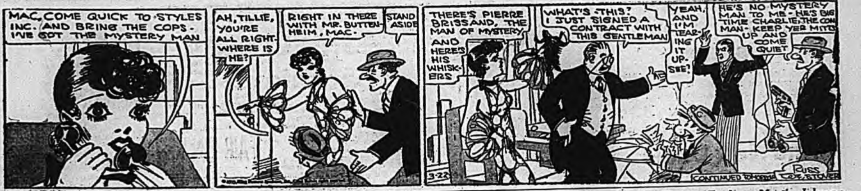
THAT MUST BE HIM-
HOWDY, FOLKS! NICE MORNING- WHAT?
IT WAS-
OH, DEAR!

By Russ Westover

TILLIE THE TOILER—



MAC, COME QUICK TO STYLES INC. AND BRING THE COPS - I'VE GOT THE MYSTERY MAN AH, TILLIE, YOU'RE ALL RIGHT- WHERE IS HE?
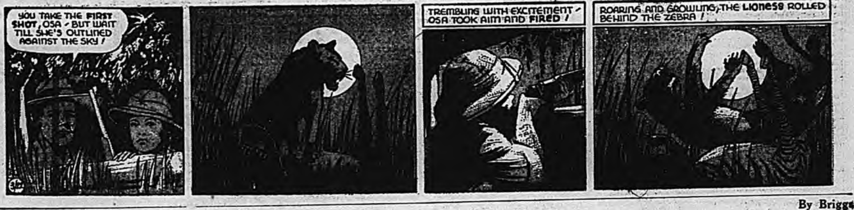
RIGHT IN THERE WITH MR. BUTTENHEIM, MAC.
STAND ASIDE
THERE'S PIERRE BRISSAND, THE MAN OF MYSTERY AND HERE'S HIS WHISKERS
WHAT'S THIS? I JUST SIGNED A CONTRACT WITH THIS GENTLEMAN
YEAH, AND I'M TEARING IT UP- SEE?
HE'S NO MYSTERY MAN TO ME - HE'S BIG TIME CHARLIE, THE CON MAN- KEEP YER MITTS UP AND COME QUIET
3-22
CONTINUED TOMORROW
RUSS WESTOVER

By The Famous Explorer Martin Johnson

DANGER TRAILS—

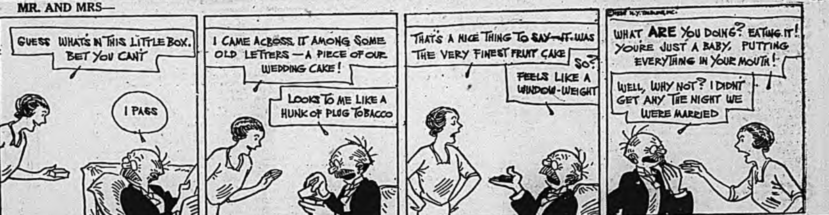
FIRST BLOOD



YOU TAKE THE FIRST SHOT, OSA - BUT WAIT TILL SHE'S OUTLINED AGAINST THE SKY!
TREMBLING WITH EXCITEMENT - OSA TOOK AIM AND FIRED!
ROARING AND GROWLING, THE LIONESS ROLLED BEHIND THE ZEBRA!

By Briggs

MR. AND MRS—



GUESS WHAT'S IN THIS LITTLE BOX. BET YOU CAN'T I PASS
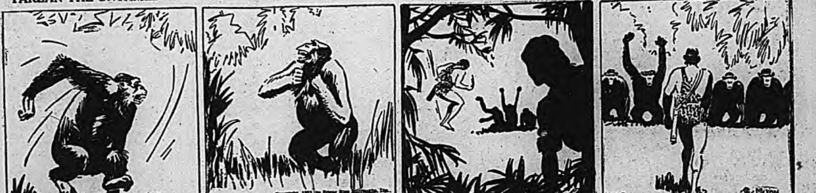
I CAME ACROSS IT AMONG SOME OLD LETTERS — A PIECE OF OUR WEDDING CAKE!
LOOKS TO ME LIKE A HUNK OF PLUG TOBACCO
THAT'S A NICE THING TO ~~SAY—IT~~ WAS THE VERY FINEST FRUIT CAKE
SO?
FEELS LIKE A WINDOW-WEIGHT
WHAT ARE YOU DOING? EATING IT! YOU'RE JUST A BABY, PUTTING EVERYTHING IN YOUR MOUTH!
WELL, WHY NOT? I DIDN'T GET ANY THE NIGHT WE WERE MARRIED

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

TARZAN THE UNTAMED—



Copyright, 1932, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
K-402

Now the huge bull ape that had replied to the distant call leaped from the inner circle to dance alone. Growling and barking, he crouched and leaped again and again. Then he stopped to raise his hideous face to Goro, the moon.

Beating his shaggy breast, he uttered a piercing scream. It was the challenge of the bull-ape—had the girl but known it! Standing in the full glare of the moon, he was a picture of primitive power and savagery.

A moment he remained motionless. Suddenly from close behind her, the girl heard an answering scream. An instant later she saw an almost naked white man drop from a nearby tree into the clearing. At once the apes became a roaring, snarling pack.

What mad-man was this [illegible] approach the frightful and now obviously angry creatures in their own haunts, alone against fifty? She saw the brown skinned figure, bathed in moonlight, walk straight toward the snarling pack.

IT'S SPRING TIME AT THE C.D.S.!

What's New In the Millinery World of Fashion

Right here at the C.D.S. you'll find many versions of what will be smart and new for Spring wear in the line of millinery—and you'll find the array extensive to say the least. Off-the-face effects, sailors, styles that are "brimful" of new detail interests, and smart trims. Some of the smartest are in straw, straw fabric and taffetas. Shades of blue, navy, grey, black and brown. Each

2.95

— Second floor

Smart Women are Buying Eatonia Hosiery for Spring

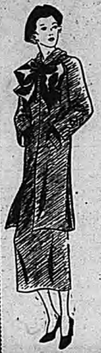
And it's a smart woman who knows the value that Eatonia hose gives too. We stock these fine silk hose in the smartest shades for Spring and in weights which make them desirable for every occasion. Both service and chiffon—full fashioned for that snug, smooth fit that lends grace to slender ankles. Sizes 8½ to 10½, and in your favorite spring shade too. Pair ....

1.00

— Main floor, left



The Suit

Is the Basis of the Spring Wardrobe

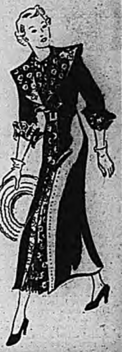
And therefore no woman should be without at least one suit! Saturday we are featuring our smart range of suits, in both two and three pieces, priced from 12.95 to 25.00. You may be smartly attired in basket weave materials, novelty wool tweeds, and crepey weaves of wool—trim looking swagger types and styles with short tailored coats are much to the fore. You'll find these are favored in blue, grey, navy and fawn. Sizes 14 to 38 and half sizes. Each

12.95 to 25.00

— Second floor

Fashions Every Woman Wants for Spring

Redingotes



Redingotes, that give a woman those long lines that make for slimness and youth, with coats simply tailored in dark rough crepes (fibre silk) over "different" looking dresses of Springtime prints (fibre silk.) With trimming details suitable for women. Easter's late this year, but Spring is here now! So start the new season off right with a redingote. Assorted printed crepe dresses topped with black, brown, or navy coats, crepe coats. Sizes 36 to 44.

8.95 each

Fancy Knit Rayon Bloomers and Panties

White, tearose and pink, comprise the selection in this group, and they arrive in a fancy knit of beautiful quality rayon. Both bloomer and pantie styles to choose from—in sizes small, medium and large, each 39c

— Second floor

And New Undies for Spring

Must be smart and up to the minute, too. Here are lovely satin slips, and dance sets, beautiful glistening pieces with lacy trims. You'll find slips in white and tea rose, with dance sets in tea rose only. Sizes from 32 to 44 and sets small, medium and large. Each or set 1.95

—Second floor

Miss Simplicity Gossard Foundation Garments

The basis of a smart Spring wardrobe, for to be smartly and trimly clad, one must have a graceful figure. Frocks this year, as before demand it. We suggest a Gossard Miss Simplicity garment—one piece with swamy bust. Sizes 33 to 42.

Each 4.00 and 8.50

—Second floor

Girls'

Suits and Coats

Greet the Spring Season

These smart outfits come in sets this season, combining coat with hat and skirt, or are just two piece with hat and coat of the same material. These come in a distinctive variety of new wool tweeds, in patterns that are as new and novel as Spring itself. Almost no end to choice and selection offered here, as to style importance, the shades which seem to have so much popularity are both blue and beige. Outfit them Saturday, if they take sizes 8 to 14. Each from

6.95 to 12.95

Coats

For Girls and Boys of Tender Years

For tots 1 to 6 years we know of nothing smarter than the little blue cheviot serge reefer coat, with it's tailored lines and shiny button trims, or if you like you may select for the boy a novelty wool tweed, including coat, shorts and caps to match. Girls' sets are made with a coat, hat and purse to match, also in plain wool fabrics or novel tweed weaves, all wool, of course, at

2.79 to 8.95

— Second floor

Another Big Sale of Fresh Candy Saturday!

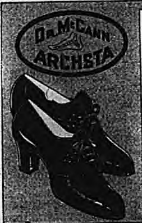
Note the variety, the prices they are quoted at —then by all means shop early! Buy your week-end treat early!

ORCHARD FRUITS	lb. 19c
ROWNTREES' CHOCOLATE VELVETS	lb. 19c
ASSORTED CHOCOLATES	lb. 19c
PEPPERMINT PATTIES	lb. 19c
HUMBUGS, light or dark	lb. 15c
ASSORTED CUSHIONS	lb. 15c
PLAIN AND FRUIT FUDGE	lb. 22c

— Main floor, right



Dr. McCann (Trade Name) Archsta Shoes

The popular choice for smartness and foot comfort—scientifically designed to give you utmost in foot comfort, as well as being trim fitting and stylish. No matter whether you choose a closed tie style, or the neat fitting pump, the same scientific principle of construction underlies each one making them supremely kind to the feet. The kid leather used is pliant and soft, the heels well set. Black kid with leather, and covered Cuban heels in the group. We carry them in sizes from 3 to 8. Widths AA to EE. Moderate in price, too, at 2.98

—Men's Store, rear

To Top Off Your Outfit

A Brant or Renown Hat

And they arrive in the smartest shapes and colors you could wish. No man will want to pay high prices for a hat after seeing these beautifully finished and styled hats. Of fine fur felts, in snap style, or with welt or bound edge. Light shades, medium and dark. Sizes 6¾ to 7⅜.

Brant 2.95 Renown 3.50

—Men's Store

Children's

Naturfit Shoes

The shoe that lends smartness, comfort and good appearance to children's Spring outfits. Children's Naturfit health shoes, designed to give the maximum in foot comfort and combining the latest in footwear styles, too. In tie, strap and oxford models. In elk (trade name), patent and black calf. Note: Elk comes in sizes 5 to 7½ and 8 to 10½ only. Sizes on other styles and leathers:

2 to 6, patent strap	98c
2 to 6 boots, white, black and elk color	1.25
5 to 7½, strap oxford, black, brown, pair	1.69
8 to 10½, strap oxford	pair 1.89
11 to 2½, in C and E widths	pair 1.98

—Men's Store, rear

A Smart All Wool Suit for Boys

Natty herringbones, small checks, etc., in this fine range of new Spring suits for boys—and they are smartly cut in that youthful style which boys demand in their apparel. Three piece outfits of golf knickers, coat, and one pair of longs—Sizes from 26 to 32. A feature at 7.95

— Men's Store

Men, You'll Like These Smart

2-Pant Suit for Spring at 21.50

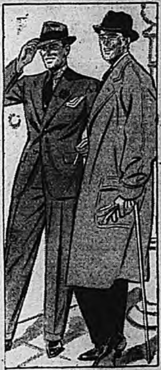
—for they are beautifully tailored, of fine wool worsteds and every suit with two pairs of trousers—what better value could you want for 21.50! In smart blue greys, in overcheck effect, dark blue and black stripes, or the smooth botany wool serge in plain blue. A suit that is made right from start to finish, and one that will take a press nicely. If you take sizes 34 to 44 drop in Saturday and select yours before the stock is depleted.



Men! The New Topcoats for Spring

15.00

We find this price so well suited to the price men want to pay for a smart, good looking top coat such as these. Superbly tailored, in natty models that embrace latest Spring style trends. In light greys, dawn, brown and dark grey for the elderly man—in such good looking styles as raglans and slip-ons. The price too is unusually attractive. Sizes from 35 to 44 in the group. — Men's Store

30-Inch Horrockses'

White Flannelette

On account of the very limited yardage you'll have to shop early! A superior grade and first quality, too. Snow white, 30 inches wide. Yard 17c

—Main floor, rear

54" x 70" Colored Border Crash

Linen Table Cloths

The big size that is popular — 54" x 70"—sturdy, long wearing, crash linen cloths, with borders of rose, blue or yellow. This price demands early shopping and you'll find the demand will be heavy, too, Special, each 98c

—Main floor, rear

Crash Linen Roller Towels

Limited yardage, a sturdy, good wearing weave, that is very absorbent too. 16 inch width, in colorful stripes of red, blue, and yellow on the border. Special .... 2 yards 25c

Three Piece Bed Outfit

Another rousing sale of these bed outfits at 13.75. An outfit which certainly is marvellous value at such pricing. Consists of metal bed in panel style, steel constructed spring and well filled cotton mattress. Three standard sizes of 3' 3" 4' 0" and 4' 6". Specially priced, at 13.75

Clearance of Wallpapers

A clever little nursery rhyme design, on blue, green and cream ground. Designs are bright and cheerful looking, and add so much to the nursery, too. If we could mention the regular pricing you'd be waiting at the doors first thing Saturday morning. The value is so unusual. Special single roll 15c

Border to match, yard .... 5c ....

Ruffled Scrim Curtains

Ivory colored foundations, with figured insertion and colored stitchings. Choice of blue, green and rose, complete with valance and tie backs to match. Size 23" x 2¼ yards long. Pair 59c

— Main floor rear

Auto Accessories

Tire Pumps	each 65c and 1.29
Rubber Pump Hose	each 20c
Steering Stabiliser	each 45c
7-Piece Socket Set	set 59c
Complete Valve Grinding Outfit	3.75
Wheel Pullers	each 25c
Rim Tools	each 1.35 and 1.85
Four-Way Rim Wrench	each 75c
Valve Refacing Lathe	each 1.35
Valve Reseating Tools	each 1.49
Valve Grinding Compound	20c and 30c
Brake Rod Anti-Rattlers	32c and 55c
Top Sealing Cement	tub 25c
Accelerator Pedals	each 35c
Force Feed Oiling System for Model T. Fords	69c
Sheepskin Chamois	each 59c
Cup or Gun Grease	5-lb. pail 78c
Luggage Carriers	each 79c to $2.50
Cylinder Head Gaskets	each 40c to 60c

THE WEATHER
Fresh southwest shifting to northwest winds; partly cloudy; becoming somewhat colder during tonight; probably some light showers. Sunday — fair and somewhat colder. Monday — milder again.

The Ontario Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, MARCH 23, 1935.

TEMPERATURES	Max.	Min.
Today	53	30
Year Ago	21	2
Weather—Fair.

OPTIMISM AND CAUTION MARK 1935 BUDGET

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Philadelphia, March 23 (CP) — John T. Grime walked 80,000 miles and found a silver loving cup at the end of the trek.

In recognition of his 33 years' service as a postman who never was late and never was censured by his superiors, The Frankford Exchange Club presented the cup.

P.S.: Grime walked to the presentation.

New York, March 23 (CP) — The society of restaurateurs has been worried about the cost of beef. So in special session assembled the members watched the carving of a side, weighed and valued the cuts—even allowed 2 cents a pound for soup bones—and found they had paid the butcher two cents more than the cooked meat would bring.

Restaurant prices are going up, the society members agreed.

Denver, March 23 (CP)—When George Calkins, 52, lost his beard he found a nephew he hadn't seen in 22 years in the county jail.

Alex Neetens didn't recognize his uncle, a 52-year-old ranger from Brush, Colo., when he first arrived in jail, where Calkins is serving a 4-month term.

After Calkins removed his beard the two men questioned each other and discovered the relationship.

Hays, Kas., March 23 (CP) — Jerome Dreiling and his family believe the Culbertson system saved their lives in a recent dust storm.

Their motor car stalled in the storm but they decided to remain in rather than venture out. When choking dust began entering the machine, they plugged up the air passages with leaves from one of Eli Culbertson's books on bridge.

They remained there for several hours until searchers took them out.

Garden City, Kas., March 23—(CP)—"I'm telling you Henry Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, won't like this," commented Carl Sever after his red and white brood sow had violated a corn-hog production contract for the third straight time.

First she produced 19 pigs, going above the contract by 25 per cent; then she added 17 more and just the other day she gave Mr. Wallace's reduction program another jolt with 20 porkers.

Sharon, Pa., March 23 (CP) — Other things besides the calendar prove that spring is here.

Oscar Mehler, shoe store manager, went to ring up a sale and found two little garter snakes in his cash drawer.

Mehler is doing a little detecting in the hope of finding a practical joker.

Hamilton, Ont., March 23 (CP) —Claims from United States a resident of Tennessee wrote the song "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," have aroused Hamilton's Native Sons of Canada and the organization has formed a committee to attempt to prove beyond doubt George W. Johnson, Canadian, was the lyricist and composer of the tune. It is said here Mr. Johnson wrote the song while teaching school in Glanford, Ont., and Maggie Clark heroine of the song, was born near that village.

SALES TAX CHANGES WILL HELP NUMBER

Farmers, Miners and Some Manufacturers Benefit

Ottawa, March 23—Farmers, miners and some manufacturers will benefit from a slight change made in the sales tax in the 1935 budget, launched in the House of Commons by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance.

The tax is taken off grain or seed cleaning machines, pit props and packwood for use in mines and casein. The latter commodity is used in the manufacture of cheese, certain textiles, cosmetics and a wide range of other articles.

Changes in the sales tax are few and of a minor character. Mr. Rhodes said they were merely for the purpose of removing anomalies. Generally, material used in production is exempt from the provisions and it is for this reason these three commodities are added to the exemptions.

Another change makes articles distributed free such as advertising samples exempt from the tax

In products made in institutions for the deaf and dumb the tax is cut in half.

The general rate of the sales tax remains at six per cent."

Fairer Tax on Gold Production, Greater Variety of British Imports, Reduced Liquor Prices Seen in Budget

Gold Bullion Tax Abolition Pleases Mining Industry

REACTION TO BUDGET

Cut in Spirits Excise Must Be Passed On To Consumer

The Rhodes budget, it became apparent today, means at least these things to the country:

Reduced liquor prices.

Greater variety of British imports.

A fairer tax on gold production.

Perhaps a slight reduction in the price of English tobaccos.

As comment from government and business leaders across Canada on the budget presented to parliament yesterday by Finance Minister Edgar N. Rhodes came hesitantly. It was obvious that not all phases of the government's plan were welcomed warmly.

Early comment indicated, however, that distillers were surprised and pleased with the reduction from $7 to $4 a gallon in the excise tax on spirituous liquors. The result is likely to be a 50-cent cut in the price of a 26-ounce bottle of liquor in government stores of most provinces.

Discontinuance of the tax against increased value of gold production above $20.67 an ounce statutory price, established a year ago, was hailed as a bright spot on the budget by mining men.

"I would say the new system provides a tax more squarely on profits and is therefore more fair," remarked A. E. Bull, secretary-treasurer of the Pioneer Gold Mines of British Columbia in Vancouver.

The new system reduces the depletion allowance on income tax of gold mines from 50 per cent to 33 1-3 per cent and on dividends to shareholders from 50 to 20 per cent.

One of the first to remark on the provisions for free entry to Canada of additional British goods, elimination of the three-per-cent special tax on British goods and reduction in tariffs on other articles was Sir Francis Floud, British High Commissioner to Canada.

"I am sure the British government very much appreciates the concessions in this direction which have been proposed by the Canadian government," he said. "We regard the concessions as quite substantial."

Excise On Imports Abolished.

Toronto importers welcomed particularly the abolishment of the 1½ per cent excise tax on all imported goods. A. E. Storms, president of the Canadian Importers Association, believed it was a move in the right direction "which will result in helping to free the channels of trade."

He added: "What our association has been striving for is a reasonable tariff and the Minister of Finance's speech yesterday seems to be along those lines. We are not buying nearly the same quantity of imports as we should, and you cannot export in large quantities successfully unless you buy more imports."

Preferential Rates.

Woollen manufacturers and importers in Toronto agreed, however, that cuts in the British preferential rates on woollen fabrics would have little effect on the Canadian domestic market. There would be no appreciable difference in the cost of woollens to the consumer, said Henry Barrett of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited.

Murray Auerback of the Consumers' Wholesale Tobacconists and Importers Limited, said at Toronto that a slight reduction in the price of English tobaccos in this country might result with removal of the excise tax on imports under the British preference.

Critical of Corporation Tax.

In Montreal, some business leaders were critical of the one per cent increase in corporation profit taxes, believing it to cast a further burden on industry. The president of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated, John S. Norris, said the increase would prove "most onerous" to industry.

Production costs and the price of manufactured goods to the consumer would be raised by the increased tax on corporation profits, in the opinion of R. J. Major, president of the National Steel Car Corporation.

The tariff protection afforded the Canadian cotton manufacturers would be lessened 10 per cent through elimination of the special excise tax of 2½ per cent on cotton imports from Great Britain, said G. Blair Gordon, managing director of

(Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

How Income Tax Works

HOW INCREASE .. ..ea El ETAOIN ETAOIN ETAOI

Ottawa, Mar. 23 (CP)—The following table shows the amount of tax and percentages of income paid under the Dominion Income Tax Act in the case of a married person with no dependents at the present rates and under the new surtax on investment income.

For the purposes of this table it is assumed that on incomes from $10,000 to $30,000, inclusive, 10 per cent, is unearned and that in all incomes in excess of $30,000 at least $14,000, the maximum exemption, is earned income.

Income	Present Tax	Per Cent. of Income	Additional New Surtax	Per Cent. of Income
$2,000	....	....	....	....
3,000	$30	1	....	....
5,000	120	2.40	....	....
10,000	546	5.46	21	.21
15,000	1,228	8.19	47	.31
20,000	2,173	10.87	189	.94
30,000	4,588	15.29	609	2.03
40,000	7,224	18.06	1,134	2.83
50,000	10,069	20.14	1,659	3.32
75,000	18,102	24.13	3,234	4.3
100,000	27,447	27.45	5,071	5.07
150,000	48,867	32.58	9,271	6.18
200,000	72,187	36.09	13,906	6.99
300,000	121,978	40.66	24,496	8.16
400,000	175,969	43.99	34,996	8.75
500,000	233,152	46.63	45,496	9.10
1,000,000	527,131	52.71	97,995	9.80

Efficiency of Government Not Impaired by Dismissals Says Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner

Sidney Young Liberals Also Hear Candidate Chas. A. Cameron

MANY PRESENT

Record of Bennett Regime is Discussed at Gathering

"The Hepburn Government has lived up one hundred per cent. to any pre-election promises it has made. It has reduced the salary obligation one million dollars by its policy of paring according to its ability to pay. And if it seems, that too many civil servants have been fired from office since we went in, remember you elected us chiefly to reduce the steadily mounting costs of governmental expenditures," the Hon. Dr. J. Albert Faulkner, Minister of Health for Ontario, told an enthusiastic overflow audience at Wallbridge town hall last evening.

The meeting, arranged by the Sidney and Thurlow Twentieth Century Clubs was one of the largest and most successful on record.

Dr. Faulkner in his vigorous address to his applauding listeners who gathered from throughout a wide district to welcome their representative, elaborated on the topic of cost reductions being made in the various departments at Toronto, and cited his own as one example.

(Continued on Page 3, Col. 1

STABBED FATALLY AT NIGHT CLUB

Marion King, Hostess, Held For Killing by Police

NEW ORLEANS, March 23. — (AP)—"Marion King" young waterfront cabaret hostess, wept today because she knifed John I. Pierce, 23 young French Quarter dweller, but she refused to divulge her true identity as she sat in a jail cell.

With a police record of arrests on narcotic charges and moral code violations, she said she was formerly a writer on newspapers in Detroit, Chicago, New York and San Francisco.

The body of young Pierce, stabbed fatally at a French Quarter night club after an evening of dining, dancing and drinking, was taken to Jackson, Miss., for burial today.

Pierce, living handsomely on an inheritance, was a member of a prominent Mississippi family.

GROUP OF AIRMEN WAIT TO SEARCH

Stanley Siscoe Still Missinf in Far Hinterland

Montreal, March 23—(CP)—In widely separated parts of Quebec a group of airmen anxiously scanned skies today hoping for favorable conditions to continue a search for Stanley Siscoe, one of Canada's best-known mining men, missing in the hinterland since Tuesday.

Captain Thomas Wrathall, Chief Instructor of the Montreal Light Aeroplane Club was at controls of the small cabin Puss Moth in which Siscoe was a passenger. Two crack pilots were at Askelanio, 200 miles north of Montreal; another was at Rouyn; a fourth at Senneterre and two more were in Montreal ready for the search for Siscoe and Wrathall.

Hunt of Woods

Favorable weather would send them roaring over northern lakes and woods. They hoped to find the men on a small lake, it being believed a blizzard Tuesday forced them down and ice conditions prevented him from taking off again.

At Askelanio were Stuart Graham, widely- known aviation Inspector for the Dominion Government who spent all yesterday cruising over the forests, and "Red" Lymburner, crack Canadian Airways pilot, veteran of scores of northland flights.

Search Unavailing

B. L. Ressiguier of Dominion Skyways, Limited, was at Rouyn where he flew from Montreal after hunting the nearby territory all afternoon and S. W. Bone of Canadian Airways was at his base at Senneterre from which he flew to Rouyn and back yesterday without finding any trace of Siscoe and his companion.

◆

CONFESSES BEFORE DEATH

YORKTON, Sask., March 23. — (CP) — Steve Elash, 45-year-old blacksmith from Goodeve, Sask., died in the hospital today from self-inflicted wounds after confessing, police said to the fatal shooting of Rev. Father Albert Delforge and wounding of Rev. Father John Bala in the Greek Catholic Monastery here.

Father Bala was still in serious condition from a bullet wound in the abdomen, suffered, when Elash ran Berserk in the Monastery with a revolver. Father Delforge was killed instantly when shot through the head and Elash, cornered by the police, shot himself in the chest.

3-POWER-FRONT AGAINST GERMANS AIM OF FRANCE

Territorial Demands of Germany Feared by France

TACTICS DIFFER

Britain Seeks to Moderate French Refusal to 'Talk'

By STUART MORONEY

Associated Press Foreign Staff

Paris, March 23—(AP)— Foreign Minister Pierre Laval warned Britain and Italy today Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler may follow up his rearmament of Germany with territorial demands, as the Three Power conversations opened at the Foreign Office.

Laval sought to pull together the three power front by sounding the warning to Capt. Anthony Eden, British Lord Privy Seal, and Fulvio Suvich, Italy's undersecretary for foreign affairs.

The three power representatives discussed the groundwork of policies that may divide Europe into the old system of two armed camps or gather all nations into mutual defence against an aggressor as the result of the Reich's decision to rearm.

Tactics Vary

France and Britain admittedly differ on tactics but Laval, in private talks with Eden and Suvich, tried to smooth out the difficulties.

The diplomats, assembled to discuss policies prior to the visit of British Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon to Hitler in Berlin, [illegible] over the problems even during lunch in an adjoining room at the foreign office.

Laval was eager through Eden to stiffen the attitude of Sir John toward Hitler.

The young Lord Privy Seal, however, sought to moderate the French refusal to talk with Germany, even through a four power conference, until after the League of Nations council passes on the French protest of German violation of the Versailles treaty.

Laval is understood to have told Eden France is unalterably opposed to any discussion on the return of Memel or any other territory to the Reich. A question the French expected Hitler to raise in Berlin with the British Foreign Secretary.

As the conversations proceeded France moved to transfer to the Rhine area half of the garrisons now stationed on the Italian frontier.

'HAL' LOOKS WELL SAYS MRS. SCHOOR

California Matron Visits Vermilyea With His Sister

In company with Mrs. (Dr.) J. A. Faulkner, sister of Harold W. Vermilyea, Mrs. "Jac" Schoor of Ontario, California, who arrived in Belleville on Thursday and has been spending daily periods of conversation at the Hastings County jail with her former California friend, visited the county buildings on Saturday morning and held another extended talk with Vermilyea.

Following the visit, Mrs. Schoor left with Mrs. Faulkner to the latter's Bridge Street home, where they were engaged in close conversation up to a late hour today.

"Harold looks fine. I see little change in his condition. He appears to be the same as he was when he left California," Mrs. Schoor was quoted as saying for the first time today. The same statement was made to jail officials by Mrs. Faulkner, it was reported.

Unofficially, it was reported, that Harold Vermilyea, sentenced to die on the morning of May 2nd next for the murder of his aged mother in this city on the night of October 4, last, has been greatly cheered by the daily visits of Mrs. Schoor, close personal friend of the Vermilyea family at his former Ontario, California home. Some of the time allotted or conversation with the condemned man is spent by Mrs. Schoor in reading letters from his home town, that had been previously examined by jail officials. The conversation held has been devoted almost wholly to personal family matters and conditions in his former Ontario, California home.

Military Class of 1911, 220,000 Men, Called By Premier Mussolini

Action Taken is Only Precautionary Measure Duce Says

DESIRE PEACE

Believe Order Given Because of German Situation

Rome, March 23—(AP)—The entire military class of 1911, estimated at some 220,000 men, was called to arms today as a "precautionary measure" an official communique announced.

The mobilization order was announced just after Premier Mussolini had declared to the nation Italy is now ready for any threat of war coming from beyond her frontiers."

He was speaking at a public celebration on the sixteenth anniversary of the founding of the Fascist party and said in the course of his remarks to 10,000 black shirts: "Our desire for peace and European collaboration is based on some millions of bayonets.

German Situation Blamed

Official circles were of the opinion the order was due to the German situation.

The government's terse communique said "the under-secretary for the press and propaganda communicates the following: "The head of the government and minister of armed forces was ordered as a precautionary measure the recall by official notification of the entire class of 1911."

Mussolini spoke under a cloudy sky in an occasional gusty rain.

The Superior council of National Defense, including Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin and Louis Felix Malrin, the Minister of War, met with President Albert Lebrun presiding.

Technical Rearrangement

The strengthening of the astern frontier garrisons was described as a "purely technical rearrangement of defense forces," since the new Franco-Italian understanding permits the reduction of troops along the Italian frontier.

Under-Secretary of War Baistrochi, previously had revealed members of the class had received official postcards with instructions to hold themselves in readiness for mobilization

Task in New Future

Today's order coupled with previous ones, brings the total mobilization of Italian armed forces to an estimated 250,000 men since the beginning of the Ethiopian trouble early in February.

Previously some elements of the 1911 class had been called to the colors to bring to full military strength the two divisions sent to East Africa and to recruit replacements for the two divisions in Italy.

On the sixteenth anniversary of the founding of the Fascist Party Mussolini declared:

"The European situation is as troubled as today's weather. But Italy is giving a splendid example of calm force. This is because she is strong not only in arms but in spirit."

Shaking his fist at the crowded square, Il Duce shouted:

"You must be ready for your future task—which in fact is in the near future."

◆

FISHERMEN MAKES ISLAND

Kingston, Ont., March 24 (CP)—Cautiously moving through large cakes of drift ice, Roy Hicks and John Howard, two fishermen, were able to make their way from Point Traverse on the eastern end of Prince Edward County to the Main Duck Islands, reaching there Friday. They made the 14 mile trip in a small fishing craft and are the first to reach the Ducks this spring. They were greeted at the island by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Ackermen who spent the winter there.

FRANCE REINFORCES GERMAN BORDER

Paris, March 23.—(AP)—Reinforcement of French troops along the German frontier was officially confirmed today and officials indicated 30,000 men may be gradually moved up to the Eastern border.

THREE OF PRISONERS INJURED IN RIOT

Hon. Hugh Guthrie Makes Statement in Commons

Ottawa, March 23—(CP)— Three prisoners received slight injuries and damage will exceed $2,000 as a result of the fire and riot Thursday in Kingston Penitentiary, Minister of Justice Hugh Guthrie announced in the House of Commons.

An investigation opened at Kingston yesterday, the Minister said. The shops were not open in the morning but were in the afternoon.

The Minister said the disturbance broke out just as the shops closed at 5 o'clock. It occurred in the west block shop which house the tailor and shoe departments.

There were about 70 men in the riot, according to Mr. Guthrie. Three guards were seized, their pockets searched for matches, lighters and keys. The main door was closed and the guards taken to the basement where they were tied hands and legs.

Fourteen prisoners barricaded the basement door and others rushed upstairs to an unused shop. With the matches taken from the guards a fire was set in the shoe shop. Damage of $2,000 was done to machinery, but it was impossible to estimate the fire damage.

Guards broke down the basement door and by 6.30 the riot was over, the men back in their cells. The Kingston fire department had the fire out by 8 o'clock.

Of the injured prisoners one had a cut lip, another an eye cut and the third a cut finger. Mr. Guthrie said they were injured by fellow-prisoners.

It was estimated, Mr. Guthrie said, 30 or 35 men were in the riot, and the others were there reluctantly.

The warden, who was in Ottawa when the riot started, opened the investigation at Kingston.

PARENTS HELD IN 'HONOR SLAYING'

Mother Objected to Alleged Amours of Daughter With Man

Pascagoula, Miss, March 23—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Payne with a judge's benediction, today awaited Grand Jury action on murder charges fyled against them in the "honor" slaying of Adelbert Ewing, 51, because of his asserted attentions to Mrs Payne's daughter.

Mayor John R. Watts, ex-officio J—Justice of the Peace, set their bonds at $1,000 each and said if he were the jury he would turn them "loose" but he did not feel like taking the responsibility, as I am sitting as a committing court."

Mrs. Payne told a story of Ewing's alleged armours with Gladys Mae Kelly, 14, her daughter by a former marriage, which she said led her to shoot Ewing, when she found him in his locked automobile with the girl about midnight Wednesday.

◆

BUGGY IS WRECKED

Brockville, Ont., March 23.—(CP)—Mrs. Harry Baker, living on the Second Concession of Edwardsburg Township, was seriously injured last night, when the buggy in which she and her daughter were driving along No. 2 highway was wrecked by an auto near Prescott.

Labor President, Tom Moore Approves Income Surtax

Ottawa, March 23—(CP)—President Tom Moore of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada today expressed approval of the surtax and income tax features of the budget presented yesterday by Minister of Finance E. N. Rhodes.

Mr. Moore said heavier taxes on large salaries and unearned income were "a step in the right direction, placing the burden of taxation where it belongs, on those best able to pay it."

1934 DIVIDENDS AT $350,000000 SAYS C.F. ELLIOTT

Income Tax Commissioner Comments Upon Improvement

STEVENS' WARNING

Savings Near Point, He Says, Where Equalled By Debts

Ottawa, March 23 (CP)—Dividends paid by Canadian Companies during 1934 totalled approximately $350,000,000 compared with about $150,000,000 for the previous year, C. Fraser Elliott, Dominion Commissioner of income tax, stated today.

Mr. Elliott was questioned on the effect of the 1935 budget proposals covering investment incomes which are to be subject to the new surtax rate.

"It shows a distinct improvement in business conditions throughout the Dominion during the past year and likewise indicates confidence by the business executives and shareholders who authorized payment of such dividends out of the earnings of Canadian Companies," said Mr. Elliott. "If they had not this confidence they would not have paid out the money but would have retained it in the treasury as added strength against future needs," he added.

Mr. Elliott could not make an estimate of the possible total of interest payments for 1934 by companies and particularly by municipalities. He thought, however, the total would be about the same or less than the previous year.

Ottawa, March 23 (CP). — Hon. W. A. Gordon, Dominion Minister of Mines, believes abolition of the 10-per-cent bullion tax on gold, effective May 31, will prove a stimulant to mines.

The Minister declared abolition of the tax would lengthen the lives of hundreds of gold mines in Northern Ontario and Quebec. The Government's action, he added, "will enable mines to undermine rather than be forced to overmine."

He explained by overmining he meant taking the highest grade ore only and by undermining using low grade ore.

Debts Threaten Says Stevens

Montreal, March 23 (CP)—Canadian savings were fast approaching the point where debts would exceed them was the warning left today by Hon. H. H. Stevens, former Minister of Trade and Commerce, with the Arts' undergraduates of McGill University.

Speaking at the students' annual dinner last night Mr. Stevens declared when the burden of debt exceeded the income resources of those who obligate themselves to meet that debt then bankruptcy ensued. Canada was not bankrupt but not because of what human beings had done to safeguard it but because of the Dominion's vast reserve of natural resources.

The people of Canada now knew the aggregate debt of Canada, Federal, Provincial, Municipal, Corporate and Private was so enormous it threatened them with bankruptcy. The criticism, he declared, that governments were the chief cause was unwarranted.

◆

FISH GUILTY OF MURDER

White Plains, N.Y. March 23. — (AP)—Albert H. Fish, who escaped detection for more than six years after the "ritual" killing of little Grace Budd, was headed toward the electric chair today as the result of his conviction for murder. The sentence to death, made mandatory by the jury's finding last night of guilty in the first degree, will be imposed Monday.

Coming Events

BRIDGE STREET CHURCH SUNDAY night — Subject: The Worst Thing That Ever Happened to Jesus. Are You Guilty? Church members should hear this sermon. Special music.
M23-1t

RUMMAGE SALE, ST. THOMAS' Parish House, Saturday, March 23, 7 p.m. Auspices Ladies' Guild.
M23-1t

SOMETHING NEW!! BAY OF QUINTE Drama Festival, Collegiate Auditorium Friday, April 5th. Admission 25c.
M23-1t

RESERVE THURSDAY, APRIL 4, FOR the "Chintz Cottage" presented by Minerva Chapter, City Hall. Proceeds for Victorian Order of Nurses' work. Admission 25c.
M23-1t

ALL CONSERVATIVES OF COLEMAN Ward, ladies and gentlemen, young and old, are requested to meet at the club rooms Monday evening, March 25, at 8 p.m. F. Smith, chairman.
M23-1t

MEMBERS OF CANADIAN CONCERT Association. Second concert by Adolph Wantroff, Russian baritone, Wednesday, March 27, Collegiate, 8.30 o'clock.
M23-1t

The Best Is Not Too Good

That precept should never be departed from when professional services are sought.

• • •

If after a complete visual ANALYSIS glasses be found necessary, and economy must be exercised, select less costly materials (frames and lenses).

• •

We always advocate the best. But we're not simple enough to expect the public to pay us more for the same goods.

• •

Investigate before you invest!

J. A. McFEE

EXPERIENCED OPTOMETRIST

City and District News

WINNIPEG EDITOR TO SPEAK ON RADIO

W. L. McTavish, editor of the Winnipeg Evening Tribune, son of the late Rev. Dr. McTavish of this city will broadcast from Ottawa over a national hook-up at 6.15 (tomorrow) Sunday evening. His address will be on the wheat situation. Mr. McTavish has been delivering a series of lectures to Canadian Clubs in the West on "Reclaiming the West". Mr. McTavish has made a thorough study of conditions in the West and his address will be heard with interest by his friends in this vicinity.

LIEUTENANT SHIELS TO HAVE CHARGE

A full turnout of men and officers was observed at the Armouries last evening on the occasion of the second regular parade of the season of the Argyll Light Infantry. Following the period of regular drill the men engaged in a number of games of soft ball and volley ball. A schedule of games, with suitable prizes for the men is being arranged by Lieutenant Shiels, in charge of battalion sports for the coming year. Prize-winners of last year's competitions will be announced at the Armoureis at the next regular parade on Monday evening, it was stated today by Lieut.-Col. E. A. Geen, O.C.

HOLSTEIN BREEDERS MEET IN KINGSTON

Holstein breeders in practically every county in Eastern Ontario were represented at the central conference in Kingston where the needs of each section were discussed and plans laid for adequate field service to meet the situation.

Seventy-five delegates and agricultural representatives heard Dr. T. F. Robertson, Brockville, state, that the demand for blood-tested Holsteins in Eastern Ontario was so great, that buyers had to be sent away without cattle, and later Mr. C. M. Clemons, secretary-treasurer of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, in the course of a brief address pointed out, that transfers in head office were running over forty per cent. ahead of last year.

The conference was arranged by the executive of the eastern branch and presided over by Mr. J. R. Henderson, Portsmouth.

WEEK-END CANDIES

10c Cellophane Bags

AFTER DINNER MINTS
SCOTCH MINTS
HUMBUGS
HONEY and HOREHOUND
MOLASSES KISSES

1 Pound Boxes
PEPPERMINT PATTIES
29c lb.

Ideal Chocolates
BETTY ANN
MOIRS
AUTOGRAPH
59c lb.

McKeown's
Drug Store

Wright's Radio Service
312½ Front St. Phone 65
Belleville, Ontario.
M. G. Wright. Manager. Geo. Sweetman Radiotrician

M 13-tf

Mother of Judge Mott Dies at Age of 90 Years

BROCKVILLE, Ont, March 23.—(CP)—Mrs. Marticia Mott, mother of Judge Hawsley S. Mott of the Toronto Family Court, died last night at her home at Lyn. She was 90 years of age. A daughter of Isaac Clark and a native of Odessa, Ont., she was married to Weldon D. Mott, who died in 1922.

In addition to Judge Mott, she is survived by two other sons, Clark M. Mott, Philadelphia and E. Blake Mott, Lyn.

RULING PRICE FOR SYRUP 50 CTS. QT.

Maple Sugar Cakes Also Offered First Time This Season

Large quantities of farm and garden products were offered for sale on Saturday's market, which was attended by many sellers and buyers. There were but few changes to note in prices. Maple syrup was offered for sale by numerous vendors and the ruling price was 50 cents per quart, maple sugar ten and fifteen cents a cake.

During the past week prices for live hogs dressed pork and beef remained stationary. Potatoes showed an advance of 5c per bag over the price quoted a week ago.

In dairy products, butter sold at 25c per pound and eggs ranged from 20c for specials and 16c for pullets.

Much trading was done in home cooking the display being exceptionally large and tempting in appearance.

Quotations were as follows:

Fall wheat, bus.		$ 1.00
Spring wheat, bus.		.85
Barley, bus.		.65
Oats, bus.		.34
Rye, bus.		.60
Timothy, bus.		8.00
Buckwheat, bus.		.45
Red Clover, bus.	10.00 to	12.00
Alsike, bus.		13.00
Dressed hogs,cwt.		10.00
Live hogs, cwt.		7.25
Dressed beefs, fore, cwt		6.00
Dressed beef, hind, cwt.		8.00
Butter lb		.25
Egg., No. 1, dozen		.20
Pullets eggs, dozen	.16 to	.17
Geese	1.25 to	2.00
Chickens	.70 to	1.00
Ducks	.80 to	1.00
Potatoes per bag	.55 to	.60
Apples, peck	.35 to	.50
Onions, peck		.40
Carrots, peck		.30
Parsnips, peck		.30
Turnips, peck		.30
Beets, peck		.35
Green Onions, bunch		.05
Rhubarb, bunch		.10
Lettuce, bunch		.05
Beef hides	2 to	2½c lb.
Veal Skins		lb. 4c
Deacon Skins, each		.30
Sheep skins,	20c to	.25
Horse hides		1.00
Lake Salmon, lb.		.16
Pike lb.		.14
Mudcats lb.		.18
White Fish		.32
Maple Syrup, quart		.50

◆

WON'T TALK FOR FOUR WEEKS

Bombay, March 23.—(CP-Havas)—Mahatma Gandhi today told his followers he was going to stop talking for four weeks. He said he will devote the period of silence to work on revisions of his manuscripts relating to the rural reconstruction of India.

◆

Obituary

LATE MRS. ROBERT MELVILLE

Rawdon (Special)—Mount Pleasant United Church was filled to the doors on Thursday afternoon, March 21st, when sympathetic friends from various points gathered to pay their last tribute of respect to Jessie Pearl Pounder, beloved wife of Robert Melville.

The choir rendered an anthem, "At the end of the road" and Miss Edna Thrasher sang as a solo, "He will be my guide."

The congregational hymns were, "Peace, perfect peace" and "Safe in the arms of Jesus."

Rev. F. G. Joblin delivered a comforting message from Jeremiah 15:9, "Her sun has gone down while it was yet day." He spoke of deceased's life as being "lived for others" and quoted a beautiful poem which bore out this thought.

The bearers were, Messrs. Chas. Hoard, Merle Spencer, Earl McAdam, Frank Jeffs, Harold Johnson and Elwood Johnson.

Beautiful floral tributes covered the casket and were:

Pillow—Husband and children, Evelyn, Bruce, Gerald; Wreath—Mr. Robert Pounder and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dunham; Sheafs—Mr. Clifford Scott, Havelock; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Massie, Campbellford; Mr. Joe Thain and mother, Campbellford.

Among the relatives in attendance were, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Melville, Grenville and Randall of Marmora; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Seeney and family, of Grafton; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Melville and Miss Gladys Melville, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Seeney and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Young, Mrs. Longmuir, Miss L. Beckenridge, Mr. Clifford Scott, Messrs. Thomas, Donald and Harry Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dafoe, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Dafoe, of Havelock; Mr A. Dowdell, Trenton; Mrs A. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. A. Greenley, Trent River, also friends from Campbellford, Hoard's, Wellman's, Frankford, Foxboro, Belleville, Marmora, Stirling and other points.

The community extends deepest sympathy to the sorrowing husband and children and to her father, Mr. Robert Pounder, in their sad bereavement.

LATE MRS. N. J. ADDISON

The funeral of Mrs. Nancy Jane Addison which was private took place Friday afternoon from the residence of her daughter Mrs. D. H. Ackerill, 208 John Street. The burial office of the Church of England was conducted in the home and at the graveside in Belleville Cemetery by the Rev. B. F. Byers.

The bearers were Mr. Charles Addison, Dr. D. H. Ackerill, Mr. B. F. Jennings and Mr. E. V. Illsey

The late Mrs. Addison, who was one of Belleville's oldest residents, was of United Empire Loyalist descent on both sides of the family.

MRS. ANNIE LAVINIA NAYLER

Marmora, March 23 (Special) — Early Wednesday morning a highly esteemed resident of Marmora passed away in the person of Mrs. Annie Lavinia Nayler, widow of the late John Williard Nayler. She had been ill for several months, and her death therefore was expected.

The deceased was a daughter of the late Henry Butwell and was born in England. While she was in her early teens, she came to Canada, with her parents and resided in Toronto. About fifty-nine years ago she married John W. Nayler, who predeceased her on May 26, 1925. Mr. and Mrs. Nayler moved to Marmora about forty years ago.

The late Mr. Nayler was of a quiet disposition, a kind neighbor and friend to all who knew her. She was a devout member of the United Church and was a member of the Women's Institute for a number of years.

Ten children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Nayler, nine of whom survive: Albert, Marmora; Walter, Niagara Falls; Robert, Clarence and Harold, Marmora; Norman, of Red Lake; Mrs. Fry, Campbellford; Mrs. Percy Kennedy, Lindsay; and Mrs. J. Rombough, Marmora.

The funeral service was held at 2.45 p.m. on Friday afternoon in St. Andrew's United Church. Interment in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

THE LATE HARRY (HIRAM) PHILLIPS

Marmora, (Special)—Death came very suddenly to Harry (Hiram) Phillips of Deloro, on Wednesday morning.

On Monday, he was at work at Deloro in his usual good health and manner, but during the afternoon be became suddenly ill. His condition got worse and it was decided to have him removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterboro. All medical skill possible failed to help and shortly after midnight he passed away. His death was due to a heart attack. He had reached the age of fifty-two years.

The late Harry Phillips was a son of the late William Phillips, and had spent practically all his life in the township of Marmora. He had been an employee of Deloro Smelting and Refining Co., almost from the time it first started. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him, and among his fellow employees he was most popular.

He leaves to mourn his loss a wife and five children. His wife was formerly Catharine Darrah, daughter of Mrs. Darrah and the late William Darrah of Marmora. The children are Mrs. F. Izzard of Marmora township; Arthur, Toronto; Mrs. E. Darby, Marmora; Eugene at home; and Edith, nurse-in-training at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterboro. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Newbiging, of Galt; and one brother, George G. of Vancouver, B.C.

The funeral left his late residence, east of Marmora at 1.15 p.m. on Friday and proceeded to St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora, for service with Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell officiating. Interment in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

LATE MRS. ALLAN WALLBRIDGE

Marmora (Special)—The death of Mrs. Martha Jane Wallbridge, wife of Allan Wallbridge, occurred at her home, west of Marmora Village on Wednesday afternoon.

The late Mrs. Wallbridge had been in Toronto General Hospital for the past two months where she had been undergoing treatment for an incurable disease. She returned to her home on Monday of this week, and death seized her on Wednesday. The deceased was in her 59th year. She was highly esteemed by a large circle of friends and will be sadly missed by all who knew her.

Besides her sorrowing husband she leaves one daughter, Mrs. Ross Loveless, Marmora, and two sons, Kenneth Wallbridge of Toronto, and Clarence at home. She is also survived by four sisters and two brothers, Mrs. Elizabeth Kennedy, who at present resides in Toronto; Mrs. Margaret Ford, Mrs. Ida Miller and Mrs. Ethel McComb, all of Campbellford; J. McKewon, Stanwood, and W. T. McKewon, Chicago, Ills.

The funeral left her late residence at 2 p.m. on Saturday and proceeded to St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, for service. Interment took place in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

General Motors Products of Canada, Limited

ANNOUNCE THAT

J.B.BOYCE

is

EXCLUSIVE GENERAL MOTORS DEALER

for

City of Belleville

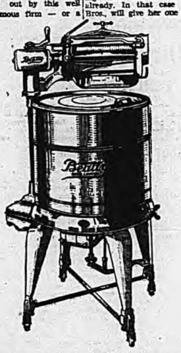
CHEVROLET, OLDSMOBILE, PONTIAC, McLAUGHLIN BUICK, G.M.C. TRUCKS.
SALES — PARTS — SERVICE

Grand Prize for Cooking School a Washer or Ironer Donated by Beatty Bros.

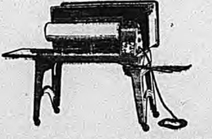
The Grand Prize is The Best Made by Beatty Factory. The Winner of The Prize Will Have The Choice of Either Machine.

Ladies who contemplate attending the Ontario Intelligencer Both Cooking and Homemakers School will be pleased to know that the Grand Prize to be awarded will be the winner's choice of a Model C Beatty Washer, the very best washer turned out by this well known and famous firm — or a Beatty Electric Ironer. Pictures of the Washer and Ironer accompany this article and the winner will certainly have a prize to be proud of. This prize is donated by Beatty Bros.

The Model C Beatty Washer features the device for raising the clothes from the bottom of the tub right up to the wringer. The Basket allows the operator to use boiling hot water and still keep her hands smooth and white. There is a Sediment basin under the Basket which keeps the water free of dirt. There are many other features which will be pointed out by Miss Claire Andree at the Ontario Intelligencer Homemakers' School next Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.



It may happen that the lucky woman who will get the main prize at the Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School has an electric washer, already. In that case the Beatty Bros., will give her one of the new Beatty Automatic Ironers of equal value to the Beatty Washer. Any woman would certainly love to have one of these beautiful and valuable labor saving devices in her home. Think of the convenience of having an abundance of clean freshly ironed clothes without any of the hard work of hand ironing, and be comfortably seated at the same time.



Don't forget ladies, those who attend the School every day will be more likely to have the pleasure of making the choice for one of the above beautiful gifts than if only they attend one day.

THE 5th BELLEVILLE BOY SCOUTS present
ARGYLL LIGHT INFANTRY REGIMENTAL BAND
under direction of Lieut. Ross Hunter by kind permission of Lt.-Col. E. A. Geen, V.D., Officer Commanding Assisted by: MISS NELLIE MARASKAS, elocutionist, and MR. HAROLD BARRETT, baritone.
CAPITOL THEATRE, Sunday, March 24, 8.30 p.m.
Silver Collection

Special Showing of Picture Mouldings from the studios of the famous firm of WISINTAINER & SONS,

MONTREAL.

A representative of that firm will be at this store all day Monday showing a new line of the finest in picture mouldings, suitable for oil paintings and water colors.

FRAMES MADE TO ORDER

A cordial invitation is extended to all lovers of fine pictures and appropriate frames to call and inspect this special showing.

Stanley W. WILBUR
312 Front St. Belleville Phone 193

FARM INSURANCE . . .
WITH FIRE EXTINGUISHERS AT NO EXTRA COST . . . .

Our companies have adequate deposits with Dominion Gov't. See us before renewing your insurance.

HAIG BROS.
(Successors to S. J. Fisher & Son.)
168 FRONT ST. Open Saturday Evening PHONE 168

MR. S. J. FISHER
wishes to announce that he is resuming his Auctioneering Business
after an absence of 3 years.
All sales will be given prompt and careful attention.
SALES CONDUCTED ANY TIME OR ANY PLACE.
For Particulars Phone 1671F
S.J.FISHER
171 Bridge Street East.
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

SHE MET THE WRONG BOY... BUT FOUND THE RIGHT LOVE!
Sparkling, glamorous!
The romance of a boy and a girl who took a chance—with each other!
CAPITOL
MON. • TUES.
Blind Date
with
ANN SOTHERN—NEIL HAMILTON
PAUL KELLY
Shows 2.30, 7.15 9.10
Feature 3.10 7.55 9.55
TONIGHT 'FR. BROWN DETECTIVE' and 'SING SING NIGHTS'
Associate Featurettes on Same Programme:
BEN BLUE COMEDY, "OUT OF ORDER."
WILL OSBORNE ("Melody Master")
"BUSY BUS" (Krazy Kat Kartoon)
"DU BARRY" 18kt. Gold Border Dinner Plates

The Crowds are HOWLING!
You'll Howl Too, when you see this hilarious side-splitting Saga of the English Butler who Marked Red Gap's "400" down to $3.98.
•
Paramount's Hysterical Hit
"RUGGLES of RED GAP"
with CHARLES LAUGHTON ★ MARY BOLAND ★ ROLAND YOUNG CHARLIE RUGGLES ★ ZASU PITTS
Bring the Family
TODAY at 2.30 7.10 9.10
Feat. 3.10 7.40 9.50
BELLE

EFFICIENCY OF GOVERNMENT

(Continued From Page 1)

Efficiency Not Impaired

"You elected us to pare costs. The Department of Health, of which I am head has made savings of hundreds of thousands of dollars since I took office, all without impairing the efficiency of the department one bit. I have no hesitation in discharging a man or a woman in my department if I feel, that we can get along without them, and thereby save the costs. As long as I represent you in the Provincial Government I will continue this policy of cutting costs."

"The question of patronage has also been injected into this," continued Dr. Faulkner. "I have been accused of keeping too many Conservatives in jobs and not giving the Liberals enough of them. It is against my policy to see any man lose his job. But when a saving is to be passed on to the people who elected me to office for that very reason, then I have no hesitation."

Introduced by Mr. Jack Stewart, of the Sidney Twentieth Century Club, and chairman of the evening, Dr. Faulkner who followed several other prominent speakers, including Mr. Chas. A. Cameron, K.C., and candidate-elect for South Hastings at the coming Federal election, Mayor George O. Tice, Mr. P. C. MacLaurin and others, was received with spontaneous outbursts of applause and the singing of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow".

Dr. Faulkner, after voicing a little of the sincere gratitude he felt for being able to represent his listeners in the Legislature, urged them to forget for a time that they were at a political meeting. "It has come to the time when men and women all over the country are not aligning themselves with any political party, but have adopted simply the policy of seeing for themselves and then voting accordingly. When we can get them all to do this, then we will have a stronger, more formidable government working solely for the good of the people", he said.

Unrest in Parties

Dr. Faulkner pointed out that there was unrest among people of both parties at the present time. "It is a sad thing when this happens. We have room in this country of ours for two great parties. It would be an honor to belong to either of them, and you may exercise your franchise as you see fit for either of them. But study the question well," he urged.

Mr. Charles Cameron, Liberal candidate-elect, was referred to by Dr. Faulkner as a man whom the people of the riding "should be proud to know".

"Mr. Cameron is a lawyer, but I hope, that the great vote of the agriculturists in this section will not be lessened by that fact. We are all proud of our own calling, and we are proud of the men, who make up the Cabinet. We have lawyers there and farmers and doctors and men of other professions. If you expect to have perfect laws, properly written to protect you, then you must have the men, who are legally qualified to draw them up."

The death of the late John R. Cooke, former chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission was referred to by Dr. Faulkner as an event that had made itself felt not only in Hastings county where the late chairman had been born and raised but also in parliamentary circles, where he was sadly missed. "At this moment I can express only a little of the the true respect I felt for Mr. Cooke, one of my most ardent opponents at the recent election," said Dr. Faulkner.

In turning to the unemployment question, Dr. Faulkner asked: "Is the situation in this township any better today than it was when the Bennett Government assumed power at Ottawa? What is Mr. Bennett's attitude toward unemployment? One year and a half ago he met a conference of Mayors, who sought him out in an attempt to find some answer to the pressing problem of unemployment. Mr. Bennett told them he would not talk unemployment with them. I'll admit, that Bennett is a hard working, conscientious man, and he has served the best he knew how. But you must look at the policies he has tried to carry out in the past four or five years and judge for yourselves. The situation has not been improved."

Sales Tax Unfair

Dr. Faulkner in a brief scrutiny of the Sales Tax characterized it as an unfair imposition and "an unjust tax from top to bottom". He cited the case of a man buying boots for his children and being forced to pay six per cent tax "when he was least able to pay."

Mr. Bennett's illness was having a direct effect upon the Cabinet at Ottawa declared Dr. Faulkner. "The Cabinet is now operating in an individual manner; there is no cohesion" he charged.

In turning to the Unemployment Insurance Act, Dr. Faulkner pointed out that it could not be classed as a cure-all for the unemployment ills of Canada. "Take the natural resources of the country, the great mineral wealth, the agricultural industry, and then turn your eyes to the financial situation of the country, the provincial debt of every province, of every county, every township, and home and farm. Is this something that Providence has handed us, or is it a man-made situation? We as a people have been living beyond our means, federally as well as personally. But the increase of debt upon the government of the country is due to the unemployment situation. How long can tax payers pay the three million per month in this Province to keep this up?"

The workings of the Act were explained. "It comes into force, when one out of every ten men is out of work. But this insurance can not apply to the men, who are out of work. It is nothing more than a dole. You have to contribute forty consecutive weeks for the previous two years. This may give you some idea of the length of time the Act is applicable."

Dr. Faulkner claimed, that under Clause 92 of the British North America Act Mr. Bennett had no legal right to interfere with the provinces in this matter. "But, if Bennett does his share at Ottawa, we can promise that the provinces will look after their own social legislation," he added.

Made No Promises

In turning to the local situation Dr. Faulkner pointed out that he had made no promises before the election. "And I warn Charlie Cameron to do the same. In West Hastings, we have completed since June, one of the finest roads, from Trenton to Stirling and to Carrying Place. I put forth the policy of a straight road between Belleville and Bancroft. The engineers have decided to build twenty-five miles of new road as relief work. Now it appears, that we have a Federal election in the offing and I know that the men need blue tickets for jobs at the airport. The man, who will be blue after the next election is over is the man, who hopes to profit by the blue tickets," he added amid laughter from the audience.

The policy of hiring on the road work has been to give married men and men with dependents the work, said Dr. Faulkner. "We hoped by this means to take some of the cost of relief off the townships, and I took this up with the Reeves. I saw that the Liberals got good, fair play in the matter—something they didn't get before 1934." (Applause.)

"We have about 1,200 men at work in the county at the present time; I was afraid some time ago that this work might be stopped, but we are still going. As far as possible the road north will go through the centre of the county and will not be for the benefit of any one constituency," he said.

Dr. Faulkner concluded his remarks with a sincere appreciation for "the wonderful majority", that had been given him in Sidney at the last election and hoped, that at the next election he would be able to come before his electors as a servant, who could give a full complete reckoning of his tenure of office.

Candidate Speaks

Mr. Chas Cameron, K.C., also received with enthusiastic applause following his introduction in opening his remarks, stated, that his one ambition was to have a Twentieth Century Club in each township.

"Rather than accept this meeting as a political one, regard it more in the nature of a shareholders' meeting," he urged his audience. "We study the balance sheet as it is submitted to us, and we will try to find out, what the directors are going to offer us and what promises they will make for next year."

"First we have unemployment. We have one and one quarter million people out of work. During the last five years our national debt has increased 500 million dollars. We find, that the farmers' produce does not bring in sufficient to make a living. Farms have been seized and sold for taxes. Bennett tells us not to worry, to look and see, what he is going to do for us. He has told us over the radio some of the things he is going to do, but the reaction of the ordinary citizen to these talks has not been just what was expected. One man said he would be glad, when they were over so that he could get back to the old bertime stories. But the same program being brought out by Bennett now is the one that King has been advocating for years. Bennett says just give him another chance for five years and he will bring in all these things right away. But Mr. Bennett has fooled us before; in 1930 he said he was going to give some kind of help to the farmer. Mr. Bennett hasn't ten minutes of one minute to give to the farm industry of the country."

Good Times With Low Tariffs

"Canada's only good times were when she had the low tariffs," continued Mr. Cameron. "Bennett all his life has been a high-tariff man. We cannot expect him to look at the problems as we do. Compare him with King, whose life has been devoted to economic problems. Look at the parties and look at the leaders. Make up your mind for yourself, whom to vote for. Ask yourself if you want to go through another five years like the last five. If you do then vote for Bennett but if you want more security, more hope, then vote for Mr. King. You are the judges and the jury. If, after you hear the evidence you feel that the time has come for Mr. Bennett to retire, then vote accordingly" he concluded.

Mayor Geo O. Tice was brief in his remarks. "Four or five months ago if the election had been sprung, it wouldn't have made even a good horse race, but at the present time, after all those radio addresses of the Prime Minister and all the promises, that have been made, their is a certain change," he warned his listeners.

"We will have no easy road ahead of us during the coming election, and unless organization is complete the task will be much harder. We find the opposition already in the field and working hard."

Tribute was paid to Mayor Tice upon the election of Mr. Cameron as standard bearer in the coming election. "The more you know of the present candidate, the more you will like him, he's a first class fellow."

"The main issue in Canada today is unemployment," continued Mayor Tice.

He referred to the coming convention of Ontario Mayors to be held in Montreal, at which an effort will be made to have the Dominion and Provincial governments each assume half the cost of relief in the municipalities, thus lifting the burden on the taxpayer. "Hepburn has promised us that the Provincial Government would if the Dominion Government would."

"We'll never bring back thrift by giving relief. The farmer comes first in this matter of getting help, and then the unemployed. Bring them back as they were or the whole fabric will fail," warned Mayor Tice. He concluded his address with a warm promise of every support to the chosen candidate for the Lower House.

Younger Members Addressed

In a message directly addressed to the younger people of the audience, Mr. Campbell Fraser, vice-president of the 20th Century Club of eastern Ontario extended the sincere wishes and greetings of the provincial organization to the local clubs, and remarked, that during his brief visit he had found them in a "healthy and thriving condition." "A club cannot always be judged by its membership, but rather by the sincerity and interest of those who belong," he pointed out, adding, "no part of any country is noted for its stability and commonsense more than in the rural districts.

Mr. John Wilson, Toronto, past president of the 20th Century Club of Ontario, brought greetings also from the provincial organization and cited the clubs as playing a prominent part in the magnificent victory of Premier Hepburn at the last election. In touching briefly on the Farm Marketing Act, the speaker claimed, that this was not the answer to the farmers' poblems of growing and selling his produce. "Mr. Bennett is on the wrong track here. If this goes through, then there will be a dozen different Acts of a like nature which may follow I believe that the farmer's freedom to do business must be protected and that some other means must be worked out." The speaker closed with the warning: "Don't be too overconfident of the next election, but get organized for the work ahead."

Mr. P. C. MacLaurin likened the running of the country to driving a team of horses. "When you are driving horses, if you would do it right, the horses must have confidence in you. It seems to me, that the Prime Minister doesn't know how to drive the horses and we'll have to get some old teamster back in the reins."

"Bennett's promises are of no avail, and never have been," said Mr. MacLaurin. "Let us get down to work and whip up the teams with a new teamster. Get in the saddle and put Mr. Charles Cameron in and we'll be able to go some place."

Mr. Ormonde Butler, president of the 20th Century local Club in his remarks pointed out that the present government's record was merely one of promises, promises that had been made continuously since 1930. "No matter what policies are advanced and what promises are made by the present government, can such a government, that has proved so poor, when given every opportunity in the past, be expected to fulfill them in the future?" asked Mr. Butler.

Marketing Act Attacked

Col. Roscoe Vanderwater expressed his appreciation on behalf of the electors of Sidney Township and South Hastings for the honor accorded by the visit of the Hon. Dr. Faulkner and the candidate-elect "who", he promised, "Will be in Ottawa soon". Col. Vanderwater in referring briefly to the Marketing Act said, that if the present government intends to enforce it the penal institutions would have to be greatly enlarged. "Hastings County farmers will resent being told, what to do and how to do it when they work so hard at tilling the soil," he added.

Among those present on the platform during the evening with the Hon. Dr. Faulkner and Mr. Chas. Cameron were—Mayor Geo. O. Tice; P. C. MacLaurin; John Wilson, past president of the 20th Century Club of Ontario, Toronto; Campbell Fraser, vice-president of the Ontario 20th Century Club, Brockville; Ormonde Butler, president of the Belleville 20th Century Club; Col. Roscoe Vanderwater; John Fry, district representative of the eastern Ontario 20th Century Club, who also gave a brief address commenting upon the healthy growth of the local clubs; Harold Longwell, president of the Sidney 20th Century Club; Frank Locker of the Sidney Club; Thomas Mason, acting-secretary of the Belleville Liberal Association, who also contributed to the evening's proceedings by his offerings on the piano; Jack Stewart of the Thurlow Club; Mr. J. G. Sills, Sidney, and others.

Following the addresses, the hall was cleared after which refreshments were served and dancing until a late hour was enjoyed by the many present, to the music supplied by the Plainfield orchestra.

Miss Muriel Vermilyea added her talents to the evening's entertainment by giving an excellently rendered amusing reading, and Mr. James Arkills contributed three novelty numbers with violin and saw.

Old Chum has been known as "The Tobacco of Quality" to three generations of critical Canadian smokers. It is today more popular than ever before, and sells at a price never equalled for tobacco of such quality. Try a package — and you, too, will prefer Old Chum.

OLD CHUM
The Tobacco of Quality
LARGE PACKAGE
20¢
SAVE THE POKER HANDS

OLD CHUM
20
VIRGINIA FLAKE CUT
SMOKING TOBACCO
D. Ritchie & Co.

ECZEMA
Chafing and Skin Irritations quickly relieved by
Dr. CHASE'S OINTMENT

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS
FOR ALL KIDNEY DISEASES
BACKACHE
BLADDER TROUBLES
RHEUMATISM

FAIRER TAXATION ON PRODUCTION

(Continued From Page 1)

Dominion Textiles, Limited, at Montreal. "It will be interesting to see on what ground the British will base their plea for still further reductions in Canadian tariffs," he remarked.

Optimism and Caution.

Ottawa, Mar. 23 (CP)—Optimism mingled with caution are the dominant notes in Canada's 1935 financial stocktaking. As Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, and custodian of the nation's bank-book unfolded his plans for the coming fiscal year in parliament yesterday, he showed a tendency to reach out for every possible taxable dollar and expressed satisfaction with the progress being made in the direction of a balanced budget.

New taxes are imposed on high incomes, on corporations, on returns from investments and on royalties. Tax reductions are few and far between. The only one of consequence is a sharp lowering of the duties on liquor and this is designed for "the protection of the revenue" and not from kindness for the liquor drinker. Empire trade is encouraged by important tariff reductions.

Complete Balancing.

In the last budget before a general election Mr. Rhodes was able to report a surplus of $2,700,000 on ordinary account in the current fiscal year and forecast a surplus on ordinary account of no less than $21,500,000 for the coming year.

A complete balancing of income and expenditure is still only a hope, however, for with capital expenditures, railway deficits and special expenditures on relief in the current year Canada's national debt was increased by $117,700,000. Similarly next year the surplus on ordinary account is merely expected to go a good distance in defraying the deficit which will be brought about by those extraordinary expenditures.

Expanding Revenues.

The minister therefore based his confidence on expanding revenues and improving business and industrial conditions and his caution on a frank recognition of the continued excess of outgo over income.

"This is the last budget to be presented before a general election," he said in his only reference to the coming contest, "and while fully aware of the popular reaction to reduction in taxation the government recognizes its paramount duty is to the state and its well-being. Reduction in taxation can only be justified when it is associated with a fully balanced budget accompanied by a reduction—however gradual—in the national debt."

Attempt to Pay Way.

Recovery would be hastened if Canadians faced their obligations courageously, he added. They had no choice but to face them and at least strive to pay their way. Canadians had won their way through the world war and its toll of life and treasure and through five years of depression. Now there was at hand unmistakable evidence of progress towards complete recovery.

Increased levies on higher personal incomes and corporation incomes are expected to bring the treasury $12,000,000 additional money in the coming year. The income levies hit out first at the people who draw their return from investments, unearned income, and secondly at the higher levels of salaried persons.

Surtax on Unearned Income.

Thus Mr. Rhodes introduces into Canada for the first time a form of tax used in other countries, a surtax on unearned income. It ranges from 2 to 10 per cent and is in addition to the regular income tax rates which remain unchanged from last year.

The levy applies to unearned income in excess of $5,000 a year and to all income in excess of $14,000 a year. If a man has an income of $1,000,000 a year, and a few have, he will contribute more than half of it to the treasury—$527,131 under the regular schedules and $97,995 under the surtax.

The gold tax, imposed last year, is not renewed but reductions in the exemptions allowed precious metal mines for depletion of their ore reserves both in the corporation income tax and the personal income tax of shareholders are expected to offset the loss in revenue.

Corporation Income Tax.

The corporation income tax all along the line is increased from 12½ to 13½ per cent and other provisions are made to tighten up on the collection of these taxes. Thus allied companies will not be allowed to make consolidated returns. Balancing losses in one unit against profits in another except in special cases and where such consolidated returns are made the tax rate will be 15 instead of the normal 13½ per cent.

In another way the budget reaches out for a share of the riches of the wealth. A special tax is imposed on gifts between living persons ranging from two per cent on donations up to $25,000 to 10 per cent on those of $1,000,000 or more. This is designed largely to prevent the evasion of income tax by the making of gifts between members of a family. It does not apply to charitable donations, gifts between husband and wife, to minors or gifts under $1,000. Mr. Rhodes said the imposition of the tax was expedient in view of the increases in the income tax.

Sweeping Concessions For Empire.

Sweeping concessions are made to imports from Empire countries in the tariff changes. Although they are not numerous a number of them are important and calculated to stimulate Empire trade. Out of 76 changes in the tariff 48 are decreases, four are increases and 24 are clarifications of wording.

Provision is made for the extension of "most favored nation" treatment to any part of the British Dominion by order in council and Mr. Rhodes announced action would be taken at once as to imports from the United Kingdom.

The effect of this will be that no imports from the United Kingdom will pay more than the intermediate rates of duty. Hitherto when imports from a British country could not qualify for British preference by reason of more than 50 per cent of the content coming from outside the Empire they were required to pay duty at the general tariff rates.

Drawback Principle.

Another innovation is the extension of the drawback principle to imports from empire countries. Imports of cotton velveteen and cotton back silk pile will be entitled to a refunding of 99 per cent of the duty if they come from Empire countries and are used in the manufacture of certain boxes and cases in Canada.

On some articles, including lace, embroideries and cigarette papers, the British preferential duties are cut to the level of the French treaty rates.

Other concessions to British producers are on Diesel engines, iron and steel products, yarns of wool or hair, fire engines, aircraft, glass and glassware, piling irons, carpets and brass band instruments. Not less than 20 important commodities are added to the free list under the British preferential tariff.

Consumer To Benefit.

Reduction in the taxes on liquors is designed to discourage smuggling and illegal sale which is said to be impairing revenues. It is coupled with a provision that the full benefit must be passed on to the customer by provincial liquor selling agencies and is expected to mean a reduction of 40 to 50 cents a bottle in the prices of spirits. The excise duty on Canadian made liquor is cut from $7 a gallon to $4, the import duty on British liquor is reduced from $8 to $5 a gallon and the import on foreign liquors remains at $10 a gallon.

Little change is made in the sales tax of six per cent. Seed and grain cleaning machines, pit props for mines and casein are added to the list of exempted articles and the tax on articles produced in homes for the deaf and dumb is cut in half.

Apart from the liquor reduction only one alteration of consequence is made in the excise tax, an import on cigarette lighters. This is to prevent loss of revenue from the tax on matches by a growing use of lighters.

Potatoes and Starch.

One tariff change recalls the disaster which hit Canadian potato growers this year through a huge surplus and low prices. A committee has been studying new uses for potatoes. The budget authorizes the levy of a duty on dextrine by order in council to encourage the use of potatoes in the manufacture of starch. Dextrine is a starchy substance which might be made from potatoes.

The budget debate, the second of the regular major debates of the parliamentary session, begins on Tuesday when Hon. J. L. Ralston, member for Shelburne-Yarmouth, as the chief Liberal financial critic sets out to pick holes in the effort of his boyhood chum.

Mr. Rhodes and Col. Ralston grew up together in Amherst, N.S., and won their way to political prominence by different party paths.

You will be hearing me at the Ontario Intelligencer
DE BOTH
COOKING
-SCHOOL-

"I speak for Brock's Bird Seed, and what Brock's does to make us Canaries happy, healthy and full of the most glorious music. My food, like your own, which Miss Claire Andree talks about so interestingly, is largely a matter of the right kind and the right proportions. The best food for me is the balanced ration of seeds as you buy them in the package of Brock's.

"I need the Bird Treat too—it comes in every package."

BELLEVILLE
MAR. 26th
to 29th

BROCK'S BIRD SEED BIRD TREAT BIRD GRAVEL
NICHOLSON & BROCK LIMITED, 125 George Street, Toronto

WE HAVE ADDED A
PACKARD FUNERAL COACH to our Motor Equipment and with our New Funeral Home, conveniently situated at 38 Everett Street, we can offer unexcelled service at very moderate prices.
Complete Funerals from $50.00 up
THOMAS C. THOMPSON
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Funeral Home 38 Everett Street Phone 62
Office 288 Front Street Phone 62

Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell
Chief Scout.

Do a Good Turn To Someone Every Day—The Scout Slogan

Twenty-seven years ago Baden Powell started what was destined to be the greatest boys' organization in the world, the Boy Scouts. Today this world-wide brotherhood of boys has a membership of over 2,200,000 of every race and creed scattered throughout the world, and the movement is growing every year.

In Canada there are over 65,000 Scouts and our Governor-General, Lord Bessborough, the Chief Scout for Canada, has issued a challenge to increase the membership to 100,000. This challenge has been anticipated and every week new Scout Troops are being formed.

Unfortunately Scouting in Belleville is at a low ebb. This is probably due to the fact that efficient leadership is lacking, and the citizens as a whole, have no interest in the movement because they do not understand its objects and its great value to the growing generation. At present there are three Troops here, one at St. George's Mission, under the efficient leadership of Scoutmaster James Varley; one at St. Thomas' Church, under Scoutmaster Bob Brown, and one at John Street United Church under Baden Kiser. This means that there are less than 75 active Scouts in Belleville, and with a proper organization and efficient leadership there should be at least 500 in a city of this size.

Scouting is a great character-builder working in co-operation with the home, the church and the school. In order to arouse interest this column will be used each Saturday, to explain the aims and objects of Scouting.

The co-operation of every parent and everyone interested in boys is earnestly requested.

How about some help from Old Scouts and Scouters?

THE SCOUT SCRIBE.

MRS. H. G. BAILEY DIES IN PICTON

Passing of Prominent Young Woman Shocks Community

Picton—Picton residents were shocked to learn of the death at noon on Thursday, March 21st., at Prince Edward County Hospital of Helen Ruth Hull, wife of Harry G. Bailey, aged twenty-nine years.

The late Mrs. Bailey was born in the State of Michigan, a daughter of the late William Hull, and his wife Minnie Sanderson, who were Canadians by birth. She came to Picton in 1931 with her husband, who since that time has been butter-maker at Picton Creamery. Just a few weeks ago Mr. Bailey purchased the creamery from Mr. Sine Blakely and Mr. Phil Browne. Mrs. Bailey was an active member of the United Church and was a valued member of the Cavel Class, and of the Young Women's Auxiliary of the United Church. Surviving are her husband, a little son Jack, aged three years, and an infant daughter; also surviving is one sister, Miss Edna Hull of Napanee, and an uncle, Mr. Sanderson of Demorestville.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey lived in Tweed, before coming to Picton, Mr. Bailey being a son of Dairy Instructor, Herbert Bailey of the Madoc District.

The funeral service will be held at her late residence on Burns Avenue on Saturday, March 23rd at 12.30 p.m. and interment will take place in Greenwood Cemetery, Queensboro. Rev. David Wren will conduct the service at the home. Beautiful floral pieces testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held, for Mr. and Mrs. Bailey had made many friends since coming to Picton who regret her early passing.

MR. THOMAS McMAHON

At the homestead, Black Creek where he was born and spend his entire life, Thomas J. McMahon, passed away after a long illness on Wednesday March 20th in his eightieth year.

The deceased was a son of Patrick McMahon and his wife Miss Keogh, both natives of Ireland. He was for many years, until ill health forced him to retire, a well known and prosperous farmer of this County. Surviving are his wife, who before her marriage was a Miss Hobson, one son, Thos. McMahon Jr., of Black Creek, and one daughter, Mrs. Perry Doyle of Toronto. Two sisters, Mrs. John Shannon of Toronto and Miss Nellie McMahon of Rochester, N.Y., are the only surviving members of the family of Patrick McMahon. A third sister, Miss Belle McMahon passed away on January 16th of this year.

The funeral service took place in St. Gregory's Church, Saturday morning, at nine o'clock, Rev. Fr. Meehan will say the requim mass and interment will be made in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER
THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

AS SEEN FROM THE BUDGET

When the books of the Dominion were presented for examination by the public yesterday through the means of the Budget of the Hon. E. N. Rhodes, rather a brighter picture was presented of the conditions of Canada. It reiterated what has been stated by those who are in close touch with conditions, the statement that there has been a steady improvement during the past year. A surplus was shown on ordinary account though extraordinary and capital expenditures turned the favorable balance into a deficit.

One of the most healthy signs that recovery has set in is the fact that the tax returns have met the estimated revenue.

A fact that may not be so clearly marked in smaller cities is the absorption of unemployment. The improvement has been 15.1 per cent, which means that 117,285 fewer persons have been on relief.

The large reduction in the amount of the deficit of the Canadian National Railways from $58,900,000 in 1933 to $48,400,000 in 1934 was one of the most pleasing pieces of information gathered from the report. Increased operating revenues and decrease in interest on exchange are given as reasons for the change for the betterment. It is interesting to note that there is every indication of a further improvement in the railway earnings during the year 1935.

One of the most interesting questions to which the speech referred was the question of debt refunding, as referring to government provincial and even possibly municipalities. The Minister of Finance made it very clear that Canadian people and the House itself looked with disfavor on anything like repudiation. He hinted that there might be such a thing as a loan control board such as functions in Australia.

STATE MEDICINE

Dr. Sutherland, Minister of Pensions and National Health, said in an address to the Ottawa Rotary Club that he believed state medicine to be an inevitable development of the future in Canada.

Whether it is a good thing or a bad, unquestionably the trend is in that direction. Already we have, in fact, a state medical service for the large element in the population that is being supported out of public funds. Individuals and families "on relief" receive free medical service, free medical supplies, free hospital service, free spectacles and surgical equipment, and the most elaborate state system could not do more for them. What Dr. Sutherland foresees, apparently, is the extension of this plan, by provinces, to include the whole population of the Dominion.—Ottawa Journal.

MILLIONAIRE GOES TO WORK

John Jacob Astor 3rd, aged 22, possessor of many millions, went to work this week on a twenty-dollar-a-week job on the Chelsea piers, New York City. He is aide to the acting marine superintendent and intends to learn the business from the bottom. On the first day his tie was askew and the white shirt collar was rumpled. His chief, Captain Fender, said the millionaire would work six days a week not five-and-a-half as the young man thought.

Such a case is of course not a test of the ordinary young man trying to find his way in life. In this case the worker is a millionaire who if he did not stick his job would still be able to fend for himself. With the average young man it is different, he must make good or he will be in trouble. On one point the average young man has the better of Mr. Astor 3rd, he has an incentive, the other man has not, to stick.

But it is a good example for youth. Children of homes of average means look too lightly on the life of the richer youth, forgetting that life can be very wretched even for the rich unless he can find something worthwhile to do. The poorer young man is really richer in the urge to make a job, for he can make his lifework out of it, while many a job to a rich young man brings no such incentive.

But the poorer boy should realize that if it is necessary for the wealthier to learn a trade or profession, it is more so for him.

And he ought to get the notion out of his head that a rich young man lives a life of unending gaiety and reckless pleasure, for if he did, his money and his health would not last long. The rich young man has to guard against his very possessions, the poorer one has to make his wealth.

No one need begrudge young Astor the job, no one should feel that he is taking work from some one. It is likely that young Astor is carving out or creating a job as every youth ought to be doing. It is to be hoped that some day employment is so ordered that there will be as much work as men and women desire for no work need be lost as it should all go to the social, physical and moral comfort of all mankind.

The only check on such a high order of civilization would be the maintenance of a standard of high thinking with the material pleasures subservient to the general and individual physical welfare.

HOOKS FOR LEVIATHAN

The author of the Book of Job in his famous Chapter 41 asked a great many challenging questions about Leviathan. "Canst thou draw out Leviathan with an hook?.... Canst thou put an hook into his nose?.... Shall they part him among the merchants?"

In the case of our present-day Leviathan the answer to the first two questions is "Yes." The great ship which carried 95,000 American troops to France in ten trips has for some time been hooked by nose and stern to a Hoboken dock. Her final retirement from active service has now been decided. Whether she is to be parted among the merchants remains to be seen, but the thing is highly probable. Until December, 1936, she must be kept in a state of good repair under the contract. After that she may well be divided up among the Japanese merchants who have recently absorbed so many proud Atlantic liners and converted them into scrap.

What shape the Japanese scrap iron will ultimately take we can only guess. Some say it is all going into armaments. Others point out that Japan has no iron mines and may well put some of the old iron to peaceful use. Here again the author of Job seems to have foreseen things. "Canst thou fill his skin with barbed irons? Or his head with fish spears?" Will the iron scrap from Leviathan go into Manchurian barbed wire or only into fishhooks for Japanese trawlers?—New York Times.

OUR PUBLIC LIFE IS CLEAN

Few political leaders in Canada have been wealthy men and it is to their eternal honour that they left office much poorer than they entered it. This may be said of Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Wilfred Laurier, of Sir John Thompson and Hon. Alexander Mackenzie. It can be said of Sir Robert Borden, Canada's war-time prime minister. There has never been the least suspicion that Mackenzie King has made more than a bare living during his lengthy experience in public life. Hon. W. S. Fielding, after giving many years of valuable service to the Canadian people, retired a poor man. The present Canadian Prime Minister is a wealthy man, but he was wealthy before entering public life and it is safe to say that he is poorer financially now than when he became head of the federal government five years ago. The same may be said of the men who have since controlled provincial affairs. Since Confederation in 1867 there have been few cases proven of malfeasance in office in this country.—Calgary Herald.

WHY SHAKE HANDS WITH JURIES?

A defendant in a case at London, Ont., who was acquitted, walked over to the jury box and shook hands with the jurors.

Why should a defendant, or ex-defendant, go and shake hands with jurors? This is an American practice which should not be tolerated in Canadian courts. Whether a jury convicts or acquits an accused person it is only doing its duty, only carrying out its sworn obligation to render a verdict according to the evidence, and there is no reason whatever why an acquitted man or woman should express gratitude to the members in any shape or form. In fact, such a gesture implies, although he does not mean it, that the acquitted person considers himself just a bit fortunate to get the decision in his favor and therefore he ought to thank the jury for swinging to his side.

Such a proceeding is quite unknown in British courts and it should be forbidden here.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

RACE LIBELS

It is rather curious, when one comes to think of it, that most legal systems are very careful to protect an individual against the consequences of libel, but when it comes to a whole race they remain silent and indifferent; yet the whole is always greater than the part, and in libelling a race every member of that race is defamed. Why should immunity be granted the slanderer in the latter case and not in the former? Recently the Manitoba legislature took effective steps to prevent the indulgence of malicious prejudices, by passing an act of parliament widening the libel laws to include races as well as individuals. As an outcome of the legislation a case was recently tied in that province, the result of which was a judicial order restraining "further publication of libels against the Jewish race."—Hamilton Spectator.

God had only One Son on earth without sin, but never one without suffering.—Saint Augustine.

Great trials seem to be a necessary preparation for great duties.—Thomson.

In the time of Jesus, the Mount of Transfiguration was on the way to the Cross.—In our days the cross is on the way to the mount of transfiguration.—If you would be on the mountain, you must consent to pass over the road to it.—H. C. Turnbull.

SIDELIGHTS

THE HOME FORUM

Discussing the events of the day, home gossip and general news topics as revealed by the home newspaper—under the evening lamp—and comments Grave and Gay. — Supervised by The Lamplighter.

IN CYCLES

Who can foretell that joy will return
To sit before his hearth fire once again,
To walk with him while summer twilights burn
To dance beside him through the April rain?
Grief sighs her old refrain of "Nevermore!"
But tears have dimmed her eyes, she cannot see
How constant are the tides unto the shore,
How even the moon owns strange fidelity.

If, though denied rare, priceless gems of art
And all the splendors gracious fortune brings
He always made joy welcome in his heart
And ever found delight in simple things,
Joy will come back anew in cycles sure,
As April's bloom returns to hill and moor.
—Aline Michaelis.

x x x

RICHARD BERRY HARRISON, who played the part of "De Lawd" in the play "Green Pastures" over sixteen hundred times, was buried in Chicago the other day after funeral services in New York City attended by thousands. Ring W. Lardner, the noted writer, described the services in the New York Mirror as follows:

"May he have blessings and peace. And the fulness of reward in those Green Pastures where he is now, with the Good Shepherd, forever. Amen."

The gilt walls of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine still throbbed with the minor pulsings of spirituals as Bishop William T. Manning intoned that blessing yesterday and the body of Richard Berry Harrison, "De Lawd" of the play "The Green Pastures" was borne out.

Tears choked the Hall-Johnson singers, but only made the music more appealing, as they sang to "De Lawd," in farewell, his favorite spiritual, "Lawd, I Don't Feel Noways Tired."

More than 8,000 persons, colored and white, attended the funeral services for the 70-year-old man who impersonated "De Lawd God Jehovah" for 1,658 consecutive performances in that celebrated play. He died peacefully, last Thursday, in Fifth Ave. Hospital, from a heart attack.

Assisting at the services were the Rev. Dr. Hale Bishop, colored pastor of St. Philip's Church in Harlem, which the late Richard B. Harrison attended, and Dr. A. Clayton Powell, pastor of the Abyssian Baptist Church, with the largest Protestant membership in America.

Throughout Saturday, when the body of "De Lawd" lay in state at St. Philip's Church, thousands viewed it as they passed the bier. Scores of floral offerings banked the casket.

Following the services at the Cathedral, the funeral cortege moved slowly through Manhattan, where, at Grand Central Station, the casket was placed aboard a train for Chicago, escorted by Paul Dunbar Harrison.

x x x

FIRST DAY OF SPRING has come and gone and the Weatherman can begin to serve up nice sunny weather just as quickly as he likes. Folks put up with the vagaries of the winter with patience and fortitude, knowing that the coal man has to have his innings—and they will not begrudge the ice man a long and profitable season.

x x x

A GOING, GROWING CONCERN, that's what the Belleville Hydro-Electric System is, as revealed by an interim report published recently by the Commissioners M. P. Duff, Chairman, Geo. A. Reid, and Mayor Geo. O. Tice. A surplus for 1934 of nearly thirty thousand dollars, the largest since 1931, is shown. Liabilities were retired and a substantial sum paid on the debenture debt leaving only a small balance. Rates to consumers of electricity have been reduced and costs of street lighting reduced, while at the same time the plant has been improved. This is gratifying news to the citizens to whom belongs The Belleville Hydro-Electric System.

x x x

"Do you enjoy those radio crooners?"
"Enjoy them? I'd give the pests ether instead of allowing them to go on it."

FACTS ABOUT MENTAL TESTS OF INTEREST

Mind is Extremely Complicated And Mental Tests Are Helpful

By Louis E Bisch, M.D., Ph.D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Syndicate)

Mental tests are coming more and more into vogue as standard measures of mental ability. Some persons have the idea that such tests are absolutely accurate, especially when used on children, while others refuse to credit them with any value whatsoever.

Neither of these extreme views is correct. Mental tests are employed to measure processes in an objective and quantitative way!

They are standards that have been formulated after experiments upon hundreds and thousands of subjects. They show what all average individuals of a certain age and under certain prescribed conditions are able to do.

Mental tests do not pretend to measure all faculties, all aptitudes or all traits They do not even pretend to measure any one single faculty in its entirety.

It is absurd to assume, for instance, that if a man of thirty obtains only a score of seventeen years on a mental test, that this means his mind is that of a youth of seventeen.

All such a score would mean is that the person in question can do certain things of which the average seventeen-year-old is capable, but that he cannot do certain other things that adolescents of eighteen or older, of average ability, are capable of doing.

In addition, however, such a person would possess capacity for other performances beyond the ability of those of eighteen, that the test used could not measure or even hint at.

To be sure, this person of whom we are talking may possess an inferior or enfeebled mentality. But if he does, he certainly has abilities for thinking and doing—simply because he has lived longer—that seventeen-year-olds do not possess.

In other words, this thirty-year-old individual is seventeen years plus. And that plus is an unknown quantity that no tests yet invented are able to evaluate!

The real function of all mental tests is to objectify and measure the degree of intellect which an individual is able to command at the time he is examined.

The value of tests consists in the fact that this performance on tests can be discussed and interpreted.

Having once obtained the subjects reactions reduced to standard averages, specialists have something to weigh and consider They then have a definite first step toward figuring out why he did not do better, all of which discussion and interpretation finally leads to a fairly accurate estimate of an individual's mental ability.

The mind is extremely complicated, and mental tests are great helps. In adults they may even be used for the purpose of vocational guidance.

In those who complain that their minds are not functioning properly, or who fear that something is amiss, mental tests can be employed for purposes of reassurance, or actually to discover whether some of the faculties are not working at 100 per cent efficiency.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES
OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 Years Ago

MARCH 23rd, 1915.

Last fall ground was broken at the front of the Belleville Tabernacle Church with a view to erecting a more commodious entrance. At the same time work was commenced at the rear of the church for the purpose of building an annex to the Sunday School. On March 21st the three front entrance doors were thrown open to the church going public when dedicatory exercises were conducted for the front addition. Those who attended the services yesterday had no idea of the magnitude and beauty of the work until entering the roomy rotunda which is semi-circular in form. The services were conducted by the Rev. W. G. Clarke, B. A., the pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. J. C. Speer, D. D., of Toronto, who preached two brilliant sermons.

The Belleville city council has made a grant of $5,000.00 to the Patriotic Fund.

The officers of the Belleville Patriotic Fund Committee are as follows: Chairman, J. P. Wills; Vice Chairman, S. Robertson; Executive Committee, Lt. Col. S. S. Lazier, Lt. Col. Dr. Farley, T. H. Coppin, L. P. Hughes, A. P. Allen, J. S. McKeown; Finance Committee, Thos. Ritchie, Rev. Dr. Baker, Rr. Tannahill, A. McGie, H. Sneyd, J. Elliott, W. Carnew; Lists Committee, A. R. Walker, J. A. Kerr, Geo. Dulmage, Dr. Platt, E. J. Butler; Publicity Committee, Lt. Col. Ponton, C. J. Bowell, J. O. Herity, W. L. Doyle, P. E. O'Flynn, W. C. Rean.

30 Years Ago

MARCH 23rd, 1905.

The Baptist Church of this city will celebrate the thirty-second anniversary of its organization here on March 26th. The Rev. John D. Freeman, M. A., pastor of the Bloor Street Baptist Church, Toronto, will preach at both services.

Mrs W. H. Ponton left today to spend some time at St. Catharines.

Lumbermen are busy hiring men for the drives. Wages range from $40.00 to $45.00 per month.

The Rev. J. D. P. Wright of Roslin has been appointed by the Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, to the rectory of Ameliasburg.

The Philharmonic concert will take place this evening.

40 Years Ago

MARCH 23rd, 1895.

The cheese factory at Harold will open on Monday for the season's operations.

Two dog fights on the market this morning caused some commotion for a time.

Dairymen were numerous in the city today buying supplies.

Messrs. St. Charles and Pringle will commence on Monday to build the cars for the Belleville Electric Street Railway.

A Toronto paper contains today an illustration of the recent snow blockade on the Central Ontario Railway. A snow bank on the line at Hillier was 17 feet high.

What to do on Saturday is the week's problem with the small boy. How one boy and his chums are putting in this afternoon may be learned from "posters" which adorn conspicuous places along Bridge street east today. They are in flaming colors of scarlet and blue and read as follows: "A great Show. Don't forget the grand show in Wallbridge's barn at 3 o'clock. Admission 1 cent. A real live monkey".

Mr. Morden Bird of Stirling was in the city today.

Dr. Simmons of Frankford was a visitor in town today.

Mr. J. K. McCargar sailed yesterday for England.

50 Years Ago

MARCH 23, 1885.

Mr. W. F. Weese, an old and highly respected citizen of Ameliasburg, died at his residence, four miles west of Rednersville, on March 22nd., after a prolonged illness.

The following military appointment has been recently gazetted: 15th. Battalion Argyle Light Infantry. To be 2nd. Lieutenant, Provisionally: Color-Sergeant Reuben Stedwin Sills, vice William Charles Lawrence, left limits.

A set of hands has been placed on the western face of the city clock.

The new Methodist Church at Collins' appointment in West Huntingdon was recently dedicated. The church with sheds and furnishings cost about $3,200.00. Mr. W. H. Garrison of Plainfield was the contractor and builder.

A Scott Act meeting for Coleman ward was held last evening in the University Church near Albert College. Speeches were delivered by Dr. Coleman, Rev. Mr. Curts and Mr. Hugh Walker. All but two or three persons present acknowledged by a standing vote that they favored the Act.

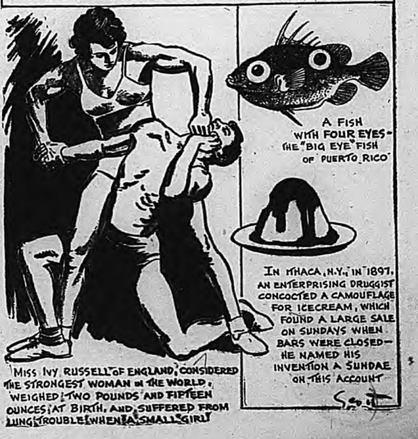
Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

Especially during wet or cold weather, children, who take their lunch to school, should be sure to have a hot meal in the evening. On the other hand, such an evening meal should not be too heavy nor should the child be sent to bed immediately after eating. At least one hour should elapse between supper and bedtime.

A Thought for Today

"Therefore when thou doest thine alms, do not sound a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward."
—St. Matthew, 6:2.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK - - By R. J. Scott



MISS IVY RUSSELL OF ENGLAND, CONSIDERED THE STRONGEST WOMAN IN THE WORLD, WEIGHED TWO POUNDS AND FIFTEEN OUNCES AT BIRTH, AND SUFFERED FROM LUNG TROUBLE WHEN A SMALL GIRL
A FISH WITH FOUR EYES - THE "BIG EYE" FISH OF PUERTO RICO
IN ITHACA, N.Y., IN 1897, AN ENTERPRISING DRUGGIST CONCOCTED A CAMOUFLAGE FOR ICECREAM, WHICH FOUND A LARGE SALE ON SUNDAYS WHEN BARS WERE CLOSED—HE NAMED HIS INVENTION A SUNDAE ON THIS ACCOUNT
Scott

TAX ON GOLD ABOLISHED BY RHODES BUDGET

Investment and Higher Incomes Surtaxed: Liquor Excise Tax Cut

Excise on Spirits Cut From $7 to $4 Gallon; Blow Aimed at Smuggling

Department Looks For Larger Revenue as Result

76 TARIFF CHANGES

Majority of Revisions Are Downward in Tendency

Ottawa, March 23—(CP)—Reaching deeply into the pockets of the rich and leaving others comparatively unscathed, Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes Friday presented his fourth and last budget before the general election.

A surtax ranging from two to 10 per cent was announced on investment incomes in excess of $5,000 and on all incomes in excess of $14,000.

The gold tax initiated last year against the increased value of gold production above the statutory price of $20.65 an ounce, will be discontinued after May 31, 1935, which ends the original period for which it was applied.

To offset the loss of revenue the 50 per cent depletion allowance enjoyed by previous metal mines on income tax assessments is reduced to 33 1-3 per cent and the allowance on the same basis to mine shareholders is reduced to 20 per cent.

Downward Revision

Of 76 changes in the customs tariff 48 were downward revisions, four upward and 24 inserted merely to clarify the meaning. There were minor changes in the sales and excise taxes but a notable reduction in the excise duties on spirituous liquors, now $7 per gallon to be reduced to $4.

Income tax amendments are designed to bring an increase of $12,000,000 in revenues from that source and total revenues for the fiscal year 1935-36 were estimated at $392,100,000 an increase over 1934-35 of $66,050.

Ordinary expenditures for the next fiscal year were estimated at $370,600,000 which would bring a surplus on ordinary account of $21,500,000.

This surplus would be applied to offset the deficit created by extraordinary expenditures which, with capital expenditures, unemployment relief, railway deficits and other items amounted to more than $117,000,000 in 1934-35.

Pre-Election Budget

"This is the last budget to be presented before a general election," said Mr. Rhodes, "and while fully aware of the popular reaction to reduction in taxation, the government recognizes its paramount duty is to the state and its well-being. Reduction in taxation can only be justified when it is associated with a fully-balanced budget accompanied by a reduction however gradual, in the national debt."

Other changes in the income tax include an increase in the corporation tax from 12 1-2 to 13 1-2 per cent, and when consolidated returns are allowed the rate of tax is to be 15 per cent as compared with the present 13 1-2 per cent.

The gift tax will not apply to gifts as between husband and wife nor to minors, nor charitable and similar gifts, these being already provided for under the Income Tax Act.

Sales Tax Exemptions

Only changes in the six per cent sales tax are additions to the exempt list of casein, grain separators, pit-props and packwood used exclusively in mines, and advertising samples, while articles produced in deaf-mute institutions will be taxed at half rate.

The excise tax remains unaltered except that a new tax of 20 per cent will be levied on cigarette lighters and the tax is removed entirely from goods entering under the British preferential tariff. Last year the excise tax on these goods was reduced from three per cent to 1½.

In addition to the lowered excise duty on spirits, from $7.00 per gallon to $4.00, offered as a deterrent to illicit handling of liquor and because of low duties in other countries, changes are made in the customs tariff on the same beverages. Customs duties on West Indian rum is reduced from $8 to $5 per proof gallon, British preference, and provision is made to exclude United Kingdom excise duties from the value-for-duty of spirits imported under the preference treaty.

Summary of Amendments

The following is a summary of the amendments to the customs tariff.

Provision is made for intra-empire extension by order-in-council of the most favored tariff treatment accorded to any foreign country paving the way for the removal of existing anomalies and materially widening the scope and benefits of the preferential principle.

The following commodities are added to the free list under the British preferential tariff. Fire brick, chequered steel plates, piston ring castings, diesel and semi diesel engines, internal combustion engines of low horse power rating, boxend machines, chassis for motor cars for use on railways, chassis for electric trolley buses, mining locomotives, aircraft, press matrices, unbound and paper-bound books, wooden doors, brass band instruments, chloride of lime, melton cloth and slipper cloth, artists' colors, toy construction sets, and advertising matter descriptive of empire products.

Preference Duty Reduced

The British preferential duty on spirituous liquors, including West Indies rum, is reduced from $8 to $5 per proof gallon; and provision is made to exclude United Kingdom excise duties from the value-for-duty of spirits imported into Canada. Other goods reduced in rate under the British preferential tariff include: certain woollen and worsted cloths; carpets of various grades; extracts and essences; cigarette papers (gummed, ungummed and in books or tubes); cut, pressed and moulded glass products; fire engines; pressed steel wheels and toys of pressed steel; linen firehose and leather belting.

Lowest Rates on Free Entry

Commodities to enjoy lower rates or free entry under all tariffs; infrared films, paper caps for garden use, titanium compounds, fence wire of certain gauges, chock releases for mines, paper-backed burlap, mats and matting of cocoa fibre, diabetic breads, certain parts for motor trucks, thorium hydroxide and various articles used in religious ceremonies.

So-called "zipper" fasteners are increased in rate under all tariffs: and adhesives in flake form, dressed rabbit skins, and toiletware of sterling silver are increased under the intermediate and general tariffs.

The preference on Australian raisins is extended to March 31, 1935. Preference on Palestine oranges is extended to cover same when shipped via British countries. Enabling legislation provides "deferred" duties on potato dextrines. Drawback of duties on coal imported for coking to be restricted to apply only when coke is sold for use as fuel.

Revenues Estimated

After giving effect to the changes which have been enumerated, it is estimated that the revenues for the year will aggregate $392,100,000 from the following sources:

Taxation revenue:
Customs duties	$88,000,000
Excise duties	48,560,000
Income Tax	76,000,000
Sales tax	82,500,000
Manufacturers', stamp, Importation and other special taxes	41,200,000
	$336,200,000
Non-tax revenue:
Post office	32,000,000
Interest on investments	11,300,000
Other sources	12,400,000
	$55,300,000
Total	$392,100,000

TAX INCREASED UPON LIGHTERS

Old-Fashioned Matches Have Been Bearing Burden For Years

Ottawa, March 23.—(CP)—Some cigarette lighters light and some do not but all will pay a tax under the 1935 Rhodes Budget introduced in the House of Commons Friday.

Old-fashioned matches have been taxed for years and, noting a popular tendency to forsake them for the new fangled gadgets that spark, flame and splutter the Government hastens to correct matters. It will now be just as hard to evade paying taxes on your lights as on your income.

"It is proposed," said Mr. Rhodes, "to prevent the falling off in revenue now obtained from the tax on matches to impose a tax of 20 per cent., on cigarette lighters." If the lighters are combined with pencils, cigarette or other cases the tax on the combined article will be 10 per cent.

Incidentally the budget describes lighters as "devices commonly or commercially known as lighters which produce sparks, flame or heat."

LIQUOR DUTY CUT HITS SMUGGLER AND BOOTLEGGER

Revenues From Spirits Dropped 29 Millions in Four Years

ILLEGAL IMPORTS

Ottawa, March 23 (CP)—Aiming a direct blow at the liquor smuggler and bootlegger, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, announced a drastic reduction in the excise duties of spirituous liquors in his budget speech.

The duty is cut from $7 to $4 a gallon. Corresponding reductions are made in the customs duties on imported spirits and the effect of the changes will be lower prices for all hard liquors in Canada.

The step is taken, Mr. Rhodes said to "raise revenues" and "to "eliminate illicit sales which would otherwise continue as a menace to our revenues." The reduction brings Canadian imports on spirits into line with taxes in the United States.

Revenues from spirits dropped from $41,000,000 in 1930 to $12,250,000 in 1934, he said, and many provinces complained of difficulty in maintaining revenues from their liquor control systems.

Smuggling, Bootlegging

Illegal imports and illegal sales were held responsible for the declines.

While the menace of a flood of cheap liquor from the United States supplied by smugglers is great now, it is understood it would become greater as the years go on were duties not reduced. As American liquor stocks increase and reach a degree of maturity which would tickle the palate of the more fastidious Canadian drinker the popularity of smuggled liquor would increase.

A year or two ago the excise duties on cigarettes were reduced for the same reason. Smuggling of cigarettes became so prevalent as to cut down the sale of Canadian cigarettes with a consequent reduction in revenues.

A provision is made to ensure that full benefit of the reduction being passed on to the consumer. Unless Provincial Liquor Control Boards reduce their prices accordingly the duties will revert to the old rate

The resolution provides "if it is made to appear to the Governor-in-Council that in any Province the prices of spirituous or malt liquors to the consumer have not been reduced to, or are not being maintained at, levels which will give the consumer the full benefit of any such reduction, the Governor-in-Council may order that such reduction shall be no longer in effect."

TAXATION ON GIFT IS ANNOUNCED

Planned to Act as a Deterrent on Transfers

Ottawa, March 23.—(CP)— Levy of a tax on gifts running from two to 10 per cent. under the Income Tax Act was announced in the Budget speech delivered in the House of Commons.

Gifts between husband and wife, or gifts to minors now provided for under the Act and gifts for charitable and similar purposes are exempted.

Adopted by many countries, it is designed primarily to operate as a deterrent to transfers of property by gift, chiefly within family groups, which would have the effect of reducing personal income to lower brackets and thus securing income tax assessment at lower rates than would otherwise be applicable.

"It is particularly expedient," Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes told the commons, "to introduce this measure at this time in view of the higher rates of taxation provided for in the new surtax on investment income. Not only should this tax put our income tax structure on a more secure foundation but also it should operate in a like manner with regard to succession and inheritance taxes levied by the provinces."

Tax Rates announced are:

Up to and including $25,000 two per cent; exceeding $25,000 but not exceeding $50,000 three per cent; exceeding $50,000 but not exceeding $100,000, four per cent; exceeding $100,000 but not exceeding $200,000, five per cent; exceeding $200,000 but not exceeding $300,000, six per cent; exceeding $300,000 but not exceeding $400,000, seven per cent; exceeding $400,000 but not exceeding $500,000, eight per cent; exceeding $500,000 but not exceeding $1,000,000, nine per cent, exceeding $1,000,000, 10 per cent.

Large Incomes Will Bear Two to Ten P.C. Impost; Gifts Subject to Tax

British Preference is Extended to Considerable Degree

GOLD TAX PASSES

Budget Calls For Substantial Increase of Revenue

Ottawa, March 23—(CP)—Dealing with the ways and means section of his budget address, delivered in the House of Commons late Friday, Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes spoke in part, as follows.

"There remain to be considered proposals affecting our revenue position for the coming year. The gain of 12 per cent in the yield from taxation in the current year, after absorbing losses from downward revisions effected in the last budget, gives ground for satisfaction. The upward trend is continuing and I believe we are justified in anticipating with confidence further substantial additions to our income based upon the existing rates of taxation.

Necessary Expenditures

"It must not be overlooked, however that some new expenditures will have to be met, including grants to the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia, reinstatement of a portion of salary deductions and expenses incidental to the operation of several of the important measures being dealt with by parliament at this session. Furthermore although employment is increasing and railway earnings are higher, there will still be a heavy drain on our resources for unemployment and farm relief and payment of railway deficit.

"Under these circumstances and with the expectation that improved conditions will render the burden somewhat less onerous than in the past few years, it seems to be the part of wisdom to budget for a further substantial increase of revenue, retaining, except for some adjustments that are not expected to alter the yield materially, the present scale of excise duties and taxes and securing some additional amounts from the income tax.

Income Tax Change

"In an address delivered a few weeks ago the Prime Minister made certain references to the necessity of changes in our income tax structure. It was pointed out at that time that incomes may be regarded generally as falling into categories, which may be described broadly as earned income and investment income, and that this distinction which is recognized in the tax systems of other countries might fairly be held in mind when the question of distributing the burden incidental to providing increased social security was being considered.

Surtax on Investment Income

"With this principle in mind an important amendment to the Income Tax Act is being made in order to provide additional revenue, it is proposed to levy a surtax on investment income. By investment income is meant interests, dividends, royalties, and like returns. This tax will not apply to wages and salaries up to $14,000. All income in excess of $14,000, for the purposes of this tax is to be regarded as investment income. A specific exemption of $5,000 is provided. That is to say, income up to $5,000 will not be subject to surtax even though all such income be investment income. Furthermore, if the ordinary personal exemption and the allowance for dependents exceed $5,000 exemption to the higher amount will be allowed.

"The rates of surtax are to apply to investment income range from 2 per cent on such income in the lowest category to 10 per cent on all income in excess of $200,000.

Further Income Tax Charges

"Further changes in Income War Tax Act are to be made as a result of new arrangements regarding the tax on the premium value of gold. You will remember that the Prime Minister, when discussing this tax last year, emphasized its temporary nature and also that specific provision was made in the act for its termination.

"It was recognized that increasing costs due to a rising price level must inevitably wipe out the extraordinary gains which were the basis of this tax. Consequently, the tax was levied only for a definite period which expires May 31, 1935. It has been decided to adhere to the original intention and the tax therefore lapses on that date.

Says Industrial Standards Act Will Faciliate Labor Pacts

Penalties Provided For Infractions After Pacts Are Made

Toronto, March 23 (CP)— Attorney-General A. W. Roebuck introduced his Industrial Standards Act in the Ontario Legislature Friday. It is a labor measure and has had great consideration during the last six months, said Mr. Roebuck. Purpose of this bill is to facilitate collective agreements between employers and employes and give them extension throughout industry.

It is designed to correct the abuses of industry about which we have heard so much in the last few years, he said

Conferences and Agreements

Under the terms of the proposed legislation is is provided, the Minister of Labor may call conferences of employers and employes in designated industries and zones for the purpose of negotiating agreements as to wages and hours of labor. Once schedules are agreed upon and approved by the Minister of Labor they may be declared to be in force by Order-in-Council and "hereupon shall be binding upon every employee and employer in such industry and such zone to which the schedule applies."

In every zone where a schedule is arranged it is provided a board of five members may be established by employers and employes to hear complaints and the Ontario Minimum Wage Board is to be given the authority to enforce the legislation and its regulations.

Penalties For Infraction

Penalty for failure of an employer to live up to wages and working hour schedules will be a fine or not less than $25 and not more than $100 and in default of payment, imprisonment for not more than three months.

Similar penalties are provided for employes who agree to work for less wages or more hours than are named in the schedules.

The provisions of the proposed Act may extend to any business, calling, trade undertaking and work of any nature but not to any persons employed by the government of Ontario.

35 to 50 Cent Drop per Bottle

Toronto, March 23 (CP)— Reduction of tax on domestic spirits from $7 to $4 a gallon will mean an average reduction of 35 to 50 cents a bottle in the price of these liquors at Ontario Government Stores, Commissioner E. G. Odette said.

The reduction cannot be made immediately, said the Commissioner, because of stocks now on hand, but he considered it likely the change would be made in about a month.

Plan of Debt Refunding May Cover Municipalities As Well as Governments

Ottawa, March 22—(CP)—Plans for a general refunding of all debts of public bodies, provinces and municipalities, have been studied by the Federal Government and will continue to receive attention, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, said in his budget speech in the House of Commons today. He discussed possibility of establishing a National Loan Council on the Australian model and the difficulties in the way. Neither the House nor the Canadian people would consider repudiation.

"In the budget last year, I discussed some of the difficulties involved, including the technical difficulties resulting from the form in which most of our financing was done in the war and post-war years and the more important difficulty arising out of the fact that so large a proportion of our obligations is held by external investors," he said.

FARMER CANADA: Great life, eh, young fellow? Too bad we haven't a hundred thousand more such healthy-minded lads, away from town, learning this he-man Scout stuff!

Revisions in Tariff

Ottawa, March 23 (CP)—Tariff changes in the budget brought down by Minister of Finance E. N. Rhodes, totalled 76, of which 48 were decreases, four increases and 24 clarifications of wording without change in rates.

Spirituous liquors reduced under the British preference from $8 a proof-spirit gallon to $5. Corresponding reductions on Canadian-made liquors excise tax also were contained in the budget.

Certain woolen fabrics reduced under the specific rate of the British preference from 18¾ cents per pound to 17 cents.

Woollen slipper cloth, formerly 27½ per cent., plus 18¾ cents a pound, under the British preference now free.

Melton cloth for making tennis balls formes 27½ per cent. plus 18¾ cents a pound under the British preference, now free.

To encourage use of Canadian potatoes in the manufacture of starch a deferred duty can be imposed by order-in-Council on dextrine

Diabetic breads and biscuits will come in free under the British preference.

Palestine oranges will enter free under the British preference.

Books of a certain type are now free under the British preference, a similar rate applies to France.

British exporters to Canada are allowed to send in advertising matters concerning their goods free of duty. The rate was formerly five cents a pound.

The famous infra-red films for aerial photography will be allowed free entry under the British preference.

The tariff on cigarette papers from the United Kingdom is cut.

Artists' paints, formerly 20 per cent., British preference, now free.

All kinds of glass ware, except flat-glass, refuded under the British preference from 20 per cent. to 15 per cent.

Piling iron, used extensively in harbor works, formerly 25 per cent., now free.

Wire imported for use in the manufacture of barbed wire or fencing wire, formerly 10 per cent. under the British preference, now free.

Chock release apparatus used in coal mines, formerly 15 per cent., British preference, now free.

Fire engines, formerly 22½ per cent., British preference, now 10 per cent.

Diesel and semi-Diesel engines, formerly 15 per cent., British preference, now free.

Chassis for railway motor cars formerly 15 per cent., British preference, now free.

Locomotives and railway motor cars for mining operations, formerly 10 per cent., now free, under the British preference.

Aircraft and parts, exclusive of engines, formerly 10 per cent., British preference, now free.

Zippers increased "across the board" 30 per cent (20 per cent.), 37½ per cent. (27½ per cent.) 40 per cent. (30 per cent). Old rates in brackets.

Brass band instruments, free under the British preference, a cut of 15 per cent.

Impost of six cents each on foreign dress skins to prevent exploitation by distress sales.

The preference on Australian raisins continued until March 31, 1936.

Consolidation of items dealing with all kinds of sterling silver toilet sets, and greatly reduced under the British preference.

TAX ON BULLION IS DISCONTINUED

Change is Effective in May of This Year

Ottawa, March 23—(CP)—After one year's application the special tax on gold bullion is discontinued in the 1935 Rhodes budget launched on Friday. Changes in the income tax regulations respecting depletion allowances to mining companies are expected to yield as much revenue as will be lost through dropping the tax.

During the year is is estimated the gold tax will yield a net return of $3,984,000. It was imposed as a temporary measure for one year only and consequently lapses through not being re-enacted and ends May 31, 1935. Thus the tax will be collected for the first two months of the fiscal year, 1934-35.

Replacing the gold tax will be a reduction in the depletion allowance granted precious metal mines on their corporation income tax from 50 per cent. to 33 1-3 per cent. This provision generally applies to the 1934 taxation period, in other words the calendar year 1934, but in the case of gold mines which have paid the gold tax the reduced exemption will begin only at the start of the 1935 taxation period.

Mining companies will also contribute more to the treasury through an increase in the corporation income tax rate from 12 1-2 to 13 1-2 per cent, and through a reduction in the depletion allowance to shareholders on their dividends from 50 to 20 per cent.

Antacid
STOMACH POWDER
I.D.A.
Effectively and pleasantly corrects stomach distress.
3 oz. tin
Reg. 75c. 49c
At Your I.D.A. Drug Store

RENNIE SEED Annual
FOR—1935
It is Canada's most complete and most beautiful gardening guide. SPECIAL OFFER: Send 10c for trial packet (regularly listed, 25c), of Early Klondyke Orange Flare Cosmos, one of the most discussed and enthusiastically admired novelties of the day, flowering in less than 4 months. Offer includes free copy of the Annual.
Wm. RENNIE SEEDS Limited — TORONTO
Also: Montreal and Vancouver

Personals

Miss Jean Dickens and Miss Bernice Davison will be hostesses at the Badminton Club party this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Guay and daughter Helen, also Mrs. Lasotte of Saskatoon, Sask., have left for their home after visiting with the former's brother, Mr. Frank Guay of Corbyville.

At the Aajmaa Club euchre on Friday evening the drawing for the electric stove was made, the lucky number being 1269.

Friends of Mrs. Arthur Denyer, 109 Dundas Street East, will be sorry to learn that she had the misfortune to trip over a limb while returning from visiting some friends Thursday night, breaking her left arm. The fracture was reduced and Mrs. Denyer is resting very comfortably at her home.

◆

HOLLOWAY STREET W. A.

The ladies of Holloway Street Church W. A. held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday, March 21st. Mrs. Mason acted as chairman in the absence of Mrs. Waddell. The meeting was opened with a devotoinal period. Hymn "O For a Heart To Praise My God" was sung, followed by prayer by Mrs. Mason. Mrs. McMurray read the ninety-first Psalm, then Mrs. (Rev.) Newman gave a reading entitled "The Storms of Life" followed by a duet by Mrs. Denton and Mrs. Cordes. The minutes of the past meeting were read and approved. The business of the afternoon was discussed. The meeting closed with Hymn 71 and the Mizpah Benediction.

◆

TABERNACLE MISSION CIRCLE

On Wednesday evening, March 20, the regular meeting of the Here Am I Mission Circle met at the home of Mrs. C. Bailey. The meeting opened with the Preparation for Service from the World Day of Prayer leaflet. Hymn, "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee" was sung, followed by prayer in unison. The minutes of last meeting were read and approved. Roll call was answered by a Bible verse, 14 being present. The treasurer's report was read and adopted. Business matters were discussed.

The devotional part of the program was taken from the leaflet. Hymn, "Where Cross the Crowded Ways" was sung. Miss Edith Bird gave an interesting paper about St. Patrick. The report of the W.M.S. Convention held in Picton, was given by Miss Rachel Fox and contained much of interest. A piano solo was rendered by Miss Ethel Horton. Chapter III of the Study Book was given by Mrs. C. Bailey and the meeting closed with Hymn "Lead On, O King Eternal."

A contest was put on while lunch was being served and a social half hour was enjoyed by all.

◆

MOUNT PLEASANT W.M.S.

Mrs. C. L. Goodman entertained the ladies of Mount Pleasant W.M.S. to a dinner and quilting Thursday, Feb. 21st. A number of members were present and a nice comforter completed.

A short business session was held at the close of the afternoon. A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Goodman for her hospitality.

The members of the same auxiliary observed the World's Day of Prayer at the home of Miss Ida Collins. There was a good attendance. The general programme sent out by the Inter-Board Committee was used throughout.

The first part of the program was taken by Mrs. Frank Treverton as leader, the subject was "The Law of God" and "The New Commandment". Rev. Mr. Everson gave an instructive address on the origin and purpose of the "World Day of Prayer." Mrs. R. T. Elliott and Mrs. C. L. Goodman, Miss Collins and Mrs. Everson assisted with the programme.

Miss Collins served a bountiful lunch.

Doubled Colored Boy

Three-year-old Wilford Price, son of Mrs. R. W. Price of Los Angeles, is proving a color problem to all who have seen him. His hair is half red and half blond, while one eye is blue, the other brown. On one side of his face his complexion is olive, while the other side is very fair.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Copyright 1935 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

GUEST TOWELS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Will you please enlighten me as to the proper use of guest towels? Are they merely used by the guest, does the hostess place them in the bathroom, or in the guest's bedroom? How many towels are placed at the guest's disposal? Please give me all the necessary information in regard to the correct usage of the guest towel, for, though they are a common thing, there seems to be relatively few people who know their correct usage.

2. Also, for Christmas this year two of my girl friends received cedar chests from their young men friends. I counted that this is improper, particularly as neither of these girls is engaged. Am I correct?

H.

1. I realize that there does seem to be, as you say, an element of mystery, in some people's minds, as to what we mean by "guest towels" and how they are used. Usually when we speak of guest towels we mean the towels that we place for the guests who refresh themselves in the bath-room, wash their hands or their face and hands.

What kind of towels we provide, how many we provide, and where we place them, depends on the convenience and circumstances of our homes. If, in our home, we have only one bath-room, we should, if possible, plan to have an extra towel rack or a shelf or some other place to hold two or three guest towels, for the convenience of guests who use that bath-room. On this rack, or shelf we should always have towels ready for use. When it is really impossible to contribute this space in our one bath-room, the alternative is to have guest towels conveniently near, so that when the guest is about to enter the bath-room, we can hand her or him a towel.

Guest towels may be of varying sizes, according to our preferences and what we consider the convenience of our guests. They may be of the size known as "hand towels", or "face towels", or of the very convenient, comparatively-new size known as "finger-tip towels". This last size, the finger-tip towels, are a godsend to the hostess who hasn't much space to dedicate to guest towels. They are very small towels, usually of sheer linen (handkerchief linen); they may be bought in white or in many lovely shades, to match or to harmonize with the color scheme of the bath-rom; they may be plain or have an edge decoration, sometimes of part flowers; and they are most delightful-looking, I think, when they are monogrammed with the initials of the hostess. Besides finger-tip towels, some hostesses provide even smaller towels embroidered "Lipstick".

Towels provided for the guest who is visiting in our home, who is an over-night guest or a week-end guest, say, are usually not referred to as "guest towels". If the guest room has its own bath-room, this bath-room is equipped with all necessarp towels. If the guest room doesn't have its own bath-room, we place in the guest bed-room a set of towels; bath towels and wash-cloth or face-cloth, and one or two linen towels, of hand size or face size, or both.

2. The so-called "Hope Chest" is not properly given to a girl by a man unless she is engaged to him.

INVITATION DIRECT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me if it is proper for a girl to visit the mother of her boy friend, even though they are not engaged? He has asked me to a dance, but I do not know whether to stay at their home or go to a hotel. I'm afraid that his mother might feel hurt if I go to a hotel.

X. Y. Z.

If the young man's mother has written you inviting you to stay at her home, it is thoroughly correct for you to accept her invitation. The fact that you are not engaged to this young man does not make any difference in your accepting this invitation. But what does make the difference is that you must have an invitation directly from the mother, who is the hostess of the home. An invitation from the young man only is not adequate, and you should not accept this direct invitation.

College Scholarship Project Endorsed by 'Y.P.' Conference

Bay of Quinte Young People Meet at Albert College

A meeting of the executives of the Bay of Quinte Young People's Conference was held last night at the Albert College.

The meeting was presided over by the President of the Conference Mr. Saywell of Oshawa. Representatives were present from Bowmanville, Lindsay, Port Hope, Peterborough as well as Belleville. The executive convened at seven-thirty for dinner in the spacious dining-hall of the Albert College, after which a tour of inspection of the Albert College grounds and buildings was conducted.

The main topic of business was the Albert College Scholarship Project. This has been considered and discussed for some time and has been fostered along by the Rev. Bert Howard, principal of the College. The project was unanimously adopted.

Plans for a meeting of the Conference to be held during the Easter week at the Albert College closed the meeting.

◆

PRINCESS ON WAY HOME

Southhampton, March 23—(AP)—On her first lap to Reno and a divorce from Prince Alexis Mdivani, Princess Barbara Hutton Mdivani sailed for NNew York today. The Woolworith heiress expressed delight her steward was "an old friend" who had looked after her on many ocean trips, when she was a child.

With police guard to chase the curious away, the Princess and her cousin, Jimmy Donahue, boarded the steamer.

RUBBER BRIDGE

Trick Values	Undbld.	Doubled	Redbld.
Clubs or Diamonds, each trick	20	40	80
Hearts or Spades, each trick	30	60	120
No Trump (first trick)	40	80	160
(each succeeding trick)	30	60	120

Premiums for Overtricks

Not Vulnerable			Vulnerable
Undbld.	Dbld.	Redbld.	Undbld.	Dbld.	Redbld.
Trick value	100	200	Trick value	200	400

Premiums for Honors

4 in one hand (at a suit)	100
4 in one hand (at no trump)	150
5 in one hand (at a suit)	150

Vulnerability does not affect points for odd tricks nor points for honors.

Premiums for Game

2 game rubber	700 points
3 game rubber	500 points

Unfinished rubber—Winners of one game score 300 points.

Premiums for Slams Bid and Made

	Not Vulnerable	Vulnerable
Small Slam	500	750
Grand Slam	1000	1500

Premiums for honors, game and slams are the same, whether the contract is undoubled, doubled or redoubled.

Penalties for Undertricks

	Undbld.	Dbld.	Redbld.	Undbld.	Dbld.	Redbld.
1st undertrick	50	100	200	100	200	400
Each additional	50	200	400	100	300	600
			(Cumulative)
Down 1	50	100	200	100	200	400
Down 2	100	300	600	200	500	1000
Down 3	150	500	1000	300	800	1600
Down 4	200	700	1400	400	1100	2200
Down 5	250	900	1800	500	1400	2800
Down 6	300	1100	2200	600	1700	3400
Down 7	350	1300	2600	700	2000	4000

Revoke Penalty

Two tricks for first revoke. One trick for each subsequent revoke by the same side. Only tricks taken after the revoke (including the revoke trick) can be used to pay the penalty.

DUPLICATE AND PARTY BRIDGE

(All scoring, except for the following game premiums and less-than-game premiums, is the same as rubber bridge.)

Less-than-game contract	50
Game contract (declarer's side not vulnerable)	300
Game contract (declarer's side vulnerable)	500

A game is made when one side bids and makes a trick score of 100 points or more in one deal.

C-I-L CANADIAN INDUSTRIES LIMITED

CILUX ENAMELS will be Featured at the DeBoth HOME MAKERS' SCHOOL next week at the CAPITOL THEATRE

. . . a sample can of Cilux Enamel will be included in each gift basket.

. . . a handsome sewing cabinet, finished in Cilux Enamels, will be given away each day. See one of these cabinets on display in our store.

Cilux Enamels are one of the complete line of C-I-L paint products including house paint, flat and gloss wall finishes, floor paints, varnishes and varnish stains, etc., made by Canadian Industries Limited—the makers of DUCO—and identified by the well-known oval trademark—your assurance of quality.

and sold by

WHITE HARDWARE CO.

267 Front Street. Telephone 323

THERE IS A C-I-L PAINT FOR EVERY PURPOSE

C-I-L CANADIAN INDUSTRIES LIMITED

Permanent Wave is Now As Necessary as Food

Ginger Rogers

Her looks require constant and careful attention.

Unless the fairy godmother has bestowed naturally curly locks, the permanent wave is as necessary as food, drink and lodgings. Straight tresses aren't to be found any more. Fancy what our great grandmothers would think if they got a glimpse of the sisters of '35.

When the permanent wave was young, the sizzling of the little tea kettles made the hair excessively dry. Now the sachets are of a different character and have no bad effects upon the shafts.

Rewaving or touching up the ends achieves a better result when the hair is reconditioned for a few weeks before the ordeal of sitting with one's head full of hardware. Use hot oil freely, massage the scalp and be lavish with brilliantine.

MIGHT BE ACCOMPLICE

London, March 23—(AP)—A theory the Brentford Canal "torso victim" was an accomplice of the slayers in Brighton's "Trunk Crime No. 1" was considered today after questioning of a convict in Wandsworth prison.

Scotland Yard saw links connecting three gruesome finds in England — the woman's torso in a trunk at Brighton last summer, finding of a man's severed legs under a railway coach seat in Waterloo station Feb. 25, and the man's torso found in a gunny sack in the Grand Union Canal at Brentford Tuesday.

The canal victim was an accomplice in the Brighton crime and was slain because he had threatened the safety of his associates, according to one theory.

WEATHER

Toronto March 22—(CP)—Light snowfalls have also occurred in Saskatchewan and it has been cold in Manitoba. Pressure is relatively high off the Atlantic coast and over Hudson Bay but low over British Columbia. Temperature is rising throughout the west.

Kenora and Rainy River—Moderate to fresh shifting winds with some light snow; not much change in temperature.

Manitoba — Moderate winds; mostly fair; becoming a little milder.

Saskatchewan and Alberta—Winds shifting to southerly; partly cloudy, becoming milder.

R.J.E. GRAHAM ELECTED PREXY

Directors of Country Club Prepare For Coming Season

A meeting of directors of the Bay of Quinte Country Club, elected at the annual meeting of that organization some time ago, held on Friday afternoon, the officers and committees were elected and everything arranged for the opening of the season some time in May. The season was unofficially opened on Wednesday afternoon last, when Walter Belair and "Bob" Wray played a round at the west end course and except for a little wetness in some spots, the course was in fairly good condition.

Mr. William Little, professional at the club for the last few years was again re-engaged to look after these duties and was also given charge of the catering for the club house. This will ensure the members courteous and efficient service, while Mr. Little will no doubt continue his success on the links and also bring along some new talent. There is every possibility that an increased membership at the club this year will result as many enquiries have been received from those never before interested in the Royal and Ancient game. The directors were enthusiastic as to the possibilities of a successful season and every effort will be put forward to that end by the elected body. On Easter Monday, the opening dance of the season will be held as a get together for the season.

The officers elected are as follows:

President—Col. R. J. E. Graham, Vice-President, E. V. Illsey; Secretary Treasurer—Hubert Jones, Assistant Secretary, D. Cleland; Ladies' Secretary, Miss Anna Hurley; Directors, G. A. C. Weir, R. G. Stafford, Jamieson Bone, H. W. Ackerman, F. H. Deacon, R. H. Martin, R. B. Graham.

Match and Handicap Committee—G. A. C. Weir, chairman and men's captain, R. B. Graham, assistant Captain, Miss Margaret Chant, ladies' captain.

House Committee—Men's section, P. H. Deacon, chairman; ladies' section, Mrs. J. M. McCreary.

Finance Committee—G. A. C. Weir, chairman.

Membership Committee—R. G. Stafford, chairman; F H. Deacon, R. H. Martin, H. W. Ackerman.

Games Committee—R. J. E. Graham, chairman.

Entertainment Committee—R. H. Martin, chairman; R. B. Graham, P. H. Deacon.

◆

YOUNG CONSERVATIVE WOMEN ORGANIZE

Miss Olive Nightingale Is Elected President of New Group

Young Conservative women of the city attended in large numbers the organization meeting last evening to elect a ladies' executive in connection with the Young Canada Conservative Club. The large and enthusiastic gathering heard with interest the addresses of the evening and elected the following executive:

President—Miss Olive Nightingale.
Secretary—Mrs. Wm. Vantassel.
Treasurer—Miss Alice Tompkins.

R. D. Arnott, President of the Young Canada Conservative Club acted as chairman for the meeting, extending a welcome on behalf of the organization he represented and promised the co-operation of the Young Canada Conservative Club. The ladies' executive and organization would have a free and independent hand in the work of their organization and in any program they wished to arrange. Mr. Arnott wished the new organization success in their undertakings and said that all were appreciative of the fact that the young ladies of the city and their organization would have considerable influence in the result of the forthcoming Federal election.

Mrs. J. W. Kinnear gave a very interesting address on the history of the Conservative party in Canadian politics and its record is one to be proud of. Mrs. Kinnear referred to the fact that women had obtained the franchise from the Conservative party. A vote of thanks to Mrs. Kinnear was moved by Mrs. Arthur Hill, seconded by Mrs. William Vantassel.

The President of the Women's Conservative Club, Mrs. F. B. Brodribb, gave a short talk promising the co-operation of the senior body and giving many helpful suggestions as to the preliminary organization of the club.

A discussion of general business followed and the executive decided to organize the wards of the city and to call a ward meeting for Samson, Ketcheson and Baldwin wards after which the dates would be arranged for the meeting of the remaining wards.

MISSIONARY RETURNS

REV. DR. S. S. OSTERHOUT who many years ago left this district for British Columbia Missions and who has been superintendent of Missions in that province for years, will be honored on Monday evening at Bridge Street United Church by the Young People's Union of Belleville District.

LET YOUR FACE AND HANDS Mirror the Beauty of Spring

Call 719M Today for A Facial and Manicure

FACIALS - - - single $1.00
OR SET OF SIX FOR $5.00
MANICURES - - - each 35c

MISS POLLY ELVINS

283½ Front Street Phone 719m

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

She "Ditched" Him and He Stayed "Ditched"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We had three or four scraps, and I finally "ditched" him, but I guess it was a good deal harder for me than it was on him, because I heard of him being out almost every night with other girls. At last I decided to pocket my pride and make up with him, so I wrote him a nice little note and asked him to call. He paid no attention to this. Then I met him and said: "Bob, I'd be glad to have you come 'round again' He said: "Thanks, but you have ditched me once, and I'm going to stay ditched."

I felt just as if he had slapped me.

Bonny B.

It's a woman's privilege to change her mind, and you took advantage of that old saw. That the young man should have answered as he did, proves conclusively that he's still interested. The pique he displayed shows that. If he had been indifferent, he would not have shown the ditching hurt him.

DON'T LEAVE HOME

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My mother seems to have me on her mind every second. I suppose it's because I'm an only child, and she hates modern ways. I can't go to other girls' houses, nor have young people come to ours, unless there's a dreadful ballyhoo about it. Then mother sits around and talks to my friends, and they have such a rotten time they never come back again.

If I turn on the radio, she rushes in to find out if I'm listening to something I should not hear. It's the same with movies. I can't stand this any longer, and I intend to advertise for a job as a mother's helper somewhere. Don't you think I'm right to leave such a home as this?

Barbara

Please don't think of leaving home, no matter how anxious your mother is about your welfare. I know this must be very trying and how sorely tempted you probably are to try something else. This is a bad time for girls to leave home, and I take it you have no definite way of earning money.

To be a mother's helper you have to have inexhaustible amounts of patience, even granting you could get the job. Try and talk the matter out peaceably with your mother, or get someone for whose judgment she has respect to talk for you.

What Does Going "Steady" Mean?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I don't know exactly what he means when he asks me to go "steady". My mother says it means becoming engaged. My girl friend says it just means "preferential" companionship as long as you please and that you may drop an old "steady" and take up a new one, if you want to, and it's not considered dishonorable.

"Steady Company", to my mind, just means that beau or best girl and that's all there is to it. Which is right?

Gladys

A discussion on this subject a few weeks ago brought out that going "steady" did mean different things to different people. Some people consider this the equivalent of an engagement, and others, as your friend has said, "preferential companionship".

◆

HALLOWAY W. M. S.

The regular monthly meeting of the Halloway W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. Embury Hough on Wed. March 20th. A very bountiful dinner was served to 30 visitors and members. The President opened the meeting with hymn 168 and the Lord's Prayer in unison. The 19th Psalm was read responsively, 14 members answering to roll call. Mrs. Lillie Reid gave a reading, Mrs. Kelley and Miss Rose gave a splendid report of the convention held at Picton, Mrs. E. Hough gave a short reading and the meeting was closed with singing hymn 255. Proceeds of dinner $7.0".

HAVE YOUR SPRING COAT CLEANED NOW!

MODERN CLEANING means your coat will return perfectly textured, the colors restored and style renewed.

Just a few weeks before Easter and you'll need your Spring coat before that.

LET US CALL FOR IT AT ONCE

PHONE 729

MODERN

CLEANERS AND DYERS

192 Front Street Phone 729

Read the Classified Rental Property Listing on this Page

Business Directory

AUTO LOANS

AND REFINANCING
Direct with Owner Car Financing
of All Kinds.
S. J. FISHER & SON
30 Bridge St. East Telephone 166
Representing
Campbell Auto Finance Co. Ltd.
Toronto - Ottawa - London - Windsor

CHIROPRACTOR

E. A. WYATT, Ph.C., SPECIAL EXAMination with the Radioclast reveals all diseases in the early stages. Foot disorders corrected — all diseases treated. Phone 900 or write 288 Coleman St., Belleville.

VERA R. PITCHER, CHIROPRACTOR, and R. R. Pitcher, Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment, Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations and Electrical Treatments. 42½ Bridge St. E., Belleville, Ont., Phone 1274.

DENTIST

DR. ROBT. H. EMPSON
DENTIST
X-Ray
Phone 462 249½ Front St. 17-3m

RADIO SERVICE

JOHN A. DEWAR
RADIO TECHNICIAN
Registered — Graduate
245 John St. Phone 217 sl-tf

SURVEYORS

FRASER AYLESWORTH
Ontario Land Surveyor and Registered Professional Civil Engineer. Land Surveys, Plans and Descriptions, Etc., promptly attended to.
PHONE 6 — P. O. BOX 69
MADOC, ONT.

INSURANCE

Protect yourself against accidents with our Automobile Insurance
SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
Life and Fire Insurance
211 Front St Phone 129

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile, Accident and Plate Glass
278 Front St. Phone 1154-W

STOCKS & BONDS

McGOAR AND CRAWFORD, MEMBERS of Toronto Stock Exchange. Phone 1738. F. H. Wills, branch manager. N5-1y

LEGAL

MALCOLM WRIGHT, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Etc. Office: Campbell St., Belleville.

T. Y. WILLS, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Etc. 15 Campbell St., Belleville. Telephone 74. m4-tf

PORTER, PAYNE AND ARNOTT, BARristers, Solicitors and Notaries Public. Chas. A. Payne, K.C. R. D. Arnott. Offices: 219 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

PONTON AND GRAHAM, BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Commissioners. Office: 28 Bridge St. East. Solicitors, Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages. W. N. Ponton, K.C. R. J. E. Graham. Office: Belleville.

DONNAN AND BUTLER, B. C. Donnan, K.C., E. O. Butler, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public and Commissioners. Offices: Court House Building, Belleville, Ont. Phone 238.

WALLBRIDGE, CAMERON AND CO. (Successors to the late F. S. Wallbridge). Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries. Money to loan. Dominion Bank Building, corner Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ontario.

$15.00

PER MONTH
Comfortable House on West Bridge Street

To-Let

APRIL 1ST.
2 Bed rooms; Living room; Dining Room; Kitchen; Garage; Excellent Garden.
Reliable Tenant Only

Belleville Locators
GEO. N. GORMAN, PROP.
166 Front Street
Phone 99 House Phone 687

BUY NOW! AND MAKE WORK

PHONE 99
Classified Ad. Rates

SOCIAL NOTICES—Births, 50c; Marriages and Engagement Notices, $1.00; Deaths and Funeral Notices, $1.00; In Memoriam, $1.00; Memoriam Poetry, minimum charge, $1.00 for 10 lines, over that 10c per count line; Ladies' Receiving Announcements, minimum charge, 75c.

CLASSIFIED — (For Sale, Wanted, Etc.)—1½c per word each for first TWO insertions, subsequent insertions 1c per word, minimum 20 words.

COMING EVENTS—75c per insertion for 25 words or under, over that amount 3c per word.

PROFESSIONAL, LEGAL AND BUSINESS CARDS (Yearly Contract)—$3.00 per month per inch.

OFFICIAL, MUNICIPAL AND GOVERNMENT NOTICES (including those concerning Legal Sales)—15c per agate line (14 lines to inch) for first insertion; 10c per line for subsequent insertions.

AUCTION SALE—3c per word, heading to count as 12 words minimum 25 words for 75c; consecutive insertions, 3c per word.

An initial or figure counts as one word.

In estimating allow five words to the line.

Telephone your Want Ads when it is more convenient. PHONE 99.

The Ontario Intelligencer will not be responsible for more than one insertion of an incorrect ad. Phone us if it is wrong.

Advertisers may have their replies addressed to Box Number care of the Ontario Intelligencer.

Wanted

Young man to learn the Shoe Business, steady employment.
APPLY IN PERSON
TUESDAY, MARCH 26th.
ADAMS'
THE SHOEMAN

WANTED

MALE HELP WANTED

RELIABLE MAN TO TAKE CARE store route. Distribute and collect. New products. No selling. Earn excellent weekly income. Berland Nut Co., St. Paul, Minn. M23-1t

REFINED WIDOW, LONELY, WISHES to correspond with good living man over 65 with some means. Strictly confidential. Write Box "F" Ontario Intelligencer. M23-3t

WANTED EXPERIENCED SECURITIES salesman with clientele to represent Toronto Brokerage House dealing in Bonds and Listed Securities. First class references are necessary. Write Box "G" Ontario Intelligencer. M23-1t

TWO FURNISHED ROOMS IN PRIVATE home; also board. Write stating particulars to Box "L" Ontario Intelligencer. M23-1t

MALE HELP WANTED

A LESSON FROM THE DEPRESsion—Be a Civil Servant—Postman, Customs Examiner, Clerk, Stenographer, etc. Free booklet "How to get a Government Job." M.C.C. Civil Service School, Toronto (10). j5-ex.-tf

"AN OUTSTANDING CANADIAN WOMen's publication can use the services of several men experienced in magazine subscription sales or with some selling experience which would fit them for our work. Apply stating age, full business experience, and remuneration expected to Box "N" Ontario Intelligencer. M23-1t

FARM WITH STOCK AND IMPLEments to rent or work on shares by experienced farmer. Write stating particulars Box "R" Ontario Intelligencer. M23-2t

A BOY THAT IS ANXIOUS TO GET experience in practical business and who is willing to take small pay while learning. Must be neat appearing and not afraid of work. Apply to Box "A" Ontario Intelligencer in own handwriting stating age, height and salary expected. M22-3t

BY APRIL 20 — TWO UNFURNISHED rooms, rent about $10.00. Preferably East Hill. Write Box "K" Ontario Intelligencer. M22-2t

GOOD GIRL OR MIDDLE AGE WOMAN to help with housework, fair wages. Apply Mrs. Nelson Shaw, R. R. 4, Belleville. M22-2t

SALESMAN WANTED BY LARGE manufacturer, good opportunity for ambitious man. 364 Front street. M22-3t

STUDENTS WITH LABORATORY EXperience. Apply in writing stating full particulars to Box "T" Ontario Intelligencer. M22-3t

POSITION BY MIDDLE AGED LADY as practical nurse companion to elderly lady or gentleman. Phone 2064-W. M21-3t

WORK BY DAY DURING HOUSE cleaning. Phone 1112-W. M20-3t

WANTED BY APRIL 1 — RELIABLE maid for general housework. Three in family. References. Write Box "M" Ontario Intelligencer. M18-6t

FOR SALE

WICKER BABY CARRIAGE IN GOOD condition; also crib and mattress. Apply 10 Cedar street, phone 905. M23-1t

NEW AND USED DELCO LIGHT plants, electric washer, pump, 32-volt radio and a large filing cabinet. Delco Sales, John Steven, Thomasburg, phone 8712. M19 21 23

USED ELECTRIC WASHER, TWENTY dollars, also repossessed washer, will sell for balance owing. 364 Front (open evenings). M22-3t

ONE RUGBY TRUCK, 6 FT., 3 NEW milch cows, baled timothy hay. Will take car in good condition, one good work horse on deal. Apply Roy Harry, R. R. No. 7, Trenton. M22-3t

GAS ENGINE, SIX HORSE-POWER Gilson, good as new, cost two fifty, will sell for eighty. 364 Front. M22-3t

CABIN CRUISER—CAN BE SEEN AT Saunder's Marine Service, Belleville. Apply to Fred Croft, 153 West Moira street, phone 872-M. M21-6t

DIED

WEDDEN—In Belleville General Hospital on Friday, March 22, 1935, Samuel John Wedden in his 74th year.

The funeral took place this Saturday afternoon from his late residence, 106 North Front street, at 3 p.m.

Interment was made in the Belleville Cemetery. M23-1t

TICKELL & BROWNE
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
We Serve for Less
FUNERAL HOME
Corner Church St. and
Victoria Ave. Phone 2295

Thomas C. Thompson
Funeral Director
Funeral Home
38 Everett St. Phone 82
Office
223 Front St. Phone 82

BELLEVILLE BURIAL COMPANY
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
27 Campbell St.
Phone 774-W Day and Night
J. W. IMLAH
Proprietor
Mausoleum Crypts For Sale

SPECIAL SALE

Used Tires, all sizes, $2.00 up
USED TIRE SHOP
391½ Front Street
Opposite Upper Bridge

TO LET

FIVE ROOM HOUSE, THREE PIECE bath, good locality, electricity and gas. Apply 89 Catherine street, phone 1578. M23-1t

SMALL NEW COTTAGE, 83 COLLEGE street, modern conveniences. Immediate possession. Garage, garden. Phone 153r31. M23-1t

FARM TO LET

THE SOUTH HALF OF LOT 8 IN FIFTH concession Tyendinaga. This is a good stock and grain farm. Brick house. Frame barns. Well located for schools, churches, cheese factory, market and highways. Apply to C. J. Carleton, Thomasburg, Ontario, or at law offices of Collins & Cushing, Belleville, Ontario. M13 15-16 19 21 23

SIX ROOM HOUSE, 23 EARL STREET, conveniences, also garage, small garden. Possession April 1. Apply 30 Howard street. M22-3t

186 FOSTER AVENUE — ALL CONveniences except furnace. Possession May first. All newly decorated. Phone 268-W. M22-3t

208 GEORGE STREET — 8 ROOMS, conveniences except furnace, double garage. Possession April 1. Apply W. J. Hall, 278 Front street, phone 1154w. M14-TF

SOUTH HALF BRICK HOUSE 293 Charles street, conveniences, garage. Possession April 1. Apply 38 Sinclair street, phone 113-w. M11-TF

FOR SALE OF TOLET

NEW HOUSE, 217 BLEECKER AVENUE —all conveniences. Possession May 1. Apply O. D. Clapp, 83 E. Moira. M23-3t

PUBLIC AUCTION SALE

Sale of registered Ayrshire cattle, horses, sheep and farm implements, etc. at Kervyn Farm, 2½ miles south of Madoc Village, on Thursday, March 28, at one o'clock. Terms of sale, cash.
HENRY WALLACE, Auctioneer.
M19 21 23 26

AUCTION SALE

Farm implements, grain, horses and Holstein cows, Lot 25, Concession 4, Thurlow. Wm. Badgley. Tuesday, Mar. 26, one o'clock. Terms cash.
Norman Montgomery, Auctioneer,
163 William St., Phone 1170
M21 23

NOTICE

COURT OF REVISION
Concrete Curbing
Alexander Street

A meeting of the Court of Revision will be held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, on Thursday, April 4th, 1935, at four o'clock in the afternoon for the purpose of hearing complaints against the proposed assessment or the accuracy of frontage measurements or any other complaint which the persons interested may require to make and which by law are cognizable by the Court for,

Concrete Curbs on both sides of Alexander Street between
Charles and John Streets

AND TAKE FURTHER NOTICE:

That the special assessment roll for the above work is now open for inspection at the office of the City Clerk and shall remain open until the 4th day of April being a period of more than ten days prior to the sittings of the said Court of Revision.

Any person or persons interested in any of the aforesaid assessment are at liberty to inspect the same.

Dated at Belleville this 23rd day of March A. D. 1935.

J. WILFRED HOLMES,
City Clerk.
M23 30

PERSONAL

PRIVATE HOME KINDERGARTENS pay. We start you. The Canadian Kindergarten Institute, Toronto (10).

THE ADS ARE Part of THE NEWS

DOYLE'S
DRUG STORE
OPEN SUNDAY

MEETING
ZION CHEESE CO.

will be held at the factory
WED., MARCH 27, 1935,
at 1.30
for letting of milk routes and general business
LORNE BROUGH, Pres.

REMINDERS

Short and Snappy Business Messages of Interest to All Readers

Farmers! Attention!
Spring will soon be here, get your harness repaired and oiled.
New Harness and Parts at Reasonable Prices.
T. G. WELLS
13 Campbell St. Phone 1317J

A Reliable Firm Are We For Watch, Clock and Jewelry Repairing
Moderate Prices
Guaranteed Work
A. E. Wonnacott
292 FRONT STREET
, Next to Loblaw's
Phone 1539

F. LaPalm
Local and Long Distance Hauling
Closed Furniture Vans
Open Trucks
All Goods Insured During Transit
Office—153 Pinnacle Street
Phone 1066
House Phone 1903

NOTICE TO CREDITORS AND OTHERS

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF ALBERT HAMANN, late of the Township of Thurlow in the County of Hastings, Retired Farmer, deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN pursuant to the Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1927, Chapter 150, Section 51, that all creditors and others having claims against the estate of Albert Hamann, late of the Township of Thurlow in the County of Hastings, who died on or about the 22nd day of February, 1935, are requested to forward their claims, duly proven, to the undersigned on or before the 15th day of April, 1935.

AND NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that after the said date the administratrix will proceed to distribute the estate, among the parties entitled thereto having regard only to such claims of which she shall then have notice.

DATED at Belleville this 15th day of March, 1935.

Wallbridge, Cameron & Company,
Barristers, &c.,
Belleville, Ontario.
Solicitors for the Administratrix.
M16 23 30

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

NOTICE is hereby given that all persons having claims against the estate of Andrew Kerr, late of Kingston, Ontario, formerly of Belleville, Ontario, who died on or about 6th day of October, 1934, are required to forward their claims, duly proven, to the undersigned on or before the 25th day of March, 1935.

AND NOTICE is further given that after said date, the undersigned Executor will proceed to distribute the estate amongst those entitled thereto, having regard only to such claims as he shall then have notice of.

DATED at Belleville, this 13th day of March, 1935.

William Kirkwood Kerr,
Executor of last Will of said
Andrew Kerr,
286 Bleecker Street,
Belleville, Ont.
By ALEXANDER MacGREGOR,
614 Confederation Life Bldg., Toronto, his Solicitor. M16-1t

HOCKEY SCORES

Intermediate O. H. A.
Whitby 12; Clinton 5
Allan Cup Playdowns
Mont. Royals 3; St. Jeromes 1
Royals win round
Canadian American
Boston 7; Quebec 1
American Association
Tulsa 5; Kansas City 1
Central League
St. Paul 2; Minneapolis 1
Northwestern Professional
Vancouver 4; Seattle 2

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL

"BLIND DATE" Sparkling Romance of Real People
Paul Kelly, Ann Sothern, Neil Hamilton in "Blind Date"

Love and its eternal warring, amid wealth or poverty..ecstatic joys and pitiless heartaches..the price of neglect..starkly moving situations that might arise in any life..these are the highlights of the tale that is brilliantly unfolded in "Blind Date," featuring Ann Sothern, Paul Kelly and Neil Hamilton, which opens Monday at the Capitol Theatre.

Spring and love have come to Kitty Taylor, the latter in the person of Bill, a hard-handed, but soft-hearted automobile mechanic. Wedding bells, however, seem remote ,in consequence of a large and slothful family, of which Kitty is the sole support.

In an attempt to remedy the situation, Bill adds a towing service to his activities. Financially it proves profitable, but in devoting too much time to business he stands Kitty up once too often. Incensed, she accepts a blind date.

Bob Hartwell, son of a large department store owner, is the unknown escort. After several meetings he finds himself smitten with Kitty and puts her to work in the store as a model.

Because his father learns of his affair with Kitty, and disapproves Bob is lured to Palm Beach the day following an unsuccessful attempt to bring about her capitulation, Kitty is discharged.

Her search for another job proves unsuccessful and the Taylor family is in desperate circumstances. Hearing of this, Bill, who has been in the doghouse with Kitty, offers Pa Taylor a job as his helper. The result is that the youngsters patch up their quarrel and conditions seem on the upgrade.

Then, through Pa Taylor's carelessness, Bill is gravely injured when a car he is repairing falls from a hoist and crushes him. Thus, the Taylor income is again stopped.

Desperate because of her inability to find a job, Kitty enters a dance Marathon. For days she forces herself to continue in the gruelling contest. Just as she and her partner are on the verge of winning they succumb to exhaustion.

The return of Bob, Bill's recovery, and a fairly happy conclusion admirably finish the story.

Ann Sothern's performance is deserving of a tremendous round of applause in her portrayal of the lovely, fiery Kitty. It was apparent that her meteoric rise to stardom was fully warranted.

Kelly is great, positively swell as Bill, and here, incidentally, is a come-back that can only be described as tremendous.

Handsome, debonair and more than able is Neil Hamilton as Bob, the wealthy playboy. Naturalness is one of Neil's most precious characteristics.

Added Featurettes

Ben Blue in a screamingly funny comedy "Out of Order"; Will Osborne in a clever and tuneful Melody Master, and a Krazy Kat Kartoon, "Busy Bees", complete an exceptionally fine programme.

Complete shows 2.30; 7.15; 9.10. Du Barry dinner plates Monday and Tuesday.

Last Times Tonight

"Father Brown, Detective", featuring Walter Connolly and Gertrude Michael and "Sing, Sing Nights", with Conway Tearle and Boots Mallory.

AT THE BELLE

"Ruggles of Red Gap" Comedy Stars make Corking "Ruggles" Film

With Charles Laughton, eminent English actor, in the title role, "Ruggles of Red Gap", Harry Leon Wilson's famous story of society in the backwoods of America during the rollicking 1900's, comes to the Belle Theatre Today, for three days, matinee daily.

Produced by Paramount, the picture features Laughton with an all-star comedy cast, including Mary Boland, Charlie Ruggles, Roland Young and Zasu Pitts, in the ludicrous tale of the perfect butler, won in a poker game and brought back to Red Gap, U. S. A. to create a furore in the provinces.

The film opens in London where "Ruggles" changes masters as the result of an all-night poker session. On his first day with his new-and-democratic master, "Ruggles" starts out to show him the picture galleries and winds up on a drunken spree.

Brought to the United States, he is introduced to Red Gap society as Colonel Ruggles of the English Army. The butler becomes so confused with the democratic spirit himself that he loses his old feeling of servility and starts out on a career of his own.

The comic effects on Red Gap society when Ruggles begins courting the town's leading widow and setting himself up in business as a restauranteur are brought to a happy conclusion when he achieves both ambitions.

Laughton, round, jovial and plump, renders an inspired performance in the comic role of this favorite of all butlers, and the balance of the cast match him laugh for laugh in the incredibly comic sequences. Maude Eburns and Leota Lorraine, a newcomer, prove agreeable surprises in minor characterizations. Credit for a fine job of direction goes to Leo McCarey, dean of Hollywood comedy directors.

"Honkey Donkey", is the title of an uproarious "Our Gang" comedy to be presented on the same program with the Belle Latest World News events.

"After Office Hours"

Clark Gable and Constance Bennett are co-starred for the first time in "After Office Hours", the New Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production which opens at the Belle next Wednesday, for three days, matinee daily. Both ranking stars and both equally adept at dramatic and light characterizations, the team's initial appearance in being launched with great enthusiasm.

Stuart Erwin, Billie Burke, Harvey Stephens and Katharine Alexander are also featured in the society murder-mystery.

Roland Young, Maude Eburne, Lucien Littlefield, ZaSu Pitts, Charles Laughton who has the title role in "Ruggles of Red Gap" and Mary Boland and Charlie Ruggles at the Belle theatre today.

DUST STORMS SWEEP KANSAS

Here are pictured young ladies on a Kansas City business street, in the afternoon, with handkerchiefs covering their faces to protect them from the dust which deluged Kansas City with clouds of filth, causing paralysis to traffic and millions of dollars property damage when a great dust storm moved soil from the fertile fields of Kansas through a path hundreds of miles in extent in Kansas and Missouri.

WE SPECIALIZE IN BUILDING MATERIAL
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL
UP TO DATE FACTORY AND YARDS
The Houston Co., Limited
BELLEVILLE, ONT.
ESTABLISHED 1886 PHONE 1677

RADIO PROGRAMS

SATURDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ
11.00—Galaxy of Stars—WBEN
11.00—Cincinnati Conservatory of Music—WABC
11.15—Tony Wons, poetry—WJZ
1.15—George Hall's Orch.—WABC
2.00—Metropolitan Opera—Geraldine Farrar—WEAF
3.00—Emery Deutsch's Dance Rhythms—WABC
WABC
5.00—Eddie Duchin's Orch. —WEAF
5.30—Int'l. B'cast from London—WABC
5.30—"Jolly Juniors Club—CFRB
6.30—News, Jim Hunter—CFRB
6.45—Sport Parade—WEAF
7.30—Outdoor Girl Beauty Parade —WABC
7.30—Jamboree, variety show—WEAF
7.30—Book Review—CRCT
7.45—Grace Hayes, songs.
8.00—Roxy Revue—WABC
8.00—Phil Cook's Show Shop. —WJZ
8.00—Sigmund Romberg, composer —WEAF
8.00—Old Time Frolic—CRCT
8.30—Art Jarrett's Orch.—WJZ
8.45—St. Louis Blues—WABC
8.45—Big Moments in Sports—CFRB
9.00—N.H.L. Playoffs—CRCT
9.00—Radio City Party—WJZ
9.00—Songs You Love—WEAF
9.00—Andre Kostelanetz's Orch.—WABC
9.30—Barn Dance—WJZ
9.30—The Gibson Family—WEAF
9.30—Studebaker Champions —WABC
10.00—Minneapolis Symphony —WABC
10.30—California Melodies—WABC
10.30—"Let's Dance"—WEAF
11.00—Kay Kyser's Orch.—WGN
11.00—Glen Gray's Orch.—WABC
11.30—News—CRCT
11.30—Johnny Green's Orch.—WABC
12.15—Ted Weems Orch.—WGN

SUNDAY

9.00—Sunday Morning at Aunt Susan's—WGR
10.30—Mexican Marimba Orch. WEAF
11.00—Children's Hour— WABC
11.30—Maj. Bowes Capitol Family —WEAF; WTAM
12.00—Salt Lake City Tabernacle—WABC
12.30—Radio City Concert—NBC; WJZ; WLW
12.45—Int'l. Broadcast—WABC
1.30—Cleveland Entertains—WABC
1.30—Surprise Party; Mary Small WABC
2.00—"Immortal Dramas" eighty actors—WEAF
2.30—Music Hall of the Air—WABC
2.30—Garden Program—WEAF
2.30—Radio Theatre—WJZ
3.00—Philharmonic Hour—WABC
3.30—Penthouse Serenade—WEAF
4.00—First Rhythm Symphony—WEAF
4.00—Father Coughlin—WJR
4.30—Morton Downey—WJZ
4.30—Harry Reser's Orch.—WEAF
5.00—Open House; Freddy Martin's Orch.—WABC
5.00—Roses and Drums—WJZ.
5.00—Sentinels Serenade, guest artist—WEAF
5.30—The House by the Side of the Road—WEAF
5.30—Frank Crummit and Julia Sanderson — CBS; WABC; WGR
6.00—National Amateur Night—WABC
6.30—Smilin' Ed McConnell—WABC
6.30—Frank Simon's Concert Band —WEAF
7.00—Jack Benny; Don Bestor's Orch.—WJZ
7.00—Alexander Woollcott, Town Crier—WABC
7.30—Joe Penner, comedian, Ozzie Nelson's Orch., Harriet Hilliard—WJZ
7.30—Headliners—Chas. Winninger —WABC
8.00—Eddie Cantor—WABC
8.00—Symphony Concert—WJZ
8.00—Major Bowes' Amateur Hour —WEAF
8.30—Club Romance—WABC
9.00—Manhattan Merry-go-round —CFRB
9.00 — Charlie Previns' Orch.; Countess Olga Albani—WJZ
9.00—Sunday Evening Concert—WABC
9.30—Musical Revue—WEAF
9.30—Walter Winchell—WJZ
10.00—Jane Froman; the Modern Choir—WEAF
10.00—Wayne King—WABC
11.15—Little Jack Little—WABC
11.30—News—CRCT
11.45—Jan Garber—WGN
12.00—Cab Calloway's Orchestra—WABC

MONDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ
11.00—Navy Band—WEAF
11.15—Tony Wons—WJZ
12.30—Farm and Home Hour—WJZ
3.00—Radio Guild—WJZ
4.00—Betty and Bob—WJZ
6.00—U. S. Army Band—WJZ
6.30—News: Jim Hunter—CFRB
6.30—The Shadow—WABC
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.15—Plantation Echoes—WJZ
7.30—Red Davis, comedy sketch—WJZ
7.45—Uncle Ezra—WEAF
8.00—Jan Garber's Supper Club—WJZ
8.00—Syrup Symphonies—CFRB
8.00—Richard Himber, Orchestra—WEAF
8.30—Kate Smith's New Star Revue—WABC
8.30—Carefree Carnival; Rita Lane—WJZ
9.00—Harry Horlick's Gypsies, Robert Simmons, tenor —WEAF.
9.00—Andre Kostelanetz' Orch.—WABC.
9.00—Minstrel Show—WJZ, WLW
9.30—Otto Harbach Musicale—WEAF
9.30—The Big Show—WABC
9.30—Wrigley Dance Orch.—CFRB
9.30—Princess Pat Players—WJZ
10.00—Lullaby Lady—WEAF
10.00—Wayne King's Orchestra —WABC
10.00—Jackie Heller—WJZ
11.00 — Four Aces of Contract Bridge; Glen Gray's Orch.—WABC
11.15—Glen Gray's Orch.—CFRB
11.30—Gus Arnheim's Orch.—WABC
11.30—Kay Kyser's Orch.—WGN
11.45—Herbie Kay's Orch.—WABC

The Ontario Intelligencer

Invites the Ladies of Belleville and District to the

DeBoth Cooking School

- Tuesday, March 26
- Wednesday, March 27
- Thursday, March 28
- Friday, March 29

FOUR AFTERNOONS STARTING AT 1.30 p. m.

Capitol Theatre

Major Prizes Include

Choice of

BEATTY WASHER or IRONER

Donated by Beatty Bros.

A Years' Supply of RINSO

Donated by LEVER BROS.

24 LARGE PACKAGES
24
24
Rinso
The Granulated Soap
LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED, TORONTO, CANADA
Large
Rinso

Pair of M. W. Locke Shoes

DONATED BY NABORHOOD SHOE STORE

Irish Linen Damask Cloth

(2 x 2½ Yards.)

DONATED BY McINTOSH BROS.

Frigidaire Water Cooler

DONATED BY RADIO & REFRIGERATION SHOP

Dinner Set of Dishes

DONATED BY STROUD'S

Frigidaire Set of Dishes

Donated by Frigidaire-Thor Sales and Service

3-lb. Box of Laura Secords

DONATED BY DOLAN THE DRUGGIST

Be Sure

To have your Auto Insurance re-instated before taking out your car this Spring. If you have no insurance, do not take further chances of serious loss. All that is necessary in either case, or in the event of you changing your car, is to telephone us (1364). We will immediately protect you and get full particulars later. This is part of our service.

JAMIESON BONE & CO.
INSURANCE INVESTMENTS

FINANCIAL MARKETS

NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, Mar. 23 (AP) — The stock market received no fresh inspiration to bolster it today and the prices were pulled irregularly lower. Trading was about the average for the Saturday short session. The closing tone was heavy. Transfers aggregated 300,000 shares.

TORONTO MINES (CLOSE)

Toronto, Mar. 23 (CP)—The mining market of Toronto Exchange shot up at the opening today on the stimulant of the cancelled gold bullion tax and came down within an hour like a deflated balloon. About 75 per cent of the day's gains were dropped before the close.

Wading into a flood of selling orders the advance was soon checked.

After touching $18, Hollinger worked back to 17.65 where it was 15 cents up. Teck had a net gain of 19 cents, Wright Hargreaves 25 cents, Bralorne 15 cents, Dome 50 cents, Lake Shore 20 cents and Pioneer 25 cents.

Little Long Lac bulged to 6.15 and closed at 5.75, losing all its gain. McWatters hit 2.02 and closed around 1.80 up only 10 cents net. God's Lake, Central Patricia, Macassa, Pickle Crow, Sylvanite and McKenzie also lost the big end of the advance.

TORONTO STOCKS (CLOSE)

Toronto, Mar. 23 (CP)—As a market stimulant the budget was something of a dud so far as the industrial department of Toronto Exchange was concerned, aside from a considerable flurry in the distillery shares. Reduction of the excise tax brought in a good deal of buying in the three leading liquor stocks and prices budged more than a point but profit-taking trimmed the gains by half.

Walkers Common shot up to 29 and the close at 28¼ showed a net gain of only ⅜. Distillers Seagrams closed at 17 for a gain of ¾ and Industrial Alcohol "A" had a net loss at 9¼ after touching 10. Brewers and Distillers was unchanged at 65.

Nickel's small gain was not retained. Brazilian and C.P.R. closed on the up side and Ford "A" was off about ¼.

The food shares had losses in Loblaw and Fanny Farmer.

Grain Markets

Quotations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co. today at 11.30 a.m.

	High	Low	Last
Wheat—
May	84¾	84½	84½
July	84¼	83⅞	83⅞
Oats—
May	38⅞	38⅜	38½
July	38¾	38¼	38½
Barley—
May	46	45½	45½
July	46⅝	46	46

DEATHS YESTERDAY

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto.—Thomas William McGarry, K.C., 64, Ontario Provincial Treasurer during the Great War years, Member of the Ontario Legislative Assembly for South Renfrew from 1905 to 1919.

South Bend, Ind.—Rev. John Cavanaugh, 64, former President of the University of Notre Dame.

Vienna.—Alexander Moissi, the actor who gained his greatest fame in "Every Man."

Stock Markets

Quotations furnished by Biggar and Crawford, P. H. Wills branch manager. Quotations at 11.20 a.m.

MINES

Ashley 17b
Ajax 90b
Acme 20¾
Breth. Treth. 2¼b
Barry Hollinger 5¾b
Base Metals 54
Bobjo 27
Big Missouri 40b
Bradian 1.75
Bagamac 7½b
Bralorne 9.00
Castle Treth. 60b
Coniaurum 2.15b
Central Pat. 1.53
Coast Copper 1.40b
Dome 39.50b
Dominion Explorer 4b
Eldorado 1.20
Falconbridge 3.75b
God's Lake 1.36
Goldale 15
Granada 36½
Greene Stab. 30b
Hollinger 17.65
Halcrow 3¼b
Home Oil 60
Hudson's Bay 12.00b
Howey 95
Inter. Nickel 23½
Kirkland Lake 52
Kirkland Townsite 24b
Lake Shore 57.40
Little Long Lac 5.90
Malartic 64
Maple Leaf 8
McIntyre 45.25
Mining Corporation 90b
McKenzie 1.23
McWaters 1.83
McVittie 26
Nipissing 2.20
Noranda 34.75
Pioneer 10.35
Parkhill 23b
Premier 1.63b
Reade Auth. 75b
Reno 1.48
St. Anthony 27
Sherritt 45b
Siscoe 3.06
San Antonio 4.35
Stadacona 28
Sudbury Basin 1.31b
Sylvanite 2.46
Teck Hughes 4.26
Ventures 92
Wayside 4¼
Waite Amulet 50b
Wright Hargreaves 9.35b
Pickle Crow 2.75
Paymaster 17½b

TORONTO

Bell Telephone 129.
B. A. Oil 14 3-4B.
Brewing Corp. 3 3-8.
Braz. Trac. 8 7-8.
Can. Bud Brewery 7 3-4.
Can. Cement 6.
Can. Dredge 20B.
Can. Ind. Alcohol 9 1-4.
C.P.R. 9 3-4.
Can. Malting 30 1-4B.
Can. Vinegar 26 3-4B.
Canada Car 6 1-2B.
Cons. Bakeries 13B.
Con. Smelting 131 1-2B.
Dominion Stores 9B.
Dist. Seagrams 16 7-8.
Ford "A" 27 3-4B.
Gypsum 5 1-4B.
Imp. Oil 16B.
Inter. Pet. 29 3-4B.
Imp. Tobacco 12B.
Loblaw 18 1-4B.
Massey Harris 4.
Mont. Power 29 1-2.
McColl Frontenac 13 3-4B.
Power Corp. 7 1-2B.
Steel of Canada 44 1-2B.
Supertest 23B.
Shawinigan 16 3-4B.
Walker's 28 1-4.
Walker's, Pfd. 18.
Walkerville Brewery 3 1-8B.

NEW YORK

American Can. 115 1-2.
American T. and T. 102 7-8.
Amer. For. Power 3 1-4.
Anaconda 9.
Auburn 17 1-2.
Case 49 3-4.
Chrysler 34.
General Motors 28 1-4.
Elec. Auto Lite 21 1-2.
Inter. Telephone 6 7-8.
North American 11 1-2.
Montgomery Ward 24 3-8.
Phillips Pet. 15 5-8.
Radio 4 5-8.
Standard Oil of N.J. 37 7-8.
Standard Brands 14 7-8.
Stewart-Warner 7 1-4.
U.S. Smelters 116.
U.S. Steel 29 1-2.
United Aircraft 11 3-4.
Vanadium 15.
Westinghouse 35 1-2.

UNLISTED MINES

Unlisted mines furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co. today at 11:30 a.m.

Afton 54-57.
Ardeen 4-6
Bousquet 31-33.
Casey 34-36.
El Bonanza 10-12.
Forty Four 10.50-11.50.
Gabrielle 38-43.
Glenora 4½-5½.
Great Bear Lake 41-44.
Johnson Nip 6¼-7¼.
Lafayette 67.
Lamaque 145-155.
Lagoon 12-14.
Brennan 30S.
Big L. L. 15-16
Franklin 37-9
Chib 100-110
Magnet 10-12
Matachewan 13-15
Murwood 25S
Oklend 35-8
Red Lake 30-32½
Rice Lake 4-5
Springer 13S
Smelters 13-16
Sigma 150S
Shawkey 47-50
Sturgeon River 90S
Wells 15S
Wingold 15S
Young Dav 19-22.

Police News

The question of bicycles was the paramount element confronting local police during the past 24 hours. Yesterday afternoon the authorities answered a call to the local Collegiate, where it was ascertained that two students had played "hookey", stolen two bicycles and went "joy riding." While investigating the matter the police also discovered that other students, who left their bicycles parked at the Collegiate, returned to find the tires on the bikes cut and slashed with some sharp instrument. These matters are still in the hands of the police and a thorough investigation into such destructive actions was promised. While patrolling their beats last night the police found an abandoned bicycle and vehicle was taken to the police station. This morning Max Bowen of this city, reported the theft of his bicycle from the corner of Foster Ave. and East Dundas Street. The wheel was parked there last night, but had disappeared early today.

Local police authorities continued their activities relating to check-ups of all infractions of the motor vehicle act. Equipped with the department's brake tester numerous automobiles and trucks were stopped today for the purpose of testing brakes, lights, etc. A general check-up in all lines pertaining to breaches of the Highway Traffic Act was announced by local and traffic officers earlier this week.

No arrests were necessary in the city for major offences during the past 24 hours. Fifteen transients slumbered peacefully in the cell block at the police station last night, all wending their different ways out of the city this morning.

While driving east on Dundas St., at noon today a local motorist struck a dog. Local police authorities were notified and the canine's body removed to the city dog pound, where it was destroyed.

ENGLISH FOOTBALL

London, Mar. 23 (CP)—Results of soccer games played in the Old Country today follow:

English League—Division I.
Arsenal 1, Grimsby Town 1.
Birmingham 3, Derby County 2.
Blackburn R. 1, Preston N. E. 0.
Leeds U. 1, Wolverhampton W. 1.
Liverpool 3, Huddersfield Town 2.
Manchester City-Sunderland, (postponed).
Middlesbrough 3, Tottenham H. 1.
Portsmouth 5, Everton 1.
Sheffield Wednes. 2, Aston Villa 1.
Stoke City 3, Leicester City 0.
W. Bromwich A. 2, Chelsea 2.

English League—Division II.
Blackpool 3, Port Vale 1.
Bradford 3, Southampton 1.
Brentford 2, Oldham A. 1.
Bury 0, Manchester U. 1.
Fulham 2, Bolton W. 1.
Hull City 0, Swansea Town 1.
Newcastle U. 4, Sheffield U. 1.
Norwich City 6, Bradford City 1.
Notts Forest 5, Burnley 0.
Plymouth Argyle 4, Notts Co. 0.
West Ham U. 4, Barnsley 3.

Division III—Northern Section.
Barrow 2, Doncaster Rovers 1.
Carlisle U. 2, Hartlepools U. 2.
Chesterfield 1, Chester 2.
Halifax Town 2, Darlington 1.
Lincoln City 3, Stockport Co. 0.
Mansfield Town 2, Southport 3.
Rotherham U. 4, York City 1.
Rochdale 3, Crewe Alexandra 0.
Tranmere Rovers 2, Gateshead 2.
Walsall 5, New Brighton 1.
Wrexham 2, Accrington Stanley 2.

Div. III Southern Section
Bournemouth 1; Brighton 0
Newport County 0; Southend Unit 4
Clapton Orient 3; Torquay United 1
Coventry City 4; Queen's Park Rangers 1
Exeter City 2; Swindon Town 0
Gillingham 2; Swindon Town 0
Millwall 3; Crystal Palace 2
Newport County0; Southend United 5
Northampton Town 3; Cardiff City 0
Reading 5; Aldershot 4
Watford 2; Lutton Town 2

Scottish League—Div. I
Albion Rover 4; Hamilton Academicals 1
Ayr United 1; Celtic 0
Clyde 1; Aberdeen 1
Dundee 0; St. Mirren 2
Dunfermline 2; Kalkirk 1
Hearts 4; Queen of South 2
Motherwell 3; Airdrieonians 1
Queen's Park-Kilmarnock (unplayed)
St. Johnstone 2; Rangers 0
Patrick Thistle 3; Hiberenians 1

Scottish League—Div. II
Brechin City 0; Morton 3
Dunbarton 4; King's Park 2
East Stirling 3; East Fife 2
Edinburgh City 1; Cowdenbeath 6
Forfar Athletic 1; Alloa 1
Montrose 2; Dundee United 1
Raith Rivers—Third Lanark (unplayed)

Redcaps Station Officials Help Troubled Woman

Toronto, March 23—(CP)—Happy excursionists milled about the Union station but in their midst sat a frail, neat but poorly dressed little woman, tears in her eyes — she had come from North Bay and hoped to reach Grand Rapids, Mich., where her grandmother was dying. She wondered, what step she would take next — her purse was almost empty.

She was noticed by a newspaper man and when approached sobbed out her story. When she first received word of her grandmother's condition, she hurriedly scraped up enough money to reach Toronto.

"I must get there if I have to hitch hike," said the pale little woman. "My grandmother reared me—she was really my foster mother and I must see her again before she dies."

The news soon spread among station officials and redcaps and shortly enough money was raised to put the unhappy woman on the excursion train for Detroit — she was still sad, but a smile of appreciation crept over her face — she was at a loss to express her thanks.

Secure Your Tickets at

The Ontario Intelligencer Office

or

The Capitol Theatre

During the Hours of the Matinee or Evening Performance

To avoid confusion in accommodating those desiring to attend the Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School, only enough tickets will be sold to comfortably fill the Theatre.

Tickets will be on sale beginning Thursday, March 21st, and it will be wise to secure yours early. Mail orders will be received from those out of the city desiring to attend.

Admission 10c Daily—By Tickets Only

Special effort is being made to make this year's school a real attraction. Each afternoon will see a different programme of Menus and Hints on General Housekeeping.

Each Afternoon at 1.30 p.m. Prizes Every Day

HEAD OF SISCOE MINES MISSING

Several Airplanes Sent Out to Search Northern Quebec

Montreal, March 23 — (CP) — Stanley Siscoe, President of Siscoe Extension Gold Mines, is missing in Northern Quebec and several airmen have been sent into the area between here and Amos to search for him.

Four airplanes set out to search for Mr. Siscoe. He is believed forced down somewhere between Ste. Jovite, Que. and Amos, on the Transcontinental Railroad line. Siscoe left here Tuesday in a small cabin plane piloted by Tommy Wrathall, instructor of the Montreal Light Airplane Club and accompanied by a survey engineer.

Stuart Graham, government inspector of civil aviation, took off from St. Hubert Airport to supervise the search for Wrathall, Siscoe and the survey expert, whose name could not be learned. Bob Lymburner of Canadian Airways took off from Fairchild Airport a short time later to aid in the search. Word was received here a Canadian Airways plane had been dispatched from the base at Seneterre to fly south to meet the other planes. Another plane, piloted by Bill Ressigeur, left Fairchild airport for Rouyn but Ressigeur planned to swing over and join the search.

Aviation experts believe Siscoe may have been forced down on the ice of some isolated northern lake and been unable to take off again because of a damaged undercarriage or heavy slush.

◆

H. N. CARR IS NAMED CHAIRMAN

Fish And Game Committee of Legislature is Formed

Toronto, March 23—(CP)—H. N. Carr (Liberal, Northumberland) was chosen chairman of the Fish and Game Committee of the Ontario Legislature at the organization meeting today.

Provincial Secretary H. C. Nixon stressed that fish and game are inducements to tourist traffic, and as roads are extended it becomes more difficult to preserve the wild life.

He suggested members introduce in the legislature from time to time bills containing their ideas instead of the one composite bill near the session's end.

If people are educated to protection of fish and game, the result is better than having a large number of law enforcement officers.

◆

PLAN SCHOOL DRAMA FESTIVAL

Bay of Quinte Secondary Schools to Consider District Contest

Belleville Collegiate, Albert College and renton Collegiate are uniting to attempt a beginning for a Secondary School Drama Festival which, it is hoped, will next year take in all the secondary schools in the Bay of Quinte district. The date was placed too late this year to get more entries though several schools have promised to give the matter their consideration next year when a festival committee will be organized. The Belleville entry is to be Mr. Sampson by Charles Lee. The Albert College entry is The Great Dark by Dan Totheroh and Trenton's entry is The Mysterious Marriage a play translated from the Russian. Murray Bonnycastle will be adjudicator. As this is merely a preliminary canter, he will not place the play, merely offer constructive criticism.

◆

ROSSMORE NEWS OF PAST WEEK

Rossmore, March 23 — Mr. and Mrs. J. Labrash and son, Belleville, spent the week end at the home of Mrs. D. Hazlett.

Mr. Jack Thompson accompanied by his mother and Mrs J. L Gerow and Mr. G. Thompson Sr., and Mr. G. Thompson Jr., motored to Warkworth on Saturday to attend the funeral of their brother Mr. E Thompson.

Mrs. C. Thompson entertained her sister last week for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Alyea spent Sunday at Trenton.

Mr A. C. Alyea has moved to his lake cottage at Consecon.

Mrs. D. Hazlett spent Wednesday in Picton.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. S. Young who have a new son.

Mr. H. Thompson has a new sedan car.

◆

BLUEBIRD ORDERED CRATED

Daytona Beach, March 22 (AP)—With hopes of going 300 miles per hour still unrealized Sir Malcolm Campbell today ordered his 2,500-horse power Bluebird to the railway siding to be crated into a flat car. The Bluebird will go out late today and is slated to be placed aboard the Berenagria for its trip back to England.

Campbell, who boosted his land speed record from 272.108 to 276.815 miles per hour this year.

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee

King Edward VII, the Prince of Wales and Prince Edward

THE reign of King Edward VII. was, for the first few years, a troublesome one. But in the closing years of his life, the skies brightened and Britain flourished.

Difficulty and trouble seemed never to worry the genial King; in contrast to the austerity of Queen Victoria, King Edward was decidedly democratic. The story is told by Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., of how, when the Vanderbilt yacht "The North Star" entertained the King, the children always looked forward to it because King Edward would hold them on his knee and tell them stories.

Our picture to-day was taken late in the year 1909. King Edward was well and healthy. Yet on May 6, 1910, he died suddenly of heart failure and the Prince of Wales became King George V. and the Princess, Queen Mary.

The King is Dead! Long Live the King!

Here we see King Edward, his son the Prince of Wales, and his grandson, Prince Edward. Sailors all, the picture was taken aboard ship.

In the years between 1906 and 1909, much happened to shape the destiny of things to come for Great Britain and the future King George.

In 1907, the Triple Entente of Britain, France and Russia was signed; the following year when the Prince and Princess of Wales visited Canada, Lord Asquith became Prime Minister; Austria annexed Bosnia; the Portuguese monarchy fell.

Germany, meanwhile was becoming a threat to the peace of the world, although that fact was little known, or cared about, until 1914.

Trying as was the reign of Victoria and Edward, it was destined to be even more trying for George.

Our Diminishing Ducks and Geese

By JACK MINER

International readers, please consider these crudely written facts without being offended, as such is not my intention to offend anyone; but I do want all to plainly understand. Now, my national relationship is the same as 85 per cent. of our migratory birds, only they are Canadians by birth and U. S. tourists during the winter; while I am a Buckeye by birth and a Canadian by adoption. Therefore, I am one hundred per cent. North American, with the same love and high esteem of Dover Centre, Ohio, and the American people as my father exposed for his birthplace, Leicester, England, and the English people. Now, as far as the game is concerned, the settled parts of North America have long since gone through the stage of having something for nothing, and if we are going to bring the game back (which we can), we have got to pay for it. The average shooter pays at least twenty-five dollars for a gun and five dollars for ammunation. Surely he should be willing to pay five dollars for something to shoot at, this five dollars to be divided between Federal and State or Province. If he is not willing to pay the five dollars, let him go without a license and he will be five dollars in. Remember, kindness without firmness is a total failure, so that's that. Now we can reclaim all the duck feeding, breeding and resting grounds America ever had, but unless the use of live decoys, baited fields, rented blinds and all such unfair advantages and commercialized methods, is abolished for us ever increasing thousands of shooters with equally as increased advantageous shooting equipment, our ducks and geese have not to go with the sand-hill crane. Yes, it is true our ancestors did put out a salt lick and shot deer from the ambush, but remember that was done to get easy meat near the house. Moreover, a salt lick was only a local advantage, while a baited field for our migratory birds, is a continent-wide advantage. We can no longer blame the wealthy alone for carrying on this unfair advantage; there are men here in our Canada, who scarcely own a controlling interest in their farms; yet, these farms are posted and the owners have a flock of live decoys and a corn stalk slaughter house in their back field. Gentlemen, this practice has got to be stopped.

One of our conservation leaders says, "Public shooting means no shooting at all." Please allow me to kindly take exception to that statement and say that private shooting of our North American migratory birds means no shooting at all for the public.

Now, I want it plainly understood that while I am the general ramrod of a successful migratory bird sanctuary, I am not opposed to a limited amount of shooting, and I never was; but I am absolutely opposed to ten per cent. of us exterminating what rightly and justly belongs to the one hundred per cent. of us. Moreover, I am personally opposed to a closed season, to let them multiply to be slaughtered by the present system. Sportsmen of America, be fair, and before you throw this writing and the writer in the waste basket together, do a little personal investigating and thinking. How many Canada geese are there left east of the Mississippi River, compared to the number of shooters? Take this pointer to start your investigation. Seventy-five per cent. of the geese left east of the Mississippi River winter in Southern Illinois, North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland and Delaware. Another fact well to be remembered: One hundred thousand geese can utter millions of honks, but millions of honks are not millions of geese.

Now, to all our North American people, let me honestly say that since the spring shooting has rightly and justly been abolished, our Canadians do not have an average of over three weeks worthwhile duck shooting at our Northern-bred ducks. These same ducks start concentrating on the shooting grounds of the South by November 1, and stay for nearly four months. Therefore, let me offer this, what I consider a golden rule suggestion: Let all North America be allowed four weeks open season, instead of three and a half months, with the privilege of dividing this four weeks into two two-week periods only, and all open seasons to be closed on or before December 15th. And let the season's total bag limit be six ducks and two geese. Yes, it is a small bag limit, but it is every bird we can afford at present. Please allow me to kindly ask why do we shooters want a longer open season or a larger bag limit on our public international migratory birds than we do on our home, Provincial or State raised upland birds? One pair of greenhead mallards, wood ducks, pintails, baldpates or darting teal migrating back and forth across our lovely North American continent, will bring thrilling sights to millions of our people, whereas only dozens are privileged to see the upland birds that are usually in the back fields hiding on the ground.

Readers, let us all remember that God created the fowls of the air and gave man dominion over them, but he warned us TO LET THE MOTHER GO THAT IT MAY BE WELL WITH US. Sportsmen of America, that promise is just as true and as new as if it were written yesterday. Therefore, let us cultivate a desire to have dominion over ourselves until we can conscientiously stand up for kindness, firmness, justice to all and favor nor fear none, and not only back President Roosevelt Chief Ding Darling and Secretary Wallace in their honorable stand against the magazine guns being allowed over three shots, but let us move an amendment to this long overdue need and request that all guns be limited back to two shots, where they should have stayed fifty years ago.

In closing, let me leave this fact for us all to think over: The fall of one of our migratory birds out of the air from your or my deadly aim, can bring pleasure to one only, while thousands are deprived of seeing it alive. Therefore, let us discourage the taking of all unfair advantages, such as live decoys, baited fields and rented blinds, and substitute flight or pass shooting which gives the average shooter five times the shots for the kills he makes and requires ten times the science, as there is no man living who can judge the speed correctly at all times, and give the proper lead to our great variety of swinging, curving, darking ducks, at various distances.

GET THE PROFITS FROM YOUR SUGAR BUSH

WELDED STEEL SAP PAN

This is the pan for maple syrup making on a small scale. The welding makes it practically a one-piece pan—no solder to melt or leak if allowed to boil dry. Finished around top with heavy angle steel. A pair of handles each side for lifting off fire. Durable, efficient, economical. Many in use, giving great satisfaction. Write for further particulars.

W. GORDON STEEL WORKS Limited
Tweed - - Ont.

◆

THOS. W. McGARRY DIES OF STROKE

Provincial Treasurer in Hearst Regime Passes at 62

Toronto, March 23—Thomas William McGarry, K. C., former provincial treasurer in the Hearst Government and member for South Renfrew in the Legislature from 1905 to 1919, succumbed to a cerebral hemorrhage yesterday, at his home, 54 Chestnut Park Road, in his 63rd year.

Mr. McGarry, since retiring from the political arena, had been closely associated with numerous industrial enterprises. He was president of the Woodstock Rubber Co., Woodstock, Ont., of Reinhardt Brewing Co., Toronto; and a director of the Arcadia Sugar Refining Co., Halifax, N. S. He also had practised law in Toronto for several years, but had to relinquish that and participation in politics, owing to deafness. He died as he would have wished, in harness, as he had been attending to business affairs in his office, almost to the moment he was stricken.

He was born in Drummond Township, Lanark County, August 18, 1871, was educated there; at Almonte Collegiate and Osgoode Hall, Toronto; was called to the Ontario Bar in 1892 and created a King's Counsel in 1905.

◆

PICTON

Mrs. Walter Hyatt who has been ill for the past eight weeks at her home, The Benson House, Lindsay, is making progress towards recovery. She is still under the care of a trained nurse, but this week part of the cast will be removed, and X-rays of the injured vertibre will be taken. Mrs. Hyatt will then be fitted in Toronto, with a support, which it is hoped will only be necessary for a short time, when her doctors expect complete recovery.

Mr. George R. Goodhew who had been ill for the past few weeks at the home of his sister, Mrs. Ben Hodges, Picton, passed away on Monday, March 18th., aged sixty-nine years. The funeral service will be held at Salmon Point church, near which he resided for a number of years, on Thursday, March 21st at 2.30 pm. with interment in Cherry Valley Cemetery.

CENTENARY W. M. S.

A social evening under the auspices of the W.M.S. of Centenary Church was held at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roblin on Monday night. The home was prettily decorated with shamrocks and streamers. About 75 were present to listen to a good program, provided by the boys' orchestra, leader Arthur Calvert violin, and guitars by Rex. Adams and Elwin Hart, banjo by Gorden Garrison. Mrs. J. Clapp gave a reading also Miss Elinor Roblin and little Miss Lois Sutherland gave a recitation. Song by Mrs. Will Calvert and a duet by Mrs. Calvert and son Arthur with guitar accompaniment. Mr. Edgar Adams ably acted as chairman. A fish pond was the main feature of the evening. Mrs. D. Holton put on an advertising contest which was much enjoyed. Abundance of ice cream and cake were served by the young girls at the close of the programme. Proceeds $10.80.

◆

FAREWELL PARTY BY HALLOWAY FRIENDS

A number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hamilton on Saturday evening to spend a social hour with them on the eve of their departure for their new home in Foxboro. During the course of the evening Mr' and Mrs. Hamilton were presented with a beautiful electric floor lamp. Miss Dorothy Read read the following address:

Halloway, Ont. March 16, 1935.
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hamilton:
Dear Tom and Gladys:

We, a few of your friends and neighbors, have gathered to spend a little while with you once more, before you leave our midst.

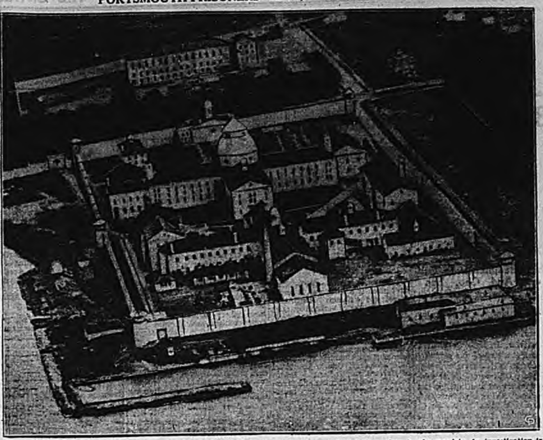
We regret your leaving our community. Having been one among us for so long we are loathe to have you leave a vacant place. Gradually we become a part of our environment, each contributing to the community in our own way. And what can set a value on a good neighbor? Very few walks of life present the possibilities for real friendships that country life does. There may be such a thing as the friendship of prosperity, but surely it cannot be compared with the friendship of adversity. Mutual burdens and needs bring men close together, if for no other reason, this dark time of depression has been worth while, in that men and women are learning the lesson of real values, none greater than that of friendship. It is a good thing to be rich, a good thing to be strong, but it is a better thing to be loved by many friends.

As you leave us to go to your new community we feel sure you will make many worth while friends. No doubt Gladys already knows many there, if so, this change will seem like returning home to her. As an expression of our friendship and esteem for you we ask you to accept this gift. May its light help to brighten many of the dark corners of life for you. We wish you every success, good health and much happiness, along life's way, and, extend a welcome whenever it is your privilege to be with us again.

(An appropriate verse was then read).

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors: Charlie Ross, Charlie Irvine and Arthur Reid.

PORTSMOUTH PRISONERS RIOT, SET FIRE TO SH OP



Unrest which has been smouldering in Portsmouth penitentiary, Kingston, broke loose on Thursday evening when more than 80 prisoners overcame their guards and, in the riot following, set fire to the shoe shop and locked themselves in the tailor shop. Guards were forced to cut their way into the shop with acetylene torches to subdue the convicts. An investigation is being made by the Department of Justice. Above shows Kingston penitentiary from the air.

New-Value DODGE WITH THE AIRGLIDE RIDE

DODGE GIVES YOU
HYDRAULIC BRAKES
ALL STEEL BODY
FLOATING POWER
REDISTRIBUTION OF WEIGHT

Thrill to the beauty of this Great New Value Dodge . . . then look at the delivered price . . . You can afford to own a Dodge.

Drive the New Value Dodge . . . Sit in the comfortable seat and see how effortlessly you operate the clutch, brakes and gears.

You walk in and out of the new Dodge . . . because the doors are wider . . . and the floor is almost level with the running board.

The engine has been moved forward . . . all passengers ride cradled between the axles . . . as in an Airflow car.

Steel corner posts . . . steel walls . . . and even a steel floor . . . No wonder Dodge all-steel bodies are so much safer.

Stop safely . . . stop smoothly . . . in a short straight line. With Dodge time-tested hydraulic brakes the action is always equal on all four wheels.

DELIVERED TO YOU IN BELLEVILLE FOR AS LOW AS $877

PRICED RIGHT DOWN AMONG THE LOWEST PRICED CARS

224 Pinnacle St. RIGGS MOTOR SALES Phone 116

Hockey
Current Sport

IN THE REALM OF SPORTING EVENTS

Basketball
Bowling

Belleville Ball Association Set-Up to Sponsor Pastime; Officers Named for Posts

W. E. Rowsome Will Head Organization as Chairman

PAID SECRETARY

Chas. Meagher, B. A. Fanning And Geo. Lee Prexies of Series

For the purpose of fostering and encouraging baseball in all its different elements, within the City of Belleville, the Belleville Amateur Baseball Association was organized and held its inaugural meeting yesterday. Officers of the Association were elected and installed into office, and the Association commenced functioning immediately.

The officers of the Belleville Amateur Baseball for 1935-36 are:—W. E. Rowesome, chairman; Chas. V. Meagher, president of senior baseball; B. A. Fanning, president of intermediate baseball; Geo. A. Lee, president of junior and minor league baseball; W. J. Mills, Raymond Carr, L. Arthur Young and C. Clapp, directors. The above were elected for a period of not less than two years, the expiration date being November 15, 1936. Should any officer resign from office, however, the citizens of Bellgville will elect a person to fill the vacancy, thereof and at a public meeting. The board last night agreed to appoint a paid secretary-treasurer, the said official to be bonded.

The purpose of the Association is to control and promote Amateur Baseball in all ranks. All franchises now held within the city, either by individuals or otherwise, will be turned over to the Association and any new franchises granted will be granted to the Association.

Through the medium of a general meeting a board of eight Directors will be elected to transact all the business of the Association. The Directors will elect their own Chairman.

The Board of Directors will also elect their own Secretary-Treasurer, who will be placed under bond. The Secretary-Treasurer will be paid a reasonable salary, and is to secure a proper set of books. During the active season the books are to be audited monthly, by a chartered accountant.

The duties of the Board to be as follows:

To hold and control all Belleville Amateur Baseball franchises.

To hold and control all finances, including those of various clubs.

To pass and approve all accounts for payment.

To purchase or authorize the purchase of all equipment.

To hold and control all equipment.

The Chairman will call meetings, at least twice monthly, during the active baseball season.

The President appointed by the Board will appoint his own Vice President and other officers, all being subject to the approval of the B.A.B.A. Board.

Books will open for the inspection of any Director or Directors on meeting nights only.

The Board will control all advertising as well as all other miscellaneous transactions deemed in the interest of the Association.

The Board to select the ticket-takers and assume full responsibility.

ELMER? RIGHT HERE

ELMER DEAN

Answering the question, "Where's Elmer?" here he is, in person, in Hot Springs, Ark. The Elmer in this case is the elder brother of Dizzy and Daffy Dean, and he says he will pitch for the House of David team this year.

Sam Richardson Colored Boy is Coming Athlete

Toronto, March 23—(PP)—There isn't much in a track way, it seems, 16-year-old Sammy Richardson, well-known Toronto schoolboy, can't do better than other schoolboys. His early promise is to develop into one of the best all-round track and field athletes Canada has produced.

Even among such visiting showmen as Glenn Cunningham, Kansas mile sensation; Chuck Hornbostel of Harvard and Indiana; Eulace Peacock, Temple sprinter and jumper and other notables, they couldn't lose the slender colored student of Central Tech at the Maple Leaf Gardens games last night.

Richardson won the open 60-yard dash in 6.6 seconds, the same time the flashy Peacock recorded in winning the classic invitation sprint. But it wasn't quite in the books for the precocious fellow to gallop off with a sprint title in such company. Incidentally he took second to Peacock, also a colored boy, who won the broad jump with a leap of 24 feet, 8 1-2 inches. This was better than the Canadian outdoor record and probably will be accepted as an indoor mark.

Cunningham once again defeated Gene Venzke of Pennsylvania in the mile, running the distance in 4:17.2, five-tenths of a second slower than his time in Hamilton two nights before.

Hornbostel galloped to an easy win over the 880-yard course in 1:57.4 with Elton Brown of Kansas City second and John Wolff of Manhattan College third.

The only indoor record threatened was George Spitz' high jump mark of six feet, 7 3-8 inches, made by the New York University ace here two years ago. Albert Threadgill of Temple University got over six feet seven inches, defeating the veteran Harold Osborne, former Olympic champion, but failed to clear 6: 7-7-8.

SWIM MEET AT ALBERT COLLEGE

Kingston And Peterboro Will Send Entries For Splash Derby

An event which should be of considerable interest to the general public is an inter-city swimming meet to be staged at Albert College Pool Friday March 29th. Both Kingston and Peterboro Y.M.C.A.'s are sending teams which will include both girls and boys. These along with the Albert College team and the local association, which will also have representatives in both girls and boys events, should provide material for one of the best aquatic programmes ever staged in the city.

Of late years Kingston has become the home of some of the outstanding swimmers of the Province as evidenced by their performances in the local Y's Annual Across the Bay Swim. Peterboro since the event of their new sixty foot pool have shown a marked increase in interest in the swimming game and the Northern Club will no doubt come down prepared to give all and sundry plenty of opposition. Although somewhat handicapped by their 35 foot pool, which is much under the standard length, the Belleville Club is rapidly developing in interest and general proficiency as a result of their weekly club programme carried on for the past month or two. The College group although small, contains some outstanding swimmers of experience and when these four clubs get together it will be surprising if some of the college tank records do not become lowered as a result of he combined attack.

The following are the events which go to make up the program on the 29th and for which points will be awarded on a basis of 5 for 1st, 3 for second and one for third place. In addition to the swimming events there will be a period featuring some impromptu diving, which although it does not enter into the competition, will nevertheless be of interest to the spectators.

Senior events—40 yds. free style; 100 yd. free style; 200 yd. free style; 40 yd. back stroke; 100 yd. breast stroke; 100 yd. relay (5 men).

Junior events—20 yd. breast stroke 20 yd. back stroke; 40 yd. free style; 100 yd. relay (5 boys).

Girls events—(Same as junior events.)

Mixed Medley Relay Race—120 yds. 2 girls 20 yds. each; 2 boys 40 yds. each.

Note: Juniors under 15 years of age at time of meet. Girls, no age limit. Contestants allowed to enter only 2 events and a relay.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

One week from tonight sees the close of the most successful badminton season ever enjoyed in Belleville. Starting this evening, at the Armouries, and continuing next week the semi-finals and finals in the men's and ladies' singles, doubles and mixed doubles will all be played. The Belleville Badminton Club has advanced locally to such a degree, that at present the organization boasts of over 100 active members. Undoubtedly there will be a large gallery to take in the laydowns tonight, and all next week, with the finals in each category being staged next Saturday night. Incidently the speed and dexterity at which the players are forced to maintain throughout a championship match is nothing less than marvelous. Badminton play is opened at top speed and continues throughout. Spectators should plan to see these matched play-offs.

At present in the senior or "A" series Bob Martin has assured himself of being in the finals while Ken Chisholm and Harvey Ross will meet tonight to determine the other finalists, the winner meeting Martin. In the "B" series play has only advanced to the semi-final stage and finds Angus McPee drawn against Gardner Duff and Bob Graham clashing with Archie Graham (no relation they say). The winners of these two tournaments will ultimately meet in the club finals. In the feminine group there is a large field in group "B" and the semi-final stage has not, as yet, been reached. In the senior or "A" group, howtver Miss Sylva Ross meets Mrs. Robt. Martin. The names of those still in the running in the doubles, both mixed and otherwise, are too numerous to mention, but all final matches will be completed by next Saturday night, when open house will be held in honor of the new champions.

Promoter Clem Allen dropped in today to inform us that the Stewart-Warner-Alemite A. C. would stage the Eastern Ontario Golden Gloves boxing tournament in Belleville on April 9th under the auspices of the local Kinsmen's Club. The bouts will be held in the Armouries at which time boxers from Peterboro Port Hope, Cobourg, Trenton Airport, Belleville and intermediate points will compete.

Congratulations to Charlie Sands, Boston Bruin right winger born in Fort William, Ont., 25 years ago today. Sands first starred in hockey as an amateur in his home town, as a recruit in National League ranks he scored two goals for Toronto Maple Leafs in playoff games against Boston Bruins at the end of the 1932-33 season. He was sold to the Bruins after the 1933-34 season.

Who was it once said "an ounce of wisdom is worth a pound of wit"—out in Peterboro our worthy contemporary is bewailing the fact, that no vote was taken on the resolution sent by the C.O.B.L. to the O.B.A.A. in reference to the much-talked of Napanee situation of today. In a pugnacious attack directed against us, the Peterboro scribe rants and rages regarding our statement that such a recommendation was ever presented by the C. O. B. L. and simply because he did not have after-thought or should we say fore-thought enough to ask a few questions of the higher ups after the meeting in Oshawa terminated last Saturday. The Liftlock City scribe says— "the Belleville scribe, usually quite reliable, must have had a pipe dream"—when he refers to the matter. And why all this quibbling? Simply because he did not get the desired information we imagine. To bare the actual truth in the matter, we stated in this column, that a resolution or recommendation would be forwarded to the O.B.A.A. from the C.O.B.L. asking that Napanee Gibbards be elevated to a senior rating—that's our story and we're not stuck with it—because that recommendation was sent out and we saw it after the meeting in Oshawa. (Again we say "tchitchk, my fran).

To further enlighten our Peterboro sport friends, here's exactly what happened in relationship to the question, that left some 'holding the well known bag.' First and foremost, the matter was not actually brought up and voted on, but as soon as the C.O.B.L. meeting was over, we dashed up to President Swanston and Secretary Thompson and enquired—"say, you guys, how about that resolution to be sent to the O.B.A.A. requesting Napanee's elevation to the senior ranks." "It's right here and all written out ready to be mailed," stated Secretary Thompson as he pulled the paper from his portfolio out in plain view. "Is that right Mr. President?" we queried Prexy Swanston. "Yes, sir, you can print that," came back President Swanston as he admitted all knowledge of the recommendation. Incidently we were given to understand, that the matter had been settled between President Swanston, Vice-President Art Casterson and Secretary Newt Thompson during a short ten minute intermission called by the Belleville delegation. No matter how the Peterboro scribe wiggles, we still say—"That recommendation was sent to the O.B.A.A.". For local fan's information, however we doubt very much if Mr. Gibbard and his merry band will be playing senior baseball in 1935. "Laugh that one off."

We are wondering if the Peterboro Ball Club would not like the Belleville Park along with the other requests, that the Peterboro scribe says was broached at a meting of the Sea Horses the other night. Belleville has opened at home on May 24th for the past fifteen years of C.O.B.L. competition and it is likely when the Good Queen's birthday rolls around this year the senior ball club will be opening in the same old place with the same large crowd and the same enthusiasm. We also note, that the Sea Horses want all Saturday dates, three or four or is it all the holiday dates during the season but the straw, that broke the camel's back, Belleville to open in Peterboro on May 24th. We won't be there but likely will be entertaining Kingston on that date and here's hoping that Peterboro has a successful blow off at their inaugural game on May 6th with Brockville, (?).

For the information of the sport scribe on the Trenton Courier-Advocate we might say that the suggestion of eliminating intermediate O.H.A. players from competition in the local post season hockey league was suggested and agreed upon by the management of the Trenton team and simply because that club was of the opinion that Grills' might place a "packed team" on the ice. Such was not the case however, and the manner in which the Trenton squad let the local mentors down was nothing short of "small potatoes."

S. H. "Stew" Pender, local hockey and sport enthusiast, took in the Toronto to Boston excursion trip on the Maple Leaf special yesterday. Mr. Pender will attend tonights Toronto at Boston N.H.L. play-off at Boston.

Allan Cup Playdowns

(By the Canadian Press)

The troubled junior hockey situation in Ontario took on an even more murky hue today but elsewhere Provincial or sectional representatives in Allan Cup and Memorial Cup playdowns were either already declared or rapidly being identified.

In the identification process, North Battleford Beavers last night were named the Far West's representative in the Western Canada Allan Cup final. Montreal Royals emerged as the Allan Cup entry for the Province of Quebec.

The Beavers brought hockey excitement to a high pitch in Saskatoon, when they defeated Edmonton Canadians 2-1 in the Western Senior semi-final. Eight thousand fans wanted to see the game but only 5,000 could be accommodated.

Edmonton won the first of the three-game series, 2-1. North Battleford took the second 6-3 and will now meet Port Arthur Bearcats in the Lakehead City in the Western final.

Royals won the Habitant Province representation by virtue of their 3-1 win over St. Jerome, Provincial intermediate titlists. The Quebec senior champions took the series in two games, winning the first 10-1. They now meet either Toronto All-Stars or Ottawa Canadiens.

At Ottawa the Rideaus, Junior champions of Ottawa and District meet Moncton Red Indians tonight in the second game of their Memorial Cup series. Rideaus won the first game 11-3 and a win tonight would eliminate the Maritme Champions from the race.

Sudbury Cub Wolves, originally slated to play the second of their best-of-three game series in the Memorial Cup race have a sudden-death match on their hands with Oshawa Majors tonight.

Sudbury's 4-3 win in the first game was thrown out by the executive of the Ontario Hockey Association, when it was shown they used three imports, one more than their allowance.

Tonight's game will determine the team to advance in playdowns only if Sudbury wins. Should Oshawa who are already embroiled in O.H.A. Junior "A" strife, win, they must meet the winner of the Toronto Lions-Kitchener Waterloo match to determine the team advancing.

Boston Bruins Expect to 'Hobble' Jackson, Conacher

Betting Favors Leafs to Take Three Out of Five Series

(By George MaGuire, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Boston, March 23 (CP)—On the success of a pair of "Hobbles" for Busher Jackson and C. Conacher, Boston Bruins pinned high hopes of thumping Toronto Maple Leafs tonight and stealing a march in the National Hockey League championship series.

As the potent Leafs came to town this morning, even biased Beantowners were willing to concede deep down they favored the Leafs to triumph in the best-three-in-five-game series. But on the two games here it was something else again. Frank Patrick's pucksters were slight favorites in the betting to take the first pair.

These first-place winners in the N.H.L.'s twin sections clashed six times during the regular schedule and Boston won three and dropped two. The other game was a deadlock. Also, the Boston boys outscored Connie Smythe's clique 23 goals to 20.

Much of that success was due to Patrick's strategy in moving Jack Beattie into his starting front line for the main purpose of shackling the brilliant Conacher.

The teams probably will lineup:

Toronto	Position	Boston
Hainsworth	Goal	Thompson
Clancy	Defence	Shore
Horner	Defence	Siebert
Primeau	Centre	Barry
Conacher	R. Wing	Clapper
Jackson	L. Wing	Beattie

Toronto subs: Kilrea, Finnigan, Thoms, Boll, Cotton, Blair, Kelly, Day and Hollett.

Boston subs: Kaminsky, Barry, Shill, O'Neill, Stewart, Shannon, Sands, Davie, McInenly and Motter.

Officials. Bill Stewart and Bill Bell.

SUDDEN DEATH GAME ORDERED BY THE O.H.A.

Executive Throws Out Junior Game of Wednesday

3 IMPORTS USED

Sudbury Will Have To Drop Morris in Game

(By Elmer Dulmage)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, March 23.— (CP)—The quotation on clean hands in Ontario's Junior Hockey business soared several points today as the grim chieftains of the O.H.A. cleared away the debris from a muddle of illegalities, tht probably has never been approached in any season before.

If Ontario's challenge for the prized Memorial Cup was to be carried by the forthright and strictly-on-the-level brigades, that so far have evaded official censure, then the matter would rest between the greenshirts of Kitchener-Waterloo and the Lions of Toronto.

But in today's rare muddle the boys in green and the Lions are strictly outsiders. The main bout is between Sudbury Cub Wolves, Northern Ontario Champions and Oshawa Majors, disputed O.H.A. Junior "A" titlists. Neither will be garbed in snowy white, when they sail into each other in a sudden-death, play-till-somebody-wins contest here tonight.

It was Sudbury's turn to taxe a committee-room trouncing last night, the O.H.A. executive belaboring the Northern Challengers for using three "imports" against Oshawa in the first of what was to have been a best-of-three series here Wednesday. Sudbury won that game 4-3, but the O.H.A. threw out the victory.

An agreement between the O.H.A. and the affiliated Northern Ontario Hockey Association stipulated, that the Sudbury team could strengthen its force with two "imports"—players who qualified under the residence rule but newcomers to town. Instead, the wolves used three players in this category.

Oshawa Protests

Oshawa protested. N.O.H.A. officials shouldered the blame, admitting they instructed the Wolves to use three imports. So the O.H.A. threw out Wednesday night's game requested the N.O.H.A. to write an apology to the O.H.A. and ordered the teams to engage in a sudden-death game tonight. It's got to be decided tonight if overtime goes on and on.

Oshawa's troubles started last week after two games had been played in the Kitchener-Oshawa Junior "A" final series. It was discovered that Bill Bagnell, an Oshawa player was a year over the age limit. All season, it seems, the Majors had been beating teams with an ineligible player.

The O.H.A. solved that riddle by requesting Kitchener and Oshawa to play a sudden-death game, which Oshawa won. But then some of the teams Oshawa had previously beaten put in their kicks. It was just as wrong for Bagnell to have played against them as against Kitchener.

To decide this one, The O.H.A. opened the series to Toronto Young Rangers, Toronto Lions and Kitchener-Waterloo. The two Toronto teams have played, Lions winning. Tonight they play Kitchener and the winner will play Oshawa.

However, should Sudbury win tonight from Oshawa the Wolves will continue in the Memorial Cup playdowns. Should Oshawa win, the Majors must play either Lions or Kitchener for the right to proceed in the Canadian playdowns. It's that complicated.

BADMINTON

The O.S.D. Badminton Club entertained the Madoc Cub Friday night at a return match. Some very interesting and hard fought sets were played the results of the matches are listed below. The final count proved to be a tie, each club winning 8 events.

At the conclusion of play everyone adjourned to the sewing room of the school where Miss Deannard and Miss tFord acted as hostesses and delicious refreshments were served.

Results

Ladies Doubles

Miss Bird and Miss Bird O.S.D. won from Mrs. Beattie and Mrs. Watson 15-10, 8-15, 15-6.

Mrs. Blanchard and Miss Heagle O.S.D. won from Mrs. Irwin and Mrs Nickle, Madoc 15-9, 15-6.

Miss Daley and Miss Reid lost to Miss Cochrane and Mrs. Caverley, Madoc 4-15, 15-4, 8-15.

Men's Doubles

Cunningham and Panter, O.S.D. lost to Nickle and Watson 11-15, 14-15.

Blanchard and Vaughan won from Daley and Johnson 15-4, 15-9.

Morrison and Stratton lost to Irwin and Greenwood 12-15, 8-15.

McGuire and Panter lost to Wallbridge and Caverley 9-15, 11-15.

Stratton and Vaughan won from Caverley and Keller 15-14, 15-13.

Blanchard and Scott lost to Bailey and Caverley 10-15, 4-15.

Mixed Doubes

Panter and Miss Burt won from Watson and Mrs. Beattie 15-3, 10-15, 15-7.

Cunningham and Miss Bell won from Mr. and Mrs. Nickle 15-3, 15-3.

Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard lost to Greenwood and Mrs. Rupert 5-15, 12-15.

Morrison and Miss Heagle won from Johnson and Mrs. Watson 15-11, 18-17.

Vaughan and Miss Bailey lost to Wallbridge and Mrs. Rupert 7-15, 12-15.

McGuire and Miss Sweetman lost to Keller and Mrs. Caverley 15-9, 3-15, 13-15.

Blanchard and Leecock won from Irwin and Miss Connor 15-11, 15-7.

Y. M. C. A. ALLEYS

Ladies' Afternoon

Quints 2 points.
Mrs. James	136	174	169—479
Mrs. Lent	74	176	154—404
Mrs. McGuire	84	101	118—303
Mrs. Miller	88	81	178—297
Mrs. Joss	107	197	190—494
Total			1977
Goodfellows 2 Points
Mrs. Cherrie	121	156	177—454
Mrs. Shaw	119	146	165—430
Mrs. Moon	134	168	101—403
Mrs. Hart	96	125	118—339
Mrs. Lent	112	118	146—376
Total			2002

C.N.R. League

Rip Track 1 point.
B. Bunton	170	152	174—496
W. Mantle	132	80	160—372
Drumm	176	148	127—451
Storms	130	175	235—540
A. Knott	197	188	98—483
Total			2342
Freight Dept. 3 points.
Thomsan	197	100	167—464
Johnson	159	127	262—548
Taylor	181	162	148—491
Adamson	215	133	164—517
Barker	104	159	188—451
Total			2471
Car Knockers 3 points.
Daynard	201	138	131—470
Clement	125	138	220—483
Rowbottum	136	159	109—404
Raynor	108	179	161—448
Robinson	165	172	209—546
Total			2251
Road Dept. 1 point.
Clark	167	129	147—443
Meens	160	196	213—569
Bly	119	155	153—427
Bridge	197	138	86—421
Maracle	142	145	156—443
Total			2303

CLOTHIERS OF QUALITY

NOTHING LIKE A NEW
Spring Hat
TO BANISH THE THOUGHT OF THE PAST WINTER

Every Smart Color; Every New Color; Every Smart Style; Every New Style is here.

Quick & Robertson

First in Style, Quality and Reasonable Price.

Who May be Who in 1935

By BILL BRAUCHER
© CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, INC.

"Free Agent" Counted Mainstay of Mack Staff This Year

Every year the rosters of major league ball teams contain the names of a number of 'free agents' young men who manage to obtain a spring training trip without benefit of minor league experience. Most of them drop into the discard with the first pruning of the squad.

William J. (Bill) Dietrich is one free agent who has stuck it out. There is every evidence that Manager Connie Mack will lean heavily on the young slabster from the Philadelphia sandlots.

Lacked Control

A bespectacled high school graduate, Dietrich took his first trip south with the A's in 1931. He had starred in football and basketball at his school. Six feet tall, weighing 182, he showed a good fast ball and a fair curve, but sadly lacked control.

Mack sent him to Harrisburg with instructions to improve his arm. Later he was shifted to Wilkes-Barre. Steadily improving, he was placed at Portland in 1932, where his earned run average dropped to 3.47.

Dietrich put in 1933 at Montreal, where he won 11 and lost 14, for the Royals, allowing 157 hits in 156 innings. Mack believed him ready last year, and though Bill still lacked control, he was used regularly. He got better as the season progressed.

Pitches Four Shutouts

His record for 1934 shows 11 victories and 12 defeats for appearances in 39 games, 14 of which were complete. When he was good he was very very good, attested by the fact he pitched four shut-outs, a two-hit and a four-hit game.

Control is still all he seems to lack, and Mack believes this will be the year when Bill shows he has found the plate. The manager points out that Dietrich will not be 25 years old until March 29, and ascribes his wildness to his youth and previous lack of experience.

When the Athletics go into camp at Fort Myers, Fla., soon, Bill Dietrich will be given a target at which to throw steadily.

BILL DIETRICH

ROOKIE HURLERS THROW AT HIM

Target for rookie pitchers when he is coaching at the Cardinals' training camp in Bradenton, Fla., Bob O'Farrell, veteran catcher and former manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is pictured above.

Daily Short Story

A TREASURE

(Copyright 1935 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

He was a studious young man, was Randolph Tims. He did not drink. Nor did he gamble. His vocabulary seemed to have been permanently expurgated of all vulgar, objectionable, colorful words. He was handsome and had graduated from college with honors. He enjoyed rising early in the morning. He was a paragon!

"Hi, fellows shouted Nick Kelly, breezing into the reporters' room at City Hall. "Wait till you hear this!"

The other reporters gathered around, and asked "Where's Randolph?"

Satisfied that the insufferable Mr. Tims was not present Nick began, "Well, sir last night at about eleven when I was standing in a subway station, blow me down if I didn't see our little friend, Randolph, on the opposite platform surrounded by a bevy of beautiful girls, all gazing up at him adoringly!"

"A bevy?" inquired one reporter dubiously.

"That's right!" Nick replied, round-eyed with astonishment. "Nine, at least "

"I always thought he must have a vice " said another reporter.

An hour later when Randolph entered the reporters' room, all eyes turned towards him with a new respect. Nick, as had been arranged, approached him and remarked that he had very nice taste in neck ties.

"But then, you have so many girls to help you choose them," said Nick.

Randolph scenting another razzing quietly inserted a sheet of paper in his typewriter.

"Come on," Nick continued. "You can't get away with it any longer, Tims. Who were all those girls clinging to you on the subway last night?"

Nick did not add that his reason for this probing was because he had happened to recognize one girl and meant to find out why she had stood him up in order to be "one of the many" in the life of that extraordinary young man, Randolph Tims.

"Oh," said Randolph , his face lightening, "you mean my class "

REASON ENOUGH

"Your class!" cried the other reporters. "Tell us, professor, what do you teach the fair damsels?"

"I'm not really a teacher, you know," Randolph explained. "More of an advisor. Every Thursday evening, you see, I conduct a Forum. I study the girls individually and give the psychological tests to discover their different aptitudes. Then I suggest course for which I believe them to be best adapted and which may eventually lead them into some line of business where success would be assured."

"What a racket!" roared Nick Kelly. "No wonder those girls were listening to him with such breathless interest. He has a line that can't fail, Boys, I'm going to study psychology!"

"Don't be absurd," said Randolph. "The discussion last night was particularly enlightening and continued after the class was over, on the subway platform. If those young ladies appeared to be deeply interested, it was because I was helping them to a better understanding of themselves. They were interested in what I had to tell them not in mee."

"That's what you think!" was Nick's comment.

Left alone at his typewriter Randolph considered this remark. Could it be possible that the girls found him, personally, rather interesting? He remembered especially two large gray eyes that followed his talks with the deepest concentration. The following week it would be his duty to analyze the business aptitudes of the owner of those large gray eyes. Already, he had made a thorough study of the young lady, and he was sure she would rate a high percentage. But something about the attitude of the other reporters made Randolph suspect that he was overlooking his opportunities.

Good-Looking

The following Thursday, Randolph watched the arrival of his pupils with a new curiosity. After all they were really an amazingly good-looking group. At last, Jean Roberts took her place in the first row and, as Randolph stared eagerly into her gray eyes, he thought she was the prettiest girl he had ever seen. On the desk before him were her final tests and he knew that she was also his brightest pupil.

In fact, it appeared that she might enter any line of business she chose and rise to instant success. For never had he seen evidence of a more competent grasp of obscure meanings, a more ready adaptability to new adjustments, a prompter reaction to every stimulus. Miss Roberts was, in other words, a treasure. And it seemed to Randolph only common sense, having discovered a treasure, not to lose it!

"Miss Roberts," he began, "you are a young woman of nineteen, supposedly ambitious to enter the business world. Yet after careful study, I am obliged to inform you that you are absolutely unsuited for a professional career."

There was a murmur of surprise, and Miss Roberts blushed adorably.

"But we forget," continued the psychologist, "that business success should not be the supreme ambition of our lives. It sems to me that there is something far more important, especially for a woman! Heretofore, I have counseled each one of you to study interior decorating, or shorthand, or nursing, as the case may be. But now I confess, I am at a loss. There is but one possible future for a girl of the type of Miss Roberts and, believe me, it is the noblest and finest to which any woman could aspire. However, if you will remain alone after the class this evening, Miss Roberts, I shall endeavor to supply an alternative for your lost career."

I think I know what you mean, Mr. Tims," said Jean Roberts, who was exceptionally quick at perception. 'And thank you so much for the advice. You see, I was undecided whether to get married or not, and took this course to discover if there is anything for which I am better suited. By the way, I believe you know my fiance, Nick Kelly. He'll be more than grateful to you, too, I'm sure."

SOCIAL EVENING BY PHILLIPSTON W.M.S.

On Monday evening, March 18th the W.M.S held a St. Patrick's social evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ketcheson. The house was beautifully decorated in green and white and a splendid programme was prepared by the committee. Miss Moe Stevenson and Mrs. M. Robson which was much enjoyed by all and consisted of contests, potato relay race, St. Patrick's spelling match, song contest, checkers.

The door prize was won by Mrs B. Sayers and the lucky chair prize by Miss Leda Chambers. A dainty lunch was served by hostess and six young ladies wearing caps and aprons of green and white. A vote of appreciation was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Ketcheson which was heartily approved. There were about thirty-five present.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd White and Marion have returned to their home in Trenton after spending a week at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs G. Dickey.

Mrs. Fred Davis of Melrose has been visiting her daughter Mrs. Earle Sayers for the past week returning home on Wednesday and Mrs. Sayers returning with her. We are glad ot know Mrs Sayers is able to be out after being confined to her home since the first of December.

Several ladies on this line attended the Institute meeting at the home of Mrs. Bills Ketcheson on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Roblin have returned home after spending the past two weeks with Mrs Roblin's father, Mr.. Broadworth of Madoc.

Several on this line have been ill with the lagrippe.

Mrs. Sam Marshall returned home on Sunday after a week's visit with relatives in Sidney.

Mrs. Earle Stickle and Muriel of Johnstown are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Marshall

Little Benny's Note Book

Nora was off today on account of it being Thursday, and when pop came home ma said, Willyum I have a serprise for you, guess what?

We've got liver and onions for supper, pop said, and ma said, No, but you're getting warm, I meen you're on the rite track in agenerel unspecific way, guess again.

We haven't got liver and onions for supper, pop said, and ma said, Well naturelly if black isn't black it must be white, guess again.

No, it's your tern, my mind's tired from guessing wrong all day at the office, pop said, and ma said, Then I'll tell you I ordered a niece piece of veel from the butcher with a pocket out in it so I could stuff it with my particuler special stuffing that you always rave about.

3 cheers, not to mention one German hell and one Japanese banzai, pop said, and ma said, Hold your horses, he, hee, the serprise is still to come. Well I made the stuffing with plenty of spices and onions the way you like it and I put it in the meat safe and sound, and promptly at a quarter to 5 I put the roast in the oven to let nature take its course, and low and behold about half an hour ago I discovered that the package of white pepper had split open and Nora had thawtlessly put the pepper loose in the salt box, wich happened to be empty, so instead of liberally salting the veel, as I fondly fancied, what I had really done was to deluge it inside and out with that fiery white pepper, making it naturelly unfit for human occupation so we'll have to go up on the Avenue and eat at the Saniterry New Home Dining Rooms, unless you'd prefer Jules and Marie the new French resterant wich they say is really run by an Austrian with French leenings, and that's what I mean when I say serprise, ma said.

And you'll have to guess what I mean when I dont say anything, due to the presents of children, pop said.

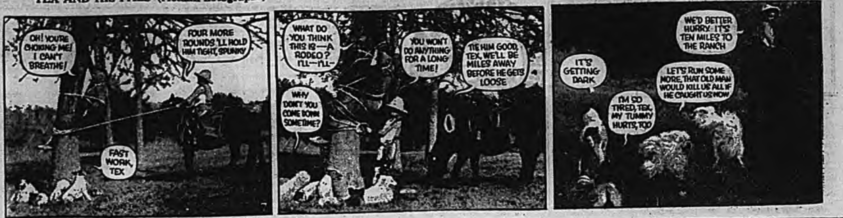
Meening me.

TEX AND HIS PALS (ActualPhotographs)

Treed and Tied there

Copyright, 1935, by Harper Features, Dallas, Texas, U.S.A. All Rights Reserved

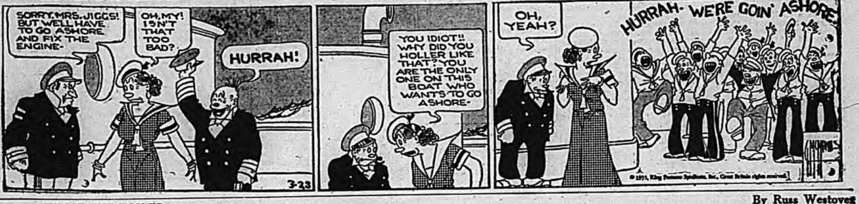
By Leslie A. Hill



OH! YOU'RE CHOKING ME! I CAN'T BREATHE!
FOUR MORE ROUNDS 'LL HOLD HIM TIGHT, SPUNKY
FAST WORK, TEX
WHAT DO YOU THINK THIS IS—A RODEO? I'LL—I'LL—
WHY DON'T YOU COME DOWN SOMETIME?
YOU WON'T DO ANYTHING FOR A LONG TIME!
TIE HIM GOOD, TEX, WE'LL BE MILES AWAY BEFORE HE GETS LOOSE
IT'S GETTING DARK
WE'D BETTER HURRY. IT'S TEN MILES TO THE RANCH
LET'S RUN SOME MORE, THAT OLD MAN WOULD KILL US ALL IF HE CAUGHT US NOW
I'M SO TIRED, TEX, MY TUMMY HURTS, TOO

BRINGING UP FATHER—

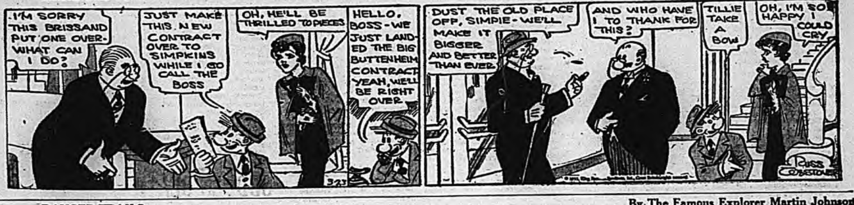
By George McManus



SORRY, MRS. JIGGS! BUT WE'LL HAVE TO GO ASHORE AND FIX THE ENGINE-
OH, MY! ISN'T THAT TOO BAD?
HURRAH!
3-23
YOU IDIOT!! WHY DID YOU HOLLER LIKE THAT? YOU ARE THE ONLY ONE ON THIS BOAT WHO WANTS TO GO ASHORE-
OH, YEAH?
HURRAH- WE'RE GOIN' ASHORE
© 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.

TILLIE THE TOILER—

By Russ Westover



I'M SORRY THIS BRISSAND PUT ONE OVER. WHAT CAN I DO?
JUST MAKE THIS NEW CONTRACT OVER TO SIMPKINS WHILE I GO CALL THE BOSS
OH, HE'LL BE THRILLED TO PIECES
HELLO, BOSS - WE JUST LANDED THE BIG BUTTENHEIM CONTRACT YEAH, WE'LL BE RIGHT OVER 3-23
DUST THE OLD PLACE OFF, SIMPIE - WE'LL MAKE IT BIGGER AND BETTER THAN EVER AND WHO HAVE I TO THANK FOR THIS?
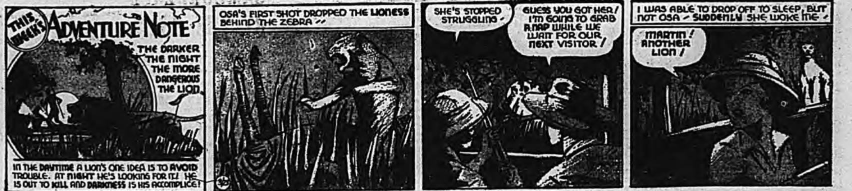
TILLIE TAKE A BOW
OH, I'M SO HAPPY I COULD CRY
RUSS WESTOVER

DANGER TRAILS—

By The Famous Explorer Martin Johnson

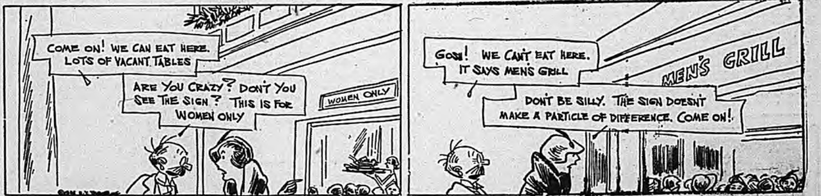
My Turn



THIS WEEK'S ADVENTURE NOTE
THE DARKER THE NIGHT THE MORE DANGEROUS THE LION
IN THE DAYTIME A LION'S ONE IDEA IS TO AVOID TROUBLE. AT NIGHT HE'S LOOKING FOR IT! HE IS OUT TO KILL AND DARKNESS IS HIS ACCOMPLICE!
OSA'S FIRST SHOT DROPPED THE LIONESS BEHIND THE ZEBRA --
SHE'S STOPPED STRUGGLING -
GUESS YOU GOT HER! I'M GOING TO GRAB A NAP WHILE WE WAIT FOR OUR NEXT VISITOR!
I WAS ABLE TO DROP OFF TO SLEEP, BUT NOT OSA - SUDDENLY SHE WOKE ME -
MARTIN! ANOTHER LION!

MR. AND MRS—

By Briggs



COME ON! WE CAN EAT HERE. LOTS OF VACANT TABLES
ARE YOU CRAZY? DON'T YOU SEE THE SIGN? THIS IS FOR WOMEN ONLY WOMEN ONLY
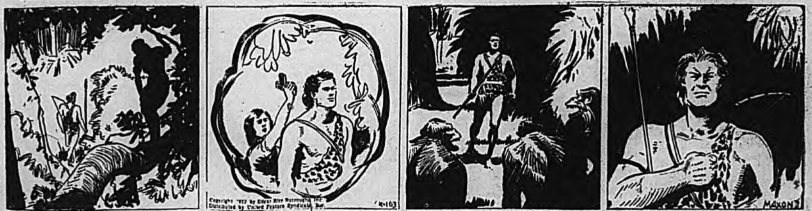
GOSH! WE CAN'T EAT HERE. IT SAYS MEN'S GRILL
MEN'S GRILL
DON'T BE SILLY. THE SIGN DOESN'T MAKE A PARTICLE OF DIFFERENCE. COME ON!

TARZAN THE UNTAMED—

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)



Copyright 1933 by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
K-103
MAXON

As the white man dropped among the apes, the girl saw the symmetry and beauty of that perfect body, its grace, its strength, its wondrous proportioning—and then she recognized him! It was the same person who had rescued her from the lion.

It was the same she had struck down with her pistol butt and escaped when he would have returned her to her enemies—the same who had slain Karzenoff and spared her life that night at Wilhelmstal! Fear-filled and fascinated, she watched.

She had heard sounds issue from his throat, identical with those uttered by the apes. Though she could scarcely believe it, she knew that the god-like creature was conversing with the beasts in their own language!

[illegible] apes. "I am Tarzan, of the Apes!" he cried. "You do not know me because I am from another tribe; but Tarzan comes in peace or he comes to fight! Which shall it be? Show me your king!"

Guardians of the Desert

By TOM GILL

"But why?"

Dick's eyes flared. "I was fed up with fencing. I wanted action. Will, the only way to deal with Sari's kind is to let him know you are dangerous—force him into doing something hasty. I'll prophesy right now that as soon as Dad gets back Sari will find an excuse to come here to find out how much I know—and that's exactly what I want."

Again Barnes shook his head. "Too dangerous business with a killer like Sari. Look." Raising his left arm, Barnes threw back his coat, disclosing beneath the flannel shirt the faint outline of an automatic in a shoulder holster.

"I haven't worn one of these for a good many years, but I'm wearing it now, and not for ornament. I've no more reason to love Sari than you have, Dick, and I tell you again it's dangerous to play with him. One of the obstacles to Nick Sari's plans happens to be that paper of mine. I've fought this whole scheme because every step of it has been rotten with fraud, and I've been able to gain enough following to prevent Sari from riding roughshod over the people of Verde. But I've had too many threats to go unarmed. They've even threatened Nora. Not empty threats, either, Dick. This kind of gang rule isn't new in the West, but by Heaven they won't get by with it. There's not a dirty move in the whole game Sari won't try once he thinks he has reason to fear you. He won't fight you in the open—he knows you too well for that. So my best advice is—trust no one and keep a gun handy."

Both men looked up as Barnes' Mexican servant came out with a steaming tray. Dick's eyes lighted.

"Thank Heaven for real food again," he murmured fervently, and with no further formalities, fell to.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

The sun had just climbed above the mesa when Dick mounted his antiquated horse and headed toward his own hacienda. At the sight Barnes burst into uncontrolled laughter.

"Better tie a knot in that cayuse's tail or he'll slip through the cinch," he counseled, then added, "You may find Nora over at your place. She went there early to fix things up for your homecoming."

Homecoming Eagerly Dick turned down the dusty, well worn trail that joined the two ranches, and for the first time the word seemed to carry with it a realization of what his homecoming meant to him—freedom and sunlight, the great immensity of the desert sky. Horisons that stretched to the ends of the earth itself, and through it the exhilaration of the dry, keen air and the insistent scent of the sage. About him, as he rode, hovered that age-old sense of mystery the desert holds. He watched the brown sands hurrying, rustling before the wind, and from a nearby clump of mesquite caught the clear call of a bird.

"It's like a spell," he said half aloud. "You never get free—you never want to be free."

So for nearly an hour he rode at a shuffling walk, then topped a little rise to catch the first sight of the desert home that he had left six months before.

Nothing was changed. The low, red-roofed, rambling bungalow, where dark wisteria climbed, cast its long familiar shadow beneath the early morning sun. The lawn skirting a flagstone walk had been newly cut, and from the stone chimney a wavering pencil of smoke rose and melted into the blue vault of the desert sky. Behind a high corral the barn lay and beyond that the servants' quarters. About it all a thick green mat af lawn, flecked with slowly waving shadows of tamarisk, stood out in sharp contrast to the glittering reaches of the desert. Watching it the tall man's chest rose as again he breathed the dry, sage perfumed air. Peace was there, and quiet tranquillity —home.

Near a side gate two saddle horses were tethered, and as Dick urged his tired mount onward he saw for the first time that the ranch house was open. He dismounted and with quickened stride ran up the porch steps, then stopped abruptly just outside the door.

From within came the low, rumbling growl of a man, followed by the answering voice of a woman, resonant and full, but now tremulous with anger.

Even as he stood outside the door the words came clear and distinct to Dick, carrying with them a tone of cold, lashing contempt.

"Why don't you tell my brother all these things that you and your thieving outfit are going to do?" the girl was saying. "Why not talk to him? Or are you tired of trying to frighten us with threats?"

A short silence, followed by the heavy voice of the man. "I ain't dealing with your brother now, miss. I'm dealing with you. We're just as tired of threats as you are—maybe a little more. So just remember that what I said goes. We're done foolin' and we're done talkin'."

With a laugh of derision she replied, "Then if youre done talking—get out."

"Nobody tells Bull Pablo when to go or stay." The tone had sunk lower. "Least of all a kid I could lift with one hand—like this!"

The metallic click of a spurred boot was followed by the girl's angry cry, and Dick stepped across the threshold to see Nora tearing at the huge hand of a man already encircling her shoulder. Without a word or sound Dick's two tanned hands fastened about the other's throat and tightened until the veins stood out like knotted cords. For an instant those hands held him gasping and helpless, then with one mighty swing the man was whirled out through theopen door. Hurled with all Dick's strength, he stumbled backward across the porch, his hand clutched frantically at the railing, missed, and with a shrill curse and rattle of spurs he fell headlong down the steps.

Unhurriedly Dick descended and looked quietly down upon the prostrate man, his huge form still sprawling in the dust of the garden path. Sullen eyes glowered up from beneath a disheveled mop of reddish hair and once the big hands moved toward his belt, then stopped uncertainly.

"Get going," Dick commanded.

Silently the other rose, looked again into Dick's eyes, then turned away and walked with clumsy, awkward gait toward his horse. Without a backward glance he climbed into the saddle, and amid a cloud of dust and clatter of hoofs disappeared at a gallop over the nearby knoll.

Thoughtfully Dick turned back to the ranch house, and as he raised his head he heard from above a little gasp of surprise. There, on the top step, Nora stood looking curiously down at this tattered human scarecrow who had come so silently out of the desert to her aid. Smiling he raised his sombrero and voiced the old courtly Spanish phrase, "A los pies de Uster!"

"Dick!" For an instant she swayed, and with one leap he was up the steps and beside her, catching her in his arms while a little tremor passed through her, and he heard what might have been a sob. So for a silent moment they stood there, forgetful of all else, filled with a sense of each other's presence, so close that to the man before her came the unforgetaable perfume of her hair. But almost at once she had gained mastery of herself, and laying her hands on his shoulders, smiled up at him with clear, happy eyes.

"Give me a little warning next time, Dick." Her glance fell to the torn shirt and the dirty serape. "Washington's bad boy gone native.' Then she laughed that rippling laugh of hers and suddenly was serious again. "That beast!" Her hand raised to her shoulder. "Next time I'll take an automatic along. But don't tell Will. He has enough to trouble him."

"I won't." Reassuringly Dick shook his head. "But just what desperate doings are these in the ranch house of a respectable American citizen?"

Her little hand clenched. "The man you threw down the steps was Bull Pablo— one of Sari's hired killers. He's part of the campaign to muzzle Will's paper. It's maddening, Dick. For weeks we've been getting threats. Everything from personal violence to blowing up the presses. Pablo must have followed me here, for a few minutes ago he rode over and repeated the old story of what they were going to do if Will kept attacking them. Then you came." Her eyes rose to his and Dick's own eyes grew brighter watching her.

Slender and young and vibrantly alive she stood, with the desert sun touching her and the desert wind caressing her hair, and at last, feeling his eyes upon her, the girl's color heightened.

"That's enough about him." She brushed back her hair with a well remembered gesture, and curled up on the top step. "Now light a cigarette for your old playmate and tell me what you've learned."

For a time they watched the smoke curl upward. "I'm not sure I know yet, Nora. It's like watching clouds gathering for a storm and listening to the rumble of thunder that comes ever nearer. But I've learned one thing — there's trouble headed for the border country, Nora, sooner than even you and Will believe."

The girl's eyes were fixed thoughtfully on the desert. "You mean Sari is going to put the settlers off their land?"

Dick nodded.

CHAPTER TWELVE

"Sari's been padding the town with gunmen. They're supposed to be working on the ditch and laying the foundation for the dam. As a matter of fact, they're more familiar with a six gun and knife than with a pick and shovel. Their real reason for being here is to crush any opposition to Sari's plans. That much I've learned. The question I haven't answered is— what are the ranchers going to do about it?"

"What can they do? Sari tricked them, crowded them to the wall. Now he's parcelling up the land and ordering them off or else selling it back to them at fancy prices."

Dick shook his head. "If they only hadn't been so quick to sell."

But the girl answered, "Your father's bank forced many of them to sell to cover their loans. Others sold because they were promised stock and rights in the old irrigation company. Oh, it all looked fair enough at first. But after the original company was reorganized the ranchers found themselves without either water rights or land. Some of the old timers have already moved away, but the rest are standing behind Will in his fight against Sari. Meanwhile the Sari crowd is trying harder than ever to muzzle Will's newspaper before he arouses the whole state."

Again he nodded, then turned toward the hacienda, and she saw him look with quick surprise at the newly swept porch and curtains freshly hung at the windows. From the open door there came to him the faint acrid smell of mesquite burning in the fire place. Everything had been made ready by this girl who sat before him.

Without a word he dropped beside her, and raising her hand, touched it to his lips. "You're a darling to do all this," he said gently.

"Think you deserve new curtains and swept floors after leaving us for six long months?" There was laughter in her voice, but it was softer than before.

"Have they been long, Nora?"

Her eyes looked out at the long, sloping rays of the morning sun and a little breeze rippled the brown, thickly clustered hair.

"They passed," she answered simply.

"Did they bring any change?"

She refused to understand him. "You saw how Verde's changed."

"I wasn't thinking of Verde."

Their eyes met and held, then after a moment the girl leaned her head back against the railing and through long lashes regarded him thoughtfully. "Perhaps I'm to reach the comforting conclusion that you are thinking of me."

"Mindreader!"

She smiled, and reaching forward, rumpled his hair. "No, I haven't changed. Not even a little bit." Her tone had altered just a shade. "Have you?"

But his own eyes were no longer smiling. "I wonder,' he said at last. "Perhaps I have. Father once said that life to me was just an adventure, a lark. Maybe he was right. Certainly nothing seemed important enough to greatly bother about. Nobody ever seemed greatly to matter except my two pals—you and Bruce."

His face hardened. "Then they got Bruce. That changed me. And when I became certain that Bruce's death was linked up with Sari's game I realized that for me life holds one purpose—to rid the border of Nick Sari and all his vermin." Rising, he flicked his cigarette into the path and smiled, "That's enough for the serious part of life—I still can stand the sober side of the world only in moderately small doses."

For a long moment he looked at her then out at the flaming desert where wavering heat waves were already rising. "It's great," he exclaimed at last, and his strong hands raised in a gesture of sheer felicity. "It's great to be back. Whether Verde's changed or not they can't ever change the old desert on us." He laughed at a sudden recollection. "I was just thinking of days like this when I used to pull you up by your pigtails and take you on my horse to make mudpies at Azure Lake. Remember?"

"As if I could forget! You bossed me unmercifully even then." Her slanting, mocking eyes were smiling and eager. "Let's ride over to the Lake now!"

Dick looked down at his tattered garb. "Like this?"

"No! I'd be terrified every step of the way you wouldn't hold together. But you have enough clothes inside to outfit a regiment."

"A change is guaranteed within five minutes," he laughed, and swinging through the door, made for the inner room.

Everything was there as before—boots, gauntlets, his old chaps still dusty with alkali, the flannel shirt and tattered stetson of ranching days. Quickly he tore off the serape and flung it into a far corner. Through the door the girl heard him kicking off his sandals, and a few moments later he emerged, once more a vaquero of the desert country, looking very tall and slender in the high-heeled cowboy boots.

"You're a perfect darling," he called from the door. "Everything so neat—it's sad to think what all this will look like after ten days of bachelor treatment."

"I've taken care of that, too, for your majesty. Remember Lolita Valdez and her mother—they had the big foothill ranch on the Mexican side?"

At mention of the name Dick started, and his eyes became guarded. "I've been there many times," he answered slowly. "They were one of the oldest and richest families in North Mexico before the last revolution."

Nora nodded. "Later they lost nearly all they had, and last month Will rented them the upper ranch. It's so near I asked them if they'd supervise your hacienda—you know, keep the servants from running wild and seeing that you got a decent meal once in a while. Like dears, they both agreed at once. Lolita especially." Nora smiled. "I've often suspected that dark-eyed senorita has a weakness for tall, worthless gentlemen."

But to Dick's lips no answering smile came. Instead he stood turning the quirt in his hands, and when again he looked up his eyes were troubled, but he only said, "Between all of you, I should be well taken care of, shouldn't I?"

Then together they ran down the steps and across to the long barn where, as they entered, Dick's white mare whinnied a glad welcome. In two quick steps Dick had wrapped both arms about the little animal's neck and felt her soft, warm nose nuzzling his shirt. Eagerly his hand passed over the soft, sleek coat and his eyes were still bright as he reached back and raised the saddle from its peg.

Leaving the road, they headed out through the low sagebrush to where in the sunlit distance gleamed the granite face of a low, almost precipitous rampart of rock. For thirty miles it stretched behind Verde, dividing the desert from the hills. Ever since the oldest settlers' times men had called it "The Barrier," and as they rode forward Dick watched it thoughtfully.

"How does Sari expect to get his ditch around the Barrier?" he asked at last. "It's this wall of rock that kept the old timers from trying to irrigate by building a ditch from Azure Lake to the desert."

"The ditch will skirt the north end. It's just a question of how much water they can get, and they are damming Azure Lake to double its size." Slowly she added, "That won't help the ones who have lost their land, will it?"

"Do they stand any chance at all?"

"Their case is being dragged through the courts now. But with the influence that Sari has in—" she hesitated, "in certain places, there's not much to hope for, is there?"

Dick shook his head. He realized too well that with Solon Lowell's power at Sari's back, the game would be played out along lines of Sari's choosing and suddenly as he rode a hot intolerance surged over him toward men who depend meekly upon the chances of the law to right their wrongs. Impatiently he snapped his quirt —in past days the desert people had found more ready weapons to fight their battles with than lawyers' briefs. Perhaps even now—his jaw squared at the unspoken thought.

Eager to be gone, the horses broke into a swift gallop across the sage-covered slope, and both riders fell silent as they began the winding ascent of the barrier. With a little thrill of pleasure Dick watched the girl ahead of him, sitting her saddle lightly, with the ease that comes only from years of riding the hills and desert trails, her slender body swaying in response to every movement of the horse, while the sunlight, warming the soft tones of brown in her hair, caused it to glisten with a thousand gleams. Once she turned, pointing with her quirt to the desert that lay mistily shimmering beneath the sun where, dotted with ranch houses and checkerboarded with roads that lay like faded brown ribbons the land stretched for unbroken miles beneath them. In the middle distance the little town of Verde, beyond it the cavalry past, and still more remote, the purple, mysterious mountains of Mexico.

(TO BE CONTINUED)

◆

HATLESS CUBANS JAILED

Santiago, Cuba, March 23 (AP)—Several persons were in jail here today for violating military orders by appearing on the streets without hats.

DEBOTH HOMEMAKERS SCHOOL

LADIES ATTENTION !

The very latest in the art of Culinary and Home Making to be demonstrated by popular Claire Andree of the DeBoth School.

May we suggest Madam that you buy your ticket as soon as possible and that you come early?

Please read the Ontario Intelligencer daily for complete details.

A NEW LINE OF

Baguette

WRIST WATCHES

Slender dainty cases with 15-Jewelled Movement

Regular $15. for 12.00

Dependable Time Keepers

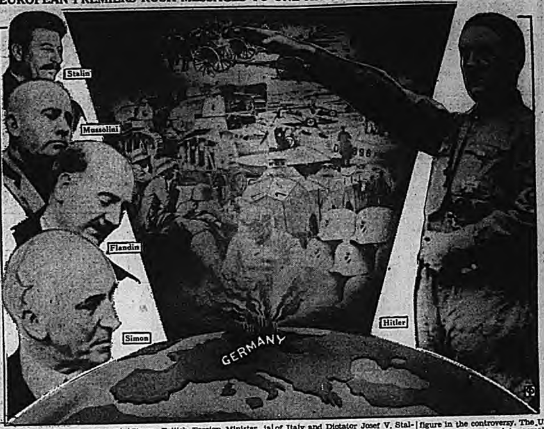
Other lines of girls' wrist watches from $4.50 up

J. O. R.

McCURDY

234 Front St. Phone 518

EUROPEAN PREMIERS RUSH MESSAGES TO ONE ANOTHER REGARDING HITLER



European premiers are communicating with one another frequently concerning the decision of Germany to regain arms equality. Sir John Simon, British Foreign Minister, is the leading figure for England, with Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin, of France; Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy and Dictator Josef V. Stalin, of the U.S.S.R. also playing important parts. Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, of Germany is the dominant figure in the controversy. The United States has to date remained aloof.

WIFE FIGHTS ON

MRS ANNA HAUPTMANN

Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, whose husband, Bruno, has been sentenced to death for the murder of the Lindbergh baby, arrives in Detroit to continue her drive for funds with which to carry on her husband's appeal. Mrs. Hauptmann's face shows the tension of prolonged strain.

HUSKIES GET THE SCRAPS!

Big Tom a cat at the God's Lake post of a fur-trading company, takes his job seriously. It is his duty to see that no animal other than himself invades the sacred confines of the kitchen and even the husky teams are afraid to dispute his autocracy. Time after time, dogs, looking for scraps of food, will find a scrap of a different kind, when they come near the kitchen door. Regardless of their size, Tom chases them off his preserve.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

REGULAR BAPTIST CHURCH
(Masonic Building)
Pastor: J. Scott
10 a.m.—Sunday School.
11 a.m.—Morning Worship.
7.00 p.m.—Gospel service.
You are invited to these services

BRIDGE STREET UNITED CHURCH
Rev. J. Semple, B.A., S.T.B., Th.D., Minister
V. P. Hunt, A.A.G.O., Organist and Choir Leader
11 a.m.
THE BUSINESS OF THE MINISTRY
2.30—Sunday School and Men's Class.
7.00 p.m.
THE WORST THING THAT EVER HAPPENED TO JESUS
8.15 — Fireside Hour

ALLIANCE
West Moira and Coleman Sts.
11 a.m.
Devotions With the Book
7 p.m.
The Gospel in Song and Sermon
Sunday School Teachers!
Thursday, 8 p.m.—Studies in the Sunday School Lesson

TABERNACLE UNITED CHURCH
Rev. I. B. Naylor, Minister
11.00 a.m.—Theme: "WORDS TO UNDERLINE."
2.30 p.m.—Sunday School. Adult Bible Class.
7.00 p.m.—Theme: "SOME PEOPLE I HAVE MET."—A service of Song and Experience.
Mrs. F. J. Bradley, Choir Leader Mrs. M. P. Duff, Organist

HOLLOWAY STREET UNITED CHURCH
Minister: Rev. R. E. Newman - Music: Clifford Templer A.T.C.M.
11.00 a.m.—Sermon: "VESSELS OF HONOR."
2.30 p.m.—Sunday School and Young People's Bible Class.
7.00 p.m.—Service will be in charge of the Young People's Society of the Church.

JOHN STREET UNITED CHURCH
Minister: Robert Hall, B.A., B.D.
Sunday School 2.30 p.m.
Music: Miss Leona Biggs Mr. Alec Gordon
Divine Worship at Eleven and Seven
8.15—SING SONG and SOCIAL HOUR for Young People.

St. ANDREW'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Rev. W. J. Walker, B.A., B.D., Minister
11.00 a.m.—THE SECRET OF JOY.
2.30 P.M.—Sabbath School and Bible Class.
7.00 p.m.—The Ten Commandments for a Modern Age.
(9) BEARING FALSE WITNESS.
Is there another, a more common name, for this sin?
Organist and Choir Leader
Ernest Wheatley, Mus. Bac., F. Gld. C. M.

VICTORIA AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH
ALEXANDER GRANT SINCLAIR—Minister
11.00 a.m.—"THE FACTS"—Mr. C. W. Pugh, B.A., of Toronto.
3.00 p.m.—Sunday School.
7.00 p.m.—"THE ENEMIES OF JESUS."
Monday, 8 p.m. B.Y.P.U. Wednesday, 8 p.m., Prayer Service

CHURCH OF ENGLAND
Third Sunday in Lent
CHURCH OF ST. THOMAS
Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne. Vicar
8 a.m. Holy Communion; 11 a.m. Matins; 3 p.m. Sunday School; 7 p.m. Evensong.
CHRIST CHURCH
Rev. G. G. Wright, L. Th., Rector
8 a.m. Holy Communion; 11 a.m. Matins; 3 p.m. Sunday School; 7 p.m. Evensong.

THE SALVATION ARMY CITADEL
ANNUAL BAND SUNDAY
Services conducted by former Ensign and Mrs. Howlett, Toronto
11 a.m. 3.15 p.m. 7.00 p.m.
Sunday School — 10 a.m. 2 p.m.
ALL ARE CORDIALLY INVITED

THE WEATHER

Fresh easterly winds; fair. Tuesday, east to southeast winds; partly cloudy with some showers chiefly in south portion.

The Ontario Intelligencer

TEMPERATURES

	Max.	Min.
Today	38	28
Year ago	31	1

Weather—Fair.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, MARCH 25, 1935

HITLER INSISTS ON ARMY, NAVY AND AIR FORCE

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

New York, March 25 (AP) — "Wot ho!" roared "Prince" Mike Romanoff as he stood at half past five o'clock this morning before the door of his hotel room and found it padlocked.

He snorted: "A woeful commentary upon civilization. I am indebted to this hostelry in the sum of a measly $40 for back rental on my quarters, and I am humiliated in this barbaric manner."

He raised his walking stick and beat upon the door. With his suede shoes he kicked. At the same time he called down maledictions upon the management.

Detectives finally arrived and found the "Prince"—who was a pants presser named Gerguson from out Illinois way—vigorously flailing the padlocked door.

The court put the case over until March 28, letting the former pants presser go free on his own recognizance.

West Albany, N.Y., March 25 — (CP)—It was a nice, five-car garage fire but the fire laddies didn't appreciate it at all. Their shiny, $3,500 fire engine was housed in the garage and nobody could get inside to save it. It was a total loss.

. . . .

Kansas City, March 25 (CP)—Ralph J. Anderson, Attorney, walked into a doctor's office for a physical examination bearing in his billfold—a $10 bill and a $5 bill.

The physician placed Anderson under the fluroscope.

When the examination was finished, Anderson asked: "How much do I owe you?"

"Fifteen dollars", the physician replied.

. . . .

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 25 —(CP)—Charles F. Hunt's toothache kept Abe Shyer, jewelry store owner, from getting a headache. Hunt, arriving at the dentist's office over the jewelry store, frightened away a burglar who had bored six holes in the floor preparatory to entering the store.

. . . .

Shreveport, La., March 28 (CP) —Fun with a child's scooter turned into a tragedy for 73-year-old Thomas Hopkins. Hopkins fell from the scooter, fractured his thigh—and is dead of complications from the injury.

. . . .

Morgantown, W. Va., March —(CP)—Because he is a grandfather, F. M. Brand, veteran Attorney, no longer has a moustache. Years ago he vowed to shave it off if his first grandchild was a boy. It was—the son of his daughter, Mrs. Thomas Earl Doggess.

Scottsbluff, Neb., March 25 — (CP)—A hen's mistake in trynig to eat the head of a mouse first, cost the hen her life. The mouse grasped the hen's tongue, causing her to suffocate to death. The mouse, unable to get out of the hen's mouth, died also.

The barnyard drama was related by M. G. Wilson, Scottsbluff farmer, who displayed the victims.

Hutchinson, Kas., March 25— (CP)—A dust storm proved to be no ill wind for a construction company which had a contract to move 10,000 cubic yards of earth in a county road project.

"Our gang had just loosened the ground when the storm hit," said Harry Tidd, a contractor "There's nothing to move now."

New York, March 25 (CP) — Michael Kelly, 72, retired longshoreman, used a shoe yesterday on his son, Gerard, 23, to try and get him out of bed to go to 11 o'clock mass. In the ensuing struggle, police said, Gerard struck his father on the chest with a hammer.

They went to church. Later the elder Kelly was in hospital with a punctured lung. Gerard was under arrest.

"I'm sorry, pop," he said.

. . . .

CURRENCY. BOOKS IN VAULT ARE SAFE

Kingston, Ont., March 25.—(CP) —Decision to rebuild the Royal Bank Building, destroyed by fire at Sydenham Thursday, has been made by Mrs. M. A. Hogan, owner of the building. No decision has as yet been made as to the rebuilding of the American Hotel.

Officials of the Royal Bank opened the vault in the ruins of the building Sunday and it was found currency, books and records had come through the fire unscathed.

Full Conscription Army, Strong Navy, Airplanes Demanded for Security

Hitler Claims Bolshevism is Threat in Baltic Sea

AUSTRIAN FREEDOM

Eastern Security is Discussed at Berlin

By MELVIN K. WHITELEATHER

Copyright, 1935,

By The Associated Press

Berlin, March 25—Reichsfuehrer Hitler, in intimate consultation today with Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, was reported to have insisted Germany needs an adequate army and a navy capable of controlling the Baltic with a good sized air fleet as well, in order to defend Western Europe from invasion by Russian Bolshevism.

Hitler was said to have claimed Nazi Germany has saved Europe from Bolshevism.

At 5 p.m., six and one-half hours after the meeting began interrupted only by lunch, the discussions were still continuing behind tightly closed doors.

It was eight hours after their meeting began before the session, which had included a two-hour lunch, ended. The statesmen will confer again tomorrow.

Army Reduction Refused

(Havas agency said Germany refused to consider a reduction in the army she plans to build by military conscription.

(It was also reported by Havas Chancellor Hitler and Foreign Minister Von Neurath were firm in their opposition to participating in the proposed "Eastern Locarno."

(Nor were the German negotiators inclined to make any guarantees, at least at this time, of the independence of Austria, it was said.)

Hitler talked today, it was learned, as if Germany's regenerated army was an accomplished fact, not to be changed by the present negotiations.

Eastern Security Discussed

The proposed pact for eastern European security and the question of the German army's size were understood to have been discussed at length.

Diplomatic circles said the conversations were "likely to determine whether Europe turns back toward peace or continues on toward war.

Parity Likely to Be Demanded

Berlin, March 25.—(CP-Havas) — A British spokesman informed Havas today "the best we can hope for is Germany will demand parity in troops and air forces with the strongest of the European powers. It is now too late to expect anything less," he added.

Members of the British delegation to the security talks seemed optimistic, however. It was again stressed by them their mission has a purely preparatory character.

"However, the Reichsfuehrer is ready to take up the problem of Arms limitation", the spokesman told Havas. This was regarded as particularly significant by the British.

Austria, Hungary Assured

Geneva, March 25.—(AP)—Political circles here said today they had heard France had practically assured Austria and Hungary the latter two nations would benefit from any modification of Versailles Treaty military clauses recognized for Germany.

Hungarians here said there was a growing sentiment in Hungary favoring union with Germany unless the Little Entente — Yugo-Slavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania — accepted some territorial adjustments and the creation of a Danubian Confederation based on economic freedom and political equality.

It is expected in Geneva that both Hungary and Austria will follow Germany's lead in proclaiming compulsory military service. Compulsory military service would make the Hungarian and Austrian armies about fifteen per cent of the population of those countries.

League Sets Date

Geneva, March 25.—(AP)— The League of Nations today officially convoked its council for April 15 to discuss France's appeal against Germany. Thus it will follow the three power meeting called at Stresa, Italy, four days earlier.

London, March 25 (AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald told the House of Commons today the military clauses of the Versailles Treaty are the only part affected by Germany's decision to institute compulsory military training, "so far as I am aware."

His statement expressed the official view the discussion of the revision of these clauses of the Treaty does not affect the Treaty in general.

"The Treaty does not provide for denunciation by the signatories," he said.

"The German decision of March 16, relative to the introduction of Conscription and the constitution of the German army, indicated no doubt an intention on the part of the German Government not to observe certain military clauses of the Treaty. No other clauses of the Treaty are, so far as I am aware, affected by the German action."

Officials seemed pleased with the quick and early start of the actual conversations in Berlin between Reichsfuehrer Hitler, Sir John Simon, and Capt. Anthony Eden.

JUDGE J. PARKER CONDUCTS PROBE

Activities of Performing Right Society to be Investigated

Ottawa, March 25 (CP)—Activities of the Canadian Performing Rights Society Limited and any other similar bodies operating in Canada will be investigated by a commissioner appointed under part one of the Inquiries Act, Sir George Perley, Acting Prime Minister, made known today.

Judge James Parker of York County Court, Toronto, will be sworn in as Commissioner and will have power to call witnesses, books and records for his investigation and report.

The Canadian Performing Rights Society, Limited, Incorporated under the Companies Act of 1931 with head office in Montreal, claims exclusive rights in Canada to more than 2,000,000 works of literature, stage and music.

INQUEST IS ORDERED

Toronto, March 25 (CP)—Decision to hold an inquest into the finding of the body of a five-months-old baby near Bridle Road in the Don Valley is pending following the result of a post-mortem, East York police stated today. The remains were found by James Patton while walking in the valley.

Hungry 13 Year Old Eats Meal Tells That He Has No Money

Compassionate Boniface Refuses To Press Charge

BOY TELLS TALE

"I was hungry and wanted something to eat", sobbed a little 13-year-old urchin when questioned by the police after obtaining a meal at a local hotel on Saturday, for which he could not recompense the proprietor.

This pathetic case came to the attention of the city police department on Saturday after a local boy had gone into a hotel on Front Street ordered a substantial meal and then informed the hotelman that he had no money. According to eye witnesses the boy was undoubtedly hungry as he ravenously devoured all of the food placed before him.

Taken to the police station, the lad unfolded a sad tale of circumstances. His mother, a widow, living here was on relief and received only $2.50 per week on which to maintain herself and two children the boy said. The little growing lad sobbingly assured the authorities, that he was sorry for his wrong doing, but said he only did it because he was hungry.

The hotelkeeper refused to press any charge against the lad, but the youngster was given a severe reprimand and sent home. The matter is being further investigated in order that the boy may receive his proper nourishment, police officials stated today.

COUNTERFEIT RING ALLEGEDLY HELD IN ST. THOMAS

Bogus Coins Found And Apparatus For Making Same

FOUR UNDER ARREST

Toronto Detective Provides Clue That Causes Roundup

St. Thomas, March 25—Police here arrested an alleged counterfeiting gang and seized a large quantity of bogus coins, on a swift round-up late Sunday afternoon. Sunday night Frederick Craig, aged 62, of this city, formerly of Toronto; Herbert Millard, aged 28, of Weldon Avenue, St. Thomas; John Rick, aged 28, of St. George Street, and James Crandall, aged 22, of Balaclava Street, this city, were lodged in the Elgin County jail.

Detective Robert McMaster, of the Toronto police department, provided the clue that resulted in the arrest of the four men. He had arrested in Toronto recently three men convicted of car stealing. From information received from them, he arrived in St. Thomas with evidence that a counterfeiting ring had lately established itself in this city.

It is alleged that the Toronto men had stolen a car and brought Craig and Crandall to St. Thomas with their bogus-coin, making equipment on March 12. They were paid apparently in counterfeit 50-cent pieces. City Police-Sergeant McKeown, from the description furnished by the Toronto car thieves, was able to identify the elder of the alleged counterfeiters as Craig.

The house of John Rick on St. George Street was spotted as the place where Craig and Crandall had been dropped that night. With Royal Canadian Mounted Police of this city, and McKeown, Rick, Wood and McIntyre of the city police, this place was searched. Hidden in various parts of the basement were found an electric heater, quantities of metal from which the bogus coins were cast, nine plaster casts and other equipment used to manufacture the money. In a sack in an old wine case were found 75 of the coins. The edges of most of the coins had not yet been ground down.

Rick, Craig and Millard were found in the house. Craig had concealed himself in the bathroom of the house. Crandall was located at his own residence.

NAPANEE CHILD KILLED BY AUTO

Playing on Boulevard When Car Strikes Him Down

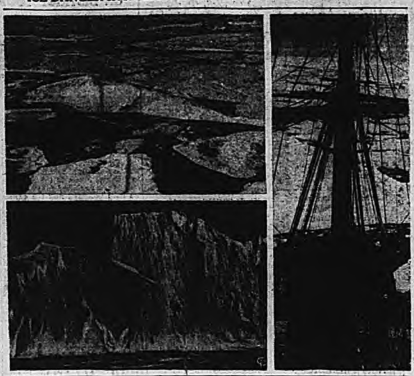
Provincial Police this afternoon were searching all highways in the vicinity of Napanee in quest of a hit and run motorist, who is alleged by Napanee police to have struck little Roy "Billy" McGreer, age four years, instantly killing the child, while playing on the boulevard in front of his Napanee home at 1.00 p.m. today.

Provincial Police at once threw out a drag net on all roads leading out of Napanee, despite the fact, that eye witnesses definitely stated, that the killer car was headed eastward out of Napanee. Those near the tragic scene informed police, that the death car failed to make a curve in the east town limits of Napanee and bounded over the street curb, striking the little lad as he was playing on the sidewalk in front of his home.

Immediately following the accident the news was flashed to nearby towns and included a licence plate number. Within a very short time a local motorist was questioned by local police. After checking up the matter, however, police were satisfied, that there had been some mistake, as the local motorist established his whereabouts. Later this afternoon Napanee police informed local authorities that the "hit and run" automobile was, they believed, a Chevrolet sedan in which it is thought three men were travelling. They are believed to have been headed eastward.

Little Roy McGreer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. McGreer, well known Napanee groceryman. The little lad died before medical attention could be procured.

ICE DANGER IN ATLANTIC WORST IN FIVE YEARS



When the British steamer Baron Saltoun docked in Boston this week her captain, J. W. Laidlaw, reported ice conditions in the North Atlantic the worst in many years. Laidlaw said his ship steamed through a field 200 miles wide on her crossing from Newcastle, and he said he had been told that further north conditions were even worse. J. A. Starr, commander of the eastern division of the United States coast-guard, said that advices on ice conditions in the North Atlantic indicated a situation more serious than at any time in the past five years. Layout shows an icefield in the North Atlantic, a huge iceberg and how a ship watches for submerged bergs while they plough through the ce areas.

NATION'S CREDIT TO SECURE FUNDS

Mayor McGreer of Vancouver Addresses Mayors

Montreal, March 25 (CP)—A resolution submitted to the mayoral conference today by Mayor G. G. McGeer, calls on "the Dominion Government to "employ the credit of the nation to assist municipal government in securing the funds needed to stabilize municipal finance, and to maintain sound and progressive local government."

The resolution adds: "That the Parliament of Canada be urged to extend to the Bank of Canada the power to aid National, Provincial and Municipal Government at a minimum of expense to the taxpayers in financing all essential non-money profit-producing public services such as: highways, parks, playgrounds, centers of tourist attraction, educational and health services, unemployment relief, pensions, superannuation allowances and, where necessary the liquidation of existing debts."

Fred Bancroft, Toronto, was named Secretary.

On motion of Mayor James Simpson, Toronto, seconded by Mayor J. E. Gregoire, Quebec, Mayor Wenige was elected permanent chairman.

Mayor Wenige characterized the Dominion-wide convention as the "second Confederation of Canada."

Direct Relief

In opening the conference Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal said the first question to be discussed was that of direct relief "the problem which spurred us in the first place to join hands." The convention was called, he continued, to ascertain "once and for all if it is really our problem." Discussions would follow on the topic of municipal finance—"which derives directly from the first one."

Two committees will be appointed, one to deal exclusively with the cost of relief to municipalities and its associate problems and the other will deal with the question of municipal loans, interest rates and their associate problems.

Pensioners' Medical Relief

First business resolution was introduced by Ald. Herbert Andrews, Winnipeg, seconded by Mayor G. H. Barefoot, St. Boniface, the resolution said that in the opinion of the conference "the Dominion Government should make the necessary arrangements at the earliest possible moment to supply medical, dental and optical care to all members of war pensioners families at least on a parity with that furnished by the local municipal bodies to those on unemployment relief in their respective districts."

Quintuplets Closely Guarded As Kidnap Threat is Heard

Toronto, March 25—(CP)— An outlandish story of a plan to kidnap the Dionne quintuplets from their hospital home at Callander, Ont., by automobile and airplane—to free the children from the guardianship-control of the Ontario Government for exploitation by United Statse promoters—was heard in Queen's Park circles today.

The government was understood to have placed sufficient credence in the story to order a police guard stationed at the Dafoe Hospital day and night.

American exploiters, realizing the immense, promotional value of the world's only living quintuplets, were said to be ready to risk the gamble, that the plot would succeed and the babies would be able to withstand the dangers of a dash across the border.

It was understood the kidnappers' plans called for a 150-mile automobile trip to Sault Ste. Marie, on the Northern Michigan-Ontario border, where the airplane would be stationed.

At night the babies would be placed in the plane and carried out of the Dominion.

SISCOE SEARCH STILL CONTINUES

Four More Planes Are Added to Fleet Now Searching

Montreal, March 25 (AP)—Four more planes took off from St. Hubert Airport, near here, today bound for Northern Quebec to aid in the search for Stanley E. Siscoe, prominent Canadian mining man, and his pilot, Captain Thomas Wrathall, lost in the thick woods of the Gatineau district since last Tuesday. A dozen planes are now scanning the ground for some sign of the plane.

The search was resumed with renewed vigor today, when a blinding snowstorm, which forced searchers to halt their efforts yesterday cleared away.

Searchers refused to express belief the two men would not be found shortly. Their cabin plane was amply supplied with food and sufficient clothing to enable them to withstand the rigorous weather.

CLAIMS DOG CAUSES DEATH BY FRIGHT

Montreal, March 25 (CP)—Authorities today prepared to investigate circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Helene Gibeault, 38, who died in hospital just before she was to give birth to a child. Her husband claimed her death was the result of a fright she received when a dog rushed at him

Gibeault stated he and his wife went to a woodyard and a man ordered them from the property. The man's dog jumped at Gibeault and his wife collapsed and was taken to hospital where she died two days later. Mrs. Gibeault was the mother of four children.

Admit Theft of Safe, 3 Youths Sentenced

TORONTO, March 25.—(CP) — Having pleaded guilty to breaking into a store and stealing a 300-pound safe, three youths were today sentenced to the Ontario Reformatory by Judge James Parker.

James Wilson was sentenced to two years less one day definite and one year indeterminate; Eaustace Johnston, 18-months and Harold Shaw a year.

Think 1st Brewery Operated In Mesopotamia 4000 B.C.

Philadelphia, March 25.—(AP)— The archeologists are on the trail of the world's first brewery. It may have been operating, they think, in Mesopotamia some 6,000 years ago.

The only clue to the prehistoric brewing plant is a flat seal found in the ancient mound of Tepe Gawra, where ruins of twenty "world's oldest" cities, piled one on the other, trace the story of man back to Neolithic times.

Uncovered by diggers from the the University of Pennsylvania Museum and the American Schools of Oriental Research, the seal shows two men stirring the contents of a vat with long poles.

Whether man began quaffing ale that early is interesting but less important to Charles Bache, expedition director, than the economic significance of the seals.

"Flat seals were used to identify property and carried the monograms of their owners," he explained. "Thus, we may conclude in the present instance that, if individuals had property worth identifying, the Tepe Gawrans were not communistic nor did all property belong to one ruling noble."

CLUB RENDEZVOUS DESTROYED WITH SIX LOSING LIVES

Sixteen Injured When Patrons Clog Single Exit

HALL OVERCROWDED

Many Plunge Through Windows and Badly Cut

Chicago, March 25—(AP)— The Gay Club Rendezvous, jammed with a hundred merrymakers, was converted into a flaming inferno that left six dead and 16 seriously burned today—all victims of an over flow crush of fear crazed patrons, who clogged the club's single narrow front exit.

Festivities were at their height early yesterday at the roadhouse, a remodeled bungalow in suburban Morton Grove, when the first tongue of flame licked out from the ceiling, near a suspended gas heater.

The girl, who sent the cry "fire!" ringing through the building, snatched her wrap and made for the only exit—except the kitchen door —a narrow doorway on the east way opened into an anteroom, which side of the dance hall. This doorled to the street.

Seizing a bottle of seltzer water, Mrs. Elmer Cowdrey, wife of the roadhouse owner, squirted its contents at the flame, which puffed at her—bigger and bigger.

A frenzy of fear seized the merrymakers. Screaming, trampling, striking, they surged the east exit—only to discover firemen said, it opened inward. The foremost were flattened against the door and wall by the desperate press of the panic stricken.

Owner Shouts Directions

Leaping to a chair, Cowdrey shouted directions to use the kitchen door. The cries of the guests and crackle of flame drowned his voice.

Forcing back the crowd, the leaders succeeded in opening the door as flames engulfed the dance hall and raced along drapes and streamers. The blazing cloth dropped, bathing the seething throng in a fiery rain. A light wire snapped, painting the place the eerie red of the flames.

Frantic, several patrons trapped by the crowd fighting in the doorway plunged through windows headfirst, oblivious to the gashes torn in their faces and bodies.

Fred Nash, one of the survivors, who escaped to the ante-room, turned as the door jammed shut again, and saw his companion, Robert Wolf, 22, clawing at the glass panel. His clothing and hair was a mass c. flames.

Others had similar experiences, and Mrs. Florence Bronck, who was swept away from her husband, identified his body by a ring he wore.

WEATHER

Toronto, March 25 (CP)—The weather is rather cold from Ontario eastward and it has been mild in the west but is now turning colder with some snow in Northern Alberta.

Lake Superior—Moderate to fresh easterly winds; somewhat milder with some light rain near the Sault.

Kenora and Rainy River—Fresh southeast to south winds; partly cloudy and milder.

Manitoba—Fresh southerly winds; cloudy and quite mild.

Saskatchewan and Alberta—Fresh to strong winds; partly cloudy and mild, becoming colder in northern districts at night.

Coming Events

THURLOW CONSERVATIVE CLUB euchre and dance in the Hall, Cannifton, March 28. Cards 8 o'clock. Good orchestra. Members kindly bring lunch. Admission 25c. M22 25 27

ARMY AND NAVY VETERANS BRANCH 201—General meeting Veterans' Memorial Hall, Tuesday night, March 26, 8 p.m. General business. Members only. M25-2t

SIDNEY CONSERVATIVES ARE HOLDING a dance at Riley's Pavilion, Wednesday, March 27. Admission 25c. Ladies please bring lunch. Everyone welcome. M25-1t

MUSICAL FESTIVAL BY THE SALVATION Army Citadel Band to-night 8 p.m. Silver offering. M25-1t

TO-NITE 8.30 P.M. "AAJMAA CLUB" euchre, best voucher prizes. Euchres every Monday. Thursday evenings and Friday afternoons. Admission 25 cents. M25-1t

$1 Discount on a COMMUNITY PLATE Service for Six By the New Quantity Discount Plan

$25.00

You get your complete service of this loveliest Silverware, at big savings, by this new Quantity Discount Plan. In all the newest, smartest COMMUNITY PLATE designs... Come in and ask for details.

Services come in the new Cameo Gift Case—with its handsome effect of old ivory and ebony.

26 PIECE SERVICE for Six (DeLuxe Stainless Knives)	[illegible] Piece Price	Quantity Discount Plan Price
[illegible]	$29.30	$25.00
[illegible]	32.80	27.00

Miss Claire Andree

SPECIALIST IN HOME ECONOMICS and LECTURER at the DE BOTH HOMEMAKERS' SCHOOL recommends Community Plate for all social and household affairs as being correct. Miss Andree has chosen Lady Hamilton design from our stock to adorn her table at the Homemakers' School in the Capitol Theatre this week.

The firm of Angus McFee, headquarters for Community Plate in Belleville, is pleased to co-operate with the Ontario Intelligencer in the De Both Homemakers' and Cooking School, and offer as a major prize a Lady Hamilton Winged Chest of Silverware.

PRESENTING: COMMUNITY CUT CRYSTAL in COMPLETE SERVICES TO MATCH THE King Cedric, Lady Hamilton and Deauville Designs OF COMMUNITY PLATE

SIX WATER GOBLETS Other pieces in proportion (All Designs Open Stock) $6.00

The new note in distinctive table setting .... goblets, sherbets and plates of shimmering crystal, in the same design as the Silverware.... Beauty, quality to enrich any table. Supremely smart when used with the Community Plate design they match. Come in and see them.

Angus McFee JEWELERS SINCE 1860

City and District News

RECORD LITTER IS DELIVERED

What is believed to be one of the largest litter of living pigs to be delivered in these parts was reported by Percy Ray of Harold recently, when a Chester White brood sow gave birth to 21 living pigs. The event happened early this month and the pigs are still very much alive and growing daily, Mr. Ray reported.

THE ROMANCE OF A BOY AND GIRL WHO TOOK A CHANCE WITH EACH OTHER!

Blind Date

THEY CAME on a bet THEY MET by chance THEY LOVED forever after!

"DU BARRY" 18kt. Gold Border DINNER PLATES MONDAY and TUESDAY

Associate Featurettes Ben Blue Comedy "OUT OF ORDER"

WILL OSBORNE, Melody Master

KRAZY KAT KARTOON

MATINEE MONDAY ONLY

CAPITOL MON. TUES.

Lucky Programme Numbers 1: 45: 72: 86: 23

Today at 2.30: 7.15: 9.10

WED. ONLY, "WONDER BAR"

CHECKER TOURNEY NOW ON AT "Y"

Shortly after noon today the registration of checker players started at the Y.M.C.A. with contestants from many parts of Eastern Ontario being present. President Jas. Livingstone and Secretary Jim Rolston of Picton were on hand to welcome the competing checker players, who will meet this afternoon and evening in an elimination tournament to determine the checker champion of Eastern Ontario. Besides many minor prizes the H. S. Colliver trophy will be awarded the winner with lesser prizes going to runners-up. The tournament is the third annual Easter Ontario checker play-down to take place in the Belleville "Y". Players from Bowmanville, Peterboro and as far east as the Quebec boundary are expected to compete at the "Y" today.

BAY OF QUINTE IS NEARLY CLEAR OF ICE

High winds and a warm sun over the week-end combined to clear the greater part of the Bay of Quinte of its coating of heavy ice. The break-up was reported one of the least noticeable and quietest in years. Boats are now able to traverse the open water of the bay as far as Cow Island, and already on Monday a few fishermen were in the open water engaged in the first of the year's angling.

WILD DUCKS SEEN NEAR LIGHT HOUSE

Following the clearing of the lower section of the local harbor of its ice, scores of wild ducks have been congregating nightly in the Bay of Quinte in the vicinity of the lighthouse, resting for a time before continuing their journey north. On Sunday a flock of nine wild geese were observed splashing and paddling not far from the government dock.

FOUR BOYS OPEN SWIMMING SEASON

Summer may not be here in reality yet, but the swimming season was unofficially reported opened on Saturday when four local youths took advantage of the bright sun to enjoy a dip in the ice cold waters of Bell's Creek east of the city. Although ice still lined parts of the shore of the creek, the boys, William Bateman, Warren Williamson, Edward Galey and Jack Thorne, apparently suffered no ill effects from their hurried splash.

BENEFIT EUCHRE MOST SUCCESSFUL

Nineteen tables of euchre were in play at the Prince of Wales School on Friday evening last on the occasion of the benefit euchre held for Mr. Charles Phelps and family of Thurlow, whose home and possessions in Thurlow were lost through a recent fire. Winners of the games were Mrs. W. Turner, Dorothy McDonald, Earle Pope, F. Markles, A. Watson, A. Fox and Mrs. Pope in order named. The door prize was won by A. Fox. Ladies of the Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion served supper during the evening. Tables for the event were donated by the local branch of the Army and Navy. Dancing was enjoyed afterward to the music supplied by Chas. Goyer's orchestra.

WEEK-END CANDIES
10c Cellophane Bags
AFTER DINNER MINTS
SCOTCH MINTS
HUMBUGS
HONEY and HOREHOUND
MOLASSES KISSES
1 Pound Boxes
PEPPERMINT PATTIES
29c lb.
Ideal Chocolates
BETTY ANN
MOIRS
AUTOGRAPH
50c lb.

McKeown's Drug Store

Wright's Radio Service
312½ Front St. Phone 65
Belleville, Ontario.
M. G. Wright, Manager. Geo. Sweetnam Radiotrician

M 12-H

One Cent Sale OF WRITING PAPER THIS WEEK Ostroms Drug Store

Antacid STOMACH POWDER I.D.A.
Effectively and pleasantly corrects stomach distress.
2 oz. tin Reg. 75c. 49c
At Your I.D.A. Drug Store

PRODUCE GRADER TO ATTEND PARLEY

Representing the local district, Mr. J. L. Irwin, Dominion dairy grader and inspector of dairy produce, will leave the city this evening for Montreal where he will attend the two-day convention of Dominion dairy produce graders and inspectors of dairy produce for the eastern district. The conference will be devoted to a discussion of departmental matters in connection with the industry.

LEGION OFFICIAL ON DISTRICT TOUR

With the purpose of investigating complaints that unauthorized salesmen and collectors had been soliciting funds in this district in the name of the Canadian Legion, Mr. Chas. Young, of the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion, Toronto, is at present in the city engaged in a survey of the matter.

CLEAN STOVE PIPES SAYS FIRE CHIEF

"When spring cleaning, don't forget your stove pipes," Fire Chief William Lynch warned residents of the city today. "Some of the pipes we have examined following alarms to different homes in the city were found to be so choked with soot that we have wondered how the owners ever started a fire in the stove at all. Many of them looked as if they hadn't been taken down in years. These are a menace to any home."

Three calls were answered by the department from Sunday to Monday. The first call to 50 Grier street at 5:30 Saturday afternoon was caused by overheated stove pipes, it was reported. The second call at 6:45 Sunday evening to 83 West Moira street was for the same reason and a third call was to a Front street store at 8:45 Monday morning in response to a blazing chimney.

◆

COUP D'ETAT IN AUSTRIA DENIED

Reported Von Starhemberg Proclaimed Himself Regent

PARIS, March 25—(CP-Havas)—Reports of an attempted coup d'etat in Austria led by Prince Ernest Von Starhemberg, Vice-Chancellor, who was reported to have proclaimed himself Regent after resignation of President Wilhelm Miklas, were denied this afternoon in advices from Vienna.

The newspaper L'Intransigeant was informed from Rumania rumors to this effect were circulating there. The newspaper said the reports were printed "under complete reserve."

Rumors have been circulating aboard with increasing persistence during recent months a monarchy might soon be re-established in Austria with Archduke Otto of the Hapsburgs as ruler.

Reports that this matter was discussed at the talks among Chancellor Kurt Schuschnig, Egon Berger-Waldenegg Austrian Foreign Minister, and British statesmen earlier this year at London were denied in official quarters.

DEBOTH HOMEMAKERS' SCHOOL

under the auspices of THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER at the CAPITOL THEATRE, TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, HURSDAY and FRIDAY, March 26th. to 29th. at 1.30 p.m.

New Ideas at Each Session—Valuable Gifts Daily — be sure to buy your tickets early and please come early to avoid a last minute rush and confusion. Only sufficient tickets will be sold for each session to assure the comfort of all attending.

Please read the Ontario Intelligencer daily for complete details.

'My Lucky Day' Says Nickle Out of Hospital after Wreck

'Maybe My Time Had Not Come' Explains Fireman

IS NOW AT HOME

The blinding glare of a gigantic headlight cutting a dazzling swath of white through the gloom of the early morning. The frantic screech of a locomotive whistle piercingly loud even above the thundering exhaust and rolling wheels of their own engine. The scream and whine of locked wheels skidding solidly on the steel rails as the emergency lever was pulled. Then a thundering crash...... crushing jar that threw them from their feet and hurled them against the red hot boiler ....the brief hiss of steam, escaping from dozens of ruptured joints .... and as the cab and engine folded up, being pinned for what seemed hours, while frantic rescuers worked heroically to free him from the wreckage of his engine.

'Just Lucky' Says Nickle

Those are only a few of the recollections of Mr. Wm. Nickle of Donald street, this city, survivor of one of the major train wrecks of the Canadian National Railways, who arrived back in Belleville on Saturday minus his right leg, after five weeks in Hamilton General Hospital where he had been taken seriously injured following the wreck at Lynden on February 15th. last, when two freight locomotives locked horns on the main line near Brantford during the early morning.

The wreck which killed one of the engineers, George Winchester of Hamilton, besides almost amputating the leg of the local man, resulted in five broken ribs and other severe injuries. Rescuers marvelled that Nickle survived.

"I guess I was just lucky, that's all," Mr. Nickle commented today when interviewed by a reporter of The Daily Ontario Intelligencer. "Maybe my time just hadn't come."

"Describe the accident? Well, I guess there isn't much description you can give of it. Things happened too hurriedly. There wasn't much time to even think."

Train Driven Back

As the two huge locomotives thundered down the tracks toward each other, drawing their quarter mile long string of cars behind them, and both engineers saw that a crash was inevitable as the blinding headlights of both engines met together in a dazzling glare through the early morning fog and darkness, they worked promptly. Sand was applied to the greasy rails for grip and the emergency lever was pulled to the last notch, locking the wheels which slid over the slippery rails.

The force of the impact drove the east bound train 75 feet from the spot where the engines met head-on. Some of the freight cars buckled up, making high piles of bent and broken steel and splintering wood. Other cars toppled down a 15-foot embankment, some resting in the waters of a swollen creek underneath.

Above the hissing of steam from the broken boilers of the engines could be heard the cries of the injured train crews.

Wait For Rescuers

Mr. Nickle did not lose consciousness, but pinned by the leg between tender and boiler, waited in quiet agony for the rescuers who were hastily summoned. Held by the leg he was also pinned by a broken piece of steel which crushed the five ribs. When finally taken from the wreck he attempted feeble jokes with those who carried him to waiting ambulance. He was conscious until the ether given at the hospital mercifully ushered him into temporary oblivion.

"In a wreck like that you don't have time to do very much—not even think," he repeated again today. "You have lots of things to do and generally you're so busy that the crash comes before you know it. Then you're either killed or you're not killed. I guess it was my lucky day."

◆

BAND CONCERT MUCH ENJOYED

Although the attendance was not as large as expected and receipts from the silver collection were correspondingly small, members of the Fifth Belleville Troop of Boy Scouts held an eminently successful concert in the Capitol Theatre on Sunday evening. A perfect program of entertainment was provided by the Argyll Light Infantry band under the capable direction of Ross Hunter. The band was assisted by Mr. Harold Barrett who rendered two solos, and by Miss Nellie Maraskas who gave two readings in her inimitable style. The concert was presided over by Mr. B. C. Sisler, chairman of the evening.

ELECTRICITY offers clean, safe, economical and dependable cooking—it is the modern method.

In using electricity you are helping your own utility.

We expect to announce shortly an attractive proposition for greater use of electrical service.

Belleville Hydro Electric System

"OWNED BY THOSE IT SERVES."

Miss Claire Andree

OF THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER DE BOTH COOKING SCHOOL KEEPS HER WELL SET TABLE DELIGHTFULLY DECORATED WITH FLOWERS FROM DOROTHY QUICK'S FLOWER SHOP

Dorothy Quick's Flowers are Distinctive

Some Lucky Lady in the audience at the Cooking School each day will be presented with the beautiful Bouquet from Dorothy Quick's Flower Shop. Will it be you?

DOROTHY F. QUICK

46 BRIDGE ST. East FLORIST PHONE 2031

POLICE COURT

A local young girl, employed in Belleville as a domestic servant, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a valuable diamond ring from her employed, when she appeared before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C. today. The girl was given a lecture and allowed to return home on a year's suspended sentence. The ring was stolen over one year ago but not reported to the police until recently.

The matter gave the authorities considerable trouble as the girl had traded the stolen ring for another ring. Subsequently the diamond ring was again traded in payment for a motor trip, but eventually was located in a Kitchener home, where the person to possess the ring knew nothing of its history. Plainclothes Constable Isard investigated the matter throughout and traced the ring to its final destination. The ring was shipped back to Belleville by express and turned over to its original owner by the police today. It was a diamond ring valued at $75.00.

A transient giving name as Albert Muir, pleaded not guilty to charge of intoxication, when arraigned before His Worship this morning. After hearing the evidence the court found the accused guilty and meted out a four day sentence, dating from the time of his arrest, Friday. According to police testimony today, Muir applied at the police station for a night's lodging on Thursday last. When the transients were being released on Friday it was discovered, that Muir was intoxicated or under the influence of some drug, he being in a stupor. Muir assured the court, that he was suffering from a headache and had taken a stimulant pill. He attributed this to his condition. His Worship instructed the prisoner to get out of town as his sentence expired today, he having been in custody since Friday morning.

A number of motorists appeared in the court facing various charges laid under the Highway Traffic Act, minimum fines, without costs being assessed. Failure to produce individual driver's permits, operating motor vehicles with defective brakes and other minod infractions of the act constituted the majority of the cases. The testing of motor vehicle brakes is still in progress in this immediate district.

◆

Police News

No serious crime was reported in Belleville olver the week end although the local police department spent a busy two days checking up a number of minor matters. One drunk was taken into custody on Saturday night after causing a disturbance near a local beverage room, from which he had been ejected. Charges will follow.

Local and traffic police have been instructed to enforce fully all motor vehicle laws, which resulted in a number of local motorists being stopped on Saturday for the purpose of testing brakes and other H. T. A. infringements. One trucker was apprehended operating a trailer without the necessary 1935 license plate attached, charges will be laid here also.

On Saturday police investigated a complaint regarding mischievous boys breaking electric light bulbs in the vicinity of Charles Street. It was discovered by the police, that the lads were throwing stones at the city bulbs, causing their destruction. When apprehended an example will be made of these miscreants, police stated today.

W. C. Town, Whitby, damaged his automobile on Front Street on Saturday when he collided with a parked car, the property of Wm. McCreary. Mr. Town had parked his automobile alongside Mr. McCreary's on Front Street. In backing his vehicle out from the curb, the right rear fender of the Town car struck the stationary McCreary auto. The matter was amicable settled between the parties concerned upon the arrival of the police.

Fourteen transients slumbered under warm sleeping facilities at the police station over the week end. Seven on Saturday night and an equal number on the Sabbath.

"It's Worth Seeing"

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE, famous home-making expert, has chosen her correct table-setting display of

China and Crystal from STROUD'S VARIETY STORE

—Specializing in Gifts at Moderate Prices—

◆

WORKERS' GROUP WILL BE FORMED

Central Ontario Body Advocated by Local Association

Unanimous endorsation of the motion to support the formation of a Central Ontario Co-operative Workers' Association, which will embrace the various organizations from Oshawa, Kingston, Trenton, Napanee and intermediate points was given at a meeting of the Belleville Co-operative Workers' Association of this city held in the city hall. The meeting, presided over by President E. J. Baldree, accepted a report of the president on a recent meeting of the Kingston Unemployed Association, newly formed and at which President Baldree was the chief speaker. It was reported that a total registration of one hundred and fifty members has now been made in Kingston.

A resolution expressing the gratitude of the unemployed men of Belleville to Mr. L. F. Greene, superintendent of the Employment Service of Canada office received the unanimous support of members present.

HATS and FURS at the Style Show will be from the regular stock of Woodley's FURRIERS 273 FRONT ST.

Spring Festival of CERTIFIED Hits! Don't Miss One of Them

FUNNIEST CHARACTERS SEEN IN ONE PICTURE

Ruggles is one of those rare pictures that you will think about the next day and advise your friends to see . . .

Adolph Zukor presents "RUGGLES OF RED GAP" with CHARLES LAUGHTON · MARY BOLAND CHARLIE RUGGLES · ZASU PITTS ROLAND YOUNG · LEILA HYAMS From Harry Leon Wilson's story Directed by Leo McCarey... A Paramount Picture

Plus—BELLE NEWS — "OUR GANG" in "HONKEY DONKEY"

Daily at 2.30 7.10 9.10 Feature at 3.00 7.40 9.30

BELLE TODAY & TUESDAY

WEDNESDAY — CLARKE GABLE, CONSTANCE BENNETT in "AFTER OFFICE HOURS"

STRIPPED ISLAND FORTS OF CANNON FOR CRIMEAN WAR

History of Strongholds on Prince Edward Island

COL. DAWSON'S STORY

History Rolled Back to Early Days of Canada

Charlottetown, March 25—(CP)—Rolling back the years, Col. Ulric Dawson told a service club here of the stirring days when British military leaders planned the defence of Charlottetown.

Following the fall of Louisburg in 1758, he said, "a British force sailing into Charlottetown harbor captured the small French garrison at Port La Joie and ran up British flag, the governor, the intendant and the garrison being carried back to England where they were liberated after the treaty of Paris in 1763.

The British government at first decided that the Islanders, pursuing the simple and even tenor of their way, did not invite attack. But in 1774 American ships of war came into Charlottetown, carried off Governor Callbeck (who was then administering the affairs of the colony) and so an elaborate defence was planned.

Major Hierlihy brought out four companies of militia with architects and engineers. They built the first barracks in 1778. This was used as a garrison post till the arrival of Captain Holland when an elaborate scheme of defending Charlottetown, Princetown and Georgetown were drawn up.

Four forts were built, Col. Dawson recounted, "Fort George on the site on what is now the Esplanade, Port Edward at what was later known at Victoria Park, Fort Amherst on the Keppoch side, and Fort La Joie."

The most extensive scheme was in Charlottetown, which was laid off in military style with 15 miles of streets.

Fort George was the largest of the forts, being equipped with 24-pound guns, the others being 18-pounders.

"The fort in Charlottetown was well built", continued the speaker. "It had high earthen escarpments with deep ditches. A field battery of six guns and the barracks were large enough to accommodate a complete regiment. An imperial garrison of 800 men were stationed there."

When war threatened between Britain and Russia in the Crimea all the Imperial troops were withdrawn from Charlottetown. Great Britain did not have enough artillery at home and so sent warships to Prince Edward Island to gather up the guns. One of these slipped from its sling on being taken from Fort La Joie and lay on the beach for many years afterwards. Today it may be seen in a perpendicular position in front of Hughe's drug store."

◆

Self-Criticism In Modern Girl

Montreal March 25—(CP)—The girl of today may be hard, selfish and irreverent, but she is also courageous, self-reliant, frank and, in the opinion of Miss Ellen K. Bryan, vice-principal of the Trafalgar School for Girls, vastly superior to the Victorian miss who was inclined to go into vapors and call weakly for the smelling salts.

The modern girl's defects, like her virtues, said Miss Bryan grew out of the times. The speeding up of life by modern science, the general increase of knowledge, the weakening of family life and the emphasis in present day education on self-expression were chief factors in forming her character. Miss Bryan believed the answer to much of the criticism of youth would come from youth itself.

◆

Women Urged To Curb Self-Pity

Montreal, March 25—(CP)— Because of her very sphere in life, woman is apt to be driven in more and more upon herself, and to arrive at a state of pitying herself, losing sight of her own value, power and dignity, Archdeacon A. P. Gower-Rees told a women's gathering here.

Our ancestors, Archdeacon Gower-Rees reminded his audience, were not born with crowns on their heads but had to pass through different stages of development. Women came from the cave to the home, from the home to the cottage and from the cottage to the palace. They should recognize the "hidden splendor" in themselves and others in order that the upward climb of the race should continue.

◆

NATIVE ARMY IN FILM

London, March 25—(CP)— About 20,000 natives of Central Africa will appear in the film "Sanders of the River" based on Edgar Wallace's novel, which is to be shown for the first time at Leicester Square Theatre on April 2.

See

C-I-L

CILUX ENAMELS

Demonstrated at the

DeBoth

HOME MAKERS' SCHOOL

this week

at the

CAPITOL THEATRE

Cilux Enamels are chosen because they are so quick and easy to use and produce such a beautiful, lasting finish.

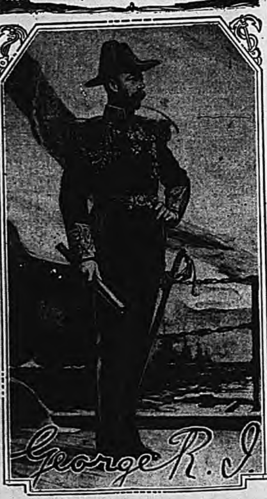
• An attractive sewing cabinet finished with Cilux Enamels will be given away each day. See one of these cabinets on display in our store.
Cilux Enamels are but one of the complete line of C-I-L Paint Products sold by

WHITE HARDWARE CO.

267 Front Street. Telephone 323

THERE IS A C-I-L PAINT FOR EVERY PURPOSE

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee



The New King as Admiral of the Fleet

ALONG with his task of being King, George was also admiral of the fleet and field-marshal of the army.

Our picture to-day shows a painting of the King in his favorite uniform, as admiral. The painting was presented to Sir Henry Pellat of Toronto, signed by the King, on the occasion of his accession to the throne.

It was in 1910 that Sir Henry Pellatt, as colonel of the Queen's Own Rifles took a battalion of 750 men to England to take part in the military manoeuvres at Aldershot.

The presentation was made before the coronation of the King which did not take place until June 2, 1911. Before that, another elaborate ceremony was held at Carnarvon in Wales, after much dispute as to whether it would be held in Cardiff or Carnarvon. The ceremony was the investiture of the Young Prince Edward as Prince of Wales.

TORRENTIAL RAINS IN INDIA

Lahore, March 25—(CP)— Houses collapsed and the finals in the Indian polo tournament were postponed for weeks as the result of torrential rains in this district.

WORLD'S RECORD STILL UNBEATEN

Hose Cart And Coupling Race Mark Set in 1892

Saint John, N.B., March 25—(CP)—"They talk of 'iron men' ever so often. We were and still are iron men", proudly declared A. V. DeWolfe, Saint John, recalling a world's record he and nine other men established nearly 43 years ago. This record, set for the 300-yard hose cast and coupling race in days when firemen's sports meets were popular, was achieved at Charlottetown, P.E.I. in the summer of 1892 and has yet to be beaten.

The Wellington No. 1 Hose Company running team of St. Stephen, N. B., accomplished the feat in 42 seconds, battering by 2 3-4 seconds thep revious world's record established by a team from Chicopee Falls, N.Y.

All ten members of the former St. Stephen aggregation are still living, their ages averaging 70. DeWolfe was poleman and G. R. Ryder now chief of the St. Stephen fire department, acted as hydrant man of the Wellington team when the record was set in competition with firemen of the Maritime Provinces and Maine.

Four others still living in St. Stephen are James Lindsay, coupler for the champion squad ;W. S. Stevens, leader; W. L. Grant, poleman and Charles Dick, ropeman. Two have been residing in Bangor, Me., for years: W. St. John Murray, assistant coupler and A. C. V. Smythe, ropeman. The remaining pair went farther afield. S. H. Stevenson, the other leader, now lives at Sydney, N.S., and Henry Chisholm ropeman, moved to Manchester, N.H.

Houlton, Bangor, and Calais in Maine; Woodstock, Sussex, Fredericton, Moncton, St. Stephen and Saint John in New Brunswick; Halifax and Charlettetown were represented at the tournament in 1892. Seven teams competed in the hose cart and coupling race, a "dry" event.

Averaging only 130 pounds per man, the St. Stephen team included very fast runners. Grant, able to dash 100 yards in 10 seconds, was a noted sprinter. At the time of its victory the Wellington entry had been in existence five years. The light border athletes required 38 1-2 seconds for the run and spent 3 1-2 seconds in coupling up.

Hose carts weighed the regulation 600 pounds and contestants used the service hose, 250 feet long. Wooden hydrants with the regular coupling were set up in the park.

Before unreeling their hose in the 300-year race the teams ran about 275 yards. When the branch line was fastened to the end of the hose, two judges made a check to see the rules had been followed. For every quarter turn the judge found they could take on the branch pipe the team involved was penalized half a second.

◆

MANY ILLITERATE RETARD PROGRESS

Prof. MacDonald Favors Monument in Nova Scotia

Halifax, March 25—(CP)— Professor A. B. MacDonald of the Extension Department of St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish, N.S. estimates "from 10 to 40 percent of the population is illiterate" in many of the fishing, rural and poorer urban sections of Nova Scotia.

While vast sections of the adult population of the province based their understanding of its perplexing problems on "the flimsy background of little more than supplementary schooling," he declared in a lecture here, it was "futile" to expect much progress and impossible to arrive at a solution of present difficulties.

Knowing nothing of the complex society in which they live, and ignorant, even, of the tremendous social changes of the last half century, they fell an easy prey to false social and economic propaganda.

In his opinion, Nova Scotia was "suffering from the effects of an economic system that had ceased to function."

For years the Antigonish professor has ben advocating the co-operative movement to Nova Scotian community dwellers. In eastern Nova Scotia where the movement is most popular, many communities and their inhabitants have become self-supporting by agreeing to pool capital and resources for the common good.

That, he claims, is the best solution of the present problem of Nova Scotia and the world in general. In England, 7,000,000 workers have banded together for carrying on business and own and control factories, wholesale and retail stores and transportation systems, banks, insurance, restaurants, farms, and other undertakings. Last year, a profit of $130,000,000 went back to the workers from the huge undertaking.

Mere financial gain was not the only benefit of such a movement, he contended. From it the individual would emerge dignified and refined, fit to enjoy the cultural advantages of the modern world. Living as we do today, the average person has no time to go in search of the aesthetic. People should live, not exist."

THE M. W. LOCKE SHOE

by Dr. Locke, of Williamsburg, Ont.)
(The only shoe designed and approved

Worn by Miss Andree at The DeBoth Cooking School

Miss Andree not only wears M. W. Locke Shoes for the comfort and support she receives, but also on account of the smartness in appearance. Locke Shoes not only correct foot ailments but also keep the normal foot in a normal condition, allowing a proper functioning of the muscles and ligaments of the foot.

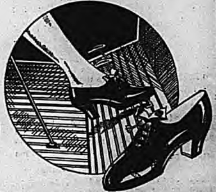
Every woman should wear M. W. Locke Shoes. If your feet tire easily, if you suffer with pain and burning sensations, soreness, etc., in your feet, don't punish yourself any longer. M. W. Locke Shoes will not only relieve your foot trouble, but will bring about a correction, they wil lallow the foot to function normally. When evening comes you will not be tired out, but will be quite fresh. M. W. Locke Shoes relieve the strain on the muscles that support the bones of your foot and in so doing relieve the strain on the various muscles of the body. It is not necessary to put up with your foot trouble any longer; be fitted with M. W. Locke Shoes now and your foot trouble will soon be a thing of the past.

The new Spring styles are very smart in appearance and at the same time retain all the corrective features of these famous shoes.

Naborhood will be pleased to show these shoes and explain how they will relieve your foot condition. These shoes are fitted by experts who are thoroughly trained in the knowledge of shoe fitting and the science of giving foot comfort.

FREE

NABORHOOD SHOE STORES ARE GIVING FREE ONE PAIR OF THESE FAMOUS M. W. LOCKE SHOES DURING THE DE BOTH COOKING SCHOOL



NABORHOOD SHOE STORE

"WHERE SHOE FITTING IS A SERVICE"

242 Front Street. Phone 919

Glace Bay, N.S., March 26—(CP)—Some Cape Breton waters have been stocked with Rainbow trout during the last few years and anglers this summer will have their first chance to try their skill with the famous fighting beauties from the Pacific. The season opens July 1 and closes Oct. 31.

For native trout the season opens April 16 and closes two weeks earlier than usual, Aug. 31.

"It's no trouble

—I have a Telephone in the Kitchen"

When you are busy in the kitchen and friends telephone, or you have an order to give the grocer, it is always troublesome to have to go to a telephone in another part of the house.

The modern housewife has a telephone in the kitchen where she can use it quickly and conveniently, save time and extra steps, and prevent spoiled cooking and endless annoyance.

You can have an extension telephone in your kitchen for only a few cents a day. Any Bell Telephone employee will be glad to give you particulars and see that your order is promptly carried out.

G. W. PROCTOR
Manager.

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER
THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

LATE HON. T. McGARRY

The late "Tom" McGarry, treasurer in the Provincial Cabinet of the Hon. Sir William Hearst, died the other day at Toronto after years of retirement from public life, which set in when the Hearst regime fell in 1919 before the United Farmer forces.

Mr. McGarry was a visitor to Belleville and Hastings and during the years of his public life addressed one large political gathering or more in this county.

He had spent twenty years in public life from a young man at the age of twenty-eight until at the age of forty-eight he bowed before the United Farmer onslaught.

The late former treasurer was a characteristic figure, of a heavy physical type but an Irish vehemence and energy which made him popular.

ASSESSMENTS AND TAXES

Cities and towns are spending these days troubling their councils about the tax rate. Toronto had had its own time and Hamilton is still fighting for itself. Hamilton is pointing to Toronto as having a difference of assessment and of tax rate, and warns the people not to be so unwise as to compare one tax rate and another without considering the differences of assessment. It has been suggested that Hamilton cut its tax rate by raising its assessment, in order to induce people, who do not know any better to locate themselves and their industries in this city. The Spectator says:

"A lower tax rate, with a higher assessment, might influence those unacquainted with business, but not a shrewd industrialist, who knows all about the effect of assessments upon the tax bill.

"As a matter of fact, the proposal could not be carried out, legally, for the Assessment Act of the Province requires that property shall be assessed at its actual value, and imposes penalties for assessors who break this law. The usual basis of assessment is the rent obtainable, over a number of years, taking good years with bad, less the taxes and expenditures necessary to keep the property in repair. The actual value differs from the speculative value, which in good times is above the assessment and in bad times soetimes below it.

"The lesson to be derived from the report of the committee is that it is unfair to compare the tax rate of one municipality with the tax rate of another, without taking into consideration the difference in assessment. As a city increases in size its property values rise also, and this automatic increase, which may not affect the tax rate at all, adds to the revenue of the city corporation through rising assessments. Toronto is a far larger city than Hamilton and therefore its property values and assessments are higher. Legally assessments cannot be artificially raised, nor would such an increase be desirable."

This year Belleville City Council will have the task as usual of handing down a tax rate. There is of course, hope that there will be no increase but perhaps a slight lowering of the rate if such should be possible.

Councils everywhere recognize the duty of keeping the rate down to the lowest possible in order to help the distressed portion of the taxpayers, to whom every dollar counts.

YOUTH STILL SMILES ON WAR

It is interesting to speculate how long the institution of war could be maintained if it were impossible to persuade all young, untried soldiers that the affair was a gay and romantic adventure.

The young fellow who is starting off for the front invariably goes with a song and a smile. How he comes back may be something else again; but at least he starts out with the conviction that the sky is blue, hat he is a stout fellow, and that unimaginable excitement and glamorous doings are ahead of him.

All this was called to mind recently by publication of a newspaper photograph showing a contingent of Italian troops embarking for Africa. It was a traditional photograph of its kind; grinning, hilarious young men waving their guns, fondling their guns and laughing; heads protruding from car windows, eager faces expressing all the gay anticipation of youth beginning a high adventure.

And to look at it is to feel a deep regret that experience is, after all, the only teacher to which youth will listen.—Kitchener Record.

INCREASED EXPORTS TO EMPIRE COUNTRIES

Canada's domestic exports to British Empire countries in February, amounting in value to $24,971,000, were an increase of 46 per cent. over February, 1934, when the total was $17,027,000. Exports to the United Kingdom at $19,714,000 were also a 46 per cent. increase. A year ago the total was $13,478,000.

Exports to Empire countries were 14 per cent. greater than the $21,748,000 to foreign countries, and to Great Britain were 26 per cent. higher than the $15,573,000 to the United States. The latter, however, was an eight per cent. increase over a year ago.

There were six other countries to which exports to the value of over half a million dollars went in February, all of them being increases: Australia $1,590,000 or 127 per cent., British South Africa, $1,102,000 or 87 per cent., New Zealand, $723,000 or 189 per cent., British West Indies, $540,000 or 25 per cent., Belgium, $626,000 or 16 per cent., Japan, $1,247,000, an increase of $6,000.—Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

PUBLIC WANTS CLEANLINESS

Standards are changing. The "leg-shows" and mawkish romances have had a long innings, too long even for this artificial age. So it is back to decency and the homely moralities, upon which, after all, society is founded and without which it cannot endure. One fact at least has been established—the public does appreciate clean, wholesome sentiment, the "classics" of literature can be made to pay, even when served up in the form of pictures for the entertainment of all and sundry.—Hamilton Spectator.

WILDLIFE CONSERVATION

The Select Committee on Conservation of Wildlife Resources, created pursuant to a resolution of the Seventy-third Congress, has brought in a report that is disquieting. First, it is stated, as a result of its extensive investigations and hearings that there is not only a steady decrease of game and fish, but a corresponding increase in the number of hunters and fishermen, due partly to the increased number of the unemployed and partly to the increased interest in outdoor life. And as to land wildlife, there is an alarming decrease due to drainage, deforestation, erosion, fire, disease, water pollution and the increasing number of hunters. An ironic instance is furnished in the complete devastation (through drainage) of an area which, by proclamation of President Theodore Roosevelt, was set apart as nurseries for wild fowl. "Ding," now "Mr. Darling, chief of the United States Bureau of Biological Survey" gave like testimony about another area in the same State (Oregon), once the greatest breeding ground for wildlife and water fowl in the country. Water has been led off for irrigation purposes, but the extravagant enterprise has failed; meanwhile the wildlife has disappeared.

These are but instances of what is going on in many parts of the country. This means not only a ecoomic loss by reason of the destruction of certain industries ("the fishing industry represents a billion dollar business"), but the devastation of a recreational estate that belongs to the whole nation.

A few years ago the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association, in gathering information concerning the relative news value of hunting and fishing material as compared with that in other outdoor sports, found that in fourteen States there were 4,420,876 people interested in hunting and fishing as compared with a combined total of 4,916,652 in baseball, football and golf. Statistics are also cited showing that 13,000,000 people in the United States go to the trouble of taking out hunting and fishing licenses.—New York Times.

MORE MONEY COMING IN

An encouraging report has been submitted by Hon. R. C. Matthews, Minister of National Revenue, to the effect that customs, excise and income tax receipts havxe increased $24,724,488 during the 11 months ended February 28, in comparison with corresponding period in 1933-34. During Februtry, there was a furthern gain of $1,194,421.

This is added evidence of the progress being made toward national recovery and should help to restore a measure of optimism in the hearts of those who still feel inclined to doubt.—Border Cities Star.

WILD FLOWERS

Papers in Victoria are discussing the need for legislation in British Columbia devised to protect the wild flowers which are the just pride of that Province. Any measure that will help to preserve the flora of the Canadian countryside deserves support. Legislation, however, is often difficult to enforce, except perhaps, in the national parks. What is most needed is the arousing of public opinion.

There is a type of "tripper" from the cities who wantonly pulls up flowers by the roots. Another sort picks blossoms which will not keep and then casts them wantonly by the roadside. The public can be educated upon these points and a great majority of citizens are doubtless willing to conform to reasonable standards. The human "locusts" who swarm over the cuntryside despoiling every flower should be objects of popular scorn. Your real flower-lover picks with knowledge and discretion, enjoying flowers in the field no less than in the vase at home.—Montreal Star.

The road to success, in such cases, is any road that leads away from your darned relatives.—Fountain Inn (S.C.) Tribune.

SIDELIGHTS

THE HOME FORUM

Discussing the events of the day, home gossip and general news topics as revealed by the home newspaper—under the evening lamp—and comments Grave and Gay. — Supervised by The Lamplighter.

IN LOVE'S LAND

I have come to a land that is strange,
To a country unvisioned before,
Although glimpsing no hint of change
In the vista beyond my door.

Though I have not gone past the lane
Where the bougainvilleas twine
Earth whirls to a new refrain
And the air is as sweet as wine.

As of old, still the camphor hedge sways
And the palm trees stand etched on the sky;
But I walk in love's land through glad days
And the song on my lips will not die.

O, the world has a look more bright,
It is fairer than ever I guessed
Since your lips met mine that night
And my life in yours came to rest!

—Aline Michaelis.

x x x

IT HAS BEEN WELL SAID that there is no such thing as old age in humans, people are just as old as they feel—and other alibis, but listen to this: Chief of Police J. C. Ruse, of Cobourg, celebrated his 76th birthday recently, is on the job every day, and is listed as a "tough hombre" by "wrong-uns" familiar with the communities which adjoin the rails of the old Grand Trunk railway. Chief Ruse hasn't joined the motor car riders yet, preferring to ride his bicycle which has carried him far and faithfully for many years. He is the only surviving member of the original Chief Constables Association of Canada, and his health, vigor and abounding good nature are certainly remarkable. Among the things which help to keep young Chief Ruse young, no doubt, may be mentioned the fact that he gets up early every morning—he has to, as well as everybody else within sound of that six o'clock bell, which has been rung regularly for years in Cobourg from the Town Hall, although sworn at and abused generally by commercial travelers and tourists trying to get a little extra a.m. sleep, in the hotels near by. However, joking aside, Chief Ruse is an early riser, bell or no bell, and the evil-dooer has to get up very early in the yawning to get ahead of Chief Ruse. Congratulations young fellow, and many happy returns of the day.

x x x

THERE DIED IN HONG KONG on Sunday, March 17, a man, out of the ordinary, one of those hardy souls for whom the whole wide world is none too large for his penchant to roam to gratify his love of the sight of new places and new faces, the love of adventure and distaste for anything approaching the humdrum in life, Dr. Anson Scott Donaldson, D.S.O., veteran of the South African and Great War, and holder of many decorations for bravery and distinguished service to the Empire in emergencies. Dr. Donaldson died in a Hong Kong hospital whither he had been taken from the Canadian Pacific Steamship Empress of Japan, of which he was medical officer, being distinguished as the Commodore Surgeon of the Canadian Pacific Steamships Pacific Fleet. In accordance with his wish the body will be cremated and the ashes scattered on the broad bosom of the Pacific ocean which he loved so well. Born in Brockville, Anson Donaldson was a medical student at McGill University when he volunteered for service in South Africa at the outbreak of the Boer War as a trooper in Lord Strathcona's Horse. Returning with the Queen's Medal and five clasps, he received his medical degree from McGill, and carried out post-graduate studies in Edinburgh. Next he joined the British expedition into Somaliland, South Africa, for which he was awarded another medal. For a time he served as medical officer with a mining company in German West Africa. Returning to Canada he took up medical practice in Calgary until the outbreak of the Great War when he again joined the colors, sailing with the first division in October as Captain of No. 3 Canadian Field Ambulance. He received the Distinguished Service Order and other decorations for gallant achievements under fire, and served through the entire war, returning to Calgary to take charge of a military hospital. The far places again called him and he joined the C.P.R. Pacific passenger fleet as medical officer. He was a gallant gentleman and a real Canadian.

REASONS FOR FASCINATION OF BASEBALL

Baseball Game is Better Tonic Than Gallon of Medicine

By Louis E. Bisch, M. D., Ph. D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

Copyright 1935
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The fascination of baseball can be scarcely equalled by any other form of exhibition. To say that the game is simple, easy to follow, clean, above-board, inexpensive, or that it gets you out-of-doors—each of these reasons is valid, but still not one of them gets down to the basic reasons for the amazing popularity of the national sport.

Usually, a game's greatest appeal is the fun and recreation one derives from participation. But witness the thousands upon thousands that attend professional baseball games. These people don't play baseball—they merely look at baseball. I dare say half the enthusiastic baseball fans have never even played the game as children.

There is a psychology behind baseball's drawing power that is not evident on the surface. In the first place, you are, by nature and instinct, crowd-minded. You like to be with a large group of people. The larger that group, the better you like it.

Crowds give a feeling of security, friendliness, a sense of oneness of purpose that thrills you. When you are in a large crowd, you let yourself go. You no longer bother about how you look, what people think. You forget these conventions that hem you in and more or less stifle you during your every-day routine. At a baseball game, you can shout all you please, yell what you please, slap your neighbor on the back without giving offense.

In a baseball crowd, you're a child again, free to let your emotions go. You forget you have a personality; you let your ego merge with the hundreds or thousands who surround you, and this gives you a feeling of comforting relief.

The rapid and often unexpected rise and fall of sentiment for and against the game and individual players exercises the emotions and produces a sensation of having endured life and experience, without having undergone any of the hardships.

Now you are elated, now you are depressed. What's the odds? It's only a game!

Then again, baseball doesn't put a strain on your intellectual powers. Your work makes you think, and thinking makes you tired. Thinking is relegated to the background when you see a ball game. Feeling takes the place of thinking.

Baseball brings the other side of you to the fore—the side you usually hold in check and repress. A baseball game is better tonic than a gallon of medicine!

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

Many persons suffer from a tendency to general acidity as well as the production of gas after eating. Such persons should ask themselves whether they are not, perhaps, eating too much white bread. For such individuals, whole wheat, rye bread or pumpernickel are more desirable. All other white flour products, such as rolls and biscuits, should be avoided.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 Years Ago

MARCH 25TH, 1915

At 2.30 this afternoon the patriotic barometer, which is suspended in front of the Patriotic Association headquarters on Bridge street, showed that up to that hour $17,000.00 had been subscribed towards the fund. The members of the various teams are working hard.

The following scores were made recently by members of the Belleville Rifle Association: J. Douch 100; W. J. Andrews 99; A. Symons 98; C. C. Walker 98; L. R. McMullen 97; A. Harman 96; H. C. Thompson 95; C. J. Symons 94 H. Sneyd 94; H. Weese 92; W. Alford 92, D. J. Corrigan 92, W. Al- Matheson 90; P. Geen 88.

Messrs Geo. H. Stokes and Thomas H. Mouck, clerk and treasurer respectively of Hungerford township have retired from office. The former had served for 14 years and the latter for 4 years. Mr. A. B. Collins, barrister, Tweed, succeeds to the clerkship and Mr. Wesley E. Badgley, formerly of Hungerford has been appointed treasurer.

30 Years Ago

MARCH 25TH, 1905

At a meeting of the Belleville Board of Trade it was moved by Mr. J. P. Wills that the council of the Board of Trade and the Retail Merchants' Association meet and endeavor to devise some means to free the bay bridge on certain days and to interview the government in regard to having it ultimately made a public highway, the negotiations to be reported at the next regular meeting. The motion was carried. The committee which has been investigating the bridge matter is composed of Ald. Gordon, Mr. C. M. Reid, Mr. Chas. Clapp, Mr. C. B. Scantlebury and Col. Ponton, and they are the right men in the right place.

A democrat wagon came to grief on Front street this morning by the breaking of an axle.

40 Years Ago

MARCH 25th., 1895.

Vessel men are beginning to think of fitting out their craft.

Several robins were seen yesterday and today and spring may now be considered to have arrived.

Chas. Welsh, teamster for Jas. Meagher, found a beef hide on Moira street on Saturday and left it at Mr. Meagher's shop where the owner may claim it.

Messrs. Greenleaf and Sons are showing bicycles of their own manufacture. The bikes look equal to any offered in the city and will be sold for much less than the imported wheels.

If the mild weather continues an early break up of the Moira river may be looked for. The ice from Walker's foundry is cracked and twisted and about a hundred yards of ice below the dam shoved down just before noon.

50 Years Ago

MARCH 25th., 1885.

Easter cards are making their appearance.

The curlers' dinner which is to be held at Hambly's on Friday night promises to be highly successful.

Help Kidneys

- If Kidney Trouble or Bladder Weakness makes you suffer from Getting Up Nights, Nervousness, Dizziness, Rheumatism, Stiffness, Burning,
- Smarting, Itching or Acidity try the Doctor's prescription Cystex (Siss-tex). Must end your troubles in 8 days or money back. Only 75c at druggists.

Tomorrow will be opening day in the millinery departments of Messrs. Geo. Ritchie and Co., Brignall and Thompson and A. N. Reid and Co. It will be a gala day for the ladies.

Ald. Petrie's notice of by-laws, given in the last council meeting for repealing the by-laws providing for the removing of snow from foot walks within the city limits and the regulating of speed of vehicles when crossing the bridges was, he said, prompted by the conviction that it is better not to have these by-laws, than to have them on the books and not be enforced. He thinks that it is vicious to have laws which people are allowed to violate with impunity, as it leads to contempt of or indifference to other laws of more importance, perhaps, to the community.

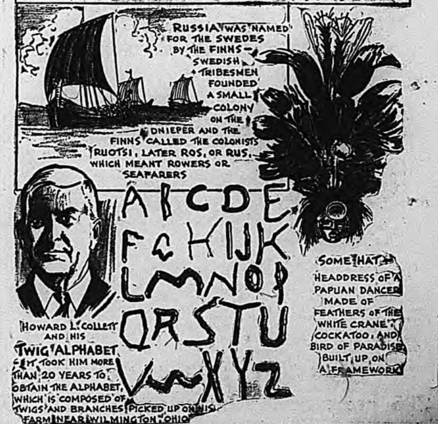
A Thought for Today

"And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are: for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward."

—St. Matthew 6:5.

STOPPED-UP NOSTRILS
due to colds.
Use Mentholatum to help open the nostrils and permit freer breathing.
MENTHOLATUM
Gives COMFORT Daily

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK By R. J. Scott



RUSSIA WAS NAMED FOR THE SWEDES BY THE FINNS—SWEDISH TRIBESMEN FOUNDED A SMALL COLONY ON THE DNIEPER AND THE FINNS CALLED THE COLONISTS RUOTSI, LATER ROS, OR RUS, WHICH MEANT ROWERS OR SEAFARERS
A B C D E
F G H I J K
L M N O P
Q R S T U
V W X Y Z
HOWARD L. COLLETT AND HIS TWIG ALPHABET —IT TOOK HIM MORE THAN 20 YEARS TO OBTAIN THE ALPHABET, WHICH IS COMPOSED OF TWIGS AND BRANCHES PICKED UP ON HIS FARM NEAR WILMINGTON, OHIO
SOME HAT— HEADDRESS OF A PAPUAN DANCER MADE OF FEATHERS OF THE WHITE CRANE, COCKATOO, AND BIRD OF PARADISE, BUILT UP ON A FRAMEWORK

CITY CHARTER RILES VOTERS

Man Who Paid up Tax Arrears Can't Vote

St. John's, Nfld., March 25 —(CP)—Here is a case where a man who has not paid his taxes will be allowed to vote, but the man who has paid his taxes will have to forget about the municipal council by-election to take place here April 8.

P. E. Outerbridge has resigned from the Council, and the City Charter has produced an anomalous situation relative to the voting powers of eligibles. Section 15 demands a ratepayers list be prepared every four years. The last one was compiled in 1933. Section 8 demands that voters "be not indebted to the St. John's Council for any arrears of taxes; and are duly enrolled on the voters list."

The past legislators made provisions for a general election of the Mayor and the Councillors but they forgot about election list. So all who were in arrears as at October 31, 1933, and who have since paid up their tax arrears and current taxes will not be permitted to vote, because their names were not on the list. All who were on the voters' list in 1933 and have since gone in arrears will be entitled to place the "X" opposite candidates.

◆

ROOSEVELTS EAT ROADSIDE LUNCH

President and Bride of 30 Years Ago Celebrate With Picnic

New York, March 25—(CP)—The thirtieth anniversary of the wedding of President and Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, which fell on March 17 was celebrated by a roadside picnic luncheon and a chafing dish supper in the White House. The chafing dish was a wedding present 30 years ago and Mrs. Roosevelt uses it all the time for scrambling eggs on Sunday nights.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt, with their daughter, Anna, and her husband, John Boettiger, and their two children, Anna Eleanor and Curtis Roosevelt Dall ("Sistie" and "Buzzie"), packed a box lunch into an automobile about noon and set out for a drive along the Maryland side of the Potomac.

In addition to the chafing dish, the Roosevelts had to remind them of the events of 30 years ago the chatelaine watch which the President gave his bride and which she has worn since, and the old-fashioned oval locket bearing the Roosevelt crest and their entwined initials, which was an engagement present and has been worn since on a small gold chain.

◆

AMUNITION DUMP EXPLODES

Harbin, Manchuria, March 25 —(AP)—One Manchoukuan soldier was the only known casualty today in the series of three terrific explosions last night in a Manchurian army munition dump at Gondatievka, a suburb.

Announcing
Advance Spring Showing
Queen Dresses
Tuesday, March 26th

You are cordially invited to inspect this showing of the latest models. A representative of this firm will be here for the purpose of taking special orders.

NELLIE SMITH

Kresge Building (Upstairs), 266 Front St. Belleville

ZaSu Pitts, Mary Boland and Charlie Ruggles in "Ruggles of Red Gap" now on the Belle screen.

HANDSHAKE ONLY WHEN PREFERRED

National Gallery in London Scene of An Unusual Reception

London, March 25—(CP)—An unusual reception held in London was participated in by the Duke and Duchess of York. It was a soirce given in the National Gallery in Trafalgar Square by the trustees to members of the National Art Collections Fund to mark the completion of the artificial lighting of the famous gallery, and was the first evening function ever held there. It lasted until midnight.

The Duke and Duchess and 3,000 famous men and women followed each other into the redecorated Florentine Room unannounced. Sir Philip Sassoon and Sir Robert Witt the hosts, shook hands with their guests in turn, while at the entrance an attendant murmured "Keep to the left if you don't want to shake hands; to the right if you do."

Guests were warned not to bring cars because of the difficulty of parking. There were no refreshments of any kind.

The artificial lighting of the galleries which has been designed to allow them to remain open later in the winter evenings, and perhaps at night, was voted a success by everyone.

◆

OFFICIAL VISITS MINERVACHAPTER

Sister Susan Reid, D. D. G. M. Conducts Inspection of Officers

Minerva Chapter 138 held a very interesting meeting Friday night at Moose Auditorium. The occasion was the annual inspection of officers by Sister Susan Reid of Bancroft, D.D.G.M., of District 12. Following the usual mode of opening, the initiation of candidates in ritualistic form was splendidly exemplified by the officers interspersed with community singing of familiar old hymns which added greatly to the dignity and solemnity of the work.

The visiting officer kindly criticized and complimented the W. M. Sister Laura Hyde and W. P. Brother William Coles and other officers most heartily for their excellent work. Mrs. Reid took for the subject of her address, "The Heroines of the Five Points of the Star," closing with "I'd dip into the golden urn and speak that little word 'fraternity'."

Speeches were made by visiting officers from the throne, each of whom had a word of praise and sympathetic understanding, Miss Irene Hallam, No. 55, Mrs. Aselstine, Napanee, Mrs. Cornish, Mrs. Barlow, P.D.D., W.G.M., Mr. Barlow, Jr., Mr. Cornish and Mr. Barlow, Sr., all of Belleville, Mr. Anderson and Mr. Boyd, Grand Executive. A large mystery box was presented to the guest of honor on behalf of the officers by Mrs. A. E. Wonnacott to which Mrs. Reid graciously replied.

The hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Browne and Mrs. Wotten.

◆

McNABB'S
FASHION REVUE
at the
CAPITOL THEATRE

CHOSEN AS THE FASHION STORE OF BELLEVILLE

Miss Claire Andree Lecturer of the De Both Homemakers' School

Complete Change in Fashions Every Day

In accord with Miss Andree's good taste—she has chosen McNabb's to display the smartest in women's apparel for Spring and Summer

Deja-Nanty—
These supremely smart frocks are less than twenty dollars —and they look like more than thirty dollars— that is the secret of the singular success of Deja Dresses $19.75

Studio-Styles—
These dresses designed by Orry Kelly are exact copies of those worn by the screen actresses. Reasonably priced at $19.75

DEJA-NANTY and STUDIO STYLES sold exclusively at McNabb's.

The J. A. McNABB Ltd.
254 Front St.

Millinery by Woodley's

Millinery by Woodley's

Obituary

LATE SAMUEL J. WEDDEN

Many friends were in attendance at the funeral of Samuel John Wedden which took place from his late residence, 106 North Front Street, Saturday afternoon. An impressive service was conducted in the home by Bishop Marshall assisted by the Rev. A. L. Geen. At the Belleville cemetery the committal service was conducted by Bishop Marshall.

The late Mr. Wedden was a member of the Belleville Lodge A.F. and A.M., No. 123 and the last rites of the order were conducted in the home and at the graveside by J. Noakes, W.M., of the lodge, Rt. Wor. Bro. H. J. Clarke and Wor. Bro. Fred Chapman.

The bearers were Messrs. J. W. Barlow, W. Harvey, F. Hart, J. Lorimer, Geo. H. Campbell and E. B. Wilbur.

LATE MRS. JAMES HUBBLE

Rawdon, March 25—A large concourse of relatives and friends gathered at Mount Pleasant United Church, Rawdon on Friday afternoon, March 22nd. 1935 to pay a last token of respect to one who has resided in Rawdon for the past fifty-five years in the person of Emily Eliza Ellis relict of the late James Hubble.

Rev. F. G. Joblin, pastor was in charge of the service and was assisted by a former pastor and intimate friend of the family, Rev. W. H. Clarke of Shannonville.

The congregational hymns were "My Faith Looks up to Thee," and "Forever With the Lord." By special request, Mrs. Ray Williams of Hoard's (nee Esther Smith of Mount Pleasant) sang a solo "When I go Home" and the choir rendered as an anthem "Shadows."

Rev. Joblin based his message of comfort from Psalm 35: 14 "As one that Mourneth for his Mother." He gave a vivid picture of the constant thoughtfulness of a loving mother and all that it implies.

Rev. W. H. Clarke in a brief Memorial paid a tribute of appreciation to the life of the deceased.

The bearers were Messrs. John Holmes, Ross Hoard, George Weaver, Frank Smith, Morris Rose and Frank Jeffs.

Beautiful floral tributes covered the casket and were a silent tribute to the esteem of deceased.

Pillow—Mr. and Mrs. Will Hubble, Mount Pleasant; Mr. and Mrs. Hermon Tucker, Tweed.

Double Spray—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hubble, Detroit.

Cross—Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Taylor, Cobourg.

Wreath—Grandchildren, Grant and Edna Hubble.

Spray—Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wrightmeyer and family, Peterborough.

Spray—Mr. David Hubble and daughter Mae, Campbellford.

Basket—Mr. and Mrs. Cutler of Detroit.

Basket—Mr. and Mrs. Moeller, of Detroit.

Spray—Mr. Steersma and Mr. Hippler, Detroit.

Pillow—Staff of Cutler, Moeller, and Hubble, Incorporated, Detroit.

Mrs. Hubble leaves to mourn two sons, William and Frank, and two daughters (Ella), Mrs. H. Tucker of Tweed and (Florence), Mrs. Lewis Taylor of Cobourg.

One daughter Mrs. Nettie Maynes passed to the Great Beyond in 1918.

◆

BIBLES DISTRIBUTED

Montreal, March 25.— More than 1,000 Bibles have been distributed by the Gideons among three of the largest hotels in the city the past week for the convenience of the guests. They replace the old ones which have been sent out to missions.

These new Bibles are of a de luxe edition, elaborately bound, and in the belief of William J. Green, Dominion secretary of the Gideons, will not be exposed to the wear and tear to which the old ones were subjected.

Nell Hamilton and Ann Sothern in "Blind Date" at the Capitol until Tuesday.

2 AUTOISTS GET THREE YEARS

Philadelphia, March 25.— Two men who admitted driving automobiles while drunk were sentenced to serve jail terms of three years each. Judge Edwin A. Lewis said that here after every drunken motorist brought before him would receive the same punishment.

Winnipeg, March 25—(CP)—Donald Morrison, prominent member of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, died here after a brief illness. He was 75. An ardent curler, he was a member of Canada's curling team which played in Scotland in 1925. He was born at Habost, Ness, Scotland.

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE

Beatty BROS. LIMITED

HOME LAUNDRY EQUIPMENT
The Easiest and Most Economical Way to Solve Your Washing and Ironing Problems

Chosen and highly recommended by Miss Andree, noted Lecturer and Home Economics Expert.

Miss Andree will demonstrate the Beatty Home Laundry Equipment at the Ontario Intelligencer Homemakers' School this week.

New Beatty Automatic Ironer
With the new Beatty Automatic Ironer you iron 100 per cent. of your ironing. Every piece in your clothes basket, it will even press men's trousers and steam velvet. Get this new Ironer. It does the work in a quarter the time. No more tired back or aching shoulders with the new Beatty.

The Beatty Basket Washer
The finest electric washer made. Washes faster and cleaner. Has many new and exclusive Beatty advantages. Saves money, saves time, saves clothes.

The cheapest way in the world to wash clothes is with a Beatty. Complete wash-day equipment supplied with this washer.

BEATTY FACTORY BRANCH
225 Front St. Phone 770 F. S. Gibbons Mgr.

WRIGLEY'S P.K. CHEWING GUM PEPPERMINT FLAVOR MADE IN CANADA 4 PIECES

SWEETENS THE BREATH*

*After dining and smoking, pop a Wrigley's P.K. into your mouth. Enjoy the satisfaction of a sweet breath and a cool moist mouth.

C4212 Copyright—Wrigley's, 1935

All Tired Out!

Ever feel that way without having undergone unusual physical exertion?

IT'S PROBABLY YOUR EYES

They affect the whole nervous system and that means the brain and the muscles.

Nerve energy is the commodity most needed to successfully fight the battles of life, and should be conserved by wearing properly fitted glasses in every instance where eyestrain is present.

Get the best in scientific examination and service by letting us take care of your optical requirements.

Phone 185 for an Appointment.

EDWARDS

EYESIGHT SPECIALIST

288 Front St. Phone 185

Official Eye Examiner for Canadian National Railways.

Eyes That Need Glasses Deserve the Best.

Personals

Miss Eva Flarity of Toronto was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Wilbur.

Mrs. S. Turner and Mrs. L. Ceigler have returned home after attending Grand Lodge in Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bradshaw and family, of Toronto, spent the week-end in the city, guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Doyle.

Mayor George O. Tice left on Sunday to attend the convention of Canadian mayors which will be held in Montreal, opening today. He will be out of the city until Thursday.

Mrs. R. M. Elmer and little son, Richard, of London, are the guests of Mrs. J. D. O'Flynn.

Mr. S. B. Wright, general manager of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company, is leaving this week on a business trip to England. Mr. Wright will be accompanied by his daughter, Betty.

Little Evelyn Baldree is confined to her home, Everett Street, through illness.

Miss Marie Benson spent the week-end at her home, Ivanhoe.

Col. W. N. Ponton, K.C., was in Toronto on Thursday attending a meeting of the Benchers of Upper Canada. He also attended a meeting of the County Law Library Committee and "Irish Night" at Sunnyside Lodge.

Mrs. Potts of Stirling, is the guest of Mrs. McTavish, 33 Catherine Street, after having returned from Montreal.

Mrs. G. H. Stobie was hostess at a charming afternoon tea arranged on Saturday in honor of three brides-to-be, Miss Grace Holland, Miss Sylva Ross and Miss Margaret White. The tea table was delightfully arranged with colorful spring flowers. Mrs. C. F. Simpkins and Mrs. George Graham poured tea and those who assisted in serving were Mrs. G. A. Morton, Mrs. R. D. Ponton, Mrs. R. G. Stafford and Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson.

◆

New Way to Clean Porcelain

Women used to worry about the best way to keep the porcelain and tiles in the bathroom gleaming white. So many cleansers are harsh on the hands and will even scratch the surfaces while removing dirt and grime.

Hundreds of women have discovered that a packet of Rinso kept in the bathroom solves all such difficulties. Sprinkle a little Rinso on a damp cloth or make a rich suds with Rinso and it is easy to clean tiling, porcelain and mirrors and leave them glistening with cleanliness. Rinso suds will never scratch any surface.

ARE YOU MISERABLE?

ALL women at some period of their lives need a strengthening tonic like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Hear what Mrs. A. Cluckie of 78 Charles St., Hamilton, Ont., said: "When growing into womanhood I became pale and thin, had not much appetite, suffered from nervous headaches, pains in my back, and cramps. Mother gave me Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I took it until all feminine weakness was corrected. Soon my appetite improved, I had better color and all pain as well as the nervousness disappeared. I think this 'Prescription' is the best tonic for growing girls."

All druggists. New size, tablets 50 cts.

Dolores Del Rio and Ricardo Cortez in a scene from "Wonder Bar" at the Capitol Wednesday only.

LADY HAMILTON SILVER CHEST AMONG PRIZES

Beautiful Chest of Community Plate Silverware Donated by Angus McFee Firm

Every lady who attends the Ontario Intelligencer Deboth Homemakers and Cooking School which opens Tuesday in the Capitol Theatre, Belleville, will be more than delighted with the many and beautiful prizes offered to those who attend. Every lady who attends the School will find entertainment and education blended in rich measure, also an opportunity to win valuable prizes.

One of the most sought after prizes, donated by the firm of Angus McFee, Jewelers, will be the Lady Hamilton Silver Winged Chest, pictured here, consisting of twenty-six pieces of the famous Community Plate Silverware, regularly sold at $28.75.

This is a prize which will delight the heart of any lady and will be a decided acquisition to her household goods, if married; to her Hope Chest, if single.

REV. V. E. R. ZUFELT

Kingston, Ont., March 25—(CP)—Rev. Verne E. R. Zufelt, B.A., B.D., of Minden, Ontario, has been extended a call to the pastorate of Zion United Church here and it is understood he will accept. Mr. Zufelt will take the place of Rev. L. S. Wight who is retiring at the end of the Conference year, July first.

ELDORADO Y.P.S. WELL ATTENDED

Citizenship Convener Takes Charge of Program

Eldorado—The regular meeting of the Eldorado and Union Young People's Socety was held in the United Church Eldorado on March 20th, the citizenship convener Miss A. Thorpe in charge.

A recreation period was enjoyed at the beginning and hymn 28. Miss M. Wright led in prayer and the Scripture lesson was in charge of Cecil Robinson. Miss Grace Robinson gave a reading explaining the scripture lesson. Hymn 30 was sung after which a period of business was in charge of President Mr. Vernon Strebe. The minutes of last meeting were read by secretary and roll call was answered to. A letter was read from Albert College concerning a program in aid of Albert College, said program to be part of Christian Culture program to be next meeting. Offering in aid of College.

There will be no meeting of the Society next week as the Y.P.S. are invited to Madoc Monday evening to hear the inter-league debate given in their society.

The topic of the evening was in charge of Mrs. Clayton Blackburn. The subject being "With whom we can ally ourselves."

"Oh Valiant Youth" was read by Gordon Pigden and hymn 43 was sung. A splendid talk was given by Miss A. Thorpe on Frank Langford's address which he gave at a rally in Marmora. His subject was "Facing the problems of youth". Miss Thorpe gave a very thorough report of this splendid address which was enjoyed by all present. Hymn 33 and the Mizpah Benediction closed the meeting.

Mrs. Sherwood returned to her home near Toronto after spending a few weeks in Eldorado.

Mrs. Neil Andrews and family spent Friday at the home of her sister Mrs. Alex Gordon.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Gordon motored to Bancroft on Saturday and spent the week end with the latter's sister Mrs. M. Magee.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Johnson were dinner guests of Mr. Wm. Andrews on Tuesday.

Mrs. Charles D. McCann spent Tuesday at the home of her daughter Mrs. C. Blackburn.

Mrs. Wm. Boyle and daughter Betty, visited Mrs. Fred Chambers on Thursday.

On Thursday last Mrs. Arthur McCreary and family, also Miss Emma Jones were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holland.

Mrs. J. McAdams of Cooper, called on Mrs. A. Hollands on Sunday.

Miss LillyHamilton of Marmora is spending a few days with her aunt Mrs. E. Blakely.

Mr. Albert Harvey arrived home on Monday after spending the week end at Toronto and Niagara Falls, and the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fox were glad to hear from them, as Mr. Harvey visited there while in Niagara.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Blakely are in Trenton this week attending the Grand Black Chapter of the Royal Black Knights of Ireland of Ontario East in session there for the 56th annual convention.

Rev. W. G. Fletcher spent Friday and Saturday in Belleville attending the Y.P.S. conference held at Albert College.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blair spent the week end at the home of Mr. Alex McCoy, Remington.

Mrs. W. J. Rollins spent Saturday last in Belleville.

Mrs. Gibson Bailey and Christie, spent a few days in Toronto visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rollins and Colin visited Mr. Richard Hannah in Belleville on Saturday.

Misses Grace and Edna Rollins spent Monday evening with Miss Marguerite Rollins.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rollins and family took dinner on Sunday at the home of the former's father, Mr. H. Rollins, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rollins, also Orval and Miss Gladys York, and granddaughter Joan of Plainfield spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Rollins.

Mr. Ed McGuire and daughter of Cobourg were guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. Martin on Tuesday.

Mr. Wm. Parnell has tapped the trees in front of his residence and is going into the business of making maple syrup.

Mr. Leslie Robinson has been acting as chauffeur for Dr. Nickle in absence of Mr. Robt. Blakely this week.

Mr. Wm. Andrews and Miss Ruth motored to Camden East on Thursday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hannah, who has been ill. Mrs. Andrews, who has been spending a couple of weeks there, intends returning home with them.

A number of our young people from here were in attendance at the St. Patrick's concert and play staged by the Sacred Heart Church on Monday evening March 18th.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harvey and Mr. George Sandford were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sandford on Tuesday.

Doctor and Mrs. P. J. Nickle were in Belleville on Monday attending the Doctor's convention held there.

The Y.P.S. at Cooper held a St. Patrick tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Diamond on Thursday evening. The evening was spent in games and music. All went home feeling a very enjoyable time had been spent.

◆

MRS. WILKINSON OF MONTREAL DIES

Monteal, March 25.—Mrs. Marion E. B. Wilkinson 70, wife of the former superintendent of the Montreal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, is dead at her home here.

RETEX cleaning

A process of cleaning which puts back into your clothes the essential cloth oils removed by ordinary dry cleaning

SEND YOUR EASTER CLOTHES TO

Langley's RETEX CLEANERS

Branches:—Hamilton, Kitchener, Galt, Guelph, Oshawa, Belleville, Kingston.

WARNING: RETEX is protected by United States patent number 1,990,631; patents applied for in Great Britain and Canada. Anyone using a similar name or purporting to use a similar process is misleading you. No infringements will be allowed.

210 Pinnacle St.—Opp. Quinte Hotel. Phone 286

MEN'S SUIT OR TOP COAT $1.00

CANCER

Many measures have been adopted for the control of cancer during recent years and throughout the medical world an ever increasing interest is being taken in the subject in an effort to ascertain its cause and develop an effectual method of treatment. While a great deal of progress has been made and much has been added to our knowledge, there remains a very great deal to be done. We have not yet by any means reached a full and complete knowledge of the causative factors and are as yet far from our objective.

Some inform us that in cancer we are not dealing with one cause but a number. On the other hand we are informed that irritation alone is sufficient to cause it. We are also told that there is a secondary factor associated remotely with cell pre-disposition to undergo a sudden unexplainable change in its life habits after years of normal activity.

That irritants are a factor is generally accepted and as an example of this we find cancer very common among the natives of India who chew betel nut mixed with lime. In Australia cancer of the skin is common through over-exposure to the sun; the ultra-violet ray has produced cancer in white mice, and in the early days of exposure to X-ray, many workers fell victim to the disease. The natives af Kashmir place a basket containing heated charcoal next to the skin to keep warm, and acquire cancer thereby. Workers in coal tar, and chimney sweeps, very frequently acquire the disease.

There would appear to be a variation in the readiness of some individuals to develop cancer after exposure to conditions believed to induce it.

Whatever the cause of cancer, and whether there is a racial or individual susceptibility our energies should be concentrated upon the one thing of which we are certain, and that is exposure to irritants, mechanical, chemical and physical, that are known to be a factor in its production. The prevention of disease is more important than the cure, and has not been sufficiently stressed. All irritants should be avoided not only external but internal as well. Adequate dental care is advisable and it is essential that all forms of injury of the mucous membranes should be avoided. Care of the breasts is essential and even slight injuries to them should be avoided.

Out of the welter of experimental and clinical data, one fact stands out and that is that if recognized sufficiently early cancer may be cured by apropriate treatment. Efforts in recent years have been directed towards interesting the public regarding early manifestations of disease symptoms in various parts of the body that might indicate early cancerous growths and of the advisability of consulting a skilled medical advisor without any delay when any abnormality appears. It is undoubtedly the case that through propaganda of this type many lives have been saved. Patients who are suffering from cancer are coming under observation at a much earlier phase of its development, with an increasing number of cures.

The responsibility of the physician in making an early diagnosis of cancer is great, as upon his skill in diagnosis the future of his patient will depend. Large hospitals are today very well equipped for the early diagnosis of cancer but in smaller communities and in country districts, the provision for early diagnosis is inadequate. The moment any abnormal condition appears in or upon the body, recourse should be had to a physician. Not many years ago, the physician would often wait to ascertain if a lump would grow before deciding whether or not it was cancer. This is no longer done. A microscopic examination is made at the very earliest moment. The skilled physician assumes that all abnorcal growth upon the body are cancerous until he can prove otherwise. It is important that the public should be aware of the necessity of early diagnosis. It offers the most encouraging prospect of a reduction in the number of deaths from the disease.

The King George V. Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund has been formed in order more effectively to fight the cancer problem in Canada, where the death rate from this disease is abnormally high. Every contribution of a dollar will be acknowledged personally by Lady Bessborough. Please send your donation to Her Excellency at Ottawa, marked Cancer Fund, and be sure to write your name and address plainly.

◆

COLORED SNOW?

Sudbury, Ont., March 25—(CP)—In the matter of oddities, Northern Ontario won't let any other part of the world get much ahead. Recent reports from Istanbul, Turkey, said red snow had fallen there. Sudbury and district has a peculiar tan color today. A colored snow fell in this area last week and it is believed the tinting was caused by sand whirled high into the clouds during the Oklahoma sand storm.

"Don't forget Jimmy, nothing but White Swan"
EDDY'S STERILIZED WHITE SWAN TISSUE
EDDY EDDY EDDY
2 for 25¢
PURE... soft... STERILIZED
Full value

PURE... SAFE... FULL VALUE

Remember—there are many white tissues, but only one WHITE SWAN

You take no chances with White Swan: Purity, softness, absorbency are noted White Swan features. It's sterilized, too, for absolute safety. Full value rolls : : : 750 sheets : : : dustproof:

THE E. B. EDDY CO. LIMITED

Kingston Branch 129 Ontario Street

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Copyright 1935

King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Just right for smart wear in town and country is a suit of dusty pinkish-beige woolen with a shawl collar of fox dyed to match. The thhee-quarter length coas full and loose, and the skirt has pockets.

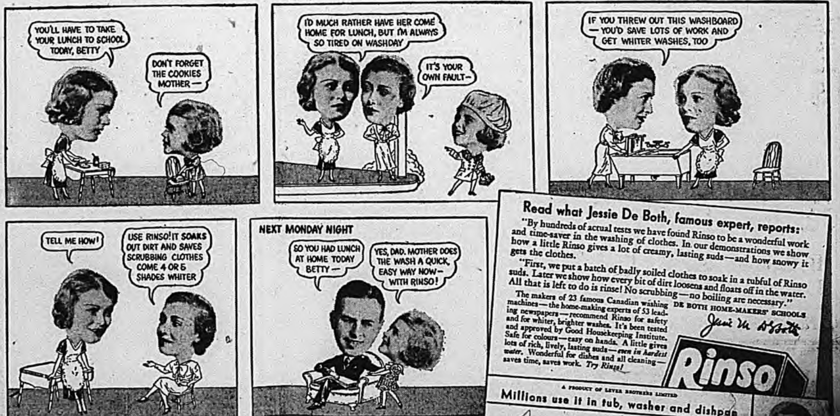
The bridge that joins the felts of Winter and the straws of Summer is made of fabrics such as satin or taffeta, just right for very early Spring hats. A nice model is a sailor in black quilted taffeta; the brim in upturned in back. Loops of grosgrain trim the top of the crown.

Go away if it is only for the opportunity to wear one of the new caped travel suits. A grand model is done in gray tweed with tiny red flecks. The cape buttons onto the jacket with red buttons and tabs that form revers. There is a wide red patent leather belt to the jacket.

A "Must" is the soft knitted frock in pastel shades. A splendid Spring model is a knit in fine ribbed design in soft blue, done in coat style. It has crystal ball buttons all the way down, an inset, draped collar and dolman sleeves of three-quarter length.

A good friend to the woman who goes about a good deal is a suit of navy blue pebble crepe with a three-quarter length coat fitted and buttoned down the front and finished with a small double cape collar.

Never mind the rain if you have a smart umbrella along with you. A new model has a wide ball top of black compositions with a circle of tiny mirrors in the middle. The ball opens up to show a small compact and lip stick.



YOU'LL HAVE TO TAKE YOUR LUNCH TO SCHOOL TODAY, BETTY DON'T FORGET THE COOKIES MOTHER—
I'D MUCH RATHER HAVE HER COME HOME FOR LUNCH, BUT I'M ALWAYS SO TIRED ON WASHDAY
IT'S YOUR OWN FAULT—
IF YOU THREW OUT THIS WASHBOARD YOU'D SAVE LOTS OF WORK AND GET WHITER WASHES, TOO TELL ME HOW!
USE RINSO! IT SOAKS OUT DIRT AND SAVES SCRUBBING CLOTHES COME 4 OR 5 SHADES WHITER
NEXT MONDAY NIGHT
SO YOU HAD LUNCH AT HOME TODAY BETTY—
YES, DAD. MOTHER DOES THE WASH A QUICK, EASY WAY NOW—WITH RINSO!
Rinso

WHY IT WAS MOTHER'S FAULT

Read what Jessie De Both, famous expert, reports:

"By hundreds of actual tests we have found Rinso to be a wonderful work and time-saver in the washing of clothes. In our demonstrations we show how a little Rinso gives a lot of creamy, lasting suds—and how snowy it gets the clothes.

"First, we put a batch of badly soiled clothes to soak in a tubful of Rinso suds. Later we show how every bit of dirt loosens and floats off in the water. All that is left to do is rinse! No scrubbing—no boiling are necessary."

DE BOTH HOME-MAKERS' SCHOOLS

Jessie M. DeBoth

The makers of 23 famous Canadian washing machines—the home-making experts of 53 leading newspapers—recommend Rinso for safety and for whiter, brighter washes. It's been tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Safe for colours—easy on hands. A little gives lots of rich, lively, lasting suds—even in hardest water. Wonderful for dishes and all cleaning—saves time, saves work. Try Rinso!

A PRODUCT OF LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED

Millions use it in tub, washer and dishpan

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE RELIES ON RINSO IN ALL HER DEMONSTRATIONS

Attend Miss Andree's fascinating demonstrations tomorrow, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Learn why modern home-making experts use Rinso for a "Whiter Wash"

Jessie M. DeBoth

Read the Classified Rental Property Listing on this Page

Business Directory

AUTO LOANS

AND REFINANCING
Direct with Owner Car Financing of All Kinds.
S. J. FISHER & SON
30 Bridge St. East Telephone 105
Representing
Campbell Auto Finance Co. Ltd.
Toronto - Ottawa - London - Windsor

CHIROPRACTOR

H. A. WYATT, Ph.C., SPECIAL EXAMination with the Radioclast reveals all diseases in the early stages. Foot disorders corrected — all diseases treated. Phone 900 or write 288 Coleman St., Belleville.

VERA R. PITCHER, CHIROPRACTOR, and H. E. Pitcher, Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment, Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations and Electrical Treatments. 42½ Bridge St. E., Belleville, Ont., Phone 1274.

DENTIST

DR. ROBT. H. EMPSON
DENTIST
X-Ray
Phone 462 249½ Front St.
17-3m

RADIO SERVICE

JOHN A. DEWAR
RADIO TECHNICIAN
Registered — Graduate
245 John St. Phone 217
a1-tf

SURVEYORS

FRASER AYLESWORTH
Ontario Land Surveyor and Registered Professional Civil Engineer. Land Surveys, Plans and Descriptions, Etc. promptly attended to.
PHONE 6 — P. O. BOX 60
MADOC, ONT.

INSURANCE

Protect yourself against accidents with our Automobile Insurance
SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
Life and Fire Insurance
251 Front St Phone 130

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile, Accident and Plate Glass
278 Front St. Phone 1154-W

STOCKS & BONDS

BIGGAR AND CRAWFORD, MEMBERS of Toronto Stock Exchange. Phone 1736. F. H. Wills, branch manager. N5-1y

LEGAL

MALCOLM WRIGHT, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Etc. Office; Campbell St., Belleville.

T. Y. WILLS, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Etc. 15 Campbell St., Belleville. Telephone 74. m4-tf

PORTER, PAYNE AND ARNOTT, BARristers, Solicitors and Notaries Public. Chas. A. Payne, K.C. R. D. Arnott. Offices: 219 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

PONTON AND GRAHAM, BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Commissioners. Office: 28 Bridge St. East. Solicitors, Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages. W. N. Ponton, K.C. R. J. E. Graham. Office: Belleville.

DONNAN AND BUTLER, B. C. Donnan, K.C., E. O. Butler, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public and Commissioners. Offices: Court House Building, Belleville, Ont. Phone 238.

WALLBRIDGE, CAMERON AND CO. (Successors to the late F. S. Wallbridge). Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries. Money to loan. Dominion Bank Building, corner Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ontario.

$15.00
PER MONTH
Comfortable House on West Bridge Street
To-Let
APRIL 1ST.
3 Bed rooms; Living room; Dining Room; Kitchen; Garage; Excellent Garden.
Reliable Tenant Only

Belleville Locators
GEO. N. GORMAN, PROP.
166 Front Street
Phone 99 House Phone 687

BUY NOW! AND MAKE WORK

PHONE 99
Classified Ad. Rates

SOCIAL NOTICES—Births, 50c; Marriages and Engagement Notices, $1.00; Deaths and Funeral Notices, $1.00; In Memoriam, $1.00; Memoriam Poetry, minimum charge, $1.00 for 10 lines, over that 10c per count line; Ladies' Receiving Announcements, minimum charge, 75c.

CLASSIFIED — (For Sale, Wanted, Etc.)—1½c per word each for first TWO insertions, subsequent insertions 1c per word, minimum 30 words.

COMING EVENTS—75c per insertion for 25 words or under, over that amount 3c per word.

PROFESSIONAL, LEGAL AND BUSINESS CARDS (Yearly Contract)—$3.00 per month per inch.

OFFICIAL, MUNICIPAL AND GOVERNMENT NOTICES (Including these concerning Legal Sales)—15c per agate line (14 lines to inch) for first insertion; 10c per line for subsequent insertions.

AUCTION SALE—3c per word, heading to count as 12 words minimum 25 words for 75c; consecutive insertions, 3c per word.

An initial or figure counts as one word.

In estimating allow five words to the line.

Telephone your Want Ads when it is more convenient. PHONE 99.

The Ontario Intelligencer will not be responsible for more than one insertion of an incorrect ad. Phone us if it is wrong.

Advertisers may have their replies addressed to Box Number care of the Ontario Intelligencer.

Wanted
Young man to learn the Shoe Business, steady employment.
APPLY IN PERSON
TUESDAY, MARCH 26th.
ADAMS'
THE SHOEMAN

WANTED

WANTED TO BUY WALNUT WARDrobe. Must be reasonably priced. Write stating particulars Box "J" Ontario Intelligencer. M25-3t

HELP WANTED—MALE

YOUNG MAN TO TRAVEL WITH CREW in sales campaign. Expenses to start. Write stating qualifications to Box "Y" Ontario Intelligencer. M25-1t

COUPLE REQUIRE FOUR ROOMED heated apartment, small bungalow or house, city or limits, reasonable. Box "H" Ontario Intelligencer. M25-3t

TO RENT OR BUY A SMALL HOUSE or cottage with all conveniences, good condition and location. Write Box "V" Ontario Intelligencer. M25-2t

BOY WISHING TO LEARN TRADE—good opportunity for right boy. Apply box "W" Ontario Intelligencer. M25-1t

REFINED WIDOW, LONELY, WISHES to correspond with good living man over 65 with some means. Strictly confidential. Write Box "F" Ontario Intelligencer. M23-3t

FARM WITH STOCK AND IMPLEments to rent or work on shares by experienced farmer. Write stating particulars Box "R" Ontario Intelligencer. M23-2t

A BOY THAT IS ANXIOUS TO GET experience in practical business and who is willing to take small pay while learning. Must be neat appearing and not afraid of work. Apply to Box "A" Ontario Intelligencer in own handwriting stating age, height and salary expected. M22-3t

SALESMAN WANTED BY LARGE manufacturer, good opportunity for ambitious man. 364 Front street. M22-3t

STUDENTS WITH LABORATORY EXperience. Apply in writing stating full particulars to Box "T" Ontario Intelligencer. M22-3t

FOR SALE

TEAM SORREL MARES IN FOAL. Full sisters. 4 and 5 years old. Weighing 2300 pounds. Phone 3r4, Madoc. T. E. Fleming. M25-2t

GOOD WORK HORSE, RISING NINE years old, weight between fifteen and sixteen hundred. Apply John A. Keene, R. 5, Belleville. M25-3t

TIMOTHY AND ALFALFA. APPLY John Ross, Corbyville, Route 1, Box 54. M25 28

HOUSE AND BARN WITH ½-ACRE land or will sell buildings separately. property of S. S. 18 Thurlow.' Apply Earl R. Sayers, Halloway. M25 29

ONE REPOSSESSED SEVEN-TUBE Westinghouse electric radio, $19.75. Apply Miles' Radio, 220 Front street, phone 1370. M25-3t

PEAS AND OATS CUT GREEN FOR feed; also straw and timothy hay. H. Brenton, Corbyville, phone 320r5. M25-2t

ONE CHESTERFIELD SUITE, ONE 6-piece breakfast suite, one old kitchen table. Apply 205 Charles street. M25-3t

FARMS AT REASONABLE PRICES —Good buildings. For particulars apply C. S. Rollins, Coe Hill. F4 11 18 25 m4 11 18 25 a1 8 15 22 29.

USED ELECTRIC WASHER, TWENTY dollars, also repossessed washer, will sell for balance owing. 364 Front (open evenings). M22-3t

GAS ENGINE, SIX HORSE-POWER Gilson, good as new, cost two fifty, will sell for eighty. 364 Front. M22-3t

CABIN CRUISER—CAN BE SEEN AT Saunder's Marine Service, Belleville. Apply to Fred Croft, 153 West Moira street, phone 872-M. M21-6t

AUCTION SALE

High class Horses, Cattle and good farm machinery. Property of George Hadrill, Lot 17, Concession 2, Sidney Township, Thursday, March 28, at one o'clock.

G. W. ARNOTT, Auctioneer,
Frankford.
M25-2t

IN MEMORIAM

HUBBLE—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Harley H. Hubble, who passed away one year ago today, March 26 ,1934.

Quickly and quietly came the call,
His sudden death surprised us all.
We have lost, but God has gained
One of the best the world contained.
—Sadly missed by wife and family.
M25-1t

DIED

GARRISON—On Saturday, March 23, 1935, at the home of her son, Mr. George Garrison, 42 North Park street (Thurlow township), Mrs. Mattie Garrison, late of Herchimer avenue, widow of James Garrison, in her 79th year.

The funeral will take place from her son's residence, North Park street, Tuesday afternoon, March 26, at 1.30 o'clock and will proceed to Kingston Road United Church for service at 2 o'clock. Interment Belleville Cemetery. M25-1t

TICKELL & BROWNE
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
We Serve for Less
FUNERAL HOME
Corner Church St. and Victoria Ave. Phone 2295

Thomas O. Thompson
Funeral Director
Funeral Home
38 Everett St. Phone 62
Office
288 Front St. Phone 82

BELLEVILLE BURIAL COMPANY
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
27 Campbell St.
Phone 774-W Day and Night
J. W. IMLAH
Proprietor
Mausoleum Crypts For Sale

SPECIAL SALE
Used Tires, all sizes, $2.00 up
USED TIRE SHOP
391½ Front Street
Opposite Upper Bridge

TO LET

GOOD NINE ROOM BRICK HOUSE, 308 Bleecker, all modern conveniences. Apply 5 Yeomans street or phone 541-M. M25-2t

FARM, 150 ACRES, WELL WATERED, brick house, large barns, good stables. Con. 9 Thurlow. Rent and taxes $325. Apply Norman Montgomery, phone 1170. M25-1t

SIX ROOM HOUSE, 23 EARL STREET, conveniences, also garage, small garden. Possession April 1. Apply 30 Howard street. M22-3t

208 GEORGE STREET — 8 ROOMS, conveniences except furnace, double garage. Possession April 1. Apply W. J. Hall, 278 Front street, phone 1154w. M14-TF

SOUTH HALF BRICK HOUSE 293 Charles street, conveniences, garage. Possession April 1. Apply 38 Sinclair street, phone 113-w. M11-TF

FOR SALE OF TOLET

NEW HOUSE, 217 BLEECKER AVENUE —all conveniences. Possession May 1. Apply O. D .Clapp, 83 E. Moira. M23-3t

NOTICE OF REGISTRATION OF BY-LAW

NOTICE is hereby given that a by-law was passed by the Municipal Corporation of the Township of Huntingdon on the 4th day of February, 1935, providing for the issue of debentures to the amount of $500.00, for the purpose of erecting and completing a new public school in school section No. 15, Township of Huntingdon, and that such by-law was registered in the Registry Office of the County of Hastings on the 7th day of March, 1935.

Any motion to quash or set aside the same or any part thereof must be made within three months after the first publication of this notice, and cannot be made thereafter.

Dated the 8th day of March, 1935.
S. J. KILPATRICK,
Clerk of Huntingdon Township.
M11 18 25

NOTICE TO CREDITORS AND OTHERS

IN THE ESTATE OF ANNIE REID, Widow, deceased.

All persons having claims against the estate of Annie Reid, late of the Township of Sidney, in the County of Hastings, deceased, who died on or about the 22nd day of February 1935, are hereby notified to send the undersigned the solicitors to the personal representative of the said deceased, on or before the 15th day of April 1935, full particulars of their claim. Immediately after the said date the said personal representative will distribute the assets of the said deceased having regard only to claims of which he shall then have notice to the exclusion of all others and he will not be liable to any person of whose claim he shall not then have notice for the assets so distributed or any part thereof.

DATED at Belleville this 9th day of March 1935.

PORTER, PAYNE & ARNOTT,
219 Front Street,
Belleville, Ontario.
Solicitors to the Executor of the will of the deceased.
M11 18 25

PERSONAL

CRESS CORN OR BUNION SALVES—are sold with money-back guarantee. At all I.D.A. and other good drug

THE ADS ARE Part of THE NEWS

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE BELLE

"Ruggles of Red Gap"

Laugh Hit as Laughton Proves Great Comedy Talent

The long-awaited appearance of Charles Laughton, brilliant English actor, in a full-length comedy role finally occurs in Paramount's "Ruggles of Red Gap" which opened at the Belle Theatre on Saturday to three capacity audiences, and proves beyond any shadow of a doubt the man's consummate artistry.

In sharp contrast to the many sinister and villianous characters, Laughton has portrayed, so perfectly in his other film roles he is now the charming, lovable, rollicking Ruggles, just as Harry Leon Wilson, the author of the famous story, might have imagined him.

Supported by Mary Boland, Charlie Ruggles, Roland Young, ZaSu Pitts and Leila Hyams in this bright and imaginative story of America in the 1900's, Laughton makes the character of a sophisticated English butler in provincial western society a role full of laughter, surprise twists and delights.

The picture opens in London when Laughton passes from his titled master to Boland and Ruggles, acting American tourists, as part of the stakes of a poker game.

His first contact with the strange democracy of his new master occurs when he and Ruggles start out to view picture galleries and end up in a drunken spree.

Brought to the United States, Laughton is introduced to Ruggles' friends as a Colonel and becomes the Lion of Red Gap Society.

The consequence of so much democracy finally has its effects on the butler when he begins to pay court to the town's leading widow and decides to start in business for himself as a restaurateur.

The latter part of the film is devoted to the amusing reaction of Red Gap's startled society and the surprise turn of events which finally make Laughton's project successful.

Capable performances by Miss Boland and Charlie Ruggles feature the contributions of the supporting cast. Among the miner characterizations the most impressive are those of Maude Eburne and Leota Lorraine, a newcomer.

Leo McCarey, long recognized as one of the best of Hollywood's comedy directors, has done a commendable and thoroughly enjoyable job on "Ruggles of Red Gap."

"Ruggles of Red Gap" keeps one young with its merrymaking, it is an ideal Spring tonic for the whole family, be sure and see "Ruggles" tonight, or Tuesday, matinee and evening.

◆

Attend Ceremonies of Religious Profession

Marmora—Miss Beatrice Lee returned to Toronto on Wednesday, after visiting at her home here for a few days.

Mrs. Martin of Montreal arrived at the home of her sister, Mrs. F. S. Pearce on Monday, owing to the latter's serious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Neill and family of North Marmora motored to Kingston on Wednesday and attended the Religious Profession and Reception held in the Heathfield Chapel, when their daughter Sister Helen Bernice O'Neill, in Religion Sister M. Josephine pronounced temporary vows, it being a most impressive and inspiring ceremony.

Mrs. T. Butler of Toronto is visiting her mother Mrs. P. Pinner.

Miss Grace Crawford returned to Hotel Dieu Hospital on Friday to resume her training course there.

Miss Edith Phillips, nurse-in-training in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterboro is home for a few days, due to the sudden death of her father, the late Mr. Harry Phillips of Deloro.

Mrs. U. Pinner celebrated her 81st birthday on Monday. On Monday afternoon and evening a most enjoyable card party was held at her home at which a great number of her friends were present.

Mrs. Alex Kennedy of Toronto is in town for a few days due to the death of her sister, the late Mrs. Allan Wallbridge.

Mr. S. B. Wright, General Manager of Deloro Smelting and Refining Co. has left on a business trip to England. He will be accompanied by his daughter, Miss Betty Wright.

Dr. Marvin Wellman who has been practicing in Marmora for the past year and a half has accepted a position as house surgeon in the General Hospital at Oshawa, He left on Friday ta assume his new duties. The people of Marmora regret Dr. Wellman's removal but wish him success in his new position

◆

WILL TURN ON "HEAT"

Chicago, March 25—(AP)— The bullets would-be assassins intended to stop him, started State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney today on a campaign to "crush all gangs."

Stirred to a fighting mood, Cook County's prosecutor at whm eight bullets were fired early Sunday, prmised to "turn on the 'heat', and plenty of it."

AT THE CAPITOL

"Blind Date"

Lovely Ann Sothern, Stars. With Neil Hamilton in This Drama of Impulsive Youth

It might never have happened if they hadn't met on a blind date!

But they did meet — and it did happen—and the romantically comic aftermath provides the theme of Columbia's highly entertaining screen drama, "Blind Date", which opens today at the Capitol Theatre.

It happened one night — if we might be permitted to infringe on the exclusive domain of Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert. A mutual friend arranged an appointment between Ann Sothern, cast as a gay flippant young switchboard operator and Neil Hamilton, scion of his father's immense department store wealth. They meet. They exchange a sly glance—and Paul Kelly, Miss Sothern's industrious auto mechanic fiance, is expelled into limbo.

But, it appears, not for long. Hard pressed for funds, Ann's father is employed by Kelly as a helper and through the former's carelessness Kelly is forced into the hospital with a few crushed ribs. Out of gratitude to her affianced, Miss Sothern feels constrained to refuse Hamilton's proposal of marriage and remain loyal to her promise to Kelly.

Events from this point on build up to a startling climax. It is the romantic story of a chance meeting with the wrong man that changed her whole life!

She took a chance—with love—and tried to forget —in the arms of another man. Here is a romantic angle that unravels with a generous provision of comedy, drama romance and pathos.

In addition to the three principals, the cast boasts such popular favorites as Mickey Rooney, Spencer Charters, Jane Darwell, Joan Gale, Geneva Mitchell and Tyler Brooke.

ADDED ATTRACTION

Several excellent short subjects complete the balance of the program. Included is a hilarious comedy "Out of Order" with that inimitable star Ben Blue; Will Osborne in a beautiful and tuneful Melody Master, and an ever popular Krazy Kat Kartoon.

"Du Barry" Dinner Plates today and Tuesday only.

Complete shows 2.30; 7.15; 9.10.

No matinee Tuesday on account of Cooking School.

WEDNESDAY ONLY

"Wonder Bar" our next Special reuest feature. A gorgeous extravaganza with Al Jolson, Kay Francis, Dolores Del Rio and Ricardo Cortez.

◆

Asks Teaching Art of Living

Montreal, March 25—(CP)—Many illiterate people were far better adjusted to life than those with the most profound learning, declared Dr. Ira S. Wile, New York educationalist, in a lecture arranged by the Department of Public Health and Preventive Medicine of McGill University and the Canadian National Committee of Mental Hygiene. The purpose of education must be to promote adaptability to the life that must be lived rather than to cram the pupil with knowledge, Dr. Wile said. Far more important than reading, writing and arthmetic was the art of living. Dr. Wile pointed out the importance in educational work of mental hygience through which could be developed a sense of security, of courage and satisfaction with life.

◆

TRY TO IDENTIFY MAN

Niagara Falls, N.Y., March 25—(AP)—Police checked two clues today in an effort to identify a man apparently killed by a freight train as he tried to board it.

The body was found beside the Erie tracks near Ferry Street, in a brown hat were the initials 'W.E.W.' and a case for glasses bore the name "L. Gaulin, Ottawa, Que."

ROEBUCK PLANS RADIO APPEAL

Will Give Four Speeches of Half Hour Each to Explain Hydro

Toronto, March 25—Radio broadcasts of the Hydro situation in the province will be resorted to this week by Attorney-General Arthur Roebuck in an effort to determine the views of the power consumers of Ontario on the question of hte Quebec power contracts and the best method of dealing with the problem.

Starting Tuesday night over Station CFRB the Attorney General will deliver the first of four half-hour addresses. He will give the remaining three on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, respectively. The subject matter of the addresses will be the same as Mr. Roebuck gave in the Legislature but it will be summarised in order to fit in with the limited time on the air.

"This is not a Government affair" the Attorney-General explained last night when asked concerning the broadcasts. "The cost is not being borne by the Government. I am paying for it myself, aided by friends. I want to lay before the people of Ontario, the power users, the full facts of the Hydro situation and I intend to ask them for an expression of their views. The consumers of electrical energy are the ones who should have the say and they will be asked to send in their views."

The Attorney-General admitted that he might have some new material to give over the air. He said he was busily engaged in preparing the addresses and was not in a position to reveal just what new material he had.

It is considered, in view of this latest development, that the Government is not ready to make a decision on the Quebec contracts, and is seeking this means of rallying public opinion behind them. Despite the fact that the broadcasts are to be paid for from private sources, it is reported that members of the Hepburn cabinet have known of the plans for some time, and have discussed the matter informally.

◆

DEMONSTRATION AGAINST MEASURE

Glasgow, March 25.—(AP)—Seventy thousand persons, many women and children among them, shouting "Down with the King!" marched to Glasgow Green Sunday waving red banners and flags in the largest demonstration against the Unemployment Act this city has seen.

"Down with the National Government!" "Down with Ramsay MacDonald and his parasites!" they cried.

The shouts which were nothing new among the Communistic elements of Glasgow, were the nearest approach to disorder. The demonstration passed off quietly under the eyes of 1,900 police.

Three thousand of the demonstrators came from all parts of Scotland. Many of them walked to Glasgow. The visitors were accommodated overnight in various public halls belonging to the city corporation, which has a Socialist majority. It was the first time in the city's history such a concession had been made.

Before proceeding to Glasgow Green the marchers paused at Church Square, near the town chambers, waving red flags and banners No arrests were made.

Rain early tonight dampened the ardor of the demonstrators and the public meeting at Kelvin Hall passed off quietly.

Meanwhile, the Scottish Socialist Party completed a two-day conference by adopting a resolution condemning "the war policy of the National Government, as expressed in the white paper," and reiterating determination for the mobilization of the working classes to resist any policy which might result in war.

ROEBUCK
ON HYDRO
• • • •
ATTORNEY GENERAL TO TELL OF SELL OUT TO THE POWER BARONS
CFRB—690 Kilocycles
Every Night this week from
TUESDAY TO FRIDAY—10.30-11.00 p.m.
An Amazing Story—Hear It.

Grand Prize for Cooking School a Washer or Ironer Donated by Beatty Bros.

The Grand Prize is The Best Made by Beatty Factory. The Winner of The Prize Will Have The Choice of Either Machine.

Ladies who contemplate attending the Ontario Intelligencer Done Both Cooking and Homemakers School will be pleased to know that the Grand Prize to be awarded will be the winner's choice of a Model C Beatty Washer, the very best washer turned out by this well known and famous firm — or a Beatty Electric Ironer. Pictures of the Washer and Ironer accompany this article and the winner will certainly have a prize to be proud of. This prize is donated by Beatty Bros.

The Model C Beatty Washer features the device for raising the clothes from the bottom of the tub right up to the wringer. The Basket allows the operator to use boiling hot water and still keep her hands smooth and white. There is a Sediment basin under the Basket which keeps the water free of dirt. There are many other features which will be pointed out by Miss Claire Andree at the Ontario Intelligencer Homemakers' School next Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

It may happen that the lucky woman who will get the main prize at the Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School has an electric washer, already. In that case the Beatty Bros, will give her one of the new Beatty Automatic Ironers of equal value to the Beatty Washer. Any woman would certainly love to have one of these beautiful and valuable labor saving devices in her home. Think of the convenience of having an abundance of clean freshly ironed clothes without any of the hard work of hand ironing, and be comfortably seated at the same time.

Don't forget ladies, those who attend the School every day will be more likely to have the pleasure of making the choice for one of the above beautiful gifts than if only they attend one day.

RADIO PROGRAMS

MONDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ
11.00—Navy Band—WEAF
11.15—Tony Wons—WJZ
12.30—Farm and Home Hour—WJZ
3.00—Radio Guild—WJZ
4.00—Betty and Bob—WJZ
6.00—U. S. Army Band—WJZ
6.30—News; Jim Hunter—CFRB.
6.30—The Shadow—WABC
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.15—Plantation Echoes—WJZ
7.30—Red Davis, comedy sketch—WJZ
7.45—Uncle Ezra—WEAF
8.00—Jan Garber's Supper Club—WJZ
8.00—Syrup Symphonies—CFRB
8.00—Richard Himber, Orchestra—WEAF
8.30—Kate Smith's New Star Revue—WABC
8.30—Carefree Carnival; Rita Lane—WJZ
9.00—Harry Horlick's Gypsies, Robert Simmons, tenor — WEAF.
9.00—Andre Kostelanetz' Orch.—WABC
9.00—Minstrel Show—WJZ, WLW
9.30—Otto Harbach Musicale—WEAF
9.30—The Big Show—WABC
9.30—Wrigley Dance Orch.—CFRB
9.30—Princess Pat Players—WJZ
10.00—Lullaby Lady—WEAF
10.00—Wayne King's Orchestra — WABC
10.00—Jackie Heller—WJZ
11.00 — Four Aces of Contract Bridge; Glen Gray's Orch.—WABC
11.15—Glen Gray's Orch.—CFRB
11.30—Gus. Arnheim's Orch.—WABC
11.30—Kay Kyser's Orch.—WGN
11.45—Herbie Kay's Orch.—WABC

TUESDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club.
11.00—Galaxy of Stars—NBC
11.30—U. S. Marine Band—WJZ
1.15—Radio Gossip Club—WGR
1.30—Music Guild—WEAF
1.30—Rex Battle's Orch.—CRCT
2.15—"Patience"—WJZ
3.00—Columbia Variety Hour — WABC
4.00—Betty and Bob—WJZ
4.45— Dick Messner's Orch. — WABC
5.30—Singing Lady—WJZ
6.15—Midweek Hymn Sing—WEAF.
6.30—News; Jim Hunter—WGR
7.00—Myrt and Marge—WABC
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.15—Morton Downey—WJZ
7.30—Hits and Bits—WJZ
7.30—Easy Aces—WEAF
8.30—Musical Memories—WJZ
8.00—Leo Reisman's Orch.—WEAF.
8.00—"Lavender and Old Lace"—WGR
8.00—Crime Clues—WJZ
8.00—Borah Minnevitch's Rascals —WOR
8.30—Wayne King—WEAF
8.30—Melodiana—WABC
8.30—Musical Memories—WJZ
9.00—Grace Moore soprano—WJZ
9.00—Ben Bernie, Phil Baker, —WEAF
9.00—Bing Crosby, baritone; WABC CFRB
9.30—Ed Wynn, Graham McNamee, Eddy Duchin's Orch. —WEAF
9.30—Isham Jones' Orch., guest stars—WABC
9.30—Cleveland Orch.—WJZ
10.00—Glen Gray's Orch.—WABC
10.00—Beauty Box Theatre; Operetta; Nat. Shilkret's Orch.—WEAF; CRCT; WLW
10.30—Captain Dobbsie's Ship of Joy—WABC
11.45—Jan Garber's Orch.—WGN

Be Sure

To have your Auto Insurance re-instated before taking out your car this Spring. If you have no insurance, do not take further chances of serious loss. All that is necessary in either case, or in the event of you changing your car, is to telephone us (1364). We will immediately protect you and get full particulars later. This is part of our service.

JAMIESON BONE & CO.
INSURANCE INVESTMENTS

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Mar. 25 (CP)—The stimulating effect of the cut in the excise tax on liquor appeared to have been entirely exhausted in today's Toronto market.

Brewers and Distillers recorded a gain of 5 cents in the filling of some week-end orders but Walkers Common was off ⅜ to 27½, Distillers Seagrams ⅛ to 16⅜ and Industrial Alcohol "A" a half point to 8⅜.

Canada Bud gained ¼ and other issues of the brewery group were unchanged.

Imperial Oil and British American Oil were unchanged and McColl Common and International Petroleum were narrowly higher. Supertest ordinary and half point recession. In the steels Pressed Metals had a small loss and Canada Wire and Cable dropped 1½.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, Mar. 25 (CP)—The mining section of Toronto Exchange opened the week with another draggy market. God's Lake was sold actively for a price decline of 5 cents to 1.32 and Little Long Lac fell back 25 cents to 5.50. Siscoe, Sylvanite, McWatters, Howey, Macassa and Central Patricia were down as much as 66 cents.

Bralorne lost 20 cents, Dome 25 cents, Lake Shore 40 cents, Teck Hughes 5 cents and Wright Hargreaves 10 cents.

Hudson Bay firmed 25 cents and other Base Metal Stocks were unchanged.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, March 25 (AP)—The stock market was sensitive to group movements again today and prices drifted quietly lower under wobbly railroad shares.

Among shares of Canadian companies McIntyre dipped fractionally while International Nickel held fairly steady. On the curb, Lake Shore and Hiram Walker both eased. Dominion Government 4's were a trifle higher. Montreal funds were unchanged at 99.37½ cents.

Union Pacific and Santa Fe were particularly soft spots with losses of around 2 points.

Most active losers included U. S. Steel, Du Pont, General Motors, American Can, Johns-Manville, Chrysler, American Telephone, J. I. Case, Public Service of New Jersey, Liggett and Myers, Standard Oil of New Jersey and North American.

Minor advances were shown by a number of prominent sugar stocks, including Cuban American Preferred and American Crystal.

UNLISTED MINES

Unlisted mines furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co. today.

Afton 55-58.
Bankfield 83-86.
Bousquet 30-31.
Casey 31½-34.
Cons Chib Free 95-100.
Pooled 85-95.
Columario 6-8.
Crown Reserve 4¾-5.
Desantis 27-29.
Forty Four 1050-1120.
Franklin 36-38.
Gold Eagle 37-39.
Goldside Mining 12-14.
Great Bear 42-45.
Gabrielle 37-40.
Hardrock 69-72.
Jellicoe 11-13.
Long Acre 20-26.
Lafayette 6¾-7¼.
Long Lac Lagoon 12-13.
Lamaque 148-153.
Magnet 11-12.
McLeod 5½-6¼.
Oklends 35-38.
Oleary 8-9.
Red Lake 31¼-33.
Rice Lake 4-5.
Shawkey 45-48.
Sturgeon 100-106.
Smelters 14-15.
Tiblemony Island 53S.
Wells 13-15.

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Mar. 25 (CP)—Though several United States buyers were on the market, trading on the cattle division of the Toronto live stock market was slow at today's opening with only a few butcher cows and few calves selling. Calves and sheep sheep opened steady while hogs and lambs were unsettled.

Receipts as reported by the Dominion livestock branch were: cattle, 1,960; calves, 170; hogs, 590; sheep and lambs, 1,460.

A few butcher cows sold steady at $2.50 to $4.00 cwt., while fed calves ranged from $5.50 to $7.25.

The calf division was steady at $7.50 to $8.00 for choice vealers and at $4.00 for common, light kinds. Sheep also were steady at $1.00 to $4.00 cwt.

Stock Markets

Quotations furnished by Biggar and Crawford, P. H. Wills, branch manager. Quotations at 2 p.m.

MINES
Ashley 16B
Ajax 89
Acme 21B
Breth Treth 2 1-8B
Barry Hollinger 5 3-4B
Base Metals 51B
Bobjo 25 3-4
Big Missouri 44
Bradian 170B
Bagamac 7
Bralorne 80
Castle Treth 67 1-2B
Coniaurum 210B
Central Pat 148
Coast Copper 140B
Dome 3910B
Dominion Explor 5 3-4B
Eldorado 126
Falconbridge 368B
God's Lake 135
Goldale 16 1-2
Granada 35 1-4B
Greene Stab 26B
Hollinger 1740B
Halcrow 3 1-4
Home Oil 85B
Hudsons Bay 1220B
Howey 95 1-2
Inter Nickel 23 1-2
Kirkland Lake 47B
Kirk Townsite 23B
Lake Shore 5660B
Little Long Lac 560B
Macassa 218
Malartic 64
Maple Leaf 7 1-2B
McIntyre 4390B
Mining Corp 90B
McKenzie 121B
McWaters 178
McVittie 22B
Nipissing 225B
Noranda 3425B
Pioneer 1000B
Parkhill 22 1-2B
Premier 161B
Reade Auth 75B
Reno 145
St. Anthony 34 1-2B
Sherritt 47
Siscoe 305
San Antonio 411B
Stadacona 25 1-4B
Sudbury Basin 130B
Sylvanite 242B
Teck Hughes 420
Ventures 90
Wayside 19 1-2
Waite Amulet 50B
Wright Hargreaves 920B
Pickle Crow 270
Paymaster 17

TORONTO
Bell Telephone 129B.
B. A. Oil 14 3-4B.
Brewing Corp. 3 3-8.
Braz. Trac. 8 3-4B.
Can. Bud Brewery 7 3-4B.
Can. Cement 6 1-8B.
Can. Dredge 20B.
Can. Ind. Alcohol 8 1-2B.
C.P.R. 9 3-4.
Can. Malting 30 1-4B.
Can. Vinegar 26 1-4.
Canada Car 6 1-8B.
Cons. Bakeries 13B.
Con. Smelting 132 1-2.
Dominon Stores 8 7-8B.
Dist. Seagrams 16 3-8.
Ford "A" 26B.
Gypsum 5 1-4B.
Goodyear 128 3-4B.
Imp. Oil 16.
Inter. Pet. 29 7-8B.
Imp. Tobacco 12.
Loblaw 18 3-8B.
Massey Harris 4B.
Mont. Power 29B.
McColl-Frontenac 14B.
Power Corp. 7B.
Steel of Canada 44 1-2B.
Supertest 23.
Shawinigan 16 5-8B.
Walker's 27 1-2B.
Walker's, Pfd. 18.
Walkerville Brewery 3 7-8B.

NEW YORK
American Can. 114 1-2.
American T. and T. 101 3-4.
Amer. For. Power 3.
Anaconda 9 1-2.
Case 49 1-2.
Chrysler 33 1-2.
General Motors 27 3-4.
Elec. Auto Lite 20 1-4.
Inter. Telephone 6 1-2.
North American 11 1-4.
Montgomery Ward 23 5-8.
Phillips Pet. 15 1-2.
Radio 4 3-8.
Standard Oil of N.J. 37 1-8.
Standard Brands 14 3-4.
Stewart-Warner 7 1-4.
U.S. Smelters 114.
U.S. Steel 28 1-2.
Vanadium 14 3-4.
Westinghouse 35.

Grain Markets

Closing quotations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co. today.

Wheat—	High	Low	Close
May	84½	84	84⅝
July	83⅝	83½	83⅝
Oats—
May	38⅝	38	38½
Barley—
May	44¼	44½	44½
July	45¼	45	45¼

Produce Markets

(By United Farmers Co-Operative Company)

Toronto. — Wholesale prices on product delivered at Toronto as supplied by the United Farmers Co-operative Co. here to-day were:

Buying Prices

Eggs—
Grade A, large doz	.16
Grade A, medium, doz	.15
Grade A, pullets, doz.	.15
Grade B, doz.	.14
Grade C, doz.	.13
Butter—
Ontario No. 1, Creamery, lb	.23
Ontario, No. 2, Creamery, lb.	.22½
Churning Cream—
No. 1, lb.	.23
No. 2, lb.	.21

(F.O.B. shipping point)
Poultry

Hens—	Live "A"	Dressed "A"	Dressed Milkfed "A"
Over 5 lbs.	.11	.14
4 to 5 lbs.	.10	.13
3 to 4 lbs.	.08	.11
Old roosters	.06	.08	..
Spring Chickens—
5½ to 6 lbs.	.12	.16	.18
5 to 5½ lbs.	.11	.15	.17
4½ to 5 lbs.	.10	.14	.16
Under 4½ lbs.	.09	.13	.15
Broilers—
1¾ to 2½ lbs.	.11	.15	.17

Selling Prices

United Farmers Co-Operative Co. today were offering products to retail dealers at the following prices:

Eggs—
Grade A large, loose, doz.	.21
Grade A, medium, doz.	.19
Grade B, medium, doz.	.18
Grade C, doz.	.17
Butter—
No. 1, Creamery, prints	.26
No. 2, Creamery, prints	.25½

Hay and Straw

No. 2 timothy hay, baled ton, $15.50 to $16.50; No. 3 timothy hay, ton, $13.00 to $14.00; straw, wheat, baled, ton, $10.00; oats straw, $8.50 to $9.50.

Clover Seeds Prices

Following are the prices for clover seed, in the dirt, to the farmer, f.o.b. at shipping point, according to quality: Red clover, $12 per bushel; alsike, $12 to $13; alfalfa, $9 to $10.

Graded Egg Prices

Toronto dealers today were paying the following nominal prices for graded eggs, cases free:

Grade A, medium, doz	.17
Grade A, large, doz.	.18
"A" pullets, doz.	.15

Fruit, Vegetable Prices

(By F. G. Lister and Co., Toronto)

Fruits (Domestic)—
Apples, cooking, hamper	1.25	1.50
Vegetables (Domestic)—
Carrots, bag	.35	.40
Mushrooms, lb.	.30
Onions, 100 lbs.	1.75	2.00
Ontario Potatoes	.60
Turnips, bag	.40

Dressed Meat Prices

Toronto. — Wholesale dealers are quoting the following prices to the trade for dressed meats:

Beef forequarters cwt	$ 6.00 to	$ 9.00
Do., hindquarters	12.00	15.00
Abattoir hogs, cwt.	13.00	14.00
Heavy hogs, cwt.	9.00	10.00
Lambs, cwt	13.00	15.00

Hides, Skin and Wool

Following prices are being quoted in Toronto for hides, skin and wool: City hides, green, 4c; brands, 3c; bulls, 3c; city calfskins, 7c; city kip, 6c; country hides, cured, 4c; hides, green, 3c; country calf, cured, 6c; country kip, cured, 5c; lamb skin, 20 to 35c each; horsehides, Nos. 1 and 2, at $1.50, with damaged and ponies at 75. Fleece wool, fine, 9c; medium, 8c; coarse, 8c; rejects (Burry, seedy, grey, black and cotted fleece) 4c; flat wool 7c, all delivered, Toronto.

Livestock Quotations

(Toronto)

Steers, up to 1,050 lbs., good and choice	5.50	6.25
do, medium	5.00	5.50
do., common	4.00	5.00
Steers, over 1050 lbs, good do medium	9.00	11.00
Calves, medium	9.50	11.00
Carcasses, choice	11.00	14.00
and choice	6.50	7.25
do, medium	6.00	6.50
do, common	5.25	6.00
Heifers, good and choice	5.50	5.75
do., medium	4.75	5.25
do., common	3.50	4.50
Fed calves, good and choice	6.75	7.25
do, medium	5.80	6.50
Cows, good	3.50	4.00
do., medium	3.00	3.50
do, common	2.50	3.00
Canners and cutters	1.50	2.25
Bulls, good	3.50	4.00
do., common	2.75	3.25
Milkers and Springer	35.00	45.00
Stocker and feeder steers good	4.50	5.00
do., common	3.50	4.25
Calves good and choice veals	7.00	8.00
do, common to medium	4.00	6.50
do, grassers	3.00	3.50
Hogs, bacon f.o.b.	7.35
do, off cars	8.10
do., off truck	7.75
Good ewes and wether lambs	7.00	7.25
do, medium	6.75	7.00
do., bucks	6.00	6.50
do., culls	5.00	6.00
Sheep, good weight	3.50	4.00
do., heavies	2.50	3.25
do., culls	1.00	2.00

How the Nabors Got an Extra Room - Part 1

HOW I WISH WE HAD A ROOM FOR JUNIOR. HIS TOYS ARE ALL OVER THE HOUSE
WELL NO USE TO TALK, WE JUST CAN'T AFFORD IT
IT'S A SHAME WE CAN'T USE OUR ATTIC THERE'S SPACE FOR A NICE ROOM THERE
IT'S NOT FINISHED AND IT'S TOO COLD FOR JUNIOR
MAYBE THE HOME MAKERS' SCHOOL KNOWS A WAY. I GOT SOME WONDERFUL IDEAS THERE LAST YEAR
YOU CERTAINLY DID, MAYBE THEY WILL TELL YOU WHAT YOU CAN DO WITH THE ATTIC

INSIST ON TEN-TEST INSULATING BUILDING BOARD ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

Join Mrs. Nabor at the Ontario Intelligencer Home Makers' School. Miss Andree will tell her—and you—how easy and economical it is to have an extra room.

So many attics are unbearably hot in summer, cold and uncomfortable in winter. Needed living space is wasted which could be made into charming, cosy rooms with Ten/Test—quickly and inexpensively. It's simple and easy to use Ten/Test.

Ten/Test keeps out the heat in summer, keeps it in when winter comes. Strong and durable as the house itself, Ten/Test not only gives you extra living space at a surprisingly low cost, but soon pays for itself in the fuel you save.

Learn how you can use Ten/Test for attic playrooms and bedrooms, for a basement lounge, for summer homes. It comes in a variety of beautiful pastel tints, or in the natural beige shade which you can colour to suit your taste.

TEN-TEST INSULATING BUILDING BOARD
INTERNATIONAL FIBRE BOARD LIMITED - OTTAWA, ONT.

ALL PARTICULARS ON TEN/TEST CAN BE OBTAINED FROM
ARTHUR A. SILLS CO.
267 COLEMAN STREET BELLEVILLE PHONE 1584

WE CARRY A FULL STOCK OF TEN/TEST. BUILDING MATERIALS OF ALL KINDS.
THE HOUSTON COMPANY LIMITED
ESTABLISHED 1886 BELLEVILLE PHONE 1677

HENRY SAXON, 20 GIVEN 4 YEARS

Toronto, March 25—(CP) —Henry Saxon, 20, who admitted numerous charges of housebreaking and theft, was sentenced today by Judge James Parker in general session to four years and 18 months concurrent in Kingston Penitentiary.

Orval Hardy, 19, self-confessed companion of Saxon in two offences was sentenced to reformatory for two years less one day definite and one year indeterminate.

Oppose Sending Army Outside of Canada

Toronto, March 25—(CP)—Opposition to any expeditionary force leaving Canada to participate in "another economic war" is voiced in a resolution which the National Council of the Native Sons of Canada sent today to the House of Commons and Senate.

200 Pounds Honey Hidden in Walls by Busy Bees

St. Joachim, Ont., March 25—(CP)—Nearly 200 pounds of honey, hidden between the walls of his home, was discovered recently by Ray Lacharitie while he was doing some repair work on the building. The bees had apparently gained entrance through some small holes in the lumber.

Anti-Nazi Journalist Arrested in Germany

Berne, Switzerland, Mar. 25 (AP)—The German foreign office today informed the Swiss government Bethold Jacob, German journalist who disappeared March 9, had been arrested on German soil and jailed.

(Jacob is known in Switzerland as an Anti-Nazi, and a refugee from Germany. He is credited with having forecast last October that Germany would restore compulsory military training.)

BISHOP VISITS TORONTO

Toronto, Mar. 25 (CP)—Rt. Rev. W. A. Geddes, Anglican "Flying Bishop of the Yukon" arrived in Toronto from England and will remain here until Thursday when he will resume his journey to the Diocesan headquarters at Dawson.

DAIRY DIRECTOR VISITOR IN CITY

Mr. George Barr, director of dairying for the Province of Ontario, spent Monday in the city on matters connected with the cheese industry and of his department. During the day Mr. Barr interviewed several local representatives of the dairying industry.

ELECTION NOT SOON

Harrow, Ont., Mar. 25 (CP)—In announcing he was again a candidate for the nomination, Eccles J. Gott, Conservative member for Essex South, also expressed the opinion federal election would not be held within the next two or three months.

FOUND DROWNED IN RIVER

St. Mary's Ont., March 25—(CP)—Believed despondent over the tragic death of her daughter in Guelph about a year ago, Mrs. Geo. C. Thompson, 48, was found drowned in the Thames River yesterday. Her body was found by police and firemen just below Black Bridge.

LADIES

Attending the

Cooking School

Should Bring

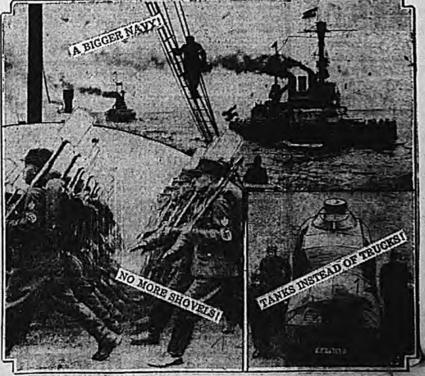
PENCILS

To Take Notes and also to append the names to the Prize Winning Coupons

There will be Prize Basket Drawings every day and Grand Prize Drawings on Friday.

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER DE BOTH COOKING SCHOOL OPENS TUESDAY, MARCH 26, AT THE CAPITOL THEATRE.

THESE PICTURES SOON WILL TELL ANOTHER STORY



Above is a recent view of the German navy which is to be augmented by more ships, although the Germans consider a navy a matter secondary to a land and air military status comparable with other major powers. German farmers, shown training with shovels a few months ago, will drop these for rifles. Armored trucks, at right which served as tanks while Germany adhered to the Versailles treaty will now be discarded for actual tanks manned by the same men.

FINE LINENS

Are the Housewife's pride and joy, says MISS CLAIRE ANDREE of the Ontario Intelligencer De Both Cooking School

And she urges the housewives of Belleville and vicinity to visit McIntosh Bros. Store and discover, as she did, the treasure trove of Linens and countless other things to make the Home Beautiful.

TABLE LINENS—IMPORTED DIRECT —IRISH DAMASKS.
—HANDMADE CHINESE CUT WORK.
—CHINESE MOSAIC WORK.
—SPANISH, ITALIAN and MADEIRA.

McINTOSH BROS.

257 Front St. Belleville Phone 802

STUDY INCREASES LOVE OF COUNTRY

I.O.D.E. Reports Good Results From Plan Started in 1933

Toronto, March 25—(CP)— The Empire Study Plan of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire is having a widespread influence among the members of the Order in every province, and in some provinces it is also having an appeal to the general public, the Order reports. Undertaken about two years ago the response of the members to this plan of nourishing patriotism by knowledge has increased the love of Empire and stimulated desire to serve it.

Pamphlets on such study subjects as "Britain's Dominions, Colonies and Mandated Territories," "The League of Nations", "Intra-Empire Trade," "The Dominion of Canada —Its Government and Laws," "India and the Simon Report," have been prepared by the Order's Empire Study Committee as a guide. These were chosen with the idea no one could be narrow in sympathies, restricted in knowledge or neglectful of progress who becomes versed in the topics outlined, and that in a special degree the duty of intelligent and informed pariotism is imposed upon all Daughters of the Empire.

◆

MacDuff Ready For Army Post

London, March 25—(CP)— Only son of Prince and Princess Arthur of Connaught and grandson of the Duke of Connaught, former Governor-General of Canada, the Earl of MacDuff, now aged 20, has qualified for a commission in the Imperial or Indian Army.

He will be the first Lord MacDuff to come of age since the late Duke of Fife attained his majority in 1870.

RICH RED BLOOD is what You need

Take C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets For Health--Strength--Vigor

HAVE YOU STOMACH TROUBLE? Have you Stomach Pain, Belching, Headache, Heartburn, Bloating, Gas, Spitting of Mucus, Gnawing, Empty Feeling, Lump in Stomach, Food Disagree, Pain Before or After Eating, Coated Tongue, Sore Mouth, Indigestion? When caused by a run-down condition you need C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets, and at once. They will build up the system and thus relieve you quickly and permanently, improve appetite, digestion and general health.

THE BLOOD Pimples, Blackheads, Sores, Blotches, Pale, Eczema, Malaria, Chilly, Feverish, Run Down, Debilitated, Weak, Emaciated? You surely need C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets. They, by reason of their tonic effects, help to restore strength and fibre to the blood, so it will furnish nourishment to the whole body. C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets contain Yeast, Iron and Extract of Cod Liver—three great tonics in one.

THE NERVES Nervous Debility, Weakness, Jerking, Jumping, Excitable, Tired, Worn Out, Feel Like Falling When Eyes Closed and Feet Together, Restless at Night, Poor Memory, Melancholy, Despondent, Wake Up Unrefreshed, Weak Trembles, Dizzy, Fainting Spells, Hands or Feet Numb, Lack Energy, Strength, Ambition? You need C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets They, by reason of their tonic effects, help to restore nerve tissue to normal condition steady the nerves, banish the blues, make you feel full of life, vigor, ambition, and many years younger.

THINNESS Under Weight, Hollow Cheeks, Flat Chest, Scrawny Neck, Dyspepsia, Thin Blood C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets help to build you up in every way. Will thereby improve your appearance.

REGAIN LOST PEP AND VITALITY C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets act directly through the stomach, enriching the blood, building up the nervous system, generate vitality, create nerve force, restore full strength, pep and vigor—so you can enjoy life's pleasures to the fullest.

C.C.& B. TONIC TABLETS are for sale at all Drug Stores. Go to your druggist today and order a supply. It means the beginning of a new life for you—opening the door to a brighter world and happier existence. The tablets are inexpensive. The prices are 50c and $1. Three $1.00 Boxes for $2.50.

Get C. C. & B. Tonic Tablets from
DOLAN THE DRUGGIST

MISSION BAND WINS BANNER

Maple Leaf Group, Stirling, Merits Award For Work Display

Stirling—Mrs. J. M. McGee has returned home after spending a few days with her sister in Oshawa.

Mrs. George Bennett and son Harry spent Wednesday at the home of her son Mr. Charles Bennett in Frankford.

Mrs. Jones and her son William who for the past few months have occupied the Cranston dwelling on Front Street have moved to the house formerly occupied by Mrs. Elijah McMullen.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cranston will reside in the house being vacated by Mrs. Jones.

A group of workmen including Arthur Gordanier, William Pichett, and Carleton Wright are at work this week replacing a large portion of the floor in St. Paul's Sunday school room.

A very happy gathering met for the Mission Band meeting in the basement of St. Andrews Church on Thursday at 4 o'clock to welcome as guest speaker Miss R. Bruce, Missionary Secretary of the Kingston Presbyterial. The meeting was opened by Margaret Rosebush with a hymn and Lillian Matthews read the scripture lesson. Mrs. Harper Rollins then led in prayer. This was followed by a piano duet given by Dorothy Jandrews and Mary Tulloch next was a vocal duet by Mary Pitchett and Shirley Ormiston. Two fine recitations given in a splendid manner by Jean Dafoe and Dorothy Montgomery came next. Margaret Wilson, Betty Hulin and Shirley Montgomery enacted a playlet, entitled, The Three Helpers. Then came vocal trio by Shirley Ormiston, Doris Jandrews and Mary Tulloch, and a recitation by Helen Fitchett, after which Dorothy Gay gave a piano solo. At the conclusion of this part of the program Miss Margaret Rosebush heartily welcomed the guest speaker and invited her to address the boys and girls.

In her opening remarks Miss Druce spoke in glowing terms of the manner in which the youthful members took their part and accepted their responsibility. She at once won her way into the hearts of the girls and boys, when she told them of a surprise she had for them. She told them that St. Andrews Mission Band had won the banner for the past year for the finest display of general work in the Kingston Presbyterial. When it was remembered hat the Maple Leaf Band has only been organized for two years, it was thought that the winning of the much coveted banner was a distinctiol far beyond expectations.

Miss Druce gave a brief summary of her work in Kingston and closed her address with a very interesting story of a Korean native missionary who journeyed to our land to study tha' he might of greater service to God. She also told of the difficulties he encountered in mastering our language. The meting closed with the Mizpah Benediction and a dainty lunch was served by the older girls.

St. Paul': Y. P. S.

The regular weekly meeting of St. Paul's Young eople's Society was held in the body of the church. President Harry Hulin conducted the devotional period, and opened the meeting with a hymn. Delbert Ashley read the scripture lesson, and Mr. Hulin led in prayer. A chorus by he intermediate girls, "My Wild Irish Rose," was well received. Those taking part were. Neita Keegan, Betty Jones, Mary Shore, Dorothy Hulin, Emma Mosier, Irene Bronson Iva Lummis, Pearl Keegan, Margaret Deline, Maurieta McKee, Helen Jeffrey, Greta Nicholson, Muriel Gibson, June Woodbeck. Many comments were made on the fine singing of this group. The sociey paper "The Blue Outlook" was read by the editor, John Munro. Many of the amusing articles found therein proved John's ability as a real journalist. Following another hymn, a contest of jumbled Irish songs provided plenty of fun, with the red division gaining honors. The blue side under the direction of Miss I. Johnson was responsible for the program. This very interesting meeting was brought to a close with benediction.

St. Patrick Day Supper

St. Paul's Women's Association held a very successful St. Patrick's Supper in the church parlors on Monday evening. Nearly one hundred and fifty sat down to the gaily decorated tables. The menu was made up of Irish dishes which were enjoyed by all. Many of the guests remained for the Young People's meeting which began at eight o'clock in the main auditorium.

Rev. and Mrs. R. J. Koffend and Miss Ada King of Toronto were visitors this week at the home of the former's son, Rev. J. A. Koffend.

◆

NEW JOBS IN BRITISH P. O.

London, March 25—(CP)— Two new executive positions have been created at the British general post office, directors of telecommunications (merging telegraph and telephone), with F. W. Phillips in change, and director of saving, with I. Simon at the head.

◆

INDIANS TALK UNITY

Delhi. March 25—(CP)—Considerable interest has been aroused by new unity discussions between the Muslims and the Congress Party with suggestions of coalition or cooperation.

Phone 2380 FOR SNAPPY SHOPPING SERVICE FREE DELIVERY

BLUE'S MARKETERIA
Belleville's Largest Independent Market

Phone 2380 FOR SNAPPY SHOPPING SERVICE FREE DELIVERY

Miss Claire Andree

Lecturer of the Ontario Intelligencer DeBoth Cooking and Homemakers' School visited this store today and expressed surprise and delight that Belleville should have such a fine modern merchandising institution of this kind. In touring the United States and Canada and visiting the shopping centre in each city visited Miss Andree states that she has never seen a finer or better appointed food market than BLUE'S MARKETERIA.

Extra Special News for Every Woman in Belleville District

Miss Claire Andree

Lecturer of the Ontario Intelligencer DeBoth Cooking and Homemakers' School which opens tomorrow has chosen Blue's Marketeria to supply her with Groceries and Meats required during the entire course of her lectures here

In Meats Blue's Quality Beef

Government Inspected, Blue Brand, will be used in the demonstrations.

Miss Andree

Will demonstrate some new and delicious methods in preparation of Pork Chops for the table on Tuesday. These Pork Chops will be on sale in this store at the Special Price of 18c per pound—Tender and Delicious.

That Extra Large
SEEDLESS ORANGE
lucky winners find in the Prize Basket will be a sample of one of our specials for tomorrow at only 45c per dozen

SNAPPY SPECIALS for SMART SHOPPERS
In Which Quality and Economy Blend to the Entire Satisfaction of the Purchaser

One (1) CUP and SAUCER FREE with One lb. of Orange Pekoe TEA 65c

Hand Packed Tomatoes 2½'s 4 for 25c

Extra Large Seedless Oranges . . per. doz. 45c

Delicious Thick Pork Chops . . . 18c

Fresh Made Pork Sausage per pound 20c

Fresh Tenderloin per pound 34c

T-BONE STEAK . . . . per pound 18c

SWIFT'S SLICED BACON Cellophane Wrapped ½ pound 17c

Cooked Sliced HAM per pound 45c

Sliced Salmon 2 lbs. 25c

VISIT or PHONE
Belleville's Most Modern Meat Market This Week For
1. Low Prices.
2. The Finest Quality Beef, Lamb or Pork.
3. 16 Ounces to the Pound.
4. Quick Delivery.

Always Something New and Interesting at Blue's Marketeria no Shopping Tour is complete without a visit to this fine new Food Market, created for the Comfort, Convenience and Satisfaction of Customers.

BLUEBIRD VICTORY OF BRITISH SHOPS

Great Car Engine Designed For Trophy Contests

London, March 25—(CP)— Sir Malcolm Campbell's new land speed record of more than 276 miles an hour at Daytona Beach is acclaimed here as another indication of the high standard achieved by the British aeronautical engineer.

It is pointed out the heart of Sir Malcolm's great car "Bluebird" is a 2,350 horsepower aero engine designed first for the Schneider Trophy contest of 1929 and improved for the final contest of the series in 1931. The science of the experts was drawn upon in ample measure in redesigning the car for this year's runs.

"Bluebird" has an extraordinary history. It is a veteran. Much of its structure is still essentially the same, as when it first emerged from the factory in 1924. Its first engine was a 450 horsepower aero engine. Further steps in power were demanded and the racing engine of 2,350 h.p. was installed. This, in many respects the most notable racing engine ever built, is a 12-cylinder water-cooled unit with the cylinders arranged V-fashion in two banks of six. It develops its power from a total engine weight of 1,630 pounds.

For Campbell's attempt this year the car was completely redesigned. Six months were spent in wind channel tests of various body shapes the form adopted, though measuring in frontal area 19 1-2 square feet against the 15 1-2 square feet of the car in its previous guise, is almost a perfect streamline and according to theoretical calculations, should increase the speed attainable from the same power by at least 30 miles an hour.

Other important alterations were the adoption of twin rear wheels to check slip when accelerating and air brakes embodied in the normal braking system. When Campbell applies the brakes—with immense caution—after passing the end of the speed course, two hinged flaps in the steel skin just behind his cockpit are raised vertically to act as air brakes; further pressure of the pedal applies the wheel brakes. Another feature of the car taken direct from aircraft design is the huge streamlined stabilizing rear fin.

ADDRESS HONORS NORMAN LESLIE

Native of Queensboro Feted by Friends in West

Queensboro—A large number of the friends of Mr. Norman Leslie met at his home at Dimsdale, Alta., to spent a social hour with him. Mr. Leslie has been manager of a store in Dimsdale for the past four years and he and his family are moving to Beaver Lodge, Alta.

Mr. Leslie, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Leslie is well known at Queensboro where he spent his boyhood days and he has many friends here.

The following is the address.

Dimsdale, Alta.,
March 13, 1935.

Mr. Norman Leslie:

There comes a time in all our lives when we must be separated from our friends and it reminds us of the expression of Kipling:

"He whoh as a thousand friends;
Has not a friend to spare".

It is with regret to us that the time has come for your departure from our midst into a new field of endeavour elsewhere. During your four years stay here you have made many friends through your many kindnesses and your constant willingness to help out anyone at any time. We will not soon forget how you got out of your bed at four o'clock in the morning and made a lunch for the log-haulers and how many times you have been called from your meals into the store for a ten cent purchase or to merely hand out mail, and the many other accommodations all done with a smiling face, knowing you were doing some good and helping somebody.

That same smiling face will be sadly missed in this community but our loss is the gain of someone else and on behalf of the entire community we ask you to accept this small token of the high esteem in which you are held. With it goes our best wishes to you in your new enterprise.

imsdale Community

◆

PHILLIPSTON-ZION INSTITUTE

The March meeting of the Phillipston-Zion Institute was held on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Billa Ketcheson. There was twenty-seven ladies present also a number of small children. The leader for the day being absent, the resident Mrs. Bunnett took charge of the program and opened with the Institute Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The roll call, "Sing, Say or Pay" was well responded to by all the members present.

The Secretary, Mrs. Lee Ketcheson read the minutes of the last meeting which were approved and signed by the President. She also read a letter of appeal for a contribution to the Crippled Children's fund, and it was decided to donate five dollars to this cause.

Mrs. Fred Searles then gave a splendid paper on the "Sociability of Yesterday and Today" which every one enjoyed. Miss Mildred Ketcheson at the piano, led in several numbers in community singing. A very instructive paper was then given by Mrs. Ralph Sills on "Co-operation of the parent and teacher" which wall received.

A vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. W. Carter to the ladies for these splendid papers and the meeting closed by the National Anthem. The assistant hostesses then served everyone a delicious lunch.

◆

BETHANY W.M.S.

The regular monthly meeting of Bethany W.M.S. was held on the evening of March 20 in the form of an "At Home" at the home of Mrs. Coolley and Treverton, with a goodly number present. Mrs. Walker, the president called the meeting to order by reading the "Call to Worship". Hymn 262 was then sung. Scripture lesson, John 17, 23, 33 was read by Mrs. Percy Osland. Secretary's, and treasurer's reports were given. Business matters were discussed.

Mrs. Walber continued with the following program: Solo by Stella Bradshaw "Throw another log on the fire". Reading on "Stewardship" by Mrs. W. Casey. Music by the orchestra which was enjoyed by all. Reading by Bertha Badgley "How Sackery set the hens" which caused much laughter. Song by Clem, Arthur and Roy Treverton, "Let the children sing a song". Community singing led by Mrs. Clayton Eggleton. Instrumental by Reta Clark. Mrs. Bargley, Temperance Secretary gave a paper which was very interesting. Duet by Mrs. Arthur Miller and Mrs. Jack Foote, "Serving the King". The orchestra favored with more music. A song by Mr. Casey Walker Egleton. Hymn 109 was sung and all repeated the Benediction. Collection $8.03. The ladies served cake, tarts, sandwiches and coffee, and a social hour was spent. A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Cooley and Treverton for the opening of their home for this occasion.

◆

SPAIN MAKES BID FOR IRISH TRADE

Minister Named For Legation Opened in State Capital

Dublin, March 25—(CP)— The government of Spain has decided to establish a legation here. Don Placido Alvarez Buylla, brother of the Spanish consul-general in London and former director-general for Morocco, has been named as the first minister plenipotentiary.

It is understood that the government of President Eamon de Valera shortly will take steps to establish a legation in Spain. Negotiations for a treaty of trade and friendship are now in progress between the two governments.

Free State exports to Spain, a growing market for Irish eggs, increased from £4,120 ($20,400 at par) in 1933 to £32,560 ($162,300) in 1934. Spain exports to the Free State in 1934 were £92,000 ($455,195), a decrease of £12,080 ($60,000) on the 1933 figures.

◆

IROQUOIS NEEDED NO CRIME SHARPS

Expert Finds Redmen Had System Abolish Jobs

Washington, March 25—(CP)— Out of America's aboriginal past has come a possible solution for the murder problem, but it would put a lot of detectives and thriller writers out of business.

The solution would be to put into the "murder law of the Iroquois," just unearthed by Dr. J. N. B. Hewitt, expert on Indian lore at the Smithsonian Institution.

Under this law, finding a killer was the easiest thing in the world. Amazing as it may sound, if one Iroquois murdered another, the murderer had to stay beside his victim's body until the authorities found him. His chances of escaping the death penalty were far greater if he stayed at the scene than if he tried to escape.

It actually worked this way, says Dr. Hewitt. In the old Indian days all that was necessary to find the murderer was to find the victim. There was no market among the Iroquois for Sherlock Holmeses.

If a murder was committed, the slayer in the event he tried to escape, would be an outlaw and liable to be killed by any member of the victim's clan. But if he stayed by the body a wampun settlement probably would be made for the life of the victim by relatives. Then the slayer could go free.

Seldom was a criminal sentenced to death by constituted authority, because the executioner would become a murderer in turn. This would have started an endless chain of killings.

WELLMAN'S Y.P.S. REGULAR MEETING

Rawdon— Mr. and Mrs. Archie Haslett of Bonarlaw spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Hoover.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown spent the week end with relatives at Sulphide.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Heath and family have moved from the ninth concession of Rawdon to Springbrook to reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Spencer recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Carl Conley and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Brady and Marjorie spent Sunday with her parents at Harold.

Mrs. Robert Cassidy entertained the Ladies' Aid at her home and talks were given on the loyalty and courage of a Christian.

Mrs. Everett Cook and children of Sidney Crossing have been holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. O. U. Heath and Mr. and Mrs. George Snarr.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Johnson and Lela spent an evening last week with Mr. and Mrs. Melville Donnan at West Huntingdon.

Mrs. Ellen Sharp returned last week to Mount Pleasant for the summer months.

Mr. Tom Snarr spent a few days last week in Frankford the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson.

Mrs. Henry Melville of Marmora spent a few days last week at the home of Mr. Robert Pounder.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Bailey and Barbara of Toronto were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bailey.

Mr. Cleland Reid and Miss M. Blair visited Mr. and Mrs. Allan Reid on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Montgomery of Ross' Corners attended the funeral at Mount Pleasant on Thursday and were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Sine entertained a few young people at their home on Monday evening.

Miss Grace Dayman opened Wellman's Young People's Society with Devotional and "who will go and work today" and the "Beatitudes". Plans were made to hold a social evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Heagle.

Miss Lillian Barnes, missionary converen presided with "The Pilgrim's Mission." Miss P. Cook read the Bible lesson found in John 10th chapter. Miss Nina Dracup gave the topic based on the theme "The youth of today". Miss Florence Dunham read a selection "Brave Living."

Mrs. John Heagle contributed a solo "Somebody's Praying for you". Miss Dayman read a selection "As the waters cover the sea". Miss Lucille Dracup gave an instrumental selection on the piano. Miss Carolyn Johnson read a poem "Beautiful Soul." This helpful meeting closed with "God be with you till we meet again." Mr. Jack Hutchison then staged a "Beekeepers" contest.

Mr. and Mrs. Burleigh Emmons of Stirling are spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Murney Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bailey visited Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sine, Salem, on Wednesday.

Several young folks from Mount Pleasant and Bethel journeyed to Menie on Thursday evening and enjoyed a delightful evening with the folks there.

The girls of Menie softball team were at home to the teams of Crowe Bay, Rylestone, Mount Pleasant and Bethel. Messrs Bronson and Bell furnished the music, violin and banjo and those who attended report an enjoyable evening. The proceeds were in aid of Menie girl's softball team.

Mrs. Ed. Owens visited her daughter at Bayside last week.

ERNIE ENERGY
NOW'S YOUR BIG MOMENT ERNIE — WE NEED ONE POINT TO WIN!
O.K. COACH LET ME AT 'EM!
BRAVO ERNIE! YOU ROMPED THROUGH THEIR WHOLE TEAM
DON'T PRAISE ME — PRAISE GRAPE-NUTS THAT'S WHERE I GET MY ENERGY!
C

You said it, Ernie! Four heaping teaspoons of Grape-Nuts with milk, supplies more energy and better nourishment than a serving of bacon and an egg!

And not only is Grape-Nuts one of the most energizing and healthful foods you can eat, but it is also supremely delicious. The nut-sweet Grape-Nuts taste is the favourite of millions! Grape-Nuts, too, is specially prepared for easy digestion by young and old. And you can enjoy this grand, healthful food every morning at a cost of only about one cent a serving. Get a package from your grocer today.

MADE IN CANADA
Grape-Nuts

Grape Nuts
The Favourite Breakfast Food of Millions

GI-35

CHRYSLER Airstream EIGHT

CHRYSLER Airstream SIX

IT MEANS A LOT TO SAY—
"I drive a Chrysler"
. . . AND IT COSTS NO MORE!

The New Airstream Chrysler Six brings Chrysler pride of ownership . . . Chrysler comfort . . . Chrysler performance and safety, and Chrysler distinctive styling.

The new Airstream Chrysler Eight is a great big powerful car with a hundred horsepower that speeds you on your way in comfort and safety only equaled bv the famous Airflow Chrysler.

The same principles of weight re-distribution made famous in the Airflow Chrysler, make both the new Airstream Six and Eight ride smoothly over every road. All passengers sit cradled between the axles . . . Patented Floating Power plus super-resilient springs and a new sway eliminator make riding more restful than ever before.

Hydraulic brakes assure you of smooth straight-line stops . . . The big all-steel body has wide chair-height seats that permit you to relax in a natural position with plenty of leg room and elbow room.

It means a lot to say "I drive a Chrysler".

YOU CAN BUY A CHRYSLER AIRSTREAM SIX FOR $1215 Delivered in BELLEVILLE

121 Front St. J. T. WARREN Phone 933

PURITY BREAD

The Family's Choice

ASK FOR OUR SPECIAL FIVE ROSES (WHITE) LOAF.
IT'S DELICIOUS!

Miss Claire Andree will demonstrate its goodness at the Cooking School this week and a loaf of Purity Bread will be in each gift basket.

HOT CROSS BUNS
EVERY FRIDAY DURING THE LENTEN SEASON

We Use Five Roses Flour

WHITE BREAD — WHOLE WHEAT and CRACKED WHEAT

CAKES AND PASTRY OF ALL KINDS

PURITY BAKERY
G. E. THOMPSON
68 Sinclair Street Phone 1976

The Ontario Intelligencer

Invites the Ladies of Belleville and District to the

DeBoth Cooking School

- Tuesday, March 26
- Wednesday, March 27
- Thursday, March 28
- Friday, March 29

FOUR AFTERNOONS STARTING AT 1.30 p. m.

Capitol Theatre

Major Prizes Include

Choice of

BEATTY WASHER or IRONER

Donated by Beatty Bros.

A Years' Supply of RINSO

Donated by LEVER BROS.

24 LARGE PACKAGES
24
24
Rinso
The Granulated Soap
Lever Brothers Limited, Toronto, Canada
Rinso

Pair of M. W. Locke Shoes

DONATED BY NABORHOOD SHOE STORE

Irish Linen Damask Cloth

(2 x 2½ Yards.)

DONATED BY McINTOSH BROS.

Frigidaire Water Cooler

DONATED BY RADIO & REFRIGERATION SHOP

Dinner Set of Dishes

DONATED BY STROUD'S

Frigidaire Set of Dishes

Donated by Frigidaire-Thor Sales and Service

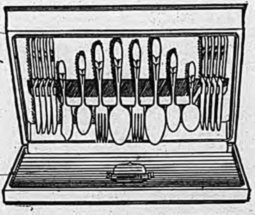
3-lb. Box of Laura Secords

DONATED BY DOLAN THE DRUGGIST

A Feature of Each Afternoon

A Fashion Revue by The J. A. McNABB Ltd.

— MILLINERY BY WOODLEY'S —



LADY HAMILTON SILVER WINGED CHEST

Twenty-Six (26) Pieces

Service for Six

Famous Community Plate Silverware

The very last word in Beauty and Style.

Donated by

ANGUS McFEE

BELLEVILLE

JEWELLERS SINCE 1869

Secure Your Tickets at

The Ontario Intelligencer Office

or

The Capitol Theatre

During the Hours of the Matinee or Evening Performance

To avoid confusion in accommodating those desiring to attend the Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School, only enough tickets will be sold to comfortably fill the Theatre.

Tickets will be on sale beginning Thursday, March 21st, and it will be wise to secure yours early. Mail orders will be received from those out of the city desiring to attend.

Admission 10c Daily—By Tickets Only

Special effort is being made to make this year's school a real attraction. Each afternoon will see a different programme of Menus and Hints on General Housekeeping.

Each Afternoon at 1.30 p.m. Prizes Every Day

LONG LIST OF PRIZES FOR LADIES AT COOKING SCHOOL

Daily Prizes, Door Prizes Baskets of Groceries Besides Major Prizes

In addition to the Major Prizes to be given away at the Ontario Intelligencer DeBoth Homemakers and Cooking School beginning Tuesday the following prizes will be given:

Door Prizes — Ten-Test teapot Stands (Tuesday and Friday) donated by the International Fibre Board Limited.

Daily Gifts

Cilux Finish Sewing Cabinet, donated by Canadian Industries Limited.

Twenty-four (24) pound sack Ladies Favourite Pastry Flour, donated by MacKenzie and Co.

Twenty-four (24) pound sack Five Roses Flour donated by MacKenzie and Co.

Bouquet of Flowers, donated by Dorothy F. Quick, Florist.

Twenty-five Baskets of Household Necessities, Groceries, etc., containing:

Cilux Enamel, donated by Canadian Industries Limited.

Bokar Coffee, donated by The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co.

Magic Baking Powder, Magic Cook Books, donated by Standard Brands Limited.

Rinso, Lux, Lux Toilet Soap, donated by Lever Bros. Ltd.

Vi-Co Chocolate Drink, donated by the Montrose Dairy.

Keen's Mustard, Brock's Bird Seed Silvo, donated by Reckitts (overseas) Ltd.

Large Orange, donated by Blue's Marketeria.

Purity Bread, donated by Purity Bakery.

◆

ONLY THEORY AT COLLEGE

Milton, Ont., March 25—(CP)—If you want to be a farmer don't go near agricultural colleges. That is the advice of W. W. Foster, 86-year-old Milton farmer, to young people. "Being able to analyze soil doesn't compare in value with experience in growing grain," he said. "They learn only theory at colleges."

◆

RUFUS DAWES' SON BANKRUPT

Chicago, March 25. — Charles Cutler Dawes, son of Rufus Cutler Dawes, who was president of the Century of Progress Exposition, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, putting his liabilities at $532,874 and listing no assets of value. Mr. $102,000 of his debts were secured by collateral. He listed his father as a creditor, holding $30,000 notes.

Merchants and Manufacturers Who are Co-operating in the Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School

Beatty Bros. Ltd.	Beatty Washer and Ironer
Bell Telephone Co. of Cnada	Extension Telephones
Belleville Hydro Electric System	Moffat Electric Ranges
Big "A" Company, Ltd	Stewart Warner Radio
Blue's Marketeria	Groceries and Meats
Canadian Department Stores	Curtains and Drapes
Canadian Industries, Ltd.	Cilux "Quick-Drying" Enamel
E. F. Dickens and Son	Ice Cream
Dolan the Druggist	Cosmetics
Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.	Bokar, Red Circle and Eight O'clock Coffee
International Fibre Board, Ltd.	Ten Test
Lever Brothers, Limited	Rinso, Lux and Lux Toilet Soap
Mackenzie and Co.	Ladies' Favorite Pastry Flour and Five Roses Flaur
Angus McFee	Oneida Silverware
McIntosh Bros.	Linens
J. A. McNabb	Ladies' Ready-to-Wear and Style Show
Montrose Dairy	Milk and Cream
Modern Dry Cleaners	Dry Cleaning
Naborhood Shoe Store	M. W. Locke Shoes
Purity Bakery	Purity Bread
Dorothy F. Quick	Flowers
Radio and Refrigeration Shop	Frigidaire
Reckitts (Oversea) Limited	Keen's Mustard and Brock's Bird Seed and Gravel
Standard Brands, Limited	Magic Baking Powder
Geo. Thompson Furniture Store	Kitchen and Dining Room Furniture
Stroud's Variety Store	China and Glassware
Frigidaire-Thor Sales and Service	Frigidaire
Walker Hardware Co. Ltd.	Wear Ever Aluminum and Kitchenware
Woodley's Furriers	Millinery

FARMERS TAKE POACHER'S TIP

Hull, England, March 25.—(AP)—An Irish poacher has volunteered a method for aiding the farmers in their war on wood pigeons. "Soak ground oats for twelve hours in 'first shot' whiskey," he said, "and then spread the food where the pigeons feed. It only takes a little to make the pigeons so dizzy they can't fly." The Farmers Union planned to follow the poacher's advice.

GANDHI TAKES VOW SILENCE

WARDHA, India, March 25.—So far behind with his work is the Mahatma Gandhi that he vowed himself to silence until April 19 to catch up. There is no political significance in the long period of silence, his secretary said, Mr. Gandhi merely being desirous of getting his personal correspondence up to date and revising some manuscripts.

BUDGET DEBATE BEGINS TUESDAY

J. L. Ralston Will Likely Lead Off For The Opposition

Ottawa, March 25 (CP)— The House of Commons today looked toward one of the perennials of Parliament—the budget debate. With the financial statement of the government before House and Country, members wree studying it in anticipation of the coming discussion. Tomorrow, if the program does not change, Hon. J. L. Ralston, Liberal member for Shelburne-Yarmouth, will lead off with opposition criticism. He will be followed, in all probability, by one of the leaders of his U.F.A.-Labor group, after which a member of the government will, it is expected, speak.

The budget debate, conjecture as to whether or not the Prime Minister will be in his seat before long, and finally gossip as to the length of the session, are focusing attention just now—persistent rumors are heard the session may conclude before Easter. While it is suggested the wish is father to the thought,—members are anxious to get back to their constituencies in view of the coming election—the House has shown great speed in disposing of business.

An Easter prorogation would mean that this speed will continue, and also that any legislation based on the report of the Mass Buying Commission must be handled swiftly. There is a possibility that Sir George Perley, Acting Prime Minister, may be able to tell the House today when the report of the Commission will be available. What additions to the Legislative program it will necessitate are, of course, quite unknown.

Reports from Mr. Bennett's apartment indicate his rest cure is having beneficient results. It is expected another official bulletin from the physician will be read in the House of Commons today.

◆

Luckily, Edgar Edmunds of Chicago is a light sleeper, or he might have awakened recently to find the roof gone from over his head, reports The Associated Press. Aroused by sounds in the basement of the house where he lives, Edmunds investigated and found five men busily engaged in tearing away valuable parts of the building, starting with the plumbing.

◆

London, March 25.—(British Official Wireless).—A report issued by the Pensions Minister shows his department has made provision in the last eighteen years for 1,750,000 children of officers and men killed or disabled in the war. Some £122,000,000 (about $660,000,000) has been spent on their care, maintenance, education and training for employment.

Edwardsburg
CROWN BRAND
The Leading
CORN SYRUP
"THE FAMOUS ENERGY FOOD"
A product of The CANADA STARCH CO., Limited

Guardians of the Desert

By TOM GILL

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

Riding easily, she watched him, watched his eyes as they passed over the desert and raised to the distant hills, and when he turned again to the trail she called gaily, "Say once more you're glad to be back."

"Glad! It's escaping from a dungeon into the sunlight again."

"Oh come." She laughed. "It couldn't have been that bad. The East is always fun for a while."

"It isn't home. I think I'll never be at home very far from this land of cactus and sand and everlasting distances. The East couldn't ever be part of me—like this."

Then once more the two fell silent as they climbed the last reaches of that rocky, winding trail. Already both horses were breathing heavily and they stopped very willingly to rest on the flat, narrow top of the Barrier. On both sides now the world lay outstretched at their feet. Behind glittered the desert. Before them, almost as precipitous as their ascent, the trail led steeply downward, and to the north the softly rising slope of foothills reached up to the lower level of timberline, where forests of dark, scattered pine rose to the far horizon. Nestled beneath them Dick caught a glimpse of blue water.

"Azure Lake," he called.

But it was a far different Azure Lake that he had left six months before. Men had brought changes, and already the lake's lower bank was the scene of bustling animation where the foundations for the first great dam were being laid. Workmen's bunkhouses clustered about its banks, and where once had been green, grass-clothed slopes, now stretched a trampled morass of mud, piled high with stones and timber. Along the rough plank runways men and animals were moving, while in a long, winding line, trucks heavily laden were bumping over the desert road from Verde. From the distance at which these two were watching it all appeared like the frantic, undirected activities of ants. Little puffs of smoke rose from a miniature train, and once on the clear air came the faint sound of a whistle. Azure Lake was being harnessed to the needs of man.

Moodily Lowell sat his horse, eyes fixed on that swarming, ever-changing spectacle, but he gave no voice to the thoughts the scene evoked, and soon without a word led on down the flinty trail. Once at the bottom, it was easy going, and again the horses fell into their tireless desert jog, that an hour later brought them to the banks of Azure Lake.

Endless animation and confusion. A thousand men must have been working there. Two great steam shovels were tearing huge gaps in the hillside where the final foundations of the dam were to rest. A crew of surveyors drove long lines of stakes around the lower edge, and close to the embankment a dozen trucks stood, ready to unload their burden of giant fir timbers.

Directly ahead a large board sign bore in black letters the words, "KEEP OUT", but disregarding the blunt message Dick urged his horse among the hurrying workmen until he came to the foundation of the dam. Curiously he examined it, then locked out along the line of stakes that marked the beginning of the ditch. He shook his head and was about to speak to the girl when a dark thickset man directing the placement of timbers caught sight of him and with an oath stepped directly before Dick's mare.

"Don't you damned ranchers know private property when you see it? Who do you think you are, snoopin' around here? Come on, vamos!"

Dick looked urbanely down. "I've bumped fussy little men right on the nose for less than that,' he said easily, then catching sight of a bulging object beneath the other's shirt he smiled. "Do you pack that six gun to drive piles with?"

The man's face darkened. "Maybe you'd like to see what I pack it for?"

"Sure, why not?"

Almost at once a dozen laborers had surrounded the two, and beneath the shirts of several Dick made out the telltale outline of a revolver. Tensely they crowded in, silent and menacing, when suddenly a worker called, "Steady, boss, that is Dick Lowell, Old Man Lowell's son."

The effect of those words was electric. At once the threatening hostility vanished and the man's voice took on an oily quality. Uneasily he tried to laugh. "That's one on me, Mr. Lowell. Just forget what I said—just let it pass. Any friend of Nick Sari is ace high around here. But we've been havin' some trouble—"

Without another glance Dick had already turned his horse, and in silence the two riders retraced their steps toward the Barrier. For a time Lowell rode with head sunk forward, as one who ponders some knotty problem, while the horses, reluctant to leave the cool waters edge, plodded slowly out toward the desert. Once, as they ascended the Barrier's granite ledge a low detonation caused the earth to tremble. Dick looked inquiringly up.

"Blasting," Nora answered the unspoken question. "They're getting rock from the base of the Barrier.'

"I think," he answered soberly, "there will be blasting of another kind before many days."

* * * *

The January sun was already past its height when Lowell waved good bye to Nora at the gate of the Barnes hacienda and turned down the long, sandy trail that led toward Verde. In town he left word at the newspaper office for Barnes to call him, then rode back along the eastern boundary of his ranch, dismounting twice to repair the broken fence.

The day had passed quickly and it was already nearing sunset when Dick reached home. Riding directly to the barn he unsaddled his tired mare, then nearing the house stopped to drink in the ever changing beauty of another sunset. Slantingly the great desert sun had paused above the rim of the horizon, tinting ever vagrant cloud to pastel loveliness, touching to golden life the far-off hills of Mexico. And as he watched that age-old wonder of sky and desert, from somewhere within the hacienda there came to him a voice humming in Spanish a song of other days.

"Cuando se quiere de veras Como, you quiero, yo a ti."

the unseen voice floated out to him, carrying with it into the sunset world something of Mexico's melancholy and sorrow, and something of Mexico's unconquerable quality of soul.

Held by the soft magic of the voice Dick listened, then noiselessly he slipped to the window, and his eyes lit.

There, within the large, low ceilinged room, stood a Mexican girl arranging a tall blue bowl of flowers. Her long, almond eyes were heavily lashed, her lips were red and full, and lightly, gracefully, she touched each flower into place, then moved about the room, stopping to arrange some object, and singing as she moved, that plaintive haunting Spanish song.

Silently Dick tiptoed up the porch, and standing just inside the door, called to her, "Que linda chica mia!"

The song stopped. The girl raised her head, and with a glad little cry, ran to him. Over the olive skin a deeper flush had crept and for a breathless moment she stood hesitant before him.

"Dios!" The voice was tremulous. "How glad I am."

Very gently Dick laid his hand on the thick, blue-black hair. "Little Lolita," he said softly, and for a time his eyes dwelt strangely on the quiet, hushed melancholy beauty of her face.

"You have heard nothing?" he asked at length.

"Nothing."

"Paciencia."

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

He unfastened his spurs and dropped them outside the door. "What of the little one?' Voice lowered, he spoke now in the lisping Spanish of the border.

Proudly and very softly she answered, "He grows. He is with the people of my sister."

"No one knows?"

"No one —but you and I."

Stooping, Dick took her face between his hands and kissed her. "Esta bien," he murmured.

Again the color mounted to her cheeks and after a moment's silence she said, "My mother is happy that she may watch over your hacienda. I go to tell her you are back. She has caused to be made for you all those dishes you like best on this night of your returning."

Quickly the girl passed from the room, while Lowell's eyes followed her, then, seized with a sudden impulse, he walked to a locked closet, and taking a key from his pocket, opened it. Reaching to the upper shelf he found a box of cartridges lying beside a holster heavy with a .3 automatic, and carrying them to the centre table, he cleaned the weapon with more than usual care. Slipping out the magazine, he began loading it, slowly choosing each cartridge, testing each one to be sure it entered the barrel smoothly.

Minutes passed. So intent was he on this task that a light footstep on the porch fell unheeded, and not until a long shadow fell within the room did Lowell raise his head to find himself gazing into the steady eyes of Nick Sari. Behind him, just outside, leaning against the door, stood the man that the border ranchers knew and hated as Bull Pablo.

Neither stirred. Motionless and tense they waited while that long, grotesque shadow cast by the setting sun lay like a prophetic symbol between them and only the ticking of a clock above the fireplace filled the silent room.

Surging within Dick's heart raced the fierce exultation of impending conflict. Once his glance passed to the dark, malignant face of Pablo, then slowly returned to Nick. "You lose little time, amigo," he said evenly, at last.

"I came by plane."

Dick smiled. "Positively touching to know you couldn't endure my absence more than a week."

"Why not—we've been so intimate for the past months."

The voices of both men had altered ominously. It was as if for the first time the thin, strained veil of neutrality had been torn aside, and now the implacable enmity between these two stood nakedly revealed. Sari's eyes dropped to the black, shining weapon on the table, and a look of amusement crossed his features.

"Going hunting?"

Snapping the magazine into place, Lowell returned the automatic to its holster. "That depends. I might. I'm impulsive about those things. You know, gun-toting seems to be suddenly popular around Verde."

Beneath Sari's short moustache his white teeth gleamed in a smile. "Who has taken to packing guns?"

"Nearly everybody. Hadn't you heard? Ask your bodyguard there. It's the new fashion, Nick. Today I rode over to that dam of yours and I noticed beneath the shirts of half those hard-working laborers something bulging that might have been fountain pens, but probably weren't."

Sari nodded impatiently. "If the workmen are going armed it's because the ranchers have been intimidating them."

"That's a laugh."

The man's face flushed beneath the taunt, but his smile remained unruffled, and pushing back the automatic, he seated himself on the table directly across from Lowell.

"I just learned that you and Bull here mixed it up a trifle this morning. That was his fault. He had no damned business coming into your ranch house—I want to set it straight first of all."

Dick smiled faintly. "Don't mention it." His eyes in quiet amusement turned toward Pablo. "We had a very pleasant time—didn't we? Fact is, I'm hoping you'll come again some day." Then to Sari, "But my keen intuition tells me something else is on your mind."

Sari leaned forward. "The night you left Washington I happened to glance at a letter in the drawer of my desk. A thumbprint in the corner interested me. It wasn't mine, and I don't know of anyone who ever saw that letter except the man who sent it. So I'm wondering whether that thumbprint happened to be yours."

For a time Dick gazed absently into space. He seemed to reflect. "I wonder if by an chance it could have been a letter written by Bruce?"

"It was."

"Then the thumbprint was mine."

"How did you happen to see that letter?"

"It lay in the drawer of your desk."

"That drawer was closed."

"Was it? Then I must have opened it."

"What for?"

Angered by the cold insistence of the man's voice, Dick flung back at him. "To see what was inside. Now what in hell's the next question?"

With a visible effort Sari's voice regained something of its urbanity. "No more questions. But I want to tell you something that may save trouble later on. That letter was from your brother, written a long time ago. He had made a survey and it seemed to him that the difficulties of building the ditch were insurmountable."

"How long ago?"

"Several months."

Dick made no answer, and rapidly Sari went on. "I tell you this because I assume you're here as your father's representative—to help, not to hinder. I've had enough hindrances," he burst out. "Your good friend Barnes is one of them. If that damned yellow journal of his prints anything of this there'll be even more friction and trouble than we're having now. Your father and I have tried to make Barnes see the light, but no week goes by without some attack on me or my work. That makes it inconvenient for me, but if he doesn't stop I'll make it more than inconvenient for Will Barnes. It might be a friendly act for you to give him a tip."

"What tip?"

"Tell him to watch his step". With a long finger Sari emphasized every syllable. There was no mistaking the man's intent.

For a moment Dick played idly with the weapon before him, then he asked quietly: "Wouldn't it be the bright idea to deliver that message yourself. You could put it so much more interestingly."

The glint in Sari's tawny eyes threw back the desert sunshine as he rose. "Maybe I can do even better than that."

At the door he turned. "I try to keep a fairly exact account with friends and enemies. Some of them may have forgotten that important fact while I've been away."

* * * *

Dusk fell within the room. Outside the twilight deepened, grew purple and faded into evening while Dick stood thoughtfully fingering the handle of his automatic until Lolitt called him to dinner. And later, when the women had left, he sat smoking for a long time, his feet on the porch railing, his eyes on the bright desert stars that burned low over the Mexican hills. The hour of peace. Peace and the solace of the desert night filled all that silent world, bringing release from toil and striving, dwarfing to insignificance the temporary works and passions of man in that ageless immensity of sand and sky.

Yet on this first night of his return Dick's brooding thoughts ran back to that other night, when word of his brother's death had brought him home.

A bullet in the back! An outstretched form in the desert and the tracks of a horse's hoofs galloping southward toward the border. A limp, crumpled figure carried up these very steps by his cowboys. Beyond that nothing except the last letter he was ever to receive from his brother, the letter that had ended: "I don't like the look of things. I'll write more when I learn more."

Restlessly Lowell rose and paced the length of the porch. Well, perhaps he had learned more, but that bullet fired treacherously from behind silenced all knowledge forever.

For a time he stood looking out to the north, where the long wall of the Barrier loomed darkly against the sky. A little wind blew across the desert, bringing with it the chill of a January night, and twice the lights of automobiles flashed on the road to Verde. The cold grew more penetrating and at last Lowell entered the house and unfolded a large map, comparing it with the figure he had copied from Sari's desk. Then at last he pushed it all back and sat quite still, his eyes fixed in thought.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

On the same January evening in the little bunk-house that served as his office at the dam, Nick Sari called five men together. Ranged along the wall they stood there, a strangely grotesque lot, each with a record of violence behind him, each a recognised "bad man", even here in the border country where that title was difficult enough to earn and often dangerous to possess. Yet now they stood like chastened children while with open contempt Sari glared up at them and slowly, dispassionately lashed them with the cold anger of his words. Methodically he reviewed their past failures to deal with the Verde ranchers, holding them up to scorn, sneering at their vacillation.

"You've been too easy with them—you, too, Pablo," he ended. "What in Hell good are you if I'm to come back and find half the Verde ranchers still holding land that is mine? Men rule by fear. Haven't you learned that yet? There Will Barnes—what have you done about him? Threats, always threats. By heaven, I'd have silenced that yellow newspaper months ago—and I've got to come out here and tell you how to silence it now. All right, listen then.

(TO BE CONTINUED)

ROYAL ENGAGEMENT

Announcement comes from Holland that on April 30, the engagement will be announced of Princess Juliana of Holland to Prince Carl Johan of Sweden. Both are shown ABOVE.

EXPLORER YEARNS FOR POLAR MENUS

Rugged Ice Climber of Southern Seas Keeps Fit

New York, March 25—(CP)—New York restaurants would please Lincoln Ellsworth better if they served sizzling seal steaks or sauted breast of penquin. "I like the wild taste of such meat," said the explorer back from Antarctica.

"Seal steak is delicious and the only difficulty with penquin was that it took 17 of them to feed our crew. The breasts are the only parst you can eat."

Penquin eggs, too, are not to be snubbed on a polar menu. They are about the size of turkey eggs and fried or in omelets are fit for any explorer's breakfast.

In New York while making up his mind on plans for another try at crossing the southern back yard of the world, Ellsworth is keeping in trim by wrestling daily. Graying at 54 and tanned as if he had wintered on a Miami beach, he hopes to return to the Antarctic so that early in November or late in October he can attempt another pole-ward dash.

To the "so what" minded persons of the general public who look askance at polar expeditions, Ellsworth had this to say:

"There are 5,000,000 square miles in the Antarctic—an area equal to that of Europe and Australia, 90 per cent of which is unexplored. This area must have all the resources of coal, gold and platinum and any other resource found in any other continent. They may be inaccessible today but we do not know what tomorrow will bring."

DEATHS OVER THE WEEK END

By The Canadian Press

Belfast, Northern Ireland—Sir George Clark, 74, former Chairman of the Great Northern Railway of Ireland.

London—Oswald Partington, 63, second Baron Doverdale. A Liberal M. P. from 1900 to 1910 and 1915-1918.

Edmonton—John Whitnah Leedy, 86, Governor of Kansas from 1897 to 1899, and State Senator from 1893 to 1897.

Cobh, Irish Free State—Most Rev. Robert Browne, 91, Bishop of Cloyne and Dean of the Irish Catholic Hierarchy.

Detroit—William J. McAneeny, 62, former President and Chairman of the Hudson Motor Car Company and later President of the Hupp Motor Car Company.

Montreal — Dr. R. H. Craig, 59, widely-known Montreal physician and sportsman.

Montreal—Arthur E. McKenna, 42, Real Estate and Insurance agent.

Kitchener, Ont.—Robert E. Beger, 50, Office Manager of the Rubber Machinery Shop of the Dominion Rubber Company.

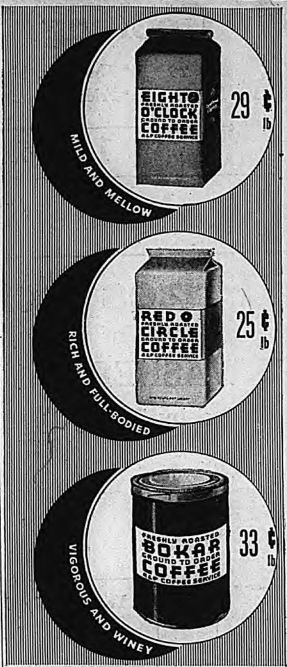
DON'T MISS
COOKING SCHOOL
THIS WEEK

At the Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School, Miss Claire Andree will show you many new and helpful ideas in cooking.

In her coffee demonstration she will use the A & P Coffee Trio, the three most popular coffees in the world, so that you may learn at first hand why so many millions prefer them, and how important fresh grinding in A & P Stores is in the making of perfect coffee.

Equal in quality, tho' different in flavor, these coffees are packed in the bean, ground fresh in the store.

ROASTED AND PACKED IN CANADA



EIGHT O'CLOCK FRESHLY ROASTED GROUND TO ORDER COFFEE A&P COFFEE SERVICE
29 ¢ lb
MILD AND MELLOW
RED CIRCLE FRESHLY ROASTED GROUND TO ORDER COFFEE A&P COFFEE SERVICE
25 ¢ lb
RICH AND FULL-BODIED
FRESHLY ROASTED BOKAR GROUND TO ORDER COFFEE A&P COFFEE SERVICE
33 ¢ lb
VIGOROUS AND WINEY

● REALLY FRESH COFFEE IS GROUND BEFORE YOUR EYES

A&P FOOD STORES

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY
LIMITED OF CANADA

London Comment On the Budget

London, March 25 (CP Cable) — The financial strain imposed on the Canadian Government by the fiscal needs of the Provinces was noted today in newspaper comment on the Dominion budget. Improvement in foreign trade was mentioned by both The Times and The Morning Post.

The Morning Post said: "The apparent surplus is illusory and even more unsatisfactory are the finances of the Provinces and the municipalities of which many are frankly insolvent. Canada's credit, despite all, still remains high but it won't be able to withstand many more shocks such as that just administered by the Mayor of Vancouver."

The Times said: "The position of the treasury was made more difficult by the necessity of maintaining the credit of the four Western Provinces. . . Real surpluses cannot be expected until the farmer recovers a measure of prosperity."

Ancient Letters Are Discovered

Jerusalem, March 25 (CP) — (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—The correspondence between two Kings dating back to the time of Jeremiah 700 B.C., has been discovered by the archaeological expedition led by Prof. J. L. Starkey of Breat Britain is was learned today.

The discovery was made at Tel Ad-Dumweir, ancient city of Lachish. It consists of 12 Ostraka fragments which are taken to be an exchange of secret letters between the Kingdom of Judea and the Kingdom of Babylon or Egypt.

Details of the findings were made known to the Palestine government but were not given out to the press. Prof. Starkey expects to find more fragments in other sites shortly to be excavated.

"A Kitchen Just Isn't a Kitchen Without Them"
Says Miss Claire Andree

When you stop to figure it out a goodly portion of a woman's time is spent in the kitchen and it makes it so much easier when her kitchen is equipped with these modern aids—

Wear-ever Aluminum — Enamelware
Pyrex - Ovenserveware

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE IS USING THEM AT THE COOKING SCHOOL THIS WEEK.

Walker Hardware
COMPANY LIMITED
248 Front Street. Phone 163.

FOR LUMBAGO USE RUMACAPS
ATTACK THE CAUSE of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago—
DOLAN THE DRUGGIST

DEBOTH HOMEMAKERS SCHOOL

LADIES ATTENTION !

The very latest in the art of Culinary and Home Making to be demonstrated by popular Claire Andree of the DeBoth School.

May we suggest Madam that you buy your ticket as soon as possible and that you come early?

Please read the Ontario Intelligencer daily for complete details.

Belleville Women Will Hear Famous Cooking Authority

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE

Lecture at

Ontario Intelligencer De Both Cooking School

Opening Tomorrow

This is the first opportunity the women of Belleville have had to hear Miss Andree lecture. Widely known in other cities and towns where she has conducted cooking schools, Miss Andree comes with an outstanding reputation as an interesting speaker and as an acknowledged authority on cooking and housekeeping craft. The series of lectures and demonstrations which Miss Andree plans to give will furnish Belleville women with valuable cooking advice and suggestions in a really entertaining and instructive way.

Grand Slam Sandwich

—lovely for the card party!

Cut slices of bread about ¼ inch thick and cover with butter. Cover half of them with thin slices of cheese. Season with salt and pepper, and a pinch of KEEN'S MUSTARD. Cover with remaining bread and press down firmly. Toast under grill, turning them over carefully. Cut into convenient portions and serve hot.

Left Over Cold Lamb

A delight to the palate

Cut 12 thin slices from your cold roast lamb (any other meat will do as well). Then reheat the sliced lamb in sauce, made by melting 2 tablespoons butter and adding 1 tablespoon pure cider vinegar, ½ cup home made currant jelly, ½ teaspoon Keen's Mustard and salt to taste.

Barbecued Ham

Serve it on a Hot Plate

Fry medium sliced cold boiled ham in own fat until edges begin to crisp. Draw to side of pan and add 1 salt spoon Keen's Mustard, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon vinegar and a dash of pepper to fat left in pan. Mix well and turn ham in this two or three times. Serve at once on hot platter.

KEEN'S
D. S. F. Mustard
AIDS DIGESTION

TURKEY GREETS SUFFRAGE PARLEY

Women of West And East Will Discuss Rights at Istanbul

Manchester, Eng., March 25—(AP)—For the first time Eastern and Western women will be the guests in conference of their Turkish sisters when the International Suffrage Alliance Congress meets at Istanbul, Turkey, on April 18.

The president will be Mrs. Corbett Ashby, whose ability and charm fit her for this high position, The Guardian remarks. The vice-president is Mme Plaminkova, a senator of Czecho-Slovakia. The British delegation will include Mmes. Despard, Pethick-Lawrence, Bumpus, Spiller and Ross, of Edinburgh, Dr. Octavia Lewin, Misses Picton-Tubervill, Alison Neilans, and Fielden.

Delegates from 40 countries will discuss the status of women under different forms of government, the co-operation of the women of East and West, their economic problems, the suffrage, equal citizenship rights and the equal moral standard. Consideration will be given to like conditions of work for both sexes and to the civil status of women, including nationality. The congress will conclude with an appeal for peace and the furtherance of the work of the League of Nations.

Receptions will be given by the women's societies of Istanbul and by the president and board of 21 members, some of whom come from countries as far distant as Iceland and Australia. There will be an excursion on the Bosphorus. The Prefect of Istanbul will entertain members of the congress at dinner. The Turkish Government has reduced all fares and instructed its consuls abroad to grant free visas to congress visitors.

◆

POLICE PREVENT ASSASSINATION

Man Enters Home of Japanese Armed With Dagger

Tokyo, March 2 (AP)— Police today prevented an apparent attempt to assassinate Baron Kitokuro Ikki, President of the Privy Council, arresting a member of a patriotic organization who attempted to force his way into Ikki's home armed with a dagger.

Police gave the assailant's name as Daihachi Kikuchi, member of the Kokusui Taishuto Society.

Later they raided the headquarters of the organization and arrested nine more men, who offered some

HARGES SLANDER

Hamilton, Ont., March 25—(CP)—A conductor on a Hamilton street railway car told S. W. Brock of this city he hadn't put a ticket in the fare box.N ow Brock is suing for unstated damages on a rharge of slander.

LADIES FAVOURITE FLOUR

RECOMMENDED AND USED AT THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER COOKING SCHOOL

by

Miss Claire Andree

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE who highly praises this old established flour—all wise housewives have used it for years, she states, for they know the importance of good, dependable flour to get uniform baking results.

This superior brand of flour is the largest local selling flour and is on sale at all grocers.

At the Capitol Theatre
Tuesday, Wednesday,
Thursday and Friday
OF THIS WEEK, BEGINNING
AT 1.30 P.M.

WE CARRY A FULL LINE OF SEEDS, FERTILIZERS
POULTRY SUPPLIES

MacKenzie and Company

45 South Front Street Phone 219
26 McAnnany St. (Market Square) Phone 744

PLANTING GAELIC TO OUST ENGLISH

Government Moves Families in Language Scheme

Dublin, March 25—(CP)—As a first step in a plan to propagate the Irish language in purley English-speaking districts, the Free State government has arranged for the transfer of 27 families from the west coast to a colony near Athboy, county Heath. Each family is being provided with a house and a parcel of land and will be instructed in modern farming methods. They will move to their new quarters this summer.

Supporters of the language revival are divided in their opinions of the wisdom of this step. Dissenting voices say that instead of spreading the Irish language in an area where it is comparatively unknown, the governmtnt will succeed only in bringing up the migrants as English speakers. Those in favor of the plan assert the example the migrants will set their neighbors will go far towards the complete Gaelicization of the country.

If the plan succeeds, the government hopes to migrate several hundred families during the next few years.

◆

Obituary

MR . WILLIAM KNG

Eldorado—The late William King passed awaay at the home of his daughter Mrs. Herb McCoy of Cooper on Monday. March 18th., 1935 in his 77th . year after a lingering illness.

Deceased was born in Madoc Township where he has resided nearly all his life. His death marks the passing of one of Cooper's oldest and most valued pioneers, popular and widely known throughout the surrounding district.

The deceased was of a quiet and retiring nature and had a wide circle of friends. Some of his early years was spent as cook for the Rathbun Lumber Co.

At an early age he was united in marriage to Maud Diamond,, who predeceased him 2 years ago. To this union was born one son and one daughter (Beatrice,) Mrs. Herb McCoy of Cooper, and Melvin of Toronto. Until a few years ago he was a successful farmer at Cooper, then in poor health a few years ago retired to his home at Remington where the rest of his time was spent prior to his death. In religion he was a faithful member of the United Church at Cooper.

Left to mourn his death besides his son and daughter are one brother "Archie" of North Bay, also 7 grandchildren.

The funeral service was held from the home of his daughter to Cooper United Church and was conducted by his pastor, Rev. W. G. Fletever with the Lord", "O God our cher. The hymns sung were "For-Help in Ages past", "Peace, Perfect Peace" and the choir rendered very feelingly "Some Sweet Day By and by". The service at the graveside was in charge of the members of L.O.L. 285 Cooper of which he was a valued member. The pall bearers were Messrs Fred Moorecroft, A. Graham, Joseph Rollins, H. Rollins, JrJ., Earl Ferguson, Robert Rollins.

The floral tributes bore mute testimony to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

WILLIAM HENRY CLAW (Contributed)

On March 14th, William Henry Claw passed to his eternal reward after a short illness. The late Mr. Claw was 83 years old. He was of a sterling character, and he was respected by all who knew him.

He was devoted to his family and a man who feared God. His passing out was one long to be remembered dying in the faith of the One whom he served for many years.

The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. E. J. Wilson of Kingston, in the Huntingdon United Church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Sexsmith, Rev. Mr. Kitt and Rev. Mr. Reynolds.

The deceased was a member of the Holiness Movement Church. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow, and three children. Rev. J. E. Claw of Cadallic, Sask., Ross of Northport, Ont., and Mrs. Wm. Grundy, of Belleville, also ten grandchildren. Two brothers, Mathias of Cole Lake, and Peter of Watertown. One sister, Mrs. Peters of Pulashe.

The pall bearers were Walter Martin, Tom Martin, John Martin, Alfred Redmond, Robert Babcock, William Babcock.

"Servant of God well done,
The glorious warfare is past
The battles fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last."

◆

COLLECT ENGINE PICTURES

New York, March 25—(CP) — Thousands of men and boys in the United States are collectors of locomotive pictures, the record number of photos possessed by one individual consisting of more than 30,000 views.

◆

ELEPHANTS ON TOUR

Crewe, England, March 25—(Cable)—Three elephants appearing in a circus here joined in a shopping tour today and had the crowds dashing wildly out of range.

In their brief spell of freedom the elephants barged placidly through narrow alleys, upsetting fruit stalls and devouring huge quantities of celery, lettuce and radishes. One of them showed a preference for soap.

Indian Changes Views on Dance

Bombay, March 25—(CP)—Dancing is having a revival in India and the Times of India publishes a letter from a writer who advocates its further extension.

"The prejudice against dancing has been so unreasonable that our women have dreaded the idea of taking it up for fear that they would be dubbed as professional dancers," says the writer. "And still, we are told that in olden days the edic maid was taught to play and sing and also to dance. Especially on festive occasions was she asked to give an exhibition of her arts, and it was not regarded as demeaning to perform before guests.

"Today, however, the prejudices are dying out to a certain extent, as can be seen from the fact that in [illegible] colleges little Indian dances are usually a part of [illegible] entertainments, and no one takes it amiss to see girls dancing on the stage.

"To santiniketan, the revival of Indian dancing owes a great deal; for, through the strenuous efforts of the Poet, and his ardent desire to convince the orthodox that there is no harm in dancing if looked upon as a pure form of art, the atmosphere has cleared; and many parents are having their daughters taught the Indian dance."

◆

WOMAN WAS FIRST ON ST. PATRICK'S

Western Ontario Winter Recalls Times of 60 Years Ago

London, Ont., March 25—(CP) — In the latter half of the last century St. Patrick's Day was recognized as a day of days and was celebrated in London and other centres of Western Ontario by both young and old, says a writer in the Free Press. A Londoner recalling St. Patrick's Day of the seventies tells of the crowded streets, the laughing and merry-making.

At the head of the parade was an Irish lady, Mrs. Grant, whose English husbands and sons remained at home and all of whom have long since died. Mrs. Grant, in her gaily colored green gown trimmed with frills and furbelows, and wearing a bonnet decorated with yards and yards of green ribbon and tied with large green bows, stepped lightly to the tune of the Irish airs played by the band which followed closely behind, as she guided the procession along. Marching behind the band were the young men of St. Patrick's Society, clad in green uniforms; and green dresses and ties were everywhere at the grand concert in the evening.

◆

MURDER TRIAL OPENS

St. Thomas, Ont., March 25 — (CP)—Frank Temple and Fred Temple, father and son, go on trial for their lives here at the Assizes which open here today with Mr. Justice W. T. Henderson presiding. They are charged with the death of City Police Constable Colin McGregor last May 7. The trial of the two men will likely be held separately, that of the elder Temple is expected to start Tuesday.

Constable McGregor was mortally wounded during a gun fight at the Temple home where he and Sergeant Sam McKeown had gone to execute warrants charging the men with a minor theft.

Have you Tried?
DURHAM
CORN STARCH
Product of the St. Lawrence Starch Co. Limited, Port Credit, Ont.

FRIGIDAIRE
REIGNS SUPREME
at the
Ontario Intelligencer
DeBoth Cooking and
Homemakers' School

Miss Claire Andree

Miss Claire Andree
SPECIALIST IN HOME ECONOMICS
and
LECTURER FOR THE DE BOTH SCHOOLS

has chosen Frigidaire for her demonstrations, knowing from actual experience in many cities that Frigidaire gives perfect service and satisfaction in refrigeration to preserve and protect food. During her Belleville engagement Miss Andree will use a DeLuxe 12-34 Frigidaire and a Standard 4-35..... There is nothing better in electric refrigeration.

Three Million Frigidaires

are now in use, a fact which testifies to the popularity and worth of this superior electric refrigeration system. Manufacture and sale has started briskly on the FOURTH MILLION, and that is the present objective, FOUR MILLION FRIGIDAIRES.

A Size for Every Kitchen—A Price for Every Purse

There are many more Frigidaires in use than any other make, proving that Frigidaire is the CHOICE OF THE MAJORITY. Frigidaires are made by the largest firm in the world making a complete line of electric refrigeration equipment.

Frigidaires are Made in Four Series
Standard Series - Master Series - Super Series - DeLuxe Series

AMAZING FRIGIDAIRE ECONOMY is illustrated in the Standard Series of Frigidaires which use less current than one ordinary lamp bulb.

Frigidaire's Handsome appearance is enhanced by the famous Dulux Finish which has amazed experts and delighted Frigidaire owners—a finish that will not crack or break under the most strenuous of tests.

See the Frigidaire at the Cooking School
Hear Miss Andree's Opinion of Frigidaire
THEN HAVE AN INDIVIDUAL DEMONSTRATION AT BELLEVILLE FRIGIDAIRE HEADQUARTERS.

Radio & Refrigeration Shop
23 BRIDGE STREET PHONE 395

Thor - Frigidaire
Sales and Service
333 FRONT STREET PHONE 837

Hockey
Current Sport

IN THE REALM OF SPORTING EVENTS

Basketball
Bowling

Shore, Boston Defenceman, Engineers Play to Defeat Toronto Leafs in Overtime

Dit Clapper Makes No Mistake in Beating Hainsworth

CLOSE CHECKING

Bill Cook, Though Injured, Scoring Winning Goal For Rangers

By The Canadian Press

Even if Boston lose the National Hockey League title series to Toronto Leafs Eddie Shore and Dit Clapper already have done well enough by Bruins to rate consideration among the heroes, that are crowned in the playoffs every spring.

The goal the great Shore engineered and Clapper scored Saturday in 33 minutes and 26 seconds of overtime to give Frank Patrick's men the first game of a best of five series 1-0 may yet prove Boston's salvation.

Tomorrow night they take confidence borne of their first-game victory into the second struggle with Conny Smythe's team in the Boston garden, after which the teams move to Toronto for the rest of the series.

But while Shore and Clapper are huddled under the hero's mantle they will have to widen it to make room for Bill Cook, 39-year-old New York Ranger, who couldn't be beaten by a scalp wound, that required eight stitches.

Injured in the second period of the Montreal Canadiens-Rangers Stanley Cup elimination game in New York last night, Cook in the third period scored a goal, that won Rangers the game 2-1. They take the advantage into the second game of the total-goal series at Montreal Tuesday.

Goalless Draw

There were no heroes and no goals either in the game between Maroons and Chicago Black Hawks in Montreal Saturday night unless the rival goalies, Alex Connell and Lorne Chabot could be considered. Although they stopped only 28 goals each they had the satisfaction of registering shutouts. The teams start scratch again Tuesday in Chicago.

The careful, close-checking sort of hockey Maroons and Hawks played was shown in all three games, that produced only four goals. Unwilling to take chances when there was so much at stake, all teams played hockey, that might be booed in mid-season but goes over big with the fans in playoffs, that mean so much.

The surprise of the Boston game was the ineffectiveness of the Leaf first line of Charlie Conacher, Harvey Jackson and Joe Primeau. Three reasons were suggested; they were under wraps; they were checked too closely; Primeau's injury slowed him up as a playmaker.

Hec Kilrea, whom they used to call "Hurricane Hec" a few years ago, stood out among the Toronto forwards, while King Clancy played back to his best never-say-die hockey.

Shore and Babe Siebert set something of a record in playing the 93 minutes of the game with only one rest. Shore made few of his spectacular rushes but it was on one of them that the winning goal came.

Shore Heaves Pass

The Alberta wheat farmer heaved a long pass across to Clapper who skated in for a closer shot and lifted the puck into the net over George Hainsworth's left shoulder as the Toronto goalie started to drop to the ice to block a lower shot.

The injury, that failed to put Bill Cook out of the game at New York resulted from a free-for-all in which Cook and Nels Crutchfield battled with their sticks. Cook had been waved to the penalty box for high-sticking and hit Crutchfield as he passed him. The Montrealer dropped Cook to the ice with his stick and as blood streamed from the wound players of both sides milled around for several minutes.

Crutchfield was given a match penalty and Cook a major. Canadiens were without Crutchfield's services, when Cook scored the winning goal to break the 1-1 tie. Cecil Dillon had given the Rangers a lead in the first on Lynn Patrick's pass and Roger Jenkins had tied it up in the second on a solo dash.

Chicago were called as slight favorites to win the series with Maroons after the Montrealers failed to score against them on home ice but Tommy Gorman's team was confident they could take the series in a more open game tomorrow night.

OLYMPICS TAKE LONDON BY 4-0

Detroit Easily Wins First Game in The Final Series

Detroit, March 25. —(CP)— Detroit Olympics, whose 1934 playoff aspirations were blasted when three of their stars were drafted for teh Redwings of the National League were well on the way towards winning the international League title today.

No such calamities have befallen the O's this year and last night they put it over the champion London Tecumsehs 4-0.

After gaining the one game lead in their first encounter, the Detroiters were slight favorites to take the best-three-of-five series.

Detroit and London swapped first and second place in the standings with each other all season but there was little doubt as to Olympics' superiority last night. They scored twice in the first period, once in the second and again in the third.

Desse Roche was the leading light with two goals and one assist. He scored the first counter midway through the first period on a pass from Ron Moffatt and before the frame ended laid down the pass that Connie King converted into the second Detroit goal.

Desse was only feet away from the London net when he finished the second period goal play started by Wally Kilrea and Earl Roche. Forbes in the London nets had no chance on the shot.

In the third period Yip Foster slipped a pass over to Kilrea for the final goal at the 14 minute mark. Only four penalties were handed out. Two of them were Majors, going to Kilrea and Eric Pettinger of London for trading punches.

The teams meet again Tuesday.

SUDBURY CUBS DOWN OSHAWA

Win Junior "A" Crown And Will Continue in Playdowns

Toronto, March 25.—(CP)—Sudbury Cub Wolves sent a victory howl reverberating through to their northern hunting grounds today and proudly wore the Junior "A" Crown of the Ontario Hockey Association. Captain "Chuck" Shannon will now lead the pack against Ottawa Rideaus in their quest for the Memorial Cup, emblematic of Junior Canadian Hockey supremacy.

The Wolves fought for 90 minutes here Saturday before eliminating Oshawa Majors, 5-3, in a sudden-death game, necessitated by the action of the O.H.A. in throwing out Sudbury's first victory because of the use of three instead of two imports.

Sudbury looked like a beaten team after the first period. Cliff Maundrell gave the Majors a goal in the period and the Wolves had little success with their few offensive sorties. In the second period Wilbur Hiller ended a solo rush by beating Peterson, Oshawa's goaler, and Art Stuart gave Sudbury the lead on a freak shot, the puck rolled along the ice, hit Tony Graboski's skate and trickled into the net.

Forced to revert to defensive tactics by Oshawa's last period offensive, the Wolves, nevertheless made their lead 3-1 on a goal by Shannon. Just two minutes were left, when Tony Graboski soloed down left wing, was eased into a corner but got a perfect pass over to Chisholm, who beat Kemp from close in. Eleven seconds remained when Chisholm did it again on an almost identical play to send the game into overtime.

Neither team drew a penalty in the first two overtime sessions and three men were always waiting for the opposing puck carrier. Then Clarridge went off for tripping and Shannon blazed the way for the winning goal. Oshawa sent five men up in another attempt to tie the game but Grosso and Swanson combined for a goal, that settled the issue.

N. H. L. STARS

Bill Cook, Rangers, though injured, scored the winning goal in the New Yorkers' 2-1 victory over Canadiens.

Eddie Shore and Dit Clapper, of Boston, who combined for the only goal of the battle with Toronto.

Alex Connell and Lorne Chabot, rival goalies, who took most of the honors in the Maroon-Chicago scoreless tie.

The Height of Good Taste

GRADUATE TO GRADS
Cigarettes

SAVE THE BRIDGE HANDS

L. O. GROTHE, LIMITED—An independent company, all Canadian capital, owned and operated by Canadians for over 50 years.

25

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

In the springtime a young man's fancy turns to words of l—, hold everything—gold. If that phrase be true then spring is officially in the air and was ushered in late last week, when Bog Wray and Walt Belair could not withstand the strain any longer and resurrected the putter, driver and mashie to have a round of golf up at the Country Club. No reports as to which one was victorious in the initial golf game played in Belleville in 1935 was available, however, despite the fact, that Mr. Belair and Mr. Wray had the unique distinction of prying off the local golf lid for the current season. Undoubtedly the actions of these two men prompted the Country Club golfers to hold a directors' meeting however, as we observe that Col. R. J. E. Graham is at the helm of that organization as president for 1933 with H. M. Jones taking over the duties of secretary. The usual inter-city and inter-club matches will be played by the Bay of Quinte golfers this coming season with added competition within the club itself. The Belleville Golf Club can be counted on to hold their annual meeting and election of officers most any day now, as also holds good for the local lawn bowling organization.

On Saturday last the newly formed Belleville Amateur Baseball Association released its roster of officers for the current year and it is to be the bounded duty of this group of citizens to provide baseball for the fans and players of Belleville. Senior, intermediate and junior O.B.A.A. clubs are to be sponsored while later it is understood, that other minor baseball leagues will follow. Providing the organization continues in its announced intentions of encouraging and fostering the game among the teen age boys, a great work will have just started. There is much missionary work to be done among the youth of today in relationship to building up baseball to a standard whereby it will not be necessary to import players as has been the case in so many C.O.B.L. cities in past years. Surely Belleville, as well as any other city in the province, can develop baseball players sufficiently educated in the elementary or primary art of the pastime to subsequently take their place in future senior O.B.A.A. competition. Of course the process of educating these boys to senior standard will naturally take a few years of unceasing efforts on the part of those, who today profess to be paramountly interested in the encouragement and fostering of the game among the minors. On the other hand it must be remembered that the O.B.A.A. was first organized and instituted expresly for the purpose of advancing and fostering amateur baseball among the younger generation of today in this province. (May it ever be thus and flourish long.)

As was noted on Saturday W. E. Rowsome was named as the chairman of the B.A.B.A. with Charlie Meagher returning to the harness and accepting the position of president of the senior club, a wise move on the part of the commission. R. A. Fanning, who has always been keenly interested in intermediate ball, will head that department, while Geo. A. Lee will look after a junior organization among the service clubs of the city. The remaining members of the board, although they have no actual portfolio as yet, will subsequently be given plenty of work to do, we understand. These directors not named above include W. J. "Peeney" Mills, Art Young, Ray Carr and C. Clapp. The local baseball commission is to meet again this week, when plans for a financial campaign and the decision in the matter of organizing a local junior league, school league, and the subject of intermediate baseball will be dealt with. Naturally the organizing of the senior club is not actually necessary as that team has been entered in the C.O.B.L. and all that awaits them is warm weather for pre-season training.

Sometime ago we stated it was rumored that Lefty Hill of Carleton Place had taken up abode in Kingston. Such is not the case, however, as we learned recently that Bud Clancy, ace hurler of the Brockville team in the St. Lawrence League was the pitcher to move into Ponytown. Clancy has an excellent reputation as a speed ball artist and should go well in C.O.B.L. circles, providing the Ponies can dig up a receiver to hold up his slants. Up in Oshawa they unearthed "Lefty" Innis, one time star hurler in the West Toronto League and are banking on him to materially bolster their hurling staff in 1935, while the Petes brought Archie Deyell back from Sudbury, got "Spock" Scriver a job and lured Art Lepper, of Toronto, into town. Looks as though there may not be quite as many .300 hitters in the C.O.B.L. that is glancing over the array of hurling corps around the circuit.

Hamilton Tigers will have a puzzling problem this fall if Huck Welch returns from Montreal to lineup with the Big Four football champions. Welch is one of the country's best punters and placement kickers. So is Frank Turville. Who, the worry warts are wondering, will do the kicking?

Hodge podge—Promoter Clem Allen mailed out his entry blanks for the Eastern Ontario Golden Gloves boxing tournament on April 9th at the Armouries....In order to get in a little training the two group champion B.C.I. boy's basketball teams are playing exhibition tilts versus the Napanee hoopsters tomorrow evening.....The proposed city cage series will not be played until after the C.O.S.S.A. basketball finals at Toronto on Saturday. ....Is it true that the heavyweight wrestlers are to appear in Belleville in the near future?....President Maurice Callaghan and Frank 'Duke' Smith have procured nearly enough finances to go ahead with their plans to move the South End Yachting and Athletic Club Rooms to a new water-front site, we hear..... There is some truth in the statement that some of the best swimmers in Eastern Ontario will compete in the inter-city swimming meet at the Albert College pool, they say....The soccer football promoters are not letting any grass grow under their feet and are establishing the old country game in the local public schools, where all sports should receive attention if they are to survive.

The patrons of the hockey game surely received their money's worth in the opening N.H.L. play-offs on Saturday night when all three tilts lasted well over the allotted 60 minutes. Apparently it must have been in the air, as the Oshawa Majors were eliminated by Sudbury in extra time also. Incidently the Majors may relinquish their right to play in the revived junior O. H. A. championship against Kitchener, 'tis rumored.

HOCKEY SCORES

N.H.L. Championships
Boston 1; Maple Leafs 0.
33.26 minutes overtime.
Stanley Cup Play-offs
Montreal Maroons 0; Chicago 0
N. Y. Rangers 2; Canadiens 1
International Final
Detroit 4; London 0
Ontario Junior Final
Sudbury 5; Oshawa 3
Sudbury wins round, 30 minutes' overtime.
O. H. A. Junior A
Kitchener-W. 5; Toronto Lions 3
Kitchener-Waterloo wins round.
O. H. A. Junior B Final
St. Michaels C. 5; Barrie 3
Round tied.
Canadian-American
Providence 1; Philadelphia 0
Boston 4; Quebec 3.
Memorial Cup
Ottawa Rid. 13; Moncton 5
Ottawa wins round 24-8
Allan Cup
N. Battleford 2; Edmonton 1
North Battleford wins round.
Northwestern League
Vancouver 4; Seattle 3
Central League Play-offs
Minneapolis 5; St. Paul 3
American Association
St. Louis 4; Tulsa 1

Allan Cup Playdowns

(By the Canadian Press)

Toronto All-Stars, geared for Allan Cup competition, marched into Ottawa today and their match tonight against Ottawa Canadiens will headline the Senior Hockey playdown program. Elsewhere, sectional champions idled.

All-Stars, winners of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association and conquerors of the Sudbury Wolves, were given a slight edge over the Ottawa City winners.

For the Capital it will be a second chance for Allan Cup representation. Ottawa Senators were knocked out by Montreal Royals, now champions of Quebec.

In the Junior group, week-end engagements considerably cleared the muddle in Ontario. Sudbury Cub Wolves, hardy little champions of Northern Ontario were forced to play ninety minutes hockey against Oshawa Majors, dethroned Junior O.H.A. champions, but eventually won 5-3 Saturday.

Ab Conick and Grosso scored in the third overtime period to break the 3-3 deadlock and qualify Sudbury for further advancement in Memorial Cup play.

Oshawa now must turn around and try to regain the O.H.A. title they lost through playing Bill Bagnell in their group championship series. Bagnell was ruled over age by the Executive and the Junior Crown was taken from the Majors and placed in circulation again.

Majors will meet Kitchener-Waterloo, their opponents in their previous titular tilt. The Greenshirts from the Twin Cities Saturday defeated Toronto Lions 5-3 in a sudden death game.

In the "B" Division St. Michael's College of Toronto evened their final series with Barrie Colts by scoring a 5-3 win the second game, thus forcing a third and deciding contest. The Northerners won the first game in Midland last Wednesday.

Ottawa Rideaus, junior champions of Ottawa and district entered the Eastern Canada final by knocking out a determined band of Moncton Re Indians. They won Saturday 13-5 and in the first game against the Maritime Champions were victory by an 11-3 margin.

Sudbury Cub Wolves now play Verdun, Q.A.H.A. Junior Champions in the Eastern semi-final.

At the Training Grounds

(By Alan Gould)

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Biloxi, Miss., March 25.—(AP)— Influenced by the balmy Gulf Coast atmosphere, the law of averages and the soft but persupasive voice of Stanley Raymond (Bucky) Harris, the prodigal manager, Washington's Senators are patched up for a come-back campaign this year in the American League. Harris managed Washington's first two pennant clubs in 1924 and 1925. The Senators this year are substantially the same outfit that won the flag in 1933, only to take a licking from the New York Giants and then tumble completely out of the picture in 1934.

Ralph (Red) Kress, Jack-of-all-infield-trades with the Browns and White Sox over a six-year period, looks like the nearest solution to the problem of replacing Joe Cronin at shortstop.

The rest of the infield, with Kubel at first, Buddy Myer at second and the hard-hitting Cecil Travis at third base, still forms the Club's backbone of defense and figures to contribute a .300 batting punch.

The recruit sensational is Alvin (Jack) Powell, who hit .356 for Albany Internationals last year and appears to have beaten out the Veteran Fred Schulte for the centre-field spot.

The pitching staff looks like a case of dealer's choice. The principal addition is Irving (Bump) Hadley, tough fellow to beat if his arm is right.

Four seasoned holdovers, Earl Whitehill, Wally Stewart, Lefty Bob Burke and Monte Weaver, turned in only 40 victories last year. They will have to do at least 50 per cent. better if the Senators are to get anywhere.

CLOTHIERS OF QUALITY

NOTHING LIKE A NEW
Spring Hat
TO BANISH THE THOUGHT OF THE PAST WINTER

Every Smart Color; Every New Color; Every Smart Style; Every New Style is here

Quick & Robertson

First in Style, Quality and Reasonable Price.

WOMAN CALLED SUICIDE

Newton, Mass., March 25—(AP) —Miss Marion Herbert, 34, who Medical Examiner Thomas M. Gallagher said he was informed came from Detroit, was found dead on Friday morning in a West Newton rest home with a carving knife plunged in her throat. Gallagher said she was a suicide. Miss Herbert was said to be a granddaughter of Hiram Walker, who was related to the family prominent in the distillery industry.

The body was found in a bedroom of the rest home about 6 a.m. Gallagher said. A woman at the home told him, he said, that Miss Herbert had been there about a week. Miss Herbert came from Detroit, and she communicated with relatives there.

PROOF OF BIBLICAL CITY

LONDON, March 25.—Proof that Tel ad-Dweir was the site of the Biblical city of Lachish, where recent important Hebrew inscriptions were found, is given in a cablegram from J. L. Starkey, leader of the Wellcome Archaeological Research Expedition in Palestine sent today to Sir Charles Marston, the expedition's sponsor.

"Professor Torczyner (Noah Harry Torczyner, Hebrew authority) reads on reverse of potsherd No. 4 the name Lachish in context concerning identification of Ted ad-Dweir," the message said. "Text is proving of great historical importance."

Y. M. C. A. ALLEYS

In the Ladies' Afternoon League the Crescents got all four points from the Ramblers. In the same league the Athletics got three points to the Aviators' one.

Ladies' Afternoon League

Athletics—
Mrs. Rowsome ..	132	160	110—402
Mrs. R. Arnott..	143	251	128—522
Mrs. Smith	112	127	171—410
Mrs. J. Arnott..	186	228	168—582
Doe	100	100	100—300
Totals	673	866	677 2216
Aviators—
Mrs. Sills	108	203	97—408
Mrs. Skinner ..	113	160	120—393
Mrs. Reid	144	159	156—459
Mrs. Mather	189	123	106—418
Mrs. Graves	135	164	186—485
Totals	689	809	665 2163
Crescents—
Miss Fairbairn..	159	207	165—531
Miss Sine	136	118	120—374
Mrs. Ward	136	117	126—379
Mrs. Maybee	107	113	90—310
Doe	87	96	60—243
Totals	625	651	561 1837
Ramblers—
Mrs. Arbuckle ..	48	63	80—191
Mrs. Boyd	144	104	79—327
Mrs. Moncrief ..	58	139	105—302
Mrs. Ketcheson..	72	107	71—250
Mrs. Morden	139	142	110—391
Totals	461	555	445 1461

FIRE NEARLY WIPES OUT ONTARIO VILLAGE

Damages of more than $120,000 was done when fire swept through village of Sydenham, near Kingston, Ont. The fire threatened for a while to wipe out the entire business section, but with aid of Kingston firemen flames were finally subdued. Above shows scene taken when fire was at its height.

HEAR MISS ANDREE
DEMONSTRATE
The Stewart-Warner "DAVENTRY" WITH EASY-CHAIR CONTROL
at the
ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER
COOKING SCHOOL

THE DAVENTRY

A superb radio in a full-sized console cabinet of matchless beauty. Long and short-wave, full "concert" tone, many outstanding features. Made in Belleville.

$179.50

CAPITOL THEATRE, MARCH 26, 27, 28, 29, 1.30 p.m.

Throngs crowded in to last year's Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School—and talked about it for weeks after! This year it's bigger and better than ever—and one of the outstanding features will be Miss Andree's daily demonstration of the Stewart-Warner "Daventry" Radio with Easy-Chair Control. Come early, get a good seat, and hear what a really great radio can do.

The Big "A" Co., Ltd.
217 FRONT STREET PHONE 284

Also a complete line of Stewart-Warner Battery and A. C. Models from $69.50 up

Daily Short Story

Rassling Scotty

(Copyright 1935 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Sure it was funny. I don't think I ever saw anything so funny since I started managing wrestlers—and the good Lord knows there is plenty of laugh in handling grunters. But this was the funniest thing I ever saw. The crowd thought so, too.

It was at the Coliseum—and Joe McCarthy, smart promoter that he is—had thought up a new one—"strangers' night." The boys were putting on a great show and I was there to see if I could find something new for my stable.

It was one of the later bouts that brought out the laughs. The bout was listed as one between Tom Mann and Donald MacGregor. Mann entered the ring first, attired in a flashy bathrobe and when I got my first peep at him I knew that if he was an amateur so was Jim Londos. He handled himself too well, if you know what I mean.

Then came MacGregor—bringing the laughs with him. He came strutting up the aisle. Preceding him came a bagpiper attired in authentic Highland costume and behind a gray-haired man dressed the same way—only he was carrying on a cushion an old Scottish claymore. MacGregor himself was wearing kilts and a bonnet and it was a strange sight to see him, tall, gaunt and dour of face, utterly oblivious to the cheering and laughing of the crowd.

He vaulted the ropes and unwound his kilt, leaving him stripped down to trunks. He was a mass of rippling muscles every one of which seemed alive.

Three coppers rushed to the old guy who was standing at attention and demanded to know what the heck the sword was for. Before he had a chance to answer, MacGregor leaned over the ropes and picking up a copper in each hand by the scruff of the neck, shook them as a terrier shakes a rat.

His voice rang out:

Scotch Threat

"Ye'll leave the mon be, or I thraw ye through the window as I would toss a caber on Highland heath," he shouted. "The mon is just here to protect my interests, and I'll no see him annoyed."

The coppers walked away muttering threats. It was then that I moved up closer. The Scotsman interested me and I wanted to see what he would do with Mann, who looked to me like a very tough citizen.

The bell rang. Instead of fiddling for an opening, Mann dove forward and threw the Scot heavily. MacGregor shook him loose, and by the look on Mann's face I could see that he was surprised at his opponent's strength. He rose and advanced more cautiously, suddenly dashing out with his elbow and forearm smashing the Scot across the face.

The little gray man next to me, snatched the claymore from its scabbard and started to climb the steps to the ring, shouting:

"This a foul, up MacGregor and strike."

The little guy who had been playing the bagpipes calmly put his pipes on the floor and drawing a long vicious-looking dirk, starts up the stairs behind him, yelling:

"MacGregor forever."

I want to see the young fellow win, so I grab the pair and tell them it's all O.K., that the elbow is legal in this State and that they needn't worry about their pal because he seems to be doing all right for himself at the moment. He was at this time twisting Mann's ankle in one of the neatest toe-holds I have seen since Frank Gotch.

This calms them somewhat, and the old man looks me in the pan and says:

"You look like an honest mon. Will ye tell me then when a foul is committed so I may go to work with the claymore?"

"I'll do better than that," I say. "I'm a wrestling manager and if you like I'll handle your boy through this bout."

They agree and I climb in under the ring. I wait till the boy is on the resin near us and old guy tips him that I'm going to give him the steer. He nods and I know it's all fixed.

Flying Tackle

Mann is rocking him back and forth with elbow smashes and the lad doesn't seem to know how to stop them. They seem to throw him off his stride and it appears he does not know how to handle himself under the battering.

I yell up at him:

"Dive for his legs and give him a spin!"

Like a machine he leaps back half-way across the ring and bounces off the ropes into one of the prettiest flying tackles I have ever seen. He catches Mann just above the knees and spins him around like a top. I see Mann's eyes begin to pop and I yell:

"Slam him!"

Down comes Mann with a crash that made the San Francisco earthquake seem like the dropping of a pin. He's out and he's out for a long time.

MacGregor stretches and twists himself into his plaid. He cocks his bonnet over one eye—the one that was a little blackened by those Mann elbow smashes — and steps down on the aisle.

He signals to his piper, who fills his bags and starts skirling away like mad as he strides up the aisle. MacGregor takes my arm and we step out behind the piper. Behind us solemnly marches the old guy with the sword. The crowd gives us a cheer as we go by.

"Boy," I tell him when we get to my place, "I need you in my business. You're just the lad I'm looking for to build up my stable." He grins and nods, and then he speaks. You could have knocked me over with a feather when the words come tumbling out of his mouth. He hasn't got any more Scotch accent than a Lolynesian.

"It looks like it worked," says he. The piper and the old guy laughed, too.

I'm puzzled.

"Come clean," I pleaded "tell papa everything."

"Well," he says, grinning harder than ever, "I've been wrestling around the country for a long time and getting nowhere. I see where Rufus the Russian Roustabout and Abel the Assyrian Assassin and other guys with names like that get championship bouts and none of us with good old American names get anything, so I decide to be a foreigner.

"I hired the costumes and these two guys out of an actor's agency and now I'm the MacGregor. How did it go over?"

I laugh and tell him it was a great idea and that if he'll sign up with me we'll carry out the idea. This seems to strike him O.K., so I get out the contract. I fill it in.

"By the way," I ask him, "what is your real name. I gotta have it on the contract?"

He picks up the pen and signs:

"Stanislaus Koscicki."

"A good old American name," say I heartily.

◆

Little Benny's Note Book

Mr. Hammer was at our house for supper, being pop's boss, and pop was tawking to him in the front room and he heard me come in and called me, saying. You remember Benny, dont you Mr. Hammer?

Of course, of course, he's growing into quite a little man, well well, Mr. Hammer said.

Being a wide man without much hair and without much lap, and he patted me on top of the head, saying, A brite manly little chap, you must be quite proud of him, Potts?

Well, he's not for sale pop said.

Meening I was good enough for him, and Mr. Hammer said, When I was your age, Benny, I was already thinking of the future. A boy cant start too soon to think of the future, although they dont seem to realize it so much these days, eh, Potts? he said, and pop said, Ah yes, the modern generation. But Benny seems a little more serious, it seems to me, he said.

Good, that's good, Mr. Hammer said, When I was your age, Benny, I was already werking after school hours and saving my pennies because I knew I was going to be a bizzness man some day and I knew the importants of money, although naturelly it doesn't meen everything, because caracter counts too. But that was my ambition, to be a bizzness man, and I stuck to it until I acheeved my aims. And you can do the same, my boy, whatever your ambition is. Is there any particuler ambition that you keep thinking of all the time? he said, and I said G, yes, sir.

Good, very good, and what may it be? Mr. Hammer said, and I said, I always think how nice it would be to get a invitation from some Indian Rajah to come and visit him in India and hunt tigers and elefants and everything with him, and then after that he would send me a big box every Chrissmas and when I opened it it would be full of pearls and precious jools.

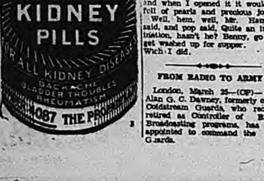
Well, hem, well, Mr. Hammer said, and pop said, Quite an imagination, hasn't he? Benny, go and get washed up for supper.

Wich I did.

◆

FROM RADIO TO ARMY

London, March 25—(CP)— Col. Alan G. C. Dawney, formerly of the Coldstream Guards, who recently retired as Controller of British Broadcasting programs, has been appointed to command the Irish Guards.



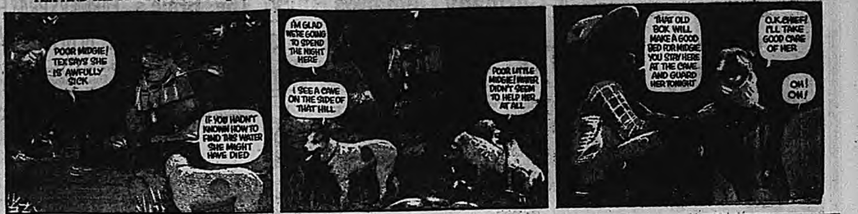
DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS FOR ALL KIDNEY DISEASES BACKACHE BLADDER TROUBLES RHEUMATISM 4087 THE PRO

TEX AND HIS PALS (ActualPhotographs)

The Gang Camps for the Night

[illegible]

By Leslie A. Hill



POOR MIDGIE! TEX SAYS SHE IS AWFULLY SICK
IF YOU HADN'T KNOWN HOW TO FIND THIS WATER SHE MIGHT HAVE DIED
I'M GLAD WE'RE GOING TO SPEND THE NIGHT HERE
I SEE A CAVE ON THE SIDE OF THAT HILL
POOR LITTLE MIDGIE! WATER DIDN'T SEEM TO HELP HER AT ALL THAT OLD BOX WILL MAKE A GOOD BED FOR MIDGIE. YOU STAY HERE AT THE CAVE AND GUARD HER TONIGHT
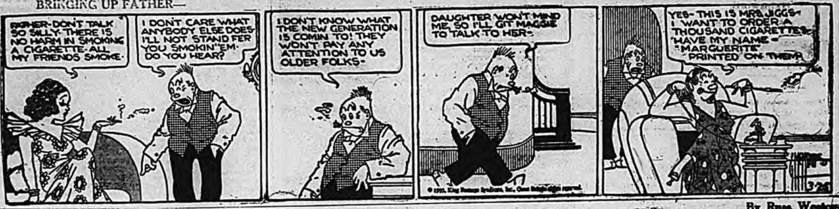
O.K. CHIEF! I'LL TAKE GOOD CARE OF HER
OH! OH!

BRINGING UP FATHER—

By George McManus



FATHER-DON'T TALK SO SILLY-THERE IS NO HARM IN SMOKING A CIGARETTE-ALL MY FRIENDS SMOKE-
I DON'T CARE WHAT ANYBODY ELSE DOES-I'LL NOT STAND FER YOU SMOKIN' 'EM-DO YOU HEAR?
I DON'T KNOW WHAT THE NEW GENERATION IS COMIN TO! THEY WON'T PAY ANY ATTENTION TO US OLDER FOLKS-
DAUGHTER WON'T MIND ME, SO I'LL GIT MAGGIE TO TALK TO HER-
YES- THIS IS MRS. JIGGS- I WANT TO ORDER A THOUSAND CIGARETTES- HAVE MY NAME - "MARGUERITE" PRINTED ON THEM-© 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.
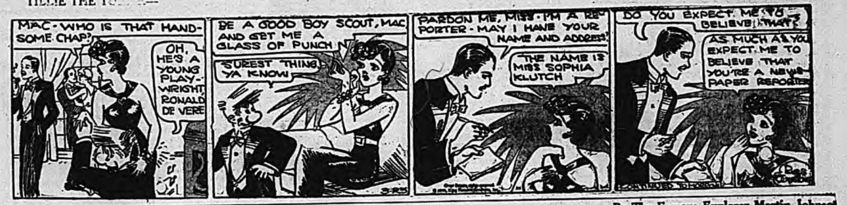
3-25

TILLIE THE TOILER—

By Russ Westover



MAC - WHO IS THAT HANDSOME CHAP?
OH, HE'S A YOUNG PLAYWRIGHT, RONALD DE VERE
BE A GOOD BOY SCOUT, MAC AND GET ME A GLASS OF PUNCH SUREST THING, YA KNOW
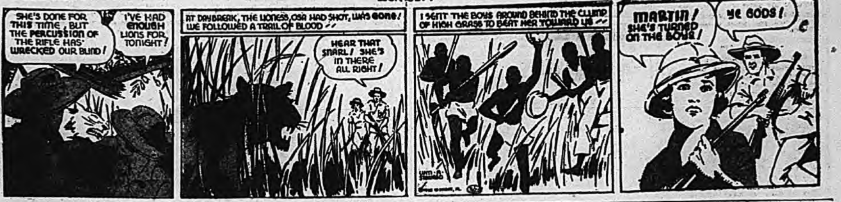
3-25
PARDON ME, MISS - I'M A REPORTER - MAY I HAVE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS?
THE NAME IS MISS SOPHIA KLUTCH
DO YOU EXPECT ME TO BELIEVE THAT?
AS MUCH AS YOU EXPECT ME TO BELIEVE THAT YOU'RE A NEWSPAPER REPORTER
CONTINUED TOMORROW

DANGER TRAILS—

By The Famous Explorer Martin Johnson

LOOK OUT!



SHE'S DONE FOR THIS TIME, BUT THE PERCUSSION OF THE RIFLE HAS WRECKED OUR BLIND!
I'VE HAD ENOUGH LIONS FOR TONIGHT!
AT DAYBREAK, THE LIONESS OSA HAD SHOT, WAS GONE! WE FOLLOWED A TRAIL OF BLOOD -- HEAR THAT SNARL! SHE'S IN THERE ALL RIGHT!
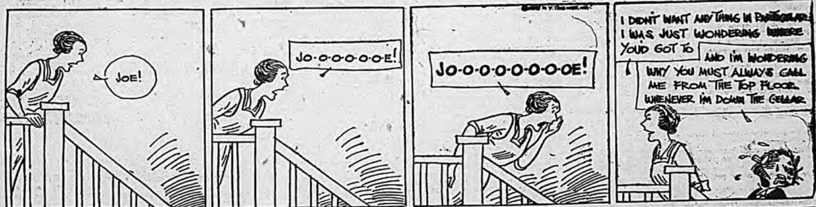
I SENT THE BOYS AROUND BEHIND THE CLUMP OF HIGH GRASS TO BEAT HER TOWARD US --
MARTIN! SHE'S TURNED ON THE BOYS!
YE GODS!

By Briggs



JOE!
JO-O-O-O-O-O-O-E!
JO-O-O-O-O-O-O-O-O-OE!
I DIDN'T WANT ANYTHING IN PARTICULAR. I WAS JUST WONDERING WHERE YOU'D GOT TO AND I'M WONDERING WHY YOU MUST ALWAYS CALL ME FROM THE TOP FLOOR WHENEVER I'M DOWN THE CELLAR

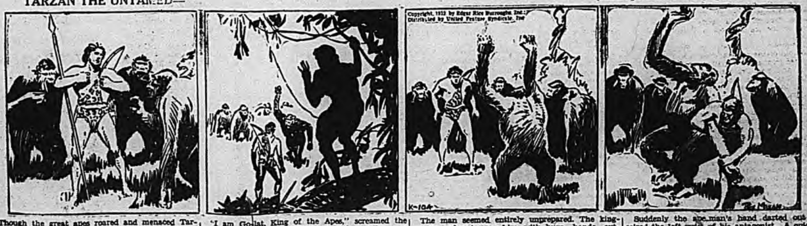
TARZAN THE UNTAMED—

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)



Copyright, 1933 by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
K-104

Though the great apes roared and menaced Tarzan, they did not attack, and now he stood facing their inner circle. Again he spoke: "Tarzan comes to live with his brothers. Which is it to be—shall he dance the Dum-Dum in peace or shall he kill?"

"I am Go-lat, King of the Apes," screamed the huge bull, "I kill! I kill!" and with a sullen roar he charged the Tarmangani. The girl watched, terrified. In another instant that perfect form would be ripped to shreds.

The man seemed entirely unprepared. The king-ape was almost upon him, with huge hands outstretched to seize him, before Tarzan made a move; but when he did move his kuickness would have shamed Ara, the lightning!

Suddenly the ape-man's hand darted out as he seized the left wrist of his antagonist. A quick turn and the bull's left arm was locked beneath the right arm of his foe, in the jujitsu hold that Tarzan had learned among civilized men.

Madam—

Let Us CLEAN Your SPRING COAT NOW

Spring's in the air and you should be at your Spring wardrobe planning.

Our method of cleaning fine fabric leaves it perfectly textured and renews the original smartness of the garment.

We Will Call Promptly If You Telephone 729

TIME TO HAVE FURS CLEANED! Ready to discard your fur coat for the season? Then see that it gets a thorough cleaning, the modern kind that reaches every part of the garment. We store furs as well.

MODERN CLEANERS & DYERS

192 Front Street Phone 729

IF MODERN CLEANED IT'S CLEAN

From the YOUNGEST to the OLDEST LOVE DICKENS' ICE CREAM!

Miss Andree heartily endorses this statement at her Home Makers' School this week at the Capitol Theatre and vouches for its

RICHNESS — TASTINESS and PURENESS

Made in Belleville from Rich, Pasteurized Cream

DICKENS & SON

215 FRONT STREET PHONE 170

Obituary

MRS. J. W. Hambly

The death occurred in Toronto on Sunday, March 24th, of Mrs. Hambly, wife of Mr. Joseph Hambly, formerly of Picton. Interment will be made in Glenwood cemetery, Picton, on Tuesday.

MSS. MATTIE GARRISON

Mrs. Mattie Garrison, widow of James Garrison, passed away Saturday, March 23rd, at the home of her son, Mr. George Garrison, 42 North Park Street. She had been in failing health for some time and recently she was removed from her late residence on Herchimer Avenue, to the home of her son.

The late Mrs. Garrison, who was in her 79th year, was born in Morrisburg, her parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Hyland Roote. For 36 years she had resided in this locality and was highly esteemed by all, who knew her. She was a member of the Kingston Road United Church.

Left to mourn her death are one daughter, Mrs. Frank Wolfe, Copper Cliff; three sons, George Garrison, Belleville; Jesse and Wilbert Garrison of Detroit, Mich.; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Ann Parliament, Rednersville; Mrs. Lettie Carter, Picton; Mrs. Etta Tice, Frankford; four brothers, John Roote, Crofton; Stillman Roote, Rossmore; Rastus Roote, Picton, and Milton Roote, Kingston.

◆

THORN IN SIDE

Belfast, March 25. — Patrick, a three-ton Irish Giant, has become a definite thorn in the side of a British railway company and a challenge to the other white elephants in the world.

The monster sandstone nuisance was the creation of John Dyer, who landed in County Antrim from New York one day, fired with an ambition to make plenty of money.

Germany Demands Navy 30 Percent of Britain's Also Program So Far

Willing For 20 Year Non Aggression Pact And Return to League

GUESTS WELCOMED

Newspapers Carry Stories With Undertone of Confidence

(By Melvin K. Whiteleather)

(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press).

Berlin, March 25—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today personally laid Germany's arms demands before Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, in historic conversations described in diplomatic circles as "likely to determine, whether Europe turns back toward peace or continues toward war."

It was reliably reported Germany would bring to the discussion a demand she be accorded the right to possess a navy 30 per cent the size of Great Britain's. The Reich also was expected to seek from the powers of Europe sanction for her conscription program and her new military air fleet.

In return for these concessions it was indicated Hitler might be willing to agree to Germany's return to the League of Nations and participation in 20-year non-aggression pacts.

Another point, which unquestionably will arise in the course of the discussions, the Danubian and eastern pacts, are not considered likely to evoke any great enthusiasm on the Reichsfuehrer's part. Hitler has long been opposed to such multilateral agreements, preferring in their stead separately negotiated bi-lateral arrangements.

Battery of Secretaries

Sir John entered the Chancellory in the company of Capt. Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, Sir Eric Phipps, British Ambassador, and a battery of secretaries.

Baron Konstantin Von Neurath, Reich Foreign Minister, introduced the British Foreign Secretary. Hitler was previously acquainted with Captain Eden as the youthful british diplomat had negotiated an agreement with the Reichsfuehrer more than a year ago limiting Germany's army to 300,000 men. The agreement subsequently was turned down by Louis Barthou, French Foreign Minister, who later was assassinated with King Alexander of Yugoslavia at Marseille.

Hitler Springs Surprise

Hitler sprang a surprise at the very start of negotiations today by requesting the visitors be brought to the Chancellory to meet him at once.

The Reichfuehrer's request occasioned a sudden revision in the original program, which contemplated that preliminary conversations should be conducted between the British envoys and Baron Von Neurath. Hitler had not been expected to confer with Sir John and Captain Eden until tomorrow.

The meeting signalized Germany's return to the international conference table after 18 months' absence. It represented the first time emissaries from a foreign power had come to Berlin since the Great War.

The parleys began amid an atmosphere of intense popular interest. Newspapers printed long and cheerful accounts of the British emissaries' arrival, their accomplishments and personalities. The press comment uniformly carried an undertone of confidence, participate in definite results are compelled to recognize Germany's demands.

A crowd of some 10,000 or 12,000 persons was on hand to greet Sir John and Capt. Eden, when they stepped from their plane last night at Tempelhof airdrome. Baron Von Neurath officially welcomed the visitors, grasping Sir John's hand with marked cordiality as he alighted from the big air liner, which brought him and his colleague from Paris.

While rumors were heard Germany has accepted an invitation to join in a proposed pace conference among the powers, a foreign office spokesman said: "Germany will participate in defenite results are assured."

◆

2 SLIGHT ACCIDENTS ARE REPORTED

No Personal Injuries Sustained But Property Damage Considerable

Two motor accidents, in which fortunately no person sustained personal injuries, were reported by the Highway Traffic patrol over the week end. Property damage to all four automobiles concerned resulted, however.

Early Saturday evening two motor cars collided on Highway No. 37 near Latta, when an auto driven north by A. Speckman of Stirling was struck by a south-bound motor car driven by Chas. Chapman of Roslin. According to information gathered by the police, Mr. Chapman complained, that he had become blinded by the glaring headlights of Mr. Speckman's oncoming car and could not see the road ahead of him. Mr. Speckman contended to the police that the Chapman-driven car was in the centre of the road. Both cars were badly damaged on the left hand side. Charges will later follow, police stated today.

A rather novel accident happened on Highway No. 74 about two miles north of Belleville at 2.30 p.m. Sunday when a south-bound automobile driven by Donald Neil of Marmora collided in a rear-end collision with a parked car, operated by Garfield Brower, Highland Ave., Belleville. Mr. Brower had previously been proceeding southward and came to a full stop, on his own side of the road to allow two cars to pass before he could make a desired lefthand turn off the highway. While he was stopped the Neil car ran into the rear end of the Brower car causing slight damages. Charges were preferred by traffic officers against Neil.

It was announced today, that in the future all infractions of the H.T.A. and all motor vehicle cases to be heard in this district would be placed before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., in a special motor traffic court to be held in Belleville every Thursday. Motorcycle Patrol Officers are continuing their testing of motor vehicle brakes in this district.

Heir to $5,000,000

MICHAEL BELLOTTI

For 25 years a bootblack in Harrison, N.J., Michael Bellotti is pictured after receiving a letter informing him he and his brother are heirs to a $5,000,000 estate left by his uncle, Giovanni Bellotti, Argentine cattle king.

SPOKE QUICKLY

German Foreign Minister Baron von Neurath, who answered with lightning speed the vigorous protests to Germany concerning the scrapping of the military clauses of the Versailles treaty. Von Neurath declared that Germany agreed that international conversations should take place to outline a general program for a settlement on arms.

The Bride's First Dinner

Susie never liked cooking or housework.
She preferred
talkies and love stories.
George thought they should invite Bill and Effie over for their first Sunday dinner.
They did. And what a meal.
The roast was as tender as Hitler's heart.
The salad was like Marsh hay.
When she served the pie, she said with the coyest smile,
I will pardon
you if you have to use your knife and fork on that crust.
The meal was a calamity but did Susie look good.

As they sat, after the meal, enjoying the delicious Chocolates which Susie had served, knowing that they would make them forget some of the faults of her cooking, Effie noticed her husband's eyes fixed on the beautiful face of George's bride. She remarked, "Susie, you are undoubtedly the year's prettiest bride.".. Susie's blush showed beyond her light touch of rouge, and she replied "Effie you know I am twenty-eight, and not the prettiest bride of the year, but I know that beauty is only skin deep and have brains enough to improve what I have.

Effie said "let the men have a visit here, and you and I will have a talk in your room." The door was hardly closed when Effie said "what do you use and how." Effie smiled and answered, "call in at the handiest drug store on Front St., right in the centre of the shopping district... They have a lovely assortment of both the moderately priced toiletries and the highest class ones such as Du Barry, Vita Ray and Belcano. They have a fine, courteous staff, and believe me, Effie, they know their cosmetics. And two weeks from today they are having a highly trained Du Barry beauty expert there who can show you a dozen little beauty tricks you never dreamed of. But Susie, you didn't tell me what drug store to go to, and would you mind telling me what chocolates you served after dinner. I can still taste them. Why Effie you might know they are Laura Secord's and are sold at the drug store I referred to—Dolan the Druggist.

New that Susie made the best catch in town by her Beauty she is taking Effie's advice and going to the
Cooking School
every afternoon this week, and the next time she serves a dinner it will be just swell.

DOLAN The Druggist

OFFICIALS ACCEPT INVITATION EXTENDED

Discussion At Banquet Will Be On Tourist Publicity

Leading officials of Belleville, the Warden of Hastings County, members of the Publicity Committee of Hastings County Council and representatives of Boards of Trade of Bancroft, Brighton and Picton, and the Chambers of Commerce of Trenton, Deseronto and Napanee have signified their intention of being present at the annual meeting of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce being held in the Queen's Hotel on Tuesday evening, March 26. Invitations sent out by Mr. J. O. Herity to attend the meeting have been promptly answered, it was stated today.

Following the meeting, the Open Forum of the Chamber will be held at which open discussions of matters directly connected with the tourist trade in this district will be held. Mr. Leo B. Dolan, Ottawa, director of the Canadian Travel Bureau, operating under the Department of Railways and Canals, will be the chief speaker of the evening and will deliver an address dealing principally with the tourist business.

◆

CONAN DOYLE'S WORD WAS NOT HEARD

Louisville, Ky., March 25.—Howard Thurston, stage magician, said here that a word by which the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle would identify himself if he attempted to communicate from the beyond was not a part of the remarks attributed to a "spirit" heard in an airplane seance over New York the other night.

FARMERS PRAY FOR A GENERAL RAIN

Drought Damage And Dust Storm Causes Heavy Damage

Kansas City, March 25 (AP)—Southwestern drought damage, embraced in abandoned homes, half starved herds and dust smothered crops, ran high in the millions today as weather-beaten farmers prayed for a general rain to check ravages of sun and wind.

"Many millions of dollars," was the nearest authorities would come to estimating the losses.

However, Hubert L. Collins, Denver statistician for the United States Department of Agriculture, said thousands of acres of south-eastern Colorado land would be useless in farming and grazing for 100 years or more.

Collins predicted on the basis of the present outlook, "the most complete crop failure in the history of the western plains region." He said he referred to Eastern Colorado and Wyoming; Western Kansas and Nebraska and the Texas and Oklahoma panhandle sections.

As the "black blizzard" continued, farmers, beaten by the prolonged storms after four years of drought began an exodus from the Colorado counties of Baca, Bent and Prowers and others planned to move their cattle.

Oklahoma crop authorities said wheat would approximate 50 percent of normal with the figure subject to wide variation in the event of more rain or more dust. Crop damage in Texas was said to be negligible compared to the loss of valuable soil.

F. K. Reed, general statistician, said two weeks of dust storms had greatly dimmed wheat prospects in Western Kansas. He estimated the crop, which last year ran about 12 million bushels, was 15 percent of normal.

◆

EXPECT DEFICIT OF 25 MILLIONS

Government May be Planning Provincial Income Tax

Toronto, March 25—(CP)—Speculating on the nature of the first budget to be introduced by a Liberal Government in Ontario in 30 years, Ontario Legislators returned to Queen's Park today facing the heaviest week of the current session.

The lengthy Throne Speech Debate will wind up tomorrow with addresses by opposition leader George S. Henry and Provincial Secretary H. C. Nixon, several contentious government measures are slated for consideration and on Thursday Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, in his capacity as Provincial Secretary, will deliver the budget address.

Interest centres on the deficit the Premier will reveal. He has admitted there will be a deficit but declined to comment on reports it might reach $25,000,000.

Another matter of conjecture was whether any new taxation would be announced as the result of heavy expenditures on relief. Mr. Hepburn has frequently declared there would be no increase in the gasoline tax but speculators wondered if the government plans a provincial income tax.

Second Reading of Bill

Attorney-General A. W. Roebuck's Police Centralization Bill, object of lengthy opposition attacks, has to be discussed in committee and his Labor Measure, the Industrial Standards Act, will come up for second reading.

Conservatives are expected to continue their attack on the Bill of Minister of Highways T. B. McQuesten to amend the Power Commission Act, when it comes up again for second reading. They assailed the measure as "The introduction of the spoils system by statute" when it was brought up for second reading last week. It proposes to confirm government appointments to local hydro commissions.

Committees face heavy agendas, particularly the Private Bills Committee. The Fish and Game Committee will hear representatives of sportsmen's associations Wednesday and Thursday and the Agriculture Committee will discuss the resolution of a sub-committee on stockyards fees.

◆

Queen Victoria 'Jubilee Mug' is Prized Possession

One of the most prized keepsakes in the home of Mrs. W. A. Coles, Shannonville, is the handsome "Jubilee Mug" that she received as a school girl at her home in Northumberland, England, on the occasion of the celebration ceremonies in connection with the diamond jubilee of Queen Victoria.

The mug is white with a gold band on the rim and is ornamented on one side with a picture of the Queen with the figures 1837-1897 inscribed. On the other side, flags are pictured with the monogram—V. M. The school children of England took part in parades on the Jubilee day and Mrs. Coles, who was then Alice Massingham, of Blyth, Northumberland, England, was, with her companions, the recipient of the mug as a souvenir of the event. Mr. Coles, who was born at Wickmere, Norwich, also received a mug, when a boy. His was received at Albrough Fair which was held at this time, but has since been broken.

Mr. and Mrs. Coles, who were married in England, have resided in this country for the past twenty-three years.

◆

50 YEARS IN PRISAN

White Plains, N.Y., March 25 — (AP)—Lawrence Stone, 24, descendant of a pioneer Connecticut family, today pleaded guilty in the second degree to the murder of Nancy Jean Costigan, five, at Mount Vernon last Octiber and was sentenced to 50 years in prison.

By Tom O'Neill

Associated Press Staff Writer

New York, March 25 (AP)—Two married couples, who were pioneers in the development of contract bridge and became bitter enemies about it will start a prolonged game tonight.

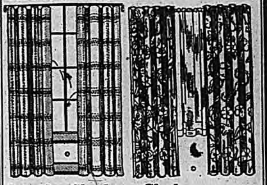
Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson are to play 150 rubbers against Mr. and Mrs. P. Hal Sims. The bitterness has passed, and now, as described by Mrs. Culbertson, they are just friendly enemies, who will test, what her husband regards as the outstanding contrasting philosophies of contract bidding, whether to bid at the first opportunity, as he does, or to wait a bit as Sims does.

CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED

Attend the Cooking School at the Capitol Theatre and Hear About

"What's New" in Drapery Materials

Every woman will want to hear this information that is given out by Miss Andree, in charge of the School Lectures. She will explain just how these materials are used, in what rooms, and in what color combinations. And best of all, they can be procured right in town, at the C.D.S. We list below a few of our newer arrivals.



Lovely Shadow Cloth

Widths 46" to 48" which cut to advantage, and the patterns are very striking, gay or softly subdued in coloring which ever appeals to you. Floral effects, patterns which adopt the modernistic note and others with soft pastel colored birds and scenery. Hangings of this material add so much to your rooms, adding just enough color for the gay months of Spring and Summer.

Yard ...... 45c to 59c

48" to 50" Printed Linens

A riot of color in these linens, and useful for a dozen and one different purposes. Curtains, for slip covers, cushions and chesterfield suites, designs are very effective and in various sizes too. Bright, striking color contrasts, or the piece which is more subdued yet very distinctive, may be selected. We pride ourselves on our fine stock of linens this year, and invite your inspection.

Yard ...... 89c to 1.19

Rich Tuscan Nets

—can be used effectively in many different rooms, their coarse, open weave, letting in plenty of sunlight, too. In soft ivory or ecru tone. Priced

Yard ...... 39c to 69c

CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED

EATON GROCETERIA

Specials for Tuesday & Wednesday

SQUARE DEEL Cleanser ... 2 tins 7c

JOLLY GOOD Peanut Butter Large 26-oz. Jar 23c

HABITANT BRAND Pea Soup 2 Large 28-oz. tins 17c

Loin Pork Chops lb. 23c

2 lbs. LEAN STEWING BEEF
2 lbs. COOKING ONIONS
2 lbs. CARROTS
All for 23c

FRESH OR SMOKED FILLETS lb. 14c

FANCY McINTOSH Table Apples doz. 19c

"WHILE THEY LAST"

Spanish ORANGES 2 doz. 25c

GOOD SIZE—FULL OF JUICE

Lemons large size doz. 17c

Phone Us Your Order

Prompt, careful attention given phone orders. Phone in your meat order—no extra charge for delivering meat orders.

GROCERY ORDERS OF $1. DELIVERED FREE.

PHONE 800

THE WEATHER
Lower Lake region and Georgian Bay: Moderate to fresh northerly winds; fair today and most of Wednesday; not much change in temperature.

The Ontario Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, MARCH 26, 1935

TEMPERATURES

	Max.	Min.
Today	38	28
Year ago	31	1

Weather—Fair.

JOHN BUCHAN LIKELY NEXT GOVERNOR-GENERAL

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Charleston, W. Va., March 26—(CP)—Chivalry is being put to a hard test in one office building here. The sign in the elevator says "men please keep their hats on." When there are ladies in the lift some of the men do and some don't but it won't be long until all heads stay covered, said one of the operators, "because they're trying."

* * * *

Gallipolis, O., March 26 (CP)—John Delliley, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Delliley, found out about lightning today.

A bolt came down and tore away part of his rompers as he played with his brother, Willie. John received only slight injuries and Willie wasn't hurt at all but the house was damaged a little.

* * * *

Chicago, March 26 (CP)—Who said the United States isn't on the gold standard? A patient of a Chicago dentist said she couldn't have her teeth out because she couldn't afford it but the good doctor solved the problem by agreeing to yank 'em for what gold he could find therein.

* * * *

Aurora, Ill., March 26 (CP) — For 18 years George W. Smith was a hero and didn't realize it.

After losing his honorable discharge, Smith, who served during the World War with the headquarters company of the Thirty-Third Division, sent to Washington for a certificate to take its place.

He received not only the certificate but a medal known as the silver star and notification he had been cited for gallantry.

* * * *

Moscow, March 26 (CP)—After a year and a half in reciphering writings found on skins buried on the mountain of Moog, in Tadzhik, Central Asia, the Soviet Academy of Science announced today they were historical documents throwing light on the ancient nation of Sogda. The writings are believed to be the remains of archives of Divastich, King of Sogda and Lord of Samarkand, who according to Arabian sources, was captured by the Arabians in 722 A.D.

* * * *

Oakland, Calif., March 26 (CP)—Lost, strayed or stolen: a two-storey house containing four flats.

Frank Johnson, San Francisco contractor, reported to police through his Attorney, Thomas Califro, his Madison Street house has just up and disappeared. Johnson came to Oakland over the week end to inspect the building for needed repairs. It was gone.

* * * *

Mondovi, Wis., March 26 (CP)—To Halver Horgan of Strum life begins at twice forty. Horgan sold his house in the village and at 82 is moving back to the country to operate his farm. Twenty years of retirement, he says, is enough for any man.

* * * *

Halifax, March 26 (CP) — Unusual procedure of a defense counsel turning Crown witness was seen in the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia yesterday. Harry L. Webber, counsel for Charlie Kee appearing with Marie C. Durante on charges of concealing birth, testified no threat was made to Kee in his presence by city detectives investigating deaths of twins born to Miss Durante.

HUMAN HEAD FOUND SMEARED WITH ACID

Criminologist Believes Head Third Part of Recent Victim

London, March 26 (AP)—An acid-smeared human head, discovered in a refuse destructor at Ealing was believed today to be the last link in England's most gruesome crime since the notorious "Jack the Ripper" operated early half a century ago

Sir Bernard Spilsbury, famous criminologist, reported Scotland Yard laboratory tests showed the skull belonged to a man recently murdered by a violent blow on the head.

Indications point to it as the third portion of a victim whose legs were found recently in Waterloo Station and whose torso, in a gunnysack, was fished up from the waters of the Grand Junction Canal at Brentford.

Sir Bernard is expected to conclude an examination of the skull within the next day or two in an attempt to identify the victim.

WELLINGTON BANK ENTERED $1,200 IN SILVER TAKEN

Drill Hole Through Thick Wall And Enter Vault

POLICE AT SCENE

Loss Not Discovered Until Money Checked For Shipment

Wellington, March 26—Drilling a hole through four layers of brick and a concrete wall, burglars entered the vault of the Wellington branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia some time over the week-end and removed $1,200 in Canadian and American silver from the cash boxes. The theft was not discovered until late Monday afternoon, when bank employees were about to prepare the coins for shipment.

The burglars worked in the shelter of a coal shed, built against the rear of the bank on the part of the wall next to the vault. A hole had been created in the wall large enough to allow a small man to squeeze through. The thieves made no attempt to enter the safe or any of the safety deposit boxes.

Ernest Parliament, who lives in an apartment above the bank told police he had heard no unusual sounds from below during either Saturday or Sunday night.

Before leaving the scene of the burglary the thieves took great pains to replace the cash boxes, books and files which had been disturbed in making their entry to the vault. When they had crawled back through the opening and into the coal shed again they carefully filled the hole with bricks again. It was because of these precautions that the theft was not discovered until late Monday afternoon.

Provincial Police Inspector Gardinerie investigating the burglary, assisted by Constable Gillis Ingram of Wellington and County Constable Lovelace. Police would give no statement as to whether they suspected the theft to be the work of local or outside persons, although they admitted that they were working on a definite clue.

According to Provincial Police theory it is believed, that the robbers had definite knowledge of the layout of the building before they attempted the robbery sometime over the week end. "The vault at the bank has three sides and the roof made of steel reinforced concrete, while the rear was only is built of four thickness of brick. It was through this rear wall, that the robbers gained entrance," explained the Inspector today as he added, that a power drill was used to gain access to the vault. Just how the robbers procured the power to operate their drill has baffled the police thus far, it being doubtful if a storage battery would equal the occasion, it not carrying sufficient voltage to drill through four layers of brick. A detachment of Provincial Police, from the local office, left Belleville today to further investigate the matter. Some definite clues were found by the authorities yesterday, it was learned although police would not comment on this angle.

Canadian Draws Golden Miller In Irish Sweep

DUBLIN, March 26—(CP Cable)—The draw for the Irish Free State Hospitals Sweepstake on the Grand Steeplechase to be run Friday, got under way today, with the total receipts smallest since 1931.

Gross receipts were £2,824,926 (about $12,929,500) and the amount available for prizes £1,680,979 ($8,074,800). This was divided into sixteen prize units, each carrying a first prize of £30,000, second of £15,000 and third of £10,000, with smaller amounts for drawers of horses that do not place or do not start, on consolation and residual prizes.

The amount available for actual drawing of a horse irrespective of its placing or starting in the big race Friday was £797 ($3,863 at par).

At the outset of the draw the authorities announced only the ticket numbers and the nom-de-plumes of the drawers would be made public in accordance with the provisions of the newly enacted Free State Betting and Lotteries Bill. This was designed to avert exploitation of the winners.

47 Horses in Draw

The number of horses on which the draw was based is 47 —the number of original acceptors of weights. Actually there are only 28 horses in the final list of acceptors, so many of the ticket-holders draw-

(Continued on Page 8, Col. 5)

QUEEN OF AIR MEETS AN ACE

AMELIA EARHART — WILEY POST

Jokes flew fast and hard when Amelia Earhart Putnam, famous woman flier, and Wiley Post, around the world and stratosphere pilot, met at Cleveland airport. Amelia was planning a goodwill flight to Mexico, but was undecided as to where the takeoff would be made. Post was on his way to the Pacific coast to prepare for another transcontinental stratosphere hop.

Further Mental Test Sought In Behalf of Harold Vermilyea

Condemned Man Eats Plenty of Ben Davis Apples

KEEPS HEALTH GOOD

Representations reported made to the federal department of justice on behalf of Harold W. Vermilyea at present in the Hastings County jail in this city, under sentence of death for the murder of his mother, will be duly considered, officials of the department stated yesterday, according to a reliable dispatch from Ottawa.

It is understood that the representations have included a request for further mental examination of the condemned man by Federal alienists. Up to the present local counsel has not commented on the case.

All capital cases automatically come before the cabinet council before sentence is carried out and are considered in all their phases. Such review comes customarily a fortnight or so before sentence is carried out. Vermilyea has until the morning of May 2nd next before his time expires.

Harold Vermilyea's fortitude amazes his guards as the execution date steadily creeps forward. His same unruffled demeanor that characterized him during the long drawn out days of the trial in this city— one of the longest in the history of Canadian courts—is being maintained, and his stoicism is still apparent. The same emotionless mask that was noticed even when he stood before the Hon. Mr. Justice Jeffrey in the courtroom and accepted the death sentence without a tremor, is still noted. He rests the night through, sleeping fairly soundly, and spends the day in mental recreation through the use of cross word puzzles. At times he prefers a quiet game of solitaire. Occasionally he attempts conversation with his guards, but his talk is confined to the usual pleasantries of those in close confinement. At other times he engages in soliloquies on matters which embrace a wide range of thought and reveal his deep thinking habit.

Ben Davis Apples Provided

Choice or rich foods fail to interest the prisoner. He has intimated his preference for the plain meals served the other segregated prisoners with liberal quantities of fresh fruit. Milk is still his favorite beverage. He keeps himself in good physical trim by careful watch of his diet and careful count of the calories contained in the food. As the son of a prominent farmer in this district, Vermilyea has apparently never forgotten the delicious taste of the Ben Davis apple, which grow so plentifully in this district. They are different from California fruit and are a favorite with him. He has been given a plentiful supply of them since his incarceration. That is the only kind he wants.

Mrs. J. Schorr, who travelled more than half-way across a continent from her home in Ontario, California, and Vermilyea's former home, to be near him, still maintains her daily visits to the vicinity of his cell. She makes no comment when questioned by reporters regarding her visit with Vermilyea and charmingly but stubbornly refuses to disclose the subject of conversation with him.

Her only comment today was upon the weather, "I love this bracing weather of yours. It seems so

(Continued on Page 7, Col. 5)

CAR WITH 3 MEN HALTED BY POLICE

E. G. O'Brien of Belleville Faces Manslaughter Charge

Kingston, Ont., March 26—(CP)—E. G. O'Brien, 29, of Belleville, today is in jail at Napanee, facing a charge of manslaughter as the result of the accident in Napanee Monday when Billy McGreer, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McGreer, was instantly killed by an automobile as he played with two companions on the sidewalk.

O'Brien, together with Walter Allore and James Deacon, also of Belleville, had been arrested a mile west of Kingston about an hour after the accident and were returned to Napanee where they were held on a nominal charge. Today a charge of manslaughter was laid against O'Brien, alleged to be the driver of the car, while his two companions were being held as material witnesses.

It was expected O'Brien will come up for preliminary hearing Thursday afternoon before Magistrate Ambrose Shea at Napanee.

After their arrest in Kingston, it was stated by police today, all three were charged under the L.C.A.

This afternoon, Charles A. Payne, K.C., of this city opened negotiations to secure bail as counsel for those held and it is understood satisfactory bonds will be arranged.

Napanee, March 26—Billy McGreer, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McGreer, Napanee, was instantly killed about 1 o'clock Monday afternoon by a hit-and-run motorist. This lad, with his brother, 5 years old, and Jerry Wright, 6 years old, was on the sidewalk in front of W. G. Paul's residence, at the foot of Piety Hill. The car, which is said to have contained three men, left the highway, jumped the curb, and after hitting the boy, veered again to the highway and proceeded east at a fact pace, according to observers. The telephone lines were kept busy, and later word was received from Kingston that three men were being held on instructions from the local police, who had previously wired Kingston police to be on the lookout for the car.

The alleged driver of the car is E. G. O'Brien of Belleville, and his two companions in the car were Walter Allore and James Deacon, also of Belleville. The trio were apprehended one mile west of Kingston by Provincial Traffic Officer Dowsley and Officer Downs of Kingston and were brought to Napanee by Provincial Officer F. W. Barrett and Chief Constable Watts and lodged in the local jail.

The dead boy was quite a favorite and besides the parents there are 2 brothers; Howard, 5 years; Bobby, 2 years and two sisters: Lois, 8, and Esther, 2 years.

ARMS PROBLEM IS TURNED BACK TO FORMER ALLIES

Hitler Reported Saying Germany Offers No Proposals

ARMY SIZE ISSUE

Re-entry to League is Pushed Far Into Future

Berlin, March 26—(AP)—The conferences of Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Sir John Simon, the British Foreign Minister, ended late this afternoon.

It was officially stated Reichsfuehrer Hitler had not given a definite indication of how large a military force he intends to build.

Hitler, German officials said, parried the questions of Sir. John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, and turned back the whole arms problem to the former Allied enemies of Germany.

"W will await disarmament proposals from other powers rather than make such proposals ourselves", Hitler was officially said to have told Sir John.

Regarding the League of Nations, it was said the Reichsfuehrer repeated the familiar German argument all matters must be settled for Germany before he would consider re-entering the League.

Discussion Over Armies

The largest part of the conversations were reported to have dealt with "armies rather than disarmament." The Co-operative Air Pact and the question of Austrian independence also were treated.

Officials revealed Hitler suggested a non-interference agreement which would mean the perpetuation of the present Austrian regime.

The question of a larger German navy was kept in the background and was barely mentioned, it was learned.

Return to London

Sir John will return to London tomorrow to report to the British cabinet what Hitler will and will not do. British sources said Sir John made it clear Great Britain will have to oppose Germany unless Hitler consents to join in collective efforts to keep the peace.

Paris, March 26—(AP)— The export of war material was temporarily prohibited by a cabinet decree today during a long session devoted to Foreign Minister Pierre Laval's report on Franco-German relations.

The decree applies to cotton, magnesium and similar products used in munitions manufacture. France wishes to maintain her stocks of such materials for her national defence.

Laval Will Go To Moscow

Paris, March 26—(CP Havas) — Foreign Minister Pierre Laval will go to Moscow for security and disarmament conferences after the meeting of the League of Nations Council to consider the French protest over German armys conscription, it was announced here today after a meting of the Flandin Cabinet.

The government was believed actuated in this decision by the refusal yesterday of Chancellor Adolf Hitler to entertain any mutual assistance past in which Russian participated.

The meeting between the French and Soviet Foreign Ministers will be held after Maxim Litvinov has conferred with Capt. Anthony Eden, British rivy Seal, scheduled to leave for Moscow tomorrow from Berlin.

STRUCK BY TRUCK LEANING FROM TRUCK

Brockville, Ont, March 26.—(CP)—Leaning over the side of a truck near Stone's Corners, Grenville County, George Gauthier, Algonquin, was struck by another truck and received injuries to his head, probably a fractured skull.

MAYORS PLACE COST OF RELIEF ON FEDERAL GOV'T

Mayor Houde Declares Municipalities at End of Tether

UNIFORMITY NEEDED

Relief He Says is as Much Federal Matter as Job Insurance

Montreal, March 26—(CP)—Permission for the mayors of Canadian municipalities to present "certain resolution" before the Bar of the House of Commons will be sought from the Speaker of the House today by Mayor Harris S. Johnstone, Moose Jaw, official delegate of the Mayor conference.

Should permission be granted a special train will be chartered for Ottawa Thursday. If there is refusal as many delegates as possible will go to Ottawa on the same day and petition the cabinet. Sir George Perley, Acting Premier, has informed the Mayors the Cabinet could meet them Thursday.

The "Certain resolutions" are the one adopted unanimously by which the Dominion Government is asked to take over the entire cost of relief and another on a scheme of municipal refinancing, unadopted by the Mayoral conference as yet.

Federal Relief

Montreal, March 26—(CP)—The Mayors' conference resolved today "that from and after April 1, the Dominion government take over and assume the entire cost of unemployment relief in the Dominion of Canada."

The conference, according to Mayor Camillien Houde, Montreal, "represents directly approximately 5,000,000 of the country's population and more than 75 per cent of the taxes paid."

As chairman of the relief committee of the conference, Mayor Houde said if the Dominion government did not take over relief there would be serious disorders within a year "at least in Montreal." There was no thought of "passing the buck," he continued "But municipalities have reached the end of their tether."

There was no uniformity in the matter of relief administration, he added, something which would be remedied if relief were administered by the one central bureau. The Dominion government had admitted and planned a scheme of unemployment insurance. Relief, he believed, was just as much a national question as that—hence an added reason for the Dominion government to take it over.

Tax Levies on Realty

The resolution pointed out the Dominion Government has also acknowledged the seriousness of the situation by enacting emergency legislation based on the peace, order and good government clause of the constitution. Provincial Governments in many cases can no longer assume responsibility for relief costs which have also broken down the financial structure of many urban centres, the resolution declares.

Other plaints in the resolution are tax levies on real property have been increased, collections of taxes and other civic revenues have steadily decreased, tax arrears have steadily increased, much property is reverting to municipalities for tax default, new social services have been imposed on many municipalities, and that on account of decreased revenues many municipalities have been unable to maintain at proper standards the necessary services in respect of streets, sewers, sidewalks, water distribution, schools, public works and other essentials.

These intolerable burdens can no longer be borne by the municipalities or their taxpayers, says the resolution, and the situation might easily become a source of disorder

(Continued on Page 8, Col. 5)

Hundred Million Dollars Expected from U.S. Tourists

Windsor, Ont., March 26 (CP)—Necessity for treating visitors to Canada with courtesy and hospitality in order the tourist trade which is expected to leave some $300,000,000 in the country this year, would continue to develop, was stressed by D. Leo Dolan who outlined the extensive advertising campaign which would be conducted in United States this year in an effort to entice visitors to this country.

"I would like to see formed throughout this country," he said, "a great army of Canadian greeters who would this year band together in a welcoming force so enthusiastic and overwhelming that our visitors will be sorry to leave us and anxious to return again."

Jack Hambleton, Toronto, Publicity Director for Ontario, stated this Province received some $60,000,000 from the tourist trade in 1934. This year he predicted Ontario would receive at least $75,000,000 and perhaps up to $100,000,000.

Novelist, Publicist, M.P. Will be First Commoner Unless He is Named Peer Famous Writer of Gripping Stories and Historic Reconstruction

IS SON OF MANSE

Commissioner of Church in Scotland Has Famous Career

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 26 (CP Cable) — John Buchan, one of the most versatile and accomplished men of letters of the time, will be the next Governor-General of Canada, it was understood unofficially here today. Lord Bessborough, present Governor-General, is due to retire shortly.

Mr. Buchan has been a Conservative member of Parliament for the Scottish Universities since 1927. He has already had experience as His Majesty's representative, having been Lord High Commissioner of the Church of Scotland Assembly in 1933 and 1934, his successor in this office for this year being the Duke of Kent, His Majesty's youngest son.

If the appointment in confirmed, Canada will have its first "Commoner" Governor-General, every occupant of the position since 1867 having been a member of the Peerage. This is subject of course to the possibility Buchan may be elevated to the Peerage in the King's Birthday Honors.

Prolific Writer

Gripping stories of adventure, scholarly biographies, dramatic recreations of the past have all come under his facile pen. His recent work on Oliver Cromwell was a masterly survey of the tense days of the commonwealth.

His first duty as Lord High Commissioner of the Church of Scotland Assembly was to receive the keys of Edinburgh from the Lord Provost and the Magistrates — an historic custom symbolic of the city's loyalty to the Crown. Subsequently, in each of the past two years, he was in residence at Holyrood Palace for a period.

He was made a Companion of Honor in 1932.

John Buchan was born Aug. 26, 1875, eldest son of Rev. John Buchan and his wife Helen, daughter of John Masterton of Broughton Green, Peebleshire. In 1907 he married Susan Charlotte, daughter of the late Norman Grosvenor, and they have three sons and one daughter.

Educated at Glasgow

Buchan was educated at Glasgow University and Brasenose, Oxford. He won several Varsity literary prizes and was President of the Oxford Union in 1899, and two years later was a Barrister of the Middle Temple. From 1901 to 1903 he was Private Secretary to Lord Milner, High Commissioner for South Africa, and he was on the headquarters staff of the British army in France 1916-17, after which he became Director of Information under the Prime Minister until 1918.

He is a former Curator of the Oxford University Chest, and is a Trustee of the National Library of Scotland and of the Pilgrim Trust, and a former President of the Scottish History Society.

Buchan now lives at Elsfield Manor, Oxford. His recreations are fishing, deer-stalking and mountaineering, so that if he becomes Governor-General he may be expected to be equally at home in the Maritimes and the Rockies.

He visited the United States in 1926 and on his return presented the Confederate Seal to the British Museum.

In 1930 Buchan was one of the signers of a manifesto, which warned Great Britain a National financial crisis was coming— the crisis which in the fall of 1931 resulted in formation of a National Government and abandonment of the Gold Standard.

Son of the Manse

Mr. Buchan, like many famous fellow-Scots, is a son of the Manse. He is a splendid raconteur, especially on Scots stories, and these are among his best:

A Scottish soldier from the village of Rothiemurchus was asked where he was wounded during the Iraq campaign. He replied in broad Doric. "I was wounded about a mile on the Rothiemurchus side of Baghdad."

A staunch objector to union of

(Continued on Page 8, Col. 4)

Mountain Bad Man

Thomas Quisenberry, 85, fierce sure-shooting mountaineer, is in jail at Leesburg, Va., charged with murder, after having been captured in his cabin-fortress by guardsmen (who are seen advancing on it). He admitted shooting two officers after raid on moonshine still.

FAMILY OWNS FARM FOR 102 YEARS

Lindsay, Ont., March 26 (CP)—A little farm nestled in the rolling hills of Mariposa in Victoria County has been in the possession of the McDonald family for 102 years, John McDonald, owner of the land on Concession Eight, revealed today. His grandfather, John McDonald, came to this country from England in 1833 and purchased the land from the Crown at 75 cents an acre.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

St. Thomas, Ont., March 26. — (CP)—Dressed in a dark suit, his hair cut and face cleanly shaved, Frank Temple, alias Mactemple, went on trial for the murder of Police Constable Colin C. McGregor last May 7. Tempel in a firm voice, answered, "Not Guilty" to the charge, looking from side to side as it was read. Justice Henderson is presiding.

WEATHER

Toronto, March 26—(CP)—A disturbance centred near Belle Isle Straits has caused some heavy snow in Newfoundland and light snowfalls have occurred in some parts of the west. The weather continues rather cold from Ontario eastward and it has now become quite cold in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Lake Superior—Fresh east to southeast winds; partly cloudy, becoming milder.

Kenora and Rainy River—Fresh winds, mostly southerly; partly cloudy and mild.

Manitoba—Cloudy and mild at first, followed by fresh northerly winds and colder with snowflurries at night or on Wednesday.

Saskatchewan—Fresh to strong winds, shifting to northwest; colder at night with some snow.

Alberta—Fresh winds, shifting to northerly; becoming colder with snowflurries.

Coming Events

AN AMUSING MORAL PLAY "ALL ON Account of Polly" to-morrow (Wednesday) evening at 8 by Carmel Young People in Dundas Street Church. Admission 25 and 15. M26-1t

ARMY AND NAVY VETERANS BRANCH 201—General meeting Veterans' Memorial Hall, Tuesday night, March 26, 8 p.m. General business. Members only. M25-2t

GENERAL MEETING LIBERAL CLUB rooms Thursday night, 8 o'clock. All members are requested to attend. M26-1t

EUCHRE AND DANCE YOUNG CONservative Club, Foster Ward, South End Club rooms, Wednesday, March 27. Cards 8 o'clock sharp. Good prizes. Admission 10c. M26-1t

City and District News

JOSEPH STOREY FILLS VACANCY

At the nomination meeting held at Maynooth, Mr. Joseph Storey, of Baptiste was elected by acclamation to fill the vacancy on the Monteagle and Herschel municipal council caused by the death of Councillor Mr. John Thornton.

BOARD OF REVIEW MEETS IN CITY

Presided over by Justice Col. J. A. Hope, D. S. O., M. C., V. D., the Board of Review of the Farmer Creditors' Arrangement Act was being held in the court rooms of the County building today. About twenty-five farm owners were present throughout the day seeking an adjustment on the farm mortgages, being arranged by the Board with the creditors.

BONFIRE BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL

A bonfire which threatened to get out of control at the rear of an old building on Pinnacle Street gave members of No. 1 Fire Company a run to the spot at two-thirty o'clock Monday afternoon. It was extinguished with hand pumps.

GOLDEN JUBILEE SOUVENIRS HELD

Cherished souvenirs of Queen Victoria's Golden Jubilee are still treasured by many Belleville residents, and are receiving due publicity on the occasion of the approaching Silver Jubilee of King George and Queen Mary being observed on May 6. Mrs. O. A. Bennett, Donald Street has in her possession two very old glass stone dishes. Pressed into the glass is the lettering "Queen Victoria, Golden JubGee". The numerals 1837 and 1887 are on opposite sides of the glass.

Mr. E. J. Clarke, B. A., Public School Inspector for South Hastings has in his possession a badge, retained by him since the year 1887, when school children of the city paraded in honor of the observance of the Jubilee.

HIGHWAYS ALL IN GOOD CONDITION

Reports from all districts as compiled by the Ontario Motor League in its latest bulletin indicate, that Provincial highways throughout Ontario are practically clear of ice and snow and traffic is being carried on with little difficulty. Pavements are bumpy in some sections owing to the frost coming out of the ground and while the bad spots are marked with signs, motorists should drive very carefully and watch for fresh spots developing.

The following reports are given:

No. 2 Highway from Toronto to Montreal, good except for a little snow through towns east of Brockville.

Highway No. 7 reported a little rough between Actinolite and Marmora and uncertain in places, with frost coming out of the ground. Marmora to Havelock and Peterborough—all fairly good.

Belleville-Stirling-Marmora — in good condition.

Brighton-Campbellford-Norwood Havelock. Good condition.

Campbellford-Hastings-Norwood. Fair condition.

Campbellford-Stirling-Belleville. The same.

Napanee-Tamworth. Good condition.

FISH CATCHES ARE REPORTED GOOD

With Lent boosting prices to a topnotch level, fishermen of the district are now experiencing one of their best seasons.

Following the break up of ice floes offshore in Lake Ontario off Prince Edward County fishermen have commenced their work of netting and report good catches of white fish and other varieties. Prices are in direct contrast to those received last Fall, when the bottom fell out of the business. Nine boats from this immediate section are reported at work.

SAP PANS
WELDED STEEL SAP PANS
Ideal for Syrup Making
Write for Prices
Belleville Foundries Ltd
Belleville, Ont.

IT PAYS TO SHOP AT THE REXALL STORE
SPECIAL PRICES on Patents & Toiletries
THIS WEEK
McKeown's Drug Store

Wright's Radio Service
312½ Front St. Phone 65
Belleville, Ontario.
M. G. Wright. Geo. Sweetnam
Manager. Radiotrician
M 13-1t

"You're Telling Me"
and
I'm telling you that everybody is talking about the Three Act Comedy to be presented in BRIDGE ST. SUNDAY SCHOOL ROOMS on MARCH 29 at 8 p.m.
Directed by Miss J. B. Tuite under auspices of the Y.P.S.
Admission 25c Children 15c
M26-2t

◆

Science Simplifies Washday Problems

The bugbear of the family wash has haunted the housewife more, perhaps, than any other household problem. Scrubbing and rubbing—lifting the clothes in and out of a steaming boiler—all that has been hot, heavy work.

Now, science tells us, that is no longer necessary. The dirt in fabrics is practically always held in the meshes of the cloth with oily, greasy or albuminous substances. Were it not for these sticky substances much of the dirt in clothes could be separated by mere shaking. Science's answer is the simple, gentle cleansing power of Rinso.

The suds produced by Rinso are scientifically more active. They permeate the fabric just by soaking. Scrubbing and boiling are unnecessary.

During a few hours of quiet soaking, Rinso suds loosen the dirt. Then by sousing the clothes up and down by hands, or by letting a washing machine tumble them about, the dirt is flushed away with little or none of the scrubbing that used to wear clothes threadbare.

HYDRO SYSTEM IN BELLEVILLE PRAISED BY LYON

Chairman of H. E. P. C. of Ontario Speaks to Rotary

RURAL SERVICE

Big Surprises in Electrical Field Are Forecast

Belleville Rotarians listened with interest Monday to a plain and business-like statement of the affairs of the Hydro Electric Commission in Eastern Ontario in general and Belleville in particular. The guest speaker of the day was T. Stewart Lyon, Chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission, formerly editor of the Toronto Globe. Mr. Lyon made a very favorable impression upon his audience, and a pleasing conversational mode of speaking gave his points emphasis, while a trace of the ancient Scotch burr slipped so easily and delightfully from his tongue, which fifty years in Canada had not entirely eradicated. He was introduced by O. H. Scott, local Hydro manager, and Rotary appreciation was expressed by Chas. T. Dolan and President Jamieson Bone.

Belleville Hydro Electric system has been well and efficiently managed, according to Mr. Lyon, who expressed himself as greatly pleased with conditions as they exist in Belleville. Almost the entire debenture debt has been paid off, and there are sufficient funds on hand now to wipe off the entire indebtedness, if it were necessary, so that the citizens would own the system lock, stock and barrel, without one cent of debt against it. Also under the present system of management it is very probable that another substantial reduction in rate for electric current will be possible before very long, from the present rate of 3.1c per kilowatt hour to 2.1, a saving of one cent per kilowatt hour to consumers. In addition the business will be carried on, depreciation and everything cared for, renewals and contingencies, and when the normal time comes when the plant should be obsolete, there will be an entirely new plant all paid for.

Belleville Hydro Future

Belleville Hydro's present was satisfactory and its future was rosy with promise of even greater things. Mr. Lyon sketched briefly and quoted figures to show how well Belleville Hydro had been handled and what might be expected in the future. He gave a very interesting comparison of Belleville rates for electricity current with those in force in New York State, quoting from an official document issued by the Power Authority of the State.

Private Ownership Costly

Belleville electric current users last year paid $79,141 for domestic service. Under rates as in vogue in New York State the citizens of Belleville would have paid $300,000 for the same service. For commercial current Belleville citizens paid $51,734 last year, but for the same amount of current and service at New York rates the cost would have been $118,000. In New York State, under private ownership consumers of electric current are paying from six to nine cents per kilowatt hour, as compared with 3.1 in Belleville.

Gold And Hydro

Reference was made by the speaker to the benefit to the gold mining industry of Northern Ontario from Hydro Electric Commission development in that country, resulting in the production and refining of at least one-third more gold this year than would have been possible otherwise.

Eastern Ontario Hydro electric development was explained by the speaker. In 1929 over-optimism of boom times resulted in too much power being contracted for, including 6,000 horse power from the Ottawa-Gatineau development, which had to be paid for even though not all used. Through the depression power demand had decreased in the Eastern Ontario district in the face of a surplus of power available—by the corner had been turned and the demand for power was increasing once more. Nobody was to blame for this condition of affairs—it just happened as the result of a combination of circumstances over which nobody had control. Power demand was increasing and there was power supply to meet it in addition to the Madawaska power, not touched.

Hydro And Taxes

An agitation was on foot, said the speaker, to make the Hydro pay taxes. He was opposed to this. Hydro belonged to the people, it was a service organization, and surplus profits if any should be devoted to extension and betterments which its owners the citizens, watch with jealous care that expenses of management and operation be kept within bounds and not turn surplus profits into deficits.

Rural Hydro

Rural contacts with Hydro were discussed by the speaker, who pointed out the wisdom of giving as complete a service to users in the rural districts, even at a sacrifice. City users were paying part of the expense consequent upon development of Hydro in the country, and it was right they should. The more comfort can be brought to the farms, the less attraction the city will be to the young folks and the constant drain of youth from the farms may in a measure be halted. The farm is the backbone of the nation's prosperity and if the farmer's wife can be given electric washers to take the ache out of washday, it is fitting that it should be so. Several rural services are given free by the Hydro, including electricity for the pumping of water for sanitary purposes, radio and washing machines.

Possibilities ahead of electrical development were outlined by Mr. Lyon while others more radical to come were hinted at, revealing that there may be many big surprises in the domain of electric development to come in the next few years. He covered the whole domain of Hydro, present and prospective in a very interesting and illuminating way which was greatly appreciated by the Rotarians and guests present.

◆

Burgess Service Station
Distributors for GOOD RICH GASOLINE & OILS are now also Dealers for Canadian Tire Corporation
Tires and Accessories
WE SELL FOR LESS

PROMOTIONS MADE IN ARGYLL L. I.

Prize Winners of Competitions in Regiment Also Named

In military orders to the Argyll Light Infantry the following notices of transfers and promotions are contained:

Captain J. F. Lockead transferred to the 2nd Reserve Battalion.

Private C. W. H. Hall, transferred from the Grenville Light Infantry to be Orderly Room sergeant.

Promotions:

Sergeant J. Shepherd, to be Sergeant Major of "D" company.

Cpl. G. Ellarby, acting-Sergeant of Stretcher Bearers.

Lance Cpl. Albert Tout, to be Corporal of "A" Company.

Private L. Ellarby, to be Corporal of "D" Company.

Private B. Miller, to be Lance Corporal of "D" Company.

Private P. Renouff, to be acting Sergeant of Signals.

Private D. Bradford to be acting Corporal.

Private F. Forster to be acting Corporal.

Private S. White to be Corporal of the Brass Band.

Prize winners of the competitions held by the Regiment during the past year were announced last evening as follows:

The trophy for the softball and volleyball competition was won by "C" Company.

"D" Company was awarded the Stiver trophy for Musketry.

Prizes for bowling, which will be individual cash prizes will be distributed among Signal Sergeants, H. R. Frink and P. Renouff and Corporal D. Bradford. The Pipe Band will be represented by Private Harold Laughlin and Eugene Grills.

A DAILY VISITOR

Mrs. "Jac" Schoor of Ontario California, who came across half a continent to visit Belleville. She makes daily visits to the Hastings County Jail where Harold W. Vermilyea is confined, sentenced to death on May 2nd for the murder of his mother in this city last October.

MISSION HEAD WELCOMED HERE

Young People of District Greet Rev. Dr. Osterhout

Dr. S. S. Osterhout, Ph.D., D.D., addressed an interested audience of young people of the district of Belleville and South Hastings, of the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church at a rally last evening in Bridge Street United Church. Dr. Osterhout a native of this Presbytery and a graduate of Albert College has for over twenty years acted as superintendent of Missions on the Pacific Coast, dealing particularly with work among the Chinese, Japanese and East Indians in Canada, and his address last evening showed a keen understanding of mission problems and activities.

Miss Hazel Horton of Corbyville, District President, was in the chair and the worship period which opened the program last evening was in charge of Bridge Street Church Young People. Albert College Glee Club contributed two numbers. The speaker of the evening was introduced by Rev. Clarence Ferguson, Northport, Presbytery Young People's President.

Dr. Osterhout gave an interesting and intimate address on missions of the Western Coast. Dr. Osterhout's work is supported by the Young People and he gave an enlightening talk on financial matters, showing how the money contributed is invested and the returns that are received.

The appreciation of the gathering for Dr. Osterhout's address was ably expressed by the chairman, Miss Morton.

◆

Police News

Despite continued warnings from local police authorities motorists continue to park their motor cars all night in the local downtown area. This morning six automobile owners returned to their respective vehicles to find police stickers attached to the same, instructing them to report to the police department. These parked cars prove a hindrance to the progress of the city sweeper, which operates on local streets in the early hours of the morning. The majority of these delinquents were out-of-town motorists, who were allowed to go after receiving a warning. More drastic measures pertaining to infractions of this by-law were promised.

Only seven transients applied at the police sergeant's desk for a warm night's lodging last night, the exact number to be afforded a night's lodging the two previous nights, Saturday and Sunday. Continued testing of motor vehicle brakes is in progress in the Belleville district today.

Miss Claire Andree
OF THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER
DE BOTH COOKING SCHOOL
KEEPS HER WELL SET TABLE DELIGHTFULLY DECORATED WITH FLOWERS FROM DOROTHY QUICK'S FLOWER SHOP

Dorothy Quick's Flowers are Distinctive
Some Lucky Lady
in the audience at the Cooking School each day will be presented with the beautiful Bouquet from Dorothy Quick's Flower Shop. Will it be you?
DOROTHY F. QUICK
46 BRIDGE ST. East FLORIST PHONE 2031

WHEN YOUR FIGURE seems all bulges, where no bulges ought to be, as the new styles call for smoothness from the bust-line to the knee. Oh! Woman, do not worry, you may lose these bulges yet.
PHONE 719M TO MAKE A DATE—THEN WEAR A SILHOUETTE
Fitting Rooms—283 1-2 Front St.
M26-2t

A WANT-AD will FIND IT!

Old Railroad Days Recalled T. Alexander Tells of Wreck

Description of Belleville in Early 70's is Painted

TALK OF WEATHER

Congratulations are extended to Mr. Thomas Alexander, 363 Bleecker Avenue, who observed his 86th birthday yesterday. Mr. Alexander is hale and hearty and is quite spry for his advanced years. In fact to see him and talk to him one would rather think he observed his 66th birthday.

Mr. Alexander was born in Antrim County in the north of Ireland in 1849. He came to Canada in June of 1872, when he was twenty-four. He settled in Deseronto and entered a career on the railroad. He has resided in Belleville since 1915 when he retired. Mr. Alexander married Sarah Catharine Reid shortly after he settled here. Mrs. Alexander died five years ago yesterday; she died on his birthday.

Mr. Alexander has been a railroad man all his life. He started to work two days before the great train disaster that took place at Milltown in 1872. The wreck caused by a broken rail took place on a Saturday morning. Mr. Alexander worked from then until late the following Tuesday night without rest. "It was terrible," said Mr. Alexander. "I picked up bodies that were scalded so bad that the flesh dropped right off their hands and all that was left was the bones and the finger-nails. It was only late Sunday night that the track was repaired. The injured were taken to Belleville and put in the freight sheds as there was no hospital at that time. Many of the injured died through lack of care.

"The railroad tracks were on a wide gauge 5' 6" in width when I came out, they since have been lowered to the present gauge of 4' 8½", said Mr. Alexander. The engines were small and were brought over from England. Th first engine in Belleville was brought over by boat and unloaded at the wharf and drawn up Front Street onto the tracks by a team of horses.

On being asked by the representative of the Ontario-Intelligencer what Belleville was like when he arrived here, Mr. Alexander replied, "There were no houses on the East and West hills except for a few scattered ones on the south side of the railroad track. The only buildings were on Front and Pinnacle Streets. The first house to be built on the East hill was on the corner of Emily Street and Bleecker Ave. This was entirely round and was built of lumber.

Front Street was just a mud hole years ago, commented Mr. Alexander. The Dundas highway, at present King's Highway No. 2, was just a narrow gravel road, and was littered with swamps. Horse and buggy was the chief mode of transportation but even teams of oxen were used.

Belleville was quite a lumbering place at one time, remarked Mr. Alexander. Thousands of logs made their way down the old Moira. There was a saw mill at the end of Bleecker Avenue at the edge of the Bay. Rathburns had a mill on an island in the Bay of Quinte near the harbour. They later moved to Deseronto because the taxes were too high in Belleville. They were supposed to have leased the land from the Indians for nine hundred and ninety-nine years.

"Are the winters much different now than they were several years ago?" Mr. Alexander was asked. "There isn't much difference," he replied. "In 1877 wheat was sown in February but it didn't come up because the soil was baked." Mr. Alexander said that one year his father-in-law had sown his crops in March and they grew.

"What do you think of the radio?" Mr. Alexander was asked. "A wonderful invention; it is my chief source of amusement," he replied. He has his own personal programs. In the summer he listens to the ball games; in the winter, hockey. "Who do you think is going to win the Stanley Cup?" he was asked. "Toronto, of course," he replied. Incidentally he was sitting beside the radio all set to listen to the Boston-Toronto play-off game.

Mr. Alexander has a family of six who are all living. Mr. William Alexander, of Marysville, is the eldest. The other members all live on Bleecker Avenue, close to his residence. They are: Mr. Thomas Alexander, Mrs. George Darragh, Mr. Percy Alexander, Mrs. Arthur Naylor and Mr. Lorne Alexander. Mr. Alexander also has eight grandchildren and six great grandchildren. All of Mr. Alexander's immediate family gathered at his residence yesterday to celebrate the day with him. He was the recipient of many congratulations and it is the hope of the community that this grand old gentleman will see many more years of a useful life and well-devoted life.

◆

MAYOR TICE ON FINANCE BOARD

Appointed Member of Committee at Mayor's Convention

Mayor Geo. O. Tice of this city has added further laurels to his lengthy record of service for Belleville and the Province.

Named as a member of the Finance Committee yesterday at the convention of mayors of the Dominion of Canada being held at Montreal this week, Mayor Tice was one of twelve other men picked from a total of nearly one hundred other Chief Magistrates from various municipalities throughout Canada.

In a letter addressed to his family and received in Belleville today, Mayor Tice expresses his appreciation of being named for this particular committee. The committee will have the final voice on all financial matters of the Dominion which may be brought up at the convention.

"We were given a royal reception on our arrival here", Mayor Tice stated in his letter. "Since we arrived we have been escorted everywhere by mounted policemen, couriers and city officials. We have been shown every courtesy and assistance."

"Yesterday I was up at seven o'clock. We had our pictures taken at nine o'clock and then went in session at about nine-thirty. We are working hard, and I don't know how long we will be down here".

Mayor Tice will represent the central section of the Province on the committee, and will have as his fellow committee men the following other mayors:

G. G. McGeer, Vancouver; Andy Davidson, Calgary; H. Johnston, Moosejaw; E. Partridge, West Kildonan, Manitoba; James Simpson, Toronto; Geo. Bennett, Windsor; H. Firland, Verdun; W. H. Biggar; Montreal; J. W. Brittain, St. John; E. G. Cragg, Halifax; F. H. Bradley, Sherbrooke.

◆

Obituary

MRS. FRANK S. PEARCE

The death occurred at Marmora on Monday, March 25th, of Mrs. Pearce, wife of Mr. Frank S. Pearce a prominent resident of that village.

The late Mrs. Pearce was formerly Miss Gertrude Smith, daughter of the late A. Bruce Smith of Toronto.

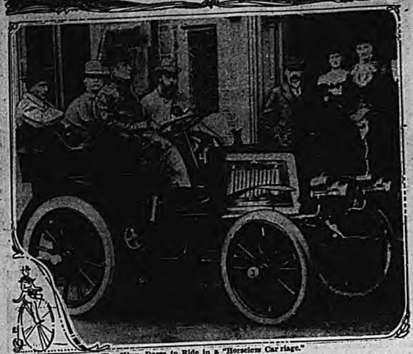
Spring Festival of Certified Hits
A screen full of Joy
ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN ...AND IT DOES!
CLARK GABLE
CONSTANCE BENNETT
After Office Hours

Your favorite stars in the year's gayest romantic sensation!
with
STUART ERWIN
BILLIE BURKE
HARVEY STEPHENS
KATHARINE ALEXANDER
Feature at: 2.10: 7.45: 9.50 p.m.
Plus — JOE COOK COMEDY — Edwin C. Hill introducing BELLE LATEST NEWS—Tuneful Revue.
TOMORROW
BELLE
DAILY 2.30: 7.10: 9.10
TODAY—RUGGLES OF RED GAP

BY TREMENDOUS POPULAR REQUEST . WEDNESDAY NIGHT ONLY

In one flashing pageant of drama, girls, song and cyclonic spectacle, Warner Bros. bring you their all-time, world-topping sensation—the Picture of 10,000 Wonders! A First National Super-Attraction.
5 smash song hits by composers of "42 Street" and "Gold Diggers"... 400 Pulse-jolting girls!... Gigantic Busby Berkeley spectacles!... Hundreds of other surprises in scenes that enchant and astound!
TOMORROW NITE ONLY at 7.10; 9.15
CAPITOL THEATRE for Satisfying Entertainment
Leaving TONIGHT Ann Sothern Neil Hamilton in "BLIND DATE"
Lucky Capitol Programs 6: 27: 40: 1224: 1603

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee



The King Dares to Ride in a "Horseless Carriage."

KING GEORGE was nothing if not an adventurer bold. He loved the sea and all the thrills and action that go with sailing.

But here is the new King in a different kind of adventure. He is seen in to-day's picture in the front seat of an early motor car, a "horseless carriage," with Hon. C. C. Rolls, of Rolls Royce fame. In the back seat, behind the King, is Lord Llangattock with Sir Charles Guest.

Remember that this picture was taken 'way back when gasoline vehicles were a rarety and looked upon by most people as fit only for crazy men.

But King George, by virtue of "daring" to drive in one, probably did more to popularize motor cars in Great Britain than any other individual. It is characteristic of King George that always he is eager, whenever it is humanly possible, to acede to the countless requests made upon him by his subjects. Few Kings have worked harder than this man who, up until he was eighteen years of age, never dreamed that he would one day be monarch of the world's greatest Empire.

COURT AFFIRMS CONVICTION

Pittsburgh, March 25—(AP)—The State Supreme Court today affirmed the conviction of Robert Allen Edwards, under sentence of death for the 'American tragedy" slaying of Freda McKechnie.

Edwards, was charged with hitting Miss McKechnie over the head with a blackjack while they were bathing in Harvey's Lake the night of July 20 and leaving her body in the lake.

WHEN LETTERS HAVE ACCUMULATED
... AND YOU'VE SO MUCH ELSE TO DO
... AND YOU DON'T LIKE WRITING ANYHOW ...

Telephone! A few inexpensive Long Distance calls will square you with the world again.

● Long Distance adds enjoyment to your social contacts, and eases your mind. You can talk 100 miles or so for as little as 30 cents. The rates in the front pages of your directory are surprisingly low.

G. W. PROCTOR
Manager

Miss Margaret Hicks Feted By Friends

Carmel—A large crowd invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hicks on March 18th to spend one more social evening with their daughter Margaret before she left her home to enter Belleville General Hospital as nurse in training. The first part of the evening was spent in music, recitations and readings.

At 10.30 o'clock Mr. Seldon Homans was called to act as chairman in the absence of Rev. W. Merrick who was unable to attend.

Miss Margaret was called to the drawing room where the following address was read by Mr. Percy Reynolds.

Dear Marguerite:
Friendship is a golden chain,
That binds us all together,
The links are love and loyalty
So strong that none may sever.

Thus, having learned of your intention to leave our neighborhood, we, your friends, have invaded your home to night, to spend a social hour, and to extend our best wishes for your success. You have been a faithful and earnest worker in the Young Peoples' Society, in the Sunday School and in the church. We know that we shall see you often but your cheerful smile will be absent from Sunday School class and other social gatherings, where you have always been a willing helper and where you have made yourself very dear to us.

Your quiet, genial disposition has won for you many friends, to which this large gathering bears ample testimony. We also know that you cannot help making many new friends, wherever you may be, but we hope that you will always keep a warm spot in your heart for each of us gathered here this evening.

This community is proud of its young people and especially do we hold in high esteem the one we are honoring tonight. We are sorry to lose you from this community, but we are glad that you will not be far distant.

So kindly accept this gift from your neighbours and friends and we hope that in the days to come it will bring many happy memories.

Signed on behalf of your many friends, Vickie Simmons, Percy Reynolds, Glenn Patterson, Clare Horton, Mable Gunning.

After the address was read and a Princess [illegible] was given Margaret by Clare Horton. "For she's a jolly good fellow" was sung.

Margaret though taken by surprise made a very suitable reply and thanked her many friends and said the gift would remain long as a remembrance of her many friends in Carmel and ask all to call on her at the hospital but not to come ill. Among many who testified of her high standing in the Church and Young People's meetings was her Sunday School teacher, Mrs. Wanda Sine and school teacher, Miss Hazel Horton who spoke very highly of Margaret. In closing Mrs. Simmons on behalf of all present wished her every success in her chosen profession and prayed that God's blessing would be with her and that she would choose His in all her walks of life. After a social intercourse sandwiches, cake and coffee was served.

Pan Cake Tea Held At West Huntingdon

West Huntingdon—Friday evening is becoming a social one for this burg. On the 22nd a number of outstanding events were held which included both old and young of the community.

The Dramatic Society of Fuller presented their play "Wild Ginger" in the Town Hall, Ivanhoe.

A committee meeting was held at Mr. Morley Haggerty's home to make plans for the coming 12th of July celebration.

A pan cake tea was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fitchett and was represented from this community by Messrs Sandy McCurdy and Arthur Wilson.

Miss Georgia and Mr. Jack Pitman entertained the two intermediate Sunday School classes of the United Church. There were twenty-five members present and two visitors. Progressive crokinole and a couple of contests were the main feature of program At close al unch was served.

Miss Eva Newman and Mr. Keith Bray voiced the sentiments of those present in a vote of appreciation.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hodkinson of Hall's Bridge spent a couple of days this week as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sandy McCurdy.

Mr. Gordon Atkins of Thurlow spent this week as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pargey.

The St. Andrew's W.M.S. held a meeting at Mrs. John Wright's on Thursday.

Dinner was served and a quilting held also.

Those from here who attended Grand Lodge at Trenton were Messrs William Wallace, Earl Benson, Samuel Denman and Philip Carr.

Mr. James Bray of Mill St. has been quite ill with the flu this week.

LENTEN LECTURE SERIES CONTINUES

Frankford—The third in the series of Lenten lectures was held in Trinity Church on Friday evening. Lantern slides depicting old Testament scenes were given and an interesting talk by the Rector, Rev. McConnell, given. These services are of interest not only to the children but to adults as well.

The A.Y.P.A. held their meeting in the Parish Hall after the close of the church service.

The road between our village and Trenton is in good shape, and many favourable comments are heard of the improvement over other years.

Some of the men from the highway construction work have returned home with the flu.

Mr. Simon McCauley has been on the sick list the last week or so.

Mr. J. M. Bell had a bad attack of heart trouble, but at present is resting comfortably at the home of his son Mr. Earle Bell.

Mrs. Arthur Southwood spent the week end at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. B. Ford.

Dr. and Mrs. Vining have removed to their new home in Wooler. Dr. Vining intends being at his office here three days a week.

Miss Annie Kellar, nurse in training at Belleville Hospital spent Friday at her home here.

Several from here and vicinity attended Grand Lodge at Trenton when the Orangemen from Eastern Ontario Division held their session there, and also enjoyed the privilege to hear Ex Mayor Stewart of Toronto address his brother Orangemen in the Capitol Theatre on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Jerry Hubbel was rushed to Kingston Hospital and has shown little signs of improvement since being admitted there.

Mrs. M. O'Malley has been spending the week with her daughter Mrs. Joe Barry at Colborne.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Orr of Stockdale, a son.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. H. Faulkner, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Arnott spent Sunday at Chas. Leslie's, Wooler.

The pulp mill is running steadily and loads of pulp are being rushed in by truck from around Marmora, Flinton as well as what comes in by train from the north.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR CARMEL FRIENDS

Carmel—Mrs. Levi Lattone is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Huskins gave a party to their many friends on Thursday evening March 21st before moving to their new home.

League was held on Wednesday evening the President, Miss Mildred Jones opened with the worship period. After which prayer was offered. Mr. Merrick, then gave his third talk on church membership, which was very interesting. Miss Mable Gunning leader of the Citizenship Programme took charge. She opened with a hymn and offered prayer. Helen Hicks read the introductions of the lesson. Iva Horton gave the topic which all enjoyed. Leta Prindle favored with a reading entitled "Just Smile". Mrs. W. Summers sang "Its Lamplighting time in the Valley". The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer.

Mr. Billy Sills, Mr. Wallace Sills and Mr. W. Parks motored to Toronto on Wednesday.

Mr. Arnold Scott was home over the week end.

The young people presented their play "All on Account of Polly" at Melrose one night last week and report a full house.

Mrs. Frank Goodfellow has been helping Mrs. W. Simmons for a few days.

Miss Cora Goodfellow is improving after her severe operation. Friends are glad to see her out again.

Mrs. Harold Goodfellow is also improving from her recent illness. All hope for a speedy recovery.

Mr. John Lattone of Belleville visited at Mr. W. Simmons' for a few days last week.

Farmers are looking forward to beginning tilling the land early this spring of this weather continues.

Mrs. J. Patterson and Mrs. Chas. Brintnell report a profitable time spent at the Presbyterial convention held at Picton.

Rev. W. Merrick was making his usual calls on this line Tuesday.

Mrs. Murney Clapp we are glad to report, improving under the care of Dr. Connor, Belleville.

PERSONAL NEWS OF RAWDON DISTRICT

Rawdon, March 26—Mr. Russell Wescott and his mother Mrs. Manley Wescott of Shannonville, are spending a few days at the home of the latter's daughter, Mrs. Burton Bateman.

Friends were sorry to hear of the death of the little two and a half months' baby of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gaunt.

Miss Dorothy McMullen spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McMullen.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Seeney of Grafton spent a few days this week at the home of Mr. Robert Pounder.

Messrs. Burton Bateman, Percy Bateman, Will Stiles and Alex. Martin attended Grand Lodge at Trenton this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sharp and Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brown and family, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Starr attended a birthday party on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Armstrong.

Bethel Young People's Society opened with "Listen the Master Beseecheth" and Devotional.

Miss Helen Farrell convener of social and literary department presided over the programme and all enjoyed a round of community singing which closed with "The Long Long Trail."

Mr. Walter Warren read a selection "The Shamrock, Emblem of Ireland." Mr. Eric Capelle gave a vocal solo "The Voice in the Old Village Choir." Miss Laura Tucker read a selection entitled "St. Patrick." Miss A. Elliott contributed a solo "My Old Kentucky Home." Mr. Ernest Holland read a poem " It May be Your Turn Next."

Miss Alice Lake read the Bible lesson and Miss L. McMullen outlined the topic "Recreation, How We Make it." Mr. B. C. Tucker led in a helpful discussion. Mrs. S. Gummer staged an "Irish" contest at the close which all enjoyed.

McNABB'S
FASHION REVUE
at the
CAPITOL THEATRE

CHOSEN AS THE FASHION STORE OF BELLEVILLE

Miss Claire Andree Lecturer of the De Both Homemakers' School

Complete Change in Fashions Every Day

In accord with Miss Andree's good taste—she has chosen McNabb's to display the smartest in women's apparel for Spring and Summer

COATS AND SUITS

Choose your Spring Outfit from our large assortment of properly styled and beautifully tailored merchandise.

Our labelled garments is your guarantee of proper fit and style.
LANGBURNE COATS AND SUITS
PRINTZESS COATS AND SUITS
HURLINGHAM COATS AND SUITS

The J. A. McNABB Ltd.
254 Front St.

Millinery by Woodley's

Millinery by Woodley's

LADIES
Attending the Cooking School
Should Bring
PENCILS
To Take Notes and also to append the names to the Prize Winning Coupons

There will be Prize Basket Drawings every day and Grand Prize Drawings on Friday.

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER DE BOTH COOKING SCHOOL OPENS TUESDAY, MARCH 26, AT THE CAPITOL THEATRE.

From His Hip to His Heel One Long Ache with SCIATICA

Of all the miserable, vitality-draining pains, sciatica is certainly one of the worst. Here is a blacksmith who says he "Took pills and tablets by the bushel"—then T-R-C's quickly stopped the trouble. Read this letter from Edmond Landry, Drapeau, Que.

"Three years ago I had terrible Sciatica that made my right leg ache like toothache from my hip, where it was worst, down to my heel. I am a blacksmith and for 3 months I did not lift a hammer, although I took pills and tablets by the bushel. Things were getting pretty bad when I read an advertisement for T-R-C's (Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules). I got a $1 box. The very first dose gave me relief. By the time I had finished that $1 box I was completely better and able to work. T-R-C's also get rid of the worst headache in 20 minutes."

Time and time again T-R-C's have given safe, speedy relief from painful Sciatica; also from Acute Rheumatic suffering, Painful Neuritis, Neuralgia (including Tic Douloureux) and Lumbago (Lame Back). Deep-rooted, stubborn cases of Rheumatism require patient and correct use of T-R-C's for a reasonable length of time; but you are sure of relief if you persist with T-R-C's. No harmful or habit-forming drugs.

T-R-C's do this—Enter the blood stream and help your body throw off the misery-causing poisons which have accumulated in your blood. When these go, health and happiness return. T-R-C's are 50c and $1 everywhere.

Stop needless misery—take 257

TEMPLETON'S RHEUMATIC CAPSULES
T-R-C's
MILLIONS SOLD EVERY YEAR

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER
THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

SPORT IS GIVEN PLACE

General Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army on her arrival at Adelaide, Australia, gave a strong endorsation of sport. She said she had read a statement by a preacher that an exciting football match was no preparation for the Sunday service, but according to newspaper stories she said she considered sport and exercise a necessity and could find no warrant in Scripture for the minister's objection.

General Booth is an ardent sportswoman, swimmer and fancy diver, according to her own statement.

More and more people are coming to realize the part that clean sport plays in the individual and social makeup.

In the days ahead when it is said there will be a certain amount of enforced leisure, there must be a large place for sport which is not only exercise but admirable social training.

VIKINGS KEEN TRADERS

Swedish archaeologists are changing usually accepted ideas of the Vikings. Evidence dug from the sandy shores of the Baltic Sea proves they were peaceful merchants, pushing their trade from London to the Bosporus, says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society. Gone is the traditional Viking of English history—a savage warrior who spent all his time dashing across the seas in an open boat, raiding peaceful communities.

The trouble, archaeology now indicates, is that reliance has been placed on biased sources of information. British, Irish and Frankish chroniclers could hardly be expected to appreciate the finer qualities of the "blond beasts" who conquered them.

"For an accurate picture of the Viking age one must go to the sagas, that great mass of legend, history, poetry and law collected from oral tradition and written down in the twelfth century," says the writer. "Archeologists exploring the lost civilizations of Greenland, Scandinavia, Russia and the Baltic are succeeding in verifying much of this valuable source material.

"Geography made the Vikings a seafaring people and they in turn altered the geography of their world. Early settlements in Scandinavia were built along the coast where deep, winding fjords made overland travel next to impossible. The sea was a natural highway and ships were built to ride the storms of northern latitudes. These boats were small, less than eighty feet long, with high carved prow and stern, a square-rigged sail of brightly colored wool and twenty to thirty sets of oars. King Canute's 'long ship' boasted 120 oarsmen, but this was a royal exception.

"In these slender craft, steering by sun, moon, stars and wind, the Northmen dared unknown seas and incredible distances. Boats were as speedy as they were seaworthy, making the trip from Norway to Iceland in four days and from Denmark to England in three.

"The Vikings were a hardy, adventurous race and their fatalistic religion made them fearless. Life was a dangerous game wherein one strove to win as much fame and honor as possible in the short time allotted by the Norns (the Fates). Games, contests and feats of strength were tremendously popular. Many are the tales told of Olaf Tryggvason, the King of Norway, who challenged Kjarten of Iceland to a swimming match. Olaf had a ship, 'Long Serpent', the mightiest boat in the North. It is said he could walk completely around this while his men were rowing, stepping on each oar and juggling three daggers as he went!

"The history of Arctic exploration begins with the Vikings, who found and lost a northern empire. Around the North Cape and into the White Sea they sailed in search of furs and ivory. Venturing westward, Rabna Flohi came to Iceland. There a group of noblemen, escaping unjust taxation under Harold Haarfager, established a colony. From Iceland, Eric the Red pushed on to a land of black rock and glittering ice which he named Greenland to encourage men to settle there. The Greenland colonies prospered and grew rich through three centuries, trading in furs, ivory walrus hides and whale oil. Then as they had risen so they faded, and by the fourteenth century had vanished, forgotten save in the sagas. The sagas tell also of Leif Ericsson's voyage to Vinland and how he found first a land of flat stones, then a wooded shore, and last a country of vines and grapes.

"The story of viking exploration in the East is less familiar. Swedish traders ventured further and further along the great rivers of Russia until they reached the Black Sea and the Caspian Sea. Fortified trading posts were built in Latvia, Lithuania, East Prussia and Russia. A favorite route was up the River Neva to Lake Ladoga, along the Volkov to Lake Ilmen, and then down the Dnieper to the Black Sea. A Viking dominion was established around Lake Ladoga and Novgorod. It was founded by Rurik and his band of Rodslagen, or Russ—enlisted sea warriors of the Baltic Coast. So Russia owes her name to Viking traders.

"Thousands of foreign coins from Arabia, Germany, France, England and the Byzantine Empire have been unearthed in Scandinavia, proving the wide reach of Viking commerce. More than half of these coins have been found in Gotland, a little island in the Baltic directly in the path of the great east-west trade route. Recently a vessel of Buddhistic design was discovered there.

"Viking ships carried more romantic cargoes than the rubber, steel and oil of modern trade. Baltic amber, Iceland wool, Swedish horses, falcons from Norway and furs from Greenland and Lapland were exchanged for Rhenish wine, honey and linen from England, Russian hats, silks from the East and saddles from Spain."

THE CHURCHES AND MOTOR MURDER

The debate on road accidents initiated by the Bishop of Ely in the Church Assembly was remarkable for the sureness of direction which kept it on precisely the ground on which such a body is qualified to speak with authority. While Dr. Heywood's presentation of the subject was strictly practical, and all his statements were fortified by official statistics, the point on which he laid insistence was that careful driving was esssentially an ethical question, and that only in so far as drivers developed not merely a road sense but a road conscience would the slaughter be diminished.—Spectator of London, (Eng.)

UNSIGNED LETTERS

People who write letters to the newspapers of Maine have no reason to doubt whether they are read. They are not only read but resented to such an extent that a bill has been introduced in the Legislature to limit their publication. The proposed bill would prohibit all unsigned communications in the press not dealing with regular news. The sponsor, Senator Martin, spoke of letters that had appeared in the Bangor Commercial and said: "We are tired of the Commercial always hitting at our Poor department.... Not only has it been the Poor department but the School department. We believe such matters could be taken care of in different channels through the department affected without going into the columns of an open forum.... If the letters were written over signatures it would not keep the people of Bangor in a continuous state of turmoil, because they would know who wrote them and how to evaluate their opinions."

It is wholly unlikely that the Legislature will show much respect for this bill, because it is unlikely that it can be shown that anybody suffers any hardship because of letters to the editor. If they are libellous whether signed or unsigned, the aggrieved party can sue the newspaper. If they are merely critical they can be answered and if they are mistaken the errors can be pointed out. It is the general practice of newspapers that when letters to the editor make personal attacks upon any person the name of the assailant must be published. That is only fair. But the same argument does not apply to the conduct of public institutions. Very often it happens that those in a position to know the facts of the case do not dare disclose their identity for fear of losing their jobs or suffering other reprisals. If they were to be quenched as a source of information many public abuses might flourish.

There are also many readers who, because of modesty, do not like to see their names in print. There are others who realize that because of their obscurity, or perhaps only their poverty, their opinions are likely to be discounted. Therefore, their letters appear anonymously, and can be read and considered on their merits, uninfluenced by the status of the authors. Both newspapers and their readers would strongly object to any legislation that would further interfere with unsigned communications. Such communications often make most interesting reading, especially if they are short for, as the Boston Herald remarked when addressing its own correspondents, "most readers are lost after the first 20 lines."—Mail and Empire (Toronto).

DANGEROUS TO ALL CONCERNED

The birthday of Adolf Hitler falls on April 20 and it will be enthusiastically celebrated in Germany. Honors, appointments, titles and pay increases will be announced on that day, as is the custom of kings and emperors. An American exchange does not like this deification of Hitler. It says: "Aside from its aspects of asinity, and these are very pronounced and ludicrous, the declaration by a dictator—for this is what it amounts to—of a day of national rejoicing in his honor, is dangerous alike to the people and the tyrant." —Calgary Herald.

Yet wicked swindlers couldn't prosper if nice honest people weren't eager to make some easy money.—Fountain Inn (S.C.) Tribune.

No wonder people had more religion in the old days. The colder the weather the easier it was to get a horse started.—Fountain Inn (S.C.) Tribune.

SIDELIGHTS

THE HOME FORUM

Discussing the events of the day, home gossip and general news topics as revealed by the home newspaper—under the evening lamp—and comments Grave and Gay. — Supervised by The Lamplighter.

OLD SELVES AND NEW

Today I found this diary, kept
A full decade ago;
Each page shows how I laughed, prayed, wept,
Though now what moved me so
Lies hidden where time's shadows close;
A joy I used to wear
Has no more meaning than the rose
Once pinned against my hair.

So, after other years go by,
New hopes may bloom for me,
New laughter on my lips may lie,
Fresh promise I may see.
Another self will take my place,
(More wise, more just than brow!)
I shall but faintly on it trace
The look this self bears now.

—Aline Michaelis.

x x x

MANY MORE MILLIONS in gold will be mined in Northern Ontario this year as the result of the facilities afforded by the Hydro Electric Commission of Ontario, one of Ontario's proudest achievements, and greatest asset. Sir Adam Beck started smething greater than he knew, but he builded wisely and well so that from small beginnings greater things could grow. His spirit can view with pride Hydro development in Northern Ontario and the golden stream which is flowing from that area in such volume because of the carrying out of his ideas.

x x x

THE PRESENCE IN BELLEVILLE Monday of the Chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission, T. Stewart Lyon, was made the occasion by many citizens of seeing at first hand just what manner of man was this. Mr. Lyon addressed the Rotary Club on matters in connection with the Eastern Ontario Hydro district and made a very favorable impression. In the evening he addressed the Men's Club of St. Andrew's Church. Chairman Lyon expressed himself as very much pleased with the condition of the Belleville Hydro System which had been handled in a very business-like manner, and with an efficiecy which reflects the greatest credit upon the local Hydro Commission and Manager Scott. T. Stewart Lyon is a braw Scotsman, from Port Glasgow, and in his fifty years in Canada, has not lost his Scotch characteristics, nor all of the burr that falls so pleasingly from the Scotch tongue His many years of newspaper work in connection with the Toronto Globe and as correspondent for the Canadian Press overseas in the Great War have lent him a cosmopolitanism and bonhommie which adds to his natural charm. As the name of George Brown will always be associated with The Toronto Globe as one of the early pillars of that national institution, so will that of T. Stewart Lyon be remembered as one of the later pillars and one of the best traditions of that more than local newspaper.

x x x

MARIE DRESSLER, of beloved screen memory, left an estate of about $300,000, and considerable grief in its disposal, caused by the great generosity of her heart, her inability to put a business-like value on money as yet, and the liberality of her friends with her money. Her funeral expenses totalled $10,000, an amount out of all proportion to what her wishes would be in the matter of funeral ostentation. She must have overestimated her estate for the legacies and expenses will eat up most of the surplus. Her sister appealed the funeral expenses but a court decided that they must be paid. Some over-enthusiastic friends accustomed to the grand manner of Hollywood certainly put a show on for the obsequies—and left the payment to the estate. Marie Dressler's sister, Mrs. Bonita Ganthony, of London, may not realize more than $1,000 out of the estate, a fact which would cause Marie the most acute distress if she could know it.

x x x

"Young man," said the city merchant, severely. "I notice that you are almost invariably from ten to twenty minutes late in getting to the office!"

"I know, sir," replied the youth, "but you seem to set such a small value on my time that I don't think it matters much," answered the young man.

x x x

Teacher—Now, Robert, can you tell me what human nature is?

Robert—Yes, ma'am. It's people 'fore they go into society.

TURKEY SEEKS 240,000 BRITISH HELMETS

This armful of steel helmets are part of the 400,000 made for the British army 17 years ago. An agent, called a "master mind" by the newspapers, had been scouring London in an effort to buy them. It was revealed later that he was acting for Turkey. Only 170,000 were located and the 230,000 others needed, may have to be manufactured.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 Years Ago

MARCH 26, 1915.

Day before yesterday about two o'clock in the morning fire destroyed a barn and all contents including horses and cattle on the farm of John Kincaid at Hazzard's Corners.

An automobile and a buggy collided on Front Street this morning. Fortunately no damage resulted.

Shortly after one o'clock today upwards of 250 enlisters from Lindsay arrived in Belleville to join the 39th Battalion which is being mobilized here. A band accompanied the men and they created a very favorable impression as they marched down Front Street.

The Rev. C. G. Smith, pastor of the Baptist Church, is conducting special services in Murray Street Baptist Church, Peterboro.

30 Years Ago

MARCH 26, 1905.

Mr. Irvine Wallace is home from Montreal on a visit.

Mr. W. J. Moore, barrister, Madoc, was a visitor in the city today.

Mr. Morley Taylor has returned home after spending some time in Regina.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Reid, of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, are spending a few days in the city, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Reid.

Mr. Charles Merryday of Avondale will leave this week on a trip to England.

40 Years Ago

MARCH 26th., 1895.

Dr. J. S. Sprague, Mr. James Tulloch and Mr. Robert T. Gray have been appointed License Commissioners for North Hastings.

Capt. Bloomfield will commence fitting out the Steamer Hero this week.

His Grace Archbishop Lewis of the Diocese of Ontario was presented yesterday with an address from the clergy of the diocese congratulating him upon the 33rd. anniversary of his consecration which took place in Kingston. The address was read by Very Rev. Dean Smith.

Dr. J. A. Marshall left this morning to attend a meeting of the directors of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons in Toronto. Dr. Marshall was recently elected to the board for a term of two years.

50 Years Ago

MARCH 26th., 1885.

Mr. Bradley Mallory bought recently from Mr. H. M. Williams, two Holstein cattle, a two-year-old bull and a heifer for $875.00.

An amateur performance under the auspices of the 15th. Battalion is one of the interesting events set down for the near future.

The Board of Health has issued an order forbidding all persons to take their cattle and horses on the plaforms of the public wells for the purpose of watering them.

A young lady of this city received a proposal of marriage from an eligible suitor at the Grand Trunk station a few days ago.

The mile race at the Vermilyea Roller Skating Rink last night was a great success by an enthusiastic and excited crowd. There were twelve entries and four heats In the last heat the race lay between D. W. Pettit, George Roblin and Robert Stillman. Stillman won the medal, but was closely followed by Roblin. His time was 3.52.

Bishop's Hand Hurt By Well-Wishers, Ring Presses Flesh

WINDSOR, Ont., March 26—(CP)—His hand has been shaken so often he has found it necessary to transfer his Bishop's ring from the right to the left hand, Rt. Rev. R. H. Dignan, Bishop of Sault Ste. Marie, revealed at a gathering of his former parishioners here. At London and later in Toronto, well-wishers crushed his hand so often the ring began to press deeply into the flesh, explained His Excellency.

STARS TO WED

LOUISE HENRY CONRAD NAGEL

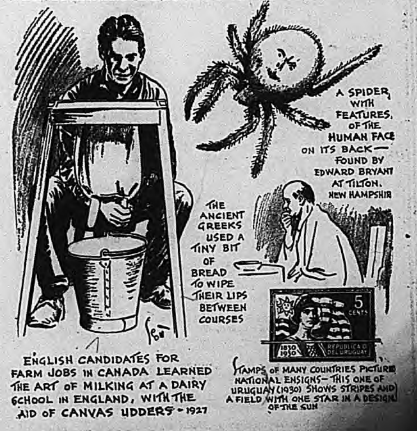
Louise Henry, 21-year-old film actress, and Conrad Nagel, screen star, who was divorced in Mexico last year, are deeply in love, according to mutual friends in Hollywood. Miss Henry, a native of Virginia, arrived in Hollywood less than a year ago. They met while working together on a movie lot.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK - - By R. J. Scott



A SPIDER, WITH FEATURES, OF THE HUMAN FACE ON ITS BACK— FOUND BY EDWARD BRYANT AT TILTON. NEW HAMPSHIRE
THE ANCIENT GREEKS USED A TINY BIT OF BREAD TO WIPE THEIR LIPS BETWEEN COURSES
5 CENTS
1830 1930
REPUBLICA O. DEL URUGUAY
ENGLISH CANDIDATES FOR FARM JOBS IN CANADA LEARNED THE ART OF MILKING AT A DAIRY SCHOOL IN ENGLAND, WITH THE AID OF CANVAS UDDERS - 1927
STAMPS OF MANY COUNTRIES PICTURE NATIONAL ENSIGNS— THIS ONE OF URUGUAY (1930) SHOWS STRIPES AND A FIELD WITH ONE STAR IN A DESIGN OF THE SUN

10TH BIRTHDAY OF CLUB HONORED

Y's Men Invite Ladies to Join in Fun and Amusement

Moulding together their annual ladies' night and tenth anniversary into one gala evening of fun and frivolity, the local Y's Men's Club entertained its members, their lady friends and guests at the Y.M.C.A. last evening. The programme presented consisted of the best local talent procurable and interspersed with the Y'sdom spirit, added much to make the evening a memorable one for the 60 odd present.

Although the evening was primarily planned to entertain the wives and lady friends of the club members an added feature, in the presence of the majority of the past presidents of the organization, resulted in history being made, as the local Y's Men's Club received its official International charter exactly ten years ago last night, March 25, 1925. Only three of the 12 presidents to occupy the honorable position of president were unable to attend this unique gathering. One of the most interesting items on the programme was a pageant or historical oration of the club's activities, year by year, introducing as they came into office each of the 12 presidents and some of the accomplishments realized under each one's regime. The activities of the local Y's Men's Club for the past decade have been wide and varied, but the organization has accomplished much in the realization of their aims "to help others and assist the "Y".

President Alex Weir welcomed the lady guests and the past presidents officially as they sat down in the banquet hall. George Pauley very capably handled the duties of sergeant-at-arms and was undoubtedly the busiest man in the club last night. Besides acting as accompanist for community singing. Y's man Leo Riggs, the oldest honorary member of the club, was asked to cut the large birthday cake, on which was inscribed "Y's Men, Belleville, 10th Birthday." The cake was gaily decorated with candles to suit the occasion. Y's man Newt. Thompson, also past president of Y's Men's International, occupied the chair during the lengthy programme, while Joe Shortt conducted the community singing. In relationship to Y's Men's activities Mr. Shortt, in his historical pageant, told of the original conception of the organization in Toledo in 1920, the first International meeting in 1922 at Atlantic City, the presenting of the Belleville charter in 1925, the continued and steady group of the organization and its aims.

The programme, that was arranged for the annual ladies' night, proved most interesting and included various forms of entertainment. Two readings by Miss Mildred Lloyd were highly appreciated especially her work in "Stella at the Movies," a very amusing skit. Solos by Miss Simpson and Mr. M. Anderson also were appreciated while a piano solo by Mr. Templer concluded the musical programme. A one act farce comedy entitled "Between the Soup and the Savory," proved most amusing, the scene taking place in a scullery of an old English home, embracing Miss Helen Sulman as the cook, Miss Bernice Arbuckle as the maid and Miss Nellie Maraskas as the down-trodden scullery maid, who had higher ideals, however. The play was directed by Miss M. Lloyd and drew rounds of applause.

During the evening's programme each past president was presented with suitable tokens to mark the occasion in the presentation of "engraved" cups. The cups turned out to be ordinary china cups with the year in which the respective prexy reigned supreme being painted on the outside with black paint, however. The evening was voted one of the most successful ladies' nights ever attempted by the local Y's Men, who in turn were reminded of the club's annual rummage sale on Saturday night next.

TASTY AND DELICIOUS
Try our CHOCOLATE
ICE CREAM

Miss Andree heartily endorses this statement as she demonstrates our Chocolate Ice Cream at her Home Makers' School this week at the Capitol Theatre and vouches for its RICHNESS — TASTINESS and PURENESS

Made in Belleville from Rich, Pasteurized Cream

DICKENS & SON

215 FRONT STREET PHONE 170

Clark Gable featured with Constance Bennett in "After Office Hours", coming to the Belle tomorrow (Wednesday).

BECOME FREE FROM ROUTINE TO REST MIND

Way to Relax is to do Something Entirely Different

(By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D.)
(Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

(Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Many persons take vacations in the winter instead of the summer. The wise ones take a holiday at both seasons of the year. Better a week in Winter and a week in summer than two weeks together at either time. Better still, take short frequent vacations of a few days' duration every month.

But no matter when or how you take your vacation, do you make it count? Do you get the anticipated benefits?

The way to relax is to do something entirely different. In this way you think different; you feel different. Few, however, really learn this lesson.

Year after year they seek, not rest, but further excitement. What they call "pleasure" is only another form of work. This mad pursuit of pleasure is hard labor in disguise! The nervous system is no more resistive to excessive pleasure than it is to any other sustained work.

Remember that nerve energy is the thing by which you succeed. It is nerve energy you draw on day in and day out. It is nerve energy you are short on when your holliday arrives. It is also nerve energy that you must replenish during your vacation.

Therefore, do something entirely different and new. Use nerves that have been comparatively dormant before. This gives the hard-working nerve cells—the ones you have already taxed to capacity—a chance to carry off waste products and rebuild.

Furthermore, when you relax you open up and disconnect the various nerve junctions, which thus enables the nerve cells to manufacture nerve energy.

If you dance or play games, you may be using nerve cells that you don't use ordinarily. That is excellent, provided your do not overdo it.

But when you dance or play to the point of exhaustion, you're abusing your nerves, whether used or unused. You are deliberately doing in a short time what your regular work took months to accomplish.

A little thought and planning will make your vacation yield maximum results. In some ways your vacation is more important than your work. Make it count to your benefit. Make it an asset—not a liability!

DR. BISCH'S DAILY DIET HINT

Many persons suffer from distended stomach due to the fact that for years they have been drinking large quantities of liquids. Particularly should those who like beer be careful in this respect.

Such a condition makes it impossible for the stomach to empty itself completely. Hence after each meal a certain amount of food remains and soon ferments. For such a condition small meals are best, and only foods that are readily digested.

HOWE IS DYING

LOUIS McHENRY HOWE

Secretary to President Roosevelt and well-known White House figure Louis McHenry Howe (ABOVE) is seriously ill. He is not expected to live.

SCOTT'S W.M.S.

Scott's Women's Missionary Society held an enjoyable St. Patrick's social evening at the home of Mrs. Howard Dafoe on Monday evening March 18th, with a large attendance.

A splendid programme was given being opened with hymn "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," after which the Lord's prayer was repeated in unison. The chairman, Mr. Morley Sine gave a short address.

The programme was as follows:

Mrs. Morley Sine gave a talk on the Legend of St. Patrick.

Selection: Scott's choir.

Harp instrumental: Mrs. Alton Sine.

Solo: Miss Edna Ketcheson.

Reading: Miss Jean Badgley.

Reading: Mr. H. W. Rose.

Solo with guitar accompaniment: Miss Jeanette and Leonard Chard.

Selection by the choir.

The patches were then taken from the travelling shirt and shirt auctioned off. Proceeds from shirt and patches $8.06. Collection was then taken up which amounted to $4.88 making a total of $12.94. Contests and guessing games followed which were enjoyed by all. A delicious lunch was served quite appropriate of St. Patrick's Day. A vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. M. Sine, seconded by Mrs. G. Sine to Mrs. H. Dafoe and those who assisted in the programme.

The Ladies' Aid held a quilting and pot luck dinner at the home of Miss Edna Ketcheson on Wednesday, March 20th with a good attendance.

* * *

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of the recording secretary, Mrs. W. D. Robertson on Thursday afternoon, March 7th.

Mrs. Robert McFarlane, group leader, was in charge of the meeting and Mrs. D. Hinchey presided at the piano. The meeting opened by singing the Doxology and the Lord's prayer repeated in unison. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary and adopted. Mrs. (Rev.) Clark, president, read a letter of thanks from Mrs. Sam Elliott who is ill, also thanks from Rev. Clark for the plant sent when he was sick. Mrs. Harvey Shetler, corresponding secretary, read a letter of thanks from Mrs. Harry Sine for remembrance when she was sick at the hospital. Roll was then called by the secretary and brought forth a good response members answering to their names by naming a home mission station.

Special prayer was made for absent members, some being ill, others having sickness in their homes. Mrs. W. S. Dies led in prayer. The programme for the "World's Day of Prayer" was followed consisting of hymns, prayer and responsive readings.

Mrs. R. McFarlane gave a reading telling how the "World's Day of Prayer" originated. The flower fund was omitted and the extra collection sent to help provide Christian literature in many lands. Mrs. (Rev.) Clark dedicated this offering with prayer.

Mrs. Charlie Liddie, peace secretary gave a reading on this subject. Mrs. W. S. Dies gave a temperance reading and took up the next chapter of the Study Book. It was decided to have the same Watch Tower Heralds report at the next meeting as this was omitted for lack of time. The meeting closed with the Lord's prayer and Mrs. (Rev.) Clark pronounced the Benediction.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed after the meeting.

WHAT / DEMONSTRATE PAINT IN A COOKING SCHOOL?
CERTAINLY!

Doesn't enamel make your kitchen a bright, cheerful place to work in?
Isn't it easy to keep clean and fresh . . and isn't that important in a room where you prepare meals?

That's why Cilux Enamels are being featured at the De Both Home Makers' School this week. Cilux Enamels were chosen because they are so easy to use, so durable, and produce such a smooth glossy finish. And because they are made by Canadian Industries Limited . . . the makers of DUCO . . . and identified by the well-known oval trademark C-I-L your assurance of quality.

SEE CILUX ENAMEL DEMONSTRATION AT

CAPITOL THEATRE

THEY ARE BUT ONE OF THE FULL LINE OF C-I-L PAINT PRODUCTS SOLD BY

WHITE HARDWARE CO.

267 Front Street. Telephone 323

912

THERE IS A C-I-L PAINT FOR EVERY PURPOSE

Antacid
STOMACH POWDER
I.D.A.
Effectively and pleasantly corrects stomach distress.
3 oz. tin
Reg. 75c. 49c

At Your I.D.A. Drug Store

W. S. Martin Celebrates at 87, Member of Sunday School 81 Years

Well Known Stirling Man Has Been Warden of County

Stirling, March 26 (Special) — On Tuesday, March 26th, W. S. Martin of Stirling celebrated his 87th birthday. Born in Hastings County, Mr. Martin has watched its progress through many years of public service, during which he has served the people in different capacities. In 1896 he was warden of the county. He was elected reeve of Stirling for 14 consecutive years. In these offices as well as others he gave freely of his time and ability for the benefit of the people. He is a chartered member of the I.O.O.F. and County Treasurer of the Loyal Orange Lodge for nearly fifty years. Being active in Sunday School work from his youth, Mr. Martin has attended for 81 years, and for a long period was Superintendent of St. Paul's Sunday School in Stirling.

In 1909, Mr. Martin entered the Stirling branch of the Royal Bank of Canada as manager, a position which he occupied in a very capable manner until 1927, when he was superannuated. Since that time Mr. Martin has devoted his time to the handling of his own personal business affairs. Observing with great interest the problems of the day throughout the world, he keeps remarkably abreast of the times with the aid of the daily press which he reads carefully. With his own experience in various councils still fresh in his mind he watches with great interest the activities of the various bodies of the present day. Remarkably active for his years, Mr. Martin is seen each day taking his daily walk with a light sure step and an upright military bearing.

LIGHT DELIVERY TRUCKS
•
SPEEDWAGONS
•
HEAVY DUTY TRUCKS
•

REO
announces a complete line of
NEW 1935
REO TRUCKS

The new, ultra-modern Light Delivery Trucks provide speed and appearance for those requiring equipment of this kind.

The "Reo Speedwagon", recognized as an outstanding truck for more than two decades, is thoroughly modern in appearance and embodies all well-known Reo quality features. Reo Heavy Duty Trucks are to be found in all places where exceptional power and carrying capacity is needed. The new 1935 Reo Trucks are powered for speed and pull, streamlined for style, built and balanced for extraordinary wear. Hydraulic brakes, full floating axle and Reo transmission.

$865.00 to $5220.00. Chassis only.

F.O.B. Factory. Standard Factory Equipment. Taxes Extra.
It's unnecessary to pay more—it's unwise to pay less—than you would pay for a REO

RIGGS MOTOR SALES

224 PINNACLE ST. BELLEVILLE

REO MOTOR COMPANY OF CANADA, LIMITED, TORONTO (Leaside) CANADA

Beatty BROS. LIMITED

WILL IT IRON SHIRTS?

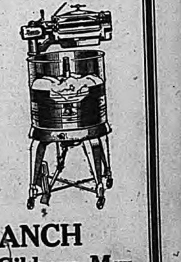
SEE THE BEATTY IRONER

ON DEMONSTRATION
at the
Cooking School

WATCH IT IRON SHIRTS, TABLE CLOTHS, KIDDIES' DRESSES, CURTAINS—it will do a shirt in four minutes, better than ever a shirt was ironed by hand.

See the Beatty Ironer at the Cooking School

WHAT IS THIS NEW WASHER with BASKET?



Here is an invention which speeds up washing time and gets you a cleaner, whiter wash. Strains out the heavy sediment as it comes from the clothes and traps it in the bottom of the tub. Washes clothes in a patented basket. When the washing is done, the basket lifts them up from the bottom of the tub. You don't have to stoop for them or fish them out. Your hands are scarcely in the water at all. More Beatty Washers are purchased in Canada than all other makes combined.

See the Beatty Washer at the Cooking School

BEATTY FACTORY BRANCH

225 Front St. Phone 770 F. S. Gibbons Mgr.

Personals

Mrs. George Husband, Harrowsmith, is spending a few days the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. Kitchen.

Mrs. F. Lamont and family returned to their home in Lindsay yesterday after spending a week with friends in this city.

Honoring the birthday of Miss Ruth Sweetman a delightful surprise dinner party was held at her home, 15 Brassey Street, on Saturday evening. An interesting evening was enjoyed in games and music at the conclusion of dinner.

Mrs. W. Jordan was guest at an enjoyable party arranged by members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the B. of R. T. and held at her home, Chatham Street, last evening. Mrs. Jordan is shortly to leave the city for Toronto where Mr. Jordan has been transferred by the C.N.R. Euchre was played during the evening, the winners being, ladies' first, Mrs W. Jordan; consolation, Mrs. W. Morgan; men's first, Mr. C. Shorey; consolation, Mr. A. Berry. Mrs. Jordan was presented with a beautiful relish dish by her friends. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Mrs. William Douherty and Miss Laura Douherty were hostesses at an enjoyable party held last evening at their home, Geddes Street. The earlier part of the evening was spent in cards, the winners being, ladies' first, Miss Clara McKeown; consolation, Miss Eileen Reynolds; men's first, Tom Hallam; consolation, Tom Boyd. Delicious refreshments were served after which dancing was enjoyed by the guests.

Last evening a successful card party was held at the Aajmaa Club. The winners were, ladies' first, Gladys Herrington; second, Mrs. Clare; third, Mrs. Osborne; fourth, Mrs. Armitage; men's first, Wilfred Latchford; second, A. J. Everett; third, W. Hammett; fourth, W. J. McDonald.

◆

S.S. CLASS HONORS BRIDE AND GROOM

On Thursday evening the members of the "Others" Sunday School Class of Cannifton held their monthly party in the Sunday School rooms. The meeting opened with community singing. Miss Myrtle Johns then took the devotional part. Hymn 86. Prayer, Rev. Merrick. Scripture reading, Miss Myrtle Johns. Reading by Mrs. Merrick. Reading by Mrs. Garrison. Duet by Mrs. Farnham and Mrs. Wessels. Reading by Mrs. Copeland. Hymn 244. Games and contests were next enjoyed. Then came a very interesting item, presenting Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pound (nee Lola Cole) both members of the class with a kitchen shower. Lola and Roy thanked the class for their kindness. All joined in singing "For they are jolly good fellows". A delicious lunch was then served. Sandwiches, cake and ice cream. Rev. Merrick then moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Wessels and Miss Myrtle Johns for a very pleasant evening.

Control Your Facial Gestures If You Would Avoid Wrinkles

(The Beauty Box)

Alice Faye

Keeping her countenance calm aids her fight against wrinkles

By HELEN FOLLETT

Be surprised at nothing, you who travel the beauty roads. Surprise lifts the eyebrows, lifted eyebrows seam the forehead. It is a total loss in the game of pulchritude.

Keep the countenance smooth and calm, though you feel like biting ten-penny nails, whatever they are. Facial gestures are a common cause of pleatings forming in the flesh. Squint and sun rays will appear around the eyes. Pull down the lip ends and lines form from nostrils to mouth. Frown and you know what happens—gullies.

Be faithful to tapping massage every night, then use a heavy massage cream and let it stay on. Remove in the morning with cold water and sponge the skin surface with an astringent. Witch hazel will serve and eau de cologne will do in a pinch. When fighting wrinkles, you will find an ice cube a worthy weapon. It whips up circulation, firms tissues, strengthens muscles.

What causes goose pimples nobody knows. Everybody knows that nobody likes them. They mar the satin smoothness of arms and legs.

Scour with soap suds and a brush, rinse and dry. Anoint with coconut oil, friction briskly. When the oil has been absorbed have a talcum rub.

It is bad policy to use dental floss carelessly. If it injures the gums, there is a possibility of infection. Germs lurk in the tissues of the mouth, wait for an abrasion so as to start a riot of pain and discomfort.

Excessively oily hair can be given a dry cleaning, if there is no opportunity for a soap shampoo. Pour a small quantity of alcohol in a saucer, add half as much water, dip in a soft cloth, wipe the hair strand by strand.

The dry shampoo is more trouble, takes longer. Mix orris root (powdered) and corn meal in equal parts, sprinkle over the scalp with a tin salt shaker, remove with a brush. Afterward wipe the hair with a bit of soft flannel.

Gums bleed? Dip the moistened toothbrush in table salt and go over the gums lightly. Make a date with the dentist to remove tartar, for tartar is usually the cause of bleeding gums.

Chin straps bring better results when they hold in place a compress of gauze that has been dipped in an astringent. The double chin can be divorced to single blessedness by anointing with a heavy skin food, rolling between thumb and first finger. Do that before harnessing on the chin strap and applying the astringent.

Schooling In A Sense of Humor

Expert Urges Child be Given Training to Control Emotions

By LISA GRENELLE

Little Tom Edwards couldn't do his lessons, though he was a bright lad. Every day he came home from school in a bad mood or in tears.

His schoolmates were picking on him, and he couldn't stand it. They could always get a flare out of Tommy. Boys are like that, cruel little things, always centering their persecutions to the most defenseless victim.

The reason for Tommy's extremely vulnerable condition lay in the nature of his early training. He had been forbidden to fight, taught no emotional control and never had learned to laugh at himself.

At home, Tommy's sensitive nature had been given much consideration. Criticism crushed him, it was discovered. Therefore he was never criticized, at least never without due tact and softening. Teasing he also took very hard, so that was given up. Finally, self-control never was asked of him. If he fell and hurt himself he received endless sympathy, and no reproaches for the tears which flowed freely.

Give Little Sympathy

Great care should be taken for the sake of the child's character that little sympathy be given him for bruises and cuts received in the first attempts to walk, climb or venture beyond the limitations of babyhood. He should be encouraged to take his small hurts and accidents lightly, and as an inevitable part of life.

A sense of humor is not natural to a child. Certainly it is not instinctive for any child to laugh at himself. On the contrary, all children take themselves with the utmost seriousness, loathe criticism, and cry and storm when they are teased. In the beginning all children are sensitive, uncontrolled and defenseless.

But they need not stay that way, if they have wise parents to guide them.

Teasing at Home

The more painfully a small child reacts to teasing the more he should be teased at home, long before school age. Teased gently at first, followed by some demonstration of affection and appreciation if he appears too crushed. He should be teased consistently, day after day, year after year, until he has learned to accept it and even to join the laugh at his own expense.

A child should also be encouraged, when necessary, to defend himself with his fists. Boys are little savages and respect only the brave and strong.

This deliberate preparation and training of the child is the only adequate defense against school razzing. A persecution is often carried on so long and so vehemently that serious consequences result. Many a boy has acquired through teasing a permanent inferiority complex and a fear of his contemporaries which handicaps him for life.

◆

Weddings

BEDFORD—WHITE

A pretty wedding took place at St. John's Mission, Herchimer Avenue, at two-thirty yesterday afternoon when Miss Kathleen White, daughter of Mrs. S. J. Price and the late Serg. Charles White, became the bride of Mr. Edward Bedford, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Bedford, Ameliasburg. Rev. T. H. H. Hall officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her step-father, Mr. S. J. Price, wore a pretty frock of beige georgette with matching toque and accessories. The young couple were unattended. After the ceremony a reception was held by St. John's Guild in the Parish Hall and wedding luncheon was served. The bride's table was attractively arranged with daffodils and cyclamen.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Bedford will reside in the city. The bride was the recipient of many useful and handsome gifts.

SHAW—PLANE

A very interesting wedding took place at high noon, March 19th, at 272 George Street, Belleville, when Ormal S. Shaw of Thurlow was united in marriage with Miss Gertrude Rosetta Plane, of Bloomfield. The Rev. J. S. McMullen officiated in the presence of Miss Frank and Mrs. J. S. McMullen. After a brief honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Shaw will take up residence on the Front of Thurlow.

◆

DAYLIGHT SAVING FAVORED BY ROTARY

Belleville Rotary Club, at the request of the Belleville Retail Merchants' Association, voted on the question of Daylight Saving at the regular Monday meeting in the Hotel Quinte. The members present voted unanimously in favor of a Daylight Saving by-law being enacted this year similar to the one in force last year. Another vote taken on the question of automobile parking in the business section resulted in a vote in favor of a one-hour parking limit, the vote being about forty for to five against.

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE

Scores Big Success

Belleville Women Throng Capitol Theatre at Opening Session of "Ontario Intelligencer" De Both Cooking School

Proving herself to be not only a good cook but a very convincing and popular lecturer as well, Miss Claire Andree addressed a large audience at the opening lecture of the Belleville Cooking School being held in the Capitol Theatre.

Miss Andree furnished her listeners with many helpful suggestions and demonstrations of good cooking and reminded the women of Belleville of the importance of using reliable ingredients in every recipe. The fact that this well-known cooking authority used KEEN'S wherever mustard was called for is a tribute to the quality of this world famous English mustard.

DELICIOUS ROUND STEAK

—Pound it Well!

Brush 2 lbs. round steak over with olive oil on both sides, put in refrigerator until ready to use. Take out and flour well and pound with pepper and salt, spread Keen's Mustard over steak (first mixing it to a paste with a little vinegar or water.) Then fry quickly in a hot pan. The Keen's Mustard gives this meat dish a delicious piquant flavor.

Chicken Salad

Get One Chicken!

Boil it tender then chop up both white and dark meat together with the whites of 3 hard boiled eggs. Add 2 tablespoons Keen's Mustard, 3 egg yolks, boiled hard, and rubbed up fine with mustard. 1 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon white pepper, vinegar enough to moisten it and 3 stalks, or heads of celery. Mix all together and serve.

Dumpling Delight

—Be sure the Mustard is KEEN'S

Sift 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 2 teaspoons Keen's Mustard and ¾ teaspoon salt, add enough liquid to make a soft dough. Drop by spoonfuls into hot stew. Cover, cook 15 minutes. There must be plenty of gravy to cook the dumplings. This way the dumplings and stew are very, very good.

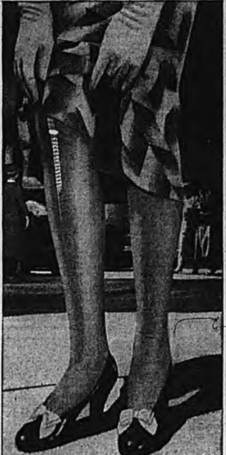
KEEN'S

D.S.F. Mustard

AIDS DIGESTION

When stockings RUN — ask yourself:

"Have I been washing them the wrong way?"



Stockings ARE lovely nowadays, aren't they?—made with an elasticity—a live "spring" that lets them give without breaking.

Yet many girls unknowingly destroy this precious elasticity . . . actually encourage runs by WRONG washing.

Ordinary soaps, often containing harmful alkali, and rubbing with cake soap . . . may DESTROY the elasticity in stockings, leaving the silk flabby . . . lifeless. Then breaks and runs are more apt to start.

Safe, gentle Lux is especially made to preserve elasticity so stockings give without breaking. There is no harmful alkali in Lux to injure fibers, no rubbing to weaken threads. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Start today to cut down your stocking bills with safe Lux. It takes only 2 minutes a night to Lux stockings—and it saves money.

"I Lux stockings after every wearing—it takes only 2 minutes."

"Luxed stockings fit better . . . wear longer. Never rub with cake soap."

See Lux demonstration at DeBoth School

Do you still cling to old-fashioned washing methods? There's no need to! See Miss Claire Andree at the DeBoth Homemakers School this week demonstrate the modern economical Lux way of caring for stockings and lingerie. The new Lux is so easy . . . and so safe. The 8-times-finer flakes dissolve instantly in lukewarm water. Rich but gentle suds remove dirt without rubbing. Don't risk using harsh soaps. Follow the advice of the experts: use only Lux for all fine things.

LUX
For all fine laundering

LUX saves Stocking elasticity

Less than 1¢ Worth of Magic would have prevented this . . . .

DRY!
COARSE!
FALLEN!
MADE WITH MAGIC

Good milk, eggs, butter, sugar and flour were used in this cake. Yet—all were wasted because the baking powder failed!

With Magic Baking Powder you get PERFECT leavening every time! Feather-light, even-textured cakes like this!

Isn't it foolish to trust expensive ingredients to a doubtful baking powder when dependable MAGIC costs so little . . .

It always pays to be fussy about baking powder. The fact is—inferior baking powder makes poor cake. It can even cause a flat failure—waste all your good ingredients.

That's why Canada's leading cookery experts say it's important to make sure the baking powder you buy is dependable—like MAGIC.

You can count on Magic Baking Powder. Its quality never varies. It gives light, tender cakes, muffins and biscuits—every time!

Don't trust your cakes to "just any" baking powder. Magic is sure—and costs so little to use. Actually—less than 1¢ worth makes a fine, big cake! Order a tin today.

. . .

When You Bake At Home, you'll want the new MAGIC COOK BOOK. Send for a free copy to Gillett Products, Fraser Ave., Toronto 2.

Tested and Approved by Chatelaine Institute
MAGIC BAKING POWDER

CONTAINS NO ALUM

This statement on every tin is your guarantee that Magic Baking Powder is free from alum or any harmful ingredient.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER has been selected for use at the BELLEVILLE ONTARIO-INTELLIGENCER COOKING SCHOOL

Conducted by

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE

at CAPITOL THEATRE

MARCH 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, from 1.30 p.m. to 4.30 p.m.

Come! Bring your baking problems. Learn the newest recipes and time-saving methods.

Read the Classified Rental Property Listing on this Page

Business Directory

AUTO LOANS

AND REFINANCING
Direct with Owner Car Financing of All Kinds.
S. J. FISHER & SON
30 Bridge St. East Telephone 165
Representing
Campbell Auto Finance Co. Ltd.
Toronto - Ottawa - London - Windsor

CHIROPRACTOR

R. A. WYATT, Ph.C., SPECIAL EXAMination with the Radioclast reveals all diseases in the early stages. Foot disorders corrected — all diseases treated. Phone 900 or write 203 Coleman St., Belleville.

VERA E. PITCHER, CHIROPRACTOR, and H. E. Pitcher, Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment. Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations and Electrical Treatments. 431½ Bridge St. E., Belleville, Ont., Phone 1374.

DENTIST

DR. ROBT. H. EMPSON
DENTIST
X-Ray
Phone 462 249½ Front St.
17-3m

RADIO SERVICE

JOHN A. DEWAR
RADIO TECHNICIAN
Registered — Graduate
245 John St. Phone 317
a1-tf

SURVEYORS

FRASER AYLESWORTH
Ontario Land Surveyor and Registered Professional Civil Engineer. Land Surveys, Plans and Descriptions, Etc., promptly attended to.
PHONE 6 — P. O. BOX 60
MADOC, ONT.

INSURANCE

Protect yourself against accidents with our Automobile Insurance
SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
Life and Fire Insurance
31 Front St Phone 120

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile, Accident and Plate Glass
278 [illegible] St. Phone 1156-W

STOCKS & BONDS

BIGGAR AND CRAWFORD, MEMBERS of Toronto Stock Exchange. Phone 1736. F. H. Wills, branch manager. N5-1y

LEGAL

MALCOLM WRIGHT, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Etc. Office: Campbell St., Belleville.

T. Y. WILLS, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Etc. 15 Campbell St., Belleville. Telephone 74. m4-tf

PORTER, PAYNE AND ARNOTT, BARristers, Solicitors and Notaries Public. Chas. A. Payne, K.C. B. D. Arnott. Offices: 219 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

PONTON AND GRAHAM, BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Commissioners. Office: 28 Bridge St. East. Solicitors, Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages. W. N. Ponton, K.C. R. J. E. Graham. Office: Belleville.

DONNAN AND BUTLER, B. C. Donnan, K.C., E. O. Butler, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public and Commissioners. Offices: Court House Building, Belleville, Ont. Phone 238.

WALLBRIDGE, CAMERON AND CO. (Successors to the late F. E. Wallbridge). Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries. Money to loan. Dominion Bank Building, corner Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ontario.

$15.00
PER MONTH
Comfortable House on West Bridge Street
To-Let
APRIL 1ST.
3 Bed rooms; Living room; Dining Room; Kitchen; Garage; Excellent Garden.
Reliable Tenant Only

Belleville Locators
GEO. N. GORMAN, PROP.
166 Front Street
Phone 90 House Phone 687

BUY NOW! AND MAKE WORK

PHONE 99
Classified Ad. Rates

SOCIAL NOTICES—Births, 50c; Marriages and Engagement Notices, $1.00; Deaths and Funeral Notices, $1.00; In Memoriam, $1.00; Memoriam Poetry, minimum charge, $1.00 for 10 lines, over that 10c per count line; Ladies' Receiving Announcements, minimum charge, 75c.

CLASSIFIED — (For Sale, Wanted, Etc.)—1½c per word each for first TWO insertions, subsequent insertions 1c per word, minimum 20 words.

COMING EVENTS—75c per insertion for 25 words or under, over that amount 3c per word.

PROFESSIONAL, LEGAL AND BUSINESS CARDS (Yearly Contract)—$3.00 per month per inch.

OFFICIAL, MUNICIPAL AND GOVERNMENT NOTICES (including those concerning Legal Sales)—15c per agate line (14 lines to inch) for first insertion; 10c per line for subsequent insertions.

AUCTION SALE—3c per word, heading to count as 12 words minimum 25 words for 75c; consecutive insertions, 3c per word.

An initial or figure counts as one word.

In estimating allow five words to the line.

Telephone your Want Ads when it is more convenient. PHONE 99.

The Ontario Intelligencer will not be responsible for more than one insertion of an incorrect ad. Phone us if it is wrong.

Advertisers may have their replies addressed to Box Number care of the Ontario Intelligencer.

WANTED

EMPLOYMENT WANTED BY MAN with twenty years accounting experience. Small or large business. Offers ability and experience for moderate salary. Box "J" Ontario Intelligencer. M26-3t

MIDDLE AGED LADY DESIRES POSItion as housekeeper in good home. Would prefer taking full charge. Box "B" Ontario Intelligencer. M26-1t

ROOMS FURNISHED SUITABLE FOR light housekeeping near Front and Bridge. Box "Z" Ontario Intelligencer. M26-1t

BY MAY 1—SMALL HOUSE OR APARTment, no children, rent must be reasonable. Apply stating terms and full particulars to Box "S" Ontario Intelligencer. M26-3t

BOY AGED 16 YEARS—MUST BE WILling to work to learn trade. Apply Stan. W. Wilbur. M26-1t

WANTED TO BUY WALNUT WARDrobe. Must be reasonably priced. Write stating particulars Box "F" Ontario Intelligencer. M25-3t

COUPLE REQUIRE FOUR ROOMED heated apartment, small bungalow or house, city or limits, reasonable. Box "H" Ontario Intelligencer. M25-3t

TO RENT OR BUY A SMALL HOUSE or cottage with all conveniences, good condition and location. Write Box "V" Ontario Intelligencer. M25-2t

REFINED WIDOW, LONELY, WISHES to correspond with good living man over 65 with some means. Strictly confidential. Write Box "F" Ontario Intelligencer. M23-3t

FOR SALE

ONE 6-PIECE BREAKFAST SUITE, ONE drop leaf table. Apply 305 Charles St. M25-3t

HAY FOR SALE. APPLY D. POPE, Corbyville. Phone 320-13. M26-1t

1929 CHEVROLET ½-TON BREAD truck in good condition. W. J. Blair, corner Dundas and Scott, Trenton. M26-1t

$225.00 CASH BUYS SMALL WOODworking establishment complete with band saw, lathe, drills, etc. Has business connection. Owner leaving city. Occupation April 15, 1935. Apply 166 George street. M26-3t

QUANTITY OF TIMBER AND RAFTers from barn 30 x 50. One new milch grade Jersey cow, 4 years old. Apply Harry Lott, Foxboro. M26 29

6 NORTH STRACHAN STREET — Estate of Mrs. Shappee: Apply W. G. Black, 166 William. M26-5t

TEAM SORREL MARES IN FOAL. Full sisters. 4 and 5 years old. Weighing 3200 pounds. Phone 2r4, Madoc. T. E. Fleming. M25-2t

TIMOTHY AND ALFALFA. APPLY John Ross, Corbyville, Route 1, Box 54. M25 28

ONE REPOSSESSED SEVEN-TUBE Westinghouse electric radio, $19.75. Apply Miles' Radio, 229 Front street, phone 1570. M25-3t

PEAS AND OATS CUT GREEN FOR feed; also straw and timothy hay. H. Brenton, Corbyville, phone 320r3. M25-2t

CABIN CRUISER—CAN BE SEEN AT Saunder's Marine Service, Belleville. Apply to Fred Croft, 153 West Moira street, phone 872-M. M21-6t

AUCTION SALE

High class Horses, Cattle and good farm machinery. Property of George Hadrill, Lot 17, Concession 2, Sidney Township, Thursday, March 28, at one o'clock.
G. W. ARNOTT, Auctioneer, Frankford.
M25-2t

PERSONAL

BANISH TIREDNESS AND NERVOUSness by the use of Kipp's Unequalled Herb Tablets — 25 cents at Dolan the Druggist, phone 138. M26-1t

LOST

ON MONDAY BY WORKING GIRL—two five dollar bills, probably on Front street. Finder kindly leave at this office. Reward. M26-1t

READ
Before You
BUY!

TICKELL & BROWNE
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
We Serve for Less
FUNERAL HOME
Corner Church St. and Victoria Ave. Phone 2285

Thomas O. Thompson
Funeral Director
Funeral Home
33 Everett St. Phone 62
Office
223 Front St. Phone 62

BELLEVILLE BURIAL COMPANY
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
27 Campbell St.
Phone 774-W Day and Night
J. W. IMLAH
Proprietor
Mausoleum Crypts For Sale

SPECIAL SALE
Used Tires, all sizes, $2.00 up
USED TIRE SHOP
391½ Front Street
Opposite Upper Bridge

TO LET

THREE ROOMS, HEATED AND FURnished for light house-keeping. All conveniences. Apply 176 Foster Ave. M26-TF

GOOD NINE ROOM BRICK HOUSE, 306 Bleecker, all modern conveniences. Apply 5 Yeomans street or phone 541-M. M25-3t

208 GEORGE STREET — 8 ROOMS, conveniences except furnace, double garage. Possession April 1. Apply W. J. Hall, 278 Front street, phone 1154w. M14-TF

FOR SALE OR TOLET

NEW HOUSE, 217 BLEECKER AVENUE —all conveniences. Possession May 1. Apply O. D. Clapp, 83 E. Moira. M23-3t

NOTICE TO CREDITORS AND OTHERS

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF CATHERINE AURELIA VERMILYEA, late of the City of Belleville in the County of Hastings, Widow, deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN pursuant to the Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1927, Chapter 150, Section 51, that all creditors and others having claims against the estate of Catherine Aurelia Vermilyea, late of the City of Belleville in the County of Hastings, who died on or about the fifth day of October, 1934, are requested to forward their claims, duly proven, to the undersigned, on or before the 19th day of April, 1935.

AND NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that after the said date the executor will proceed to distribute the estate, among the parties entitled thereto having regard only to such claims of which he shall then have notice.

DATED at Belleville this 18th day of March, 1935.

Wallbridge, Cameron & Company,
Barristers &c.,
Belleville, Ontario.
Solicitors for the Executor.
M19 26 A2

PUBLIC AUCTION SALE

Sale of registered Ayrshire cattle, horses, sheep and farm implements, etc. at Kervyn Farm, 2½ miles south of Madoc Village, on Thursday, March 28, at one o'clock. Terms of sale, cash.
HENRY WALLACE, Auctioneer.
M19 21 23 26

Goering and Fiancee

In brilliant evening attire, Hermann Goering, Prussian Minister, head of Germany's air fleet is pictured at a Berlin theatre with his fiancee, Frau Emmy Sonnemann, a well known German actress. No date has been announced for the wedding as yet.

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL

"Wonder Bar"

Stars, Spectacles and Music in Request Feature, Wednesday Night Only

"Wonder Bar", surpassing all other musical dramas in stars, music and spectacular dance numbers comes to the Capitol Theatre Tomorrow night for a one-day return engagement.

"Wonder Bar" is so vastly different from anything that has gone before it that there is no means of comparison. It surpasses its predecessors not only in its uniqueness and novelty, but in the beauty and grandeur of its spectacle and its throbbing drama of life.

And what a cast! Six brilliant stars, with a dozen featured players to say nothing of five hundred other performers. Jolson has his old stage role which he enacts with all of his old time fire and enthusiasm as one of the world's greatest entertainers. He sings two catchy new songs in English and a Russian gypsy melody, as well as acting as master of ceremonies at the gay Parisian night club where the drama is set.

Kay Francis is stately and charming as the somewhat flirtatious wife of a wealthy banker who has lost her head over a cabaret singer. Dolores Del Rio, the magnetic brunette and the dashing Ricardo Cortez make an excellent team as the dancing marvels of "Wonder Bar" cabaret, whose fiery and impassioned last performance of the newly invented "Gaucho" dance ends in the stabbing of her lover.

Dick Powell sings as engagingly as always, as well as giving an excellent performance as an orchestra leader and the rival lover for the beautiful Del Rio. Hal LeRoy, the famous stage star, performs one of his wizard dances that takes the house.

Other notable performers in the cast include Guy Kibbee, Hugh Herbert, Louise Fazenda, Ruth Donnelley, Fifi d'Orsay, Henry O'Neill, Robert Barrat, Merna Kennedy and Henry Kolker, all of whom do excellent work.

Added Featurettes

"Salt Water Daffy", a wave of hilarity, a single reel Band Number under the direction of Isham Jones and Movie Memories will be shown in connection with the feature presentation.

Complete shows 7.10: 9.15: Owing to the cooking school there will be no matinee performance of this feature.

Tonight Only

"Blind Date", a humorous and dramatic story with Ann Sothern and Neil Hamilton.

AT THE BELLE

"After Office Hours"

Clark Gable, Constance Bennett in Comedy-Drama

Clark Gable and Constance Bennett are co-starred for the first time in "After Office Hours", the new Metro-Goldwyn Mayer production which opens Tomorrow (Wednesday), for three days, at the Belle Theatre. Both ranking stars and both adept at dramatic and light comedy characterizations, the team's initial appearance is being launched with great enthusiasm.

Fans will remember that Gable scored one of his earliest triumphs in the Bennett picture, "The Easiest Way". They appear together for the first time since then in the new film, Gable having risen meantime to topmost stardom. His latest picture was with Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery in "Forsaking All Others".

Always Gets His Story

In a lusty comedy-drama of New York society, the press and a murder, Gable is cast as Branch, managing editor who always gets his story though it may mean resorting to the methods of the Northwest Mounted.

Constance Bennett is Sharon, the publisher's niece and Branch's society reporter. Rich, smart and independent, it is the kind of role on which the star has built her fame.

Alternating between Park Avenue Park Row and a boathouse on Long Island Sound, where the murder is committed, the story deals with the attempt of the managing editor to uproot an imminent society scandal. He uses his socialite reporter as a wedge to enter forbidden sanctums, until she scents the ruse and rebels. When the scandal turns into a murder story, realistic drama enters.

In the important role of Bannister, Harvey Stephens, rising young "discovery", continues the good work he began with William Powell and Myrna Loy in "Evelyn Prentice".

As Mrs. Nancott, Sharon's mother, Billie Burke is given ample opportunity to play the kind of jittery, absent-minded society matron characterization in which she excels.

Stuart Erwin brings all his talent of open-mouthed comedy to play in the role of Parr, gum-chewing photographer for Branch, who is led a dizzying pace by his chief's swift maneuverings.

As Neurotic Wife

Katherine Alexander, the stage star who recently appeared as Henrietta in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street", plays a role of straight drama as Mrs. Bannister, neurotic millionaire wife of a dissipated husband.

Henry Travers, Hale Hamilton, Henry Armetta, Charles Richman and Herbert Bunston are seen in important roles.

Miss Bennett's gowns, eighteen complete changes in all, were executed by Adrian, designer par excellence.

Excellent Featurettes

Joe Cook and a cast of star funmakers will be seen in an uproarious comedy, "Mr. Widget", "Million Dollar Notes", a smart and tuneful revue, and a springtime novelette "Keep in Style" and Edwin C. Hill introducing the Belle Latest and important World News events completes an excellent varied program of short treats.

"Ruggles of Red Gap"

Charles Laughton, universally recognized as one of the greatest actors of stage and screen, plays his first motion picture comedy part in the title role of Paramount's "Ruggles of Red Gap" to be presented at the Belle Tonight for the last times. Mary Boland, Charlie Ruggles, ZaSu Pitts and Roland Young appear with Laughton in "Ruggles of Red Gap".

Merchants and Manufacturers Who are Co-operating in the Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School

Beatty Bros. Ltd.	Beatty Washer and Ironer
Bell Telephone Co. of Cnada	Extension Telephones
Belleville Hydro Electric System	Moffat Electric Ranges
Big "A" Company, Ltd	Stewart Warner Radio
Blue's Marketeria	Groceries and Meats
Canadian Department Stores	Curtains and Drapes
Canadian Industries, Ltd.	Cilux "Quick-Drying" Enamel
E. F. Dickens and Son	Ice Cream
Dolan the Druggist	Cosmetics
Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.	Bokar, Red Circle and Eight O'clock Coffee
International Fibre Board, Ltd.	Ten Test
Lever Brothers, Limited	Rinso, Lux and Lux Toilet Soap
Mackenzie and Co.	Ladies' Favorite Pastry Flour and Five Roses Flaur
Angus McFee	Oneida Silverware
McIntosh Bros.	Linens
J. A. McNabb	Ladies' Ready-to-Wear and Style Show
Montrose Dairy	Milk and Cream
Modern Dry Cleaners	Dry Cleaning
Naborhood Shoe Store	M. W. Locke Shoes
Purity Bakery	Purity Bread
Dorothy F. Quick	Flowers
Radio and Refrigeration Shop	Frigidaire
Reckitts (Oversea) Limited	Keen's Mustard and Brock's Bird Seed and Gravel
Standard Brands, Limited	Magic Baking Powder
Geo. Thompson Furniture Store	Kitchen and Dining Room Furniture
Stroud's Variety Store	China and Glassware
Frigidaire-Thor Sales and Service	Frigidaire
Walker Hardware Co. Ltd.	Wear Ever Aluminum and Kitchenware
Woodley's Furriers	Millinery

LONG LIST OF PRIZES FOR LADIES AT COOKING SCHOOL

Daily Prizes, Door Prizes Baskets of Groceries Besides Major Prizes

In addition to the Major Prizes to be given away at the Ontario Intelligencer DeBoth Homemakers and Cooking School beginning Tuesday the following prizes will be given:

Door Prizes — Ten-Test teapot Stands (Tuesday and Friday) donated by the International Fibre Board Limited.

Daily Gifts

Cilux Finish Sewing Cabinet, donated by Canadian Industries Limited.

Twenty-four (24) pound sack Ladies Favourite Pastry Flour, donated by MacKenzie and Co.

Twenty-four (24) pound sack Five Roses Flour donated by MacKenzie and Co.

Bouquet of Flowers, donated by Dorothy F. Quick, Florist.

Twenty-five Baskets of Household Necessities, Groceries, etc., containing:

Cilux Enamel, donated by Canadian Industries Limited.

Bokar Coffee, donated by The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co.

Magic Baking Powder, Magic Cook Books, donated by Standard Brands Limited.

Rinso, Lux, Lux Toilet Soap, donated by Lever Bros. Ltd.

Vi-Co Chocolate Drink, donated by the Montrose Dairy.

Keen's Mustard, Brock's Bird Seed Silvo, donated by Reckitts (overseas) Ltd.

Large Orange, donated by Blue's Marketeria.

Purity Bread, donated by Purity Bakery.

SISCOE IS FOUND FROZEN TO DEATH

Pilot, Capt. Wrathall Discovered Alive But Exhausted

Senneterre, Que., March 26—(CP)—A Canadian Airways plane piloted by S. J. McRorie flew into Senneterre today with the frozen body of Stanley Siscoe, Canadian Mining executive. Siscoe was found dead by McRorie today after being missing for a week on an aerial prospecting trip into the Quebec north woods.

Tommy Wrathall, his pilot, was found yesterday alive and well, five miles from where his plane had been forced down on Lake Matchimanitou, twenty-five miles from Senneterre. Siscoe was found two and one-half miles from the plane in another direction.

The body of Siscoe, President of the Siscoe Extension Gold Mines, President of the Stanley Gold Mines and a director of Siscoe Gold Mines, will be flown to Montreal later today as soon as the district coroner gives the necessary permission.

Forced down on Lake Matchimanitou a week ago today by a snowstorm, Wrathall and Siscoe were unable to take off because of engine trouble. When their provisions ran low Siscoe determined to set out to seek help. Wrathall now resting at a hotel here, said despite his protests Siscoe trudged away Sunday.

MRS. THOMAS BROWN

On Monday, March 25th, Lucinda M. Covell, wife of Thomas Brown, late of Brighton, Ont., passed away a tthe home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward Goff, Toronto, in her 87th year. Interment will be made at Brighton, on Thursday.

THE ADS ARE Part of
THE NEWS

Public Ownership Praised By Hydro Chairman, Lyon

T. Stewart Lyon Tells Why He Became Interested in Hydro

"The government should never have entered into so many contracts for power from Quebec because the principle of public ownership was not written into the contracts" said T. Stewart Lyon, Chairman of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario speaking to a large gathering of members of St. Andrew's Church Club augmented by many distinguished guests from all walks of civic life on Monday evening. Mr. Lyon spoke on the subject "Why I became interested in Hydro" and his informal talk was most entertaining and many points were cleared up, that has been a matter of discussion on this great enterprise. L. E. McLean, president of the club presided, while Arnold Thomson lead in the community singing with Professor Wheatley at the piano. The school orchestra under the direction of Professor Wheatley gave a number of selections, which were thoroughly enjoyed and demonstrated quite forcibly the talent, that is available in this city.

The speaker of the evening was introduced by George A. Reid, member of the local Hydro Commission and appreciation for the splendid address was expressed by Dr. O. A. Marshall. At the outset Mr. Lyon stated he had no desire for the office and it came quite unsolicited. "By accepting the important post I had to start life over again at 79 because I had retired from public life, but I accepted the job because I believed in the principle of public ownership and was heartily in accord with the work, that Sir Adam Beck had accomplished for Hydro in Ontario" said the speaker. "The Hydro enterprise in Ontario is the third greatest in the Dominion of Canada and it belongs to the people of the Province and the Hydro Commission is only the trustees for the people." Mr. Lyon related how he became interested in Hydro and Sir Adam Beck, stating, that while living in Scotland he was much displeased with the feudal system of holding land believing, that everyone should own his own and be independent to work out any idea.

Basing his address on the text in the bible "The land shall not be sold forever", Mr. Lyon showed that the Jews in Palestine knew more than the people of Scotland because they did not allow their lands to follow into private hands for gains, but the starting of Hydro in this Province followed the feudal system in that, private corporations were given contracts to supply power and I have been fighting, that principle all my life. I have been always in favor of holding the natural resources of the Province for the people. He traced the entry of Sir Adam Beck into the Hydro field and the securing of reversion ownership from private concerns and the starting of the great system.

Mr. Lyon stated, that the Niagara Falls was the greatest mill dam in the world and that falling water was the greatest force in nature. He illustrated the fact by stating, that a cubic foot of water falling 305 feet as it does at Niagara would supply heat for cooking for 30 families. The speaker told his listeners, that the light question was nearly solved but there was much to be done on Power and Heat. He explained, that by the electrolysis of water, the gases were being taken out and utilized for many purposes. "The Hydro" the speaker said "is trying to devise a method to get the full power of electricity as at the present time some of the power is wasted during the night hours. Mr. Lyon stated the Hydro was divided into four systems and all were working with one purpose in view to supply heat and electricity at the lowest possible cost. He covered the local situation, which was a repitition of his address at the Belleville Rotary Club and will be found in another column.

FURTHER MENTAL TEST IS SOUGHT

(Continued From Page 1)

different from that of California. Somehow, I believed it would be different," she said.

One other incident in her memory of her visit to this city will be the recollection of a feather bed furnished her in a local home the night of her arrival.

Mrs. Schorr stated when she arrived that she intended to stay two weeks. How she will return is "my own secret".

CLEANUP ROBBERIES

Brantford, Ont., March 26 (CP)—With the arrest of five men over the week end in Brantford and Brant County, police believe they have cleaned up a $200 robbery, that occurred March 9 at the store of L. C. Courtnage, Victoria Mills, Townsend Township.

ROEBUCK
ON HYDRO
CFRB—690 Kilocycles
TONIGHT 10.30 - 11 p.m.
M26-27-28-29

RADIO PROGRAMS

TUESDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club.
11 00—Galaxy of Stars—NBC
11.30—U. S. Marine Band—WJZ
1.15—Radio Gossip Club—WGR
1.30—Music Guild—WEAF
1.30—Rex Battle's Orch.—CRCT
2.15—"Patience"—WJZ
3.00—Columbia Variety Hour —WABC
4.00—Betty and Bob—WJZ
4.45— Dick Messner's Orch. —WABC
5.30—Singing Lady—WJZ
6.15—Midweek Hymn Sing—WEAF
6.30—News; Jim Hunter—WGR
7.00—Myrt and Marge—WABC
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.15—Morton Downey—WJZ
7.30—Hits and Bits—WJZ
7.30—Easy Aces—WEAF
8.30—Musical Memories—WJZ
8.00—Leo Reisman's Orch.—WEAF
8.00—"Lavender and Old Lace"—WGR
8.00—Crime Clues—WJZ
8.00—Borah Minnevitch's Rascals —WOR
8.30—Wayne King—WEAF
8.30—Melodiana—WABC
8.30—Musical Memories—WJZ
9.00—Grace Moore soprano—WJZ
9.00—Ben Bernie, Phil Baker, —WEAF
9.00—Bing Crosby, baritone; WABC CFRB
9.30—Ed Wynn, Graham McNamee, Eddy Duchin's Orch —WEAF
9.30—Isham Jones Orch., guest stars—WABC
9.30—Cleveland Orch.—WJZ
10.00—Glen Gray's Orch.—WABO
10.00—Beauty Box Theatre; Operetta; Nat. Shilkret's Orch.—WEAF; CRCT; WLW
10.30—Captain Dobbsie's Ship of Joy—WABC
11.45—Jan Garber's Orch.—WGN

WEDNESDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ
11.30—Army Band—WJZ
1.15—Radio Gossip Club—WGR
2.00—Two Seats in the Balcony—WEAF
2.00—Radio City Matinee — Enric Madriguera's Orch. and Jan Garber's Orch—WJZ
3.00—Kate Smith's Matinee Hour —WABC
4.00—Betty and Bob, drama—WJZ
4.30—Rochester Civic Orch.—WJZ
6.30—Jim Hunter, News—CFRB
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.00—Myrt and Marge—WABC
7.15—Plantation Echoes—WJZ
7.15—Stories of the Black Chamber —WEAF
7.30—Red Davis, sketch—WJZ
7.45—Dangerous Paradise, sketch —WJZ
8.00—Mary Pickford and Co.—CRCT
8.00—"Voice of the Front Page"—CFRB
8.00—Penthouse Party—WJZ
8.00—Diane and Her Life Saver—WABC
8.15—Edwin C. Hill, news—WABC
8.30—Broadway Varieties—WABC
8.30—Wayne King's Orchestra—WEAF; WTAM
8.30—Lanny Ross, tenor, Orch.—WJZ
8.30—Opening Nights—CRCT
9.00—Warden Lewis E. Lawes in 20,000 Years in Sing Sing—WJZ
9.00—Fred Allan's Revue—WEAF
9.00—Andre Kostelanetz Orch.—WABC
9.30—Adventures of Gracie—WABC
9.30—John McCormick, tenor —WJZ.
9.45—Jan Garber—WGN
10.00—Pleasure Island; Guy Lom bardo's Orch., Ricardo Cor tez, narrator—WEAF
10.00—Jack Pearl—WABC
10.30—Ray Noble's Orch.—WEA
10.30—Concert Hall—WABC
11.00—Four Aces of Contract Bridg WABC
11.30—Ink Spots—WJZ
12.00—Art Jarrett's Orch.—WEA

Be Sure

To have your Auto Insurance re-instated before taking out your car this Spring. If you have no insurance, do not take further chances of serious loss. All that is necessary in either case, or in the event of you changing your car, is to telephone us (1364). We will immediately protect you and get full particulars later. This is part of our service.

JAMIESON BONE & CO.
INSURANCE INVESTMENTS

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 26—(CP)—The main action on the industrial section of the Toronto Exchange in today's morning session was centred in International Nickel whose annual meeting was scheduled for this afternoon. The price moved up 1-4 to 24 with the stock changing hands in large blocks. The general market tone was soft and trade was distinctly slow, Ford A and Brazilian being the only other issues to trade in volume.

Brazilian at 9 1-2 was up 3-4. One sale of 1,000 shares went over the tape. Ford A held at 28 for a loss of 1-4 and C. P. R. gained 1-8. Trade in the liquor stocks dwindled to a few small sales in each. Distillers Seagrams at 16 1-4 was off 1-8 while Industrial Alcohol A lost 1-4 and Walkers Common remained unchanged at 27 1-2. The brewery group was slow and unchanged.

Oils appeared in the trade in a wide range but the aggregate volume was small. British American and McColl weakened slightly. International Pete gai-ed 18 and the others were steady.

In the foods International Milling Pfd was a strong spot. The price advanced 1 3-4 and other advances in the group were 1-8 to 1-4 for Consolidated Bakeries. Loblaw A and National Grocers.

Steels displayed more strength than weakness as did also the banks and in the miscellaneous group Russell Motors, Torono Elevators and Super Silk were higher against lower prices for photo Engravers, Simpsons Pfd, F. N. Burt, Moore Corporation and Beatty Pfd.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, March 26—(CP)— Silver stocks provided the chief action on the mining section of the Toronto Exchange today stimulated by another sharp advance in the price of metal. The London price advanced a penny. Some of the cheap silver stocks that have been almost dormant for months stirred into action Senior golds were out of the picture and the medium-price issues moved sluggishly.

Price gains in the silvers included 4 cents to 72 for Castiet-Trethowey, 4 cents for Eldorado to 1.29, 2 cents for Bear Exploration to 18 1-2, 1-2 for White Eagle to 4 1-2 and 2 cents for Dominion Explorers to 8 1-2. Nipissing and Premier were steady and slow.

The big gold traded quietly and at small price recessions. Wright Hargreaves was off 15 cents, Teck Hughes 3, Hollinger 15 cents and Pioneer 25 cents. Lake Shore improved 5 cents. Several of the medium price issues trailed along on the down side. Little Long Lac dropping 10 cents, Buffalo-Ankerite 10. God's Lake 3, San Antonio 4 and Sylvanite 4.

In the penny group Chibougumau met with some profit-taking and it weakened a fraction and slightly lower prices ruled also for Wayside, McVittie and Sullivan.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, March 26—(AP)— Financial markets received encouragement from leading commodities today but stocks and bonds gave an indifferent performance.

Among Canadian stocks, McIntyre and Dome were a trifle lower while International Nickel and Canadian Pacific held about even. On the curb Lake Shore and Hiram Walker ruled steady. Dominion government 4s improved slightly. Montreal funds were off 1-32 of a cent at 99 3-16 cents.

Active shares leaning to the offside included American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, New York Central, U. S. Steel, American Can., Du Pont, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Chrysler, American Tobacco and Spiegel-May-Stern.

Bethlehem Steel parted company with its usual running mates and joined such sugars and metals as Cerr de Pasco U.S. Smelting Cuban American Sugar Preferred and American Crystal Preferred in modest advances.

Grain Markets

Closing quotations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co, today:

	High	Low	Close
Wheat—
May	84 3-4	84 3-8	84 5-8
July	84 1-8	83 5-8	83 7-8
Oats—
May	39	38 3-4	39
July	38 3-4	38 1-2	38 3-4
Barley—
May	45 3-8	45	45 1-8
July	46 1-8	45 7-8	4 7-8

SENTENCED TO PENITENTIARY

Niagara Falls, Ont., March 26.—Harold Bell of St. Catharines today was sentenced to two and a half years in Kingston Penitentiary on each of 14 charges of house-breaking and burglary. Sentences will run concurrently.

Stock Markets

Quotations furnished by Biggar and Crawford, P. H. Wills, branch manager. Quotations at 2.00 p.m.

MINES

Ashley 16B
Ajax 90
Acme 21 1-2
Breth Treth 2 1-8B
Barry Hollinger 5 3-4
Base Metals 56 1-4
Bobjo 26B
Big Missouri 42B
Bradian 170
Bagamac 7 1-8
Bralorne 865B
Castle Treth 70
Goniaurum 210
Central Pat 145B
Coast Copper 145B
Dome 3900B
Dominion Explor 23
Eldorado 129
Falconbridge 370B
God's Lake 134
Goldale 14
Granada 36 1-4B
Greene Stab 27
Hollinger 1700B
Halcrow 3 1-2B
Home Oil 57
Hudsons Bay 1295
Howey 96
Inter Nckel 24 1-8
Kirkland Lake 50
Kirk Townsite 24
Lake Shore 5610
Little Long Lac 560
Macassa 215
Malartic 62B
Maple Leaf 8
McIntyre 4375B
McLeod River 1 1-4B
McKenzie 120
McWaters 174
McVittie 23
Nipissing 227
Noranda 3440B
Pioneer 1000B
Parkhill 23 1-2
Premier 161B
Reade Auth 75B
Reno 147
St. Anthony 24 1-2
Sherritt 51
Siscoe 299
San Antonio 410B
Stadacona 26
Sudbury Basin 128B
Sylvanite 239
Teck Hughes 415
Ventures 86B
Wayside 18 1-2
Waite Amulet 60B
Wright Hargreaves 915
Pickle Crow 272
Paymaster 17

TORONTO

Bell Telephone 129 1-2.
B. A. Oil 14 7-8.
Brewing Corp. 3 1-8B.
Braz. Trac. 9 1-2.
Can. Bud Brewery 7 3-4.
Can. Cement 6.
Can. Dredge 19 1-2B.
Can. Ind. Alcohol 8 7-8.
C.P.R. 9 3-4.
Can. Malting 30 1-2.
Can. Vinegar 26 1-2B.
Canada Car 6 1-8B.
Cons. Bakeries 13 1-4.
Con. Smelting 132.
Dominion Stores 8 7-8.
Dist. Seagrams 16 1-4.
Ford "A" 27 7-8B.
Gypsum 5 1-4B.
Goodyear 128 3-4.
Imp. Oil 16 1-8.
Inter. Pet. 30 1-4.
Imp. Tobacco 12.
Loblaw 18. 1-2.
Massey Harris 4.
Mont. Power 29 1-4.
McColl-Frontenac 14B.
Power Corp. 7 1-2.
Steel of Canada 44 1-2B.
Supertest 22 3-4B.
Shawinigan 16 1-8B.
Walker's 27 1-4.
Walker's Pfd. 18B.
Walkerville Brewery 3 1-4B.

NEW YORK

American Can. 114 1-4.
American T. and T. 101 7-8.
Amer. For. Power 2 7-8.
Anaconda 10.
Auburn 16 5-8B.
Case 48 3-4.
Chrysler 33 3-8.
General Motors 27 7-8.
Elec. Auto Lite 20 3-8.
Inter. Telephone 6 3-4.
North American 11 1-2.
Montgomery Ward 23 3-8.
Phillips Pet. 15 3-8.
Radio 4 1-2.
Standard Oil of N.J. 37 1-4.
Standard Brands 14 3-4.
Stewart-Warner 7 1-4.
U.S. Smelters 116 3-4.
U.S. Steel 29.
Vanadium 14 5-8.
Westinghouse 35.

UNLISTED MINES

Unlisted mines furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co. today.

Afton 55-8
Ardeen 4-7
Bankfield 83-6
Bathurst 3½-4½
Bousquet 30-32
Can Pandora 5-6
Casey Cont 32½-35
Dunlop Cons 1-1½
El Bonanza 11½-13½
Forty Four 1025-1150
Gabrielle 38-43
Glenora 4½-5½
Gold Eagle 37-40
Gt. Bear Lake 41-4
Hardrock 70S
Units 4900-5300
Johnson Nip 6¼-7¼
Lafayette 6¼-7½
Lamaque 135B
Lagoon 12-14
McLeod 5½-7
Magnet 10-12
Matachewan 13-15
Mosher 4-6
Murwood 25S
North Shores 5½-6½
Oklend 35-8
Red Lake 31-3
Rice Lake 4-5
Springer Sturgeon 13-15
Smelters 13½-15
Sigma 150S

Produce Markets

By United Farmers Co-Operative Company)

Toronto. — Wholesale prices on product delivered at Toronto as supplied by the United Farmers Co-operative Co. here to-day were:

Buying Prices

Eggs—
Grade A, large doz	.16
Grade A, medium, doz	.15
Grade A, pullets, doz.	.15
Grade B, doz.	.14
Grade C, doz.	.13
Butter—
Ontario No. 1, Creamery, lb	.23
Ontario, No. 2, Creamery, lb.	.22½
Churning Cream—
No. 1, lb.	.23
No. 2, lb.	.21

(F.O.B. shipping point)
Poultry

	Live "A"	Dressed "A"	Dressed Milkfed "A"
Hens—
Over 5 lbs.	.11	.14
4 to 5 lbs.	.10	.13
3 to 4 lbs.	.08	.11
Old roosters	.06	.08	..
Spring Chickens—
5½ to 6 lbs.	.12	.16	.18
5 to 5½ lbs.	.11	.15	.17
4½ to 5 lbs.	.10	.14	.16
Under 4½ lbs.	.09	.13	.15
Broilers—
1¾ to 2½ lbs.	.11	.15	.17

Selling Prices

United Farmers Co-Operative Co. today were offering products to retail dealers at the following prices:

Eggs—
Grade A large, loose, doz.	.21
Grade A, medium, doz.	.19
Grade B, medium, doz.	.18
Grade C, doz.	.17
Butter—
No. 1, Creamery, prints	.26
No. 2, Creamery, prints	.25½

Hay and Straw

No. 2 timothy hay, baled ton, $15.50 to $16.50; No. 3 timothy hay, ton, $13.00 to $14.00; straw, wheat, baled, ton, $10.00; oats straw, $8.50 to $9.50.

Clover Seeds Prices

Following are the prices for clover seed, in the dirt, to the farmer, f.o.b. at shipping point, according to quality: Red clover, $12 per bushel; alsike. $12 to $13; alfalfa. $9 to $10.

Graded Egg Prices

Toronto dealers today were paying the following nominal prices for graded eggs, cases free:

Grade A, medium, doz	.17
Grade A, large, doz.	.18
"A" pullets, doz.	.15

Fruit, Vegetable Prices

(By F. G. Lister and Co., Toronto)

Fruits (Domestic)—
Apples, cooking, hamper	1.25	1.50
Vegetables (Domestic)—
Carrots, bag	.35	.40
Mushrooms, lb.	.30
Onions, 100 lbs.	1.75	2.00
Ontario Potatoes	.60
Turnips, bag	.40

Dressed Meat Prices

Toronto. — Wholesale dealers are quoting the following prices to the trade for dressed meats:

Beef forequarters cwt	$ 6.00 to	$ 9.00
Do., hindquarters	12.00	15.00
Abattoir hogs, cwt.	13.00	14.00
Heavy hogs, cwt.	9.00	10.00
Lambs, cwt	13.00	15.00

Obituary

HENRIETTA BOGART NIBLOCK

After a lingering illness, Mrs. Henrietta Bogart Niblock, of 226 John Street, this city, and one of Belleville's best known and most respected elderly residents passed away at her residence, John Street, on Tuesday, March 26. She was in her ninetieth year.

The late Mrs. Niblock was born in this city, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. Bogart, former well-known residents. She was a widow of the late Thomas Niblock, who predeceased her several years ago. For some time Mr. and Mrs. Niblock had resided in Denver, Colorado, but for the past twenty years she had been a continuous resident of this city.

Mrs. Niblock is survived by one daughter, Miss Bessie Niblock, at home, and by one son, Geo. Bogart Niblock of Los Angeles, California.

A well-known member of St. Thomas' Church of this city, Mrs. Niblock was active in all phases of church work and charitable missions.

The funeral notice will appear later.

NOVELIST, M.P. AND PUBLICIST

(Continued From Page 1)

the Scottish churches described the union as "unconstitutional, impracticable, illogical and absolutely idiotic, but I hae no doot is God's will."

And a Presbyteian Divine referred to Fielding's outspoken novel Tom Jones as "grand stuff for taking the taste of the Apostles out of your mouth."

Belleville Corby Public Library is well supplied with works of John Buchan, who is expected to be the next Governor-General of Canada, according to Miss M. White, librarian, the following works of Buchan are in the Library:—

Novels

The Blanket of the Dark.
Castle Gay.
The Courts of the Morning.
The Dancing Floor.
The Free Fishers.
The Gap in the Curtain.
Greenmantle
Hunting Tower
John McNab
Midwinter
Mr. Standfast
The Path of the King
Prester John.
A Prince of the Captivity
The Runagate Club
Salute to Adventurers.
The Three Hostages
Witchwood

Juvenile

Book of Escapes and Hurried Journeys.
A Lodge in the wilderness.
Magic Walking-Stick
Sir Walter Raleigh
Thirty-nine Steps.

Other Works

British America; The Nations of today; A New History of the World. 1923.
Great Hours in Sport. 1921.
The Last Secrets: The Final Mysteries of Exploration. 1923.
Lord Minto: a Memoir. 1924.
The Marquis of Montrose. 1913
Sir Walter Scott. 1932.
Oliver Cromwell. (At present on order for the Library.)
Editor: The Teaching of History Series.

A. & P. COFFEE USED AT SCHOOL

Concentrating its 75 years of experience as coffee merchants on the problem of coffee freshness, the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company has made important discoveries on the question of coffee freshness.

In the laboratories of its affiliated company, the American Coffee Corporation, the white-frocked scientific men have made a series of important tests which have disclosed many interesting things about coffee. In particular, they have discovered and proved that there is a vast difference between the natural freshness of coffee as compared with preserved freshness. By natural freshness of coffee is meant coffees which are roasted one day, sold to customers within a short period thereafter and not packed in special and expensive containers to preserve their freshness.

According to scientists, there is as much difference between natural freshness and preserved freshness in coffees as there is between fresh fruits and canned fruits. As produced by nature, the flavor and goodness of coffee are sealed in the bean by a protective outer coating just as the flavor and goodness of the orange are sealed by its protective skin.

Grinding releases the natural oil, fragrance and strength of the coffee bean, and even special containers cannot entirely preserve these elements for the consumer. A. and P.'s scientists insist that really fresh coffee is sold in the bean and ground in the presence of the customer when she is ready to take it home, and not before. In this way, say A. and P.'s experts, really fresh coffee can be delivered to the customer. A. and P. Coffee Service is planned to meet all tastes. No one blend suits everybody. The three blends developed by A. and P. are planned to suit practically every taste. They vary in price, but they are equal in quality and goodness. Some of the coffees used are rarer and cost more—but they are not any better for the extra cost; they are necessary to make the distinctive flavor of each blend.

Eight O'Clock, Red Circle and Bokar are not three grades of coffee —they are all of superior quality, they differ only in flavor. Eight O'Clock is mild and mellow—blended for those who like the delicate, flavorful coffee. Red Circle is a blend made particularly for those who want a coffee with a rich, full-bodied flavor. Bokar is a blend of specially selected coffees, with an unusually exquisite aroma and flavor.

WOMAN REACHES MAINLAND

Kingston, Ont, March 26.—(CP) On the mainland for the first time since late in the fall, Mrs. Clifford Ackerman and her two children reached Point Traverse, on the eastern end of Prince Edward County on Sunday.

Lightkeeper W. E. Thomas and Assistant Tender Percy Robinson made a trip from Point Traverse to the Main Duck Island where the Ackermans had wintered, a distance of 14 miles, in an open fish boat. They took Mrs. Ackerman and her two children from the Main Duck Island to Point Traverse while Mr. Ackerman remained on the island ing horses have no chance at the larger prizes.

Canadian Draws Golden Miller In Irish Sweep

(Continued From Page 1)

The Canadian drawers of horses were announced as follows:—Philatreo and Co, No. DL 10,256, on Jimmy James (Starter). At Last No. P. N. 58,633, on Theras (Starter). Springs Eternal, No. HH 18,311, on Reynoldstown (Starter). Gowk, No. DJ 15,481 on Blue Prince (Starter). Petitt, No. AN 10,375, on Golden Miller, (Starter). Philco No. BL 79,-102, on Red Park (Starter). Erdington, No. JK 71,067 on Uncle Batt (Starter. Office Boys, No. BZ 18,-600, on Emancipator (Starter). Who nows, No. AS 14,212 on Fouquet (Starter). Sticky Paws, Manitoba. No. HL 18,909, on' Emancipator. Flo, No. AP 10,410 on Red Park. Anton BX 23,986, On Koltoi (non-Starter). Good Luck for Three No. AH 14,379 on Princess Mir (Starter). Moon, No. CW 19,551 on Slater (Starter). Not a Chance, No. PA 25,086 on Bachelor Prince (Starter). Finny Face, No. PH 04,601 on Brave Cry, (Starter). White Heather, No. BX 80,021 on Noiseau (non-Starter). Once Again, No. AX 20,128 on Noisseau. Bert Ross, No. QM 49,200 on Tapinois (Starter).

MAYORS PLACE COST OF RELIEF ON FEDERAL GOV'T

(Continued From Page 1)

or worse in the larger centres.

Civic Income Taxes

Suggestion the Dominion Government should collect—through its well-oiled machinery—civic income taxes was made by Mayor H. E. Wilton, Hamilton, Ont. He believed returns from municipal income tax were not as large as they should be because citizens were not as afraid of not paying to their cities as to the Dominion government.

From Mayor James Simpson of Toronto came the statement "the Dominion Government is the most responsible unit in our National life and should, therefore, take full charge of the National problem which is relief."

Mayor Simpson squelched any thought the conference might have had of compromising on the relief situation by urging the Dominion and Provincial Governments share equally the entire cost of relief.

Municipal Government

Montreal, March 26 (CP)—Mayor Camillien Houde, of Montreal, lashed out today at the Mayoral Conference against those "who throw sones at municipal governments when their own houses are made of cracked glass."

"We Mayors have our thumbs on the pulse of the people," he said, "and that's something no financial buccaneer has ever experienced."

He warned "disorder is brewing" and it would probably be hastened by "newspaper campaigns which made us appear in a bad light we don't deserve."

Mayor Houde concluded by reiterating his belief relief was essentially a problem for the Dominion Government. "We are 100 per cent unanimous on that," he said.

Montreal, March 26 (CP) — A nationwide slum clearance scheme to give employment to thousands of Canadian jobless and bring a measure of stabilization to industry, was advocated before the Mayoral Conference today by Mayor Percy R. Carter.

PHONE 2380
For Snappy Shopping Service Free Delivery

Blue's Marketeria
Belleville's Largest Independent Market.

PHONE 2380
For Snappy Shopping Service Free Delivery

MEAT SPECIALS

Rib Veal Chops . . . . . lb. 18c
Pure Pork Sausage . . lb. 19c
Sliced Boiled Ham . . lb. 45c
Halibut Steak . . . lb. 20c

FRUIT DEPARTMENT

Ripe Bananas 3 lbs. for 23c
Blood Oranges . . . doz. 24c

GROCERY DEPARTMENT

4 tins Hand Packed Tomatoes 25c

FREE 1 Kit of Kellogg's Samples with 3 Kellogg's Cornflakes 25c FREE

White Comb Honey 2 for 29c

2 Kirk's Castile Soap FREE with 1 Large CHIPSO . . . 19c

1 Guest Size Ivory Soap FREE with 3 Cakes of IVORY at . . 14c

The Perfect Food—
MILK

"LET THE YOUNGSTERS AND THE ADULTS, TOO, DRINK
MONTROSE MILK

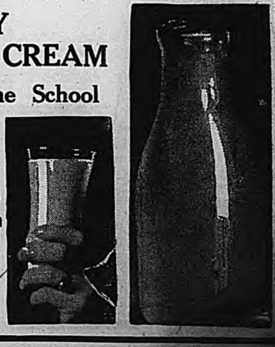
THIS RICH BODY-BUILDING FOOD HAS PRECIOUS HEALTH-GIVING POWERS."

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE HEARTILY ENDORSES THIS STATEMENT AT THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER'S HOMEMAKERS' SCHOOL THIS WEEK AND HAS PAID US THE VERY FINE COMPLIMENT OF CHOOSING

MONTROSE DAIRY MILK AND CREAM
For Her Use During the School

May We Urge You to Use It In Your Home!

MONTROSE DAIRY
PHONE 374



AFFILIATION PLAN IS EXPLAINED TO CHEESE PATRONS

Victoria Factory Patrons Hear Interesting Address

Tweed—An important meeting was held by the patrons of Victoria Cheese Factory on Friday night. The meeting was called to order by E. Bateman, President of the Victoria Cheese Co. Unfortunately there was not as large a representation of the patrons as was hoped for. The meeting was addressed by Mr. Jos. Wilson, B.S.A., Stirling, Agricultural Representative for the County of Hastings and Mr. R. E. Pyear of Sidney Township. They explained the advantages to be gained by linking Victoria Cheese Company with the Provincial Cheese Company with the Provincial Cheese Patrons Association, which will result in an increase of two cents a pound in the price received for all cheese manufactured by factories which become members of the Provincial Association. This movement is supported by the Provincial and Federal governments by which this subsidy of two cents a pound for cheese will be shared equally. This movement is province-wide in its scope. The meeting was arranged by Mr. Herb Bailey, Stirling, Dairy Inspector for Madoc district, who was unable to be present owing to a bereavement in the family.

Two young men, James Oliver, 24, and Millard Oliver, 18, of the township of Barrie were arrested last week by Detective W. A. Ramsay of the C.P.R. and Constable J. C. Hayes, of Tweed, charged with placing an obstruction on the C. P. R. tracks at Hungerford Station. They were arraigned before Magistrate Casement on Thursday, March 21st at Tweed and sentenced to serve one month each in the county jail at Belleville following admission of their guilt. It appears that they atempted to steal the hand-car on Saturday afternoon, but after placing it on the rails found it locked. They removed it partly from the rails, but left it in such a position that it was an obstruction which might have caused a serious accident. Fortunately it was discovered by the section gang who removed it before a train was due.

An interesting debate, the time-honored theme "Resolved that Country life is more beneficial than city life" was given by the pupils of the Fourth Classes of Tweed Consolidated School in their Friday afternoon session. The affirmative side, which was declared the winner was upheld by Gerald Luffman, Gladys McGuire, Barbara Barnett and Harry McCaw. The negative side was supported by Donald Bateman, Margaret Elliott, Helena Elliott and Everett Jones.

Bill Christie of Toronto, who is well known in Tweed as frequent visitor at the home of Mr. S. B. McGee was one of the stars of the athletic meet at the Maple Leaf Garden, Toronto, on Friday night. A crowd of 14,000 was on hand to witness the meet. Christie defeated the field in the 300 yd. invitation race in 33.4 seconds, equalling the time of the open race at the same distance in which several of the stars from the United States competed. Christie was also a member of the Toronto Achilles team which won the International "Swedish relay" defeating a team from Detroit University.

Mr. C. Ed Way represented Tweed Orange Lodge at the 59th annual convention of the Grand Black Chapter of the Royal Black Knights of Ireland in Ontario which was held in Trenton last week. He was elected as a member of the business committee.

SUNNY LIVING

starts at the table

How you feel and how you look depend largely on the foods you eat. The balanced menu provides the "bulk" to prevent common constipation — caused by lack of this essential fiber.

Common constipation frequently causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Yet, in most cases, it can be overcome pleasantly and safely by eating a delicious cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a natural food for normal individuals. It furnishes "bulk" in convenient and concentrated form. ALL-BRAN also provides vitamin B and iron.

Isn't this sunny way better than taking patent medicines? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If relief is not obtained, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Kellogg's
ALL-BRAN

Keep on the Sunny Side of Life

Adds Zest to the Meal

"SALADA" TEA

23

Mr. Harold W. Clark, manager of the local branch of Sebrile Stores, Ltd., for the past ten months has been notified of his transfer to the Picton store to replace Mr. Ray Bigham, formerly in charge of the Tweed branch, who has been transferred to Renfrew. This is a splendid move for Mr. Clark, as Tweed was his first store, and reflects credit on his managerial ability which his company is not slow to recognize and reward. Mr. and Mrs. Clark, who will leave on April 15th for Picton, have made many friends while in Tweed. Their departure is deeply regretted. They have taken an active interest in the Y.P.S. and choir of Tweed United Church. Mr. Clark will be succeeded by Mr. A. Leonard of Toronto.

Miss Marjorie Johnston of Fergus, a niece of Mrs. (Dr.) M. G. Dales of Tweed was successful in winning first place in the Intermediate 440 yard dash in a speed skating meet held at Galt recently. Skaters from Toronto, Buffalo and western Ontario competed in the meet. Miss Johnston is an athlete of championship calibre in foot racing, swimming and fancy diving and is being groomed for a place on the next Canadian Olympic team in diving and swimming.

While engaged in construction work on the highway at Kaladar, John Yurski of Plevna, sustained a severe injury when a piece of stone or steel penetrated his eye. At the time of the accident he was engaged in drilling. The injured man was ordered to Belleville Hospital by Dr. Mather, where he was given attention by Dr. Chant.

A number of cases of scarlet fever, pink eye and whooping cough have developed in Tweed and district.

Mr. Harold McCutcheon of Queen's was home for the week end.

Mrs. B. C. Salisbury of Plainfield is visiting her daughter, Mrs. S. H. Connor for a few days.

Mrs. Andrew S. Johnston who has been visiting her niece, Mrs. M. G. Dales for some time left on Wednesday for Hillsburg where her sister is seriously ill.

Helen Palmateer, ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Palmateer was operated on for removal of appendix at Belleville General Hospital.

Teresa O'Coin, daughter of Mr. Fernie O'Coin of Hungerford was taken to Hotel Dieu at Kingston on Tuesday where she was operated on for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Winter and son Earl left on Monday to take up their residence in Toronto Mr. Winter was an employee of Belleville Creameries, Ltd.

An enthusiastic meeting of citizens of Tweed and Sulphide was held on Friday night in the Council Chambers for the purpose of organizing a band. Mr. W. B. Huyck was chosen as chairman of the meeting and Mr. S. R. Curry as Secretary. The chairman called on a number of those present for their views regarding the feasibility of the scheme. All were enthusiastic. Ed Rath said that a number of former bandsmen of Sulphide and Tweed had expressed themselves as entirely in favour of the project and that they would give it their wholehearted support. There are several young fellows who would also be glad to learn to play in a band. It would do much to create a good community spirit and the district would benefit greatly by it.

Mr. Walter E. Dark, a bandsmen of note formerly a member of the famous Huntsville band, now employed by Tweed Foundries Ltd., also spoke enthusiastically in support of the scheme. A motion was passed to organize a band and the following officers were elected.

Hon. Pres.—W. E. Tummon, M.P., W. H. Sayers, Reeve of Tweed.
President—T. Ed Rath.
Business Manager—Gil Cotton.
Sec.-Treas.—C. R. Brown.
Band Leader—W. E. Dark.
Executive—S. H. Connor, Dr. W. A. Paul, W. E. Smith, J. Marchen, H. J. Cordy.
Business Men's Committee— Roy Quinn, C. H. Kerr, C. D. Wilson, W. S. Gordon, Paul Rashotte.

It was decided that the band should be known as the Tweed-Sulphide Band. A small balance was on deposit in the Bank of Montreal in favor of the old band and a committee was named to arrange for the transfer of this amount to the new organization.

The following old bandsmen and new members are available: Gil Cotton, Arthur Corbett, Jim Corbett, Chas. Purchase, Fred Purchase, Norman Bowers, Keith Cotton all from Sulphide, E. Wright, W. B. Huyck, M. Grier, John Sills, Jack Marchen, C. R. Brown, A. Foster, W. E. Smith, Borden Rollins, Ed Rath, Harry Leal, Walter Leal, M. R. Rose, Archie Sinclair.

In order to raise funds for the new band it was decided to put on a minstrel show and the following committee was appointed to have charge: Dr. W. A. Paul, W. E. Dark, Thos. Calnan, S. H. Connor and Gill Cotton.

The first meeting of the band members was held on Monday night in the Council Chambers where practices will be held for the present. Mr. Dark who has had a great deal of experience in conducting bands and orchestras and as a teacher, has generously offered to teach, free of charge, anyone who wishes to learn to play an instrument.

◆

MRS. JOHN HALL HONORED BY L. A.

Rednersville—On Saturday evening March 16th a pleasant time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hall when members of the Ladies' Aid gathered previous to their leaving for their new home in Foxboro. Mrs. Hall has lived in and around Rednersville all her life. The hours were spent in music and singing. Mrs. Crosby read an address and Mrs. Simpson presented Mrs. Hall with a United Church Hymnary.

Mrs. Hall although taken by surprise very nicely expressed her thanks to ladies. Mr. Hall also addressed the gathering in a very pleasing manner. The happy evening was brought to a close by singing "For she's a jolly good fellow." The address reads as follows:

Dear Mrs. Hall:

We the members of the Rednersville Ladies' Aid gather around you this evening previous to your leaving our community to reside in Foxboro to tell you how sorry we are to have you go from our midst. You have endeared yourself to us and we will miss you very much, but what will be our loss will be a great gain to those whom you will go amongst.

We felt we could not let you go without showing in some way our love and appreciation of what your presence and help have been to us in the Aid and we ask you to accept this gift and may God bless and keep you in your future work to His service.

Signed on behalf of the Ladies' Aid, Mrs. Matilda Crosby, Mrs. R. G. Stafford, Mrs. Carol Sills, Mrs. Roy Anderson, Mrs. Ella Simpson.

Miss Marjorie Redner spent Wednesday with Mrs. Fred Lauder, Belleville.

Mrs. Harold Ward entertained company on Wednesday.

Women's Institute held a social in Rednersville Thursday evening with a good programme after which a dainty lunch was served. The proceeds amounted to nearly twenty-one dollars.

Mrs. Earnest Adams and Mrs. N. Wilder were Tuesday guests of Mrs. G. French, Belleville.

Tuesday tea hour guests of Mrs. George Gray were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Waite, Mrs. George Kelly, Misses Pauline and Florence Kelly all of Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Redner. It being Mrs. George Gray's 88th birthday.

Marjorie Redner spent Friday afternoon and tea hour with Mr. and Mrs. George Huffman, Allisonville.

Mrs. N. Wilder and Miss Marjorie Redner were Sunday afternoon callers at Mr. T. Fanning's.

Bessie Tompkins spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. Tompkins.

Mr. Carl Redner entertained company on Sunday.

OSHAWA THROUGH

Oshawa, Ont., March 26.—(CP)—Neil Hezzlewood, Secretary of the Oshawa Junior team of the Ontario Hockey Association, said today the Club was "through for the season" and would play no further games to settle the Ontario Junior title.

The Oshawa team was the storm centre of a mixup that brought about replays in an effort to straighten the tangle.

FAMILY NEARLY ASPHYXIATED

Hamilton, March 26—(CP)—When natural gas started seeping through their home from a faulty connection early last evening the family of Alex Boyd had a narrow escape from suffocation.

Mr. Boyd, his wife, Elsie and their two children, Jean and James, were sitting in the house when the parents noticed themselves getting drowsy. Each thought it was natural sleepiness until one of the youngsters started to cry. The sound started the mother out of a semi-conscious condition.

The "Vital 3" STRENGTHENS Elderly People

The Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron (The "Vital 3") contained in Fellows' Syrup make this preparation of outstanding value for elderly people. It helps to stimulate the appetite, aids digestion, creates energy, builds strength, and promotes mental activity. Prescribed by physicians in 52 countries.

240

FELLOWS' WORLD FAMOUS SYRUP
COMPOUND OF HYPOPHOSPHITES

W. A. QUILTING WELL ATTENDED

West Huntingdon, March 26 — Spring weather is really here and every one who has a sugar bush is busy tapping trees, gatheding sap and boiling it into syrup. The season promises to be a good one for sugar making.

Mr. George Hollinger is home from Belleville Hospital much improved in health.

Rev. Merriam called on Thursday at the homes of Messrs. James Vanderwater, Geo. Hollinger, John Emmerson and Henry Emmerson.

The dinner and quilting on Tuesday at Mrs. Fred McCauley's was a very happy event with some fifteen ladies present. Mrs. McCauley and Mrs. B Brough made the best of hostesses.

The Women's Association of Moira Church under the able leadership of Mrs. Ben Morton is doing splendid work. On Thursday March 21th they had a dinner at the home of Mrs. Lottie Vanderwater and some twenty four of the ladies of the community were there to enjoy the feast and fellowship.

Mrs. Charles Ketcheson, Mrs. G. Vanderwater, Mrs. B. Morton arranged and served the table. After the dinner a quilt of Mrs. Frank Emmerson's was quilted under the direction of Miss Jane Herity and Mrs. Bailey. Mrs. Ben Morton as president had charge of the business meeting. Mrs. L. Vanderwater read the 23rd Psalm. Hymn "Sound the Battle Cry" was sung with Norma Ketcheson as pianist. Lord's prayer was repeated in unison. Plans for future activities were enthusiastically discussed and the best of good cheer prevailed everywhere.

The meeting closed with singing of the hymn:

With a right good will let us do our work,
Though the toil seem hard and long;
Let us stand up bravely and never shirk,
But sing a hearty song.

Eggleton, March 21st. The Young People's meeting in the church was interesting and helpful with the following program. R. J. Merriam called the meeting to order at 8.10 p.m. and hymn "We have Heard Joyful Sound" was sung with Mrs. Russell Stapley as organist. Ray Danforth the missionary convener, then took charge of the devotion service. Miss T. Boudrey read the tenth chapter of Romans. Prayer was called by Rev. Merriam. Minutes of last meeting were read by acting secretary L. Stapley. Roll call was answered by about thirty persons. A hymn was sung. Marion McMullen very ably read a paper on Missionary Expeditions. Dorotha McMullen gave a very educative paper on "Homes in Trinidad. Leonard Waterfall gave a paper on "The Mission Box" which was much appreciated. A hymn was sung and this part of the meeting was closed with prayer by the pastor R. J. Merriam.

Three amusing contests were then put on by Ray Danforth and R. J. Merriam also put on one. These meetings are well attended and a real spiritual and community spirit is being built up.

HOSPITAL FLOODED

Welch, W. Va., March 25 (AP)—Surging flood waters from the Tug and Elkhorn Rivers flowed into the first floor of the Welch Emergency State Hospital today and all patients were removed to the second floor for safety.

Correct Linens are Very Necessary

STATES MISS CLAIRE ANDREE AT THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER DE BOTH COOKING SCHOOL

"Every woman likes to have her home well equipped with linens and especially likes to see her table correctly set. Just a tip to these discriminating ladies of Belleville and District.

TABLE LINENS IMPORTED DIRECT

Irish Damasks, Handmade Chinese Cutwork, Chinese Mosaic Work, Spanish, Italian and Madeira.

TOWELS OF EVERY KIND.

"BUY AT THE HOME OF FINE LINENS."

McINTOSH BROS.

257 FRONT STREET BELLEVILLE PHONE 802

$100,000 Damage is Caused As Dam Yields, City Flooded

Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., March 25 (AP)—A river of ice that smashed through a dam and poured in on this city like a tidal wave, had emergency crews working at top speed today to clear away debris.

Carrying slabs of ice from 24 to 36 inches thick, the rising waters of the Wisconsin River broke off a timber superstructure on the dam at Biron, two miles north of here, and surged into the city last night, causing an estimated $100,000 damage.

The water flushed into basements to depth of from four to eight feet, extinguished fires and damaged stocks of merchandise in storerooms.

HYNDMAN COMMISSION HEARS 7 WITNESSES

Each Witness Representative of Provinces of Dominion

Ottawa, March 25.—(CP)—Hearings of the Hyndman Commission investigating unemployment conditions among ex-service men brought seven witnesses here today, representing seven of Canada's nine provinces. They were called by the Canadian Legion, most of them executives of the organization.

They were Major J. S. Roper for Nova Scotia; Major W. C. Lawson for New Brunswick; Col. E. G. Lidstone for Ontario; Col. Ralph Webb for Manitoba, Alex Walker for Alberta, Capt. P. J. Philpotts, Saskatchewan and T. A. Barnard for British Columbia.

Major Roper said registration carried out some time ago by the Canadian Legion had shown about 1,600 non-pensioned veterans out of work in his province.

"We thought we had accomplished something when we inserted in the public works contracts a preference for ex-service men," said Major Roper. "We found, however, it just didn't work. Members of Parliament wanted their own men in these jobs."

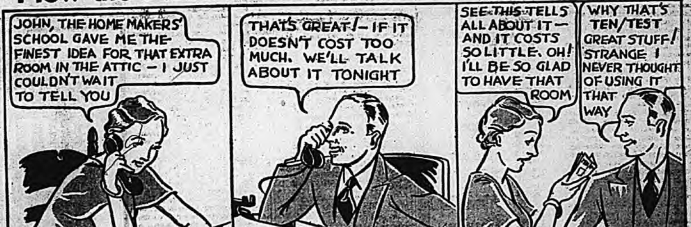
Chest Colds

Rub well over throat and chest

VICKS VAPORUB

OVER 17 MILLION JARS USED YEARLY

How the Nabors Got an Extra Room - Part 2



JOHN, THE HOME MAKERS' SCHOOL GAVE ME THE FINEST IDEA FOR THAT EXTRA ROOM IN THE ATTIC – I JUST COULDN'T WAIT TO TELL YOU
THAT'S GREAT!– IF IT DOESN'T COST TOO MUCH. WE'LL TALK ABOUT IT TONIGHT
SEE THIS TELLS ALL ABOUT IT – AND IT COSTS SO LITTLE. OH! I'LL BE SO GLAD TO HAVE THAT ROOM
WHY THAT'S TEN/TEST GREAT STUFF! STRANGE I NEVER THOUGHT OF USING IT THAT WAY

INSIST ON TEN/TEST INSULATING BUILDING BOARD ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE

Follow Miss Andree's advice. Be one of the many Belleville's home makers who will have a cheerier, roomier home this Spring with Ten/Test.

YOU'LL be amazed to learn how easily you can have an extra room—and how little it costs. Attic bedrooms and playrooms, a cheerful basement lounge, can be built so quickly with strong, durable Ten/Test Insulating Board.

Ten/Test gives you a wide choice of lovely pastel tints, or you can have it in natural beige. Do not confuse Ten/Test with ordinary wall boards. Ten/Test insulates—protects you against summer heat and winter cold. Hot, stuffy attics become delightfully cool when they are insulated with Ten/Test.

No need to wait until you can build or remodel. You can have that extra room now—built and insulated with Ten/Test.

TEN/TEST INSULATING BUILDING BOARD

INTERNATIONAL FIBRE BOARD LIMITED • OTTAWA, ONT.

ALL PARTICULARS ON TEN/TEST CAN BE OBTAINED FROM

ARTHUR A. SILLS CO.

287 COLEMAN STREET BELLEVILLE PHONE 1584

WE CARRY A FULL STOCK OF TEN/TEST. BUILDING MATERIALS OF ALL KINDS.

THE HOUSTON COMPANY LIMITED

ESTABLISHED 1886 BELLEVILLE PHONE 1677

Guardians of the Desert

By TOM GILL

Carefully he gave orders, making certain that each man understood his part, and at the end they left him and hurried through the night until they reached the Verde road. A half mile beyond the Lowell ranch the five men halted and waited, just where the road rose out of a dry arroyo.

Somewhat ahead of the rest and hidden by a clump of mesquite, Pablo sat his horse, watching in the direction of Verde. Ten minutes passed—a half hour, then a low whistle from the leader and two of the men urged their horses to the centre of the road. Almost at once the lights of an approaching car gleamed, grew brighter, and as it rattled up out of the arroyo, casts its rays on the horsemen, and the sound of a horn warned them to step aside. Instead they stepped directly into the glare of the headlights, and the car, with a shrill grinding of the brakes, rattled to a halt. An irate driver, leaning out, demanded, "You fellows need the whole damned desert for your flea-bitten cayuses?"

"No harm meant, pardner. Just wanted to ask where the Lowell ranch is," one replied.

"You've gone beyond it. Straight behind on this road about a quarter." The voice was visibly mollified and the little car rattled on.

In the darkness Pablo smiled, and as the car disappeared, called, "Better luck next time, hombres," then after a quick-look down the road he gave a warning whistle and faded among the mesquite.

Again the two men took their station in the centre of the road, and again from Verde a car came hurrying, dipped down into the arroyo and emerged almost directly in front of the horsemen. The top was folded back, and even in the darkness the two men could make out the figure of a girl at the wheel while from his sheltering mesquite Pablo recognized the straight, slender figure of Nora Barnes. Quickly one rider raised his hand in a command to halt, and for an instant the car slowed down, then suddenly, sensing danger, the girl threw the wheel sharply to the left jerking the car half off the road, and her foot jammed down on the accelerator. The rear tires spun in the soft sand then gripped, and the car leaped forward, but as it gathered speed two unseen riders closed in from the darkness. Spurring his horse forward the nearer swung to the running board, and twisting the wheel from her hands, cut the switch. The girl turned, a blue blaze of light leaped from her hand, and with a hoarse cry the man knocked a revolver from her grasp.

"She got me, damn her—got me in the shoulder."

A dark face peered forward to examine the wound. "Easy", a voice cautioned. "She only nicked you." Then in sudden alarm the man shouted, "Watch her—watch her there!"

For, seizing that moment of distraction, Nora had risen from her seat, and leaping clear of the car, dashed toward the edge of the arroyo. Almost she reached the sheltering darkness—not quite. Just as she left the road two men gripped her and with all the power of desperation she struck at them with bare hands. A curse, and one assailant stumbled back, but in the next instant a blanket enveloped her, binding her arms to her sides. Silently, doggedly, gasping for breath, she struggled on.

"Tie her up—she's worse'n a damned wildcat," came the order, and at last she found herself helpless beneath the tight coils of a lariat. For her the fight was over. Strong arms lifted her to one of the horsemen, and now the little party turned, bearing her with them, toward the Mexican border.

From behind the mesquite Bull Pablo listened until the sound of their going died away, then turned and galloped back toward the dam. There an hour later, Sari looked up to see the dust-covered rider standing before him.

"Well?" he snapped.

"Got her, Chief. Everything went to schedule. She's bound safely for el Toro—but what a scrap she put up!" Pablo's tongue moved slowly over his lips. "There's a woman worth fighting for."

Sari's tawny eyes gleamed. He reached for a cigarette and his own lips moved in a smile of quiet amusement. "Now," he murmured, "Perhaps the editor of the Verde Times will listen to reason."

The editor of the Verde Times, at that very moment, was seated in his office phoning the Lowell ranch where Dick, telephone before him, still sat beside the open map.

"I'll be a little late tonight in getting over to see you," Barnes was saying. "One reason is a neighborly visit I had from our good friend Nick a few hours ago."

"I suspected that. More threats?"

A low chuckle replied. "You might almost call it an ultimatum. Foolishly I lost my temper and offered to throw him out of the office. He got pretty ugly. Said he'd show me where I stood before another day went by."

A frown gathered over Lowell's forehead. "I wouldn't take that too lightly, Will. Sari meant every word of it."

"Sure he meant it. Something's going to blow up. But don't say anything to make Nora uneasy. Just tell her I'll be right along."

"Tell her? Nor's not here."

"Not there? She drove out over an hour ago."

Silence. The low hum of the wire had grown suddenly foreboding, but even before Dick could speak quick steps sounded on the porch and Lolita, running to his side, was talking in Spanish so rapidly he could not distinguish the words.

"Hold the wire," he called, and turned to the girl.

Her frightened tale was brief. She had just come up the Verde road, and there, above the arroyo, found an empty car. "It was the senorita's car," the girl's voice trembled, "and no one in it. Her handbag was inside and the light still burning. I called many times. Then I grew fearful and ran."

Dick snatched up the 'phone. "Hello Will?"

"Yes?"

"Lolita says that Nora's car is down by the road, empty. Get out here pronto. I'm off."

He threw the receiver to its hook, snatched up his spurs, and buckling on the automatic as he ran, made for the barn. It was the work of a short second to saddle his mare, and seeing the girl standing beside the path, he reached down and lifted her to the saddle skirt.

"I may need you, Lolita," he said grimly. "Hold on with both hands." Then he touched the eager mare's flanks with both spurs.

The girl's arms tightened about his waist, and gaining the road Dick gave the mare her head.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

Almost at once the lights of the car became visible far down the Verde road, and in a few swift moments he had reined in and, lifting the girl to the ground, slipped from the saddle. A glance told him it was Nora's car.

Into the silent night about them, Dick called. No answer. Hasty search of the door pocket revealed only a small flashlight, and with its help he scanned the dusty road. There the tale lay, plain and sinister.

Four horses, two of them unshod, had surrounded the car. Two men had dismounted and approached. Confused tracks led to the arroyo edge, but with a start Dick saw that the returning steps of one were shorter and uneven—the steps of a man who walks with a heavy burden. Lowell flashed the light back to the road again. There they had mounted, and now the tracks of all four led due south toward the Mexican border.

Instantly Dick was in the saddle, and leaning down laid his hand on the shoulder of the trembling girl. "Wait here," he told her in quick Spanish. "In a few moments Senor Barnes comes. Say to him that four men have taken Nora and that I am following their trail. Tell him to phone his ranch and get every man he can raise. I think they're making for Copper Canyon."

He turned and the spurs sank home. With a creak of saddle leather and a frenzied pounding of horse's hoofs the night engulfed him.

• • • •

Beneath the stars the desert stretched, misty and white and ghost like. Clumps of cactus and stunted chaparral flashed past beneath the mare's hurrying feet. At times the broken trail of the horsemen lay plainly written in the sand, but twice during the first hour Dick was forced to dismount, leading his horse in a wide circle until he again recovered the footprints that led always south toward Mexico. Yet at the end of that hour there remained little doubt that the men were headed toward Copper Canyon—that narrow gash between the Mexican foothills leading up to the abandoned mining camp known as el Toro. An ill-favored place, its history had been one of violence since Verde's earliest days and throughout the years men wanted for every crime from rustling to cold murder sought refuge in the bleak ranges and narrow passes about el Toro.

Steadily the little mare bore southward. Already Dick felt certain he had crossed the border, and now, abandoning all attempt at tracking Nora's captors, he laid his course southeast, skirting the foothills toward where the mouth of the canyon lay. A sudden recollection seized him, bringing with it a sense of security on that lonely ride—one friend at least he might count on up there in el Toro—one man he might trust—Stub, the bartender of the little cantina. Alone in a hostile camp it was good to know that Stub would remember other days, and, if need be, give aid.

On he hurried southward through the night. Soon the horse's hoofs were clattering between the dry, stony banks of a stream bed, and directly ahead loomed the perpendicular cliffs that overhung the narrow canyon.

Dick pulled his mare to a walk, and loosening his automatic, rode forward cautiously.

far out in the desert a coyote barkrustled among the pinons, and once far out in thedesert a coyote barked, but here, within the canyon, was only silence and the cold, faint illumination of the stars. Yet he felt the little mare was restive and ill at ease. Twice Dick stopped and listened. No sound. Was it possible they had left none of their number at the entrance to guard against pursuit? He raised the reins and obediently the mare stepped forward, then stopped again, head up and ears erect. Abruptly she turned and sniffed, as if catching some vague message through the darkness, while quietly Dick slipped from the saddle and with drawn automatic crept like a shadow up the trail. In the dimness every rock, every crag, might afford shelter for some waiting enemy, but his cautious advance brought him neither sight nor sound. He stopped and half turned down the canyon. Then, so close that Dick [illegible] his pulse leap, a match struck, and in its sudden glare he saw, not twenty feet away, a man standing in the shadow of a rock.

Leisurely he lighted his cigarette, the match leaped in a flaming arc, died, and again darkness enveloped them, broken only by the dull glow of burning tobacco.

Dick's right hand twitched. An easy shot. A chance to dispose of this man and leave behind no enemy to imperil the safety of his return. Yet the sound of that one shot might shatter all his plans, and reluctantly Lowell pushed the automatic back in his holster. Still, the very act of the man's smoking had told him something — Nora's abductors did not expect so immediate pursuit.

Bending low, Dick hurried down the trail, and leading his little mare among the scattered boulders, threaded his way in a wide circle about the unsuspecting man. At last, attaining a safe distance, he mounted and regained the trail, where in the faint flare of the flashlight, he picked up the fresh tracks of his quarry. Swiftly now he pushed on. Not likely—so he reasoned—that another guard would be stationed there, and without further attempt at concealment he followed at a quick trot up the rocky trail.

Yet with all his haste it must have been nearly midnight when the first straggling cabins of el Toro loomed in the distance. Spectral and gray they stood flanking the road, many of them abandoned and crumbling since the mine had closed. Twice on the hillside to the left Dick saw the twinkling of lights through dirty windows, but the long, winding street was deserted, and at last he halted before a small cantina. Low, flickering illumination came from the place, and with it the thin tinkle of an old piano, accompanied by the sound of a girl's singing. He drew rein and listened. The night wind hurried down the canyon, causing an unseen shutter to creak dismally on rusty hinges. Again his eyes swept the narrow street. No sign. No movement. Quickly Dick tied the mare to the hitching post and stepped inside.

Across the poorly lighted room stretched a long bar, behind which dirty and discolored mirrors reflected a double row of bottles and small polished glasses. In a far corner to the left a man sat playing an upright piano, and leaning over him a Mexican girl, dressed in the short red dress of a woman of the cantina, followed the music and listlessly hummed snatches of the song. Directly opposite two men lounged at a table.

Only the man behind the bar had seen Dick enter, and instantly his round face lit up with open astonishment. He was short, of powerful frame, and a deep, cruel scar above the left eye stood out in strange contrast to the smiling, friendly quality of the eyes themselves. Delightedly he laid a partially dried glass on the bar and reached over with both hands in a gesture of surprised welcome.

"When in hell did you reach this end of the world? The last I heard you was cavortin' among the stiff bosoms of the aristocracy." Then, catching the warning in Lowell's eyes and the stern set of his mouth, the man stopped and asked in a lower tone, "What's up?"

The music ceased. The couple at the piano were looking curiously at the newcomer, and the men hunched at the table raised stolid, unshaven faces to stare at him.

"Just riding down from the hills," Dick answered in a voice that could be heard across the room. "So I dropped in for a drink and bed. Can you fix me up?"

"Sure can do," came the hearty answer. "But maybe first we'd better put your old cayuse in the barn. I'll show you where."

Without a word Dick followed him outside. The uncertain notes of the piano resumed, and a glance backward told Dick that both men were still seated at their table, but not until he had led his mare to the rear of the cantina did he speak. Then laying his hand on the other's shoulder, Dick pulled him close and whispered, "Who are the men inside, Stub, prospectors?"

"They work down at the dam."

"Sari's men?"

"The same. What's happened?"

"Nora Barnes was taken from her automobile by four riders near my ranch tonight I've followed them this far. It's up to you to tell me where they've taken her."

"There'd be only one place—Headquarters House up on the hill. Sari's gang has made a regular hang out of that joint since they started their little game down in Verde. Matter of fact I heard a little bunch of horsemen go by not a half hour ago."

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

Dick felt the man's shoulder muscles tighten. "I knew sooner or later they'd start hell simmerin' down your way, but I never thought they was ready to tear loose. Wait here. I'll buckle on some artillery and come along."

But Lowell shook his head. "I'd rather look the ground over alone, Stub. And I've got another job for you. Stay here and watch those two inside. Keep them drinking. The men with Nora won't expect trouble so soon. If I need you I'll come back. She's in no danger unless—"

Impatiently Stub broke in. "Oh, the hell she ain't. If she's in the hands of Nick Sari's crew don't lose no time. If things get too hot, come back here. And remember, this whole canyon's lousy with Sari's people. He's corralled every renegade and two-gun artist on both sides of the border. On your way, buddy."

The lights of the cantina disappeared as Dick rounded a turn in the steep street. The sound of his mare's hoofs echoed back at him from deserted cabins and crumbling shacks that now grew more infrequent, until at last the village fell behind. Ahead the road climbed steadily upward. To the left a mine shaft reared its gaunt timbers, and Dick knew that Headquarters House stood on the hilltop just beyond.

Almost immediately it loomed ahead of him out of the night, black, silent and portentous, a great three-storied structure once white but now bleached by wind and storm and the passing years to a despondent grey. A low verandah encircled it, and on three sides long windows, heavily shuttered, gaped like great blind eyes into the darkness. No faintest glimmer of light told of occupancy. Keeping a safe distance, Dick circled. As he left the road it grew darker, overshadowed by pines, and a slight movement ahead brought him to an instant halt. Slowly his eyes grew accustomed to the gloom, and Dick made out three horses tied to a low fence. He touched one. It was still hot and steaming from hard riding. Dick dismounted, unfastened the halter of the nearest horse and led it, with his own mare, down the slope, where he tethered both to the branches of a pinon. Returning, he loosened the cinches of the remaining horses, then, as an afterthought, cut the reins and threw them into the brush. Satisfied with these preparations, he moved swifty toward the house.

Avoiding the steps, he reached up, and raising himself level with the porch, leaped lightly over the railing. Cautiously he tried each window in turn, only to find the shutters fastened from the inside. He approached the door. The knob turned, but again the way was bolted before him. One chance alone remained, and stepping upon the railing, he reached up to the low, overhanging roof of the porch. At last his searching hands found a precarious hold on the wooden eaves and with a jump and a swing Dick clambered up and now kneeled on the steep edge of the porch roof. Directly before him a small window raised. For a brief second he listened, then with drawn automatic Lowell stepped inside.

Pitch black about him. The heavy, musty air of long disuse pervaded that inky darkness, and with outstretched fingers he felt his way about the walls until at last his hands encountered a door. Reaching lower he found the knob turned it, and opening the door a few inches, looked out upon a dimly lit hall. Worn stairs led upward toward the unseen source of light, and from above Dick heard the angry rumble of men's voices, followed by a woman's defiant laugh.

(TO BE CONTINUED)

(Copyright, 1933, by Tom Gill)
(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

EXTRA
EXTRA

EXTRA!

Ontario Intelligencer
De Both
Cooking
School
March 26 to 29

"Me Too!" Says Dick

Come and hear Dick sing at the top of his voice up there on the platform with Miss Claire Andree. There's so little Dick needs to keep him singing merrily. Just clean water, a clean cage and the right kind of food—Brock's Bird Seed.

His diet is the least of your cares—if you buy him Brock's Bird Seed. Brock's Bird Seed with the Treat makes a complete and balanced diet. Don't forget there is a Bird Treat in every package. For Dick's sake give him

BROCK'S
BIRD SEED AND TREAT

Nicholson & Brock Limited. 125 George St., Toronto

To the Many Women who are Particular About Dry Cleaning..

HAVE YOUR SPRING COAT CLEANED HERE . . .

Our highly scientific methods ensure the proper care and perfect texturing of every kind of fabric. Our system of Dry Cleaning is above the average — the reason Belleville women think of Modern for particular Dry Cleaning.

A NEW SHADE?
Our Dyeing of Silk and Wool gives the material the exact shading you require for your ensemble.

MODERN
CLEANERS & DYERS
192 Front Street Phone 729
IF MODERN CLEANED IT'S CLEAN

GET POSTED ON THE NEW Delivered PRICE OF A PLYMOUTH BEFORE YOU BUY ANY CAR

PLYMOUTH IS BUILT BY CHRYSLER

The floor is flush with the running board. The body fits right down over the frame to form an all-steel unit of tremendous strength. You step in and step out with ease.

So comfortable! The seat is set at easy chair height—three big people find lots of room to stretch out. All passengers sit cradled between the axles—free from bumps and jolts.

Good-bye, traffic! Plymouth's powerful new engine flashes you out in front. Clutch and gears operate with a feather touch—hydraulic brakes guarantee safety.

FOR AS LOW AS $797

You'll be proud to own a Plymouth . . . proud to see it in front of your door.

Look how the built-in trunk conforms with the sweeping streamlines of this beautiful new Plymouth touring sedan.

How smoothly you ride with Plymouth's great combination of Floating Power, weight redistribution, super-resilient springs and sway eliminator.

THE BEST ENGINEERED CAR IN THE LOWEST PRICE FIELD

121 Front St. J. T. WARREN Phone 933

TOO ACQUIESCENT SIR GEORGE PERLEY SAYS OF LIBERALS

Eight Hour Day Bill is Passed in Third Reading

BUDGET DEBATE

J. L. Ralston to Open Same For The Opposition

Ottawa, March 26 (CP)—After a long week-end spent poring over figures and analysing debt, revenue and expenditure statements, Hon. J. L. Ralston makes his annual attack on the Government's financial policies today. As chief Liberal financial critic, Col. Ralston, who represents Yarmouth-Shelburne in the House of Commons, will set the budget debate under way.

His speech will be based on his study of the budget presented Friday by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance. It is expected the budget debate will be short this year as Liberals have followed the policy of expediting business of Parliament, and so added interest attaches to Mr. Ralston's speech. There may be few other efforts from the official opposition.

Third reading of the eight-hour day bill yesterday sent the House into a political controversy in which the prospect of the coming election was frequently mentioned.

Sir George Perley, Acting Premier, accused the Liberals of failing in their duty to study and seek to improve Government legislation. He said they were rushing everything through in the hope the reform program would not be an election issue.

He warned them, however, the Government reform measures would be the election issue whether they liked it or not. Their ridicule of these measures intended to help the people would recoil on them.

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, described the eight-hour day bill and other reform bills as "make believe" reforms. He flatly accused the Government of insincerity and charged it had never intended to put these measures on the statute books. The ministers, he said, had been surprised and dismayed, when they found the Liberals would not oppose the bills.

Both major parties united in voting down an amendment proposed by A. A. Heaps (Labor Winnipeg North) which would have converted the eight-hour day law into a six-hour day law. The bill is based on an international convention and it was argued to depart from the letter of that document might increase the risk of the measure being declared ultra vires.

For the rest of the sitting agriculture and trade and commerce departmental estimates were before the House. Hon. R. B. Hanson, Minister of Trade and Commerce, refused to be drawn into a discussion of the Government's wheat guarantees. He said the Government proposed to proceed with the bill to establish a grain board and a full opportunity to discuss the market supporting operations of John I. McFarland would then be afforded.

Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, said if Parliament had the right to enact the eight-hour day it found it in the draft convention. Organized labor in Canada had always pressed for an eight-hour day law.

ELECTRICITY offers clean, safe, economical and dependable cooking—it is the modern method.

In using electricity you are helping your own utility.

We expect to announce shortly an attractive proposition for greater use of electrical service.

Belleville Hydro Electric System

"OWNED BY THOSE IT SERVES."

The waltz still reigns as king of the dance. Especially as done by Ricardo Cortez and Dolores Del Rio, and the 300 Busby Berkeley dancers in "Wonder Bar", showing at the Capitol, Wednesday evening only.

Changes in Departmental Examination Regulations

Rather radical changes have been made for the approaching Departmental Examinations. As already announced through the press, the fees formerly collected for Upper, Middle and Lower School Examinations have been cancelled and in future the only fee is for a candidate for Upper and Middle School who failed to make application at the proper time, namely not later than May 1st. Formerly these applications were filed with the Public School Inspector. They are now filed with the Principal of the High School where the candidate wishes to write.

Under the new system, presiding officers will receive no remuneration. At each High School the Principal will be Chief Presiding Officer and his staff will act as Assistant Presiding Officers. Local school Boards are liable for all incidental expenses such as stationery, express, etc.

The Lower School Examination is still under the Entrance Board of Examiners. Local school Boards are liable for the incidental expenses, but the Department of Education will pay the examiners who read the answers.

There is practically no change in the method of conducting the High School Entrance Examination, but there is a material change in the cost of those examinations. There is now no remuneration to presiding officers nor to the Secretary of the Board of Examiners for clerical work such as tabulating the marks, preparing reports, preparing and issuing certificates, etc. The fee formerly paid for meetings of the Board of Examiners is also curtailed. The Chairman and Secretary (the High School Principal and Public School Inspector) receive nothing under this head but the other members of the Board will be paid for meetings held on and after June 30th, but nothing for meetings held before that date. The Board will be paid for reading the answers of those required to take the final examination. All expenses of this examination are payable by the local school Boards.

The net results will be as follows: (1) Parents of candidates for Secondary School Examinations will save the amount formerly payable as fees. (2) In small centres the School Board will probably save money but in the larger centres such as Belleville, the Board will lose money since for years past, the share of the fees that was payable to the Board, left a considerable surplus after all expenses were paid. Now there will be no fees and the Board will have to pay the incidental expenses of the examinations. (3) Those who will handle the examinations will have to do for nothing a very considerable amount of work, for which there was formerly remuneration. (4) The cost of the High School Entrance Examination will be materially reduced, but the local Boards will have to pay the incidental expenses of the Lower School Examination.

◆

Social Evening At Rednersville Church

The social evening held in Rednersville Church Thursday, was sponsored by the Women's Institute and a most enjoyable program was given.

After the opening hymn, Rev. Robert Mullen introduced the guest speaker Rev. I. B. Naylor of the Tabernacle Church, Belleville. His address was most instructive and greatly appreciated by all who were fortunate in hearing him. The other numbers included readings by Mr. Dracup of Belleville, Miss Audrey Alyea of Albury, Mrs. S. Fox, Victoria, Marion Means and Mrs. Keith Redner of Rednersville.

Solos by Mrs. Houston, Professor S. Anglin, Miss Simpson of Belleville, Mrs. Harold Bonter of Albury, Mr. and Mrs. Breneaugh of Centre Church. Piano selection, Mrs. Embury Adams. Cornet solo by Donald Spencer, and the numbers given by the Rednersville string orchestra brought the programme to a close. Immediately following a splendid lunch was served.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Naylor, and to the assisting artists for their most generous help and to those who served was given by Mrs. Morton Weese of Victoria.

It was gratifying to note the efficiency of the various committees which helped so much to make the evening the nice success it surely was. The very friendly and happy evening closed with the Mizpah Benediction led by Rev. I. B. Naylor and Rev. R. Mullen.

YOUR SISTER WANTS HER BETTY TO SPEND NEXT MONTH WITH US AND MEET SOME "ELIGIBLE" YOUNG MEN
MY ASSISTANT WOULD BE JUST THE FELLOW IF ONLY.....WISH I COULD WARN HIM NEXT DAY—
His chance came
THERE'S OUR AD, SIR, NEXT TO THE ONE ON "B.O."
EVER READ THOSE LIFEBUOY ADS? MIGHTY IMPORTANT WORK THEY'RE DOING
PEOPLE DON'T REALIZE THEY CAN OFFEND AND NOT KNOW IT. I ALWAYS USE LIFEBUOY
I GUESS YOU'RE RIGHT. AFTER THIS I'LL USE LIFEBUOY, TOO

"B.O." ENDED — romance blossoms!
I'M SURE YOUR SISTER WILL APPROVE OF HIM FOR BETTY YOU'D CERTAINLY CALL HIM "ELIGIBLE" NOW

"B.O." is just plain bad manners (body odour)

WE DON'T notice when we're guilty of "B.O." (body odour). Others do. And immediately put us down as thoughtless, inconsiderate—socially impossible! Don't take a chance in hot weather. Play safe—bathe regularly with Lifebuoy. Its pleasant, quickly-vanishing, hygienic scent tells you Lifebuoy is different from ordinary toilet soaps—gives extra protection. Its gentle, penetrating lather purifies and deodorizes pores—eliminates "B.O." (body odour). Removes germs—helps guard health.

Try this complexion care

Work up a rich Lifebuoy lather. Massage it well into the pores; then rinse. This frees your skin of clogged impurities. Makes it look and feel utterly clean—fresh, glowingly alive!

A PRODUCT OF LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED, TORONTO

HEALTH

by

[illegible] M.D.

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

JUST A COLD

The common cold is a serious and a costly nuisance. It is serious because it may be the beginning of a dangerous infection of the respiratory tract—bronchitis or pneumonia. It is costly because it causes more time to be lost from school and work than does any other disease. That it is a nuisance is a statement which will be accepted without dispute.

Obviously, it would be desirable to control a disease which causes so much discomfort, which wastes so much time, and which may lead to conditions that endanger life. Unfortunately it must be admitted that the common cold is difficult to prevent and to avoid. The very frequency of its occurrence reflects the repeated failures to prevent it.

The particular germ that is responsible for colds has not been discovered. While other factors may play an important part in their occurrence, it appears to be well established that colds are passed from the sick to the well and so belong to the group of diseases which we call communicable.

When we take into consideration how people with colds continue to go about their business, refusing to stay in bed for "just a cold", and when we further consider the way in which so many of these people cough and sneeze, do we need to wonder why colds are of such common occurrence?

The person who has a cold in his head is almost certain to have his hands soiled with the secretions of his nose, and he passes these to everything which he touches. Were he at home and in bed, he would be relatively isolated, keeping his germ-laden secretions to himself. He should be at home, but as yet a public opinion has not been created which would force the person suffering from the common cold to withdraw himself, for a time, from public contact.

Under existing conditions, we should, for our own protection, encourage the use of handkerchiefs to smother coughs and sneezes, and the provision of facilities for washing the hands. Under no circumstances should a person suffering from a cold be engaged in the preparation or the handling of food either in the home or elsewhere.

In order to avoid colds, we must avoid coming in contact with those who have them already. By living and working in rooms that are not overheated, by dressing according to the weather rather than the time of year and thus avoiding overclothing, by keeping the body in good condition through proper diet, we may lessen the danger of contracting colds. Thoroughly washed hands constitute a practical means of protection, and this is a habit which is recommended to all for their own protection. Each of us has a responsibility to protect himself and to do what he can to prevent the spread of colds.

◆

FALSE TEETH

Can Not Embarrass

Most wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their teeth dropped or slipped at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. Makes false teeth stay in place and feel comfortable. Sweetens breath. Get FASTEETH at any good drug store.

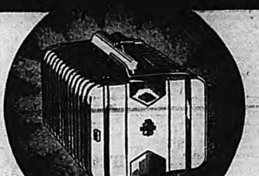
RAILWAY SUED FOR H. JONES' DEATH

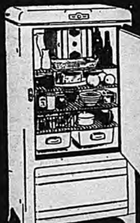
Writ Entered Claims Negligence on Part of Employees

London, Ont., March 26.—(CP)—Supreme Court action for unstated damages was launched today against the Canadian National Railways on behalf of the estate of H. Stewart Jones of London, one of the fifteen persons killed in the Christmas night wreck at Dundas, Ont.

It is alleged in the endorsement on the writ the Londoner's death resulted by reason of negligence on the part of railway employees.

Mr. Jones was a son of the prominent family that operates a printing company in East London. Acting as executor of his estate, The Canada Trust Company is suing the railway.





SEE IT AT THE

COOKING SCHOOL

THE NEW FRIGIDAIRE '35

WITH THE FAMOUS

SUPER FREEZER

THE GREATEST REFRIGERATOR VALUES EVER OFFERED BY FRIGIDAIRE

This Frigidaire '35, with the Super Freezer, sets new standards in ice-freezing capacity—in healthful food preservation—in the crisping and freshening of vegetables—in economical performance.

The Super Freezer makes possible a Complete Refrigeration Service. It provides five kinds of cold in every one of 16 models.

1—fast freezing . . . 2—frozen storage . . .
3—extra-cold storage . . . 4—moist storage . . .
5—normal storage.

IT WILL PAY FOR ITSELF

In addition to its many conveniences, Frigidaire actually saves you money. Operating costs are so low and you can save so much money on refrigeration and food bills that your Frigidaire pays for itself with the money it saves.

But see the Frigidaire '35 for yourself. Learn how easy it is to buy under our liberal terms. Come in today. Let us show you how a Frigidaire pays for itself with the money it saves.

FRIGIDAIRE—the General Motors Refrigerator—Is Made in Canada

Sliding Utility Basket—groups small articles to save time and space. Removable for carrying.

Automatic Ice Tray Release—the ice trays come sliding out of the freezer at the touch of a finger.

Radio & Refrigeration Shop

23 BRIDGE STREET PHONE 395

Frigidaire Sales & Service

333 FRONT STREET PHONE 837

SMALL DOWN PAYMENT • GENEROUS TERMS ON ALL MODELS

Hockey
Current Sport

IN THE REALM OF SPORTING EVENTS

Basketball
Bowling

'Babe' Siebert, Boston, Out Of Playoffs With Toronto Left Instep is Seriously Cut

Eddie Shore Will Have to Carry Defence Load

LEAFS HAVE CHANCE

"Hooley" Smith Will Be Out of Series With Hawks

(By A. E. Fulford, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

By a kick of his skate one of Conny Smythe's Leafs may have turned a tide, that will carry the Tornotonians on to another National Hockey League title.

In much the same accidental fashion Red Dutton of New York Americans made himself a possible factor in Montreal Maroons' fate by breaking Hooley Smith's right thumb in the last game he played this season.

Tonight in Boston it will be shown, whether the unidentified player, whose skate struck Babe Siebert on the instep Saturday night and took the Boston defenceman out of action has given the Leafs an edge they can turn into victory.

Leafs Possible Favorites

If they tie the series Leafs will return home for the next game Thursday as favorites to take the championship. And it may be largely because Siebert won't be on that Boston defence tonight to play most of the game beside Eddie Shore.

On Shore will fall the responsibility of taking up most of his load Siebert carried Saturday night when Bruins won a 1-0 overtime victory. His only aides will be Tommy McInenly and Pinkie Davis unless Frank Patrick brings up Joe Jerwa and Jack Portland from Boston Cubs or drops centreman Nels Stewart back to the defence. It is a load only a Shore would be asked to carry.

Dutton's long-distance part in the Stanley Cup playdowns may come out tonight, when Maroons meet Black Hawks at Chicago in their sudden-death game.

Smith was out of the game Saturday, when Hawks and Maroons played a scoreless tie in the first game at Montreal and he will be on the sidelines with his broken thumb again tonight.

Maroons Weakened

Maroons undoubtedly are weakened by the loss of the smart veteran centre but they figure they can take the series even without him, when Hawks open up the play before their hometown crowd. It probably will be part of Tommy Gormans strategy to wait for Hawks to make the breaks, playing defensive hockey until they do. After Sunday's battle royal in New York Montrealers are looking for a bruising struggle tonight between Rangers and Canadiens in their playdown between third place teams.

Bill Cook, hero of the first ame with his third-period goal that gave Rangers their 2-1 advantage, will go into tonight's battle with his head swathed in bandages covering the eightstitch cut Nels Crutchfield's stick inflicted.

The 29-year-old veteran right winger showed Sunday the injury didn't affect his shooting eye and Canadiens aren't hopeful that it will tonight.

The Habitants, however, figure themselves sure winners on the basis of their season's record against the New Yorkers. Observers looked for a wide-open game, when Habitants start out early to make up the one-goal margin Rangers hold.

* * *

Y. M. C. A. ALLEYS

In the Ladies' Afternoon League Just Us got three points to the Y Ladies one.

In the C.N.R. League the Locomotives got all four points from the Rip Track.

Ladies' Afternoon

Y Ladies 1 point
Doe	112	121	115—348
Mrs. Houston	153	211	137—501
Mrs. Richards	155	168	128—451
Mrs. Logan	155	118	133—406
Mrs. Morgan	121	127	129—377
Total			2083
Just Us 3 points
Mrs. Wilson	142	138	137—417
Mrs. Cooke	161	93	126—380
Mrs. Gilbert	129	127	158—414
Mrs. Watkin	185	150	134—469
Mrs. Robson	135	142	134—411
Total			2091
C.N.R.
Locomotives 4 points
A. Rowbottum	182	207	153—542
O. Adams	205	218	153—576
G. Shaw	132	116	163—411
A. Jones	174	144	249—567
A. Meens	181	237	152—570
Total			2656
Rip Track 0 points
B. Bunton	200	139	192—531
N. Storms	148	176	143—467
E. Drumm	120	193	115—428
A. Knott	174	254	191—619
W. Mantle	140	99	169—408
Total			2453

Recreation Alleys

SWAAC LEAGUE

Radio, 4 pts—E. Summers 545; D. Lee 519; J. Barclay 528; T. Colden 602; H. Evans 503. Total 2697.

Automatic, 0 pts—L. Turner 492; J. Allin 479; W. Page 388; W. Flagler 552; R. Kemp 504. Total 2415.

Office, 3 pts—H Brown 491; R. Lennox 577; W. Riston 556; F. Ethier 552; O. Milroy 486. Total 2602.

Plant, 1 pt—G. Sinfield 440; R. Belnap 616; C. Allen 489; W. Hammett 492; D. Ford 523. Total 2560.

Kingston, 4 pts—R. Gray 575; H. Veale 542; B. Dodd 744; H. Meher 446; O. Simpson 594. Total 2901.

Belleville, 0 pts—J. Shappee 563; G. Proctor 612; E. Goodier 393; C. Corby 440; V. Smith 437. Total 2445

Kingston, 3 pts—H. Swain 685; J. Holland 623; T. Mercier 563; L. Swain 439; R. Helsby 529. Total 2739.

Belleville—C. Scopis 555; J. Black 429; C. Peck 491; V. Huffman 456; W. Walshe 626. Total 2557.

Ladies' League

Loblaw, 1 pt—F. Walden 542; J. Croft 469; J. Fordyce 508; E. Ross 400. Total 1918.

Lucky Strikes, 3 pts—H. Blaind 434; M. Kelleher 550; J. Kellleher 460; T. Wardaugh 460; M. White 373. Total 1967.

Ciceri and Bolton, 0 pts—D. Canning 510; M. Charlton 537; B. Sharnon 527; P. Donaldson 357; E. Scott 445. Total 2373.

Cisco, 4 pts—E. Carmichael 613; M. Saylor 573; P. Johnston 443; N. Saylor 368; M. Carmichael 638. Total 2635.

Mixed League

As They Come, 4 pts—B. Johnston 416; P. Johnston 528; B. Hardwick 543; M. Carmichael 465; A. Meins 618; H. Blaind 472. Total 3042.

Cash, 0 pts—Mrs. Browning 315; R. Burrow 378; Mrs. Wesley 189; A. Wesley 714; E. Rawson 284; R. Browning 490. Total 2570.

Rindy Dinks, 1 pt—E. Smith 378; M. Rowe 506; L. Pickle 464; J. Rundle 425. Total 1773.

Kat En Jammbers 3 pts—H. Summers 472; C. Bryant 634; A. Tompkins 584; H. Graydon 445. Total 2136.

AFRAID to marry George...!

● Of course she loves him—but she fears taking a chance with their happiness. If George is so careless about his appearance—tries to get by without shaving—how can he ever succeed in business? Employers won't tolerate stubble—will not place confidence in a man who doesn't keep clean-shaven.

Today the only men who dread shaving regularly are the comparatively few who have not yet had the pleasure of using the Gillette "Blue Blade." Regular users of this blade know how gently, smoothly it removes stubble ... and permits daily, or even twice daily shaving... without pull or irritation. This is because today's Gillette "Blue Blade" is scientifically ground, honed and stropped to produce the finest shaving edge ever put on a razor blade. Buy Gillette "Blue Blades" today.

Highest Quality Positively Guaranteed

Gillette Blue Blades

Now 5 for 25¢ · 10 for 50¢

Three Players Given Transfers To Play With Local Ball Team

James Barclay, Catcher, Held up Till Later Meeting

Hamilton, March 26. —(CP)— Many high-class amateur baseball players are included in the list of transfers approved by a meeting of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association executive here, and with certain reservations the transfers affect all parts of the province. In the case of players applying for a change or residence from clubs in the St. Lawrence Valley League, they must first secure transfers from the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association before, the O.B.A.A. can consider their cases.

Maxwell McIntyre of London, Ont., was granted reinstatement subject to the approval of the A.A.U. of C., and William Nesbitt, of Owen Sound, had his application for reinstatement refused.

The O.B.A.A. executive will meet in Kitchener, Friday, April 5, at four pm., and the annual meeting of the association will be held in Kitchener on Saturday, April 6, at 9.30 a.m.

Transfers Granted

Players granted a change of residence:

Edward Hicks, Windsor, to Bowmanville.

Dominic Vitone, Parry Sound to Webbwood.

Jos. Douglas, North Bay, to Webbwood.

Archie J. Deyell, Peterboro to Sudbury.

Fred Murray, Chatham, to Tilbury

Clayton Knapp, Ingersoll to Tilbury.

Roy Leader, Guelph, to Owen Sound.

John Jones, Guelph, to Owen Sound.

Joseph Sullivan, Brantford to Owen Sound.

Stanley Jaske, New York to Toronto.

John M. Murray, Peterboro, to Toronto.

R. J. Russell, Owen Sound to Toronto.

Arthur Scarlett, Belleville to Napanee.

Arthur Calhoun, Toronto, to Belleville.

Harold J. Hanson, Toronto, to Belleville.

Oscar McIlroy, Toronto to Belleville.

George Owen, Detroit to Peterboro.

Arthur Lepper, Toronto to Peterboro.

Charles Kearns, Toronto, to Peterboro.

Edward Murphy, Toronto, to Peterboro.

Harold V. Le Surf, Toronto, to Peterboro.

George W. Neil, Toronto to West Lorne.

Clarence Schilling, Southampton, to Oakville.

Gordon Travis, Milestone, Sask, to Oakville.

Lawrence Parent Kitchener, to Belle River.

Vernon Bishop, Napanee to Picton.

Kenneth Lampman, Hagersville, to Aylmer.

John Webster, Simcoe to Brantford.

Ruben Axsmith, Toronto to Brantford.

Joseph Krakaukas, Hamilton to Brantford.

Ambrose Sansone, Niagara Falls to St. Thomas.

Francis Garvie, Sandwich to Owen Sound.

Decisions Delayed

Applications for change of residence laid over until a later meeting:

Alex Thompson, Chesley, to Southampton.

Elwood Lee, Carleton Place, to Toronto.

Vincent H. McQuaide, Brockville, to Kingston.

Edward Compeau, Brockville to Kingston.

Bud Clancey, Brockville to Kingston.

David Innis, Toronto to Oshawa.

Russell Jubenville, Kirkland Lake, to Oshawa.

Douglass Mays, Kirkland Lake to Oshawa.

James Barclay, Toronto, to Belleville.

Alfred Noble, Beaverton to Southampton.

Charles Udell, Brockville, to St. Thomas.

Gordon W. Weeks, Brockville, to St. Thomas.

John Colvin, Hanover, to Wingham.

Martin Galimberti, Toronto to Sudbury.

Fred Batten, Peterboro, to Sudbury.

Garnet B. Johnston, Petrolia to Mooretown.

Two Refused

Applications for change of residence refused:

Delbert Anderson, Toronto to Southampton.

Wm. Nesbitt, Detroit to Owen Sound.

FASTEST SKATER IS HOWIE MORENZ WRITERS VOTE

Toronto Maple Leafs Have Best Front Line

CONNELL NAMED

'Ching' Johnson is Called The Unluckiest Player

By ELMER DULMAGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, March 26—(CP)—A supplemantary write-in to the annual Canadian Press all-star player poll has produced a few startling results and what most people will regard as proof, that nobody knows who is the fasters skater in hockey.

Sports writers around the National League circuit reviewed the fleetest men in the game—Hec Kilrea, Buzz Boll of Toronto, Mush March of Chicago, George Mantha of Canadiens, Cecil Dillon of Rangers. But they gave more votes to old Howie Morenz of the Black Hawks than to any one else.

Morenz, who would have won a poll of this kind without any opposition four or five years ago, caught the eye of six writers with his occasional bursts of blinding speed this season. If the result proved anything, it was, that no successor has yet appeared to the Morenz of yesteryear.

Howie's six ballots were taken from a total of 23. The Chunky Boll, former Regina Pats star, had one less and Kilrea—Ottawa's "hurricane Hec"—ran third with three. March and George Mantha received two apiece.

The write-in revealed that Charlie Conacher, Joe Primeau and Harvey Jackson of the Leafs may still be regarded as the N.H.L.'s greatest forward line that the unluckiest player of this season was Ching Johnson of Rangers; that Alex Connell scored the best comeback of 1934-35 and that there isn't a stickhandler in the league to compare with Aurel Joliat of Canadiens—unless it is Chicago's Johnny Gottselig.

Toronto Has Best Line

The "kid line" received 17 out of 24 votes as the league's best front division. Three ballots were cast for the Cooks-Boucher trio, Lester Patrick's oldsters, who were accorded top honors two seasons back, and the flighty Aurie-Weiland-Lewis formation of Detroit Red Wings.

This has been a year of fine comebacks by such as Connell, Bill Cook, Eddie Shore, Babe Siebert and John Ross Roach, but the great record of Connell, who retired after the 1933 season and spent a full season away from the game stood out. The Maroon goalie's rally attracted eight voters compared with three each for Shore, the elder Cook and Siebert.

One writer called Syd Howe the unluckiest player of the season for being a member of St. Louis Eagles so long, but outside of that notion the critics were almost unanimous in naming the burly Johnson, whose leg infection kept him on the sidelines for month. Ching is trying to make a comeback now in the playoffs.

Twenty-five writers gave their views on the best stickhandler and nine called Joliat, the lightweight, who put in an extremely useful season for Canadiens without Morenz beside him. It was the second straight year the tiny veteran won this division.

Gottselig was given six votes, Frank Boucher of Rangers four, Bun Cook of Rangers and Art Chapman of New York Americans two each. Single votes were cast for Jackson of Toronto and Nels Stewart of Boston.

* * *

HOCKEY SCORES

Allan Cup Eliminations

Toronto All-Stars 3; Ottawa Canadiens 2.

First of two-out-of-three-games series.

O.H.A. Intermediate A Final

Toronto Royals 4; Niagara Falls 2

Royals win series and championship.

Women's Canadian Final

Preston Riv's 7; Winnipeg Eaton's 1.

First game.

* * *

Beethoven Sketch of "King Stephen" Found by Dealer

New York March 26.—(CP)—David Schwartz, dealer in second hand furniture, paid 50 cents for a yellowed manuscript in German a while back. Today Schwartz was quite pleased. The German handwriting is an apparently genuine 1811 sketch by Ludwig Beethoven, German composer, for the opening of a chorus to his oratorio "King Stephen".

Dr. Carleton Sprague Smith, chief of the music division of New York Public Library, said its value to collectors might be several hundred dollars.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

Some person once said "A man's best friend is his dog" At least there is one man in Belleville, who has reason to believe this proverb following a surprising incident, that happened in Belleville last week. It seems, that Mr. Stewart Robertson of this city was taking his Springer Spaniel "Nickie" out for an airing the other evening. Mr. Robertson usually amuses himself, and perhaps "Nickie" enjoys it too, by tossing sticks which the dog retrieves with the utmost speed and alacrity. Upon the night in question, Mr. Robertson and "Nickie" had been frolicking near the corner of Queen and Ann Sts. with Nickie showing his usual interest in the matter of retrieving them. Subsequently the master called "nuff" and they started homeward but Nickie repeatedly jumped up alongside Mr. Robertson with an object in his mouth, indicating that he still wanted to play. After taking the dog into the house however, Nickie still persisted he wanted his master to relieve him of the object in his mouth. When Mr. Robertson finally reached down to receive the object he was agreeably surprised, when Nickie dropped a one dollar bill into his hand. The bill had been rolled up into a small bundle.

On Friday next three local collegiate basketball teams leave for Toronto, where they will compete in the C.O.S.S.A. basketball play-downs The Girls' senior team the boys' senior and junior teams all won their respective cage groups in the Bay of Quinte loop and are entitled to represent their school as group champions. Incidently the Trenton junior girls won their group and will look after the junior honors of the east. Coach Geo. Laughlin is staging exhibition games for his two group champions this evening at the Collegiate versus the Napanee students in order to get in a little practice. Insofar as the local girls' squad is concerned, they have been somewhat idle since the winning of their senior group title away back last December and the long lay-off will in no way assist them despite the fact that the local collegiate lassies have been playing the odd exhibition game throughout the season. Coach Miss Allison has a shifty band of hoopsters, but is handicapped by the fact that the girls' schedule in the Bay of Quinte group is always played in the fall of the year while the C.O.S.S.A. play downs are not played until the following March or April. It is hardly fair that the boys' group should monopolize the winter season every year. Would it not be fair to alternate each year with the girls as in seasons past the feminine cagers at the local B.C.I. and V.S. could always be depended upon to make a creditable showing in the C.O.S.S.A. play-downs, despite the fact they were forced to remain idle from December until along in April.

We observe where Doug May, "Red" Jubenville and "Lefty" Innis have taken up residence in Oshawa and are expected out with the ex-Dukes this year. Yes, we mean ex-Dukes and simply because the Oshawa seniors will fly a new banner this summer. President Hugh Brown has not as yet announced the new monicker to be attached the Motor City crew, but 'tis safe in saying it will also be a commercialized team. Getting back to Jubenville, we wonder if he is the same outfielder, who was hit on the head with Stan Hagerman's lofty fly in Guelph, when the Nationals won the senior O. B. A. A. title versus the Walkerville Chicks in 1928? That memorial day Hagerman met one fairly on the nose and hoisted the 'apple' high up and far away. Jubenville, playing in the outer garden, raced after the fleeting spheroid and managed to get directly under it, but he had run so far in circles that he was dizzy and the pellett descended to hit him squarely on the top of the head. Stan took three bases and two runs scampered over the platter. Incidently Doug May is reputed to be a mightly classy infielder, however. Dame Rumour tells us, that Joe Daly is to return to his old love, baseball and once again guide the destinies of the Kingston Ponies. Any team headed by the grey-thatched Limestone City maestro can always be counted upon as a threat, as Daly is one of the best leaders ever to grace the C.O.B.L. Naturally the fans can look for many verbal arguments and flare-ups, when Knotty Lee and Joe Daly clash, that is if Joe is actually and seriously contemplating a return to the game. He would add much to the punch of the now-powerful Ponies.

Unofficially, it is learned plans are being considered to stage an exhibition football game between Sarnia Imperials, Canadian champions, and University of Michigan next fall at Ann Arbor. The proposal is to play one half under Canadian rules and the other under American.

Yesterday the Oshawa Majors refused to compete in any further play-offs suggested by the O. H. A. and hung up their paraphernalia for the season. Undoubtedly the Oshawa situation has done much to cause unrest in the ranks of the O.H.A. and coming on the heels of the decision of the Brockville Magedomas, who are leaving the O.H.A. next season to compete in the Quebec branch of the C.A.H.A., there may be trouble aplenty for the O. H. A. in Eastern Ontario in seasons to come. For the past few years there has been much unrest on the part of hockey moguls in the east following alleged mistreatment at the hands of the parent body. Although we do not altogether agree with the decision of the Oshawa club in folding up, they did have a logical objection in the matter of the Sudbury club playing three 'late comers', when the rules called for only two under the new N.O.H.A. ruling. On the other hand the Kitchener "Greenshirts" also have a logical kick, when they demand a right to play in the Memorial Cup play-downs, if they are awarded the junior O.H.A. title. The entire tangle seems to hinge around the fact that the O.H.A. tried to take the easy way out of a difficult situation and found themselves facing more complications than they really seemed able to handle.

Secretary Bill Snyder released the O. B. A. A. transfer list today, which finds the Belleville seniors being awarded the services of three of their four applicants. Sixteen transfers were held up in Ontario, Jim Barclay of this city being one of them. Barclay came to Belleville where he procured legitimate employment, he being unable to procure employment in his native city. Of course Barclay's transfer was merely held up until he could definitely establish this point, which will be taken care of by his employers in the near future. Naturally there will be a cry go up from Kingston, as three of their applicants were "held up" for further investigation. It must be remembered that Clancy, Compeau and McQuade played in an outlaw loop last year and will have to clear their own skirts before coming back into the O.B.A.A. They had plenty of warning before leaving for the "big mod led" loop.

At the Training Grounds

(By Allan Gould)

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

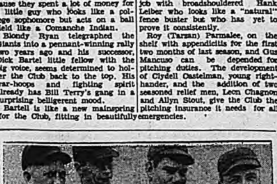
New Orleans, March 26.— (AP)— New York Giants will be stronger, tougher and louder this season in their battle to regain the National League Championship, mainly because they spent a lot of money for a little guy who looks like a college sophomore but acts on a ball field like a Comanche Indian.

Blondy Ryan telegraphed the Giants into a pennant-winning rally two years ago and his successor, Dick Bartel little fellow with the big voice, seems determined to holler the Club back to the top. His war-hoops and fighting spirit already has Bill Terry's gang in a surprising belligerent mood.

Bartell is like a new mainspring for the Club, fitting in beautifully with the Veteran Travis Jackson, Hughey Critz and Terry around the infield but he is not the only reason why the Giants figure to have at least an even chance of unseating the current world champions.

Terry has solved the centrefield problem by getting George Davis back from the Phillies to share the job with broadshouldered Hank Leiber who looks like a "natural" fence buster but who has yet to prove it consistently.

Roy (Tarzan) Parmalee, on the shelf with appendicitis for the first two months of last season, and Gus Mancuso can be depended for pitching duties. The development of Clydell Castelman, young right-hander, and the addition of two seasoned relief men, Leon Chagnon and Allyn Stout, give the Club the pitching insurance it needs for all emergencies.



FOUR PHILS—Phil pitchers are pictured at Winter Haven, Fla. LEFT to RIGHT, Syl Johnson, Curt Davis, Euel Moore and Phil Collins.

QUINTUPLETS GUARDED

Callander, Ont., March 26—(CP)—Two men guarded the Dafoe hospital, home of the Dionne quintuplets last night, as a safeguard against kidnapping of the famous babies. No untoward happenings were reported.

CLOTHIERS OF QUALITY

NOTHING LIKE A NEW

Spring Hat

TO BANISH THE THOUGHT OF THE PAST WINTER

Every Smart Color; Every New Color; Every Smart Style; Every New Style is here

Quick & Robertson

First in Style, Quality and Reasonable Price.

Let Miss Andree Show You the

STEWART - WARNER "Daventry"

with the remarkable EASY-CHAIR CONTROL feature—at the Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School in the Capitol Theatre

THREE MORE DAYS ONLY

March 27, 28, and 29 at 1.30 p.m.

Hundreds are thronging to hear Miss Andree—and not the least among the many special attractions to this year's school is her fascinating demonstration of this really superb radio. Whether you plan to secure a new set or not, you'll find it most interesting to visit the school and hear and see the Daventry in operation.

The Daventry is the leading model in a complete Stewart-Warner line of battery and A.C. radios priced from $69.50 to $179.50—all made in Belleville.

Big "A" Company, Ltd.

217 FRONT ST. PHONE 254

Daily Short Story

SACRIFICE

(Copyright 1935 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

"Yes, sir, strange tales come out of the sea. Tales of horror and death. Acts of heroism that are unparalleled on land. The sea does strange things to man, too. I don't know just what it is that gets into his blood, but there's a certain something in the sea air that makes a man feel greater— on a higher plane than the average.

Being around these parts for high onto seventy-five years I hear some strange stories of heroism and some tales too—of cowardice. I can spin yarns abut fishing and love— but today I have a story that's different.

You remember that flaming horror—the ship that burned completely to the water's edge and sank about eighty miles off shore—well, this is about that ship. A story of a man's love for a woman and life. Probably there wasn't anybody else on that ship who remembers just what happened but one of the rescued stewards told me of the conversation he had and I pieced the rest together and got the story.

Honeymoon

Bob Simmons and his wife, Elsa, had been married for two years before business would allow them to enjoy a honeymoon. Of course, they would enjoy it more when they got it that way—I guess that was the way they felt about it too—so they decided to spend a week just sailing the seas. Both loved the water.

Bob booked passage for two weeks' cruise on the "Victory" a magnificent new ship just starting on her maiden voyage. Happy and carefree they packed and prepared for the trip. Well, I guess if they could have foreseen the course of events that were to take place on the ship, they would have postponed that happy honeymoon trip indefinitely. But morals are not possessed with occult powers.

The sun was just sinking to rest in the west when the ship left the dock. The usual large crowds were on hand to wish them bon voyage. The happy couple on their belated honeymoon waved goodbye to their friends.

The whistle shilled and the boat moved slowly out into the water. None knew that it was a farewell for some. The first few days were heavenly of Bob and Elsa as they played and romped like kids on the decks. No thought of the impending danger that was to overtake them.

Elsa and Bob were asleep when the shill scream of the fire siren brought them to wakefulness with a start. "Fire on the ship," ran through Bob's mind. "I wonder how bad it is."

Last lifeboat

Dressing quickly Bob helped Elso with the life preserver. As they opened their cabin door a gush of wind carried a cloud of smoke into their faces. Gasping for breath and rubbing their smarting eyes the pair made their way to the supper deck. As they stood on the stern they could see the entire bow of the ship in flames.

"To the lifeboats" was the cry.

They hurried to the side of the ship—already several life-boats were in the water—some people were leaping into the sea—anything to get away from that roaring inferno. Bob and Elso rushed to the other side oft he ship. They could feel the red hot decks beneath. A steward called, "We have room for just two in this lifeboat—this is the last boat. Hurry."

Bob helped Elsa in and was about to climb in himself when a frantic woman clutched his arm. Bob stepped back as she sobbed:

"Let me in—help me—I must get into that boat—me and my child."

"But"....not understanding. "You are alone—you"..Then understanding came.

Over the frantic pleadings of his wife Bob helped the woman into the place that was to be his.

"Lower away!" he shouted.

The pulleys screamed as the boat settled toward the water. The steward who had stayed behind and Bob sought other means of escape—but there was none. One small chance—leaping into the icy waters—they would have to chance that.

As they stood on the deck before leaping, the steward turned to Bob and said, "Man, you've got guts—giving up your place like that."

A strange smile hovered on Bob's lips before he answered:

"That woman was going to have a baby—give it a chance to live—it will be better this way—I know because my wife is going to have a baby, too. You see, my wife always said she didn't want anything to happen to her—I guess that woman felt the same."

With that Bob leaped into the water—leaped to his death.

Proves His Evidence

WILLIAM J. TRACEY

Of 400 St. Clarens Avenue, Toronto, who testified under oath how Fruit-a-tives rid him of Rheumatism from which he used to suffer so badly he could hardly walk upstairs or close his hands. Mr. Tracey gave the statement of his experience under oath before a notary to convince everyone of its truth. He relates, "I suffered so badly from rheumatism and neuritis I could hardly walk upstairs or close my hands. After takini Fruit-a-tives for four days the swelling left my hands and I was able to climb a ladder. I have no more bother with rheumatism or neuritis and advise any person suffering as I have to use Fruit-a-tives. They give quick relief."

Copy of Mr. Tracey's complete sworn statement will be sent on request. Write Fruitatives Limited, Ottawa, Canada.

FRUIT-A-TIVES—25c and 50c EVERYWHERE

PLAINFIELD NEWS OF THE WEEK-END

Plainfield—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hamilton and Elsie attended the wedding of Miss Cole and Mr. Pounder in Cannifton Church on Saturday afternoon at 4 p.m. by Rev. Merrick.

Communion service was held on Sunday evening.

Dr. Wilson Lloyd of Chesterville and Mr. Frank Lloyd of Toronto called on their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hamilton and Elsie on Sunday.

Mrs. J. Moore, sang "The Old Rugged Cross' and choir joined in the chorus at Sunday evening service.

Mrs. Walter Hall and Mrs. Gerald Swan spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Elliott.

The W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. J. W. Hamilton on Wednesday afternoon with an atendance of 24 adults and nine children.

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Denyes spent Friday with Mrs. Erle Denyes.

CENTRE HASTINGS MINISTERS MEET

The Centre Hastings Ministerial Society met at the home of Rev. W. G. Rivers, Madoc, on Monday afternoon, March 18.

Rev. E. W. Rowland of Stirling led an interesting discussion on Pastoral Work. Mrs. Rivers served a dainty lunch at the close of the discussion.

Among those present were, Rev. P. C. Beazer and Mrs. Beazer, Rev. W. Fletcher, Rev. H. W. Foley and Mrs. Foley Rev. H. B. Herrington and Mrs. Herrington, Rev. W. A. Hunter and Mrs. Hunter, Rev. F. Joblin, Rev. H. Lackey, Rev. A. S. McConnell and Mrs. McConnell, Rev. E. W. Rowland and Mrs. Rowland, Rev. Canon W. G. Swayne and Mrs. Swayne, Rev. A. S. Doggett.

Little Benny's Note Book

Me and Puds Simkins was sitting on Mary Watkinses front taeps tawking to her, me saying funny things and making her laugh and Puds butting in to try to prove he was wonderful, and he started to brag about his twin cousins, saying, They're grate guys all rite, G, wizzickers they haff to wear diffrent color neckties because that's the ony way their father and mother can tell wich one they're tawking to and wich one they aint.

My imagine, isn't that wonderful, my, Mary Watkins said, and I said, Aw, what's that, I know 2 twins and they look so much alike their favoorite indoor sport is jumping around in front of a looking glass and trying to tell wich is wich.

Goodness, I never heard of such a thing, goodness, Mary Watkins said, and Puds said, O yes, like fun, what's their name if you know them? and I said. Their name is the Skrumbunker twins.

O yeah? Bullony, Puds said, My cousins look so much alike why G wizz they take each others lickings, or I mean anyways at least Ned takes Ted's lickings because Ned's tuffer, and Ted gives him 2 cents for every licking he takes for him. Puds said, and I said, Well what of it, these Skrumbunker twins get so mixed up that sevreel times they couldn't even tell themselfs apart from each other, and their mother and father dont even know yet whether they ever get them straighened out strate.

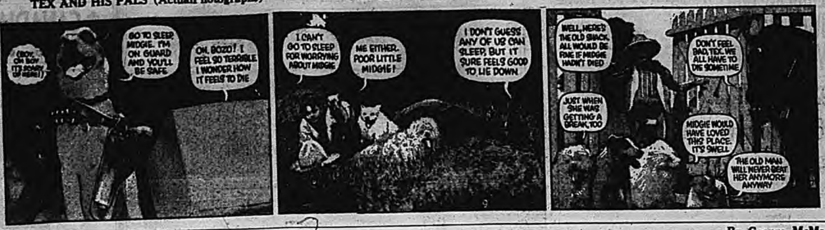
Mersey, my gracious, think of that, heavens, Mary Watkins said, and Puds said, Well if they cant tell themselfs apart then I guess you want to try to say they dont even know their own names? and I said, Sure they do, ony their names is both unlike for the simple reason why because they're both named Albit, so that's how much alike they are, they're so much alike even their names are alike.

Being the end of the argewment in my favor.

TEX AND HIS PALS (ActualPhotographs)

Poor Little Midgie Dies

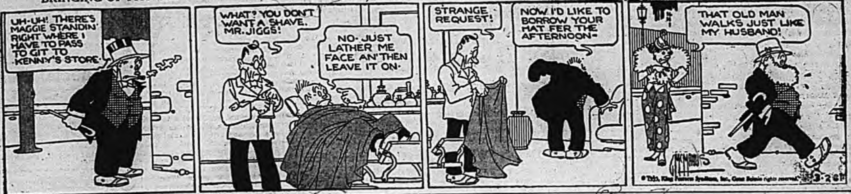
By Leslie A. Hill



Copyright, 1935, by Harper Features, Dallas, Texas, U.S.A. All Rights Reserved
(BOY, OH BOY IT'S SCARY UP HERE!)
GO TO SLEEP MIDGIE. I'M ON GUARD AND YOU'LL BE SAFE
OH, BOZO! I FEEL SO TERRIBLE I WONDER HOW IT FEELS TO DIE
I CAN'T GO TO SLEEP FOR WORRYING ABOUT MIDGIE
ME EITHER. POOR LITTLE MIDGIE!
I DON'T GUESS ANY OF US CAN SLEEP, BUT IT SURE FEELS GOOD TO LIE DOWN
WELL, HERE'S THE OLD SHACK. ALL WOULD BE FINE IF MIDGIE HADN'T DIED
JUST WHEN SHE WAS GETTING A BREAK, TOO
DON'T FEEL BAD, TEX. WE ALL HAVE TO DIE SOMETIME
MIDGIE WOULD HAVE LOVED THIS PLACE. IT'S SWELL
THE OLD MAN WILL NEVER BEAT HER ANYMORE ANYWAY

BRINGING UP FATHER—

By George McManus



UH-UH! THERE'S MAGGIE STANDIN' RIGHT WHERE I HAVE TO PASS TO GIT TO KENNY'S STORE.
WHAT? YOU DON'T WANT A SHAVE. MR. JIGGS!
NO - JUST LATHER ME FACE AN' THEN LEAVE IT ON.
STRANGE REQUEST!
NOW I'D LIKE TO BORROW YOUR HAT FER THE AFTERNOON-THAT OLD MAN WALKS JUST LIKE MY HUSBAND!
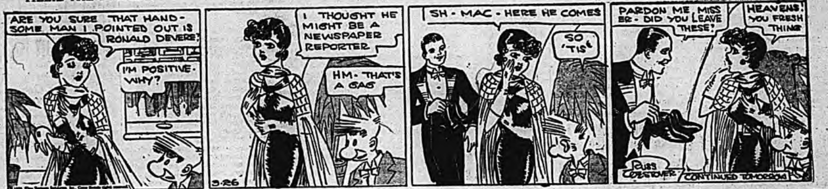
McMANUS
© 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved. 3-26

TILLIE THE TOILER—

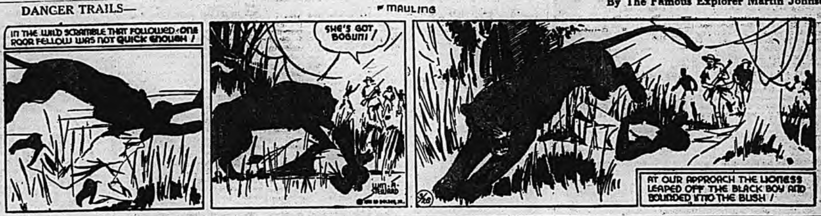
By Russ Westover



ARE YOU SURE THAT HANDSOME MAN I POINTED OUT IS RONALD DEVERE?
I'M POSITIVE. WHY?
I THOUGHT HE MIGHT BE A NEWSPAPER REPORTER
HM - THAT'S A GAG
SH - MAC - HERE HE COMES
SO 'TIS
PARDON ME MISS ER - DID YOU LEAVE THESE?
HEAVENS! YOU FRESH THING
3-26
RUSS WESTOVER
CONTINUED TOMORROW

DANGER TRAILS—

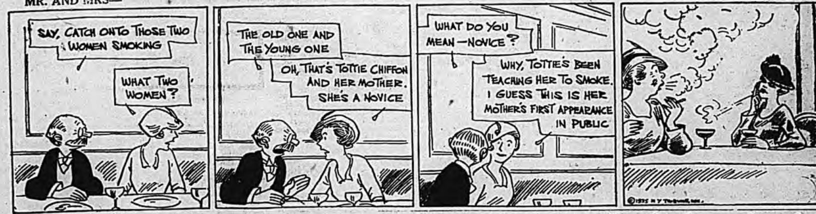
By The Famous Explorer Martin Johnson



MAULING
IN THE WILD SCRAMBLE THAT FOLLOWED ONE POOR FELLOW WAS NOT QUICK ENOUGH!
SHE'S GOT BOGUNI!
WM. A. STEWARD
AT OUR APPROACH THE LIONESS LEAPED OFF THE BLACK BOY AND BOUNDED INTO THE BUSH!
3/26

MR. AND MRS—

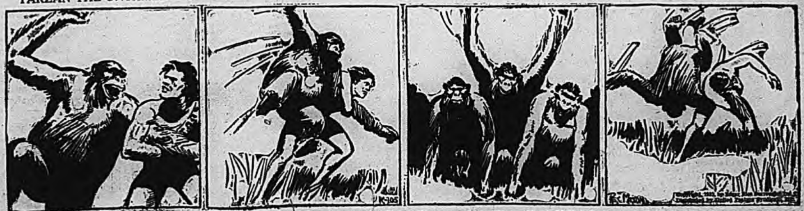
By Briggs



SAY, CATCH ONTO THOSE TWO WOMEN SMOKING
WHAT TWO WOMEN?
THE OLD ONE AND THE YOUNG ONE
OH, THAT'S TOTTIE CHIFFON AND HER MOTHER. SHE'S A NOVICE
WHAT DO YOU MEAN —NOVICE?
WHY, TOTTIE'S BEEN TEACHING HER TO SMOKE. I GUESS THIS IS HER MOTHER'S FIRST APPEARANCE IN PUBLIC
©1935 N Y TRIBUNE, INC.

TARZAN THE UNTAMED—

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)



Tarzan's hold upon the king ape might easily have broken its great bones. It left Go-lat helpless! "I am Tarzan of the Apes!" screamed the ape-man. "Shall Tarzan dance in peace or shall Tarzan kill?" "I kill! I kill!" still shrieked Go-lat.

With cat-like quickness Tarzan swung the huge beast over one hip and sent him sprawling to the ground. "Iam Tarzan, King of ALL the Apes!" he shouted. "Shall it be peace?" Go-lat, infuriated, leaped to his feet and charged again, screaming.

Tarzan met him with a sudden hold that the stupid bull, being ignorant of, could not possibly avert, a hold and a throw that brought screams of delight from the interested audience and suddenly filled the girl with doubts as to the man's madness.

Evidently he was quite safe among the great apes, for she saw him swing Go-lat to his back and then catapult him over his shoulder. The king ape fell upon his head and lay very still. Then the ape-man shouted again his offer of peace.

MEMBERS AMEND POWER ACT AFTER DIVISION FORCED

Government Has Right to Appoint to Local Hydro Commissions

L.C.A. IS AMENDED

One Man Commission Appointed to Operate T. N. and O.

Toronto, March 26—(CP)—Legislation confirming appointments of the Ontario Government to local Hydro Commissions was a step nearer the statute books today following second reading given to the bill of Minister of Highways T. B. McQuesten to amend the Power Commission Act with this end in view.

Conservatives who have attacked the measure persistently forced a division before second reading could be given late yesterday but government forces triumphed by 42-15.

Hydro occupied legislators for most of the session yesterday. Discussion started early on a motion of Opposition Leader George S. Henry to adjourn the House for consideration of Attorney-General A. W. Roebuck's institution of a series of broadcast addresses. The debate continued when Mr. McQuesten's motion was introduced.

The lengthy Throne Speech debate was scheduled to close today with Opposition Leader and Provincial Secretary H. C. Nixon winding up the discussion that started last month.

Separate Hydro Demanded

Demand for separation of Hydro from politics came from Mr. Ellis. He criticized the government for dismissing three members of local commissions: Willoughby Ellis of Hamilton; P. D. Ross of Ottawa and Loftus Reid of Toronto.

"A fundamental condition of public ownership is it should be without political character," said Mr. Ellis.

Premier Hepburn replied Conservatives had dismissed civil servants, including several deputy ministers, following the federal election of 1930. After the last provincial election defeated Conservative candidates were given federal posts, one of them going to his defeated opponent in Elgin, Dr. H. J. Davis who received an appointment to the Board reviewing Farmers' Debts.

Second reading was given yesterday to Mr. Roebuck's bill to amend the Justices of the Peace Act. It provides for abolition of property qualifications, allowing the official to act for more than one county and deprives of salaried justices any fees they might collect.

The Attorney-General said a bill would be introduced shortly to give all members of the legislature power to take affidavits.

No 1936 Aspirations States Herbert Hoover

Washington, March 26.—(AP)—Former President Hoover was reported today to have told a friend here he has "no aspirations" to be the Republican candidate for President in 1936.

HITLER LIKENED TO THE SAVIOUR

Julius Streicher Regers to German's Sufferings, Love of Poor

Cologne, Germany, March 26.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler was compared with Jesus Christ in an address last night by Julius Streicher, Nazi leader and prominent anti-Semite.

Streicher delivered a bitter attack on world Jewry which he described as the "root of all evil".

The speaker likened Hitler's road to that of Christ, asking, "How could he have resurrected the nation if he had never suffered and never fought.

"Once they derided Christ, now certain gentlemen jeer at Hitler as a paper hanger."

"Hitler, like Christ," he said, "began speaking in small circles of poor and simple people which the rich avoided. The same thing is recurring today."

ALBERTA GOVERNMENT ESCAPES DEFEAT

Edmonton, March 26.—(CP)—By the slim margin of two votes the Alberta Government counted victory today after the closest shave from defeat in the 14 year's of its office.

Last night, with Premier R. G. Reid, head of the United Farmer Government, and J. E. Brownlee, former Premier, both absent, a quick vote was called in the Legislature. The Government survived by a 21-20 vote.

PREMIER STEADILY IMPROVES

Ottawa, March 26—(CP)—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett was reported today to have maintained the apparent steady improvement that has marked his condition for nearly two weeks. A medical bulletin was expected later in the day from his attending physician.

WHEN YOUR DAUGHTER COMES TO WOMANHOOD

Most girls in their teens need a tonic and regulator. Give your daughter Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the next few months. Teach her how to guard her health at this critical time. When she is a happy, healthy wife and mother she will thank you.

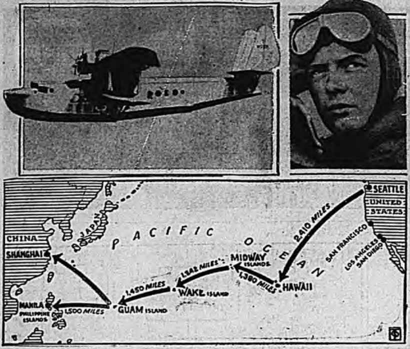
Sold at all good drug stores.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

THEY ARE HOLLYWOOD'S BEST-DRESSED

Vereo Teasdale has taken the place of the late Lilyan Tashman as the best-dressed woman in Hollywood and Adolphe Menjou has long been famous for his sartorial splendor. They are man and wife, which probably accounts for their impeccable dress, one being critical of the other. Here the happily-married couple is shown with their pet Great Dane. Miss Teasdale is wearing a gorgeous golfing outfit consisting of a jersey blouse with a Scotch plaid tweed skirt. White felt hat is matched with white buckskin spiked shoes. A silk neckerchief and black leather belt, together with white woollen socks, are the necessary accessories. Mr. Menjou is wearing the ever-popular herring-bone tweed jacket with patch pockets. Gray flannels and brown inverted calf shoes, with rubber soles, make this very comfortable outfit. A gray plaid flannel shirt with tie to match is a new note.

LINDBERGH MAY OPEN FIRST PACIFIC AIR LINE

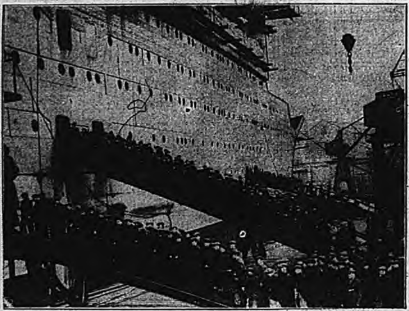


Map ABOVE shows the five island bases to be established in the Pacific for the first regular trans-Pacific mail and passenger air service, expected to be launched in July. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is expected to make the first experimental trans-Pacific flight over the new route. Photos show Colonel Lindbergh and a clipper ship of the type expected to be used in trans-Pacific service.

Ocean's "White Elephant" Withdrawn From Atlantic Service

Withdrawal of the giant passenger liner Leviathan from trans-Atlantic service and construction of a smaller and more popular cabin vessel to take her place has been arranged by an agreement between the United States Line, owners of the ship, and the American government. The 21-year-old floating palace reconditioned and fitted as an oil-burner in 1923, at a cost of $8,000,000, has become the "white elephant" of the shipping service. With a capacity of 2,646 passengers, she had only 690 first-class bookings eastbound in 1934 and in five ocean trips lost more than $500,000. Built in 1914 at Hamburg and christened Vaterland, the giant liner is over 906 feet long, with a tonnage of 48,942 tons.

NOT PASSENGERS BUT WORKERS ON NEW "QUEEN MARY"



A unique picture is presented by these long lines of workmen entering the vitals of the S. S. Queen Mary, giant passenger liner now nearing completion at Clydebank, Scotland. The picture might have been taken on sailing day, with passengers thronging the vessel through every port. However, these men are completing the finishing touches to the ship before it leaves on its maiden voyage. When complete it will be 1,018 feet long.

KANSAS DUST STORM "SNOWS" IN MACHINERY

American government agricultural agencies concentrated in a soil-anchoring campaign after dust storms brought millions of dollars damage to crops. Above, one of the results of the storm at Wilburton Kas.—a tractor almost "snowed in" by the dust which was piled in high drifts about the farm.

THE CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED

Store Hours: Open 9 a.m. Close 6 p.m. Saturday: Open 9 a.m. Close 9.30 p.m.

Eatonia The Byword to Good Value and Quality in Damask

Linen Table Cloths

One of the best regular selling lines in our complete stock of fine double damask linen table cloths. Here are gleaming satiny finished cloths, which are snowy white, and displaying a fine range of elegant patterns which "show off" your silverware to perfection. They bear the Eatonia label for "good value and good merchandise" and are priced unusually reasonable. Look for this label when buying your linens, it is your byword to Economy and quality. Note the cloth sizes.

72" x 72" Each 3.25 72" x 90" Each .. 3.95 72" x 108" Each .. 4.95

Napkins to match, 22" x 22", dozen 4.00

— Main floor, rear

Special Feature!

H. S. Linen Damask Cloths

A crowd-bringer, for early shoppers! Heavy weight fine quality linen damask cloths, size 68" x 86". Neatly hemstitched and patterns in a smart array of lovely designs. Special value, Wednesday, each 2.98

Note: H. S. Napkins to match .... dozen 2.98

—Main floor, rear

THE CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED

HAROLD CARTER OF PICTON KILLED

Head-on Crash With Street Car Occurs in Toronto Today

PICTON, March 26.—(Special)—Harold Carter, 32, of Picton, died in Toronto, General Hospital shortly after three a.m. today the result of injuries sustained when the truck, which he was driving crashed head-on into a street car on the outskirts of Toronto an hour previous. The young man was critically injured and did not regain consciousness, while the truck was badly damaged by the impact.

The unfortunate victim was a trucker and had left for Toronto with a load of merchandise on Sunday and was returning to Picton, when the accident happened. Taking a turn in the road, it is understood, the driver did not notice the approach of a street car and crashed head-on into the car. The late Mr. Carter was well and favorably known in Picton, where he has resided practically all his life. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Carter, his father being president of the Waupoos Canning Company, having been born in Prince Edward County. The deceased was a member of the United Church and leaves to mourn his wife, formerly Miss Myrtle Wheeler, his parents, two daughters, Helen and Catherine at home, one brother, Milton of Toronto, and three sisters, Miss Olive Carter of Montreal, nurse-in-training, Miss Dorothy Carter, teacher in Picton Collegiate Institute and Mrs. Carman Slack also of Picton. The body will be brought to Picton for interment.

Toronto, March 26—(CP)—Losing control of a large transport truck while taking a turn on the Kingston Road near St. John's Cemetery today, Harold Carter of Picton, Ont. collided head-on with a street car and was almost instantly killed. He was the 10th automobile accident victim in Toronto in 1935. After striking the trolley and knocking it from the tracks, the truck burst into flames.

~~White Space~~

Profits FOR SALE

. . . If You Run A Business, This Message Is For You

YOU, as a business man, are interested in profits. We, as a newspaper, are interested in helping you get them. We believe that furnishing profit-building ideas to make our white space more valuable to you is one of the biggest jobs we can do.

No one knows better than we do that no two advertising problems are precisely alike. But long experience has given us a very wide understanding of the buying habits of people who read newspapers. And so every selling idea The Ontario Intelligencer offers you has been given the same test: Has it sold goods to newspaper readers or hasn't it? This testing saves you money. It avoids wasted effort. It lowers your year-round selling cost.

Famous Meyer Both Service Free to You!

Many of these selling ideas are twice-tested. They are the ideas furnished by the Meyer Both advertising service; ideas that have been developed after research on a nation-wide scale. They are selling goods right now for merchants all over the United States and Canada. No one else but The Ontario Intelligencer advertisers may use these Meyer Both tested ideas in Belleville. No one else may utilize the illustrations, copy suggestions, layouts and merchandising plans which are your simply for the asking.

We want you to feel free to call upon our staff for help whenever you have an unusual advertising problem. Satisfying you keeps us in bread and butter. And that's what we're in business for.

The Ontario Intelligencer

THE WEATHER
Easterly winds; fair. Thursday—Moderate to fresh winds; partly cloudy; probably some light showers; not much change in temperature.

The Ontario Intelligencer

TEMPERATURES
Today
Max. 36; Min. 24.
Year Ago
Max. 41; Min. 26.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 27, 1935

BRITISH CABINET FACES GERMAN DEMANDS

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Halifax, March 27 (CP)— The unusual spectacle of a government sponsor of a contract bridge club's bill for incorporation asking the leader of the opposition to explain it was seen in the Nova Scotia Legislature yesterday. It happened that Conservative leader G. S. Harrington was a member of the club. He edged around the request, however, by saying he knew little of what the bill sought.

. . . .

Charlottetown, March 27 (CP)—Amendments to the Prince Edward Island Prohibition Act, unique in Canada, have been proposed by General H. F. McPhee in the Provincial Legislature. The bill, which was given its first reading, would make enforcement easier for police by allowing them to search premises without a warrant.

. . . .

Wichita, Kas., March 27 (CP)—The "bloomer girl" is back, but you'd hardly know the modest miss. She's streamlined. Instead of the black sateen, full pleated creation of yore, the modern number—as on display today at the United States basketball tournament here—differs little from the mannish shorts.

The principal difference is a bit of elastic that holds extremely short pants close about the thighs.

. . . .

New Orleans, March 27 (CP)—The pigeons of Lafayette Square look in vain for the kind old lady who fed them peanuts for 11 years.

She was a Mrs. Minnie Thomas 75, who made daily trips to the park. The birds became so tame they would flutter up to pick peanuts from between her lips. Mrs. Thomas died late Monday night in Charity Hospital.

. . . .

Philadelphia, March 27 (CP)—Police charge Frank Benham, 37, of nearby Kimberton, was too ardent in his stamp collecting. In fact, he hired three burglars to do the collecting for him, according to county detective Francis Grubb and State policeman Geo. Sauer. Benham admitted the charge, Grubb said, after stamps stolen from noted collectors were found in his collection.

. . . .

Oklahoma City, March 27 (CP)—Just because a dog hangs around a man's house is no case if some one is bitten, a jury held. Damages of $3,000 were asked for Frances Leclair, 12, whose lawyers contended William F. Spencer was to blame for her bites because the dog spent most of its time at his house.

Spencer held it was a "community dog."

ENGLISH AVIATOR AHEAD OF RECORD

Pressing on to Jodhpur After Being Forced Down

Calcutta, India, March 27 (AP)—Hours ahead of the record for the flight from Australia to England, H. L. Brook, English aviator, passed on toward Jodhpur, India today after a hectic night at Sunderbands at the mouth of the Hooghly River, a region infested with tigers and alligators.

Forced down by darkness, he reached Dumdum airport in the morning and immediately hopped off on the next lap of his 9,000-mile solo flight.

Fear had been expressed for his safety, when he was reported overdue at Calcutta on the oversea hop from Rangoon, Burma. Brook was a participant in the recent London-to-Melbourne air derby.

House Scattered Over Four Acres

Sudbury, Ont., March 27—(CP)—Provincial police are investigating an explosion which completely wrecked the home of Adelard Gignac, Northern Development road foreman at Hagar.

Gignac, who lives alone, returned yesterday from a visit to St. Charles to find fragments of his house scattered over four acres and a huge hole in the ground where the building stood. In reporting the explosion to police here today Gignac said he had stored 100 sticks of dynamite in the shack. There is no known reason why the dynamite should have exploded of itself. Police are following the possibility some person through spite; may have caused the explosion. Neighbors said they heard an explosion Sunday.

Great Community Asset Is Tourist Trade, Says Travel Bureau Manager

Leo D. Dolan, Ottawa, Speaker at Chamber of Commerce Meeting

MEANS DISCUSSED

District Board Members Join in Advancing Tourist Publicity

Determined to reap the benefit in this district of part of the estimated seventy-five or one hundred million dollars expected to be spent in Ontario this year by United States tourists during a season, which may eclipse the boom year of 1929 for tourist traffic, members of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, the Publicity Committee of Hastings County Council, the Boards of Trade of Bancroft, Brighton and Picton and the Chamber of Commerce of Deseronto, Napanee and Trenton went on record last evening at the annual meeting of the local Chamber of Commerce held in this city as unanimously favoring the immediate appointment of a committee of two from each named body to meet in this city in the near future, to organize into a united body and work in unity for the interests of the district they represent.

Attended by representatives from municipalities throughout Hastings and adjoining counties, several of whom travelled nearly one hundred miles to be present, the annual meeting of the Chamber, held in the Queen's Hotel, will be entered in local records as one of the most successful and constructive yet held.

In an address crammed with inspiration and encouragement as well as guidance, Mr. Leo B. Dolan, Ottawa, director of the Canadian Travel Bureau, operating under the Department of Railways and Canals of the Dominion Government, and chief speaker of the evening, pointed out to the large assembly, that a good year, possibly the best since the peak year of 1929 could be expected in Canada and Ontario during the comnig season in the matter of tourist trade.

Must be Prepared

"But," warned Mr. Dolan, "You must be prepared for them. You must be ready to receive them with courtesy and hospitality. You must send them away again feeling that they want to come back. In the year 1929 about $309,000,000 were spent in Canada. That was a peak year, but the year 1935 may equal or better this."

"The United States dollar is a 'healthy dollar.' It is new wealth brought into the country. It goes directly toward increasing employment, with the biggest part of it being paid out in salaries. In Ontario alone it is expected, that $75,000,000 or $100,000,000 will be spent during the coming season. You can see, what this will mean to the Province."

(Continued on Page 3, Col. 1)

AT NASSAU

Their Royal Highnesses, the Duke and Duchess of Kent, photographed during their dance at the British Colonial ball, held in their honor at Nassau, Bahamas, to mark their arrival on their honeymoon. The former Grecian princess, Marina, attracted the attention of all by her beauty and grace.

REQUEST TURNED DOWN

Toronto, March 27—(CP) — The Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Legislature turned down the request of Peterborough to validate a fixed assessment of $1,000,000 on the Canadian General Electric Company's property for the next 10 years.

'RECEIVING' CHARGE HEARD

Chatham, Ont., March 27—(CP)—John Lum, proprietor of a chinese laundry who paid three boys 35 cents for six homer pigeons they had stolen and which were valued at $60, today was given suspended sentence on a "receiving stolen goods" charge. He made restitution to Ernest Brown, pigeon owner.

Annual Cooking School Of Ontario Intelligencer Opens with Record Crowd

Miss Claire Andree of DeBoth Homemakers' Schools Conducts First of Series of Demonstrations For Benefit of Housewives at Capitol Theatre—Efficiency in Art of Purchasing And Preparation of Foods Exemplified

Homemakers of Belleville and of the district for miles around assembled en masse at the Capitol Theatre yesterday afternoon for the opening of the Ontario Intelligencer Homemaking and Cooking School which is being conducted this week by Miss Claire Andree, of the DeBoth Homemakers' School. That this annual event is regarded as a community institution was apparent from the fact that the attendance yesterday exceeded that of any previous opening day. The theatre was filled to capacity, the first women arriving shortly after twelve o'clock to await the opening of the doors at twelve thirty. Some who had not arranged for their tickets in advance and awaited their arrival at the theatre to procure them had to meet disappointment as the theatre was filled long before the hour for the beginning of the school. Those, therefore, who have not already had their tickets laid aside for the remaining days of the School are advised to make arrangements for them at once to avoid missing the school altogether.

It was a most representative audience which greeted the lecturer. Smart hostesses, well known in the city for the excellence of their dinners, mothers whose reputations as cooks are above the average, women who take a special pride in their home-making were there, welcoming the opportunity of learning a little more about their profession. And there were the beginners, the young brides, who were eager for knowledge of tried and true methods of cookery, and the hints in home management, which make all the difference between a smooth-running household and haphazard unsatisfactory housekeeping.

(Continued on Page 6, Col. 2)

EQUAL AIR POWER HITLER AMBITION IS LONDON REPORT

Economic Union With Austria and Return of Czek Germans

DOUBT OVER RUSSIA

Berlin Story Says Hitler Seeks Equality With France

LONDON, March 27.—(AP) — A meeting of the Cabinet was called for tonight following the first talks between Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, and Government leaders on his return from the Anglo-German conversations at Berlin.

Sir John went directly to the Foreign Office on arrival late in the afternoon and also conferred with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Stanley Baldwin and others. The Prime Minister had an audience with His Majesty.

(By Harold P. Braman)

(Copyright 1935, by the Associated Press)

LONDON, March 27.—High London quarters declared today Reichsfuehrer Hitler demanded from Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, that the Powers grant Germany the following concessions:

1—An economic union with Austria.

2—The elimination of Pomorze—the "Polish Corridor" which under the Treaty of Versailles gives Poland a seacoast.

3—The return of some Czechoslovakian territory with the repatriation of 3,500,000 Germans there.

4—Aviation strength equal to the air forces of Great Britain or France, the level to be governed by the air strength of Soviet Russia.

5—A navy of about 400,000 tons.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler was said to have told the British Foreign Secretary he regards Germany's eastern frontier as elastic and subject to revision at any time and one of his first aims is the reunion of East Prussia with the rest of Germany, eliminating Pomorze.

He said he was displeased with the way so many Germans have lived under Czech rule and he feels their return to the protection of the Vaterland must be accomplished in the not far distant future

Austrian Situation

The economic union with Austria was not placed among Hitler's first demands, it was said, but it was also stated he emphasized it as one of the most important necessities of Germany.

He was said however, not to fear any other force so much as that of Russia and said Germany may at some time have to exceed the size of the forces of Great Britain or France in case Russia adds much more to its military air power.

(Continued on Page 8, Col. 4)

RING IDENTIFIED AS LATELY STOLEN

Customs Officers Seige Rings And Uncut Diamonds

Detroit, March 27—(CP)—Federal agents today said C. R. Ford, Chatham, Ont., jeweler, idenified a ring taken by customs offices from two men as one stolen from his store Saturday.

The men, registered as Joseph Conray, Jersey City, N.J., Nicholas Amato, Newark, N. J., pleaded not guilty to smuggling before Commissioner J. Stanley Hurd.

"But I'm a friend of the Jersey City mayor," said Conray.

"That will make your bond twenty-five hundred," said Hurd. Examination will be held next Monday. Officers said they had three rings and 552 uncut diamonds.

WHO OWNS ISLES?

By Joseph E. Sarkey
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Geneva, March 27 (AP)—Japan's resignation from the League of Nations, which will take effect at midnight, raised doubts as to who ultimately controls the Pacific Islands seized from Germany and turned over to Japan under a league mandate.

FOOD EXPERT

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE, lecturer on Home Economics, who is conducting the annual Cooking School on afternoons at the Capitol Theatre, under the auspices of The Ontario Intelligencer.

MURRAY BROUGHT BACK TO CANADA

Alleged Kidnapper Says it is His First Visit

London, Ont., March 27 (CP) — The first night of what Kingston "Piccolo Pete" Murray termed his first visit to Canada was spent in a basement cell of Middlesex County's jail. Extradited from Covington, Ky., the self-styled fur coat and Oriental rug salesman was brought here late yesterday by two Ontario Provincial Police Constables to stand trial as one of the kidnappers of John S. Labatt, wealthy London brewery executive.

Murray was lodged in county jail, protesting he had received a "dirty deal" in Covington and hoping "I get a better one up here."

He admitted a passing acquaintance with David Meisner, Cincinnati book-maker serving a 15-year term in Kingston penitentiary as leader of the trio, who kidnapped Labatt near Sarnia and held him captive in a Lake Leonard cottage, while fruitless efforts were made to collect $150,000 ransom.

"Well yes," explained Murray, when asked if he knew the convict, "but just to see, you know. We were not friends."

Albert Pegram, alleged third member of the kidnap gang, is still at large. Murray said he had spent all his life in Covington. "I sell Oriental rugs and ladies' fur coats," he explained.

"Were you ever in this part of Ontario before?" he was asked.

"No, I was never in Canada in my life before."

Just how long Murray will remain in jail before his case goes before a Grand Jury was not ascertainable today. Labatt, lame and suffering from a heart ailment, is recuperating from the ordeal of the Meisner trial somewhere in the tropical climes of West Indies.

It was seen as a possibility, that the case might be laid over until the fall assizes to allow for the return of Labatt as the Crown's chief witness.

GIRL OF WONDERS ACCLAIMED SAINT

Crowd Chants Prayers as Marie Gravelle is Buried

By GUY E. RHOADES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

St. Joseph d'Orleans, Ont., March 27 (CP)—Marie Anne Gravelle, a 19-year-old tuberculous country girl, was buried today in the little Roman Catholic cemetery at this village while hundreds of persons acclaimed her as a saint and a worker of miracles.

The girl's wasted body was carried from her little weatherbeaten clap-board home, 12 miles from Ottawa, and placed at the head of a cortege more than a mile long containing persons who claimed to have benefited from her supernatural cures. Two persons, one a boy, said they had received cures as late as this morning.

As a crowd outside the humble, unpainted shack chanted prayers, led by a man in rubber boots and an old black coat with a brown fur collar, several hundred persons filed through the room in which Marie Ann's body had lain since her death last Sunday.

Cured Paralytic Excited

Most excited was Andre Paquette,

(Continued on Page 8, Col. 2)

FLAMENCO WINS RACE

Lincoln, England, March 27—(CP Cable)—Flamenco won the Lincolnshire handicap today, first great race of the new flat racing season, with Bow and Arrow second and Heavyweight third.

WHAT IS BANKING? QUERIES DUNNING AS BANKERS MEET

Mystery About Profession Blamed For Many Fakers

STATE PATERNALISM

Former Minister of Finance Says Too Many Are Learners

Toronto, March 27 (CP) —Now is the time when bankers must tear aside the veil of mystery and let the public know what the fundamental factors of banking really are, Hon. Charles A. Dunning, former Minister of Finance, told a meeting of bankers here.

Mr. Dunning said it was a consequence of the tendency "to keep banking on a mystical plane that we now have all sorts of fakers educating the public on banking and financial matters." It is possible without giving away the financial nature of your business to let the public know how and why banking is, he said.

"There has always been the feeling we must feed those who can't work But" he continued, "we are getting close to the philosophy those, who won't work should be fed."

"You must educate the public away from the idea that everybody can lean on the state. There are so many leaners as opposed to supporters that it is doubtful if the State can survive," Mr. Dunning concluded.

Timothy Hay Seed Taken From Bronchial Tube

Toronto, March 27 (CP)— Three-year-old Jean Charters of Trenton, Ont., today thanked her life to a delicate operation performed by surgeons aided by the bronchoscopic machine, to remove a 1 1-2 inch fuzzy-headed timothy hay seed she had swallowed. The little girl is not yet entirely out of danger.

Irish Republicans Arrested

Dublin, Irish Free State, March 27—(AP)—About 70 Republican party members were placed under arrest today as police made a series of raids believed to be a sequel to the shootings of last Saturday night in which two policemen were wounded.

"Shotgun Wedding"

Alberto Herrera (below), son of the Cuban statesman of the same name, refused to kiss the bride after he wed Clara Jiminez (top), daughter of a prominent Cuban family, in New York, and announced he married her to escape prosecution on statutory charges.

SOTOMATSU KATO IS NEW MINISTER

Formerly Councillor at Japanese Embassy at London

Tokyo, March 27.—(AP)— Sotomatsu Kato, counsellor of the Japanese embassy at London, has been selected for early appointment as Minister to Canada, it was disclosed by official sources today.

Keinosuke Fujii, counsellor of the Washington Embassy, will succeed Kato in London and Seijiro Hoshizawa, counsellor of the Embassy in Hsinking, Manchoukuo, will go to Washington.

Kato, formerly counsellor of the Washington Embassy, will replace Iyemasa Tokugawa as Minister to Canada. Tokugawa recently was named Ambassador to Turkey.

F. G. Chamberlain, City Auditor, Becomes Fellow of International Accountants, Executives Corp.

High Praise Given Submitted Report by Examiners

CAREER AS AUDITOR

Mr. Fred G. Chamberlain, city auditor of Belleville, has just been notified of his acceptance as a "Fellow of the Accountants and Executives Corporation of Canada" and from now on will be authorized to use the degree "F.A.E." following his name

Mr. Chamberlain has had many years of experience and training in auditing and accounting. Having started in first with the old Grand Trunk Railway in their Accounting Department over thirty years ago. He later was associated with the Toronto Harbour Commissioners in their accounting department for some seven years and until such time as he returned to this city again to accept the position of secretary treasurer with the Springer Lock Co., Ltd., in the year 1924.

After spending five years with that firm he was appointed to the position of city auditor, which position he is still holding at the present time.

In connection with the examination of the Accountants and Executives Corporation of Canada, one of the city audit reports which was drafted by Mr. Chamberlain, was submitted and the examiners' comment was that they had not reviewed a more practical and concise audit statement of any corporation, than the one submitted, which is quite noteworthy of praise for Belleville's City Auditor and City Treasurer and their departments.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. Chamberlain on his being accepted into this Canadian body of accountants

Going Wrong Way To See Lights Of Old Broadway

Halifax, March 27.—(CP)— Two adventurous wanderers who set out three weeks ago to see the bright lights on Broadway were no nearer New York today although they had travelled something like 6,000 miles.

John L. Wallace, 36, of New Ireland, N.B., and Ralph Taylor, 19, of Lethbridge, Alta., decided to see New York. They slipped up the gangplank of the liner Aurania just before she sailed.

Everything was going fine as they made themselves comfortable in a vegetable locker but on the third day they became worried. The food supply was low and they had cigarettes but no matches. They ventured forth and asked a mess boy for a match. A steward saw the stowaways and marched them up to the captain.

"Where do you think you are going?" asked the Master.

"To New York," the pair replied together.

"Funny way to go about it, for you're on the Liner Aurania and we are now three days out of Halifax bound for England."

From then on the stowaways worked their way. On the other side they were turned over to the police and a few days later were put aboard the Liner Ascania for Halifax.

Today they were in the police station on charges of stowing away on a liner.

BUCHAN VICEROY NAMED TO FOLLOW LORD BESSBORO'

Official Announcements Are Made at London and Ottawa

BUCHAN HONORED

It is Expected He May be Raised to Peerage Shortly

Ottawa, March 27 (CP)—John Buchan, prominent English novelist and writer, and Member of Parliament, has been appointed next Governor-General of Canada, it was announced here today by Sir George Perley, Acting Prime Minister.

Sir George issued the following statement:

"His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve the appointment of Mr. John Buchan, companion of honour, Member of Parliament, as Governor-General of Canada, upon the retirement in the fall of this year of His Excellency the Earl of Bessborough.

"Mr. Buchan has had a distinguished career. Educated at Glasgow University and Brasenose College, Oxford, he was admitted to the English Bar as a member of the middle temple. He acted for two years, 1901-03, as private secretary to Lord Milner, then High Commissioner for South Africa. He saw service in the Great War, and in the last two years of the conflict he was Director of Information under the Prime Minister, Mr. Lloyd George. He has been a member of the House of Commons since 1927, representing the Scottish Universities.

Church Commissioner

"For two years in succession, 1933-34, he was appointed by the King, Lord High Commissioner to the Church of Scotland. Probably Mr. Buchan is best known in Canada as a man of letters. His writings cover a wide range—history of the Great War, biographies of Sir Walter Raleigh, Lord Minto, the great Montrose and Oliver Cromwell, and a long series of tales of romantic adventure. He married in 1907 Susan Charlotte, daughter of the late Honourable Norman Grosvenor, and has a family consisting of three sons and one daughter."

Ottawa, March 27—(CP)—Satisfaction over the appointment of John Buchan as Governor-General of Canada was expressed by Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal Leader, today. "I am greatly pleased," Mr. King said, "to learn Mr. John Buchan has been appointed to succeed Lord Bessborough as Governor-General of Canada. I regard the appointment as an excellent one."

Congratulated on Appointment

London, March 27—(CP Cable)—John Buchan, eminent Scottish author and parliamentarian, was warmly greeted by fellow-members as the House opened today, prior to official announcement here and in Ottawa of his selection as the next Governor-General of Canada.

A number of members gathered around Mr. Buchan to shake hands in congratulation. Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald turned from the treasury bench to speak to Mr. Buchan, an old friend of his.

The official announcement came from Buckingham Palace within a short time.

(Continued From Page 1)

WEATHER

Toronto, March 27 (CP)—Synopsis—Pressure remains high over Hudson Bay and in the MacKenzie Valley but low over the St. Lawrence gulf. A depression is centred in the Mississippi Valley and another moving eastward over Manitoba has caused snow in many parts of the West with strong, cold winds while it has been fair and cool from Ontario eastward.

Lake Superior: Fresh to strong shifting winds; cloudy with some light rain, probably turning to snow.

Kenora and Rainy River: Strong northwesterly winds; becoming colder with light snow.

Manitoba: Fresh to strong northwest winds; colder with snowflurries.

Saskatchewan and Alberta: Fresh northwesterly winds; fair with stationary or somewhat lower temperature.

Coming Events

THURLOW CONSERVATIVE CLUB euchre and dance in the Hall, Canniftton, March 28. Cards 8 o'clock. Good orchestra. Members kindly bring lunch. Admission 25c. M22-23-27

DANCE IN POINT ANNE ORANGE Hall Thursday, March 28. Music by Jack Denmark's Aces. Refreshments. Admission 25c. M27-1t

City and District News

CLAIMS INFLUX OF ROAD WORKERS

A note of mild protest was voiced yesterday by Warden James Bronson of Hastings County Council over what was claimed by him to be an influx of workers from various points of the province, who have been given work on the new Faulkner Highway.

Warden Bronson pointed out that besides a large number of men who are said to have been sent from Toronto to work on the road, a large force of workers have also been brought in from Prescott and are now stationed at Camp 2, near MacDonald's Siding.

Whether Hastings County Council will make representation to the department regarding the matter remains to be seen, it was intimated by him. "Many of our own Hastings County unemployed are unable to get any sort of work," said the Warden.

LAKES IN NORTH STILL ICE COATED

Lakes in the northern part of Hastings County are still locked with a heavy coating of ice, and snow is still deep in the north woods, according to Reeve John Anderson of the Monteagle and Herschel Townships, a visitor to the city yesterday. The county has come through the winter in good shape, and prospects at present indicate a better year for residents of the northern section in the opinion of Mr. Anderson.

FINDS SECRET OF BILL COLLECTING

A local businessman believes he has found the secret of bill collecting.

Instead of following the usual routine accepted by the majority of merchants here's how he does it:

"I send the bills so they'll receive them on the last day of each month, instead of the first. When a single bill comes in on the morning of the last day, the natural reaction is to pay it and get it out of the way, before receiving the usual number of bills always expected on the first or second day of the month," he declared.

'RED CAP' SERVICE AT C.N.R. STATION

"Red Cap" service is being inaugurated by the Canadian National Railways for Belleville. Two uniformed local youths, who have been engaged by the system will take up their duties at the north station beginning next week, it was announced by the local office of the Canadian National today. The inauguration of the service to assist passengers at the depot will follow the same system now in force in Kingston and Brockville the closest points where service of that nature is in force.

MRS. "JAC" SCHORR HAS HEAVY COLD

Not yet acclimatized to the spring vagaries of Ontario weather since her arrival here in Belleville from Ontario, California on March 21, Mrs. "Jac" Schorr today was suffering from a typical "Canadian cold". Although the attack is not a severe one simple home made remedies are being applied to relieve the noticeable huskiness.

Mrs. Schorr, after travelling across the width of the United States from her Ontario, California, home to visit her former Ontario, California, friend, Harold W. Vermilyea, under sentence of death for the murder of his mother, in this city in October last, is a daily visitor to the county buildings during which time short periods of conversation are held with the condemned man.

IT PAYS TO SHOP AT THE REXALL STORE
SPECIAL PRICES on Patents & Toiletries
THIS WEEK.
McKeown's Drug Store

Wright's Radio Service
112½ Front St. Phone 65
Belleville, Ontario.
M. G. Wright, Manager. Geo. Sweetnam Radiotrician
M 13-tf

RENT A RADIO for the
MAPLE LEAF HOCKEY GAME
Several New Mantel and Console Radios
Low Monthly or Weekly Rates
MILES' RADIO SHOP
229 Front St. Phone 1570

ONE CENT SALE of WRITING PAPER
THIS WEEK
Ostroms Drug Store

CUP PRESENTED BY LADY CHURCHILL

In the year 1887 a parade of school children of the London Model School, formed on an open square in the city of London. A smiling, gracious lady, Lady Randolph Churchill, approached one of the scholars, and with a few suitable words, handed him a souvenir cup, marking the occasion of the Golden Jubilee of the late Queen Victoria.

The same cup, still treasured by the same scholar who received it now reposes on a mantel in the home of Mr. W. H. Linnof, this city who accepted it so many years ago on behalf of the school he represented.

A plain cup, it bears on one side the lettering "Queen Victoria, 1837-1887". On the reverse side appear the combined flags.

Mrs. Leonard of 139 North Front Street also retains a badge of the Golden Jubilee, kept by her since she attended school in this city and joined the parade of children on that day.

WEEK END SPECIALS
LADIES' HALF SOLES AND HEELS
75c Complete
MEN'S HALF SOLES AND HEELS
$1.00 Complete
Phone 411
Boots called for and delivered
TILBROOK'S
MODEL SHOE REPAIR SHOP
318 Front Street

BELLEVILLE WOMAN WINS GOLD MEDAL

Mrs. George Bawden, 66 Great St. James Street is the recipient of a beautiful Gruen watch, the same being won in a contest conducted by the Canadian Chemical Corporation to advance the sale of "Tumees". Mrs. Bawden purchased a bottle of this remedy from the Seldon Drug Store and guessed correctly the number of letters, that would be received by the company from March 16 to 23 inclusive. The beautiful time piece is now on exhibition at the Seldon store.

3,000 PIECES IN FINE COLLECTION

A former resident of Belleville, Charles Kaeber, who for some time was general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. holds a responsible position at present in Toronto, where he is in charge of a collection of firearms owned by the Daly estate. There are some 3,000 pieces in the collection and can be seen in the Simpson Store.

◆

AT SEVENTY NINE ARDENT CYCLIST

Vigorous and alert as ever in spite of his comparatively youthful age of nearly seventy-nine years, Mr. Stuart Hooey, one of Trenton's best known citizens and veteran cyclist, pedalled into Belleville from Trenton today on his bicycle, "just to look up some old friends he hadn't seen in a few weeks."

On May 19th, next, Mr. Hooey, a former resident of this city will reach his 79th year. But time in its stride has touched him lightly. He defeats age by the constant and almost daily use of his bicycle, "the grandest exercise that any one could want," as he aptly remarks. A trip from Belleville to Trenton is a mere jaunt. A journey to the Sandbanks in Prince Edward County from his home is an afternoon's sport. At a time, when most men of his age are content to sit at home in a padded rocking chair, Mr. Hooey finds pleasure and exercise on the open road pushing the pedals of his sturdy bicycle. Often the journey he undertakes to various points throughout the district occupies a whole day of almost constant pedalling, with brief time out for lunch, but he arrives back home almost as fresh as when he left.

Mr. Hooey, who will be remembered by many of the older residents of the city once conducted a business on the east side of Front Street above Victoria Avenue. In the year 1888 he left Belleville and has resided in Trenton since, renewing his old friendships in this city by his frequent trips to Belleville on his bicycle. "But the older residents I used to know seem to be disappearing one by one," stated Mr. Hooey today to the Ontario Intelligencer.

◆

IMPORTANCE OF RINSING CLOTHES

Thorough rinsing removes all traces of soap and loosened dirt from the clothes. After soaking clothes overnight in Rinso suds, three rinsing waters makes them beautifully clean.

The first two rinses should be at least lukewarm, hot if convenient, in order more easily to rinse all the soap and loosened dirt out of the fabrics. The third rinse may be cold, if more convenient.

The rinse water should not be drained off through the clothes as this filters out the dirt and causes it to remain in the clothes, thus defeating the purpose of rinsing. Take out the clothes from each rinse and remove as much water from them as possible before putting back into the next rinse.

Dirty rinse water left in the clothes makes more rinsing necessary to get clean clothes.

COMMUNITY PLATE
Chosen from our regular stock and being used by Miss Andree on her table at the Home Cooking School, Capitol Theatre, this week.
We carry a very complete stock of Community at all times.
A 26-piece set of this beautiful silver in a winged chest cabinet will be won by some lucky lady at the school, so be sure and attend every day, it might be you.
Angus McFee
Established 1860

A. AND N. VETERANS BEST ON RANGE

The sharp shooting gunners of the 34th Battery and members of the Belleville Branch of the Army and Navy enjoyed a friendly competitive shoot last evening which was won by the Army and Navy. The score was Army and Navy 155 points; 34th Battery 149 points.

Your own Garden

.... Should produce a good portion of your living besides giving you a pleasant healthy pastime. Call for our catalogue and plan to start right with our Good Seeds.
PLANT SWEET PEAS and LAWN SEEDS NOW
(We supply both in bulk or packets)
C. E. Bishop & Son
SEEDSMEN
172 Front St. Phone 283
m27-29

COCOANUT OIL SHAMPOO
I.D.A. Brand
Quickly forms a rich, heavy, cleansing lather.
Reg. 60c 8 ounces 32c
At Your I.D.A. Drug Store

C. V. PAINT
Highest quality, made with pure materials and pure Linseed Oil and fully guaranteed. All colors and white. Try it and be convinced.
95c quart
Pints 55c - ½-gals. $1.80
Gallons $3.35
SUNSET FAST DRY ENAMELS
Highest Quality and Guaranteed
1.15 quart
SMITH HARDWARE
PLUMBERS & TINSMITHS

MRS. H. WILLIAMS NAMED PRESIDENT CANADIAN CLUB

Mr. Alford of Albert College Speaks of Film Trends

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Woman's Canadian Club took place in John Street Church yesterday afternoon.

The meeting opened with singing of "O Canada". A review of the activities of the club during the past years was read by the secretary Mrs. Brown. Mrs. MacColl, the treasurer, read the financial report and it proved that the club had a substantial surplus to work on during the ensuing year. Mrs. W. N. Ponton, convener of the entertainment committee also brought forth her report to be adopted. Mrs. Kinnear, the retiring president conveyed her appreciation to the executive for their wonderful co-operation and help during her two years reign of office. The report of the nominating committee was brought in and was unanimously adopted.

Officers

The new officers are:

Past President—Mrs. J. W. Kinnear.

President—Mrs. Harry Williams

First Vice President—Mrs. George Wright

2nd Vice President—Mrs. F. B. Brodribb.

Secretary—Mrs. Howard Trudale

Asst. Secretary—Mrs. Archibald Cameron.

Treasurer—Mrs. J. E. MacColl,

Convener of Social Committee—Mrs. W. N. Ponton.

Asst. Convener—Mrs. C. E. Argue.

Member of Social Committee representing John Street Church—Miss Jessie McLean.

Members of Executive—Mrs. Robert L. Brown, Mrs. John Kerr, Miss Catherine Ford, Mrs. E. A. Geen.

Mr. Alford, teacher of the Albert College was the guest speaker for the afternoon. Mr. Alford is a graduate of Queen's and McGill Universities. He was at one time dramatic critic on the Montreal Herald. His travels have been extensive. South America and Australia have come under the range of his journeys.

The topic Mr. Alford had chosen for his address was "Recent Trends in Films". "The production of a film is an elaborate piece of work" said Mr. Alford. Most people think the actors are responsible for the picture. The actors are just tools, they are the raw materials. Everything in the production of a film is based on element. The craftsman behind the picture is the oft-forgotten director. The key to a good production lies in him. "A director is in a film the same as a leader is in an orchestra" said Mr. Alford. If the theme of his ideas are cheap, the production is cheap but if his ideas are sound, the film is bound to be good.

The stars of the film world become great through the box office. The star system is the handle of the box office. Film stars are heralded and publicized through the press, advertisements, etc. The greatness of a star is produced through his or her box office appeal. The star system is the one used in Hollywood. "England is slowly trending to the star system" commented Mr. Alford. The artistic heights in the cinema world are reached in Russia. People from every day life, inexperienced are used in the productions instead of the star system. There are no heroes nor heroines in the Russian films. They are of the documentary type dealing with wheat fields etc. They are most fascinating.

There are three kinds of movements in films. The movement of players before the camera. The travelling shots made by the camera the actors stand still and the camera moves and the movement of one prospective image and another. There are numerous essentials to make a film good. The theme must be good. There must be great directors, technicians and actors and a well blended musical accompaniment.

"There should be separate films for children under sixteen years of age" said Mr. Alford. Children should be kept away from films with an adult theme. This is done in Quebec. Films are stamped in two ways. If the film is universal it is stamped with a "U." If it is for an adult it is stamped with an "A."

The current trend in film changes according to the liking of the fans. There are many different types of films. Musical films such as Sweet Adeline, flirtation Walk, Gay Divorcee, etc. These are ideal to ease one's minds of troubles. The Biographical type is receding. These films give a great actor a splendid chance to show his wares. Old stories are again appearing in films and have a good box office appeal. The horror cycle still persists to be used. The mystery pictures like Fu Manchu are overworked. The racket type of films such as "I am a Fugitive" is a new type to the cinema world and are very interesting. A new type of film to be produced is the earth and contemporary films. In this new field the human being is pictured as working out his destinies. This type of film is produced in "Man of Aaron" and "Eskimo." Mr. Alford in concluding left the thought that we should look more to the theme of films when we view them.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Alford was sponsored by the new president Mrs. Harry Williams for his splendid talk. The meeting concluded with the proposal that the next meeting would take place in September.

◆

PHIL McKEE IS ARDENT BOOSTER

Advances Excellent Ideas to Raise Money For Kiwanis Promotion

Although W. C. Mikel, K.C. was scheduled to address the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon so much business was transacted that this treat was deferred until a later date to give Mr. Mikel the full time required for the delivering of same. The apologies of the club for running over time was given by president Cliff Barrager and graciously accepted by Mr. Mikel. The speaker of the day always has a fund of information at his command and can impart same in an intelligible and interesting manner.

Guests including Ross Neal, H. R. Gain and J. A. McElhern of this city and Kiwanians Frank Whitton and Alex Morris of Toronto were welcomed by the club. Jack McIntosh asked for a vote on Daylight Saving Time for the summer months in this city and was greeted with an unanimous approval. Phil McKee was the booster for the day and gave the members his idea of ideals of Kiwanis and the advantages of belonging to a service club. Phil presented many excellent arguments predominating being the fact that close and warm friendships were made in a service club, that would endure for many years. The member also advanced excellent ideas by which the club could raise funds to carry on their work. The winners of the draw were George Fordyce and Gordon Bray with the consolation being taken by Claude Tice.

The question of the club sponsoring a junior ball club was advanced by George Lee, president of the junior division of the Belleville Baseball Association but action was deferred until a later date. One of the largest gatherings of the year was out and plenty of enthusiasm was shown.

◆

Culbertsons on Way to Victory

(By Tom Hagenbuch)
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

New York, March 27.—(AP)— A decided turn in the fortunes of war has given Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson the lead in their contract bridge battle with Mr. and Mrs. P. Hal Sims with the match only two days old.

The Culbertsons went today into the third day of the 150-rubber bridge marathon with a lead of 1,750 points, the result of a clean sweep of five rubbers played last night.

A difference of opinion as to the cause of their success developed between Culbertson and his attractive wife, Josephine, at the end of last night's play.

Mrs. Culbertson contended the turn in luck was due to a rabbit's foot she received during the dinner recess and which she had with her during last night's playing.

"Nonsense," replied her husband, "it was the system".

It may have been possibly a swing of aces and kings to the Culbertsons, for in the thirty hands played last night, the Culbertsons held seventy-one aces and sixty-four kings against forty-nine aces and fifty-six kings for the Simses.

The bidding was more open in the second day's play with the result both sides were set frequently. Seven small slam bids were made during the afternoon and night, all by Culbertson. Three were successful.

◆

Police News

Within the short space of one hour and from the identically same parking place on Campbell street, two bicycles were stolen last night. The matter was reported to the local police, one of the "bikes" being found abandoned later in the evening. About 7.30 p.m. last night John Kingston, Kingston Road, informed the authorities that his bicycle was stolen from Campbell Street. Sometime later James Miller 81 St. Charles street, related to the police the identically same story, he, having parked his bicycle on Campbell street, after Kingston's had been stolen. Miller's wheel is still among the missing.

Local police were called to south Pinnacle street, last night to investigate a disturbance. Upon their arrival it was disclosed that mischievous youths had thrown a stone through a window. Although the officer apprehended a number of boys loitering about, all denied any knowledge of the matter. The police issued warnings regarding such actions, however.

A marked influx of transients was noticed in the city last night when twenty-seven "weary travellers" were afforded a warm night's lodging at the police station. The advent of spring is attributed by police to the increased number of transients observed locally of late.

A slight accident impeded the progress of traffic at the busy hour of 6.00 p.m. last evening when two local motor cars collided at the Bridge and Front street intersection. Upon investigation it was discovered that neither automobile had been seriously damaged, only fender damage of a minor nature resulting. The matter was passed off amicably by both parties concerned.

◆

Obituary

LATE MRS. MATTIE GARRISON

The funeral of Mrs. Mattie Garrison, late of Herchimer Avenue, widow of James Garrison, took place Tuesday afternoon from the residence of her son, Mr. George Garrison, North Park Street (Thurlow Township) and was largely attended. Upon leaving the residence the procession proceeded to Kingston Road United Church where an impressive service was conducted by the Rev. E. Farnsworth, assisted by the Rev. C. McArthur The same ministers conducted the service at the graveside in Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were, Messrs. A. Frost, G. Johnson, A. Collins, H. Hudgins, P. Weber and J. Jones.

Following is a list of the beautiful floral tributes:

Pillow—Family.

Sprays—Mr. and Mrs. J. Lafferty; Mrs Geo. McDonald and Mr. and Mrs. H. Walkoms; Mr. and Mrs. E. Bunnett; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Barlow, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. T. Logan; Kingston Road United Church and W.A.; Mrs. A. Collins; Mrs. Cameron McDonald and family; Mr. and Mrs. W. Bamford; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Barlow, Sr.; Mrs. H. F. Bennett, Detroit; J. B. Symonds, Detroit; Mrs. Vera White and Mr. and Mrs. C. White; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Curlette; Bert Johns; Mrs. Annie Bowler; Mrs. Mary Haslip and Florence; Mrs. Johns and Bernice; Mr. and Mrs. E. Haslip and family.

Basket of Flowers—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Davidson

Wreath—Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Anglican Church, Copper Cliff.

MR. PATTERSON representing the KNIT-TO-FIT CO.
will be in Our Store All Day Tomorrow
WITH A COMPLETE DISPLAY OF THE NEW SPRING AND SUMMER STYLES AND FABRICS IN KNITTED SUITS and DRESSES
Orders can be placed and your garment delivered any time you may specify.
Wottens Limited

WHEN YOUR FIGURE seems all bulges, where no bulges ought to be, as the new styles call for smoothness from the bust-line to the knee. Oh! Women, do not worry, you may lose those bulges yet.
PHONE 719M TO MAKE A DATE—THEN WEAR A SILHOUETTE
Fitting Rooms—283 1-2 Front St.
M26-2t

W. E. McCORMICK desires to thank his many customers for their valued patronage in the past and To Announce the Removal of his STUDIO to 216½ Front St.
(over McFee's Jewelry Store)
We also desire to call your attention to a SPECIAL OFFER we are making of One LARGE Colored Portrait
Size 8 x 10 for $1.50
WITH FOUR SITTINGS TO CHOOSE FROM
Reprints may be had at the same price. This offer is good until APRIL 15 at our NEW STUDIO
(Over McFee's Jewelry Store)

CAPITOL THURS.-FRI.-SAT.

PLAYGROUND of HUMAN DEVILS!
Limehouse... where desperate men and women live and love for what the hour may bring... romance ... danger... violence... mystery... sudden death!
Adolph Zukor presents
BLUES"
A Paramount Picture with GEORGE RAFT
JEAN PARKER
ANNA MAY WONG
Kent Taylor - Montagu Love

—Second Feature Attraction—
"GRIDIRON FLASH"
with EDDIE QUILLAN—BETTY FURNESS.
A Rousing College Football Story
Tonight ONLY "WONDER BAR" Lucky Capitol Programmes: 85: 97: 102: 737: 891.

Spring Festival of CERTIFIED Hits!
A Screen Full of Joy
A laugh tops every romantic thrill in this new entertainment delight! When a woman-tamer meets a man-charmer, anything can happen-and it does!
Clark GABLE
Constance BENNETT
in
After Office Hours
Feature at 3.10: 7.45 9.30 p.m.
Plus: JOE COOK COMEDY— Springtime Novelette — Tuneful Revue — Pictorial BELLE
Now Playing
DAILY
SATURDAY — "THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL"

GREAT COMMUNITY ASSET

(Continued From Page 1)

The meeting was opened, following the dinner, by Mr. J. B. Boyce, president of the local Chamber, who in his brief address voiced his appreciation of the large attendance, and extended a cordial welcome to the many, who had come to represent their various municipalities. "I hope you take away with you this evening only the pleasant memories of an evening pleasurably but profitably spent," said the president.

In submitting his annual report which is reproduced elsewhere in this issue, Mr. J. O. Herity, secretary of the Chamber called attention to the printed booklet, that had been left in front of each plate. Copies of the report would also be mailed to every member of the local body, he added.

"Know your city. Read this booklet carefully," Mr. Herity urged those present. "Get acquainted with your city, and then help others get acquainted, too."

In commenting upon the report, Mr. Boyce, president and chairman of the evening, pointed out the various phases of activity of the local Chamber during the past period, following its adoption on motion of Mr. W. C. Springer, past president and Mr. J. Galloway.

First Move by Chamber

"For one thing, we have heard a lot about the purchase of the local Hydro system by the city from time to time, and the claims regarding its purchase. I believe the first move toward the purchase of the local system was made by the Chamber of Commerce of this city some time ago. This purchase has saved the city some $70,000 per annum, more than will be paid into the Chamber of Commerce in a good many years. The buying of this utility saved the citizens of Belleville altogether some $550,000," declared president Boyce.

"The Chamber of Commerce was not formed solely for the purpose of going out and getting industries and bringing them into Belleville. The function of the Chamber is not purely this, but rather it was formed on the premise, that the collective intelligence of a number was greater than that of any one person, and this intelligence could be applied in various ways to the good of the city."

President Boyce referred to the recent expansion of three industries in the city, which have spent some $150,000 with the work being let to local contractors, who hired local labor.

"The Chamber of Commerce has been going here for a good many years. Mr. Herity works on half pay and sometimes pays his own way to make it the success it is. I believe the Chamber of Commerce of this city brings more customers to your business and my business than any other agency we have or can have. It is easy to tear down but it is hard to build up; the men who conduct the Chamber of Commerce are liable to make mistakes, we all do, but in the main we are always working for the good of the city we live in. The Chamber of Commerce is the greatest financial industry Belleville ever had or ever will have," reiterated president Boyce.

At the conclusion of his brief address, president Boyce turned the chair over to R. J. S. Dewar, chairman of the Open Forum Committee.

R. J. S. Dewar as Chairman

Briefly chairman Dewar extended his welcome to the large attendance in a few well chosen words, and then in entirely informal fashion introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Leo B. Dolan.

Youthful, dynamic and with a vivid directness, that held the listeners rapt and attentive, the chief of the Canadian Travel Bureau, who has devoted his study to the why and wherefore of tourists in general plunged directly into the cause and effect of one of Canada's greatest industries, the tourist business.

Year by year, pointed out Mr. Dolan, the tourist business had shown a steady growth in Canada until about the year 1920, when a total of $62,000,000 was computed to have been spent by the peaceful invaders. The business grew without assistance other than that furnished by the two great railways, the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific, the speaker continued, pausing only to give credit to the railways for their efforts in this direction.

"The year 1929 was a boom year for Canada. During that season it was estimated, that about $309,000,000 was brought into Canada and left there. Then from 1929 on the traffic was on the retrograde. Last year, however, there were signs of it picking up, perhaps twenty-five or thirty per cent normal. But from now on, aided by a planned advertising campaign authorised by the government an upsurge is confidently predicted.

Mr. Dolan cited Canada as a land of opportunity whose resources were being entirely overlooked by its residents. Below the border, greater advantage has been taken of the natural resources in the different States to attract tourists. Canada fared badly by comparison, it was shown by him.

Figures Quoted

"Maine, for example, is one of the smallest States in the Union. Yet last year some $115,000,000 was spent there by tourists. The Southern Hotel Association of Florida, compute their tourist trade at a business bringing in some $226,000,000 each winter. California will get about $275,000,000 this winter. Last year in the whole of Canada only $150 or $160 millions were spent," he said.

"The United States dollar is new wealth. Its effect on a country is immediate and noticeable. It is a 'healthy dollar', which lends itself directly to increasing employment and bettering conditions, where it is spent. The more money, that comes in the more employment it makes. Even farm produce is helped in its sales; visitors consume an incredible amount of foodstuffs. The consumption of butter alone is a staggering figure when it is estimated."

Canada Great Playground

Canada has attractions that no other country can match, declared Mr. Dolan. The country was described by him as the greatest playground in the world. "Pick up any nationally known magazine on the other side and you'll find it full of the advertising of foreign lands inviting tourists to visit them. Yet I can go to the United States with a quality product, that is unequalled in any part of the world. We have climate; we have the panoramic views of mountain and lake and woods; we have a land hallowed in history; we have an abundance of big game, and fishing. Canada qualifies on every count. We can go farther than that and offer something distinctive; we can offer them a trip to a foreign country without leaving a highway or the North American Continent!"

Switzerland may have its Alps, but the Canadian Rockies are ten times greater and more picturesque, the speaker maintained. If tourists wish the Florida atmosphere, they may visit the Maritimes in summer and they will find there something even better. In Old Quebec the visitor may find a bit of real France. Old England will be duplicated on the Pacific Coast in British Columbia, while Ontario has an allure all and distinctly its own both new and old, with particular attention being paid to the historical points in the older southern section.

"Don't expect to lure United States tourist to Canada with Idaho baked potatoes or Massachusetts cooked fish printed on the menus of your lunchrooms, or by copying other methods in vogue in that country. Keep Canada distinctive. So long as we can keep this British and Canadian atmosphere intact, then just so long we will have this allure and distinction to offer those, who would visit us. The tourists from south of the border don't come here to see, what they can see at home; they want something different. Don't modernize too much," warned Mr. Dolan.

Custom Men Praised

Tribute was paid by the speaker to the efficiency and courtesy displayed by customs men along the border at points of entry. Thousands of letters are on file at the Travel Bureau from former visitors, who took the occasion to compliment Canada on her excellent system and the courtesy and help they had received by the customs men. The police forces of towns and cities of Canada have been likewise complimented for their kindly helpfulness.

The average resident of Canada can help the tourist movement greatly through his spirit of co-operation and courtesy, it was pointed out. "People of this country should inculcate in their minds the cogent fact, that upon our own hospitality and kindness depends the trade. We can build up the reputation of being the most courteous people of any country, simply because we are being given the chance," added Mr. Dolan.

Canada and the United States are fostering amity and peacefulness through their close relationships with each other. "Those two great countries on this continent are an object lesson to a world of warring factions, and may in time exert enough influence to teach other countries the futility of war and hate."

The Canadian Travel Bureau, it was revealed is prepared to launch a great advertising program in the United States, which will do much to attract tourists to the country. But the advertising will be dignified and truthful. Careful watch will be kept of other advertising, which will represent fished-out lakes in this country as teeming with fish ready to be caught, and claims that various resorts are the best hunting grounds or the best recreation grounds in the country. The advertising is being contracted for in the larger nationally known magazines and also in a string of reputable newspapers, which will form a chain across the country. "We are going to sell Canada; we are going to hammer at them down there and impress them with the fact that Canada is the place to spend a vacation. It will then be up to the different provinces to do their bit in the work," said Mr. Dolan. Besides this advertising, various auto clubs and travel bureaus have been contracted to handle and distribute literature of the country. The total sum spent in the United States this year for advertising will be in the neighborhood of $150,000.

Unhampered By Politics

The Travel Bureau is working unhampered by politics. Representatives of all political shades are assisting the movement for more tourists in any manner possible. All realize the advantage of the enormous industry, said the speaker.

In concluding his remarks, Mr. Dolan promised the local Chamber of Commerce and representatives of the various other municipalities of the district every assistance, that could be given by his Bureau.

In thanking the speaker, Mr. E. V. Ilsey pointed out the value that the address contained for every listener. "Mr. Dolan has shown us a little of what we can do in this area, an area that is second to none in all Canada," he added.

A suggestion was made by Mr. Ilsey, that a Bay of Quinte Tourist Association or Sport Association be formed to stay the progress of the tourists through the section. The advantages of the immediate district must be pointed out, he added, and to this end a second suggestion was made.

"Each year we have a lot of young men leaving school for their holidays and anxious for something to do. Why not take these young men and post them east and west of Belleville at little information bureaus, where they would be able to answer all questions asked them about the particular territory. They could be provided with suitable literature to hand out. The idea is one, that could be carried out with modest expense, and paid jointly by the city and county," Mr. Ilsey urged, that a definite start at something be made at once.

Warden Ready To Help

Warden James J. Bronson, of Hastings County Council, who was introduced by Mr. Dewar as one of the youngest ever to assume that important office, in a brief address pointed out, that not twenty per cent. of the natural advantages of the county were being utilized. One suggestion made by him was that the Government supply funds to put the unemployed at work clearing the shores of the back country lakes, where some of them were almost impenetrable through weeds and thick underbrush. Full co-operation would be given any move of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce in the matter of the tourist business by the County, Warden Bronson promised.

"Courtesy is one thing we in the back counties can give and we have always tried to live up to that motto. Treat the tourist right and he'll be back next year, probably accompanied by more friends with him. That will advertise the country more than anything else," concluded the Warden.

Mr. Miller, Vice-President of the Brighton Board of Trade, told briefly of a continental sea trip, but declared, when he saw the Rocky Mountains some time later that he could match the Canadian scenes with any he observed while abroad. He supported the suggestion by Mr. Ilsey that a Bay of Quinte Association be formed and promised every support in the movement.

Mr. Sig Wessman, President of the Deseronto Chamber of Commerce, declared himself entirely in accord with any movement made by the local senior organization and promised full support of himself and his associates in any progressive movement for the good of the district.

Mr. Rutherford, Madoc, paid tribute to the work being quietly carried on by the local Chamber of Commerce and the worthwhile contribution to the welfare of the city it was making. "In the smaller municipalities we have only the social clubs, but they are growing fast and are bringing a better feeling throughout the county. We have as nice a place in Madoc as any in the Dominion, but we are not getting the value out of it that we should," he declared.

Three Points Named

Mr. Newton, President of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, cited three points in the successful handling of tourists, courtesy, service and advertising. He suggested to the meeting that some system of criss-cross distribution of literature of various areas be worked out so that east-bound tourists would be acquainted with the eastern territory ahead and west-bound tourists likewise. This might solve the problem of the eternal rush on the part of the cars to hurry through the towns, he pointed out.

Mr. McGregor, former secretary of the Napanee Chamber of Commerce, declared the Chamber of Commerce the greatest asset of any municipality. "We feel that great work is being done here in Belleville by the local one, and have felt its influence even as far as Napanee," he said. In referring to the tourist question Mr. McGregor pointed out, that if everyone put their shoulder to the wheel wonders could be accomplished in Ontario.

Mr. Sutcliffe, Trenton, contended that a real tourist bureau which was actually operative at various points throughout the province would greatly assist in promoting the growth of the tourist industry. Ontario has been very lax in the matter of advertising, he maintained. "A good stopping place, good food and facilities and a little courtesy thrown in and you will find that you will make good friends, who will be glad to come back again year after year".

Open Discussion

Following the throwing open of the meeting for discussion, Mr. Harry Phillips, Brighton, former Warden of Northumberland County, rose with the suggestion that the counties of Northumberland, Hastings and Lennox, be surveyed as to their possibilities for tourist attractions so that something definite would be given to work on. "Make our survey and you will find, that this district will eclipse, that of Muskoka as far as holiday advantages go". Mr. Phillips followed up with the suggestion, that the Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce of the district get together and press the matter of a survey.

Appreciation was paid Mr. J. O. Herity, secretary of the local Chamber for the excellent work he had accomplished in building up Belleville. "I never knew Belleville to advance so much until J. O. Herity took hold of the Chamber of Commerce and settled down to work. He has spread the gospel of the district and Ontario throughout the length and breadth of the country," declared Mr. Phillips.

In a brief address J. O. Herity called attention to one incident near St. Catharines last year, which did much to undo a lot of good advertising of the country, when a party of tourists were charged $5.85 for a chicken dinner advertised on a sign outside the farmer's home at forty-five cents. Beneath the larger figures, however, were very small ones which called attention to the fact that service was "a la carte". Highly indignant, the gypped tourist notified the Ontario Motor League, which in turn handed the message over to Provincial authorities. A check up disclosed that thirty-five more such places were found operating on a short stretch along the way to Niagara Falls.

The suggestion by Mr. Herity, that each body represented at the meeting names a committee of two to meet again in Belleville in the near future for the purpose of promoting local interests in an attempt to get a larger portion of that which tourists are ready and willing to give, met with unanimous endorsation.

"Have you guides in this district, who can take out fishing parties?" asked Mr. Dolan.

"If you have, then I believe you should have one of them at the meeting representing the rest and attempt to have them form their own Guides' Association as they are doing elsewhere. This will promote greater trust on the part of the tourist and will work to the mutual advantage of all."

During the evening, Mr. Sandy Burrows filled the position of song leader in his usual excellent manner, assisted by Mr. Leo B. Riggs at the piano. Mr. R. D. Arnott, also contributed a solo.

Scholars March Out As Fire is Reported

St. Catharines, Ont., March 27—(CP)—Fourteen children at the Marydene School in the parish hall of St. George's Church marched in orderly fashion to safety Tuesday when fire broke out in the building. It was the third successive time the roof of the hall has been ignited by a spark from the chimney and both the roof and upper section of the rear wall suffered damage.

Firemen quickly had it under control. The children retired to the vestry of the church where they continued studies.

Perhaps You Use Glasses?

If so you likely are conscious of their benefit. But are they now rendering complete comfort? Eye-needs change from year to year. Also there's a much greater difference in examination methods than in lenses and mountings, so if uncertain make an appointment here . . . I'll be entirely satisfied with your comparison and verdict.

Don't Be Misled by a Price Appeal!

Your very most earnest care should be your eyes; and the most complete analysis procurable always has proven the most economical.

Consultation by Appointment

J. A. McFEE

EXPERIENCED OPTOMETRIST

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25¢ at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

No other footwear in all the world offers the scientific corrective features of The M. W. LOCKE SHOE

No other shoes can give you the benefits of M. W. LOCKE Shoes, because no other shoes are designed and built to Dr. Locke's personal specifications. Originally developed for his own patients, to assist in the foot corrections inaugurated at his famous clinic in Williamsburg, Canada, M. W. LOCKE Shoes embody these three exclusive features:

1—An inside construction to lift the inside of the foot and throw the weight gently to the outside.

2—A socket for the heel to allow it to rest naturally without flattening.

3—An inner "flange" to support the arch.

We are official distributors in this city for the M. W. Locke Shoes, and believe them to be the finest orthopedic foot wear that has ever been made.

The only shoes designed and approved by DR. M. W. LOCKE of WILLIAMSBURG, ONT., CANADA

NABORHOOD SHOE STORE

242 Front Street Phone 919

—WHERE SHOE FITTING IS A SCIENCE—

HOW'S YOUR BLOOD?

YOU lose vital nerve force if you allow your stomach to distress you. When nervous and run-down and in need of a blood tonic—when you're anemic, weight below normal, and you feel tired-out and weak, follow the advice of Mrs. H. M. Rhame of 141 Briscoe St., London, Ont., who says: "My blood was in very poor condition and I lost weight. After taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery my appetite, digestion and blood were all greatly improved."

All druggists. New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. Write Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

ATTRACTIVE TO ALL WOMEN for New Beauty of DESIGN and Unfailing SERVICE

Gurney Electric and Coal Combination Gas and Coal Combination

Here is the new Gurney Combination Range of compact convenience, designed for the modern housewife and the modern kitchen. You choose your fuel to suit the season—quick electric cooking for the summer—the comforting warmth of a coal fire in the winter—and each available whenever wanted, absolutely independent of the other.

$125.00

Gas and Coal Combination

IVORY AND GREEN FINISH

$106.50

EXTRA! 3 BURNER GAS RANGE

(as shown).

Complete with all enamelled shelf; ivory top, door panel and legs.

$25.00

Gurney Gas Water Heater 7.50

WEAR-EVER SPECIAL

Regular $1.50 Fry Pans to Clear 98c

John Lewis Company

265 FRONT STREET BELLEVILLE PHONE 2260

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE

who will show you just how to achieve the best results in your baking.

The Talk of the Town: FIVE ROSES FLOUR

the wise housewife's choice every time. She can't afford to have her Cakes, Pastry, Bread or Buns fail to reach that peak of delicious goodness every woman strives for, says MISS CLAIRE ANDREE, at the ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER COOKING SCHOOL being held at the CAPITOL THEATRE this week.

THE GOLDEN MERITS OF FIVE ROSES FLOUR FULLY EXPLAINED BY MISS ANDREE

FIVE ROSES FLOUR NEVER FAILS TO GET UNIFORM RESULTS

MacKenzie & Company

45 SOUTH FRONT ST. PHONE 219 26 McANNANY ST. (Market Square) Phone 744

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

MARCH OF PROGRESS

When the Chamber of Commerce members last night looked over the record of the past year as shown by the report presented at the annual meeting they had cause for real satisfaction in a year which yet bore marks of the late depression. Handicaps and difficulties have marked the way of business and of the Chamber as the focal point or agency of trade, but in the light of the accomplishments and of the influence of stability which the Chamber gave, the year was a year of immeasurable success. The report showed the addition of an important new industry, additions to numbers of plants, and businesses reporting larger turnover for the year. One of the most important points to realize has been the fact that local industries are industries which thoroughly suit the temper and the spirit of the place. That is, Belleville industry is an integral part of the city, no industry is a mere frill just sewed or tacked on. This means enduring industry.

The manifestation of interest in the local waterways, in development of highways and in citizenship culture, the quest of world markets for city and district products, the work of the open forum as revealing the spirit and aims of the members, the plea for the tourist, the development of a spirit which passes beyond mere municipal boundaries to link various municipalities in a common bond of trade and development, are clearly shown.

One of the pleasing features in the history of the Chamber is that advocacy and support of every worthy cause in the interest of business and of citizenship.

What the Chamber of Commerce has meant during the past years, particularly those last five years of business lull or gloom generally can never be exactly defined, but the influence must have been enormous. As President Boyce pointed out in his address, the listing by the Babson institution of Belleville year after year for five years as one of the cities with more than the average of business is a proof of a good influence at work here, the Chamber of Commerce working with the City Council to develop an industrial structure which is a thorough product of this city and district.

SERMONS IN BRIEF

Prof. James Moffatt, translator of the Bible, urged five minutes a day of prayerful thought to bring serenity into life, when he was preaching in the Union College Seminary, New York City, on Sunday. This discipline of thought he called important in this unsettled and uncertain world. "Great as is the power of God, He cannot work in a vacuum or with empty minds or minds filled with shallowness and prejudice," he said. "If we all thought more and prayed more we would be freed from uncertainty and panic. God must have full sway to exercise his power. We must will Him to aid us."

Dr. Moffatt declared that mankind can think without praying but cannot pray without thinking. Thoughtfulness is one of the greatest of man's welcomes to God. "We need more thoughtfulness in our lives. We must find some time for meditation and contemplation. Thinking alone is a great gift. Do we set aside the leisure time to think about God?" he asked.

Monsignor F. J. Sheen at St. Patrick's Cathedral, called Communism not an imitator of heresies but "the ape of Christianity in its divine and historical forces. It has taken the whole content of Christianity and substituted the spirit of Satan for the spirit of Christ. Possessed therefore of a complete dogma, it has not a political or economic appeal to man, but a profoundly religious one. There is no other explanation for the zeal of Communists than the fact that they accepted it as a religion." Communism he said, is vulnerable in one point—death. As long as men die, Christianity will have the advantage for it promises men not death but life. The church must meet Communism in a way differing from the method of attack against any other force in the last few centuries. The proletariat has a historical situation for the future. The disinherited laborers have a messianic role for future civilization. The question is, Who will get to them first, Christ or anti-Christ, the Church or Communism? The duty of Catholics at the present time is to go down to the disinherited group and form a Catholic proletariat culture just as vigorous and just as zealous as a Communist proletariat."

Despite the clamor for a restatement of theology in modern thought, "grace, faith, and salvation must remain the essence of the Gospel," the Rev. Dr. Thomas Eakin of Knox College, Toronto, said at the Collegiate Reformed Church of St. Nicholas, New York. "Grace is the very warp and woof of the Scriptures. It is not an antiquated thing; it is the heart and nerve of religion. The impelling consciousness of the grace of God is our support on the limitations and the infirmities of life. God stoops to our frailty and ignorance daunted by what man has made of himself."

Faithful people are those who do not fear, declared Rev. Dr. M. Simmons at All Souls Unitarian Church, New York. "Those who have a living faith do not fear. Such a faith is not a mere credulous acceptance. The ages of faith in the past have been ages of credulity at its lowest point. It still is in a good deal of traditional religion. The modern man must have some definite assurances of faith. He must have evidence of things unseen. A living faith is a spiritual power. It is a moving force. Such power is indispensable for recovery and for progress.

Amateurs in religion were censured by Dean Milo H. Gates at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. He declared that parents seem to accept no responsibility in the training of their children. They are handed over to the clergy or the teachers in the Sunday School. "Our Christianity is too dilettante. We do not keep in training."

Rev. Dr. J. P. McComas at St. Paul's P. E. Chapel said: "In the early days of the church, she learned that danger of experience meetings and public confessions which usually minister to pride and cause scandal. She arranged for private confessions to one authorized to receive them and under special safeguards.

"The sin of the drawing-room is the slanderous tongue, belittling, pulling down, dividing. Let us gather and not scatter."

At Park Avenue M. E. Church, Rev. Dr. J. J. Henry said God put man into a world of beauty, where everything leads to its appreciation. "No matter what our contact is with the world, it seeks to express itself in beauty. There is a beauty of the continuous presence of God in nature. God has made everything beautiful in His time."

"What makes life victorious?" asked Canon Pascal Harrower of Brighton, S.I., "it is not the fulfulment of our dreams. It is something in our souls that is capable of making life over and welding all together. It is the consciousness of a great and supreme love."

THE FARMER

"One of the major tasks confronting our Dominion in this period of reconstruction is that one of rehabilitating the farming industry and bringing back the farmer to his rightful place somewhat nearer to the centre of the economic life of the country," says The New Outlook. "How he came to be, as he is, away off on the side lines, is a long story and has been rehearsed a good many times. Those who know that story best assure us that he is not at least any more responsible for being where he is than are other members of the community. There has been a trend in the development of conditions for which he is not to be blamed any more than are the rest of us, but from which he has suffered as no other man in the community has suffered. That a greater and more intelligent interest in what was happening on the part of the whole community would have prevented some things from happening is, however, no doubt true.

"How that task of bringing back farming to its rightful place is to be accomplished is a difficult and most serious problem, as any one knows who has given it thought at all. Some of the best minds on the continent have been busy with the problem and still have to admit that they do not see their way through it. Certain it is that there is no easy way ou, and no single process that will bring the restoration that is so greatly to be desired. In fact quick and easy cures are suspect from the start and are to be avoided as in the end more hurtful than helpful.

"There may not, therefore, seem to be much that you and I can do to help in this matter, but there is this much that we ought to do, give it the serious attention that it deserves and try to become as well-informed and intelligent about it as may be. The question has many far-reaching issues and stands very closely related to the moral and spiritual welfare of a great mass of our Canadian people, and we cannot afford to pass it by thinking that it has not very definite relation to ourselves and our interests. It does concern us all and concern us very vitally indeed."

THE CRAZY WORLD

The world we have come to seems like a crazy world. We have poverty and hunger amidst apparent plenty. In the year 1934 we had nations destroying millions of dollars' worth of goods and foodstuffs while millions of people lacked clothing and food. Holland burned 15,000,000 flower bulbs and destroyed 100,000 pigs. The United States destroyed 2,000,000 sows and 4,000,000 little pigs. Denmark incinerated 25,000 cattle. In New Zealand 5,000 lambs were driven into the sea. In the United States every third row of cotton was "plowed in". Brazil destroyed 26,000,000 bags of coffee—and so on through the record.—Ottawa Journal.

The hardest part of good works is to keep the chiselers from getting most of the benefit.—Fountain Inn (S.C.) Tribune.

SIDELIGHTS

THE HOME FORUM

Discussing the events of the day, home gossip and general news topics as revealed by the home newspaper—under the evening lamp—and comments Grave and Gay. — Supervised by The Lamplighter.

A PERFECT HOUR

It cannot be that any who have known
A perfect hour can forget it, quite,
Though all their other days be overgrown
With weeds of time that crowd them out of sight
Like some great hill which lifts its sun-drenched crest
So high it serves the traveler as a guide,
That flawless hour will ever, in the breast,
Stand out, clear-etched and not to be denied.

Be it an hour of triumph or of love,
All lesser days and moments it will bless,
For still through thought's most shadowed halls will move
The shining memory of its perfectness.
Obliterating misery and strife,
A perfect hour can enrich a life!

—Aline Michaelis.

x x x

FORTY YEARS AGO, last week, there were big doings in Belleville, when the citizens turned out en masse to do honour to the Prime Minister of Canada, who was also a citizen of this no mean city, Sir Mackenzie Bowell. A reception was tendered Belleville's distinguished first citizen, with parade to the railway station, the Premier being escorted from his private Pullman car, Cumberland, through the principal streets, with Mayor Walmsley at his side and a whole host of great and near-great in his retinue. A banquet at night was gay with splendid speeches all breathing loyalty to Canada and its new Prime Minister. Much water has passed over the dam since then, much history made for Canada and the world. Many of those who participated in that banquet have crossed the Great Divide and no doubt are amused at the little differences which occurred on earth and seemed of such large importance. Distance minimizes mountains, but those who were privileged with intimate acquaintance with Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Printer, Editor, Premier, will still treasure the memory of his kindly, lovable character.

x x x

SOMETHING SAID within the penitentiary walls at Portsmouth, near Kingston, or said to have been said, by a prison inspector to a convict, has had serious repercussions on the floor of Parliament at Ottawa, where our only woman legislator, Miss Agnes McPhail, complained that the remark said to have been made within the grim grey walls of the prison constituted an insult to her, and demanded an investigation and punishment to fit the crime in the case of the prison inspector. The said inspector replied that on his word of honor as a gentleman he had not made any remark derogatory to Agnes McPhail, M.P. The denial was reported to Parliament but Agnes McPhail, M.P., said she would not take his word and still believed her convict confidant that the verbal insult had been made as stated. However, that's not what caused the riot or whatever it was last week that caused the presence of the Kingston Fire Department at the prison.

x x x

HERR HITLER, Chancellor and "Big Shot" generally of Germany has thrown a genuine war scare into Europe, shock-proof against minor shocks. Herr Hitler is always starting something and generally gets something out of his disturbances. War is probably farthest from his thoughts, all that he wants is personal glory and advancement, but the danger is, that if he keeps throwing burning brands into combustible material there is liable to be a conflagration break out which will burn Germany worse than anybody.

x x x

Funny how those out of office know how to solve the nation's problems.

x x x

The sailor noticed with surprise that his shipmate was enclosing a blank sheet of notepaper in an envelope addressed to his wife.

"'Ere, what's the idea, Bill?" he asked.

'S'all right," was the reply. "The missus and me had a row before I sailed an' we're not on speaking terms."

x x x

At one of the seaside resorts Johnny rushed up to his mother, almost speechless with excitement, and reported a swimming accident.

"They are trying 'unofficial desperation' Mummy," he exclaimed.

DOES MEMORY RETAIN EVERY PAST EVENT?

Mental Image Are Two Type Emotional And Intellectual

By Louis E. Bisch, M. D., Ph. D.
Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

Copyright 1935
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Science has already discovered that to specific portions of the brain is given the task of storing certain impressions. Therefore, we find, certain parts of the brain have specialized work to perform.

In the back of the head, in the occipital lobes are the centres of sight. The speech centre is suppos- to be in the left side of the brain, above and in front of the ear.

Future experimentation will doubtless determine in much greater detail this localization of function. It may be added here that most of the work of the brain seems to be taken up by the left side, the right being, relatively speaking, dormant.

The unconscious mind — the underneath mind — has well been called "one's historical past". For the multitudinous events of each day—especially its landmarks — are all recorded there.

You will ask whether every experience, important or not, is actually engraved somewhere in the unconscious, never to be lost. Do not, in other words, some impressions gradually fade out? Is there no such thing as absolute forgetting

All mental images may be conveniently divided into two types; the purely intellectual, and those pictures to which some emotion is attached.

The average man, pondering the obscurity of Einstein's Law of Relativity, may be exerting the highest intellectual effort of which he is capable. But the subject is so abstract and impersonal it arouses in him no emotion whatever.

An impression of this intellectual type, when relegated to the unconscious mind, tends to fade out because it lacks the vitalizing element —emotion.

To Einstein himself, however, all thought on this great law of astronomy which he has formulated is doubtless surcharged with intense emotion.

If, on the other hand, we contemplate mother-love even abstractedly, a thrill within us marks the stirring of emotion. If, furthermore, this thought is transferred from the abstract to the concrete and attached to some woman, the thrill strengthens, the impression made on the unconscious is deepened, the record on the mind will be permanent and will never be forgotten.

The mind, in its infinite variety, is indeed a complicated mechanism. Yet it is a machine, like any other organ of the body, and its workings can be studied.

Books by the hundreds, all dealing with the fascinating story of the mind storage, can be bought or borrowed from the library.

Dr. Bisch's Daily Diet Hint

Foods rich in cellulose are only partially assimilated by the system; yet they have value because they help elimination by adding bulk to the intestines. Such foods are cabbage, lettuce, cucumbers, celery, squash, spinach and tomatoes.

CHEST COLDS
A "MECCA" OINTMENT AND MUSTARD POULTICE
Don't take chances on a Chest Cold—it may lead to Pneumonia. A poultice made up of two tablespoons of Mecca and a teaspoon of Mustard brings marvelous results. It removes congestion and heals inflammation—prevents blistering. In severe cases change the poultice twice daily. Mecca Ointment is sold by all druggists—25c, [illegible] (Tube), 50c and $1.00.

CATHEDRAL GUARDED AGAINST FIREBUG

London, Ont., March 27—St. Peter's Cathedral, the magnificent centre of Roman Catholic activities in the Diocese of London, has been under guard night and day for the past several days, it was disclosed yesterday as a result of an attempt by an incendiarst to set the edifice afire. Inflammable materials piled ready for the arson attempt were discovered in time where they had been placed behind the main altar in the sanctuary. No intruder was seen, but the church is open during entire day and evening, and is visited by many.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 Years Ago

MARCH 27th., 1915.

A telegram was received this morning by Mr. E. Guss Porter, K. C., M. P., from the Minister of Public Works, Ottawa, which reads as follows: "Specifications for reinforced concrete warehouse for Belleville dock are now ready. Tenders will be called for and work proceeded with as soon as possible". It is expected that the new dock and warehouse will be ready and in use during this season of navigation.

At the January session of the Hastings County Council, Warden Ketcheson invited all the members of the County Council and the county officials to be his guests on a trip to Toronto to attend he annual convention of the Good Roads Association. The convention was held this week and the following members of the council accepted the invitation of Mr. Ketcheson: Messrs. T. Walker, N. Vermilyea, U. E. Hubbell, W. Nugent, C. Thompson, W. E. Tummon, T. Montgomery, T. Naylor, E. W. Hawkins, R. P. Coulter, G. A. Rose, G. Sills, C. Rollins and S Fox. Messrs. G. H. Bleecker, County Superintendent; A. M. Chapman, County Clerk; B. Mallory, County Treasurer; H. Wright, Sidney Township road superintendent; A. Reed and H. Ketcheson, councillors of Sidney township, and L. E. Allen were also in attendance. Those who accepted the hospitality of Mr. Ketcheson gathered together on Thursday evening and presented him with a handsome gold headed cane. The presentation was made on behalf of the company by Mr. T. Montgomery, Reeve of Rawdon township.

30 Years Ago

MARCH 27th., 1905

For the fourth time the water main across the river has been broken by the ice. At about p.30 this morning a large body came down the river, but the only damage done of any consequence was the breaking of the main. As soon as it was known that the main was broken the water was turned into the temporary pipes which are across the two bridges and no delay was caused in maintaining the supply of water. The ice in the bay is apparently quite firm yet. There does not appear to be any trouble in store unless a large quantity of ice should come down from up the river. In West Belleville on Saturday and Sunday there was much water on the streets, but it passed off without causing any damage beyond torn-up wooden sidewalks and flooded-crossings. Taking everything into consideration, the flood this Spring has not been nearly as serious as people had been led to believe it would be from the quantity of snow that fell during the winter. Of course there may be trouble yet.

40 Years Ago

MARCH 27th., 1895

Mr. John Harry is in Toronto today on business.

The Rev. S. J. Shorey of Lindsay was a visitor in the city yesterday.

Mr. Stephen Roughton of Kingston, formerly of Belleville, was in the ciy today.

Mr. J. Earl Halliwell, barrister, Stirling, was in town today.

Messrs. W. C. Mikel and A. A. Roberts, who have been known for the past three years as Mikel and Roberts, Barristers, etc., have dissolved partnership by mutual consent. Mr. Roberts will take another office and Mr. Mikel will remain in the old office.

The Bay of Quinte Bridge Company met yesterday afternoon and opened the tenders for the tolls. There were four tenders in all and that of Richard Arnott, last year's lessee, was accepted. The amount of his tender was $4,510, over $200 above the amount paid last year. This speaks well for the earning capacity of the bridge.

Frank Wolever of this city sent his brother, Hame, now in Albany, N. Y., a copy of the Intelligencer containing an account of the reception and banquet to Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Premier of Canada, and following are his comments when replying: "Received the paper this morning and Imust say that the Intelligencer did some good work; that is the cuts and the story. It beats most of the papers over here."

50 Years Ago

MARCH 27th., 1885

Spring has arrived.

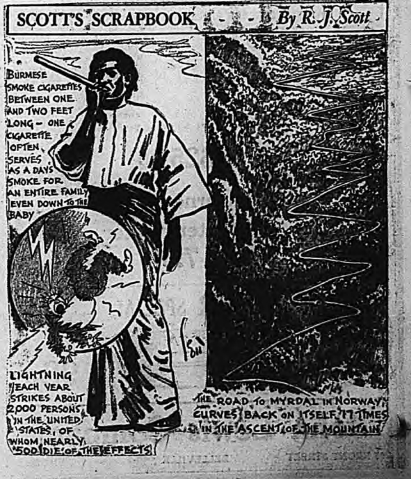
Lake and Jenkins had their bus out on wheels today.

Madoc wants some chartered bank to open a branch in that village.

A vicious cow running at large in West Belleville attacked a man last evening. He was fortunate to escape with only a severe poking in the ribs.

The station 14 miles east of Belleville called Tyendinaga will be known on and after the first of May as Marysville. The station and the post office will now have the same name.

A team of horses owned by the Hon. Robert Read ranaway from near the market yesterday and ran up Front street to Bridge street where they turned to cross the river. As they turned they collided with Jas. Benson, a venerable carter, who was at the stand at the time. He was knocked down and received some severe bruises. The horses were stopped near the ashery. This team has a reputation as runaways.



SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK - - By R. J. Scott
BURMESE SMOKE CIGARETTES BETWEEN ONE AND TWO FEET LONG – ONE CIGARETTE OFTEN SERVES AS A DAYS SMOKE FOR AN ENTIRE FAMILY EVEN DOWN TO THE BABY
LIGHTNING EACH YEAR STRIKES ABOUT 2,000 PERSONS IN THE UNITED STATES, OF WHOM NEARLY 500 DIE OF THE EFFECTS
THE ROAD TO MYRDAL IN NORWAY CURVES BACK ON ITSELF 17 TIMES IN THE ASCENT OF THE MOUNTAIN

PHONE 2380
For Snappy Shopping Service Free Delivery

Blue's Marketeria
Belleville's Largest Independent Market.

PHONE 2380
For Snappy Shopping Service Free Delivery

SPECIALS IN THE MEAT DEPARTMENT

Lean Lamb Flank . . lb. 10c
Halibut Steak . . . lb. 20c
Pork Sausage . . . .. . lb. 19c
Pickled Shoulders . . lb. 13c

SPECIALS IN THE FRUIT DEPARTMENT

Fresh Spinach . . 2 lbs. 25c
Basket Parsnips . . . 19c
Pineapples . . . 23c

SPECIALS IN THE GROCERY DEPARTMENT

White Beans . . . . . . 4 lbs. 15c
32 oz. Pineapple Marmalade . . 27c
Sugar Krisp Cornflakes 2 for 15c
Gallon Tins Tomato Juice each 39c

CONSECON NEWS OF NEIGHBORHOOD

Consecon, March 27—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bolte, Barbara and Bill spent the tea hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Fleming, Trenton.

Friends and neighbors of Mr. E. Rathbun are glad to hear he is progressing favorably after his recent operation in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ward, Mrs. H. W. Weeks and Mr. and Mrs. James and Royden spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Burr.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lazier and Miss Marion Bush spent a few days last week with friends in Toronto.

Mr. Roderick McLean of Hamilton, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McLean.

Mr. and Mrs. George Benway and Ronald spent Sunday with the latter's mother, Mrs. Hattie Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Cox spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. Spencer.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Young spent the tea hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clayton French.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Burr, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Swayne, Mrs. H. W. Weeks and Dr. and Mrs. Van Luven and Mrs. Tolan spent Thursday with Mrs. B. E. Weeks and Mrs. H. Huycke.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chase and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Miller spent a few days last week in Toronto and St. Catharines.

Mrs. B. Zufelt and Marjorie spent the week end in Toronto.

Miss Helen Miller spent the week end in Wellington with Miss Kathleen Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Burris and Elwood spent the tea hour on Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Alyea.

Mr. Harold McConkey spent the week end at home.

Dr. and Mrs. Van Luven and Mrs. Tolan spent a week in Ohio. Mrs. Tolan remaining for some time.

◆

MISSION WORK THEME OF PROGRAM

Madoc Junction, March 27—Mr. and Mrs. N. Wannamaker and family visited at Mr. and Mrs. E. McCaughan's, Foxboro, on Sunday.

Several on this line are busy making maple syrup these days.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Heath and Mr. Bill Heath were Wednesday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Stapley.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Ashley visited Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thompson of West Huntingdon on Thursday.

Misses H. Beauderie and Winnie Juby were Thursday tea guests of Miss Caroline Rayner.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Stapley attended the meeting of the Sidney 20th century club at Wallbridge one night last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Fitchett of Stirling spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. C. Fitchett.

Mr. George Stapley of Deseronto, visited at Mr. James Stapley's for a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Keegan had Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. A. Looney, Ridge Road.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Stapley spent the tea hour Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. Fitchett.

Mr. Raymond Chambers visited relatives in Toronto and Hamilton last week.

Mr and Mrs. Phil Carr visited at Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Stapley's on Friday.

League was held at the church on Thursday night with Rev. R. Merriam taking charge of the Devotional part. The missionary leader, Ray Danford then took charge. Leonard Waterfall gave a reading on "China."

Marion McMullen gave another reading "Bob's Travelling Magazines" and Dorothy McMullen gave a paper on "Homes in Trinidad."

After singing a hymn Rev. Merriam closed the meeting with prayer. A couple of contests were then put on by Ray Danford and Rev. Merriam.

On Friday evening over sixty guests enjoyed the W.M.S. pancake tea held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fitchett. After all had done justice to the abundance of eats provided, a good programme was given as follows:

Community singing with Mrs. Russell tapley presiding at the piano.

Two solos by B. Burns.

Humorous reading: Mrs. M. Wilson.

Solo: Miss Keitha Stapley.

Reading. Marion McMullen.

Several musical selections by Miss Lena Beauderie on guitar and Mr. George McMullen on the harmonica.

Reading: by Miss D. McMullen.

Reading: by Mrs. S. Danford.

Two contests were put on by Misses Caroline Rayner and Lena Beauderie.

National Anthem.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Fitchett for opening up their home for the occasion.

◆

STORK WINS RACE AGAINST TAXICAB

Baby Girl Born in Taxicab on Hospital Driveway

London, March 27. — The well-known stork won a race with a local taxi-cab here the other morning. Another five minutes and the cab would have been the winner—but as has happened before, it happened again.

A call received by the Checker Taxi Co., for a "hurry-up" call to 430 Dufferin avenue. Cab No. 55, driven by William Vanhorne went to the home of Edwin R. Hothersall of the city fire department. When the cab arrived Mrs. Hothersall was waiting and directed the driver to take her to Victoria Hospital.

Just as the cab was pulling into the driveway at the hospital a daughter was born to Mrs. Hothersall. A doctor and nurses were called to care for the mother and child and they were soon tucked away between blankets in a warm bed, receiving proper care.

Dr. W. E. Mace is in charge of the case and latest reports say that "mother and daughter are doing fine."

◆

Obituary

LATE MRS. LETTA A. ROSS

On Thursday, March 21st, there passed away after a prolonged illness an esteemed resident of Melrose community in the person of Letta A. Beatty, widow of Philip Ross and eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beatty.

The deceased was born in Huntingdon Township in 1846, moving to Tyendinaga when a child in which place she resided for the remainder of her life.

The late Mrs. Ross was a member of Salem United Church and in her earlier days took an active part in the work of the church and also of the community in which she lived.

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Macfarlane, service being conducted by Rev. W. H. Clarke in Salem church and interment followed in the Ross plot in Salem Cemetery. The pall bearers were Jas. Sills, S. Haight, W. Snider, D. Hagerman, C. Long and F. Davis.

Surviving members of the family are one daughter, Mrs. Chas. Macfarlane one grandson, Edwin Ross of Winnipeg, Man., and one brother, Robert Beatty, of Carievale, Sask. A son, Harry W. Ross predeceased his mother ten years ago.

◆

DEATHS YESTERDAY

(By The Canadian Press)

Ottawa: Monsignor W. E. Cavanagh, 67, one of the best known members of the Catholic clergy in the Ottawa Valley.

Santiago, Chili: Renato Zanelli, Chilean singer who had appeared at the Metropolitan in New York and also in London and Italy.

New Haven, Conn.: Gerald C. MacGuire, 37, who came into prominence recently in connection with a "Fascist plot" to seize the United States government.

Nutley, N.J.: Thomas M. McVeigh, 66, well known New York newspaperman.

◆

NAME RESEMBLES ALPHABET SONG

Sandwich, Ont., Mach 27 (CP)—"That name looks as if you got it out of alphabet soup," remarked Judge G. F. Machon when Wlodczimierz Wyszynski, a Pole, appeared before him in the naturalization court here. His Honor, prior to approving the application advised him to change the name as people were "liable to strangle on it."

Registrar A. A. McKinnon had been singing out the names of the applicants freely and easily until he reached Wyszynski's. He took one look, swallowed hard and then called out "No. 48."

RIVAL "WIFE"

It was news to Beatrice Lillie, famed commedienne when Doris Draper (above) took stand in London trial and testified she had been wife of the late Sir Robert Peel for last five years of his life; for Miss Lillie was married to him all that time.

SUNLIGHT
SOAP

How do YOU judge the value of soap?

- You can't tell by looks, nor by size or price! How, then, can you tell?
- The surest, safest way to judge good value in soap is by the $5,000 Sunlight Guarantee of Purity.
- To women who know what harsh, impure soaps do to hands and fabrics . . . soap purity such as you find in Sunlight, is a boon.
- Yet because Sunlight is all pure soap it is more economical . . . bar for bar it washes more clothes than common soaps.
- This absolute purity of Sunlight Soap means so much. Sunlight Soap is purposely made to dissolve freely. The pure soapy suds cleanse quickly and thoroughly. Clothes are made snowy. Hands are not roughened or coarsened . . . fabrics are not damaged with injurious chemicals.
- Sunlight's Purity is the standard by which millions of women judge soap—and the number of women who prefer Sunlight is steadily growing.

Lever Brothers Limited
Soapmakers by Appointment to their Excellencies the Governor-General and Countess of Bessborough.

McNABB'S
FASHION REVUE
at the
CAPITOL THEATRE

CHOSEN AS THE FASHION STORE OF BELLEVILLE

Miss Claire Andree Lecturer of the De Both Homemakers' School

Complete Change in Fashions Every Day

In accord with Miss Andree's good taste—she has chosen McNabb's to display the smartest in women's apparel for Spring and Summer

COATS AND SUITS

Choose your Spring Outfit from our large assortment of properly styled and beautifully tailored merchandise.

Our labelled garments is your guarantee of proper fit and style.
LANGBURNE COATS AND SUITS
PRINTZESS COATS AND SUITS
HURLINGHAM COATS AND SUITS

The J. A. McNABB Ltd.
254 Front St.

Millinery by Woodley's

Millinery by Woodley's

You risk poor cake like this when you use doubtful baking powder

Fresh eggs, butter, milk, sugar, flour and chocolate were used in this cake. Yet—see what happened because the baking powder failed!
SOGGY!
HEAVY!
FALLEN!

MADE WITH MAGIC

With Magic Baking Powder you can count on perfect leavening every time you bake. Tender, even-textured cakes that keep fresh and delicious as long as there's a crumb left!

Isn't it foolish to waste expensive ingredients when less than 1¢ worth of Magic would have prevented a failure? . . .

DON'T think that just because you use only 2 or 3 teaspoons of baking powder in a recipe it doesn't matter what kind you buy. Baking powder is particularly important.

For poor-quality baking powder invariably gives coarse, crumbly cake. And—it can easily cause a complete failure—waste all your other good ingredients.

That's why Canada's leading cookery experts say it's wise economy to safeguard your cakes with MAGIC.

Magic Baking Powder is dependable. It always leavens perfectly. Yet—Magic costs so little everyone can afford it. Actually—less than 1¢ worth makes a cake! Little enough to pay for the best, isn't it?

Your grocer sells Magic. Order a tin tomorrow!

. . .

When You Bake At Home, have the new Magic Cook Book handy. Send for a free copy to Gillett Products, Fraser Ave., Toronto 2.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER has been selected for use at the BELLEVILLE ONTARIO-INTELLIGENCER COOKING SCHOOL
Conducted by
MISS CLAIRE ANDREE
at CAPITOL THEATRE
MARCH 27th, 28th, 29th, from 1.30 p.m. to 4.30 p.m.
Come! Hear about the latest time-saving methods! Get the newest recipes!

MAGIC BAKING POWDER
CONTAINS NO ALUM
HOME SERVICE BUREAU
CANADIAN HOME JOURNAL

CONTAINS NO ALUM
This statement on every tin is your guarantee that Magic Baking Powder is free from alum or any harmful ingredient.

MADE IN CANADA

Woodley's Furriers

Beware!
OF THE MOTH

Telephone 421

For Fur Storage

Only a Furrier understands your Furs and no one else should be entrusted with them.

WORLD-WIDE
YEAR ROUND INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE
THEFT

FUR CLEANING
Furriers'
Polarising System
Guaranteed
Not Dry Cleaned

OUR MESSENGER
WILL CALL
Belleville's Oldest
Fur Store
273 Front Street

Personals

Miss Louise Wallbridge is leaving tomorrow to spend a month in Florida.

Mr. Stewart H. Pender, Dufferin Avenue, has returned from a trip to Boston.

Mrs. Chas. Cameron has returned after a two weeks' trip to Atlantic City.

Miss Eleanor Hyman has returned after visiting in Lindsay.

Mr. J. A. McFee is attending two lectures in Toronto by one of America's outstanding authorities on the most recent developments in Optometry.

Miss Alice McIntosh, who was in Montreal to attend the Medical Ball at the Mount Royal Hotel, has returned to the city after spending the past week and one-half, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Anderson.

Miss Margaret Rathman of Kingston has returned home after visiting with relatives in town.

Mrs. Ronald Keel, Albert Street, was hostess at a delightfully-arranged kitchen shower last evening in honor of Miss Irene Bailey, bride-to-be. Bridge was played during the evening, Miss Marjorie Palmatier being the prize-winner. The smart kitchenware was presented to the guest of honor in an artistically designed boat and Miss Bailey graciously thanked her friends for their kindness. A dainty lunch was served at the close of the evening.

The monthly meeting of the C.W.L. Study Club was held last evening at the home of Mrs. P. J. Lee, first vice-president of the League. A large number of members was present and thoroughly enjoyed the evening's program. Mrs. M. Callaghan, convener of the Study Club acted as chairman. A thoughtful paper on the Life of St. Jude was given by Mrs. J. M. Trualsch and Miss Margaret Hayes read a paper on a delightful trip from Edinburgh to London. Miss Anna Lafferty, contributed two amusing readings and Miss Agnes Gallagher read a paper on Current Events. Miss Lena Carroll spoke on "Some Saints of Our Day" and the program concluded with an interesting discussion by Rev. Father Collins.

INSPECTOR J. MILLER IS MUCH IMPROVED

Hamilton, Ont., March 27 (CP)—Greatly improved but still very weak as the result of a heart attack suffered several weeks ago, John Miller, chief inspector of C.I.D. Provincial Police, and recently nominated to be director of police services, has left the General Hospital here and returned to his home in Toronto. It is expected it will be several weeks before Inspector Miller is able to take over his new duties.

Annual Cooking School

(Continued From Page 1)

Visitors Welcomed

The visitors were welcomed by Mr. G. A. Morton of the Ontario Intelligencer, who referred to the educational feature of the cooking school, which brought not only delightful new recipes, but instruction in the use of the latest household equipment and in making the most of what was already in the home. Mr. Morton introduced the lecturer of the school, Miss Claire Andree, and spoke of her experience in conducting schools throughout Canada and the United States. Miss Andree, he said, was thoroughly acquainted with her subject, has obtained a degree in Home Economics and had undertaken extensive post graduate work, specializing in dietetics. Mr. Morton also introduced Miss Andree's assistant, Miss Susie Denike of this city.

Warmly Welcomed

As Miss Andree came before the footlights, a slim, dainty figure in her crisp white smock, the audience responded to the charm of her smile with an ovation. Her friendly air won all hearts and the school at once assumed the atmosphere of an intimate, family gathering. The stage setting for the School was particularly attractive. Palms and ferns, the deep red of the stage draperies and the very smart furniture used in the School made an effective background. The Commodore Orchestra contributed a program of soft music as an overture to the class and the trilling song of very modest visitors, the canaries, was a cheery accompaniment to the orchestral numbers and to Miss Andree's words.

Efficient Workmanship

Miss Andree, very efficiently went about her work of demonstrating. Without the slightest appearance of haste, she completed the program early enough for her audience to do any shopping they required and still arrive home in good time for preparing the evening meal. As delicacy after delicacy was prepared, Miss Andree gave details of each step, the reason for any innovations and hints on varying the recipe. She introduced to her audience an amazing number of "new wrinkles" and of treating matter-of-fact dishes in such a way, that they would make a satisfying appearance at the most critical luncheon or dinner party.

"First of all, let us look ourselves over," said Miss Andree as she began the class. Then she explained the importance of correctly fitting foot wear for the busy home maker and recommended the Dr. M. W. Locke shoe from the Naborhood Shoe Store which she herself wore as being ideal, the variety of lasts and styles ensuring smartness as well as foot ease. "Dressing up" the face was also described and Miss Andree dwelt on the beauty preparations to be found at Dolan's. In a few days a cosmetic expert would visit Dolan's and give practical advice concerning the selection and application of beauty preparations. To keep one's hands and face soft and lovely Miss Andree recommended the use of Lux Toilet Soap and cautioned her hearers to be faithful to the nightly removal with this soap of make-up to avoid "cosmetic skin". As she proceeded with the School Miss Andree spoke in high terms of the various products used and demonstrated in the school. She prepared first, Dixie Pork Chops. All meat for the School was from Blue's Marketeria and Miss Andree emphasized the fact that Blue's Telephone Service and specially trained girl shoppers is a boon to the busy housewife. Meats, groceries, vegetables will be selected and delivered in response to telephone orders.

Jewel Shortening with its easy creaming properties, Keen's Mustard useful in innumerable ways in cooking and in other household necessities and Five Roses Flour from MacKenzie Company were used in this recipe, which presented pork chops in a new guise. Meat should always be wiped with a damp cloth before using and fresh meats should not be covered in the refrigerator. Polo Rice was the next delectable dish prepared, Miss Andree using a Dutch Oven, of Wear Ever Aluminum from Walker Hardware For Polo Rice, the addition of onion as flavoring was necessary.

Flavoring Hint

"Onions, they say," laughed Miss Andree "build us up physically and ruin us socially. For those, who do not care for onions chopped up in this dish, a good idea is to rub the inside of the bowl with onion. That gives the flavor without too much of the taste."

The old feeling that foods left for even a few minutes in tin cans after the top had been removed would be tainted has no place in the view of the modern housewife. Cans nowadays are made in such a manner, that they are thoroughly safe and Miss Andree purposely left a can opened for considerable time without removing its contents.

Continuing with the demonstration, Miss Andree used Ladies' Favourite Flour for fine cakes, this flour being from the MacKenzie Milling Company and Magic Baking Powder, a most reliable brand made by Standard Brands. Jersey Milk from the Montrose Accredited Herd was used exclusively and Miss Andree called attention to new chocolate health drink, chocolate and yeast now being put on market by Montrose Dairy. Bokar Coffee from the A. and P. was chosen by Miss Andree for her coffee making demonstration and she explained the features of the other A. and P. brands, Eight O'Clock and Red Circle.

Turning to the stage equipment, Miss Andree described in a very interesting manner the products displayed. Through the courtesy of the Belleville Hydro Electric Company, Moffat Electric Ranges were used and Miss Andree explained the thermostatic control feature of the newest model ranges and complimented Belleville in having such a low rate for electricity, making electricity the cheapest fuel for cooking. The attractiveness of the Frigidaire, loaned by the Refrigeration Shop and the Frigidaire-Thor Sales and Service was commented upon by the lecturer who pointed to the many devices especially appealing. The beautiful dining room and smart kitchen furniture came from the George Thompson Furniture Store. The linen table cloth, the envy of every woman, was from McIntosh Bros., whose linens are renowned for their beauty while the Springtime centrepiece of daffodils and tulips was from Dorothy F. Quick, Florist. Dainty curtains and drapes for every room added a delightful touch to the stage arrangement and these were from the Canadian Department Store, Miss Andree showing many samples of new Spring window "wear."

Dainty Appointments

From Stroud's variety store came the dishes and crystal, which gleamed from the dining table and the silverware was in the famous Lady Hamilton pattern, Oneida Community Plate, from Angus McFee's. The new easy chair control feature of the De Luxe Model Stewart Warner radio was explained by Miss Andree, the radio on the stage being from the Big A. Company Limited. Very special demonstrations were given in the use of Rinso for household laundering and of the handsome Beatty Washer whose special features take the drudgery out of wash day. This model was from the local Beatty Bros. Store. Ollux Quick Drying Enamel, a product of Canadian Industries Limited, was also demonstrated during the afternoon and Miss Andree explained, too, the properties of Ten Test made by International Fibre Board, Ltd., which make it so desirable for insulating homes.

As Miss Andree busied herself with each dish and demonstration, her audience was introduced to many novel and easy ways of adding variety to the menu. Deftly she completed one task and began another, her flashing wit keeping her audience amused and her lecture kept them raptly attentive. And such hints as the eager housewife was able to capture and treasure. One is sure that the phrase "That's the way Miss Andree did it" will occur hundreds of times in conversation, when good cooks get together. The Bacon Muffins were especially well received. They were so simple, yet so altogether different, while Hamburger Eggs were welcomed as a de luxe touch to well known foods. And the dainty and more elaborate dishes were equally appealing. The essential note of the whole school, however, was simplicity and the use of everyday foods.

Measuring Shortening

The displacement method of measuring shortening was explained by Miss Andree and some of her suggestions included that of always sifting sugar before measuring it, using caution in "cooking" not "boiling" eggs, the use of a wooden spoon with aluminum wear. Ice cream as frequent dessert was advised, ice cream now being out of the luxury class. Dickens' Ice Cream was used in the school. For the delicious sandwiches demonstrated, Miss Andree used the Purity Bread from Purity Bakery.

An especially good hint was this. Before beginning the preparation of a dish, it is a splendid plan to place all ingredients to be used at the right of the mixing bowl. As they are used their containers are placed at the left. Then if one is interrupted one can resume work knowing just where one left off. A necessary bit of kitchen equipment Miss Andree felt was an extension telephone and used one installed by the Bell Telephone Company.

Style Show

An interesting interlude was the delightful style show sponsored by the J. A. McNabb firm. Four charming young ladies, Mrs. A. Seymour, Miss Gladys Emerson, Miss McCaren of the Deja and Danty Dress Company and Mrs. M. Brooks, introduced the audience to the very lovely styles for Springtime. Strikingly handsome creations, featuring Deja and Danty gowns were shown. Tweed suits, travel and swagger coats, the popular redingote made their appearance and were received with warm applause. Printed frocks and the supreme navy blue predominated. The regency influence in dainty frills was noticeable, the entire show being most representative of the Spring mode. The evening dresses were particularly lovely. They were in printed crepe and satin with trains and in sheer fabrics in dark tones with the "shirtwaist" tops now being stressed in Parisian fashions. To complement the costumes, hats from Woodley's were shown and these demonstrated every delicious whim of the mode. In fabric and straw, in off the face models and those of wider brims, they gave a very clear picture of millinery dictates for the new season.

Miss Andree, at the conclusion of the Fashion show, and while thoughts were still on clothes emphasized the need of expert dry cleaning to keep new clothes at their best and recommended Modern Cleaners and Dyers to the audience. Before the successful opening afternoon of the cooking school was over Miss Andree found time to call attention to her cheery companions, the canaries furnished by Bishop Seed Store and Nancy Kline and asked her hearers in caring for their own canaries to feed them Brock's Bird Seed and Bird Treat.

The climax of the afternoon was the presentation of attendance prizes.

The list follows:

Baskets of groceries were won by the following:

Mrs. James Thompson, 75 Geddes Street.

Mrs. E. F. Bunnett, 139 Burnham Street.

Mrs. Walter L. Vandervoort, R.R. No. 3, Belleville.

Mrs. Gordon Blue, 276 Bleecker Avenue.

Mrs. Clarence Gibson, 106 Catherine Street.

Mrs. Ralph Weese, 82 N. Front Street.

Mrs. Mabel Freeman, 136 Charles Street.

Miss Florence Davis, 318 Albert Street.

Mrs. Russell Dickson, Ameliasburg, R.R. 2

Miss E. L. Brown, 136 Victoria Avenue.

Mrs. Arthur Summers, North Park Street.

Miss M. Proctor, 10 Forin Street.

Mrs. A. Draycott, 158 Coleman Street.

Mrs. H. Saylor, 14 Elmer Street.

Miss Catherine Grant, 16 Burton Street.

Mrs. V. Huffman, 50 Grove Street.

Miss Doris Atkins, 185 Victoria Avenue.

Mrs. Herb Thompson, Point Anne.

Mrs. Luscombe, 70 Dundas Street.

Jane Davison, 130 East Moira Street.

Mrs. L. E. McLean, 7 Alexander Street.

Mrs. Adam Palmer, 58 Everett Street.

Mrs. Florence Moon, 43 Highland Avenue.

Mrs. James Sword, Corbyville.

Mrs. J. Murphy, Point Anne.

24 lb. bag Ladies' Favourite Flour, (gift of MacKenzie and Co.) Mrs. J. Walden, 34 Bettes Street.

24 lb. Bag Five Roses Flour, (gift of MacKenzie and Co.), Ella T. Bleecker, 328 Front Street.

Table Bouquet, donated by Dorothy F. Quick, Mrs. C. Herman, 15 N. Front Street.

Hamburger Eggs, Mrs. Anne Van Allen, 53 N. Front St.

Pork Chops and Stuffed Pepper, Mrs. W. Asselstine, 127 Grove St.

Sewing Cabinet, Mrs. John Zavan, Corbyville.

Recipes in Tuesday's Cooking School

DIXIE PORK CHOPS

6 pork chops
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
3 tart apples, cored
3 tablespoons brown sugar
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups hot water
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 cup prunes, soaked

METHOD: Sprinkle chops with salt and dry mustard and brown on both sides in hot skillet. Arrange in a greased baking dish. Slice apples in 1-3 inch rings; place on chops and sprinkle with brown sugar. Add flour to fat in skillet and cook until brown, stirring constantly; add water and stir until mixture boils, then add vinegar and chopped, soaked prunes. Pour over chops and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) forty minutes — serve with Polo Rice.

POLO RICE

1 cup bacon
2 small onions
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups boiling water
1 cup rice, well washed
2 cups tomato juice

METHOD: Cut bacon crosswise into half-inch strips and fry in skillet until crisp and brown. Drain and set aside. Add chopped onions, tomatoes, tomato juice, salt and water to drippings in pan, and when boiling, slowly add the rice. Stir in bacon and boil without stirring 35 minutes. The rice will be flaky, tender and orange in color.

MUSHROOM STUFFED PEPPERS

6 green or bell peppers
1 can cream of mushroom soup
2 teaspoons minced onion
¼ teaspoon salt
few grains pepper
2 tablespoons grated cheese
2/3 cup toasted bread crumbs

METHOD: Wash peppers, remove stem end and seeds. Parboil 5 minutes. Sprinkle with salt. Stand in a baking dish and fill with the stuffing made of the soup, seasonings, cheese and crumbs. Finish off with a few bread crumbs. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 20 minutes.

ORANGE CREAM FREEZE

1 cup milk
18 marshmallows
1 cup whipping cream
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
½ cup orange marmalade

METHOD: Heat milk and marshmallows in double boiler until marshmallows are dissolved. Cool. Whip cream to consistency of honey and mix all ingredients together. Freeze in tray of mechanical refrigerator.

COFFEE DEMONSTRATION

INTERNATIONAL SPICE CAKE

2/3 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
2¼ cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup nut meats
¾ cup currants
1 teaspoon lemon extract
3 teaspoons baking powder
¾ cup milk

METHOD: Cream shortening and sugars. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly. Beat in sifted dry ingredients, fruit, nuts, extract and liquids. Line bottom of 8-inch angel food pan with waxed paper. Pour in cake batter and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) one hour. When cool, top with butter cream icing.

PEACH CREAM PUDDING

2 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup cold milk
1½ cups scalded milk
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 tablespoons sugar
1 cup peach slices

METHOD: Dissolve cornstarch in cold milk, add to scalded milk, together with sugar and salt. Cook 10 minutes, add beaten egg yolks. Remove from heat, add butter and flavoring. Make a meringue of egg whites and 4 tablespoons sugar and fold into the hot pudding. Pour over sliced peaches. Garnish with whipped cream and cherry.

BACON MUFFINS

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
¾ cup milk
¼ cup melted shortening.
¾ cup cooked bacon

METHOD: Sift dry ingredients. Beat egg, add milk and mix well with dry ingredients. Add shortening and bacon broken into small pieces. Bake in well greased muffin pans in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 25 minutes.

TEA MAKING

BROWNIES

½ cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
2/3 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
6 tablespoons cocoa
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup walnut meats, chopped

METHOD: Melt butter, beat eggs, add sugar, then other dry ingredients, sifted. Add butter, extract and walnut meats. Combine thoroughly and bake in shallow pan in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) 20 to 30 minutes. Turn out and cut in bars. Cover to retain chewy qualities.

HAMBURGER EGGS

½ lb. hamburger
½ lb. sausage meat
6 hard cooked eggs
soda biscuit crumbs
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 egg.

METHOD: Mix hamburger and sausage meat well, coat each egg with meat, dip in crumbs to which mustard has been added, then in slightly beaten egg and again in crumbs. Fry in deep fat; or, arrange in greased baking pan, cover with 1 can vegetable soup and bake in hot oven, (425 degrees F.) for 20 minutes.

ASPARAGUS CLUB SANDWICH

Toast 4 slices of bread. Spread one side of each lightly with butter.

First Layer: Cover one slice with crisp lettuce, a layer of asparagus tips, two crisp strips of bacon and mayonnaise to moisten. Cover with slice of toast.

Second Layer: Thin slices of well-seasoned chicken and a little mayonnaise. Cover with toast.

Third Layer: Slices of tomato, salt, pepper and dressing. Cover with toast.

To Serve: Cut in attractive shapes and garnish with pickle, ripe or green olives, radish roses, etc.

WASHING DEMONSTRATION

LAUNDERING OF FINE FABRICS

Make nice, thick soap flakes suds — a tablespoonful or so to the gallon is usually enough. You'll be delighted to see how quickly soap flakes dissolve in even lukewarm water — no more temptation to use hot water which is so ruinous to colors and fabrics. Put in the garment and wash quickly, by gently squeezing the rich suds through the material. Don't soak colors or leave in a heap while wet. Thoroughly rinse in lukewarm or cool water. Then squeeze out the moisture — don't twist or pull dainty garments. And do you know how helpful it is to roll a garment in a dry turkish towel. This absorbs much of the moisture so that thin fabrics are often ready to iron at once, with no waiting. Also, in case the color runs, this helps to prevent streaks during the drying. But don't leave anything colored rolled while wet. Instead ease the garment into shape, roll in a dry, turkish towel, knead or press the roll a couple of times and unroll immediately. Always use a warm — never a hot — iron on fine fabrics; some look best ironed while damp, others when dry. If not sure, experiment on a sample or inconspicuous corner.

PINEAPPLE CHIFFON PIE

4 eggs
½ cup sugar
1¼ cups canned, crushed pineapple
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup cold water
1 tablespoon gelatine
1 baked pie shell (9 in.)

METHOD: Cook egg yolks, beaten slightly, ¼ cup sugar, pineapple, lemon juice and salt over boiling water until of custard consistency. Pour cold water in bowl and sprinkle gelatine on top of water. Add to hot custard mixture and stir until dissolved. Cool. When mixture begins to congeal, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites to which the other ¼ cup sugar has been added. Fill baked pie shell, chill, and serve with thin layer of whipped cream on top.

HOUSEHOLD INSULATION-CLASS DISCUSSION

The use of modern insulation in the home — its saving of fuel costs, contributions to health, comfort and the attractiveness of the home — discussed daily in the school.

DEMONSTRATION OF ENAMELLING

Gay touches of enamel make your home bright and cheerful, give it distinction.

Smoothly enamelled surfaces are easily kept clean. This is important to you, as a home-maker.

The use and easy application of (QUICK-DRYING) Enamel will be demonstrated.

Held on Grand Larceny, Allegedly Posed as 'Lord'

Toronto, March 27—(CP)—H. J. N. Neville, who allegedly had posed as "Lord Neville" was arrested today on a charge of grand larceny, involving $18,000 in New York. He will be taken before Judge James Parker later today when it is expected extradition proceedings will be started.

And so to bed—
—her skin protected by Hollywood's Beauty Care
Of course I use cosmetics, but thanks to Lux Toilet Soap I haven't any fear of getting Cosmetic Skin
LUX TOILET SOAP

Doris removes daytime make-up the Hollywood way—guards against unattractive Cosmetic Skin

"When I undress for bed, I undress my face, too! I take daytime make-up off thoroughly with Lux Toilet Soap.

"Then I know I'm not risking unattractive Cosmetic Skin. No stale cosmetics are left in my pores to clog them, enlarge them, cause little blemishes or blackheads.

"It takes only a minute or two to protect my skin the Hollywood way. So I use my Lux Toilet Soap beauty care every single night! Then I can use all the cosmetics I want to—and my skin stays marvelously clear and smooth!"

Cosmetics Harmless if removed this way

You may think you remove stale rouge and powder completely, and yet actually leave bits of make-up in the pores to choke them, enlarge them, cause Cosmetic Skin.

Don't take chances! The ACTIVE lather of Lux Toilet Soap floats out every last trace of rouge, powder, dust and dirt. So gently, too! Always at night, and before you put on fresh make-up during the day—use this modern complexion soap!

This safe economical care protects the priceless complexion of 846 out of 857 English and Hollywood movie stars. Why don't you try it tonight?

BETTE DAVIS
WARNER BROTHERS STAR

FRETFUL BABIES Quieted!

"If my three baby boys were restless with colic or peevish from their teeth I gave them a Baby's Own Tablet and they were soon asleep," says Mrs. T. Tweedy, 475 Millwood Rd., Toronto. These sweet little tablets remove the cause of fretfulness and the child becomes happy and well again. All the common ailments of little folk are promptly and safely corrected with Dr. Williams' Baby's Own Tablets. Price 25c at your druggist's.

Dr. Williams'
BABY'S OWN TABLETS 25¢

Read the Classified Rental Property Listing on this Page

Business Directory

AUTO LOANS

AND REFINANCING
Direct with Owner Car Financing of All Kinds.
S. J. FISHER & SON
30 Bridge St. East Telephone 168
Representing
Campbell Auto Finance Co. Ltd.
Toronto - Ottawa - London - Windsor

CHIROPRACTOR

H. A. WYATT, Ph.C., SPECIAL EXAMination with the Radioclast reveals all diseases in the early stages. Foot disorders corrected — all diseases treated. Phone 900 or write 288 Coleman St., Belleville.

VERA E. PITCHER, CHIROPRACTOR, and H. E. Pitcher, Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment, Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations and Electrical Treatments. 42½ Bridge St. E., Belleville, Ont., Phone 1274.

DENTIST

DR. ROBT. H. EMPSON
DENTIST
X-Ray
Phone 468 240½ Front St. 17-2m

RADIO SERVICE

JOHN A. DEWAR
RADIO TECHNICIAN
Registered — Graduate
243 John St. Phone 217 a1-tf

SURVEYORS

FRASER AYLESWORTH
Ontario Land Surveyor and Registered Professional Civil Engineer. Land Surveys, Plans and Descriptions, Etc., promptly attended to.
PHONE 6 — P. O. BOX 60
MADOC, ONT.

INSURANCE

Protect yourself against accidents with our Automobile Insurance
SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
Life and Fire Insurance
221 Front St Phone 139

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile, Accident and Plate Glass
275 Front St. Phone 1154-W

STOCKS & BONDS

BIGGAR AND CRAWFORD, MEMBERS of Toronto Stock Exchange. Phone 1738. F. H. Wills, branch manager. N5-1y

LEGAL

MALCOLM WRIGHT, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Etc. Office; Campbell St., Belleville.

T. Y. WILLS, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Etc. 15 Campbell St., Belleville. Telephone 74. m4-tf

PORTER, PAYNE AND ARNOTT, BARristers, Solicitors and Notaries Public. Chas. A. Payne, K.C. R. D. Arnott. Offices: 219 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

PONTON AND GRAHAM, BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Commissioners. Office: 26 Bridge St. East. Solicitors, Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages. W. N. Ponton, K.C. R. J. E. Graham. Office: Belleville.

DONNAN AND BUTLER, B. C. Donnan, K.C., E. O. Butler, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public and Commissioners. Offices: Court House Building, Belleville, Ont. Phone 238.

WALLBRIDGE, CAMERON AND CO. (Successors to the late F. S. Wallbridge). Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries. Money to loan. Dominion Bank Building, corner Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ontario.

176
Bleecker Ave.
(A Short Distance South of Bridge St.)
TO LET

Lovely rooms, two coal fireplaces, one in living room, one in dining room, good floors, four bed rooms, blinds, electric range in kitchen, spacious cupboards, hot air heating, new furnace, double garage, beautiful grounds. A very desirable home.

Exclusive Agents
Belleville Locators
GEO. N. GORMAN, Prop.
186 Front St.
Phone 90 House Phone 687

BUY NOW! AND MAKE WORK

PHONE 99
Classified Ad. Rates

SOCIAL NOTICES—Births, 50c; Marriages and Engagement Notices, $1.00; Deaths and Funeral Notices, $1.00; In Memoriam, $1.00; Memoriam Poetry, minimum charge, $1.00 for 10 lines, over that 10c per count line; Ladies' Receiving Announcements, minimum charge, 75c.
CLASSIFIED — (For Sale, Wanted, Etc.)—1½c per word each for first TWO insertions, subsequent insertions 1c per word, minimum 20 words.
COMING EVENTS—75c per insertion for 25 words or under, over that amount 3c per word.
PROFESSIONAL, LEGAL AND BUSINESS CARDS (Yearly Contract)—$2.00 per month per inch.
OFFICIAL, MUNICIPAL AND GOVERNMENT NOTICES (including those concerning Legal Sales)—15c per agate line (14 lines to inch) for first insertion; 10c per line for subsequent insertions.
AUCTION SALE—3c per word, heading to count as 12 words minimum 25 words for 75c; consecutive insertions, 3c per word.

An initial or figure counts as one word.
In estimating allow five words to the line.
Telephone your Want Ads when it is more convenient. PHONE 99.
The Ontario Intelligencer will not be responsible for more than one insertion of an incorrect ad. Phone us if it is wrong.
Advertisers may have their replies addressed to Box Number care of the Ontario Intelligencer.

WANTED

SALESMAN REPRESENTATIVE
A HIGH PROFIT, ELECTRICAL NECESsity for every home. Entirely new and novel. Write immediately giving age and references. Anglo-American Agency, Federal Building, Toronto. M27-1t

A YOUNG WOMAN TO DO HOUSEwork for small family. Apply to Box "E" Ontario Intelligencer. M27-1t

ROOM AND BOARD, GARAGE IF POSsible, by young man. Write Box "I" Ontario Intelligencer. M27-1t

TO BUY—ONE SET OF HEAVY DOUBLE work harness. Write Box "K" Ontario Intelligencer. M27-1t

RELIABLE COUPLE REQUIRE FIVE or six roomed house, conveniences, April 30, reasonable, Box "D" Ontario Intelligencer. M27-3t

A MAN'S BICYCLE IN GOOD CONdition reasonably priced. Apply 271 Albert street. M27-1t

POSITION AS COOK, GENERAL, CAN furnish references. Phone 337-J. M27-1t

EMPLOYMENT WANTED BY MAN with twenty years accounting experience. Small or large business. Offers ability and experience for moderate salary. Box "J" Ontario Intelligencer. M26-3t

BY MAY 1—SMALL HOUSE OR APARTment, no children, rent must be reasonable. Apply stating terms and full particulars to Box "S" Ontario Intelligencer. M26-3t

WANTED TO BUY WALNUT WARDrobe. Must be reasonably priced. Write stating particulars Box "F" Ontario Intelligencer. M25-3t

COUPLE REQUIRE FOUR ROOMED heated apartment, small bungalow or house, city or limits, reasonable. Box "H" Ontario Intelligencer. M25-3t

FOR SALE

PIPELESS FURNACE, GUARANTEED as new. Bargain price. Can be seen at 210 Church street. Phone 2005. M27-4t

STUDEBAKER SEDAN IN GOOD CONdition, cheap. Apply 265 Front street. M27-3t

ONE GOOD SOUND WORK HORSE, 8 years old. Apply S. Pope, Cannifton. M27-1t

200 ACRES FARM, HYDRO, GOOD buildings, waterfront, cheap, part cash. Apply owners, Sandercock Bros. and Jackson, Hillier. M27-3t

35-FOOT MOTOR BOAT, OPEN MODEL, 40-60 h.p., Scripps Motor. Disappearing propeller motor boat. Cordwood sawing outfit complete with Fairbanks engine, 30" saw. Saunders Marine Service, phone 996. M27-2t

145 ACRES, ROSSMORE, ALL TILED, ploughing done. Large basement barns, good stables. Seven room house, fifty-five hundred. 3 acres, Stirling, choice seven room brick house, twenty-two hundred. 5 acres on Herchimer avenue, six room house, barn and hen house, seventeen hundred. Norman Montgomery, 163 William street. M27-1t

ONE NEWCOMBE PIANO IN GOOD condition will sell at $54.50. Weaver's Music Store, 214 Front street. M27-2t

ONE YEAR OLD AIRWAY VACUUM cleaner. Reasonable. Phone 2227-J. M27-1t

BEAUTIFUL RED TABBY PERSIAN cat, male, registered; also Boston Bull pup, house broken, cheap to a good home. Phone Mrs. Pearson, 1606-J. M27-3t

TO RENT A HOUSE WITH CONVENiences, west side preferred. Phone 145r4. M27-1t

ONE 6-PIECE BREAKFAST SUITE, ONE drop leaf table. Apply 205 Charles St. M25-3t

$225.00 CASH BUYS SMALL WOODworking establishment complete with band saw, lathe, drills, etc. Has business connection. Owner leaving city. Occupation April 15, 1935. Apply 166 George street. M26-3t

6 NORTH STRACHAN STREET — ESTATE of Mrs. Shappee. Apply W. O. Black, 166 William. M26-3t

QUANTITY OF TIMBER AND RAFTers from barn 30 x 30. One new milch grade Jersey cow, 4 years old. Apply Harry Lott, Foxboro. M26 29

ONE REPOSSESSED SEVEN-TUBE Westinghouse electric radio, $19.75. Apply Miles' Radio, 329 Front street, phone 1370. M25-3t

CABIN CRUISER—CAN BE SEEN AT Saunder's Marine Service, Belleville. Apply to Fred Croft, 153 West Moira street, phone 872-M. M21-6t

AUCTION SALE

of Choice Furniture, Chesterfield Suite, Piano, Twin Beds, Moffat Electric Stove, &c., Mrs. A. E. LaRoche, 226 Dufferin, Thursday, March 28, one o'clock. Terms cash.
Norman Montgomery, Auctioneer, 163 William St., Phone 1170
M21 27

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Mrs. Mattie Garrison desire to thank their friends and neighbors for many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy extended to them in their bereavement; also for floral tributes and the use of cars at the funeral. M27-1t

DIED

NIBLOCK—In Belleville on Tuesday, March 26, 1935, Mrs. Henrietta Bogart Niblock, widow of Thomas Niblock, in her 90th year.
The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon, March 28, from her late residence, 226 John street, to St. Thomas' Church for service at 2.30 o'clock. Please omit flowers.
Interment Belleville Cemetery.
Toronto papers please copy. M27-1t

TICKELL & BROWNE
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
We Serve for Less
FUNERAL HOME
Corner Church St. and Victoria Ave. Phone 2285

Thomas O. Thompson
Funeral Director
Funeral Home
28 Everett St. Phone 62
Office
208 Front St. Phone 62

BELLEVILLE BURIAL COMPANY
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
27 Campbell St.
Phone 776-W Day and Night
J. W. IMLAH
Proprietor
Mausoleum Crypts For Sale

SPECIAL SALE
Used Tires, all sizes, $2.00 up
USED TIRE SHOP
391½ Front Street
Opposite Upper Bridge

BELLEVILLE MADOC BUS
Leaves Madoc ....: 9.00 a.m.
Leaves Belleville .. 5.30 p.m.
Daily Except Sunday
Parcel Express
PHONE 1340

TO LET

SMALL HOUSE 30 CEDAR STREET, 29 Isabel, also small apartment on Front street. Apply 265 Front street. M27-3t

SIX ROOM HOUSE, MODERN CONveniences, immediate possession. Apply 7 South Park street. M27-2t

73 NORTH FRONT STREET — SEVEN rooms. All conveniences. Apply 71 East Moira. M27-3t

THREE ROOMS, HEATED AND FURnished for light house-keeping. All conveniences. Apply 176 Foster Ave. M26-TF

206 GEORGE STREET — 8 ROOMS, conveniences except furnace, double garage. Possession April 1. Apply W. J. Hall, 278 Front street, phone 1154w. M14-TF

FARM FOR SALE OR RENT

218 ACRES OF THE LATE CHARLES McLean, 2nd Concession Hungerford. Good buildings, barns, stables, drivehouse, hog-pen, hen-house, garage and eight room house. Good dairy farm. Apply I. A. Booker, Roslin. M22 27 30

Y. M. C. A. ALLEYS

In the Ladies' Afternoon League the Athletics got three points to the Mayflowers' one.

Mayflowers—
Mrs. Orne	146	94	179—419
Mrs. Newman ...	120	200	206—526
Mrs. Johnson ...	136	166	137—439
Mrs. Beal	108	139	145—392
Mrs. Boyle	137	135	154—426
Totals	647	734	821 2202
Athletics—
Mrs. J. Arnott..	117	119	160—396
Mrs. Rowsome..	132	134	161—427
Mrs. Wardhaugh	118	191	173—482
Mrs. Smith	133	106	199—438
Mrs. R. Arnott..	185	155	138—478
Totals	685	705	831 2221

PLUNGES DOWN ELEVATOR SHAFT

Hamilton, March 26. — (CP) — Opening a door which he believed was an entrance to a room, Albert Daniels, 51, plunged down an elevator shaft at the John Street rest rooms today. Fireman from Central station nearby were summoned and extricated the man from the deep well of the shaft.

At the hospital it was found he had suffered a fractuerd pelvis and internal injuries. His condition is serious.

READ Before You BUY!

Eaton Groceteria Thursday Specials

SUNGLO
Creamery Butter 2 lbs 47c
(Limit 4 Pounds with Another Purchase)

CRUNCHIE—Large 27 oz. jar
Sweet Mixed Pickles 23c

WETHEY'S—32 oz. jar
Stoneless Red Plum Jam 21c
(With Pectin)

SHOULDER ROAST BEEF Approx. Weight 3 POUNDS
½-LB. SLICED BREAKFAST BACON
1 NO. 2½ SIZE TIN TOMATOES
All for 49c

SLICED BEEF
Bologna .. 2 lbs. 25c

SILVERBRIGHT
SALMON . 2 lbs. 25c
(Sliced or in the Piece)

CHOICE
Lemons large size doz. 17c

Phone 800 GROCERY ORDERS OF $1.00 OR MORE DELIVERED FREE
FREE DELIVERY ON MEAT ORDERS

Current Attractions at Local Theatres
What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE BELLE
"After Office Hours"
Gable-Bennett Film Has Romance, Mystery and Excitement

A new and brilliant romantic team is born in "After Office Hours," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture at the Belle now until Friday, matinee daily.

Clark Gable and Constance Bennett, two of the screen's most important stars, are teamed for the first time in a production which warrant the launching of so important a film event.

Gable and Miss Bennett have in common the same brand of comedy needed to put this sparkling society thriller over with a bang, as well as romantic appeal which undoubtedly will win them many new fans.

Directed by Robert Z. Leonard, "After Office Hours" is fast-paced and exciting. It deals with an admixture of Park Avenue and Park Row, which have for their common ground a baffling murder mystery, solved by Gable in the role of a hardboiled newspaper editor.

A Dashing Role

Miss Bennett plays his socialite cub reporter, with all the dash and insouciance which has characterized her brilliant film career.

The supporting cast is equally strong, with Billie Burke featured as Miss Bennett's social registrite mother, Stuart Erwin as Gable's pal and ranking photographer, Harvey Stephens as the dark and handsome "other man" in the case. Others correspondingly well cast are Katharine Alexander, Hale Hamilton, Henry Travers, Henry Armetta, Charles Richman and Herbert Bunston.

Wears Stunning Gowns

Other innovations are the gowns worn by Miss Bennett, a brilliant wardrobe designed by Adrian and likely to set the styles for the new season.

Robert Z. Leonard, who directed, should be proud of the accumulated suspense, speed and zest which characterize the new picture.

With scope and imagination investing such details of production as settings, photography and decorations, the new picture is definitely slated for a resounding success.

Joe Cook and a cast of star funmakers are appearing on the same program in a very funny comedy, "Mr. Widget", a springtime novelette, "Keep in Style", Red Nichols and his world famous Pennies in a smart and tuneful revue "Million Dollar Notes" and an interesting Pictorial will be exhibited on the same program. Complete performances commence daily at 2.30, 7.10 and 9.10; the feature presentation begins at 3.10, 7.40 and 9.50 p.m.

AT THE CAPITOL
'Limehouse Blues'
Engrossing Melodrama of London Underworld

A fascinating picture of the most famous of the world's Chinatowns, Limehouse, full of thrills, melodrama and oriental mystery, "Limehouse Blues" comes tomorrow to the Capitol Theatre with George Raft, Jean Parker and Anna May Wong in the leading roles.

Do not think of "Limehouse Blues" as unrelieved chills and suspense, however, for the tender love story, which forms the back ground for much of the action, is a lovely and enthralling romance.

At the opening of "Limehouse Blues" George Raft, as Harry Young a Eurasian, has wrested control of the Thames smuggling trade from Pug Talbot, but is cloaking himself as a successful cabaret owner.

Raft takes over the care of Talbot's stepdaughter, played by Jean Parker, and in time he is hopelessly in love with her. Then the age-old conflict between the East and the West arises; between his love for the little waif and the love of the Chinese sing-song girl, Anna May Wong, for him.

Events in the tale rapidly approach their climax as Jean Parker falls in love with Kent Taylor and endeavours to suppress her love out of a sense of loyalty to Raft. But Anna May Wong betrays her to Raft and the latter lays careful plans to do away with Kent.

Then Raft is made to realize that the girl's happiness means more to him than her love and he dares death to save her true lover and thus vindicates himself as a man, although the law catches up with him.

The color, background and atmosphere of the sinister and shuddery Limehouse alleys have been reproduced in this film with extraordinary fidelity and effectiveness.

In the minor and supporting roles Montagu Love, Billy Bevan and Robert Lorraine render excellent and telling performances.

GRIDIRON FLASH

For those who like their thrills who expand to youthful love, and who squirm with delight at drama woven around football, the best picture in town is "Gridiron Flash" with Eddie Quillan and Betty Furness..

Imagine a baby-faced bankrobber and gangster, known as the "Cherub" pardoned for his crime and turned loose on a college campus, so that he can play bang-up football for good old Alma Mater!

That's a gem of the story, which is comic, dramatic, sentimental and goose pimply by turn as the hardboiled youngster goes his hectic way. Eventually he falls for love and the college spirit, playing the final championship game like a hero, the while he wonders how he's going to return some stolen jewelry.

Eddie Quillan's characterization of the sometimes bashful, sometimes rowdy little "Cherub" is one of his best since "The Sophomore". Betty Furness' portrayal of a captivating co-ed is up to the new standard of excellence she has established in recent productions. Other vigorous performances are turned in by Grant Mitchell, Lucien Littlefield, E. Kennedy and Grady Sutton. Stars of a famous Western college eleven participate in the stirring football action.

Capitol News Reel will be shown at each performance.

TONIGHT ONLY
'Wonder Bar' starring Kay Francis
Al Johnson and Ricardo Cortez.

Recreation Alleys

Mercantile League

Loblaw (1)—G. Fordyce 565; D. Garlepy 536; G. Fisher 492; J. McLaughlin 386; H. Mason 465—2434

National (3)—H. Cordon 492; H. Akey 640; D. Philps 492; F. MacDonnell 447; H. Kemp 558—2609

C.D.S. (3)—C. Gee 443; W. Baker 678; L. Childs 449; E. Graves 539; H. Green 653—2761.

Gold Medal (1)—W. Kemp 644; D. Kemp 512; W. Easton 540; J. Jackson 394; L. Barrett 631—2731.

Cicerl and Bolton (4)—R. McLean 685; J. Doran 410; F. Ellis 493; B. Cicerl 559; B. Kitchen 621—2759

Percival (0)—H. Graydon 437; M. Moorman 385; M. Roe 481; C. Davis 373; H. Langabeer 403—2079.

Senior League

S. Barton 500; W. Skoog 512; N. Adams 466; W. Tiers 473; G. Walrath 545—2496

Black Hawks (1)—Scopis 539; Black 418; Hardwick 611; J. Doe 461; Morgan 450—2479

Rovers (4)—R. Browning 509; S. Munnings 527; H. Boyce 577; A. Stewart 608; H. Salisbury 594—2815

Deacons (0)—J. Shappee 550; C. Corby 446; B. VanTassel 604; D. Ridley 555; J. Doe 426—2581.

Schneiders (4)—R. McLean 619; B. Cicerl 527; F. Ellis 531; M. Mackenzie 702; B. Kitchen 587—2966

Ponies (0)—S. Simpson 467; A. Meens 474; D. Robinson 620; R. Burtt 421; J. Doe 460—2442.

N. H. L. STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Tiny Thompson, Boston, tended goal brilliantly to hold Toronto to two goals.

Charlie Conacher, Toronto, scored the winning goal against Bruins and aided in the second.

Dave Kerr, Rangers, stopped 47 shots as the New Yorkers tied Canadiens and was largely responsible for the series win.

Larry Northcott, Maroons, scored the only goal of the Montreal-Chicago series.

I LIKE IT

the Strawberry Flavour won me over — its gentle effectiveness is keeping me sold on—

STRAWBERRY FLAVOURED Beechalax

The Ideal Laxative for Young and Old
15c and 35c

ROEBUCK
ON HYDRO
CFRB—690 Kilocycles
TONIGHT 10.30 - 11 p.m.

"Buy at the HOME of FINE LINENS"

A Guarantee of Satisfaction
Headquarters for
John S. Brown
& SONS, LIMITED, BELFAST, IRELAND
Shamrock Linens

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE at the Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School this week heartily seconds the statement by John S. Brown and Sons:
"CHARM IN EVERY PIECE OF SHAMROCK LINENS."

Towels Bed Linens
Luncheon Sets
Damask Cloths
—WE INVITE YOUR INSPECTION —
McINTOSH BROS.
257 Front St. Belleville Phone 802

WON'T PROTEST

Kitchener, March 27—(CP)—Any chance of the 1934-35 season being extended for the Kitchener-Waterloo juniors, O.H.A. junior "A" champions by virtue of the fact that Oshawa Majors defaulted the final replay, vanished yesterday, when the management of the K-W Club decided against carrying an appeal to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

This action was contemplated because it was felt that in winning the O.H.A. title the Kitchener kids had earned a spot in the Memorial Cup play-downs.

After giving the matter further consideration, however, the management of the local club became all the more convinced that an appeal to the C.A.H.A. to overrule the decision of the O.H.A. would not bring results. In fact, O.H.A. Secretary W. A. Hewitt, who is also a member of the C.A.H.A. executive, told them as much today.

RADIO PROGRAMS

WEDNESDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ
11.30—Army Band—WJZ
1.15—Radio Gossip Club—WGR
2.00—Two Seats in the Balcony—WEAF
2.00—Radio City Matinee — Enric Madriguera's Orch. and Jan Garber's Orch—WJZ
3.00—Kate Smith's Matinee Hour—WABC
4.00—Betty and Bob, drama—WJZ
4.30—Rochester Civic Orch.—WJZ
6.30—Jim Hunter, News—CFRB
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.00—Myrt and Marge—WABC
7.15—Plantation Echoes—WJZ
7.15—Stories of the Black Chamber—WEAF
7.30—Red Davis, sketch—WJZ
7.45—Dangerous Paradise, sketch—WJZ
8.00—Mary Pickford and Co.—CRCT
8.00—"Voice of the Front Page"—CFRB
8.00—Penthouse Party—WJZ
8.00—Diane and Her Life Saver—WABC
8.15—Edwin C. Hill, news—WABC
8.30—Broadway Varieties—WABC
8.30—Wayne King's Orchestra—WEAF; WTAM
8.30—Lanny Ross, tenor; Orch.—WJZ
8.30—Opening Nights—CRCT
9.00—Warden Lewis E. Lawes in 20,000 Year. in Sing Sing—WJZ
9.00—Fred Allan's Revue—WEAF
9.00—Andre Kostelanetz Orch.—WABC
9.30—Adventures of Gracie—WABC
9.30—John McCormick, tenor—WJZ
9.45—Jan Garber—WGN
10.00—Pleasure Island; Guy Lombardo's Orch., Ricardo Cortez, narrator—WEAF
10.00—Jack Pearl—WABC
10.30—Ray Noble's Orch.—WEAF
10.30—Concert Hall—WABC
11.00—Four Aces of Contract Bridge WABC
11.30—Ink Spots—WJZ
12.00—Art Jarrett's Orch.—WEAF

THURSDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ
10.30—Mrs. Aitken and Horace Lapp—CFRB
10.30—Banjoleers and Radio Sweethearts—WGY
11.00—Galaxy of Stars—WBEN
11.15—Tony Wons—WJZ
11.30—The Carnival—WBEN
11.30—Navy Band—WJZ
1.15—Radio Gossip Club—WGR
2.00—Music Guild—WJZ
2.00—Temple Bells; Int'l. Broadcast from Budapest—WEAF
3.00—Castles of Romance—WJZ
3.00—Roadways of Romance—WABC
3.15—Little Symphony—WJZ
4.00—Betty and Bob, drama—WJZ
4.15—Salvation Army Band—WABC
6.30—Jim Hunter, News—CFRB
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.15—Gems of Melody—WJZ
7.30—Dixie Dandies—WEAF
7.45—College Prom.; Ruth Etting, songs; Red Nichols' Orch.—WJZ
8.00—Rudy Vallee—WEAF
8.00—"Hour of Charm"—Phil Spitalny's Girl Ensemble—WABC
8.30—"Red Trails," serial—WJZ
8.30—Forum of Liberty, Edwin C. Hill—WABC
8.45—Kay Kyser's Orch.—WGN
9.00—Show Boat—WEAF
9.00—Death Valley Days, drama—WJZ
9.00—Neilson Program—CFRB
9.00—Glen Gray's Orch.—WABC
9.30—Fred Waring's Orch.—WABC
9.30—Unsolved Mysteries—WLW
10.00—Paul Whiteman's Music Hall—WEAF
10.00—Melodic Strings—WJZ
10.30—Captain Dobbsie's Ship of Joy—WABC
11.00—News—CFRB
11.00—Little Jack Little's Orch.—WABC
11.30—Eddie Duchin's Orch.—WJZ
12.00—Herbie Kay's Orch.—WABC

Be Sure

To have your Auto Insurance re-instated before taking out your car this Spring. If you have no insurance, do not take further chances of serious loss. All that is necessary in either case, or in the event of you changing your car, is to telephone us (1366). We will immediately protect you and get full particulars later. This is part of our service.

JAMIESON BONE & CO.
INSURANCE INVESTMENTS

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 27—(CP)—Practically all groups eased down in slow turnover on the industrial section of Toronto exchange today. Volume again centred in International Nickel which had a fractional loss.

Brazilian drifted back to 9 for a loss of 3-8. Ford A at 27 7-8 was down 1-8 and Consolidated Smelters lost 2 to 130. C.P.R. held to the up side narrowly.

In the liquor group Walkers Common was at 27 for a loss of 1-4 and Distillers Seagrams sold down to 15 3-4. Industrial Alcohol A also displayed moderate weakness. The brewery shares were mainly unchanged.

Bell Telephone dropped a point. Both Steel of Canada issues weakened and Dominion Steel at 3 3-4 was off a half point.

Western Grocers pfd. dropped 2 points. Recessions elsewhere included a point for F. N. Burt, 3-4 for Frost Pfd. and 1-2 for Hinde and Dauche.

◆

TORONTO MINES

TORONTO, March 27.—(CP)—Selling of the Secondary Golds featured the morning session of the Toronto Exchange today and lower prices in the group was almost general.

Macassa tumbled to the $2 mark before partial recovery took place. San Antonio slipped back to $4, down ten cents, and recessions of two to five cents were boarded for Sylvanite, Siscoe, Anglo-Huronian, Central Patricia and Pickle Crow. McWatters firmed u a few cents and Gods' Lake also was inclined to improve.

Losses of fifty cents developed in Lake Shore and Dome. Hollinger, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves had losses of around ten cents.

Eldorado Silver was off three cents Castle three, Premier 3 and Bear one. In the Base Metals Noranda worked back 55 cents to 34.46 while Falconbridge was a little stronger and Base Metals Corporation down two.

◆

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, March 27 (AP)—Dark clouds surrounding railroad finance and the continued financial and economic tension in Europe kept Wall Street as cautious as a man treading on eggs today.

In the Canadian section of the list, Dome, McIntyre and International Nickel were virtually unchanged, while Canadian Pacific got down a small fraction. Dominion government bonds ruled steady.

Canada dry dipped on ordering a 10 cent quarterly dividend, compared with 25 cents previously.

Coca Cola, a high-priced specialty, became a stock market phenomenon with another jump of more than 4 points to a new high since 1927. Eastman Kodak rose a couple of points, and farm implements, motors, public utilities, and some of the coppers pushed up fair fractions. An early slight dip in some of the steels was recovered.

◆

UNLISTED MINES

Unlisted Mines furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co. today:

Afton	55-8.
Ardeen	7S.
Bankfield	83-6.
Bathurst	3-4.
Bousquet	29 1-2-31.
Can. Pandora	5-6.
Casey	34-6.
Dunlop	1-1 3-4.
El Bonanza	13-15.
Forty Four	1025-1150.
Gabrielle	38-42.
Glenora	4 1-2-5 1-2.
Gold Eagle	39S.
Gt. Bear Lake	41-4.
Hardrock	69S.
Johnson Nip	6-7.
Lafayette	6 1-2-7 1-2.
Lamaque	150B.
Lagoon	12-14.
McLeod	4 1-2-5 1-2.
Brennan	30S.
Desantis	27-9.
Franklin	40-42.
Chib	95-100.
Magnet Lake	11-12 1-2.
Matachewan	12-14.
Mosher	4-5.
Murwood	26S.
North Shores	5 1-4-6 1-4.
Oklend	35-8.
Red Lake	31-3.
Rice Lake	4-5.
Springer Sturgeon	12-14.
Smelters	12-14.
Sigma	150S.
Shawkey	40-43.
Sturgeon River	104-110.
Wells	13-15.
Wingold	14S.
Young Dav.	19-21.

THE ADS ARE Part of THE NEWS

Stock Markets

Quotations furnished by Biggar and Crawford, P. H. Wills, branch manager. Quotations at 2.30.

MINES

Ashley	16B
Ajax	8 1-2B
Acme	21 1-2B
Breth Treth	2 1-8B
Barry Hollinger	5B
Base Metals	55
Bobjo	25
Big Missouri	41
Bagamac	7 3-8
Bralorne	885B
Castle Treth	69
Coniaurum	215B
Central Pat	142
Coast Copper	140B
Dome	3875B
Dominion Explor.	6 1-2B
Eldorado	123
Falconbridge	360B
God's Lake	132
Goldale	14B
Granada	37
Greene Stab	26 1-2B
Hollinger	1690B
Halcrow	55B
Home Oil	55B
Hudsons Bay	1275
Howey	94
Inter Nickel	24
Kirkland Lake	47
Kirk Townsite	23 1-4B
Lake Shore	5625
Little Long Lac	550
Macassa	210
Malartic	61
Maple Leaf	7 1-2B
McIntyre	4430
Mining Corp	90B
McLeod River	1 1-4
McKenzie	117
McWaters	170
McVittie	22
Nipissing	225
Noranda	3450
Pioneer	1000B
Parkhill	22 1-2B
Premier	158
Reade Auth	76B
Reno	140B
St. Anthony	28 1-2
Sherritt	51B
Siscoe	295
San Antonio	400
Stadacona	25 1-2
Sudbury Basin	130
Sylvanite	236
Teck Hughes	412B
Ventures	88
Wayside	17 3-4
Waite Amulet	60
Wright Hargreaves	900
Pickle Crow	268
Paymaster	16B

TORONTO

Bell Telephone	128B
B. A. Oil	14 3-4
Brewing Corp.	3 1-8B
Braz. Trac.	9
Can. Bud Brewery	7 3-4
Can. Cement	6
Can.Dredge	19 1-2 B
Can. Ind. Alcohol	8 1-4B
C.P.R.	9 3-4 B
Can. Malting	30
Can. Vinegar	26 3-4B
Canada Car	6B
Cons. Bakeries	13
Con. Smelting	128 1-2B
Dominion Stores	8 7-8B
Dist. Seagrams	15 3-4B
Ford "A"	27 3-4B
Gypsum	5 1-2
Goodyear	127B
Imp. Oil	16B
Inter. Pet.	30
Imp. Tobacco	12B
Loblaw	18 3-8B
Massey Harris	3 3-4
Mont. Power	29B
McColl-Frontenac	14
Power Corp.	7 3-8B
Steel of Canada	44B
Supertest	22 3-4B
Shawinigan	16 1-8
Walker's	27
Walker's Pfd	18B
Walkerville Brewery	3 1-2B

NEW YORK

American Can	115
American T. and T.	103
Amer. For. Power	3 1-4
Anaconda	10
Auburn	17
Case	49 3-8
Chrysler	33 3-4
General Motors	28
Elec. Auto Lite	19 7-8
Inter. Telephone	6 1-2
North American	11 5-8
Montgomery Ward	23 1-2
Phillips Pet.	15 5-8
Radio	4 3-8
Standard Oil of N. J.	37 3-4
Standard Brands	14 5-8
Stewart-Warner	7 1-4
U. S. Smelters	108 1-2
U. S. Steel	28 3-4
United Aircraft	10 7-8
Vanadium	14 1-4
Westinghouse	25 5-8

◆

Grain Markets

Closing quotations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co. today:

Wheat	High	Low	Close
May	85½	84¾	85
July	84¾	84⅛	84⅝
Oats
May	40½	39¾	40¼
July	39⅞	39½	39⅞
Barley
May	46⅛	45½	46⅛
July	47⅛	46¾	46⅞

SANTER ESTATE CASE COMES UP

TORONTO, March 27—(CP)—Unless Edwin Rysburn Code of Ottawa, former executor and trustee of the estate of the late Lucy Santer, Belleville, presents his accounts to the Surrogate Court of Hastings County within two weeks, he may find himself served with a writ of attachment by Robert Edgar Santer, the present executor and trustee of the estate.

Edwin Rysburn Code was the executor and trustee of the estate named in the will of Lucy Santer. Code was removed from the position and Robert Edgar Santer was appointed in his place by an order of Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy Jan. 24 last. By that order Code was directed to present and pass his accounts to the satisfaction of the Surrogate Court Judge of Hastings County by Feb. 25th and within ten days after the passing of the accounts to deliver the assets of the estate to the new executor.

Code failed to pass the accounts by the date fixed by the Order. Therefore, W. Proudfoot, K.C., acting for Robert Edgar Santer, asked Mr. Justice W. E. Middleton in weekly coourt for an order permitting the new executor to issue a writ of attachment against his predecessor in office. His Lordship granted the order with the proviso it should not issue for two weeks and should not issue if Code filed his accounts within that time.

◆

GIRL OF WONDERS ACCLAIMED SAINT

(Continued From Page 1)

27-year-old Aylmer, Que., resident who waved his left arm in the air and doubled his fist. He said he had been paralysed for five years and had been unable to raise the arm until today. A 12-year-old boy, George Gravelle, of Eastview, cousin of the dead girl, left his crutches in her room this morning.

Young Gravelle, afflicted with a shrunken left leg, demonstrated his ability to walk without aid, but he was very lame. He had passed by his cousin's coffin five times before he felt strong enough to discard his crutches.

Doctor Denies Miracles

Hundreds praised the piety of Marie Anne's life, said she was a saint and had been given power to perform miracles, but Dr. J. S. Major, her physician, said no miracle had been performed The doctor attended the girl in her dying days, signed her death certificate and remained unimpressed by claims of relatives and others she possessed divinely acquired powers.

"She was a very good girl," he said, "but if she thought she could perform miracles the idea was put in her head by somebody else. She did not think of it herself. Until I see proof there is no miracle as far as I am concerned—and there has been no proof."

St. Joseph D'Orleans Church was crowded an hour before the funeral procession arrived. Most of the houses in the village were deserted as residents flocked to the service. Some pilgrims arrived during the night from points as far away as Montreal and Toronto.

Mass by Parish Priest

Rev. Father Rene Morin, St. Joseph's parish priest, chanted solemn requiem high mass, assisted by Rev. Father J. A. LaFlamme, parish priest at Sarsfield, near here, and Father Barnabe of the Holy Ghost Fathers of Ironsides, Que.

Marie Anne's friends, members of the Sodality of the Children of Mary, occupied a large section of the pews their heads covered with wreath veils.

Many flocked to the graveside as undertakers lifted the lid of the coffin to permit relatives a last look at the girl's face and some struggled to touch her hand, believing they would derive miraculous benefit.

Dr. Major said the country people thereabouts were "very superstitious."

NEW ARCHIVIST

Dr. James F. Kenney, Ph.D., F. R. S.C., F.R.Hits.S., who was recently appointed acting Dominion archivist. Dr. Kenney holds degrees of B.A., (University of Toronto), M.A. (University of Wisconsin), and Ph.D. (Columbia University, New York). Dr. Kenney has 28 years of service with the public archives of Canada. He succeeds Dr. A. G. Doughty, archivist for past 31 years, who is retiring.

EQUAL AIR POWER HITLER AMBITION IS LONDON REPORT

(Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Sir John and his fellow Envoy, Capt. Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, were believed to have been unprepared for such sweeping demands and officials said the whole tangled relation of continental nations would have to be examined at the tripartite conference at Stresa, next month, between Great Britain, France and Italy—a conference which was described as all-important.

Informed quarters interpreted the Berlin denouncement as, in effect a demand by Hitler for the removal of practically all treaty restrictions.

Navy Secondary Problem

The British Ministers went to Berlin prepared to hear a plea for a larger navy and it was said they were willing to accede to a substantial increase but they emphasized that this was a secondary question and should be delayed until more pressing problems were settled.

Sir John was said to have reiterated Great Britain's firm support of the plan for an Eastern European mutual assistance pact but Hitler was adamant against such co-operative assistance.

Sir John arrived by airplane at the Croydon airdrome late this afternoon and went immediately to the Foreign office to begin consultations with other government leaders, especially Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Stanley Baldwin, Lord President of the council, regarding Hitler's demands. Later, a full report of the Berlin visit will be prepared and given to each member of the cabinet.

Gun-For-Gun Equality

(By Melvin W. Whiteleather, Copyright 1935 The Associated Press).

Berlin, March 27—A high authority stated today Reichsfuehrer Hitler demands absolute military equality on a gun-for-gun basis with other European powers.

This authority said Hitler told Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary who returned to London this morning, Germany would be content with "a small percentage of the British navy."

Hitler told Sir John, according to this source, he wanted army equality with France, gun for gun, man for man, and airplane for airplane, but also intimated he wanted superiority over Russia.

The Reichsfuehrer, the authority said, strongly indicated "even though France were to reduce armaments greatly, Germany would not follow suit until it was certain what Russia would do."

◆

BUCHAN VICEROY NAMED TO FOLLOW LORD BESSBORO'

(Continued From Page 1)

Earlier the Manchester Guardian had already expressed hearty approval of the appointment, saying:

"John Buchan is a very unusual man. There has never been anything spectacular about his advancement but somehow when he appears again and again in new and important positions, where no one expects him to be, everyone says 'what an admirable appointment.'

"It is rare, though not without precedent, for a commoner to be made a governor-general of a dominion, which means that he steps straight into the peerage. The nearest parallel that one can think of for Buchan's appointment would be that of Sir John Baird (now Lord Stonehaven) to the governor-generalship of Australia.

"It has been said that an Edinburgh man is the most responsible of God's creatures.

Brilliant Scot

Although Buchan comes from Glasgow, he combines all the best Scottish qualities. While he has brilliantly excelled in several fields, he has never lost his responsibility to whatever job lies before him.

"He is now an author of forty years standing although he is just 60. His History of the War is well known. He has written distinguished biographies and his novels make a famous array and if they are not all best sellers they have sometimes come very near it.

Novels Written in Trains

"He is an enormous writer and from earliest days has so apportioned his time that nothing was wasted. Some say his most successful novels have been written on his knees in trains as he travelled backward and forward between his home in Oxford and London.

"He was a real success as Lord High Commissioner of the Church of Scotland and his sympathetic understanding, his tact and his unsparing giving of himself to his work, should make him just as successful in Canada, where so many of his countrymen reside."

Appointment Praised

OTTAWA, March 27. — J. S. Woodsworth, leader of the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation, made the following comment on Mr. Buchan's appointment:

"For some years I had hoped the time would come when the functions of governor-general would be performed by our Chief Justice or if we had to have a governor-general, that he would be a Canadian. So long, however, as we follow the traditional precedents it is gratifying he should be a commoner and further instead of being a military man or a representative of big business, that he should be a man of letters. Such a man ought to be able, better than any other, to interpret Canadians to Britishers and to act as a tie between the masses of the peoples of the two countries."

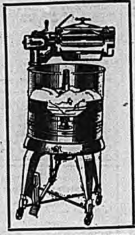
MISS C. ANDREE
Noted Lecturer in Home Economics

SAVES TIME WORK CLOTHES HEALTH LAUNDRY BILLS

$2.50 Per WEEK PUTS THIS Complete Laundry Equipment in YOUR HOME

Beatty BROS LIMITED

First Choice of Canadian Women



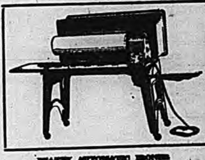
BEATTY BASKET WASHER

Here is the washer that has won the acclaim of thousands of Canadian women. This washer outsells all others. Here are a few of its many unusual advantages:

- Raise and Lower Basket
  Saves putting your arms into the hot water. Saves stooping over to reach the clothes.
- Beaded Agitator Beatty Designed and Patented.
  Washes clothes 40 per cent. faster. Washes everything clean.
- Sediment Zone Under Basket
  Keeps the water clean. Speeds up the washing.
- Double Walled Tank
  Keeps the water hot. Keeps the operator cool.
- Self-Feeding Wringer and Automatic Pressure Suspension Spring.
  Saves time in wringing. Has non-crushable rolls.
- Direct Drive Mechanism and Sliding Gear Transmission.
  Double strength. Saves power. Lasts longer.

"The most satisfactory and economical method of washing and ironing clothes," says Miss Andree, "is with a Beatty Complete home laundry equipment." Easier to operate, does faster and better work, lasts longer. That is why the Beatty Home Laundry equipment is the first choice of Canadian women.

Banish wash day drudgery from your home. Inquire about the Beatty. It will pay you well.



BEATTY AUTOMATIC IRONER

BEATTY Factory Branch
225 Front St. Phone 770 F. S. Gibbons, Mgr.

$85 TAKEN FROM COCA-COLA SAFE

Robbers "Jimmy" Doors And Crack Safe to Get Loot

Forcing open the main office door by means of the use of a burglar's jimmy, robbers entered the office of the local Coca-Cola Company on Church St., broke open the large office safe and stole $60.00 in cash some time last night, leaving another package of approximately $85.00 untouched and made a successful getaway. Later today the cash box, in which the stolen money was locked, was found lying in the ditch near Marysville, it having been forced open and the money removed.

The robbery was discovered by a local citizen early today, when he observed the window of the Coca-Cola plant office door broken. The matter was reported to the police and Sergeant Arthur Booth immediately investigated. Mr. Albert Sweetman, manager of the concern was notified and rushed to the plant. Upon investigation it was learned, that the robbers had first broken the window in the office door, reached in and unlocked the night-latch. An ordinary lock was also used as precautionary means of double locking the door and impeded the progress of the robbers for a short time, until they successfully jimmied the door open with a large flat piece of steel Once inside the office the robbers broke the knob off of the safe and opened it, removing the cash box only.

The safe contained some $145.00 in cash, all collections for this week having been turned in on Tuesday night. Approximately $60.00 in small bills and silver had been placed in the tin cash box, that also was locked. This box was taken, but in their hasty retreat the robbers over-looked a money bag containing $85.00, that was also in the safe. The tin box was found near Marysville after it had been rifled and the money removed. Valuable company papers in the box were recovered by Provincial Police, who later turned the box and its contents over to the local police department. The robbery is being fully investigated today. No disturbances were heard by persons residing in the vicinity of the Coca-Cola plant last night, it was reported.

2 MEN ARE HELD UNDER SUSPICION

Men Held in East Said to Resemble Brothers in Hi-jack Case

Toronto, March 27—(CP)—Kenneth E. Pearce, 28, and Rand J. Pearce, 25, arrested in St. John, N. B. were believed to be the two other men wanted in connection with the hi-jacking of a tobacco truck near Napanee, Ont., Oct. 11 last, Provincial Police officers said today

The descriptions of the two men tally closely to that of Robert Prince and George Prince, missing members of the gang who locked the two occupants in the truck as they effected the robbery.

Albert Prince, another brother, and Howard Burbidge were sentenced in February by Judge D. O'Connell to seven years each in Kingston penitentiary on three counts of robbery, kidnapping and conspiring. L. Blumenthal, the third man, was discharged.

The hi-jacking gang, armed with revolvers, held up the truck near Napanee enroute from Hamilton to Montreal, kidnapped the driver and two other men and stole the load of tobacco valued at $15,000. They later abandoned the truck near Fergus, Ont.

Police arrested the five men five days later. In court, George Prince was released on bail of $4,000 and Robert Prince on a surety of $500. The two brothers failed to appear in court on November 23. When they failed to obey, Judge James Parker ordered the bail estreated.

◆

Local Anglers Request Waters Be Re-Stocked

TORONTO, March 27. —(CP) — Opposition to The Ontario Government placing enforcement of Fish and Game Laws under the Provincial police was raised by representatives of the Ontario Federation of Anglers who appeared today before the Fish and Game Committee of the Ontario Legislature.

Dr. A. B.. James of Toronto, Past President of the organization, submitted a recommendation the Department of Game and Fisheries appoint sufficient wardens to protect wild life.

The organization urged appointment to the provincial police of men like the wardens dismissed and directed by a special branch to attend to duty of the Game and Fish Protection.

Dr. James said provincial police were not trained for the work and Fish and Game Law Protection was better under the wardens. Mr. Gravestock accused Provincial Secretary H. C. Nixon, head of Department, of announcing he would allow use of dogs in deer hunting.

Mr. Nixon replied he did not propose to discuss the matter here today.

"You have more law enforcement officers in Ontario today than ever before," Mr. Nixon said.

"Yes, but some of them were appointed only two weeks ago," Mr. Gravestock replied.

Representing the Belleville Anglers' Association, J. E. Shortt asked for a survey of district waters to decide the best way of protecting the fish. They also asked restocking of waters. Paul Martin of Windsor, represented the Thames River, Detroit River and Lake St. Clair Fishermen's Association which he said, consisted of men engaged in commercial fishing.

"If something is not done to assist them a good section will have to seek public relief," he said.

The Thames River fishermen asked the open season from January 1 to March 1, be extended to make the open season from Jan. 1 to April 15.

From September to December last year it was not possible to do much fishing owing to refuse from a sugar beet factory, Mr. Martin went on.

Egg War Rages at Hamilton But Only Prices are Cracked

Hamilton, March 27.—(CP)—Last year Hamilton was the scene of a milk war, and today it was learned an egg war had broken out.

The trouble arose on Central Market where a dealer, whom farmers alleged to be a huckster, sold several hundreds of dozens at one to two cents below the prevailing levels. Yesterday about a dozen farmers banded together to bring the price-cutting to a stop, and adopted the measure of slashing their own quotations. Eggs went for 15 to 17 cents a dozen.

Today it was predicted the price would fall to ten cents a dozen, and farmers all along the line were joining in the price war to end price wars.

FEARED LOST

DUCHESS OF BEDFORD

Though reports have her missing on a flight to East Africa, friends of Duchess of Bedford, 69-year-old aviatrix, scoff at them saying that seas and deserts are no stumbling-block to a flier of her experience.

"Limehouse Blues", coming tomorrow to the Capitol Theatre featuring Jean Parker, George Raft and Anna May Wong.

YEAR'S WORK OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The annual report of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce for the year 1934 was presented and adopted at the annual meeting of the membership held on Tuesday evening. Addresses were given by the President, Mr. J. B. Boyce and Past President, W. C. Springer, while the accomplishments and activities of the organization were for the year were outlined by the Manager and Secretary.

Officers of the Chamber in 1934 were W. C. Springer, president; E. P. Bernstein and J. B. Boyce, vice president; E. V. Illsey, H. W. Ackerman, W. A. Parker and H. E. Fairfield, directors; W. H. Morton, treasurer and J. O. Herity, manager. Officers for the year 1935 are J. B. Boyce, president; E. P. Bernstein and Leo B. Riggs, vice presidents; H. E. Fairfield, M. Robertson, H. W. Ackerman, E. V. Illsey and W. C. Springer, directors; W. H. Morton, treasurer and J. O. Herity, manager.

A Word from the President

Turkey or Crow?

To the Members of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce:

Gentlemen:

Will you "help yourself to turkey, big juicy slices," served to you through the efforts of your Chamber of Commerce or will you sit back and "eat crow".

During four years of the most depressed business conditions in history this city has steadily gone forward, commercially and industrially.

Being continuously listed by Babson as one of the five cities in Ontario where business was away above average is an accomplishment in which every citizen of Belleville can feel justifiable pride and when we say that the activities of your local Chamber of Commerce, carrying on under handicaps and difficulties, has had a tremendous bearing on our splendid record we are but speaking the plain truth.

Having demonstrated what can be done under the most adverse conditions, let us redouble our efforts now that conditions generally are brighter, and accomplish greater things. With your active, enthusiastic support great benefits are in store for us. If you will give that support the management and directorate of Belleville's first commercial agency will give you plenty of action.

Your suggestions and criticisms, made either in open forum meeting or by letter, will be most welcome at any time.

And so as a purely business proposition I appeal to each one of you to "help yourself to turkey, big juicy slices", by supporting and boosting your Chamber of Commerce, the agency which has helped your business and mine.

Will we do that or will we sit back, let things drift and "eat crow". It's up to us — you and me — let's go.

J. B. BOYCE,

President of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

The Past President's Address

As Past President of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce I wish to say I enjoyed the work very much and I consider it an honor to hold such an office. At this point I want to take the opportunity of thanking the directors for their very able and conscientious support, also courtesies during the past year which was very strenuous owing to the abnormal world condition. In such times as we have just gone through it pays to be optimistic, the harder the times the more necessary it becomes to work the more strenuously in order to overcome the obstacles. "Sticktoitiveness" is the word. Pessimism spells disaster.

Thirty-five years ago a great many Bellevillians gave up all hope and said it was impossible, nothing could succeed in this city, but they can look back now and see they were mistaken, for many improvements have been made since then to make this city bigger and better to live in. As you travel through this Dominion and the United States, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, you will find it difficult to locate a more beautiful spot to live in than our City of Belleville with all its interesting natural scenery and other attractions for miles around it. You have in the Chamber of Commerce an asset that is not half appreciated by a large number of taxpayers, and you have a manager in the person of Mr. J. O. Herity who would be hard to replace if we should lose him. His dominant thought is — how can we make Belleville bigger and better? You also have a very capable president this year with a good board of directors, so let us all get out and put our shoulder to the wheel and see what we can accomplish in 1935.

W. C. SPRINGER.

(Manager's Report)

The organization and establishment here of the Belleville Foundries Limited makes another important and most welcome addition to the industrial wealth of our city. The new company will be mainly engaged in the manufacture of parts for agricultural implements but will also turn out some special lines, particularly snow-plows and sheet metal goods, as well as cheese factory equipment. There will also be a department for the retinning of dairy utensils.

The former Thompson Furniture Company factory, which was rapidly falling into ruin, was taken over by the new organization and transformed into a well equipped and commodious factory with over 12,000 feet floor space. A modern foundry has also been installed.

The modest predictions of the company's officials as to the volume of their output and their employment of labor have been greatly exceeded. Instead of half a dozen or so, as was forecast, the company's pay roll already approaches forty. Most of the men are skilled and well paid mechanics.

Mr. Fred Hindle, for many years with Tweed Foundries Limited as general manager, will be president and general manager of the Belleville Foundries Limited. Mr. D'Alton Clarke, Reeve of Hungerford, will be the secretary.

Three Belleville Factories Extend Buildings and Plants.

A remarkable contrast to the entire cessation of building in other cities and factories, closed down or operating only spasmodically, is presented by the record of the past season at Belleville where three of our manufacturing corporations found it necessary to make important extensions to their buildings and add to their plants. Over $150,000 was spent in this work and nearly all of that large amount distributed among Belleville contractors, mechanics, workmen and dealers in supplies. Every line of business in the city has felt the benefit and the stimulus of this new capital coming in here from other places and then handed over to others to find its way eventually into the cash registers of merchants and every kind of business or professional activity. This was of course additional to the tens of thousands of dollars expended by these same companies in wages and supplies in their regular processes of manufacture.

The three companies putting up the additions and extensions described above were the American Hardware Corporation, the Stewart Warner-Alemite Corporation and Mead Johnson and Co.

Industries Add New Equipment.

One of Belleville's steadiest and most energetic industries is J. and J. Cash Incorporated, with head office in Coventry, England, and operating branch factories at South Norwalk, Conn., Los Angeles, Cal., Melbourne, Australia, in addition to the Canadian factory at Belleville. This corporation leads the world in the manufacture of woven labels. In the main plant at Coventry there are more than 2,000 on the payroll.

The Belleville branch has shown a steady expansion since its modest beginning here a few years ago. At the first of the present year two new Jacquard looms, imported from Great Britain, were installed. These marvels of mechanism operate automatically and carry out their highly complicated duties with more than human accuracy, weaving thirty-eight sets of labels simultaneously and many thousands of individual labels in the course of a working day.

Another enterprising industry is the Frontenac Paper Box Company. This organization, too, has added new box-making equipment which will enable the operators to turn out many new lines and types of containers not hitherto possible.

Other Belleville industries, notably the Consolidated Optical Co., the Deacon Shirt Co., the Bell Shirt Co., and the Stewart Warner-Alemite Corporation, report business activity away in excess of what it was a year ago. The Consolidated Optical Company, for instance, now has more orders on hand than can be turned out in six months' time.

A Great Group of Dynamic Industries.

The Chamber of Commerce has been the great inspiring and directing force that has enabled Belleville to obtain, during the fifteen years since the Chamber of Commerce was first organized, a grand group of thriving and expanding industries. Every year hundreds of thousands of dollars are distributed here in the form of wages of operatives and for raw materials, to the direct advantage of retail merchants and other forms of local business. In fact every citizen and property owner profits by this direct contribution to our prosperity. Had it not been for this huge addition to the civic revenues, Belleville would have continued to be the decadent and reactionary centre it had been during the first twenty-five years of its incorporation.

Greater Citizenship Lecture Course a Fine Success.

In the winter months at the beginning of 1934, the Chamber of Commerce arranged a series of University Extension Lectures given by the staff of professors of the Department of Commerce and Administration of Queen's University. The course was specially designed to be of assistance to young men and women holding positions in business offices and desiring to become more proficient. Five lectures were given.

During the present season the course has been expanded to eight lectures and the interest broadened by the introduction of subjects of a more widely cultural nature. The enrollment covers many varied types of citizenship betokening a general ambition to profit by this fine opportunity for higher training and development.

Better Navigation and Improved Harbor Facilities.

Efficiency and convenience in transportation facilities contribute enormously to the progress of any urban centre. Unless there is ease of access to the outside world no municipality can expect to advance in population or commercial importance.

Our city has, by means of the two trunk-lines of railway and the radiating branch-lines and the five paved highways, routes for land transportation adequate for all possible needs. The Bay of Quinte also gives us a water-route leading directly to Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River. The navigation course has been cleared and deepened to such an extent that it is now possible for any boat that can clear the St. Lawrence canals to sail without impediment to the dock at Belleville.

The Dominion Government presented us some years ago with an extended concrete wharf-equipped with a capacious freight-warehouse. But the passing years have revealed the necessity for more adequate accommodation. Last winter the Chamber of Commerce held an Open Forum meeting at which Mr. George F. Ostrom, chairman of the Board of Harbor Commissioners, laid before the meeting a comprehensive plan for harbor and dock improvements and extension. Mr. W. E. Tummon, M.P., who was present at the meeting, promised full co-operation. The result of the campaign inaugurated at the meeting has been that the Dominion Government voted a most generous contribution to extend the dock and deepen the surrounding area of water so as to permit the unloading of boats up to twenty-foot draft. The government grant will be supplemented by the Harbor Commissioners from a surplus that has been accumulating over a period of years and by the City Council as an interested third party in the work of development. Construction is now proceeding at an accelerated pace.

The movement for better communication with the outside world will also be promoted by the construction of a highway bridge to span the St. Lawrence, it is hoped, at no distant date. Sectional rivalries among the centres along the upper St. Lawrence as to the location of the route for crossing have been holding up the initiation of the work. Belleville has no favorites to play in the competition between Kingston, Gananoque and Brockville as the Canadian approach to the bridge but wishes to see the execution of the work at the earliest possible time.

The Chamber of Commerce gave earnest support to Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner in his efforts to interest the Department of Highways in the construction of a new highway to connect the road system at the south of Hastings county with the northern townships and their magnificent endowment of scenery and tourist attractions. Preference was also given to the direct route to the north via Madoc rather than the proposed diversion to the west. The work of construction is now being vigorously prosecuted.

The demise of R. J. Graham in the month of May removed from this life one of our most useful and progressive citizens. He was the greatest leader in industrial development that this part of Ontario has ever known. The desiccated vegetable and evaporating business, the lock-making industry, cold-storage, the Alemite lubrication accessories and other important manufacturing and commercial enterprises owed their inception and early encouragement to this far-visioned friend of progress. He was three times Mayor of Belleville and was foremost in many movements for the good of the community.

The people of the County of Hastings, and particularly of Belleville, should always remember with gratitude the assistance and co-operation given by Hon. J. Robert Cooke in the work of procuring for this city and district the boon of low-cost power and lighting. His untimely and tragic death last summer was deeply deplored by the people of the province he had served so faithfully and well.

Wider Market For Belleville Commodities.

The work, begun in 1933 by a group of Belleville business men, under the leadership of Captain W. E. Schuster, to promote a direct exchange of exportable commodities from Belleville and the Bay of Quinte district on the one side and from Wales on the other, was vigorously continued in 1934. Much encouragement was given to the movement by the newspaper press of Ontario and the periodicals in the Old Country. Shops in the cities of Wales featured Belleville products such as cheese, canned goods and fruit in their window displays and newspaper advertising. Actual sales of our products demonstrate the fact that there are great commercial possibilities when there is intelligent and continued promotional effort.

The Maple Leaf Tourists Happily Entertained.

The all-too-brief visit to Belleville of a party of half-a-hundred British business men, identified in a big way with the importation of provisions into Great Britain, was a notable event. This "Maple Leaf" touring party of business leaders and their wives and members of their families gave notable evidence of the interest, good-will and active enterprise of our kinsmen overseas in this land of varied production and commercial opportunities. The drives over the countryside, the visits to factories, the luncheon at the fair grounds were all happy events leading to many expressions of regret that their stay had to be so brief. They have promised to return this coming summer for another Canadian tour and to bring with them a much larger party. Back of all the entertainment and friendly communication there is a solid basis of business that has expressed itself in substantial orders for commodities in recent months and holds tremendous possibilities for the years to come.

Get-Together Spirit Continued and Amplified.

The fifteenth annual get-together banquet has joined its predecessors in the now historic march of friendship, neighborliness and good-will, so happily initiated fifteen years ago and uninterruptedly continued since that time. The last banquet was one of the most pleasant ever held with an appropriate address by William J. Cairns of Toronto. Members of the County Council, as the guests of the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce, were in a joyous mood and carried to their respective homes another indelible impression that the people of the country and the city are, when all is said and done, members of one big, happy family.

The Chamber of Commerce also joined with the Rotary Club in good will dinners held respectively at Tweed and Stirling. In each town the Community Club acted as hosts to the Belleville visitors. The latter provided the programs.

The members of the Stirling Community Club were entertained in return at Belleville on the evening of April 6. Sir Henry Drayton gave a notable address upon that occasion.

Open Forum Discussions Popular and Useful Features.

The Open Forum Committee under the efficient leadership of Capt. C. W. Browne was the most active of the Chamber of Commerce standing committees. A number of most interesting meetings were held.

At one meeting civic finances were discussed in a friendly spirit with members of the City Council and the Board of Education. As a result of the study given to this perplexing problem of economy in expenditures by the civic bodies many thousands of dollars were saved to the hard-pressed taxpayers without in any way impairing the efficiency of the services.

At another Forum meeting coal costs at Belleville were frankly considered. It was the opinion of the majority of those present that there was no justification whatever for the excessive cost of British coal as laid down at the Port of Montreal.

Following the meeting, energetic representations were made to the Price Spreads Commission and to the Prime Minister to have the subject thoroughly investigated. No action was taken by either party in response to the request.

The parking problem was also discussed and a solution sought but owing to sharp divisions of opinion among the members no decision was arrived at.

Information Supplied to Tourists and Others.

One of the most useful functions discharged by the Chamber of Commerce is to supply information to tourists, visitors and many classes of inquirers.

All through the warmer months motor tourists frequently call at the Chamber of Commerce rooms to make inquiry about fishing grounds, resorts, ferries, customs regulations, points of interest and all the host of subjects that perplex or attract the attention of tourists from other lands or from other parts of Canada. Almost invariably the information is supplied in a satisfactory manner and friendly contacts established with visitors from many widely separated centres. Thousands of pamphlets and descriptive literature are also passed out to interested parties in response to requests by mail as well as in person.

A most valuable collection of directories from practically all the cities of Canada has been added to the Chamber of Commerce reference library. These contain the names and addresses of all adult residents in all the towns and cities. Through the courtesy of the Bell Telephone Company, telephone directories for the principal cities and towns are also available.

People from distant points have also written upon occasion to the Chamber of Commerce in an endeavor to locate relatives in the city or district. In every instance the information has been forthcoming. In this work the Chamber of Commerce is greatly indebted to the Ontario Intelligencer for the publication of requests of this nature.

Our daily paper has always been exceedingly generous in giving publicity to news concerning the Chamber of Commerce and has otherwise given effective co-operation by appreciative editorial articles and a continuous policy of sympathetic support for all community endeavors when sponsored by the Chamber.

The Chamber of Commerce is also greatly indebted to the City Council and our forward-looking Mayor for hearty support given to policies fostered by the commercial body and presented to the council for consideration. In many towns and cities there is an unwarranted or mischievous antagonism between the Municipal Council and the Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce which works great injury to civic interests and prevents co-ordinated action for the civic good. Here we have been having fine co-operation and an entire absence of those petty jealousies that so frequently undermine or render abortive all serious promotional effort.

Chambers of Commerce Organized in Neighboring Centres.

The long and unvarying record of efficiency and success achieved by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce has occasioned many requests from other places for assistance in the organization of similar bodies. During the past year the manager received calls from Napanee and Deseronto to aid the business and professional men of those towns to form effective community organizations. In both instances live Chambers of Commerce have been established. Similar assistance was given in past years to Kingston, Oshawa and many other widely separated points in the province.

Steady Growth in Population.

Indicative of Belleville's increasing importance as an industrial centre is the steady growth in population.

For more than 30 years after its incorporation the trend in the number of inhabitants was persistently downwards. In 1911 the Dominion census credited Belleville with a population of only 9,876 which was much less than the 11,115 with which the city started out in 1878. The reactionary tendency has now been impressively checked and the movement is forward instead of retrograde. The municipal census taken in 1934 showed that our population had grown to 14,128 or more than 40 per cent ahead of what it was in 1911. Such results did not merely happen and they were not produced by accident. They have been brought about purely by industrial expansion which is the only method of producing growth in old-settled or static communities. We should look forward to greater things in the future.

Past President Springer Gave Excellent Service.

Mr. W. C. Springer, the retiring president, served the organization faithfully and well during the year 1934. To Mr. Springer must go the credit for having established in Belleville what has since become the great lock-making industry. He came when a young man as a skilled mechanic and was rapidly promoted until he became general manager of the original company. The later developments and the entry of the great American corporations into the local field are matters of recent history. Mr. Springer has now retired from active participation in business but he maintains a keen interest in industrial movements and civic enterprise. He gave to the Chamber of Commerce a year of faithful service as its executive head.

A Great Record of Achievement

Better than reviewing the events of the past is the determination to drive ahead. But nevertheless it is essential that we should occasionally pause and take stock of our situation and settle upon such policies as have proved their value by successful experience. In that spirit we present in the briefest possible form a few of the higher lights of civic achievement for which the Chamber of Commerce has been largely responsible or given effective assistance. It should always be remembered that the Chamber of Commerce has no power to make or to administer laws. Its services are limited to the initiation and propagation of movements for the good of the community. It exercises a powerful influence upon public policies but that influence must be translated into statutory action through the agency of Municipal Councils, Boards of Education and, in the larger sphere, Provincial and Federal Governments, which have the authority to transform requests and desires into legislative enactments.

The following tabloid paragraphs will help to answer the frequently asked and appropriate question: "What has the Chamber of Commerce done for Belleville?" Remember also that limitations of space do not permit the mention of many thousands of less conspicuous but essentially important accomplishments that have been carried out as a matter of routine or from a sense of duty to the community.

The Chamber of Commerce

Initiated a movement and conducted a referendum having in view the purchase of the Bay Bridge upon which oppressive tolls prevented trading with the fine agricultural areas in Prince Edward County.

Took part in the negotiations with the Minister of Highways and Prince Edward County Council in a joint meeting at Picton by which arrangements were completed to purchase the Bay Bridge from the company that had come into possession of it.

Used its influence to have the Department of Highways build a new bay bridge and, later, to assume the entire cost of construction and of subsequent maintenance.

Conducted a series of "Know Belleville" public meetings by which the civic conditions and necessities were closely investigated and recommendations were made. These new and original methods of community-study attracted continent-wide attention and became standards of practice both in Canada and the United States.

Initiated a movement at an Open Forum meeting held at the Queen's Hotel to purchase the local electric lighting and power system. The subsequent purchase of that great utility has since been saving the people of Belleville approximately $70,000 per annum over the rates previously in force.

Has been foremost in the endeavor to bring new industries to Belleville. Special and effective efforts were put forward to secure the location here of such industries and manufacturing corporations as the American Optical Company, Mead Johnson and Company, the Stephens-Adamson Company, the Canadian Concrete Products Company, the Carthage Machine Company, J. & J. Cash Incorporated, Swift and Company, the American Hardware Corporation (embracing the important Corbin and Russell-Erwin interests). the Houston Company Limited and the Belleville Foundries Limited. These and a number of others have come without bonuses of any description or local stock-selling campaigns. They form an exceedingly impressive group. The names back of them are among those of the greatest captains of industry in America. Add to these such other names as Sargent and Company and the Stewart Warner Corporation, and the older mammoth industries suburban to Belleville, the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company, and the Canada Cement Company, and add to those also such sound and substantial establishments as the Deacon Shirt Company, the Bell Shirt Company, Belleville Creameries, the Citizens' Dairy, King, Rankin and Company, the Belleville Seed Company, Belleville Canners Limited, the Fruit Machinery Company, the Frontenac Paper Box Company, Dickens and Son, the Globe Machinery Company and many others organized through the enterprise and energy of our own citizens, and you have a picture of possible expansion for which no reasonable limit can be set. Is such work worth while?

Initiated and gave impetus to the Get-together Banquet idea. Fifteen years ago there was ardent ill-will in the relationship between the County of Hastings and the City of Belleville. Today there is the utmost cordiality and neighborliness. Fifteen successive years of friendship and fraternity, given ocular and audible demonstration in these annual good will banquets, have permanently dispelled suspicions and hatreds and substituted warmth and good fellowship.

Organized and staged in the Armouries a made-in-Belleville exhibition which gave a fine demonstration to many thousands of visitors the extent and variety of manufactured products turned out at Belleville. The exhibition was formally opened by the then Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, Sir Harry Cockshutt.

Co-operated with the City Council in putting on at the Canadian National Exhibition an extensive and varied display of Belleville products, occupying an entire cross-section of the Coliseum building.

Arranged an automobile exhibition at the Belleville Armouries.

Co-operated in making arrangements for the U.E.L. celebration in 1924 and the Old Boys' Reunion the following year.

Prepared and published several most attractive booklets to advertise the advantages of our city.

Is a meeting-place for tourists and general resort to secure information.

Arranged banquets for many notable visitors and guests including Sir Henry Thornton, Sir Joseph Flavelle, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson (then Premier of Ontario), Hon. Dr. H. J. Cody, Hon. J. Robert Cooke, Mr. W. D. Robb, Mr. W. J. Egan, Hon. E. C. Drury, the Australian Trade Delegrates to Canada, and Canadian Trade Commissioners to many foreign countries and to many others.

Organized the Eastern Ontario Chamber of Commerce and assisted in the organization of Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade in many cities and towns in Ontario.

Gave prizes for a slogan for Belleville.

Conducted an inquiry into fire insurance rates at Belleville and eventually secured a reduction.

Conducted a campaign to give citizens of Belleville an opportunity to vote on the City manager plan of City government. The proposal was defeated by a narrow majority.

Arranged a conference between fishermen, local sportsmen and representatives of the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries to take measures to preserve game fish in the Bay of Quinte.

Has persistently pressed upon the Dominion Government's attention the necessity for better harbor facilities at Belleville and better navigation along the reaches of the Bay of Quinte. The deepening of the channel at Telegraph Narrows and the present developments at Belleville harbor are concrete results.

Has received and sent out tens of thousands of letters all bearing upon some phase of civic interest, life or activity.

Maintains an office that is known far and wide as the most attractive Chamber of Commerce in the Province of Ontario. Such quarters create a most favorable impression when important visitors are received.

Is supported solely and entirely by voluntary subscriptions from members. It receives no civic grants or appropriations whatever. But it does seek to maintain the most cordial relations with the City Council and all other civic bodies. On the other hand, the City Council has at all times dealt fairly and honorably with the Chamber of Commerce and has expressed on many occasions a desire for all reasonable co-operation.

SEE THIS SEWING CABINET FINISHED WITH CILUX ENAMELS in our store

ONE LIKE IT WILL BE GIVEN AWAY EACH DAY
AT THE DE BOTH HOME MAKERS' SCHOOL
This Week at the
CAPITOL THEATRE

You needn't be an expert painter to use Cilux Enamels successfully. Even a novice can make a good job of the first attempt. They flow off the brush so smoothly—they level out so evenly, showing no brush marks—they hide the surface so thoroughly—they dry quickly to a hard, smooth, glossy finish that lasts even when used outdoors on porch and lawn furniture and fittings. There are literally scores of places in your home where Cilux Enamels will enhance your decorative scheme. Try them.

Cilux Enamels are one of the complete line of C-I-L Paint Products made by Canadian Industries Limited—the makers of DUCO.

SOLD BY

WHITE HARDWARE CO.

267 Front Street. Telephone 323

THERE IS A C-I-L PAINT FOR EVERY PURPOSE

NO BACKACHE NOW—Thanks to Dodd's

Three weeks ago she could hardly straighten up for the pain in her back. Headaches blinded her—she felt miserable, couldn't rest, housework was a trial—children and friends bothered her. Yet she never suspected the real cause—her kidneys—until a friend said—"Try Dodd's Kidney Pills". She did so at once. Soon the headaches stopped, backache and all signs of faulty kidneys disappeared. At the first sign of backache turn confidently to Dodd's Kidney Pills—the favorite kidney remedy for over three generations.

Now Feeling Well—Thanks to

Dodd's Kidney Pills

KINGSTON MURRAY ON WAY TO CANADA

Will Stand Trial at London For Kidnapping John Labatt

Covington, Ky., March 27—(CP)—Denied permission to bid his wife farewell, Canadian officers today hurried Kingston P. Murray, 35, to London, Ont., to stand trial for the John S. Labatt kidnapping.

Two officers came here from Toronto, bearing a writ of surrender signed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Within 15 minues they had obtained custody of the prisoner.

The identity of the officers was not disclosed.

David Meisner, also of Covington, is already serving a sentence in Canada for the kidnapping. Murray was extradited on identification by Canadian witnesses. He offered evidence in an attempt to show he was in Covington at the time of the kidnapping.

◆

SPUD BOOTLEGGER HANDLES 45 P.C.

Samuel Hisey Says Price is Pegged Too High

Toronto, March 27 (CP)—Samuel Hisey, member of the Ontario division of the Eastern Canada Potato Marketing Board and a wholesale dealer himself, declared prices have been pegged higher than the market warrants and he is willing today to sell potatoes at bootleg prices to meet illegitimate competition.

Mr. Hisey said potato bootleggers and farmers whose prices were not restricted are operating to such an extent approximately 45 percent of potatoes traded in Toronto are sold illegally.

◆

Cop Moves Into House To Save it From Thieves

Windsor, Ont., March 27—(CP)—In a practical way Constable Joe Lepine has solved the problem of guarding a house on Dougall Avenue which several times recently has been broken into and plumbing and lighting fixtures dismantled. He is moving into the house Thursday.

WHEN YOU GET TO NEW YORK

............You'll want to LINGER longer enjoying the modern facilities, luxurious comforts and expert service of a big NEW hotel—yet, you pay no more.

The GOVERNOR CLINTON is near shopping districts, theatres, Wall Street, Churches and every important point of interest.

Four fine restaurants provide a pleasing variety—Food of supreme excellence prepared by skilled chefs.

The delightful Cocktail Terrace, overlooking the Lobby, is a grand spot for your favorite drink.

Dance at Dinner or Supper... in the smart new Balloon Room ...Anthony Trini's music—one of New York's best dance orchestras.

$3 UP daily

1200 Bedrooms, tastefully furnished, immaculately clean; each with outside exposure, bath, servidor, radio, circulating chilled drinking water.

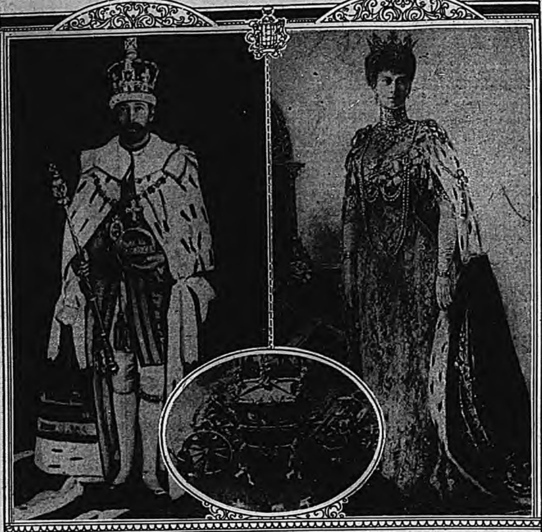
C. W. Ramsey, Jr.
manager

HOTEL GOVERNOR CLINTON

7th AVENUE at 31st STREET
B & O Buses Stop at Door
Opp. Pennsylvania Station

NEW YORK

Our King and Queen



King George and Queen Mary on Their Coronation, June 22, 1911

KING EDWARD VII, Peacemaker of Europe, democratic monarch of the British Empire, was dead; a new King, George V., ascended to his throne. But he was new only in title.

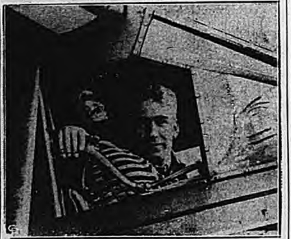
As Prince of Wales, King George had endeared himself in the hearts of the people of the Empire. He had travelled widely; scarcely a part of the vast domain that he did not visit. Sorrowed though the Empire was when Edward died, joy nevertheless mingled at the ascension of the new King.

Officially, George became King on the death of his father. But his coronation did not take place for more than a year later.

On June 22, 1911, the ceremony of the coronation took place at Westminster Abbey. As was customary it was a gorgeous occasion, one in which all the pageantry color and pomp of royalty was allowed full sway. Our pictures today show the King in his ceremonial robes, and the Queen in the costume she wore at the coronation. The King is carrying his sceptre and orb, and wearing the Imperial crown and the Royal ermine and purple velvet robe. In the inset, the state coach is seen bearing the Royal couple back to Buckingham.

No more beautiful Queen than Mary ever was consort to British King. Dressed in her splendid robes as our picture shows, she typifies dignity, austerity, aristocracy, graciousness and beauty. Beloved as Princess she was destined to become one of the outstanding Queens in British history—not so much through statecraft, but by having always in her mind and heart the welfare of her subjects, her husband and her children.

DEATH GUIDED HIM TO CEMETERY



James Collins (pictured), famous dare devil pilot, was killed in a plane crash only a few hours after he had told reporters that he was going on his last flight before retiring to a writing job. Collins was testing a new navy fighter near New York, when as the plane was roaring earthward, its motor slipped from its carriage. The plane went into spin and crashed into a cemtery, where it burst into flames. This photograph made recently, shows Collins seated in the cockpit of his plane with an arm around his "pal" a skeleton which had been presented to him by a friend.

"After Office Hours" co-starring Clark Gable and Constance Bennett, now on the Belle screen.

ANOTHER READY TO "TAKE TO AIR"

At a high altitude, George W. De Grange, Washington, 'chutist will soon step off the wing of an aeroplane. He will stretch out his arms and through the expert manipulation of his man-made wings he expects to glide, loop and turn. Clemm Sohn has already been successful in feat of this kind and De Grange hopes to beat the other's record. The "bat wings", however, are supplementary by a real parachute when the stunter decides he wants to come down to earth.

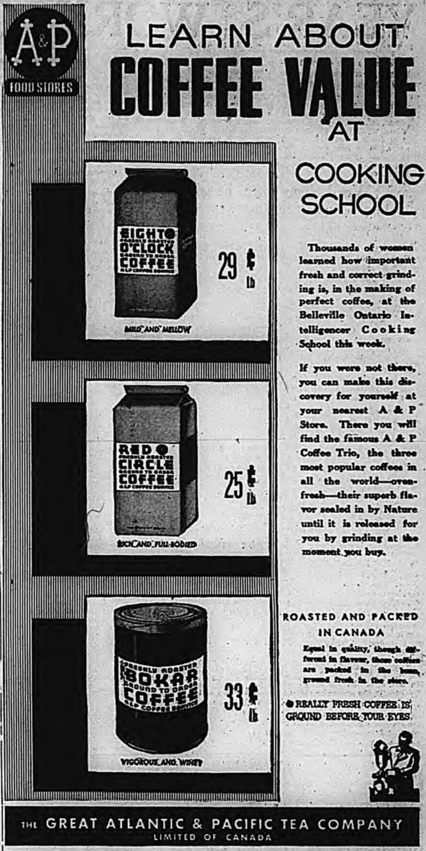
PREMIER'S RECOVERY CALLED SATISFACTORY

Ottawa, March 27.—(CP)—Condition of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett was today reported as satisfactory. Steady progress toward recovery with no further recurrences of heart weakness has now been registered for two weeks and it is understood Mr. Bennett will soon be permitted some light exercise.

KING COAL!

Here is the world's highest quality Anthracite, mined, cleaned and protected to insure most dependable heating to homes where health and comfort are considered paramount! This super-character fuel will practically "operate itself". Asks less attention than any Coal you have ever used. And provides more heat!

HARRY SMITH
150 PINNACLE STREET. PHONE 2071



A&P FOOD STORES

LEARN ABOUT COFFEE VALUE AT COOKING SCHOOL

EIGHT O'CLOCK COFFEE 29¢ lb
MILD AND MELLOW

RED CIRCLE COFFEE 25¢ lb
RICH AND FULL-BODIED

BOKAR COFFEE 33¢ lb
VIGOROUS AND WINEY

Thousands of women learned how important fresh and correct grinding is, in the making of perfect coffee, at the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School this week.

If you were not there, you can make this discovery for yourself at your nearest A & P Store. There you will find the famous A & P Coffee Trio, the three most popular coffees in all the world—ovenfresh—their superb flavor sealed in by Nature until it is released for you by grinding at the moment you buy.

ROASTED AND PACKED IN CANADA

Equal in quality, though different in flavour, these coffees are packed in the bean, ground fresh in the store.

● REALLY FRESH COFFEE IS GROUND BEFORE YOUR EYES.

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY
LIMITED OF CANADA

"MONACLED SPHINX"

Gen. Hans von Seeckt, 69, who has been in China training soldiers for Nationalist government, is on his way home, in response to command from German government. He organized Germany's post-armistice army of 100,000 which is now being expanded to 500,000. He is shown as "the sphinx with the eye-glass".

PATIENT IS JUDGE

Calgary, March 27 (CP)—Even if a person's life is in danger and if he orders the doctor not to amputate a limb, the patient must be obeyed, the Appellate Division of the Alberta Supreme Court had ruled.

The court dismissed the appeal of Dr. J. K. Molloy, Cardston, against a judgment of Judge J. A. Jackson, Lethbridge, awarding Hip Sing, Chinese, $50 damages because his hand was amputated against his orders.

"It was his own hand," Mr. Justice A. A. McGillivray said during argument by appellant's counsel. "Forget he was a Chinaman. Suppose it was a barrister's hand," he said.

DOUBTS DAD SEC RETED MILLIONS

Celia Villa, daughter of late Francisco Villa, celebrated Mexican bandit general, is enjoying a laugh over stories of 20,000,000 pesa treasure her father is supposed to have buried. New York spirit medium who conducted seance in aeroplane, made the "revelation". Celia, now in New York, and one of the last photos of her father, are shown.

MARKED INTEREST IN SERMON SERIES

Illustrated Sermons on Christ Given by Rev. J. A. Koffend

Stirling, March 27—With only one more Sunday evening service left to be devoted to the series of illustrated sermons on the "Life and Teachings of Jesus Christ" by Rev. J. A. Koffend, there is drawing to a close one of the most complete studies on the topic ever given before the St. Andrew's congregation. The marked interest with which the large gatherings have followed it through from Sunday to Sunday emphasizes the fact that people are still desirous of gaining a more intimate knowledge of Christ and His teaching.

Starting the series several weeks ago, Mr. Koffend has accomplished the tremendous task of dealing with every important phase in the life of Christ. On Sunday evening he spoke of Peter's weakness and his desire for personal distinction as he attempted to walk to Christ on the water. Peter's pride at that time was his downfall. Taking his eye off Christ for a moment to see if his companions were observing his ability, he sank into the waves. Many today are like Peter, swayed by emotion into following Christ they become so influenced by their own perfection that they take their eyes off Christ, and that moment their power is lost.

Mr. Koffend spoke also on the loneliness of Jesus. Often he found it wise to isolate himself from the world. When Jesus was perplexed and desired a period of meditation, He withdrew from the crowd, that his mind and heart might be free from everything but God. Many times in His earthly life Jesus became stronger because of these periods of quiet meditation with the Father. The problems of today would be easily solved if we would stop in the busy routine of life to be alone. Periods of loneliness are not sought in our day, but rather shunned. We seem almost afraid that to solve our problems between ourselves and God would rob us of popularity, because our actions directed by God would be unpopular.

Throughout this entire series there has been an interest shown on the part of the people, that must truly be felt by the minister, who strives with all his ability to present the gospel in a way that has a lasting quality and power. The beauty of the slides used will remain long with the people, and serve to bring to mind the very helpful lessons of Christ's teachings.

On account of the renovation of St. Paul's Sunday School rooms, the session of the Sunday School was held in the auditorium of the church on Sunday morning last. The service was of a special character, the classes meeting together. The Sunday School orchestra furnished splendid music, giving two special selections. A chorus by twelve girls of Miss Johnson's class—"In Christ there is no East or West" was very ably given, as was a splendid reading by Rita Tucker. Rev. Dr. Osterhout, superintendent of missions for British Columbia, was present and gave a very able discussion on the subject of Indian missions. Dr. Osterhout told many interesting experiences of his long missionary career, giving a very graphic account of the spread of the gospel among the British Columbia Indians. His talk was most instructive, and the large number present were greatly inspired by this splendid address of Dr. Osterhout.

Mr. Allan Meiklejohn, member of the High School teaching staff of Athens, Ont., spent the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Meiklejohn.

Miss Patricia Shea of Toronto, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Shea.

Mrs. George Mason and son Ross visited on Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Morgan at Minto.

Mr. Arthur Duncan attended service at Carmel United Church on Sunday and assisted with the music, offering as a tenor solo "Abide With Me", by J. L. Molloy.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hough and son Douglas of Deseronto spent the week end with their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hough and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Linn.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hulin and Miss Mary Bronson of Madoc called at the home of the former's brother, Mr. Arthur Hulin.

Miss Mary Hulin spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. H. Rosebush, River Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rosebush spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hulin.

Mr. P. G. McGuire of Belleville was in Stirling on business on Monday.

Mr. W. Baker of Madoc, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Eggleton.

A group of school playmates of Ferne Hubble journeyed to her home on the Ridge Road on Saturday to participate in a party given by her mother, Mrs. Percy Hubble, in honour of her birthday. The afternoon were spent in interesting games, and brought to a close by a dainty lunch, after which the little visitors departed happily for their homes. Among the guests were, Mary Tulloch, Shirley Ormiston, Dorothy Hulin and Dan Hulin all of Stirling.

Hurry, Hurry!

My Little Girl Has Burned Herself Terribly!

It will seem hours from the time of the first shrill, agonised cries of the burned child, until your nearest druggist rushes a tube of Unguentine to you.

Every minute counts at a time like this. You can save needless suffering and pain by keeping a tube of Unguentine where you can reach it instantly. You can prevent ugly scars by applying Unguentine—quick!

It is unbelievable (unless you have tried it) the way Unguentine stops the pain from an ugly burn or scald. Cooling, gently healing, Unguentine penetrates the surface and quickly relieves the smarting tissues underneath.

It is powerfully antiseptic, too. Unlike many other application, Unguentine does not dry out. It remains actively antiseptic and dressings can be removed easily, without pain.

Be prepared for the "kitchen" accidents that are likely to happen any time. Keep a tube of Unguentine in the kitchen—and another in the medicine cabinet, for cuts, infectious scratches and bruises.

Unguentine Quick!

341

◆

LITHUANIAN COURT CONDEMNS 4 NAZIS

Trial of Conspiracy to Seize Memel From Germany Heard

Kaunas, Lithuania, March 27—(AP)—Four of the 126 Nazis placed on trial here on charges of conspiring to seize Memel for Germany were sentenced to death today. Ten others were sentenced to prison and 39 were acquitted.

The four condemned to die were convicted of murdering a fellow-Nazi whom they were alleged to have suspected of betraying them.

Two of the defendants were sentenced to life imprisonment. Other sentences ranged from eight to 12 years penal servitude to confiscation of property.

Berlin, March 27—(CP-Havas)—The German press strongly criticised the sentences of Nazis in Kaunas, Lithuania.

"By this verdict," said the Angriff, "Germany is placed outside the community of European nations."

"A cry of indignation has been raised throughout Germany," declared a manifesto issued by the League for Germanism abroad.

◆

FOOTBALL STAR FACES DISGRACE

Princeton Student Suspected of Being a Campus Thief

Princeton, N. J., March 27—(AP)—Frank B. John, 23, who won football glory at Princeton University, faced disgrace as a suspected campus thief today. State police held him in connection with a series of dormitory burglaries which netted $2,000 in jewelry and cash.

John, who hails from Pottstown, Pa., is a senior and makes a major study of philosophy. Known for his aggressiveness on the gridiron he was a regular guard on the 1933 and 1934 Varsity football teams, two of the most successful elevens in Princeton history.

◆

QUEENSBORO Y.P.S. REGULAR MEETING

Queensboro, March 27—Mrs. Dan Bird of Toronto, spent a few days during the week with her bother Mrs. Ella Holmes.

Several members of the L.O.L. and L.O.B.A. were in Trenton this week attending the Grand Lodge there.

Mrs. Ernest Groves spent the week with her mother Mrs. H. Goodmurphy at Consecon.

Mr. and Mrs. Sim Fox, of Belleville were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Moore on Wednesday.

Mrs. John O'Rorke spent Tuesday with Mrs. R. Comerford in Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. Kernahan of Madoc, were Sunday guests of Mrs. I. Burris.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Genereaux also Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Genereaux of Trenton visited relatives here on Sunday.

The interment of the late Mrs. Harry Bailey of Picton took place in Greenwood cemetery here on Saturday afternoon. The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. Bailey and children in their sad bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Reynolds and family spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Groves.

Mrs. John Alexander Sr., spent the past week with Mrs. A. Bentley.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Goodmurphy of Consecon were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Groves on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonny of Madoc were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Moore.

The regular meeting of the Y.P.S. was held in the church on Tuesday evening with Earl Rollins vice-president in charge. After the devotional and business part of the meeting the convener Allan Sager took over the programme using hymn 154 "Onward Christian Soldiers." The Scripture reading was given by Allan Thompson. The topic was read by the convener. A reading "The Bottom of the Box" was given. This was followed by a solo by Mr Bruce Leslie and a poem "Poplars" read by Jennie Sager. The meeting was closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

◆

SENTENCED FOR ASSAULT UPON POLCE CONSTABLE

Brantford, Ont., March 27 (CP)—In court Tuesday Wilfred Judge was given ten days for assaulting a police officer.

ACQUITTAL URGED BY PROSECUTION

Mrs. Bercowitz, Montreal, Figures in Trial Over Alleged Spying

PARIS, March 27.—(AP)— The acquittal of Mrs. Clara Levitan Bercowitz of Montreal was recommended by the prosecution after testimony by Robert Gordon Switz that she was not involved in an alleged Soviet espionage plot.

Trial of twenty other alleged spies, including her husband, Benjamin Bercowitz, continued today after the prosecution dropped the charges against Mrs. Bercowitz. The 30-year-old woman had protested her innocence which Switz and his wife confirmed.

Benjamin Bercowitz also protested his innocence and his lawyer pleaded on his behalf.

The court is expected to decide the case of Mrs. Bercowitz along with the Switzes at the end of the trial but the prosecution's recommendations usually are accepted.

The prosecutor said he would act against Mrs. Bercowitz on charges of possessing a false passport, however. In the case of Bercowitz the maximum penalty of five years imprisonment was asked. The prosecutor contended he was the real leader of the band.

◆

M. P. Writes Drama Attacks Politics

Toronto, March 27 (CP)— "The brains we trust," a drama satirizing Canadian political life and written by William Irvine, Wetaskiwin's U.F.A. member of parliament, will be presented by the Morris Dramatic Club March 29 and 30. F. E. Hemingway is the producer.

Scenes range from the library in "Sir John Wesley Horn's" house to socialist headquarters and a church sewing circle. Featured is "Rt. Hon. Hector Dictorson, Prime Minister and leader of the Loyalist party."

BEAUTY DWELLS WITHIN Your Home

WHEN IT IS DECORATED WITH

Utilac and Muresco

FREE TRIAL OFFER

One Quarter Pint UTILAC FREE with purchase of a 25c Brush

One 25c Brush The
One 30c Can Utilac Two 25c or free brush with larger can

Only one set to a customer—for this week only

NAME ....

ADDRESS ....

PRESENT THIS COUPON TO

Walker Hardware
COMPANY, LIMITED
Phone 163 248 Front St.

"ZIM", CARTOONIST DIES

Elmira, N.Y., March 27—Eugene Zimmerman, noted cartoonist whose scribbled "Zim" at the bottom of his cartoons was familiar to thousands of magazine readers for more than 40 years, died suddenly Tuesday at his home in Horseheads, near here. The 73-year-old artist was born in Basle, Switzerland, and resided in Paterson, N.J.

For five years he was a sign painter before entering the pictorial field.

◆

Clay Center, Kas., March 27—(CP) — Found. Somebody for whom an ill Kansas dust wind blows good. A broom factory here reports an avalanche of orders from its territory, most of which is in the dust-ridden mountain States area.

No kitchen is complete without a Telephone

For at least a part of every day, the kitchen is the busiest room in the house. Every housewife knows how troublesome it is to have to leave the kitchen to use the telephone or to answer calls.

An extension telephone in the kitchen is not only a great convenience but almost a necessity. It costs only a few cents a day and is worth many times that in the time it saves, the extra steps it avoids, the spoiled cooking and constant annoyance it prevents.

Any Bell Telephone employee will be glad to give you particulars about putting an extension telephone in your kitchen, and will see that your order is promptly carried out.

S. W. PROCTOR
Manager

An important newcomer to the low-price field—

PONTIAC SIX

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE
SOLID-STEEL "TURRET-TOP" BODY BY FISHER
NEW SCIENTIFIC STREAMLINE
BIG, POWERFUL, HYDRAULIC BRAKES
CONCEALED TIRE & LUGGAGE COMPARTMENT
FULLY ENCLOSED KNEE-ACTION*
FISHER NO-DRAFT VENTILATION
SILENT SYNCRO-MESH TRANSMISSION
CROSS-FLOW RADIATOR

*On the Straight Eight and De Luxe Six Models.

—also an Improved STRAIGHT EIGHT

There's a big new value in the low price field! It's a PONTIAC SIX . . . smooth-looking, smooth-performing . . . the kind of car that will make hundreds of new friends for Pontiac.

Few automobiles have consistently given greater measure per dollar than Pontiac, in style and long, economical service. Consequently, few cars have won and maintained public goodwill as successfully as Pontiac.

That the 1935 model may be worthy to carry on so favorable a reputation, General Motors has built into this Six every basic Pontiac characteristic, plus an impressive list of improvements. Extra value features include scientific streamlining; solid-steel "Turret-Top" Bodies by Fisher; Triple-Sealed Hydraulic Brakes; Concealed Tire and Luggage Compartment; Fisher No-Draft Ventilation; and Double K-Y Frame.

As a competent judge of the points by which a fine automobile is recognized, we invite you to see the new Six, and its companion, the Straight Eight. Better still, we suggest that you drive them. Let actual experience be your guide to the happiest selection you could make for your next car.

J. B. BOYCE
Chevrolet — Oldsmobile — Buick —Pontiac Sales and Service
348 - 350 FRONT STREET. BELLEVILLE. PHONE 704

Hockey
Current Sport

IN THE REALM OF SPORTING EVENTS

Basketball
Bowling

INTERCITY SWIMMING MEET
ALBERT COLLEGE POOL
FRIDAY, MARCH 29th, 8 p.m.
Kingston, Peterboro and Belleville Y. Clubs.
Races, Diving, etc. Admission 15c

Leafs Even Series at Boston Defeating Bruins 2-0 With Conacher, Jackson Marksmen

Rangers Put Canadiens Out And Maroons Take Chicago

GREAT GOAL TENDING

Thompson of Boston Stars Although Leafs Win

By A. E. FULFORD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Narrowed to fit four title-seeking teams, the world championship hockey race swept toward the finals today with Toronto Leafs in front by a nose and Chicago Black Hawks, 1934 champs, and Montreal Canadiens out in the cold.

Conny Smythe's powerful Leafs became strong favorites to take the National Hockey League title at least when, the "kid line" bombing at its best, they beat Bruins 2-0 at Boston last night, and tied the series at one game each.

They are even being quoted odds-on choices to save enough from the long series with the Bostonians to beat either Montreal Maroons or New York Rangers in the finals.

Lester Patrick and his Rangers moved into the semi-finals with Maroons by holding Canadiens to a 4-4 tie in Montreal and taking the series 6-5 through their 2-1 win in New York Sunday. Tommy Gorman, the smiling Ottawa Irishman, who was hailed as a miracle man for leading Hawks to the title last season, took it away from them last night when his Maroons squeezed out a 1-0 overtime win in Chicago.

Larry Northcott sent the Hawks into the discard, when he slammed his own rebound past Lorne Chabot for the first goal of the series after 124 minutes and two seconds of scoreless play. Neither team got a goal, when they met Saturday in Montreal.

Thompson Stars

Tiny Thompson stopped 41 shots last night in Boston compared to the 16 George Hainsworth handled and that tells the story. Thompson was the individual star of the game despite the brilliance of Charlie Conacher and Harvey Jackson, the Leafs' great wingers, who each figured in both goals.

Kicking out blasts from the Toronto sharpshooters, who peppered him from all angles, Thompson saved Boston from defeat a score of times until the loss of Babe Siebert through a penalty in the third broke down the Boston defence.

On a power play Conacher scored from a sharp angle through a maze of players, giving the brilliant Boston goalie no chance to save, and Jackson clinched the series-evening game two minutes later when Bruins were at full strength. Jackson assisted in the Conacher goal and both Conacher and Joe Primeau, centre on the "kid line" were in on the second.

The teams left Boston for Toronto after the game and will play there Thursday, Saturday and next Tuesday if a fifth game is necessary.

Rangers defeat of Canadiens was the third time in the last four seasons the New Yorkers have knocked the Habitants out of playoff competition. Last year Chicago Hawks did it.

Canadiens Come Close

Leo Dandurand's team were very near the semi-finals for a few minutes last night, however. Down 5-2 on the round as the third period opened, they scored three goals after a Ranger counter to tie up the game and come within a goal of tieing the series. Penning Rangers down the ice in the last half of the period, they blasted at Davie Kerr in the New York net but the game goalie kicked every shot they fired his way out of danger. Kerr stopped 47 shots while Wilf Cude, in the Canadien nets, had only 27 to handle.

Butch Keeling of Rangers rated next to Kerr among the Ranger stars with his two goals, one in the second period and the other in the third. Lynn Patrick scored for the New Yorkers in the first and Cecil Dillon in the second.

Jack McGill and Aurel Joliat led the Canadien attack, the former with two goals, and Leroy Goldsworthy got the other.

Just as Siebert's penalty paved the way for Toronto's first goal against Boston, a major to Lolo Couture for clubbing Dave Trottier gave Maroons their opportunity. The Black Hawk broke his stick over Trottier's head and when he was sent to the penalty bench Maroons swarmed in on Lorne Chabot.

Bob Gracie fed Northcott a long pass and Chabot stopped it but let the rebound get away from him. Northcott was in on the puck like a hawk and rapped it past the tall Hawk goalie for the only goal of the two games.

Alex Connell, Maroon goalie, who was named by sports writers in a Canadian Press poll as having made the best comeback of the season, hung up 11th shutout by turning aside the 23 shots Hawks had on goal.

HOCKEY SCORES

N.H.L. FINALS

Maple Leafs 2; Boston 0
Round tied.

Stanley Cup Semi-Finals

Rangers 4; Canadiens 4.
Rangers win round 6-5.
Maroons 1; Chicago 0.
Maroons win round 1-0. Overtime.

Canadian-American

Providence 3; Quebec 1.

Intednational Final

Detroit 2; London 1.
Detroit leads round two games.

Memorial Cup

Sudbury 9; Mont Verdun 4.

O.H.A. Intermediate B Final

Whitby 6; Clinton 3.
Whitby wins championship.

American Association

St. Louis Flyers 7; Tulsa 2.

Northwestern League

Vancouver 3; Seattle 2.

SENIOR GIRLS ARE DEFEATED BY THE GRADS

Exhibition Cage Games Prepares Teams For The Playoffs

SMART BASKETBALL

Juniors Defeated in Close Game by Napanee Students

Three exhibition games of basketball were played by the B.C.I. hoopsters last night in preparation for their coming C.O.S.S.A. play-downs, the local senior girl students dropping their game to an All-star Grad team by the score of 35 to 26 as the local senior boys' team romped home to a 31 to 8 victory over the Napanee C.I. seniors, while the B.C.I. juniors were nosed out by an augmented Napanee team by the close score of 20 to 19. All games were of the exhibition nature and were played expressly to materially assist the local Bay of Quinte collegiate champions in the matter of conditioning for their coming C.O.S.S.A. play-downs in Toronto this week, the local senior girls and both junior and senior boys' teams having won the Bay of Quinte cage honors.

The local Laughlin-coached senior team romped home to a rather one-sided victory over their Napanee C.I. adversaries by the score of 31 to 8, Hilton, Clarke, Schrieder and Forster being the local marksmen. R. Paul and Cooke were the only successful point gainers for the visiting Napanee squad.

The lineups:

B.C.I. Seniors 31 — Hilton 6, Clarke 6, G. Forster 7, Schrieder 10, Blaker 2, Sharpe, Graham, Hayes, Andrews and Hallett.

Napanee C.I. 8 — Stevenson, Coon, Cooke, 2, Garratt, Graham, Maister, O'Connor, G. Paul, R. Paul 6.

Junior Game a Pip

The highlight of the night was the junior game of Napanee C.I. versus B.C.I. kids, when the former eked out a 20 to 19 victory as the local Laughlin-coached lads staged a last half rally to come from behind against an augmented Napanee team. The game proved most interesting and was the most spirited tilt of the night. Maister led the visiting scorers with eleven scoring points as R. Paul garnered four. Coathup and G. Paul each sank a single basket to assist their team in victory. All of the local B.C.I. junior squad played superior basketball with no particular stars standing out in the night's play. The workout proved most prolific to the Laughlin-coached junior kids and should materially assist them in their quest for junior C.O.S.S.A. honors later this week.

The lineups:

B.C.I. Juniors 19 — Langton 2, Dickens, McCabe 2, Peoples 5, Muir 4, Mitchell, Kikes 4, Collins, Ronsky 2, Redfern and Westfall.

Napanee Juniors 20—O'Connor 1, Maister 11, R. Paul 4, Coathup 2, G. Paul 2, Culhane, Norris and Willoughby.

Referee for both games Arthur Cole of the Deacon A.C.

Grads the Best

In the senior girls' game a team composed of B.C.I. graduates, interspersed with two students, downed the local B.C.I. senior team champions of the Bay of Quinte group by the score of 35 to 26 in the most spirited game of the night. Led by Annie Cruji, Esther Moncrief, Marion MacLean and Jean Porritt, a student, the "Grads" gave the present "collegian" lassies a lesson in the art of basketball. The game proved most educational and prolific insofar as the present student champions were concerned, as they faced more seasoned and accomplished players on the night's play. Miss Allison coach of the group champion girls' basketball team at the B.C.I. acted as referee and moulded together the "Grads" team for stiff opposition. Artimese Cruji, Rea Symons and Dot Smith were the leading scorers for the "students". The game was purely of the exhibition type and should materially assist the local champions of the Bay of Quinte group in the quest of higher honors.

The lineups:

"Grads" 35—Annie Cruji 20, Esther Moncrief 9, Marion MacLean, Jean Porritt 6, Mary Juby, Marg Clark and Mary Thomson.

B.C.I. Seniors — F. Tufts, Artimese Cruji 14, T. Kelly, Rea Symons 8, D. Smith 4, M. Scott, H. Miller, Marge Chapman and Phil Wright. Scorer: Miss L. Ridley.

Referee—Miss Allison.

OLYMPICS WIN SECOND GAME

Defeat London 2-1 And Appear to Have Title Cinched

London, Ont., March 27—(CP) — Ronnie Moffatt, whose sudden elevation a year ago to the Red Wings along with Gus Marker and Gene Carrigan blasted the International Hockey League title hopes of Detroit Olympics, is safely in the Olympic camp this spring. It happens to follow that Detroit's title hopes are high.

It was Moffatt, a fast-skating left winger, who scored both goals last night, that enabled the Olympics to defeat London Tecumsehs 2-1 and make it two straight victories in the best-of-five final series. The O's can end it all by winning the third game at home Thursday night.

After Manager Jack Adams suddenly pulled the Marker-Carrigan-Moffat line from the International League playoffs a year ago and used them to help beat Toronto Maple Leafs in the National League Finals, London was too good for the Olympics. The title came here.

There seemed little doubt today, that Detroit would take it away from Frank Nighbor's Tecs, largely because Moffatt is in this series. Conny King, Yi Foster and Mud Bruneteau were Moffatt's chief helpers in the tight, close-checking second game.

Moffatt scored in the first period on a double pass from King and Bruneteau and it was early in the third stanza before the Tecs squared matters. Then Eric Pettinger, hero of London's semi-final playoff triumph over Cleveland, scored on a pass from Sammy Godin. Six minutes later Moffatt scored the deciding goal.

Normie Smith, former Red Wing goaler, was the other Detroit star, turning aside 34 London shots, 18 in a wild third period during which the Tecs were always on the attack.

MASSUCCI MAY LAND JOB

Montreal, March 27.—(CP)—The Gazette today states Art Massucci, who coached Sarnia Imperials to the Dominion Senior Football Championship last fall, and Doug Kerr, veteran Montreal Gridiron coach, who has won Dominion Intermediate titles with his westward teams, are said to have the inside track for the coaching post at McGill University. There were twenty-six applicants to succeed Frank Shaughnessy who has retired from McGill.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

Hockey players, wrestlers and boxers may think they are called upon to absorb punishment in the matter of over-time and lengthy ordeals but we honestly believe, that a new record in sports was established in Belleville on Monday, or maybe we should say Tuesday, because both days were included in the pastime in question. On Monday afternoon the Eastern Ontario checker championships opened at the Y.M.C.A. Although the entry was far below expectations, the play proved most keen, if not boisterous. After playing all afternoon and evening in the tournament, the finals opened about 10.30 p.m. Monday and lasted until exactly 6.00 a.m. Tuesday, when Mr. Flindall of Picton, retained his checker title and was proclaimed 1935 checker champion of this community. It was Mr. Flindall's second title in as many consecutive years of competition. Taking into consideration the tournament opened at 2.00 p.m. on Monday and allowing two hours for winner at night, play was in progress exactly fourteen consecutive hours. "Who said these checker players couldn't take it?"

Out in Peterboro this evening, an attempt to organize what is to be known as the Tri-County Lacrosse League is to be made. The district included in the loop comprises such communities as— Peterboro, Lindsay, Port Hope, and Cobourg. The Liftlock City scribe wants to know why Belleville is not included in this set-up? The question is quite easy to answer—"They just weren't invited, that's all." Box Lacrosse was introduced in Belleville by the Aajmaa Club for the first time last summer. The game met with a certain amount of success and warranted repeating again this year. Undoubtedly if the local boxla mentors got into immediate communication with those at the helm of the proposed Tri-County loop, the Aajmaas would stand a fairly good chance of being accepted into the fold. With Campbellford not included in the proposed set-up, a smart lacrosse team, composed of players from Campbellford, Belleville and the Airport could be fielded to represent Belleville.

The best plunging lineman in Canadian football, Pete Jotkus of Montreal Wheelers is making up his mind these days about playing hockey professionally. He is a star defenceman and more than one National League club is interested in him.

Ralph Morden, who is responsible for the inter-city swimming meet to be staged at the Albert College pool on Friday night, informs us that a complete programme of swimming events has been arranged and will be competed in by the best swimmers available in Eastern Ontario. Already entries from Kingston, Peterboro and Belleville "Y" have been received while more are expected from intermediate points before Friday night. As an added attraction fancy diving will be included between swimming events. Dashes, medley races as well as mixed races are being arranged for. Last year's inter-city meet was well attended locally and left an excellent impression among the spectators inasmuch as a second annual meet was arranged for. The pool at the Albert College is the largest in Eastern Ontario and gives the swimmers plenty of opportunity to display their speed.

The list of players granted O.B.A.A. transfers yesterday was perhaps the largest in many years, which naturally indicates that the summer pastime is returning to its former status in Ontario. Exactly fifty applications were handled by the O.B.A.A., thirty-two being granted, sixteen being held up for further investigation, while only two were refused. Of those granted Belleville was allotted three, Harold Hanson, Art Calhoun and Oscar McIlroy while Jim Barclay's local application was held up until this played could establish his employment standing. About all the B.A.B.A. have to do to assure themselves of the services of Barclay is to satisfy the O.B.A.A. he is employed in this city after being unemployed in Toronto for over a period of five months. This is a true fact and undoubtedly will be accepted by the parent body at their next regular meeting but the locals would be well advised to present their future applications through an O.B.A.A. executive member, as did Peterboro. With E. G. Gibbard sunning himself down south, the Belleville mentors should place Barclay's case in the hands of R. A. Elliott, past president of the O.B.A.A.

In reference to the O.B.A.A. transfers the Peterboro scribe says that Barclay's application was held up because he had made two or three previous moves. Maybe the Liftlock City scribe did not know, that Barclay had been trying in vain to procure employment in his home town, Toronto, for the past six months without success. Then, and on the other hand, 'tis queer that Art Lepper received his transfer even after playing in the Ottawa Valley and having had just as many moves as Barclay. The answer is quite obvious —"just the advantages of having a good O.B.A.A. executive member residing within your midst". More power to the Petes in getting Lepper a transfer, but we honestly believe, that Barclay's move was really more legitimate than Lepper's. "Here's hoping the O.B.A.A. think so at their next meeting on April 5th.

In preparation for their C.O.S.S.A. play-downs at Toronto starting on Friday night, the B.C.I. hoopsters played three exhibition games last night, which incidentally proved rather costly insofar as victories were concerned. The local senior squad was the only team to annex a victory, when they took the Napanee C.I. into camp by the score of 31 to 8. The local juniors boys dropped their tilt to the Napanee kids to the tune of 20 to 19 in a hectic struggle, but the Napanee kids pressed into service some of their seniors, which naturally materially assisted the Laughlin-coached junior clan even in defeat. The titbit of the night was the girls' game when the Collegiate seniors dropped an exhibition tilt to the local "Grads" by the score of 35 to 26, despite the fact, that the school team was forced to "loan" the Grads a couple of their substitutes. In all the triple bill was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed and should materially assist the B.C.I. vs V.S. basketball teams in their quest for the C.O.S.S.A. championships.

RACE HORSES KILLED

SYDNEY, Australia, March 27.—(CP Cable)—Three race horses were killed today and ten jockeys injured in a pile-up on the track at Ascot in the midst of a hotly contested race. Ten of the fourteen starters were thrown into a flailing, struggling mass of beasts and humanity. It was believed the leading horse fell with a broken leg and the others tripped over him.

At the Training Grounds

(By Alan Gould)
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New Orleans, La., March 27—(AP) —Regardless of where he lands the Cleveland Indians this year, Big Chief Walter Johnson is rapidly organizing a tribe, that may dominate the American League, once it develops its full strength.

Right now it lacks the infield balance and the grade of backstopping essential to make the most of its superlative right handed pitching staff. The batting order carries explosive power, with more long range guns than the champion Detroit Tigers. With a Cochrane or a Foxx behind the plate, the Indians would scalp the rest of the League without much difficulty.

Billy Knickerbocker was stricken with appendicitis a fortnight ago and the Indians will be lucky if he can return to the lineup by the middle of May and luckier if he then can duplicate his brilliant 1934 performances.

There should be no doubt of the Indians running 1-2 throughout the season with the power generated by such fence-crackers as Everill, Vosmik, Campbell, Trosky and Hale, together with such talented pitchers as Harder, Pearson, Hudlin, Hildebrand and Clint Brown.

Johnson has played no favorites in revamping the team. His judgment has been vindicated in converting Hal Trosky from an outfielder to one of the League's hardest hitting first basemen.

Despite criticism he kept Knickerbocker at short last year until the youngster found himself. This spring he benched the Veteran Willie Kamm, shifted Odell Hale from second to third base and put the youthful Louis Berger in the Keystone spot. Berger will be a freshman in sophomore company.

Allan Cup Playdowns

By The Canadian Press

While Sudbury Wolves drew satisfaction today from their 9-4 win over Verdun in the first Ontario-Quebec junior hockey play-downs, Toronto All-Stars prepared for their second joust with Ottawa Canadiens in the Allan Cup eliminations.

The champions of Northern Ontario and victors over Oshawa, Ontario Hockey Association junior group representatives had little trouble with the Quebec representatives last night. The Verdun yougsters were unable to match the speed and power of the Northerners.

Sudbury ran in three goals a period. Verdun's first reply came in the second frame through Bourcier. Patinaud, Tracey and McCormack were the other Quebec scorers. For the Cubs, Grosso and Hiller scored three times each with Smith, Conick and Shannon getting the others.

The series is a best-two-of-three affair and the second game is scheduled, for Montreal ice tomorrow night.

Les Canadiens, Ottawa and district champions found Torontos just a little too powerful in their first game at Ottawa and today the Stars were slight favorites to take the series in two straight games. Torontos won the first match 3-2.

St. Michael's College Buzzers journey to Midland tonight to play the first of home-an-home games for the O.H.A. junior "B" champ- second game will be played in To- ionship with Barrie Colts. The ronto Friday. Total goals on the round will count.

"CLOTHIERS OF QUALITY"

"Look Like a Million Dollars"

THAT'S THE GENERAL OPINION FROM THE MEN WHO HAVE SEEN AND BOUGHT.

CLUB CLOTHES

for which we are exclusive agents in Belleville. Tailored by the W. R. Johnston Co. Limited and made from British Woollens, American styles, Canadian tailoring, and thoroughly tested for Quality.

Quick & Robertson

First in Style, Quality and Reasonable Price.

Men!

Your Spring TOPCOAT and SUIT Perfectly Cleaned Here

STEP OUT THIS SPRING smarter than ever before by having your Topcoat cleaned now by MODERN. Our superior methods make your clothes quite like new again — perfectly textured, perfectly cleaned and pressed. Ours is a service the well dressed man likes — prompt and sure. Phone 729 and let us prepare your clothes for Spring.

MODERN
Cleaners & Dyers

IF MODERN CLEANED IT—IT'S C-L-E-A-N
192 Front Street Phone 729

A RARE TREAT FOR YOU!

$179.50

THE DAVENTRY

A real de luxe radio in a rich, impressive full-size Console. Superb tone and outstanding performance embodying many advanced features. Made in Belleville. One of the complete Stewart-Warner line, which includes battery and A.C. sets from $69.50 up.

Be sure to hear Miss Andree's lectures at the Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School—if only to see her demonstration of the

STEWART-WARNER "DAVENTRY"
with Easy Chair Control

You'll be delighted with the performance and tone of this superb radio. This interesting demonstration is worth a trip to the school itself.

ONLY TWO MORE DAYS FOR THE COOKING SCHOOL
MARCH 28 and 29 at the CAPITOL THEATRE.
1.30 p.m. BE THERE EARLY!

BIG "A" COMPANY, LIMITED
217 FRONT STREET. TELEPHONE 284

Guardians of the Desert

By TOM GILL

Nora's voice! At the sound Dick's grip on the automatic tightened. He tiptoed across the narrow hall and put his foot on the first step. Beneath his weight it creaked loudly throughout the house. The voices stopped. Tense and crouching Lowell waited. No sound. Another step——

With one wild leap he darted back to the shelter of the darkened room as blindingly from above him a flashlight blazed.

• • • •

With one rapid swing Lowell closed the door to a scant crack, and peering from his hiding place, made out the burly figure of a man descending the stairs, his flashlight casting before him a wavering circle of illumination. Directly outside the footsteps paused, and for a moment Dick's hand clenched, ready to strike if the man should enter that darkened room, but presently the heavy steps passed on, descended the lower flight, and a little later Dick heard a bolt shot back and a door slam close.

No time to lose. Only a matter of short seconds now before the man must find the severed reins of their horses, and abandoning all effort at concealment, Dick flung open the door and raced three at a time up the creaking stairs. At the landing he stopped before a small room where a smoking lamp was burning. Inside, his back toward Dick, stood a man with grizzled hair, clad in old overalls, and opposite, beside a small table, Nora faced him. Even in the partial gloom Dick could see her eyes were burning with anger, although her cheeks were pale.

At the sound of Dick's footsteps on the threshold the girl's captor growled without turning his head, "Well, what did you forget this time?"

But Nora, with a little cry, had jumped forward. At that unexpected movement the man lunged swiftly toward her, overturning his chair, then seeing her gaze fixed behind him, he whirled to face the black muzzle of Dick's automatic. At sight of that tall, threatening figure, the man stiffened, stepped back a pace then slowly raised his hands.

Eyes still on his prisoner, Dick asked, "Is anyone else in the house, Nora?"

"No. The other just left."

Dick took a step forward and jerked the man's gun from its holster. "Pick up that lamp and walk ahead. You're going with us, and we're traveling fast."

The other's mouth dropped. "But——"

"Pick up that lamp and start." The ring of command and the rising automatic were enough. Without another word Nora's captor seized the lamp and hurried down the creaking steps. At the bottom he opened the door and inquiringly looked around until Dick nodded toward the dim trail leading down the slope. But even as they left the house a thud and a cry of profane amazement came from the clump of pines, and a moment later a riderless horse burst from among the shadows and clattered madly down the rocky road.

Quickly Dick dashed the lamp from the man's hand, and with his gun pressed in the other's side, hurried to where he had tied the horses. Swiftly he lifted Nora to the mare, pulled himself into the saddle before her, and as his captive mounted, Dick ordered in low tones "Ride ahead, and don't stop until I tell you. But when I do, remember I'm right behind and there are seven bullets in this automatic."

At a steady trot they passed down the road, the two horses never more than a length apart, and now as they rounded the first turn the sound of five shots fired in quick succession crashed out from Headquarters House through the silent night. Dick nodded in grim understanding at the signal and to the man ahead he called aloud, "Spur that horse." With his heel he touched his own mount's side and the little mare, already tired with long riding and now doubly burdened, broke into a canter.

Dimly seen through the darkness, the mine timbers flashed past. One by one the black silent houses of the village were left behind, and soon they had passed the cantina, its lights still throwing a dull glow across the narrow street. Steadily the horses' hoofs drummed on the flinty road, and for the first time Dick breathed more easily as they approached the turn that would take them beyond the village and down into the blackness of the canyon.

But even as they swept toward the canyon's entrance, Dick reached for the reins of his captive's horse and pulled him to a quick halt. Already his eyes saw before them in the trail, a little band of riders approaching at a quick walk, and faintly through the gloom, Dick made out a rifle in the leader's hand.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

A low laugh of derision broke from Dick's captive. "Looks like you only had a one-way ticket up this canyon, pardner," he derided. "Where do we go from here?"

The exultation in the man's voice confirmed Dick's worst fears—they were between two fires. Steadily advancing, the men by this time were barely fifty yards away. Already their leader called out a loud order to halt, and in the same breath Dick caught the sharp click of a cocked rifle.

Pulling with all his might on the reins, Lowell swept the two horses about and with his spur kicked savagely the other's pony.

"Get back!" he shouted, and in another instant they were clattering madly back up the trail. Behind them a rifle cracked, the low whine of a bullet sang its warning music past them, and as if in answer two shots crashed from far up the street towards Headquarters House.

No doubt remained—escape over the pass was impossible—the forces of Sari were gathering before them and behind. Stub and the cantina were their only hope.

On they raced, the night wind, cold and sharp, cutting their faces as, dashing once more through the village, Dick pulled his mare to a halt before the doors of the cantina. Obediently the captive halted, and as Lowell threw himself from the saddle, Stub came hurrying out, rifle in hand. He, too, had caught the message of the shots below, and throwing open the door, led the mare inside where at a nod from Dick, the captive followed.

Already the shutters were up, and together Lowell and Stub slammed close the heavy door and shot the great iron bolt in place.

Indifferently the other watched them, but as Dick approached with a rope taken from his saddle horn, a shadow of fear crossed the man's face.

"You're not going to tie me up?" he whined. "Hell, I couldn't get away if I wanted and I wouldn't if I could, with all the shooting that's going to start outside."

Without a word Dick pointed to a rough wooden chair, and reluctantly the man seated himself. Very securely they bound him, hand and foot, then lifted him, chair and all, and placed the man squarely before the door.

"If there's going to be shooting," Dick said quietly "you're fixed to know all about it before we do."

Horses' hoofs clattered to a halt outside, and the heavy tread of men resounded on the wood porch, followed by loud pounding at the door, so heavy and insistent that the little building trembled.

Stub grinned. "The old door's stood lots more than that. Just the same, I'd better put a bullet through it to show we don't approve of all that racket."

But Dick shook his head. "Let's not bring things to a head until we have to. "We've got to gain time," he whispered. "Barnes should be up before long." He looked quickly about him. "Where are the two men who were here?"

"They beat it while you and I was talking."

"How about the back of this place? Can they break in?"

Stub laughed. "The back's more solid than the front. That part's built of pine logs. You couldn't even shoot through it. Still—" A look of momentary anxiety crossed his features, then again he shrugged his heavy shoulders. "Anyhow, we got a rifle and three automatics, so why worry?"

While they spoke the pounding on the door redoubled, and again the building trembled from that repeated impact of terrific blows outside.

Gun in hand, Dick walked toward the door. "What do you want?" he shouted.

Instantly there was silence. Then from just outside the door a voice answered, "Open up. We want to get in."

"What for?"

"Hell, don't be funny. You know what for. We want that girl and we want you. We got up shut in like rats, so you might just as well be wise and come out. If you put up a fight it's going to be awful tough for you, and her too when it's over." A short silence, then, impatiently, "Well, which is it? Do you open up or do we have to break the old thing down and come get you?"

Dick's answering laugh floated untroubled through the wall. "Begins to look as if you'll have to come get us. But if you take my advice you'll keep away from that door. Any more heavy work like that and we start shooting."

Again silence, then the low sound of voices in whispered conference outside, followed, after a few moments, by light tapping on the shutters and on all four walls.

Stub chuckled. "If they find any weak spots they'll have to build 'em first." He led Dick's mare to a corner and tied her, then turned to Nora.

"Wouldn't you like to go in the back room, Miss where there's a cot to lie down and and you can be sorta comfortable and——"

"And safer from bullets." Reading his unspoken thought, the girl laughed and taking a cigarette from Lowell's pocket, lit it at the lamp. "Dick knows better than to ask a question like that." Calmly, unhurriedly, she exhaled the smoke. "I'll stay here, Stub," she ended.

Frank admiration glowed in the man's eyes. He nodded. "I'm askin' your pardon. It was my mistake, ma'am," he answered simply, and took up his rifle.

• • • •

Outside the conference apparently had drawn to a close, and now to cantina's defenders came the sound of slow, measured footsteps, as of men carrying some heavy object. An instant later, with a splintering crash, the door trembled on its hinges and little flakes of plaster fell from the ceiling above. Blankly Stub and Lowell looked at each other while the same thought ran through their minds— the besiegers were using a heavy mining timber to batter their way in. Beneath the impact of that first blaw the door had already started from the lower hingle—it could not withstand many more. Again came the sound of approaching laboring footsteps, but this time, before they could reach the canina, Dick raised Stub's rifle and sent a bullet through the centre of the door. A howl of pain or terror from outside, and in quick retaliation a dozen bullets pierced the door and shattered the glass above the bar.

All three defenders were crouching now behind the protection of the bar itself and as another hail of bullets penetrated the room a shriek of mortal fear rose from their terrified captive.

"You outside! For God's sake quit shootin'! It's Jim," the voice wailed in loud agony. "They got me tied to a chair before the door. You hear? It's Jim! Quit shootin'. You'll get me sure." The voice trembled into silence, the man's face, ashy grey with terror, had sunk upon his chest, and immediately the firing ceased while again the baffled group outside withdrew so that now only broken, whispered words came to the three within. Slowly the minutes passed in watchful, expectant silence, while Dick reloaded the rifle. At the end of a quarter hour he whispered to Nora. "Every delay is in our favor. They're in no hurry, for they don't expect pursuit until morning at the earliest. Our best game is to play for time."

She nodded, and he felt her reach out and press his hand. "Without you I'd still be with them," she said.

"Did they hurt you in any way?"

"Not a bit. They told me they were going to hold me until Will promised to leave the country for a year."

"And if Will wouldn't promise?"

Her eyes clouded. "Lets not talk about it.'

"Was Sari among the men who took you from the car?"

Nora shook her head. "I'm sure they were men I'd never seen. In the darkness I couldn't make out their faces very clearly, but one thing I'm certain—Sari wasn't among them."

Then unexpectedly from outside the same gruff voice interrupted. "You in there,' the unseen voice called.

Dick walked forward. "What?"

"We'll make you a proposition. Give up Jim and the girl and we'll let you go down the canyon."

Dick laughed. "Thats plumb bighearted."

"Take it or leave it, brother."

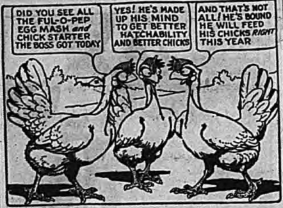
"We'll have to think it over."

Impatiently the voice snarled back. "You don't have to think it over."

Impatiently the voice snarled back. "You don't have to think nothin gover. This is a last chance, so you'd better yet wise to yourself. You'll never get out of this canyon unless we let you ,and you know it. Now either you come through or within two hours this place will be a bunch of ashes. What do you say to that?"

(TO BE CONTINUED)

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)



DID YOU SEE ALL THE FUL-O-PEP EGG MASH and CHICK STARTER THE BOSS GOT TODAY
YES! HE'S MADE UP HIS MIND TO GET BETTER HATCHABILITY AND BETTER CHICKS
AND THAT'S NOT ALL! HE'S BOUND HE WILL FEED HIS CHICKS RIGHT THIS YEAR

Good Chicks Don't Happen—You Feed Them!

TO secure more hatchable eggs that produce big, husky livable chicks is one of your important problems. To raise these chicks into big framed, strong healthy pullets for your next season's hatchery flocks is another important problem. The solution of either problem depends largely on the use of the right feed and feeding method. Thousands of hatcherymen and poultrymen have settled their feed problem by adopting FUL-O-PEP Poultry Feeds and the FUL-O-PEP Feeding Plan.

FUL-O-PEP EGG MASH keeps hens in health and excellent body weight while sustaining a heavy production of big, sound shelled eggs.

FUL-O-PEP CHICK STARTER, supplemented by FUL-O-PEP FINE CHICK FEED assures that chicks get a safe, sure start on the road to sound maturity.

Quaker
FUL-O-PEP
CHICK STARTER
FUL-O-PEP

The heavy oatmeal content in FUL-O-PEP GROWING MASH develops the chicks into strong, rugged pullets and cockerels. These bring better prices as breeders and producers and assure high production and good hatchability.

Send for new FUL-O-PEP Book on raising chicks. It's free. Mail coupon.

QUAKER
FUL-O-PEP
CHICK STARTER

The Quaker Oats Co., Dept. F6 Peterborough, Ont.

Name

Address

Dealer's Name

SENT FREE—THIS NEW FUL-O-PEP BOOK ON REARING CHICKS

YOU CANT BE CARELESS with COLDS

At the first sign take

Grove's L.B.Q.'s

A cold is an internal infection. Whether it develops into something serious or not depends on the precautions taken to check it. Common sense dictates that you take a cold remedy that will give internal treatment.

There is nothing better you can take for a cold than Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It is internal and direct—it goes to the source of the trouble. It does the four things necessary. First, it opens the bowels; second, it combats the cold germs in the system and reduces fever; third, it relieves the headache and "grippy" feeling; fourth, it tones up the entire system and fortifies against further attacks.

Keep Grove's handy in your medicine cabinet. At the first sneeze or chill take it as prescribed. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine has what it takes to stop that cold quickly and effectively.

Buy a box at your nearest druggist (the large size is the most economical to buy). Make sure you get Grove's. They're in a white box. 452

Groves LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE

PURITY BREAD

The Family's Choice

ASK FOR OUR SPECIAL FIVE ROSES (WHITE) LOAF.

IT'S DELICIOUS!

Miss Claire Andree will demonstrate its goodness at the Cooking School this week and a loaf of Purity Bread will be in each gift basket.

HOT CROSS BUNS

EVERY FRIDAY DURING THE LENTEN SEASON

We Use Five Roses Flour

WHITE BREAD — WHOLE WHEAT and CRACKED WHEAT

CAKES AND PASTRY OF ALL KINDS

PURITY BAKERY

G. E. THOMPSON

68 Sinclair Street Phone 1976

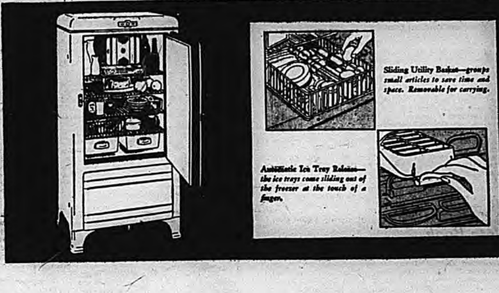
FRUIT SALT
ENO

ENO'S "FRUIT SALT"

Banishes the effects of over-indulgence Refreshes! Invigorates!

FRIGIDAIRE

FRIGIDAIRE—the General Motors Refrigerator—Is Made In Canada



Sliding Utility Basket—groups small articles to save time and space. Removable for carrying.

Automatic Ice Tray Release—the ice trays come sliding out of the freezer at the touch of a finger.

Three Million Frigidaires

are now in use, a fact which testifies to the popularity and worth of this superior electric refrigeration system. Manufacture and sale has started briskly on the FOURTH MILLION, and that is the present objective, FOUR MILLION FRIGIDAIRES.

A Size for Every Kitchen—A Price for Every Purse

There are many more Frigidaires in use than any other make, proving that Frigidaire is the CHOICE OF THE MAJORITY. Frigidaires are made by the largest firm in the world making a complete line of electric refrigeration equipment.

Frigidaires are Made in Four Series

Standard Series - Master Series - Super Series - DeLuxe Series

AMAZING FRIGIDAIRE ECONOMY is illustrated in the Standard Series of Frigidaires which use less current than one ordinary lamp bulb.

Frigidaire's Handsome appearance is enhanced by the famous Dulux Finish which has amazed experts and delighted Frigidaire owners—a finish that will not crack or break under the most strenuous of tests.

See the Frigidaire at the Cooking School
Hear Miss Andree's Opinion of Frigidaire

Radio & Refrigeration Shop
23 BRIDGE STREET PHONE 395

Frigidaire Sales & Service
333 FRONT STREET PHONE 837

SMALL DOWN PAYMENT • GENEROUS TERMS ON ALL MODELS

Daily Short Story

FLYING TACKLE

(Copyright 1935 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

It was slippery under foot. Sergeant Frank Cronin walked carefully as he came up to Patrolman Welch. The latter was filling in a summons on the back of his notebook.

"What's that for?" asked Cronin.

"The people that own this house," replied Welch. "They haven't cleaned the snow off the sidewalk. You know, the captain was saying that we should give them to everybody who—"

Cronin interrupted by reaching for the summons. "Forget it," he said, "I'll take care of it."

He walked off, eyes searching. He soon saw what he was seeking. He whistled to a man carrying a shovel and broom and obviously looking for snow removal jobs. "Clean that sidewalk off back there," Cronin told him. He handed the man a quarter. "If they ask you who told you to do it tell them the police."

"Sure," answered the man. He tapped the quarter against his shovel blade. It rang true. "You never can tell," he said, grinning. Cronin laughed.

TEMPTED TO STAY

He was tempted to stay and see what happened but walked on. The owner of the house wouldn't understand any such explanation—that the police were paying to have the pavement cleaned.

But Cronin understood. A quarter—that was little enough to pay for a sergeancy. A year ago he had been a patrolman. Today he was a sergeant. All because of that house owner.

Cronin, still grinning, thought of it—the evening a year ago when he had heard the sound of screaming voices and had seen a man cut across a lawn in front of him and run down the street.

"Stop him," "Stop him," the voices called. And Cronin had given pursuit.

It was useless to stop and try to get his gun out from under his heavy coat. The man would escape in the deepening twilight. Then, Cronin didn't know what he had done. He couldn't risk shooting at a man merely because someone wanted him stopped.

He learned later, of course. He learned then that the man, surprised in burglarizing a house, had struck down a woman and leaped from a window.

But he didn't know it then as he pounded along in pursuit. He began to gain as the man ahead cast glances behind him. They approached the corner, both running at top speed and suddenly, instinctively, Cronin knew what the other was going to do. He knew it as the man swerved a little and headed for a sidewalk tree. He would grasp it with his arms, swing around and allow Cronin to go rushing past him.

PROMPT ACTION

There was only an instant to reflect and act. That's what the Commissioner hand commended Cronin for when he promoted him — his "quick thinking and prompt action." The newspapers had told about it too—"Cop Nabs Burglar in Flying Tackle."

Cronin grinned again when he thought of that. He still had the newspaper clippings at home, the stories which told how, as his quarry was about to escape, Patrolman Cronin had downed him with a flying tackle.

He was still grinning when he stopped and looked back at the man to whom he had given the quarter. The latter was busily at work cleaning the sidewalk.

That's where it had happened right there where the man was working. He had leaned his broom against the very tree. Cronin wondered if he knew about it, that a burglar had been captured where he was working. Probably not, he decided. There wasn't any reason why other people should remember.

But plenty of reasons why he, Cronin, should. And reasons why he should feel a little grateful to the man who owned the house on the corner where he had made his "flying tackle." If they wanted to call it that. It was all right with him. He had more sense than to spoil it all and say that he had slipped on the ice and that his flying tackle had been merely an instinctive grasp at the end of a swift slide.

And if the man had cleaned his sidewalk there wouldn't have been any ice for Cronin to slip on. Nor any "flying tackle." Nor any promotion. Sure, a quarter was little enough for that. He wouldn't be making "flying tackles" twice in the same place.

Little Benny's Note Book

Me and Glasses Magee was wawking along just wawking along, and all of a sudden we saw a cent on the payment, both seeing it at the same time and both making a grab for it and both getting one finger on it, me saying, Hay, get off, I saw it ferst, and him saying. Who said so, why? and me saying, Because you wear glasses and I dont, and if you could see things ferst you wouldn't have to wear glasses either.

O is that so, well if you want to know something I saw it ferst, Glasses said, and I said, Prove it, and he said sure I'll prove it. I've got 4 eyes and you ony got 2, so that gives me just twice as much chance to see things ferst.

And we both kept on holding the cent down on the payment with one finger, and just then Leroy Shooster came up, and I said, Let's let him settle it, his father's a lawyer.

Why, what's a matter, what's you want, what's you doing? Leroy Shooster said, and Glasses said, We're holding down a cent and we both claim we saw it ferst, and your father's a lawyer.

Sure, heck, that's a cinch, Leroy said. Now when I say 3, both take your fingers off, one, two, 3, he said, and we left go of the cent and Leroy picked it up and looked at it, saying, 19 therty one.

Meening the date on it, and I said, What's the date got to do with it? and he said, it's got to be identified, dont it, that shows what you know about law. Now I'll go around and get a cent's werth of jelly beans and give you each eqal shares according to law, and now you 2 wait here, he said.

Wich we did and he came back in about 3 minnits and gave us each 2 jelly beans, me and Glasses saying, Hay, what's this, hay, Mommy Simmins gives you at least 10 jelly beans for a cent, and Leroy saying, I know it, but dont tawk so ignorant, his lawyer has to get his fee according to the law, dont he?

Meening he had ate the rest and proving when you go to law, everybody is libel to lose but the lawyer.

LADIES

Attending the

Cooking School

Should Bring

PENCILS

To Take Notes and also to append the names to the Prize Winning Coupons

There will be Prize Basket
Drawings every day and Grand Prize Drawings on Friday.

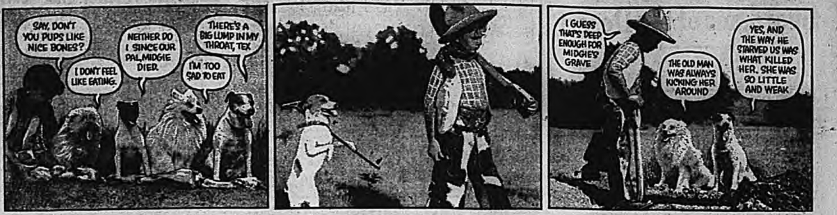
TEX AND HIS PALS (ActualPhotographs) Too Sad to Eat

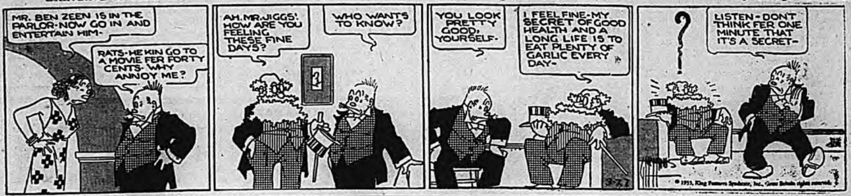
Copyright, 1935, by Harper Features, Dallas, Texas, U.S.A. All Rights Reserved

By Leslie A. Hill



SAY, DON'T YOU PUPS LIKE NICE BONES?
I DON'T FEEL LIKE EATING.
NEITHER DO I SINCE OUR PAL, MIDGIE DIED.
I'M TOO SAD TO EAT
THERE'S A BIG LUMP IN MY THROAT, TEX
I GUESS THAT'S DEEP ENOUGH FOR MIDGIE'S GRAVE
THE OLD MAN WAS ALWAYS KICKING HER AROUND
YES, AND THE WAY HE STARVED US WAS WHAT KILLED HER. SHE WAS SO LITTLE AND WEAK

BRINGING UP FATHER— By George McManus



MR. BEN ZEEN IS IN THE PARLOR-NOW GO IN AND ENTERTAIN HIM-RATS-HE KIN GO TO A MOVIE FER FORTY CENTS-WHY ANNOY ME?
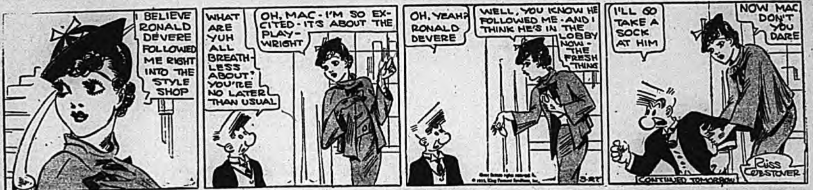
AH, MR. JIGGS! HOW ARE YOU FEELING THESE FINE DAYS?
WHO WANTS TO KNOW?
YOU LOOK PRETTY GOOD, YOURSELF-
I FEEL FINE-MY SECRET OF GOOD HEALTH AND A LONG LIFE IS TO EAT PLENTY OF GARLIC EVERY DAY-
?
LISTEN-DON'T THINK FER ONE MINUTE THAT IT'S A SECRET-
3-27

TILLIE THE TOILER— By Russ Westover



I BELIEVE RONALD DEVERE FOLLOWED ME RIGHT INTO THE STYLE SHOP
WHAT ARE YUH ALL BREATHLESS ABOUT? YOU'RE NO LATER THAN USUAL
OH, MAC - I'M SO EXCITED - IT'S ABOUT THE PLAYWRIGHT
OH, YEAH? RONALD DEVERE
WELL, YOU KNOW HE FOLLOWED ME - AND I THINK HE'S IN THE LOBBY NOW - THE FRESH THING 3-27
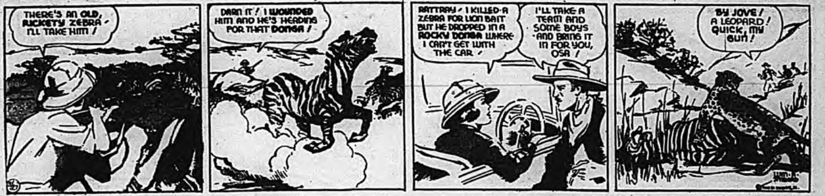
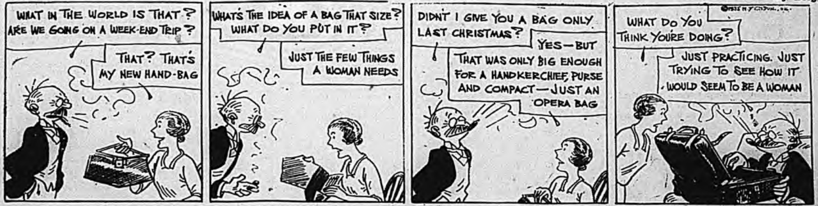
I'LL GO TAKE A SOCK AT HIM
NOW MAC DON'T YOU DARE
RUSS WESTOVER
CONTINUED TOMORROW

DANGER TRAILS— "SPOTS" TAKES POSSESSION By The Famous Explorer Martin Johnson



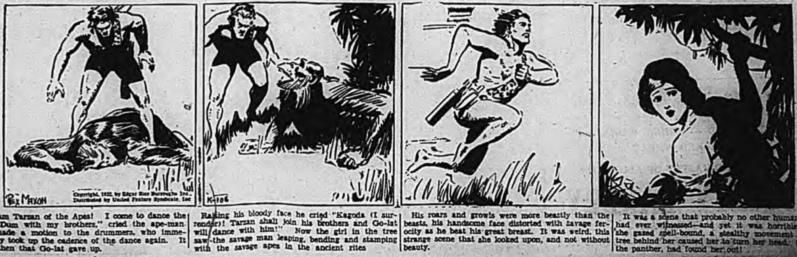
THERE'S AN OLD, RICKETY ZEBRA - I'LL TAKE HIM!
DARN IT! I WOUNDED HIM AND HE'S HEADING FOR THAT DONGA!
RATTRAY - I KILLED A ZEBRA FOR LION BAIT BUT HE DROPPED IN A ROCKY DONGA WHERE I CAN'T GET WITH THE CAR -
I'LL TAKE A TEAM AND SOME BOYS AND BRING IT IN FOR YOU, OSA!
BY JOVE! A LEOPARD! QUICK, MY GUN!

MR. AND MRS.— By Briggs



WHAT IN THE WORLD IS THAT? ARE WE GOING ON A WEEK-END TRIP?
THAT? THAT'S MY NEW HAND-BAG
WHAT'S THE IDEA OF A BAG THAT SIZE? WHAT DO YOU PUT IN IT?
JUST THE FEW THINGS A WOMAN NEEDS
DIDN'T I GIVE YOU A BAG ONLY LAST CHRISTMAS?
YES—BUT THAT WAS ONLY BIG ENOUGH FOR A HANDKERCHIEF, PURSE AND COMPACT—JUST AN OPERA BAG
WHAT DO YOU THINK YOU'RE DOING?
JUST PRACTICING. JUST TRYING TO SEE HOW IT WOULD SEEM TO BE A WOMAN

TARZAN THE UNTAMED— (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)



REX MAXON
Copyright, 1932, by Edgar Rice Burroughs Inc. Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc
K-106

"I am Tarzan of the Apes! I come to dance the Dum-Dum with my brothers," cried the ape-man. He made a motion to the drummers, who immediately took up the cadence of the dance again. It was then that Go-lat gave up.

Raising his bloody face he cried "Kagoda (I surrender)! Tarzan shall join his brothers and Go-lat will dance with him!" Now the girl in the tree saw the savage man leaping, bending and stamping with the savage apes in the ancient rites

His roars and growls were more beastly than the beasts, his handsome face distorted with savage ferocity as he beat his great breast. It was weird, this strange scene that she looked upon, and not without beauty.

It was a scene that probably no other human being had ever witnessed—and yet it was horrible! As she gazed spell-bound, a stealthy movement in the tree behind her caused her to turn her head. Sheeta, the panther, had found her out!

3 BIG STORE-WIDE OPPORTUNITY DAYS

THUR, FRI, & SAT

Savings Galore!!

Rayon Satin Bound Wool Comfortables

Lovely all wool blankets, or throws, with long, thick nap, bound in matching shade with lustrous rayon satin binding. Size 60" x 80" in choice of rose, green, blue or mauve. Sale price, each 3.29

— Main floor, rear

Ecru Lace Cloths

Note! Limited quantity only, so plan early shopping. Of strong cotton laces—in lovely designs. Note sizes and prices.

72 inches by 90 inches. Sale price Each 5.95

72 inches by 108 inches. Sale price Each 7.95

—Main floor, rear

500 yards! 36" Cotton Dress Prints

New shipment, featuring a big variety of new Spring-like designs and color combinations. Bright, cheerful patterns on light grounds. Just the kind of material you'll want yards and yards of, for summer months. Buy now while the price is advantageous. Special, yard 15c

Assorted Dress Cottons

A huge group of high grade priced dress cottons, including PIQUES, VOILES, SEERSUCKERS and COTTON PRINTS. All 36 inches wide, and washable. 350 yards in the group, so plan early shopping. Yard 27c

Plain Colored Irish Dress Linen

Now is the time to stock up for your summer requirements, which such low price as this prevails. 400 yards, in plain shades of white, pink, medium green, copen, sky blue, dark brown, sand, red and white. Sale price, yard 29c

36 inch Printed Floral, Stripe and Coin Dot Rayons

500 yards priced to clear! Large variety of light, medium and dark grounds in a weave which will find favor for Spring and Summer wear. Savings are substantial. We advise buying several dress lengths. Yard .. 59c

36 inch Plain Colored Cotton Pique

One of summer's most popular materials, and at a very attractive pricing too. A fine quality, closely woven and colored in plain shades of nile green, rose blue, yellow, pink or mauve, as wel las white. Yard 29c

70" x 84" H. S.

Bleached Cotton Sheets

Suitable for three-quarter size beds—snowy white bleached cotton sheets, with H.S. hems. Stock up now for future needs.

pair 1.89

—Main floor, rear

76-inch x 84-inch H.S.

Bleached Cotton Sheets

Double bed size sheets of snowy whiteness, hemstitched hems, and almost free from fillings. Special, each 1.00

—Main floor, rear

Unbleached

Cotton Sheeting

Specially Priced

Heavyweight, 81-inch, special, yard .... [illegible]

Heavyweight, 72-inch, special, yard 34c

Medium weight, 81-inch, yard 38c

Irish Linen Damask Sets

CLOTH 54" x 70". 6 Naps, 1.49 Set

Lovely quality, damask linen, with colored borders, in blue or rose only. A 7-piece set which offers big returns for early shoppers. 3-Day Sale. Set 1.49

Paint up for Spring with

Coverwell Paints

A splendid quality paint, mixed to a special formula for us and made from only good grade ingredients, too. Whether it's house paint, floor paint, enamel or varnish stains, you'll have the utmost satisfaction with Coverwell

House Paint

Inside white, outside white, black, cream, buff, light yellow, dark buff, light brown, dark brown, French blue, light grey, medium grey, apple green, dark green and maroon.

Qt. 57c ½ Gal. 1.10 Gal. 2.19

Fast Drying Enamels

Light blue, pearl grey, white, light ivory, light green and light brown. Quart 72c

HALF GALLON $1.39

Fast Drying Varnish Stain

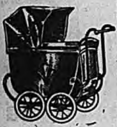
Light oak, dark oak, walnut and mahogany. Quart 59c

HALF GALLON 1.15

Floor Paints

Battleship grey, orange yellow golden brown, light yellow and slate. Quart 57c

HALF GALLON 1.10



ENGLISH STYLE

Prams

Smart looking and just as big a value. Has removable foot well, storm cover and leather safety strap. Comfortable padded and upholstered back and sides. The whole carriage mounted on flexible type springs and equipped with brake, and tubular metal pusher with wood grip. All metal body in pleasing choice of maroon, grey or navy, and smartly trimmed. A feature at 16.95

Roller Skates

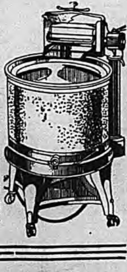
Bearing wheel skates with leather instep pad. Nickel plated extension foot plates. Just the thing for good healthy out of door exercise. Pair 1.39

Dust Mops

Reversible type, with polished handle. Each 37c

New Advance Electric Washer

49.50



The "Advance" Electric Washer at this low price is undoubtedly one of the biggest bargains in this Sale. Why not take the drudgery out of Wash Day when it costs so little! Tub size about 22" x 14" deep, inside. Porcelain enameled a smart dark green with white mottling and black trim. Three-fin Gyrator is cast aluminum operated by on-off clutch. The gyrator principle washes the clothes quickly and cleanly. Outlet in tub is fitted with length of hose for draining. All-metal wringer is large size, rollers 12" x 2", with pressure screw and efficient safety release. It swings to several positions and wringer and washer can be operated together. Sturdy steel frame finished in green color. Height of machine over all about 32 inches. Supplied with reliable 1-4 H.P. motor, 60 cycle, A.C. operation.

SALE PRICE $49.50

3-Ply Roofing

55 lb. roll 1.98

For covering your garage, your house, and many other purposes—save by buying this sturdy, three-ply roofing, which is sand surfaced. In black only. Complete with cement and nails. 56 lbs. to each roll. Roll covers 10 feet by 100 feet.

4-STRING CORN

Brooms each 29c

OPENING HOUR SPECIALS on Sale 9 to 10

Sale! Lace Chair Sets

Another big special offer of these Sardo lace chair sets—Set consists of three pieces, one for the back and one for each arm of your chesterfield chairs, etc. Cream color only. No phone orders, please. Set.... 10c

—Main floor, right

Sale of Unfinished Breakfast Room Chairs

In a smart style of design, unfinished, and ready for you to paint any color you desire. At this price we advise purchasing an entire outfit. Each 79c

Colored Border White Terry Towels

You'll have to be here when the store opens to get in on this big special! Soft, well napped, white terry towels with gay colored borders, in blue, green or rose. Selling at 10c each! Estimate your future needs and be waiting when the store opens Thursday. Special, each 10c

Other Savings from the Basement

Clothes Horses

Strongly made in three sections, with 9 drying bars. 4 feet high. Each

63c

— Basement

Floor-Glo Wax

Makes your floors bright and clean, adding years of service and protection to where ever used. 1 lb. tin

19c

Carpet Beaters

Strong wire type beater fitted into wood grip or handle. Each

15c

Marshall Spring Filled Mattresses

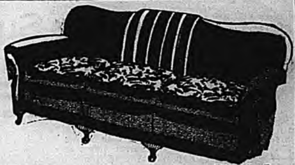
MARSHALL
SPRING MATTRESS

Again In a Repeat Sale Offer!

22.95

If you didn't take advantage of the wonderful savings offered the last time, secure your Marshall mattress during the sale! You've no idea the restful comfort these mattresses give with their dozens of coil springs. Encased in a separate pocket to make it shape retaining. 760 springs in each mattress. Covered with a strong striped blue damask. In 4' 6" size and 4' 0" width. Sale price, each 22.95.

— Main floor, rear



Odd Chesterfields

Two groups to select from—both of excellent construction and offering many dollars of a saving at the prices marked. Spring filled cushions in each piece, covering of rayon damask, with reversible cushions in figured tapestry. You'll make no mistake buying at this price.

29.50 and 36.50

—Main floor, rear

Discontinued Lines of Congoleum Bordered Rugs at Sale Prices

Only the fact that they are discontinued patterns and designs could we think of offering them for so little! All FIRST QUALITY—and in six attractive colors and patterns. Of course you'll have to come early.

NOTE SIZES AND PRICES:

6' x 9', each 4.70

7' 6" x 9' 6", each 5.95

9' x 10' 6", each 8.20

9' x 12', each 9.35

—Basement

300 yards 36" Drapery Chintz

On sale the first day and probably it will clear within the first two hours of selling. Bright, cheerful looking designs for the summer months. For making cushions, draperies, etc. Light, medium and dark grounds. Special, yard 17c

18 inch Ruffled Scrim

For making soft, ruffled curtains for breakfast room, kitchen or bathroom. Cream ground, with colored frills of blue, green or rose. 18" width. Yard 9c

Sale! 2 Yard Wide Baroleum

An inexpensive floor covering, for almost any room you wish. In effective block designs, in green on cream ground. 2 yards wide, and a covering that is very easy to clean. Running yard 69c

—Basement

Beautiful Metal Base Table Lamp

Really smart looking with their metal bases, in nickel, copper, and bronze finish. Complete with pretty parchment paper shade to harmonize. Single light style and rare value in the sale. Complete 2.98

—Main floor, rear

CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED

Spring is Here! Easter Just Three Weeks Away! And Here's a Sale Bringing Tremendous Values In New, Wanted Merchandise!

3 BIG STORE-WIDE OPPORTUNITY DAYS

THUR, FRI, & SAT

Savings Galore!!

Odds and Ends Clearance of Women's Silk Crepe Lingerie

Slips—Separate Panties—Bed Jackets—Dance Sets—tailored and dainty lace trimmed styles, in white, pink, and tea rose shades. A clearance of odds and ends, with broken sizes in the group. Sizes small, medium and large in the lot, but not in one complete line or shade. Each 1.00

—Second floor

Odds and Ends Sale of Lingerie and Children's Wear

Only a limited quantity makes early shopping imperative for this special! Included are broken lines of slips, panties, bloomers, vests, bonnets and pyjamas—in an assortment of shades and sizes. Of course "first-here first served." Greatly reduced in price, each ...... 19c to 1.95

— Second floor

OPPORTUNITY DAYS means just what it says—the opportunity to save on new Spring merchandise. And we are presenting it to you at the most opportune time—not after Easter, not next month, but right now when the savings will aid your budget stretch to the utmost.

This is our first OPPORTUNITY DAYS and we are out to make it a record-breaking three-day event! We have lined up a grand group of special values in Spring wearables for every member of the family as well as sprightly furnishings for the home. The prices speak for themselves—the descriptions are brief and to the point—you can read every item quickly. Make a list—and be here bright and early.

OPPORTUNITY DAYS — THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY

Girls' Print Frocks

Gay, crisp print frocks, some with panties, others without. In black and flowered effects, button and belt trims—with interesting collars too. Red, green, blue and yellow. Sizes 2 to 6. Each 98c

Foundation Garments Half Price!

Girdles, solitaires, combinations and corsets —all famous makes and regularly 1.95 to 16.50 each. Marvellous at half price, each

97c to 8.25

180 Pairs! Women's Smart Looking Spring Shoes

Black and brown shoes, which are mighty good looking, and marvelous value at only 1.00 pair. Really good looking lasts, modelled on such smart styles as ties, straps, and pumps, in calf and patent leathers. All size in the group froms 3 to 8—widths to choose from, D, E, and EE. A rousing special which will meet with big demand. Shop early for best selection. Pair .... 1.00 pr.

—Men's Store, rear

Men! Sale of Smart Spring Suits with One Trouser

11.95

Rare value with Spring here, too, isn't it! And they embrace latest style notes and cuts, superbly tailored from strong wool worsteds, and fancy tweeds in light grey with checks, and blue and grey stripe effects. A suit for men and young men, models for both—with a size range from 35 to 54. Drop in the first day of the sale, be ready for Easter. — Men's Store

Extra Trousers

Pair 3.00

Topcoats

Good Looking — Good Materials — Good Value!

9.95

You'll note by their cut, their finish and fine quality materials that they ordinarily would sell for much more than this—in pleasing herringbone, and checked effects—in the popular raglan and guards models, well finished inside and out. The price will make it very popular. 35 to 40.

— Men's Store

MEN'S Balbriggan Combinations

The right weight, the right garment and the right price—three reasons for buying this fine quality balbriggan combination for Spring. In short sleeves, and long leg style, well made and styled. Sizes 36 to 44.

each 69c

Men's Shirts and Shorts

Summer's not far off, and you'll want lots of this type of underwear. Stock up in the sale and save substantially. Shirts of fine cotton, shorts of fine cotton broadcloth, in a variety of new colorful designs which will find favor with men. Shirts 34 to 44, each ...... Shorts, 30 to 42. Each 29c

— Men's Store

Smart Wool Tweed Caps

New line, new styles, new patterns and a new low price of 69c. In light and dark grey and fawn shades—eight piece top. Sizes 6 5-8 to 7 3-8. Each 69c

See Back of this Page!

1200 Pairs of Women's (Seconds) New Spring shades.

Fine Silk Hose

Pair 69c

Marvellous opportunity to select half a dozen pairs at this low pricing—and with Spring here, and hosiery stocks to replenish it means savings. Fine real thread silk hose, service and chiffon weights, with full fashioning for smooth, trim fit. We advise prompt shopping the first day of the sale.

Colors:—Teadance, Rifle, Manoa, Street-beige, Fawntaupe, Nutmeg and Sherrytone

— Main floor, left

Children's Fine Cotton Vests

Though summer weight we expect they will be "picked up" early after store opening the First Day of the sale. Of fine cotton yarns, with strap or opera type shoulders. Sizes 18 to 34. Special at

2 for 25c

— Second floor

Women's New Spring Neckwear

Freshen old frocks, add a smart touch to new ones with these bits of dainty neckwear. They stress new spring style notes, and come in white and colors. A variety of materials, and styles makes the assortment wonderfully complete. Each or set 89c

Spring's on Hand Early!

Real-Kid Gloves

And they are those soft, pliable kid leathers, in smart pullon style, with a choice of plain or fancy cuffs. In brown, black, navy and beige. Sizes 5 3-4 to 7½ in the group.

Pair 1.59

—Main floor, left

Plain or Patterned. You'll find smart choice in this New Group of

Two Piece Suits

And they are designed on the dashing, swagger lines which distinguish many of the smarter creations for Spring. Tailored from all wool tweeds, in a distinctive variety of new patterns, or the plain all wool fabric, which lends itself well to the three-quarter length coat mode. Trim tailored lines, with short coats, with swagger coats, and three-quarter length coats—in the popular shades for this season, blue, green, beige and brown. Sizes 14 to 38. At 12.95

—Second floor

Broken Sizes in Printed Celanese Crepe Frocks

Time to replenish Spring Wardrobes when the price is so low on Frocks as this—good looking, wearable styles for both misses and women, of fine quality celanese crepe in gay printed block and flowered effects, both small and large. Interesting neck line treatments, short and long sleeved effects, and many other detail interests make for an extensive selection. Colors too, are new for this season. Special, each

3.49

— Second floor

New, Gay and Colorful! Tailored Shirtmaker Frocks

Smartly printed styles in a wonderful selection of colors, and neat designs. They're SHIRTMAKER FROCKS, and will be received with open arms by everyone who likes their clean cut tailored lines and becoming appearance. With short and long sleeves, pleated effects in skirts, pockets, and belted effects. Sizes 14 to 44 in the group. Special, each 79c

Hoover Frocks

So practical are the lines of these Hoover frocks women are buying them extensively for all housework, for office and business wear over the street dress. We have the new arrivals in white jean cloth, and a variety of crisp cotton prints, in colorful new designs and patterns. A real "buy" at this sale price. Sizes, small, medium and large. Each 59c

—Second floor

3 Piece All Wool Knitted Suits

Smartly and trimly styled for Spring wear. All wool in three piece effect, with plain but very smart pullover with short sleeves—skirt and cardigan. Tailored effects mostly, some with interesting button trims. Dark and brighter shades in the group. Broken size range makes them real value a this reduced pricing. Each 4.95

—Second floor

CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED

THE WEATHER

Westerly winds, fair today and Friday with stationary or a little lower temperature.

The Ontario Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, MARCH 28, 1935

TEMPERATURES

	Max.	Min.
Today	40	32
Year ago	35	15

Rainfall: .039 inches.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN CONVERSATIONS OPEN

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Portland, Ore., March 28 (CP)—Because Stephen Fink, 37, is so adept at imitating the cackling of a chicken, he faces deportation from the United States.

State police said he hid in a ditch near a farm, covered himself, and by an amazingly lifelike cackle was enticing the farm chickens within range and popping them into a bag. Fink, an Austrian had entered the United States illegally three times since 1929, they said.

* * * *

Madrid, March 28 (CP)— The Mayor and the city council of San Sebastian voted yesterday to ask the Spanish Government to restore Miramar, the former Royal Palace, to the former King Alfonso. Replying, the government dismissed the Mayor and the entire council.

* * * *

Chicago, March 28 (CP)—Mickey—the mongrel dog that rode to fires on Oak Park engine No. 2 for 14 years—died today.

A dozen firemen, heads bared and bowed, made a casket and laid him to rest in a tiny grave.

* * * *

Chicago, March 28 (CP)—The 14 servants of the late Richard T. Crane, Jr., came into small fortunes today.

Probate Judge John O'Connell authorized executors of the manufacturer's estate to distribute $119,369 among them—each bequest equivalent to the total they received while employed by their benefactor.

The principal beneficiaries and the amounts allotted were Chauffeur Albin Johnson, $24,255; houseman Richard Sweningson, $19,319; housemaid Kate Sime $15,894; porter George Pickrit, $14,613.

* * * *

Chicago, March 28 (CP)— "To live long, live right," that was the advice of Mrs. Mary Adelman who celebrated her 106th birthday yesterday. Despite her age, she retains her "girlish" figure — he's five feet tall, erect and weighs 105 pounds. Mrs. Adelman is the mother of 14 children.

* * * *

Marysville, N.B., March 28 — (CP)—The last post has sounded for Alfred Ballard, 37, whose six brothers died in war service. Ill since his return from the war, during which five brothers were killed, Ballard is dead here. Another brother died in the Boer war.

* * * *

Charlottetown, March 28 (CP)— A handcuffed insane prisoner, to be placed in a Quebec institution, was flown from Magdalens, ice-locked islands of the gulf of St. Lawrence River, yesterday in a Canadian Airways airplane, piloted by Walter Fowler.

DOG PACK FOUND LOYAL TO MASTER

Animals Starving Guard Dead Owner's Body in Blizzard

St. John's, Nfld., March 28 (CP Cable)—Loyalty of a pack of dogs to their dead master was recounted today in a grim story of the Labrador Northland. A letter from Cartwright told of John Lloyd's death and the vigil his dogs kept through days of hunger and exposure to a raging blizzard.

A searching party found his frozen body jammed into a crevice in a cliff, where he apparently had crept for shelter. Around the body, in a snarling semi-circle, crouched the dogs, still on guard. Hunger had driven them savage, but they had refused to leave the spot where Lloyd had died. They tried feebly to attack the men who removed their master's body but they could do little better than drag their emaciated bodies over the snow.

MOTORIST SENTENCED

Cobourg, March 28.—The manslaughter charge against Joseph Gauthier was reduced to criminal negligence in Assize Court here yesterday. Gauthier pleaded guilty and Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy imposed a term of nine months determinate and three months indeterminate in Guelph Reformatory.

Gauthier at one time a resident [illegible] Toronto, and late of Kirkland Lake was driving a car near Cobourg on March 9 and collided with a buggy. Hugh McGovern, riding in the buggy, was killed.

BROTHERS PLAN TRANSATLANTIC HOP

Marquis George de Monteverde, 26 years old, at LEFT and his brother Count Alfred de Monteverde, 25, are shown before the long-distance Bellanca transport plane, in which they plan to span the Atlantic in a flight to Portugal sometime this summer. At present the brothers are getting the giant ship ready at Floyd Bennett field, New York, which will be the starting point of their ambitious transatlantic hop.

Moscow Parley is Begun On European Security; Eden Meets Litvinoff

Russians Believe British Stand Will be Real Factor

STALEMATE IN EAST

Pierre Laval of France to Follow Eden to Russia

(By John Lloyd)

(Copyright 1935, by the Associated Press)

Moscow, March 28. — Capt. Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal of Great Britain and Maxim Litvinoff, Foreign Commissary of Soviet Russia, "got right down to business", officials declared, as they began their first conference on European Security proposals this afternoon.

The mission which brings Captain Eden to the Red Capital is an outgrowth of the stalemate over the proposed Eastern European Security Pact which Russia insists is a necessary part of the Peace system but which Germany has been refusing to accept.

The Bolshevists declare the German attitude reveals aggressive intentions against Russia and contend if Berlin cannot be brought to enter the Pact, the rest of Europe should get together on its own account, thus forming a united front against what they call "The Nazi Menace".

They express the belief the stand England finally will adopt may be the deciding factor for the Peace of both Europe and Asia, predicting if war broke out in Eastern Europe, it could not be localized and would quickly spread around the world.

Laval Coming

Captain Eden's visit will be followed by the coming of Pierre Laval French Foreign Minister, probably in late April, after he has brought the German question before the extraordinary session of the League of Nations Council called for April fifteenth.

Litvinoff and Capt. Eden it was announced later, discussed "the conclusions to which the Berlin negotiations are leading" during a two-hour conference. Description of the subject of their talk was made later by well-informed quarters but these sources were unable to say what nature of "conclusions" were meant.

Litvinoff's thesis is that the east and west are bound up in the matter of peace as war, in his opinion, might easily spread to the other half of the world if it started in either place.

The Russians do not insist Great Britain pledge military aid for the security of Eastern Europe, but they say they want moral support which, they declare, is to Great Britain's interest as well as to that of the other nations involved.

Man in Battle With Wild Dog

North Sidney, N.S., March 28—(CP)—A struggle between a wild dog and a young doe on the snow-covered highway near French Vale became a battle of man against beast, when Alexander McSween interfered.

The dog, one of a roving pack, that has been killing deer by the score in the Cape Breton woods for two years, had a death grip on the doe's throat as the farmer approached.

When the farmer separated them the dog jumped at his throat.

Stepping aside quickly, McSween escaped teeth, that had been sharpened at a wolf's trade.

Again the dog attacked and the farmer swung his axe. The animal went down but it took another blow to end the battle.

The rescued doe scurried off into the woods.

INVESTIGATE ROBBERY

Brockville, Ont., Mar. 28 CP)—Police are investigating an alleged attack made upon Wylie Love, insurance agent who reported he had a wallet containing $61.00 abstracted from his coat pocket by an unknown man.

Sea Beast Nosed Like Cow, Caught in Nets Off Nfld.

St. John's, Nfld., March 28 (CP Cable)—A huge marine monster with nostrils like a cow and the mouth of a shark was reported today as having been trapped off Newfoundland.

Tom Courtney, who found the fish in his nets outside Petites, said it was 20 feet long and with a body "as big as a puncheon." He and his men couldn't drag it aboard the boat but they cut off its tail—three feet across.

He said it had a large, "square" face, fine teeth and bones "as soft as rubber." It was colored like a swordfish. Its flesh resembled pork.

LIBERALS SEEK TO DEFEAT MEASURES SAYS DR. MANION

Follows J. L. Ralston in Budget Debate in House

TIDE HAS TURNED

Says Government Never Contemplated Merger of Railways

OTTAWA, March 28.—(CP)—Although charged with political sabotage and challenged to state their policy on social and economic reform doubt remained today as to whether the Liberal Opposition in the House of Commons would participate in the Budget Debate.

Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, hurled charges and challenges at the Opposition benches yesterday as he replied to the speech delivered the day before by Hon. J. L. Ralston Liberal financial critic.

Liberals, he said, had sought to defeat every measure introduced by the Government for the benefit of the people. They went about preaching gloom and depression, and at the same time did everything possible to handicap government efforts to deal with hard times. Now that the corner was turned they were pleading frantically for an election in the hope the vote would be taken, while they could still capitalize discontent and distress.

Outlines Achievements.

In other times of crisis, as during the war, parliamentary Oppositions had co-operated with the Government of the day, said Dr. Manion. But the Liberals of today placed party before country. They failed to realise that Canada was "on the march", that reform was the order of the day and that they owed their country a little constructive work instead of mere political manoeuvring.

Dr. Manion outlined achievements of the government and its plans for further reform. He said Canada had come through the depression better than most other countries due to the sound policies pursued.

The minister accused his opponents of carrying on base slanderous whispering campaigns. As an instance he cited Liberal attempts to link the Government with a policy of merging the railways. He flatly denied any such policy had ever been considered, and declared the Government was opposed to a railway merger.

Such a merger, he argued, would threaten the economic and political life of Canada because it would create a giant monopoly able to dictate to any government because of the political power of its thousands of employes and their friends.

Turned Corner

With trade revival—which he believed was inevitable and already apparent — Canada's Railway problem would disappear, Dr. Manion predicted. When the C.N.R. returned to gross revenue of $250,000,000 a year, it would approach its obligations or come so close the people of Canada would not protest the yearly assessment for deficits.

SWEEPSTAKEDRAW NOW CONCLUDED

Many Canadians to Receive Consolation Prize of $486

Dublin, Mar. 28 (CP)—The Irish hospitals sweepstakes draw on the Grand National Steeplechase was completed today with the remaining consolation prize awards of $486 each.

Canadian and British West Indies winners, their identity concealed by the sweep authorities because of Canadian regulation, follow:

Blinky, ticket No. AS 20112; Husband and Wife, Trinidad, ER 31452; J. Farrer, DX 17637; Fred and Ken, AD 13509; Smiye, PZ 46181; Blue Hat, AK 09987; Keyhole, XT 89628; Ernest Hudson, CZ 20423; Leth Go, ML 55344; Old Doc, JH 40673; Peter, BX 22695; Come Up, AE 03319; Juet Me, BH 07215; Hard Up, XS 72089; McLean, PK 36354; Maple Leaf, AH 16583; Robin Hood, CW 38563; Netherhole, Jamaica, QD 18921; Meg., AD 37451.

Pel, Jamaica, M 10504; Buckshee, DC 17,191; No Luck, Jamaica, HS 06317; Erin, AH 40497; Use Me, XL 51305; Honest Pay, CZ 31959; Snowdrift, BQ 83503; Blue Good, XJ 72352; Lucky Jan, AE 08884; Mrs. Dawson, DA 16,622; Claude, JL 38,265; Suits Me, ND 08565; Hunting, HT 6571; One Born, XK 73,845; Firewater, AT 29883.

SIMON WITHOLDS FULL REVELATION OF BERLIN PARLEY

Divergence of Opinion Developed Says Foreign Secretary

EXPLORATION VISIT

Unauthorized Accounts May be Disregarded, Simon States

London, Mar. 28 (CP)—Fresh from his Berlin talks with Adolf Hitler, Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon frankly told the House of Commons this afternoon the conversations with the Reichsfuehrer revealed "considerable divergencies of opinion".

The visit the Foreign Secretary declared, was one of several exploratory trips of British Ministers to European capitals and "in view of these circumstances it will obviously be undesirable to make a full statement as to the position which still is under investigation."

"Unauthorized speculations such as have appeared in some quarters," Sir John said, "may be disregarded."

Into the secrets of those long hours of strenuous talks in the Wilhelmstrasse Sir John declined to go any further.

The visit to Berlin, he said at the outset, was one of a series of visits of exploration and inquiry to foreign capitals. They would be followed by the three-power meeting at Strest where he hoped to meet Premier Mussolini and French Foreign Minister Pierre Laval.

Situation Reviewed.

Sir John went on: "I can say, however, that in the course of the two days' conversations in Berlin, the European problem in relation to Germany was reviewed in all the aspects of the London communique. Considerable divergencies of opinion were revealed in that both countries are able to understand each other's point of view."

The House roared with laughter when Will Thorne, Laborite, asked: "Is the Foreign Secretary prepared to give his considered opinion about Herr Hitler?"

Sir John remained silent.

James Maxton, Labor left-winger, pressed as to what would happen after the conference with France and Italy.

"I do not think it is possible for me or anyone else to speculate on what may be the course of events after that," Sir John said, and the matter ended there.

STIRLING YOUTH GIVEN A REMAND

Charged in Police Court With Theft of Car Accessories

Charged with the theft of automobile accessories Raymond Lawrence, Stirling, appeared before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., this afternoon and was remanded until Monday. Lawrence was arrested by the Provincial Police last night at his Stirling home following complaints regarding the rifling of parked motor cars on side roads, removing tools and spare tires.

According to Provincial Police, who investigated and arrested young Lawrence, he was in company with three companions when they are alleged to have rifled two cars north of Stirling last Sunday. Chase was given at that time, but when the car in which the quartette were riding broke down, they abandoned it and eluded a posse in a near-by woods. The names of those riding in the car were later ascertained through the licence plate number of the abandoned car. Lawrence, Provincial Police stated today, was an innocent party in the robbery although he was in the robber-car he did not accompany his companions, when the actual thefts took place. Lawrence is being held as a material witness as well.

CHOOSES SPEEDY TRAL

London, Ont., March 28 (CP)—Choosing speedy trial before County Judge Joseph Wearing rather than go before a Judge and jury, Vincent T. Foley, London lawyer, will be tried on the five remaining criminal charges against him May 20.

Foley will be taken back to Portsmouth penitentiary to continue serving a four-year sentence for conversion until the day of his trial is reached. The date set is fairly certain but subject to change.

NEW RIDEAU HALL TENANTS

MR. AND MRS. JOHN BUCHAN

Famous English author and Conservative M.P. for Scottish Universities John Buchan has been named as Canada's next Governor-General to succeed Lord Bessborough.

Federal Aid is Urged By Canadian Mayors Who Wait on Cabinet

Situation of Cities With Debt Impressed on Cabinet

NO REPUDIATION

Mayor of Vancouver Pleads For Servicing of Debts

Ottawa, March 28 (CP)—Canadian mayors from coast to coast, who have been exchanging relief information and plans in Montreal this week today came in force to the Dominion Government with requests for further financial assistance.

The delegation was made up of about 45 of the original group of more than 100 which attended the Montreal conference called by Camillien Houde, mayor of that city.

Mayor Wenige likened the plight of the unemployed to a family on the top floor of a burning house, in eminent peril of their lives, while firemen argued about the use of rescue material at their disposal.

Lethbridge Situation

Mayor D. H. Elton, of Lethbridge, Alta., said he believed his group expressed "the concrete, considered deliberation of the entire Dominion of Canada."

Mayor Elton told of the financial system of Lethbridge where the exempted property was almost equal to that taxable, and where 80 per cent of the revenues were required for essential city services at a tax rate of 4.85 mills. Taxes unpaid amounted to $400,000 in a city of 13,000 and 90 per cent of those collected came from home owners.

It was substantially impossible for most provinces to give the cities any more assistance than they were now giving, Mayor Houde said. He would endorse what Mayor Elton had said with respect to his province subordinating its own rights to obtain Federal control of the relief problem. That was a question that could be considered at another place.

It was feared the relief problems would "slip out of our hands, endangering peace, order and good government," Mayor Houde said. Then it would automatically become a problem for the Central Government and he feared that time was not far distant.

Direct Aid

For Montreal, Mayor Houde said that if direct relief were removed from the city's burdens no other assistance would be asked. He was not sure about other municipalities.

In requesting the Federal Government to take over direct relief his associates, Mayor Simpson, of Toronto, said, did not mean provinces and municipalities should be released from all responsibilities. It meant complete co-operation with the municipalities lending all assistance within their powers.

"Repudiation is not in our vocabulary," said Mayor Simipson, speaking for Toronto.

"At no time in the history of civilization has any Government so fully recognized its obligations to take care of those who through no fault of their own have been forced to seek some other means of securing subsistence than by exchanging their ability to work for a living wage," declared Mayor G. G. McGeer, of Vancouver.

The Vancouver mayor repeated the example he gave last night of two men working for wages, one investing in a home and the other in a guaranteed bond. Depression brought loss of home to one but 100 per cent interest and principle to the other.

"What social justice is to be found there?" he asked. The effect was that it was dangerous to own urban property.

He was convinced, Mayor McGeer said, municipal and provinncial debts could be serviced in such a way as to bring the interest rate down to three per cent without any suggestion of repudiation.

APPOINTMENT OF BUCHAN OPPOSED

Native Sons' President Claims Canadian Should Have Post

Toronto, March 28 (CP)—Opposing appointment of John Buchan as Governor-General of Canada on the grounds a Canadian should have been chosen for the office, George J. Smith, President of the Native Sons of Canada, has telegraphed Sir George Perley, Acting Premier of Canada.

The wire states a country which produced "the Canadian Expeditionary Force should be able to produce a man fit to fill the office of His Majesty's representative in Canada" and the continual appointment of others than a Canadian citizen "places Canada and Canadians in an inferior position and reflects on the ability of the Canadian people."

The telegram urges the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada act as Governor-General for 10 years following Lord Bessborough's term, "thereby saving $500,000 a year or about $5,000,000."

Hangs by Hands from Eave Till Firemen Save Her

Toronto, March 28 (CP)—Hanging by her hands from the eavestrough of the Home Rescue Mission some 35 feet above the ground, Miss Clara Shea was rescued by John McGowan today. He held her until firemen arrived with ladders.

McGowan, looking out of his bedroom window, saw the woman hanging by her hands and shouting for help. Climbing on the roof he tried to pull her to safety but was unable to do so. He held her arms until the firemen arrived.

MAY FORM PRO-GERMAN CABINET ON RESIGNATION

Pilsudski, Dictator Marshall May be Guiding Influence

SYMPATHIES KNOWN

Poland For Some Time Has Leaned Towards Germany

Warsaw, Mar. 28 (CP)—The Polish cabinet under Premier Leon Kozlowski resigned today and possible organization of an "imperialist" and pro-German government, under the direct influence of Dictator Marshal Pilsudski, may thrust a new factor into the already doubtful eastern European situation. Colonel Waleryan Salawek was promptly asked by President Ignace Moscicki to form a new cabinet.

With the recent adoption of the new constitution in Poland and its consequent strengthening of the power of Marshal Pilsudski, who has occupied the nominal position of chief of military affairs in the Polish cabinet. Informed observers assert Poland's sympathies with Germany will be more pronounced than ever.

Col. Slawek is Marshal Pilsudski's friend and a military man himself. If he is successful in forming a cabinet it is expected the key positions will go to Pilsudski men. Since the late French Foreign Minister Louis Barthou started his diplomatic journeys last summer, it was seen that Poland was veering away from the long established association with France and swinging toward Germany.

ACTUAL NEED GOVERNS DECISION FOR RELIEF

Color, Race Nor Creed Does Not Qualify Man

Toronto, March 28—(CP)— Hon. David A. Croll, Ontario Minister of Welfare and Municipal Affairs, said today he had sent an inspector to Wallaceburg to correct alleged discrimination in the matter of issuing relief.

Mr. Croll's attention had been drawn to a report from Wallaceburg the municipality was refusing assistance to foreign-born families, who lacked naturalization papers.

"Not color, nor race, nor creed qualifies a man for relief" said Hon. Mr. Croll. "His actual need governs our decision, and no other factor, unless it be his willingness to work, we won't let a family starve because they haven't yet become Canadian citizens."

WEATHER

Toronto, March 28 (CP)—The weather has been cold in the Western Provinces with strong winds and snowflurries in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Light rain has fallen in many parts of Ontario, while farther east the weather has been mostly fair.

Lake Superior, Kenora and Rainy River—Fresh to strong winds, shifting to west and northwest; mostly cloudy with occasional snowflurries; colder at night.

Manitoba — Fresh northwesterly winds; partly cloudy and somewhat colder.

Saskatchewan and Alberta—Northwesterly winds, moderating; fair and rather cold.

Coming Events

REGULAR WEEKLY EUCHRE SOUTH End clubrooms Friday, March 29, eight o'clock. Good prizes. Admission 25c. Everybody welcome. M28-1t

ORANGE EUCHRE AND DANCE, FRIday, March 29. Regular prizes. Melodymakers orchestra. Admission 25c. M28-1t

COME TO VARIETY ENTERTAINMENT in Tabernacle Church Friday evening 8.15. Splendid talent, songs, reading, musical numbers. Admission 25 and 15. M28-1t

FRIDAY NIGHT, MARCH 29, MEETING of Young Women Conservatives of Baldwin, Samson and Ketcheson Wards; organization of the wards, chairmen and sub-chairmen to be chosen. M28-2t

TO-NITE 8.30 P.M. "AAJMAA CLUB" euchre, regular Thursday prizes. Euchres every Monday, Thursday evenings and Friday afternoons. Admission 25 cents. M28-1t

THURLOW CONSERVATIVE CLUB euchre and dance in the Hall, Cannifton, March 28. Cards 8 o'clock. Good orchestra. Members kindly bring lunch. Admission 25c. M22 25 27

DANCE IN POINT ANNE ORANGE Hall Thursday, March 28. Music by Jack Denmark's Aces. Refreshments. Admission 25c. M27-1t

City and District News

RAINFALL WELCOMED BY DISTRICT FARMERS

The last vestiges of winter were being swept away in running rivulets down handy catch basins in the city today by the heaviest rainfall of the spring season. Throughout the rural districts the gray-black snowbanks piled in shady corners along rail fences were also dissolving under the downpour of nearly one-half inch precipitation, which descended during the early morning, slackening to a drizzle during the latter part of the day. Farmers wore a broad smile as the downpour soaked the land, and confidently labelled it the proverbial "million dollar rain."

EARDLEY WILMOT FLIES TO CITY

Modern methods of transportation were employed yesterday by Mr. Eardley Wilmot, former resident of this city, on the occasion of a trip here to visit his mother, Mrs. Chas. Wilmot, Trent Road. Flying his own plane from Brantford where he now resides, Mr. Wilmot, a well-known aviation fan, settled down on the landing field of the Trenton Airport in the afternoon, and continued his trip to Belleville by car. He will remain here for a brief stay.

War Veteran Has Thirtieth Operation

William H. Smith, 38 Dunbar Street, this city, and one of the country's champion war veteran amputation cases, has arrived back in Belleville after his thirtieth operation performed at Christie Street Hospital, Toronto. The last operation removed another portion of his left leg, previously operated on twenty-nine times since the member was wounded by a shell fragment in France. A veteran of the 38th Overseas Battalion, Mr. Smith has in his possession a medal presented him for being one of the most operated upon returned men of the Canadian Forces.

ENTRIES FOR SWIM MEET RECEIVED

The morning's mail contained the entry of the Kingston Y.M.C.A. for the swim meet at Albert College Pool on Friday night. Andy Reekie, who is in charge of the physical programme at the Y there, states in a brief note enclosed, that he will have a very enthusiastic group of swimmers. Referring to his junior team he remarks as follows: "There are a couple of juniors that will pop your eyes out for size but they are below the age limit." The age limit for juniors is under 15 years. The following are the swimmers who will represent the Kingston Association: Ladies—S. Bird, J. Andrews, A. Roberts, D. Grimwood and J. Hall. Juniors—T. Sughrue, Black, McKellar, Akerley, Cliff. Seniors—R. Keele, T. Harris, R. MacDermid, E. Sherbino, J. Watson, T. Turner.

KNEE IS CUT WHEN AXE SLIPS

When an axe slipped while he was cutting a log to set muskrat traps on the Trent River yesterday, Arthur Abernethy, 16, suffered a deep wound in his right knee. Several stitches were needed to close the gaping cut. The injured lad, who fainted from loss of blood, was carried to the nearby highway by George Bounds, a companion, where they were picked up by a passing car and rushed to a doctor.

WHEREABOUTS OF MAN IS SOUGHT

A request for information regarding the whereabouts of James A. Johnston, 96 years, and believed to reside in Belleville or district, has been received by City Clerk Wilfred E. Holmes from a Toronto life insurance company. Mr. Johnston's wife is listed as Alzina S. Johnston. Information regarding Mr. Johnston or any of his heirs may be addressed to the city clerk.

POLICE SEARCH FOR WATERLESS CAR

A local policeman on beat last evening kept an eye open for a car spouting clouds of steam from underneath the radiator cap.

The first act of the little drama started, when a resident of the city loaned his car to a friend for the evening. But hardly had the machine been driven off than he suddenly remembered. Accustomed to draining off the water of the radiator at the end of each day since the changeable weather commenced, he had forgotten to refill it.

Hurriedly he sought out a policeman on beat and explained his plight. He furnished the officer with a description of the car, and the number of the markers. So during the evening, besides his other duties, Constable Wm. Evans kept a sharp lookout for a waterless car being driven by an unsuspecting operator.

LAKE TROUT FRY SOON DISTRIBUTED

Upward of 2,000,000 lake trout will be distributed from the local Dominion Fish Hatchery in northern lakes throughout the district and in Lake Ontario this season, it was stated by officials of the Hatchery today. The spawn now under culture at the Hatchery will be shipped from the city to various destinations about May 1st. This season's culture of lake trout is one of the heaviest in some time. Together with the lake trout thousands of white fish are being nursed at the Hatchery for liberation in lake waters as soon as weather and water conditions are favorable.

PEDDLER PLAYS ROLE OF FIREMAN

A rural resident making the rounds of the city streets and homes yesterday afternoon, peddling apples from his little horse - drawn cart, played the role of fireman and probably saved a local residence from considerable loss in what might have been a damaging blaze.

Approaching one home at 187 Foster Avenue shortly after two o'clock in the afternoon, the apple peddler noticed wisps of smoke issuing from a rear shed. His knocks on the door were redoubled and finally the lady of the house was aroused. Hastily a pail of water was secured, after a brief explanation, and a hurried trip made to the shed resulted in the extinguishing of a small fire, said to have started in a box of rubbish, and which had commenced to lick at the walls and ceiling of the wooden structure. By the time firemen of the local department arrived, the blaze was out, with a probable loss of $25.00.

Police News

The epidemic of bicycle thefts to have struck the city during the present week continued yesterday, when a girl's bicycle was stolen from its parking place at the rear of the Belleville Collegiate. The owner reported the loss directly after school yesterday afternoon. Five bicycles have been reported stolen thus far this week, four of them being recovered by the police authorities. Joy riders are blamed for the sudden out-break.

Police activities were at a rather low ebb in Belleville during the past 24 hours, not a single arrest being necessary, although minor investigations were necessary in some cases. Twenty five transients slumbered peacefully in warm quarters at the police station last night.

Little Doreen Argant, three year old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Argant, Dundas St., sustained a broken collar bone and severe lacerations, when she ran into a passing motor car on Dundas St. late Wednesday afternoon. Little Doreen was immediately taken to the Belleville General Hospital where Dr. G. Stobie administered medical assistance.

According to eye witnesses, who were present, little Doreen started across Dundas St. in front of a west bound motor car, but apparently failed to observe another automobile coming from the opposite direction. The little girl ran directly into the rear fender of the east bound car and was knocked down. The driver immediately stopped her automobile, which was proceeding at a low rate of speed, but little Doreen jumped to her feet and ran in her home nearby. Later the driver took the injured girl and her parents to the hospital. According to eye witnesses the little girl was apparently watching the west bound auto and failed to see the east bound car. P. C. Arnott investigated and no blame for the accident was attached to the driver, it being purely accidental.

E. G. O'BRIEN IS REFUSED BAIL

Two Other Occupants of Car Released on Bail

Charged with manslaughter and held without bail, George O'Brien, 29, of Belleville, alleged driver of the motor car which hit little "Billie" McGreer in Napanee on Monday last, resulting in his death, and his two companions, Walter Allore and James Deacon, also of this city, appeared in police court held before Magistrate Ambrose Shea at Napanee yesterday. Allore and Deacon were subsequently allowed their liberty upon posting bail bonds to the amount of $1,500 each, while O'Brien was held without bail. The preliminary hearing was set for Thursday.

The inquest looking into the death of little "Billie" McGreer, who, police say, was killed when struck by a motor car on Dundas Street on Monday afternoon last, will open at Napanee on Tuesday next. During the court proceedings subsequent charges were read against O'Brien, namely of being intoxicated in a public place, that he did unlawfully drive a car while in an intoxicated condition and that he did drive a car with defective brakes.

Allore was charged with having liquor on his person in a public place and being intoxicated in a public place and Deacon was charged wth being intoxicated in a public place.

◆

PHEASANT IS TAME STAYS ABOUT HOUSE

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tell of Visit of Pheasant to Cemetery

A beautiful cock pheasant appeared at the door of the kitchen of the home of Mr. A. W. Thomas, superintendent of the Belleville Cemetery about four-thirty o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. "I suppose if I had opened the door he would have walked in," remarked Mr. Thomas, "he was so tame.

"The bird stayed about the house for some time and did not seem afraid. After a while he flew away.

"This is the first I have seen of the pheasants about the cemetery. I was much interested in this bird as I have seen pheasants in England."

HOCKEY SCORES

Allan Cup Eliminations

Toronto Stars 11, Les Canadiens 0

O.H.A. Junior B

Barrie 4, St. Michael's 2

Canadian Ladies' Final

Preston 3, Winnipeg 1

Preston wins round 10-2.

New York—Ontario

Fort Erie 8, Buffalo Nationals 2

Fort Erie wins title 16-5.

Central League

St. Paul 4, Minneapolis 3

◆

WILL TAX ELECTRICS

Bournemouth, England (CP) — The first National Electrical Convention ever held in this country is to open June 3 and continue for a week here.

J. T. WARREN IS BADLY INJURED

New Car Leaves Road, Overturns And Pins Driver

Following a roadside smashup, when in some as yet unexplained manner a new car, which he had been driving from Windsor to Belleville left the road three miles east of Whitby at one-thirty o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mr. J. T. Warren, well known car dealer and garage owner of this city is confined to the Oshawa General Hospital, with a broken right ankle and right wrist, a broken rib and other injuries. He is suffering from severe shock, resulting when he was pinned beneath the overturned car.

Following the accident, Oshawa Hospital, which was advised of the crash, hurried an ambulance to the scene and rushed the injured man to the hospital. His condition last evening and today was reported "fair" by Mrs. Warren, who left the city immediately for Oshawa after being apprised of the accident. She will return to Oshawa today accompanied by Dr. Charles Adams. Dr. J. J. Robertson will also go to see the injured man.

The new car which he was driving was reported badly damaged.

◆

Obituary

LATE MRS. F. S. PEARCE

Marmora, March 28 (Special) — On Monday, March 25th, one of the cheeriest and well-loved citizens of Marmora passed away at her home here in the person of Mrs. F. S. Pearce.

The late Mrs. Pearce had been in rather poor health for the past number of years, but rallied so at times as to encourage the thought that she was on the way to complete recovery. Until a short time ago, she was able to take her place in St. Paul's choir where she displayed wonderful talent, as well as her keen interest in amateur theatricals.

To assist with each production was always her greatest delight, and it is no small measure due to her training that the Marmora casts such as the local A.Y.P.A. have always ranked high in amateur productions. She was a vocalist of high standing, possessing a fine mezzo-soprano voice, and enjoying the distinction of being a gold medallist of Toronto College of Music.

She wsa also a member of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild, and when the Girl Guides were organized in Marmora a few years ago, most capably filled the rank of captain.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Smith and was born in Hamilton fifty-nine years ago. Her father was the superintendent of the former Great North Western Telegraph Company.

Surviving her are her sorrowing husband and one son Stanley. She is also survived by one brother, Douglas of Montreal, and two sisters, Mrs. Edward Martin of Montreal and Mrs. Edna Taylor of Calgary.

The funeral service was conducted at her late residence at 2.30 p.m. on Wednesday by Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell. Interment was made in the family plot in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

◆

OBJECT TO FILM ADS

Bombay—(CP)—Objections have been lodged with the Board of Film Censors in regard to pictures published with advertising of Indian and foreign films.

TO TEACH RETAILERS THE PROPER METHODS

An educational program, which will teach retailers the proper method of storing butter in suitable storage places, will be commenced in this section as well as throughout Eastern Canada, it was decided at a two-day convention of dairy produce graders and inspectors of dairy produce of Eastern Canada, held at Ottawa this week, and attended by Mr. J. L. Irwin, Dominion district dairy grader of this city.

In the future retailers will be held directly responsible for shrinkage in butter, caused by improper storage and consequent drying out of moisture content, it was decided at the convention. Previously creameries and dairies had borne the brunt of the inspection for shrinkage.

The convention was attended by representatives from the section represented as far west as Stratford and as far east as Halifax.

The chief topic of discussion was a close study of the regulations with regard to foreign export of cheese, followed by the resolution adopted in respect to the program of guidance for stores selling butter.

IT PAYS TO SHOP AT THE REXALL STORE
SPECIAL PRICES on Patents & Toiletries
THIS WEEK
McKeown's Drug Store

Wright's Radio Service
312½ Front St. Phone 65
Belleville, Ontario.
M. G. Wright. Geo. Sweetnam
Manager. Radiotrician
M 15-tf

COCOANUT OIL SHAMPOO
I.D.A. Brand
Quickly forms a rich, heavy, cleansing lather.
Reg. 60c 8 ounces 32c
At Your I.D.A. Drug Store

Ladies' Hats
Cleaned, Remodelled and Retrimmed
Straw or Felt 75c
TANNER'S
1A Bridge St. West
M14-21-28

"You're Telling Me"
and
I'm telling you that everybody is talking about the Three Act Comedy to be presented in BRIDGE ST. SUNDAY SCHOOL ROOMS on MARCH 29 at 8 p.m.
Directed by Miss J. B. Tuite under auspices of the Y.P.S.
Admission 25c Children 15c
M26-28

. CAPITOL . TODAY, FRI., SAT.

ROMANTIC RULER OF LONDON'S NOTORIOUS HALF-WORLD!!
Limehouse . . . where danger and romance walk hand in hand!
Adolph Zukor presents
"LIMEHOUSE BLUES"
A Paramount Picture with
GEORGE RAFT
JEAN PARKER
ANNA MAY WONG
and KENT TAYLOR
Mystery . . . Drama . . . . . Love and Romance
2nd Feature
"GRIDIRON FLASH"
with
EDDIE QUILLAN and BETTY FURNESS
Comedy-Drama on College Campus and Football Field.
CAPITOL NEWS REEL • Matinee Saturday Complete shows 7., 9.05 • Lucky Programs: 73: 125: 432: 883: 912

METROPOLITAN STORES
Spring Carnival of Values
LACE AND ORGANDY COLLARS 39c Copies of $1.00 Styles
CHILDS' RAYON COATS $1.29 Pink, blue, white.
CHILDREN'S BROADCLOTH and Pin Dotted Design Dresses 25c Sizes 1, 2, 3
CELANESE BABY BONNETS 25c
2¼ YARDS SCRIM WINDOW Curtains 59c
Dust Mops 35c Special Value
Paints Enamels Stains 15c 25c 69c
New Spring Shades in LADIES' FULL FASHIONED SILK HOSE 69c
First quality—Semi-Service and Chiffon weights
LADIES' Fabric Gloves Plain or Fancy Cuffs 25c White — Brown — Grey — Navy
LADIES' Print Dresses Sizes are Standard and Oversize $1.00 Latest styles have just been received.
EMBROIDERED Pedaline Tams 79c
LADIES' PEDALINE AND FANCY BRAID Straw Hats $1.79 MISSES' — MATRON STYLES —Headsizes
Soap Special
CARBOLIC SOAP .... 4 for 17c
PALM OLIVE .... 3 for 14c
HARD WATER SOAPS .... 4 for 17c
LACE TRIMMED Satin SLIPS Sizes 32 to 40 $1.69
Rayon Panties LACE TRIMMED 25c
Rayon Bloomers 25c
Vests to Match 25c
Candy Special
Chocolate Snowballs .... lb. 20c
Chocolate Jellies .... lb. 20c
BAKED GOODS SPECIAL
Ginger Snaps .... lb. 9c
Chocolate Coated Cakes .... lb. 12c
LADIES' CREPE BLOUSES 79c $1.49 A lovely assortment and pastel shades
METROPOLITAN STORES Limited
236 Front St. Belleville Phone 1221

Don't Forget Your HOT CROSS BUNS
for FRIDAY and SATURDAY
DICKENS & SON
Phone 170

Packed With Romantic Adventure!
LESLIE HOWARD
in
"THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL"
BELLE - SATURDAY

BUY YOUR
BROCK'S BIRD SEED
SONG RESTORER and BIRD TREAT
at
Bishop's Seed Store
172 Front St. Phone 283
m28-30

SALE
Hot Galvanized WASH TUBS
Serviceable tubs, well made with side handles and wringer rests. 3 popular sizes.
No. 1 size Diam. 20½ ins. .. 79c
No. 2 size Diam. 23 ins. ... 89c
No. 3 size Diam. 25¼ ins. .. 98c
SMITH HARDWARE
PLUMBERS & TINSMITHS

Announcing
Special Showing of Ladies' Spring Coats and Suits
Friday, March 29th
at
W. DAVIS & DAUGHTER
NAPANEE — ONTARIO
SPECIAL ORDERS TAKEN
We Will Refund Transportation to all Out-of-Town Customers.
M26-28

IDEAL TO SERVE AT ANY TIME
But Especially Tempting for the Lenten Season
FISH & CHIPS
Order from BEAN'S
IDEAL FISH AND CHIP CAFE
331 Front St. We Deliver Promptly Phone 1543
STORE OPENS MONDAY AT 5 p.m.

Spring Festival of CERTIFIED Hits!
A screen full of Joy
TODAY & FRIDAY

A LAUGH TOPS EACH LOVE THRILL

CLARK GABLE
CONSTANCE BENNETT
in After Office Hours
with
STUART ERWIN
BILLIE BURKE
HARVEY STEPHENS
KATHARINE ALEXANDER
FEATURE 2.10: 7.30: 9.30
—Four More Treats—
SPRINGTIME NOVELETTE
BELLE PICTORIAL
TUNEFUL REVUE
JOE COOK COMEDY
BELLE
Daily .... 2.30 7.10: [illegible]
Saturday—Season's Biggest Hit:
Leslie Howard in
The SCARLET PIMPERNEL

AUTUMN ELECTION OTTAWA FORECAST

Long Easter Recess And Revision of Voters' Lists Expected

Ottawa, March 28—Indications of an Autumn election were heightened on Parliament Hill Wednesday when the Conservative caucus decided to have the statutory July revision of the voters' lists proceeded with according to routine schedule, instead of having special legislation introduced to dispense with it.

While the fact that the lists are in process of revision would not necessarily prevent the holding of an election, the prevalent view has been that if the vote was to be held before the new lists could be completed, the expense of it, running to approximately $150,000 might very well be saved. The decision of the Government supporters to have the revision proceed, accordingly is regarded in parliament as evidence that the ministry does not contemplate an appeal to the country until Autumn.

The factor which has caused the project for a late Spring or early Summer election to go by the boards is the Prime Minister's illness. With his voyage overseas and the Summer in which to convalesce, the Conservative forces hope Mr. Bennett may be restored to fighting form to lead them through their campaign.

Caucus also discussed the proposal for adjourning parliament after the adoption of the budget until after the Prime Minister's return from England in May. There was, it is said, general agreement in favor of such a course. Adjournment until about the last week in May will be taken on April 18 unless present plans are changed, according to hte best information.

The Liberals let it be known that they were bitterly opposed to adjournment and the rumor was abroad that Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Federal Liberal chieftain, will be prepared to break the large measure of political truce which he has observed since the Prime Minister as been compelled to be absent from the House to fight the issue.

The suggestion is that if an adjournment is proposed, the Government would only be permitted to carry it by use of closure. The issue would be bluntly raised, they declared, as to whether Parliament should be required to adjourn because of the illness of one man. If they succeed in doing nothing else, the Opposition members count on exposing the dependence of the Conservative side upon Mr. Bennett's leadership.

◆

KILLED PLAYING ON ROOF

Bombay (CP)—A three-year-old Hindu girl was killed falling from the roof of her home where she was playing tag with other children.

BLACK AND BRIGHT
A SHINE JUST RIGHT
ZEBRA
LIQUID or PASTE
STOVE POLISH

Look

Fashion Leaders Everywhere Are Wearing

Spring Footwear

Styled by AGNEW-SURPASS

And why not? For nowhere can you find such a wealth of smart creations as here : : : Fashion Leaders take to Agnew-Surpass Footwear like "Bees to Honey," because they set the pace in FASHION, QUALITY, FIT, and VALUE : : : Their popularity has grown tremendously this season because they are Finer, Smarter, Better Fitting and Greater Value than ever before.

Brown or Marine Blue Crushed Kid 6-eyelet tie.............$3.00

Walking Oxford in Black Calf, neat stitch and perforated pattern. $3.00

EXCLUSIVE STYLING

ASSURED FITTING

ECONOMY PRICES

$3 $4 $5

SIZES 3 TO 9

WIDTHS AAA TO C

Black Baby Calf one-eyelet Ghillie Spike heel...........$4.00

Attractive "T" Strap, Continental heel. Black or Marine Blue Baby Calf.......$4.00

Join the "Thrifty Throng of Fashionables," plan now to visit your nearest Agnew-Surpass Shoe Store where competent, courteous shoemen will be pleased to show you these attractive new shoes : : : compare them as you will, we're satisfied you'll admit they're Canada's Finest Shoe Values.

Black or Brown Tree-bark Oxford. Calf tip and heel foxing. $5.00

Smart Cut-out Tie, Spike heel in Black or Brown Baby Calf-skin...........$4.00

Kismet Hosiery

A fitting companion to good footwear...KISMET HOSIERY in the new Spring Tones... A value that you'll appreciate.

SEMI-SERVICE

69c pr. 2 prs. $1.29

CHIFFON

75c pr. 2 prs. $1.35

AGNEW-SURPASS SHOE STORES LIMITED

Canada's Largest Shoe Retailers

272 Front St.	Belleville	Phone 2082
Cobourg	Napanee	Kingston

FRANK TEMPLE TO HANG ON JUNE 27

Jury Finds Man Guilty of Killing Police Constable

St. Thomas, March 28—Frank Temple, alias Frank MacTemple, was found guilty Wednesday evening of the murder of Constable Colin C. McGregor of the St. Thomas Police Department on May 7, 1934, and sentenced by Justice Henderson to be hanged on June 27, 1935.

Dramatic Scene

The jury which decided the former East Elgin man's fate was out about two hours and a half, leaving a few minutes after six o'clock and returning at 8.40 o'clock. It was a dramatic moment when the doomed man stood up for sentence of death to be passed on him. Except that his usually ruddy face was pale and his lips tightly compressed, he displayed no outer sign of weakness.

"Have you anything to say why sentence of this court should not be passed upon you?" asked his Lordship.

Temple hung his head for a moment, then replied in a low, steady voice, 'I haven't." A hushed silence hung over the court room as his Lordship imposed the sentence. As his Lordship reached the words, "and may God have mercy on your soul," his voice faltered. Temple stood straight and unflinched, features firmly set, but a slight dimness noticeable in his eyes. He left the court room between his guards, with a firm step. He had been prepared for his doom, telling the guards, it was reported, when he left the court room at 6 o'clock adjournment, that "it was all up with him."

W. M. Blain, defending counsel, asked that the jury be polled, after the foreman had announced the verdict. Every man answered "guilty" when the poll was taken.

Judge's Remarks to Jury

His Lordship, in dismissing the jurors, said:

"You have been called upon to perform what I know must have been a very painful duty," he said. 'You have performed it concientiously, I fully know. For myself, I do not understand how you could possibly have come to any other finding on the evidence."

His Lordship told Temple that he had been ably defended by his counsel, who had done and said everything that could be said and done in his behalf.

Frank Temple, better known as MacTemple, will be 53 years old on April 1, it was learned this evening He lived for many years in the Port Burwell district latterly in this city and the United States. He had been in minor trouble before, but was never regarded as a dangerous criminal by the local and county police.

It is possible that Fred Temple, the son, also charged with the murder of Constable McGregor, may not be tried until next court, unless the Spring Assizes continues into next week.

The execution date set last night comes two days before the date selected for the opening of the City's Old Home Week, June 29. The hanging will be the first in this city since the execution of Hendershott and Welter here nearly forty years ago. They were the first ever to be hung in the County of Elgin.

Cool and collected, talking in a clear, steady voice, smiling at times and putting on rimless glasses to examine the 38-calibre revolver from which the fatal shot was fired, 53-year-old Frank Temple took the witness stand in his own defence Wednesday and told a story which he declared was the truth about what occurred in the kitchen of the apartment house at 17 Queen Street on the morning of May 7 last.

"I'm telling the truth," Temple said to J. B. Davidson, K.C., special prosecutor, when he was being cross-examined about the bullet from the 45-calibre army revolver that entered the ceiling "No matter what comes of this case, I'm telling the truth."

Temple's version of the shooting was that the first bullet fired was from one of the guns that his son, Fred Temple had in his hands as Sergeant Sam McKeown struggled with the youth. That bullet, the accused man insisted, had grooved three fingers of his right hand in which he held his gun, and caused the gun to discharge. Although it was not openly stated, the suggestion was that this was the bullet that killed Constable Colin McGregor, although the accused swore that he did not see McGregor from the time the first bullet was fired until he left the woodshed at the rear of the kitchen.

◆

SERVANTS' UNION

Toronto, March 28—(CP)— The Houseworkers' Union has drafted a code of wages for domestic help which will be presented to the Ontario Legislature. The scale calls for inexperienced domestics to receive a minimum of $30 a month, experienced cooks $60 and butlers $70 a month all with maintenance.

◆

SNAKES IN DRAWER

Sharon, Pa., March 28—(CP) — Other things besides the callendar prove that spring is here.

Oscar Mehler, shoe store manager, went to ring up a sale and found two little garter snakes in his cash drawer.

Mehler is doing a little detecting in the hope of finding a practical joker.

McNABB'S

FASHION REVUE

at the

CAPITOL THEATRE

CHOSEN AS THE FASHION STORE OF BELLEVILLE

Miss Claire Andree Lecturer of the De Both Homemakers' School

In accord with Miss Andree's good taste—she has chosen McNabb's to display the smartest in women's apparel for Spring and Summer

Complete Change in Fashions Every Day

Blackshire Dresses

These high class dresses will be displayed on FRIDAY at our FASHION SHOW at the CAPITOL THEATRE. Also orders will be taken on these dresses at our Store.

Coats and Swagger Suits

Our large assortment affords the opportunity to every woman to choose the garments she wants. See our display.

ELSIE FROCKS

Tailored by BLACKSHIRE LIMITED, now an exclusive feature at this store. .... Selling at $19.75

The J. A. McNABB Ltd.

254 Front St.

Millinery by Woodley's

Millinery by Woodley's

NO POLICE RADIO CARS

Toronto, March 28—(CP)— The City Council has eliminated provisions in the budget for police radio cars. It meant a saving of $27,000 in the estimates and was caused by efforts to reduce the proposed 34.5 mill taxe rate.

N. Y. HIJACKERS BUSY

New York, March 28—(AP)— Hijackers stole five trucks containing more than $18,000 worth of wearing apparel and liquor, and bandits escaped with more than $8,000 in two payroll robberies in New York.

Less than 1¢ Worth of Magic prevents failures like this ....

CRUMBLY
DRY TASTELESS
MADE WITH MAGIC

The very best flour, sugar, eggs, milk and butter were used in this cake. Yet—all were wasted because the baking powder failed.

With Magic Baking Powder you can always depend on perfect leavening. Fine-textured cakes that melt in your mouth.

Thrifty housewives don't trust good ingredients to doubtful baking powder. They use MAGIC...

You really don't save by using "bargain" baking powder. In fact—you're apt to waste all the other good materials you put into a cake.

For inferior baking powder gives poor cake. And—if it fails to leaven properly, it can even cause a complete failure.

That's why Canada's leading cookery experts use and recommend Magic.

They know from experience that Magic gives dependable results every time! Yet—Magic costs so little to use every housewife can afford it. Actually—less than 1¢ worth makes a big three-layer cake. Order a tin today!

• • •

When You Bake At Home, you'll like to use the new MAGIC COOK BOOK. Send for a free copy to Gillett Products, Fraser Ave., Toronto 2.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER has been selected for use at

BELLEVILLE ONTARIO-INTELLIGENCER COOKING SCHOOL

Conducted by

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE

at CAPITOL THEATRE

MARCH 28th, 29th, from 1.30 p.m. to 4.30 p.m.

Come! Learn the very latest time-saving methods. Get new ideas and recipes!

Tested and Approved by Chatelaine Institute
MAGIC BAKING POWDER
CONTAINS NO ALUM

CONTAINS NO ALUM

This statement on every tin is your guarantee that Magic Baking Powder is free from alum or any harmful ingredient. MADE IN CANADA

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

JOHN BUCHAN AT OTTAWA

The appointment of John Buchan, British M.P., noted scholar, historian and novelist, and public man, as Governor-General of Canada in succession to His Excellency the Earl of Bessborough, cannot but be one of the most popular choices for the viceregal post, bringing with him as he will a background of the highest culture and experience in public life.

To Canadians the coming of the new Governor-General will mean a change from the system which has given Canada titled governors-general ever since Confederation, 68 years ago, though Mr. Buchan may be elevated to the House of Lords.

John Buchan's name is a household name throughout the Empire for his commanding place in letters both as historian and reconstructor of past ages, and as creator of fiction. His life too has touched the practical side for he has filled offices of great importance in the state. During the war he rendered invaluable service in the intelligence department. A Scot with a mystical outlook, he is yet intensely practical.

A son of the manse, Mr. Buchan has made his way through that sheer force of character which is so markedly a possession of those who are Scottish by birth or are of Scottish descent. He is naturally hard-headed with the rich inheritance of Scottish ancestry and with a philosophy of simple life which has shown through all the great men who have been reared in the northern part of the island of Great Britain. Scotland has always cherished ideas and ideals, a sane hard philosophy which seems to be a part of the very geological structure of the country. Such a land, rich in romance and song, has given the world the greatest of romancers and poets in Scott and Burns, it has produced philosophers like Hume whose influence has been marked in modern thought throughout the world. It has always taken its religion seriously and the result has been a piety of which the world has had multitudes of noble examples in that rugged land. With all these strains in his being, John Buchan has demonstrated himself the possessor of the art of the raconteur, who can tell a tale which will draw young and old about the evening hearth. That in itself is a gift which few are blessed with. There is also the fervid loyalty of the Scot which has marked his public and military career, which has helped to maintain the vast empire which centres about England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales.

A Scot loves freedom and John Buchan stands for a development of the Empire through a system of imperial settlement. He believes in the freedom of democracy and feels that the ties which bind Britain and the United States should be made more firm; he wants to see the English-speaking races defended by mutual friendship and understanding.

He had advocated Empire settlement in Canada and there is no doubt that when the time comes for immigration, not a Canadian but will applaud this idea. Canada requires nothing better than the rich blood of the four great component parts of the British in race, the English, the Irish, the Scots and the Welsh, to help develop this country, along with our fellow French-Canadians. Canada is still in the making and an imperial idea cannot fail to have results to the farthest end of time.

So far honors have rested lightly on this democratic figure and in coming to Canada, Mr. Buchan will be among people of his own kind. He will be welcomed of course by Scots who have the warmest feelings for a brither Scot and by other groups of Canadians, the English, the Irish and the French.

His service to his country and empire, his skill in the literary art and historical reconstruction are his own great honours which will be appreciated by the Canadian people.

BELLEVILLE MAN DOMINION ARCHIVIST

Dr. James F. Kenney, Ph.D., F.R.S.C., who was recently appointed acting Dominion Archivist, succeeding Dr. A. G. Doughty who is retiring after thirty-one years, is a former Belleville student. He came to the Belleville High School about the turn of the century and in 1903 completed his seondary education here when he won a scholarship at the University of Toronto. At Varsity he engaged in the study of classics and history and in 1907 was graduated bachelor of arts with high honors after a brilliant course. He received his master's degree from the University of Wisconsin and his doctor of philosophy degree from Columbia University, New York. Twenty-three year ago he entered the Public Archives of Canada.

Dr. Kenney has made a number of visits to this section, the last one as far as recollected being some years ago when he went to the Carrying Place to decide on the location of the cairn to be erected at that point.

The same brilliant work which marked his student career has been indicated throughout his long years of service in the Archives Department.

Former students of the Belleville High School, and of the Varsity class of 1907 are pleased at the reward which has come to Dr. Kenney.

THE NEW GOLD TAX

A large portion of the public is interested either directly or indirectly in the change in the gold mining taxes, proposed by the Minister of Finance, the Hon. E. N. Rhodes. The special tax which was imposed a year ago as a temporary measure will be dropped as of the last of May and there will come into force a system of taxing the hsareholders of mining shares. Through the depreciation of the dollar gold has risen from about $20 per ounce to $35. Last year the Dominion proceeded to collect about 25 per cent of this "bonus" provided the net price of newly mined gold paid to the mines should not decline below $31 an ounce. This tax was applied only to the dozen odd mines which had been paying dividends before the time the dollar weakened.

Speaking of the new tax the Montreal Star comments:

"The new tax reduces the income tax exemption allowed for depletion. Hitherto a man who received an income of $1,000 a year from gold mine dividends only paid income tax upon $500 of this. The reason of course, for this exemption lies in the fact that extracting metal from a mine is held to reduce the value of the mine and so to out into the shareholders' capital. It is therefore regarded as unfair to tax mining dividends as if they represented income alone. Under the Dominion's new system the shareholders of a gold mine will receive exemption for depletion of only 20 per cent of the dividends. The man who draws $1,000 in gold mine dividends will now pay income tax upon $800 of this. Similarly the mining company itself, which hitherto was allowed a depletion allowance of 50 per cent, will find this now cut to 33 1-3 per cent.

"In general, the new system bears down more equitably upon the mines and should be satsfactory the mining companies. We have yet to be assured just how much revenue it is estimated to raise. Certainly with the experience of South Africa before them, the mining companies cannot complain too loudly. In our sister Dominion, the Government sets out, by means of surtaxes and such, to collect roughly 50 per cent of the bonus given to gold through the devaluation of the currency."

CANADIANS AND CRIMINALITY

It is a matter of common belef that a majority of those who find their way into the penitentiaries and prisons of Canada are "foreigners", natives of other countries who, having found their way here, turn to lawlessness and criminality.

Actually, however, the very great preponderance of those who are serving terms in imprisonment are natives of Canada itself. This is, at least, the word which comes from Ottawa by way of an official report covering criminal offences throughout the Dominion in 1933.

The apparent increase in convictions throughout Canada is not very encouraging nor is it exactly unexpected during years such as those through which we have recently passed. It is clear, however, that native Canadians continue to give the authorities the greatest amount of trouble and that indicable offences committed by the foreign-born are not rising any more rapidly; or even as rapidly, as offences committed by the native-born.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

CONSIDER THE OTHER FELLOW'S LAWN

Seasons of soft soil has arrived and, as usual, one hears wails from all parts of the city of thoughtless people cutting across corners of lawns, irretrievably ruining many of them, as far as this year is concerned. A little more consideration and a few more steps on the sidewalks instead of on lawns will prevent much damage at this time. No home-loving person will spol the appearance of the property of anyone else.—Niagara Falls Review.

$10,000 FOR FUNERAL

Funeral expenses of the late Marie Dressler at Hollywood were $10,000, leaving little of the estate for her sister in England, who disputed the bill but was overruled. It was a shocking piece of vulgar extravagance which must have made Marie Dressler, a woman of simple tastes, turn in her new grave. It is a pity she was not buried in her Canadian birthplace, Cobourg, Ontario, where there would have been no Hollywood splurge.—London Advertiser.

The measure of a man is the amount of gratitude he expects for a two-bit favor. —Fountain Inn (S.C.) Tribune.

A hick town is a place where a nice kid is "that Jones brat" because everybody knew his grandfather.—Fountain Inn S.C. Tribune.

The rich aren't snobbish in a hick town. If they don't chum with the poor, they are left out of everything.—Fountain Inn S.C. Tribune.

SIDELIGHTS

THE HOME FORUM

Discussing the events of the day, home gossip and general news topics as revealed by the home newspaper—under the evening lamp—and comments Grave and Gay. — Supervised by The Lamplighter.

A POTTED PRIMROSE

To her sick friend she has brought
This small gift to show her thought,
Setting halting words at naught.

Just a primrose in a pot,
Yet it says what she cannot,
Telling of a once-loved spot

Which in years gone by they knew;
Rainbow flowers, skies of blue
Where the larks went sailing through.

Suddenly the bare, poor room
Seems a meadow brimmed with bloom,
Sweet with clovers' fresh perfume.

Far from crowding walls and pain,
They are strolling down a lane,
They are young and blithe again!

To her ailing friend she brings
With the primrose, whir of wings
And the bloom of many springs!

—Aline Michaelis.

x x x

HITLER'S FLAIR FOR PUBLICITY is in keeping with the best traditions of those who have attained prominence and in some cases high position by being able to say and do things which found prominence on the Front Page of the newspapers of the world. Hitler's every move is a picture of something he wants to happen to himself, something good for Hitler, and as the old song goes, "every little movement has a meaning all its own." Germany has never had much respect for treaties, the most glaring example of which was the tearing up of that scrap of paper which guaranteed Belgium from invasion. The Treaty of Versailles has been torn bit by bit by Germany until it was only a shadow of its robust young self when it emerged first from the great Hall of Mirrors to remind Germany that it really had not won the war, and that there were some damages to pay for bombing churches, hospital ships, sinking passenger and freight ships, preferably "without trace" and for the privilege of playing with poison gas, liquid fire and other new and nasty quirks in the game of war seen for the first time on any stage. Herr Hitler, however, made the biggest splash of all on the Front Page when he decided to tear up the entire Treaty of Versailles, and tell the Allies that all bets were off, also all debts from the German end. Big Boy Hitler hollered that he was going to have another big army and another big navy on the sea, in the air and everything that went with a first class military power.—and strange as it may seem, Herr Hitler, erstwhile bricklayer, now a new Napoleon, spoke so loud that his pronouncement was heard around the world. France hurriedly manned the frontier with soldiers, Italy did likewise, but England, solid, dependable old England, never perturbed, unbeatable because she knows not what defeat is,—old England just sent Sir John Simon over to talk to that Bad Little Boy of Berlin and show him just how much more Germany can win by playing the game of nations as it should be played, and just how much it can lose by going off half-cocked now. Of course, that line of talk wouldn't impress Hitler very much because his job depends to a certain extent upon the amount of publicity he is able to get, but it may profoundly impress the real diplomats of Germany, who have a few centuries of experience and wisdom behind them and the spirit of a Bismarck to invoke when wisdom seems inclined to fly out of the window. And observe, my friends, that Sir John Simon went to Hitler, just as the mountains go to Mussolini, or do they?

x x x

SOME FOLKS SAY that the fine weather of March will be paid for by March weather in April. Seems 'though someone was always trying to take the joy out of life. If the weather is fine today why should it be devilish tomorrow? We have more good weather than bad weather and if the Lord wants to send us fine weather in March why borrow trouble by suffering in anticipation bad weather in April. Perhaps the Lord will decide to surprise us in April as he did in March. In any event, in this Garden Spot of the Gods, the Bay of Quinte region, there is never any really bad weather. Just read in your newspaper of the droughts, of the sand storms, cyclones, floods and other freaks of nature in other places and realize that Bay of Quinte weather at its worst is heavenly compared to some other places.

FOUR GIRLS LEAVE "HOME"

Sandwich, Ont., March 28 (CP)—Four girls, three from Chatham and one from Tilbury, were reported missing today from the Home of the Good Shepherd. The girls' names and ages were given to police as Asilda Hazett, 20; Marion Thebert, 18; Dorothy Drew, 14, and Dorothy Gereaux, 14.

INJURIES IN RUNAWAY FATAL

Guelph, Ont., March 28 (CP)—Injuries which he received when a team of horses bolted proved fatal today to Arnot Jackson, Eramosa Township. Jackson received a broken back, a broken arm, and internal injuries Monday when he was hurled from a wagon after his horses bolted on the York Road.

MOTORMAN SCARES GUNMAN

Hamilton, March 20 (CP)—An armed thug held up a street car on the Guise Loop late last night and ordered Charles Remely, motorman, to hand over his money belt but the motorman responded by striking at the gunman with a switch bar he was carrying. The bandit fled from the scene.

LOBLAW
Groceterias Co., Limited
Grocery Specials on Sale March 28-April 3

Special
WESTON'S NEW BISCUIT CREATION
Chocolate Shortbread
A dainty Shortbread enrobed in a delicious milk chocolate coating.
Average count 36-38 to the lb.
1-lb. Cell. Bag 19¢

Special
OLD COLONY 100% PURE
Maple Syrup
16-oz. Bottle 26c
32-oz. Bottle 47c

Special Rose Brand
Sweet Mixed or Mustard
Pickles
19-oz. Jar 21¢

Special HEINZ
Delicious SOUPS
Vegetable—Mushroom—Bean Beef Broth—Spinach—Chicken and Noodle.
2 Tins 25¢
HEINZ SPAGHETTI Large Tin 19c

LOBLAW'S—SPECIAL
BLACK TEA lb. 33c

Extra Good Value
LOBLAW'S
TRUMPET COFFEE
One of our Fastest Selling lines
1 lb. Cellophane Bag 25c

GOOD VALUE
Finest Rich Red Sockeye Obtainable
RED KING SALMON
Halves Tin 16c Tall Tin 29c

GLACIER SARDINES A Canadian Product TIN 8c

Special AYLMER Choice Quality Golden Bantam CORN No. 2 Size Tin 9¢

BANQUET QUEEN OLIVES CLUB HOUSE 18-oz. Jar 29c

Special St. William's Raspberry or Strawberry JAM With Pectin 32-oz. Jar 26¢

LIBBY'S TOMATO CATCHUP 12-oz. Bot. 14c

Special SALADA TEA Yellow Label Black ½-lb. Pkg. 26¢ Brown Label Black or Mixed ½-lb. Pkg. 31¢

FRY'S HOT CHOCOLATE ½-lb. Tin 24c

Special Irradiated Cereal MUFFETS 2 Pkgs. 17¢

LUX TOILET SOAP CAKE 5c

Special Manyflowers Toilet Soap 3 Cakes 13¢

Special For Excellent Baking Results
MONARCH FLOUR
7-lb. Bag 24¢ 24-lb. Bag 76¢

SPECIAL Sweet Juicy Seedless Navel ORANGES Medium Size. Dozen 33c

SPECIAL New Crop CALIFORNIA LEMONS Large size Dozen 17c

Special DOMESTIC or EASIFIRST SHORTENING 2 1-lb. Cartons 23¢

GIFT PRESENTED TO MR. G. HADRELL

Sidney Crossing—On Monday evening March 25, a number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. George Hadrell and presented him with an occasional chair. Mr. Hadrell has lived in this neighborhood for a great many years, and is about to leave. Mr. A. R. Bunnett called the gathering to order and made a few remarks. Mr. Hadrell was then asked to be seated in the midst of the crowd while Miss Edith Hogle read the following address:

March 25, 1935

Mr. Hadrell:

We your friends and neighbors, on learning of your intended departure from this neighborhood, have taken this privilege of invading your home tonight, to spend a social hour with you before you leave us, to take up your abode elsewhere.

Looking over the past, we recall many happy times together, and your cheerful presence and willing help, has won for you the respect of the neighborhood, where you are held in high esteem.

We are indeed sorry to lose you, but we realise that our loss will be another's gain. Many of us have learned to come to you for a helping hand in time of need.

We are glad that you are not going far from us, and we trust that you will come back to your friends and neighborhood quite frequently.

We are going to miss you probably more than you realize. As we think with regret of your departure, we realise that a noble upright character is about to depart from our midst.

As a token of our high esteem we ask you to accept this chair, and may you often be reminded of your many friends at Sidney, who join heartil in wishing ou many more years of health, happiness and prosperity.

Signed on behalf of the friends and neighbors, Mrs. Albert Page, Mrs. Wm. Hamilton, Bruce Hogle, Cyril McMullen.

Mr. Hadrell made brief remarks, thanking his friends for the present. All joined in singing "For he's a jolly good fellow". Lunch was served and everyone enjoyed a social evening. Mr. Hadrell treated the crowd with an abundance of candy and oranges.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Bush and Kenneth spent Sunday with Mr. A. Bush and family, Glen Miller.

Mr. Albert Lake has been confined to his bed for a few days with lumbago.

ROADS ARE IN FINE CONDITION FOR TIME OF YEAR

Huff's Island—Mr. and Mrs. F. Motley and Sylvia spent Wednesday afternoon in Deseronto.

The regular meeting of the Guild was held Thursday afternoon at Mrs. T. Nightingale's.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Vanwart spent Thursday with their daughter Mrs. F. Motley and Mr. Motley.

Mr. Donald Hatfield, Queen's University, Kingston, was a week end guest at his home.

Misses Roberta and Florence Walbridge spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. C. Barber.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Fairman and girls were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Beanfort Gilbert on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McFaul and small daughters were Sunday visitors at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wallbridge.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Black spent Sunday in Picton the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willet Noxon.

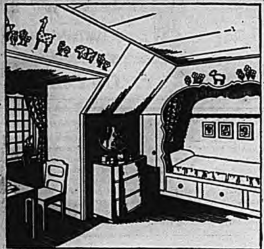
Mr. and Mrs. L. Wallbridge and Francis were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Morton.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hall and family spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hall, Avondale.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Montgomery, Marmon and Kathleen were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Barber on Sunday.

The roads are in wonderful condition for this season of the year.

The trapping season has now opened and the trappers are in hopes of a good run of rats.



. . . and this is how the Nabors' attic looks with TEN/TEST

No longer is the attic a store-room for odds and ends. In thrifty homes, where every dollar counts, you'll find charming attic bedrooms and dens, cosy basement playrooms—all built of Ten/Test Insulating Board.

Use Ten/Test, too, for cool summer homes. Remember—Ten/Test insulates, keeps out both heat and cold. Let your nearest Ten/Test dealer show you how quickly and inexpensively Ten/Test will give you more room, a more livable and attractive home.

TEN/TEST
INSULATING BUILDING BOARD

INTERNATIONAL FIBRE BOARD LIMITED • OTTAWA, ONT.

BE SURE TO COME TO THE HOME MAKERS' SCHOOL AND LEARN HOW MANY THINGS YOU CAN DO WITH TEN/TEST
Mrs. Nabor

ALL PARTICULARS ON TEN/TEST CAN BE OBTAINED FROM
ARTHUR A. SILLS CO.
237 FRONT ST. BELLEVILLE PHONE 1584

WE CARRY A FULL STOCK OF TEN/TEST BUILDING MATERIALS OF ALL KINDS
The HOUSTON Co., Limited
Established 1886 BELLEVILLE Phone 1677

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee

The King And Queen Directly After Their Coronation

A NEW life for George, now the Empire's King. Busy though he had been as an ambassador of good-will to the far-flung Empire, nevertheless the task of being King thrust upon him a work that tried even his strength and willingness.

Though he had been King for a year prior to his actual Coronation, it was really at this function that he embarked on his new career. He is seen in to-day's picture with his helpmeet, Queen Mary, after the coronation ceremony.

Hard and long though he worked, he always had the Queen to assist him; she devoted her life to the business of being Queen and history will record that she many times gave wise counsel to her husband, King George.

It is told of the King that once, when roaming through his garden at midnight, he met a gardener with whom he became friendly. The gardener asked him if he had to work hard. "Well," replied the King, "I started at six this morning, and I am just finishing now."

The task of being King is surely no sinecure!

NUMBER ATTEND SCHOOL 'AT HOME'

Nile's Corners—Mr. Elin Howarde of Wellington visited relatives here on Wednesday.

Miss Edna Dafoe of B.H.S. also Miss Alma Reid and two young lady friends of O.S.D. spent the week end at Harry Dafoe's.

Mr. G. Istead was a caller at the home of Mr. S. Mouroe, Rosehall, on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Ellis and Raymond visited Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clarke, Pleasant Bay on Sunday.

C. B. Clapp spent the weekend at Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bovay and children of Wellington were Sunday evening guests at A. N. Dafoe's.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Wannamaker and Jack of Trenton visited at H. Channell's on Tuesday.

Mrs. H. Channell spent Friday evening at Mr. W. Miller's, 3rd concession.

A number from here attended the at home at Wellington Consolidated School on Friday evening last.

Mrs. A. N. Dafoe attended Institute meeting at Mrs. Sherwin's, Hiller, on Thursday last.

Mr. Ben Ellis Sr., and Mrs. and Mrs. Earl Ellis were at Picton on Thursday.

Mrs. Will Ellis spent a day last week with her sister Mrs. Geo. Alexander, Pleasant Bay.

SCISSORS CAUSE INJURY TO EYE

Picton, The death occurred in Toronto on Sunday, Barch 24th of Gertrude Thornhill, beloved wife of Joseph P. Hamly, for many years a resident of Picton. For twenty years Mrs. Hamly was president of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Mary Magdalene's Church, Picton, and has many friends here. Surviving are her husband, a son Cyril Hamly, and a daughter Ruth (Mrs. Grover C. Norton) both of Toronto. The funeral service took place from her late residence, 126 Burgess Ave., to St. John's Norway Church, Toronto, on Tuesday, March 26th, arriving at Picton for burial in Glenwood cemetery at 3 p.m. The pall bearers at Picton were Colin Carter, J. H. Holmes, H. J. Ringer, H. B. Tully, Dr. Heaslip and Jno. Maher.

An aged and respected resident of Picton, Mr. Louis St. Peter, passed away at his late residence, Main St., West, on Sunday, March 24th. Surviving are his wife and a daughter, Mrs. A. Hogle. The funeral service was hel d at his late residence on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with interment in Waupoos cemeteryq.

When County Council meets on Tuesday stenographer for the office of the County Treasurer and a court stenographer will be appointed. Many applicants for these position have been taking tests in the County building recently.

The five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Kellogg of the Outlet, met with a serious accident, when a pair of scissors in the hands of another child, in some way came in contact with her eye, causing serious injury. She was rushed to hospital for treatment and every care is being taken in the hope of saving the sight of the eye.

Miss Blanche Van Gesen has been ill with measles.

SOCIAL EVENING ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

Mountain View—Mrs. Ross Burr spent Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Clarence Sprague and family.

Miss Mary Hamilton of Massassaga spent a few days last week with her parents Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Poste entertained at tea hour on Wednesday evening, the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. John Black, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Sprague and Misses Lillian Sprague, Elizabeth Jordan and Annie Blair.

The V. A. C. were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Barber on Wednesday night. The rooms were prettily arranged with spring blooms. Twelve tables enjoyed progressive euchre. The prizes were awarded to Miss Kathleen Montgomery and Mr. Jack Delong. The consolation prizes going to Miss Kathleen Giles and Mr. Henry Wallbridge.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by several of the Club. A short meeting was then held, the President Mr. Harmon Montgomery taking charge. Dancing was then enjoyed for the rest of the evening.

Mr. Chas. Lauder spent the tea hour on Thursday night with Mr. H. J. Parliament.

Rev. D. J. Campbell of Ameliasburg spent the tea hour on Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Jay Sprague.

Miss Pearl Hamilton spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Walbridge of Massassaga.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sprague of Big Island and Mr. Willet Cross of Christian St. spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sprague and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson spent the tea hour on Friday night with Miss Lillian Sprague.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sprague and Mr. Austin Sprague of Big Island visited Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Bristol on Sunday.

Miss Hazel Minaker spent the week end with her mother Mrs. Walter Minaker and family.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Vanwart spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Jones.

Miss Elizabeth Jordon spent a couple of days last week with her mother Mrs. A. J. Jordon and Mr. and Mrs. L. Goodwin of Cherry Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tucker of Sidney spent the dinner hour on Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Bristol and Miss Mary Bristol.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wood and Ronald spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Adams and family of Centre.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Parliament and Ralph of Kingston were Sunday visitors of the former's parents Mr. and Mrs. Hartford Parliament.

Mr. and Mrs. James Way and Lora of Bowerman's spent the dinner hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jay Sprague.

Mr. Murray Black and Miss Doris Black spent Saturday evening with Mr and Mrs. J. G. Sprague.

Confederation Life

If You Need the Largest Amount of Life Insurance Protection for the Lowest Possible Cost and you are in good health, with a good family history, and are not engaged in a hazardous occupation, you can get this protection by means of one of our Super-Select Policies. These policies are also written with Double Indemnity and Total Disability Benefits. Write now for particulars. You will find them most satisfactory. Address Confederation Life Association, Head Office, Toronto.

Association

Miss Lottie Poste of Trenton spent Sunday with her brother Mr. Alfred Poste.

Mr. and Mrs. John Carnes and family of Centre spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Vanwart and family.

Mrs. Durwood Conklin and children of Huff's Island spent Monday with Mrs. Russell Dickson.

WEEKLY PERSONALS FROM ROSSMORE

Rossmore—Mrs. Jno. Alyea entertained her sister of Maynooth over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Belnap spent Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. Gerow.

Mrs B. Bucke, Toronto is visiting her mother Mrs. F. Reddick.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Gerow spent Sunday with friends at Shannonville.

Mrs. S. Young returned from the hospital on Sunday.

Miss M. Smith, Belleville, spent Sunday at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Pearce, Belleville spent Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Reddick, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Alyea spent Saturday last in Picton.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Belnap and family, Belleville, spent Sunday evening with former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Belnap.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brickman spent Sunday at Consecon, the guests of Mrs. W. J. Babcock.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Cornell, Belleville visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Thompson on Sunday.

Miss Helen Weese spent Friday with her sister Mrs. Geo. Lebrash, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bovay Entertain Friends

Christian Street—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Calnan attended the funeral of her grandmother the late Mrs Ben Foster held at the home of her daughter Mrs. Stinson Chistie of Gilead.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Werden and family spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bovay and Georgia.

Messrs Harold Noxon and Harold Cross attended Lake Lodge at Ameliasburg on Monday evening.

Mrs. P. W. Roblin spent Tuesday with her daughter Mrs. Harold Cross and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Noxon spent Tuesday evening with Mr and Mrs. Stanley Werden.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Calnan spent Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cross.

Miss Marion and Nellie Werden spent the weekend with their grandparents Mr and Mrs. Harry Pooley of Bloomfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bovay entertained eighteen of their friends at a euchre party on Thursday evening and every one enjoyed a pleasant evening.

Quite a number from here attended the play at Crofton hall on Friday evening by Salmon Point players which was well worth seeing.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Calnan spent Saturday with her father Mr. Will Sine and Miss Marjorie Sine of Picton.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Burr and Ronal of Burr's spent Sunday with her parents Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Werden.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Parks and sons of Wellington Road spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cross and family.

Everyone was very sorry to hear that Mr. Neil Wood had been badly cut by a buzz saw and sympathise deeply with him in his misfortune.

THIS JOB REQUIRED REAL SKILL

Somebody in eastern United States ordered 15 cedar poles each more than 100 feet long from C. L. M. Giggey in Terrace, B.C. British Columbia had the trees, but how to get them out was a tough problem. However, Giggey was equal to the task and the above picture shows how he did it. He built up platforms on two trucks and contrived to get the poles down the steep and winding roads without a hitch.

Airstream DeSoto FOR AS LOW AS $1155
DELIVERED TO YOU IN BELLEVILLE

Skim over the hills in high . . . leap from the lights and away from traffic . . . travel sixty, seventy . . . eighty miles an hour with effortless ease . . . and power in reserve for even greater speeds.

On the streets of every city, on the road to everywhere DeSoto leads the style parade with dashing beauty, flashing style, that catches the eye and captures the imagination.

Enjoy the comfort of this great big roomy car . . . glide over the rough roads as smoothly as the boulevards. Speed in safety with DeSoto hydraulic brakes to bring you to a swift, sure, straight-line stop, and an all-steel body for real protection.

Get the greatest thrill of all . . . DeSoto style and comfort . . . DeSoto speed and stamina . . . all the thousands of miles of carefree DeSoto Airstream ownership . . . are priced within your reach.

See your DeSoto dealer today . . . get the facts about Airstream economy . . . Discover DeSoto for yourself . . . TODAY.

224 Pinnacle St. RIGGS MOTOR SALES Phone 116

"THE SMARTEST HATS IN TOWN" are always at Woodley's Furriers
271 Front Street

Personals

Mrs. R. E. Cole has returned from a business trip to Toronto.

Dr. Jack Marshall who underwent an operation for appendicitis in the Private Patients' Pavilion, Toronto General Hospital is progressing favourably.

Mrs. J. McC. Potts, of Stirling is visiting Mrs W. S MacTavish.

Mr. Gordon Hill who underwent an appendix operation is progressing favorably.

Mrs. Fred Bennett and her brother, Mr. Herbert Symons of Detroit, are in the city attending the funeral of their aunt, Miss Mattie Garrison.

Mr. Ivan G. Blackburn, 10 Dundas Street, was a visitor this week at the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago.

Mr. Roy Hay, Murney Street, underwent a serious operation in the Kingston General Hospital.

Mr. Bob Graham underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis yesterday in Belleville General Hospital and his condition is satisfactory.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Martin entertained last evening in honour of Mr. Adolph Wantroft and Mr. Reginald Geen after the concert in the Collegiate Auditorium.

An unusually interesting Dutch luncheon was given yesterday noon at Christ Church Hall to the members of the Woman's Auxiliary. The long table supervised by Mrs. Harold was topped with tulips and pussywillows. The affair was very simple and appetizing. Impromptu short speeches and toasts aided digestion. They were given by Mrs. Coulter, Mrs. Crozier, Mrs. Hinchey, Mrs. Vandervoort and Miss Way. After the friendly get-together all the ladies assisted at the quilting bee.

The weekly card party held last evening in the Moose Auditorium was well attended. Winners at euchre were ladies' first, Mrs. Brickman; second, Mrs. St. Louis; third, Mrs. Scott; fourth, Audrey Griffin; fifth, Olive Hadley; sixth, Pearl Asselstine; special, Mrs. Osler; men's first, Gerald Riggs; second, James Branton; third, William Easton; fourth, Lesmer Mason; fifth, P. E. Sevigny; sixth, A. J. Everett. Mrs. Connell won the rummy prize. After lunch, the Commodores played for dancing.

Obituary

NELSON R. ROOT—Napanee

Napanee, March 28 (CP)—Napanee's oldest resident, Nelson R. Root, died March 27th in his 93rd year. Throughout his long life he had enjoyed excellent health and death was due to old age. He was born in Prince Edward County in 1842, and had lived in Napanee 65 years. By trade he was a plasterer and helped construct many public buildings in the town, among them Trinity United Church. He was a veteran of the Fenian Raid for which he held a medal and had received a grant of land from the Government. He is survived by two sons and three daughters. One brother, 94 years old, lives in Michigan. Another brother died a few years ago in his 100th year.

Edwardsburg
CROWN BRAND
The Leading
CORN SYRUP
"THE FAMOUS ENERGY FOOD"
A product of The CANADA STARCH CO., Limited

Second Day of School Packs Capitol Theatre

Appetizing Odors Fill Theatre as Miss Andree, Lecturer, Demonstrates Preparation of Various Dishes of Food in Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School.

Eager home-makers made their way to the Capitol Theatre at an early hour Wednesday afternoon to ensure attendance at the second day's session of the Ontario Intelligencer Home-Making and Cooking School held this week under the direction of Miss Claire Andree, talented lecturer of the DeBoth Home-Maker's Schools. Many of the visitors arrived in good time to enjoy a chat before the class began, for so engrossing was the work of Miss Andree, that no one wished to have their attention distracted for one instant from the stage. Yesterday's audience was back again and there was as well a good number, who had profited by Tuesday's disappointment in arriving too late for a seat and were in plenty of time yesterday.

The hundreds of women who have heard Miss Andree continue to marvel at the skill of the young demonstrator. "We might be able to cook the things she does," one admiring home-maker confided after class "but to describe each operation and complete several demonstrations all at the same time......it's simply amazing!"

Welcomed by a storm of applause, Miss Andree came forward to begin the class promptly at one-thirty. As yesterday she prepared many appetizing dishes, conducted demonstrations in all manner of household tasks and chatted informally and sincerely about the various products, which are being featured in the School. Miss Andree was assisted by Miss Susie Denike and Miss Elsie Smith. Miss Andree's lecture sparkled with humour and her friendly intimate air made her audience feel entirely at home.

Many Met Lecturer

Several ladies lingered after class to meet Miss Andree, to discuss with her any special cooking problems and to comment on the success of the school.

"After Tuesday's class I went home and made three of the dishes you prepared" one prominent home-maker told Miss Andree "and every dish was simply delicious. I think I will make that Pecan pie for luncheon tomorrow." And how delighted Miss Andree was to learn, that such a keen interest was being taken in the class demonstrations.

The Pecan Pie was first prepared and Miss Andree's hints on the making of good pastry were greatly appreciated. For a successful pie she advised cold shortening, cold water, and quick mixing with the fingers to avoid the heat from the hands penetrating to the shortening. The rule of one to three.... one measure of shortening to three of flour. It is well to mix a quantity of pastry at one time, wrapping what is not to be used at once in waxed paper and storing it in the refrigerator.

A simple cocoa cake without eggs attracted considerable interest. For the icing, "snow white icing" was used and here Miss Andree had a helpful suggestion:

"So many times in making cakes or dishes requiring only the whites of eggs, you wonder what to do with the yolks, (you don't always wish to make sunshine cake, too). If you drop the yolk in boiling hot water until it is hard cooked you will have a supply on hand for salads, creamed eggs on toast and other favorites."

But these were only a few of the many delicious dishes prepared by Miss Andree and appetizing odours soon filled the theatre. Meat dishes, a salad, that was a delight to the eye, vegetables, nut bread, in fact hints for "year round recipes" were demonstrated and with each Miss Andree had many variations to suggest. The afternoon was indeed one of profit to the home-maker, who desires to give her family well-balanced, well cooked and attractive looking meals.

Latest Ideas Presented

The demonstrations of the afternoon were conducted in an interesting manner by Miss Andree, she presented to the audience the very latest ideas in the home-making methods. These operations were watched with close attention by the ladies present. One of the most interesting was that conducted by Mr. Wardle of the Beatty Bros., who showed how expertly even the most difficult ironing can be done on the Beatty Electric Ironer.

As an interlude in the School, the Style Show by the J. A. McNabb Limited was enthusiastically received by the audience. Again Mrs. A. Seymour, Miss Gladys Emerson, Miss McCaren, Mrs. J. Kerr and Mrs. M. Brooks modelled the lovely Spring fashions from this store and the millinery from Woodley's.

For almost immediate wear, the tweeds were charming, with navy blue fabric perhaps taking the lead over even the popular travel wraps. But black was not to be out done and a particularly handsome model had a detachable cape bordered with silver fox, which the mannequin showed, could be removed and worn as a peplum. The whole gamut of Spring suits, three quarter length coats, box jackets and the trim tailleur were shown, and patterned materials were much in evidence. The dresses were altogether delightful, the printed materials seeming to meet with special applause. But the evening dresses captured everyone's admiration. The Regency influence was again very apparent in the frills and frills, which go into Spring dance frocks. A fragile blue model with high collar and flowing sleeves, a black confection with an engaging "Pierrette" ruffle, a deeper blue trailing clouds of glorious ruffles, a rich red frock with stand up collar and cuffs and a sheer black chiffon completed the array. For street frocks and coats the hats from Woodley's were perfect examples of what the correct woman will seek in millinery and there appeared to be such variety of brims that the most exacting should be satisfied.

At the close of the class came the thrilling moment for the audience, the awarding of attendance prizes. In addition to the baskets and cookery, a lovely sewing cabinet, similar to Tuesday's was given. These were the gifts of the White Hardware Store, which features the Cilux products with which the smart articles were finished. Flour donated by the Mackenzie Company were also prized awards.

The names were drawn by Miss Susie Denike and the list of lucky Wednesday women is as follows:

Baskets of groceries were received by:—

Mrs. O. H. Scott, 144 Foster Avenue.
Mrs. P. G. Denike, 303 Ann St.
Miss Olive Knott, 7 Elm St.
Mrs. James S. Cooke, 227 Foster Avenue.
Mrs. A. Page, 116 Dundas St. West.
Mrs. E. Hutchinson, 136 Burnham.
Miss Florence Ayling, 144 Burnham.
Nora Armstrong, 26 Lime.
Miss Helen Findlay, 217 Foster.
Mrs. A. A. Wilson, 147 Church Street.
Mrs. Martin Nephan, 280 Coleman Street.
Miss Helen Redner, Belleville, R. R. No. 1
Miss Elsie Forman, 120 Victoria.
Mrs. J. Haines, Point Anne.
Mrs. Frank Young, 284 Albert.
Mrs. R. Muncaster, 72 Burton St.
Mrs. W. J. Irvine, 83 Chatham Street.
Mrs. W. Anderson, 40 North Front St.
Mrs. W. A. Woodley, 56 Catharine Street.
Mrs. H. R. Hunt, R. R. No. 3 Belleville.
Miss Eleanor Thrasher, 113 Cannifton Road.
Mrs. G. O'Brien, 5 Grove Street.
Mrs. N. Williamson, 39 Pine St.
Mrs. T. H. Marshall, 60 Emily.
Mrs. Florence Moon, 43 Highland Ave.

24 lb bag Five Roses —Mrs. J. H. Quigley, Dundas East.
24 lb. bag Ladies' Favourite—Mrs. W. O'Brien, 128 South John St.
Table Bouquet — Mrs. John Meagher, 9 Octavia Street.
Nut Bread—Mrs. T. D. Ruston, 28 Cedar Street.
Veal Chops—Mrs. J. Hunter, 101 Cedar Street.
Baked Fish—Mrs. E. Bell, 60 Burton Street.
Sewing Cabinet, (White Hardware)—L. Leggett, 192 Moira St. West.

Here's How Use
The Palmer Jewel Shop
CONVENIENT TIME PAYMENT PLAN
and
TRADE IN YOUR OLD WATCH
THE SENATOR

15-jewel Bulova
$24.75
LADY BULOVA

Bulova's Special Offer
A BAGUETTE
Set with 2 diamonds
$39.75
T.M.PALMER
26 Bridge St. East

Giant Epic of Romantic Adventure!
LESLIE HOWARD
in
"THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL"
BELLE - SATURDAY

USE ALL THE MAKE-UP YOU WISH, MY DEAR, BUT PLEASE LET US BREATHE! SAY THOUSANDS OF TINY PORES

When you remove cosmetics the Hollywood way, you guard against unattractive Cosmetic Skin . . .

POWDER and rouge every day? Skin delicate? Even then there's no need to worry about getting unattractive Cosmetic Skin.

Even though you may already have detected warning signals—tiny blemishes, enlarging pores, blackheads, perhaps—you can guard against this modern complexion trouble the Hollywood way.

Lux Toilet Soap is made to remove cosmetics thoroughly. Its ACTIVE lather sinks deeply into the pores, carries away every vestige of dust, dirt, stale cosmetics. Before you apply fresh make-up—ALWAYS before you go to bed—remove stale make-up thoroughly with Lux Toilet Soap. Protect your skin—keep it lovely.

DeBoth Homemakers' School sponsors Lux Toilet Soap

Lux Toilet Soap is kind to your hands, too . . . keeps them smooth and white. That's why Miss Claire Andree always has a cake handy in the kitchen of the DeBoth Homemakers' School. Why not follow her example? Keep Lux Toilet Soap in your kitchen too!

LUX TOILET SOAP
You can use Cosmetics as freely as you wish, if you guard your skin as I do—with gentle Lux Toilet Soap
ELISSA LANDI

$355,012 IN DEBT

Los Angeles, March 28—(AP)—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was fyled in U. S. District Court by Jamk Mulhall, screen actor, who listed defts of $355,012.26 and assets of $6,040. Mulhall was a star of the silent film days, but almost dropped from sight with the advent of the talkies.

KIDNAPPING THREATENED

Philadelphia, March 28—(AP)—Boake Carter, radio news commentator, revealed that he received four letters threatening kidnapping if he failed to pay $5,000. Agents of the Department of Justice have been investigating the case for several weeks.

Carter said he reveiced the first letter nearly two months ago.

BETTERMENT IN FIJI

Victoria, March 28—(CP)— Conditions in the Fiji Islands are improving, Sir Murchison Fletcher, Governor said here on his arrival enroute to London for the jubilee celebrations. In addition to better economic conditions, great hopes were held for development of newly discovered gold-mining areas.

Birth Disclosed of Siamese Twins

Ostrova, Czechoslovakia, March 28—(AP)—The birth of "Siamese" twins at nearby Peterhofen was disclosed yesterday.

The wife of a miner named Barabas gave birth Wednesday to a boy and a girl, joined together in the region of the stomach, but otherwise normal.

Recipes in Wednesday's Cooking School

VEAL CHOPS, ORLEANS

4 veal chops (rib)
salt and pepper
½ onion
dry mustard
ring of green pepper
1 cup broken noodles
2 cups tomato puree
2 cups water

METHOD: Sprinkle chops well with salt, pepper and dry mustard, then sear them in a generous amount of hot fat in a large fry pan. Lay slices of onion and green pepper on the browned chops; sprinkle on the noodles; add puree and water; cover and cook about 45 minutes.

Remove chops to platter, pour the pan gravy over them. Green beans or cauliflower make an attractive accompaniment.

ENGLISH BREAD PUDDING

½ loaf day old bread
1 pint milk
4 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons sugar
3 eggs
2 tablespoons lemon juice
raspberry jam

METHOD: Heat bread in milk, until softened, then beat well with a fork. Cream butter, add sugar, well beaten egg yolks and lemon juice. Add to bread and milk; mix thoroughly and turn into well greased casserole. Bake in moderate oven until brown. Spread with jam. Make meringue of egg whites and 6 tablespoons sugar beaten to stiff froth. Put on pudding and brown in oven.

PECAN PIE

3 eggs
⅙ cup sugar
1 cup light syrup
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon almond few grains salt
1 cup pecan halves

METHOD: Beat eggs until very frothy. Then beat in sugar, syrup, extracts and salt. Pour into unbaked pastry shell. Then add pecans. Bake 10 minutes in hot oven (400 degrees F.), reduce to moderate (350 degrees F.), and continue baking until filling is set.

A SIMPLE COCOA CAKE

½ cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup cocoa
1 cup hot water
1 teaspoon soda
3½ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1¼ teaspoons salt
½ cup sour milk
½ teaspoon almond
1 teaspoon vanilla

METHOD: Cream shortening and sugars. Add cocoa blended with ½ the hot water, and soda added to the remainder of the water. Next add sifted dry ingredients and lastly beat in sour milk, almond and vanilla. Bake in 7 x 10 oblong pan in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 35 minutes.

Cover with "Snow White Icing": 1 egg, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, icing sugar to thicken.

APPLE SAUCE ICE

2 cups sweetened apple sause
¼ cup chopped nuts
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup chopped raisins
½ teaspoon nutmeg

METHOD: Mix all ingredients, pack into tray of mechanical refrigerator and let stand 6 hours.

COFFEE DEMONSTRATION

COONCORDIA NUT BREAD

3 cups flour
3½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup sugar
2 eggs
½ cup milk
½cup pineapple juice
2/3 cup crushed pineapple
½ cup nut meats
3 tablespoons melted shortening.

METHOD: Sift dry ingredients into a bowl, beat eggs, add milk, juice and fruit and stir into flour mixture. Stir in nuts and shortening. Turn into greased loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 40 minutes, advance heat to hot over (425 degrees F.), and continue baking for 10 minutes. Remove from pan to cool.

A PLEASURE BOAT

1 large banana
ice cream

METHOD: Select a large, firm banana. Remove a section of the skin, being careful not to tear the ends of the skin. Take out the fruit and then fill the shell with ice cream. Top with a sail (cut out of paper). Children will enjoy this.

BAKED FISH WITH PEANUTS

3 tablespoons shortening
3 tablespoons flour
salt, pepper, cayenne
3 cups hot milk
1½ cups flaked fish
1¼ cups peanuts
3 hard-cooked eggs
fine biscuit crumbs

METHOD: Blend shortening with flour, add salt, pepper and a few grains of cayenne. Stir in hot milk; cook over hot water. When thickened, stir in the fish finely chopped peanuts and minced eggs. Turn into baking dish, cover with crumbs and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for 15-20 minutes.

GLAZED HAM WITH SWEET POTATOES

10 pork sausages
5 slices cold boiled ham
3-4 sweet potatoes
pecans
1½ cups maple syrup

METHOD: Wrap 2 pork sausages (if small) in a slice of ham and fasten with a toothpick. Place in a shallow pan and brown in hot oven (425 degrees F.). Drain off fat. Boil, cool and peel the sweet potatoes and cut them in half lengthwise. Arrange flat side down in a large baking dish, alternating with ham rolls. Place two or three pecans on each sweet potato and pour on about ½ teaspoon of the drained fat. Bring syrup to a boil and pour on sweet potatoes. Bake ½ hour in moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Baste potatoes occasionally with syrup.

BROCCOLI AU GRATIN

3 cups cooked broccoli
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
½ cup mild cheese, grated

METHOD: Broccoli resembles green cauliflower. Remove all dead leaves. Soak in slightly salted water to remove insects and dirt. Drop broccoli into boiling salted water, using just enough water to cover. Cook rapidly in open kettle until tender — 10 to 15 minutes is sufficient. Drain and place in greased baking dish. Cover with white sauce made of butter, flour, salt, pepper and milk. Sprinkle cheese over top and place in moderate oven until cheese melts. Serve hot.

EMERALD SALAD MOULD

2 envelopes plain gelatine
½ cup cold water
3¼ cups boiling water
3 tablespoons lemon juice
crisp lettuce
green fruit coloring
cucumber slices unpeeled
1 cup cucumber pulp
salt, pepper, paprika
flaked salmon salad

METHOD: Soak the gelatine in cold water, dissolve with boiling water. Add lemon juice, a little salt, and green coloring until a rich emerald. Set aside to cool until it starts to jell. Rinse a ring mould, and line sides of it with scalloped cucumber slices, then pour in ½ of the gelatine mixture and allow to set. To remaining gelatine, add cucumber pulp, salt, pepper and paprika. Pour over gelatine in mould. When set, turn onto bed of crisp lettuce. Fill center with a well seasoned salmon salad.

WASHING DEMONSTRATION

WHITER CLOTHES — EASIER WASHDAYS

Sprinkle granulated soap into tub or washer. Add lukewarm water and stir a few seconds. You don't need hot water. You will be delighted with the creamy, billowing suds. After using once or twice, you can easily estimate how much soap is needed (it's really very little) for rich suds, which last even after the clothes are put in. White clothes should be soaked an hour or two — or overnight. If there are badly soiled spots, sprinkle a little granulated soap on them, roll the garment and push it well under water.

Then by sousing the clothes up and down by hand, or by letting a washing machine tumble them about, the dirt is quickly loosened, so that it is flushed away with little or none of the rubbing which used to wear clothes threadbare.

Rinsing should be done three times; twice in hot water, once in cold. Color-fast clothes should be soaked 15 to 20 minutes only in lukewarm to cold water, and always washed and rinsed in lukewarm to cold water.

TEA DEMONSTRATION

PRUNE FLUFF

½ lb. prunes
2 cups cold water
2/3 cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon cloves
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons orange juice
½ cup chopped nuts
1 egg white

METHOD: Soak prunes until soft, then remove pits. Cook until tender. Add sugar and spices; simmer 15 minutes; add cornstarch, moistened with orange juice; cook until thickened. Cool, fold in stiffly beaten egg white and serve in sherbet glasses. Top with whipped cream if desired.

HOUSEHOLD INSULATION-CLASS DISCUSSION

The use of modern insulation in the home — its saving of fuel costs, contributions to health, comfort and the attractiveness of the home — discussed daily in the school.

DEMONSTRATION OF ENAMELLING

Gay touches of enamel make your home bright and cheerful, give it distinction.

Smoothly enamelled surfaces are easily kept clean. This is important to you, as a home-maker.

The use and easy application of (QUICK-DRYING) Enamel will be demonstrated.

GUARD THE FAMILY HEALTH
Remember—there are many white tissues, but only one WHITE SWAN

For protection, you need more than just a white tissue, you need a safe tissue . . . one that is downy soft, pure, absorbent and sterilized. Choose White Swan, the quality white tissue . . . a tissue that will grace your bathroom . . . a tissue that will protect your health.. Full value rolls of 750 sheets, dustproof wrapped . . . also recess size.

THE E. B. EDDY CO. LIMITED
Kingston Branch 133 Ontario Street

EDDY'S STERILIZED WHITE SWAN TISSUE
2 for 25¢
PURE STERILIZED

Read the Classified Rental Property Listing on this Page

Business Directory

AUTO LOANS

AND REFINANCING
Direct with Owner Car Financing of All Kinds.
S. J. FISHER & SON
30 Bridge St. East Telephone 165
Representing
Campbell Auto Finance Co. Ltd.
Toronto - Ottawa - London - Windsor

CHIROPRACTOR

R. A. WYATT, Ph.C., SPECIAL EXAMination with the Radioclast reveals all diseases in the early stages. Foot disorders corrected — all diseases treated. Phone 900 or write 288 Coleman St., Belleville.

VERA B. PITCHER, CHIROPRACTOR, and H. B. Pitcher, Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment, Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations and Electrical Treatments. 42½ Bridge St. E., Belleville, Ont., Phone 1274.

DENTIST

DR. ROBT. H. EMPSON
DENTIST
X-Ray
Phone 462 249½ Front St.
17-3m

RADIO SERVICE

JOHN A. DEWAR
RADIO TECHNICIAN
Registered — Graduate
145 John St. Phone 217
a1-tf

SURVEYORS

FRASER AYLESWORTH
Ontario Land Surveyor and Registered Professional Civil Engineer. Land Surveys, Plans and Descriptions, Etc., promptly attended to.
PHONE 6 — P. O. BOX 60
MADOC, ONT.

INSURANCE

Protect yourself against accidents with our Automobile Insurance
SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
Life and Fire Insurance
251 Front St Phone 120

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile, Accident and Plate Glass
278 Front St. Phone 1154-W

STOCKS & BONDS

DOGAN AND CRAWFORD, MEMBERS of Toronto Stock Exchange. Phone 1128. F. H. Wills, branch manager. N5-1y

LEGAL

MALCOLM WRIGHT, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Etc. Office; Campbell St., Belleville.

T. Y. WILLS, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Etc. 15 Campbell St., Belleville. Telephone 74. m4-tf

PORTER, PAYNE AND ARNOTT, BARristers, Solicitors and Notaries Public. Chas. A. Payne, K.C. R. D. Arnott. Offices: 219 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

PONTON AND GRAHAM, BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Commissioners. Office: 28 Bridge St. East. Solicitors, Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages. W. N. Ponton, K.C. R. J. E. Graham. Office: Belleville.

DONNAN AND BUTLER, B. C. Donnan, K.C., E. O. Butler, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public and Commissioners. Offices: Court House Building, Belleville, Ont. Phone 238.

WALLBRIDGE, CAMERON AND CO. (Successors to the late F. S. Wallbridge). Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries. Money to loan. Dominion Bank Building, corner Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ontario.

Fine Brick House — Excellent stables and about seven acres of good land.

For Sale

On Moira River, near Lazier's Old Mill, Cannifton Road. Residence of the late Geo. I. Thomas.

LOW PRICE

BELLEVILLE LOCATORS
Geo. N. Gorman, Prop.
166 Front St.
Phone 99 House Phone 637

BUY NOW! AND MAKE WORK

PHONE 99
Classified Ad. Rates

SOCIAL NOTICES—Births, 50c; Marriages and Engagement Notices, $1.00; Deaths and Funeral Notices, $1.00; In Memoriam, $1.00; Memoriam Poetry, minimum charge, $1.00 for 10 lines, over that 10c per count line; Ladies' Receiving Announcements, minimum charge, 75c.

CLASSIFIED — (For Sale, Wanted, Etc.)—1½c per word each for first TWO insertions, subsequent insertions 1c per word, minimum 30 words.

COMING EVENTS—75c per insertion for 25 words or under, over that amount 3c per word.

PROFESSIONAL, LEGAL AND BUSINESS CARDS (Yearly Contract)—$3.00 per month per inch.

OFFICIAL, MUNICIPAL AND GOVERNMENT NOTICES (including those concerning Legal Sales)—15c per agate line (14 lines to inch) for first insertion; 10c per line for subsequent insertions.

AUCTION SALE—3c per word, heading to count as 12 words minimum 25 words for 75c; consecutive insertions, 3c per word.

An initial or figure counts as one word.

In estimating allow five words to the line.

Telephone your Want Ads when it is more convenient. PHONE 99.

The Ontario Intelligencer will not be responsible for more than one insertion of an incorrect ad. Phone us if it is wrong.

Advertisers may have their replies addressed to Box Number care of the Ontario Intelligencer.

WANTED

FIVE MEN WANTED TO SELL ELECtric washers, refrigerators, etc. Small salary plus commission. Call evenings only 364 Front. M28-1t

TO RENT A HOUSE WITH CONVENiences, west side preferred. Phone 145r4. M28-1t

TO RENT TWO FURNISHED OR UNfurnished rooms by the middle of April. Write Box "L" Ontario Intelligencer. M28-3t

AGENTS WANTED

SPRING'S SMARTEST LINE OF ladies' made-to-measure Knitwear will provide you with a steady income. Write at once for complete details of our liberal commission, no collecting, no delivery sales plan. British Knitwear, Simcoe, Ontario. M28 A4 11

RELIABLE COUPLE REQUIRE FIVE or six roomed house, conveniences, April 30, reasonable. Box "D" Ontario Intelligencer. M27-3t

EMPLOYMENT WANTED BY MAN with twenty years accounting experience. Small or large business. Offers ability and experience for moderate salary. Box "J" Ontario Intelligencer. M26-3t

BY MAY 1—SMALL HOUSE OR APARTment, no children, rent must be reasonable. Apply stating terms and full particulars to Box "S" Ontario Intelligencer. M26-3t

FOR SALE

SIX PIECE BREAKFAST SUITE USED six months. Less than half price. Also drop leaf table. 205 Charles, near Bridge. M28-3t

QUANTITY OF HAY, APPROXIMATEly 12 ton. Also two Durham cows, to close an estate. Apply Jas. Wims, Corbyville, executor of estate of Garret Foley. M28-3t

WHOLESALE DISTRIBUTING BUSIness including one '34 Chevrolet 1½ ton panel truck. Will sell truck separately and accept a trade in what offers. Phone 1736. M28-3t

15' CEDAR SKIFF, JOHNSTONE OUTboard motor. Apply 233 Station street. M28-3t

TIMOTHY AND ALFALFA. APPLY John Ross, Corbyville, Route 1, Box 54. M25 28

FIELD PEAS, O.A.C. 181; OATS, 144, yield last year over eighty bus. to acre; Barley, O.A.C. 21, from reg'd. seed, two years. Cash with order. Samples and price on request. W. T. Mullett, Moira, Ont. M21 28

PIPELESS FURNACE, GUARANTEED as new. Bargain price. Can be seen at 210 Church street. Phone 2005. M27-4t

STUDEBAKER SEDAN IN GOOD CONdition, cheap. Apply 265 Front street. M27-3t

200 ACRES FARM, HYDRO, GOOD buildings, waterfront, cheap, part cash. Apply owners, Sandercock Bros. and Jackson, Hillier. M27-3t

35-FOOT MOTOR BOAT, OPEN MODEL, 40-60 h.p., Scripps Motor. Disappearing propeller motor boat. Cordwood sawing outfit complete with Fairbanks engine, 30" saw. Saunders Marine Service, phone 996. M27-2t

ONE NEWCOMBE PIANO IN GOOD condition will sell at $54.50. Weaver's Music Store, 214 Front street. M27-2t

BEAUTIFUL RED TABBY PERSIAN cat, male, registered; also Boston Bull pup, house broken, cheap to a good home. Phone Mrs. Pearson, 1606-J. M27-3t

$225.00 CASH BUYS SMALL WOODworking establishment complete with band saw, lathe, drills, etc. Has business connection. Owner leaving city. Occupation April 15, 1935. Apply 166 George street. M26-3t

6 NORTH STRACHAN STREET — Estate of Mrs. Shappee. Apply W. O. Black, 166 William. M26-3t

AUCTION SALE

I will sell by public auction on Monday, April 1, at 2 o'clock, No. 46-48 Alexander street on the premises. This is a first class dwelling.

S. J. FISHER, Auctioneer.
M28-3t

Exciting, Grand Romantic Entertainment!
LESLIE HOWARD
in
"THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL"
BELLE - SATURDAY

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. MacFarlane wish to express to their friends and neighbors their sincere thanks and appreciation for the sympathy and many kindnesses extended to them during the long illness and death of the latter's mother, Mrs. Ross. M28-1t

IN MEMORIAM

HILL—In loving memory of dear grandmother, Mary Jane Hill, who passed away on March 28, 1934.

To-day recalls sad memories
Of a dear grandmother gone to rest
And the one who thinks
Of her today is the one
Who loved her best.

Remembered by Grandson, Harold Hill. M28-1t

TICKELL & BROWNE
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
We Serve for Less
FUNERAL HOME
Corner Church St. and Victoria Ave. Phone 2235

Thomas C. Thompson
Funeral Director
Funeral Home
38 Everett St. Phone 83
Office
288 Front St. Phone 82

BELLEVILLE BURIAL COMPANY
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
27 Campbell St.
Phone 774-W Day and Night
J. W. IMLAH
Proprietor
Mausoleum Crypts For Sale

SPECIAL SALE
Used Tires, all sizes, $2.00 up
USED TIRE SHOP
391½ Front Street
Opposite Upper Bridge

THE BAY OF QUINTE FIRE INSURANCE CO.

Pays you the full amount of loss and gives you insurance at cost.
NEW BUSINESS for 1934 reached the surprising sum of $1,442,065.00.

Write or phone
C. W. BURR
Office: 311 Front St.
Residence: 18 Bellevue Apts.
Phone 2306J

TO LET

SMALL HOUSE 30 CEDAR STREET, 29 Isabel, also small apartment on Front street. Apply 265 Front street. M27-3t

SIX ROOM HOUSE, MODERN CONveniences, immediate possession. Apply 7 South Park street. M27-2t

75 NORTH FRONT STREET — SEVEN rooms. All conveniences. Apply 71 East Moira. M27-3t

THREE ROOMS, HEATED AND FURnished for light house-keeping. All conveniences. Apply 176 Foster Ave. M26-TF

208 GEORGE STREET — 8 ROOMS, conveniences except furnace, double garage. Possession April 1. Apply W. J. Hall, 278 Front street, phone 1154w. M14-TF

TREASURER'S SALE OF LANDS

City of Belleville in the County of Hastings in the Province of Ontario

To Wit:

By virtue of a warrant issued by the Mayor of the City of Belleville bearing date the eleventh day of February 1935, sale of lands in arrears of Taxes in the City of Belleville will be held in the Council Chambers, City Hall, Belleville at the hour of ten o'clock in the morning of the eighteenth day of June 1935, unless the taxes and costs are sooner paid. Notice is hereby given that the list of lands for sale for arrears of taxes is being published in The Ontario Gazette on the second day of March, the sixth day of April and on the fourth day of May 1935, and that copies of the said list may be had at my office.

Treasurer's office this seventh day of March 1935.

H. B. STOCK, Treasurer.
M21 28 A4 11 18 25 M2 9 16 23 30 J6 13

Leslie Howard starred in the romantic adventure drama "The Scarlet Pimpernel" coming to the Belle, Saturday.

At J. B. HARKERS'

NU IDEA GROCETERIA

185 FRONT ST. FREE DELIVERY PHONE 175

FREE 1 Kit of KELLOGG'S SAMPLES FREE with 3 Pkgs. Kellogg's Cornflakes for 25c

Quaker Oat Puff
The New Cereal
10c pkg.

Kellogg's New Cereal
Wheat and Rice KRISPIES
2 for 25c

Crosse and Blackwell
TOMATO CATSUP ....2 for 25c
Brunswick
SARDINES .... 6 tins 25c
KING'S PLATE SALMON
Choice Red Cohoe .... lb. tin 19c
This is a Special
Crosse and Blackwell
TOMATO SOUP .... 2 tins 13c
CREAMERY BUTTER
2 lbs. for 49c

Crosse and Blackwell's JAMS and ORANGE MARMALADE
40 oz. Jars 31c
FRESH SHELLED WALNUTS
(Halves) .... half lb. 19c
CORN, TOMATOES and PEAS
3 tins (one of each) 25c
5 LBS. ROLLED OATS 19c
FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES IN SEASON

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL
"Limehouse Blues"
Thrilling Love Story With George Raft and Anna May Wong in Leading Roles!

The sinister charm of George Raft, the sensuous, bamboo-like beauty of Anna May Wong and the wistful loveliness of Jean Parker, in the leading roles of "Limehouse Blues", now at the Capitol Theatre, combine to make this film of the famous London underworld a picture of unusual excellence force and drama.

The story itself is concerned with the fall of a clan chieftain, Harry Young, who is a power in the underworld along the foggy Thames. Though outwardly a law-abiding man, owner of the Lily Garden Cafe, the haunt of natives and tourists, he is a smuggler and dealer in contraband silk. He is in himself a dramatic character, with turbulent feelings in his breast, torn between his devotion to beautiful Chinese dancer and love for Cockney street girl. He is of the East and also of the West, and is a man harassed by contrary ideals. Evil destiny steps close on his heels, he is betrayed and makes the grand sacrifice.

There is much of the genuine mystic symbolism in the story and this is made concrete by the ritual homage he pays to the Buddha-like joss that smiles serenely through all these calamities.

This Buddha is deliberately utilized as an actor, mute but of major importance. Raft gives a highly personalized study of Harry Young as the devotee of this god. He pays homage to it with age-old ceremony, with incense, gifts of wine, rice and grain in separate bowls, to the sonorous music of the gong.

Inexorable fate is personified in the figure of Inspector Sheridan of Scotland Yard, urbane unobtrusive but steady on the chase as a scent-led hound. And what gives the chase its feeling of mystery is the fog with the dark river in the background, the rhythmic weaving of Oriental characters, the strange life of the dwellers of Limehouse, deep in the shadow of their alleys and burrows. Great effort was made to establish a setting, authentic in detail and fantastic in spirit, and to depict in a novel and moving way the moral that in time right will seek its vengeance.

Featured with George Raft in "Limehouse Blues" are Jean Parker, Anna May Wong, Kent Taylor and Montagu Love.

"GRIDIRON FLASH"

The loyal alumnus who meddles in his college football affairs long after graduation, an iron-willed coach, a campus beauty who is an inspiration to the lagging players, and an ex-convict, fresh from athletic triumphs within prison walls, are principals in "Gridiron Flash", said by the critics to rate near the top among features woven around the glory of the gridiron.

Making a man out of the ex-bank robber is said to prove no easy task, and when the young bandit finally stands the real test, after playing dirty football, turning yellow and harking back to his old gangster days through thievery, an audience has witnessed red action, tense drama and heart-tugging scenes.

Eddie Quillan has the role of the baby-face bandit, while Betty Furness is the force that keeps him from running out on college life and joining his gang in Philadelphia. Several pigskin skirmishes feature the production with members of a California eleven taking part. In the cast are Grant Mitchell, Lucien Littlefield, Edgar Kennedy, Grady Sutton, Joseph Sauers, Clarence Wilson, Alan Wood, Dick Stewart, Eddie Baker and Walter Brennan.

Capitol News Reel will be shown at each performance.

Complete show 7.00 and 9.05.

AT THE BELLE
"After Office Hours"
Combines Comedy, Mystery and a Delightful Romance

Speed, action and romance are the high points of "After Office Hours" new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production at the Belle today and Friday, matinee and evening.

A fast moving story of adventurous romance, it deals with a society murder-mystery against a background of modern-day newspaper life.

Two famous stars, never teamed before, share honors. They are Clark Gable and Constance Bennett, who are slated to go a long way as a team. Indications are that they will follow in the foot-steps of the famous Crawford-Gable and Shearer-Gable combination, so popular with fans.

Hardboiled Editor

In this film, Gable plays a hardboiled newspaper editor who is determined to get his story even though it requires the tactics of the Northwest Mounted. Constance Bennett plays his beautiful society reporter and romantic nemesis.

When the editor, out to "break" a threatening scandal, runs into a cold-blooded murder, excitement begins. Unlike most murder-mysteries, the audience knows who is the murderer, then enjoys watching the mystery unravelled by a trained newspaper investigator.

The co-stars enjoy the support of a brilliant featured cast, which includes Stuart Erwin as Gable's uncomprehending photographer, Billie Burke as Miss Bennett's socialite mother who can't differentiate between a 'scroop' and a "scoop", Harvey Stephen's as the handsome "other man", Katharine Alexander as a neurotic dowager, Charles Richman as the publisher and Hale Hamilton as the man falsely accused.

Pace and Suspense

Robert Z. Leonard, the director who has a smash hit at least once every year, has begun early. The pace, suspense and smooth flow of the new picture reflect vastly to his credit.

Wears Stunning Gowns

Other innovations are the gowns worn by Miss Bennett, a brilliant wardrobe designed by Adrien and likely to set the styles for the new season.

Four entertaining and varied short treats precede the feature offering and include Belle Pictorial, a funny and original Joe Cook comedy, a fast-paced Novelette, and Red Nichols and his Million dollar pennies in a smart Revue. Performances commences daily at 2.30, 7.10, 9-10, the feature presentation commencing at 3.10, 7.50 and 9.50 p.m.

OLD PHOTOGRAPHY HAD ITS TROUBLES

Belleville Photographer Tells of Trials in Studios Over 50 Years Ago

Established over fifty years ago, McCormick's Photograph Studio is one of the oldest businesses. Though he established it over half a century ago, Mr. Robert McCormick is still closely interested in the business with his son Mr. W. Ernest McCormick who as a boy began his apprenticeship in the art under the direction of his father.

In an upstreet location for many years, the studio has just been removed to 216 1-2 Front Street where the appointments are of the finest.

Founder of one of the oldest business institutions in Belleville, Mr. Robert McCormick was today busy at his favorite art but laughingly admitted that owing to his years he was not able to work as hard as he used to in the past. Conversation turned to the rapid developments in photography which were not only changing the face of social life over fifty years ago but also today are making vast strides. Mr. Ernest McCormick referred to the new supersensitive film which made it almost possible to "snapshot" in a studio under the skylight today. This type of film or plate is so sensitive that an exposure of fifteen seconds is all that is necessary to photograph a store at night with its own artificial light.

The father, Mr. Robert McCormick, became reminiscent. Smilingly he told of photographing ordeals fifty some years ago when a visit to a studio was a real undertaking. "We would place the sitter in the chair and give the subject a head rest and wait for twenty or thirty minutes while the exposure was being made. The sitter had to sit as still as possible.

"Naturally under these conditions people did not go in so much for expression in photography as they do today," Mr. McCormick laughed.

He also recalled the days when the tintype was in vogue. These pictures which cause mirth and smiles today drew the smile of Mr. McCormick as he recalled the slow methods in photography in those days.

The McCormick studio is an eastern Ontario institution. According to Mr. W. Ernest McCormick, there is a large clientele from as far as Oshawa on the west and Napanee and Kingston on the east, while from the villages and countryside of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties the name of the studio is well known.

ROEBUCK
ON HYDRO
CFRB—690 Kilocycles
TONIGHT 10.30 - 11 p.m.
M26-27-28-29

"Buy at the HOME of FINE LINENS"

A Guarantee of Satisfaction

Headquarters for
John S. Brown
& SONS, LIMITED, BELFAST, IRELAND
Shamrock Linens

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE at the Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School this week heartily seconds the statement by John S. Brown and Sons:

"CHARM IN EVERY PIECE OF SHAMROCK LINENS."

Towels Bed Linens
Luncheon Sets
Damask Cloths

—WE INVITE YOUR INSPECTION —

McINTOSH BROS.
257 Front St. Belleville Phone 802

RADIO PROGRAMS

THURSDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ
10.30—Mrs. Aitken and Horace Lapp—CFRB
10.30—Banjoleers and Radio Sweethearts—WGY
11.00—Galaxy of Stars—WBEN
11.15—Tony Wons—WJZ
11.30—The Carnival—WBEN
11.30—Navy Band—WJZ
1.15—Radio Gossip Club—WGR
2.00—Music Guild—WJZ
2.00—Temple Bells; Int'l. Broadcast from Budapest—WEAF
3.00—Castles of Romance—WJZ
3.00—Roadways of Romance—WABC
3.15—Little Symphony—WJZ
4.00—Betty and Bob, drama—WJZ
4.15—Salvation Army Band—WABC
6.30—Jim Hunter, News—CFRB
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.15—Gems of Melody—WJZ
7.30—Dixie Dandies—WEAF
7.45—College Prom.; Ruth Etting, songs; Red Nichols' Orch.—WJZ
8.00—Rudy Vallee—WEAF
8.00—"Hour of Charm"—Phil Spitalny's Girl Ensemble WABC
8.30—"Red Trails," serial—WJZ
8.30—Forum of Liberty, Edwin C. Hill—WABC
8.45—Kay Kyser's Orch.—WGN
9.00—Show Boat—WEAF
9.00—Death Valley Days, drama—WJZ
9.00—Neilson Program—CFRB
9.00—Glen Gray's Orch.—WABC
9.30—Fred Waring's Orch.—WABC
9.30—Unsolved Mysteries—WLW
10.00—Paul Whiteman's Music Hall—WEAF
10.00—Melodic Strings—WJZ
10.30—Captain Dobbsie's Ship of Joy—WABC
11.00—News—CFRB
11.00—Little Jack Little's Orch.—WABC
11.30—Eddie Duchin's Orch.—WJZ
12.00—Herbie Kay's Orch.—WABC

FRIDAY

9.30—Grand National Steeplechase Aintree—WABC
10.30—Mrs. Aitken and Horace Lapp—CFRB
11.00—Music Appreciation Hour, Walter Damrosch—WEAF
11.30—Army Band—WABC
1.15—Radio Gossip Club—WGR
1.30—Rex Battle's Concert Orch.—CRCT
2.30—"Kitchen Party"—WEAF
3.15—Minneapolis Symphony—WABC
4.00—Betty and Bob, sketch—WJZ
6.30—News, Jim Hunter—CFRB
7.00—Myrt and Marge—WABC
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.15—Plantation Echoes, Mildred Bailey—WJZ
7.15—Stories of the Black Chambers—WEAF
7.30—Red Davis—WJZ
7.45—Uncle Ezra's Radio Station—WEAF
8.00—Irene Rich—WJZ
8.00—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt—WABC
8.00—Concert, Jessica Dragonette, WEAF
8.15—To be announced—WJZ
8.15—Edwin C. Hill, news—WABC
8.30—Court of Human Relations—WABC
8.30—Al Goodman's Orch.—WJZ
8.30—Musical Memory Book—WOR
9.00—Waltz Time, Frank Munn, tenor; Abe Lyman's Orchestra—WEAF; WTAM
9.00—March of Time—WABC
9.00—Beatrice Lillie, comedienne—WJZ
9.30—Phil Baker—WJZ
9.30—Hollywood Hotel, Joe E. Brown, guest—WABC
9.30—Pick and Pat, comedians—WEAF
10.00—"Circus Night in Silvertown"—WJZ
10.00—First Nighter, drama—WEAF
10.30—"The Pause That Refreshes"—WEAF
11.00—News—CFRB
11.30—Description of Annual Golden Gloves Nat'l. Finals—WEAF
11.30—Press News—CRCT
12.00—Claude Hopkins' Orch.—WABC

FRIDAY – LIPSON'S – SATURDAY

Real Savings MIRACLE DAYS Greater Values

— LADIES' —

Coats — Suits — Dresses

Just received a large selection of smart new styles.

Your type of suit is here — short or long styles.

New as the season itself. Prints and plain crepes. Sizes up to 52.

8.95 to 14.95 1.95 to 6.95

SPECIAL Ladies' House Dresses

Sizes 16, 18 and 20, in fast color prints.

69c

New Spring Blouses

Smart dressy little blouses in new spring shades. Plain and checked materials in crepe, satin and taffeta. Long and short sleeves.

69c to 1.95

Ladies' Rayon Bloomers, Panties and Vests ea. 25c

Shirley Temple Dresses

For children taking sizes 2 to 6. In gay prints and broadcloth, flowered and dotted patterns. Special

97c

Spring Millinery

Hundreds of hats to choose from—all the latest creations in the millinery world.

CHOOSE YOURS NOW

97c to 1.97

Special! GIRLS' SKIRTS

..In navy blue serge, with camisole top. Sizes 8 to 14

79c

Ruffled CURTAINING

A variety of patterns to choose from.

Special, 10c yd.

Ladies' Angel Skin SLIPS

With lace trimmings and adjustable straps in white, peach and tea rose.

Special 89c

Men's UNDERWEAR

In combinations; Wooltex and Merino, natural and cream shades. Long sleeves and ankle length.

Special 1.00

Men's CARDIGANS

Made in a fine wool. In blue, grey and brown shades.

Special 1.97

WINDBREAKERS

In men's sizes... Doeskin cloth, red, green and navy colors.

Special 1.59

LIPSON'S

Be Sure

To have your Auto Insurance re-instated before taking out your car this Spring. If you have no insurance, do not take further chances of serious loss. All that is necessary in either case, or in the event of you changing your car, is to telephone us (1364). We will immediately protect you and get full particulars later. This is part of our service.

JAMIESON BONE & CO.
INSURANCE INVESTMENTS

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Mar. 28 (CP)—Buying of International Nickel rescued the industrial section of Toronto Exchange from the doldrums today. The big Metal issue accounting for about half the morning trade. It sold at an advance of ¾ to 24¼.

Brazilian and Imperial Tobacco also had gains of ⅛ to ¼.

Distillery shares appeared very sparingly on the board but the bids were higher, representing gains of ¼ to ½ for the leaders.

Laura Secord and Canada Bread B were down ½ to a full point against modest gains for Weston's Common, Canada Bread Common, Fanny Farmer and Consolidated Bakeries.

Canadian Car and Foundry shares added a point to 1½ and Steel of Canada advanced a point. Aside from a loss of two points for Bell Telephone, Utilities were steady.

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, March 25—(CP)— Toronto mining market refused to stir into action in the early session today although prices were mainly steady. An improved note appeared in the early afternoon with heavier trading.

Lake Shore, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves boarded a few sales at small price advances. Little Long Lac advanced 15 cents to 5.55. God's Lake, Pickle Crow and McKenzie also held gains of a few cents each, while McWatters, San Antonio, Siscoe, Sylvanite and Central Patricia were steady to strong.

McVittie fell to 19 for a loss of 2 cents. Base Metals Corporation Sherritt and Falconbridge were a little higher and Hudson Bay and Noranada boarded minor declines.

◆

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, Mar. 28 (AP) — The shtdow of the international monetary uncertainty was thrust across financial markets anew today and created fresh uneasiness that held price movements in a narrow area.

U. S. Smelting gave the market a shock by losing around six points before steadying, but other nonferrous metals held about even.

In the Canadian list, aside from firmness in Dome, shares of McIntyre and International Nickel ruled steady. On the curb, Lake Shore advanced fractionally, while Hiram Walker was a shade lower. Dominion Government Bonds were narrow and quiet. Canadian funds improved 1-15 of a cent at 99½ cents.

Utilities pointed downward under leadership of American Telephone and leading railroad shares continued shakey although Pennsylvania and one or two others held about even.

Bethlehem Steel rose a fraction while General Motors, U. S. Steel, General Electric, J. I. Case and Goodyear could do no better than hold even and in some cases dipping a trifle.

◆

Stock Markets

Quotations furnished by Biggar and Crawford, P. H. Wills, branch manager. Quotations at 2.05.

MINES

Ashley 16B
Ajax 85B
Acme 22B
Breth. Treth. 2 1-8B
Barry Hollinger 5B
Base Metals 50B
Bobjo 24 1-2 B
Big Missouri 40B
Bagamac 7 1-2
Bralorne 840B
Castle Treth 66 1-2
Coniaurum 212B
Central Pat 144B
Dome 3875
Dominion Explor 6B
Eldorado 122
Falconbridge 370B
God's Lake 135
Goldale 11 1-2B
Granada 36B
Green Stab 26 1-2B
Hollinger 1680B
Halcrow 3B
Home Oil 55B
Hudson's Bay 1255B
Howey 91
Inter. Nickel 24 1-4
Kirkland Lake 46B
Kirk Townsite 24B
Lake Shore 5670B
Little Long Lac 560
Macassa 209
Malartic 60B
Maple Leaf 6B
McIntyre 4435B
Mining Corporation 90B
McLeod River 1 1-4B
McKenzie 122
McWaters 175
McVittie 19 1-2
Nipissing 215B
Noranda 3485B
Pioneer 1010B
Parkhill 21 1-2B
Premier 158
Reade Auth 78
Reno 141B
St. Anthony 23
Sherritt 52
Siscoe 295
San Antonio 395B
Stadacona 22B
Sudbury Basin 128
Sylvanite 239B
Teck Hughes 408B
Ventures 90
Wayside 18
Waite Amulet 60B
Wright Hargreaves 910
Pickle Crow 266
Paymaster 17 1-2

TORONTO

Bell Telephone 127B.
B. A. Oil 14 7-8.
Brewing Corp. 3 1-4B.
Can. Bud Brewery 7 3-4B.
Can. Cement 5 7-8B.
Can. Dredge 19 1-2B.
Can. Ind. Alcohol 8 3-4B.
C.P.R. 9 3-4B.
Can. Malting 29 1-2B.
Can. Vinegar 26 1-4B.
Canada Car 6 7-8B.
Cons. Bakeries 13B.
Con. Smelting 129B.
Dominion Stores 8 7-8B.
Dist. Seagrams 15 7-8B.
Ford "A" 27 3-8B.
Gypsum 5 3-8B.
Imp. Oil 16B.
Inter. Pet. 30 1-2.
Imp. Tobacco 12B.
Loblaw 18 3-8B.
Mont. Power 28 3-4B.
McColl-Frontenac 13 3-4B.
Power Corp. 7 1-4B.
Steel of Canada 44 3-4B.
Supertest 23B.
Shawinigan 16 1-8B.
Walker's 27 1-4B.
Walker's, Pfd. 18B.
Walkerville Brewery 3 1-2B.

NEW YORK

American Can. 116 1-4.
American T and T. 102 1-2.
Amer Por. Power 3 1-4.
Anaconda 10 3-8.
Auburn 17.
Case 50 3-8.
Chrysler 34.
General Motors 28 1-4.
Elec. Auto Lite 20 3-4.
North American 11 3-4.
Montgomery Ward 24.
Phillips Pet. 15 5-8.
Radio 4 1-4.
Standard Oil of N.J. 38.
Standard Brands 14 3-4.
U.S. Smelters 102 7-8.
U.S. Steel 29 3-8.
Westinghouse 36 1-8.

UNLISTED MINES

Unlisted as furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co. today.

Afton 54-57.
Ardeen 7S.
Bankfield 81-84.
Bathurst 3-4.
Bousquet 29-31.
Can Pandora 5-7.
Casey Cont 34-36.
Dunlop 1-1¾.
El Bonanza 13-15.
Forty Four 1025-1150.
Gabrielle 38-42.
Glenora 4½-5½.
Gold Eagle 39S.
Great Bear Lake 42-46.
Hardrock 68S.
Johnson Nip 6¼-7¼.
Lafayette 6¼-7¼.
Lamaque 150B.
Lagoon 12-14.
McLeod 4-5.
Long Acre 20-25.
Brennan 30S.
Big Long Lac 15-16.
Franklin 40-42.
Magnet 11-13.
Matachewan 13-16.
Mosher 4-6.
Murwood 25S.
North Shores 5½-6¼.
Oklend 34-37.
Red Lake 31-33.
Rice Lake 4-5.
Springer Sturgeon 13-14½.
Smelters 14S.
Sigma 150S.
Shawkey 40-43.
Sturgeon River 93-98.
Wells 15S.
Wingold 14S.
Young Day 18-21.

◆

Grain Markets

Closing prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co. today—

	High	Low	Close
Wheat—
May	85 1-8	84 3-4	84 7-8
July	85	84 3-8	84 3-4
Oats—
May	40 1-8	39 5-8	39 3-4
July	40	39 1-4	39 3-4
Barley—
May	46 1-8	45 1-4	45 1-2
July	46 3-4	45 7-8	46 1-8

◆

Produce Market

Toronto, March 28 (CP)— Wholesale prices on Produce delivered at Toronto as supplied by the United Farmers' Co-operative Co. here today were: Eggs, grade "A" large, doz. 15c; grade "A" medium, doz. 14c; grade "B" doz. 13c; grade "C" doz. 12c. Churning Cream, No. 1, lb. 23c; No. 2, solids lb. 21c. Butter, No. 1, solids, lb. 23 1-4c to 23 1-2c; No. 2, solids, lb. 23 to 23 1-4c. Ontario Cobbler Potatoes, bag 55c.

◆

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, March 28—(CP)— Only sales on the Toronto Livestock Market this morning were a few medium to good fed calves at $5.00 to $6.50. The cattle run was made up of 100 holdovers and 20 fresh. No sheep or calves were received and hogs, under a run of 40 head opened unsettled while 207 lambs were at a standstill.

Sprague Cleaners DeLuxe Service

To the Public

The month of March, 1935, finds us reorganized into a more efficient effort, than ever before, to look after your Spring and Summer Cleaning. Even you of discriminating outlook.

The mechanical end of our new plant is unsurpassed in Ontario, and the protection of your clothing is assured in our years of experience. Why send Belleville work out of Belleville?

Putting life or texturing into the fabric of your garments is not new with us, we've been using a formula of cloth oils for a year in our cleaning solvents, hence the natural softness you see in your clothing if done by Sprague's. And we have a nine-hour service to you goods called for and delivered to your door.

DRESSES ..... 1.00 and 1.25

SUITS AND SPRING COATS $1.00

27 E. BRIDGE ST., or
214 NORTH FRONT
Phone 393 and 2200

ELECTRICITY offers clean, safe, economical and dependable cooking—it is the modern method.

In using electricity you are helping your own utility.

We expect to announce shortly an attractive proposition for greater use of electrical service.

Belleville Hydro Electric System
"OWNED BY THOSE IT SERVES."

TWENTY-SEVEN TO START IN 'CHASE'

Aintree Course in Prime Condition And Large Crowd Expected

Aintree, Liverpool, March 28 — (CP Cable)—Riding arrangements were completed and 27 horses listed as starters for tomorrow's renewal of the Grand National Steeplechase while the vanguard of what is expected to be a record crowd began to pour into Liverpool tonight.

With the field the smallest in years, the weather glorious and the 4 1-4 mile course with its 32 jumps in fine condition, a great race was expected in the 97th running of the Grand National.

The official list of probable starters, with owners, jockeys and weights is as follows: (X-Amateur riders).

(First named Horse and Owner. Second, Jockey and Weight.

Golden Miller, Dorothy Paget.—Wilson, 175 lbs.

Thomond II., J. H. Whitney — Spec, 167.

Royal Ransom, J. H. Whitney—Hamey, 162.

Reynoldstown, Noel Furlong — x-Noel Furlong, 158.

Southern Hero, J. V. Rank — Fawcus, 154.

Briens, G. Beeby—Kidner, 154.

Really True, Noel Furlong — Morgan, 153.

Bachelor Prince, Miss Lark — O'Grady, 150.

Castle Irwell, G. H. Bostwick — x-G. H. Bostwick, 150.

Ballybrack, R. W. Tweedie — x-R. W. Tweedie, 147.

Blue Prince, Lady Lindsay — Parvin, 147.

Brave Cry, J. C. Lewis —x-J. C. Lewis, 147.

Emancipator, P. V. Cazlet — x-P. C. Cazlet, 147.

Foquet, M. D. Blair—Brown, 147.

Huic Holloa, W. Waddington — x-Marsh, 147.

Jimmy James, Bertram Mills — Nicholson, 147.

Lazy Boots, Sir G. Congreve — Owen, 147.

Master Orange, Mrs. R. C. Mann —x-A. B. Mildmay, 147.

Princess Mir, D. A. Jackson — x-D. A. Jackson, 147.

Red Park, Lady Houston—Fitzgerald, 147.

Slater G, S. Whitelaw—Maxwell, 147.

Southern Hue, J. McGrath—McKeever, 147.

Taphnois, F. E. Peck—Gurney, 147.

Trocadero, Gordon Perry — Cullinan, 147.

Theras, J. Metcalf—Carey, 147.

Uncle Batt, H. B. Brandt—Isaac, 147.

Alczena, J. A. Redman—x-Capt. Payne-Gallwey, 147.

◆

HOGS

Toronto, March 28—(CP)—Brantford registered the only change on bacon hog prices today, gaining 15 cents while all other reporting market points held unchanged at strong levels. Today's prices:

Chatham $7.00; Peterborough $7.50; London $7.50; Kitchener $7.65; Stratford $7.65; Hull $8.00; Brantford $8.00.

◆

SHELL SALESMEN MEET IN CITY

Head office executives with C. A. Peck, local manager of the Shell Oil Company, held a dealer's and salesmen's meeting at the Quinte Hotel on Wednesday evening. T. D. Campbell, assistant sales manager greeted those in attendance, and outlined plans for the coming year. Two moving pictures advancing Shell products and service were shown.

New Draperies

SLUB REPP 79c

SLUB REPP, a smart drapery material in colors of rose, blue, gold, rust and mahogany. 50 inches wide. On sale at 79c yard.

NEW WASHABLE Window SHADES

The new washable shade, made by a new process is Waterproof, Sunfast, Durable, Dependable and best of all, easily cleaned with ordinary soap and water, mounted on a good spring roller. Standard size, 37" x 6' complete.

Only $1.29

Other sizes made to order

John W. COOK
HOUSEFURNISHINGS
Phone 123 210 Front St.
(2nd. Floor Bowra Electric and Hardware Store)

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
220 FRONT STREET

COFFEE COFFEE

Our coffees are roasted by the largest and most reliable firm in Canada. Carefully selected and freshly ground for each order

American Blend, lb. 40c. Special .... lb. 35c

TOMATOES, choice quality .... 5 No. 2 tins 25c
WAX BEANS, extra good, stringless .... tin 15c
RED RASPBERRIES, fine quality .... tins 20c
PURE CHICKEN SOUP, delicious .... tins 10c

WAX Candles
Beautiful colors!
Various Sizes!
Low Prices!

FLORIDA Oranges for juice
Large size dozen .. ...., .. 39c

OVALTINE—for health New prices .38 .58 .98

CHIPSO .. .. 3 for 19c
IVORY SOAP .... 4 for 14c
Guest size
CASTILE SOAP .. 8 for 25c
MAGIC BAKING POWDER lb. 34c
PRESERVED GINGER lb. 29c
RINSO, large, and 1 LIFEBUOY 23c
MATCHES .. .. .. 3 for 25c
SHREDDED WHEAT 2 pkgs. 25c
OXO CORDIAL .. 6 ozs. 39c

MAPLE SUGAR, FINNAN HADDIES, PRIME OLD CHEESE, ROQUEFORT, CRESS, RADISHES, CELERY, RHUBARB, NEW CARROTS, CABBAGE, CAULIFLOWER, PARSLEY, LEAF LETTUCE, HEAD LETTUCE

Full Weight Full Service Finest Quality.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
Phones 157 - 158 DELIVERY 220 Front St.

The Cooking School is a VALUABLE AID to HAPPINESS IN THE HOME

David Harum said:

"They don't get any better looking as they get older; so when you're picking a wife you may as well pick a good looking one."

Use good cosmetics properly. Improve your appearance, assist Nature in keeping your skin young and fresh looking.

This is another valuable aid to

HAPPINESS IN THE HOME

See our fine assortment of COSMETICS

DOLAN
THE DRUGGIST
- Phone 138

Obituary

O. E. FAIRBANKS, (Trenton)

O. E. Fairbanks, whose home address was R. R. 6, Trenton, passed away in the Belleville General Hospital, Wednesday night, at the age of 63 years. He had been a patient in the hospital since January.

FEATURE FASHIONS FOR SPRING AT CHAS. J. SYMONS
MEN'S WEAR
296 Front Street

TOPCOATS

Our feature fashions will hold their own in any company and at prices that are within reach of all.

10.95, 12.95, 13.95, 14.95

SUITS

Spring will be brighter for you in one of these new suits —2 pant suits.

$1.50 and 22.95

HATS

See our large range of hats for Spring. Wool and Fur Felts in all the latest styles and shades.

1.95 2.95 3.45

SATURDAY SPECIALS

For the week end only we are offering ....

ENGLISH BROADCLOTH Two Collar SHIRTS Regular 1.95 for 1.59

GLOVES

Washable dress gloves for the week-end 98c

DR. McCULLOUGH VISITS STIRLING

Provincial Health Inspector Addresses Audience on Cancer Treatment

Stirling—Working in co-operation with Ontario Dept. of Public Health, the Stirling Welfare Club were partly responsible for an unusually fine educational lecture on the cause and treatment of cancer, given to a large audience in Stirling on Monday, March 25th by Dr. John W. S. McCullough, M.D., D.Ph., Chief Inspector of Health for the Province of Ontario. These lectures are sponsored by the Dept. in an effort to reduce the vast number of sufferers of the dreaded disease throughout the Province.

Dr. McCullough stated in the course of his address that contrary to the belief of many cancer was not hereditary, nor is it contagious. It does not come from a germ nor is it caused by faulty diet, except in cases where food or liquids are taken in extreme heat or cold, there is then a possibility of a cancerous condition being caused by the unnatural irritation of various tissues in the digestive organs. It has been said by some that our modern mode of living, our civilization is largely responsible. This is proven untrue by the fact that cancer is common in uncivilized countries; among natives of the South Sea Isles, where living is most primitive. The greatest enemy of those opposing the disease is time. A slight infection of the lip may slow in healing, and a delay on the part of the patient in seeking medical advice allows the cancerous condition to gain dangerous headway. Most common of all cancer among the male species is cancer of the mouth and skin caused by bad teeth, tobacco, and particularly by the use of clay pipe rtems. Tobacco causes chronic inflamation and white spot disease, and these lead to cancer. Perhaps long after the smoking is discontinued these, and neglect of unhealing sores are responsible for a wide array of cancer, and are in most cases preventable. Cancer of the skin develops in plain sight of the individual, yet it causes many deaths every year, nearly all of which might have been avoided. Many forms of cancer depelop in the skin—from suppressed hair follicles on face and about the nose and eyelids, from the hair follicles of persons with oily skins and a heavy growth of hair. These, called rodent ulcers, appear first as minute pearly thickenings in the skin; they grow very slowly and without plan. If properly treated in the early stages, they are readily cured. Imperfectly treated, they become dangerous. Hot baths, the use of good soap, and friction of the skin, empty the sluggish oil glands and hair follicles and prevent this form of cancer.

Cancer of the mouth would be greatly lessened if care was taken in the method of cleaning. The mouth should be thoroughly washed with a solution of pure mild soap suds at regular intervals. In any case of slowly healing sore spots the family physician should be consulted, and through him the proper measures of precaution or treatment will be taken. Quack and family remedies should be avoided since they serve only to delay the proper treatment of those schooled in knowledge of cancer. We as a nation can place utmost confidgnce in the medical profession we have at our disposal. Medical education in Canada is of a degree unsurpassed by any nation in the world. It is our duty to make safe the health of future man and womanhood by submitting to careful periodical medical examination.

At the conclusion of his lecture, Dr. McCullough gave a graphic discription of the various stages of disease and its treatment. These safe methods of treatment are set forth and adopted universally as the most affective surgery, radium and X-ray. From 1914 to 1923, the death rate in Ontario increased over 59 per cent. The increase is universal. It goes without saying that the increase in recorded ingredients the increase in recorded incidents is due to some extent to a better diagnosis of the disease rendered possible by the use of such diagnostic aids as X-ray. With three medical teaching centres in Ontario and three Ontario Institutes of Radio Theraphy in continual operation, and being supplied with radium from the Department of Health, care and provision for all sufferers of the dreaded disease is available. A great reduction in its toll is looked for as a result of this country wide campaign.

Dr. Osterhout

Speaking in St. Paul's United Church on Sunday morning, Dr. Osterhout, Superintendent of Oriental and Indian Missions in British Columbia, spoke in glowing terms of the work being accomplished by this division of the Home Mission Department of the United Church. So great is the oriental population on the western coast that special branches of missions have been established to meet their needs. In the course of his address he cited many interesting experiences encountered by himself and his staff in the performance of their duties up and down the western province and Vancouver Island.

Dr. Osterhout is in the east attending a conference of the Home Mission Board of the United Church It was so arranged that he could be released from his duties for a sufficient period of time to allow him to fulfill a limited number of engagements to speak in churches throughout this conference. He is a native son of this district, and a man of United Empire Loyalist stock. Dr. Osterhout was born in the ninth concession of Murray. Since leaving the place of his birth to go into the work he loves so dearly, the knowledge he has gained through concentrated effort and experience, resulted in his being elected to the important position he now fills in a very commendable fashion.

The various Young People's Or- ually hold their meetings on Monday evening of each week, withdrew their activities on Monday evening last, in order that their members might attend the lecture in the theatre by Dr. John W. S. McCullough, M.D., D.P.H., chief inspector of health for the Province of Ontario. The lecture was largely attended and the people of Stirling and district gained considerable knowledge of that dreaded disease (cancer) The Ontario Department of Health is conducting a campaign to further reduce the spread of this disease.

◆

NEWS ITEMS FROM MALONE

Malone—Mr. James Fox of Eldorado called on Mr. Fred Fox on Saturday last.

Mrs. John Ellis and daughter Rita spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. John Pack.

Mr. Herb McKenzie of Tornnto and Joseph Darrah of Marmora spent the dinner hour on Saturday last with Mr. and Mrs. Dan McCrimmon.

Misses Laura, Audrey and Master Douglas Robinson also Miss Nora Martin were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. Robinson, Eldorado.

Miss L. Gawley spent the weekend under parental roof.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzgerald and son Jack also Mrs. James Fox of Eldorado spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fox.

Miss Helen Kelly, Marmora, spent the week end under parental roof.

Mrs. Ethel Pack Called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fox on Sunday evening last.

Messrs Leslie Pack, Alex Gawley, Arthur Pack, Thomas McCann and Clarence Weese of Glanmire spent the weekend at their homes here.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wiley of Frankford, Mr. and Mrs. T. Burnside, Madoc, Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Nickle and Ann were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Nickle one day last week.

Messrs W. D. Nickle and Dan McCrimmon spent Friday afternoon in Marmora.

LITERARY SOCIETY SPONSOR CONCERT

Wooler, March 26—Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Scott and Mr. and Mrs. H. Wessels spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. George Adams, Carmen.

Dr. J. H. Hess of Hastings was in town on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Emma Bentley is in poor health.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Rowe entertained to dinner on Friday, Rev. and Mrs. Poulter, Mr. and Mrs. W. Montgomery and Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill.

Cora Valentine has been ill a few weeks.

Lenoard Scott has been ill for three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Austin and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dafoe, Belleville.

Mrs. Harry Gerow and children of Smithfield are spending a week or more with her mother, Mrs. S. Sharpe.

The pastor of the Friend's church Rev. Asa Rogers died on Friday night at the age of 91 years. He has made his home with Mrs. Lydia Nelson nad family since his wife predeceased him a number of years ago. He leaves to mourn three sons, George in Winnipeg, Allan in Auburn, N. Y., and Arthur in Edmonton.

The deceased had been failing in health for the past year, but went to his church service just two weeks previous to his death.

The service was held on Tuesday, conducted by ev. Harry Perry of Wellington.

The pall bearers were Harry and Howard Orvis, Howard and Lorne Richards, Lorne Cole and Neil Nelson. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown sang an appropriate selection.

On Friday evening in the town hall a concert was sponsored by the Continuation School Literary Society and a full house responded.

The program:

Dance of the Fairies

Jean Steinburgh—Bertha Waite.
Marion McColl—Mes Vosburgh.
Helen Bentley—Lois Mitchell.
Nellie Scott—Isobel Horsley.

Clubs

Wesley Down, Raymond Rowe.
Play—"Beans on a String"
J. H. Davis—Donald Way.
Mrs. J. H. Davis—Luella Nelson.
Bennie Davis—Mac Sharpe.
Harold Been—Martin Ruttan.
Molly Mallerton—Edith Austin.
Jeanette Blue—Olive Redcliffe.
Cleopatra—Elsie Ashley.
Ali Dinklen—Theodore Poulter.
Benjamin Davis—Arthur Putnam.
Music: Austin's Orchestra.
Floor Manager—Jack Bull.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gainsforth and Mr. and Mrs. Leland Bryant spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Perry.

Mrs. W. A. McColl entertained a number of ladies at her home on Tuesday to a group quilting.

Miss Dunfield spent unday with Mr. and Mrs. L. Perry.

Dr. Vining and Mrs. Vining moved from Frankford to the home of Lyal Davey during the past week.

Mrs. N. McColl is still in Belleville hospital suffering from shock.

Rev. Thomas of Toronto, was entertained by Rev. and Mrs. Poulter over the week end. Mr. Thomas addressed the Young People on Monday evening.

Stirling Nelson was called home to the funeral of the late Asa Rogers.

Mrs. W. K. Bowerman of Toronto attended the funeral of the late Asa Rogers.

On Wednesday evening, Gwendolyn Elford, Anna Bell and Eva Masters were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elgin McMasters.

Eva Ireland is spending a month with Mrs. Lydia Nelson.

Lorne Ellis of Windsor spent a few days with his brothers.

◆

SCHOHARIE NEWS ITEMS OF INTEREST

Schoharie—Mr. John Benson and Mrs. Mildred Benson were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, Picton.

Mr. G. A. Smith and Mr. Morley Smith of Gananoque spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cleave.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Walters and Rose and Homer were guests at a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pearsall, Belleville Road, on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw spent Sunday of last week with Mr. and Mrs. John Hutchison, Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cleave spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Will Smith, Bloomfield Road.

Miss Annie McGee is spending this week with Miss Aileen Pearsall, Belleville Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Leavitt and family also Dr. and Mrs. Ray Clapp and family of Picton were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Walters.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stone and Barbara spent a recent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gibson, Wellington.

Mr. Finley Hennessy and Mr. Jack Inch returned home last week after having spent the winter in a camp in the north country.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg Moore and Phyllis of Elmbrooke were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Hobson.

Mr. and Mrs. John McGee entertained at a community card party at their home on Friday evening.

Mrs. Norman Leavitt and little son returned home from Prince Edward ounty Hospital on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Walters and Mary and Irene were tea hour guests of Mrs. Morris Huff, Mount Pleasant on Sunday.

COMMUNITY NEWS FROM MELROSE

Melrose—Mrs. C. Cameron, Pittsburg spent over the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Macfarlane.

Mrs. E. Sayers, Halloway, is a guest this week of her parents Mr. and Mrs. P. Davis.

Many relatives and friends called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Macfarlane during there recent bereavement.

Mr. B. Thompson, North Dakota, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. Haight on Thursday Mr. Thompson left on Friday for his home after spending a few weeks with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Bennett entertained Mr. and Mrs. P. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. W. Snider, Mr. and Mrs. C. Haight and Mr. and Mrs. E. Badgley on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McCabe and son Donald also Mrs C. A. Knapp and Mrs. A. Winter, Napanee, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Badgley.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Kimmett visited there son Donald who is a patient at the Belleville Hospital on Thursday evening.

Dr. G. Stoble, Belleville was a recent caller at Mr. and Mrs. E. Simpkins. The many friends of Mr. Simpkins wish him a speedy recovery from his recent illness.

"A LIFE OF EASE IS THE LIFE.."

The dog's life is a "wow" to this one. His mistress lavishes a motherlike affection on him. He is 12, and a malady makes it impossible for him to walk more than a few yards. The owner wheels the dog about town in this improvised bath chair during her shopping trip. This was seen at Margate, Kent, England.

Mr. and Mrs. M. McMeachan were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. R. Sparrow.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Sherman, Belleville were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lazier and also attended the obsequies of the late Mrs. L. Ross.

You'll Feel Better after a good cup of
TEA
ANYTIME IS TEA TIME
nothing so refreshing as a good cup of TEA

Start the day Right...

12 big biscuits in every box

SHREDDED WHEAT for breakfast is just the meal to keep you feeling mentally and physically alert throughout the day. Fine for lunch, too. Shredded Wheat is made of selected whole wheat from Canada's golden wheat fields . . . nourishing, ready-cooked, ready-to-eat in a most delicious and easily digested form. Try it this way: dip the biscuit quickly into hot water —drain—and serve with milk or cream.

THE CANADIAN SHREDDED WHEAT COMPANY, LTD.
Niagara Falls, Canada

SHREDDED WHEAT
MADE IN CANADA – OF CANADIAN WHEAT

"It's no trouble

—I have a Telephone in the Kitchen"

When you are busy in the kitchen and friends telephone, or you have an order to give the grocer, it is always troublesome to have to go to a telephone in another part of the house.

The modern housewife has a telephone in the kitchen where she can use it quickly and conveniently, save time and extra steps, and prevent spoiled cooking and endless annoyance.

You can have an extension telephone in your kitchen for only a few cents a day. Any Bell Telephone employee will be glad to give you particulars and see that your order is promptly carried out.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF CANADA

G. W. PROCTOR
Manager.

WHAT WILL I SERVE?
Consult your RED & WHITE Food Stores

Is planning meals a problem? Your Red and White store can suggest many foods to make your meals appetizing, satisfying and wholesome . . . . . and help you save money on your food budget.

OAT PUFFS The New Cereal Pkg. 10c
OLIVES Combination Pack 11 oz. jars 25c
LYON'S TEA Blue Label ½-lb. pkg. 33c

Kellogg's All Bran Large Pkg. 21c
Royal Vanilla Extract 1½ OZ. BOTTLE 5c
Choice Peas SIEVE NO. 3 RED AND WHITE QUALITY, 2 TINS 25c
Jewel Shortening 2 LBS. 25c
LIBBY'S Spaghetti Ready Cooked—Just Heat and Serve TIN 9c
Sardines JUTLAND BRAND VERY TASTY 4 TINS 25c
Salmon ANGLER KETA 2 TINS 23c

GOLD MEDAL Pickles SWEET MIXED 32 OZ. JAR 34c
RED & WHITE Tomato Catsup 12 OZ. BOTTLE 11c
Shredded Wheat 2 PKGS. 25c

FRY'S COCOA ½-lb. can 23c

Chocolate Ruffles
A mellow vanilla flavour cake, covered with marshmallow and chocolate —a real high class biscuit.
Extra Special 2 lbs. 29c

CROWN CORN SYRUP A Wholesome Food for Everybody
2-lb. can 19c
5-lb. can 41c

Vi-Tone Health Drink 6 oz. tins 24c
RED AND WHITE VACUUM PACK Coffee LB. 42c
RED AND WHITE Jelly Powders 4 PKGS. 25c
RED AND WHITE GOLDEN BANTAM Corn 2 TINS 25c

Jelly Beans Everybody likes them 15c lb.
HANDY Ammonia For General Cleaning 2 for 11c
Calay Soap For the Toilet 5c
CHIPSO Large pkg. 21c
FLUSHO A Bathroom Necessity 19c
Gillett's Lye Eats Dirt can 12c

QUALITY ALWAYS HIGHER THAN PRICE

Expert EXAMINATION

You Owe It to Your Eyes

Protect them by giving them the attention and care they require. Have them examined by Lewis' Qualified Optometrist.

You are assured of the highest degree of comfort with Lewis' Glasses

For Appointment Phone 1406

You Save Considerably by Buying Your Glasses at Lewis'

·LEWIS·

285 Front St. Opp. Loblaws

W.A. MOIRA

The Women's Association of Moira United Church held their monthly meeting on March 21st in the spacious home of Mrs. Lottie Vandewater.

The meeting was in the form of a dinner and by 12.30 twenty-four ladies met to partake of the delicious viands served by the members of the society.

The afternoon was spent in quilting as well as a meeting presided over by the President, Mrs. Ben Morton.

Meeting opened by singing "Sound the Battle Cry" followed by the Lord's prayer in unison. Mrs. Vandewater read the Scripture found in 10th Prov. Mrs. Merriam gave a reading also talk on the different duties of the W. A. Society.

Mrs. Blake Ketcheson was appointed to visit the homes where there is sickness in the vicinity.

Mrs. L. Vandewater the treasurer was pleased to report that although this was the second meeting there are twenty ladies as members. Fifteen dollars has been raised to help decorate the parsonage at West Huntingdon. It was moved and carried that Moira pay five dollars as their share of the parsonage telephone.

Meeting closed all repeating the Benediction.

Mrs. F. Emerson invited the society to her home for the next meeting.

Members were pleased to have as visitors: Mrs. Bailey of Latta and Mrs. Max Reynolds of Bancroft.

MANY MOUTHS TO FEED

London—(CP)—Anticipating abnormal crowds in Jubilee Week, opening May 6, about 250 tea shop managers held a series of meetings here to discuss ways and means.

ENERGETIC CLUB ENJOY EVENING

Tuesday evening the Energetic Club met in Holloway Street United Church Sunday School rooms. A large number of the members were present and a fine evening of fellowship was enjoyed.

Following the business period conducted by the president Mrs. L. F. Reid, a period of devotion was led by Archie Greatrix and an atmosphere was created that tended to the success of the evening.

Group No. 1 composed of the following, Mr. and Mrs. Liddle, Mr. and Mrs. Greatrix, Mr. and Mrs. Oliphant and Mr. and Mrs. Darling had charge of the programme.

The chair was taken by Mr. Liddle. He introduced the orchestra of the evening, composed of three boys: Thomas Wilkinson, Donald Grass and Allen Evans. During the evening they rendered several selections on the guitar and harmonica and Thomas Wilkinson sang several numbers.

Besides the orchestra Mr. Arnold and Fred Mitchell sang two duets and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haight a duet.

Rev. Mr. Newman gave the talk of the evening speaking on "Hinduism." This proved very instructive and threw a light on the Indians people and their customs.

After the programme the ladies of Group No. 1 served a very nice lunch and with a few final numbers by the orchestra and a sing-song a very happy meeting came to a close.

Clark Gable and Constance Bennett in "After Office Hours" now on the Belle screen.

Belleville Housewives Hear

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE

at the

"Ontario Intelligencer" DeBoth Cooking School

Local Women Appreciate Demonstrations by Well-Known Cooking Expert

Sustained interest a tribute to lecturer's personality and ability

The advice and opinion of a qualified dietitian are highly regarded by the women of Belleville. This is being proven at each day's session of the Ontario Intelligencer De Both Cooking School. The sustained interest shown in the lectures and demonstrations being given by Miss Claire Andree is a compliment to her attractive personality and to the instructive way in which she presents her helpful suggestions and advice on good cooking. Housewives attending Miss Andree's lectures note that when the use of a pure reliable mustard is called for, this well-known dietitian always uses KEEN'S.

Cabbage Salad

Beat the egg well

Beat 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon Keen's Mustard, pinch of pepper ½ cup milk and 2-3 cup sugar and cook until it forms a "custard," then pour over shredded cabbage. Let cool and squeeze juice of 2 lemons over all instead of vinegar. P.S.—Please don't forget that teaspoon of KEEN'S—it makes this salad a real taste treat!

Egg Smash

—a peppy sandwich idea!

Smash 2 hard-boiled eggs in bowl. Add a little Keen's Mustard, pepper, and salt to taste. Moisten with malt vinegar, mix well and spread between buttered bread slices.

Egg Smash is an extra tasty sandwich for work, school lunch, afternoon tea or wherever a really good sandwich is called for. The tempting flavor is always right when you include that pinch of Keen's.

Lamb Delight

A treat for the family

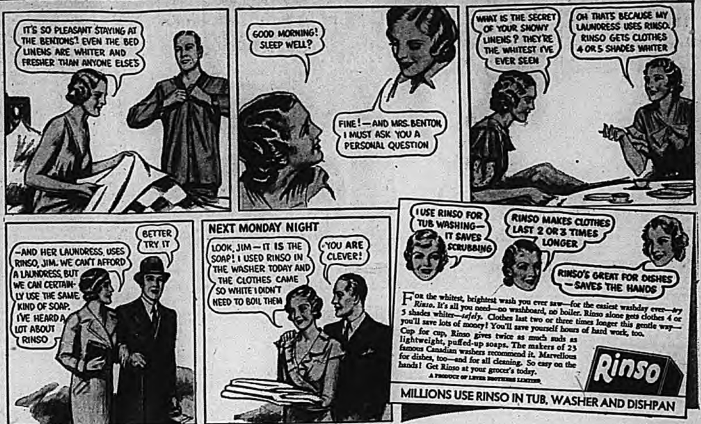
Melt 2 tablespoons butter, add 2 tablespoons flour, salt and pepper to taste, ½ teaspoon Keen's D.S.F. Mustard, mix well, add 2 cups milk gradually and bring to a boiling point.

Stirring constantly, add ½ cup bread crumbs and cook 2 minutes longer. Take from stove and add 2 cups cold minced lamb, 3 well beaten egg yolks, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into a greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven. May be served with creamed mushrooms.

KEEN'S

D.S.F. Mustard

AIDS DIGESTION



IT'S SO PLEASANT STAYING AT THE BENTONS! EVEN THE BED LINENS ARE WHITER AND FRESHER THAN ANYONE ELSE'S GOOD MORNING! SLEEP WELL?
FINE!—AND MRS. BENTON, I MUST ASK YOU A PERSONAL QUESTION
WHAT IS THE SECRET OF YOUR SNOWY LINENS? THEY'RE THE WHITEST I'VE EVER SEEN
OH THAT'S BECAUSE MY LAUNDRESS USES RINSO. RINSO GETS CLOTHES 4 OR 5 SHADES WHITER —AND HER LAUNDRESS USES RINSO, JIM. WE CAN'T AFFORD A LAUNDRESS, BUT WE CAN CERTAINLY USE THE SAME KIND OF SOAP. I'VE HEARD A LOT ABOUT RINSO BETTER TRY IT
NEXT MONDAY NIGHT
LOOK, JIM—IT IS THE SOAP! I USED RINSO IN THE WASHER TODAY AND THE CLOTHES CAME SO WHITE I DIDN'T NEED TO BOIL THEM
YOU ARE CLEVER!
I USE RINSO FOR TUB WASHING—IT SAVES SCRUBBING
RINSO MAKES CLOTHES LAST 2 OR 3 TIMES LONGER
RINSO'S GREAT FOR DISHES—SAVES THE HANDS
Rinso

For the whitest, brightest wash you ever saw—for the easiest washday ever—try Rinso. It's all you need—no washboard, no boiler. Rinso alone gets clothes 4 or 5 shades whiter—safely. Clothes last two or three times longer this gentle way—you'll save lots of money! You'll save yourself hours of hard work, too. Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps. The makers of 23 famous Canadian washers recommend it. Marvellous for dishes, too—and for all cleaning. So easy on the hands! Get Rinso at your grocer's today.

A PRODUCT OF LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED

MILLIONS USE RINSO IN TUB, WASHER AND DISHPAN

HALLOWAY Y. P. S. HOLDS MEETING

Halloway, March 28—The regular weekly meeting of the Young People's society was held at the home of Mr. Harry Reid on Thursday night. On Monday night previous about fifteen of the society journeyed to Belleville where they were entertained by the Baptist Church Young People. After twenty minutes devotional exercises, the remainder of the evening was spent in games and contests pertaining to St. Patrick. The Belleville people served a very dainty lunch consist- of sandwiches, cake, pickles and tea.

Rev. F. C. Beazer, Mrs. Beazer and Mr. R. Easton of Roslin spent the tea hour on Tuesday night at the home of Mr. J. Lowery and conducted services.

Miss B. Spencer has returned home after spending the past week with friends in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Rose and family of Rawdon were guests at Mr. G. H. Rose's on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cadman spent Sunday evening at Mr. J. Lowery's.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Kellar and family of Fuller were Sunday visitors at Mr. V. Reid's.

Mrs. Ryan and family had tea with Mr. and Mrs. O. McAvoy and family of Zion Hill one evening last week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Marshall and family of Plainfield visited at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson on Sunday.

Miss Myrtle Reid was a guest of her aunt in Belleville a few days last week.

The Thurlow health officer Dr. Welsh of Roslin was around on Monday and placed some quarantine cards up for measles at Mr. H. Smith's and Mr. Lellan's.

Miss M. Belcour spent a few days last week in Belleville.

Mr. E. Wilson spent the week end with his cousin Mr. C. Wright.

Mrs. G. Cadman and Albert were Sunday evening guests of Mrs. R. Townsend.

Mrs. Embury Hough was hostess to a W.M.S. dinner at her home on Wednesday last, over thirty were in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Evans entertained quite a number to a dance on Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Combs and baby En d were Sunday visitors at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Morgan.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Wilson are spending a few days in Foxboro.

Some of the L.O.L. members attended Grand Lodge in Trenton on Wednesday.

FRIENDS PRESENT GIFTS TO COUPLE

Eldorado—The home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hamilton near Eldorado, was the scene of a happy gathering on Friday evening, March 22nd when the friends and neighbors gathered to wish Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bonter, (nee Luella Hamilton), "bon voyage" on their recent marriage and to present them with a miscellaneous shower.

The evening was spent in dancing by the young people and those that did not dance enjoyed a social "chit chat".

The following address was read by Mrs. William Blackburn:

"Eldorado, Ont.
"March 22nd., 1935.

"Dear Luella and Ray,—

"The preacher declared it, the papers have said,
"That a lad and a lassie, have lately been wed,
"The young cuple united, we see them with pride,
"Are Ray Bonter, the groom, Luella Hamilton, the bride,
"This evening your true friends, have gathered here.
"The young and the old folk, now wish them good cheer,
"We trust that your future, will always be bright,
"Your gathering be joyous, and your troubles be light,
"Now if shadows should come, just both whistle and sing,
"It will make the clouds vanish, and much brightness will bring,
"Luella, be to your husband, a kind loving wife,
"And then he will love you, the rest of his life,
"Ray, be a good sport, don't get cranky or pout,
"Then your wife will be happy, wher you are about,
"Now, on this occasion, we have brought you tonight,
"A few little gifts, as a token w' pray of the love pray of the love
"And esteem, we shall bear you always."

"(Signed)—Albert Shaw, George Wiley."

Mr. and Mrs. Bonter in a few chosen words thanked their friends for the lovely gifts and good wishes and hoped that at some time in the future all would come and visit them, at their home near Marmora.

Refreshments were then served and a social time was enjoyed by everyone.

Band of Hope Mission Band

The regular meeting of the Band of Hope, Mission Band, was held on Saturday afternoon, March 23rd. at the home of Mrs. Russel Whyte.

Miss Earla Carman presided in absence of Doris Andrews. Meeting opened with quiet music and the call to worship. Hymns 410 and 405 were sung after which Presley Nickle offered prayer. The Bible story, entitled "The Story of a Little Girl", was given by Annie Holmes, followed by a recitation, "Springtime'l by Ann Nickle a song "Roses in the Garden", was rendered by Irene Whyte. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Verna McCann and were adopted. The roll call was answered by the Band Memory Bible verse. After singing hymn 429, Earla Carman gave a reading "Canadians All", followed by a story "The Doll for Li An", which was well given by Verna McCann.

The Study Book story "A Convalescent Rubbish Heap" was given by Mrs. F. J. Nickle and was very much enjoyed.

The offering was taken by Ann Nickle and was dedicated by Earla Carman, and the meeting closed with prayer by the leader.

A couple of games and refreshments were then enjoyed.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harvey spent Sunday in Trenton guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Fox.

Mr. John Shaw of Cooper was a visitor at the home of his brother, Mr. H Shaw on Friday last.

Mr. Frank Blakely was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Blakely on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Carman and children spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Carman.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzgerald and Jack were visitors at the home of Mr. Fred Fox of Malone on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. James Fox had the misfortune to have his hand hurt, when the horse he was shoeing kicked.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Deane were visitors at the home of the former's brother, Mr. Herb Deane on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Whyte and family were dinner hour guests at Mr. Ed. Blakely's on Sunday.

Mr. Howard Holmes left for Trenton on Monday where he intends to spend a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holmes.

Reckless Drivers Will Get Deserts

Spokane, Wash., March 28—(AP)—Police Judge G. W. Stocker outlined a policy of even-handed justice for reckless drivers.

They will go to jail for the same length of time persons injured by them are incapacitated.

SCIATICA RUMACAPS CLEANSE your system of Uric Acid, relieving Rheumatism and Sciatica.

USE RUMACAPS

DOLAN THE DRUGGIST

SERVE BETTER MEALS MORE ECONOMICALLY

DOMINION STORES

CANADA'S LARGEST RETAIL GROCERS

These prices effective from Thursday, March 28, to Wednesday, April 3.

DOMINO BAKING POWDER 1-lb. Tin 15c

Weston's Variety Asstd. Biscuits 23c Pound

Chipso Large Pkg. 17¢ 2 Sm. Pkgs. 13c

SOAP Palmolive 5 Cakes 23c

Red Label Lipton's Tea ½-lb. Pkg. 27c

White Weave or Navy TOILET TISSUE 3 Rolls 19c

Fresh - Fragrant Richmello COFFEE 1-lb. Tin 39c

FOR LENT . . .

SALMON

CLOVER LEAF Sockeye 1-lb. Tin 29c

Cohoe 1-lb. Tin 19c

Pink 2 1-lb. Tins 25c

McLaren's Stuffed OLIVES - 11-oz. bot. 29¢

Heinz BAKED BEANS Med. Tins 2 for 23¢

Christie's Vimy CREAMS - - lb. 19¢

Grape Nut FLAKES - 2 pkgs. 25¢

Campbell's Tomato SOUP No. 1 Tin 3 tins 25¢

Ogilvie's WHEATHEARTS pkg. 10¢

Lynn Valley PLUMS - - No. 2 Talls 3 for 25¢

Keen's MUSTARD - ½-lb. tin 49¢

VIP - - small tin 29¢

CALAY SOAP - cake 5¢

PASTRY FLOUR 24-lb. bag 65c

DAIRY SALT 100-lb. bag 95c

EARLY MORNING COFFEE lb. 25c

MIXED HONEY 4½-lb. tin 39c

5-STRING BROOMS - - 35c

DR. BALLARD'S DOG FOOD 1 LB. TIN 2 for 29c

C. and B. LEMON CUP ORANGE CUP LIME CUP 15 oz. Bottle. 15c

FRESH FRUITS

ONTARIO CARROTS 6 qt. Basket 15c

FRESH SPINACH 2 lbs. 25c

COOKING ONIONS 10 lbs. 19c

CHOICE LEMONS Large Size 19c

DR. JACKSON'S ROMAN MEAL Pkg. 29c

Lard 2 1-lb. Pkgs. 27c

DOMINION STORES

CANADA'S LARGEST RETAIL GROCERS

Doctors are ...
"In Oatmeal, nature provides our great protective food!"
...its precious VITAMIN B combats Nervousness Constipation Poor appetite
IN VITAMIN B
Youngsters must have vitamin B. Yet 1c worth of delicious Quaker Oats contains more of it than 3 cakes of fresh yeast.

ALSO! We now find that milk builds growth better with Oatmeal, because of its vitamin B, than with other cereals!

LEADING specialists on children's diet say:—

"Vitamin B is our great protective food, because it combats nervousness, constipation, poor appetite." And, they say oatmeal is a fine source of this precious vitamin B! Nature has stored more of it in 1¢ worth of delicious oatmeal than in three cakes of fresh yeast!

Now a second amazing discovery

Nature has stored not only vitamin B in the oat grain. But essential, life-giving minerals like iron, phosphorous and lime that replenish rich, red blood. Combat anemia. Make heat and energy for the day's work.

And now, say doctors, milk eaten with oatmeal builds growth better than with other cereals. Because the growth value of milk is largely Vitamin G.

And Vitamin G can perform its task only when eaten with a food that contains vitamin B so richly supplied in Quaker Oats!

Don't take breakfast lightly!

Give your family the amazing benefits of Quaker Oats. Here in Nature's great protective food is a most delicious satisfying breakfast! Order Quaker Oats today.

LOVELY ENGLISH CHINA. If you like beautiful china—and what women doesn't—buy the Quaker Oats package marked CHINAWARE—every one contains a piece of china in a new blue and white scenic pattern.

Quick QUAKER OATS

FREE—Amazing Booklet on Child Feeding

The Quaker Oats Co., Peterborough, Ont.

Please send me free a copy of Dr. Bundesen's 32-page book, "Foods for the Growing Child," with 54 helpful illustrations, and many charts showing value, uses and preparation of foods to build healthy children.

Name__________

Address__________

City__________ Prov.______

NEW O'NEILL PLAY

New York, March 29—Eugene O'Neill is at work on a new play, having laid aside his unfinished "The Life of Bessie Bowen" for the time being. Such at any rate is the report of Russel Crouse, mouthpiece of the Theatre Guild and co-author of "Anything Goes".

29¢ lb
MILD AND MELLOW
EIGHT O'CLOCK FRESHLY ROASTED GROUND TO ORDER COFFEE A&P COFFEE SERVICE
25¢ lb
RICH AND FULL-BODIED
RED CIRCLE FRESHLY ROASTED GROUND TO ORDER COFFEE A&P COFFEE SERVICE
33¢ lb
VIGOROUS AND WINEY
FRESHLY ROASTED BOKAR GROUND TO ORDER COFFEE A&P COFFEE SERVICE

LEARN ABOUT

COFFEE VALUE

AT

COOKING SCHOOL

At the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer Cooking School, Miss Claire Andree will show you many new and helpful ideas in cooking.

In her coffee demonstration she will use the A & P Coffee Trio, the three most popular coffees in the world, so that you may learn at first hand why so many mililons prefer them, and how important fresh grinding in A & P Stores is in the making of perfect coffee.

Equal in Quality though different in flavour these coffees are packed in the bean ground fresh in the store.

ROASTED AND PACKED IN CANADA

A&P FOOD STORES

REALLY FRESH COFFEE IS GROUND BEFORE YOUR EYES

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA COMPANY

LIMITED OF CANADA

$2,000 DAMAGES AWARDED WOMAN

Wins Action at Cobourg After Accident at Fraserville

Cobourg, March 28 (CP)— Damages of $2,000 and costs were awarded Mrs. John Albert Dunsmore of Neepawa, Manitoba, against John Franklin Dunsmore of Beamsville, driver of the car in which her husband was killed when it collided with another car near Fraserville last summer.

The damage action was against Dunsmore; Gideon Nantelle, driver of the other car; and William Logan, the owner. The jury absolved Nantelle of any blame, placing the responsibility on Dunsmore. The case, which commenced Monday in Assize Court here, was finished Wednesday.

Mr. Justice J. E. McEvoy dismissed with costs the case against Nantelle. Minutes of settlement were filled with the court in which it was revealed that John F. Dunsmore had settled with Mrs. John A. Dunsmore for $3,600.

THIRD THURLOW WEEKLY NOTES

Third Thurlow, March 28 — Mr. M. J. Walker of Cleveland, Ohio, and sister, Mrs. Wm. Hughes of Napanee visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walker on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Irwin, Belleville, called on Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hamilton on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. McPherson and Mr. and Mrs. Harry McPherson took tea on Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Morley Phillips.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Doxtator spent Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Badgely, Melrose.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Badgely and family of Deseronto spent a day recently with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hamilton.

Rev. W. R. Merrick took dinner on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs F. Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Palmer and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. Ross, Gilead.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Easton and family also Mr. and Mrs. George Hamilton took tea on Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rupert.

A number from this line attended the W.M.S. at home held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Treverton.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Clapp, Bowmanville, spent a few days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Clapp.

Master John Irwin spent last week with his aunt Mrs. George Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Osland spent a day last week in Garden Hill.

Misses Edith and Hazel Walker called on Miss Eva Casey on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Morris of Brantford are visiting Mr. and Mrs. G. Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Beere were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Treverton Sr. of Latta on Sunday.

◆

ENJOYABLE SOCIAL EVENING IS HELD

Springbrook.—The Junior Bible Class of Springbrook United Church held a social evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Meiklejohn, 11th Concession, on Tuesday evening, March 19. The evening was spent in games, community singing and contests which all greatly enjoyed. A delicious lunch was served at the close after which all enjoyed a social half-hour.

Mrs. Elias Spry was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Wilson on Wednesday.

Mrs Edward Owens received word of the death of her mother, Mrs. Marshal Mason of Killarney, Manitoba, on Friday. Mrs. Owens left by train on Saturday afternoon for Killarney where she will attend the funeral. The community extends deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.

Mrs. Flossie Campbell of Stirling is spending this week at the home of her sister, Mrs. Edward Owens.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reid and family were visitors at Mr. Andrew Reid's on Sunday.

Miss Frances McKeown of 11th Concession, spent the week-end with Miss Margaret McKeown.

Mrs. Joe McKeown of Belleville spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. G. H. Green.

Mrs. J. Wescott is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Burton Bateman.

Mrs. Walter Heath spent Tuesday at her sister's, Mrs. Arthur Morrison's.

Friends are sorry to hear of the illness of Mrs. A. McCoy, also of Mrs. Mark Shortt. The community wishes for them both a speedy recovery.

Miss Myrtle McKeown of Belleville spent the week-end with her father, Mr. T. H. McKeown.

Mrs. Louisa Wilson returned home after spending a short time with Mrs. Gordiner, near Marmora.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay McKeown and baby Shirley visited at Mr. Frank Runnalls' on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Ray were Sunday evening guests at Mr. Theodore Cooney's.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Montgomery and Bobbie of Trenton were Sunday visitors at Mr. Cecil Austin's.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rush and baby Bessie, were guests at Mr. Edward Owens on Saturday.

Mrs. Elias Spry of Spry's Settlement spent a day last week with her mother, Mrs. Jeremiah Wilson.

Winsome Jean Parker in the leading feminine role opposite George Raft, in "Limehouse Blues" principal feature attraction at the Capitol starting today.

Mrs. Reynolds of Marmora is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Joe Moon.

The Springbrook United Church Young People's League held their regular weekly meeting on Monday evening with a large attendance. The programme was under the leadership of Miss Jeanne Robinson staged by the Junior members of the League, which all enjoyed greatly.

◆

LADIES' AID HOLDS POT LUCK DINNER

Centre, March 28—Centre Ladies' Aid held an all day quilting and Pot Luck dinner on Wednesday at Mrs. Cecil McFaul's and Mrs. W. J. McFaul's. About twenty ladies were present. Proceeds for the day were $5.25.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Fox and family of Wellington were Sunday visitors of his brother Willie Fox and family.

Several from this vicinity attended the funeral of Mrs. Louisa Vandevoorte at Wellington on Thursday.

The young people attended the V.A.C. social evening at Mr. Stan Barber's, Mountain View on Wednesday evening and report a very enjoyable evening.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Redner were Tuesday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gray of Rednersville, the occasion celebrating the birthday of Mrs. Redner and Mrs. Gray. Mrs. Gray was 88 on Tuesday and is as active as a girl of 18. Her many friends wish her many more birthdays.

The maple bush owners in this vicinity report very poor returns as yet for their labors.

Mrs. W. Coulter spent Wednesday with friends at Bloomfield.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bellyou attended the funeral of Norman Masters at Picton on Monday. Much sympathy is felt for the family who formerly resided at Centre for a few years.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Giles and family visited relatives at Picton on Sunday.

◆

DINNER PARTY IS ENJOYED BY FRIENDS

Union Vale, March 28— Prayer meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Viola Reynolds on Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fox, Mrs. Celia Walker and Clarence were Saturday evening callers at Mr. and Mrs. Clare Pearsall's.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Vincent entertained at their home on Wednesday night, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Orser, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pearsall, Reta and Leland and Mr. L. Allen.

Mr. L. Allen spent the week end with his parents at Adolphustown.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pearsall were host and hostess to a dinner party at seven o'clock on Friday night, when covers were laid for eighteen. Cards and music filled the later hours and a delightful time was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Orser spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. Hubbs of Bloomfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Bongard of Bongard's Corners took dinner on Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Vincent.

Mrs. J. G. Leavitt of Picton spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Jas. Tubbs and Mr. Tubbs.

Mrs. M. Galliger of Picton spent Wednesday afternoon with her sister Mrs. Alton Vincent and Mr. Vincent.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Pearsall and Aileen and Miss Annie McGee spent Monday evening with Mrs. J. VanCleaf this being Mrs. Van Cleaf's birthday.

MASSASSAGA

Mrs. William Jose spent a few days last week with her mother Mrs. Gordon Boyle.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ackerman and Alma spent the dinner hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Davidson.

ONLY 200 WORDS USED

Hollywood, March 28—A full-length motion picture with sound but with no more than 200 words of dialogue is the unusual plan for the filming of Herman Melville's "Typee", forthcoming saga of the people of the South Seas.

CICERI - BOLTON

Free Delivery Phone 926 Prompt Service

Fresh BREAD 5c | CHRISTIE'S Fig Bars 2 lbs. 25c

McCORMICK'S GINGER SNAPS . 3 lbs. 25c

Quick Quaker Oats 21c pkg. | SEEDLESS RAISINS 2 lbs. 21c

BEEHIVE CORN SYRUP 5 lb. tin 36c

BLACK TEA 39c | BULK Rolled Oats 5 lbs. 19c

Free! 3 Kellogg's Sample Pkgs. with 3 pkgs. of Kellogg's Cornflakes 23c

BREAD FLOUR 98 pound bag $2.29

PINK Salmon 2 1 lb. tins 21c | ARROW Soap Flakes 2 pkgs. 27c

REDPATH GRANULATED SUGAR 10 pounds with order 50c

MEAT SPECIALS	FRUIT SPECIALS
RUMP ROAST 14c lb.	CHOICE COOKING APPLES 37c pk.
ROUND STEAK 15c lb.	CHOICE SUNKIST LEMONS 17c doz.
FRESH PORK TENDERLOIN 29c lb.	SUNKIST ORANGES 28c doz.
HOMEMADE SAUSAGE 4 lbs. 25c	CHOICE BANANAS 3 lbs. 23c
PEAMEAL By the Piece BACK BACON lb. 25c	POTATOES 2 pecks 23c

NOW IN THE 4th Million

SEE THE NEW FRIGIDAIRE '35

AT THE COOKING SCHOOL

EVERY MODEL EQUIPPED WITH THE SUPER FREEZER

Constantly through the years Frigidaire has been made more efficient. And now comes the greatest improvement of all—the Frigidaire Super Freezer.

The Super Freezer makes possible a complete refrigeration service. It provides the right kinds of cold for every purpose—all in the same cabinet. There's fast freezing for making ice cubes and desserts; frozen storage for meats and ice cream; extra cold storage for keeping a reserve supply of ice cubes; moist storage for vegetables and fruits; normal storage below 50° for foods requiring dry, frosty cold.

PAYS FOR ITSELF

There's greater economy, too. Operating costs are so low, and you can save so much money on ice and food bills, that your Frigidaire will pay for itself with the money it saves.

But see the Frigidaire '35 for yourself. Learn how easy it is to buy under our liberal terms. Come in today.

AND EVERY MODEL HAS THESE ADDED FEATURES

Every model of the Frigidaire '35 has the famous Super Freezer. And each one has automatic reset defrosting, automatic ice tray release and a Hydrator. Don't fail to see the new Frigidaire '35. Small down payment—easy terms.

THE GENERAL MOTORS REFRIGERATOR - MADE IN CANADA

Radio & Refrigeration Shop

26 BRIDGE STREET. PHONE 395

Frigidaire Sales & Service

333 FRONT ST. PHONE 837

W. W. Hawley, Distributor, 284 Princess St., Kingston, Ont.

Hockey
Current Sport

IN THE REALM OF SPORTING EVENTS

Basketball
Bowling

Babe Seibert Siege Gun of Bruins Will Start Against Leafs in the Third Game

Toronto, However, Expects to Win Two Straight and Title

LEAFS ARE READY

Expect "Kid" Line to go on And Take The Bruins

By ELMER DULMAGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, March 28—(CP)—A man with a bruised foot, Babe (Roughhouse) Siebert, formerly of Kitchener, Ont., whose hockey hey-day was regarded as history more than two years ago, will hobble out and stand on the blue line in Maple Leaf Gardens tonight with a great weight of Boston hopes resting on his broad shoulders.

More than Eddie Shore or Tiny Thompson or even the fleet-footed youngsters, who are assigned to shackle Toronto's "kid line", big and bumptious Babe is regarded as the direct answer to Boston's plea, that the Bruins win this National League play-off series.

In the first game at Boston, Siebert was credited with doing more than his share of the defence work. He did his own job and some of Shore's too. He got a cut across the foot in that long overtime game, which the Bruins won 1-0 and it was all he could do to get a swollen ankle inside a skate boot for the second contest.

He got it there alright and turned in another masterful defensive performance, although they couldn't work him quite as hard. He finally got a tripping penalty in the third period and the Leafs won the game during his absence, squaring the series.

The man with the bruised foot is ready to go out tonight and turn the playoff tide back toward Boston. It is significant that the Babe stands as the biggest barrier to the Leafs. Admittedly more formidable than Thompson and Shore. His foot isn't all better but the swelling is down.

Cinch Series Early

In order to clinch the series as quickly as possible, the Canadian section winners hope to win tonight and Saturday night. They don't think a fifth game will be necessary. The Bruins, less optimistic after Tuesday's setback, are inclined to believe it won't be over until next Tuesday.

Frank Patrick, who perhaps led all the master-minds this season by making a defenceman out of Siebert, arrived with his big brigade last night and refused to forecast anything except "a tough series." Having travelled on the same train, the Leafs fairly shouted their confidence.

They don't think Alex Motter, Red Beattie and Peggy O'Neill, shadowers of Charlie Conacher, Joe Primeau and Harvey Jackson, can get away with it any more. The "kids" broke the charm once and for all. They think, in the third period Tuesday night, when first Conacher, then Jackson broke loose and scored.

But they do think the Bruins will be hard to beat, especially if Siebert is in shape. The answer to this series lies with the Babe if the hostilities continue to have a defensive ring.

Here are tonight's probable line-ups:

Boston	Position	Toronto
Thompson	Goal	Hainsworth
Shore	Defence	Horner
Siebert	Defence	Clancy
Kaminsky	Centre	Thoms
Barry	Wing	Kilrea
Clapper	Wing	Finnigan

Boston subs: Stewart, Shannon, Sands, Davie, McInenley, O'Neill, Beattie and Motter.

Toronto subs: Hollett, Day, Conacher, Primeau, Jackson, Metz, Cotton, Boll and Kelly.

FRANK "ENO'S" CLANCY

Frank Clancy

Frank "King" Clancy is the oldest player in the N.H.L. in the matter of continuous service. He began his professional career with his native Ottawa team in 1924-25, coming to Toronto for the 1930-31 season. Thus he is serving his eleventh year in the Big League of Hockey, and in that time has played on three world championship aggregations, and let's hope he is on his fourth right now. At that, despite his long service, the King is only 32 and still going strong. He also has the distinction with his 150-odd pounds of being perhaps the lightest defenceman the major league ever knew.

And now the secret of the King's verdant youth is out. Always careful in his mode of living and a man of exemplary habits, it will be noted that he long ago realized that an athlete, like Napoleon's army of a century ago and more, fights on its stomach. And so it is that Frank Clancy is a living, driving, speeding atom of energy because he has long been a devotee of Eno's "Fruit Salts." It may sound like an ad., and it is a living one.

MAROONS AND RANGERS MEET

Winner of Two Game Series to Meet Either Boston or Toronto

New York, March 28 (CP)—Montreal Maroons and New York Rangers, standard bearers of opposing hockey methods, tonight open a playoff search which carries with it a colorful record dating back almost to the Rangers' entrance into the National League.

The series is the semi-final round of the 1935 Stanley Cup eliminations, a two game affair decided by total goals. The second game will be played at Montreal Saturday.

The Rangers, a colorful crew of veteran goal getters with a shaky defence excepting, that presented by Davy Kerr, the former Maroon goalie, eliminated Montreal Canadiens 6-5 in the opening round.

The Maroons, who can attack when they want to with plenty of power but rely mainly upon close back-checking to render the enemy impotent, conquered the Black Hawks 1-0.

The bookies, who haunt the shadows around Madison Square Garden were offering 6 to 5 against Maroons tonight but in the series the same odds were being laid against the Rangers.

Thus the bet-makers expressed their opinion, that the men of Tommy Gorman can spot the New Yorkers' tonight's game and come through in the second game at Montreal Saturday with enough goals to draw into the final round for the cup, against the winner of the current Toronto-Boston series. The bookmakers may have been figuring their odds on the total goals scored by the teams against each other during the regular national league schedule. The six regular games produced 19 goals for the Montreals against 13 for Lester Patrick's skaters. Maroons won three of the games as against one tie and two defeats.

These rivals first met in the playoffs in 1928, when the Rangers won the Stanley Cup in their second year of existance after a five-game battle which was written down in hockey history, when Goalie Lorne Chabot was seriously injured and Manager Lester Patrick took his place in the net. In 1931 they clashed in a preliminary round and the Rangers won 8-1 on goals. Last year the Maroons reversed that decision 2-1 in the third place series.

Rangers	Position	Maroons
Kerr	Goal	Connell
Seibert	Defence	Wentworth
Starr		Evans
Boucher	Centre	Smith
W. Cook	Wings	Ward
F. Cook		Northcott

Rangers', subs—Patrick, Dillon, Murdoch, Keeling, Mason, Connolly, Somers or McKenzie, Heller, Johnson.

Maroons' subs—Trottier, Marker, Cain, Blinco, Gracie, Millier, Robinson, Conacher and Shields.

VETERANS WIN

The Army and Navy Veterans and 34th, C.F.A. held a challenge shoot on Tuesday night, March 25th the Vets, winning from the C.F.A. by a small margin of six points. The scores were as follows:

Army and Navy
T. Pritchard	20
P. Ford	18
H. Leeming	8
R. Fisher	19
Ab. Newman	13
Art Newman	14
F. Stag	19
T. Horton	14
C. Colman	16
S. Pointer	14
	155

34th., C.F.A.
Sgt. H. A. Fray	17
Q.M.S G. H. Smith	15
Gnr. W. Ironsides	13
Bdr. L. Boyle	7
Gnr. F. Law	10
Siglr L. Noakes	13
Sgt. W. Laney	13
Siglr. H. Liddle	18
Siglr. H. Plummer	15
Bdr. J. Nayler	18
	149

HE FELT LIKE A TRAMP
when he tried to get by without shaving

● Sometimes patches of stubble on the face can be as embarrassing as patches in the pants. Do you remember that time you thought you'd get by without shaving—then met someone very important? Didn't you feel like a tramp—untidy and slovenly?

It pays to use a razor blade that shaves you close and clean without sting or discomfort. That is why the Gillette "Blue Blade" is first choice of the overwhelming majority of men. It is especially made to permit daily, or even twice daily shaving with perfect comfort. Your dealer has Gillette "Blue Blades."

Highest Quality Positively Guaranteed
Gillette Blue Blades
NOW 5 for 25¢ · 10 for 50¢

On Coach's Record Rangers Rated High by Experts

Think Possibly They Can Defeat Any of The Teams

By A. E. FULFORD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, March 28—(CP)— Rating them on their coach's record, New York Rangers have a better chance to win the Stanley Cup than Toronto Leafs, Boston Bruins or Montreal Maroons.

They don't pay off on records, of course, but the fact tall, grey-haired Lester Patrick has piloted three teams to world titles may tip the balance a bit toward the New Yorkers in the battle for the world title.

None of the other master-minds who will, according to their temperaments, sit calmly on the bench or storm noisily through the semi-finals and finals for the mug Lord Stanley donated, has as long a record of world champions beside his name.

True, Tommy Gorman, the smiling Ottawa Irishman who led Chicago Hawks to the championship last year and brushed them aside with his Montreal Maroons last Tuesday, has been associated with four teams, that reached the top.

But he was in his fledging days as a hockey mind when as secretary treasurer, he helped Ottawa Senators to the world title in 1920, 1921 and 1923. Pete Green, another Ottawa Irishman and a miracle man in his day, coached the Senators then.

Frank Patrick of Boston Bruins, younger of the Patrick brothers, will manage his first Stanley Cup team in 20 years if Bruins should beat Toronto in their present series and defeat Rangers or Maroons in the finals. It was away back in 1916, that Patrick coached and played for Vancouver Millionaires, when they beat Ottawa for the title.

Newcomer To Ranks

Comparatively a newcomer to managerial ranks, when he is considered beside Gorman and the Patricks, Dick Irwin of Toronto Leafs already has a world title to his credit and seems in a fair way to take another. He took Leafs to the top in 1932 when they defeated Rangers.

A pair who have many of the same characteristics in action will direct their teams from the benches tonight in New York when Gorman's Maroons wage war on Lester Patrick's Rangers. Both are the nervous rail-thumping type who work almost as hard as their players during a hard series.

Patrick has spent his life in the game. He had his first success in the Stanley Cup competition in 1925 when his Victoria Cougars beat out Montreal Canadiens for the world title and made his reputation in the east as a master-mind by taking Rangers through to world titles in 1928 and 1933.

Gorman, former parliamentary page-boy, newspaper reporter, sports editor and Olympic lacrosse star (back in 1908) broke into pro-hockey through the business office of the Ottawa Senators.

Later he went to New York Americans, where he had more success than anyone else, and then to Chicago to lead Hawks to the title in his first full season with them.

Y. M. C. A. ALLEYS

In the Ladies' Afternoon League the Crescents got three points to the Goodfellows' one.

Men's Evening League

In the Men's League the Ontario Hydro got all four points from the Teachers. In the same League the Maple Spillers got three points to the Alley Cats' one.

Church and Young Peoples

In the Church and Young Peoples League the Baptists got all four points from Holloway.

St. Andrew's got four points from Tabernacle; St. Andrew's winning the Winter League.

Recreation Alleys

Major "B" League

Garage Supply (1 pt.)—
H. Gilbert	539
P. Gettis	528
B. Holway	427
O. Lloyd	538
N. Hallam	581
	2613
Ontario Intelligencer (3 pts.)—
J. Ling	422
H. Ridley	657
C. Ling	600
D. Garlepy	612
R. Hardwick	626
	2917
American Hardware (2 pts.)—
H. Reid	501
J. Rundle	627
H. Hanton	512
E. Dunnett	575
P. Drumm	710
	2925
Tip Top (2 pts.)—
R. Simpson	528
H. Pointer	592
S. Robinson	623
A. Meens	621
N. Wilbur	528
	2952
Grills Garage (3 pts.)—
G. Barriage	639
H. Moxam	561
A. Whalen	629
W. Spafford	495
G. Anderson	608
	2932
S. W. A. A. C. (1 pt.)—
L. Turner	556
T. Colden	596
Barclay	485
Kemp	415
E. Summers	590
	2642

Mixed League

Trojans (3 pts.)—
Miss S. Melchior	537
J. Pilling	483
M. MacLean	485
H. Gilbert	513
Miss L. Melchior	474
W. Flagler	613
	3105
Sunworthies (1 pt.)—
L. Miles	436
H. Wilbur	386
A. Barlow	316
R. Miles	614
M. Wilbur	481
A. Meens	619
	2852.
Tailenders (1 pt.)—
Miss M. Gymer	368
Miss V. Holway	375
Miss V. Lewis	394
N. Hallam	623
W. Holway	453
O. Lloyd	697
	2910
Cut Throats (3 pts.)—
S. Barrett	688
Miss J. Croft	535
Miss D. Canning	445
J. Diamond	440
Mrs. J. Fordyce	462
G. Fordyce	499
	3069
Beer Barons 4 pts.—
J. Kelleher	409
B. Simpson	528
M. Kelleher	564
S. Robinson	761
M. Grant	393
D. Pointer	452
	3107
Our Gang 0 pts.—
B. Black	388
L. Judge	251
B. Judge	347
E. Leeming	539
J. Blair	399
J. Barrett	341
	2665

LEADERS in MEN'S STYLES

"Club Clothes"
STYLE SUPREME

Your last season's suit does not look like this, does it?

CLUB CLOTHES present the leading fashions for this season.

The double-breasted jacket with sports back and outside swing pockets. The trousers with accentuated fullness in the style that the smartly dressed men will wear.

This is only one of the many models shown by

Quick & Robertson
CLOTHIERS OF QUALITY

Tomorrow is Your Final Opportunity to See and Hear Miss Andree's Demonstration of the

STEWART - WARNER
"Daventry"
with Easy Chair Control
at the
ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER
COOKING SCHOOL
Capitol Theatre, 1.30 p. m.

We urge you not to miss this fascinating demonstration. Hundreds have already seen it and are talking about it. Be "in the know"—make a point of getting down early tomorrow for the last of these interesting sessions.

Stewart-Warner makes IN BELLEVILLE a complete line of up-to-date radio receivers, priced from $69.50 to $179.50.

Big "A" Company, Ltd.
217 FRONT ST. PHONE 284

for Girls SPRING SPECIALS for Boys
Bicycles, Joycycles, Wagons, Scooters, Trailers, Roller Skates, Softballs, Baseball Gloves

Baseball Glove
Cream Glove leather, with laced wrist
$1.49

TRAILER
A Sporty Attachment for any wagon
$2.95

Roller Skates
Nickle Plated Shoe Plates and Ball Bearing Wheels
$1.49

JOYCYCLES for ages 2 to 8 years $2.95 to $13.50

SOFTBALL
Very Serviceable for School use
$1.00

SCOOTERS
Large Tires and Roller Bearings
$2.95

New WAGONS to make youngsters happy
$3.95

BICYCLES
ALL MODELS AND SIZES
Your old Bicycle Taken as part payment
$27.50 to $50.00

BIG NEWS ON THE RADIO
Only $3.95 for Two 45 volt 'B' Batteries
NEW LANTERN FLASHLIGHTS 69c

299 Front St.
Stephen Licence
Bicycles & Sport Goods
Phone 985

At the Training Grounds

(By Alan Gould)
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Tampa, Fla, March 28.—(AP)—In sharp but interesting contrast to Boston Braves' dramatic experiment with glorified age, just across the bay, the Cincinnati Reds are concentrating almost exclusively on youthful baseball talent of the grade "A" or "AA" variety, with an ear to the ground and an eye for the future.

A solid month of spring training has caused close observers to acknowledge that Charlie Dressen has made real progress in developing his youthful squad.

The work of Al Hollingsworth and Gene Schott, both obtained from Toronto, and Leroy Herrman, right-hander, who won 27 games for San Francisco last season, has been sufficiently noteworthy to clinch regular jobs for them and buoy the pitching prospects. Paul Derringer, Si Johnson, Danny McFayden, Tony Freitas and Bennie Frey will have to hustle to keep from being elbowed out of the list of starting pitchers.

The one problem still unsolved by Manager Dresdent is whether Johnny Mize, heavy hitting first sacker obtained from the Cardinals by way of Rochester, will be fit to handle the regular job and justify the price, that must be paid if he sticks. If Mize is turned back, the veteran Jim Bottomley will be restored to active duty.

The Reds are satisfied with the rest of their kid infield, including Alex Kampouris at second base, sensational Billy Myers at short and Lew Riggs on third, with Tony Piet and Gordon Slade as utility men. The outfield will combine experience and the team's main hopes of batting punch with Chick Hafey in left, Sam Byrd in centre and Rochester Rookie, Ival Goodman, in right. Harlin Pool and Adam Comorosky will be in reserve.

Y.M.C.A. ALLEYS

Ladies' Afternoon

Crescents — Miss Fairbairn 627; Miss Sine 470; Mrs. Thompson 391; Mrs. Ward 464; Mrs. Maybee 311. Total 2263.

Goodfellows—Mrs. Cherrie 421; Mrs. Shaw 405; Mrs. Moon 487; Mrs. Lent 336; Mrs. Hart 368. Total 2017.

Men's League

Ont. Hydro—K. Munnings 539; H. Poste 641; L. Blaker 627; Davies 455; O. W. Munning 462. Total 2724.

Teachers— Frederick 406; Kells 567; Anderson 502; Doe 427; Doe 442. Total 2344.

Alley Cats— McMurray 544; K. Weeks 526; E. Blake 555; A. McCreary 510; L. Steward 482. Total 2617.

Maple Spillers—Johnson 541; Lent 525; Davidson 586; Crooks 535; Austin 574. Total 2761.

● You'll like the rich, full flavour of Salada Orange Pekoe Blend. Try a package.
43

'SALADA' TEA

'THE BRIDGE GRUDGE BATTLE OF CENTURY'

CULBERTSON. SIMS

Supposed to be the "grudge" battle of the century", Ely Culbertson and his wife took on P. Hal Sims and his wife in a bridge battle to decide something or other. It seems that Sims once accused Culbertson of "lifting" the Sims' system and calling it his own. Whereupon press agents worked up a real fight. In actual play, they started off by overdoing the praise for each other's play—to say nothing of sitting through an eight-course dinner. Play will continue for about 15 days.

BANQUET TENDERED ZION'S HILL TEAM

Plainfield—A very successful banquet in honor of the Zion's Hill hockey team who won the trophy presented by James Hill, M.P.P. was tended by the ladies of Zion congregation of the Plainfield pastoral charge in the Orange Hall, Plainfield, on Monday evening. Tables capable of seating over one hundred persons were daintily spread. The honored guests and visitors gathered in the United Church and at eight o'clock proceeded to the hall in a body. Mr. Stillman Gay of Foxboro with Allan at the piano had charge of the community singing after which all joined in singing the National Althem in honor of His Majesty the King. The toast list included the following. To the hockey team moved by Erie S. Denyes and responded to by Arthur Hall; To the visitors, moved by Homer Townsend and responded to by Dr. Welsh, of Roslin; to the ladies moved by Harry Harrison and responded to by Mrs. Ralph Sills. Readings were given by Charles Elliott and Mrs. Harry Harrison, Mrs. Arthur Hall rendered a beautiful solo and music was contributed by Miss Phyllis Beatty, Lawreson Ketcheson and Mr. Harold Beatty, on the piano, guitar and mouth organ respectively.

Rev. J. F. Everson who played the part of chairman moved a vote of thanks to all who had helped so graciously with the program and this was supported by Mr Cecil Ketcheson. The singing of Auld Lang Syne brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

At the close of the service in the United Church on Sunday evening, the pastor introduced six members of his congregation who had written on the Principles of Teaching by Professor A. J. W. Meyers and presented them with certificates. "O Master Let me walk with thee" was sung after which a few words explaining the purpose and emphasizing the importance of having trained teachers of religion were given by the pastor. The following ladies were presented with certificates: Madames E. S. Denyes, J. A. Moore, Arthur Hall, Clarence Hall, Sherman Parks, and J. F. Everson. Charles Elliott, of Mount Pleasant congregation also received a certificate on the same unit of study. The service concluded by singing, "I would be true for there are those who trust me."

◆

Arm is Severely Mangled by Machine

West Lake—Mr. and Mrs. Whitford Collier, East Lake road, visited Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown on Wednesday.

Leo McQuade spent the week-end at his home here.

The play put on by the Young People's Society on Friday night last drew a large crowd, a silver collection was taken.

Mrs. Hubert Huff has been quite ill. Her friends hope to see her enjoying her usual good health soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McConnell were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. David Maq, Melville.

The Aid meeting at the home of Mrs. George Magees' on Thursday was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kleinsteuber spent Sunday with relatives near Tamworth.

West Lake friends of Harry East of Bloomfield were very sorry to learn of his serious accident on Friday when his arm and shoulder were very badly mangled when his arm was drawn into the machinery in connection with the electric baker at Taylor's bakery, Bloomfield. Mr. East is in P.E.C. Hospital.

◆

Death Occurs of Mrs. D. Vandervoorte

Victoria, March 28—There passed away at her home in Wellington on Tuesday, March 19th, Mrs. David Vandervoorte, aged 79 years.

Mrs. Vandevoorte was born at Burr's, a daughter of the late Isaac Lambert and Jane MacDonald. Mrs. Vandevoorte was twice married, her first husband being Danford Ainsworth. By this marriage there were three daughters, Mrs. Fred Bonter, Mrs. Lorne Brickman and Mrs. Carl Bryant. Her second husband was David Vandevoorte, who predeceased her thirteen years ago. One sister and brother predeceased her. Besides her three daughters she leaves, four grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

The funeral was held on Thursday at the United Church, Wellington, Rev. H. H. Hillis officiating. Interment was in Burr's cemetery. The pall bearers were Mr. John Hutchinson, Anthony Murphy, Fred Archard, Anson Shortt, Delmer Tice and A. A. Morden.

Mrs. Vandevoorte was a lady of sterling character, a good friend and neighbor, and a loving mother. She will be greatly missed in the community and church where she took an active part when health permitted. She will be greatly missed by her many friends and relatives.

Floral tributes were:

Wreath: Daughter.

Sprays: Mrs. D. Lambert, The Grandchildren, Wellington, Women's Association, Mr. and Mrs. German Vandevoorte, Mr. D. F. Trumpour and family and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hubbs, Alice and Malcilm spent unday at Mr. R. C. Hubbs', Centre.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brickman and baby spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Holmes.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Green and Wilbert spent Sunday at Mr. G. Brooks'.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Brickman spent a couple of days at Wellington owing to the death of her mother, Mrs. Louisa Vandevoorte.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Brickman and Audra, Mrs. Wm. Hubbs, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Brickman, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brickman and baby. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fox, Mrs. W. S. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Redner, Mrs. D. W. Redner. Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Adams, Mr. and Mrs. R. Stafford and Rev. R. D. and Mrs. Mullin attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Louisa Vandevoorte of Wellington on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Green of Stirling spent a couple of days with his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Green.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Brickman and Audra called Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. D. L. Trumpour. Hillier who has been very ill but glad to report is better.

Mrs. C. Bonter and Irma, Miss Dorothy MacDonald and Joe Foley spent the tea hour Sunday evening at Mr. Lorne Brickman's.

CILUX ENAMELS
WHICH ARE BEING FEATURED IN THE DeBoth HOME MAKERS' SCHOOL... THIS WEEK AT...
THE CAPITOL THEATRE
are but one of the complete line of C-I-L Paint Products, including house paint, flat and gloss wall finishes, floor paints, varnishes and varnish stains, etc. made by Canadian Industries Limited—the makers of DUCO—and identified by the well-known oval trademark— C-I-L your assurance of quality.
SOLD BY
WHITE HARDWARE CO.
267 Front Street. Telephone 323
814
THERE IS A C-I-L PAINT FOR EVERY PURPOSE

Phone 2380 FOR SNAPPY SHOPPING SERVICE FREE DELIVERY
BLUE'S MARKETERIA
Belleville's Largest Independent Market
Phone 2380 FOR SNAPPY SHOPPING SERVICE FREE DELIVERY

Ladies Attending the Cooking School can not fail to be impressed with the fine quality of Meats and Groceries used by Miss Claire Andree, Demonstrator. All the meats and Groceries used in the School by Miss Andree are from Blue's Marketeria and Miss Andree has personally complimented the store management upon the High Quality of goods handled and the very reasonable prices asked. Remember the best is none too good for Miss Andree and the Best should be none too good for you, particularly when prices are so reasonable.

MEAT DEP'T. SPECIALS
BE SURE TO PHONE OR VISIT OUR MODERN MEAT COUNTER THIS WEEK-END!
Sirloin Steak 18c lb.
FREE 1-4 lb. Our Pure Pork Sausage with ½ lb. Swift's Bacon at 17c
Porterhouse Steak or Roast 18c lb.
Boneless Rolled LAMB 20c lb.
Fresh Pork SHOULDERS 14c lb.
FRESH HAMS per lb 18c

GROCERY DEPARTMENT
MAXWELL HOUSE COFFEE ... (1's) 38c
Jewel SHORTENING lb. 11c
P. & G. SOAP 8 bars 24c
MONARCH FLOUR, 24's 76c 7's 23c
PRINCESS FLAKES 2 pkgs. 27c
Palm Olive SOAP 3 for 14c
All Brands SODA WAFERS 9c
One (1) Lifebuoy Soap Free with One (1) Large pkg. Rinso at 21c
Two (2) Kirk's Soap Free with Large pkg. CHIPSO at 19c
BUTTER SPECIAL!
ROYCROFT CREAMERY per lb. 24c
BELLEVILLE CREAMERY per lb. 25c
BROOKFIELD CHEESE ½ lb. pkg. 2 for 25c
27 oz. SWEET MIXED PICKLES .. 21c
32 oz. Betty Jam Raspberry, Strawberry or Pineapple 26c
Pickled Beets or Relish 20 oz. bottle 23c
2 in 1 Shoe Polish 10c
Dalton's Assorted Jars of Spices 3 for 25c
Clover Leaf Cohoe (1's) Salmon 19c
Clover Leaf Pink Salmon 11c
ONE (1) KELLOGG KIT FREE with 3 pkgs. KELLOGG'S CORNFLAKES at 25c
FRUITS and VEGETABLES
Spinach 2 lbs. 23c Sweet Potatoes lb. 5c Extra Large Oranges doz. 39c
NEW CABBAGE, CARROTS, BEANS, CUCUMBERS, ETC.

Flo-glaze

PAINTS-VARNISHES-ENAMELS

"LEAVE NO BRUSH MARKS"

Sold in Belleville Exclusively by WALKER HARDWARE CO. LIMITED
245-250 Front Street Phone 163

Guardians of the Desert

By TOM GILL

A chill struck Dick's heart—the gruesome thought of that very possibility had already occurred to him, and looking at Stub he read in the other's eyes the same look of foreboding. It would be no great task to fire those tinder-dry logs—and then—

"Give us time to think it over," he answered, and after a little hesitation the voice grudgingly replied, "We're givin' you just five minutes."

CHAPTER NINETEEN

Anxiously the three looked into each other's eyes, and to Dick it seemed that the girl was the least concerned of all. Rapidly she shook her head. "Even they wouldn't do that. They wouldn't dare. Why every rancher in the desert would ride them down by tomorrow."

But Stub's eyes were still sombre. "They'll do whatever they want up here, Miss. You're in el Toro, you know," he reminded her.

Dick nodded. "We must gain all the time we can. Then if they fire the place we'll put Nora on the horse and shoot our way out. In the darkness it will be every man for himself."

"But what about me?" the captive protested from his chair.

Stub glared at him. "You- Oh, you'll be decorating that pile of ashes in the morning, brother," he answered cheerfully.

But it seemed a short five minutes when again the voice from outside called, "Well, going to be reasonable?"

"Give us more time. We haven't decided."

"No? Then we'll decide for you." The tone of finality in that unseen voice told them beyond any doubt the end of the truce was at hand. Ahead lay only the remote and desperate chance of holding them at bay until help reached them, or, failing that, to fight their way out to safety. Long odds, and silently Stub cocked his rifle, the girl took up the captive's revolver, and now, facing the door, all three crouched in the shelter of the bar.

Not long to wait. Almost at once the men outside struck the door with a concerted rush. The hinges, already weakened by the impact of those previous blows, tore from their fastenings, and with a splintering crash the door burst inward. Thrust forward by the momentum of the men behind, the leader of the attackers rushed, gun in hand, into the room. Catching sight of Lowell he raised his revolver—just too late. Without aiming, Dick fired from the hip and the man sprawled headlong face downward, in the centre of the floor. Stub's scarred cheek nestled against his rifle, waiting for the next intruder, but through the shattered doorway the night lay silent and empty —not one had dared to follow.

A momentary lull, then from somewhere outside a rifle cracked and a silvery tinkling of glass rang out from the shattered mirror. Instantly Nora reached forward and dashed the lamp to the floor, plunging the room in darkness. Silence again, while framed by the open door, the night loomed, dimly starlit.

The two men crouched now at either end of the long bar, where, safe from scattered shots, they could command a killing crossfire against any who might enter. Once through the darkness the prisoner raised a despairing voice, pleading with his friends not to fire, and once again the baffled silence told Dick that for a time at least there would be respite from attack.

Long minutes passed. Heavy footsteps hurried outside followed soon by the sound of low laughter. Another interlude, noiseless except for the night wind's passing. Dick's body ached with the tenseness of his attitude—would nothing ever happen? In the darkness she heard the mare move restlessly, and now, aroused by some indefinable warning, Lowell raised his head and sniffed the air. Very faintly the first telltale scent of burning wood reached his nostrils. He bent low, and crawling from the shelter of the bar flung open the door into the back room. Here the smell was stronger, and listening intently, Dick caught the first hungry crackling of flames just outside the thick log walls.

This, then was the end. For a second hot anger seized him, a savage desire to rush out with blazing automatic in either hand, and take what toll he could of those relentless foes. Swiftly he closed the door as he heard the girl's quick intake of breath beside him, and the low words, "Stub was right. They've fired the cantina."

"Yes.' Gently he pulled her to him, and even in that tense moment the nearness of the unseen girl at his side stirred him, causing his voice to be not quiet steady as he placed his lips close to her ear.

"It will be a half hour before those walls burn through," he whispered, "but there's nothing to gain by waiting. They won't expect us to rush so soon, and if we act quickly we may have a chance to break through. I want you to mount the mare. Stub and I will go out first and drive them back. You follow at the first shots, gallop like mad down the canyon and bring help."

He stopped, for he felt her cool fingers on his wrist, and her hair brushed his cheek as she shook her head.

"You know I couldn't bring help in time," she answered gently. "It would be too late. Let me stay with you."

But now his voice was firm. "You have got to go, Nora —there's no other way."

In the darkness two arms encircled him and two lips reached up to his lips while despairingly she clung with all the strength of her body to his.

"Please don't send me away. I'd rather die than leave you like this."

Without a word he raised her in his arms and carried her to the horse, but as he groped for the bridle a shot rattled down the canyon, followed by a far-off about. Excitedly men were calling to one another outside, and the sound of their frantically hurrying feet grew fainter, then died away.

Motionless, with every sense alert Dick waited, the girl still in his arms, while about them ever more thickly curled the rising, pungent smoke, stinging their eyes, clutching at their throats.

Another shot, this time nearer. Then, faintly at first, but ever closer from down the canyon trail rose the faint thunder of many horses' hoofs, and suddenly a thrill of hope surged over Dick. Releasing the girl he ran quickly to the door. At a wild gallop nearly a score of horsemen were rounding the turn beneath them, and even in the dim light as they poured across the deserted street Dick could make out Will Barnes leading them, hatless and disheveled, beating his foam-flecked horse at every step. With a shout that rose above the pounding hoofs Dick ran to the middle of the road.

And now a seething, clamoring band of horsemen surrounded him, their grim faces shining with sweat in the pale starlight, the steam from their panting horses rising thick in the cold night air.

Barnes slipped from the saddle. "Where's Nora?"

"Inside." Dick pointed toward the cantina and together they ran forward just as the girl led Dick's mare from the smoke-filled room. A moment later Stub joined them, followed by his bound, terrified captive. The besiegers had vanished utterly.

Barnes' men wasted no time and few words, for none knew how soon a fresh attack might be launched with augmented numbers of Sari's forces. Summarily the captive, hands still tied, was made to mount behind one of the cowboys, and Barnes himself Nora lifted Nora to his own horse, while Dick and Stub on the white mare led the way down the canyon.

But as they passed the last turn that shut from view the silent, forbidding village, Lowell stopped to look back. Flames from the cantina were rising higher now, casting jagged ribbons of red into the air, while each gust of wind whirled great flaming handfuls of sparks across the sky. Thoughtfully Dick contemplated the lurid scene and at last his eyes raised to Barnes.

"War," he said slowly and soberly. "War from tonight on."

Without another word the little band turned down the canyon trail.

CHAPTER TWENTY

They rode slowly, with doubly burdened ponies, and dawn was just touching the desert with its first faint radiance when the horsemen emerged from Copper Canyon to stand again on United States soil. Here the party split, Barnes and his cowboys taking their captive to the Verde jail, while Stub elected to go home with Dick.

Stub had shrugged philosophically. "After all, there ain't nothing waiting for me up el Toro way but a knife between the ribs or a lead pill in the semicoln."

And Dick accepted this new ally gladly, knowing that before many days he would have need of all Stub's aid and loyalty.

Worn out with struggle and long riding, both men reached Lowell's hacienda dog tired, and as the sun rose, bright and glittering and cloudless above the mesa, these two strangely assorted friends threw themselves down and slept.

Hours passed, but they were still sleeping when Barnes rode up at noon and pulled them from their beds to eat a much belated breakfast. Briefly Barnes told them what little news he could pick up in town. Sari had not yet appeared in Verde, but word of Nora's abduction was spreading like wild fire throughout the ranches, and many of Will Barnes' old friends had come to the newspaper office to offer help.

"The maddening part of it is," Barnes ended, "that although we're all perfectly sure who did it, there's no one I can lay hands on. Nora wasn't able to identify any of them. Our chance of learning anything is this one fellow safe behind bars, and he'll probably talk. Some of the boys wanted to make him talk last night, but we've got to go ahead lawfully."

With a little quizzical smile Dick regarded his old friend. "Will, I sometimes wish I had your childlike trust in the law. There's something sublime about it. But I tell you the law is dead here on the border—we must be our own law er the fight belongs to Sari."

He might have added more, but an express truck drove up, and Dick signed for three long, crated packages. He laid them carefully on the porch, and his eyes shone with excitement as he turned again to his friends.

"These boxes, by the way, may have a little to do with laying down the law," he told them.

Stub's face brightened. "Machine guns?" he asked eagerly.

"No, you bloodthirsty brigand," Dick laughed "It's a surveyor's transit and stadia rods."

Then smiling at Stub's disappointment, he turned to Barnes. "I'm planning to run a survey over the proposed route of Sari's ditch. It's got to be done in dead secrecy, or Sari's outfit may find some way to interfere. So I want you and Stub to help me."

"Aren't we bound to be seen?"

"Of course we are. But it happens that Dad wants his boundaries surveyed, and we can let them believe we're doing that. We won't have to run that survey many miles to find out what I want, and then—" Dick hesitated. "I may be able to tell you something of interest to your scandal-loving old newspaper."

Barnes' dark eyes were on him, as if speculating what he might mean, but as Lowell said nothing more, he reached in his pocket, and taking out an empty cartridge, dropped it in Dick's hand.

"I had this in my office when your father was here. It's the shell I found beside Bruce's body. Nora thought you should have it."

Curiously Lowell raised the little brass cylinder between his fingers. It had been used in a .38 calibre automatic, perhaps the most common type of side arm on the border and as he held it Dick shook his head. "Any one of a hundred guns might have used this cartridge—it would fit my own."

Turning it slowly, he examined its smoothly burnished sides, then studied with minute care the deep indentation made in the cap by the firing pin of the killer's automatic.

Without a word he handed it to Stub, asking, "What do you make of it?"

For a time Stub scrutinized the shell, then shrugged his shoulders.

"Look closely at the mark of the firing pin." He looked up hopefully. "Will that help you"?

"It isn't likely. We can't examine every automatic on the border—and if we tried it, the murderer would get rid of his gun long before we reached him. No, I'd rather work it out along different lines. Still—" Dick hesitated. "It's curious—" He put the cartridge in his pocket, and rising, turned to Barnes.

"If you're going into Verde, I'll ride over with you."

Together they walked to the barn where Dick saddled, and soon the two friends were trotting down the dusty road toward town.

At the bank they separated and Lowell entering, drew from the teller two hundred dollars in twenty dollar bills, then rode slowly out toward the Mexican Quarter.

Since early days it had held itself separate and distinct from the town, this Mexican Quarter of Verde. Here at least, the march of progress and the ravages of passing years alike brought little change. Low, sprawling adobe shacks, patched, crumbling mud walls, and innumerable dogs that scratched lazily in the shade—all this must have been much as in those far off days when the first adventurous settlers had given the town of Verde its faintly derisive name. Sunlight and red adobe clay, children and dogs sprawling beneath the very feet of his horse, a winding, dusty road that led out toward the desert—this was the Quarter.

Dick rode with head bowed as if in thought, then reaching a narrow lane, he turned sharply to the left, and dismounting, tied his mare to a low fence. Here, seemingly, the poverty and disorder had been more successfully held at bay, for small shaded homes with well kept gardens replaced the baked adobe clay and told of somewhat more prosperous circumstances in this section of the Quarter. Toward the nearest of these vine-covered cottages Dick stepped, and as he opened the gate to enter the little garden he heard a glad exclamation of welcome, and Lolita ran out to greet him.

"You are good to come. I wanted you so to see him," she murmured, her little hand on his sleeve.

Dick looked about him. "Who is home?" he asked guardedly.

She smiled. "No one—none but you and I and—one other."

Then taking him by the hand, she led him inside the house and closed the door.

But just before that door closed, had Dick chanced to look back he might have seen a slender girl riding down the same sun-lit road on her way from Verde. It was a favorite short-cut for Nora, this winding, neglected road, and now she rode slowly, stopping for a moment to chat with the Mexican women who ran eagerly to their doorways to wish a friendly "Buenas tardes" to the well-beloved senorita. For scarcely a women of the Quarter, scarcely a naked infant playing by the doorway but knew her and in times past had reason to remember her gifts and kindness, and now every brown youngster that saw her ran out to wave shrill greeting as she passed.

(To be Continued)

"TROUBLED WITH CONSTIPATION* FOR PAST 25 YEARS"

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Welcome Relief

Read this voluntary letter from Mr. Lecour: "I have been troubled with constipation* for the past 25 years. I tried practically every cathartic without results.

"Recently, I determined to give Kellogg's ALL-BRAN a fair trial. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has not only helped me, but I believe it is an actual relief for chronic constipation."—Mr. Henry E. Lecour. Address upon request.

*Due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. It also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle—and safe for normal individuals. Often more effective than "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body.

Isn't this natural food pleasanter than patent medicines? Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Keep on the Sunny Side of Life

Undue Tiredness
The result of Anaemia

Anaemia and nervous disorders are very closely allied.
Deficiency of iron in the blood
Robs the blood of its nourishing qualities
And the necessary amount of nerve force
Is not supplied to the system.
Nerve Force is lacking to run the machinery of the body,
And you become over tired.
Not only do you feel bodily tired,
But your brain is tired and sluggish.
Every organ of the body is slowed in action,
You have indigestion and headaches
And you are restless and sleepless at night.
To get rid of the tired feelings
Caused by anaemia of the blood
It is only necessary to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
This medicine feeds iron and other restoratives to the blood.
Fills the system with new nerve force
And brings back vigor and energy,
New hope and confidence to the tired body.

IT'S YOUR DOLLAR: make the most of it NOW!

"DAILY EGG" FEEDS
Laying Mash, 100 lbs.	$2.19
Scratch Feed, 100 lbs.	$1.99
Regular or Chick Size Oyster Shell, 100 lbs.	99c
Poultry Grit, 100 lbs.	59c
"DAILY GROWTH" CHICK FEEDS
Chick Starter, 100 lbs.	$2.63
Growing Mash, 100 lbs.	$2.25
Chick Grains, 100 lbs.	$2.25
"DANDY BRAND"
Bran, 100 lbs.	$1.42
Shorts, 100 lbs.	$1.46
Middlings, 100 lbs.	$1.66
SALT
Fine, 50 lbs.	39c
Coarse, 50 lbs.	55c
Block Iodized, 50 lbs.	59c
Block Plain, 50 lbs.	50c

HELLMAN'S PRODUCTS
SPECIAL LOW PRICES
Mayonnaise 8-oz. Jar 23c
Tartar Sauce 3½ oz. Jar 13c 8 oz. Jar 27c

A & P Health Cookies 2 lbs. 25c
A & P Angel Cake Each 27c

CHOICE QUALITY
Fowl 4 to 5 Lbs. Average lb. 19c

Fish Specials
SALMON
FANCY STEELHEAD STEAKS, lb. 22c By the Piece Lb. 18c
SILVERBRIGHT STEAKS, lb. 15c By the Piece Lb. 13c
FRESH CAUGHT WHITEFISH lb. 21c
YELLOWTAIL—FRESH Flounders lb. 13c
FRESH Fillets Cut from Cod and Haddock lb. 16c

FRESH SHIPMENT—Curly Texas
SPINACH 2 lbs. 21c

MEDIUM SIZE—FLORIDA
Grapefruit MARSH SEEDLESS Each 5c

EXTRA LOW PRICES FOR THIS WEEK-END
BUTTER SILVERBROOK lb. 25c
SUNNYFIELD, Our Very Finest lb. 26
EXTRA SPECIAL FIG BARS 2 lbs. 23c
NATURAL COLOR AND FLAVOR CATSUP LIBBY'S 2 12 oz. Bots. 25c
BEEKIST HONEY PURE 16 oz. Jar 19c
CANADIAN SARDINES IN OIL Brunswick Sardines 4 3½ oz. Tins 19c
BROWN LABEL—BLACK TEA Salada Tea ½ lb. Pkg. 31c Lb. Pkg. 61c
OLD TOWNE BRAND—CRISP, TASTY Sweet Mixed Pickles 28 oz. Jar 23c
WITH CHILI SAUCE—CLARK'S Pork & Beans 3 26 oz. Tins 25c
PURE BREAKFAST Fry's Cocoa ½ lb. Tin 19c
HORSESHOE OR CLOVER LEAF BRANDS SALMON 7 oz. Tin 18c Lb. Tin 31c
FANCY JAPAN CRABMEAT 6½ oz. Tin 29c
FOR DELICIOUS SALADS LOBSTER 6 oz. Tin 29c

CHOICE QUALITY
Chickens lb. 25c

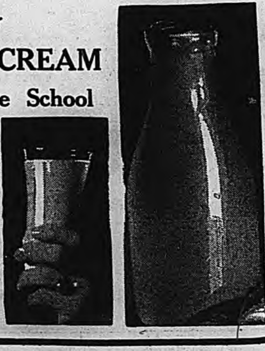
CUTS OF FRESH YOUNG ROAS TING PORK
Pork Butts VERY LEAN lb. 17c
Pork Shoulders lb. 13c
Pork Loins lb. 22c

FANCY MILK-FED, SOFT-MEATED—TOP QUALITY
Veal Legs SHANK HALF lb. 15c
Veal Fillets Cut from Rump lb. 18c
Veal Fillets Boneless and Rolled lb. 15c
Veal Cutlets lb. 22c
Veal Chops Cut from Loin lb. 20c

A & P QUALITY BEEF
ROASTS
Prime Rib Rolled if Desired lb. 18c
Short Rib Oven Roast lb. 14c
Shoulder Excellent for Pot Roast lb. 12c
Blade Delicious Oven Roast lb. 13c

LARGE RIPE FRUIT
Bananas 3 lbs. 19c

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC



The Perfect Food—
MILK

"LET THE YOUNGSTERS AND THE ADULTS, TOO, DRINK
MONTROSE MILK
THIS RICH BODY-BUILDING FOOD HAS PRECIOUS HEALTH-GIVING POWERS."

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE HEARTILY ENDORSES THIS STATEMENT AT THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER'S HOMEMAKERS' SCHOOL THIS WEEK AND HAS PAID US THE VERY FINE COMPLIMENT OF CHOOSING

MONTROSE DAIRY MILK AND CREAM
For Her Use During the School

May We Urge You to Use It In Your Home!

MONTROSE DAIRY
PHONE 374

Daily Short Story

Love at First Sight

(Copyright 1935 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Prosaic married people get odd ideas concerning the fires of youth, which they, too often, have forgotten all about. For instance, if you canvassed the length and breadth of Manhattan you wouldn't find very many persons who would admit that there was such a thing as love at first sight. The exceptions would, however, nod wisely and admit that that was what happened to them.

If you asked Claire Fitzgerald or her husband, Bob, you would get a giggle from Claire and a smile from Bob. They know that there is such a thing as love at first sight—even slight—because that was what happened to them, although they didn't know it for some time.

It seems—if you want the story—that Bob Fitzgerald worked in one of the lofty skyscrapers in midtown, and not so far away Claire worked. He was an assistant manager of a small office and she was a stenographer. Not important people by any means.

However, Cupid going about in search for game pays little or no attention to the Who of people. The social register isn't any more than the telephone book to Dan, even less. There aren't so many names in the blue book.

In a Hurry!

Anyway, to get back to the story, one evening Bob was forced to work late—till seven o'clock, if you want to be fairly accurate. And that same night happened to be THE night when Claire had to take a sudden rush of dictation—and, worse, transcribe it so that it could get away. Her boss, who doesn't otherwise enter the story, hurried her so that he could read and sign the letters. Promptly at seven, she left the building in which she worked.

Bob, with nothing to do except eat, was in a hurry. Claire also was in a hurry. She had to get to her boarding house within the half hour or she wouldn't get the regular meal—and would be forced to go to the corner Coffee Pot and pay for it.

So, they pounded away from their buildings—heads down. And collided. Dan Cupid, grinning at Fifth Ave. and Forty-Second St., made a bull's eye with one arrow. Bob looked. Claire looked. He apologized. She nodded.

And then they separated—never more, you might have thought, to meet again. But this is a story.

The next night, leaving her office at five o'clock, Claire hurried home and ate at the first table. Then she touched up her make-up and hurried back to her building. She stood in the doorway until seven o'clock and started hot-footing it toward her subway.

And the other side of the picture shows Bob Fitzgerald leaving his office at five-thirty and eating in Times Square and killing time until seven, when he was standing in the shadow of his building.

Then he hotfooted it in the general direction which he had taken the night before.

He saw her a half a block away, hurrying, hurrying, hurrying.

He put his head down. She put her head down.

They collided.

He apologized. She nodded her acceptance. They separated—but if you don't think now that they were to met again, you haven't been paying any attention to the story.

Next night, they collided again. He apologized. She accepted with a nod.

But the third night, just before colliding, he side-stepped. "Pardon me, if I don't want to get walloped again," he said.

A Sap There Was

Claire looked a little disappointed. "Well, I don't like it any too well myself," she said. "But it seemed to be the thing to do."

He laughed. She laughed. And separated.

As he walked slowly away, he told himself what a sap he was. "What better introduction than that could be had?" he demanded to himself. And she was equally angry at herself. "You should have killed a little time until he got over his embarrassment," she told herself.

Next night she wasn't there. And Bob Fitzgerald was so angry with himself for missing the golden opportunity of the night before that he hardly spoke to himself for three blocks. He didn't know that Claire had lingered over the dessert and was two minutes late. When she went down the street, she was half running. But he wasn't in sight.

She had some unkind things to say about girls who were so intent on eating dessert that they missed bumping into people they liked to bump into. Or in that strain, anyway.

Next day Bob wasn't much help to the concern. He brooded. And snapped at stenographers. And file clerks. And office boys. "An old grouch when he wants to be," was the consensus. But the consensus was wrong. He was a young grouch when he didn't want to be, was the correct estimate.

However, that evening he was there at seven. And so was she.

She giggled when she saw him. He smiled when he saw her. Without a word, they moved off together.

"Seems you work ungodly hours," he said.

"Not much worse than yours," she said.

"Oh, I only worked this late once this month," he said. And she said: "Me, too."

Then, as you perhaps understand there was a certain beating about the bush, and he admitted—confessed—that he had been coming to Fifth and Forty-Second each night just in hopes of meeting her. And she giggled—it was really a very nice giggle—and said: "Me, too."

Any wonder they were married next week because they both agreed most seriously that long engagements were "very boresome indeed?"

◆

Little Benny's Note Book

This morning pop was sneezing and blowing at breakfist, and ma said, There, Willyum, you see, what did I tell you? You can leave your rubbers home without impunity when the streets are wet.

What's impunity, pop? I said, and he said, It's what you cant leave your rubbers home without, and likewise it's what you cant eat with your elbow on the table without, does that give you an dieer?

Yes sir, I said quick taking my elbow off the table.

And this afternoon before supper me and Reddy Merfy was having a atgewment about whether fishes have feelings, and he said, Aw you're crazy.

You cant say that without impunity, I said, and he said, I can say it any way I want, you're crazy.

All rite, I told you you couldn't say it without impunity, and neither you didn't, I said, and Reddy said Shut up or I'll push your face in back of your ears.

You won't do it without impunity, bleeve me, I said, and he said, I'll do it without anything. I feel like.

And he gave me a medium size push in the face, saying, There, I did it, didn't I?

Not without impunity, you didn't, I said, and he said, Why didn't I? and I said, Because you cant.

Wich just then pop went passed on his way home, saying, Don't be late for supper, Benny.

And he kept on going, and I looked at Reddy Merfy, and he looked as if he had another push ready, and I said, So you thawt you could do it without impunity, did you ever get stung?

And I quick ran after pop to go home with him, and Reddy kept on standing there looking like somebody not knowing what to think.

Proving education is a grate advantage.

MASSASSAGA NEWS BRIEFS

Massassaga, March 28—Mrs. Lazier and Miss Bessie Wallbridge spent the dinner hour on Friday with Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Davidson.

Miss Mary Hamilton, Reg. N., spent a few days last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Hamilton of Mountain View.

Miss Margaret Wallbridge spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wallbridge.

Mrs. Frank Belnap spent the dinner hour on Thursday with Mrs. H. Huff and Norma.

Miss Gertrude Wallbridge spent a couple of days last week with her aunt Mrs. Asa Foster of Bethel.

Mrs. Harry Jose who has been spending the past few weeks in Belleville returned home last week.

Miss Pearl Hamilton, Reg. N., spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Wallbridge.

98 OUT OF 100 WOMEN REPORT BENEFIT

No More Backaches

"I used to have backache most all the time and other troubles. No pep. I was telling a friend how I felt and she told me about your Vegetable Compound. I have taken it for four months and feel much better."—Mrs. P. L. McIsaac, 1011 Barrington St., Halifax, N. S.

If your back aches periodically as Mrs. McIsaac's did, give this medicine a good trial. Take it regularly and you will be pleased with the results.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

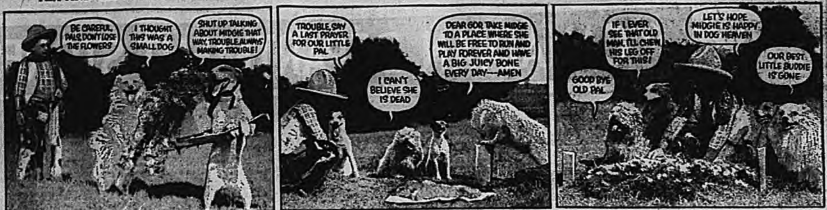
Used by women for over 60 years

TEX AND HIS PALS (Actual Photographs)

Midgie is Buried

Copyright, 1935, by Harper Features, Dallas, Texas, U.S.A. All Rights Reserved

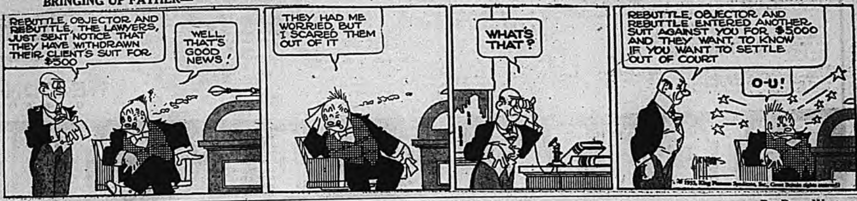
By Leslie A. Hill



BE CAREFUL, PALS, DON'T LOSE THE FLOWERS
I THOUGHT THIS WAS A SMALL DOG
SHUT UP TALKING ABOUT MIDGIE THAT WAY, TROUBLE ALWAYS MAKING TROUBLE!
TROUBLE, SAY A LAST PRAYER FOR OUR LITTLE PAL
I CAN'T BELIEVE SHE IS DEAD
DEAR GOD, TAKE MIDGIE TO A PLACE WHERE SHE WILL BE FREE TO RUN AND PLAY FOREVER AND HAVE A BIG JUICY BONE EVERY DAY—AMEN
GOOD BYE OLD PAL
IF I EVER SEE THAT OLD MAN, I'LL CHEW HIS LEG OFF FOR THIS!
LET'S HOPE MIDGIE IS HAPPY IN DOG HEAVEN
OUR BEST LITTLE BUDDIE IS GONE

BRINGING UP FATHER—

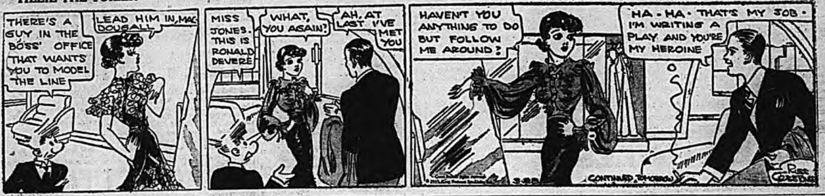
By George McManus



REBUTTLE, OBJECTOR AND REBUTTLE, THE LAWYERS, JUST SENT NOTICE THAT THEY HAVE WITHDRAWN THEIR CLIENTS SUIT FOR $500
WELL, THAT'S GOOD NEWS!
THEY HAD ME WORRIED, BUT I SCARED THEM OUT OF IT
WHAT'S THAT?
REBUTTLE, OBJECTOR AND REBUTTLE ENTERED ANOTHER SUIT AGAINST YOU FOR $5000 AND THEY WANT TO KNOW IF YOU WANT TO SETTLE OUT OF COURT
O-U!

TILLIE THE TOILER—

By Russ Westover

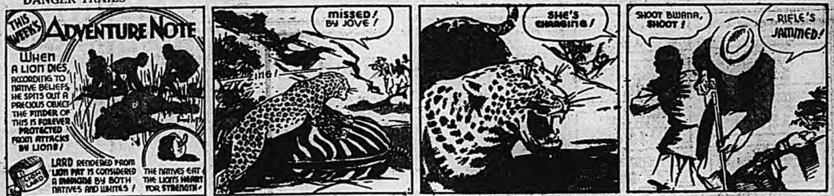


THERE'S A GUY IN THE BOSS' OFFICE THAT WANTS YOU TO MODEL THE LINE
LEAD HIM IN, MAC DOUGALL
MISS JONES. THIS IS RONALD DEVERE
WHAT, YOU AGAIN?
AH, AT LAST I'VE MET YOU
HAVEN'T YOU ANYTHING TO DO BUT FOLLOW ME AROUND?
HA-HA- THAT'S MY JOB - I'M WRITING A PLAY AND YOU'RE MY HEROINE
3-28
CONTINUED TOMORROW
RUSS WESTOVER

DANGER TRAILS—

GUN TROUBLE

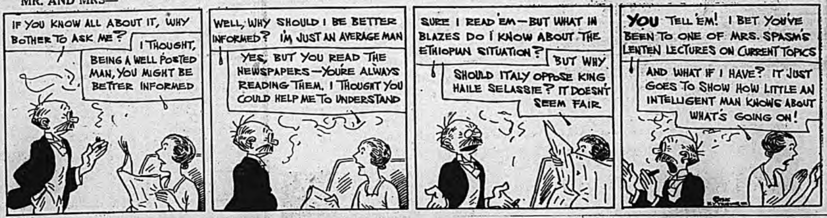
By The Famous Explorer Martin Johnson



THIS WEEK'S ADVENTURE NOTE
WHEN A LION DIES, ACCORDING TO NATIVE BELIEFS, HE SPITS OUT A PRECIOUS OBJECT. THE FINDER OF THIS IS FOREVER PROTECTED FROM ATTACKS BY LIONS!
LARD RENDERED FROM LION FAT IS CONSIDERED A MEDICINE BY BOTH NATIVES AND WHITES!
LION LARD
THE NATIVES EAT THE LION'S HEART FOR STRENGTH!
MISSED! BY JOVE!
ZING!
SHE'S CHARGING!
SHOOT BWANA, SHOOT!
RIFLE'S JAMMED!

MR. AND MRS—

By Briggs



IF YOU KNOW ALL ABOUT IT, WHY BOTHER TO ASK ME?
I THOUGHT, BEING A WELL POSTED MAN, YOU MIGHT BE BETTER INFORMED
WELL, WHY SHOULD I BE BETTER INFORMED? I'M JUST AN AVERAGE MAN
YES, BUT YOU READ THE NEWSPAPERS—YOU'RE ALWAYS READING THEM. I THOUGHT YOU COULD HELP ME TO UNDERSTAND SURE I READ 'EM—BUT WHAT IN BLAZES DO I KNOW ABOUT THE ETHIOPIAN SITUATION?
BUT WHY SHOULD ITALY OPPOSE KING HAILE SELASSIE? IT DOESN'T SEEM FAIR
YOU TELL 'EM! I BET YOU'VE BEEN TO ONE OF MRS. SPASM'S LENTEN LECTURES ON CURRENT TOPICS AND WHAT IF I HAVE? IT JUST GOES TO SHOW HOW LITTLE AN INTELLIGENT MAN KNOWS ABOUT WHAT'S GOING ON!

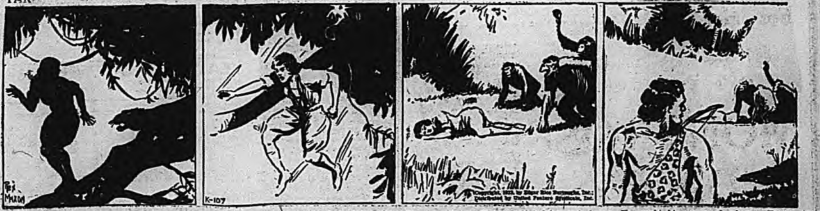
TAR

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)



REX MAXON
K-107

Copyright, 1935, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc.; Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

There, back of Olga, blazing in the reflected moonlight, shone two great, yellow-green eyes. The beast was so close that it might have reached out and touched her with a great, taloned paw. There was no time to think.

Impulse was her guide as, with a loud scream, she leaped from the tree into the clearing. Instantly the apes, now maddened by the effects of the dancing and the moonlight, turned to note the cause of the interuption.

They saw this she Tarmangani, helpless and alone, and they started for her. Sheeta, the panther, knowing that not even Numa, the lion, unless maddened by starvation, dares meddle with the great apes at their Dum-Dum, had silently vanished into the night.

He sought his supper elsewhere. Tarzan, turning with the other apes toward the cause of the interruption, saw the girl, recognized her and also her peril. Here again might she die at the hands of others; but why consider it! He hesitated one brief second.

THE CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED

MEN! For Easter, Order EATON TAILORED CLOTHES and Here's Why...

- Scores of new Spring woollens from which to choose your pattern!
- Tailored to your personal measure!
- Every garment is cut individually by hand!
- Your suit made in any style you desire!
- A correct fit is guaranteed!
- A real economy at their price!

Choosing that new Easter suit or topcoat should be no problem this Spring, for EATON TAILORED CLOTHES meet the demands of most men for Good Style....Good Tailoring....and Good Value.

You select from all-wool cloths that are thoroughly cold-water shrunk—Worsteds! Tweeds! Serges! that are representative woollens of the best British and Domestic mills.

Patterns?—There are checks, over-plaids, herringbones, pin stripes, and plain patterns. Colours?—Newest oxfords, blues, browns, tans and greys in all the latest weaves.

Your suit is modeled by a designer who follows closely the smartest style trends in London and New York.

Remember, too, that in EATON TAILORED CLOTHES every garment is cut individually by hand and made under careful supervision in The T. EATON Co.'s tailoring workshops in Toronto. You are guaranteed a satisfactory fit.

Strictly Personal.... Every EATON TAILORED SUIT is made to individual measurements—in any desired style—and is cut individually by hand.

Suits and Topcoats also Made-to-Measure at $27.50 and $35.00

[D. P. Terms Go Here]

THE T. EATON C° LIMITED CANADA

$21.50

EATON TAILORED CLOTHES

MUSIC

Russian Baritone A. Wantroff, and Reginald Geen Delight Concert Association

The second concert under the auspices of the Belleville Concert Association given at the Collegiate Institute on Wednesday evening possessed the dual merit in the appearance in Belleville of the famous Russian dramatic baritone Adolph Wantroff and the homecoming of Mr. Reginald Geen of Oshawa, who was accompanist and also piano soloist. The five hundred members of the local branch were given an evening of more than two hours of delight in a program of unusual attraction.

Mr. Wantroff possesses all the elements of appeal. He is a dramatic figure with a fine sense of character and drama as applied to operatic and ballad singing, he pleases with his personality and he selects his program with the unfailing result of pleasing. His great attraction is the possession of a voice of great richness of tone and of great clearness, and flexiblity, the voice being capable of expressing the finest shading of thought and subject to the endless play of the whole gamut of the human emotions. Besides he possesses an original sense of how numbers should be rendered—he is original in his conception and treatment, and is accordingly marked out as an artist of great prominence. Manliness and vigor, with tenderness and gentleness, are revealed in his conception and execution of the demands of the numbers he sings to his audience.

The singer preserved a fine reserve and there was in the entire absence of affectation a sense of deep sincerity.

He sang a wide range of sang. His first number was a brilliant interpretation of the Prologue to Pagliacci (Leoncavallo). He caught the movement of the Italian composer's intention. Then so different from this appealing tragic note was his second number, Carl Bohm's "Still wie die Nacht", sung in German and catching the gentleness and the silence cadences of the moonlight hours. In his third selection he rendered the very dramatic story of Kenneman "When the King Goes Forth to War" sung in Russian, throwing into powerful contrast the king and the soldier, contrasting in the dramatic notes the difference of their fates. Bowing to the appeal of the audience for an encore he rendered "Without a Song" one of the most popular numbers of the present day which he gave with skill and fine sense of values.

His second group contained the Handel recitative and air "Hear Me, Ye Winds and Waves", the singer showing a command of the sources of music in the representation of the titanic and heroic forces indicated in this great number. To Handel he came again for his next number "Where'er You Walk", sung with a fine appreciation of the rhythm and stately lyric music of this piece. Lully's "Sombre Woods", was sung with vigor. He ended his first part of the program with Galitzky's Aria from Borodin's opera. This selection presents Galitzky, the man who would introduce a reign of peace, leisure, idleness and feasting. The folly of this scheme of life were admirably interpreted with ruggedness and vigor delightful to the audience.

Mr. Adolph Wantroff, baritone, who was singer at the second Concert of the Belleville Concert Association on Wednesday evening.

Drama in the "Eri Tu" number from Verdi's opera, "Masked Ball", the lyric in Allistsen's "Luteplayer", A. M. Lang's "Salaam" and dramatic outburst of "I Love Life', by Mana-Zucca, the powerful "I Am Fate" of Hamblen, "Maire My Girl" an Irish song by Aitken, "A Little Wooing" by Elsdell and the famous "Toreador" song from "Carmen" completed the program with the encores, "I Passed By Your Window", the delightful "O Dark Eyes" (Russian folk song), and the "Volga Boatman's Song" in Russian. The last number was applauded for in it Mr. Wantroff gave an interpretation of his own so well fitting the great number with its mighty rhythms of nature and the labor-burdened boatman.

As an accompanist Mr. Reginald Geen won unstinted praise for the flawlessness of his performance, and on the relation of the accompaniments to the selections. Mr. Geen is that kind of an accompanist who brings the best out of a singer, because he realizes that the whole aim of accompaniment is to build up the effects which the vocalist is striving to reach. Accordingly much of the pleasure of the program was due to the accompanist's playing. Mr. Geen is an artist of rare appeal; his command of the keyboard and of expression places him high among artists of the pianoforte. In his solo numbers he rendered Schumann's "Nocturne in F. Major", Schubert-Liszt's "Soiree de Vienne No. 6", Chopin's "Etude in C Sharp Minor" and "Prelude in G Minor" and "Gavotte in A Flat Minor" by Sgambati. These numbers exhibited Mr. Geen as a soloist of accomplishment who is able to execute the most brilliant performance because he has command of the resources of the piano and the gift of finding the composers' motives.

CLARK & MILES
Week End Specials
Finest Quality Meats

FRESH HAMS lb. 19c
Porterhouse ROAST lb. 19c
Shoulder PORK CHOPS 15c lb
Sirloin Steak or ROAST lb. 19c
SIDE PORK (pickled or fresh) 15c lb
Tender Blade ROAST 12c
LARD Home Rendered 2 lbs. 25c
STEWING VEAL 3 lbs. 25c
Fresh Pork SAUSAGE 18c
Boneless Rolled ROAST VEAL lb. 16c

PROMPT DELIVERY PHONE 10

Romantic Adventure—
The Season's Finest
LESLIE HOWARD
in
"THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL"
BELLE - SATURDAY

"OF COURSE, I HAD MY SUIT CLEANED BY MODERN"

JUST FEEL THE TEXTURE OF THE FABRIC! LIKE NEW, ISN'T IT?"

There is that difference about Modern cleaning that particular women are quick to note and appreciate. We pride ourselves on our superior methods of cleaning which leaves garments perfectly textured, so send your here, now, for a beautifying treatment and made ready for the new season.

SPRING COAT

MODERN
CLEANERS & DYERS
192 FRONT STREET. PHONE 729

... Featuring a Large Variety of LENTEN FOODS
To Help You Serve Nourishing - Tasty - Economical Meals

Our store is — a huge pantry of wide shelves just teeming with fine foods, bright with suggestions for Lenten meals. You can plan as you shop — every article is plainly marked with Eaton good value prices. Here are many things you will need — the majority at special low prices so make a profitable trip to Eaton's this week-end.

SUNGLO CREAMERY BUTTER lb. 24c
LIBBY'S—TASTILY COOKED WITH TOMATO SAUCE AND CHEESE
SPAGHETTI 2 LARGE TINS 29c
THE ECONOMY DISH—BULK READY CUT
MACARONI 2 lbs. 9c
TO GO WITH YOUR MACARONI—BE SURE TO BUY SOME MILD CHEESE lb. 14c
EATON'S FAMILY BRAND
WHITE RICE 5 lbs. 25c
A FINE LOW PRICE ON WESTON'S CRISPY
SODA CRACKERS "B" Size Pkg. 9c 2 for 17c
CLEAN MEATY SANTA CLARA CALIFORNIA
MED. SIZE PRUNES 2 lbs. 23c
EATONIA BRAND SMALL TENDER NO. 3 SIEVE
CHOICE PEAS 2 NO. 2 TINS 23c
FRONTIER BRAND—VERY LOW PRICED
GREEN BEANS NO. 2 TALL TIN 9c

SPRING MENUS NEED
Fresh Fruits and Vegetables
SUNKIST ORANGES Med. Size 35c doz. Large Size 47c doz.
Grapefruit 6 for 25c
Rhubarb 2 bchs 19c
Fresh Spinach 2 lbs. 23c
Fresh Radishes 2 bchs. 15c
New Carrots 2 bchs. 15c

Baker Specials — Gilchrist's
RICH SULTANA FRUIT CAKE

Why bother to bake when you can get such fine quality cake fresh from the baker for so little.
2 lbs. 25c
GILCHRIST'S DELICIOUS FRESH
Bran Muffins doz. 15c
WESTON'S DOUGHNUT STYLE
Shortbread Rings lb. 15c
See Our Display of FRESH CAKES This Week-end
WESTON'S FIG WAFERS 2 lbs. 25c

For Spring Cleaning SUN BRITE WATER JAVEL Large Bottle 9c
A double duty aid—it cleans and disinfects—effectively.

SUNBRITE
WHITENS THE CLOTHES

A SOAP SPECIAL! PEARL WHITE NAPTHA LAUNDRY SOAP 8 cakes 25c
ROBERTSON'S TOFFEE KISSES lb. 19c

EATON GROCETERIA
"Where It Pays to Shop"

A Value Leader — St. William's Strawberry or Raspberry JAM

ST. WILLIAMS BRAND
RASPBERRY JAM

With Added Pectin
Consider that there is four pounds of delicious Jam in each tin — 64 ounces — twice the size of the ordinary 32 oz. jar and then you will realize the great saving you are making.
4 lb. TIN 47c

MEAT SPECIALS
For Friday and Saturday
BLUE Br. GOVT. GRADED BEEF
SIRLOIN Roast lb. 20c
PORTERHOUSE Roast lb. 23c
FRESH SHOULDER
PICNICS lb. 14c
BUTT ROAST OF
PORK lb. 17c
Milk Fed BOILING FOWL .... lb. 19c
Fresh Lamb
LOIN AND RIB
Chops lb. 23c
Fronts lb. 13c
Legs lb. 20c

FISH
IN LENTEN VARIETIES
Sliced Chicken HALIBUT lb. 19c
Smoked FILLETS 2 lbs. 29c
Silverbright SALMON 2 lbs. 25c

WOODLAND BRAND TOMATO JUICE 3 No. 2½ size tins 23c

EATON GROCETERIA
"WHERE IT PAYS TO SHOP"
FRONT STREET - BELLEVILLE
Kellogg's Corn Flakes (With Sample Kit FREE) 3 pkgs. 25c
Phone 800—Orders of $1.00 Delivered Free

TRAFFIC COURT HEARS 20 CASES

First Time in History That Only Traffic Cases Heard

Belleville's first Traffic Court was held in the police court rooms before His Worship, Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., this morning when over twenty cases were disposed of in short order. Charges of driving motor vehicles with defective brakes, operating motor vehicles without first obtaining an individual operator's licence and reckless driving constituted the greater majority of the charges read. In all cases presented a minimum fine under the act was imposed to those pleading guilty, while no costs were attached in any case. One was dismissed.

Thirteen city cases and six suburban cases of operating a motor vehicle without two brakes in good working order were presented before Magistrate Butler, all defendants, except one, who was found guilty, pleaded guilty and were assessed ten dollars without costs. The same fine was assesed three motorists, who admitted driving without first procuring a driver's licence so to do.

A charge of reckless driving was dismissed against Donald Neil of Marmora after the evidence had been heard. Neil's case arose out of an accident on the Foxboro road, that happened last Sunday, when his automobile collided in a rear end collision with a parked car driven by Garfield S. Brower of this city. Evidence was brought out by the prosecution that Brower's vehicle was stationary when struck. Four witnesses, all travelling in the O'Neil car, however, testified that Brower had not indicated his intentions of stopping on an open highway. Traffic officiers present informed the court, that it was not actually compulsory to indicate a full stop. His Worship, in reviewing the case stated that "common sense should tell any motor driver to signal his intentions of stopping on a busy highway, even if the law does not cover it, case dismissed," added Magistrate Butler as he intimated, that there had been altogether too much conflicting evidence in the matter.

THE WEATHER

Fresh southwest winds; mostly cloudy and mild.
Saturday—Partly cloudy; becoming somewhat colder.

The Ontario Intelligencer

TEMPERATURES
Today
Max. 41; Min. 30.
Year Ago
Max. 38; Min. 25.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, MARCH 29, 1935

TORONTO TRAVELLER WINS $145,800 IN CHASE

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Oakland, Calif., March 29 (CP)—No beer quenched self extinguishing fire can fool Captain John Flynn of the Oakland fire department.

"My nose knows there's been a fire here," he said, as he entered a neighborhood grocery.

"Impossible", said the grocer.

They looked in through a transom; there were smouldering remains. A water heater had ignited cartons of beer, but the heat exploded the bottles and the fire was smothered in a gush of foam.

* * *

Hollywood, March 29 (CP) — When the school children of Tillamook, Ore., voted Shirley Temple their favorite actress, they decided they should do something about it.

So they sent Shirley a gift, which arrived by express yesterday. It is a Jersey calf, named Tilly of Tillamook. Tilly will be quartered on Spencer Tracy's ranch.

* * *

Spokane, Wash., March 29 (CP)—Hundreds of Hungarian and Chinese pheasants strut disdainfully not far from Spokane's business district, protected by two laws and a lot of sentiment and the hunters' trigger itch in vain. In the first place, it is closed season here on the birds. In the second it is contrary to law to fire a gun within the city limits. And, finally, housewives probably would manhandle any hunters who dared bag a single bird.

* * *

Seattle, March 29 (CP)—Honesty paid for Dan Nolan, who was unemployed. Sunday he found a billfold containing $1,550 in bills while sitting in a cafeteria. He telephoned Harry G. Kimball, the owner, head of a printing company here.

Overjoyed at recovering his money, Kimball peeled off a $50 bill and gave it to Nolan.

"Where do you work?" he asked.

"I'm not working right now," replied Nolan.

"Well, you're going to have a job with my company from now on," Kimball said.

* * *

Charlottetown, March 29 (CP)—Because Premier W. J. P. MacMillan as a practising physician was receiving payment for attending Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Prince Edward Island "his seat in this House is in danger," James P. MacIntyre, former Minister of Public Works, declared in the Legislature last night.

◆

ARREST CAUSES WILDEST RUMOR

Police Hold Man Over Night And Allow Him to Go

Rumor spread to the effect that there had been an armed hold-up in North Belleville last night but it remained a rumor. Excitement ran high and curious citizens hurried to the upper railway depot about 8.00 p.m.

Subsequently and upon information issued by the police it was disclosed however, that a transient had been arrested as a suspicious character at the depot about 8.00 p.m. last night. According to stories related by police a man was seen trying to force his way into a parked car at the upper end of Front Street. When accosted by a local citizen, however, the man it was reported beat a hasty retreat. Later reports came to the police station, that a man answering the description of the person sought was seen loitering around the waiting room at the C.N.R. station. Post-haste the police arrived at the station just in time to place a man in custody.

When approached it is said, the man made a move, as if to reach his pocket, which led the police to fear he might be armed. One of the police officers pinned his arms to his side and upon searching him two knives were found. This arrest is what started the humor.

Questioned by the night sergeant the man said his name was Jack Goren, a Russian from Ottawa. Later it was disclosed, that he had only a few hours previously been liberated at Napanee where he was held as he seemed to be acting in a rather eccentric way in that town. Goren was held in custody all night, but taken to the western city limits in the police car early today and told to "get going". Last seen he was heading hastily westward.

"AS "MIRACLE" GIRL IS BURIED

New miracles of healing that came about even after death are reported as Marie Anne Gravelle, 19-year-old Navan, Ontario, girl to whom is attributed many remarkable cures, is buried from the Church of St. Joseph d'Orleans near Ottawa. The above scene, taken inside the church during the ceremony, shows only a part of the huge throng that gathered in a procession a mile long to follow the girl to her grave. Meanwhile medical men and church officials refuse to comment.

Plan of Britain Includes United States in Pact With Powers in Far East Noted Improvement is Seen in Anglo-Russian Relations

SPIRIT OF FRANKNESS

(By John Lloyd, Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press),

Moscow, March 29—With a plan for United States' collaboration with other powers in the Far East reportedly under discussion, Captain Anthony Eden, British Lord Privy Seal, faced Joseph Stalin, Soviet Chief, in the latter's private office in the Kremlin today.

A high source said Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff had suggested to Eden formulation of a far Eastern pact to include Great Britain, United States, Russia, Japan China, and France, and Stalin too, supported this suggestion.

The British envoy was accompanied into Stalin's presence by Lord Chilston, British Ambassador to Russia. There they encountered Vyacheslaff Molooff, President of the Union Council of People's Commissaries, Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff and Ivan Maisky, Russian Ambassador to London.

They immediately began with the aid of interpreters, the discussion of the foreign situation.

Whole Field Canvassed

Soviet circles said today after an hour and a half conference between Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Commissar for Foreign Affairs, and Capt. Anthony Eden, British Lord Privy Seal there was a "noted improvement in both the political and economic relations between Soviet Russia and Great Britain."

The Soviet sources did not indicate on what grounds the further improvement was based during the discussion as Eden probed into the possibilities of security for Europe.

The two talked over "most of the outstanding problems in political relations," they stated, and the discussion was conducted with "the same spirit of frankness and sincerity" as yesterday's.

◆

WAITING FOR STRAP, ESCAPE

Welland, Ont., March 29 (CP)—While awaiting strokes of the broad strap as punishment for their part in a break-in and robbery at a drug store, three juveniles escaped from the Welland City Children's Shelter last night. The trio made their getaway by means of the kitchen while the person in charge was attending to other inmates.

TRIPLE HANGING AVENGES MURDER

Widow And Two Others Paid Supreme Penalty in Montreal

Montreal, March 29—(CP)—A triple hanging at Montreal jail today avenged the murder of Nick Sarao, a streetcleaner, for the sake of insurance money. His widow, Mrs. Thomasina Theolos Sarao, 46, Leone Gagliardi, 30, and 19-year-old Angelo Donofrio, all mounted the scaffold and paid with their lives for the death plot.

The trio were convicted by a court of King's Bench jury of murdering the middle-aged streetcleaner for the sake of the $4,500 insurance on his life. Mrs. Sarao was in the plot but it was Gagliardi and Donofrio, who beat Sarao to death with clubs in a field near Blue Bonnets race track in the north of the city last summer.

Lured to the spot by Gagliardi on the pretext of helping the latter at some work, Sarao was attacked by Gagliardi and Donofrio, who was lying in wait. When he was unconscious from the blows of their clubs, the pair finished Sarao off by battering his head with a large boulder.

One Sent to Prison

Mrs. Viovannina Theolis, 70, mother-in-law of Sarao, was also alleged to have been involved in the plot to kill Sarao. She pleaded guilty to a manslaughter charge and was sentenced to 20 years in prison.

Joseph Alisero was to have been hanged also today for the murder of his sweetheart, Graziella Viens, whose body was found crammed into the rumble seat of his car last summer but he has been granted a stay of execution pending disposal of an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The triple execution today was the first mass execution here since Tony Frank, Louis Morel, Joe Serafini and Frank Gambino were hanged in Oct. 1934 for the murder of a bank messenger in the famous Bank of Hochelaga holdup in the spring of the same year.

◆

SPANISH CABINET RESIGNS

Madrid, March 29 (CP Havas)—The Cabinet of Premier Alejandro Lerroux, torn by dissensions and resignations ever since the October revolt, resigned today.

TRESTLE-WORKER FALLS 25 FEET MULTIPLE INJURIES

William Miller, Trenton, Hurt While Dismantling Coal Chutes

INTERNALLY HURT

Suffers Four Broken Ribs And Deep Laceration of Head

Falling from a 25 ft. trestle-work at old C.N.R. coal chutes east of the Belleville roundhouse, William Miller, Trenton employee of the C.N.R. bridge and building section sustained severe head and body injuries shortly before noon today. Miller, in company with other employees, was engaged in dismantling the old C. N. R. coal chutes when it is believed a portion of the old weakened and decayed wood frame broke. The injured man was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital in the city ambulance in a semi-conscious condition, where he was attended by Dr. E. G. Kennedy of this city.

According to eye witnesses Miller was engaged in dismantling an outer section of the trestle work and when he fell, fortunately there happened to be a pile of sand underneath, where he struck head first, the soft sand acting somewhat as a shock absorber.

After close examination by Dr. Kennedy it was ascertained that Mr. Miller has sustained four fractured ribs, a deep laceration of the head that necessitated eight stitches to close, a shoulder injury and general internal complications. Dr. Kennedy announced late this afternoon that despite the severeness of the case, Mr. Miller was resting quietly.

MAYOR GEO. TICE RETURNS TO CITY

Four Day Convention at Montreal And Ottawa Concluded

Confident that some method would be worked out by the Dominion and Provincial Governments in the matter of assistance for over-burdened municipalities in caring for their indigent residents, as the result of the representation of the mayors of Canada, who concluded their four day session at Ottawa last evening, Mayor Geo. O. Tice who returned to the city today spoke optimistically of the meeting.

"The governments realize that something will have to be done in the matter of helping the towns and cities, whose loads have become so heavy lately. It is understood, that the Dominion Government will call the heads of the Provincial Government in on the matter, in an effort to work out some solution of the problem," said the Mayor.

Riding up on the late train from Ottawa, Mayor Tice was accompanied from that city to Belleville by Mayor James Simpson, Toronto. Talk turned to the relief question now receiving so much publicity in that City of Toronto.

"It's a national problem. It will have to be tackled with national methods," Mayor Simpson commented in his conversation with Mayor Tice.

The four day convention attended by mayors of municipalities from throughout the Dominion of Canada represented the voice of over five millions of people of this country, it was pointed out by Mayor Tice.

◆

WEATHER

Toronto, March 29.—The weather has been comparatively mild from the Great Lakes eastward but cold throughout the western provinces.

Lake Superior—West to northwest winds; fair with somewhat lower temperature.

Kenora and Rainy River and Manitoba — Moderate northerly winds; fair and moderately cold.

Saskatchewan and Alberta — Northerly winds; mostly fair; continuing cold.

◆

CANADIAN HORSE TIRED

Aintree, Mar. 29 (CP)—Canada's first challenge in the Grand National steeplechase was a failure today.

Trocadero, English-bred purchased recently by Gordon Perry of Toronto, tired badly an dfell early in the second round.

Mayors Discuss Municipal Problems

Mayors from all parts of Canada who were in session in Montreal to discuss problems of relief and other municipal puzzles facing practically every city in Canada. The convention sent a deputation to Ottawa to request that the federal government bear the cost of relief, but Sir George Perley, acting Prime Minister, told them to take their plea to the Provincial Governments. In the above layout is shown, TOP. FRONT ROW, LEFT to RIGHT—R. Pinder, Saskatoon; D. H. Elton, Lethbridge; H. E. Wilton, Hamilton; J. E. Grigoire, Quebec and S. Kennedy Charlottetown. BACK ROW—T. Carigan, Lachine; C. Houde, Montreal; David Leeming, Victoria; J. H. King, Moncton and H. B. Kelly, London. In the LOWER photo FRONT ROW— E. J. Cragg, Halifax; C. G. McGeer, Vancouver; J. W. Britain, St. John; W. H. Biggar, Montreal; George Bennett, Windsor. BACK ROW—H. Johnson, Moose Jaw; G. O. Tice, Belleville; H. Ferland, Verdun; E. Partridge, West Keldona; and C. H. Reid, Amherst.

BELGIUM REMAINS ONGOLDSTANDARD

Belga Devalued to Point Not Exceeding 30 Percent

Brussels, Mar. 29 (CP)—Belgium will remain on the gold standard, the government announced today, but the Belga will be devalued to a point not exceeding 30 per cent. of its present gold parity.

The announcement was made in a declaration before a joint session of parliament by Premier Paul van Zeeland.

Authority to recognize Soviet Russia also was asked of the legislators.

The Premier outlined the gravity of the situation caused by a decrease in the National Bank's gold stock and by withdrawal of currency from circulation.

◆

MR. A. G. SINCLAIR TO BE ORDAINED

Minister of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church For Six Months

Mr. A. G. Sinclair, who has been minister of Victoria Avenue Baptist congregation for the past six months will be ordained to the ministry of the Baptist Church on Tuesday of next week. Mr. Sinclair who was brought up in Owen Sound has been studying in arts and theology at McMaster University, Hamilton, Ont.

During the afternoon representatives of Baptist congregations who are present will meet at the church, select a moderator for the ordination and examine the candidate. The ordination service will be held in the evening, Prof. H. L. Orchard, M.A., B.D., of McMaster University, having been selected to deliver the ordination sermon.

Mr. Sinclair was in Belleville two years ago supplying the pulpit while the then pastor was on leave of absence.

◆

VALLEY TO SEAWAY

Burlington, Vt., Mar. 29 (CP)—Champlain Valley council, a federation of Chambers of Commerce in the Champlain Valley, today sponsored a meeting in support of Senator Ernest W. Gibson's (R.-Vt.) resolution for a survey of a Hudson River-Lake Champlain seaway, connecting with the St. Lawrence seaway.

HOTEL ARCHITECT BEATEN ON HEAD DIES IN ENGLAND

Chauffeur Remanded Today on Charge of Murder

RATTENBURY DESIGNER

Wife Held on Charge of Wounding Husband

Bournemouth, Eng., Mar. 29 (CP)—George Percy Stoner, 19-year-old chauffeur, was remanded in police court today on a charge of murdering Francis Mawson Rattenbury, designer of the parliament buildings of British Columbia at Victoria and architect of many Canadian Hotels.

Stoner is alleged to have hit Rattenbury on the head with a wooden mallet. The architect, 67 years of age, was found injured in his house here Sunday and he died yesterday. On Monday night his wife, Alma Victoria Rattenbury, was charged with wounding her husband with intent to murder him, and is now also on remand. She is 31 years of age.

◆

Nom de Plume Used by Another

Halifax, March 29—(CP)— Stereotyper Fred Kidd ran his finger down the list of $486 consolation prizes awarded in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes draw yesterday and stopped with an exclamation at "Horseshoe, CD 38,132".

"Horseshoe's mine!" he announced to the press room boys, then set out to blow the works.

He had run up his credit to nearly the full amount when he arrived home to be congratulated by Mrs. Kidd who by the way had put the ticket away. Looking it up she found it had the wrong number.

"Somebody else used my "Non de Plume" the stereotyper explained to the press room boys later.

◆

PILOTS ARE INCREASED

Addis Ababa, Ethiopa, Mar. 29.—Recent additions have increased the number of German aviation pilots and mechanics employed by Ethiopa and given rise to rumors of a secret official arrangement for assistance from Germany.

INDIAN IS TRIED IN STABBING CASE

Death of Uncle by Knife Blamed on Ernest Cornelius

St. Thomas, Ont., March 28—(CP)—Ernest Cornelius, 26-year-old Indian, went on trial at the assizes here today for the murder of his uncle, Daniel Elijah, during a drunken row last Feb. 16 in the little one - room home of Elijah north of the village of Dutton.

Elijah was stabbed in the abdomen by a knife wielded, it is alleged by Cornelius. He died in the Memorial Hospital a week late.

Cornelius is being defended by Charles B. McClung, K.C., St. Thomas. The Crown Prosecutor is J. B. Davidson, K.C.

With nineteen challenges by defence counsel, and five by Crown Attorney E. W. Laines, the jury was completed.

Cornelius sat quietly, his features downcast. He gazed steadfastly at the bar of the prisoner's box.

◆

EIGHT YEARS, LASH AFTER $10 THEFT

Toronto, March 29 (CP)—For armed holdup of a Gerrard Street store that netted him $10, James Hogarth was sentenced today by Magistrate A. L. Tinker to a penitentiary term of eight years and 10 lashes. The heavy sentence followed investigation of the prisoner's record that included two sentences at London and one in Toronto. On a charge of possessing an offensive weapon, Hogarth was sentenced to two years' imprisonment, the sentences to run concurrently.

◆

Drunk Blew up Shack Sentence is Suspended

Sudbury, Ont., Mar. 29 (CP) — Charged with causing the explosion Sunday morning which blew the home of Adelard Gignac of Hagar over an area of four acres, Emil Doaust of Hagar pleaded guilty in district court and was given suspended sentence. He was bound over for a year and ordered to make restitution of $100.00.

Doaust told the court he was drunk when he broke into the shack belonging to Gignac and touched off a length of fuse which detonated a case of dynamite.

REYNOLDSTOWN, EXTREMEOUTSIDER IS 'CHASE' WINNER

Ranking Favorites Displaced in 97th Running of Famous Race

RIDDEN BY OWNER

Golden Miller, Hot Favorite Fails to Complete Course

Toronto, March 29—(CP)— Fred Cunningham of Toronto is the Canadian who held the lucky ticket on Reynoldstown, winner of the Grand National Steeplechase. For his Irish Hospital Sweepstakes ticket Cunningham will collect about $145,800.

Cunningham left Toronto today before the race was run and while driving to Hamilton listened to the race over his car radio.

He had an offer of $5,200 for a half-share in his ticket before the race. A friend of Cunningham called a newspaperman to get his opinion on Reynoldstown's chances. After searching through English newspapers, the newspaperman decided the horse had a chance, and Cunningham did not sell any share.

Aintree, England, March 29.—(CP Cable)—A crowd of a quarter of a million saw the ranking favorites displaced in the 97th running of the Grand National Steeplechase this afternoon, when Major Noel Furlong's Reynoldstown, starting at 22 to 1, raced into the lead at the last fence to finish the gruelling course three lengths in front of the field.

Another outsider, Lady Lindsay's Blue Prince, which started at 40 to 1, was second, eight lengths in front of John Hay Whitney's Thomond II, second choice at 9 to 2. Golden Miller, winner last year and hottest favorite in the race's history, failed to complete the course.

Winner Ridden by Son

Gallantly ridden by the owner's son Freddie, the eight-year-old Reynoldstown, a youngster as Grand National candidates go, hurdled the last obstacle of the 4 1-2 mile course behind Thomond II. In the final drive over the flat, however, Furlong's blue and yellow silks showed in front and Blue Prince also overtook the tiring Thomond.

The winner is a gelding by My Prince out of Fromage. He packed 158 pounds compared to Golden Miller's top weight of 175. Jockey Parvin had the mount on Blue Prince, who carried low weight of 147 pounds, and Thomond 11, packing second top weight of 167 pounds, was ridden by Speck. Twenty-seven started.

Six Finish Course

Only six finished the course. Sir Geoffrey Congreve's lightly weighted Lazy Boots, a 66-1 choice, was fourth, H. H. Brandt's Uncle Batt, another bottom-weight, at 45-1, was fifth and Miss Lark's Bachelor Prince Sixth. Reynoldstown's time was 9 minutes, 21 seconds, one second slower than the record set by Golden Miller last year.

Golden Miller fell at the first fence after Valentine's brook on the first circuit of the course, and the bookmakers danced with joy. The Favorite had been coupled with Flamenco, winner of the Lincolnshire Wednesday, in sums running into hundreds of thousands and a victory for Golden Miller would have brought disaster to some of the bookmakers.

Weather Good

The weather was glorious and the course in excellent condition. The start was good, Thereas being first to show in front with Thomond, Emancipator, Golden Miller, Castle Irwell, Really True, and Royal Ransom in the first group.

Huic Holloa and Southern Hue failed to pass the first fence and at the fourth Pouquet refused. Castle Irwell was setting the pace at Becher's Brook, with Golden Miller and Blue Prince on his heels.

Castle Irwill had a clear lead at

(Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

◆

Coming Events

DANCING TONIGHT AND EVERY FRIDAY night at Quinte Inn. Music by Jack Denmark and his Aces. Admission 35c each. M29-1t

"YOU'RE TELLING ME"—TONIGHT 8 o'clock, Bridge Street Church Sunday School rooms. Directed by Miss Tuite. Admission 25c and 15c. M29-1t

AN OLDE TYME SUPPER SERVED BY the men in the Foxboro United Church April 1 at 6.30. Rev. Merrick the guest speaker. Good programme. Adults 25c, children 15c. M29-1t

FRIDAY NIGHT, MARCH 29, MEETING of Young Women Conservatives of Baldwin, Samson and Ketcheson Wards; organization of the wards, chairmen and sub-chairmen to be chosen. M28-2t

MOOSE DANCE EVERY SATURDAY night, 9 to 1. Ladies' door prize. Commodores playing. Admission 25 cents. M29-2t

RUMMAGE SALE AT Y.M.C.A. SATURday, March 30 at 7 p.m. M29-2t

City and District News

VIMY NIGHT TO BE CELEBRATED

At the regular meeting of the local Imperial Veterans' Association held in the Armouries last evening, further arrangements for the Vimy Day celebration in this city on April 9th were completed. The Association will combine with other Belleville returned units toward assisting in the celebration. It was decided, that at the next regular meeting, to hold an open night for members and their wives, with their guests being the ex-service ladies, who were with the Canadian troops on overseas service. The meeting was presided over by president James Shepherd, assisted by secretary Chas. Jeffs. Announcement was made that on Vimy Night a special observance in the S.E.A.F. would be made by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion.

BUTTERFLY REARED IN A BEDROOM

Picked up by Gordon Dingman last fall in a cocoon, and kept in a small, ventilated cardboard box in his bedroom during the past winter, a beautifully colored butterfly spread its six inch wings in the home this morning after emerging from the shell. The gaudy insect was taken to the local Dominion Entomological Laboratory in an attempt at classification, after being exhibited to the Daily Ontario Intelligencer.

3 CASES OF SCARLET FEVER REPORTED

Three cases of scarlet fever constitute the total number of contagious diseases in Belleville, as reported to the local Board of Health, it was stated today. Although Toronto and larger cities of the province have a virtual epidemic of contagious diseases, Belleville this year may create a record for low number reported. This was created in the face of unfavorable weather conditions.

RISE IN PRICE DUE TO DROUGHT

"Blame the slight increase of a cent and a cent and a half or so on beefsteak and other beef cuts now in effect on the drought in the United States last year," explained a butcher of the city today.

Thousands of cattle shipped from Ontario and other provinces during the past few months to fill the demand for beef across the border have caused a slight increase in the price of beef in Belleville and elsewhere. Many of the cattle shipped by the United States buyers were from this district.

Last year during the drought in the States cattle were slaughtered on every farm, creating a sharp demand this year in that country for beef.

WORK AT AIRPORT GOES ON STEADILY

With several local men employed, work of building up the Royal Canadian Air Force camp has been going steadily on during the past several weeks. Excavation work for the buildings has been about completed, and it is expected that cement for the new houses to be occupied by the officers will be commence this week. A third hangar is being erected on the north side of the road, and steelwork for the building is expected to arrive this week. The administration building is rapidly nearing completion, with the plastering at present being completed. South of the main camp, the sea plane hangar is also under construction.

Soot Choked Pipes Causes Brigade Run

Soot choked furnace pipes which ignited and became red hot according to firemen, were held responsible for an alarm answered by the local fire department shortly after ten o'clock this morning to 35 Holloway Street. Firemen were forced to disconnect sections of the pipes before extinguishing the blaze. No damage, except to the pipes was reported.

IT PAYS TO SHOP AT THE REXALL STORE

SPECIAL PRICES on

Patents & Toiletries

THIS WEEK

McKeown's Drug Store

Wright's Radio Service
312½ Front St. Phone 65
Belleville, Ontario.
M. G. Wright. Geo. Sweetnam
Manager. Radiotrician

M 13-tf

COCOANUT OIL SHAMPOO
I.D.A. Brand
Quickly forms a rich, heavy, cleansing lather.
Reg. 60c 8 ounces 32c
At Your I.D.A. Drug Store

Auction Sale
I will sell by Public Auction on MONDAY, APRIL 1,
at 2 o'clock
No. 46-48 Alexander St.
on the premises.
This is a first class dwelling.
S. J. FISHER,
Auctioneer.

M29-30

CASKET FACTORY OPERATING HERE

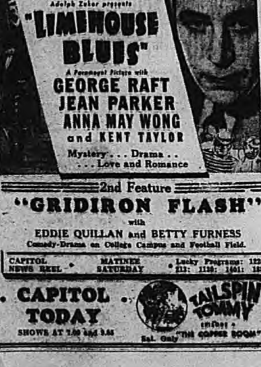
Tickell and Browne to Revive Industry in Belleville

Messrs. Tickell and Browne, Funeral Directors, are now operating a casket factory under the registered name of the Belleville Casket Company. For some years the making of caskets has been a lapsed industry in Belleville, where it was carried on for many years by the G. S. Tickell and Company. The revival of this industry means the steady employment of three to four men and one woman who is engaged in making interiors for caskets. Two caskets are manufactured each day, and the firm is having a steady demand from undertakers for their product.

This plant, it is said by Capt. C. W. Browne, of Messrs. Tickell and Browne is the only one between Toronto and Prescott.

The company is manufacturing a full line of cloth covered caskets all reproductions of the newest American designs. The coverings used are the very newest designs and colors selected from Canadian mills and direct importers. The silks and satins used in the interiors are also also the very newest shades.

Messrs. Tickell and Browne are to be congratulated on the establishment of a new industry in Belleville and wish them every success.



ROMANTIC RULER OF LONDON'S NOTORIOUS HALF-WORLD!!
Limehouse . . . where danger and romance walk hand in hand!
Adolph Zukor presents
"LIMEHOUSE BLUES"
A Paramount Picture with
GEORGE RAFT
JEAN PARKER
ANNA MAY WONG
and KENT TAYLOR
Mystery . . . Drama . . . . . Love and Romance

2nd Feature
"GRIDIRON FLASH"
with
EDDIE QUILLAN and BETTY FURNESS
Comedy-Drama on College Campus and Football Field.

CAPITOL NEWS REEL • MATINEE SATURDAY • Lucky Programs: 1226: 213: 1138: 1601: 1883

• CAPITOL • TODAY
SHOWS AT 7.00 and 9.05
TAILSPIN TOMMY
in "THE COPPER ROOM"
Sat. Only

ELECTRICITY offers clean, safe, economical and dependable cooking—it is the modern method.
In using electricity you are helping your own utility.
We expect to announce shortly an attractive proposition for greater use of electrical service.

Belleville Hydro Electric System
"OWNED BY THOSE IT SERVES."

Community Brings Wedding Gifts To Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pound

Happy Gathering is Held at Cannifton in Their Honor

More than one hundred friends of the community met in the Orange Hall at Cannifton on Monday evening, March 25th, to extend felicitations to Mr. Roy Pound and his bride (nee Lola Cole) of the Third Line of Thurlow on their recent marriage. Expressions of good wishes, happy reference to the associations of the bride and groom with their section of the township, songs, readings and a presentation of silver-plate and other gifts with an address made up the program.

Mr. Sydmer W. Bird, as chairman, greeted Mr. and Mrs. Pound on behalf of the gathering and Mr. Don Williams assisted by Mrs. Eggleton led in the singing of community songs. Mrs. A. Black gave a reading, Ruth and Cal Garrison sang a duet and Mr. Bruce Martin sang two solos.

A silver tea service, two silver trays, a buffet mirror and an occasional chair were presented to the happy couple, the presentations beng made by Elsie Buchanan, Gerald Brenton, Myrtle Johns and Pauline Bird, and being accompanied by the following address:

"Cannifton, March 26, 1935.
"To Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pound:
"Dear Roy and Lola,—

"Tonight we have gathered here to rejoice with you on this most important and happy occasion of your lives, when the fond dreams of your hearts have been realized in happy wedlock. It is our earnest wish that your married life, that has begun under such favourable circumstances may bring to you increasing satisfaction and joy and that success may attend your united efforts all along your future path. You have both from your earliest recollections enjoyed the benefit of Christian homes and have appreciated those advantages; now it is your opportunity and responsibility to establish your home on the same golden rule of love, loyalty and righteousness; by so doing you will with gladness discover for yourself that the "eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous and His ear is open to their cry." However there is another phase of this occasion that is pleasing to us, that is, though you have by your marriage changed your station in life, it will not take either of you from our community or church life, but rather ensure to us your lifelong contribution of helpfulness and good citizenship. So to assure you of our good pleasure, best wishes and keenest interest in your welfare, we ask you to receive these presents and may the fragrance of the kind thoughts and wishes of your many friends bound up in these gifts, fill your hearts and home with joy and gladness through all the days to come.

"Signed on behalf of your many frends,

"Gerald Brenton.
"Elsie Smallhorn.
"Myrtle Johns.
"Pauline Bird.
"Mrs. Mills."

Remarks of a very interesting character, kindly and felicitous, were made by Messrs. E. Brown, Frank Walker, Bruce Martin and Charles Mills.

Graceful acceptance of the gifts and of the kindly expressions was acknowledged.

After lunch and after a reading by Grace Mills, the reception was brought to a close by the Rev. W. R. Merrick of Cannifton.

FROG FARM STARTED AS AN EXPERIMENT

Acquired by Lease Large Tract of Marsh Land

Fat, meaty frogs whose hind legs will be the last word in edibility for the epicurean palates of residents throughout the country, may soon croak cheerily by the thousands on a frog farm near this city.

More as an experiment than a sure-thing proposition, a local man has announced his intention of acquiring by lease certain tracts of marsh land near Belleville, where frog raising will be carried on under scientific and established principles.

The farm will be started by the distribution of pedigreed and imported brood stock, bred especially for their edible qualities. They will be of an entirely different nature and temperament than the native "greenies".

"I expect to start with about a thousand adult frogs. Then I'll let nature take her course. Already I have been promised enough orders to keep me busy and working overtime", the local frog rancher confided.

The "croakers" it was carefully explained will be stationed far enough out of the city limits so as not to annoy the most chronic insomnia, with their culcet evensong choruses.

VERMILYEA TRIAL COST TO BE PROBED

Council Instructs Mayor And Solicitor to Get Information

Belleville City Council will attempt to find out the probable cost to the city of the recent Vermilyea trial, it was decided by members at the regular committee meeting of council held last evening. To this end a recommendation that the Mayor and the City Solicitor be appointed a committee to personally take up at once with the Attorney General the question of the fees of Crown witnesses in the Vermilyea case, and in particular the allowance to doctors, handwriting experts and others and the amount asked for travelling expenses for all witnesses, was unanimously passed.

Further recommendations which were passed and will be submitted at the Monday evening meeting were:

That the Salvation Army be granted the privilege of holding their tag day on Saturday, May 18.

That a lease of lot "C" on the west side of Front Street, south, be granted to the president of the South End Athletic Club, the city treasurer and their successors in office as trustees for the S.E.A.C. for a period of twenty years, at a rental of $50,00 per annum, payable in advance, upon the condition that the city shall have the right to terminate this lease at any time on one month's notice upon a sale of the said land being effected, but upon any termination of the lease as provided in case of sale, the tenants may be recompensed for any reasonable expenses they may incurr in moving their buildings to an amount not exceeding $500.00, but in the event of any grant being made by the city of Belleville to the S.E.A.C., at any time during the currency of this lease, the said tenants shall forfeit all such right to recompense in the event of the premature termination of the lease as hereinbefore provided.

The lease is to contain a further provision that in case the rent reserved is not paid when due, or in case any application or request is made by any person or persons to the city to make a grant of or for the rent, or in case any grant or remission of the rent should be made by the city, then such lease shall be terminated, and the city may take immediate steps to re-enter and take possession of said lands.

It was recommended by committee that a grant of $200 be made to the S.E.A. Club upon the condition, that the trustees for the club execute the lease of Lot "C" on the west side of S. Front Street, provided for in the recommendation in connection therewith.

It was recommended that the city solicitor be instructed to report as to the liability of the city for the payment of fees of officers and witnesses at coroner's inquests as to fatalities in the City of Belleville.

Tenders will be called for the collection and disposal of garbage for one year from 15th day of May, 1935, under another recommendation passed.

The successful tender will be required to furnish a surety bond from a reliable corporation for the successful performance of his contract; also to carry Workmens' Compensation and Public Liability and Property Damage Insurance at his own expense. The successful tender shall also be required to instal a telephone in his own residence or office.

Tenders will be addressed to the Chairman of Market and City Property and left at the office of the City Clerk not later than five p.m. Thursday, April 11th, 1935.

The two lavatories in the basement of the city hall will be improved by repairing the loose plaster, painting the walls and ceilings and floors with two coats of paint at a cost not to exceed $35.00.

SAP PANS
WELDED STEEL SAP PANS
Ideal for Syrup Making
Write for Prices
Belleville Foundries Ltd
Belleville, Ont.

SALE
Hot Galvanized PAILS
Standard pails, well made at very special prices.
Three sizes
No. 12 Size. Each 20c
No. 14 size. Each 27c
No. 16 size. Each 34c
SMITH HARDWARE
PLUMBERS & TINSMITHS

PULLETS PULLETS
Well grown 4, 5, 6 and 7 week old Barred Rocks only, 35c, 40c, 45c, 50c each. Act quickly, all R.O.P. Sired—immediate shipment only. Day old prices exceptionally low.
Every Breeder Blood-tested
THE MILLS' HATCHERY
Napanee, Ont., Box. "B"

BUY YOUR
BROCK'S BIRD SEED
SONG RESTORER and BIRD TREAT
at
Bishop's Seed Store
172 Front St. Phone 283

m28-30

Miss Claire Andree
OF THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER DE BOTH COOKING SCHOOL
KEEPS HER WELL SET TABLE DELIGHTFULLY DECORATED WITH FLOWERS FROM DOROTHY QUICK'S FLOWER SHOP

Dorothy Quick's Flowers are Distinctive

Some Lucky Lady
in the audience at the Cooking School each day will be presented with the beautiful Bouquet from Dorothy Quick's Flower Shop. Will it be you?

DOROTHY F. QUICK
46 BRIDGE ST. East FLORIST PHONE 2031

REYNOLDSTOWN, EXTREME OUTSIDER IS 'CHASE' WINNER

(Continued from Page 1)

Valentine's Brook and at the next fence Golden Miller fell.

Master Orange Refuses

Coming on to the race course for the first time Castle Irwell was leading over Blue Prince, Royal Ransom and Thomond II. Briens fell at the first fence before the stands were passed. Going past the stands on the first round Uncle Batt moved in front of Castle Irwell, Thomond going in third place over Alexena, Royal Ransom, Reynoldstown and Blue Prince. Ballybrack fell opposite the stands.

Starting the second "Country Course" Slater and Jimmy James fell and Master Orange refused. At Becher's Brook the second time, Thomond II had established a slight lead over Blue Prince with Reynoldstown right up. Thomond still led at the turn but coming in sight of the race course for the final stretch, Reynoldstown moved in front and stayed there, Blue Prince ousting Thomond for second.

Blue Prince Showed

Coming to the last fence, however, Blue Prince momentarily showed in front and lazy boots was next. Taking the last jump there was half a length between Reynoldstown and Thomond and Blue Prince was their heels as they went on to the Flat for the last drive.

Reynoldstown went on handily to win a great race over Blue Prince, with Thomond dropping back fast.

The official starting price on Golden Miller was 2 to 1, the shortest odds at wihch a horse has ever gone to the post in the Grand National.

Furlong, an amateur rider, was jubilant.

"I don't know how I won," he declared. "We were obstructed by a loose horse on the very first jump and again at the canal turn on the second turn around the course. I felt like standing up and shouting, when we began to pull away in the final uphill straight away."

Thomond II's jockey, Willie Speck, said dejectedly the Whitney horse "simply didn't have enough left but he gave me a great run anyway."

Torontonian Lucky

Toronto, March 29.—(CP)—J. D. Butler, manager of a taloring establishment branch in North Toronto, today won $75,000 when Blue Prince finished in the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree. Butler held an Irish Hospital Sweepstakes ticket on Blue Prince.

Butler was offered $5,000. by a New York syndicate for half his chance and railroad tickets were sent him to go to New York to close the deal. Butler remained at home. He is married and has two small children, a boy and a girl.

Butler said, when he learned he had drawn a horse he thought he would win about $3,600 for holding a ticket on a starter, and had no idea his horse would finish in the money.

Sweep Winners in U.S.

New York, March 29. — (AP) — When Reynoldstown won the Grand National at Aintree today, the victory meant four United States tickets in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes won a total of $570,000.

The tickets held on Reyonldstown were made out to: Ray Gold, The Bronx, New York; Ann Goldberg, Philadelphia; Mabel Leitzelman, Olney, Ill.; "5 Glasses", Philadelphia.

Each of these tickets pay £30,000 —about $142,500.

Three American tickets were held on Thomond II, the horse that came in third, and each of these tickets pays approximately $47,500, a total of $142,500 for these three.

They are: J. Thomas Roszki, New York; "Clear Sailing", New York, and "Erin Go Bragh", Buffalo, New York.

Did Not Win Bet

Aintree, England, March 29—(AP) —Early arrivals on the scene of the Grand National Steeplechase were treated to an unexpected entertainment today when a young amateur rider whose identity was undisclosed, attempted to hurdle the 16-foot water jump in front of the grandstand without the benefit of a horse.

It was reported he had bet £20 he could clear the obstacle. He tripped over the hedge at the takeoff, however, and landed squarely on his stomach in the muddy water while thousands cheered his gallant attempt.

AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE
— Be Sure That —
Your car is insured before taking it out of the garage. An accident may mean financial disaster
SEE US FOR RATES
HAIG BROS.
188 Front St. (Successors to S. J. Fisher & Son) Phone 188

Police News

Orders were issued by the police department today to all operators of slot machines in the city relative to their purchasing of licences from the city treasurer's department. Following a check-up by the police it was disclosed, that 20 slot machines and one pin machine were in operation in Belleville yesterday. The licence fee fixed by the city council recently was $100.00 per machine.

Three motorists returned to their automobiles this morning to find police stickers attached to the same. Upon reporting to the police station the delinquents were informed, that no all night parking was allowed in Belleville in the downtown area.

Charles Hall, local merchant, reported to the police today the loss of the keys of his automobile. The keys were taken from Mr. Hall's parked car.

Twenty-three transients slumbered quietly at the police station last night. Russell Pigden, Madoc, was found by police early today asleep in a motor car at the upper end of Front street. When questioned by the police and asked for his driver's permit, Pigden produced a driver's permit, allegedly made out to his brother. The permit was confiscated by the authorities and Mr. Pigden was informed, that it would be necessary for his brother to apply at the police station for the operator's licence. He was not seen driving the automobile, however.

A girl's bicycle, reported stolen from the local Collegiate yesterday, was recovered by the police last night and today returned to its owner. Another youthful lassie had taken the "bike" and was caught trying to sell it. Court action will follow.

ERROR IN ADV.

By mistake the street address of Arthur A. Sills Co. was given in yesterday's paper as 287 Front Street instead of 287 Coleman street, as it should have been. The error occurred in connection with the Ten-Test insulating building board announcement. Arthur A. Sills Co. are still doing business at the old stand, 287 Coleman Street, and have not moved to Front street as the advertisement referred to would seem to indicate.

Past Masters To Meet At Wellington

A meeting of the Past Masters' Association of the Prince Edward District, A. F. and A. M. will be held this evening at Wellington. A large number of qualified brethren of the Masonic Order of this city will be in attendance. The meeting will be devoted to general business.

SEASON'S BIGGEST HIT
THE ONLY PERSON WHO BETRAYED HIM WAS THE WOMAN WHO LOVED HIM MOST . . . . . . Yet even she didn't know, when she tracked down "The Scarlet Pimpernel" 'that she trapped the man she loved.
BARONESS ORCZY'S World-Famous Novel of Romantic Adventure
"The SCARLET PIMPERNEL"
with
LESLIE HOWARD
MERLE OBERON
RAYMOND MASSEY
TOMORROW
BELLE
EXTRA
POPEYE in "PLEASED TO MEET CHA"
Belle News
Sat. Mat. The Mystery Mountain
LAST DAY—CLARK GABLE in AFTER OFFICE HOURS

MADOC DEBATERS ARE DEFEATED

Eldorado Team Wins in Young People's Event

Madoc, March 29—The regular weekly meeting of Trinity United Church Young People's Society was held in the Sunday School rooms on Monday evening with a large attendance, there being about 30 present from Eldorado. The meeting began with the president, Miss E. MacDarmid in charge and was opened by singing hymn 276 "True Hearted, Whole Hearted." The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The collection was received. A portion of the Bible was read responsively and was followed by prayer by Mr. Rivers. The ladies' quartette comprising Mrs. Eagleson, Miss Salisbury, Mrs. Wesley Hulin and Miss N. Fair sang "In Heavenly Love Abiding."

The president with a few well chosen words welcomed the visitors. The main item of interest on the program was a debate "Resolved that Canada should own and operate her own navy." Eldorado team of Vernon Strebe and Cecil Robinson having previously defeated Springbrook, argued in favor of the affirmative and Madoc, John Bristol and Mervyn Rutherford winners over Cooper, upheld the negative. The judges, Miss Wright of Eldorado, Mr. Irwin of Madoc and Miss Francis Harris of Hazzard's rendered a verdict for the affirmative basing their decision on the better material and better delivery of the Eldorado team.

Misses Edna Salisbury and Minnie Ferguson rendered a very pretty piano duet. The meeting was closed by singing hymn 108 and repeating the Mizpah Benediction. at the close a very tasty lunch was served to the visitors.

I.O.D.E. TEA

The Madoc branch of the I.O.D.E. held a tea at the home of Mrs. Wm. Mackintosh. The room was tastefully decorated in green and navy flowers added to its charm. Mrs. George Maybee, regent of the chapter and Miss J. Mackintosh received the guests. Mrs. George Wright poured tea and Mrs. Carl McCoy and Mrs. R. Bristol assisted in the dining room. Mrs. P. Holland and Mrs. Jack Robertson had charge of the home cooking.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex McGregor and family of Napanee spent Sunday in Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Ashley of Whitby were week end visitors at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Ashley in town.

Mr. Gray Rivers who is attending Victoria College in Toronto spent the week end at his home in Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Breckell of Oshawa were week end visitors in town.

Mr. C. D. Ross motored to Toronto on Tuesday.

Late Charles Conley

On Thursday, March 21st, Charles Conley, Sr., passed away to his eternal home after a short illness. The late Mr. Conley was born in Madoc township some 68 years ago and was the son of the late William Conley and Phoebe Weese. He farmed on the Conley homestead about one mile east of Madoc and has been a continuous resident there since his childhood. The deceased was a quiet, unassuming man, devoted to his home and family, a good citizen and worthy neighbour.

He was a member of Trinity United Church and fraternally a loyal supporter of the Orange lodge, being a member of the Madoc chapter No. 160.

Left to mourn his loss are his widow, formerly Miss Frances Elizabeth Brady, two daughters, Lena, Mrs. Arthur Bird and Frances, Mrs. Carl Bird, both of Madoc, one brother Peter Conley, New Westminster, B.C. and one sister Mrs. Tom Bailey of Madoc.

The funeral under the auspices of the Madoc Orange Lodge, was held in Trinity United Church on Sunday afternoon and was largely attended. The Reverend G. W. Rivers had charge of the service and paid a fitting tribute to the memory of the departed. The Scripture lesson was taken from the 30th Psalm and some verses from St. John's Gospel. Miss Norma Fair sang very sweetly "Some Day I'll Understand." The hymns used were "Forever With the Lord" and "My Faith Looks up to Thee."

Mr. Rigers selected as his text, the fourth verse of the fifth hacpter of Matthew: "Blessed are they that mourn for they shall be Comforted" and preached a very comforting sermon to solace those who cherish the memory of the departed husband and father.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Roy Taylor, William McBain, John Smith, George West, Percy Holland and Roy Walker. The flower bearers were Messrs. Ogle Devolin, George Alore, Dearle Adams, Chas. Gordon, M. Gawley and Percy Broodworth.

Many beautiful floral tributes were received from Mr. and Mrs. Roy Taylor, Mr. Kernahan and Mr. P. Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stockloser and family, The Doyle and Cassidy families of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conley Jr., Mr. and Mrs. H. Doherty of Belleville. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woodley, Mr. Hubert Conley, Mr. and Mrs. Chris. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. George Noyes, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stockloser and family, Mr. and Mrs. Will Conley, Mr. and Mrs. George Gay, R. Lewis and family, The Canada Talc Mine Boys, the Madoc Chapter L.O.L. 160, Oakdale Rebekah Lodge, Peter Conley and family of B.C., Mr. and Mrs. Archie Winters, Belleville, Wesley Conley and Elmer Conley of Belleville, and Royal Black Lodge.

Among those from out of town who attended were Mrs. Sine, Mr. and Mrs. John Sine and Mr. and Mrs. Lobias Sine of Toronto, Mrs. Spence, Brantford, Mrs. Cassidy, Mrs. Doyle and Mr. J. Cassidy of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Constable of Peterboro, Mr. Hubert Conley and Mrs. Charles Woodley of Lindsay, Mrs. H. Doherty of Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. G. Gay of Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. Will Conley of Shannonville, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Conley and Mr. and Mrs. George Noyes of Belleville.

How to have a "Happy" Stomach

Are you sick and tired of having a stomach that acts up—that doesn't take kindly to good, wholesome food? Then bring your stomach to time. Don't take drugs. They are dangerous and habit-forming. Just follow the Andrews' Rules of Health. Eat moderately. Sleep plenty. Exercise regularly. Breathe all the fresh air you can. And keep yourself in healthy condition with a purifying, energizing glass of Andrews Liver Salt taken about twice each week while it is still deliciously bubbling.

This last rule is quite as important as all the others. What Andrews does is to exert a definitely beneficial effect on the stomach lining. It soothes the digestive organs and strengthens the whole process of digestion and waste elimination.

Don't let your stomach boss you. Learn to enjoy a sound digestive system and good, hearty meals by following the Andrews' Rules. You will feel better—much better and healthier—from the day you begin. Get Andrews Liver Salt from your druggist. In tins, 35c and 60c. Extra large bottle, 75c. Sole Agents: McGillivray Bros. Limited, Toronto. 29R

Leslie Howard and lovely Merle Oberon in the giant epic of romantic adventure "The Scarlet Pimpernel," coming to the Belle, Saturday.

PERSONAL NOTES OF INTEREST

3rd Line Thurlow —Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pound and Ross spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Langabeer of Corbyville.

Mr. Gordon Carr is visiting at the home of Mr. Robert Peacock.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pound spent the dinner hour on Sunday with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cole.

Mrs. E. A. Hall is able to be up again after being confined to her bed for the past five weeks.

A large number of neighbors of this line and Cannifton enjoyed a charivari at Mr. Roy Pound's on Friday evening, after the music continued for some time they all motored to Belleville and enjoyed a lunch at a cafe, all feeling happy over the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pound spent a day last week with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Treverton of Gilead.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pound spent Wednesday of dast week with Mr and Mrs. Will Pope of Victoria.

Mrs. T. McCoy called on Mrs. J. R. Pound on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Frank Pound and Mrs. Harry Pound call on Mrs. E. A. Hall on Thursday afternoon.

◆

DEATHS YESTERDAY

By the Canadian Press

Baghdad, Iraq — The Queen mother of Iraq, widow of the late King Feisal.

Cape Town—Tielmann Roos, 65, former Minister of Justice of the Union of South Africa.

New York—Dr. Adolph Monaelesser, 79, Surgeon-in-Chief of the American Red Cross during the Spanish-American war.

Quebec—Etienne Paradis, 83, one of the founders of the wholesale grocery firm of Langlois and Paradis.

◆

POWER PURCHASE POLICY WILL BE ANNOUNCED

Toronto, March 28—(CP)—Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn said today the Ontario government would announce its policy Saturday in respect to the power purchase contracts negotiated by former governments with Quebec power companies, Cabinet will meet Saturday after which the government will announce its decision.

INTERESTING NOTES OF HILLIER DISTRICT

Hillier, —Mrs. B. Ross of Belleville, who has been ill for some months at the home of her parents here left for Hamilton for treatment her husband joined her at Trenton and accompanied her there for treatment also. Their many friends are wishing them a speedy recovery.

Miss Kathleen Palmer spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mayhew and family at Black Creek.

Mr. James Armstrong of Warkworth called on his cousins, Mrs. Levi Palmer and Miss Emma Macdonald on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Gamble spent Saturday evening in Wellington.

Miss Lenna Young and Mrs. Florence Young spent Monday afternoon in Wellington.

Mrs. Dorland, an aged lady, who has been ill for some time, passed away on Saturday afternoon at her home in the village. The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Anglican Church. Much sympathy is extended to the sorrowing friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Trumpor called at Bonnybrook on Monday evening.

Mr. Orval Spencer is helping Mr. C. N. Palmer cut wood.

Mr. Gerald Ferguson, Hillier Township Assessor, called on several in this vicinity Tuesday. The assessment appears to be about the same as last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Boyle are getting settled in their new home Cold Creek.

Mr. Fred Ward of Consecon delivered coal here, Tuesday and pleasantly surprised his customers by stating that the price of coal had dropped one dollar a ton.

Muskrat trappers are on the alert for these wary little animals, which are shy about leaving their winter homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Abe McLeod are preparing to move from their farm to Mr. S. Palmer's. A farewell surprise party was held in their honor Wednesday evening.

Pleasant Bay school is closed this week, owing to the illness of their teacher, Miss Kathleen Jones. It is hoped she will have a speedy recovery.

◆

PIECE OF STICK LODGES IN EYE

CROFTON—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Crook and Ronald, spent the tea hour on Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Victor Bongard.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Convert were in Picton on Wednesday.

We welcome Major W. O. Frink and family to our neighborhood again.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Covert spent the tea hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Victor Bongard.

Messrs. John and Chas. and Miss Margaret Gray spent Saturday with their aunt, Mrs. Herb. Parsons and family at Demoresvtille.

Mrs. Lorne Munroe returned to her home on Saturday after spending the winter with her mother, Mrs. Ralston at Belleville. Mrs. Munroe is quite improved in health.

Mr. Victor Bongard had the misfortune to injure his left eye one day last week. While driving the cows, a small stick he had in his hand broke and flew up to hit him in the eye cutting the eye ball. All sincerely hope their will be no serious results.

After any EXERCISE
GIVE YOUR BODY EASE
RUB IN—
MINARD'S
"KING OF PAIN"
LINIMENT
Sales Agents: Harold F. Ritchie & Co. Limited, Toronto 78

MRS. PAUL SHARP HOSTESS TO W. I.

Wellman's Institute Members Hold Interesting Meeting

Rawdon—On Friday afternoon a large number of members of Wellman's Women's Institute gathered at the home of Mrs. Paul Sharp for their March meeting. Mrs. Fred Thain presided and the meeting opened with the Ode and Lord's Prayer in Unison. Mrs. Percy Jackman called the roll which was answered by "Radio Thoughts".

At this juncture birthday greetings were extended to Mrs. Thomas Hubble, the oldest member and also a charter member.

Welcome was given to Mrs. S. Dayman of Colbourne, she being a visitor and sympathy to Mrs. Charles Dunham in the loss of her mother.

Miss Lucille Dracup sang a solo, "Mississippi Valley Blues". Miss Emma Rainnie gave a reading entitled "Looking on the bright side".

Mrs. Ed Todd outlined a splendid topic "The League of Nations."

Mrs. John Snarr read a paper "Home-making as our leading industry."

Misses Mina and Lucille Dracup rendered as a duet "Lamplighting Time in the Valley."

This helpful meeting closed with the National Anthem.

The hostess served home-made candy and all enjoyed a social half hour followed by a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Sharp.

Rev. F. G. Joblin is still confined to his bed.

On Sunday afternoon at Wellman's United Church Mr. Carl Clancy presided over the service. Mr. John Paulely offered prayer and Mr. Fred Elgie was the special speaker.

Miss Eileen MacMullen visited Mrs. Edward Montgomery, Ross' Corners on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Reid Attended the obsequies on Thursday afternoon of the former's aunt, Mrs. James Garrison of Belleville who was in her 79th year. The funeral service was held in Kingston Road United Church.

Mrs. Fred Seeney of Grafton is spending this week with her brother Mr. Robert Melville.

Among those from a distance who attended the funeral of Mrs. James Hubble on Friday were: Mr. and Mrs. Hermon Tucker, Tweed; Mr. Frank Hubble, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Taylor, Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wrightmeyer, Peterborough; Mrs. Mark Holden and Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Max Holden, Frankford; Mr. T. J. Wallace, Windsor; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Ellis and amily, Wooler; Mr. Lorne Ellis, Windsor; Mrs. Dempsey Tyler, Consecon; Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Hubble and Mrs. Hubble, Belleville, Mrs. E. Hubble and son George, Havelock; Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Utman, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barber, Stirling; Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Clarke, Shannonville; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foster; Mr. and Mrs. S. Irvin, Tweed.

Mrs. Orno Sharp and baby son Melvin Ray arrived home from Bonarlaw on Sunday.

Friends and relatives in Rawdon were sorry to hear of the serious illness of Mr. Mark Tucker of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sharp, Marie and Audrey, Mrs. Herbert Miller and sons spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Seeley at Chatterton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Weaver and Mr. Albert Weaver of Belleville were dinner guests on Tuesday of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson.

Mrs. W. S. Stiles spent the week end in Toronto with her daughter Mrs. R. Cross

The play entitled "Winning of Joy" sponsored by the young people of Springbrook was well patronized and those attending report a splendid entertainment with all the actors classed as stars.

SECOND THURLOW NEWS BRIEFS

2ND THURLOW—Mr. and Mrs. Don Leeming and family took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. F. Putman, Cannifton.

Mr. Gordon Atkins is spending several days with Mr. Chas. Fargey, West Huntingdon, during the maple syrup season.

Miss Queena Mitchell spent the tea hour on Monday evening with Mrs. Douglas Atkins.

Master Billy and Donny Leeming are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Eric Leeming.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sprague, Mr. Kenneth Latta and Miss Cecil Latta spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Barlow and Betty spent Wednesday at Mr. and Mrs. Will Barlow's, West Huntingdon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Howe attended Mrs. James Garrison's funeral in Belleville on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Garrison was an aunt of Mrs. Howe's.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coulter, Roslin.

Several ladies from our road are attending the Ontario Intelligencer DeBoth Cooking and Homemaker's School in Belleville. Miss Doris Atkins winning one of the daily gifts.

Mrs. Fred Mitchell spent Monday with Mrs. R. M. Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Toppings, Belleville, took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Ted Howe. In the afternoon all motored to Deseronto, to see Mrs. Howe's sister, Mrs. Irwin, who has been ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Mitchell of Wooler, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mitchell.

Miss Doris Atkins is spending a few days with her aunt, Miss T. Fargey of Belleville.

Miss Annie Seeley spent Tuesday afternoon with her parents.

A social evening was held in S.S. No. 3 on Friday evening. Cards and dancing were enjoyed after which lunch was served. All enjoyed the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell entertained Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Mitchell, of Wooler, to tea on Sunday evening.

Mrs. Eric Leeming, Billy and Donny Leeming spent Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. A. Mitchell.

◆

GOOD BEGINNING IN ROAD WORK

WEST HUNTINGDON — Those farmers who do their statute labor on Victoria avenue are performing this task this week. This is believed to be a move in the right direction as the gravel becomes packed before the dry weather of mid-summer.

Mr. Orval Thompson, who has been in the employ of Mr. Foster Wilson for the past three years, has severed his connection with Mr. Wilson and is working now for Mr. Shorey and on Tuesday Orval received the sad news that his father had passed away.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cosbey and Bobbie of Campbellford, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Sarah Fargey.

Mr. and Mrs. Sandy McCurdy and son, Donald spent Wednesday, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Wilson.

Miss Emma McTaggart of Montreal is visiting her aunt, Miss Etta McTaggart of Front street.

Mrs. Edward Pitman and Miss Georgia Pitman were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sandy McCurdy.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Wilson, Donald and Glen spent a day recently with Mr. and Mrs. Melville Donnan.

Miss Mabel Charleston of Belleville, spent the week end as guest of Miss Ruby Bray.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Brummell and Diana of Massassaga spent a few days last week at Mr. Philip Carr.

Messrs. Keith Bray and Arthur Wilson were in Picton on Saturday on business.

Mr. Elmer Wilson had his tonsils removed at Dr. Wright's office at Keene on Monday. Miss Vera Wilson accompanied him and is visiting her sister, Mrs. Hugh McFee.

Those who have tapped their sugar bush are making an abundance of syrup.

◆

MELVILLE ITEMS OF INTEREST

Melville—Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Palmer and Mr. R. E. Vance spent Tuesday in Picton.

Mr. F. S. Anderson, Belleville, made a business trip to his farm, South Lakeside on Monday.

Mr. E. Carley and Mr. Jas. Wickson were at Picton on Monday.

Friends were sorry to read of the death of Mrs. Williard Conley, 6th Concession of Tyendinaga on Sunday. Mrs. Conley lived about 23 years ago on the farm now owned by Mr. R. E. Vance, South Lakeside. Friends here extend sympathy to the sorrowing family.

Mrs. J. Root spent Friday afternoon with Mrs. Earl Burris, Consecon.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Wood, Ameliasburg, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Anderson, Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Will Morton spent Sunday with Mrs. James Morton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Root and boys spent Sunday at Frank Benway's 3rd Concession.

Mr. E. Carley and Will Miller spent Saturday in Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Mary Carley and Elmer, spent Sunday at A. Carley's.

◆

Award Certificates To Class Taking Teacher Training

Fuller— The Standard Teachers Training School conducted by Revs. C. Hill, H. H. Lackey and R. J. Merriam during the last six weeks in the Fuller Churches was brought to a close Monday night and Interim Certificates given to the following eghteen persons. Rev. C. Hill, Mrs. H. Redcliff; Mrs. T. Rollins; Lila Rollins; Ethel Wilson; Ella Morland; Mr. A. Corderey; Mr. M. Morland; Mesdames W. F. Brough; Ben Brough; Frank Palmer; Stella Kellar; Gordon Mitts and Messrs Arthur Brough; Ben Brough; John M. Geen; Levi Rutter; Lillie Mitts; May Merriam. The ladies of the Fuller United Church under the able leadership of Mrs. B. Brough served a palatable lunch as a closing feature of the school.

While driving to Ivanhoe to attend the play "Wild Ginger" on Friday evening Mr. John M. Geen's horse took fright and ran away breaking the buggy and throwing Mr. and Mrs. Geen out. They fortunately escaped with some severe bruses.

Mrs. Wm. Deen is recovering rapidly from the injuries she sustained in a fall on the ice when she broke four ribs.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Christie were guests at the home of Mr. Roy Mitts on Sunday.

Mr. and Ms. James Mitts visited Vain Mitts on Sunday.

Mr. Murney Morland is confined to his bed with flu.

There was a good attendance at Sunday School to hear Mr. Herb Burk.

Mrs. Frank Palmer is spending a few days this week with her mtoher Mrs. P. Ashley at West Huntingdon.

◆

SEAL HERDS MOVE

Portland, Ore., March 28— The great annual migration of the seal herds to their summer resorts in the cold waters of the Bering Sea is on.

The United States Coast Guard cutter Onondaga will put out of Astoria to convoy the herd northward and fend off poachers who would rob these sea beasts of their valuable coats of fur.

McNABB'S
FASHION REVUE
at the
CAPITOL THEATRE

CHOSEN AS THE FASHION STORE OF BELLEVILLE

Miss Claire Andree Lecturer of the De Both Homemakers' School — the Latest in Fashions

In accord with Miss Andree's good taste—she chose McNabb's to display the smartest in women's apparel for Spring and Summer

Blackshire Dresses

These high class dresses will be displayed on FRIDAY at our FASHION SHOW at the CAPITOL THEATRE. Also orders will be taken on these dresses at our Store.

Coats and Swagger Suits

Our large assortment affords the opportunity to every woman to choose the garments she wants. See our display.

ELSIE FROCKS
Tailored by BLACKSHIRE LIMITED, now an exclusive feature at this store. ....
Selling at $19.75

The J. A. McNABB Ltd.
254 Front St.

Millinery by Woodley's

Millinery by Woodley's

IMPASSE REACHED AT ANGLO-GERMA N CONFERENCE

History in the making is depicted in this Central Press radiophoto taken in the chancellery of the Third Reich in Berlin as Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler conversed with Sir John Simon British Foreign Secretary (centre) and Captain Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal of Great Britain (right).

FROM GIRL TO WOMAN

GROWING girls are often sufferers from female irregularities, catarrhal drains. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the womanly tonic to give your daughter at such times. Hear what Mrs. N. Varey of 47 Burtch St., Woodstock, Ont., said: "When I was growing into womanhood I suffered terrible pain periodically. I would have to stay in bed for several days. All this misery was soon corrected after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a short time."

All druggists. New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. Write Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

SKIN BLEMISHES

Vanish Before Physician's Prescription

Those spots or pimples on your face —why let them go on tormenting you? Like millions of others have done, you can get rid of your skin trouble through the work of a great physician— Dr. D. D. Dennis. Dr. Dennis' prescription—known in many countries as D.D.D. and now manufactured by Campana's Italian Balm chemists— will bring you relief at once, and quickly restore your skin to health. All druggists sell D.D.D. Trial size, 35c. Guaranteed to give instant relief or money refunded. 3

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER
THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

THE MAYORS AND DEBTS

Mayors of some ninety cities have been meeting in Montreal and a large number of them have been before the Commons and Senate and the Cabinet at Ottawa urging some measure which will lower the burden on the municipalities. One of the recommendations was that all relief obligations ought to be federal.

What stand Ottawa will take on this proposition remains to be shown. The increased burden will of course be heavy for the Dominion Government should the Federal House decide to undertake the entire burden of relief. Will Ottawa feel that yet most of the cities and towns are able to bear a share of the relief burden and will Ottawa feel that everything is being done everywhere to keep municipal expenses as low as possible? Mayor McGreer of Vancouver has pointed out the situation of cities he says cannot pay up. He pleads for a servicing of debts at 3% interest, not, he says, for repudiation of debts.

Those municipalities which expanded themselves beyond all measure of reason in the good old booming, inflating days before the break of 1929 are those of course which are suffering most. Others which did not lose their heads in an orgy of spending are in better financial position.

It will be interesting to watch the attitude of the provincial legislatures to this question, but before that, to see the reaction of the federal government. The issue is of paramount importance for today and the future.

GERMAN DISMISSALS

Germany has taken an unusual way of overcoming the foreign influence in the fatherland—drive it out by depriving the influential of their positions. Twelve hundred non-Aryans in office have been dismissed and many of these have left the country to make homes in lands anew.

What these leaders of thought of Germany must feel to have been treated in a manner which means that they are deprived of their fatherland can only be faintly realized. The most significant fact about these is that they have in a large measure been the outstanding benefactors of Germany in science and in other branches of knowledge and education. What they have given to Germany they are either prevented from repeating for Germany in the future, or they will be forced to give to other lands who welcome them.

A more sane method would seem to have been for the Germans to have girded themselves to the task of winning the offices by their own abilities, not by forcing the others out merely for race reasons.

Other nations would have taken other ways had theirs been a desire to restrict offices to their own race. The very vehemence of the attack on the non-Aryans in Germany would seem to indicate that the Germans suffering from inferiority complex feel too much the obligation they owe these people who are not Teutonic by birth. But abolition does not end the debt. It remains to be proven that the Germans can produce such scholars as they owe these people who are not Teutonic by birth. But abolition does not end the debt. It remains to be proven that the Germans can produce such scholars as they have virtually abolished, though they will be able to accomplish much themselves, it would seem likely.

However, other nations do not fear the ingress of these leaders of light who are leaving Germany. Somehow nations which are not Teutonic do not fear competition from them, they even expect that the urge given by them will increase culture and learning in these lands. This view is undoubtedly the correct one.

If Germany is setting out to kill knowledge she is adopting the most senseless plan. In fact, no nation can wipe out knowledge. One may burn books to kill it, one may execute men to do it, but the light of learning survives. It is something for which men will strive to the opposition of every obstacle, no matter how strong.

Hitler's party has in this act thrown itself against the onward urge of life and will fail.

EUROPEAN CIVILIZATION

Dean Inge told some Cambridge undergraduates that the only promise of a better future for their country would come from those to whom the past is dear. This remark has given rise to a discussion on the bases of European civilization, said to be Christianity, Greek art and philosophy, Roman law and politics, and northern chivalry. To communism is attributed a desire to wipe out all tradition and leave blank pages on which to inscribe the new doctrine, and there is a good deal of truth in the observation. Especially Russian communists have been charged with attacking Christianity. It must be said that under the Czars, Christianity was presented in a form which did it an injustice, but Bolshevism struck at Christianity itself instead of at its perverted form and thus shocked the religious sense of the world. But Bolshevism is not alone at fault. Nazism is in open conflict with Christianity, and substitutes pagan for Christian ideals. It is at war also with Greek culture and with chivalry, in fact with all that is comprehended in European civilization or civilization anywhere. The same may be said of the war spirit and the fanatical nationalism which infects a large part of the continent of Europe, though some nations are more infected than others.

Dean Inge, however, was addressing particularly Englishmen. And it must be said that Great Britain is not dominated by the wild extravagances of some of its neighbors. There is no general desire to tear up the pages of history. On the contrary there is regard, amounting in some cases to reverence for old institutions and customs. Especially is this true as to the throne. No dictator is the object of more affection than King George, but his influence does not rest upon force, nor does he feel it necessary to whip his subjects into frenzy by wild speeches. In this connection it is significant that his name and that of the Prince of Wales are associated with movements for the treatment of cancer and for the welfare of youth—movements not for the destruction but the advancement of civilization.

But while there is a fondness for old institutions and customs, there is no blind adherence to tradition. Institutions are modified without violence or fuss, and quietly adapted to changing conditions. The limited monarchy is the product of that wind of growth, and so likewise is the unique relation between Great Britain and the Dominions, while India is on the way to the Dominion status. The constitution grows like a tree, is not made like a box. Responsible government allows radical changes to be made without affecting the stability of the throne or of parliamentary institutions. — London Advertiser.

SHORT-WEIGHTING

The Government is no doubt well advised to put more teeth into the Weights and Measures Act. Such action has been under consideration for some time and it is now proposed to go even so far as the physical closing up of the premises of those found guilty of repeated cheating by short weight.

Doubtless the practice of this form of petty larceny is confined to comparatively yerv few so-called merchants, and the stiffening up of the Act can scarcely be taken as an indication of widespread dishonesty of this particularly mean type. But it is just because short-weighting is so mean and so difficult for the average small purchaser to detect that the heavier penalties asked by Mr. Hanson are justified. How far the thing can go is shown by a recent clean-up in New York, the confiscation and destruction of thousands of dishonest scales and the punishment of their owners. By taking the precaution the Minister has, there should be less danger of this kind of crookedness in this country. —Montreal Star.

BUILDING UP TOURIST TRADE

According to the official estimate of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, tourists from other countries spend about $300,000,000 in Canada in a normal year, and it is believed that, through a wider knowledge of the highway facilities and scenic and other attractions, of which there is such an abundance in the Dominion, the revenue from tourists might readily be increased to $500,000,000 annually. To this end, therefore, it is planned toenlarge the campaign of publicity which is regularly conducted to make other countries aware of Canada's picturesque scenery, its invigorating climate and its opportunities for hunting, fishing, boating and other sports. Success will be acheived in this campaign according as the National Travel Bureau and kindred organizations in all the provinces are efficient in their practice of the art of advertising, which may be defined as finding the propert method of catching public attention. Advertising is a great force, and, sanely applied to the tourist trade, it should supply the key of prosperity to the business of the Canadian Travel Bureau as it is being directed by its secretary, Mr. D. Leo Dolan.—Montreal Gazette.

NEW GOVERNOR-GENERAL

It is as a literary man, that Mr. Buchan has become known to thousands of people, including many Canadians. More than fifty books have come from his pen, which is testimony to his industry, and it may be stated that his works are all good. Accordingly, when he comes to Ottawa to act as Governor-General, he will be welcomed as a friend rather than a stranger. Mr. John Buchan is in the prime of life and his talents and record to date give promise that he will be a fitting successor to a line of worthy men who have been the King's representatives in the Dominion.—Montreal Gazette.

The chief enemy of reform is not the man who favors wickedness, but the crank who thinks innocent things wicked. —Fountain Inn (S.C.) Tribune.

A man's own good-breeding is his best security against other people's ill-manners. —Chesterfield.

SIDELIGHTS

THE HOME FORUM

Discussing the events of the day, home gossip and general news topics as revealed by the home newspaper—under the evening lamp—and comments Grave and Gay. — Supervised by The Lamplighter.

THE NEWSBOY

He cries his papers briskly
Each day and all the day;
I wonder how the newsboy
Can always keep so gay?

It's "Here's your morning paper!"
And "Read the news!" at noon,
And: "Get the last edition!"
Each to a merry tune.

The newsboy never grumbles
At wind or rain or sleet,
For he can bring some sunshine
Along the bleakest street.

His youth, his cheer, his courage
Would make old Midas glad
To trade his gold for boyhood
And join the happy lad.

It's "Extra! Extra! Extra!"
He knows life, bad and good;
But every face grows brighter
To meet his merry mood.

—Aline Michaelis.

x x x

MUGS THERE ARE APLENTY in commemoration of this or that Royal Jubilee and their resurrection has brought other mementoes of commemorations long since dimmed by time. One of the most interesting mementoes of Queen Victoria's Golden Jubilee in 1887 is treasured by Inspector Harry Clarke, of Belleville, in the form of a colored badge which was worn by him and other school children of the period when the world was honoring the Good Queen Vic at the conclusion of the first fifty years of her reign. The colors are just as bright today and the picture of the Queen as clear as when worn proudly by the children of Canada in 1887.

x x x

MIRACLES TO SOME PEOPLE are all in the day's work as far as the average newspaper man is concerned, and believe me there are many miracles in the production of a newspaper every day, to the uninitiated. We know that advertisements in the paper read in so many thousand homes every day pay prompt and generous dividends, but to some people the quick action between daily newspaper advertising and results is always amazing. F'rinstance take Sid Fisher—we don't mean take him for a ride, or anything like that, just take him for a good fellow and let it go at that. Take Sid, one of the best auctioneers the town and county ever had. Sid was known far and wide as a salesman of rare ability and a getter of good prices on all occasions. Sid stepped out of the auctioneer business four years ago on account of other interests. Business changes made it possible for Sid to again assume his role of auctioneer. He put a piece in the paper telling the public that he was again available for auctioneering, large and small. The next morning there was a man on Sid Fisher's doorstep with a big aucton for him to conduct at a distant place in the country, and that's not all folks, that's just the beginning as Uncle Henry of "The Showboat" would say—but Sid still thinks that the rapidity with which newspaper advertising brings results is little short of miraculous.

x x x

SPEAKING ABOUT CABBAGES AND KINGS and this Great Family newspaper, a motor car dealer showed us a letter he received this week from a business man of Bowmanville which read: "I saw your adv. for used cars in the Ontario Intelligencer and would consider a deal for the ——— mentioned, etc." Just another proof that distance is no bar to the pulling power of this g. f. j. Why just the other day we mentioned in this column receipt by the circulation department of a letter from the head of a big ranch in Montana enclosing check for renewal of subscription and the following tribute: "You are publishing a real newspaper and I read it with interest." Just a sample of the many kindly tributes constantly received. Of course, we get a few of the other kind, too, but as we used to chant when feuds of school days waxed furious, "Sticks and stones may break my bones but names will never hurt me." Recalling what Sir John A. Macdonald once said about being abused by political opponents. Why the most sticks lie under the tree bearing the finest fruit in the orchard. So, barring our natural modesty, and all that, we are doing very nicely, thank you.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 Years Ago

MARCH 29TH, 1915.

Mr. Arthur Jones, the popular manager of the Molson's Bank in this city has by the unanimous opinion of many people missed his calling. He should have been an auctioneer and would have no doubt proved to be a great success. A lad named Percy Gill desired to contribute something towards the patriotic fund, but he could not do so in ready cash. He, however, was the possessor of some pigeons which he prized highly and he gave four pairs. These were auctioned off last evening at the committee rooms on Bridge street and Mr. Jones was selected as auctioneer. His pursuasive manner and persistent appeal for liberal bids upon the pigeons were such that the sum of $30.50 was secured for the birds and the contributors were allowed to take them home with them. Bidding was brisk during the sale resulting in one pair being sold for $11.25. It is needless to say that the lad was more than gratified that his contribution realized the generous sum of cash.

30 Years Ago

MARCH 29TH 1905.

Mr. John Macoun, an old Belleville boy now living in Chicago, writes to the Intelligencer as follows regarding the Old Boys' Reunion: "I saw a small notice in the Canadian American that Belleville is to have a big celebration next August in connection with the return of Belleville old boys. As I intend going home this summer about that time I would like to learn something of what you are going to do and also the date set. I think that I could do quite a little towards drumming up the boys and see what we could do towards getting a crowd together to visit the old town. Let me hear from you and if you have any literature send it to me and anything I can do I will be very glad to do."

There will be a meeting of the Belleville amateur minstrels at 8 o'clock sharp this evening in the C.O.F. Hall.

The new bridge at Thrasher's Corners was opened for traffic yesterday. It is a fine structure and will be a great convenience to the travelling public.

40 Years Ago

MARCH 29TH, 1895.

The ice is working down the river very slowly.

Mr. Alex. Morrice of Madoc was a visitor in the city today.

Mr. A. Macnider, Inspector of the Bank of Montreal, is in the city.

Mr. William Merrill is home from Detroit on a visit.

Mr. M. J. Clarke, son of Ald. Clarke, has passed his Freshman's examinations at the Dental College in Toronto.

Mr. Geo. C. Matheson, now a student in the dental office of Mr. Jos. Caldwell, has passed his second year examinations in dentistry.

Mr. T. E. Oliver, a former student in the dental office of Mr. Jos. Caldwell, has passed his final examinations at the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Toronto.

Ald. N. B. Falkner is in Toronto on business today.

50 Years Ago

MARCH 29TH, 1885.

A despatch from Ottawa reads as follows: "In the House of Commons Sir John Macdonald amid considerable excitement read the following despatch from Col. Irvine, the chief officer of the Mounted Police, who left Regina for Port Carleton with 90 men some days ago: "A party under my command has just arrived here (Fort Carleton). When nearing Fort Carleton I found that Crozier, with a party of 100 had a short time before gone to Duck Lake to secure large quantities of supplies there stored. He was met by 200 rebels who held an advantageous position at Beardy's reserve and endeavored to surround the police and civilians. The rebels fired first, then fighting became general. Crozier owing to the disadvantage at which he was taken retreated in an orderly manner, arriving at the fort at the same time as my party. Ten civilians of Prince Albert and two policemen were killed and four citizens and seven constables wounded. The number of rebels killed is not known. The police and civilians acted with the greatest bravery under heavy fire. The Government force is now safely entrenched and as soon as a consultation is had and a plan arranged we may expect decisive steps to be taken to crash the rebellion which the frantic Riel has instigated. The announcement made by Sir John of the number of the killed and wounded was received with bated breath by the House. For some days Sir John has been preparing for the worst. Arrangements have been completed for the transport of "A" and "B" Batteries to the Northwest via the Canadian Pacific Railroad. Harry Abbott has collected sleighs and horses and all is in readiness to convey the troops across the gap of 70 miles which is all the distance between Ottawa and Winnipeg on which the rails have not been laid. In six days these troops will be at Qu'Appelle to begin their march of 250 miles over the prairies to the South Saskatchewan.

The news of the engagement between Superintendent Crozier of the Mounted Police and Riel's half-breeds rebels, was received in Belleville and created a good deal of excitement, but no alarm. The gallant commander of the Government forces is a sample of the material which makes up the population of this city. In his command are two other Belleville boys, E. and H. Diamond, sons of Mr. Irvine Diamond, and Colin Campbell, son of Col. Campbell, who no doubt, gave a good account of themselves during the battle.

Now that a state of war exists the Government is using every means to crush the rebellion created in the Northwest by Riel. The steps taken by the Government are said to be as follows: The Winnipeg battalion of militia, 300 strong, with half a battery of artillery, is now on the way to Qu'Appelle station, 323 miles west of Winnipeg, where several trails run north to the scene of the insurrection, Carleton being 205 miles from Qu'Appelle. The police force at Battleford and Prince Albert numbers 70, and the garrison at Carleton 300 with civilians, so that there are close to 400 men within striking distance of Riel and 300 volunteers, with two Armstrong guns, six or seven days travel away. In addition to this force the Government has ordered the immediate despatch of 800 Eastern troops to the spot. This brigade will consist of 100 men from each of the two batteries of Dominion Artillery; 250 men from each of the two Toronto corps, the Queen's Own and the Grenadiers, and 80 men from the School of Infantry under the command of Col. Ot- tf —wnRf r ter, Major-General Middleton, who is now on his way from Winnipeg to Qu'Appelle, will, of course, take chief command of the whole body of troops.

No orders have been received as yet by military authorities in Belleville regarding calling volunteers for the Northwest Rebellion. Considerable excitement exists in the city.

Winsome Jean Parker in the leading feminine role opposite George Raft, in "Limehouse Blues" principal feature attraction at the Capitol today and Saturday

DIAMONDS

COMBINATION DIAMOND and WEDDING RINGS
Nicely Matched $25.00 up

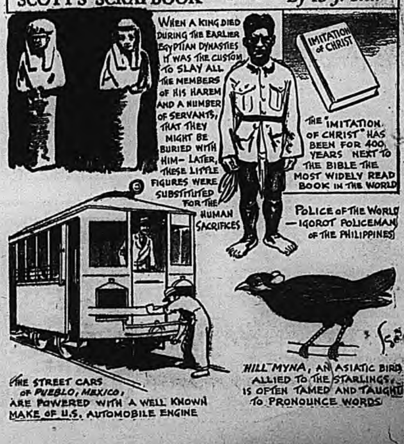
A new stock of very smart DIAMOND RINGS
in white and natural gold from $16.00 up

DIAMOND RINGS
at $50.00, $75.00, $100.00
in mountings which are works of art

WEDDING RINGS
from $4.00 to $35.00

J. O. R. McCURDY
324 Front St. Phone 318

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK - - By R. J. Scott



WHEN A KING DIED DURING THE EARLIER EGYPTIAN DYNASTIES IT WAS THE CUSTOM TO SLAY ALL THE MEMBERS OF HIS HAREM AND A NUMBER OF SERVANTS, THAT THEY MIGHT BE BURIED WITH HIM- LATER, THESE LITTLE FIGURES WERE SUBSTITUTED FOR THE HUMAN SACRIFICES
IMITATION of CHRIST
THE "IMITATION OF CHRIST" HAS BEEN FOR 400 YEARS NEXT TO THE BIBLE THE MOST WIDELY READ BOOK IN THE WORLD
POLICE OF THE WORLD —IGOROT POLICEMAN OF THE PHILIPPINES
THE STREET CARS OF PUEBLO, MEXICO, ARE POWERED WITH A WELL KNOWN MAKE OF U.S. AUTOMOBILE ENGINE
HILL MYNA, AN ASIATIC BIRD ALLIED TO THE STARLINGS, IS OFTEN TAMED AND TAUGHT TO PRONOUNCE WORDS

LAUREL REBEKAHS HOLD CARD PARTY

Guests Are Entertained At Euchre in Lodge Room

Stirling — On Tuesday evening, March 26th, Laurel Rebekah Lodge held a fine night at cards. The party took place in their lodge room and progressive euchre was the means of entertainment for the early hours of the evening, with thirteen tables in the play. Prizes won for the highest score in the night's play were, highest lady—Mrs. Ezra Nicholson. Second highest—Harry Francis. Ladies consolation—Mrs. George Megginson. The men's prizes were taken by Mr. W. Hagerty, first, and the second went to Miss Florence Maines, who played in a man's place. A great deal of merriment was caused by the fact that this splendid prize which was donated by Mr. Albert Hammond happened to be a box of cigars. The last on the prize list for men was Mr. Arthur Vandervoort. At this period a delightful lunch was served, after which the room was cleared and dancing took place for the remainder of the evening to the music supplied by Mr. Norman Rosebush, Mr. Fraser, and Mrs. Percy Utman. The door prize for the evening which was donated by a friend was won by Miss Ela Philips. As the time for departure drew near, the committee received many compliments for the lovely evenings entertainment which all present had so thoroughly enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Tanner of Minto visited Mr. and Mrs. George Mason on Tuesday.

Several of the mechanics from the local garages attended the course of instruction given by General Motors Limited in Belleville on Monday night March 25th. Among those who attended were—George Mason, Earl Green, Roy Woodbeck and Ken. Sargeant.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray McGee and daughter, Mary Sue, accompanied by Miss Patricia Shea and Miss Bernadette McGee, motored from Toronto and spent the week-end at the home of their respective parents.

Mr. Tom Ward has returned after spending two weeks at Stanley Barracks, Toronto, where a large group of Canadian Militia officers assembled to attend the 1935 classes of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry and Machine Guns, part two. The classes of instruction in this work assemble each year for a two weeks session.

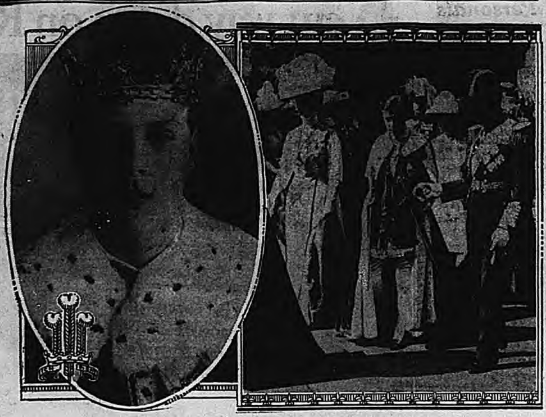
Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Baker, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Barrager of Belleville, left on Wednesday morning for Toronto.

Miss Margaret Anderson R. N. is attending Miss Eva Milne during her illness, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Hutcheon, near Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. Don McGee and family of Belleville spent Sunday at the home of the formers parents Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McGee.

Mrs. W. L. Anderson and son Lorne visited at the home of her daughter Mrs. William Hume Burnbrae on Saturday.

★ Our King and Queen ★



As Prince Edward was invested as Prince of Wades in July, 1911

NEXT to the great Durbar in India, where King George was crowned King-Emperor, probably the most elaborate ceremony on the occasion of the ascension of the new King was the investiture of the Prince of Wales.

Scarcely a month after the coronation of the King and Queen at Westminster Abbey, the King's eldest son, Prince Edward, in accordance with the tradition established by George I., was invested as Prince of Wales.

Officially he had borne the title since June 22, 1910, the day before his 16th birthday anniversary. It was not, however, until July 13, that he was invested with his robes of office at a brilliant feudal pageant at Caernarvon, Wales.

Prior to the ceremony, there had waged a battle between Cardiff and Caernarvon as to which should be honored with the investiture. Since Wales has no official capital, it was natural that there should be rivalry. But Caernarvon won out in the end by pointing to its beautiful settings and facilities for staging such a ceremony.

Of the pageant, Mr. Balfour's description made afterwards in the House of Commons, is aptly descriptive. He described it as "the most remarkable, the most interesting and the most moving of all the great historic ceremonies it has ever been my good fortune to witness."

Our pictures to-day were taken at the ceremony. The young Prince is shown wearing his robes of office. Though pale and nervous during the ceremony, when it came time for him to speak, he did so in a clear, strong voice.

On May 6th, in keeping with the Silver Jubilee celebrations, the Prince of Wales will be reinvested in Wales—but this time, to Cardiff will go the honor.

QUILTING IS WELL ATTENDED

6th Line Sidney, Mar. 29 — The Mission Circle met in the church on Sunday morning, there was a fair attendance, the new officers were elected for the coming year.

Mrs. Ross Dafoe and twins spent a few days on the 4th of Sidney under the parental roof.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Sine and children also Mr. Maitland Sine were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hutchinson, Thurlow.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dafoe entertained on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. W. Badgley and children of Thurlow, Mr. and Mrs. Carman Frost and Lyra and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Bush and Lois.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lott were callers of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Badgley, 4th Thurlow, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Moon spent the week end in Belleville guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Tucker.

A little daughter has come to stay at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. Pearson.

Miss Mildred and Bernice Brown of Toronto and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Robinson of Trenton were recent guests at the home of Mr. F. Brummell.

Mr. Walter Scott spent the week end with friends in Eldorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman Sine and two sons, Mr. Geo. Sine, also Mr. and Mrs. Everett Sine and Marvin of Rawdon were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. M. B. Sine.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Lowe and Stewart of Belleville are guests at the home of Mr. H. W. Rose.

Mr. Egbert Sine has purchased a new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Maines of Trenton and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Chapman and daughter were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. C. Striker.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Davis and Helen of Foxboro spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Rose.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stickle were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Brummell.

Mrs. Robert Smith is laid up with a sore foot.

Mrs. Wm. Moore who has been confined to the house with a cold is able to be out again.

The Ladies' Aid quilting on Wednesday last at the home of the president, Miss Edna Ketcheson was well attended.

FAMILY OF TWELVE SETS UP RECORD

Brockville, Ont., March 28—(CP)—Members of the family of the late George Leeder of Ballycanoe, Leeds County, are setting up a claim to a record of some description. All 12 members of the family, five sons and seven daughters, remain alive at an aggregae age of 734 years aind at an average age of 61 and every one of the twelve, with two exceptions, could be assembled at less than one hour's notice.

All are in excellent health and 11 of the 12 are married. There are 53 living grandchildren of George Leeder and 24 greatgrandchildren.

DRAW CONDUCTED BY THE VETERANS

Canadians May Share in Prize Money Offered in Sweeps

Montreal, Que., March 28—In the twenty seventh drawing of Army and Navy Veterans sweepstake held here today on the Grand National Steeplechase Aintree pool went half million dollars.

Two first prizes thirty thousand dollars each, two second prizes twenty thousand dollars each, two third prizes ten thousand each, two fourths five thousand each, one hundred and fourteen persons drew tickets on entered horses worth a thousand dollars each. The Vets receive for charity ninety two thousand.

Nom-de-plume Dare of Ottawa drew the Canadian owned Trocadero. If this Canadian entry wins, Dare gets thirty thousand dollars.

Woody Dim Winnipeg drew second choice horse Castle Irwell, Clehevriel Three Rivers, drew horse Kiltoi Jacob Guber, Medstead, Sask. drew Master Orange. A Newfoundlander bishp drew third choice Royal Ramsom. Bobby of Toronto drew Red Park, Optimist of Cote des Neiges Rr., Montreal drew horse Southern Hues. E. A. E. Trail, B.C. drew second choice, Thomond Second, Ratio of Gogama Ont., drew Southern Hero. All of the above stand to win thirty thousand dollars if their horse clicks.

◆

Elected to French Academy

Paris, March 28 (CP)— Claude Farrere, famous French novelist, and Jacquest Bainville, historian, today were added to France's "forty immortals" when they were elected members of the Academic Francaise.

◆

ARCHAEOLOGICAL FORGERY

Bombay—(CP)— Authorities in Junagadhstate have discovered an extraordinary forgery involving a whole collection of carved writing purporting to be Asokan rock edicts.

COULD YOU LET IT OUT TO FIT?
YES—BUT I'M AFRAID IT WILL SPOIL THE LINE MADAM.

Extra Inches Spoil the Line

Keep your Figure from becoming "Outsize"

When a woman begins to lose her figure, she frequently gets her first hint of it in the dress department. The assistant tactfully says, "I'll have to let it out a little here, Madam." A month or two later it probably means "putting in extra fulness."

If extra inches are threatening your girlish lines, you can profit by the experience of the woman who wrote the following:—"I am now 40 years of age, when many women find flesh forming round the hips and thighs and on the back of the neck. I have avoided all that since taking Kruschen Salts, and feel quite graceful and youthful, and so fresh in the mornings. Kruschen really is wonderful."—(Mrs.) K. U.

Kruschen is an ideally-balanced blend of various mineral salts. It assists the internal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate, are apt to give rise to various ailments.

Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts (45c. or 75c.) from any Drug Store, and take half-a-teaspoonful in a tumbler of hot water every morning.

Quintuplets Are Picture of Health At Ten Months

Callander, Ont., March 28—(CP)—Armed police assigned to guard the Dionne Quintuplets moved into the Dafoe hospital today to live with the famous children, 10 months old today, until all danger of their being kidnapped is past.

Constables W. McCord and W. Noyes of the Ontario police will watch over the five daughters of Oliva and Elzire Dionne day and night, sleeping in the attic of their hospital and taking their meals there. While one rests the other will stand guard. Most of the time both will be on duty.

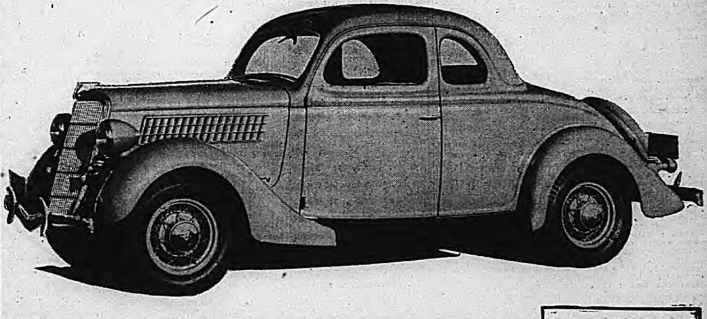
The move, only departure from hospital's orderly routine of the youngster's birthday, indicated the Ontario government still places credence in rumors of a plot to spirit the children out of the control of provincial authorities into the United States.

◆

WOMAN ACTS AS MAYOR

Windsor, Ont., March 28—(CP)—For the first time in history a woman occupied the mayor's chair in council meeting today.

"Miss Whyte will you take the chair," and with these words from acting-mayor John Duck, Alderman Olive Jane Whyte rose from her seat at the council table and seated herself on the dais, marking the first time Windsor was ruled by a woman.



V·8 Performance—Comfort and Economy—make this New Ford the Balanced Car

YOU KNOW well enough what you want your new car to have. Speed that whisks you away at the flash of green, unlimited power under your control. Economy that cuts your monthly bills to the bone. A relaxed ride at any speed on any road for front and back seat passengers. Swift, sweeping body contours that gladden your eye; fabrics that speak of luxury. In a word, you want a high-priced car for as little as you need pay — the New Ford V-8.

This is the finest, most economical Ford ever built. It is 1935's balanced car — because it combines qualities of performance, comfort, de luxe appointments within and without. The most important feature of all, of course, is the brilliant Ford V-8 engine — improved and refined to a point of performance that will genuinely thrill you when you feel its brisk response to your foot and hand.

1,400,000 owners have tested this engine in millions of miles of service. They know from experience that it is possible to have the thrills of V-8 performance and still be thrifty.

This history-making engine, which brought new performance standards to the low-price field, has been made still finer, still more durable, smooth and quiet — by the addition of important refinements.

You can easily convince yourself that this pace-maker in performance now leads in comfort too.

HAVE A DEMONSTRATION
Your nearest FORD dealer will be very glad to give you a drive-yourself demonstration in the New FORD V-8 for 1935. No obligation.

TUNE IN the FORD SUNDAY EVENING HOUR. Symphony Orchestra and celebrated guest soloists. 9 o'clock Eastern Standard Time, Columbia System. FRED WARING AND HIS PENNSYLVANIANS. Thursday evening at 9:30, Eastern Standard Time, Columbia System.

NEW REDUCED PRICES
$32 a month and a reasonable down payment now buys a Ford V-8. See the nearest dealer for details.

A marvel of compactness and simplicity, the Ford V-8 engine gives eight-cylinder performance with four-cylinder economy. You cannot buy any other car in Canada with a V-8 type engine under $3500.

"WATCH THE FORDS GO BY"

SEE THE ABOVE AT
TRUDEAU MOTOR SALES
FRONT ST., BELLEVILLE LOCAL DEALERS ONE DOOR SOUTH OF CAPITOL THEATRE

Only C-I-L CILUX ENAMELS were Demonstrated in the DeBoth HOME MAKERS' SCHOOL

At the CAPITOL THEATRE

but.. In our store we have the complete line of C-I-L Paint Products, made by Canadian Industries Limited, the makers of DUCO—including house paint, flat and gloss wall finishes, floor paints, varnishes and varnish stains, etc. We shall be glad to show you how easily these high-quality paints can be used to make your home sparkle, inside and out, with glowing, durable colors. We would welcome the opportunity to help you solve your painting problems.

WHITE HARDWARE CO.
267 Front Street. Telephone 323
515
THERE IS A C-I-L PAINT FOR EVERY PURPOSE

Weddings

JACKSON—ADAMS

A quiet but pretty wedding took place last evening in St. Thomas' Church when Elizgene, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Adams, of this city, became the bride of Mr. Byron Kennedy Jackson, son of Judge and Mrs. J. A. Jackson, Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore her smart travelling frock of navy blue with light blue hat and accessories and corsage of roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Dorothy Davison was bridesmaid and wore navy with matching hat and accessories and corsage of roses.

Mr. Lyall Ferrier of South Mountain was groomsman.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Ross Hunter and during the signing of the register, Mr. Hunter sang, "O Perfect Love."

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 191 Ann Street. The rooms were prettily decorated with daffodils, roses and lilies of the valley and buffet luncheon was served. Later Mr. and Mrs. Jackson left on a wedding trip to western points, the bride donning a navy blue coat with squirrel collar, for travelling. Upon their return they will reside at 141 Indian Road, Toronto.

Among the out-of-town guests present at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. S. Willows, Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Stewart, Brockville, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kennedy, Perth, Mrs. R. Scott, Perth, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. McDonald, Toronto and Mr. Wilfrid Brown, Toronto.

SCOTT—BAILEY

Stirling United Church was the scene of a very pretty Spring wedding last evening when Myrtle Irene, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bailey, of Stirling, was united in marriage to Mr. Keith Scott, Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Manly Scott of Picton. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock by Rev. E. W. Rowland.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, and made a charming picture in her graceful gown of fuschia crepe sheer with gold metallic hat, shoes and gloves in fuschia shade. She wore a corsage of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Mr. Gerald Clute played wedding music. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Post were witnesses of the ceremony which was performed in the presence of many friends of the young couple. The church was very prettily decorated with tulips and daffodils.

A reception was held at the home of the bride. Mrs. Bailey, mother of the bride, wearing brown lace with matching hat, and Mrs. Scott, mother of the groom, attired in printed silk with navy accessories, received with the bridal couple. Buffet luncheon was served the guests, the dining table being artistically arranged with a lace cloth, centrepiece of tulips and daffodils and the handsome wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott left on a wedding trip to western cities. The bride chose for travelling a navy blue tailored suit with matching hat and accessories. Upon their return they will take up residence on Albert Street, Belleville.

HENNRICH—GOW

A very interesting wedding took place in the chapel of St. John's Lutheran Church, Rochester, N.Y., on Wednesday, March 27th, when Miss Reta Gow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gow, of Latta, Ontario, became the bride of Mr. Herman O. Hennrich, New York City, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. August Hennrich of Rochester, N.Y. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Paul Schmieder.

Wedding music was played by the organist of the church. The bride wore a lovely suit of navy taffeta with hat to match and corsage of gardenias. Miss June Dote was bridesmaid and wore a suit of aquamarine crepe with matching accessories and corsage of tea roses.

Mr. Henry Bowers was groomsman.

After the ceremony wedding luncheon was served the bridal party at Odenbach's Coffee Shoppe. The bride and groom left, shortly, on a wedding trip to the latter's home at Latta, the bride choosing for travelling a chic ensemble of wood brown wool crepe with rose-marie blouse. Mr. and Mrs. Hennrich will take up residence in New York City.

◆

PLAINFIELD W. M. S.

The March meeting of the Plainfield W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. J. W. Hamilton. The meeting opened with the President Mrs. Arthur Hall in the chair.

Hymn No. 30 was sung after which the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison.

The minutes of the previous meeting were approved as read by the Secretary Mrs. E. Denyes. Roll call was answered by a verse on "Life" and was well responded to.

The Scripture lesson was found in the 1st Psalm. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for a special service on Easter Monday.

Mrs. Camplin leader of Group No. 2 then took charge. Devotional Leaflet "Jesus and His Friends," and Scripture Lesson 14 and 15 verse 15 Chapter John, was taken by Mrs. Arthur Hall. Prayer by Mrs. Hubel.

Mrs. Camplin gave a paper on "Our Missionary Work in China".

BEE HIVE
GOLDEN
CORN SYRUP
A GREAT ENERGY FOOD

Appetizing Recipes Prepared When Capacity Audience is Present at Cooking School

◆

Miss Claire Andree, Lecturer, is Delightful in Explaining Various Methods of Preparing Foods—School Sponsored by Ontario Intelligencer Much Appreciated by Women of City And District—Latest Modes in Frocks And Suits Shown Each Day.

◆

Before an audience which filled the Capitol Theatre yesterday afternoon, Miss Claire Andree, the charming and efficient lecturer of the DeBoth Home-Makers' Schools conducted a very busy and interesting session of the annual Ontario Intelligencer Home-Making and Cooking School. Unabated enthusiasm and keen attention on the part of the hundreds of women assembled were most encouraging to Miss Andree and the numbers, who availed themselves of her invitation to chat with her after class, showed that she had won an enviable place in the esteem of those, who have come to hear her.

The cookery program for the day demonstrated many new and clever ideas to vary every part of the menu. Well-known dishes, economical purchases, were presented in a manner, that was a special answer to the housewife's plea, "What can I serve that will be different?" It is certain, that the basis for many an unusual and appetizing meal was received in the instructions yesterday. Nor have women been hesitant in "trying" the recipes Miss Andree has discussed and the chief favourite seems to have been the bacon muffins.

Answers Questions

Before beginning her demonstration Miss Andree answered a question she had received: "Where do you put things in the oven of your electric stove?" Miss Andree explained that the best place for securing heat circulation was in the centre of the oven rack, adding:

"When you are putting several pans in the oven at one time, however, be careful not to place them directly under each other."

Baked curried lamb with rice was first prepared. In the preparation of rice, Miss Andree cautioned her audience to use always eight times as much water as rice.

"And another thing, never use cold water with rice. Drop the rice, a few grains at a time, into madly boiling water."

Miss Andree showed the ring mould of ring into which the curried lamb was placed and the result was certainly enticing-looking.

Biscuit Recipe

Because of frequent requests for a good biscuit recipe, Miss Andree included this in her lecture. The foundation recipe is as follows: two cups of general purpose flour, three and one-half teaspoons of baking powder, one teaspoon of salt, two tablespoons of sugar (Miss Andree using four for the special biscuit dough she was making), two tablespoons of shortening (four for a richer mixture, and half shortening and half butter is permissible) enough milk to make a soft dough (about three-quarters of a cup). The soft dough made it harder to work with, in preparation, but made a much finer biscuit at the table. For cinnamon rolls, sprinkle the surface of the dough with cinnamon, add raisins and currants, roll up, cut and drop on greased pan. Miss Andree made a Swedish Tea Ring by forming the roll into a ring, cutting the outer edge into attractive points, and moistening with milk to give a gloss to the top. This was garnished with walnuts, baked in a hot oven, (425 degrees Fahrenheit) for seventeen minutes. When it was exhibited after baking, the applause showed the delight and admiration of the audience.

Perhaps the most interesting part of the program was when Miss Andree introduced her audience to tomato soup cake and those, who were skeptical of its success and came back stage to try it were completely won over to this very daring recipe. Miss Andree pointed out that the amount of the tomato soup in the recipe was one cup, the term "can" being a little ambiguous. Baking powder was added to counter-act the acidity of the tomato juice, and Miss Andree suggested that this was also a welcome addition to tomato soup, while the second helping of mashed potatoes would be equally white and fluffy if a teaspoon of baking powder were added.

Helpful Hints

"And while we are mentioning tomato soup," said Miss Andree, "so many women complain of the soup curdling. This will never happen if the tomatoes and milk are of the same temperature, when combined and the tomatoes should be added to the milk rather than the other way about."

Very interesting dishes were prepared during the afternoon and Miss Andree varied her cookery hints with many splendid suggestions for better home-making stressing the various products used in the school. At the conclusion of the class the dishes were arranged on the table, a lucky woman in the audience winning each one.

Fashions Displayed

Styles for the new season were again charmingly presented by J. A. McNabb Limited with hats by Woodley's. Once again the audience revelled in the beauty of the garments shown, the tweed coats trimly fitted or the full-cut swagger models, suits, two or three piece, in sports design or the more dressy type and afternoon dresses which made everyone want to rush out and buy one. Particularly intriguing was the navy frock printed in white, the adroit designer stealing his motif from a writing exercise. The slit skirt in tweed suits, the three-quarter length sleeves in afternoon dresses were some of the newer ideas. And while tweeds seemed to have captured the stylists the dignity of navy blue with silver fox was unmistakable. Once again the evening dresses made a striking finale to the show, interpreted in plaid with sheer jacket and sailor collar, lustrous white and black flowered print, pale blue chiffon with white collar and cuffs and navy chiffon with printed top.

The millinery was beautiful and there was a model to please every taste. The mannequins for the afternoon were Mrs. A. Seymour, Miss Gladys Emerson, Mrs. J. Kerr and Mrs. M. Brooks.

Prizes Presented

Prize-giving concluded the afternoon's program and the lucky winners were as follows:

Prizes Awarded

Baskets of groceries were won by:

Mrs. H. J. Clarke, 265 Foster Avenue.

Mrs. W. J. Rolland, 69 E. Moira Street.

Miss G. Hebert, 57 S. Church Street.

Mrs. Frank VanNorman, 128 S. John Street.

Mrs. Percy Alexander, 367 Bleecker Avenue.

Mrs. R. Arnott, 27 Everett Street.

Mrs. G. A. Dearden, 282 Charles Street.

Mrs. James Reeder, 38 Dunbar Street.

Mrs. Walter Roblin, 95 Chatham Street.

Mrs. Lionel Harris, 89 Catharine Street.

Mrs. M. D. Looke, 32 Pine Street.

Mrs. F. L. Patterson, 53 Cannifton Road.

Mrs. John Meagher, 9 Octavia Street.

Mrs. Charles Mace, 278 William Street.

Mrs. Alan Gausden, 57 Everett Street.

Mrs. Charles Hardwick, 75 Burton Street.

Mrs. Fred Reeder, 27 Parker Street.

Mrs. Florence Harris, 29 Herchimer Avenue.

Mrs. F. M. Woodcock, 225 Dundas Street.

Mrs. Charles Redick, R.R. No. 7, Belleville.

Mrs. Agnes Stapley, 150 Bridge Street E.

Mrs. James Morrison, 38 Hillside Street.

Mrs. Meyers, 152 Foster Avenue.

Flowers donated by Dorothy P. Quick—Mrs. N. McWilliams, Cannifton.

24-lb. bag Five Roses Flour, donated by Mackenzie Co.—Mrs. W. McEwen, 15 Albion Street.

24-lb. bag Ladies' Favorite Flour, donated by Mackenzie Co.—Mrs. E. Bell, 60 Burton Street.

Baked Beans—Mrs. Bruce Sills, 59 Geddes Street.

Lamb Stew Ring—Miss Olive Knott, 7 Elm Street.

Halibut—Mrs. John Canning, 14 Isabel Street.

Sewing Cabinet, donated by White Hardware Co.—Mrs. Edmondson, 271 Foster Avenue.

Chicken—Mrs. W. A. Woodley, 56 Catherine Street.

◆

Personals

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Charlton announce the engagement of their daughter, Mabel Bernice, to James William Bray, son of William James Bray of West Huntingdon. The marriage to take place the middle of April. M29-1t

Mr. Frank Bowyer returned yesterday to his home in Fort Whyte, Man., after visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bowyer, Everett Street.

Master Harold Neal, son of Rev. and Mrs. Harold B. Neal, Campbellford, underwent an operation in Toronto General Hospital on Tuesday and is progressing favourably.

Mayor George O. Tice has returned to the city after attending the conference of Canadian mayors held this week at Montreal and Ottawa.

Mr. J. T. Warren, who was injured in a motor accident this week, was removed from Oshawa General Hospital to his home here today by Martin's ambulance.

Mrs. C. Bryant returned to her home in Rome, N.Y., today after spending the past week in the city, owing to the serious illness of her brother, Mr. Earl Rathbun, of Carrying Place, who is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Several Belleville friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Reid were most charmingly entertained at their home in St. Petersburg, Florida, Sunday afternoon. Dainty refreshments were served after which Judge Deroche gave a very interesting talk on his trip to Mt. Vesuvius and Pompeii and Mr. Reid recited two of Drummond's poems in his usual brilliant style. The guests were Judge and Mrs. Deroche, Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman, Mr and Mrs. Millar of Toronto, Mrs. Jellet, Mrs Isler, Miss Mae Roe and Mrs. Ralph Pulver.

The Young Women's Guild held their March meeting at Mrs. Thompson's, 104 Catherine Street, after the business of the meeting was completed. Miss Templeton led the devotional part, taking for her subject "The Observance of Lent", very beautifully explaining the sacrifice of the Cross. The topic for the evening was "Modern Psychology", most ably taken by Miss Conover and was assisted with splendid papers given by Mrs. Chambers, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Gardiner, Miss Catcher, Miss Francis Hill and Mrs. Reid. After a brief discussion lunch was served and the usual social hour was enjoyed.

"Every one of us Salesgirls cut way down on RUNS"

15 DAYS AND NOT A SINGLE RUN
11 FOR ME
19 DAYS
BEAT YOU ALL — 30 DAYS ALREADY
25 DAYS
Girls everywhere start "PROVE-IT-YOURSELF" clubs -Join the fun and watch how YOU cut down runs

These signed letters show what YOU can do:

"This test was a wow! 11 days for me without a run in my Lux stockings. The others went into runs on the 6th day! Believe me, Lux is a money-saver!" Nancy Hughes

"15 days without a run in my Lux pair. I went through the stockings rubbed with cake soap nearly a week ago! Lux for me, always!" Janet Wills

"25 days without a run in my Lux stockings! That's a record! The stockings rubbed with cake soap went into runs the 3rd day! Wouldn't have believed Lux could make such a difference!" Dorothy Schoonmaker

"I wore my Lux pair 19 days—I never wore a pair of stockings that long! The ones I rubbed with cake soap lasted only 2 days!" Joan Tieger

"30 days and not a single run in my Lux pair! Only three days for the others! I'm so thrilled!" Kathrine Steel

THESE clever salesgirls have finished a "Prove-it-yourself" test and are they excited! Each girl took two pairs of stockings, washed one pair with Lux, rubbed the other with cake soap. Lux washing cut down runs 77%!

Maybe you have a job that is hard on stockings! Let Lux give your stockings longer wear. Cake-soap rubbing or soaps with harmful alkali weaken elasticity. Lux has no harmful alkali—saves elasticity!

LUX saves Stocking Elasticity

LUX 5 For all fine laundry

Recipes in Thursday's Cooking School

PAPRIKA CHICKEN

A 3½ to 4 pound chicken
salt and pepper
1 cup sour cream flour paprika

METHOD: Disjoint a young chicken, sprinkle generously with salt and pepper and sear a rich brown in hot fat. Cover. Add water as needed to cook until tender. When nearly done, add the sour cream; flour to thicken and enough paprika to color.

CORN OYSTERS

2 eggs
2 cups canned corn
1/3 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon paprika

METHOD: Beat eggs, add corn, then flour sifted with seasonings. Drop from tablespoon into hot fat and fry, or cook on well greased griddle. Makes 15 medium sized oysters. If corn is very moist, more flour may be added, or a little less if very dry.

TOMATO SOUP CAKE

2 cups cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup melted shortening
1 cup sugar
1 can tomato soup
1 cup nuts, chopped
1 cup dates, chopped

METHOD: Sift dry ingredients, add to melted shortening and sugar. Mix and add tomato soup, nuts and dates. Bake 45 minutes in 350 degrees F. oven.

CREAM CHEESE FROSTING

1 package cream cheese
1½ cups confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

METHOD: Mix all ingredients together and spread on cake.

BAKED CURRIED LAMB — WITH RICE

2 pounds lean lamb flank
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening
2 small onions, sliced
1 teaspoon vinegar

METHOD: Cut meat in small pieces. Mix flour, curry powder and salt and sprinkle over meat. Heat shortening, add onions and meat and cook until meat is browned. Cover with boiling water and add vinegar. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for one hour.

BAKED RICE

¾ cup rice
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
2 cups water

METHOD: Put rice in baking dish; sprinkle with salt and add liquids. Cover and bake in same oven as lamb.

LIMA BEAN CASSEROLE

1 pound dried lima beans
2 teaspoons salt
1½ cups brown sugar
1 dozen pork sausages (small)

METHOD: Soak beans over night, then cook until tender in salted water. Stir in the brown sugar. Turn into baking dish — arrange pork sausages over top. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 1 to 1¼ hours. Delicious luncheon dish with celery curls.

PRINCE OF ORANGE SAUCE

2 oranges (thin skinned)
1 tablespoon bramble jelly
1 tablespoon mustard
few grains pepper

METHOD: Take the juice of one orange and the skin of both, peeled quite thinly. To these add the jelly, mustard and pepper. Boil the whole slowly until dissolved. Serve cold. Especially good with hot ham.

STEAMED HALIBUT WITH CREOLE SAUCE

1 loaf halibut (4 to 5 pound piece)
salt and pepper to season

METHOD: Wash halibut and dry thoroughly. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and tie in cheese-cloth. Steam 45 minutes. Place fish in centre of hot platter and pour Creole sauce over. Place small boiled potatoes on both sides and buttered peas at both ends of the platter. Garnish with parsley.

CREOLE SAUCE

1 can tomato soup
½ cup water
¼ cup green pepper
2 tablespoons onion, chopped
6 stuffed olives, chopped
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons shortening

METHOD: Cook all together about 15 minutes; serve over steamed or baked fish.

TEA MAKING

LONDON BUNS

⅓ cup shortening
6 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs
½ cup milk
2½ cups flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
⅛ teaspoon almond extract
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
½ cup seedless raisins

METHOD: Cream shortening with sugar. Beat eggs, add milk and pour into creamed mixture. Add sifted flour and baking powder, flavorings and the raisins dusted with flour. Drop on well greased baking pan. Sprinkle top with sugar and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 25 minutes. Nice for breakfast.

APRICOT GINGER ALE ICE

1 cup cooked apricots
1 cup water
juice 2 lemons
2 cups ginger ale
½ cup sugar

METHOD: Force apricots through sieve. Boil sugar and water together 10 minutes; add lemon juice and ginger ale. Mix with apricot pulp and freeze 4 hours in mechanical refrigerator.

BOILED DRESSING

½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon flour
2 egg yolks
½ cup milk
¼ cup vinegar
1 tablespoon butter

METHOD: Mix dry ingredients in upper part of double boiler. Add well beaten egg yolks and milk and stir. Add vinegar slowly. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until thick. Remove from heat; add butter, strain and cool.

COFFEE DEMONSTRATION

KEEPING COLORED CLOTHES COLORFUL

Some colored fabrics are faded or streaked by hot water. With granulated soap, however, lukewarm water is effective, safe and colored clothes are kept bright and new looking. Shake granules into tub and add lukewarm water. Soak your color-fast cottons and linens for 15 or 20 minutes in those lukewarm granulated soap suds. Sprinkle dry granulated soap on soiled spots, roll garments and push well under water. Then by sousing clothes up and down by hand, or by letting a washing machine tumble them about, the dirt is quickly loosened, so that it is flushed away with little or none of the rubbing which used to wear clothes threadbare. Rinse in lukewarm to cold water until all soap is removed. Hang colored clothes in shade.

White cottons and linens should be soaked an hour or so, or overnight in lukewarm granulated soap suds. Rinse in two hot and one cold waters. Hang in the sun to dry.

COFFEE DEMONSTRATION

ORANGE CHIFFON PIE

1 cup sugar
½ cup orange juice
⅛ teaspoon salt
4 eggs
¼ cup cold water
1 tablespoon gelatine
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 baked pie shell (9 inch)

METHOD: Add ½ cup sugar, orange juice and salt to beaten egg yolks and cook over boiling water until of custard consistency. Pour cold water in bowl and sprinkle gelatine on top of water. Add to hot custard and stir until dissolved. Add grated orange rind and lemon juice. Cool. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites to which the other ½ cup sugar has been added. Fill baked pie shell, or graham cracker crust and chill. Just before serving, spread over pie a thin layer of whipped cream.

MAPLE NUT PUDDING

2 cups brown sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2½ cups water
½ cup cornstarch
1 cup chopped nuts

METHOD: Boil sugar and salt with 2 cups water. Dissolve the cornstarch in remaining cold water, slowly pour into boiling water and stir until thick. Cook ½ hour in double boiler, add nuts. Serve.

TOMATO AND HORSERADISH SANDWICH

¼ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup grated horseradish
Tomato slices bread

METHOD: Mix mayonnaise with horseradish. Sprinkle tomato slices with salt. Spread slices of bread with the mayonnaise mixture and place a tomato slice between.

HOUSEHOLD INSULATION-CLASS DISCUSSION

The use of modern insulation in the home — its saving of fuel costs, contributions to health, comfort and the attractiveness of the home — discussed daily in the school.

DEMONSTRATION OF ENAMELLING

Gay touches of enamel make your home bright and cheerful, give it distinction. Smoothly enamelled surfaces are easily kept clean. This is important to you, as a home-maker.

The use and easy application of (QUICK-DRYING) Enamel will be demonstrated.

Between Smokes
Freshens the mouth
..Soothes the throat
VICKS COUGH DROP

Read the Classified Rental Property Listing on this Page

Business Directory

AUTO LOANS

AND REFINANCING
Direct with Owner Car Financing of All Kinds.
S. J. FISHER & SON
30 Bridge St. East Telephone 168
Representing
Campbell Auto Finance Co. Ltd.
Toronto - Ottawa - London - Windsor

CHIROPRACTOR

R. A. WYATT, Ph.C., SPECIAL EXAMINATION with the Radioclast reveals all diseases in the early stages. Foot disorders corrected — all diseases treated. Phone 900 or write 288 Coleman St., Belleville.

VERA E. FITCHER, CHIROPRACTOR, and H. E. Fitcher, Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment, Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations and Electrical Treatments. 42½ Bridge St. E., Belleville, Ont., Phone 1174.

DENTIST

DR. ROBT. H. EMPSON
DENTIST
X-Ray
Phone 462 248½ Front St.
17-3m

RADIO SERVICE

JOHN A. DEWAR
RADIO TECHNICIAN
Registered — Graduate
245 John St. Phone 217
a1-tf

SURVEYORS

FRASER AYLESWORTH
Ontario Land Surveyor and Registered Professional Civil Engineer. Land Surveys, Plans and Descriptions, Etc., promptly attended to.
PHONE 6 — P. O. BOX 90
MADOC, ONT.

INSURANCE

Protect yourself against accidents with our Automobile Insurance
SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
Life and Fire Insurance
251 Front St Phone 130

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile, Accident and Plate Glass
278 Front St. Phone 1134-W

STOCKS & BONDS

BIGGAR AND CRAWFORD, MEMBERS of Toronto Stock Exchange. Phone 1138. P. H. Wills, branch manager. N3-1y

LEGAL

MALCOLM WRIGHT, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Etc. Office; Campbell St., Belleville.

T. Y. WILLS, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Etc. 15 Campbell St., Belleville. Telephone 74. m6-tf

PORTER, PAYNE AND ARNOTT, BARristers, Solicitors and Notaries Public. Chas. A. Payne, K.C. R. D. Arnott. Offices: 219 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

PONTON AND GRAHAM, BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Commissioners. Office: 28 Bridge St. East. Solicitors, Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages. W. N. Ponton, K.C. R. J. E. Graham. Office: Belleville.

DONNAN AND BUTLER, B. C. Donnan, K.C., E. O. Butler, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public and Commissioners. Offices: Court House Building, Belleville, Ont. Phone 238.

WALLBRIDGE, CAMERON AND CO. (Successors to the late F. S. Wallbridge). Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries. Money to loan. Dominion Bank Building, corner Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ontario.

216

DUFFERIN AVENUE

To-Let

A Beautiful Home

Hardwood floors throughout — lovely living room — coal fireplace — four bed rooms — Sleeping porch — full basement — furnace — wired for electric range. Garage.

EXCLUSIVE AGENTS

Belleville Locators

GEO. N. GORMAN, PROP.
166 Front Street
Phone 99 House Phone 687

BUY NOW! AND MAKE WORK

PHONE 99
Classified Ad. Rates

SOCIAL NOTICES—Births, 50c; Marriages and Engagement Notices, $1.00; Deaths and Funeral Notices, $1.00; In Memoriam, $1.00; Memoriam Poetry, minimum charge, $1.00 for 10 lines, over that 10c per count line; Ladies' Receiving Announcements, minimum charge, 75c.

CLASSIFIED — (For Sale, Wanted, Etc.)—1½c per word each for first TWO insertions, subsequent insertions 1c per word, minimum 30 words.

COMING EVENTS—75c per insertion for 25 words or under, over that amount 3c per word.

PROFESSIONAL, LEGAL AND BUSINESS CARDS (Yearly Contract)—$2.00 per month per inch.

OFFICIAL, MUNICIPAL AND GOVERNMENT NOTICES (Including those concerning Legal Sales)— per agate line (14 lines to inch) for first insertion; 10c per line for subsequent insertions.

AUCTION SALE—3c per word, heading to count as 12 words minimum 25 words for 75c; consecutive insertions, 3c per word.

An initial or figure counts as one word.

In estimating allow five words to the line.

Telephone your Want Ads when it is more convenient. PHONE 99.

The Ontario Intelligencer will not be responsible for more than one insertion of an incorrect ad. Phone us if it is wrong.

Advertisers may have their replies addressed to Box Number care of the Ontario Intelligencer.

WANTED

SMALL SUMMER COTTAGE NEAR Belleville. Write stating particulars to Box "O" Ontario Intelligencer. M29-3t

STENOGRAPHER—SEND REFERENCES and state salary wanted Tweed Foundries Ltd., Tweed, Ont. M29-1t

TWO OR THREE UNFURNISHED rooms suitable for kitchenette and bed sitting room by May 1. Central location preferred. Write Box "N" Ontario Intelligencer. M29-3t

HOUSE BY 1st OR 15th OF APRIL. Write stating particulars to Box "C" Ontario Intelligencer. M29-1t

TO RENT TWO FURNISHED OR UNfurnished rooms by the middle of April. Write Box "L" Ontario Intelligencer. M28-3t

AGENTS WANTED

RELIABLE COUPLE REQUIRE FIVE or six roomed house, conveniences, April 30, reasonable. Box "D" Ontario Intelligencer. M27-3t

FOR SALE

COFFIELD ELECTRIC WASHER, NEARly new, porcelain tub, half price, easy terms. Also others. Gilson's, 364 Front. Open evenings. M29-3t

ONE SPRING-TOOTH CULTIVATOR—almost new, 400 bushel seed oats. F. Salter, one mile west of Fairgrounds on Marshall Road. Phone 418r2. M29-3t

HOUSE AND BARN WITH ½-ACRE land or will sell buildings separately, property of S. S. 18 Thurlow. Apply Earl R. Sayers, Halloway. M25 29

QUANTITY OF TIMBER AND RAFTers from barn 30 x 50. One new milch grade Jersey cow, 4 years old. Apply Harry Lott, Foxboro. M26 29

SIX PIECE BREAKFAST SUITE USED six months. Less than half price. Also drop leaf table. 205 Charles, near Bridge. M28-3t

QUANTITY OF HAY, APPROXIMATEly 12 ton. Also two Durham cows, to close an estate. Apply Jas. Wims, Corbyville, executor of estate of Garret Foley. M28-3t

WHOLESALE DISTRIBUTING BUSIness including one '34 Chevrolet 1½ ton panel truck. Will sell truck separately and accept a trade in what offers. Phone 1756. M28-3t

15' CEDAR SKIFF, JOHNSTONE OUTboard motor. Apply 233 Station street. M28-3t

PIPELESS FURNACE, GUARANTEED as new. Bargain price. Can be seen at 219 Church street. Phone 2005. M27-4t

STUDEBAKER SEDAN IN GOOD CONdition, cheap. Apply 265 Front street. M27-3t

200 ACRES FARM, HYDRO, GOOD buildings, waterfront, cheap, part cash. Apply owners, Sandercock Bros. and Jackson, Hillier. M27-3t

BEAUTIFUL RED TABBY PERSIAN cat, male, registered; also Boston Bull pup, house broken, cheap to a good home. Phone Mrs. Pearson, 1606-J. M27-3t

6 NORTH STRACHAN STREET — Estate of Mrs. Shappee. Apply W. O. Black, 166 William. M26-5t

TO LET

FIVE ROOM APARTMENT HEATED, OR three or two room apartment furnished or unfurnished, central. 17 Victoria avenue. M29-3t

HOUSE 280 CHARLES STREET, ALL modern conveniences. Apply 276 Charles. M29-1t

FURNISHED BEDROOM IN PRIVATE home. Board if desired. 31 Hillside. Phone 2115-W. M29-FS-TF

SIX ROOM HOUSE, 23 EARL STREET, conveniences, also garage, small garden. Possession April 1. Apply 30 Howard street. M29-3t

77 ACRE FARM WITH OPTION OF buying, six miles east of Belleville on highway. Good buildings. 60 acres workable. Mrs. Ethel M. Bradshaw, Belleville, R. 4. M29-1t

SMALL HOUSE 32 CEDAR STREET, 29 Isabel, also small apartment on Front street. Apply 265 Front street. M27-3t

73 NORTH FRONT STREET — SEVEN rooms. All conveniences. Apply 71 East Moira. M27-3t

THREE ROOMS, HEATED AND FURnished for light house-keeping. All conveniences. Apply 176 Foster Ave. M26-TF

208 GEORGE STREET — 8 ROOMS, conveniences except furnace, double garage. Possession April 1. Apply W. J. Hall, 278 Front street, phone 1154w. M14-TF

BIRTH NOTICE

WOOD—Born on Thursday, March 28 at Belleville General Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Wood, 22 Frank street, a daughter. M29-1t

DIED

BIRD—In Belleville General Hospital on Friday, March 29th, 1935, Mrs. Martha Bird, widow of George Bird, in her 73rd year.

The funeral will take place from her late residence in the seventh Concession of Sidney on Sunday, March 31st, at 1.30 p.m. to the United Church at Marsh Hill for service at 2 p.m. Interment Sine Cemetery. M29-1t

TICKELL & BROWNE
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
We Serve for Less
FUNERAL HOME
Corner Church St. and Victoria Ave. Phone 2215

Thomas O. Thompson
Funeral Director
Funeral Home
28 Everett St. Phone 62
Office
208 Front St. Phone 62

BELLEVILLE BURIAL COMPANY
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
37 Campbell St.
Phone 774-W Day and Night
J. W. IMLAH
Proprietor
Mausoleum Crypts For Sale

SPECIAL SALE

Used Tires, all sizes, $2.00 up
USED TIRE SHOP
391½ Front Street
Opposite Upper Bridge

WANTED
25,000 Muskrats

by

D. Goodman and COMPANY
HIGHER PRICES PAID
Phone 1501. 307 Front St.
m29-a1-3-5

AUCTION SALE

On Friday, April 5th at 10 o'clock, I will sell by public auction the farm stock and implements, also the farm consisting of 100 acres of land of Randall Martin, Lot 26, Concession 1, Township of Tyendinaga, one mile north of Read Church.

S. J. FISHER,
Phone 1671-M. Auctioneer.
M29 A3

Recreation Alleys

Afternoon League

Hit and Miss 3 points.
Mrs. Johnston	615
Mrs. Windover	317
Mrs. Aikman	337
Mrs. Strachan	422
Total	1691
East Hill 1 point.
Mrs. Huffman	359
Mrs. Davis	281
Mrs. Boyle	447
Mrs. Richards	473
Total	1560
Lucky Strikes 1 point
M. Novak	423
H. Blaind	488
M. Grant	424
J. Grotto	380
M. Parker	410
Total	2125
Juvenile 3 points
Mrs. Nixon	509
Mrs. Beal	443
Mrs. Shaw	388
Mrs. Wardaugh	416
Mrs. Chambers	415
Total	2171

Mercantile League

Bell Telephone 2 points
J. Shappee	641
E. Goodier	495
V. Smith	434
G. Proctor	445
Jones	311
Total	2326
C. N. Telegraph 2 points
G. Hurley	656
W. Christie	341
Abnett	463
Ingram	515
J. O'Callaghan	408
Total	2386
Scopis 3 points
V. Huffman	402
W. Walsh	608
J. Black	491
C. Scopis	510
Total	2011
Pickups 1 point
W. Carson	609
A. Williamson	389
F. Mapes	467
R. Morgan	495
Total	1960

Major eague

Recreation 3 points
G. Walrath	722
A. Wesley	626
N. Wilbur	644
J. Smith	492
J. Jones	515
Total	2999
Deluxe 1 point
H. Pointer	685
P. Drumm	538
H. Fenn	623
H. Boyle	567
H. Bawden	576
Total	2989
B. Fruit 1 point
P. Orlando	592
C. Bryant	658
L. Rossetti	571
H. Robinson	554
R. Miles	754
Total	3129
Christie 3 points
L. Barrett	547
Hetherington	570
Whalen	835
Tobe	547
Shiels	698
Total	3197
B. Golf 3 points.
Ridley	605
Davison	623
Hurley	614
Darvell	517
Legault	624
Total	3043
Ont Intell 1 point
Hardwick	512
Tice	486
Fitzpatrick	512
Doyle	699
Barlow	582
Total	2866

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE BELLE
"The Scarlet Pimpernel"
Great Cast in a Great Motion Picture

"The Scarlet Pimpernel" opening at the Belle Theatre Tomorrow (Saturday) for three days, matinee daily, is a spectacular and romantic drama of adventure adapted from the Baroness Orczy's widely read novel, an outstanding feature is the magnificent acting of Leslie Howard, who gives by far the finest screen portrayal and invests the splendid entertainment with quality without diminishing the general appeal of the picture. He is aided in his task by Merle Oberon, the lovely Anne Bolyn of "Henry VIII, and by the splendid direction of Alexander Korda.

Leslie Howard is great as Sir Percy Blakeney, his performance being a subtle combination of the romantic, the fatuous, and the adventurous..a supreme delight, Merle Oberon is a revelation as Lady Blakeney; she has charm and unbounded talent. Raymond Massey, the Canadian actor, is excellent as the traitor Chauvelin, and the many supporting players are perfectly cast.

"The Scarlet Pimpernel" demonstrates beyond a doubt that the success of "Henry VIII" was no fluke, for Alexander Korda, the production supervisor, has shown once again by his artistic, graceful, yet showmanlike handling of Baroness Orczy's story, and his appreciation of Leslie Howard's great acting ability, how to effect a cunning compromise between the high and the low brow.

The dramatic situations are neatly turned by clever comedy, the spirit of adventure and romance are smoothly preserved, the staging is superb. Unquestionably, "The Scarlet Pimpernel" is entertainment of character and quality and the Belleville showing is certain to duplicate its tremendous success in other cities.

"The Scarlet Pimpernel" is a tiny flower which grows in the country lanes of England. Owing to its vivid scarlet colour, its shows up at the foot of hedges like a tiny flame.

Baroness Orczy, a keen botanist, chose this little flower as the symbol of the daring band of secret adventurers in her famous novel "The Scarlet Pimpernel."

Your old friend Popeye the Sailor in his new hunk of joy "Pleased to Meet cha", the Belle Latest News Flashes of important World events, and the famous A. and P. Gypsies introducing a barrage of melody and color precede the presentation of the feature attraction.

"The Scarlet Pimpernel" will begin daily at 3.00, 7.40 and 9.40 p.m. Complete shows start daily at 2.30, 7.10, and 9.10.

Clarke Gable Leaving

Gay comedy, romance and a gripping murder mystery are revealed in "After Office Hours" featuring Clark Gable and Constance Bennett at the Belle tonight for the last times

AT THE CAPITOL
"Limehouse Blues"
Romance, Danger and Intrigue in Fog-Drenched London

Cast in the leading role of "Limehouse Blues" now at the Capitol Theatre, George Raft, has two leading ladies: Anna May Wong, Chinese-American beauty, and youthful Jean Parker.

At the opening of the picture Anna May Wong appears as a beautiful, oriental, sing-song girl, a dancer in the cafe which Raft maintains in Limehouse to cover his nefarious smuggling and river-pirate activities.

Because he is wily and ruthless, Raft is able to consistently avoid the London bobbies, who are hot on his trail, and to get the best of his smuggling rivals.

When one of his rivals is killed in their gangster warfare, his stepdaughter, played by Jean Parker is left homeless and Raft, who has fallen in love with her, comes to her protection.

He does not know, however, that she loves a young Londoner. Anna May Wong, who sees a rival in this girl, exposes her to Raft.

Events in the story proceed rapidly to their climax as Raft lays plans to destroy Jean Parker's lover and to carry off a large smuggling haul right under the noses of the now thoroughly aroused police.

With his plans perfectly laid, Raft suddenly discovers that the girl's happiness means more to him than ever her love, He defies the police and is fatally wounded in a heroic dash to save her sweetheart from the hands of his own gangsters.

Kent Taylor and Montagu Love are prominently cast in supporting roles in "Limehouse Blues".

GRIDIRON FLASH

From the tumult and shouting of the football arena arises "Gridiron Flash", featuring the youthful romantic team of Eddie Quillan and Betty Furness.

A comedy-and-thrill drama, "Gridiron Flash" is said to offer the fans something new in college heroes, for this time the star halfback is in jail as the crisis of the game nears. Furthermore, the gridiron pet of dear, old Belford College is an ex-convict who has been drafted by a rich alumnus after fellow prisoners cheered his open-field running and yelled for his demon line-plunging.

The "Cherub"— that's the name of the future All-American — has just about completed his "hitch" as a bank robber. Although convinced that jail is softer than the halls of learning, he sees a racket ahead on the campus, and isn't long in becoming its idol.

There are tempting offers to the "Cherub" from his old gang, who scoff at his entrance into college. On one occasion, dirty work on the playing field sends him to the showers. The "Cherub's" light-fingered tactics lead him into trouble, for he snitches the watch of the campus cop, only to find later that he is the father of the co-ed whom the football coach has enlisted to reform him. Finally comes the big game, and the Cherub is mysteriously missing from the field as his team trails State College by 13-0 and only a few minutes to play. Then something has to happen, and it does!

Glenn Tyron, former screen star, does fine directorial work. Grant Mitchell, Lucien Littlefield, Edgar Kennedy and Grady Sutton are among those in support of Eddie Quillan and Betty Furness.

Capitol News Reel completes the programme.

Complete shows 7.00; 9.10.

To-Morrow Only

"Tailspin Tommy", a sensational and thrilling air serial taken from the popular comic strip.

◆

Huntington, Ind., March 29 — (CP)—Because Grace Young had to walk home in her stocking feet Lawrence Yahne, who removed her shoes and fled with them last night, was given the alternative of returning them or serving 30 days in jail for assault and battery. Yahne said Miss Young, a former sweetheart, "threw him over" after he lost his job. So he upset her in the Huntington business district and took back the shoes he had given her.

◆

Los Angles, March 29 (CP) — Donald Templeton, five, sat down in an oil drum with the greatest of ease. But when he started to get up, he found he couldn't. Detective Lieutenant W. D. Rogers used a cold chisel for a can opener and freed Donald after an hour's work.

OUT OF THE AIR . . . ON TO THE SCREEN!
Radio's GREATEST Program
"THE MARCH OF TIME"
IS NOW ON THE SCREEN!
...ALL THE THRILLS, PATHOS, LAUGHS, POMP AND CEREMONY OF THE WORLD PASSES BEFORE YOUR EYES AS THOUGH YOU WERE ON THE ACTUAL SCENE
BELLE
Com. WEDNESDAY APRIL 3rd.

Miss Claire Andree
CHOSE THAT LOVELY FURNITURE

which adorned the stage at the Capitol Theatre during the sessions of the Cooking School from the stock of the

Other Bargains

which will astonish and please— Don't Buy any Furniture until you look over this stock and note the high quality and Low Prices.

George THOMPSON FURNITURE STORE

You are invited to visit this store and inspect the very latest and finest in Furniture for the Home, now on display—Parlor, Sitting Room, Kitchen, Bed Rooms, Bath Room, the very Latest and Finest at the Lowest Price.

Here's a Chance to Save Money

AND ADD TO YOUR HOME ADORNMENT
ONE ONLY CHESTERFIELD SUITE, reg. price.... $275.00
Sold to the first patron to recognize its value and the Money-Saving involved at $195.00

GEORGE THOMPSON
FURNITURE STORE

346 Front Street Belleville Phone 657

Y.M.C.A. ALLEYS

In the Ladies' Afternoon League the Quints and Smile and Try got two points each.

In the C.N.R. League the Freight Department got three points to the Rip Track's one.

Ladies' Afternoon

Quints 2 points.
Mrs. James	116	118	162	396
Mrs. McGuire	106	119	106	391
Mrs. Miller	129	104	68	301
Mrs. Joss	128	135	136	399
Mrs. Lent	170	129	157	456
Total				1943
Smile and Try 2 points
Mrs. Pyne	168	155	188	511
Mrs. Couse	142	140	137	419
Mrs. Fry	99	145	108	352
Mrs. Tripp	35	190	110	435
Mrs. Doe	68	93	76	237
Total				1954

◆

Los Angeles, March 29 (CP)—Fifteen years ago William Farnum signed a contract that distinguished him as the highest paid actor in the films. It provided a weekly salary of $10,000.

Today Farnum was signed to another contract, providing a small role in a forthcoming drama of the screen. The actor said it will provide a stipend barely sufficient to meet his current bills.

. . . .

ROEBUCK
ON HYDRO
CFRB—690 Kilocycles
TONIGHT 10.30 - 11 p.m.

RADIO PROGRAMS

FRIDAY

9.30—Grand National Steeplechase Aintree—WABC
10.30—Mrs. Aitken and Horace Lapp—CFRB
11.00—Music Appreciation Hour, Walter Damrosch—WEAF
11.30—Army Band—WABC
1,15—Radio Gossip Club—WGR
1.30—Rex Battle's Concer. Orch.—CRCT
2.30—"Kitchen Party"—WEAF
3.15—Minneapolis Symphony —WABC
4.00—Betty and Bob, sketch—WJZ
6.30—News Jim Hunter—CFRB
7.00—Myrt and Marge—WABC
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.15—Plantation Echoes. Mildred Bailey—WJZ
7.15—Stories of the Black Chambers—WEAF
7.30—Red Davis—WJZ
7.45—Uncle Ezra's Radio Station—WEAF
8.00—Irene Rich—WJZ
8.00—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt —WABC
8.00—Concert, Jessica Dragonette, WEAF
8.15—To be announced—WJZ
8.15—Edwin C. Hill, news—WABC
8.30—Court of Human Relations—WABC
8.30—Al Goodman's Orch.—WJZ
8.30—Musical Memory Book—WOR
9.00—Waltz Time Frank Munn tenor; Abe Lyman's Orchestra—WEAF; WTAM
9.00—March of Time—WABC
9.00—Beatrice Lillie, comedienne—WJZ
9.30—Phil Baker—WJZ
9.30—Hollywood Hotel, Joe E. Brown, guest—WABC
9.30—Pick and Pat, comedians—WEAF
10.00—"Circus Night in Silvertown"—WJZ
10.00—First Nighter, drama—WEAF
10.30—"The Pause That Refreshes" —WEAF
11.00—News—CFRB
11.30—Description of Annual Golden Gloves Nat'l. Finals—WEAF
11.30—Press News—CRCT
12.00—Claude Hopkins' Orch.—WABC

SATURDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ
11.00—Galaxy of Stars—WBEN
11.00—Cincinnati Conservatory of Music—WABC
11.15—Tony Wons, poetry—WJZ
1.15—George Hall's Orch.—WABC
2.00—Metropolitan Opera—Geraldine Farrar—WEAF
3.00—Emery Deutsch's Dance Rhythms—WABC
5.00—Eddie Duchin's Orch. —WEAF
5.30—Along the Volga—WABC
5.30—"Jolly Juniors Club—CFRB
6.30—News, Jim Hunter—CFRB
6.45—Sport Parade—WEAF
7.30—Outdoor Girl Beauty Parade —WABC
7.30—Jamboree, variety show—WEAF
7.30—Book Review—CRCT
7.45—Grace Hayes, songs.
8.00—Roxy Revue—WABC
8.00—Phil Cook's Show Shop. —WJZ
8.00—Sigmund Romberg, composer —WEAF
8.00—Old Time Frolic—CRCT
8.30—Art Jarrett's Orch.—WJZ
8.45—St. Louis Blues—WABC
8.45—Big Moments in Sports—CFRB
9.00—N.H.L. Playoffs—CRCT
9.00—Radio City Party—WJZ
9.00—Songs You Love—WEAF
9.00—Andre Kostelanetz's Orch.—WABC
9.30—Barn Dance—WJZ
9.30—To be announced—WEAF
9.30—Studebaker Champions —WABC
10.00—Minneapolis Symphony —WABC
10.30—California Melodies—WABC
10.30—"Let's Dance"—WEAF
11.00—Kay Kyser's Orch.—WGN
11.00—Glen Gray's Orch.—WABC
11.30—News—CRCT
12.15—Ted Weems Orch.—

Be Sure

To have your Auto Insurance re-instated before taking out your car this Spring. If you have no insurance, do not take further chances of serious loss. All that is necessary in either case, or in the event of you changing your car, is to telephone us (1364). We will immediately protect you and get full particulars later. This is part of our service.

JAMIESON BONE & CO.
INSURANCE INVESTMENTS

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 29—(CP)—Interlisted leaders, excepting oils and liquors, maintained an upward slant on the industrial section of Toronto Exchange today.

C. P. R. gained 5-8 to 10 1-8 while Nickel gained 3-8 to 34 1-2, Brazilian 1-8 to 9, Ford A 1-8 to 27 7-8 and Consolidated Smelters 2 to 153.

Slightly lower prices ruled in the Oils, distillery shares were dormant, utilities were unchanged except for a gain of 1-4 to 4 for Beauharnois and the construction group developed no price changes. Small gains were chalked up for Canadian packers and Canada Vinegars and in the miscellaneous group fractional recessions appeared for Cosmos, Hamilton Theatres preferred and Imperial Tobacco.

◆

TORONTO MINES

Toronto, March 29—(CP)— Volume of trading dropped sharply on the mining department of Toronto Exchange today but prices maintained a generally firm one.

Bralorne was the outstanding soft spot in the senior gold group, dropping [illegible] cents to 8.05. Pioneer was a little stronger at 10.25 and Wright Hargreaves and Hollinger added a few cents each.

Little Long Lac God's Lake, Anglo-Huronian, Macassa, Central Patricia and San Antonio were firm to strong and McWatters, Siscoe, Pickle Crow and McKenzie sold within a few cents of their Thursday closing prices.

Noranda was up 10 cents to $35 and Sherritt added a cent or two.

◆

NEW YORK FINANCIAL

New York, Mar. 29 (AP)—Financial markets received the news of Belgium's devaluation with equanimity today and encouraged by several bright spots in the domestic economic picture steered a firmly steady course.

Among stocks of Canadian companies, Dome was off a shade, while McIntyre, International Nickel and Canadian Pacific advanced small fractions. On the curb, Lake Shore held unchanged. Dominion Government bonds ruled narrow. Canadian funds were 1-16 of a cent higher at 99 7-16 cents.

Union Pacific and Santa Fe worked up about a point before yielding part of the advantage. New York Central, Southern Pacific, Delaware and Hudson and Pennsylvania had smaller advances. Shares of the St. Paul were active at declines ranging around ¼ of a point.

Coca Cola attained the 200 mark. Others on the up side included U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, General Electric, Sears Roebuck, Standard Oil of N. J. and National Distillers.

◆

UNLISTED MINES

Unlisted Mines furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co. today:
Afton 53-6.
Ardeen 7S.
Bankfield 80-83.
Bathurst 3-4B.
Bousquet 29-31.
Can. Pandora 6S.
Casey 33-34 1-2.
Dunlop 1-1 3-4.
El Bonanza 12-14.
Forty Four 1025-1126.
Gabrielle 38-43.
Glenora 4 1-2-5 1-2.
Gold Eagle 30S.
Gt. Bear Lake 42-45.
Hardrock 70S.
Johnson Nip. 5-6.
Lafayette 6 1-4-6 3-4.
Lamaque 150-165.
Lagoon 12-14.
McLeod 4 1-2-5 1-2.
Brynnan 30S.
De Santis 27-9.
Franklin 40-2.
Chib 93-105.
Magnet 11-13.
Matachewan 13-15.
Mosher 4-5.
Murwood 25S.
North Shores 4 1-2-5 3-4.
Okiend 34-7.
Red Lake 30-3.
Rice Lake 4-5.
Springer 11 1-2-13 1-2.
Smelters 12-14.

◆

Grain Markets

Closing quotations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co. today.

	High	Low	Close
Wheat:
May	85⅛	84⅞	84⅞
July	85	84⅝	84¾
Oats:
May	40¼	39¾	39⅞
July	39⅞	39½	39⅝
Barley:
May	45⅝	43⅞	45⅛
July	46⅝	46	46½

Stock Markets

Quotations furnished by Biggar and Crawford, P. H. Wills branch manager. Quotations at 2.15 p.m.

MINES

Ashley 15B
Ajax 85B
Acme 21 1-2
Breth Treth 2 1-4B
Barry Hollinger 5 1-4B
Base Metals 42B
Bobjo 24 1-4B
Big Missouri 40B
Bradian 162B
Bagamac 7 1-4
Bralorne 810
Castle Treth 68
Coniaurum 215B
Central Pat 140
Coast Copper 140B
Dome 3865B
Dominion Explor 5B
Eldorado 118B
Falconbridge 360B
God's Lake 135
Goldale 12 3-4B
Granada 36B
Greene Stab 26B
Hollinger 1690B
Hakrow 3 1-8B
Home Oil 54
Hudsons Bay 1260
Howey 89
Inter N'ckel 34 1-4
Kirkland Lake 47B
Kirk Townsite 24
Lake Shore 5670B
Little Yong Lac 560
Macassa 205
Malartic 61
Maple Leaf 6B
Mcintyre 4460B
Mining Corp. 90B
McLeod River 1 1-4B
McKenzie 122B
McWaters 172
McVittie 18
Nipissing 221B
Noranda 3525B
Pioneer 1025B
Parkhill 21 1-2B
Premier 156B
Reade Auth 78B
Reno 142
St. Anthony 23

TORONTO

Brewing Corp 3 1-8
Bras. Trac. 9 1-8B
Can. Bud Brewery 7 3-4
Can. Cement 5 7-8 B
Can. Dredge 20
Can. Ind. Alcohol 8 1-2 B
C.P.R. 10 1-4B
Can. Malting 30B
Can. Vinegar 27 1-4B
Canada Car 6 1-8B
Cons. Bakeries 13B
Con. Smelting 129B
Dominion Stores 9B
Dist. Seagrams 15 3-4
Ford "A" 27 7-8
Gypsum 5 1-4B
Goodyear 130
Imp. Oil 16B
Inter. Pet 30 1-8B
Imp. Tobacco 12
Loblaw 18 3-8B
Massey Harris 3 7-8
Mont. Power 29 1-8B
McColl-Frontenac 13 5-8
Power Corp 7B
Steel of Canada 44B
Supertest 22 1-2B
Shawinigan 15 7-8B
Walker's 27B
Walker's Pfd 18B
Walkerville Brewery 3 1-2B

NEW YORK

American Can 115 3-4
American T. and T. 102
Amer. For. Power 3
Anaconda 10 1-2
Auburn 16 5-8
Case 49 1-4
Chrysler 33 3-4
General Motors 27 1-2
Elec. Auto Lite 20 1-8
Inter. Telephone 6 3-8
North American 11 3-4
Montgomery Ward 23 1-2
Phillips Pet. 15 3-4
Radio 4 1-4
Standard Oil of N.J. 37 1-2
Standard Brands 14 5-8
Stewart-Warner 7 1-8B
U. S. Smelters 101 7-8
U. S. Steel 28 3-4

◆

STOLEN GOODS FOUND

Mimico, Ont., March 29—(CP)—Shoe polish, stove polish, oils, about 10,000 sticks of chewing gum, 500 pairs of ladies' silk stockings and numerous other articles were found, Mimico police revealed, following a a raid on the home of Percy Flowers.

Flowers was remanded on charges of theft when he appeared in Magistrate's court today. Chief Fred Herman said the goods had been taken from trains, the total value being nearly $800.

◆

Lobster Fishermen Drowned

New Edinburgh, N.S., March 29—Two teen-age lobster fishermen, missing overnight, were found drowned today on the shore of St. Mary's bar near this village.

Searchers found the bodies of Norman Doucet, 13, and Rasther Amerault, 19, on the beach just below their homes near the overturned dory.

POLL TAX CASES HEARD IN COURT

8 Suspended Sentences Imposed and Bench Warrants Issued

Magistrate E. J. Butler K.C., today found eight poll tax delinquents guilty of the non-payment of that tax and sentenced them to a six months' suspended sentence, during which time they were instructed to make every effort to pay the same. Bench warrants for the arrest of seven other alleged poll tax delinquents who failed to answer to their names in open court today, were subsequently issued and the men will be arraigned in police court early next week.

Twenty-seven informations were read out against poll tax delinquents in Magistrate Butler's local police court this morning. Of this number ten had previously paid the assessed five dollars, seven failed to answer to their names and two were dismissed, one against an invalid and another issued for a local Chinese lad, who could not be located in the city. The remaining eight were arraigned before His Worship and given the suspended sentence. In addressing the court His Worship said —"I've carefully read this poll tax by-law and find that sentence comes under the Summary Convictions Act, which leaves the meting out of sentence entirely in the hands of the Magistrate. Under the bylaw and upon your plea of guilty I find you all guilty and give you a six months' suspended sentence, which means that you must endeavour to pay this tax before September, under the penalty of being brought into court at any time until then and facing this charge. Kindly see that the tax is paid and these cases wiped from the police records before that date," requested His Worship in closing.

Following the regular court a juvenile court was held when a local sixteen year old youth pleaded guilty to the theft of a copper boiler. Magistrate Butler cautioned the lad in regards to his erring ways and ejected a promise from him that he would behave in the future. A one year's suspended sentence was imposed. The lad was selling the copper to local junk dealers, authorities stated.

◆

EXECUTION OF WOMEN OPPOSED BY SOCIETY

Montreal, March 29 (CP)—The Prisoners' Aid Society will make an official protest to the Dominion Department of Justice against execution of women, it was announced today by John Kidman, Secretary.

The announcement followed by a few hours execution of Mrs. Thomasina Theolis Sarao, 46-year-old widow of Nick Sarao, street-cleaner, for whose murder she was sentenced to death. Leoni Gagliardi, 30, and Angelo Donofrio, 19, were also hanged as conspirators in the plot to kill Sarao for insurance money.

◆

ALBINO ROBIN IS ARRIVAL IN CITY

Belleville's plontinum blonde robin, almost pure white except for a slight shading of black on its tail and head, and first reported in this city last spring, has returned to Belleville, from the south with the rest of the robin flock now observed in the city in large numbers. The albino bird, which appears to be stunned by its normally colored brothers, was reported in the vicinity of Victoria Avenue and Albert Street yester-

◆

SLOVAKIAN ISSUES DISCUSSED

Paris, Mar. 29 (CP)—Foreign Minister Nicholas Titulescu of Rumania arrived here today from Vienna for peace and security talks with Foreign Minister Pierre Laval. Titulescu will discuss with the French Foreign Minister the outcome of his talks with the governments of Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia—the other members of the Little Entente—on the situation created in Europe by German rearmament.

Used Cars

1932 PACKARD, 5-pass. Coupe. Just nicely broken in.

1932 Rockne Coach, perfect shape, heater and trunk.

1931 Auburn Sedan, like new, a real buy.

1929 Studebaker Sedan, all overhauled, new tires, heater.

1929 Essex Sedan, in real good shape.

1928 Chandler Sedan, at a bargain price.

1929 Ford Sedan, good condition throughout.

HOLGATE & MADILL
Hudson-Terraplane Dis.t
2 Dundas St. E. Phone 1590

BETTER LIGHTED STREETS WANTED

Fred W. Smythe Gives View at Directors' Luncheon

Belleville streets, Victoria Park and the harbor should be better lighted. This opinion was expressed by Mr. Fred W. Smythe, a member of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, who was a guest at the regular weekly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Chamber on Thursday. If the city is bright and cheerful in appearance when tourists reach here at night they will be more likely to remain over until morning and the favorable impression they received the night before may create a desire to see more of the city in day light. The feeling of the meeting was that Mr. Smythe was right in his contention and that some action should be taken to bring improved street lighting into effect. Bathing beaches was another suggestion advanced as a means of holding tourists in the city and as a place of recreation for all citizens. Suitable locations at Zwick's Island and along the bay shore below the tourist camp on Dundas street could no doubt, be obtained. Places where shallow water extends for some distance could be converted into sand beaches if the idea were found to be feasible which, of course, would require careful investigation.

Will Call Meeting

The directors are much interested in bringing more tourist business to Belleville and all the neighboring district. In this connection it was moved by Mr. E. V. Illsey and seconded by Mr. E. P. Bernstein, that the secretary, Mr. J. O. Herity, should carry out the suggestion made by him at the annual meeting and dinner of the Chamber on Tuesday evening last, and that he call a meeting of representatives of the Chambers of Commerce or Boards of Trade at Trenton, Picton, Brighton, Deseronto, Napanee, Marmora, Stirling, Madoc and of the Publicity Committee of Hastings County Council, North Hastings Board of Trade with headquarters at Bancroft and the Belleville Retail Merchants' Association, to assemble in Belleville to consider and adopt some programme to be put into operation in an endeavor to obtain a larger share of tourist business. The motion was adopted and the meeting will be called in the near future.

Mr. H. E. Fairfield reported on the annual meeting of the Chamber and his opinion, that it was the most successful and profitable annual meeting held in many years by the Chamber, was endorsed by all directors.

The following were present at the meeting: President, J. B Boyce and directors, E. P. Bernstein, E. V. Illsey, H. E. Fairfield, W. C Springer, Leo B. Riggs and secretary-manager J. O. Herity.

◆

Obituary

MRS. MARTHA BIRD

The death occurred in the Belleville General Hospital at an early hour this Friday morning of Mrs. Martha Bird, for many years a highly esteemed resident of the 7th. concession of the township of Sidney.

The late Mrs. Bird, who had reached the age of 72 years, had been a patient in the hospital for about three weeks and was ill in that institution at the time her husband, George Bird passed away at the family residence in Sidney township, two weeks ago today.

Her maiden name was Miss Martha Marshall and she was born in Belleville, her parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. George Marshall. In religion she was a devout member of the United Church at Marsh Hill and a woman possessing many fine qualities of character. Her passing will be deeply regretted by many friends.

Left to mourn her loss are two daughters, Mrs. William Wilson, Halloway, and Mrs. Charles H. Kelly, Halloway; three sisters, Mrs. Julia Ross, Halloway, Mrs. Bertha Ross, Foxboro, Mrs. George Wilson, Peterboro; one brother, Mr. Jerry Marshall, Oak Hill Lake.

MRS. D. I. DULMAGE

On Wednesday, March 27th, Mrs. D. I. Dulmage passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. M. Redmond in Montreal.

The late Mrs. Dulmage was the widow of Dr. D. I. Dulmage, who practised dentistry in Belleville for some years and left here 32 years ago. During her residence here she was highly esteemed by many friends who will regret to learn of her death.

Interment will be made at Cobourg on Saturday.

LATE MRS. THOMAS NIBLOCK

Thursday afternoon the funeral of Mrs. Thomas Niblock took place from her late residence, 226 John street, to St. Thomas' Church where the Burial Office of the Church of England was read by the Vicar, the Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne. Many friends of the family were present at the service. Interment was made in the family plot in the Belleville Cemetery, the Committal Service being conducted by the Vicar.

The bearers were Messrs. W. A. Parker, F. S. Deacon, P. W. Geen, J. G. Galloway, H. C Thompson and F. B. Smith.

The Cooking School is Over BUT
Frigidaire Goes On Forever

FRIGIDAIRE—the General Motors Refrigerator—Is Made In Canada

Sliding Utility Basket—groups small articles to save time and space. Removable for carrying.

Automatic Ice Tray Release—the ice trays come sliding out of the freezer at the touch of a finger.

MISS CLAIRE ANDREE, Specialist in Kitchen Economics used a Frigidaire in her Belleville demonstrations in the Capitol Theatre as to the handling and proper care of food in the best. interests of home economy, health and comfort. Miss Andree has had a long and wide experience in all parts of the United States and Canada, and knows that the proper preservation of food materials is a vital factor in the health of the home and the preparation of satisfactory meals. She unhesitatingly recommends the Frigidaire electric refrigeration as satisfactory in every respect.

Electric Refrigeration brings a new Joy and satisfaction into the home, and the day the Frigidaire is added to the kitchen equipment will always be a Red Letter Day remembered with pleasure by the Lady of the House and every member of the family.

THREE MILLION FRIGIDAIRES

are now in use and manufacture and sale on the Fourth Million has begun—three million families cannot be wrong, every one satisfied that they have the best in electric refrigeration. You are called for the Fourth Million Class, get in early.

Learn all the advantages, comforts and economies of the Frigidaire by having a personal demonstration, and also learn how you can own one without feeling the expense. Remember also that the Frigidaire is a General Motors product which means stability and guaranteed service, now and forever.

Prosperity is returning, let yours be marked with the ownership of a Frigidaire.

A Size for Every Kitchen—A Price for Every Purse

There are many more Frigidaires in use than any other make, proving that Frigidaire is the CHOICE OF THE MAJORITY. Frigidaires are made by the largest firm in the world making a complete line of electric refrigeration equipment.

Frigidaires are Made in Four Series
Standard Series - Master Series - Super Series - DeLuxe Series

AMAZING FRIGIDAIRE ECONOMY is illustrated in the Standard Series of Frigidaires which use less current than one ordinary lamp bulb.

Frigidaire's Handsome appearance is enhanced by the famous Dulux Finish which has amazed experts and delighted Frigidaire owners—a finish that will not crack or break under the most strenuous of tests.

Radio & Refrigeration Shop
23 BRIDGE STREET PHONE 395

Frigidaire Sales & Service
333 FRONT STREET PHONE 837

SMALL DOWN PAYMENT · GENEROUS TERMS ON ALL MODELS

Japan green tea at its very best

"SALADA"

JAPAN TEA

Guardians of the Desert

◆

By TOM GILL

So she rode unhurriedly down the Quarter's dusty length, then happening to look up that shaded side lane, she saw Dick's mare standing outside the little cottage, and with a smile of pleased surprise, Nora reined in her own horse and dismounted. Noiselessly she walked up the grassy path, flanked with waving tamarisk, but directly before the open window she stopped, frozen to sudden immobility.

There plainly seen through the window, Dick was standing in the centre of the room, one arm circling Lolita and holding in the other a little child. Even in that partial obscurity the unmistakable resemblance between man and child struck a chill to the girl's heart as she stood watching. Something about the eyes, that same high arched Lowell nose. And all the while Dick smiled at the boy, until at last Nora heard the words, "You and I will make a caballero of him, Lolita."

The answering voice was confident and very proud. "Si. Already he looks as you do—just as you look at times when you are stern."

For another silent second the man held him, then stooping down, Dick laid the child in her arms and raising her face to his, he kissed her. From his pocket he drew a roll of bills and, laughing, placed them within the child's chubby hands.

"You will have use for these," he said to Lolita. "And when you need more, tell me."

But Nora heard no more. Blindly fleeing down that grassy, sun flecked path, she stumbled through the gate and out to her horse. Once in the saddle she lashed the astonished animal to a gallop, causing the watching children of the Quarter to look up mild wonder as she flashed unheeding past and then out toward the desert. Yet no matter how swiftly she rode, the memory of that kiss and that child bore her black company, while through it all there came again the memory of Solon Lowell's strange words that day they stood in the little cemetery beyond the town.

"We Lowells," the words stabbed back at her now prophetically, "We Lowells bring no happiness to any woman— for long." And again, through a mist of unshed tears, she saw those sad, foreboding eyes of Dick's father and felt again the weight of unspoken thought he would not utter.

Faster she rode, ever faster, unseeing eyes fixed straight ahead, eyes about whose lid tears were beginning to glisten. An eternity it seemed before she reached the ranch house, and thankful no one was there, she jumped from her horse and ran up the steps. At last, behind the closed door of her room, Nora threw herself on the bed, buried her face in the pillow, and gave way to a storm of bitter tears.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

Stub, meanwhile, had not been idle. When Dick returned to his ranch late that afternoon he found three heavy rifles and two automatics carefully taken apart and spread upon the porch. With practiced hands the ex-bartender cleaned and oiled each part, handling the weapons lovingly, as a skilled musician might touch a violin. Dick nodded in understanding as he sat down beside him and rolled a cigarette.

"I take it you think we'll need those trinkets before long," he smiled.

Stub kept on cleaning. "You take it correct, old son. Just now Sari must be kinda puzzled, like a woodpecker in a petrified forest—but that won't last forever."

Without answering Dick picked up an oiled rag, and in silence the two men busied themselves with the weapons until the sound of an approaching motor made them look up to see an official Army car drive through the hacienda gates. A young officer, wearing the insignia of a cavalry captain stepped out, and walking up to Dick, offered his hand. "I've heard about you so long I took the first opportunity to come over. I'm Captain O'Hearn, in charge of the cavalry post, and very much at your service." It was a frank and friendly voice, and the haired and freckled from the desert sun. He might have been thirty-five or even a little older, and when he spoke his accent betrayed his New England origin. As Dick presented Stub the captain bowed battered pipe, then seating himself beside Dick, puffed for a few moments in silence.

"I really came over on two missions," he said at last, "and I'll get rid of the unpleasant one first. This afternoon I had word from the Department about the trouble up Copper Canyon. Now, don't misunderstand me. I think the thing you and Will Barnes did deserves all the praise in the world, but unfortunately you crossed an imaginary line down there and that means international complications. The cavalry post is here to prevent any difficulties between the two nations, and Copper Canyon, you know, is a sore spot of long standing."

Dick smiled. "Has Mexico protested the invasion of last night?"

"Not that I know of. But Washington has."

"What would Washington have done under the circumstances?"

The captain threw back his head and laughed. "Damned if I know. But they've learned that a man was shot and they've asked for a report from me. So I came over to get all the information you care to give me."

"I'll give you all the information there is to give." No shade of hesitation lay in Dick's voice as he answered, and in a few moments he had outlined the tale of Nora's abduction, the siege of the cantina, and their rescue by Barnes and his cowboys.

For a time O'Hearn smoked in silence, plainly puzzled, and at last he asked, "Doesn't it seem strange that Washington should take any notice of this?"

"Not to me. I think I could tell you every step that happened to bring this to Washington's attention."

"Will you?"

"No I won't. But I'll tell you this. The War Department has been drawn into the picture by one of the most powerful men behind the scenes of government. There will be more to follow, plenty more, so when you send in your report, make it as thorough as possible. You know Nora Barnes?"

"Lord yes. We ride together every week. She's the best little scout ever lived, isn't she?"

Dick made no reply. Something in the easy familiarity of the man's voice angered him in spite of himself.

"Nora can give you all the information she has," he said after a time.

"I've already seen Nora." Then after a moment the captain asked quickly, "Was the man you shot up Copper Canyon a Mexican or American.

Until that moment Stub had taken no part in the conversation but sat watching the captain with growing suspicion, and now, at this question, he walked up to O'Hearn and standing directly before him demanded, "Aren't you jumping at conclusions? Who told you Dick shot him? I packed a gun, you know."

The captain's face reddened. Not often had the commanding officer of Verde's cavalry post been addressed in just that direct, blunt fashion.

Quietly Lowell intervened. "It's true, Stub had a rifle and knows how to use it, but your guess was right, Captain—I shot that man. Whether he was Mexican or American I can't say. They could probably tell you up at el Toro."

"I rode up there today," the officer answered, "and learned nothing. Lord, they're a close-mouthed bunch of cut-throats. One wouldn't have known there had even been a fight. When I asked how the cantina burned down they told me the bartender got drunk and set fire to it."

Dick laughed and looked at Stub, who nodded slowly. 'It's true, all right,' Stub agreed. 'That barkeeper was sure one tough hombre."

Again O'Hearn turned to Lowell. Well, so much for the unpleasant part. My other reason for coming over is to ask you to the cavalry fiesta at the post. My mother lives there with me, you know, and she's hoping to see you and have you stay for dinner. Mother is an old friend of your father." Then, as a kind of afterthought, O'Hearn turned toward Stub. "We'd be glad to have you, too," he added, after just a second's hesitation.

"Thanks,' Stub answered drily.

A curious little smile was playing about Dick's mouth, and had the captain known him better he might have read there something that told of some covertly amusing thought.

"We'll be glad to go." Dick's smile still lingered as he turned toward his new ally. "Won't we, Stub?"

"Oh, charmed,' came the dubious reply, and el Toro's one-time bartender vigorously resumed his cleaning.

But after O'Hearn had gone, Stub looked with puzzled eyes at his friend. "Do you really want me to go to that damned dinner?" he asked fretfully.

And Dick, now in high good humor, for no apparent reason laughed back at him. "Wouldn't have you miss it for worlds. Ma O'Hearn was a friend of Dad's back in the mad; glad days of their early youth. She's a real army aristocrat, I hear, and quite a bit of an amateur diplomat. Someone once said she never does anything without a good reason—in this case I'm more than a little curious about the reason."

But Stub shook his head. "Can't see where I fit in that picture, no matter what she is,' he grumbled. "What do we do after dinner? Play cards?"

"Sure. Stud poker. We'll get the old lady to bank.' "

But Stub was not to be consoled. He rose, stretched, and walked thoughtfully toward the door.

"Life," he observed to the desert at large, "was a lot less complicated when I lived with that gang of thugs and smugglers up Toro way. Tomorrow I'll have to go to Verde and buy me a new suit."

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

"Organization Day," held yearly at the little army post had always marked a time of welcome fiesta for Verde and the desert country.

All that morning from distant outlying ranches herders and cowboys came loping into town, gay in their many colored shirts and white, wide brimmed stetsons, riding their best mounts, eagerly looking forward to this one afternoon of making merry with their fellows until the time came to return to their long, lonely vigil among the herds. From far beyond the border, Mexican vaqueros rode, very gorgeously adorned after the fashion of their conquering ancestors, from spangled sombrero to the polished tip of each tapadera, their saddles heavy with intricate silver chasing. In twos and fours they rode, singing in lisping Spanish those lilting, deathless songs of the open range.

By noon time work on the dam beyond the Barrier had stopped, and all Sari's henchmen were leaving for the army post to back with boasts and dollars their champion, Bull Pablo—he who for two years had carried off the coveted first honors in the pistol contest.

Dick meanwhile, had been active with the affairs of the ranch. Early that morning he had phoned Nora only to learn that she was riding with O'Hearn and would go directly with the captain to the cavalry post.

Disappointed, he spent the rest of the morning riding in search of a strayed thoroughbred bull, and in spite of the sharp winter air and cloudless sky, he could not shake off a vague feeling of uneasiness—a feeling of foreboding, too formless for him to analyse but too persistent to be denied. He rode hard sparing neither himself nor horse, and returning for a late lunch, hurried to make ready for the fiesta. Stub had already saddled two horses, and now, to Dick's surprise, held out an automatic and cartridge belt, filled with extra clips.

"What's that for?" Dick demanded. "You don't expect Sari to jump us on a military reservation?"

"It ain't that, Boss. The boys want you to go in the pistol contest. Fact is, they're already entered you."

Impatiently Dick shook his head. "These days, Stub, we've got other things to think about than shooting lead at a mark."

Stub's face fell. "You've got to go in it," he persisted. "They're counting on you.'

"Who are counting on me?"

"The boys from Barnes ranch and every other ranch on both sides of the border have laid their last dollar on you against Bull Pablo. Why that dirty outfit over at the dam has had the crust to offer odds on their chief gunman. So just to show them that this country still belongs to the ranchers, all of us have bet our shirts on you."

Dick laid his hand on Stub's shoulder. "Is that why you didn't buy that new suit you talked about?'

Stub grinned sheepishly. "You trim Pablo today and I'll be able to buy a couple suits— and a ten gallon sombrero."

Something in the utter trust of the man found its way to Dick's heart, driving away the sombre shadows that had borne him unwelcome company throughout the morning. Walking to the corral fence, Dick deliberately drew from his pocket a cigarette and stood it upright in a crack on the topmost rail. Then he mounted, rode a few yards distant, and raising the automatic, quickly fired. Stub's hands waved in silent applause—the cigarette had disappeared.

Smiling, Dick thrust the automatic into its holster. "I'll do my best," he said, "but if you have to smoke sage brush for the next month, don't blame me. Let's go!" And together they set out toward Verde.

It was more than an hour's ride to the cavalry post, and already the crowds were gathering within the great enclosure that marked off the Army reservation. Flanking the great front gates two brightly polished cannon threw back the desert sunshine, and between them a wide avenue, shaded with eucalyptus, led beyond white painted barracks to the officers' quarters. Far down the avenue extended the broad parade ground, its close cropped turf standing out, cool and green, against the sun flooded desert. It stretched its level length from barracks to the stables, and at opposite ends rose the white goal posts of the polo field. Everything immaculate. Each white porched bungalow of the officers' quarters was freshly painted, the lawns scrupulously tended, and above the parade ground itself, towering from the top of a tall white flagpole, the flag floated, furling and unfurling in the uncertain breeze, its color touched to glowing, vibrant life by the afternoon sun.

Ranged along each side of the parade ground, throngs of spectators were gathering, some in cars, some afoot, but most of them on horseback. Men of Verde, Mexicans from south of the line,' desert ranchers, prancing vaqueros, grizzled oldtimers from the hills, workmen in blue overalls, and dotted among men, wrapped in their crimson blankets, a few stolid faced Iaqui Indians from beyond the highlands of Mexico.

On the surface an air of fiesta, a holiday spirit of gaiety, pervaded all that various assemblage—laughter and shouted greetings everywhere. But deeper and more difficult to sense, another note intruded that held neither gaiety nor laughter—a note that carried with it a feeling of impending disaster, of unspoken but open hostility between the two groups that now faced each other on opposite sides of the parade ground.

From the south, on the side near Verde, the ranchers and cowboys had gathered, silk handkerchiefs of red or green or yellow fluttering about their necks, chaps of every hue and color surmounting the long Spanish spurs. One could tell them at a glance, these men who sat their horses with careless, unconscious grace, men tanned with years of desert sun and steady eyes made keen by long years of riding the desert range. Opposite, sullen and distrustful, crowded the henchmen of Nick Sari. Well over a hundred there must have been, most of them mounted on strong, thick-set horses, Americans, half-breeds and Mexicans, hard faced and silent keeping to themselves, they fringed the north end of the parade ground. In their centre rode Sari himself, and at his right hand Bull Pablo. To the west, not far from where the band was playing, the men of the post had ranged themselves, many of them riding their nervous, active polo ponies, the women seated in the cars that had been drawn up in a long line at the parade ground's edge.

Dick and Stub halted their horses among the ranchers, and almost at once Lowell sensed that in spite of the spontaneous gaiety and the laughter that rose from these men of Verde, here, too, existed an undercurrent of watchfulness and hatred, levelled at the group of Sari's men before them. The very air was electric. Suspense and impending danger hovered about them in an atmosphere that needed only the least spark to kindle the flames of savage war throughout the border.

(To be Continued)

◆

Are You Tired—Listless?

Is your rest broken at night? If your kidneys need attention take Gin Pills. They will strengthen your kidneys and if you sleep better you will feel better and look better. 244

BC GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS

MR. F. ELGIE TAKES CHARGE OF SERVICES

Rawdon, March 29—Rev. P. G. Joblin, pastor of Rawdon United Circuit was confined to his bed on Sunday with a severe cold. His brother-in-law Mr. Fred Elgie capably carried on and gave thoughtful addresses at each appointment.

At Mount Pleasant Mr. Herb David presided over the service and Mr. A. W. Garrison offered a gracious prayer. Mr. Elgie based his address on "The Ideal Way of Living."

Mrs. George Wallace made a business trip to Frankford on Saturday.

Miss Eileen and Master Ormel MacMullen took tea Sunday evening with their cousins at Springbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. George Stone and Marguerite were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest White on Sunday evening.

Mr and Mrs. J. O'Rorke of Sidney are holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. George Rupert.

Mr. Angus Johnson and sister Miss Jennie returned to their home at Wellman's on Sunday after enjoying a holiday with their cousins at Mount Pleasant.

Mrs. John Hay who has been undergoing treatments in Belleville Hospital for rheumatism returned to her home on the 2nd concession on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Andrews and Faye and Mr. Hubert Higgs were guests of Mr. and Mrs Clarence Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Will Scott on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Montgomery of Frankford attended the funeral of Mrs. Robert Melville at Mount Pleasant last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bleecker Myers of Glen Miller spent Sunday with Mr and Mrs. George Rupert.

Mount Pleasant was the scene of considerable excitement on Sunday evening, when a party of young men helped themselves to a number of articles, tools, spare tires, etc. from two parked cars as the owners were visiting friends. However the culprits were apprehended and eventually they returned the missing articles. The affair is now in the hands of the Belleville police.

Percy and Ray White entertained Donald Johnson and Malcolm Sharp on Sunday.

Mr. George Wallace of Ormsby spent the week end at his home near Anson.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Montgomery of Ross' Corners, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Montgomery and Marie of Mount Pleasant attended the funeral of their cousin Mrs. Allan Wallbridge at St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora on Saturday afternoon. Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth delivered a comforting message based on "The Lord is my Shepherd" and the choir rendered an anthem "The Old Rugged Cross." Mrs. Wallbridge leaves to mourn her sorrowing husband who before his marriage resided at Mount Pleasant, one daughter (Hazel) Mrs. Ross Loveless of Marmora and two sons Kenneth of Toronto and Clarence at home.

Mr Manson McConnell suffered a heart attack on Sunday morning while attending service at Mount Pleasant United Church. He was hurriedly rushed to his home by kind friends and medical aid was summoned. The doctor advised a few ays complete rest.

Mr. Fred Elgie was a dinner guest on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hubble of Stirling attended the funeral of Mrs. Robert Melville at Mount Pleasant last Thursday.

◆

MARMORA SEPARATE SCHOOL REPORT

Sr. IV—Joan Shannon, Mary Warren, Marion Flynn, Rita Auger, Ilene Doyle, Eugene Reynolds, (abs. for 1), Marjorie Stephens, (abs. for 2), Bernard Finnegan, Tom Auger (abs. for 1).

Jr. IV—Tom Byrnes, Margaret Forestell, John Paranuk, Joe Bertrand, Tom O'Connor, Francis Bertrand, Joe Warren, Tom Maloney, (abs. for 2), John Shannon, (abs for 2).

Sr. III—Mary Paranuk, Kevin Cummings, Jean Johnston, John Dougall (abs. for 3), Almer Spencer.

Jr. III—Rose Dougall, Michael Cummings, Margaret Cummings, George Paranuk, Teresa Forestell, Edith French, (abs. for 1), Reuben Warren, Joseph Clairmont, Teresa Auger.

II Class—Dorothy Foresteel, Harold Doyle, John Clairmont, Eva Johnston, Vera Doyle, James Auger, Geraldine Ferguson, Kathleen Bedore.

I Class—Tom Brady, Billie Bulbuk, Aleta Spencer, Helen Cummings, Annie Paranuk, Leo Auger, Teresa Dougall, Anna Quinlan.

Primer—Mary Cummings, Jimmie Byrnes, Dorothy Ferguson, Theresa Provost, Rita Lynch, Rita Dougall, Veronica Quinlan.

MRS. F. S. PEARCE

The death occurred on Monday, March 25th., of Mrs. F. S. Pearce in her fifty-ninth year.

The funeral service was held at her late residence Burstall street on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. the 27th inst. Interment in the family plot in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

BONTER—HAMILTON

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the United Church Parsonage, Marmora on Monday afternoon, when Luella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hamilton of Madoc township became the bride of Raymond Bonter son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bonter of Marmora township.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth. Miss Annie Hamilton sister of the bride was bridesmaid, and Herbert Bonter, brother of the groom was best man.

Their many friends extend best wishes for their happiness in the future.

Born—At Deloro on Thursday. March 14th., 1935 to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Matthews a daughter.

Miss Gertrude Burns was admitted to Belleville General Hospital on Sunday where she underwent an operation for appendicitis, which her many friends were pleased to learn, was successful.

Mr. T. Burnham of Peterboro, was in town on Monday.

Miss Ada Archer of Toronto, is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. Brady.

Mr. J. Simpson of Brockville, was in town on Monday.

Miss Myrtle Campion of Peterboro visited at her home in North Marmora over the week end.

Mr. James P. McGrath of the Dominion Bank staff here, has returned home after a vacation spent in Oshawa and Toronto.

Mrs. Hamilton Crawford, who has been visiting in Boston and New York City, for the past month, returned home on Monday.

Mr. Hugh Murray of the Department of Highways spent the week-end at his home in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. George Aboud of Havelock, visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Jones, on Sunday.

Mrs. A. J. Carey and little son of Toronto, who have been visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Darrah, returned home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Dunlay of Campbellford visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Maloney on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe O'Neill and little daughter of Stirling, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Stephens on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Donohue of Toronto visited the latter's mother, Mrs. A. Jones over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lytle and family have moved into the residence recently vacated by Mrs. Riordon.

"WORST BARGAIN IN SOVIET HISTORY"

What is looked upon as the "worst bargain in Russia's history" is being signed here in the Tokio home of Koki Hirota, foreign minister of Japan. Under its provisions Manchukuo (Japan in reality) is getting Russia's right to the Chinese Eastern Railway. Russia in return gets $39,200,000 plus another eight million to pay off employees who will be discharged. The railroad which cuts clear across Manchuria from Russia has long been a bone of contention between Russia and Japan. It is said to have been one of the causes of the Russo-Japanese war 30 years ago. The line has always been prosperous, in good times it made $10,000,000 profit yearly. Since the founding of Manchukuo it makes $5,000,000. From LEFT to RIGHT, seated, Stepan Kuznetov, vice-president of the Cer who acted as Russia's negotiator; Constantin Yurenev (Soviet ambassador to Tokio); Koki Hirota, foreign minister of Japan; W. S. Y. Tinge, Manchukuoan minister to Tokio; and Tadaichi Ohashi, vice minister of Manchukuo's foreign affairs.

Ontario Intelligencer De Both Cooking School, Belleville, Mar. 26 to 29

The Belleville Ontario Intelligencer is to be congratulated on the success of the De Both Cooking School! Thousands of women are expressing their appreciation of the helpful lectures. A capacity attendance is certain today. The connection between Canaries and Cooking may not be very obvious—except to show how necessary the right diet is to the health and happiness of both canaries and humans. And the canaries with their song certainly express THEIR satisfaction in an unmistakable way!

EXTRA
EXTRA

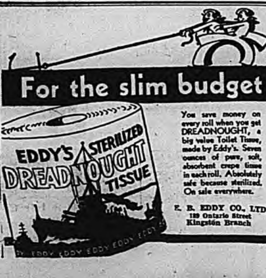
EXTRA! BROCK'S BIRD SEED and TREAT

Be sure to buy Brock's Bird Seed with the Bird Treat—

A COMPLETE AND BALANCED DIET

This NEW Bird Treat is very necessary for Dick. He needs certain seeds in definite proportions—as in the package of Brock's Bird Seed—also the Bird Treat that is in every package.

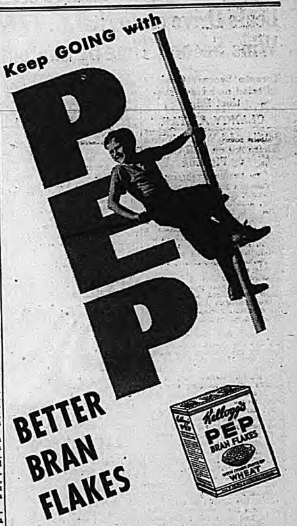
Nicholson & Brock Limited
125 George St., Toronto



For the slim budget

You save money on every roll when you get DREADNOUGHT, a big value Toilet Tissue, made by Eddy's. Seven ounces of pure, soft, absorbent crepe tissue in each roll. Absolutely safe because sterilized. On sale everywhere.

E. B. EDDY CO., LTD.
189 Ontario Street
Kingston Branch



PEP
Kellogg's PEP BRAN FLAKES WHEAT

Keep GOING with PEP

BETTER BRAN FLAKES

Genuine Bran Flakes to nourish active bodies

Kellogg's PEP Bran Flakes are the favorite of energetic people. They taste good—the fine, full flavor of toasted wheat. The nourishment and food for busy muscles. The protein. The vitamin B. Plus enough extra bran to be mildly laxative.

PEP Bran Flakes are truly better bran flakes. Better for flavor. For crispness. For nourishment and gentle laxative effect.

Insist on PEP Bran Flakes. Sold by all grocers. Always oven-fresh and ready to eat with milk or cream. Extra delicious with sliced fruit or honey added. Enjoy these better bran flakes often. Breakfast. Lunch. Supper. Wonderful for a between-meal or bedtime snack. Popular with the whole family. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

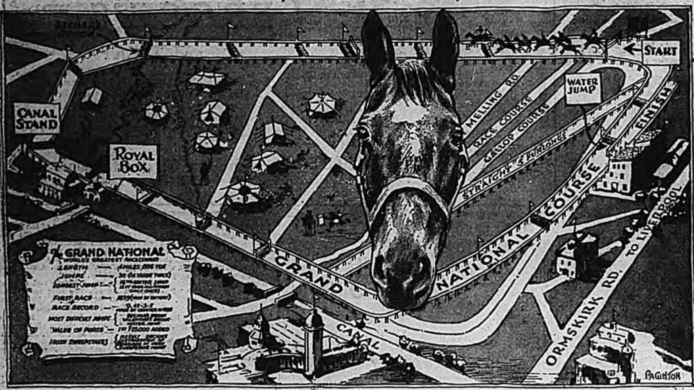
Kellogg's PEP Bran Flakes

Hockey
Current Sport

IN THE REALM OF SPORTING EVENTS

Basketball
Bowling

World's Greatest Horse Race, the Grand National, Run at Aintree Today



Bruins Crushed by Sheer Force Leafs Drive on to N.H.L. Title Wins Second Time by Shutout

Toronto Scores Goal a Period and Have Distinct Edge

CLANCY A STAR

Battling Irishman Takes Them All on And Comes up Fighting

By ELMER DULMAGE
Canadian Press Sport Writer

Toronto, March 29—(CP)—Something, anything, to brace a tired frame, lend power to sagging knees and tired legs, perhaps impart a spark to drive hockey humans a little farther — Frank Patrick will buy it. His Boston Bruins are cut and bruised, worn and weary and the National League Hockey title is slipping away.

Crushing the Bruins by sheer, aggressive physical power, Toronto Maple Leafs scored their second shutout victory in three nights over the American section winners last night and moved into a commanding position to finish the series Saturday night. The score was 3-0.

It left the Bruins limp, perhaps ready for the knockout blow Saturday. Everybody was tired. The Leafs had smashed the Patrick machine with effective bodychecks that left a great defence tottering and sapped the strength of the best forward line performers.

But for Tiny Thompson's goal-tending brilliance, the Leafs might have made it 5-0 or 6-0 last night. They made it easy for George Hainsworth to record his second straight shutout over the Bruins. After losing the first in Boston 1-0 in overtime, the Canadian division winners won the scond 2-0.

But long before the teams had moved on Toronto to finish the skirmishing, the Leafs had started to mow down the opposition. Babe Siebert had been cut across the foot. Dit Clapper's knee had been cracked. He was only able to play a few minutes in the third game. The great Shore had carried a too-heavy burden.

Punished Invaders

And the Leafs punished the invaders some more as they pounded out their second victory and reached a point only one win removed from the title they last won in 1933 by defeating the Bruins. Red Horner, Hap Day, Charlie Conacher, Hec Kilrea all shook up the Brown Bears, but little King Clancy accomplished the heavy end of it.

Clancy jolted them all—Shore, Marty Barry, Max Kaminsky, Siebert, Charlie Sands. The 148-pound veteran of 14 major league seasons went down many times ,but seldom alone, and he always was the first to recover from the collision. At the finish he wasn't as tired as his foemen.

Three two-man attacks, one a period, brought the goals. Frank Finnigan combined in the first minute of the game, Thoms lashing in a pass from his wingman at close range. Nick (Red) Metz, a great junior a year ago, an International League all-star selection this season, drove in the second on Horner's pass.

This was a triumph for Conny Smythe who sent the 20-year-old rookie into the second game instead of Andy Blair. Metz played the greater part of the season with Syracuse and joined the Leafs when the Stars were eliminated from the minor league playoffs.

When the Bruins had taken a futile third-period fling—an attack without spirit—Conacher and Jackson drove down for the third goal, Conny feeding the Busher a goal-mouth pass after pulling Thompson to one side with a feinted shot.

The odds lengthened from 3 1-2 to 1 to better than 5 to 1 that Toronto would eliminate the Bruins—3 to 1 in the fourth game—after the second Leaf triumph. Some of the heaviest-hitting an N.H.L. play-off series has seen is responsible for the odds.

OLYMPICS ARE NEW CHAMPS

Defeat London Tecs in Third Straight Game For Title

Detroit, March 29 (CP)—Detroit Olympics are "the tops" in the International Hockey League today for the first time since they entered the loop.

Before their slim young Ottawa pilot, Donnie Hughes, the team he lifted from the bottom to the top of the loop in a month, took the deciding game from London Tecumsehs 2-1 last night. It was their third straight win.

Hughes took the team over last January and went right after the title. He got it without any fuss or feathers. Donnie learned most of his hockey as a coach and his strategy with the Olympics was not to be denied.

It was no walk away for Olympics though at any stage of the proceedings. Once at the top they had to battle the defending titleholders, Tecumsehs for premier honors. For the last half of the season the two teams either alternated in first and second place or were tied for no 1 position.

Neck and Neck

Even at the finish London and Detroit were neck and neck. Olympics gained the nod by virtue of more goals scored and quickly disposed of Syracuse in the playoffs, while London shook off Cleveland. Then came Hughes' triumph as his O's took the final series 4-1, 2-1, 2-1.

Six thousand fans saw the last game. Superior defensive play was the greatest asset of the Hughes' men throughout their campaign and the final match was no exception.

Earl Roche started the scoring near the end of the first period, converting a pass from Wally Kilrea. It was a fast, low shot, that gave goalie Jack Forbes no chance. Forbes gave a stellar performance in the second frame and kicked out 11 shots.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

Competition is rather keen these nights over at the Armouries, especially in the play-offs in the local Badminton Club. For instance on Tuesday night Angus McFee won the junior or "B" championship of the club when he defeated "Bob" Graham in the finals, but not until athletic struggle had ensued. In the senior or "A" series Harvey Ross eliminated Ken Chisholm in the semi-finals and qualified for the "A" finals versus Bob Martin. Incidentally the Chisholm-Ross match drew considerable attention and a large gallery witnessed this play. The finals in the men's "A" series, mixed doubles and other series will take place on Saturday night, when open house will be declared. In the ladies' tournament the finalists in the "B" series will be announced after tonight's play. Saturday night sees the curtain rung down on local badminton activities in Belleville for this season and it can safely be said the Belleville Badminton Club has enjoyed its most successful season since inauguration. All club championships will be awarded directly following the evening's play on Saturday night.

Our Peterboro contemporary went on another of his periodical and literary busts to become hot under the collar and blow off steam recently. He's still apparently "red in the face" regarding the recommendation sent by the C.O.B.L. to the O.B.A.A., while he was slumbering peacefully under the shade of one of those trees in centre field at Riverside Park in Quaker Oat Town. At last he admits that the letter of recommendation was forwarded, but informs us, that this resolution was passed up by the O.B.A.A. at a recent meeting. "Thanks pal for the news, or maybe we should thank Bill Kay." The Petes' advertising medium believes Belleville is "attempting to tack Ernie Gibbard's hide to the fence," as he terms it. Of course those farthest away from the seat of activities usually have the most to say, so we'll forget that point, as Mr. Gibbard and the local baseball moguls have had personal understandings to mutual advantages. Insofar as President Swanston's denial of any knowledge of the letter sent, the fact that the Peterboro writer subsequently admitted that the letter was forwarded speaks for itself and clearly points out that he obtained that information in the Lift Lock city. Where and from what source should not be hard to decipher.

In relationship to the Napanee angle and Mr. Gibbard's future intentions we cannot say much without breaking confidence, as Mr. Gibbard wrote us a confidential letter along with those he also mailed to Peterboro, in which was incorporated the future intentions of the Gibbards. To further enlighten the Peterboro scribe we might say that Napanee does not intend playing senior baseball this season, and has not for some time past. Insofar as any newspaper controversay over this angle, well it has just been so much eye wash. Why the Peterboro scribe should state that local baseball mentors are "tanning Mr. Gibbard's hide," is not only ridiculous but actually comical. Ask Ernie, he knows and so does R.A.

Promoter Clem Allen is about the busiest man in town these days preparing for the Belleville and District Golden Gloves boxing championships. As pointed out by Matchmaker Allen it will be impossible to announce the bouts previous to the fights as the boxers will be drawn for after they weigh in on April 9th. Of course the names of those to compete in this tournament will be available and posted as the entry list closes on Monday next. Every class from the 100 pound paperweight to the heavyweights is included on the programme, but naturally there will have to be at least two entries in each of the nine classes before draws can be made. In a class where they may be a large entry, the participants may be required to fight two or more fights in one night. If the entry list is as large as Mr. Allen expects, however, two nights will be utilized, the first for eliminations and the next for finals. The winner of these classes will be eligible to compete in the Provincial-wide Golden Gloves finals at Toronto later in the month.

The scene is all set for tonight's gala inter-city swimming meet up at Albert College. Ralph Morden, sponsor of the meet, announced today that Andy Reckie, ex-athletic director at Albert College and now physical instructor at Kingston "Y" was bringing a high class team of swimmers to town while the Peterboro contingent threatens also. Incidently the local team will be short-handed as three of their number will be out of the city with the Collegiate basketball team. Mr. Morden intends using two teams in whatever events possible and more especially in the mixed medley events. Besides open events for both male and female swimmers a special feature in fancy and trick diving has been added to the programme. The lengthy and spacious pool at the Albert College will afford these out-standing swimmers an opportunity to display their wares tonight. With the large field of entries at hand, keen compeotition can be looked for.

At noon today the three local interscholastic group champion basketball teams left for Toronto, where they enter the C.O.S.S.A. basketball play-downs at the Eastern High School of Commerce tonight. The local senior girls' team headed by Coach Miss Allison, meets the fast St. Catharines Collegiate hoopsters in the semi-finals tonight. The St. Kitts squad are heralded as the best girls' cage team in the Niagara Peninsula, so naturally the B.C.I. girls feel, that their hardest game of the series will be tonight The winner of this round will go directly into the finals Saturday afternoon. While the girls are hard at it, the local senior boys tackle the Peterboro C.I. senior, winners of the Lake Shore group, while the local group champion junior boys take on Niagara Falls juniors. According to pre-game information the local Laughlin-coached seniors should get into the finals by defeating Peterboro, but again the Niagara Peninsula threats loom up before the local kids, as the "Big Roar" juniors are heralded as a smooth working machine of young hoopsters. At any rate the local "Collegians" feel their worst threats are in the first round, as in each case they have been drawn against the most formidable opposition in the C.O.S.SA. playdowns this season.

Y. M. C. A. ALLEYS

C.N.R. League

Freight Dept. 3 points.
Thompson	132	153	172—457
Johnson	230	226	110—575
Taylor	2b2	141	161—544
Ivers	73	192	175—440
Barker	221	156	150—536
Total			2552
Rip Track 1 pont.
Burton	190	164	147—501
Storms	229	118	196—543
Dykes	139	148	170—457
Rayner	175	158	177—510
A. Arnott	168	191	158—517
Total			2528

At the Training Grounds

(By Alan Gould)
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New Orleans, March 29.—(AP)—Peel off the outer surface of the spring training season's "grapefruit" and you will find it looks like a wide-open race in the American League this year—for second place—unless some effective method is found to disrupt the iron-bound confidence of Detroit Tigers.

They are the only Club in the League now presenting a solid, grade "AAA" front in the three playoff departmints—pitching, power and defence.

It may be conceded a number of the Tiger Pennant Stars last year, including Schoolboy Rowe, Marvin Owen, Billy Rogell, Goose Goslin and Hank Greenberg, had an exceptional year. Some may not repeat.

There are far bigger "ifs" connected with the chances of all other contenders. Walter Johnson's Cleveland Indians shape up as the strongest challenged until Billy Knickerbocker, was floored by old man appendix.

Cleveland and the New York Yankees, both substantially rebuilt within the past year or two, are the coming Clubs, regardless of where they finish this year. The Yankees have more speed than power now but their pitching staff, with the veteran Pat Malone just added to it, will keep the club in the race. George Selkirk will not make New York's fans forget Babe Ruth in right field.

So many uncertain factors involve the chances of Boston Red Sox, Philadelphia Athletics and Washington Senators, it is possible only to guess what these three "dark horses" will do when the boys begin playing for keeps. All should figure in the scramble for first division berths.

Despite Rogers Hornsby's able and aggressive leadership, St. Louis Browns haven't the stuff to go anywhere.

The Chicago White Sox can't expect even an Al Simons to propel them upward this year.

MAROONS SECURE ONE GOAL LEAD OVER RANGERS

Protect Margin by Great Defensive Display in Last Frame

CLEAN, FAST GAME

Cain And Northcott Are Marksmen in Brilliant Goals

(Sam Robertson)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, March 29.—(CP)—Montreal Maroons, who have a knack of making a one-goal lead look like a mountain, rolled happily homewards today with just that advantage over their New York Ranger foes in the semi-final round for the Stanley Cup.

The Maroons out-thought and out-fought the Blueshirts here last night for a 2-1 victory and an edge in the total-goal series, that was impressive, when their defensive ability was considered. It made them prime favorites to sweep Lester Patrick's skaters aside in the second and decisive game at Montreal Saturday and go on to meet the survivors of the Boston-Toronto National League title series in the cup-finals.

Maroons surprised the Rangers and their 16,000 supporters, who braved an early spring drizzle, by coming from behind for a richly deserved victory. A goal down after the Evergreen Cook Brothers and Frankie Boucher had struck viciously for a New York goal in the fourth minute, the Montreals flashed offensive enough for two goals, then barred the door to the hammering of the homesters.

Clear Thinking

It was head work in the heat of battle—thinking clear and cool as a winter star—that gave Herb "Hurry" Cain and Lawrence 'Baldy' Northcott the winner's goals.

Seven minutes after Bun Cook had collared the rebound of a shot culminating a passing burst with his two mates, to bag Rangers' goal, Cain came out of a triple attack by Maroons to tie the score halfway through the first period. Gus Marker and Bob Gracie engineered the puck past the New York front line before "Hurry" barged into the picture. The puck on his stick, Cain dashed straight at the Ranger defence to execute whirling pivots, that feinted Ching Johnson, then Ott Heller out of their defence positions. The speedy forward then beat Goalie Dave Kerr from just outside the crease.

Northcott's important counter in the second period was even trickier. With the rebound of a previous shot by Hooley Smith, "Baldy" started circling the back of the Ranger goal. As Kerr shifted, the Maroon wing from Calgary doubled back to shove the puck into the unattended corner of the cage.

From then on, Tommy Gorman's hopeful struck out goalwards only when there was an opening. The Rangers skated themselves weary—every last man of them—but dogged back-checking by Montreal forwards sent the charges heading into the hefty supporting defence, and the few rushes, that trickled through were deftly turned aside by agile Alex Connell in the Maroon net.

LAST NIGHT'S N.H.L. STARS

(By The Chasdian Press)

Baldy Northcott, Maroons, scored the winning goal against New York Rangres.

Frank Clancy and Red Horner, Toronto, softened up Boston Bruins with bruising body checks.

Charlie Conacher, Toronto, handed Harvey Jackson a goal and played brilliantly all evening.

Rangers' Cook-Boucher-Cook line got the New York goal and well deserved it.

"CLOTHIERS OF QUALITY"
"Look Like a Million Dollars"
THAT'S THE GENERAL OPINION FROM THE MEN WHO HAVE SEEN AND BOUGHT.
CLUB CLOTHES
for which we are exclusive agents in Belleville. Tailored by the W. R. Johnston Co. Limited and made from British Woollens, American styles, Canadian tailoring, and thoroughly tested for Quality.
Quick & Robertson
First in Style, Quality and Reasonable Price.

SCIENTIFIC TESTS
The Strength Test
The Light Test
The Caustic Soda Test
UNRESTRICTED CHOICE OF BRITISH WOOLLENS
$23.75
TAILORED TO YOUR MEASURE
TWENTY FIFTH ANNIVERSARY
TIP TOP TAILORS
TAILORING BY UNION CRAFTSMEN

SCIENTIFIC TESTS
● Here are tests that every piece of Tip Top Tailors' fabric must pass before it is tailored to your measure.
THE STRENGTH TEST: As the fabric is clamped into jaws and slowly pulled downward, a counterbalance indicates the pressure in pounds. At the first indication of a tear, the counterbalance stops, thus registering, in pounds, the strength of the cloth.
THE LIGHT TEST: Here the fastness of colour is established. In a room with controlled humidity and temperature, cloths are subjected to the glare of artificial sunlight. This establishes the number of hours of sunlight the material will stand without fading.
THE CAUSTIC SODA TEST: To insure materials being pure wool, they are immersed in a solution of caustic soda and brought to a boil. Wool dissolves completely and if any residue is left it indicates the presence of cotton or other foreign substances.
● These are some of the reasons why Tip Top Tailors made to measure clothes look good months after ordinary clothes have lost their style and shape.
TIP TOP TAILORS
TAILORING BY UNION CRAFTSMEN
N. C. WILBUR, Manager .... Phone 2154
298 Front Street .... Belleville

MRS. G. WILLIAMS FETED BY FRIENDS

Farewell Party Before Leaving Picton Community

Picton—Previous to leaving for her new home in Toronto, Mrs. George Williams was guest of honor at a tea on Friday afternoon last, at the home of Mrs. Geo. Haddon, Bridge St. The guests were members of the Guild of St. Mary Magdalene's Church. As a token of their esteem, and appreciation of her co-operation for many years in the Guild, Mrs. Williams was presented with a silver rose bowl. Miss Hilda Haddon assisted in looking after the guests and a pleasant social time was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Sayers and family have moved into Mrs. Kemp's house on York St.

Capt. and Mrs. Fred Heffernan of Belleville, and Miss Edith Heffernan, and Mrs. Denis Goodwin of Picton, returned home from Tonawanda on Monday, where they attended the funeral of the late Capt. John O'Hagan. Capt. O'Hagan was a native of Picton, and is survived by his wife, before her marriage, Miss Margaret Heffernan of Picton and a grown-up family. Mrs. Denis Goodwinn is a sister of the deceased.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McKee of New York City have purchased the grocery business of Thos. Shaw, on Main St.

A very enjoyable surprise party was held on Friday evening, March 22nd, at the home of Misses Maude and Alice Dayton, Owen St. Twenty-five guests spent the evening playing progressive euchre. The special prize went to Mr. Jack Dayton, the first prizes to Mrs. Jack Vestervelt and Mrs. Gay Welsh, and the consolation prizes to Mr. Vestervelt and Mrs. J. Wannamaker. A delicious lunch was served at the close of the game, with Mrs. John Grindrod and Mrs. Gay Welsh assisting the hostesses.

Mr. Wm. Bovay visited his son Ed. Bovay in Cobourg early in the week.

Sheriff A. E. Bowerman and Mr. Wm. McWilliams attended the court in Cobourg on Monday March 25th.

Mrs. John McLellan is recovering from a severe attack of the 'flu, at her home Union St. Her niece Miss Ivy Williams is with Mrs. McLellan.

At the meeting of County Council on Tuesday, Miss Margery Minaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Minaker, York St., received the appointment of County Stenographer.

At the regular Kiwanis luncheon on Tuesday at Hotel Globe, Dr. R. A. Thompson of Wellington was guest speaker. The doctor suggested a municipal hospital for Prince Edward County. The doctor explained that the cost of operating the local hospital last year was $15,000.00. Under the municipal hospital plan this amount would be raised by a mill rate on the property assessment.

Ward patients would then be able to have free hospitalization, and the cost of private rooms would be very reasonable. In each case the doctor would be paid by the patient. The doctor explained that these municipal hospitals have been successfully operated for some years in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and that the public have been well satisfied with the service they have rendered, particularly to families of small incomes, who under the present system cannot afford necessary hospitalization.

Mr. Carson Hubbs was installed as a new member of the Club.

The croquinole party sponsored by the young people of St. Andrew's Church on Monday evening was a most enjoyable affair. Fifteen tables were in play, and there was much merriment in the playing. Miss Kay Sanderson and Mr. Rex Noxon were the winners of the attractive prizes. Refreshments were served after the games and a social hour was enjoyed.

Some disturbance was caused in a local cafe on Saturday evening during which an Indian youth pushed his fist through the glass of one of the doors. The youth was arrested, but as the cafe did not lay any charge, was not held.

◆

Movie Comedy in Nazi, Germany

Berlin, March 28—All of the humour in German films these days is not conscious—far from it. As an example is the fate of a film entitled "I For You, You For Me", which was sponsored by the Ministry of Propaganda as a model production to show the life and work of those in the German Labor Corps.

DODD'S
KIDNEY PILLS
KIDNEY
BACKACHE
RHEUMATISM

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Copyright 1935
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Bride's First "At Home"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am about to "receive" for the first time since my marriage. Because my apartment is quite small, my reception must, necessarily, be rather semi-formal. I am inviting about fifty guest, and asking them for different hours, some at three p.m., some at four (or should I say "between three and four, or four and five").

2. When receiving I am not just sure what would be best. My husband's mother has not been well, and I am afraid would not be able to stand all the time is assisting me. My mother is dead, and in this case I do not know whether it is best for my husband's mother to receive with me, or perhaps it would be better for one of my sister's to receive with me also?

3. I am wearing my wedding dress which is a long, blue lace dress with a little jacket. If my sister or my husband's mother receives with me, would it be all right for them to wear plain afternoon dresses? My wedding was a quiet one and they do not feel like going to the expense of getting fussier dresses.

4. I am planning to serve a variety of sandwiches—perhaps a dozen different kinds; olives, some small pastries with creamed chicken filling, and about six or seven different kinds of small cakes; mints, tea and coffee. Would this be sufficient, or would you suggest anything else?

M.

1. The customary way is to mention "between" hours—that is, "from three to six", something like that. Since guests come and go at receptions, I hope that it will be convenient for you to have this mention of inclusive hours on your invitations.

2. I suggest that in any case you invite your husband's mother to receive with you, since this is a courtesy and friendliness she will very much appreciate and value. Explain to her that you will perfectly understand if at any time she finds that she is too tired to receive with you any longer, or better, that you will have her receive your guests sitting rather than standing.

Also it would be charming for you to have your sister receive with you and your mother-in-law. She would be the "representative" for your side of the house, and your mother-in-law for your husband's family. It would be best for you to give this honor of receiving with you to the oldest of your sisters.

3. By all means wear your wedding dress, which sounds as if it were the exactly appropriate dress for you to wear on this occasion. And your co-hostesses would wear afternoon dresses, without hats.

4. Your menu plans are excellent. These are just the food items to serve at an afternoon tea.

BABY SHOWER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Some friends are giving a baby shower for me. Can you please tell me what I should say and do? It is supposed to be a surprise.

C.

As you open each gift, talk about it enthusiastically and graciously. Tell the friend how generous and kind it was of her to think of it, and then admire the gift, in words so warm- heartedly friendly and appreciative that your friend will be deeply happy that she bought just that gift. And then, the day following the shower or as soon after as you possibly can, write a thank-you note to each giver of a shower present.

APPRECIATION NOTES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I lost my mother recently and received many letters and cards of sympathy. Is it proper to acknowledge them? If so, what is the proper letter paper to use?

W.

Yes, every letter or card of sympathy should be acknowledged by a note of appreciation. These notes are written on plain white-paper, small size if you wish, or, if you prefer, on letter-paper with a very narrow black border. But the white letter-paper is in just as good form—black bordered paper isn't used nearly as much as it used to be.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

Copyright 1935
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Finds Love of the Modern Girl a New Kind of Puzzle

Dear Miss Fairfax:

"Please do not think of me as Victorian. On the contrary, I pride myself on being modern, but I am not as modern as my wife.

We were engaged for three years before we were married and had much in common. We were both passionately fond of music. She played the piano, and I the violin, and we had delightful musical evenings together. We were both fond of music, and we liked to walk and to row on the river in summer.

I never questioned our happiness if she would marry me. But she argued the point on many occasions.

On our wedding tour, which was to last a month, she amazed me by leaving at the end of three weeks and joining some friends of hers at a house party. I was invited, but declined to go, and I felt pretty indignant about it. But my wife, after trying to persuade me to join her friends, went off as carefree as if she were a single girl. My emotions over that can be imagined.

Six months after we were married she returned to her old job. She claims she still loves me, and I must say she treats me with every courtesy and much consideration, but when I can support her in comfort I can't see why she wants to work. She tells me there isn't enough to do around our small apartment, and she'll get into mischief if she hasn't a steady job.

I know she has been criticised severely, but she is utterly indifferent to that. I feel sure that we are both the subject of considerable gossip among our friends and I wish my adored wife were less modern."

"Husband"

The French have a proverb that in marriage, the one loves and the other is loved. Your letter recalls this maxim.

But, as you tell me that she is always courteous and considerate, it seems to me your marriage should be regarded as successful. When a man marries a modern girl, he has to accept her modern ideas. Apparently you married one.

All said and done, your life together may wear better and endure longer than if you had married a highly emotional girl who spent her time on the heights or in the depths, questioning her love for you.

Evidently your wife is of the self-contained type. Presumably she has not repented of her bargain, or she would not treat you so well.

In view of all of her excellent qualities, don't you think it worth while to pass up some of the ideas you hold about marriage? If you are blest with children, undoubtedly she will give up her job. In the meantime, she says the management of a small flat is not enough to keep her busy.

As to the gossip, I should ignore that. You can't escape gossip, as long as you live in a world where people have few resources, and the lives of their neighbors offer such passionate interest to them.

To me , you seem to have much for which to be thankful.

RECEIVE PRIZES FOR COSTUMES

3rd Sidney—Aiken's Woman's Association had a very successful "Hard Time Party" on Tuesday evening. Pot luck supper was served in the dining hall with the program following in the church. "Put On Your Old Grey Bonnett" was sung by Mrs. Earl Bush and Mr. Stanley Spafford, they being dressed in suitable costume. Readings were given by Miss Ruth Spafford and Mrs. Angus Lawrence. Master Cecil Jeffrey favored with a guitar solo and Mr. Francis Pratt gave two vocal solos accompanied by Mr. Bert Hubbs on the guitar.

An interesting part of the program was news flashes read from "Aiken's Hard Times" by Mrs. Stanley Spafford. The amusing articles found therein were much enjoyed. Mrs. Gerald Brickman and Mr. Ed Westover sang a duet in fine voice and their costumes and acting added to this number.

The hard times costumes caused much merriment and the judges, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Adams and Mrs. Bunnett found their task rather difficult. After marching, several of the best dressed were asked to sing, and all showed ability as actors and actresses, as well as singers.

Prizes were awarded as follows:

Best dress for hard times lady—Mrs. A. Lawrence.

Best outfit for hard time gentleman—Mr. Bert Hobbs.

Best dressed couple in march — Mrs. Selburne Westover and Mr. Wm. Wheeler.

Best costume for boy or girl — Gordon Spafford, Donald Hubble and Burton Hubble.

Best singing in costume— Mrs. Earl Bush and Mr. Lee Grills.

Mrs. Adams presented the prizes The president of the Association, Miss Aletha Parry moved a vote of thanks to all who had assisted in the evenng entertainment and after the National Anthem the chairman, Rev. Johnson closed with prayer. The proceeds of the evening was over $10.00.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harvey of Eldorado visited Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hinchcliffe on Sunday.

Miss Helen Hartt of Peterboro spent the week end at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Orr entertained friends and relatives from Belleville on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Westover were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Andrews, Belleville.

Mrs. Harley Hubble spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Angus Lawrence.

Mrs. Roy Finkle, Mrs. W. Bailey, Mrs. Lee Grills and Miss Phyliss May were entertained at the home of Mrs. S. Westover on Tuesday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Hubble attended the funeral of the late Mrs. James Hubble of Mount Pleasant on Friday of last week.

Mrs. Lawrence Hubble has returned from Belleville General Hospital and is convalescing at her home, much improved in health.

Several from this line attended the play given in the Baptist Church in Belleville last Thursday evening. Mrs. Lee Grills, Miss Edna Wheeler and Mrs. Harleigh Hamilton played piano trios between acts and Miss Phyliss May sang.

Patricia Farr in "Tailspin Tommy", famous comic strip serial at the Capitol, Saturday.

◆

KINGSTON ROAD W. A.

The Womens Association of Kingston Road United Church on Tuesday afternoon entertained the ladies of the Trent Road Church Association to a St. Patrick's tea. A large number were present in spite of the inclement weather.

They were received at the door by Mrs. (Rev.)) Farnsworth and Mrs. J. Donaldson.

Mrs. Donaldson President of the entertaining Association presided at the Worship Period opening the service by singing a hymn. All repeated the 23rd Psalm in Unison. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Maguire and Rev. Fanrsworth. Discussion of business followed.

Mrs. Donaldson in a gracious manner welcomed the visiting association and asked Mrs. L. Brown, President of the Front Road Association to take charge of the programme. She voiced the appreciation of their Association for the invitation to the tea and spoke of the good that comes from fellowship of this kind. She then asked Muriel Bell for a recitation "The Wise Old Owl". This was followed by a splendid paper given by Mrs. Brown, "The Ordination of Women in the Church After this paper Mr. Farnsworth made a few remarks and explanations concerning this question which was much appreciated by all. Gwen Purdy delighted all with a piano solo and Ila Bradshaw gave a humorous recitation "Towser Shall Be Tied Tonight". Mrs. Clare Leavens sang very sweetly "Yes, I Will Take You Home Kathleen". Mrs. Shelly Anderson gave a very instructive paper "The Historical Sketch of the Methodist Church in Canada".

Mrs. H. Greatrix and Mrs. A. Clazie delighted all with a duet "I'm dreaming of Old Erin" and brought this part of the programme to a close. Mrs. Donaldson closed with prayer.

The ladies were invited to prettily decorated small tables at the front of the church and a delicious lunch was served by the younger ladies of the Association, Mrs. H. Walkum, Mrs. E. J. Gazley, Mrs. C. MacDonald, Mrs. G. Littles and Mrs. N. LaRue, Jr.

◆

Obituary

LATE MRS. ROBERT SHARP

Rawdon, March 29 (Special) — Mount Pleasant United Church, Rawdon, was the scene of another funeral service on Tuesday afternoon, March 26th, this being the third in less than a week. A large number of relatives and friends gathered to pay their last tribute of esteem to Hattie Merrick beloyed wife of Robert Sharp of Duck Lake, Sask. Deceased who was in her 88th year passed to the Great Beyond on March 19th, and the body was brought back to her old home in Rawdon.

Rev. F. G. McTavish, pastor of Seymour United Circuit was in charge.

Miss Olive McConnell presided at the piano and the Mount Pleasant choir namely Messrs. Mitchell Rainie and Jack Hughes, Mrs. Ray Williams and Miss Elsie Rainie and the choir rendered a anthem "We Shall Shine as the Stars" Mrs. Williams also sang a solo entitled "Does Jesus Care"?

Beautiful floral tributes covered the casket and were pillow, Husband and Family. Sprays, Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson and family, Mount Pleasant, Mr. Frank Anderson, Duck Lake, Sask. Cross, Mrs. Charles Cook, Duck Lake, Sask.

The bearers were Messrs. Andrew Heagle, Charles Hoard, Ross Anderson, Alley Parr, John Shaw and David Wallace.

She leaves to mourn her sorrowing husband who attended the obsequies and three sons Walter and Arthur of Hoard's and Oscar of Prince Albert, Sask. Two daughters (Alma) Mrs. Robert Anderson and (Alice) Mrs James Bryce of Duck Lake, Sask. Two sons Charlie and George are predeceased.

She is also survived by two sisters Mrs. John Johnson of Mount Pleasant, Rawdon, and Mrs. Adam McKay of Duluth, Minn. Two sisters and one brother have predeceased her namely Mrs. Marshall Young of Gardenville, Mrs. James Donald and Mr. Oscar Merrick of Rawdon

DAILY SUN BATHS TAKEN BY CHILD

Florence Babcock Improving in Hospital Under Dieting

Whether or not little eleven-year-old Florence Babcock of this city will undergo an operation in the Belleville General Hospital for the correction of an inverted stomach remains to be seen, it was stated today by Dr. G. S. Stobie, physician in attendance.

"It depends a lot on her condition within the next few weeks," added Dr. Stobie.

The tiny patient's case, which was previously reported one of the strangest in medical annals, and has attracted continental attention, paralelled that of little Alyce Juane McHenry of the United States, who recently underwent a successful operation of the same nature, which restored her "upside-down stomach" to its normal position. It was one of the few operations of like nature, that had ever been performed.

Favorable progress has been made by Miss Babcock since her admittance to the local hospital for the purpose of building up for the ordeal of operating. Good food and careful attention have added nearly four pounds to her weight and have also resulted in a gain in her vitality and physical condition. If the same progress is shown during the next week or so no operation will be needed at all, it was stated.

"Operations in the case of inverted organs are not always necessary, even though the condition is an unusual one. Many people go through life this way with little difficulty", pointed out Dr. Stobie.

The 45-pound patient takes daily sun baths in the screened porches of the hospital and sighs for the time when she can leave the institution and run out and play like the rest of the children.

Your SPRING COAT Should be on its Way To MODERN ANY DAY NOW!

Don't delay with Spring weather on the way or the first really warm day will find you in your winter overcoat.

PROMPT, EFFICIENT SERVICE is our motto. We'll return your coat perfectly textured, as smart as the first day it was worn.

YOUR HAT, TOO, WE'LL CLEAN AND BLOCK YOUR HAT PERFECTLY

Phone 729

MODERN

CLEANERS & DYERS

192 Front Street Phone 729

Some Sugar Bushes Have Been Tapped

Carmel, March 28—Some on this line have tapped the sugar bush.

Mr. Clayton Sullivan spent one evening with Lyle Vandewater.

A few from this line attended the dance at Mr. A. Hoskin's on Thursday evening.

Mr. Geo. Vanderwater, Mr. Harry Dafoe, Mr. H. Haynes, have purchased each a new team of horses.

Nama and Garth Sine have returned back to school.

A few from this line attended the surprise party given for Mr. and Mrs. W. Henderson of Foxboro on Friday evening before they left for their new factory in Prince Edward.

Mr. Carman Dafoe has recovered.

Mr. Mac Wilson spent Saturday with Mr. Fred Vandewater.

A few from here attended the Liberal meeting on Friday night at Wallbridge.

Mrs. F. Guay spent a few days last week with Mrs. Levi Latone who has been ill.

Mr. Jack Guay has been spending a few days with friends in Madoc.

Mr. O. Latchford called on his brother Mr. Charles Latchford on Sunday morning.

What price SPACE MR. ADVERTISER?

Space in a daily newspaper possesses a power that is lacking in the lineage of other advertising media.

It is not only more economical . . . which is a matter of easy computation . . . it is not only more flexible, it is not only more timely and rapid, but also it is the advertiser's unfailing point of contact with the mass market and every spot market of the Dominion of Canada.

The Daily Newspaper possesses a power by means of which an advertiser, who knows how to use it, can reach and move to action all or any part of the Canadian consuming public.

In this North American continent there was spent during 1934 in the columns of the daily newspapers more than $500,000,000. The strongest of all supplementary media was used to the extent of $114,000,000. Why?

Because for prompt action on sales plans . . . for quick consumer influence at minimum cost . . . for willing co-operation from the retail trade, the daily newspaper is today, as it always has been, the outstanding and most economical basic advertising medium.

ADVERTISE IN DAILY NEWSPAPERS FOR action

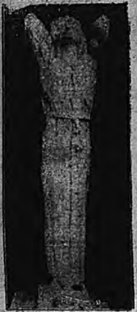
SPONSORED BY THE

CANADIAN DAILY NEWSPAPERS ASSOCIATION

WOMAN HATER

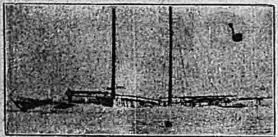
This business of "woman-hating" seems a profitable policy in politics. Canada's leading statesmen, Premier R. B. Bennett and Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King are both bachelors. Contesting the presidency of the University of Alberta Students' Union, Ted Bishop (ABOVE) head man in the campus Woman-Haters' Club stepped to bat with his avowed distaste for femininity in no manner diminished despite the fact that more than one-third of student voting power is wielded by co-eds. He was elected.

EPSTEIN'S RIVAL



George Gray Barnard, who ranks first among living sculptors of United States, will exhibit this famous piece and many others at his first one-man exhibition in 20 years It is his "Jesus Christ," a world-famous masterpiece. How different to Epstein's much disputed figure of Christ, now causing a turmoil in London!

FIRST SHIP TO CROSS ARCTIC SEA



The S.S. Fort James, frozen in near the North Magnetic Pole in the Canadian Arctic has just been reported by the Hudson's Bay Company as the first ship to cross the Arctic seas. It started its long voyage from St. John's Nfld., and stayed in the Arctic for some years. Then it returned east, sailed through the Panama canal and via Vancouver to its base where it had previously wintered in the Arctic, reaching there this winter. It thus is first ship to complete circumnavigation of North America.

PROVINCIAL POLICE GUARD QUINTUPLETS

Provincial police officers have been stationed outside the Dionne hospital at Callander, Ontario, to guard the famous quintuplet sisters from those who would attempt to spirit them across the border to the United States where they would be safe from the guardianship of the government. Rumors of kidnapping caused this step. The two officers, W. Noyes, LEFT, and J. W. McCord, RIGHT, are seen here with the Dionne watch dog, standing guard at the doorway.

THOUSANDS FLOCK TO BIER OF ONTARIO'S "MIRACLE" GIRL

Thousands of people are gathering from all over Ontario to the humble little cabin at Navan, near Ottawa, where Marie Anne Gravelle lived and died. Her funeral was attended by a vast throng. For the word that Miss Gravelle had worked "miracle" cures through the power of prayer and the report of the sign of the cross said to have been seen by several nearby residents, that hovered over the house the night after the girl died, have been spread far and wide. Several people will testify that Miss Gravelle cured them of ailments; a child who had not been able to move her arm since birth is reported cured; a man with a throat ailment, another deaf men report complete cures. Miss Gravelle was nineteen when she died. The power to perform these "miracles" did not become apparent until about two weeks before her death. She had been in poor health for the past four years. The layout ABOVE shows the late Miss Gravelle (in circle). At RIGHT, the house with crowds of people anxious to pass before the dead girl lying in state in her coffin. LEFT, the altar at which Miss Gravelle prayed. LEFT BELOW the girl's parents, Mr. Olivier Lavergne, stepfather, Miss Rita Gravelle, sister, holding the statue of the Virgin Mary given to the "miracle girl" shortly before her death, and Mrs. Eugenie Lavergne, mother of the girl. LOWER RIGHT, the girl seen lying in state in her coffin. Note the crutches in the background, left by those who were apparently cured by the blessing of Miss Gravelle. The photo of Miss Gravelle was taken about four years ago.

HAMILTON BANK ROBBED

Hamilton, March 28 (CP)— Two armed men entered the Royal Bank branch at Gage Avenue and Main Streets about one o'clock today, held up the cashier and teller, and fled with a cash box containing approximately between $6,000 and $7,000.

* * *

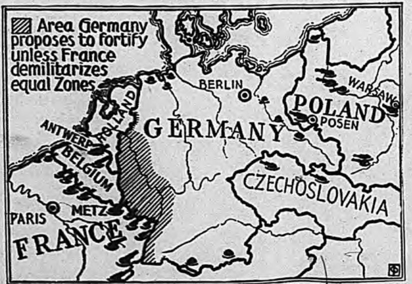
PRICE OF PAPER RAISED

Ottawa, March 28 (CP)— The Ottawa Evening Journal and the Ottawa Evening Citizen have advised their subscribers starting next Monday prices of their editions will be raised from two to three cents. The newspapers claimed increased expenditures made the step necessary.

BESSBOROUGHS ON FAREWELL TOUR OF DOMINION

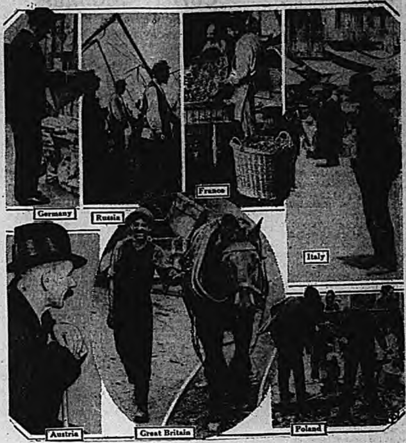
The announcement that John Buchan is to become Canada's new Governor-General find the present vice-regal party making a farewell tour of the Dominion. Here are shown Lord and Lady Bessborough, Lady Moira Ponsonby (RIGHT) and Mark Baring, nephew of the Governor-General on the steps of the Alberta Parliament Buildings in Edmonton after an official visit The Bessboroughs will tour Canada from ocean to ocean before departing for England and home.

THIS IS THE GERMANY ADOLF HITLER WANTS



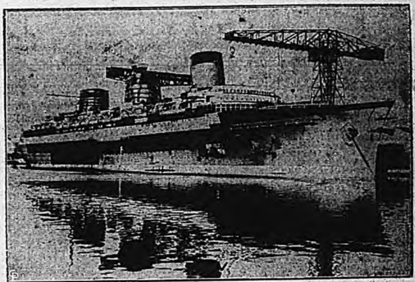
The map shows how "ring of steel" around Germany caused the Reich to rearm, according to the German military leaders. Although the Versailles treaty forced Germany to dismantle forts, those of other nations remained intact and were added to France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia and Poland all have added to their fortifications on a large snale. They also have been increasing their military forces.

ANOTHER SIDE TO THE EUROPEAN SITUATION



The usual picture conceived of Europe is a continent of marching armies, guns ready for action, and nations prepared for war. Pictures like these tell a different story. From those who have travelled among the "common folk" of Europe it is learned that they are a peace-loving people, heartily sick of war and politics. Yet these are the people who fight wars and who suffer the most from the resulting destruction of life and property. Diplomats and politicians can talk all they like about "the rights of our glorious people" but the people, according to those observers who have been among them, only want the right to life and go their way in peace and friendship. Yet, paradoxically enough, reports read that "the people of this nation rejoice," etc.

GIGANTIC FRENCH OCEAN LINER NEARS COMPLETION



The new pride of the French mercantile marine navy, the liner Normandie, is pictured at St. Nazaire, France, where it is nearing completion. Everything is almost ready now for the ship's trial run between St. Nazarei and Le Havre, that will take place some time between April 20 and May 20. The big ship will make its maiden voyage to New York starting May 29th.

SPARKS THAT IGNITED EUROPEAN CRISIS

IL NOUS FAUT LES DEUX ANS
IL NOUS FAUT LES DEUX ANS
POUR ÉVITER LA GUERRE

Posters such as those shown at top, part of French government propaganda do offset opposition to increasing compulsory military service to two years were among factors which resulted in forthright announcement of Germany to follow France in renouncing disarmament pledges and rearm. French army chiefs asked for extended compulsory training because of longer time needed to train men in operating mechanical units like tank corps shown moving ominously toward eastern frontier a few days ago.

Daily Short Story

Malice in Blunderland

(Copyright 1935 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Then, there's the story of the Hollywood actress and the junk dealer.

Faith Paradine, visiting her kitchen, nearly had a fit when a small man knocked on the kitchen door of her Beverly Hills mansion and asked rather hopefully: "Any rags, bottles or old iron, Moddom?"

"E-ee-e!" Faith shrieked. Without one bit of ceremony, much less common courtesy, she slammed the door in the little gentleman's face. The possibility that Hollywood's most glamorous star might have rags, bottles or old iron in her possession galled Faith to the core. Her familiar slink didn't have quite the same lilt as she entertained the new foreign star at her cock-tail party that afternoon. And that night as she tossed on her smooth linen bed-sheets, the branch grating on the roof outside seemed to rasp: "Rags, bottles, old iron rags, bottles, old iron" Over and over again

I cannot act. I am not in the mood."

"All right, Miss Paradine, just relax for a few minutes. Sit down there in your private chair and glance at his magazine. It will help you forget yesterday's dreadful experience."

Temperament

The director was no fool. He had handled Faith Paradine in other productions and knew how nasty she could be when her moods overtook her. Shooting was three days behind schedule and the supervisor to put it mildly was raising particular hell.

"Just relax, Miss Paradine. We'll finish this reunion scene after you're rested and then knock off for the day. Quiet everybody!"

Faith flounced to her canvas backed chairs, put on her dark glasses and started thumbing listlessly through the glossy pages of the magazine. She had been thumbing just ten seconds by the studio clock when she let out another of her famous blood-curdling shrieks.

As one, the entire personnel halted operations and rushed to her side. "Why what's the matter Miss Paradine?" the director asked, his tones lush with solace.

"Yesterday", she shrilled, wildly tossing her blonde tresses, "it was rags, bottles, old iron. Today, beer—and advertised in our best magazines. E-ee-e! It took the script girl and three electricians to revive her.

The director picked up the flung magazine. There it was on page thirty-six:

"The personal brew of Hollywood's favorite star is now yours....Faith Paradine Beer....In distinctive containers....Do not be misled....Try it tonight with a Swiss cheese sandwich on pumpernickel....At all good dealers." And there was a smirking likeness of the Hollywood Venus nestled in the midst of the advertising type.

It didn't take long for Faith's attorney's to secure an injunction restraining the brewing company from using their client's name in selling the beer "in distinctive containers."

Came The Dawn

Then, came the dawn, a fine California dawn. Faith trilling a few practice notes for her next great musical extravaganza as she plied her makeup in the Beverly Hills boudoir. Rags, bottles, old iron, beer were all things of the past. Faith had forgotten. Her only thought now as she prepared to leave for the studio was for her public, her dear, dear public.

"Can this be a delegation of fans?" she asked herself as a veritable army of men came trooping across the front lawn. Each and every man carried on his back a large wooden crate. One by one, they brushed past the actress standing in the doorway, gruntled into the drawing room and started piling the crates in the center of the oriental rug.

In ten minutes the room was overflowing with ungraceful wooden crates, the floor spread with a coating of dust and wisps of excelsior. The men left, silently as they had come. The slamming of the outer door brought Faith back to consciousness.

She darted into the drawing room surveyed the warehouse atmosphere, and tore off the note attached to the crate on the left. She gasped indignantly as she read on down to the last explanatory paragraph: "And in further token of our good faith, we are sending you these empty bottles, our entire stock of ten thousand (10,000) personal Faith Paradine Beer containers, as proof that we contemplate no further manufacture of the product which you have restrained us from selling."

"E—ee—e!" Faith shrieked, paling beneath her sun-tan makeup.

There was no one there to see her swoon, so when someone knocked on the kitchen door, Faith scooted out to answer it personally.

"That may be the old bottles man," she panted in transit, "Maybe he pays cash."

Little Benny's Note Book

We was eating breakfist and ma was quick looking at the paper befoare pop had a chance to take it out with him, saying, Well well of all the absurd silly things, all this valuble space taken up about a so called doughnut eating champeen of the werld, just because he ate 20 doughnuts in 18 minnits, or 18 doughnuts in 20 minnits, wichever it was, how redickuliss. Does anyone imagine that anyone would read that? ma said.

You read it, pop said, and ma said, It's hard to imagine that such a thing could take place in this day of enlightenment and age of science when grate men in grate labbatories devote their life to prove that food, far from being meerly an unfeeling mass of animal and vegetable matter, is really starches and carbohydrants and proteens, and in the last final annalysis calories and vitamins. And what is their reward for a lifetime of unselfish devotion to the cause of higher digestion? she said

They get the Noble prize, pop said, and ma said, They reed in the paper that some man has become famous for stuffing 20 dougnuts in 20 minnits, one's almost as bad as the other. Really Willyum sometimes it seems that education and the pursuit of science are nothing more than a mass of dead wood on a sea of ignorants, she said.

By gollies I'm afraid you're rite, pop said. More than a doughnut a minnit, for 20 doughnuts, I mean, 18 minnits, it's revolting. Now if it had been liver and onions, I'd of garanteed to eat him or any other man cleen out of the picture, he said, and I said, Sure, doughnuts, gosh what's that? I bet if it ever came to eating the most bake beans in the least time I bet nobody would come anywhere near me, I said Nobody of any refinement would I'm sure, hee hee, ma said. O what's a use, you're just 2 of a kind, she said.

Wich we are.

FOXBORO COUPLE HONORED BY FRIENDS

Foxboro—A large number gathered in the S. S. rooms on Friday evening to spend a social time. Mrs. S. C. Gay led in community singing. Mr. H. Dafoe sang a couple of solos and a duet by Mr. S. C. Gay and Mrs. E. Snyder (nee Keitha Henderson) was very much enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Henderson were then given prominent positions and an address read by Mr. S. C. Gay after which on behalf of the community and some outside friends, Mr. J. Gowsell and Mr. H. Dafoe presented them with two very pretty occasional chairs and Mr. Henderson a lovely safety razor. Appropriate replies were made afer which lunch was served by the ladies. Mr. and Mrs. Henderson will be greatly missed in the work of the church.

Master Eugene Spencer entertained Grant Wright, Ralph Bell and James Reynolds at the dinner hour on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Eggleton of Stirling had Friday evening supper at Mr. J. W Daniel's.

Mrs. M. Huffman and sons of Trenton and Mrs. H. Batchelor of Rochester called on Mrs. H. Gay on Friday afternoon.

Mr. B. Hamann returned to his home in the west after visiting his sister Miss Emma Hamann.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Hamilton and daughter and Mr. E. Sine have moved into the house lately vacated by Mr. Gerald Young.

Mrs. Fred Prindle and three children spent the week-end with her mother Mrs. A. Shaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hodgen and Betty had Sunday evening supper at Mr. Gibson Hodgen's, Belleville.

Mrs. Harold Stewart and Jackie spent Friday in Belleville guests of Mrs. D. Lowe.

Miss Bessie McMullen and Miss Bessie Spencer of Halloway, spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. E. Spencer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frink and family moved to their new home in Prince Edward last Friday.

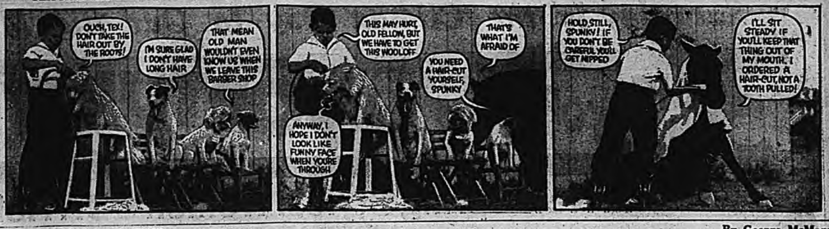
Miss Evelyn Johnston of Belleville was a week-end guest at Miss Marie Gowsell's.

Mrs. D. A. Montgomery of Stirling spent Tuesday with her sister Mrs. W. Hodgen.

If you wear
FALSE TEETH
Try this
New Improved Powder
FREE
Are your plates loose? Do they slip and slide? If so try FASTEETH—the new and better denture powder AT OUR EXPENSE.
Your druggist has a free trial sample all ready for you. FASTEETH is pure. Keeps the mouth and breath sweet. It's soothing and pleasant, and holds false teeth so securely nobody would know you wear them. Trial size supply is limited. See your druggist TODAY.
IF NOT PLEASED WITH TRIAL SIZE YOUR DRUGGIST IS AUTHORIZED TO REFUND YOUR MONEY ON REGULAR SIZE.
Distributed in Canada by
W. K. BUCKLEY LTD.
TORONTO

TEX AND HIS PALS (ActualPhotographs) The Ranch Barber By Leslie A. Hill

Copyright, 1935, by Harper Features, Dallas, Texas, U.S.A. All Rights Reserved



OUCH, TEX! DON'T TAKE THE HAIR OUT BY THE ROOTS!
I'M SURE GLAD I DON'T HAVE LONG HAIR
THAT MEAN OLD MAN WOULDN'T EVEN KNOW US WHEN WE LEAVE THIS BARBER SHOP
THIS MAY HURT, OLD FELLOW, BUT WE HAVE TO GET THIS WOOL OFF
ANYWAY, I HOPE I DON'T LOOK LIKE FUNNY FACE WHEN YOU'RE THROUGH YOU NEED A HAIR-CUT YOURSELF, SPUNKY
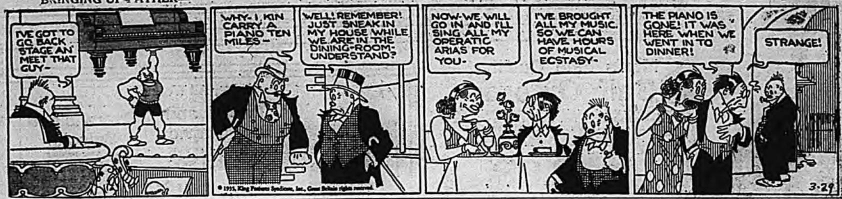
THAT'S WHAT I'M AFRAID OF
HOLD STILL, SPUNKY! IF YOU DON'T BE CAREFUL YOU'LL GET NIPPED
I'LL SIT STEADY IF YOU'LL KEEP THAT THING OUT OF MY MOUTH. I ORDERED A HAIR-CUT, NOT A TOOTH PULLED!

BRINGING UP FATHER— By George McManus



I'VE GOT TO GO BACK STAGE AN' MEET THAT GUY-
WHY- I KIN CARRY A PIANO TEN MILES-
WELL! REMEMBER! JUST SNEAK IN MY HOUSE WHILE WE ARE IN THE DINING-ROOM- UNDERSTAND?
NOW- WE WILL GO IN AND I'LL SING ALL MY OPERATIC ARIAS FOR YOU-
I'VE BROUGHT ALL MY MUSIC. SO WE CAN HAVE HOURS OF MUSICAL ECSTASY-THE PIANO IS GONE! IT WAS HERE WHEN WE WENT IN TO DINNER!
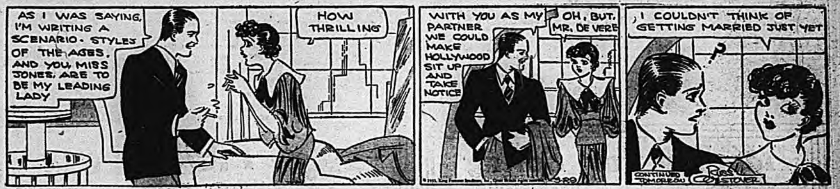
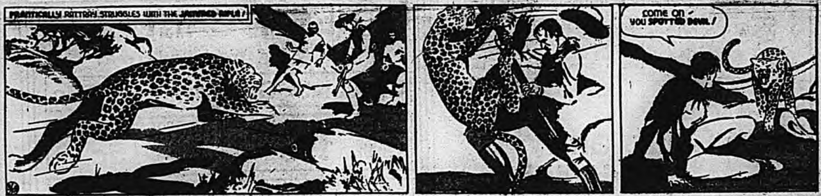
STRANGE!
© 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.
3-29

TILLIE THE TOILER— By Russ Westover



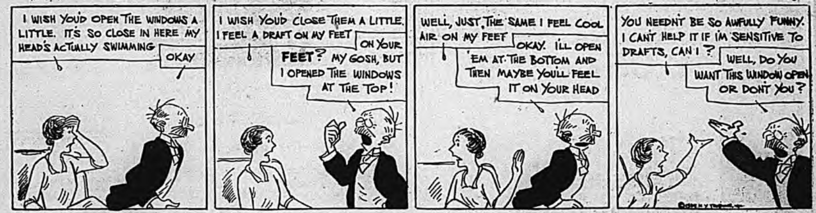
AS I WAS SAYING, I'M WRITING A SCENARIO- STYLES OF THE AGES. AND YOU, MISS JONES, ARE TO BE MY LEADING LADY
HOW THRILLING
WITH YOU AS MY PARTNER WE COULD MAKE HOLLYWOOD SIT UP AND TAKE NOTICE
OH, BUT, MR. DE VERE
I COULDN'T THINK OF GETTING MARRIED JUST YET
?
3-29
CONTINUED TOMORROW
RUSS WESTOVER

DANGER TRAILS— CLAW AND FANG By The Famous Explorer Martin Johnson



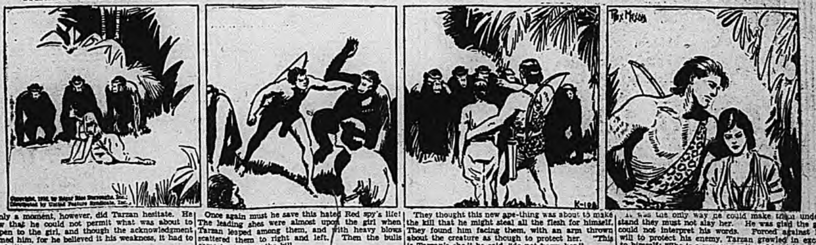
FRANTICALLY RATTRAY STRUGGLES WITH THE JAMMED RIFLE!
COME ON - YOU SPOTTED DEVIL!

MR. AND MRS.— By Briggs



I WISH YOU'D OPEN THE WINDOWS A LITTLE. IT'S SO CLOSE IN HERE MY HEAD'S ACTUALLY SWIMMING
OKAY
I WISH YOU'D CLOSE THEM A LITTLE. I FEEL A DRAFT ON MY FEET
ON YOUR FEET? MY GOSH, BUT I OPENED THE WINDOWS AT THE TOP!
WELL, JUST THE SAME I FEEL COOL AIR ON MY FEET
OKAY. I'LL OPEN 'EM AT THE BOTTOM AND THEN MAYBE YOU'LL FEEL IT ON YOUR HEAD
YOU NEEDN'T BE SO AWFULLY FUNNY. I CAN'T HELP IT IF I'M SENSITIVE TO DRAFTS, CAN I?
WELL, DO YOU WANT THIS WINDOW OPEN OR DON'T YOU?

TARZAN THE UNTAMED— (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)



Copyright, 1935, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
K-198
Rex Maxon

Only a moment, however, did Tarzan hesitate. He knew that he could not permit what was about to happen to the girl, and though the acknowledgment shamed him, for he believed it his weakness, it had to be admitted.

Once again must he save this hated Red spy's life! The leading shes were almost upon the girl when Tarzan leaped among them, and with heavy blows scattered them to right and left. Then the bulls came to share in the kill.

They thought this new ape-thing was about to make the kill that he might steal all the flesh for himself. They found him facing them, with an arm thrown about the creature as though to protect her. "This is Tarzan's she," he said, "do not harm her."

It was the only way he could make them understand they must not slay her. He was glad the girl could not interpret his words. Forced against his will to protect his enemy, Tarzan growled in excuse to himself: "She is a woman, so it could not be otherwise."

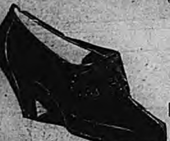
Saturday Is the Climax Day to Our Big Money-Saving

3 BIG STORE-WIDE OPPORTUNITY DAYS

THUR, FRI, & SAT

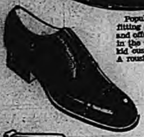
Savings Galore!!

In New Spring Styles! Women's Dr. Holt's (Trade Name) Shoes



Another rousing sale of these good looking, good wearing shoes for women. Designed to give comfort, and combining as well smart lines and stylish lasts. Of pliable, brown and black kid leathers—in a smart selection of the newer styles, and lasts for the Spring season. We stock them in sizes 3 to 8. Widths, A to EE, B, C, D, and E. Special ....

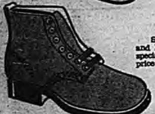
Pair 1.98



Men's Fine Quality Calf Oxfords

Popular Goodyear welt style, in black calf only. Good looking, trim fitting and comfortable on the foot. Here is a shoe with good lines, and offering a big saving in price too. Rubber heels and leather heels in the group. D and E widths. A few pairs included of men's fine kid cushion soled oxfords, with McKay sewn soles and rubber heels. A rousing value. Sizes 6 to 11.

pair 2.99



Men's Full Grained Work Boots

Soft, pliable uppers, and oil finished, long wearing Panco soles and heels, with leather insoles. A rousing big value at this special Sale price. In black or brown. Sizes 6 to 12. Sale price pair 2.29

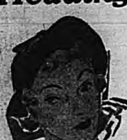
Heading for Spring



These New Millinery Creations

—and full of style importance, too! Good looking rough straw weaves, supple and crisp taffetas, sailors and the brimmed style—all show smart lines, and interesting detail trimming notes. You'll love them in brown, black, navy or blue.

Each 2.95

—Second floor

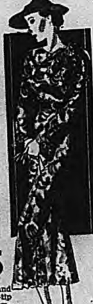
The Coat and Suit Mode offers wide diversity of style treatment this season—one may be smart in a two-piece suit, with a short or three-quarter length coat and skirt to match, these generally adopt swagger type lines, or are plainly tailored, trimmed with buttons. Swagger coats, too, come into their own this spring, and are seen in a wealth of weaves, novelty and plain. Smart for street and comfortable too, on motor trips. In blue, green and grey tones. Sizes 14 to 44. Each

10.95 and 12.95

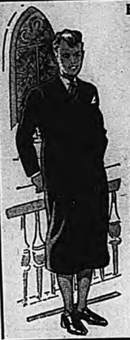
The New Dresses and Jacket Frocks

- Sheers
- Rough Silk Crepe
- Novelty Silk Crepe

6.95 to 12.95



Plenty of style choice in this big group, both in lines, materials and color for your frock may be smart with either short or finger-tip length jackets, may be either plain or smartly printed, or in a combination of both. Then, too, the materials vary and offer good variety. This group includes SHEERS, ROUGH SILK CREPE and NOVELTY SILK CREPE. These are favorites in blue, black, green and rose. Sizes from 16 to 44. — Second floor



Boys' Natty All Wool

Tweed and Blue Cheviot Suits

One Golf One Long

He'll make a smart appearance for Easter in one of these natty outfits. And whether he likes plain blue cheviot or the good looking tweeds in a variety of colors and patterns he'll find extensive choice here at 7.95! Ideal choice for boys taking 26 to 31 sizes. Outfit with coat, one golf and one long.

7.95

— Men's Store

Men's Heavy Quality Blue Denim

Overalls and Smocks

A sturdy, wear resisting blue denim makes these roomy garments, and they'll give exceptionally long and satisfactory wear too, strongly stitched and sewn, bib and brace style overalls. Smocks standard button front type. Sizes 36 to 44. Each

1.35

— Men's Store

Men's Blue Chambray

Work Shirts

Full cut and roomy, to say the least, hard, long wearing blue chambrays fashion them with extra strong seams, collar attached and strong pockets; a few included are of khaki drill. In light and dark blue and khaki. Sizes 14½ to 17½. Each

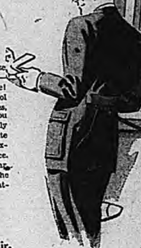
65c

— Men's Store

Men ! Smart

All Wool Worsted Suits

In Leading Spring Styles



Really beautifully tailored these good looking suits at 17.95 — and a feature too at this price! Materials are fine quality wool worsteds, in neat looking stripes, or perfectly plain blue if you like. You'll find them correctly made down to the most minute detail, trimmings, etc., are exceptionally good at this price. Just the suit for Spring wear, and neat fitting, too, in the styles which we feature on Saturday. Sizes 36 to 44.

17.95

Extra Trousers 3.55 pair.

— Men's Store

FRESH CANDIES

For A Big Week-End Treat

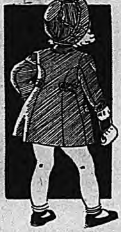
Chocolate Gingers lb. 25c

Chocolate Snowballs lb. 19c

CHOCOLATE DROPS lb. 15c

Chocolate Buttercrist lb. 19c

Honey and Peanut Chew lb. 29c



3-PieceOutfits For Boys and Girls!

It's smart to buy their outfits in three pieces this season, comprising coat, cap and shorts for boys, and coat, hat and purse for girls. A variety of smart appearing wool tweeds and plain wools, distinguish them, and they display some very cunning detail interests, too. Select these in blues, sands and greens. For 2 to 6 year old. Set

5.95 and 6.95

— Second floor

Unbleached Cotton Sheets

Limited Quantity! 72" x 36", pair 1.89

A medium weight unbleached cotton sheet which will give long, satisfactory wear and bleach out white nicely after a few launderings. Neatly finished with 2" hems. Pair 1.69

H. S. Wabasso Bleached Cotton Pillow Cases

A limited quantity, so hurry down early! Snow white pillow cases, in famous Wabasso make, from fine white cotton. 42" size, with hemstitched hems. Rousing value 4 for 1.00

50" x 50" Colored Border Irish Linen Cloths

A choice of three colors in border stripes. Gay, sturdy and exceptionally good value at this low pricing. A limited number at this price. Early shopping advised. Size 50 inches by 50 inches. Each 59c

— Main floor, rear

Clearaway Section

Odd lines and broken sizes in items too numerous to list here. Priced for exceptional savings

—Main floor, left

Cut-Work Lunch Sets— Neatly Embroidered

So attractive these little lunch sets that we think they'll clear in no time after store opening. Cloth size 36" x 36" and 4 serviettes to match, each piece neatly embroidered by hand. The Set 1.49

LINEN LUNCH CLOTHS

Made of strong all linen yarns, in fancy weave. Stamped with attractive designs for working. In white only. Size 50" x 50". Special, each 59c

—Main floor, right

BICYCLE TIRES

Heavy studded type tread which means good wear and service. Well made in standard 28" x 1½" size. Each 73c

TUBES TO FIT, each 33c

Smart! Practical!

Shirtmaker Frocks

In a choice of several pretty color combinations. Crisp, colorful frocks modelled on tailored lines, with belted effects, pleats, and button trims. Sizes 16 to 44. Each .. 79c

Hoover Frocks

Practical for house wear — in a choice of several gay colored designs. Sizes 34 to 46. Each 59c

Short Sleeved Wool

Pullovers

Round neck style, in solid and two tone color combinations. Of fine wool yarns, with abbreviated sleeves. Smart for wear with a suit, or separate skirt. Sizes 14 to 20. Each . . 69c

— Second floor

REXOLEUM BORDERLESS UNITS

One Rug 6' x 9' — Two Mats 18" x 36"

Units consist of one borderless style Rexoleum rug, with two matching mats, size 18" x 36". Excellent for dining rooms, bedrooms, kitchens, etc....... .. .. 2.39

— Basement

4 YARD PRINTED LINOLEUM, Seconds

Really wonderful value, when you consider the slight flaws, pertain to pattern printing only! In tile and block designs, in a choice of color combinations. 4 yards wide and special the last day of this big sale. Square yard 73c

Opening Hour Special—22" Figured Drapery Chintzes

In several pretty color combinations, in effective floral designs. Marvellous value and only by early shopping can you be sure of getting your requirements filled. Opening hour special Yard 8c

ECRU FILET NET CURTAINS

Imitation tailored edge style, in a conventional style, or pattern. Ecru in color, size 30½" by 2¼ yards long. Pair 69c

One Day Sale Only! Scarfe's 4-Hour

Varn-o-lac Half Price !

Remember this feature is for one day only—so plan on shopping on time to ensure getting the colors you want! Note colors include ivory, white, medium buff, light cream, tangerine orange, Alberta straw, Gaspe grey, rose pink, lettuce green lavender emerald green, shadow grey, light iris blue, Simmons' brown, delicate green, Cambridge blue, canary yellow, jade green and Mohawk red. Half price, Saturday, quarter pint tin

15c

THE CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED

THE WEATHER

Lower Lake Region: Moderate winds; fair. Sunday—Fresh northeast winds; cloudy and cool with some light rain or snow chiefly near Lake Erie.

The Ontario Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, MARCH 30, 1935

TEMPERATURES

	Max.	Min.
Today	32	25
Year ago	34	28

ITALY FORECASTS CONCILIATION WITH ETHIOPIA

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

New York, March 6 (CP) — Three armed robbers locked Julius Costello and his brother, Louis in the washroom of their shoe store and then rifled the cash register of $24. While they were trying to open the safe a customer walked in. One robber greeted him with a genial "good evening" and sold him a pair of shoes.

"Five dollars and fifty cents," said the gunman.

The customer paid. The sale money was added to the $25 taken from the cash register. The robbers fled in an automobile.

• • • •

London, Ont., March 30 (CP)—The city seems to have lost a sewer. The sewer was last seen back in 1884 and the present city engineer's department disclaims all responsibility for the loss. The loss was discovered when workmen dug down to make repairs and were unable to locate it.

• • • •

Quebec, March 30 (CP)—Right to levy a two per cent tax on all revenue of stores of the Quebec Liquor Commission in this city will be requested of the Legislative Assembly in the Quebec bill, the city charter committee has decided. The bill comes before the Private Bills' Committee of the Legislature next week.

• • • •

North Berwick, Eng., March 30 (AP)—Sir Edward Albert Sharpey-Schafer, inventor of the famed "Schafer method of artificial respiration," died today in his Northumberland home. He was 85 years old. He had two sons, both of whom were killed in the World War.

• • • •

Tokyo, March 30 (AP)—Three naval aviators were killed today in a seaplane accident near Tateyama air base at the mouth of Tokyo Bay.

A big naval craft, carrying eight men, capsized and collapsed while an attempt was made to land it in the water. The others all were injured.

• • • •

Mexico, D.F., March 30 (AP)—Plan for preventing manufacture and sale of all alcoholic beverages in Mexico is being considered by the government today. President Lazaro Cardenas said he regarded elimination of the use of intoxicating liquors as one of the most important duties of the government but said he realised it would take considerable time to enforce a dry law.

BISHOP ASSAILS NAZI GOVERNMENT

Do Not Draw Down Wrath of God on German People, He Declares

BERLIN, March 30—(CP-Havas)—The Nazi Government has been warned "not to draw down the wrath of God on the German people" as indignation mounted today in both Catholic and Protestant circles over Nazi arrests of monks, nuns, and pastors.

A number of nuns and monks were under arrest after Chancellor Adolf Hitler's political police had swooped down on convents and monasteries, charging the laws prohibiting exportation of foreign currency or securities have been violated.

Police authorities charge a total of approximately 2,500,000 Reichmarks ($1,000,000) has left Germany from the raided convents and monasteries.

The Rev. Dr. Von Rabenau, pastor of St. Paul's Church, assailed the Nazi Government's religious policies with the warning "let the German Government remember the fate of the Jewish people and not draw down the wrath of God in the German people."

Wanted 2 Letter Word for Corpse

Fredericton, N.B., March 30 (CP)—An undertakers phone rang and a sweet feminine voice inquired:

"Do you know a two-letter word for "corpse" "

"What?"

"Well, I'm stuck on a cross word puzzle and I thought you would know" (heavy accent on the "you")

The undertaker didn't know offhand and he didn't know after hours of brain-wracking. Neither did his colleagues. So anyone who knows a two-letter word for "corpse" is one up on local undertakers.

PLOT TO DESTROY RELIEF CAMPS IN CANADA REVEALED

Minister National Defence Gives Details in Parliament

LAID BY AGITATORS

Pamphlets Distributed Full of Propaganda Minister Says

Ottawa, March 30 (CP)—While adequate measures were in effect to forestall trouble, existence of a destructive plot aimed at unemployment relief camps across Canada, today stood revealed.

The plot, laid by an organized revolutionary body, whose emissaries were agitators working among men in the camps, had for its purpose the return of these men to "conditions of misery in the cities." Once there, they would be more ready to join any revolutionary movement on foot.

Parliament was apprised of the plot last night. On a particularly sleepy evening, when national defence department estimates were winding their slow way through supply committee, Hon. Grote Stirling broke the news. In previous sittings of the committee he had been bombarded with complaints about treatment accorded men in these camps run by his department. Specific complaints were cited. Regulations governing camps were described as "Prussianism." The minister was asked to explain why such harsh rules were laid down.

Last night he gave the reason. Armed with pamphlets, newspapers and circulars which he said had been distributed in the camps, he quoted a propaganda calling upon the men to organize and agitate.

April 4th. Date Set

"This propaganda," said the minister quietly, "is strangely similar to that which was circulated in Russia before the revolution, and in the German fleet just before a disturbance which caused bloodshed."

The minister furnished one date in respect to the plot. A general demonstration was to take place in all camps in Alberta and British Columbia April 4th. All camps in the country were to be destroyed at a later date, which he did not give.

"It is evident," he continued, "we are face to face with a definite organization desirous of raising trouble so considerable it can be handled only with difficulty."

Thus regulations were necessary, but the minister asserted that law-abiding men did not fall foul of the rules. Most of the complaints were attributable to agitators whose underlying purpose was to destroy the camps.

Some of the members who listened to the minister's statement continued to blame conditions at the camps. To specific complaints the minister promised investigation.

Col. Harry Mullins (Cons., Marquette), a pioneer in Western Canada, advocated closing up the camps. He said that they were spoiling the men who would not work for farmers requiring help.

Passages Read

Mr. Stirling read passages from several leftist pamphlets to support his contention agitation was being carried on in the camps.

He read from the "Relief Camp Workers" organ of the British Columbia District of the Relief Camp Workers' Union, published March 19. The articles said in part:

"On April 4th British Columbia and Alberta will be the scene of the greatest attempt by the camp workers to amencipate themselves from the yoke that predominated in the dim past.

"Let us go forward in the coming struggle with the only weapon that gets results; that is organize militant action; no dallying with these political heelers whose promises are not worth the paper they are written on, but forward with a determination to show the people of B.C. that the camps are a menace to youth.

"Start by building such a solid organization on a district basis that there will not be a man left on April 4. Co-operate with your district organizer and look to your mall contract."

POOR YEAR FOR SEAL FISHERS

St. John's Nfld., Mach 30—(CP Cable)—It began to look today as though bad weather and poor ice conditions had struck a knockout blow at hopes of the Newfoundland sealing fleet for another big season.

The kill will be far below last year's 227,000 seals as the fleet had only an estimated 100,000 pelts aboard.

NOTED PUBLISHER MARRIED AT HARRY OAKES' FLORIDA HOME

An interesting wedding took place in Florida recently at the home of Mr. Harry Oakes, prominent Toronto broker, when Helen Woodburn Langmuir became the bride of Mr. Alanson C. Deuel, publisher of Niagara Falls Gazette, Niagara Falls, New York. Photo shows the wedding group after the ceremony. LEFT to RIGHT, Mr. Alanson Deuel Mrs. Deuel, Nancy Oakes, Mrs. Harry Oakes, Shirley Oakes, Mr. Harry Oakes.

NEW CHATELAINE OF RIDEAU HALL

Here is an informal camera study of Mrs. Buchan, who will be the new chatelaine of Rideau Hall, Ottawa, as wife of Canada's new Governor-General. Mrs. Buchan is a writer and actress of note and a cousin of the Duke of Westminster. It is expected that Mr. and Mrs. Buchan will take over their viceregal duties this fall.

SWEEPSTAKES' WINNERS SUBJECTTOPROSECUTION

Law Such That Informer Cannot Collect.

Ottawa, Mar. 30 (CP)—Canadian winners of money in sweepstakes on yesterday's Grand National or any other event are still subject to prosecution and seizure of their takings under the Dominion law allowing institution of suits against them by informers.

A change in the law last session of parliament, however, deprived the informer of any share in the seizure. The whole amount goes to the crown, making it unlikely any private individual would act as an informer unless he felt personal animosity towards the winner or wished for patriotic reasons to see the government collect additional revenue.

There is the possibility in the law the crown itself may act as informer.

May Possess Famous Picture

Beeton, Ont., March 30 (CP)—If the claim of the owner, Mrs. Louisa Barrow of Beeton, 35 miles north of Toronto, can be supported by historical evidence, a portrait painted from life of Emperor Napoleon of France, when about 28 years of age, has come to light.

Mrs. Barrow said it was through a family connection she acquired the picture, which she has treasured for more than 30 years. Painted upon metal, the portrait as she received it, was in a proper period case, but this was stolen when the the portrait itself was being renovated.

The portrait, a miniature, measures about four by three inches and includes a lady on a white horse in the background and a view of a city in the distance.

BRITISH LIBERALS ENTER AN APPEAL

Protest Prosecution of Army Officers For High Treason

London, March 30 (CP)—Noted British Liberals including Sir Normann Angell, Lady Astor, Wickham Steed and Herbert Morrison called upon the British Government today to protest to Vienna against the prosecution of Austrian army officers and political figures on charges of high treason, arising from the attempted coup d'etat of last July, which led to the assassination of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss.

Their protest was in the form of an open letter, which read in part:

"At a moment when Austria, with the support of Great Britain and other interested powers, is struggling to preserve her independent existence, her government is pursuing a highhanded policy of appeasement towards old patriot citizens."

ATTEMPT HI-JACK TRUCK FOILED

Believed Men Thought Transport Loaded With Wine

Hamilton, Mar. 30 (CP)—An attempt to hijack two transport truck loads of goods on number 20 highway occurred early yesterday morning it was reported to police at Grimsby last night.

Steve Toth and George North of St. Catharines were driving two Winter transports up the mountain grade at Stoney Creek when they saw a north bound car coming down the grade, with headlights flashing on and off as though signalling for them to stop.

When the lights of the car went out completely as it drew abreast, Toth became suspicious and did not stop, although his truck was moving slowly because of the grade. Four well dressed men leaped out of the automobile and attempted to board the transport, but the speed of the vehicle was sufficient to foil their efforts.

When they failed with the first transport, they swarmed upon the second one, but were unable to get into the driver's cabin and bring the vehicle to a halt.

They slashed the tarpaulin covering the load and cut away the ropes.

The men discovered the nature of the load and leaped from the truck, being picked up by the waiting car.

The drivers explained to police on some occasions their trucks had been used to transport wine from the Peninsula Wineries, but this occasion they were both loaded with beaverboard.

POLISH-GERMAN BORDER IS CALM AFTER OUTBURST

Warsaw Follows Closely Conversations at Moscow

DANGERS TO POLAND

Poles Protest Against German Conscription Law

Warsaw, March 30 (CP)—The Polish-German border returned to its usual calm today after a one-day outburst of anti-German demonstrations all along the frontier.

There was an echo of feeling against the Reich at Warsaw where the Polish Society for the Protection of Western Provinces put two posters in a window, one protesting against the German conscription law and the other against the German treatment of Polish schools.

Meanwhile the Anglo-Russian conversations in Moscow are being followed with closest attention here. Informed observers advanced the opinion relations of Britain and the Soviet Union have already been improved as a result of yesterday's exchanges between Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff and Capt. Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal.

Nevertheless it is said in government circles it is premature to suppose Britain is a partisan of an eastern European pact.

It was likewise stressed in official quarters while Poland was eager to collaborate in measures to guarantee peace in Eastern Europe, and would welcome the visit here next week of Capt. Eden, Foreign Minister Joseph Beck would necessarily stress to the British envoy the dangers to Poland inherent in such a pact.

FRENCH WINES ON WAY

Quebec, March 30 (CP)—Fifteen thousand cases of tasty French wines will be landed at the port of Quebec during the early days of navigation, it was learned today. The shipment, it is believed, is a result of the Franco-Canadian trade treaty signed in Paris by French Foreign Minister Louis Barthou and Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada.

Arrival of the wine-laden freighter will mark the inauguration of a new French freight service to the St. Lawrence.

AVIATOR IS MARRIED

London March 30 (C.P.-Havas)—T. Campbell Black, who with C. W. A. Scott won the London-Melbourne air derby, today married the actress, Miss Florence Desmond.

Ethiopia Refuses Offer ForPersonalNegotiations Prefers League Hearing

Italy However Expects Commission to Decide Issues

WAR RUMOR DENIED

Rome Still Believes in Direct Conversations as Best Solution

Rome, Mar. 30 (AP)—A government spokesman said today conciliation would be the next step in the Italo-Ethiopian controversy, following the refusal of the Ethiopian government to accept the Italian proposal for personal negotiations between the Italian minister at Addis Ababa and the Ethiopian foreign minister.

The spokesman said the two governments will appoint a commission of conciliation to study points of difference and recommend a solution.

The Ethiopian Charge d'Affairs here, however, said the matter was now up to the League of Nations.

Earlier the government press bureau had officially confirmed reports Ethiopia had rejected proposals from Italy to "put all the cards on the table' 'and settle negotiations directly.

Rumors war had been declared, however, were characterized by a government spokesman as "silly and stupid". He said the Italian government still firmly believed in direct negotiations as the best method of arriving at a solution.

Decision on Freight Rates

Washington, March 30—(AP)—Railroads of United States were denied the right to make a horizontal increase in frieght rates today but at the same time were authorized by the Inter-state Commerce Committee in a split decision again to add emergency charges to existing rates.

MINE WORKERS AGREE

Washington, March 30 (AP)—The soft coal industry and the United Mines Workers of America agreed today to accept NRA'S proposal to continue present wage and hour contracts after April 1., thus averting a threatened walk-out of nearly 500,000 miners.

The present wages and hours are to be continued until June 16 unless a new agreement is reached before that time..

City Seethed With Fervor In Rebellion Days of 1885

CALLED TO ARMS. THE BRAVEST OF BELLEVILLE'S YOUTHS IN THE RANKS. THE 15TH. BATTALION MUSTERED ON SUNDAY. FORTY MEN WANTED FOR THE NORTHWEST. A LIST OF OUR GALLANT DEFENDERS.

Fifty years ago, on Monday, March 30th, 1885, the above heading in bold type appeared in The Daily Intelligencer and following is the story which the article told:

"Before the news of the open rebellion of the half-breeds in the Northwest Territories was 24 hours old military circles in this city were thrown into a flutter by the rumor that a company of the 49th Battalion Hastings Rifles and one of the 15th Battalion Argyll Light Infantry, had been ordered to prepare for active service. About 8.30 o'clock Saturday night, March 28th, as an Intelligencer reporter entered the City Roller Skating Rink an excited young man, who was rushing from the rink, informed him that the 15th Battalion had been ordered out and that the officers were meeting in the Conservative Club Rooms.

It took but a few minutes to reach the club rooms. Col. Lazier was found sitting in a chair at the reading table unconcernedly shifting two telegrams through his fingers. A number of young officers were lounging about the room. A teelgram received at Belleville from Ottawa at 8.13 p.m. addressed to Lt.-Col. Lazier read as follows: "Col. Williams is authorized to raise eight companies for the Northwest service and have his authority to offer your battalion a company of 42 men. Do you accept? Answer me and Williams will communicate further particulars. The Captain must be up on duty. Signed—M. Bowell." Another despatch received at 8.32 p.m. read: "Williams is ordered to the Northwest and wants one company from the 15th Battalion of 42 men, Captain and Lieutenant, immediately. Answer. Signed—Alex. Robertson."

Whilst these despatches were being passed around the officers were

(Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Employes in Italian Industries Obligated to Possess Gas Masks

Rome, Mar. 30 (AP)—Possession of gas masks by employes in Italy's strategic industries was made obligatory today by the cabinet at a meeting presided over by Premier Mussolini.

The cabinet also instituted an air command for East Africa, uniting the air forces of Eritrea and Somaliland.

The body approved an elaborate law establishing an association for distribution of gas masks, placing every facility possible in the way of purchase of them by the general public.

The official gazette published a law under which men now in military service and about to complete their terms are kept under arms "until a day determined by the Minister of War".

This law legalized the statement made last week by the war minister before the Chamber of Deputies revealing the class of 1913 now completing service would not be dismissed but retained under arms.

The cabinet provided for generous treatment of government employes called to the colors or who have volunteered including full pay for two months and a certain stipend for each succeeding months.

Ejected From Vatican

Charles Margain, Mexican student, who was arrested at Vatican when it was found he was carrying a dagger, is shown in New York on way home. He denied any intent to harm the pontiff explaining "It is a national custom to carry daggers.

TEXAS' OUTLAW EAGERLY SOUGHT

"Shoot to Kill" Order Given Police in Regard to R. Hamilton

Memphis, Tenn., Mar. 30 (AP)—Man-hunters of five states took to the highways and hideouts of the south and southwest today in search of Texas' No. 1 outlaw, Raymond Hamilton.

The focal point of this "shoot-to-kill" search was Memphis, where Hamilton and an unidentified companion, believed wounded, left two terrorised hostages yesterday after a mad 250-mile ride through Mississippi. Hamilton, fugitive from the electric chair in Texas, and his companion robbed the bank of Bluntville at Prentiss, in Southern Mississippi, Thursday, wounded a sheriff, disarmed posses, kidnapped M. E. Smith and drove into the heart of Memphis yesterday morning.

The kidnappers locked their victims in the rear compartment of Smith's automobile, parked it beside a large hotel and disappeared.

WEATHER

Toronto, March 30—(CP)—A moderate depression from Quebec to Newfoundland has caused some snow in the Maritimes and heavy rain at Halifax. Light local snowfalls have also occurred in Quebec and some parts of the west. Pressure is high and the weather cold over Western Canada while a disturbance is moving eastward in the Mississippi valley.

Icaused

Lake Superior, Kenora and Rainy River—Fresh northwesterly winds; fair; becoming somewhat colder.

Western Provinces — Moderate winds, mostly northerly; fair, not much change in temperature.

Coming Events

"IN STEP WITH THE TIMES" YOUNG Thespians present Bay of Quinte Dramatic Festival next Friday. Plays from Stirling, Trenton, Albert College and Belleville. Admission 25c. M30-1t

MOOSE EUCHRE AND DANCE EVERY Wednesday night. 13 Euchre prizes. Cards 8.15 sharp. Dancing till one. Commodores playing. Admission 25c. M30 A2

ALL OVERSEAS GUNNERS ARE CORdially invited to attend a regular Gunners Club meeting on Tuesday, April 2, at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Hall. M30-1t

MONSTER EUCHRE (COLEMAN WARD) Conservative Club rooms Tuesday, April 2 at 8.15. Prizes value $15.00. Speaker, refreshments. Everybody welcome. Admission 25c. M30-2t

"THE WAR AGAINST CANCER" — A lecture, illustrated by motion pictures on this all important subject will be delivered by Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Chief Inspector of Health, in the Auditorium of the Y.M.C.A. on Monday, April 1, at 8 p.m. Men and women cordially invited. M30-1t

MOOSE DANCE EVERY SATURDAY night, 9 to 1. Ladies' door prize. Commodores playing. Admission 25 cents. M29-2t

RUMMAGE SALE AT Y.M.C.A. SATURday, March 30, at 7 p.m. M29-2t

MEMBERS OF BELLEVILLE LODGE No. 1004, Loyal Order of Moose, are requested to attend the regular meeting on Monday, April 1. Nomination and election of officers M30-2t

City and District News

DEPOSITS IN PENNY BANK INCREASES

Belleville again holds thirty-eighth place among the schools of Ontario in Penny Bank deposits during January and February of this year. Total amount on deposit in local schools, according to this report issued by the Department of Education is listed at $9,882.57, a slightly higher figure than the $9,782.34 total listed for the same period one year ago.

ROADS IN COUNTY IN GOOD CONDITION

"Roads in Hastings County have come through the winter in even better shape than I expected," commented Mr. Simpson Fox, County Road Superintendent, following his return to the city from an extended trip through the northern section of the county. "Very little work will be required to put them in shape except for some patching here and there," it was added.

TIMBER WOLF PELT WILL BRING $15

Trapped at Fort Stewart, in the northernmost section of the County several days ago, a fine pelt of a large timber wolf was exhibited at Shire Hall this week by Mr. Roy Stoughton. The pelt was shipped to the Department of Game and Fisheries, Toronto, by County Treasurer James Haggerty for the usual $15 bounty.

FISHING GOOD AND HIGH PRICES PAID

Fishermen from this district who are engaged in lake netting off the south shore of Prince Edward County at present are enjoying high prices for good catches reported being made. Lifts of 300 pounds of whitefish at a time are not uncommon, and a price of from 20 to 25 cents is being paid.

HEALTH TALK GIVEN TO TUXIS BOYS

The Tuxis Boys of Holloway Street United Church heard two splendid addresses delivered in the church parlours, last evening by Dr. Charles Adams and Mr. George Ferguson. Clifford Bennett acted as chairman. Dr. Adams gave a very instructive health talk to the boys and Mr. Ferguson tested their knowledge regarding metals. A vote of thanks to the speakers was moved by Jack Sills and seconded by Bob Michaud.

CEMENT WORK IS NEARLY COMPLETED

Pouring a steady daily average of from twenty-five to thirty yards of fresh concrete a day, workers engaged on the construction of the dock extension at the Harbor front will finish up the greater part of the cement work at about the first of next week. Aided by favorable weather conditions during the past several weeks, the work has gone on almost uninterrupted, and greater progress has been made than at first expected. Although bothered little by frost, steam heating of the forms for the concrete has been carried on since the concrete work commenced. An average force of from fifteen to eighteen men have been given work on the construction since last fall, when operations were first started.

WOOD FIRES BOOST NUMBER OF RUNS

Brisk wood fires in family stoves throughout the city since the advent of colder weather have boosted the number of minor alarms answered by the local fire department. Two calls responded to yesterday were for chimney fires, one at 17 Benjamin Street at 11:30 a.m. and the second at 96 Station street, shortly before three o'clock in the afternoon.

IT PAYS TO SHOP AT THE REXALL STORE

SPECIAL PRICES on

Patents & Toiletries

THIS WEEK

McKeown's Drug Store

Wright's Radio Service
312½ Front St. Phone 65
Belleville, Ontario.
M. G. Wright. Geo. Sweetnam
Manager. Radiotrician

M 13-tf

COCOANUT OIL SHAMPOO
I.D.A. Brand
Quickly forms a rich, heavy, cleansing lather.
Reg. 60c 8 ounces 32c
At Your I.D.A. Drug Store

Auction Sale
I will sell by Public Auction on
MONDAY, APRIL 1.
at 2 o'clock
No. 46-48 Alexander S
on the premises.
This is a first class dwelling.
S. J. FISHER,
Auctioneer.

M29-2

CORECTAL LENSES
CLEAR TO THE VERY EDGE

WE PRESCRIBE THEM
WE RECOMMEND THEM
WE GRIND THEM UNDER LICENSE.

J. A. McFEE
Experienced Optomerist

COUNTY TREASURER ATTENDS MEETING

Mr. James Haggerty, director of The Ontario Good Roads Association returned to the city last evening after having attended the regular meeting of the board of directors held in Toronto. Owing to the absence of several members of the committee, little business was transacted. It decided to adjourn until April 12, when a second meeting would be called.

◆

CITY SEETHED WITH FERVOR

(Continued From Page 1)

assembling At nine o'clock there were present: Lt.-Col. Lazier, Major L. H. Henderson, Major J. W. Dunnet, Capt. and Acting Adjutant Thos. C. Lazier, Capt. W. N. Ponton, Capt. W. W. Pope, Capt. J. E. Walmsley, and Lieutenants Chas. Kenney, Thos. Holgate, John E. Halliwell, W.J.C. Gadsby, E. Donald, W. H. Wallbridge, Thos. Monroe, W. H. Holden, R. G. Sills, J. Young and H. A. Simpson. They had been called together in a very short space of time from all parts of the city, some from their places of business and others from places of amusement. The officers seemed gratified at the prospect of service and as each officer read the despatches he expressed regret that the entire battalion was not to be sent to the front. Upon the Colonel asking who would volunteer to officer the Company, every officer rose to his feet. The Colonel expressed his pleasure at this exhibition of patriotism. The only difficulty, he said, would be to make a selection. He named Ardjutant Thos. C. Lazier as Captain, J. Earl Halliwell as 1st Lieutenant and Charles Kenny as 2nd Lieutenant.

The question as to who should command the company being disposed of, the following despatch was sent at about 10 p.m. to the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Customs, Ottawa: "Fifteenth always ready. Will furnish one company; would prefer going as a battalion." Signed, S. S. Lazier, Lt. Col."

The officers chosen seem gratified at having been selected from the number who offered and are envied by their comrades. Most of the other officers are heads of families or have commercial interests to bind them. For this reason, the senior officer of the command deemed it best to appoint the unencumbered for the service. The Colonel read the following order to the officers:

The Battalion will assemble at the regimental armory at 10 o'clock tomorrow, Sunday, morning for the pupose of selecting a contingent of men for service in the Northwest. Company officers will use every endeavor to get every man of their separate commands on parade and every officer and man will parade in uniform.

News of the calling to arms seemed to spread like wild fire. As soon as the doors of the club rooms were opened at the close of the council, a number of men were found waiting to offer their services. They were directed to report at the armory Sunday morning.

Sunday morning rose bright and clear. At 9.45 o'clock the fire alarm pealed from the market tower, calling the men to headquarters. Citizens flocked to the scene of the gathering and in their midst was a goodly number of red uniforms. By 10 o'clock Bridge Street from Front Street to Pinnacle Street was lined with anxious faces and everywhere could be found groups of men in earnest conversation. The all absorbing topic was the situation in the Northwest. Shortly after 10 o'clock No 6 Company, composed of students from Albert College, marched to the armory in fine form officered by Capt. J. E. Walmsley and Lieutenants Thos. Holgate and Monroe. The armory was crowded with soldiers and citizens. At the word of command the men fell into line and for the next hour were put through their facings.

The army was finally cleared of spectators and the list of those who had volunteered was read. As each man's name was called he stepped to the front. Twenty-four in uniform and four in civilian's dress were soon in line Other volunteers came in during the day and swelled the ranks almost to completion.

In the course of the afternoon the following despatch was received from H. Villiers, D. A. G., Kingston:

"Call out immediately for active service in the Northwest one company 42 strong, with an efficient bugler of your battalion. Be prepared to send company to Kingston tomorrow, Monday morning, on receipt of telegraphic orders."

The armory was kept open all day. The volunteers were on parade and about 5 o'clock they were sworn in. Offers for service were presented every hour of the day, but only the best material was accepted In the afternoon associated press despatches were received and read to a large crowd in front of the office by an Intelligencer employee. Later in the evening an extra was issued from the Intelligencer office and was greedily seized upon by an anxious crowd outside, and the Rev. J. B. Clarkson read a copy of the extra from his pulpit in Bridge Street Methodist Church.

Monday Morning

At an early hour Monday morning the men of the provisional company were at the armory and they were as enthusiastic as they were yesterday. At 10 o'clock at the 15th Armory the following men were in the ranks fully equipped: Col.-Sergt. David Gerow, 2nd Sergt. Joseph Maiden, 3rd Sergt. Alex. Robinson, Corp. Belcher, Corp. Harry James, Lance Corp. S. M. Daley, Privates W. Morton, J. Connors, W. McGuire, Geo. Gerow, L. Soules, W. Gordon, C. E. Hendedson, W. A. Taft, A. Thompson, W. Livingston, Thos. Kiser, Harry Smart, Thos. Hammond, J. Corbett, E. Howard, Lewis Venn, G. Cameron, Aris, Robt. J. Shanks, J. Hamilton, Geo. Eaves, W. Walsh, J. Young, Geo. Van Allan, C. W. Brundage, R. Arnott, E. Halliwell, R. Titus, W. G. Kerr, H. McCullough, W. Haslett, Geo. Cox, John E. Fey.

49th Battalion

Lt.-Col. James Brown of the 49th Battalion received a despatch from the Minister of Customs at the same time on Saturday night as did Col. Lazier of the 15th Battalion. In substance it was the same. He immediately telegraphed the Captains of the five companies located outside the city, notifying them to report at headquarters Monday morning with as many men of their several commands as they could muster. This Monday morning the 49th armory was opened and the following orders posted up:

(1) This corps being required to furnish one company of 42 non-commissioned officers and men, the same will be drafted from the several companies of the battalion.

(2) All men warned for duty will at once proceed to the armory of No. 1 Company on the market square where they will be furnished with uniforms, arms and accoutrements.

(3) No man will be allowed to carry any baggage. The knapsacks only will be permitted.

(4) A plentiful supply of woollen shirts, socks, etc. is indispensible.

(5) Upon the receipt of orders by the officers commanding, the bugle will sound the assembly, upon which every man will instantly hasten to the armory.

(6) The detachment will be under the command of Capt. Harrison and Lieuts. Horace Yeomans and Robert John Bell. By order, E. G. Ponton, Capt. and Adjutant.

At the time of going to press the following had volunteered for service in the 49th Battalion: Geo. Wilson, Jas. Menill, Bernard Hodgins, W. Hully, M. Rogers, W. J. Ridley, Jos. Bain, T. B. Powell, Geo. Seeds, J. Williams. R. McSteven, J. Prideaux, J. Thompson, M. Brinn, W. Auger, R. Parker, B. Lott, W. G. Bell, S. J. Hilton, W. A. Street, P. Howe, Geo. Bay, S.W.A. Dorch, Tuffield Defrain, Geo. Wescott.

Capt. E. Harrison of the 49th, who will command the company which is to be sent by his battalion arrived today at 11.30 with orders direct from headquarters. These are to the effect that the men shall leave for Kingston by the noon train tomorrow.

The volunteers did not leave Belleville until April 1st. Another story will appear on Monday giving an account of their departure and other interesting details of arrangements.

◆

GOLDEN MILLER AGAINST FALL

Liverpool, Mar. 30 (AP)—The ill-starred Golden Miller again unseated jockey Gerry Wilson in the champion steeplechase at Aintree today. J. H. Whitney's Double Crossed won the event.

INDIA PICTURED BY PRIN. HOWARD

Indian Civil Service Highly Praised By The Speaker

India as seen through the imagination of a man, who has never been in that country but who hopes to see that land some day was the picture drawn for the members of the Anti-Cant Class of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church by the Rev. Principal Bert Howard of Albert College, who spoke after the regular monthly dinner in the church parlors on Friday evening.

Mr. Howard's knowledge of India is based on wide reading of books, on the inspiration of the life of his father who was an officer of a British regiment of the line in India, and or converse with those who have dwelt in that land of marvel and glamor.

"You have heard a great deal about India. You are going to hear more about it. We have heard much of the Russian and German problems and they are important but do you know the problem that is rocking the world; It is the Indian problem," declared the Principal. "Only a few understand that land and they are not natives of India, but a handful of British dedicated to the greatest of all callings—the Indian Civil Service. These are the only ones who understand India."

Principal Howard pointed out that the 320,000 millions of inhabitants of seven races, speaking forty different languages, each with a hundred dialects, provided the opportunity for the Indian Civil Service to make one of the greatest contributions to statecraft in the world's history. Fewer than two thousand Britishers keep peace in that land, police and administer it in a way that wins the admiration of every thinking man. This they have accomplished through the use of the English language, for none of the races in India would have agreed to any native language but their own though they do agree to the use of English.

Unrest in India was credited to the fact that the wealthy princes send their sons to Oxford where they receive the most complete education and going back to India find they have nothing to do. This creates discontent and a desire to have the English officials out of India and yet India would not agree to this because India knows the marvellous work which has been accomplished by the British men who will do the most unheard of things to bring justice to the poorest native. "That is what is holding India," said Mr. Howard.

References were made to the lack of sanitation and to the caste system which was called "the most appalling burden ever placed upon a country." To the lower caste folk life is just a living hell.

Gandhi was called a typical product, educated in the highest traditions of British culture at Oxford and in the British law. By a queer incident this man was turned to bitterness and gall while travelling on a mission for Britain in Africa to investigate the condition of Hindus in that country. Being of swarthy skin, he was ordered by a man on the train into the negro section of the train. The high caste Gandhi was not a negro and he felt so keenly the suggestion of inferiority to the whites, that he made a vow against the proud white race.

Yes, said Mr. Howard, Gandhi admits that all that is greatest and best in his life is due to British influence. 'He is peculiarly radical, horribly mistaken and wonderfully sincere."

"He refuses to be a Christian, because of the vow he once took on a railway train in Africa when his whole soul was turned to vinegar and gall. He has held aloft the Testament and said that is what the world needs the Galilean, but he refuses to be a Christian because of that incident. Gandhi is wonderfully religious."

Mr. Bert Orr expressed appreciation of the address on behalf of the members of the class whose teacher is Mr. R. Davis. Mr. A. G. Sinclair pronounced benediction at the close.

◆

BRUCE APPEALS FOR CANCER WORK

Lieut.-Governor Seeks Donations to King's Jubilee Fund

In a message to the citizens of Ontario given at Maple Leaf Gardens Hockey Broadcast on March 28th His Honour, Dr. Herbert A. Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor said:—

"His Excellency the Governor-General has inaugurated the King George V Jubilee Cancer Fund in Canada. The citizens of every Province in this great Dominion are being invited to assist in bringing about the ultimate conquest of a deadly, relentless enemy whose shadow falls across all our lives—cancer. I need not say how eagerly I seize this opportunity to appeal to the citizens of Ontario to do all they can to make this Jubilee year of His Majesty's accession to the throne forever glorious, forever a year of grace, memorable for all time as the year when we all, in massed formation, began a well-planned attack upon cancer—the most elusive, the most secretive and the most inexorably cruel of mankind's enemies. I am confident that only thus shall victory be ours. Only by such concerted action can medical science be aided in wresting from this dread disease its last secret—the secret which, once known, will rob cancer of its terror."

Col. Bruce closed by saying:—

"I appeal to all citizens of this province to contribute $1.00 or more to the King George V. Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund for Canada.

"Will you please send your contribution direct to Lady Bessborough, who will acknowledge it. Her address is simply, Ottawa, Ontario."

◆

POLICE REFUSE ANY INFORMATION

Fear, However, That Silver Taken From Bank Will be Melted

Provincial Police today were working on a new theory in the possible recovery of silver stolen from the Bank of Nova Scotia at Wellington, earlier this week. According to that body of police it is estimated, that over ninety pounds of silver coins were in the loot, as the robbery included a strong box filled with silver coins only. Police are of the opinion, that the robbers may melt down the silver coins and endeavour to dispose of the bulk bullion.

Following a direct check-up it was discovered by Provincial Police, that only $1,190.00 in silver coins had been taken, of this amount $130.00 was in United States silver. The denominations were as follows—$200.00 in Canadian twenty-five cent pieces and the remainder of the $1,060.00 in Canadian silver was of the five and ten cent silver pieces, while all of the American silver was in small pieces.

Provincial Police have been investigating the Wellington Bank robbery thoroughly for the past five days and although no authentic information was handed out by Inspector F. Gardner today, it is believed, that definite clues have been discovered by the authorities. "We have nothing to say, but are endeavouring to pick up traces of evidence that may be of material assistance to us" was the only comment made by Provincial Police today. It has been established that two Provincial Constables have been working constantly on the case since it was reported. The fact, that the robbery was not discovered by bank officials until approximately 48 hours after the theft took place, naturally mitigated the efforts of the police in their endeavours to date.

◆

Filtration Plant Regularly Visited

Still looked upon as a model and instructive exhibit by local residents as well as others from throughout the Province, the local water-works and filtration plant is regularly attracting visitors from throughout a wide area. Each week many visitors who call at the plant are taken through the various departments, where the features of the system are pointed out by attendants. During the past week or so the register has recorded the names of visitors from points between Toronto and Montreal.

J. T. WARREN IS BROUGHT TO CITY

Arriving home from Oshawa General Hospital late yesterday afternoon where he had been confined since Thursday afternoon following a crash with his new car near Whitby, Mr. J. T. Warren was reported to have spent a restful night at his home, 198 Victoria Avenue. Mr. Warren is under constant medical care for the injuries received when his car left the road.

Police News

Activities proved rather serene in local police circles during the past twenty-four hours although a number of minor investigations kept the department busy, with only one arrest being necessary. A vagrant was taken into custody and remanded until Monday for trial. Nineteen transients were released from the police cells this morning, after spending the night at the police station.

One truck driver found himself in possession of a police sticker this morning, after he had parked his truck all night in the downtown area, there-by impeding the progress of the city sweeper. Another Toronto motorist seemed somewhat chagrined, when his parked car was removed from the market square early today. Later the disgruntled motorists, after paying a local garagemen one dollar for service found his car in pound, having been moved by the clerk of the market as it was parked directly in paid market stands. A local up-town relation to a breach of the local barber was questioned last night in Barbers' By-law.

MERCHANTS OF BELLEVILLE ARE REQUESTED TO MEET MONDAY EVENING
at DICKENS' COFFEE SHOP
at 6.30
Business of the utmost importance will be discussed
Retail Merchants' Association
W. J. Doyle, John McIntosh,
Secretary. President

m30-a1

DIAMONDS
COMBINATION DIAMOND and WEDDING RINGS
Nicely Matched $25.00 up
A new stock of very smart DIAMOND RINGS
in white and natural gold from $16.00 up
DIAMOND RINGS
at $50.00, $75.00, $100.00
in mountings which are works of art
WEDDING RINGS
from $4.00 to $35.00
J. O. R. McCURDY
324 Front St. Phone 518

ELECTRICITY offers clean, safe, economical and dependable cooking—it is the modern method.
In using electricity you are helping your own utility.
We expect to announce shortly an attractive proposition for greater use of electrical service.

Belleville Hydro Electric System
"OWNED BY THOSE IT SERVES."

A CAR ACCIDENT...
MAY MEAN YOUR LIFE'S SAVINGS
UNLESS YOUR CAR IS ADEQUATELY INSURED
HAIG BROS.
168 Front St. (Successors to S. J. Fisher & Son) Phone 168

BUY YOUR
BROCK'S BIRD SEED
SONG RESTORER
and BIRD TREAT
at Bishop's Seed Store
172 Front St. Phone 223

TWO ROMANTIC YOUNG HEARTS...

caught in the meshes of a system; that has no place for love!... We urge you not to miss this powerful drama of today!
COLUMBIA PICTURES
May Robson in MILLS OF THE GODS
with FAY WRAY • VICTOR JORY
Directed by Roy William Neill
A COLUMBIA PICTURE
2nd FEATURE
"THE PERSONALITY KID"
with Glenda Farrell
Claire Dodd
Pat O'Brien
One Hour of Laffs

"DU BARRY" WARE OATMEAL DISHES
CAPITOL
MON. TUES.
Leaving Tonight—"Limehouse Blues" and "Gridiron Flash"

Spring Festival of CERTIFIED Hits!
A Screen Full of Joy
A GORGEOUS TREAT!
HELEN ALLEN
(Toronto Telegram Critic)
Says ....
'ANOTHER TRIUMPH'
"Certain to be Among The Year's Ten Best"
"Should be on Everybody's 'MUST' List"
BARONESS ORCZY'S

THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL
Feat. at 3.00 7.40 9.50
EXTRA! POPEYE the SAILOR Belle News
with
LESLIE HOWARD
MERLE OBERON
RAYMOND MASSEY
BELLE

LOOK WHAT'S COMING—SATURDAY, APRIL 6
It will be the best loved picture of 1935
CHARLES DICKENS' GREATEST STORY
"DAVID COPPERFIELD"
STAR CAST OF 65 PLAYERS

TRENTON

NORMAN E. HEYD TALKS TO ROTARY

Trenton High School Champion Team is Feted

Trenton, March 30 (Special)—Norman G. Heyd, Past Supreme Dictator of the Loyal Order of Moose of the world, was the guest speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Trenton Rotary Club. President Tom Jarrett was in the chair. Several members of the local Moose Order were present. Dictator L. Coutts of the Trenton L.O.M. introduced the speaker of the evening. In a most appealing manner the speaker told of the growth of the Moose over a period of twenty seven years. He told of the building of Mooseheart and Moosehaven and the wonderful work carried on each year in these now famous centres. Lantern slides showing a trip through Mooseheart was shown with Mr. Heyd telling the story as the slides passed. Visiting members of the Moose presented a skit and rendered a harmonica duet much to the delight of all. Sgt. Major Witherley sang two solos and led in the community singing.

Champions Feted

One of the most brilliant banquets held in the Gilbert Hotel was tendered the Trenton High School hockey team, champions of the Trenton and District Hockey League, by Mr. and Mrs. James Kerr on Tuesday evening. The dining room was fittingly decorated for the occasion with black and yellow, the T.H.S. colors. The players lined the two sides of the long table with Principal Spencer at the head and James Kerr, Jr. at the opposite end as chairman. Jack Kidd, captain of the team was master of ceremonies. Earl Gray and James Wallace rendered several vocal duets with George Mawson accompanying. A side table with a large sign "reserved for the press" was most thoughtful and thoroughly appreciated. Mr. H. Oswald W. Larry, of the Courier-Advocate, thanked the sponsors of the fine repast and congratulated the winners on behalf of the Trenton Press Association. Cheers echoed, when Oswald sat down. Speakers praised the team and players that brought the beautiful Courier-Advocate Cup to the High School. Clifford Staples, president of the students' council, Principal Spencer and Mr. Stickwood, who also coached the champions, all spoke a few words of praise of the honors brought the school. Mr. Stickwood said he firmly believed, that if the team had entered the interscholastic series that would have won the district honors instead of the commercial championship. Mr. and Mrs. Kerr and daughters were thanked for the fine dinner and three cheers were given the hotel staff for their fine work in making the evening such a success.

The members of the team were all present which included James Kerr, Paul Dadswell, Gordon Derry, Granville MacMillan, Clifford Staples, Earl Gray, Jack Kidd, Ken Mann, Allan Lamore, Jack Heaney, Earl Mitchell, Percy Beale and Tom Cain.

Late Mrs. Martha Ann Tripp

The funeral of the late Mrs. Martha Ann Tripp was held from the residence of her son Roy Tripp, Richard St., with many relatives and friends attending. The service were conducted by Rev. A. K. Edmison, pastor of King St. United Church, assisted by Rev. G. D. Campbell, of Grace United Church. The bearers were T. Burden, G. [illegible], P. Chase, J. Vandevoort, M. Alyea and W. Blain. Interment took place in Albury cemetery.

The late Mrs. Tripp was born in Madoc seventy-one years ago, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gay. Her husband, Isaac Bland Tripp, predeceased her some years ago. Until ill health prevented the late Mrs. Tripp took an active part in the affairs of the church. Left to mourn her passing are two children, Roy Tripp and Mrs. Charles Gossens, both of Trenton. One sister Mrs. W. Simmons of Edmonton, Alta., and one brother, George Gay of Bayside, also survive.

Milk Producers Meet

Milk producers of the district gathered this week in the Town Hall to hear Mr. V. S. Milburn of Peterboro, President of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers' Association speak on the advantages of belonging to that organization. The purpose of the meeting was to look after the producers' interests in the local market, and to negotiate deals with the distributors and to outline the purpose of the milk control board. Local officers were elected as follows: President, Albert Jones, Secretary, Fred Wilson, Directors Herb Pindall, R.R. No. 4, Trenton, Harry Pindall, Smithfield and George Clapp, Sidney.

A sad case came before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., on Wednesday afternoon, when four young girls pleaded guilty to living on the avails of prostitution. Three were eighteen years old while the fourth was barely sixteen years of age. The older girls were sentenced to not less than three months and not more than two years less one day in the Andrew Mercer reformatory. The juvenile was sent to the Alexandra Industrial School.

A woman, charged with keeping a disorderly house was unable to plead although she appeared in court accompanied by a nurse. A doctor was called and told His Worship that the accused was a chronic epileptic. She was remanded until Monday and placed in the Belleville General Hospital under observation.

The five were arrested after the police were called to quell a battle near the home of the woman. The men were accompanied by one of the girls. Two men were charged with assault. The assault charge was dismissed as the evidence was conflicting but one paid ten and costs for being drunk and the other was assessed the same for not having an individual driver's permit.

NEW PORTRAIT OF GOVERNOR-GENERAL

Here is a new camera study of Canada's new Governor-General John Buchan, famous Scottish man of letters and former secret service director. Mr. Buchan thus will become, unless he is elevated to the peerage before he takes office, the first commoner to hold the post of Governor-General of Canada.

Dairy School Results

The list of examination results for students taking the regular course at the Eastern Dairy School, Kingston, for the month ending Mar. 21st, 1935 was announced Friday.

Of the nineteen students who wrote all examinations, ten obtained First Grade standing, six obtained Second Grade standing, one obtained pass standing and two failed. One special course student was examined in milk-testing only. Other details are given on the list.

Maximum marks 1100.
First grade 75% and over.
Second Grade 60 to 74%.
Pass 50 to 59%.

	Total	%
Wm. T. Coleman, Mountain, R. R. 2	918	83.5
W. Shaw Harris, Fenelon Falls	874	79.5
Paul E. Levesque, Casselman	871	79.2
J. B. Watson, Alfred	867	78.8
H. A. Millar, Iroquois, R. R. 1	859	78.1
Allan Vosbourgh, Hilton	841	76.5
J. A. Fraser, Beachburg	836	76.
Earl W. McNeil Moscow	834	75.8
Stanley McNeil, Moscow	827	75.2
Farrell H. Brown, Moulinette,	825	75.3
Leslie Mussel, Spencerville	792	72.
Howard W. Conley, South Mountain R. R. 1	767	69.7
J. D. Babcock, Gananoque	751	68.3
N. G. Gerow, Newburgh	748	68.
Geo. Brown, Mountain	697	63.4
Stuart W. Brown, Moulinette	665	60.5
Geo. Baldock, Gananoque	556	50.5
ain.W ..86s.. her.is ..P gg

The above students having passall examinations will receive the Eastern Dairy School Certificate of Standing. Those who obtain a first class cheesemakers' or buttermakers' certificate for a seasons' make of cheese or butter will be entitled to receive The Eastern Dairy School Diploma.

Special Milk-Testing. Maximum marks 200.

Cyrus Watson, Alfred	150	75.0

DR. OSTERHOUT VISITS FOXBORO LEAGUE MEETING

Foxboro—Mr. and Mrs. Wickett of Belleville took tea on Sunday evening with the former's parents Mr and Mrs. Walter Wickett.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Blakley and children and Donald Fleming of Queensboro spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Everett McCaughan.

Mrs. Elder entertained the euchre club at the home of Mrs. C. Hetherington. Four tables were played and prizes given.

Mr. Everett McCaughan had his tonsils removed at the General Hospital on Monday.

Miss Edaline Ross of Belleville made some calls in the village on Sunday.

Mrs. Harry Kilpatrick and daughters had Wednesday night supper with Mrs. H. Stewart.

Mrs. Campbell is staying at the home of her son, Mr. Fred Campbell.

A large crowd attended League on Wednesday evening. Miss McInroy had charge of the worship period. Hymn 377 and prayer by Rev. Mutton. Scripture Lesson with Prayer as the theme by Miss Bernice Teney. Miss Helen Davis gave a short address on Prayer, its purpose and need. Mrs. (Rev.) Mutton sang a beautiful solo with harp accompaniment.

Rev. Mutton then introduced Rev. Osterhout of B. C. who gave a very inspiring address with a challenge to the young people as well as the whole church. Rev. Mutton spoke a few words of appreciation and Mrs. Priest moved a vote of thanks to Rev. Osterhout. The meeting closed with humn 120.

Mr. R. A. Morton spent Thursday with his brother Mr. G. A. Morton, Trent Road.

A presentation for Mr. Fred Newcombe was held on Wednesday evening at Wallbridge Town Hall.

PUT OUT PARASITES TO STOP CORN BORER

Distribution From Laboratory Now Being Started

The same scientific harassment, that has made their lives miserable during the past several seasons, and has resulted in a "noticeable" decrease in their numbers in this district within the past year or so, according to the experts, will again be given the corn borer in Hastings, Prince Edward and neighboring counties during the coming summer, it was promised today by Mr. A. B. Baird, chief of the local Dominion Entomological Laboratory.

During the past few years the borer, whose munching jaws have caused thousands of dollars damage to sweet corn in this area, causing canning concerns to despair of ever being able again to pack sweet corn, will be tackled this year by their deadly foe, the tiny winged parasites, imported into Canada from Central European points and liberated from the local Dominion Laboratory by the million. Now acclimatized to Canadian conditions, the parasites have shown a gratifying growth, with a consequent more gratifying decrease of the corn borer in whose bodies the parasites lay their eggs and leave the grub to hatch, destroying the borer from within.

The season's battle by experts of the laboratory, however, will not be confined to the borer alone. The peach moth in the Niagara district, and the destructive timber insects in the standing woods of the Maritimes and British Columbia, are only two of a score of other insects that must be fought with relentless vigor. Thousands of parasites under culture at the laboratory during the past winter will be called upon to assist in their eradication.

PRINCE'S CHOICE

Princess Marie de las Mercedes of Bourbon was picked by Prince Juan of Spain as his bride. Renunciation of royal rights by his elder brothers who married pretty commoners, makes him heir-presumptive.

With the Boy Scouts

SAID OF SCOUTING BY PUBLIC MEN

Lord Baden-Powell—"The basis—Honours! The basis of character training is the cultivation and practice of the sense of honour. If Scouting did no more than evoke this one attribute among all classes it would be worth while, for honour is the root foundation for a sound, high-souled nation. It is a guarantee of straight dealing in business and in politics, in place of cunning dishonesty, graft and corruption.

"Let us therefore go back to our respective countries inspired with fresh hope and wider vision, as apostles of Scouting to our own people ...... If each of us, whether boy or man, does his bit to promote good-will and wider friendship—as we can through Scouting—in places of existing narrow instincts of self, or one's clan versus others, we shall be helping to spread the spirit of Love, and thereby bring about the greatest of all hopes, God's Kingdom upon earth."

H.R.H. The Duke of Connaught.—"I know of no organization or institution—not even the schools or Sunday schools, nor anything else that does so much to promote the development of the boy along safe, sane, sound British lines, and the future of this country depends entirely on what we do for the Boy through the Boy Scouts, and what we do for the Girl, through the Girl Guides. Those are forces in the community which have been very much overlooked, up to the present time."

His Excellency, the Earl of Bessborough—"It is not easy to name any other organization that has obtained such world-wide dimensions and at the same time such world-wide approval."

Mr. E. W. Beatty—"It is gratifying to think that so fine a Movement as that of the Boy Scouts has captured the imagination of the youth of the world and has become so truly international. For Canada it is peculiarly fitted, as the campcraft which it teaches is so well suited to our geographical conditions. Nothing could be better than its gospel of self-reliance, self-respect, unselfishness and the pledge to help others whatever it may cost; moreover, it appeals to the boy, as he gets a lot of fun out of this process of developing the spirit of true sportsmanship. The qualities inculcated are the qualities of the good citizen and one is not surprised that another name for a good citizen is 'a good Scout'."

His Excellency, Lord Byng —"Making good citizens, mentally, morally and physicially, is the finest work that is being done in this world. That is Scouting's job."

Lord Charles Beresford—"Scouting has done more for youth, manliness and good comradeship than all the governments of the world put together."

The Late Sir James Aikins —"Outside the Christian home, the Boy Scouts organization provides the finest means of character building of which I know."

The Late Sir Hugh John MacDonald—"Everything that the Boy Scout pledges himself to do is that his mother would like to see him do. I would have no hesitation in advising any mother to let her boy join the Boy Scouts."

Sir Archibald MacDonell —"Scouting is the best teacher of self-discipline I know of, and a discipline that stands up during the later years."

His Excellency Viscount Willingdon—"Under this Association you Scouts and Guides are growing up filled with the spirit of good-will and good fellowship, in whatever country your future work may find you, whatever the race and colour of that other may may be."

His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire—"I know very well that having taken your places in the great Boy Scout Movement, you will grow up worthy citizens."

Dr. James E. Russell—"The Scout Program is essentially moral training for the sake of efficient citizenship. It gives definite embodiment to the ideals of the school and supplements the efforts of home and church. It works adroitly, by a thousand specific habits, to anchor a boy to modes of right living as securely as if held in chains of steel; but best of all, it exhibits positive genius in devising situations that test a boy's self-reliance and given full leadership. These two aspects of the Scout Program are so evenly balanced and so nicely adjusted as to make them wellnigh pedagogically perfect. The entire organization is a machine capable of working wonders, not only in moral regeneration of the boy, but also in fitting him to assume the duties of a citizen."

PIERCE KINGSLEY NATIVE OF CITY

Well-Known Stage Figure Passes in Long Island

Pierce Kingsley, 74, native of Belleville, and noted actor of the eighties and nineties, died not long ago in the Southside Hospital, Bayshore, Long Island, from a complication of diseases. News of the death of the one time star, reached Belleville in a letter from William F. Flynn, Justice of the Peace, Town of Smithtown King's Park, New York to Mr. Hope McGinnis of this city.

The late Mr. Kingsley was born in Belleville, June 8th, 1861 and in his youth became an actor first appearing under the management of Lenhen and Bateman and with the Primrose and West Minstrels. In the 80's he was with J. K. Emmet in "Fritz in Ireland" and with Joseph Murphy, the Irish comedian.

For several years he was associated with Percy G. Williams in melodramatic productions of which he was the author and played in "The White Squadron" and in an early production of "In Old Kentucky."

He leaves his widow. The burial was made in the Catholic Actors' Guild plot in Calvary Cemtery, New York, after requiem mass had been sung at St. Malachy's Roman Catholic Church, West 49th Street.

Mr. Flynn, a former resident of Belleville, in writing to Mr. McGinnis of the death of Pierce Kingsley, explains that Mr. Kingsley attended an Old Boys' reunion in this city a number of years ago and was well entertained. On the occasion of one of his visits he composed some poetry for the reunion. Mr. Flynn believes there are possibly a number of persons here who may recall Mr. Kingsley as a boy and he believes were they to communicate with the widow they would be able to give her some comfort in hearing of his earlier days spent in Belleville.

Mrs. Kingsley told Mr. Flynn of the life of her late husband on the stage and of the happiness of their married life for more than fifty years and also spoke of some of her own experiences in Belleville. Mr. Flynn understands that Mr. Kingsley played in a number of plays in Belleville and that he was related a a number of Belleville persons, some of whom used to live on the Cannifton Road.

Reports Sessions of W. M. S. Convention

Thomasburg —The Women's Missionary Society of Thomasburg United Church met at the home of Mrs. G. W. Sherry on Tuesday afternoon last, for their monthly meeting.

Mrs. Harold Morton delegate to the annual meeting of Belleville Presbytery held at Picton United Church recently gave a splendid report. At the close of the meeting a 'Ten cent tea' was served.

Mr. A. W. McGuire P. S. I. visited the local continuation School one day last week.

Mr. Russell Bateman, principal of Marlbank public school was a weekend visitor at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Bateman.

Mr. Elwood Kerruish and Mr. Norman Gomm and Miss Marjorie DeLong Reg. N. of Kingston were Sunday guests at the home of Miss Audrey Holbert Reg. N.

Mrs. W. E. Kerr has returned home after spending a few weeks with her sister and brother Miss E. and Mr. B. Emerson at Roslin.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Elliott and family of Napanee spent Sunday with the former's mother Mrs. D. Elliott and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Elliott.

Mr. Malachi Cassidy is busy this week moving to his new farm near Bethel.

Mrs. Ervine Bateman teacher of the Intermediate girls Sunday School class entertained them to tea on Sunday evening.

Miss Muriel Porter and Miss Mabel Geen and Messrs. William Everett and Harry Geen were guests one evening last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Cooke Avondale.

Miss Emma Heasman of Stirling spent the week-end with her sister Miss Alice Heasman.

Mr. Frank Bowyer of Winnipeg spent the dinner hour on Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carter and called on several other friends in this community.

Mr. and Mrs. Murney Geen and boys and Mrs. Archie Reid and Betty spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Sherry.

Mr. Earl Bateman of Goard Ont. is holidaying with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Bateman.

Mr. Delbert McCamon of Peterborough is moving this week to the farm formerly occupied by Mr. Malachi Cassidy.

Mrs. Jennie Bruce received the sad news on Saturday of the death of her father Mr. Gault at his home near Kingston. The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Bruce in her bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Taverner of Napanee spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. William Holbert were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Vance.

Miss Evelyn Reid is spending a few weeks at her home at Frankford.

Miss Marjorie DeLong Reg. N. and Mr. Norman Gomm of Kingston called on Miss Florence Beatty Reg. N. on Sunday evening.

Mrs. J. Cooke of Avondale spent a day recently with relatives here.

Miss Emma Porter entertained a few friends at her home on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Sherry are visiting relatives in Belleville this week.

"My friends tell me that these shoes will relieve my foot trouble. They are so stylish, too."

Yes, M. W. Locke shoes are stylish. They are comfortable too and in their comfort they help correct foot faults that cause so much pain.

Wear M. W. Locke shoes if you want to have and enjoy real foot comfort.

M·W·LOCKE
Shoes for Women
$10 and $10.50
... The only shoe designed and approved by Dr. M. W. Locke of Williamsburg, Ontario.

THE DENTON ... A five eyelet tie in black. A smart shoe for walking.

Be fitted by M. W. Locke experts

MRS. HARRY SAYLOR, 14 Elmer St.
Winner of the pair of M. W. Locke Shoes at the De Both Cooking School, Donated by

NABORHOOD
SHOE STORE
242 Front Street Phone 919
—WHERE SHOE FITTING IS A SCIENCE—

DEATHS YESTERDAY

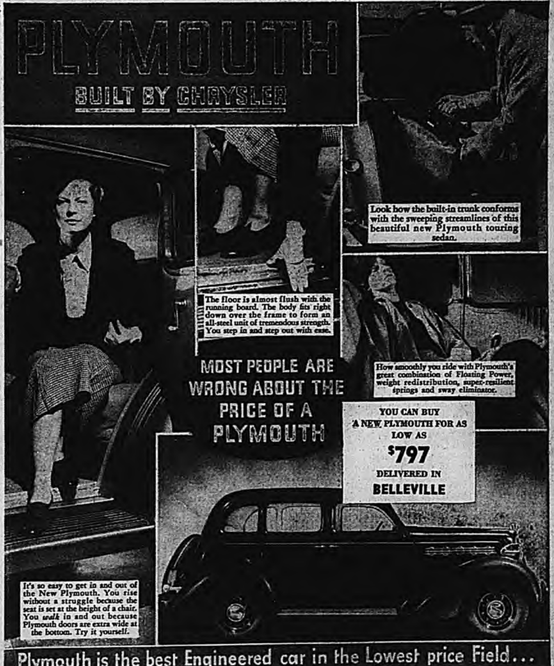
By The Canadian Press

Sorel, Que.—Joseph Cardin, 83, father of Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, former Minister of Marine.

Victoria—Miss Jane W. Tolmie, member of a distinguished British Columbia family.

Palm Beach, Fla.—Dr. William Roger Chapman, 80, prominent musicau director and composer.

Fairbanks, Alaska—Dr. Frank R. Delavergne, 69, six times mayor of Fairbanks.



PLYMOUTH
BUILT BY CHRYSLER

It's so easy to get in and out of the New Plymouth. You rise without a struggle because the seat is set at the height of a chair. You walk in and out because Plymouth doors are extra wide at the bottom. Try it yourself.

The floor is almost flush with the running board. The body fits right down over the frame to form an all-steel unit of tremendous strength. You step in and step out with ease.

Look how the built-in trunk conforms with the sweeping streamlines of this beautiful new Plymouth touring sedan.

How smoothly you ride with Plymouth's great combination of Floating Power, weight redistribution, super-resilient springs and sway eliminator.

MOST PEOPLE ARE WRONG ABOUT THE PRICE OF A PLYMOUTH

YOU CAN BUY A NEW PLYMOUTH FOR AS LOW AS $797
DELIVERED IN BELLEVILLE

Plymouth is the best Engineered car in the Lowest price Field...

121 Front St. J. T. WARREN Phone 933

Painful
NEURITIS?
Neuralgia? Rheumatism?

"My arms were just about useless for a year with stabbing pains," writes J. Jurgens, Mildmay, Ont. "I was desperate. I couldn't work. I got a $1 box of T-R-C's. They gave me so much relief I bought a $5 box. By the time that was finished I was entirely better and back at work." Stop needless misery—take T-R-C's. No harmful drugs. 50c and $1 everywhere.

TEMPLETON'S RHEUMATIC CAPSULES
T-R-C's

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

JUNIOR RED CROSS

One of the most important crusades is the child health crusade of the Red Cross. In the current number of the "Canadian Red Cross in Ontario" is indicated very clearly why those behind the Red Cross look with so much favor on the junior branch. Today fourteen million children are members of the order in fifty different countries, as against a total of one million twelve years ago in fourteen countries. This indicates the ground for belief in the future expansion of the work.

Child health is one of the greatest things in which mankind can be interested.

The March number asks "Why have the habits of health, so uninteresting before, suddenly become of such surpassing importance to this army of children? Why since the advent of the Junior Red Cross in the schools has the former apathy given way to such a zeal that the Junior Red Cross period is probably the most looked-forward-to time of the week?"

In answering this question the booklet quotes Montaigne, the French essayist— "It is not a soul, it is not a body that we are training up; it is a man, and we ought not to divide him into two parts. Allow more time for and take more care of exercises for the body, and believe that the mind in good proportion does her business at the same time." So the appeal of the Junior Red Cross is to the higher nobility in every child to be of practical service to others less fortunate than himself.

The Juniors organize themselves and learn the methods of organization.

The twelve rules of health which they follow include reference to the use of cereals, vegetables and fresh fruit, the drinking of milk, sleep of ten hours or eight, in a well-aired room, regular habits, out-of-door play every day, holding the body straight while standing or sitting, the brushing of teeth night and morning, the use of warm baths, cleanliness, the keeping of the finger-nails and hands clean, the use of a handkerchief over the mouth when coughing and sneezing, the keeping of fingers, pens, pencils, erasers and rulers away from the mouth and the use of a handkerchief instead of spitting.

But the Junior member while developing physically, is motivated by the idea of service, which takes the form of pennies and nickels saved to help some crippled child in whom they are interested. Over ten thousand crippled and handicapped children have been assisted by Canadian Juniors. There are many other forms of service performed.

The other great interest of the Junior work is the international, in which they bridge the gulfs of national differences, languages and thought to create a world in which friendship and common high ideals hold supreme.

DUST STORMS

Dust storms which have swept over large areas of the western states of the United States are fortunately strangers to these parts. Photographs of roads blocked, fields covered with sand and dust carried by the winds, give a notion of the havoc. One has but to be told of the number of deaths directly caused by the storms to appreciate what a calamity it has meant to western states.

Canada has some lands in the west of which it may not be too certain that they will not be storm-swept at some time. During the winter, the precipitation was sufficiently heavy to prevent wholesale damage by the blowing of sand. Those who know Western Canada prognosticate that the Canadian dry lands will likely have more rainfall and so the danger of storms springing up and carrying away the soil will not be so great though the dust storms in the western U.S. states rather startle others who are of the opinion that the weather may be even more dry than it has been in that portion of the United States.

What such a storm means one who has never passed through it requires to be told. Transportation is soon tied up, there is danger of being choked with the dust which blots out the sun, it blinds persons in the open, sifts its way through buildings and keyholes, and penetrates everywhere.

How long it is going to take to restore these lands which have lost their surface soil to the state of agriculture is a problem. Some have even been so bold as to predict that some of such areas might better be abandoned as deserts.

WAR ON CROOKS

The drive on crooks is proceeding apace in the United States. The underworld does not like it and it would seem as if the bad men did not know what was coming. The raids are on every form of vice and criminality.

President Roosevelt's plan is to make the crook realize that crime does not pay and that honesty is the best policy.

It is noticeable that the underworldlings are not so active of late. The kidnap idea is not so appealing to the minds of the gangsters. Most criminals realize sooner or later that crime does not pay but most often they learn this too late for them to become redeemed to lives of usefulness.

MAYOR McGEER

Mayor Gerry McGeer of Vancouver does not strengthen but, rather, he weakens the advocacy of the Canadian mayors for Dominion Government help in municipal financing by taking the menacing attitude he did before members of the House of Commons. Fairly moderate during the deliberations of the mayoral conference in Montreal he became excessively radical and radically excessive at Ottawa. He attacked the financial system of the Dominion, the banks and the bondholders who "expect their pound of flesh," and followed up this assault by warning members of Parliament that he would organize riots and throw into the bay any sheriff who might be placed in charge of the City of Vancouver in the event of default of interest payments on outstanding municipal bonds. This is fine language for a chief magistrate to use! Mr. McGeer, of course, was not in earnest in menacing the authorities with reprisals of the most violent description. Obviously, he was speaking more to the gallery than to members of the House of Commons. But a man of prudence will always and under any circumstance, abstain from making threats, and Mayor Houde of Montreal, wary and more circumspect than his colleague of Vancouver, did his fellow-delegates and their cause good service by at once pointing out that they were at Ottawa to plead a case, not to threaten. In the instance, Mr. McGeer was carried away with the mistaken idea that more might possibly be gained through intimidation than by pleading.—Montreal Gazette.

ECONOMIC WITCH DOCTORS

The Hon. Charles Dunning talked some sound sense at a bankers' meeting in Toronto on Tuesday. He put it up to the bankers themselves to take banking discussion out of the mystical plane. He wants them to take the public more fully into their confidence and to speak in words of one syllable. Dscussion of finance in terms of high mystery and sonorous jargon is partly responsible, on this view, for the rise of so many amateur fakers "educating" the public upon economics.

Some time ago the Hon. C. H. Cahan made a similar appeal to the bankers to talk right out loud, and, at the time, we suggested that copies of his address should be framed and hung in every financial sanctum. The chartered banks did carefully prepare their case for presentation before the Canadian Macmillan Commission, and, by common consent, made a good job of it. But there has been nothing like a campaign of enlightenment as to the real financial and economic situation of Canada and the real workings of the Canadian system.

We may smile in superior fashion at the United States, presently afflicted with all sorts of economic medicine men. But we are not without our own economic voodoo in Canada. In any case, it is idle merely to mock at false prophets. It is necessary to expose them to the people. And this is no mean task. For in times of distress, it is easy to point out that the system has broken down, and hard to pursue the remedy. Hungry men and unemployed do not need to be told that something is wrong; what they want to know is what is going to be done. And there the fakers have something of an advantage, for they are free to promise all sorts of extravagant Utopias.

But, by and large, our people are too intelligent to swallow squack remedies, provided they are told the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth by responsible authorities like the chartered banks. Messrs. Cahan and Dunning are perfectly right. It is in the banks' own interest that they should speak out—in terms the man in the street can grasp. And it is in the interest of the country at large that financial issues should be brought into the open.—Montreal Star.

CHRISTMAS TREE WASTE

The Horticultural Society of Huntsville, in the Muskoka district, has passed a strongly worded resolution against the waste involved in cutting down young trees for Christmas decorations, pointing out that from eight to ten years are required to grow a Christmas tree.

If this protest has weight, emanating as it does from one of the most thickly wooded sections of Ontario, a similar protest against the annual slaughter of young trees in Alberta should be even more valid. Among the proposals advanced to fight the growing drouth menace in this and other Prairie Provinces is the growing of trees to form shelter belts to prevent soil drifting.

It is possible in Calgary right now to see stacks of unsold Christmas trees still piled in empty lot, a monument to cupidity and lack of common sense. The same sight was witnessed in other years. Apparently there is no official supervision as to the number of trees that may be offered for sale or as to the size they must not exceed. The dealers are allowed to follow their own sweet will in these particulars.—Calgary Herald.

SIDELIGHTS

THE HOME FORUM

Discussing the events of the day, home gossip and general news topics as revealed by the home newspaper—under the evening lamp—and comments Grave and Gay. — Supervised by The Lamplighter.

THIS APRIL

This April will not be
As other Aprils were;
Clouds snared in wild-plum tree
And scarlet wings a-whir
Will all be changed for me,
Because of her.

She loved glad April best
Of all the seasons round;
Primrose and robin's nest.
Grass blades thrust through the ground,
These quickened in her breast
A joy profound.

This Springtime will not yield
To me old song, sweet rose;
But to her eyes revealed
What wonders will unclose
In each bright April field
Where now she goes!

—Aline Michaelis.

x x x

DOWN DALLAS, TEXAS, WAY things are looking up, according to late despatches from our correspondent down thataway. Barring a few isolated dust storms boiling over from less favored States, Texas is welcoming back that fickle jade, Prosperity, after a more or less prolonged absence. Texas has millions and billions of natural resources in oil, just now curbed by production regulations of the Government, to protect prices. They do say that there is considerable bootlegging in oil in Texas as well as other oil states for the Government can not watch thousands of miles of pipe lines day and night and where one outlet may be sealed up there is nothing to prevent other outlets being tapped. However, Texas has other resources, particularly fruit, which will surprise some people who imagine that the Lone Star State produces nothing but longhorns and cowboys, a cattle country where even Mary's little lamb would be afraid to bleat. Canada is consuming Texas tomatoes and oranges, besides other lines of fruit and vegetables, and every day consignments of fruit and vegetables fresh from Texas come into Belleville. Texas folks are business folk and right on the bit, all the time; they ship their perishable products by fast express trains as well as faster airplanes and the goods always arrive fresh thousands of miles away.

x

Texas was immortalized in a dramatic play called "A Texas Steer" and has other claims to immortality too numerous to mention. The fact that it has Mexico for a close neighbor keeps it from getting lonesome, and there are still some old time gunmen down there who can fan a Colt with their thumb and plunk lead where it will do the most good—or harm—in the shortest possible time.

x

Dallas is all het up over a new 85-foot ladder built by Dallas firemen and pronounced perfect for aerial blaze service. The correspondent sends a picture of the ladder in action and believe you me, it's a wow. The new ladder was built of fir timber in fifty foot lengths in the Dallas fire department shops at a cost to the department of only $100, outside of the regular overhead of the department. A new factory-made job would have cost over $1,000. So, an orchid goes to the Dallas fire department.

x

Wolves invaded farms near Dallas and made "kills" on new-born calves. One farmer lost two dozen calves and thinks something should be done about it. One of Texas' oldest pioneers opines that there are more wolves in Texas this year than for many years. Perhaps the increase is due to the fact that the wolf has been driven from so many doors in the cities that the woods are full of them. However, we suspect our Dallas correspondent of that subtle brand of Texas humor which makes for mirth and carries no sting.

x x x

"What is a pilgrim?" asked the schoolmaster.

The boy looked puzzled, but answered: "A pilgrim is a man, sir."

"That is a very incomplete answer," protested the master. "I am a man, but would you call me a pilgrim?"

"Oh, no, sir!" said the confused little boy. "A pilgrim is a good man."

x x x

A Chicago gangster recently admitted that a rival gunman was a constant grievance to him. So he went out and ventilated it.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor of The Ontario Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—

I have just read the Hon. J. L. Ralston's two and half hour reply to the budget, delivered March 28, at the conclusion of which he touched on the railway question. To my mind he does not understand the railway question. He said that the C. N. Railway's operating income was proportionately as large as that of the C.P.R. Now, I think that is a wonderful feat, when we consider the help the C.P.R. has got from its commencement and is still getting up to the present time and at the same time Mr. Beatty keeps howling about the C.N.R. going behind all the time and telling the people that the C.P.R. does not cost the country one cent. Now he is giving cash prizes to the employees for getting business.

Mr. Ralston says that Mr. Bennett said at Toronto, that the C.N.R. was not the problem of the government but of the people. To my mind that is when Mr. Bennett said a mouthful and right to the point. As the taxpayers certainly have the situation in their own hands and can settle this terrible railway question just by taking pattern after the farmer and that is looking after his own farm and let his neighbor do the same. I have said all along that all we have to do is to ship and travel C.N.R. and the railway problem is over. Mr. Ralston says the government has no right to throw the C.N.R. out of the window and it looks to me as if that is just what they are trying to do all the time. He also says that the president of the C.N.R. has as good right to stand up and talk to the people of this country as the president of the C.P.R. has. Now, Mr. Ralston forgets that Mr. Thornton got fired for trying to work for the interests of the taxpayers and the C.N.R.

If Mr. Ralston is working for the interests of the country, why does he suggest further pooling of services when he ought to know that the C.N.R. is getting it in the neck right now.

A C.P.R. shareholder told me that the C.P.R. had us trimmed on the pool trains right now. Mr. Ralston says that the better way to solve the problem is to get trade moving up to a point where there is enough for each system. What is the use of keeping up two systems, when one could handle it nicely? To my mind it is the two systems that have put the railways and the country where they are today. I am waiting for Mr. Ralston or someone to show me why my plan won't work, which is "Use the People's Railway, ship and travel C.N.R."

D. S. LARUE,
60 Dundas St. Belleville, Ont.

DIGNITARIES TO ATTEND

North Bay, Ont., March 30.—(CP)—Many Roman Catholic Church dignitaries will attend the installation ceremonies for Rt. Rev. R. H. Dignan, newly consecrated Bishop of the Sault Ste. Marie diocese, here next Tuesday. Among them are Rt. Rev. M. J. O'Brien, Archbishop of Kingston; Rt. Rev. G. Forbes, Archbishop of Otthwa and Rt. Rev. G. Forbes, Archbishop of Ottawa and Rt. Rev. J. C. McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto.

Merle Oberon and Leslie Howard in the romantic adventure story "The Scarlet Pimpernel" now on the Belle screen.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 Years Ago

MARCH 30th., 1915.

Last Sunday evening in Christ Church a silk Canadian Ensign donated by Mr. F. W. Millard was dedicated by the rector, Rev. R. C. Blagrave, after being placed around his pulpit.

Mr. W. B. Riggs acted as chairman at the mass meeting for men which was held in the Griffin Opera House Sunday afternoon. Bishop Brewing of Toronto delivered as excellent address on "Courage".

Mr. J. E. Ryan of Port Arthur spent the week-end in the city with friends.

Mrs. Thos. Clare, Albert street, left today to visit friends in Edmonton.

Mr. John Newton Alford of the Motor Battery, Toronto, spent yesterday in the city. He expects to leave shortly with the Second Contingent.

30 Years Ago

MARCH 30th., 1905.

Two hundred and thirty-seven emigrants from West Ham sailed from Liverpool recently for Canada. The party consisted almost entirely of families. Twenty-five families or half of the whole number will come to Belleville and from here will be distributed by the Farmers' Association to situations already arranged. The balance of the party will go to Winnipeg and points in the west.

Mr. Joseph Powell of Sherbrooke, Que., an old Belleville boy, is spending a few days in town.

Mr. Charles Schuster, an old Belleville boy, after spending a short time in the city, left today for Pittsburg.

A number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Fenn were entertained by them last evening at their home on Victoria Avenue. Those present were loud in their praises of the hospitality extended to them.

Mr. W. A. Carson of this city will start a canning factory in Napanee. Very special privileges have been granted to him by that town.

All danger of a flood this year is over. Corbyville ice came down last evening, but was well smashed before it reached here.

40 Years Ago

MARCH 30th., 1895.

The factory work for St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church is in active preparation at Pringle's factory.

The ice on the bay shows weakness in places and the ice on the river is melting rapidly.

Progress is being made towards forming an Athletic Association in this city. Mr. Henry Carre, C. E. visited the cricket field yesterday and will submit an estimate of the cost to build a track and grand stand. Another location that is favorably considered is on Commercial street at what is known as the Devil's Elbow, where a third of a mile of track could be laid at small expense.

Mr. M. M. Thompson was in Toronto yesterday.

Mr. John N. Lazier was in Trenton yesterday on business.

Mr. Sanford Johnson of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, was greeted by many old friends here today.

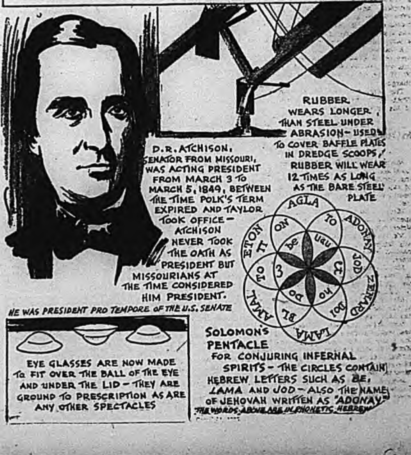
Many complaints are being made against the practice of riding bicycles on the sidewalks and fast driving of horses on the roadways.

50 Years Ago

MARCH 30th., 1885.

The municipal authorities have been taking a patriotic view of their duties and responsibilities in connection with the volunteers going to the Northwest. Several members suggested the calling of a special meeting for the purpose of assuring the men who wished to volunteer that their wives and families would be provided for, but it was deemed advisable to postpone the holding of the meeting until tonight. Mayor Dunnet, however, assured those assembled at the armouries that the family of no volunteer would be allowed to suffer for want of proper provision. The Mayor and Ald. Diamond, Chairman of the Executive Committte, had a consultation and deemed it advisable to ask the council at its meeting tonight to appropriate $500.00 to be applied to assisting such families of volunteers as may require assistance, the same to be disbursed by a committee to be appointed by the council.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK - - By R. J. Scott



RUBBER WEARS LONGER THAN STEEL UNDER ABRASION - USED TO COVER BAFFLE PLATES IN DREDGE SCOOPS, RUBBER WILL WEAR 12 TIMES AS LONG AS THE BARE STEEL PLATE
D.R. ATCHISON, SENATOR FROM MISSOURI, WAS ACTING PRESIDENT FROM MARCH 3 TO MARCH 5, 1849, BETWEEN THE TIME POLK'S TERM EXPIRED AND TAYLOR TOOK OFFICE - ATCHISON NEVER TOOK THE OATH AS PRESIDENT BUT MISSOURIANS AT THE TIME CONSIDERED HIM PRESIDENT.
HE WAS PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE OF THE U.S. SENATE EYE GLASSES ARE NOW MADE TO FIT OVER THE BALL OF THE EYE AND UNDER THE LID - THEY ARE GROUND TO PRESCRIPTION AS ARE ANY OTHER SPECTACLES
AGLA
ADONAY JOD
LAMA
AMAL
ETON
SOLOMON'S PENTACLE FOR CONJURING INFERNAL SPIRITS - THE CIRCLES CONTAIN HEBREW LETTERS SUCH AS EL, LAMA AND JOD - ALSO THE NAME OF JEHOVAH WRITTEN AS "ADONAY"
THE WORDS ABOVE ARE IN PHONETIC HEBREW

EARLY ELECTION WANTED SAYS KING

Lively Battle Expected Over Length of Holiday at Easter

OTTAWA, March 30.—(CP)—One of the liveliest battles of the present hitherto peaceful session of parliament may be fought over the length of the holiday allotted to Parliamentarians at Easter. This prospect loomed today as a result of notice served by leading Liberals last night they would oppose a long Easter adjournment.

Acting Prime Minister Sir George Perley yesterday told the House the session could not end before Easter because of two important reports pending. The report of the Mass Buying Commission, due next week, would have to be studied and time would be needed to draft legislation designed to correct the abuses revealed in the long probe. The special committee of housing was also working on an important study which should be completed. He gave no indication of the length of the holiday the Government would propose at Easter.

Early Election Wanted Says King

If the House could not complete its business before Easter it should take a short holiday over the week-end, said Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader. The people wanted an early election and parliament should wind up its business without delay and set the voting machinery in operation.

Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, asked the House to vote two months' interim supply, enough money to carry on the public service pending prorogation of parliament when supply for the year is voted, but Mr. King refused and consented to vote only enough money to carry on for one month. Mr. Rhodes, however, declined to give the Liberal leader an assurance further money votes would not be asked before the end of the session.

The people should have an opportunity of choosing a new administration as early as possible. Mr. King declared. He had hoped it would have come before now: for that reason he did not think he could convince his followers, that more than one month's interim supply should be granted, that being sufficient to pay costs of government for the month of April.

◆

Mrs. Marshall Mason Dies in Manitoba

Bonarlaw—The death occurred on Thursday last at Killarney, Man., of Mrs. Marshall Mason mother of Mrs. Edward Ovens of Springbrook Mrs. Ovens left for the west Saturday last to attend the funeral. The deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Barlow and this is the first break in the family of ten children. The brothers are Jesse Barlow of Bonarlaw, John of Havelock, James of Kingston and Robert of Toronto. The sisters are Mrs. John Burkitt of Bonarlaw, Mrs. Jas. Beatty of Stirling. Also Mrs. D. Kennedy, Mrs. D. Frost, Mrs. Wm. Rombough, Mrs. McLean and Mrs. Cooper. Mrs. Mason would have been seventy three years old next month.

Mr. Fred Seeney of Grafton was in Bonarlaw on Saturday of last week.

Mr. John McLaren is now relieving foreman on the Belleville Subdivision of the C. P. Ry. He is able to be home week ends.

Messrs John Barlow of Havelock and Robert Barlow of Toronto were visitors at Bonarlaw last week for a few hours.

On Monday evening of this week a number of interesting and instructive lantern slides on China, were shown in the Sunday school rooms of St. Marks Church. There was a splendid attendance including a large number of children.

A carload of salt was unloaded here on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week by the Farmers Club. Mr. W. H. Heath of Harold was in charge.

The many friends of Mr. Wm. Webb of Toronto are sorry to hear of his serious illness.

◆

MOIRA ITEMS OF INTEREST

Moira—The men of this neighborhood are very busy these days making syrup. They report a good run of sap this year, as the weather has been very favorable for syrup making.

Mrs. A. Bailey of Latta has been spending the past week with her sister Miss J. Herity.

Mr. George Hollinger is gradually improving at his home here having been ill for a number of weeks.

Mr. J. Hawkins and Mr. D. Gould of Toronto were week-end guests of Mr. James Vanderwater and Mrs. G. Vanderwater.

Mrs. Fred Ketcheson was a caller at the home of Miss J. Herity one day last week.

Mrs. Max Reynolds of Bancroft has been spending several weeks at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Vanderwater.

Miss Bessie Ketcheson of Belleville spent the week-end under the parental roof.

Mrs. J. L. Brickman visited last Sunday with her son Mr. W. Caverley of Ivanhoe.

LIE DETECTOR HAUPTMANN'S NEW HOPE

Mrs. Anna Hauptmann (RIGHT) now pins hopes of getting rehearing for her husband (LEFT), on use of polygraph, "lie detector" (BELOW) invented by Dr. Leonard Keeler (inset) of Northwestern University, Chicago. She wants it used to test Bruno, expressing willingness to abide by its findings. The device, attached to patient's arm, registers emotional reactions in manner illustrated here. Scientists have faith in ability to determine truthfulness of men from readings of these lines.

Mr. and Mrs. John Heagle, Rawdon Entertain Young People's League

Rawdon—On Tuesday evening March 26th over sixty-five members of Wellmans Young People's Society gathered at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. John Heagle and enjoyed a fine fellowship together.

Miss Grace Dayman presided and opened with "Help Me, Dear Saviour, Thee to Own," and prayer. Psalm 19 was read responsively and Miss Florence Dunham read the minutes.

Miss Dorothy Dunham then took charge and opened the programme with "Lead Kindly Light". Mrs. George Maybee offered prayer and Mr. Howard Wallace read the 52nd Psalm.

Wellman's orchestra delighted with two musical selections.

Mr. Fred Elgie of Stirling gave a splendid paper on the subject "Things Worth While."

Mr. Eric Capelle of Bethel delighted with two solos "Take Me Home" and "Down in the Little Green Valley".

Mr. Everett Maybee contributed two numbers on his piano accordian.

Mrs. Lindsay Pollock recited "A Young Squire".

The Misses Mina and Lucille Dracup sang a duet "Songs My Mother Used to Sing". Mrs. Isobel Beckett gave an instrumental on the piano.

Misses Alma Johnson and Iona Hinds gathered the offering which amounted to three dollars.

Miss Dayman voiced deepest thanks to Messrs. Elgie and Capelle also to host and hostess Mr. and Mrs. John Heagle.

This interesting meeting closed with "Glory to God for His Sunshine is Free", and Mr. Elgie closed with a gracious prayer.

Miss Dorothy Dunham staged a contest entitled "A Floral Wedding".

An appetizing lunch was served and all enjoyed a delightful social hour togther.

Mrs. S. Dayman of Colbourne is holidaying with her daughter Miss Grace Dayman at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Johnson.

Mr. Elian MacMullen spent a few days with Messrs. Lester Maybee, John MacMullen and Percy MacMullen.

Mrs. Wm. Harvie of Brighton is spending this week with her daughter Mrs. Irvin Reid.

Messrs. Edward Montgomery and Percy MacMullen spent Tuesday with Murray friends and wtre dinner guests of Mr. George Montgomery, Frankford.

Among the relatives and friends who attended the obsequies of the late Mrs. Robert Sharp at Mount Pleasant on Tuesday afternoon were:—Her aged husband, Mr. Robert Sharp, Mr. and Mrs. James Bryce, Miss Marjorie Cook, Mrs. Robert Anderson of Duck Lake, Sask., Mr. Oscar Sharp, Prince Albert, Sask., Mr. M. Sharp, Oshawa, Mr. George London, Mrs. Minnie Chase, Gardenville; Mrs. C. Knott, Belleville, Mrs. Lorne Hubble, Mr. Wesley Sharp, Frankford; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Weaver, Mr. Albert Weaver, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Will Haggerty, Bonarlay; Mr. and Mrs. John Bateman, Stirling, and immediate relatives from Hoards and Mount Pleasant.

Mrs. S. Dayman of Colbourne and Mrs. Russell Johnson spent Wednesday with Miss Emma Rainnie.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Eileen and Ormel were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest White on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. John Booth who has been spending a few months with her sons in Campbellford has returned to her home on the fourth concession.

Miss C. McMurray of Havelock spent the week-end at her home here.

Several of the farmers are busy these days working in their sugar bush. A good run of sap was reported on Tuesday.

BURR'S WEEKLY NEWS BUDGET

Burr's, March 30—Mrs. Adolph Kuno, Greenbush who has been very sick for over a month in Prince Edward Co. Hospital, was removed to her home on Monday. Though still unable to be up she is glad to be home again.

Mrs. Murney Parks is spending a couple of days with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kuno and Jerry Kuno came from New Carlow two weeks ago to see her and returned home Tuesday.

Mr. Murney Parks is attending County Council at Picton this week.

Mr. Clifford Hough and mother, Mrs. Bride Hough visited Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carley, South Lakeside on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Morden, Messrs. Thos. Vancott and Jack Keary visited Mr. and Mrs. J. Moon on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Ainsworth, Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Douglas, Oshawa, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. Moon on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hough of Demorestville visited his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bride Hough on Sunday.

Mrs. George Fox, Norman and Howard, visited her daughter, Mrs. A. Kuno at Prince Edward County Hospital on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Calnan of Rossmore, spent Tuesday night at Mr. Murney Parks.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Vancott spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Morden.

Mrs. Clifford Hough spent Wednesday with Miss Lyda Weeks.

◆

NORTH ROAD CAMP UNDER QUARANTINE

Under strict quarantine following an outbreak of some contagious desease, the nature of which has not been stated as yet, hundreds of workers on the new Faulkner Highway in the northern part of Hastings County are being closely guarded in their road camps. One hundred Belleville men, who had expected to leave this city on Saturday morning for the camps to relieve the present workers on their shift will delay their departure until further word is heard from the department, it was stated in the city today.

It is believed the contagon, that requires quarantine is a mild one, but precautions are being taken against any entries to the camp, and against any workers leaving.

Whether all three camps are affected by the quarantine was not stated.

FOURTH THURLOW WEEKLY NOTES

Fourth Thurlow, March 30 — League was well attended on Tuesday evening at Bethany. Mrs. Jack Foote had charge of the interesting program.

Mrs. M. Embury, Tyendinaga, visited her brother, Mr. Wm. Sparrow last week.

Mrs. Clare Sills has returned home after nursing Mrs. Everett Sills, Foxboro for the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman Gibson of Mount Pleasant visited on Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bradshaw.

Miss Irene Miller spent two days last week with Miss Bessie Way.

Miss Aletha Vincent spent a recent week end with her grandmother at Warkworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Balcanquel, Gilead spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Garrison.

Mr. Blake Way attended Grand Orange Lodge at Trenton on Thursday. Mrs. Way visited with her brother, Mr. Wm. Blair and Mrs. Blair of Trenton, the same day.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Yateman and family took tea on Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Latta, second of Thurlow and also visited with Mr. Wm. Latta who has recently returned from Kingston General Hospital.

Miss Hazel Walker spent Tuesday afternoon with Miss S. Bradshaw.

Mrs. R. Bowers visited Mrs. Stewart at Mr. D. Phillip's, Thursday of last week.

Mr. Norman Christie of Wellington, took dinner on Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Martin.

Miss Edith Peacock visited Miss Myrtle Wright, Sidney, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Beer of Belleville visited Mr. and Mrs. George Beer on Sunday and called on Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sheffield Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Yateman spent Thursday of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Abbie Latta.

A great many attended the auction sale on Tuesday at the home of Mr. Wm. Badgely.

Miss Emma Mulholland, Tweed, was a week end guest of her sister Mrs. Bruce Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Treverton, 8th line and children took tea Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Treverton.

Mr. Fred Blair of Kenora, and Mr. Bert Blair of Madoc, were entertained over the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Way.

Mr. Chas. Cole spent the week end at his home here.

Miss Helen Jones took tea Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bradshaw.

Mr. G. M. Philips of Wilkie, Sask, is renewing old acquaintances in this neighborhood.

Several from this neighborhood attended the funeral on Sunday of the late Mrs. Lettie A. Ross, which was held in Salem Church. Interment being made in Salem cemetery.

Mr. Robert Miller and Mr. and Mrs. A. Miller took tea Sunday evening with Mr. Earl Cole and family, Belleville.

Miss Stella Bradshaw spent last week with her sister, Mrs. George Sills, Salem.

A number from this line attended the shower in Cannifton Orange Hall, Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pound.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Blair were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Way on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pypes from near Lonsdale have moved in the house recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. George Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Smith moved to the Third and are now living in Mr. Frank Walker's tenant house.

◆

Community League Is Well Attended

Salem, March 30—A very pleasant social evening in connection with Community League was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hagerman, when about fifty young and old were in attendance.

The devotional part of the programme was taken by the President, Mr. Everett Hanna. After the singing of a hymn, Rev. Clarke offered prayer followed with the Scripture lesson read by Mrs. S. Haight. Business was discussed and the social part was taken by Merle Robinson who has charge of that department.

The roll call was answered by each giving an Irish joke or story, followed by a singing contest both of which proved very amusing. Miss Lockhart then gave a reading, "A Letter From Sam," in her usual good style after which Merle and Bernice Robinson favored the audience with some music which was greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. Everett Hanna gave a very interesting report of the lecture given by Dr. Osterhout at Bridge Street Church on Monday night of his missionary work in B.C.

An apple contest was given and after closing the meeting lunch was served and a social time was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie McLaren and family spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Badgley, Melrose.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ulman and family Stirling were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hanna on unday.

The funeral service of the late Mrs. L. Ross was held in Salem Church on Sunday afternoon.

Little Doris Badgley, Deseronto, spent Monday with Jean and Ila Hanna.

Mr. Thos. Leslie is improving and is able to be up for a short time.

Mr and Mrs. Everett Hanna and girls were tea hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Smith on Sunday night.

Thurlow Township Council

Council met with members all present. Minutes of February meeting were read and on motion of H. Harrison and G. MacDonald were approved.

W. Means interviewed council regarding building and repairing sidewalks on College and Bull Streets, Herchimer Ave., and Stoney Lonesome. Request was laid over for investigation.

F. Sullivan presented a report on arrears of taxes. B. Martin and R. Robson—That Mr. Sullivan bring a report on unpaid taxes and return his rolls at April meeting.

Harrison and Robson—That insurance on hall and sheds be renewed in Liverpool, London and Globe Co. for three years. Carried.

G. MacDonald and Harrison — That liability insurance on township roads be given to A. E. Wilson and Co. subject to councils approval of policy. Carried.

A communication from F. Goodfellow asking pay for damage to car was referred to the Insurance Co., Bill $5.50.

A letter from Provincial Secretary Nixon asking co-operation in celebration of the King's Silver Jubilee was ordered filed.

Martin and MacDonald — That following accounts be paid. Carried.

Municipal World to extra dog tags $8.20.

G. W. Henderson to auditors's supplies $2.25.

Walker Hardware electric light bulbs $2.10.

W. Watts wood for town hall $3.00.

Haig Bros. to insurance premium on hall $70.50.

A. D. Loucks repairing roof of hall $3.00.

J. Cook account for blinds for hall $8.30.

Road vousher No. 8 $77.27.

W. Clarke S.A.O. to account 60c.

W. Clarke S.A.O. presented his report which was ordered filed.

Harrison and Martin—That clerk advertise for tenders for power and truck for road work. Carried.

Harrison and MacDonald —That members of council receive $2.00 for special meetings. Carried.

Council went into committee on bylaws when following Pound Keepers and Fence Viewers were appointed.

x-Division Pound Keepers. z-Fence Viewers.

x-Thomas Gilmore. z-Thomas J. Brown.
x-Thomas J. Brown. z-Geddes Bradshaw.
x-Jas. R. Garbutt. z-W. A. Clazie.
x-Frank Miller. z-Jas. R. Garbutt.
x-Wm. Lucas. z-W. H. Moorman.
x-Arthur Dent. z-Harry Grills.
x-Arthur Keene. z-Sidmer Bird.
x-John Boyd. zWm. Grills.
x-J. W. Fox. z-John R. Pound.
x-Charles Mills. z-J. E. Cooley.
x-H. K. Boyce. z-Owen Roblin.
x-Geo. Hamilton. z-Geo. Jarrell.
x-Fred Swain. z-Selden Homans.
x-Harford Twiddy. z-John Reynolds.
x-Harry Brenton. z-Frank Hicks.
x-W. Sparrow. z-Wilmot Clare.
x-Geo. White. z-Chas. Brintnell.
x-Floyd Ashley. z-J. W. Hamilton
x-J. M. Jones. z-Harry Townsend.
x-Levi Latone. z-Jas. McCreary.
x-Everett Yorke. z-Robert Bunnett.
x-Charles Huffman. z-Lee Ketcheson.
x-A. Cranston. z-Embury Hough.
x-Wesley Parks. z-Fred Hall.
x-Phillips Shannon. -Thomas Ruthreford.
x-P. R. Sullivan. z-Lorne Brough. x-Herb Towneend.
x-E. Hough.
x-Seymour Rose.
x-Ed. Kennedy.
x-Mat Emmerson
x-Richard Howes.
x-Blake Sills.

Martin and Robson—That council resume for general business and adjourn till April 29th at 1.30 p.m.

E. W. Brown, Clerk.

◆

SYRUP MAKING IS CHIEF WORK IN FARM DISTRICT

Wallbridge—There was a large crowd at the Liberal Club At Home and dance held in the Town Hall last Friday evening. The Liberal candidate in the coming Federal election Mr. Cameron and the present provincial member Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner were the chief speakers.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Hinchliffe and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Fair had dinner on Sunday with Mrs. John Hinchliffe.

Miss Muriel Shorey had dinner with Miss Grace Chisholm on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Sine called on Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Fair on Tuesday evening.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Barton Hinchliffe in the death of her aunt Mrs. Jas. Hubble of Mount Pleasant, Rawdon.

The making of maple syrup and sugar is the chief occupation of many of the farmers in this vicinity.

Spring is certainly here now if it is rather early as the birds are coming back one by one and the ground-hogs are out etc.

Miss Dorothy Sine and Miss Evelyn Sine had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Carman Sine on Sunday.

Weekly prayer meeting was held in the United Church on Wednesday evening and church service on Sunday morning in charge of the pastor Rev. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Hinchliffe spent Monday evening with Mrs. John Hinchliffe.

PLAINFIELD W.M.S.

Continued From Yesterday

Mrs. Hubel a paper on "A Man of Consecrated Life" and Mrs. Prindle a paper on 'An Indian Ministry". Hymn No. 83, "See How Great a Flame Aspires". Mrs. Stanley Hazard gave a paper on "Glimpses of Our Women's Work in Central India". Solo, "The Love of Christ" by Mrs. Erle Denyes was enjoyed by all present. Mrs. Clarence Hall gave a splendid report of the Presbyterial held in Picton on March 14. The meeting was dismissed with the Mizpah Benediction, after which refreshments were served by members of Group No. 2. A vote of thanks was moved to the hostess. 24 adults and 9 children were present.

Coleman 285-287 St.
SILCO SERVICE SATISFIES
Phone 1584
CONTRACTORS and DISTRIBUTORS

Re-Roofing is so Simple This Way . . . . .

BRANTFORD ROOFING

Once upon a time it took a lot of effort to replace a worn-out roof. And after the job was finally finished a host of bills would come in from all sorts of people who had all had a hand in the matter. For that reason, people used to believe that patching was a whole lot easier and pretty nearly as efficient.

Today, however, there is a different story to tell. You deal with one person—you pay one bill—you get a new roof complete, without any trouble to yourself. All you do is telephone us, select the Brantford Roofing patern and color scheme you like best and we do the rest. There isn't a litter for weeks on the front lawn, there is no worry about disposal of old shingles, there is no danger of sudden rain squalls damaging interior decorations while the new roof is being applied.

We Give a 10 year Guarantee with our Roofs. You can pay by our Financial Plan if Desired.

Arthur A. Sills Co.
BELLEVILLE

New-Value DODGE with the Airglide Ride..
Step in and
Step out..with ease

INSIST ON GETTING THESE FEATURES
●
HYDRAULIC BRAKES
ALL STEEL BODY
FLOATING POWER
REDISTRIBUTION OF WEIGHT

Thrill to the beauty of this Great New Value Dodge . . . then look at the delivered price . . . You can afford to own a Dodge.

Drive the New Value Dodge . . . Sit in the comfortable seat and see how effortlessly you operate the clutch, brakes and gears.

You walk in and out of the new Dodge . . . because the doors are wider . . . and the floor is almost level with the running board.

The engine has been moved forward . . . all passengers ride cradled between the axles . . . as in an Airflow car.

Steel corner posts . . . steel walls . . . and even a steel floor . . . No wonder Dodge all-steel bodies are so much safer.

Stop safely . . . stop smoothly . . . in a short straight line. With Dodge time-tested hydraulic brakes the action is always equal on all four wheels.

DELIVERED IN BELLEVILLE FOR AS LOW AS $877 FOR THE COUPE

PRICED RIGHT DOWN AMONG THE LOWEST PRICED CARS

224 Pinnacle St. RIGGS MOTOR SALES Phone 116

THE DRAMA

Bridge Street Young People Present Comedy "You're Telling Me."

In Bridge Street Church parlors last evening a large audience was introduced to amazing events in the household of the old Carstairs family as the Young People of the Church presented their annual play, this year "You're Telling Me." A comedy replete with amusing situations, the play met with splendid success, under the direction of Miss Jessie B. Tuite.

Mr. Taylor Franklin, president of the club, welcomed the visitors and expressed the appreciation of the organization to Miss Tuite and to all who had assisted in the staging of the play.

The action of the play took place in the library of the summer home of the Carstairs, the stage being most artistically arranged to show the home surroundings of a family of culture. Unfortunately for the Carstairs, their culture and family traditions were practically all they did have, excepting perhaps unpaid bills. Mrs. Carstairs, her brother, George, and her daughter Kit, had reached the end of their resources with George being little concerned over the matter. But Kit was not content to continue the way of her family and not being adverse to a little deception prevailed on a friend to pose as a titled lady to whom Kit would introduce, for a consideration, an avid social climber. Unfortunately the social climber proved to be a cousin of the "titled" lady and was very skeptical of her new position. Matters were smoothed over by Kit quickly remarking that Pamela had married into the nobility. Then, of course, a Lord Hamilton (the supposed husband of Pamela) arrived and the girls had to resort to some very adroit planning to explain this away. In fact Lord Hamilton seemed a Nemesis, with Mrs. Carstairs confusing the new butler, "Loyd Hamilton" for this titled personage and immediately concluding that he was in love with her daughter, and the butler, a rich young man in love with Pam, later persuading a friend to be a "Lord" to help the girls out, only making matters very much worse by choosing for him the name Hamilton. And then there was the real Lord Hamilton. The whole delightful mix-up resulted in a very amusing entertainment for the audience.

Cast Handled Play Well

The cast handled the play very well indeed. Miss Helen B. Sulman as Mrs. Antoinette Regan, the newly rich matron frankly looking for social register husbands for her girls and Mr. Harry Atkinson as Ward Wanger, posing as Lord Hamilton, proving themselves comedians of unusual talent. Mrs. Regan's matter of fact way and gift of seeing through the pretenses of her new acquaintances were very clearly shown by Miss Sulman. Miss Muriel Vermilyea was splendid as the society matron, her manner contrasting strikingly with the unassuming ways of her visitor. She was the picture of dignity and charm.

The part of Kit Carstairs, the daughter of the house was very ably taken by Miss Clara Ostrom, who gave a good character study as the girl who places herself in a situation which becomes more harrowing as the time goes on. But all ends happily as she and Ward Wanger fall in love. Miss Ana Gartley made a lovely Pamela, who consents to assist Kit in her plans, with great reluctance. Loyd Hamilton who comes to the Carstair home as butler engaged by Pamela has fallen in love with her and tired of girls who pursue him, with matrimonial intentions, merely for his money, decides to see if Pam belongs in that class. The part of Loyd Hamilton was most convincingly taken by Mr. A. W. Bishop, his scenes with his friend Ward being especially good.

Mr. Carl Sills as George Carstairs played his role in fine style, as the man of the household who evades all forms of exertion but makes himself so agreeable to the wealthy Mrs. Regan, that he soon becomes engaged to her. As Theda Regan, the movie-mad daughter of Mrs. Regan, Miss Dora Osborne was very good while Miss Anne Lappe kept the audience in chuckles as Marleen Regan, who let nothing evade her watchful eye. Karl Thorp was the real Lord Hamilton at whose appearance Miss Theeda took a new interest in life.

Mr. Clare Patterson contributed a splendid vocal solo "Out of the Dark" during the evening.

In addition to those who took part in the play much credit is due Messrs. Ken Bird, Milton Fowler and Elmer Dixon for its successful staging.

◆

200 YEAR VIOLIN GIVEN LITTLE GIRL

Collector of Instruments Hears Her Play And Presents Her Gift

Two years ago, W. J. Saunders, Crawford St., Toronto, old-time-fiddler and owner of one of the largest private collections of violins in Canada, heard little Josephine Blake, also of Toronto, play. He accordingly, much to the little girl's delight, presented her with a half-size violin, with the promise that when she became big enough to use a large violin he would give her a very, very valuable one. Saturday, little 11 year old Josephine Blake was presented with a beautiful "Amati" model Italian violin almost 200 years old.

Josephine Blake started her musical career at the tender age of two and a half years, and has gained considerable distinction as a child prodigy and is the winner of many awards. Both she and Mr. Saunders are well known to many audiences and musicians of Toronto and Belleville district.

Cooking School Sponsored by Ontario Intelligencer Closed By Drawing of Major Prizes

Thanks of Publication to Women of Belleville And District, Also Merchants and School Lecturer, Miss Andree, Expressed by G. A. Morton—Mayor George O. Tice Draws Winning Tickets—School a Distinct Success.

Climaxing the four day cooking schools sessions of the Ontario Intelligencer Home-Making and Cooking School held this week at the Capitol Theatre yesterday afternoon's class from the stand points of attendance and interest exceeded any day, and the main interest was, of course, the awarding of the major prizes of the School. With Mayor George O. Tice drawing the winning tickets, the winner of the Beatty Washing Machine proved to be Miss Rosie Summers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Summers, 72 Great St. James street. A breathless hush fell as the Mayor drew the slip of paper and when he had read the name written upon it, the applause was deafening. Miss Summers with her mother had attended every session of the school but had never had the slightest idea, that she might win even a small prize. That the finest prize in the week was hers came as an overwhelming surprise. When asked which she would choose the Electric Washing Machine or the Beatty Electric Ironer, she unhesitatingly selected the washing machine, which she said would be a wonderful help in her mother's household.

This fine model washing machine was the gift of Beatty Bros., Store, Front street.

Prize Winners

The nine other major prize tickets were then drawn by Mayor Tice and most of the prizes went to women, who had always maintained that they never were lucky. "It's the first thing I won in my life" was the principal comment as the delighted winners came to the platform to respond to the ovation from the audience, received the congratulations of the Mayor and Mr. G. A. Morton of the Ontario Intelligencer. The other prize winners were as follows:

Chest of Lady Hamilton 26 piece service donated by Angus McFee—Mrs. L. Potts, 7 Franklin street.

Irish Linen Damask Table Cloth donated by McIntosh Bros.—Mrs. T. R. Barrett, 188 Pinnacle Street.

Pair of Dr. Locke Shoes, donated by Naborhood Store,—Mrs. Harry Saylor, 14 Elmer street.

Dinner Set of Dishes donated by Stroud's—Mrs. John E. Exley, 197 Victoria Ave.

Coffee Table, donated by George Thompson Furniture Co., — Mrs. Jo Legault, 4 Bridge Street East.

3 lb. Box Laura Secords, donated by Dolan, the Druggist—Mrs. G. W. Tucker, 8 Boswell street.

Frigidaire Water Cooler, donated by the Radio and Refrigerator Shop—Mrs. Nelson Schryver, 50 Alexander Street.

Frigidaire Set of Dishes donated by Frigidaire-Thor Sales and Service—Mrs. E. Lynch, 50A Moira Street West.

Year's Supply of Rinso, donated by Lever Bros.—Mrs. J. A. Kerr, Pine Street.

School a Success

Friday's session closed a particularly successful cooking school. Women of the city were fairly clamouring for tickets for the final day and in spite of the fact, that the tickets were completely sold telephones of the Ontario Intelligencer kept up a steady whirr and hundreds of women appealed for tickets and had to face disappointment. The streams of visitors to the Capitol Theatre began before twelve o'clock and the street outside the theatre was lined with women, who looked in vain for tickets.

As Miss Andree the very charming lecturer of the De Both Home-Makers' School, came on the platform at one-thirty, welcoming applause from the audience answered her smile. In no time at all with a gay laugh here and there, and a clever hit of repartee to catch the audience unawares, Miss Andree was deep in the mysteries of some particularly appetizing dish, beginning with the roasting a leg of lamb with very clever garnishings. Then the cherry upside down cake or dessert was prepared and in passing, Miss Andree gave the recipe for a simple white cake as follows: 1-2 cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 1-2 cups flour, 3 1-4 teaspoons of Baking Powder, 1-2 teaspoon of salt, 1 cup of milk, flavoring extract.

This was made in a lamb mold and a delightful white woolly lamb, the wool of course being shredded cocoanut, was presented to a very tiny visitor in the audience, who was celebrating a third birthday yesterday.

The luncheon basket was an interesting concoction. The basket was made of bread, browned in the oven after having been cut in the form of a basket. The centre was filled with a cream filling made of one can of cream of mushroom soup and one can of peas, the whole placed on a platter, garnished with lettuce and sections of tomatoes, the basket tied with a white bow and presented to a lady, who was also celebrating an anniversary yesterday.

Style Show Presented

Miss Andree then, quickly and efficiently completed the program of cookery and household hints and the stage was cleared for the daily fashion show sponsored by the J. A. McNabb firm with hats by Woodley's. In the season's charming adaptations of Parisian inspirations, the four Belleville young ladies, Mrs. A. Seymour, Miss Gladys Emerson, Mrs. J. Kerr and Mrs. M. Brooks, appeared before the footlights and the creations they showed met with a warm reception. Dresses, suits and coats for sports, business afternoon and evening wear were displayed. Some of the newer hints were the close alliance between navy and white, beige and flame, the predominance of plaids and checks, whether in silk or wool and the use of very full sleeves. As the evening dresses came in view one saw the new treatment of fine lace in jacket frocks, checks glorified for dance frocks and the graceful appearance, which dark sheer fabric gave the more mature figure. Hats to match, perfectly, the street and afternoon costumes were supplied from the varied stock of Woodley's.

After the fashion show a demonstration of the Beatty Electric Ironer was given by Mr. Wardle, Miss Andree completed her chat to the audience and expressed her thanks for the friendliness shown her and good wishes for all her audience.

Mr. G. A. Morton, of The Ontario Intelligencer expressed appreciation to Miss Andree, to the merchants of the city who had made the School possible and to the ladies of the city for their wonderful response to the invitation to visit the school.

Attendance Prizes

Attendance prizes were then drawn by Miss Denike and won as follows:

Baskets of Groceries

Mrs. G. S. Sharpe, 13 Catherine Street.

Mrs. G. C. Barrager, 178 Foster Avenue.

Mrs. J. Griffiths, 229 Lingham Street.

Mrs. W. G. Anderson, 145 Foster Avenue.

Mrs. M. Frechette, 16 Albion St.

Mrs. W. Beaumont, 76 Cedar St.

Jennie Irvine, 118 Dundas St. W.

Mrs. W. R. Gordon, 30 Cedar St.

Mrs. M. Cannon, 46 Alexander Street.

Mrs. R. Muncaster, 72 Burton Street.

Mrs. H. J. Hall, 330 Charles St.

Miss Doris Smith, Rednersville.

Mrs. C. Campbell, 105 Annandale Apts, Kingston.

Mrs. William Little, 97 Cannifton Road.

Mrs. James L. Smith, 63 Emily Street.

Mrs. E. V. Adams, 29 Earle St.

Mrs. Hudson, 21 Strachan St.

Mrs. Fred McDonald, Point Anne

Mrs. A. Boynton, 29 Highland.

Mrs. J. Arnold Thomson, 93 Dundas street East.

Mrs. O. O'Brien, 78 Gt. St. James Street.

Miss Dorothy Rowbotham, 14 Bettes Street.

Mrs. J. Kiltedder, 9 Grove Street

Mrs. Arthur H. Wells, 79 Geddes Street.

Mrs. G. Lewis, 199 Bridge Street.

Roasted Lamb—Mrs. E. Jeffrey, 10 Burton street.

Flowers donated by Dorothy P. Quick—Mrs. S. Vandervoort, Trenton, R.R. No. 2.

Five Roses Flour, donated by Mackenzie Co.—Mrs. James Reeder, 32 Dunbar.

Lady Favourite Flour, donated by Mackenzie Co.—Mrs. Edison Logan, 154 Albert street.

Sewing Cabinet, donated by White Hardware Co. — Mrs. W. Donaldson, 9 Donald.

◆

Personals

Judge and Mrs. J. A. Jackson of Toronto are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamilton, Charles street. They were in town for the marriage of their son, Byron Jackson, to Miss Ellagene Adams of this city.

Miss Margaret Chant and Miss Helen wells will be hostesses at the Badminton Club party tonight.

Miss Doris Roe of Toronto is spending the week-end in the city the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Thompson.

Miss Joy Nichols is in Cobourg today attending the funeral of her aunt, the late Mrs. E. W. Bull, formerly of Regina, Sask.

Mr. David Ketcheson, Peterboro, was in the city yesterday.

The many friends of Mrs. George Benedict will be pleased to learn she is progressing favorably after her unfortunate accident of falling and breaking her hip at the home of Mrs. W. Welbourn, Cobourg.

The many friends of Mr. George O'Brien will be glad to know that he is recovering at his home, John street, after an attack of la grippe.

Rev. H. B. Neal of Campbellford, a former pastor of Holloway Street United Church, was a visitor in this city on Friday.

Miss Sylvia Tett is spending the week-end in Toronto.

The many friends of Mr. Frank High are sorry to hear of his serious illness at his home, 368 North Charles street.

The Conservative Club, Cannifton, held a successful euchre party on Thursday evening. The ladies' prizes were won by Miss E. Reynolds, first, Mrs. W. Thomas, second, Miss J. Badgley, third, men's, first, Cameron Bunnett, second, James Reid, third, Ralph Downey.

Last evening the Worthy Matron, Miss Irene Hallam, and the Worthy Patron, Mr. Evan Barlow, of Belleville Chapter No. 55, O.E.S., entertained their officers and committees at a delightful dinner party in the upper hall of the Oddfellows' Temple. The banquet tables were attractively decorated with lovely flowers and beautiful pink tapers. A delicious dinner was served. All joined whole-heartedly in community singing and a spirit of good-fellowship and merriment prevailed. After the dinner the guests played court whist, the ladies' prizes were won by Miss Nellie Rothwell and Mrs. J. W. Barlow, Mr. Harry Sager and Mr. Thos. Hallam winning the men's prizes. Reluctantly, after singing Auld Lang Syne, the guests took leave of their gracious hostess and affable host. The evening was a particularly pleasing one and everyone avowed it "a grand party".

◆

APPEAR WITHOUT MAKE-UP

London, March 30—(CP)—Queen Mary's hint make-up was displeasing to the eye, it was reported today, was responsible for an amazing number of natural complexions at the second of the season's royal courts.

The beauty in last night's court bloomed without benefit of rouge, mascara or lipstick.

Artful embellishments at the last of the first series of "Silver Jubilee" courts were conspicuously absent as the fluttering debutantes and stately dowagers curtseyed as their majesties sat on the golden thrones.

Recipes in Friday's Cooking School

CROWN ROAST OF LAMB

5 to 6 pounds crown roast of lamb	½ teaspoon salt
mustard	4 tablespoons mint sauce
2 cups biscuit crumbs	3 tablespoons shortening
½ pound pork sausage, cut	7 bacon strips

1 large cauliflower

METHOD: Wipe lamb with damp cloth, then rub well with mustard. Make a stuffing of crumbs, sausages, salt, sauce and melted shortening. Fill crown roast. Wrap end of ribs with bacon. Brown thoroughly in hot oven, season with salt and pepper. Reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and allow about 20 minutes to the pound.

Tie cauliflower in cheese-cloth, season with salt and steam until tender. Place on top of cream roast to serve. Remove bacon from rib ends and cover them with paper frills. Garnish with stuffed baked potatoes.

STUFFED BAKED POTATOES

6 baked potatoes	hot milk
salt and pepper	cheese
butter	paprika

minced parsley

METHOD: Select flat, medium-sized potatoes, wash, prick skin with a fork and bake in hot oven until done. Cut in half, lengthwise, scrape out the inside, being careful not to injure the skin. Mash the potatoes with salt, pepper, butter and hot milk. Refill shells, sprinkle generously with grated cheese, then with paprika and minced parsley. Bake about 10 minutes in a hot oven.

BUTTERSCOTCH SUNDAE CAKE

Sponge Cake

3 eggs whites	¾ cup flour
¾ cup sugar	1 teaspoon baking powder
3 eggs yolks	few grains salt
juice ½ lemon and enough warm water to make ¼ cup	ice cream
grated rind ½ lemon	butterscotch sauce

METHOD: Beat egg whites stiff, add sugar gradually, beating well. In another bowl, beat yolks lemon colored, add lemon juice and water. Combine with egg whites, add lemon rind and folk in sifted dry ingredients. Bake in rectangular pan in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 minutes.

On cooled cake, spread ice cream to about ¼ inch thickness and pour over this a Butterscotch sauce.

COFFEE DEMONSTRATION

HAWAIIAN FRENCH TOAST

2 eggs	bread slices
¼ teaspoon salt	bacon bows
½ cup pineapple juice	pineapple slices

METHOD: Whip up eggs; add salt and pineapple juice and beat well; then dip bread slices in the mixture. Fry bacon slices (at least 2 to a serving) and when crisp, remove to a hot platter. Fry bread in hot bacon fat. When it is finished, cook halved, sliced pineapple in the same fat. Serve the bread while hot with pineapple and bacon garnish.

CHERRY NUT UP-SIDE DOWN CAKE

Part 1

1/3 cup butter	1 cup walnut meats
½ cup brown sugar	2 cups canned cherries (No. 3)

Part 2

2/3 cup shortening	2½ cups flour
1 cup sugar	3 1/3 teaspoons baking powder
2 eggs	¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla	2/3 cup milk

METHOD: PART 1—Heat butter in heavy frying pan. Stir in the sugar, nuts and cherries and then set aside while preparing cake batter.

Part 2—Cream shortening and sugar, beat in the eggs, one at a time, add vanilla and sifted dry ingredients alternately with the milk. Pour over the mixture in the frying pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 45-60 minutes, (depending on the size of the pan).

Turn out in a large platter. Serve with whipped cream or a cherry sauce.

LUNCHEON BASKET

Directions given in Class.

TEA MAKING

LEMON MERINGUE PIE

1 cup sugar	2 tablespoons cold water
1 1/3 cups boiling water	½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons cornstarch	2 lemons
2 tablespoons flour	3 eggs

baked pie shell

METHOD: Boil sugar and water, moisten cornstarch with cold water. Add flour. Pour boiling liquid over this, stirring constantly while pouring. Return to fire, cook 7 minutes, still stirring. Stir in grated rind and juice of the lemons, salt and beaten egg yolks. Cool slightly. Turn into baked shell. Top with a fluffy meringue made of the 3 egg whites and 6 tablespoons sugar. Brown in oven.

A GINGER FRUIT SALAD

8 red apples	2 bananas
1 lemon, juice	2 oranges
½ cup pecans	1 cup seedless white grapes
½ cup chopped candied ginger	1 bunch watercress

French dressing

METHOD: Core apples and dice without peeling. Sprinkle with lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Add sliced bananas, orange sections, grapes, nutmeats and ginger. Serve on watercress with French dressing.

SUET PUDDING

½ cup corn syrup	1 teaspoon salt
½ cup molasses	½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup sour milk	¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon soda	¼ teaspoon allspice
1 egg, beaten	½ cup raisins
2 cups flour	½ cup figs, cut
1 teaspoon baking powder	½ cup candied cherries

1 cup suet, chopped

METHOD: Into mixing bowl, put syrup, molasses, milk in which soda has been dissolved and egg. Mix all dry ingredients together and sift over fruit and suet, mixing thoroughly. Add to liquids; blend in well. Turn into 2-quart mould and steam 3 hours.

WASHING DEMONSTRATION

BEAUTY IN THE DISH PAN

Dissolve soap flakes in lukewarm or hot water. Use enough soap to give lasting suds. When washing a large number of dishes, change the wash water occasionally. Wash glasses first, then silver, then china. Rinse in hot water to allow to drain dry.

Scrape waste from kettles used in preparing food and soak them in hot soap flakes suds, while the dishes are being washed. This loosens the grease and stuck-on food so that just a moment or so washing leaves them clean and bright.

CARROT AND ORANGE SALAD

¼ cup cold water	1¾ cups hot water
1 tablespoon gelatine	½ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons sugar	1 tablespoon lemon juice
salt	1 cup grated raw carrots.

METHOD: Pour cold water in bowl and sprinkle gelatine on top of water. Add sugar, salt and boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add orange and lemon juice and set aside to slightly stiffen. Add the raw carrots to the slightly stiffened jelly and pour into individual moulds that have been rinsed in cold water. Chill and unmould on lettuce leaf. Garnish.

TOMATO DINNER ICE

4 cups tomato juice	1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons minced celery	2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons fine minced parsley	½ teaspoon white pepper

2 tablespoons lemon juice

METHOD: Stir all ingredients together an dturn into tray of mechanical refrigerator. Stir frequently while freezing. When partly frozen, put into a cold bowl and beat with a rotary beater. Return to refrigerator until time ot serve.

HOUSEHOLD INSULATION-CLASS DISCUSSION

The use of modern insulation in the home — its saving of fuel costs, contributions to health, comfort and the attractiveness of the home — discussed daily in the school.

DEMONSTRATION OF ENAMELLING

Gay touches of enamel make your home bright and cheerful, give it distinction. Smoothly enamelled surfaces are easily kept clean. This is important to you, as a home-maker.

The use and easy application of (QUICK-DRYING) Enamel will be demonstrated.

Large Audience Heard
MISS CLAIRE ANDREE

Cooking Lectures Tremendously Popular With Women of Belleville

The one wish of the women of Belleville today is that Miss Claire Andree, popular lecturer at the Belleville De Both Cooking School, may return again and again to lecture at similar interesting and helpful cooking school sessions. The Ontario Intelligencer is certainly to be congratulated on the success of the lectures which delighted every woman who attended. Miss Andree gave ample proof of mustard's usefulness as an aid to better cooking and recommended KEEN'S for its true flavor and piquancy. Much of the delicious flavor of the foods this talented lecturer prepares is due to the purity and piquancy of KEEN'S D.S.F. MUSTARD.

Piquant Beef Rolls
Serve on a hot platter

Cut a thin slice of round steak into pieces about 4 inches by 2 inches, sprinkle with salt and spread with a mixture of one tablespoon Keen's Mustard, blended with 1 tablespoon flour. Roll each strip lightly and either skewer or tie with a bit of string. Lay them closely together in a casserole and add a can of tomato juice. Cover and cook slowly till tender. Serve on a hot platter (removing the skewers or strings) and surround with a herd of boiled rice.

Sardine Snacks for sandwich time

Remove bones and turn into dish 1 tin of sardines, add ½ teaspoon Keen's Mustard and mix to smooth paste with vinegar, salt and pinch of sugar. Spread paste of sardines and mustard on thinly buttered bread. Cut and serve on plate, garnished with sprigs of parsley. The Mustard adds a distinctive and piquant flavor to these sandwiches.

Stuffed Egg Salad
Cut Eggs in Half—Cross-ways

Remove yolks of 6 hard boiled eggs. Mix together ½ teaspoon Keen's D.S.F. Mustard, ½ teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper. To the mashed egg yolks add the dry ingredients and 1 tablespoon vinegar, ½ tablespoon butter, 2 tablespoons chopped ham. Refill whites and place on lettuce leaves, garnish with stuffed olives or rings of green pepper. Serve with mayonnaise.

KEEN'S
D.S.F. Mustard
AIDS DIGESTION

DANGEROUS WORDS . . .
"I don't want to play"

HIS playmates and all the gay, sparkling out-of-doors call, "Come out, come out!" Yet—Billy prefers to stay in.

"I don't want to play," he says. To every mother these words are danger signals.

You wonder what is wrong. The answer may be one of many things. Perhaps your child is taking cold. Maybe his digestive system is out of order. But most likely of all—the underlying cause of his listlessness is constipation.

Give a SPECIAL Laxative

At such times as these it is a wise precaution to give a laxative—not just any laxative, but one made especially for him. Give him the children's laxative—Castoria!

Castoria is safe—contains no harsh purgatives, no narcotics, is not habit-forming. It is gentle—will not disturb digestion nor cause griping pain. And it is thorough!

Ask your doctor about Castoria. He will assure you that Castoria contains only such ingredients as are suitable for a child's system.

Children like it

Modern mothers, who realise they shouldn't force bad-tasting medicine on a child who is already upset, rejoice to find that their children like the taste of Castoria—take it without a struggle!

Keep a bottle of Castoria always ready in your medicine chest. (The family size bottle is especially economical.) Give it—from babyhood to 11 years—whenever a child needs a laxative.

CASTORIA
The Children's Laxative
from babyhood to 11 years

[illegible] THE RENTAL PROPERTY LISTINGS ON THIS PAGE

Business Directory

AUTO LOANS

AND REFINANCING
Direct with Owner Car Financing
of All Kinds.
S. J. FISHER & SON
30 Bridge St. East Telephone 162
Representing
Campbell Auto Finance Co. Ltd.
Toronto - Ottawa - London - Windsor

CHIROPRACTOR

R. A. WYATT, Ph.C., SPECIAL EXAMination with the Radioclast reveals all diseases in the early stages. Foot disorders corrected — all diseases treated. Phone 900 or write 288 Coleman St., Belleville.

VERA R. PITCHER, CHIROPRACTOR, and H. R. Pitcher, Chiropractor and Drugless Therapist, Radioclast Diagnosis and Treatment, Ultra-Violet and Infra-Red Radiations and Electrical Treatments. 42½ Bridge St. E., Belleville, Ont., Phone 1874.

DENTIST

DR. ROBT. H. EMPSON
DENTIST
X-Ray
Phone 462 240½ Front St.
17-3m

RADIO SERVICE

JOHN A. DEWAR
RADIO TECHNICIAN
Registered — Graduate
265 John St. Phone 217
a1-tf

SURVEYORS

FRASER AYLESWORTH
Ontario Land Surveyor and Registered Professional Civil Engineer. Land Surveys, Plans and Descriptions, Etc., promptly attended to.
PHONE 6 — P. O. BOX 60
MADOC, ONT.

INSURANCE

Protect yourself against accidents with our Automobile Insurance
SANDY BURROWS
and
HOWARD FROST
Life and Fire Insurance
231 Front St Phone 120

HALL & EARLE
General Insurance, Fire, Automobile, Accident and Plate Glass
276 Front St. Phone 1154-W

STOCKS & BONDS

BIGGAR AND CRAWFORD, MEMBERS of Toronto Stock Exchange. Phone 1738. F. H. Wills, branch manager. N5-1y

LEGAL

MALCOLM WRIGHT, BARRISTER, Solicitor, Notary Public, Etc. Office, Campbell St., Belleville.

T. Y. WILLS, BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, Notary Public, Etc. 15 Campbell St., Belleville. Telephone 74. m4-tf

PORTER, PAYNE AND ARNOTT, BARristers, Solicitors and Notaries Public. Chas. A. Payne, K.C. R. D. Arnott. Offices: 218 Front St., Belleville, Ont.

PONTON AND GRAHAM, BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Notaries Public, Commissioners. Office: 28 Bridge St. East. Solicitors, Bank of Montreal. Money to loan on mortgages. W. N. Ponton, K.C. R. J. E. Graham. Office: Belleville.

DONNAN AND BUTLER, B. C. Donnan, K.C., E. O. Butler, Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public and Commissioners. Offices: Court House Building, Belleville, Ont. Phone 238.

WALLBRIDGE, CAMERON AND CO. (Successors to the late F. E. Wallbridge). Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries. Money to loan. Dominion Bank Building, corner Front and Bridge streets, Belleville, Ontario.

216

DUFFERIN AVENUE

To-Let

A Beautiful Home

Hardwood floors throughout — lovely living room — coal fireplace — four bed rooms — Sleeping porch — full basement — furnace — wired for electric range. Garage.

EXCLUSIVE AGENTS

Belleville Locators
GEO. N. GORMAN, PROP.
166 Front Street
Phone 99 House Phone 687

BUY NOW! AND MAKE WORK

WANTED

EXPERIENCED MAN TO WORK ON farm by month. Write stating wages expected to R. G. Gilroy, Shannonville. M30-3t

RELIABLE YOUNG MEN TO TAKE UP Electric Refrigeration and Air Conditioning. Prefer men now employed to learn while earning. Must be mechanically inclined, with fair education and willing to train spare time to become experts in installation and service work. Write giving age, phone, present occupation. Write Box "B" Ontario Intelligencer. M30-3t

MIDDLE AGED WOMAN AS HOUSEkeeper. Apply 190 George street, Belleville, after Monday noon. M30-3t

SMALL HOUSE OR APARTMENT BY young couple by April 15 or 30. Phone 593. M30-1t

MALE HELP WANTED

A LESSON FROM THE DEPRESsion—Be a Civil Servant—Postman, Customs Examiner, Clerk, Stenographer, etc. Free booklet "How to get a Government Job." M.C.C. Civil Service School, Toronto (10). J5-a.s.-tf

SMALL SUMMER COTTAGE NEAR Belleville. Write stating particulars to Box "O" Ontario Intelligencer. M28-3t

TWO OR THREE UNFURNISHED rooms suitable for kitchenette and bed sitting room by May 1. Central location preferred. Write Box "N" Ontario Intelligencer. M28-3t

TO RENT TWO FURNISHED OR UNfurnished rooms by the middle of April. Write Box "L" Ontario Intelligencer. M28-3t

AGENTS WANTED

RELIABLE COUPLE REQUIRE FIVE or six roomed house, conveniences, April 30, reasonable. Box "D" Ontario Intelligencer. M27-3t

NOTICE

COURT OF REVISION
Concrete Curbing
Alexander Street

A meeting of the Court of Revision will be held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, on Thursday, April 4th, 1935, at four o'clock in the afternoon for the purpose of hearing complaints against the proposed assessment or the accuracy of frontage measurements or any other complaint which the persons interested may require to make and which by law are cognizable by the Court for Concrete Curbs on both sides of Alexander Street between
Charles and John Streets

AND TAKE FURTHER NOTICE:

That the special assessment roll for the above work is now open for inspection at the office of the City Clerk and shall remain open until the 4th day of April being a period of more than ten days prior to the sittings of the said Court of Revision.

Any person or persons interested in any of the aforesaid assessment are at liberty to inspect the same.

Dated at Belleville this 23rd day of March A. D. 1935.

J. WILFRED HOLMES,
City Clerk.
M23-30

AUCTION SALE

On Friday, April 5th at 1 o'clock, I will sell by public auction the farm stock and implements, also the farm consisting of 100 acres of land of Randall Martin, Lot 26, Concession 1, Township of Tyendinaga, one mile north of Read Church.

S. J. FISHER,
Phone 1671-F. Auctioneer.
M29 A1

PERSONAL

PRIVATE HOME KINDERGARTENS pay. We start you. The Canadian Kindergarten Institute, Toronto (18).

LOST

$7.00 BETWEEN FRONT AND BRIDGE street. Finder kindly phone 1056-W. Apply 270 George street. M30-

LOST

ON ALEXANDER STREET OR PINnacle street and Victoria, black purse containing driver's license and other articles. Finder kindly phone 2155. M30-

LOST

WHITE GOLD WRIST WATCH. FINDER kindly return to 34 Forin street. M30-

FOUND

ON BRIDGE STREET ON FRIDAY — small sum of money bills. Loser apply to E. H. Tickell describing same and paying advertisement. M30-1t

FOUND

HAND FOIL STREAM GUN. OWNER may have same by proving property and paying for advertisement. Write Box "F" Ontario Intelligencer. M30-1t

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Lawn Bowling Club will be held in the Y.M.C.A. Tuesday, April 2, at 8 p.m. A good attendance of members as well as ex-members or any one interested in bowling would be appreciated.

C. A. PECK, President. W. A. WALSHE, Sec.-Treas.
M30-3t

NOTICE TO CREDITORS AND OTHERS

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF ALBERT HAMANN, late of the Township of Thurlow in the County of Hastings, Retired Farmer, deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN pursuant to the Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1927, Chapter 150, Section 51, that all creditors and others having claims against the estate of Albert Hamann, late of the Township of Thurlow in the County of Hastings, who died on or about the 22nd day of February, 1935, are requested to forward their claims, duly proven, to the undersigned on or before the 15th day of April, 1935.

AND NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that after the said date the administratrix will proceed to distribute the estate, among the parties entitled thereto having regard only to such claims of which she shall then have notice.

DATED at Belleville this 13th day of March, 1935.

Wallbridge, Cameron & Company,
Barristers, &c.,
Belleville, Ontario
Solicitors for the Administratrix.
M16 23 30

Customers are ELUSIVE, too but the Classified Section of the Ontario Intelligencer will SEEK them our —for you!

NOTE:—A verse from Baroness Orczy's famous novel "The Scarlet Pimpernel" as spoken by Leslie Howard in the superb talking picture now playing at the Belle Theatre:

"They seek him here, they seek him there,
Those Frenchies seek him everywhere,
Is he in Heaven?. Is he in Hell?
That demned elusive Pimpernel?"

Why seek 'em here, why seek 'em there,
Ontario Intelligencer want ads. go everywhere;
Whether you buy, or want to sell,
Let want ads your story tell.

LET THEM SEEK OUT THE PEOPLE YOU ARE SEEKING!

They'll seek 'em here,
They'll seek 'em there . . . .

ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER WANT ADS GO EVERYWHERE!

LET THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER WANT ADS SEEK WHAT YOU WANT!

TO LET

HOUSE WITH THREE ACRES ON Trent Road. Electricity, bath, hardwood floors throughout, suitable for tourist home. Apply 37 West Bridge street. M30-3t

FIVE ROOM APARTMENT HEATED, OR three or two room apartment furnished or unfurnished, central. 17 Victoria avenue. M29-3t

FURNISHED BEDROOM IN PRIVATE home. Board if desired. 31 Hillside. Phone 2115-W. M29-FS-TF

SIX ROOM HOUSE, 23 EARL STREET, conveniences, also garage, small garden. Possession April 1. Apply 30 Howard street. M29-3t

THREE ROOMS, HEATED AND FURnished for light house-keeping. All conveniences. Apply 176 Foster Ave. M26-TF

208 GEORGE STREET — 8 ROOMS, conveniences except furnace, double garage. Possession April 1. Apply W. J. Hall, 278 Front street, phone 1154w M14-TF

REMINDERS

Short and Snappy Business Messages of Interest to All Readers

Farmers! Attention!
Spring will soon be here, get your harness repaired and oiled.
New Harness and Parts at Reasonable Prices.
T. G. WELLS
12 Campbell St. Phone 1317.

A Reliable Firm Are We For Watch, Clock and Jewelry Repairing
Moderate Prices
Guaranteed Work
A. E. Wonnacott
282 FRONT STREET
Next to Loblaw's
Phone 1539

F. LaPalm
Local and Long Distance Hauling
Closed Furniture Vans
Open Trucks
All Goods Insured During Transit
Office—165 Pinnacle Street
Phone 1806
House Phone 1608

READ Before You BUY!

PHONE 99
Classified Ad. Rates

SOCIAL NOTICES—Births, 50c; Marriages and Engagement Notices, $1.00; Deaths and Funeral Notices, $1.00; In Memoriam, $1.00; Memoriam Poetry, minimum charge, $1.00 for 10 lines, over that 10c per count line; Ladies' Receiving Announcements, minimum charge, 75c.
CLASSIFIED — (For Sale, Wanted, Etc.)—1½c per word each for first TWO insertions, subsequent insertions 1c per word, minimum 20 words.
COMING EVENTS—75c per insertion for 25 words or under, over that amount 3c per word.
PROFESSIONAL, LEGAL AND BUSINESS CARDS (Yearly Contract)—$3.00 per month per inch.
OFFICIAL, MUNICIPAL AND GOVERNMENT NOTICES (including those concerning Legal Sales)—15c per agate line (14 lines to inch) for first insertion; 10c per line for subsequent insertions.
AUCTION SALE—3c per word, heading to count as 12 words minimum 25 words for 75c; consecutive insertions, 3c per word.

An initial or figure counts as one word.

In estimating allow five words to the line.

Telephone your Want Ads when it is more convenient. PHONE 99.

The Ontario Intelligencer will not be responsible for more than one insertion of an incorrect ad. Phone us if it is wrong.

Advertisers may have their replies addressed to Box Number care of the Ontario Intelligencer.

FOR SALE

THIRTY HORSES

One choice team French and Percheron Geldings, 2800 lbs.	$200.00
One team Bay Geldings, nice appearing, 2900 lbs.	175.00
One team Black Geldings, well matched, 2850 lbs.	175.00
One team choice Brown Mares, 2900 lbs.	260.00
One team Brown Mares, 2400 lbs.	150.00
One fine Brown Mare in foal, 1200 lbs.	90.00

All of our horses are good workers, reasonably young, ranging from five years and up. We can sell you a good work team for 125.00, several teams at $150.00. We will deliver horses for $5.00 extra.

HUBBEL & SON
BANCROFT, ONT.
M30 A2 4

SPECIAL SALE

Used Tires, all sizes, $2.00 up
USED TIRE SHOP
391½ Front Street
Opposite Upper Bridge

MORTGAGE SALE

Under and by virtue of the powers of sale contained in a certain mortgage, which will be produced at the time of sale, there will be offered for sale by public auction on Tuesday, April 9, 1935 at the auction rooms of E. C. Tufts on east side Durham street, village of Madoc, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon, the following real estate: All and singular those certain parcels or tracts of land and premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Madoc, in the County of Hastings, in the Province of Ontario, and being composed of the South West Quarter of Lot 14, in the 9th Concession of the said Township of Madoc, and the East Half of Lot 15 in the 9th Concession of the said Township of Madoc.

There is said to be erected on the said premises a two storey brick house in good repair, barn, drive-house and other outbuildings.

Terms of Sale: 10 per cent. cash to be paid at time of sale, balance within 30 days without interest. The property will be sold subject to a reserve bid.

Dated at Madoc this 26th day of Mar. 1935.

For further particulars apply to:
E. C. TUFTS, Auctioneer.
George S. White, Madoc, Ont.,
Solicitor for Mortgagee.
M30 A2 6

FOR SALE

ENGLISH PRAM IN GOOD CONDItion. Apply 223 W. Moira street. M30-1t

500 RED CEDAR POSTS FROM 8 TO 16 feet. Apply R. N. Hay, Route 1, Belleville. M30-1t

COFFIELD ELECTRIC WASHER, NEARly new, porcelain tub, half price, easy terms. Also others. Gilson's, 364 Front. Open evenings. M29-3t

ONE SPRING-TOOTH CULTIVATOR—almost new, 400 bushel seed oats. F. Salter, one mile west of Fairgrounds on Marshall Road. Phone 41812. M29-2t

SIX PIECE BREAKFAST SUITE USED six months. Less than half price. Also drop leaf table. 205 Charles, near Bridge. M28-3t

QUANTITY OF HAY, APPROXIMATEly 12 ton. Also two Durham cows, to close an estate. Apply Jas. Wims, Corbyville, executor of estate of Garret Foley. M28-3t

WHOLESALE DISTRIBUTING BUSIness including one '34 Chevrolet 1½ ton panel truck. Will sell truck separately and accept a trade in what offers. Phone 1756. M28-3t

15' CEDAR SKIFF, JOHNSTONE OUTboard motor. Apply 233 Station street. M28-3t

PIPELESS FURNACE, GUARANTEED as new. Bargain price. Can be seen at 210 Church street. Phone 2005. M27-4t

STUDEBAKER SEDAN IN GOOD CONdition, cheap. Apply 263 Front street. M27-3t

200 ACRES FARM, HYDRO, GOOD buildings, waterfront, cheap, part cash. Apply owners, Sandercock Bros. and Jackson, Hillier. M27-3t

BEAUTIFUL RED TABBY PERSIAN cat, male, registered; also Boston Bull pup, house broken, cheap to a good home. Phone Mrs. Pearson, 1606-J. M27-3t

6 NORTH STRACHAN STREET — Estate of Mrs. Shappee. Apply W. G. Black, 186 William. M26-3t

OSTROM'S
DRUG STORE
OPEN SUNDAY

IN MEMORIAM

CHUMLEY — In loving memory of Frederick Chumley, who passed away March 31, 1931. Sadly missed by wife and family. M30-1t

TICKELL & BROWNE
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
We Serve for Less
FUNERAL HOME
Corner Church St. and Victoria Ave. Phone 2285

Thomas C. Thompson
Funeral Director
Funeral Home
38 Everett St. Phone 62
Office
238 Front St. Phone 62

BELLEVILLE BURIAL COMPANY
FUNERAL DIRECTORS
27 Campbell St.
Phone 774-W Day and Night
J. W. IMLAH
Proprietor
Mausoleum Crypts For Sale

FRACTURES ARM CRANKING CAR

2nd. Ameliasburg, March 30 — Mr. Elmer Young had the misfortune to break his arm on Thursday last while cranking Cecil Langstaff's car in which he goes to school. Though handicapped he has returned to school this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cunningham spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cunningham.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Giles and family spent Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gorsline of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Wood and Ronnie spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Eldon Adams and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Parliament spent the week end at Mr. and Mrs. Everett Adams' and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Hubbs, Alice and Malcolm called on Mr. and Mrs. R. Hubbs and family on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Pretts and Ralph of Napanee took tea with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Townsend on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Calnan visited at Mr. and Mrs. Roy Giles on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Fox and Eleanor, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Townsend spent Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Adams.

A few of the scholars from Centre School attended the township spelling match at the town hall in Ameliasburg on Wednesday evening.

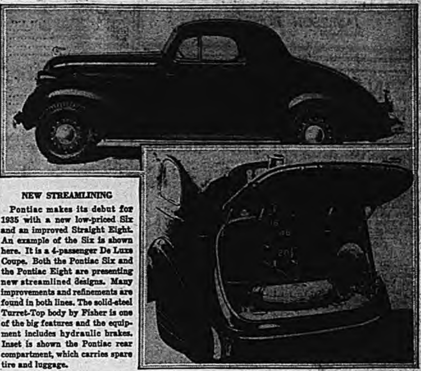
Miss Jessie Duggan spent the week end in Belleville.

◆

WILL TAKE STRAPPING

Welland, Ont., March 30—(CP)—Three juveniles, who escaped from the Welland city children's shelter Thursday while awaiting strappings for taking part in a break-in at a drug store have returned voluntarily to their homes. The lads will undergo the punishment to which they were sentenced but no further charges will be laid.

New Pontiac Six Joins Eight for 1935



NEW STREAMLINING

Pontiac makes its debut for 1935 with a new low-priced Six and an improved Straight Eight. An example of the Six is shown here. It is a 4-passenger De Luxe Coupe. Both the Pontiac Six and the Pontiac Eight are presenting new streamlined designs. Many improvements and refinements are found in both lines. The solid-steel Turret-Top body by Fisher is one of the big features and the equipment includes hydraulic brakes. Inset is shown the Pontiac rear compartment, which carries spare tire and luggage.

WILL CONTINUE SERVICE

London, March 30—(CP Cable)—With reference to reports the Anchor Line may go into liquidation and be sold, the Anchor-Donaldson line announce their ships will continue to operate a passenger and cargo service between Glasgow and Montreal in the summer and Glasgow, Halifax and Saint John in winter.

◆

FAMOUS PHYSICIAN DIES

Paris, March 30—(CP Havas) — The death of Dr. Auguste Marie, Professor at the Pasteur Institute at the age of 70 was announced today. Dr. Marie was one of the oldest connected with the institute and for many years collaborated with Dr. Pasteur.

◆

ALL LEAVE CANCELLED

Aden, Arabia, March 30—(AP)—All leave was cancelled today for British Somaliland officials because of the uncertainty of the Italo-Ethiopian situation.

WE SPECIALIZE IN BUILDING MATERIAL
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL
UP TO DATE FACTORY AND YARDS
The Houston Co., Limited
BELLEVILLE, ONT.
ESTABLISHED 1886 PHONE 1677

CONSPIRACY CHARGE LAID

Hamilton, March 30 (CP)— A charge of conspiracy was laid against Thomas Moore, Wentworth Street North, in Magistrate's Court today. It is alleged Moore conspired to sell "jobs" on the new Feredal building here.

BODDY IS ACQUITTED

Brantford, March 30—A. H. Boddy K.C., was acquitted Friday by an Assize Court jury on a charge of manslaughter arising out of the death of Curtis Book, St. Anns, in an automobile accident last fall.

LISTEN MONDAY NIGHT
FACTS ABOUT HYDRO
AND ONTARIO'S FINANCIAL POSITION.
The Power Securities Protective Committee (I. E. Weldon, K.C., Secretary), will give facts as to the present situation.
MONDAY, APRIL 1st, 7.30 p.m.
CRCO OTTAWA, CRCT TORONTO
CKOC Hamilton CKTB St. Catharines CKPC Brantford CFPL London CFCO Chatham CRCW Windsor CFCH North Bay CJKL Kirkland Lake CKGB Timmins CKPR Fort William

RADIO PROGRAMS

SATURDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ
11.00—Galaxy of Stars—WBEN
11.00—Cincinnati Conservatory of Music—WABC
11.15—Tony Wons, poetry—WJZ
1.15—George Hall's Orch.—WABC
2.00—Metropolitan Opera—Geraldine Farrar—WEAF
3.00—Emery Deutsch's Dance Rhythms—WABC
5.00—Eddie Duchin's Orch. —WEAF
5.30—Along the Volga—WABC
5.30—"Jolly Juniors Club—CFRB
6.30—News, Jim Hunter—CFRB
6.45—Sport Parade—WEAF
7.30—Outdoor Girl Beauty Parade —WABC
7.30—Jamboree, variety show—WEAF
7.30—Book Review—CRCT
7.45—Grace Hayes, songs.
8.00—Roxy Revue—WABC
8.00—Phil Cook's Show Shop. —WJZ
8.00—Sigmund Romberg, composer —WEAF
8.00—Old Time Frolic—CRCT
8.30—Art Jarrett's Orch.—WJZ
8.45—St. Louis Blues—WABC
8.45—Big Moments in Sports—CFRB
9.00—N.H.L. Playoffs—CRCT
9.00—Radio City Party—WJZ
9.00—Songs You Love—WEAF
9.00—Andre Kostelanetz's Orch.—WABC
9.30—Barn Dance—WJZ
9.30—To be announced—WEAF
9.30—Studebaker Champions WABC
10.00—Minneapolis Symphony — WABC
10.30—California Melodies—WABC
10.30—"Let's Dance"—WEAF
11.00—Kay Kyser's Orch.—WGN
11.00—Glen Gray's Orch.—WABC
11.30—News—CRCT
12.15—Ted Weems Orch.—WGN

SUNDAY

9.00—Sunday Morning at Aunt Susan's—WGR
10.30—Mexican Marimba Orch. WEAF
11.00—Children's Hour— WABC
11.30—Maj. Bowes Capitol Family —WEAF; WTAM
12.00—Salt Lake City Tabernacle—WABC
12.30—Radio City Concert—NBC: WJZ; WLW
12.45—Int'l. Broadcast—WABC
1.30—Cleveland Entertains—WABC
1.30—Surprise Party; Mary Small WABC
2.00—"Immortal Dramas" eighty actors—WEAF
2.30—Music Hall of the Air—WABC
2.30—Garden Program—WEAF
2.30—Radio Theatre—WJZ
3.00—Philharmonic Hour—WABC
3.30—Penthouse Serenade—WEAF
4.00—First Rhythm Symphony—WEAF
4.00—Father Coughlin—WJR
4.30—Morton Downey—WJZ
4.30—Harry Reser's Orch.—WEAF
5.00—Open House; Freddy Martin's Orch.—WABC
5.00—Roses and Drums—WJZ.
5.00—Sentinels Serenade, guest artist—WEAF
5.30—The House by the Side of the Road—WEAF
5.30—Frank Crummit and Julia Sanderson — CBS; WABC: WGR
6.00—National Amateur Night—WABC
6.30—Smilin' Ed McConnell—WABC
6.30—Continental Varieties—WEAF
7.00—Jack Benny; Don Bestor Orch.—WJZ
7.00—Alexander Woollcott, Town Crier—WABC
7.30—Joe Penner, comedian, Ozzie Nelson's Orch., Harriet Hilliard—WJZ
7.30—Headliners—Chas. Winninger —WABC
8.00—Eddie Cantor—WABC
8.00—Symphony Concert—WJZ
8.00—Major Bowes' Amateur Hour —WEAF
8.30—Club Romance—WABC
9.00—Manhattan Merry-go-round —CFRB
9.00 — Charlie Previns' Orch.; Countess Olga Albani—WJZ
9.00—Sunday Evening Concert—WABC
9.30—Musical Revue—WEAF
9.30—Walter Winchell—WJZ
10.00—Jane Froman; the Modern Choir—WEAF
10.00—Wayne King—WABC
11.15—Little Jack Little—WABC
11.30—News—CRCT
10.00—The Gibson Family—WEAF
11.15—Kay Kyser's Orch.—WGN
12.00—Claude Hopkins' Orch.—WABC

MONDAY

9.00—Breakfast Club—WJZ
11.00—Navy Band—WEAF
11.15—Tony Wons—WJZ
12.30—Farm and Home Hour—WJZ
3.00—Radio Guild—WJZ
4.00—Betty and Bob—WJZ
6.00—U. S. Army Band—WJZ
6.30—News; Jim Hunter—CFRB
6.30—Music Box—WABC
7.00—Amos 'n' Andy—WJZ
7.15—Plantation Echoes—WJZ
7.30—Red Davis, comedy sketch—WJZ
7.30—"Facts About Hydro"—CRCT CRCO
7.45—Uncle Ezra—WEAF
8.00—Jan Garber's Supper Club—WJZ
8.00—Syrup Symphonies—CFRB
8.00—Richard Himber Orchestra—WEAF
8.30—Kate Smith's New Star Revue—WABC
8.30—Carefree Carnival; Rita Lane—WJZ
9.00—Harry Horlick's Gypsies, Robert Simmons tenor — WEAF
9.00—Andre Kostelanetz Orch.—WABC
9.00—Minstrel Show—WJZ, WLW
9.30—Otto Harbach Musicale—WEAF
9.30—The Big Show—WABC
9.30—Wrigley Dance Orch.—CFRB
9.30—Princess Pat Players—WJZ
10.00—Lullaby Lady—WEAF
10.00—Wayne King's Orchestra — WABC
10.00—Jackie Heller—WJZ
11.00 — Four Aces of Contract Bridge; Glen Gray's Orch.—WABC
11.15—Glen Gray's Orch.—CFRB
11.30—Gus. Arnheim's Orch.—WABC
11.30—Kay Kyser's Orch.—W
11.45—Herbie Kay's Orch.

Be Sure

To have your Auto Insurance re-instated before taking out your car this Spring. If you have no insurance, do not take further chances of serious loss. All that is necessary in either case, or in the event of you changing your car, is to telephone us (1364). We will immediately protect you and get full particulars later. This is part of our service.

JAMIESON BONE & CO.
INSURANCE INVESTMENTS

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, March 30—(AP)—The stock market ended the week and months with a quiet display of confidence today. Encouraged by such key groups as rails and metals, other divisions had no difficulty in keeping in step and closing prices for active leaders were minor fractions to a point or so higher. Transfers aggregated 250,000 shares.

TORONTO STOCKS
(Close)

Toronto, Mar. 30 (CP) — The leading oils displayed firmness on good volume in the closing session of the week on Toronto Industrial Board. International Petroleum moved up a half point to 21 and Imperial and British American held unchanged. International Nickel was steady at 24½.

Distillers Seagrams had a fractional gain to 16 and Brewers and Distillers was off 5 cents to 60.

Advances were recorded for Fanny Farmer, Loblaw "A" and Weston's Common.

Bell Telephone went down a point to 125½, Royal Bank lost a point and Bank of Canada ½. Dominion Tar Company was stronger with the preferred issue down 5½ to 56.

Fractional gains were boarded for Hinde and Dauche and Toronto Elevators Preferred.

TORONTO MINES CLOSE

Toronto, March 30.—(CP)—Selling of Hollinger in more than ordinary volume appeared on the Mining Board of Toronto Exchange today and the price had a set back of 25 cents to $16.50. The Copper shares were in some demand with Hudson Bay going through at $13, a gain of 50 cents.

Bralorne sold at 8.10 to show a small gain, Lake Shore hied a minor advance, Pioneer was up a few cents and Wright Hargreaves down about ten cents. In the secondary Gold Group Little Long Lac, Pickle Crow, McWatters, McKenzie, God's Lake, Bradian and Macassa and San Antonio all traded at advances of a few cents each.

Noranda was steady at 35.25. Eldorado Silver picked up three cents. Bear exploration two cents and Premier two.

UNLISTED MINES

Unlisted Mines furnished by A. H. Ketcheson and Co. today at 11.30 a.m.:

Afton 55-6.
Bankfield 78-81.
Bousquet 29-31.
Casey Cont. 33 1-2-35.
El Bonanza 12-14.
Forty Four 1025-1150.
Gabrielle 36-42.
Gold Eagle 39S.
Gt. Bear Lake 46B.
Hardrock 70S.
Lamaque 150-165.
McLeod 4 1-2-5 1-2.
Franklin 40-42.
Big Long Lac 13-14 1-2.
Brennan 30S.
Chib 90-100.
Magnet 10-12.
Oklend 35-9.
Red Lake 30-3.
Rice Lake 3 1-2-4 1-2.
Springer Sturgeon 136.
Smelters 10-12.
Sigma 150S.
Shawkey 41-4.
Sturgeon River 92-6.
Wingold 13S.
Young Davidson 16-21.

Grain Markets

Quotations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as furnished by A. Ketcheson and Co. today at 11.30 a.m.

Wheat—	High	Low	Last
May	85¼	85	85¼
July	85¼	84⅞	85¼
Oats—
May	40¼	39⅞	40⅛
July	39⅞	39½ ⅝ ⅞	39⅞
Barley—
May	46⅞	46½	46⅞
July	46½	46¼	46¼

STORY TOLD POLICE ADMITTED NOT TRUE

Ordered To Pay Cost of Time Taken By Police For Probe.

Kitchener, Ont., Mar. 30 (CP)—A. W. Fisher, Kitchener salesman, pleaded guilty in police court today to making false statements which took the police from their regular duties in order to investigate. He was placed on six months' parole by Magistrate Weir.

He must also pay the $15.00 costs to provincial police for investigation of his story and the court costs.

Last week Fisher reported a car had blocked the passage of his machine on the Hamilton-Galt highway near the latter place and when he stopped two men rifled his pockets and got $42.00. Later, police allege, Fisher admitted the story was false.

Stock Markets

Quotations furnished by Biggar and Crawford, F. H. Wills, branch manager. Quotations at 11.30 p.m.

MINES

Ashley 10B
Ajax 83
Acme 22
Breth Treth 2 1-4B
Barry Hollinger 5 1-2B
Base Metals 42B
Bobjo 25
Big Missouri 40B
Bradian 195
Baganac 7
Bralorne 805B
Castle Treth 66 1-2B
Coniaurum 215
Central Pat 141
Coast Copper 145B
Dome 3900B
Dominion Explor. 5 3-8B
Eldorado 130
Falconbridge 365
God's Lake 184
Goldale 14
Granada 35
Greene Stab 27
Hollinger 1650
Halcrow 3B
Home Oil 50B
Hudsons Bay 1300B
Howey 85B
Inter Nickel 24 1-4
Kirkland Lake 47B
Kirk Townsite 24B
Lake Shore 5675B
Little Long Lac 525
Macassa 206B
Malartic 62
Maple Leaf 6B
McIntyre 4415B
Mining Corp. 91B
McLeod River 1 3-8B
McKenzie 124
McWaters 174
McVittie 18 1-2
Nipissing 210B
Noranda 3550
Pioneer 1020B
Parkhill 22
Premier 169B
Reade Auth 64B
Reno 140B
St. Anthony 22 1-2B
Sherritt 82
Siscoe 281B
San Antonio 395
Stadacona 22
Sudbury Basin 130
Sylvanite 236
Teck Hughes 410B
Ventures 90
Wayside 17
Waite Amulet 61B
Wright Hargreaves 905B
Pickle Crow 266B
Paymaster 17B

TORONTO

Bell Telephone 126B.
B.A. Oil 14 1-2B.
Brewing Corp. 3 1-8B.
Braz. Trac. 9 1-8B.
Can. Bud Brewery 7 3-4B.
Can. Cement 5 7-8B.
Can. Dredge 20.
Can. Ind. Alcohol 8 5-8B.
C.P.R. 10 3-8.
Can. Malting 30B.
Can. Vinegar 27B.
Canada Car 6 1-4B.
Cons. Bakeries 13B.
Con. Smelting 130B.
Dominion Stores 8 7-8B.
Dist. Seagrams 15 3-4B.
Ford "A" 27 7-8.
Gypsum 5 1-4B.
Goodyear 125B.
Imp. Oil 16.
Inter. Pet. 21.
Imp. Tobacco 12B.
Loblaw 18 3-8B.
Massey Harris 3 7-8.
Mont. Power 28 7-8.
McColl Frontenac 13 3-4B.
Power Corp. 7B.
Steel of Canada 44B.
Superiest 22 1-2B.
Shawinigan 15 7-8B.
Walker's 27 1-2B.
Walker's, Pfd. 18.
Walkerville Brewery 3 1-2B.

NEW YORK

American Can. 115 3-4.
American T. and T. 102 1-2.
Amer. For. Power 3.
Anaconda 10 3-8.
Auburn 16.
Case 36 1-2.
Chrysler 34 1-4.
General Motors 28 1-4.
Elec. Auto Lite 20 1-2.
Inter. Telephone 6 1-2.
North American 11 3-4.
Montgomery Ward 23 5-8.
Radio 4 1-4.
Standard Oil of N.J. 37 1-4.
Standard Brands 14 1-2.
Stewart-Warner 7 1-4.
U.S. Smelters 103.
U.S. Steel 29.
United Aircraft 11 1-4.
Vanadium 14 1-4.
Westinghouse 35 5-8.

HEART AFFECTED BY POISON

Windsor, Ont., March 30 (CP)—Dr. S. M. Asselstine today reported an autopsy performed on the body of Peter Poloski showed the man's heart had been affected by the poison he had consumed and the lining of his stomach was eaten through by the alkaline substance. Ploski, father of eight children, died in hospital yesterday. He had been confined since last Saturday.

Produce Markets

(By United Farmers Co-Operative Company)

Toronto. — Wholesale prices on product delivered at Toronto as supplied by the United Farmers Co-operative Co. here to-day were:

Buying Prices

Eggs—
Grade A, large doz	.16
Grade A, medium, doz.	.14
Grade A, pullets, doz.	.14
Grade B, doz.	.13
Grade C, Doz.	.12
Butter—
Ontario, No. 1, Creamery, lb.	23½
Ontario, No. 2, Creamery, lb	.23
Churning Cream—
No. 1, lb.	.23
No. 2, lb.	.21

(F.O.B. shipping point)
Poultry

	Live "A"	Dressed "A"	Dressed Milkfed "A"
Hens—
Over 5 lbs.	.11	.14
4 to 5 lbs.	.10	.13
3 to 4 lbs.	.08	.11
Old roosters	.06	.08	..
Spring Chickens—
5½ to 6 lbs.	.12	.16	.18
5 to 5½ lbs.	.11	.15	.17
4½ to 5 lbs.	.10	.14	.16
Under 4½ lbs.	.09	.13	.15
Broilers—
1½ to 2½ lbs.	.11	.15	.17

Selling Prices

United Farmers Co-Operative Co. today were offering products to retail dealers at the following prices:

Eggs—
Grade A large, loose, doz.	.21
Grade A, medium, doz.	.19
Grade B, medium, doz.	.18
Grade C, doz.	.17
Butter—
No. 1, Creamery, prints	.26
No. 2, Creamery, prints	25½

Hay and Straw

No. 2 timothy hay, baled ton, $15.50 to $16.50; No. 3 timothy hay, ton, $13.00 to $14.00; straw, wheat, baled, ton, $10.00; oats straw, $8.50 to $9.50.

Clover Seeds Prices

Following are the prices for clover seed, in the dirt, to the farmer, f.o.b. at shipping point, according to quality: Red clover, $12 per bushel; alsike, $12 to $13; alfalfa, $9 to $10.

Graded Egg Prices

Toronto dealers today were paying the following nominal prices for graded eggs, cases free:

Grade A, medium, doz	.17
Grade A, large, doz.	.16
"A" pullets, doz.	.15

Fruit, Vegetable Prices

(By F. G. Lister and Co., Toronto)

Fruits (Domestic)—
Apples, cooking, hamper	1.25	1.50
Vegetables (Domestic)—
Carrots, bag	.35	.40
Mushrooms, lb.	.30
Onions, 100 lbs.	1.75	2.00
Ontario Potatoes	.60
Turnips, bag	.40

Dressed Meat Prices

Toronto. — Wholesale dealers are quoting the following prices to the trade for dressed meats:

Beef forequarters cwt	$ 6.00 to	$ 9.00
Do., hindquarters	12.00	15.00
Abattoir hogs, cwt.	13.00	14.00
Heavy hogs, cwt.	9.00	10.00
Lambs, cwt	13.00	15.00

Hides, Skin and Wool

Following prices are being quoted in Toronto for hides, skin and wool: City hides, green, 4c; brands, 3c; bulls, 3c; city calfskins, 7c; city kip, 6c; country hides, cured, 4c; hides, green, 3c; country calf, cured, 6c; country kip, cured, 5c; lamb skin, 20 to 35c each; horsehides, Nos. 1 and 2, at $1.50, with damaged and ponies at 75. Fleece wool, fine, 9c; medium, 8c; coarse, 8c; rejects (Burry, seedy, grey, black and cotted fleece) 4c; flat wool 7c, all delivered, Toronto.

Livestock Quotations

(Toronto)

Steers, up to 1,050 lbs., good and choice	5.50	6.25
do, medium	5.00	5.50
do., common	4.00	5.00
Steers, over 1050 lbs, good do medium	9.00	11.00
Calves, medium	9.50	11.00
Carcasses, choice	11.00	14.00
and choice	6.50	7.25
do, medium	6.00	6.50
do, common	5.25	6.00
Heifers, good and choice	5.50	5.75
do., medium	4.75	5.25
do., common	3.50	4.50
Fed calves good and choice	6.75	7.25
do, medium	5.50	6.50
Cows, good	3.50	4.00
do., medium	3.00	3.50
do, common	2.50	3.00
Canners and cutters	1.50	2.25
Bulls, good	3.50	4.00
do., common	2.75	3.25
Milkers and Springer	35.00	45.00
Stocker and feeder steers good	4.50	5.00
do., common	3.50	4.25
Calves good and choice veals	7.00	8.00
do, common to medium	4.00	6.50
do, grassers	3.00	3.50
Hogs, bacon f.o.b.	7.35
do, off cars	8.10
do., off truck	7.75
Good ewes and wether lambs	7.00	7.25
do, medium	6.75	7.00
do., bucks	6.00	6.50
do., culls	5.00	6.00
Sheep, good weight	3.50	4.00
do., heavies	2.50	3.25
do., culls	1.00	2.00

SOLID AS THE CONTINENT

Today, as when first uttered by Hon. Alexander MacKenzie, former Premier of Canada and first president of North American Life, this Company merits the description "Solid as the Continent". It is a mutual company. It is owned and controlled by its policyholders. Assure Mutually in North American Life.

NORTH AMERICAN LIFE
Solid As the Continent

M. W. SPALDING
District Manager
R. B. COOPER
Special Representative
235 Front Street Belleville

ALL PROFITS FOR POLICYHOLDERS

Fay Wray, May Robson and Victor Jory in "Mills of The Gods. Fay Wray, May Robson and Victor Jory have the principal roles in Columbia's "Mills of the Gods" a romantic drama of present-day industrial strife, which opens next Monday at the Capitol Theatre. Waymond Walburn and James Blakely appear in the supporting roles under the direction of Roy Willis in Neill.

ENGLISH FOOTBALL

LONDON, March 30—(CP Cable)—Results of soccer games played in the Old Country today follows:

English League Div 1

Aston Villa 1, Arsenal 3
Chelsea 4 (Four), Blackburn Rovers 2.
Derby County 0, Portsmouth 1
Everton 5 (five), Stoke City 0.
Grimsby Town 4 (Four), Birmingham 3.
Huddersfield Town 3, Manchester City 0
Leicester City 3, Liverpool 1
Preston North End 2, Sheffield Wednesday 1
Sunderland 3, Leeds United 0
Tottenham Hotspurs 0, West Bromwich Albion 1
Wolverhampton Wanderers 5 (five), Middlesborough 3.

English League —Div II

Barnsley 2, Blackpool 2
Bolton Wanders 1, Bradford 2
Bradford City 3, Newcastle United three.
Burnley 0, Brentford 3
Manchester United 3, Hull City 0
Notts County 1, Norwich City 0
Oldham Athletic 2, Fulham 1
Port Vale 0, Bury 1
Sheffield United 1, West Ham United 2
Southampton 1, Plymouth Argyle 0
Swansea Town 3, Notts Forest 0

Southern Section—Division III.

Aldershot 1, Bristol City 0.
Brighton 2, Coventry City 0.
Bristol Rovers 3, Reading 0.
Cardiff City 3, Millwall 1.
Charlton A. 0, Northampton T. 1.
Crystal Palace 1, Bournemouth 0.
Luton Town 3, Clapton Orient 0.
Queen's Park R. 2, Watford 1.
Southend U. 0, Gillingham 0.
Swindon Town 6, Exeter City 1.
Torquay U. 2, Newport County 1.

Northern Section—Division III.

Accrington S. 1, Halifax Town 1.
Chester 3, Mansfield Town 2.
Crewe Alexandra 1, Lincoln City 0.
Darlington 4, Rotherham U. 0.
Doncaster R. 3, Carlisle U. 0.
Gateshead 1, Wrexham 0.
Hartlepools U. 0, Rochdale 0.
New Brighton 3, Chesterfield 1.
Southport 0, Barrow 2.
Stockport Co. 1, Tranmere R. 0.
York City 4, Walsall 1.

Scottish League — Div. 1

Ayr United 3; Dundee 2.
Dunfermline 2; Patrick Thistle 1
Motherwell 3; St. Mirren 0
Queen of South 0; Kilmarnock 1

Scottish League Div. II

Arbroath 4; Dumbarton 0
Dundee United 4; East Stirling 0
East Fife 1; Third Lanark 3
Forfar Athletic 6; Stenhousemuir 4.
King's Park 4; Alloa 1
Leith Athletic 6; Edinburgh C. 0
Morton 4; Montrose 1
Raith Rovers 3; St. Bernard's 0.

Glasgow, March 30—Semi-final matches for the Scottish Soccer Cup played today resulted as follows:

Rangers 1; Hearts 1 (at Hampden Park).
Aberdeen 1; Hamilton Academicals 2 (at Celtic Park.)

MISSIONARY TELLS CIRCLE OF INDIA

Mrs. J. E. Chute Shows Slides of Life of Vast Country

Mrs. J. E. Chute, M.D., returned Baptist medical missionary from India, was the special speaker Friday night at a meeting of the Young Women's Mission Circle in the Victoria Avenue Baptist Church. Miss Gertrude Fisher, President, presided. Mrs. Wellbanks gave a delightful solo, "There is a Green Hill Far Away."

Dr. Chute's lecture on "India" was illustrated with lantern slides. Dr. Chute has worked in the mission field in that country for thirty-five years. She has in her possession a medal personally presented to her by His Majesty King George V. for fathful and untiring service in that great country.

The lantern slides revealed some of the different classes of people in India, their habits and dress. The slides even delved into the musty temples built by the old Indian priests. These temples were of magnificent structure and architecture.

Pictures of Indian princes, some of whom are going to attend the Jubilee to be held in England this year were shown. One picture was of the temple built in honour of Thomas the Disciple, whom it is alleged entered India as a missionary only to die there.

The lecture and lantern slides were very informative and opened up a new knowledge of this great and mystifying country.

MUST PAY WITH LIFE

Jefferson City, Mo., March 30 — (AP)—Walter H. McGee, first kidnapper to be sentenced to death in the United States, must pay with his life for the ransom abduction nearly two years ago of Mary McElroy, daughter of the city manager of Kansas City, the Missouri Supreme Court decreed today.

The court set the execution for May 10 in the Jackson County jail at Kansas City. Hanging is the method of execution in Missouri.

MAPLE SYRUP IS REDUCED IN PRICE

Quite Plentiful And Sells For $1.75 Gallon on Market

During the past week owing to scarcity and demand certain seed grains advanced considerably in price namely $2 a bushel. They were alfalfa, timothy, red clover and alsike. Prices for other grains remained stationary. The Saturday market was largely attended by sellers and buyers and considerable trading was the result. Maple Syrup was quite plentiful and a reduction of 25 cents a gallon from $2 to $1.75. Maple Sugar at 30 cents a pound. In dairy products the only change to note in price was eggs, which retailed at 17 cents for No. 1 and 14c to 15 cents for pullet eggs. Butter sold at 25 cents per pound. Fish vendors did considerable business, with pike predominating and selling at 14 cents per pound. Other fish offered for sale were mud cats and coarse fish. No changes to note in vegetable prices.

Quotations were as follows:

Alfalfa	$14.00 to $16.00
Fall wheat, bus	$ 1.00
Spring wheat, bus	.85
Barley, bus	.65
Oats, bus	.34
Rye, bus	.60
Timothy, bus	10.00
Buckwheat, bus	.45
Red Clover, bus	14.00
Alsike, bus.	$14.00 to 15.00
Dressed hogs, cwt	10.00
Live hogs, cwt	7.25
Dressed beefs, fore, cwt	6.00
Dressed beef, hind, cwt	8.00
Butter lb	.25
Eggs, No. 1 dozen	.17
Pullets eggs, dozen	.15 to .16
Geese	1.25 to 2.00
Chickens	.60 to 1.00
Ducks	.80 to 1.00
Potatoes per bag	.50
Apples peck	.35 to .50
Onions, peck	.40
Carrots, peck	.30
Parsnips, peck	.30
Turnips, peck	.30
Beets, peck	.25
Green Onions, bunch	.05
Rhubarb, bunch	.10
Lettuce, bunch	.05
Radishes, bunch	.10
Beef hides, lb.	2 to 2 1-2c.
Veal Skins, lb	.04
Deacon Skins, each	.20
Sheep Skins	.20 to .25
Horse Hides	1.00
Lake Salmon, lb	.16
Pike, lb	.14
Mudcats lb	.18
White Fish	.22
Maple Syrup, quart	.50

GOREN PICKED UP FOR SECOND TIME

Russian Transient Does Not Stay Away as Instructed

After being told to "shake the dust of the city from his heels" early yesterday, a Russian transient giving his name as Jack Goren and his address as Ottawa, again found himself in trouble as he was causing considerable stir at the Albert College Friday afternoon. Goren it was established, was endeavouring to convince the officials at the institution that he needed work when the local police arrived and took him into custody for the second time inside of 24 hours. Goren was remanded in custody until Monday on a charge of vagrancy.

Wearing thread-bare clothes Goren had been taken to the city limits by police yesterday morning and instructed to "keep going". He proceeded westward afoot and is known to have procured a mid-day meal at a farm house two miles west of Belleville. Later he was seen by Traffic Officers making his way back towards Belleville. City police were informed and set out to find the man.

When he first presented himself at the office of the Albert College Goren requested employment, but according to police changed his pleadings to requests of higher education possibilities. At any rate after some little persuasion on the part of the principal of the school, Goren was persuaded to accompany the officer, they stated. Upon searching Goren at the police station he was found in possession of two large bunches of keys, many automobile keys being in evidence. On Wednesday night Goren is known to have spent the night in the Napanee lock-up. Police are led to believe Goren may be mentally unbalanced.

LERROUX SUCCEEDS SELF

Madrid, March 30—(AP)—Alejandro Lerroux was named today to succeed himself as Premier and form a new government in the crisis brought about by the voting of clemency for a score of men condemned to death as participants in the October revolt.

LEGS SEVERED ABOVE ANKLES

Toronto, March 30 (CP)—Trying to board a moving Canadian National Railways freight train today, William Buchan, 21, of Sioux Lookout, Ont., fell beneath a box car and had both his legs severed just above the ankles. He was taken to the hospital where his condition is serious.

RUPTURED
End your rupture troubles with our advanced method. No leg straps. No steel. No elastic. Light. Inexpensive. Guaranteed. Write for full information.
SMITH MANUFACTURING CO.
Dept. 66. Preston, Ont.
Established 1893

DEMONSTRATION
Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday of the Famous
Flo-Glaze
Four Hour Enamel

Each Day There will be Given Away Free a BED TABLE

MR. JONES of the FLO-GLAZE organization will be in charge of the demonstration

Bring your painting and decorating troubles and he will solve them to your satisfaction.

ASK FOR A COUPON you may win a bed table. Coupons given to all attending the Demonstration

NO OBLIGATION TO PURCHASE

Walker Hardware
COMPANY LIMITED
248-250 Front St. Phone 163

Current Attractions at Local Theatres
What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL
"Mills of the Gods"

May Robson Superb in this Dramatic Picture of Modern Industrial Life

"Mills of the Gods," dramatic film which opens Monday at the Capitol Theatre, is, above everything else, a heartening personal triumph for that grand trouper, May Robson. The lavishness of this deserving praise is only evident when you consider that "Mills of the Gods" is a vivid and unforgettable screen drama fashioned out of the story of a once great family whose individual fortunes take a dramatic turn when the great industrial crisis arrives. May Robson's sterling portrayal dominates the action and characters with a moving power. It is a finer performance than her "Lady For A Day"—which is praise indeed.

Surrounded by an excellent supporting cast including Fay Wray, Victor Jory, James Blakely, Raymond Walburn and Albert Conti, the picture presents Miss Robson as Mary Hastings, mistress of a giant industrial plant. She has a brood of worthless children and grandchildren who are disporting themselves in all corners of the world, selfish, pleasure seeking, who can't be bothered with such flat and gauche affairs as financial statements and sales charts.

The depression takes its toll and the mills face stringent circumstances. The children, taking charge, blunder and confuse the situation in a selfish attempt to close the mills completely, giving rise to an uprising by mill workers and laborers.

The climax is a stirring and gripping sequence during which May Robson achieves a superb scene when she faces a rioting mob and sobers them into ceasing their disturbances by the power and domination of her mere presence.

Fay Wray, as Jean, the granddaughter; Victor Jory as the labor agitator in love with Jean; James Blakely as the weak, emotional grandson and Raymond Walburn as the impractical, foolhardy son, Willard, turn in capital performances in their respective roles.

The Personality Kid

A romance of the prize ring, "The Personality Kid," with a strong all star cast headed by Pat O'Brien, Glenda Farrell and Claire Dodd will be shown in conjunction with the above mentioned feature.

The three form the triangle of a unique romance in which a society girl battles with a woman prize fight manager for the love of a palooka boxer. Pat O'Brien is cast as the "pork-and-beaner," with Miss Farrell as his wife and manager, and Miss Dodd as the social patron of the ring who is looking for diversion and an atavistic thrill.

The picture is said to be filled with fast action in addition to its romance, several fistic battles taking place with real champion battlers pitted against O'Brien, notably "Mushy" Callahan and Marvin Scheher. It is set in the colorful atmosphere of boxing emporiums and gymnasiums with two of the fights taking place in Jim Jeffries barn, famous in North Hollywood as a boxing emporium. The former world' heavyweight champion and many lesser lights of the squared circle will be seen in the picture as extras.

DuBarry Dinnerware Monday and Tuesday.

Complete shows 2:30: 7.15: 9.15.

Last Times Tonight

"Limehouse Blues", with George Raft and Jean Parker and "Gridiron Flash," starring Eddie Quillan.

AT THE BELLE
"Scarlet Pimpernel"

Outstanding Picture of Baroness Orczy's Famous Book

During the next few days people will be hurrying home from the Belle theatre after seeing that beautifully filmed thriller, "The Scarlet Pimpernel" which is playing at the Belle Theatre Today, Monday and Tuesday, matinee and evening, to hunt up an old copy of the book by the Baroness Orczy and see how nearly Leslie Howard, as Sir Percy Blakely, followed the text, and to re-read with the picture in their mind of the villainies of Chauvelin as played by Raymond Massey. You will have to see this famous fool and his foil, the villain, to realize what a tragedy it would have been had not their creator created them, as it were, accidentally.

The Baroness told of the narrow escape herself when she visited Toronto.

She and her English husband were living in modest lodgings in London sharing in the joys and sorrows of family life, when one day the husband won a prize for a story. The baroness, a Hungarian by birth, went upstairs thinking and thinking hard. Finally she said to her husband that she didn't see why she shouldn't write a story, too. Husband-like, he said he didn't see why she should. But the idea persisted in spite of these views and so we got one of the most engaging characters in fiction—the young English nobleman who, with a few brave and adventurous youths of his own calibre, performed feats of daring.

Lovely Merle Oberon, who made an instant hit with moviegoers when she appeared as Anne Boleyn in "Henry VIII" and who is now featured with Maurice Chevalier in the United Artist Hollywood production of "Follies Bergere", achieves real stardom as the beauteous Lady Blakeney who unwittingly betrayed her husband the phantom Pimpernel, to his enemies.

For sheer entertainment, this magnificent picture of romantic entertainment will be hard to beat.

Wayside Flower Symbol

"The Scarlet Pimpernel" is a tiny flower which grows in the country lanes of England. Owing to its vivid scarlet colour, it shows up at the foot of hedges like a tiny flame.

Baroness Orczy, a keen botanist, chose this little flower as the symbol of the daring band of secret adventurers in her famous novel "The Scarlet Pimpernel", now at the Belle.

In secret and unknown even to their wives, these gallant Englishmen hazarded their lives every time they crossed the English channel to rescue individuals or families condemned to death.

Popeye the Sailor in his latest jamboree "Pleased to Meet Cha", the Belle Latest News of the world, and the famous A & P Gypsies in a barrage of melody and harmony, will be exhibited on the same program.

The feature offering begins daily at 3.00, 7.40 and 9.40. Complete shows daily at 2.30, 7.10 and 9.10.

MARIE IN 14 LB. CLASS

Callander, Ont., Mar. 30 (CP)—Baby Marie, mite of the Dionne quintuplets, passed an important milestone in her life today, as she moved past the 14-pound mark. Only nine ounces behind Emilie, next heaviest of the famous ten-months-two-days-old babies, Marie added three ounces to reach a total of 14 pounds one ounce.

All of the babes showed gains today, a reversal of their form yesterday, when four of the five recorded losses.

Guardians of the Desert

By TOM GILL

Two riders coming at full gallop down the long lane caused Dick to look up, and recognising Nora's familiar figure, his eyes kindled, then quickly clouded as he saw close behind her, Captain O'Hearn. Urging their horses, they thundered by, and around the parade ground, and once the girl looked back at her companion and waved mockingly the distance between them widened. Laughing and breathless, they halted where the officers of the post were gathered, and Dick watched them draw up beside the central car where a middle-aged woman was sitting. For a time they talked, then Nora rode back alone toward the officers' quarters and O'Hearn, to Dick's surprise, came galloping across the parade ground and drew rein before him and Stub.

"It was just pointing you out to Mother," he announced, with that ready smile of his. "She sent me to bring you over, and, as she puts it, relieve the boredom of this polo game that's coming. I'm going back to my troop and I'd be delighted if you would both sit with her while Nora's changing her clothes over at the quarters."

Dick glanced up at Stub, who looked non-committally out over the parade ground, then answered, "We'll be very happy," and spurred forward.

Mrs. O'Hearn was a large, ample woman, with hair that once had been as red as her son's until the years bleached it to a muddy white. But the years had in no way damaged the strength that lay in her aggressive chin nor dimmed the alertness of her quick, active eyes, and now she regarded both men keenly as the captain presented them. Her interest centred on Lowell.

"At last I'm to meet the son of an old friend." Her voice, carefully modulated, carried the impression of one well able to weigh her words. "For the past ten years I've been hearing many interesting things about you, Dick Lowell, some good, some bad."

Dick smiled. "Probably both were true."

"I shouldn't doubt it. I'm hoping especially the bad part is true. It would be so much easier then, if I chose later to dislike you."

Again she looked at him appraisingly. "But I don't quite see how I could. Besides, I don't want to. Heaven knows there are few enough presentable people around Verde that one can feel free in inviting to one's home."

She turned to include Stub in the conversation. "Don't you think so?" she asked smiling.

Imperturbably he looked back at her. "I sure do," he agreed. "This whole country's cluttered up with a lot of broken-down sheep herders and ex-bartenders."

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

Dismounting, they sat beside her in the car, accepting the cigarettes she offered.

The woman was still considering Stub. "My son tells me you're living with Mr. Lowell."

Airily Stub replied. "Oh, I'm his guest temporarily while my estate over in Mexico is being repaired."

"You're not married, then?"

He shook his head. "No, ma'am. Then he stooped to pick up his cigarette as Dick dealt him a vicious kick beneath the laprobe.

* * * *

Thoughtfully for a time the woman watched Dick, then as if suddenly reaching a difficult decision, she leaned forward, and taking a cigarette, addressed him directly.

"You know, I had a purpose in asking you to sit here with me, Mr. Lowell, a purpose quite in addition to the pleasure of meeting the son of a dear friend. So don't think I'm abrupt if I come to the point before we're interrupted. It's about —Miss Barnes. She's your neighbour, isn't she?"

"Neighbor, one-time playmate, and very old friend."

She beamed at him. "Then you really can help me. My son has been riding a great deal with her recently. In fact, since everyone knows, it I might as well confess Pat's infatuated with her, and being the doting mother of an only boy —" She hesitated. "Of course you know how it is, don't you?"

Dick was far from sure that he did know, so he maintained a neutral, expectant silence.

"Now, one can't ask questions promiscuously in these small border towns, can one?" the voice hurried on. "And that's why I'm coming to you. It would help so much for you to tell me what you know of Nora Barnes— frankly, and, of course, in confidenec."

Dick's eyes lit dangerously. "There is nothing I might say about Nora that need be said in confidence, Mrs. O'Hearn, but I'm not even sure I know just what you want to learn."

"Well, about her mother. Wasn't there something peculiar there?"

"I can't think of anything peculiar. When Nora's mother first married she already had made some success abroad as an opera singer. She came out here to the desert, where everything was different, and where everyone's interest lay in a world apart from hers. So it was not very surprising that a few years after Nora's birth her mother decided to go back to the old life and live abroad. Since her father's death Nora herself has spent some time in Europe with her mother, but the desert is her real home—as it is mine. Naturally she has acquired a metropolitan outlook, perhaps a Bohemian one, that the good people of Verde may or may not understand or approve of. She goes her own way, thinks her own thoughts, and probably intends to live her own life, unfettered by whatever anyone else may choose to do."

"In other words, she is one of those—" Mrs. O'Hearn hesitated, —"one of those young emancipated persons? The world is becoming so filled with them." Again she graciously included Stub with a little smile and a questioning, "Don't you agree?"

But the conversation had gone far beyond Stub. "There's lots of us in this country that don't give two whoops in hell what the other fellow thinks," he hazarded, and looked inquiringly at Dick to see if he was touching just the right note.

It may be Mrs. O'Hearn thought a little explanation due. "You see, I ask all this—" She stopped.

Dick nodded. "I understand."

She gave him what was intended to be a sympathetic smile. "When one has an only boy—"

"One can't be too careful," Dick prompted.

"Exactly. Pat and Nora have been riding together constantly, and of course—well, one must look to the future. You see, Mr. Lowell, I don't know the West very well, and when I first came out here I thought Nora's— shall we call it frank and open manner—was part of the country. But I find she's really very sophisticated — extremely sophisticated. She almost takes my breath away."

"Dick laughed. "Nora takes all our breath away."

Mrs. O'Hearn patted the fold of her skirt. "I'm not sure I like people to be to sophisticated. I like people to be quiet and restrained and friendly." Again she beamed. "Just as you seem to be."

With difficulty Stub held back a smile as he remembered the scene of a few nights before, when Dick, gun in hand, stood ready to shoot his way through the cantina door.

Already the polo exhibition had begun, but without giving it more than a passing glance, Mrs. O'Hearn went on. "I thought of writing to your father, for I understand he and Nora are great friends."

"That's true. Father told me more than once that Nora has been more comfort to him than either of his own children."

"I'm sure he was joking."

"I'm sure he wasn't.'

Again the woman hesitated, then she plunged. "I daresay they are very prosperous—Nora and her brother?"

Dick had been waiting for this very approach, and his eyes grew bright with anger at the thought of this woman calmly sounding him out, deliberately inviting him with the set purposes of learning whether financially as well as otherwise Nora Barnes might be an attractive match for this precious son of hers. He lighted a cigarette, and for a time watched the players sweeping across the field.

"It depends on what you mean by prosperous," he began.

"Of course," she interrupted, "I've heard that when the big ditch is finished their land will be worth a hundred times what it is now. That would Nora a very wealthy girl."

He smiled evenly into her eyes. "It should, shouldn't it?"

She seemed to be weighing his reply, as the polo exhibition ended, and again the band blared forth while the players trotted from the field. From somewhere behind them a bugle sounded, and Mrs. O'Hearn leaned for ward, instantly alert.

"You must both watch this," she cautioned. "My son, the captain, will lead the troop in manoeuvres." Very obviously the woman's life revolved wholly about the person and career of Captain Pat O'Hearn.

Dick looked up reluctantly. The parade ground lay empty beneath the afternoon sun, but from the farther end of the reservation a column of cavalry swung at a trot down the avenue, amid the applause of the spectators. Trim and fit, they advanced in close order, the mountings of the horses clanking as they moved, brightly polished leather shining, each trooper sitting his horse easy and erect, while the swords of the officers flashed at "Present Sabre."

Perfectly trained they made an impressive spectacle as they clattered down the avenue, and following Mrs. O'Hearn's eyes, Dick saw Nora standing not far away beside the car of one of the ranchmen. She, too, was looking intently at the captain as he led his men through the first of the manoeuvres.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

For nearly an hour the troop marched and counter-marched across the parade ground, sometimes in columns of fours, sometimes in long line of platoons, taking the hurdles without effort, riding knee to knee, the men swaying in unison to every motion of their mounts. They rode brilliantly, each trooper a perfectly functioning part of that smoothly moving whole. Accurate and effortless at each word of command the platoons flowed from formation to formation, now at the trot, now at full gallop, in line, column and echelon, standards waving on the flank, while O'Hearn riding ever before them, stiff and erect, called his orders in a voice heard easily even by the rear platoon commanders. Then at the end, to climax it all, the troop threw itself into line, and at a shout of command and a wave of O'Hearn's naked sabre, each trooper whipped his sword to "Charge Sabre" and with a cheer and a pounding of horses' hoofs, they charged at a frantic gallop the full length of the parade ground. Heads low, steel glittering in outstretched hand, they thundered past, followed by a volley of applause, then disappeared toward their barracks.

Again the broad parade ground lay empty, and once more the band burst out with its martial music while the ponies of the cowboys reared and pranced, as if keeping time to the march.

And now the bugle sounded, loud and clear, signalling the great final event in that day of fiesta—the pistol contest.

* * * *

Already a truck had driven to the centre of the parade ground and a detail of soldiers quickly erected a wall of sand-filled bags to act as a backstop for the bullets. In direct line with this, two sergeants were measuring off a distance of twenty yards. One end they marked with a broad white line, and at the other they erected two steel supports, high as a tall man's shoulder, joining them by an iron bar fitted with a shallow groove. Within the groove, O'Hearn as judge of the contest, stood five silver dollars upright. These, in the traditional custom of the border, were to be the targets—targets difficult enough to hit at that distance, but now rendered even more deceptive by the setting sun that cast long, illusive shadows across the parade ground.

Again the sound of the bugle, and this time O'Hearn called for the contestants. Immediately from among his own officers a young first lieutenant stepped, the army post's best pistol shot, and a moment later Bull Pablo jumped from his horse and came swaggering across the parade ground, twirling an automatic about his middle finger. Behind him rose the shouts of confident encouragement from all Sari's following.

But as Bull Pablo stepped to the firing line beside the lieutenant an even wilder din broke out from the ranks of cowboys, for Dick had touched the reins of his horse, and raising his hat to Mrs. O'Hearn, rode forward.

Yet instead of joining the contest-Yet instead of joining the contestants he rode directly toward Nora Barnes, and stopping his horse before her, asked quietly, "Will you wish me luck, Nora?"

She looked up at him. Silently, unsmilingly, those great eyes of hers regarded him, those questioning eyes that for a brief second seemed to hold a lurking sorrow beyond the reach of words. At last, with an effort, she smiled. "Luck," she whispered, and fleetingly her hand touched the mane of her horse. Then she turned away.

And now once again the parade ground echoed and re-echoed to cowboy whoops as Dick trotted forward and dismounting, wrapped the reins about the saddle horn, then with a word to his mare, sent her back to where the other ponies stood.

Losing no time, O'Hearn announced the conditions of the contest. It was getting late, and for that reason would be an elimination event. Each contestant was to fire a series of five shots at the targets, and the man scoring the fewest hits would drop out, leaving the two remaining to fire the deciding round. In case of a tie, the firing would continue. Without further delay, lots were drawn, and it fell to the lieutenant to shoot first, Pablo second, and Dick last.

Standing bolt upright, one foot a little advanced, the officer raised his .45 automatic and fired slowly, methodically, pausing each time to aim with unhurried care. Five shots. Firing ceased. One coin alone remained upright, the rest torn and shattered by the terrific impact of the bullets.

"Four hits." O'Hearn announced, and a burst of applause rose from the officers' group.

"Let these desert sharpshooters beat that in this tricky light," a grizzled sergeant muttered defiantly.

Pablo laughed and cocked his heavy, long-barrelled automatic, that favorite model throughout the length and breadth of the border. Deliberate, sure of himself, he stepped forward until toes of his cowboy boots protruded [illegible] the scowl Pablo reluctantly toed the line. He raised his gun, sighted, and slowly, one by one, with a kind of measured rhythm the shots rang out, and at the end of those five shots every silver dollar had disappeared. A perfect score!

From every side burst spontaneous applause, while Sari's men gave themselves up to an orgy of profane delight.

Slowly the shouting died, and now Dick stepped to the line his tall, straight figure silhouetted against the dying sun.

Dead silence fell. In all that watching circle of men and women not one moved or spoke. The wind itself had fallen, and from the flagpole high above the colors drooped, tranquil and motionless.

Quiety Lowell stood looking for a moment at those five shining targets before him, then levelling his gun— almost without aiming, it seemed—his automatic cracked five times, in rapid staccato, and as the echo of the last shot rattled across the parade ground the astonished spectators saw that not a target remained. Pablo's score had been tied!

This time it was the cowboys' turn to be jubilant, and the desert air trembled with their cries, with the hoofbeats of their plunging ponies, and the loud snapping of their quirts, while the lieutenant, smiling with perfect good nature at his defeat, left the field to the two remaining contestants.

Bull Pablo's face curled in a grin of derision as he turned to Captain O'Hearn. "That's too damned easy. We'll be shooting here till the moon rises. Put us back ten yards and see what happens."

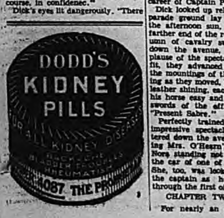
Questioningly O'Hearn looked at Dick. "Shall we?" he asked.

"Why not?" Dick's answering smile was untroubled.

Quickly the added distance was measured off and the two contestants stood side by side thirty yards distant from their targets while a murmur of surprise rose from among the spectators. "No more perfect scores now," one rancher murmured to his neighbor.

(To be Continued)

(Copyright 1933, by Tom Gill, Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)



Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee

The magnificent spectacle of the Durbar at Delhi, India in 1911

ARGUE, persuade, cajole, plead as they might, Britain's ministers could not convict King George and Queen Mary that they should not go to India for another coronation ceremony at Delhi.

The King and Queen felt that it was in the best interests of the Empire and their decision could not be moved — in fact, it was only strengthened—when they were told of the dangers of assassination by an ever-growing anti-British element in India.

It was characteristic of the royal couple so recently coronated at Westminster Abbey, that they never shunned places of danger if they thought any good purpose could be served by their appearance.

As it turned out, their visit to India served a good purpose. The masses turned out in myriads to see the gorgeous Durbar at Delhi: all the ruling princes with their brilliant entourages attended. They spent lavishly from their huge fortunes to produce a magnificent spectacle—one that fairly dazzled.

The Durbar was held on December 12, 1911, at Delhi. Millions of India's masses looked on; the new King was popular and no untoward incident occurred to mar the majesty of the occasion.

Our picture to-day shows the King-Emperor and the Queen-Empress seated in their gilded thrones under the shamiana or canopy There they received the ruling princes of the land and the King spoke to the United people of his Indian Empire.

It was on this occasion that the King announced the transference of the capital of India from Calcutta to Delhi. He also announced many constitutional reforms.

Wherever they went, great celebrations and ceremonies were held; all India rejoiced for weeks, the visit of their King-Emperor.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

BRIDGE STREET UNITED CHURCH

Rev. J. Semple, B.A., S.T.B., Th.D., Minister
V. P. Hunt, A.A.G.O., Organist and Choir Leader

11 a.m.
RE-THINKING THE CHURCH
2.30—Sunday School and Men's Class.
7.00 p.m.
The Laymen will have complete charge of the service. Subject:
THE CHURCH AND THE PEOPLE
Men's Choir of Forty Voices will lead the Music.
8.15 — Fireside Hour

TABERNACLE UNITED CHURCH

Rev. I. B. Naylor, Minister
11.00 a.m.—"THE DARING OF JESUS."
2.30 p.m.—Sunday School. Adult Bible Class.
7.00 p.m.—"THE HARDEST WORD IN THE LANGUAGE."
A Service of Song and Fellowship
Mrs. F. J. Bradley, Choir Leader Mrs. M. P. Duff, Organist

HOLLOWAY STREET UNITED CHURCH

Minister: Rev. R. E. Newman - Music: Clifford Templer A.T.C.M.
11.00 a.m.—PRAYER.
2.30 p.m.—Sunday School and Young People's Bible Class.
7.00 p.m.—PRACTICAL CHRISTIANITY.

JOHN STREET UNITED CHURCH

Minister: Robert Hall, B.A., B.D.
Sunday School 2.30 p.m.
Music: Miss Leona Riggs Mr. Alec Gordon
11.00 a.m.—Rev. A. J. Wilson, M.A., B.D., of Napanee.
7.00 p.m.—The Minister.
8.15 p.m.—Sing Song and Social Hour

St. ANDREW'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. W. J. Walker, B.A., B.D., Minister
11.00 a.m.—"THE WAY TO GOD."
2.30 P.M.—Sabbath School and Bible Class.
7.00 p.m.—"RELIGION AND MORALITY."
Services conducted by the Rev. W. Harold Reid, M.A.
Organist and Choir Leader
Ernest Wheatley, Mus. Bac., F. Gld. C. M.

VICTORIA AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH

ALEXANDER GRANT SINCLAIR—Minister
11.00 a.m.—The first sermon in a series on "The Seven Words from the Cross."
3.00 p.m.—Sunday School.
7.00 p.m.—"THE STAND OF NICODEMUS."
Mon., 8 p.m. B.Y.P.U. Wed., 8 p.m., Quarterly Business Meeting
Tuesday, 7.30 p.m.—Ordination ceremony. Address by Rev. Prof. M. L. Orchard, M.A., B.D., of McMaster University.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND

Fourth Sunday in Lent.

CHRIST CHURCH

Rev. G. G. Wright. L. Th. Rector

8 a.m. Holy Communion; 11 a.m. Matins; 3 p.m. Sunday School; 7 p.m. Evensong. Service for parents and children at St. George's Church at 3 p.m.

CHURCH OF ST. THOMAS

Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne. Vicar

8 a.m. Holy Communion; 11 a.m. Matins; 3 p.m. Sunday School; 7 p.m. Evensong.

THE SALVATION ARMY CITADEL

Adjutant and Mrs. A. W. Martin, Officers in Charge.
Saturday, 8 p.m.—PRAISE AND PRAYER.
Sunday—11 a.m.—The Corps Officers.
3.15 p.m.—Campaign Comments.
7.00 p.m.—Major Wallace Bunton, J.P., S.A. Prison Secretary for Ontario.
Monday, 8.00 p.m.—Public Salvation Meeting.
The Fire Burns Brightly Here

REGULAR BAPTIST CHURCH
(Masonic Building)
Pastor: J. Scott
7 p.m.
"What is Wrong With Protestantism?"
You are cordially invited to attend this service

ALLIANCE
West Moira and Coleman Sts.
10 a.m.—Sunday School.
11 a.m.
Devotions With the Book
7 p.m.
A Diagnosis and Cure
Rev. W. McArthur

80TH BIRTHDAY MARKED BY PARTY

Carrying Place—A very enjoyable party was held on Monday evening last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Weese with some thirty guests gathering there to celebrate the eightieth birthday of Mr. Weese's mother, Mrs. J. Weese. Numbered among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Weese of Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. J. Garrison, all of Rednersville, Mrs. Chas. Ward of Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Humphrey of Bloomfield, Mr. Aubrey Weese of Trenton, Mrs. George Leemin of Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Wannamaker, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Germain, and Mrs. J. Hawkins of his community. During the evening brief addresses of congratulation were made by Messrs. Ed. Crowder of Trenton and Peter Harris. Many of the guests enjoyed playing euchre during the earlier evening, and later a delicious birthday supper was served. Mrs. Weese, recipient of numerous delightful and tastefully chosen gifts, replied to the donors in fitting words. Mrs. Weese is far from her age. She is as young as ever, she says, and not without reason. Community congratulations are offered her, along with sincere wishes that she may see many more such happy occasions.

Workers on the Trenton highway are busy this week taking down the snow-fences, rolling them and putting them into summer storage. In so far as transportation is concerned motorists at least are glad that there has been so little, during the past season, for the snow-fences to do.

Work began last week on the concrete repairing of the piers of several of the bridges on the Murray Canal. In charge of the reconstruction is Mr. Reuben Ellis.

A large number of local and Gardenville men are employed this week building fence along the course of the Trenton-Glenora-Kingston scenic highway, just near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Macdonald and the Youngs' school-house.

The senior room of the local school was closed on Tuesday afternoon while Mr. and Mrs. Norrington attended in Picton the funeral of the latter's grandfather, Mr. Louis St. Peter.

After spending the winter in Detlor near Bancroft Mr. E. H. Hennessey returned to his home here on Sunday last. Mr. Percy Green drove the seventy-odd miles without encountering special difficulty.

Fishermen in Bay of Quinte waters are jubilant as fish returns continue high. After months of effort, ill rewarded, the nets are at last beginning to give really worthwhile lifts, and in spite of an occasional ducking when the soft ice crumbles the men are enjoying the spring fishing season.

Mrs. George Leeman of Belleville, formerly Miss Lavina Weese of this community, is seriously ill in hospital with the necessity of an operation threatened. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Allan Barker and brother Deke of Trenton spent part of Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hennessey and family.

It is reported in the community that two more horses have been lost locally recently. Mr. C. Snider of Gardenville and Mr. C. Jones of Twelve O'Clock Point sustaining the losses.

CITY STREETS NEED BUT LITTLE REPAIR

Except for the minor patching of roads throughout the city and other repairs, department of public works will engage in little spring work this season, it was reported at the office of the city engineer. Roads have come through the winter in good shape, and little actual work will be necessary to put them in shape for the coming summer. No program of spring work has been planned by the department, and few employees will be needed to complete the work.

HORSESHOE PITCHERS BUSY ON COURTS

The musical clink of thrown horseshoes is heard this week at the side of the skating arena, where devotees of the sport have been practicing on the popular courts since the advance of warmer weather in preparation for a full season of competition just ahead. Gaining in popularity yearly, this season may see the greatest number of teams yet to be entered in district competitions, according to one well known member.

ALLEGE BOARDS USED TO START BONFIRE

Police Hold Two Boys at Chatham For Vagrancy

Chatham, Ont., March 29.—(CP) —Found warming themselves before a bonfire near the Canadian Pacific Railway coal chute fed by shingles and boards they are said to have torn from a nearby frame building, two Border youths are being held on vagrancy charges by Provincial Police.

The youths gave their names as Andrew Pare, 18, East Windsor, and Earl Gilbert, 19, of Windsor. They pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Magistrate S. B. Arnold and were remanded to jail for a week.

ARTISTS URSURP GOD DECLARES DR. PHELAN

Composers, Painters and Poets of Certain Class Attacked

Sandwich, Ont., March 29 (CP)—There is a trend abroad today in Art as exemplified by Picasso's painting, music of certain composers and the poetry of some writers, wherein the artists usurp unto themselves the power of God, declared Dr. G. B. Phelan before an audience at Assumption College last night.

President of the Institute of Medieval Studies at St. Michael's College, Toronto, Dr. Phelan said these artists make their art conform to their own minds until they acually become idolators.

THROAT, WRIST INJURIES MAY NOT BE FATAL

Brockville, Ont., March 29.—(CP) —Physicians believe Andrew Shipman, 64, of Escott, will recover from wounds on the throat and wrists. Shipman, former railway trackman, has been in ill health for some months and was found yesterday in Jonas Hagerman's farm, his wrists and throat slashed. Kenneth Johnston, son-in-law, found him after he discovered a note Shipman wrote.

SENTENCED FOR WOUNDING

OWEN SOUND, Ont., March 29—Frank Green of Toronto today was sentenced to one year determinate and six months indeterminate by Magistrate E. C. Spereman for stabbing Dougal McConnachie, Owen Sound. Green was convicted last week of inflicting with a sheath knife a wound in McConnachie's leg following an altercation over a girl.

MANSLAUGHTER CASE WAS ENLARGED

Chatham, Ont., March 29.—(CP) —Preliminary hearing of Dr. Stanely A. Richardson of Wallaceburg, former mayor of the town, on a charge of manslaughter arising out of the death of an 18-year-old girl has been set for Thursday. Bail of $20,000 was renewed today. It is alleged the girl died following an illegal operation.

SEAL HERDS MOVE

Portland, Ore., March 28— The great annual migration of the seal herds to their summer resorts in the cold waters of the Bering Sea is on.

The United States Coast Guard cutter Onondaga will put out of Astoria to convoy the herd northward and fend off poachers who would rob these sea beasts of their valuable coats of fur.

Hockey
Current Sport

IN THE REALM OF SPORTING EVENTS

Basketball
Bowling

Kingston 'Y' Garner Majority Of Points in Swimming Meet

Belleville Finished Second And Peterboro Third at Albert Pool

The Kingston Y. M. C. A. swimmers walked off with the major events in the second annual inter-city swimming meet to be held under the sponsorship of the local "Y" at the Albert College swimming pool last night. The Belleville "Y" swimmers took second honors while the Peterboro contingent followed in the wake in last position, Kingston enmassing a total of 61 points, Belleville 37 and Peterborough "Y" 31. Despite the marked difference in the ultimate aggregate scores the competition was most keen throughout and saw repeated thrilling finishes in all events, more particularly the dashes.

The second annual inter-city swimming meet to be held in Belleville drew so many contestants, that it was necessary to conduct many of the 15 events in the heat or relay system, the winners of each heat meeting in the finals. One tank record was equalled, when Lionel Blaker of the Belleville "Y" chased Tom Harris of Kingston across the finishing line in the 40 yard back stroke to force Harris to swim the distance in 27 seconds flat. Other tank records were approached, but none broken. The meet was largely attended by over 150 interested spectators, who filled the gallery and also the annex below. Keen competition marked the meet and found every event drawing the loud applause and approval of the fans and non-contestants. Many hair-breath finishes were witnessed some of which caused serious perusal on the part of the judges to actually determine the winner. Especially of note was the performance of the feminine entries.

During the evening a period of exhibition and fancy diving was presented by some of the members of the Kingston and Belleville "Y" teams. The many graceful dives from the spring-board, such as the swan-dive, the gainer, the jack-knife, back flips and many other features from the spring-board were presented to add color and grace to the performance, that lasted well over two hours. The swimming and diving exhibitions were thoroughly enjoyed and the meet materially assisted the sport throughout the district.

Senior: 40 yards free style—Allan, Peterboro; McDermid, Kingston; Cather, Belleville. Time 22.3 secs.

100 yards, free style—B. Gerow, Peterboro; R. MacDermid, Kingston. Time 1.03 4-5 mins.

200 yards, free style: Harris, Kingston; Gerow, Peterboro. Time 2.26.4 mins.

40 yards, back stroke: T. Harris, Kingston; Thompson, Peterboro; Blaker, Belleville. Time 27 secs.

100 yard breast stroke: Turner, Kingston; Gruber, Belleville; Williams, Peterboro. Time 1.19.5 mins.

100 yard relay (5 men team): Peterbora (Gerow, Williams, Janeway, Allen and Thompson); Kingston: Belleville. Time 52 1-5 sec.

Junior under 15 years: 20 yards breast stroke: McKellar, Kingston; Martin, Belleville; Dyer, Peterboro. Time 15.1 secs.

20 yards, back stroke: Sughrue, Kingston; Rogers, Peterboro; Clare, Belleville. Time 14.2 secs.

40 yards, free style: Black, Kingston; Sughrue, Kingston; Moncrieff, Belleville. Time 23.2 secs.

100 yards relay (5 men team): Belleville (Moncrieff, Martin, McBride, Clare, Plummer); Peterboro second; Kingston finished first but was disqualified. Time .58 secs.

Girls' events: 20 yards, back stroke: D. Gardner, Belleville; Mrs. E. Barry, Belleville; D. Grimwood, Kingston. Time 14.3 secs.

20 yards, breast stroke: E. Bush, Belleville; A. Roberts, Kingston; F. Gardner, Belleville. Time 16.1 secs.

40 yards, free style: D. Gardner, Belleville; Roberts, Kingston. Time 28.3 secs.

100 yards relay (5 girl team): Kingston (S. Bird, J. Andrews, J. Hall, A. Roberts, D. Grimwood); Belleville "Y". Time 1.06 1-5 mins.

200 mixed medley relay: Kingston (Miss A. Roberts, Miss Grimwood, McDermid, Harris); Belleville "Y"; Belleville "Y."

The meet was conducted on the point system, five points for first; three for second, and one for third.

The officials of the night were: Starter, Andy Reekie, Kingston; Announcer, J. E. Shortt, Belleville; Judges: Messrs. C. McBride, Belleville, H. Rogers, Peterboro and Art [illegible], Kingston; Clerk of course, Ralph B. Morden, Belleville. Timers, Bob Summers, Albert College Jack McClenaghan of Peterboro.

STRACHEY ON WAY HOME

New York, March 30.—(CP)—Evelyn John St. Loe Strachey, author of several books on Communism, is in the high seas bound for England today, freed from deportation proceedings instituted against him in Chicago.

Strachey sailed for home on the Berengaria with his wife and nine-months-old baby shortly after midnight. A few hours after he had been notified United States immigration authorities had decided to drop proceedings against him.

GREATEST OF ALL

Glenn Cunningham, great Kansas miler, who recently set a new Canadian record for the distance at Hamilton, Ont., in a tour during which he appeared there and in Toronto, is being hailed as the greatest miler the world has ever seen by track followers. The powerful Kansan is shown in action.

MONTREAL ROYALS TAKE TORONTOS

Score 9-2 Win And Free For All Breaks Out in Second Period

Montreal, March 30—(CP)—If Toronto All-Stars awoke this morning thinking it was a bad dream none could blame them. But it was no dream. The pick of Toronto's senior amateur hockey, winners over Hamilton Tigers, Sudbury and Ottawa Canadiens, was defeated 9-2 here last night by a Montreal Royal squad, that could do nothing wrong.

The teams meet at Toronto in the second of the two-of-three series between the champions of the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

Hailed in advance as one of the best teams Ontario has produced in years, the All-Stars were outplayed from the goal out by Royals, who are rated just a grade above the McGill University squad, which did not reach the Eastern Canada finals last year.

In the second period an exhibition of temper broke out resulting in a free-for-all fight, that lasted 15 minutes before officials could get all the scraps settled and penalties inflicted Shortty Robinson high-sticked with Herman Murray, Montreal defenceman, and before order was restored every player on the two rosters, including the goaltenders, swung into action and the ice was littered with gloves and sticks as the Athletes fought a rousing bare-knuckle battle.

Phil Watson scored three goals and aided two others as Royals combination play swept through Toronto repeatedly. The prettiest goal of the night was by Hugh Farquharson, Royals first string centre. Doug Macquisten scored twice and Ken Murray, Dave Neville and Ralph St. Germain one each.

Royals were leading 5-0 before George Parsons gave Toronto their first goal, in the second period, and the score was 7-1 when Garney Large added the second.

B.C.I. Cage Teams Defeated In Semi-Final Rounds of Secondary School Playdowns

Senior Boys, Junior Boys And Senior Girls Taken Into Camp

SHOOTING BAD

Foster, Kikes And A. Cruji Lead Their Respective Teams

Toronto, March 30 (CP)—Three Belleville basketball teams took the role of spectators here today at the Central Ontario Secondary Schools Basketball Finals got underway. The Belleville teams, senior boys, junior boys and senior girls—were all eliminated in the semi-final games last night.

The senior boys, started the downfall losing a 26-21 decision to Peterborough. Belleville down 21-11 at half time, came back with a brilliant offensive in the second half and but for their inaccuracy in shooting fouls might have come out victors. They missed 12 of their 17 foul trys. George Forster led their attack with six points, made up of two baskets and two fouls.

The junior boys stayed close to Niagara Falls until half time when the Falls' greater reach and advantage in weight enabled them to go on to a 23-12 triumph. Belleville were only one point behind at the second half but could only garner a single foul in the last 20 minutes. Kikes made a valiant attempt in a lost cause, scoring half their points.

St. Catharines' senior girls were always in front of the Belleville squad, leading 9-4 at half time and were on top of a 23-11 decision. Artimese Cruji scored eight of the Belleville team's total.

The teams:

Belleville Senior Boys: W. Hilton 1; B. Schrieder 5; G. Forster 6; J. Clarke 2; F. Forster 2; Blaker 2; D. Sharpe, J. Andrews, E. Hay and O. Graham.

Peterborough Senior Boys: W. Ward 6; J. Thorburn 4; D. McPherson 2; R. Pulkinghorne; G. Sedgewick; P. Amys 3; H. Marsh 10; G. McIntyre, D. Welsh, R. Burns.

Belleville Junior Boys: Langton 2; Kikes 6; McCabe 2; Muir 1; Peoples 1; Mitchell, Dickens, Westfall, Collings, Ronsky.

Niagara Falls, Junior Boys: Stephenson 11; McCutcheon 2; McKenzie 8; Frost 3; Greenwood, Boylan 2; Thibert, McLean, Saph 2.

Belleville Senior Girls: Florence Tufts 1; Artimese Cruji 8; Joyce Porritt, Rea Symons 2; Doris Smith, Madge Chapman, Helen Miller, Margaret Scott, Phyllis Wright.

St. Catharines Senior Girls: Margaret Edmonds, Josephine Gutteridge 18; Beth Currey 6; Ina Hiscott 4; Nancy Fraser; Agnes Garner, Marg Tocane, Marge Melhle, [illegible] McCalla, N. Byard, J. Asselstine.

NEW SWIM MARK

AL VANDE WEIGHE

School-boy swimming marvel from New Jersey, who recently set a new interscholastic 100-yard backstroke record. He covered the distanme in 60 4-10 seconds to wipe out his own interscholastic and world record of 61 seconds made last year.

INTO THE DIRT—Buzz Boyle scrambles back at first in a training game in Orlando, and gets a bit dusty doing it.

Jockey Wilson Tells of Fall on Golden Miller

LONDON, March 30.—(CP)—The fall, that was heard around the world— Jockey Gerry Wilson's tumble from Golden Miller in the 97th running of the Grand National — brought an aftermath of discussion today.

The Daily Express started it with an eight-column, front-page series of six photographs. They showed Golden Miller, hottest favorite in Grand Nationa history, taking the jump, where Wilson fell, thereby putting the 1934 winner out of the race.

The photos showed Dorothy Paget's 3 to 1 betting choice made a perfect "four point" landing, without lurching, then dashed along the straightaway, while Wilson, rolled along the ground.

"Golden Miller didn't fall, he 'refused'," The Daily Express quoted Wilson as explaining to Trainer Basil Briscoe. "I felt there was something wrong."

"Whatever it was," the paper added, "it must have been momentary for Golden Miller will run again today in the Champton Chase at Liverpool. Wilson, however, will not be in the saddle.

The Daily Express said it was informed by Briscoe "two veterinarians examined Golden Miller last night and found nothing wrong with him."

Wilson Tells Story

Wilson later amplified his explanation of the tumble telling Sporting Life:

"I found the Miller going short on his off-leg during the race. After passing Valentine's Brook (one of the jumps), he seemed to fall lame before reaching the next fence. He didn't actually fall but blundered into the obstacle and shot me out of the saddle."

This statement, added Sporting Life, fairly mystified Briscoe and Harry Beasley, who has ridden Golden Miller over the Grand National Course many times.

The Morning Post quoted Wilson as saying that when Golden Miller "came to the open ditch he tried to refuse".

"This sent me onto his withers" Wilson added, "and then he hit the fence so hard that though he didn't actually fall, I was sent over his shoulders. He didn't give me the impression he was quite at his best."

The suggestion, that something was amiss with the favorite, the Post continued, left Trainer Briscoe "incredulous".

British bookmakers admittedly were faced with ruin had Golden Miller won yesterday's race. Trevor Wignall, Daily Express Sports authority, estimated that Golden Miller's failure to win saved the bookmakers two million pounds (about $9,600,000).

N. Y. RANGERS IN TOUGH SPOT

Maroons Have Fine Chance to Enter Stanley Cup Finals

Montreal, Mar. 30 (CP)—The New York Rangers tonight will call upon all the skill and courage of a fine "money" team as they fight from behind against Montreal Maroons for the right to enter the Stanley Cup finals.

Down a goal following a 2-1 decision to Maroons at New York on Thursday night, Rangers will rely on the tricky goalward thrusts of their Cook-Boucher-Cook line and the speed of the two other lines.

Maroons on the other hand look to the brilliance of Alex Connell who has allowed one goal in three play-off games; and the steady defensive work of the rearguard pairs, Cy Wentworth and Stew Evans; Lionel Conacher and Allan Shields, to keep Rangers' score down, and to three well-balanced, fast front lines to add to their margin.

Other than Ching Johnson both teams were in good shape and spirits when they arrived from New York last night. The perennial Ranger defenceman, bothered by a leg which has refused to respond completely to treatment following an infection, may have to be benched. Those close to Manager Lester Patrick saw a possibility he would use Bill McKenzie, former Maroon, in Johnson's place.

Probable line-ups:

Rangers — Goal, Kerr; defence, Starr and Seibert; centre Boucher; wings, W. Cook and F. Cook; subs, Heller, Johnson, McKenzie, Connelly, Mason, Patrick, Dillon, Murdoch and Keeling.

Maroons—Goal, Connell; defence, Wentworth and Evans; centre, Smith; wings, Ward and Northcott; subs, Blinco, Robinson, Trottier, Gracie, Marker, Cain, Miller, Conacher and Shields.

HOCKEY SCORES

Eastern Semi-Finals
Montreal Royals 9, Toronto Stars 2. (First of three-game series).
O.H.A. Junior "B" Final.
Barrie Colts 7, St. Michael's 1.
Barrie wins round title, 11-4.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

Although they were not forced to hang out the S.R.O. sign up at the Albert College last night, a goodly crowd of interested fans were on hand to witness one of the finest sport programmes presented in Belleville in many a moon, the second annual inter-city Y.M.C.A. swimming meet. The speed which the swimmers displayed clearly demonstrated that aquatic sports are fast coming back into their own in this community. Although Andy Reekie's Kingston "Y" team walked off with the honors of the meet by annexing 61 points to Belleville's 37 and Peterboro's 31, those scores in no way demonstrate the keen competition, that was witnessed all evening. In practically every race the judges were forced to go into a huddle to determine the winner. Local officials always voted for the outside entry when in doubt, all of which sent the visitors home high in praise of the treatment received locally. On three different occasions we stood near the finishing line and were of the opinion that a dead heat had been raced, but the judges each time awarded the race to the visitors.

Every race from the fastest senior event to the slowest race of the night was keenly contested and they brought rounds of applause from a well-filled gallery. There were more thrills packed into the 15 events presented at the Albert College pool last night than could be jammed into a whole season of some other so-called major sports we know of. In defence of the local contingent of swimmers, who did themselves noble and were a credit to te city, it might be said, that they were in no way disgraced. Congratulations are due Ralph Morden and all of the local members of his club, who were responsible for last night's splendid swimming programme. It bears repeating and would doubtlessly see a S.R.O. sign hung out next time.

We have been asked to announce that open house will be held at the armouries tonight, when the Belleville Badminton Club will ring down the curtain for the current season by presenting their club final matches. The senior singles, mixed doubles and junior ladies' final matches are all on the bill for tonight's gala wind-up. There's plenty of speed and action is their by-word in these final tournaments, they tell us.

Toronto-bound and in quest of the Ontario volleyball championship the local 'setters-up and spikers' left for the Queen City early today. The provincial volleyball semi-finals are being played at Broadview Y.M.C.A. this afternoon and the finals at West End "Y" tonight. The Belleville contingent under the directorship of Instructor Ralph Morden, included Milt Davison, A. Wickerson Dalt Maclean, Farley Faulkner all spikers, and Bert Houston, Bob Brown, Herb Burley, Vern Weir and Harry Peste the setters-up. In the semi-finals this afternoon Belleville "Y", Toronto Broadview, Peterboro "Y" Toronto Y.M.H.A. and Hamilton. Curious to say the local volleyballers were more concerned in the possible procuring of seats for tonight's Toronto-Boston N.H.L. game than they seemed over their chances of winning the provincial volleyball title." And who could really blame them." Incidentally "Gabby" the office boy says—"watch them there Maroons in the Stanley Cup play-downs" (And "Gabby" takes his hockey about as serious as some people take their dinner.)

While the executive of the Belleville senior baseball team are sending in their transfer cards to the O.B.A.A. it might be a good idea if they included one for Ab Young, who has been moved to Belleville by his C.N.R. employees, we hear. Young is a Belleville born youth and learned his baseball and hockey on local sandlots. Last summer he played a few games with the ex-Dukes from Oshawa. Ab Young has been employed on the signal department of the government's railroad for some years and every summer finds himself shunted to a different locality. Under the circumstances the local C.O.B.L. entry should experience little difficulty in getting Young's certificate passed by the O.B.A.A. who know he is no "tourist", but has always been legitimately moved by his employers.

There seems to be some foundation to the rumour that the heavyweight wrestlers are to return to prominence in Belleville. The local Kiwanis Club ave opened negotiations with Promoter Jack Corcoran for three bouts to be staged in Belleville this spring in which some of the top-notch grapplers are to appear. While on the subject of wrestlers Tommy Munns assistant sports editor of the Toronto Globe has the following to say in relationship to Nazzarino Poggi, the Italian wrestler who appeared in a local ring about three years ago—"Of interest to Canadian wrestling fans in the fact that Nazzarino Poggi, the scrappy Italian who appeared in a number of Ontario cities about two and a half years ago, is trying a comeback. A heavy body-slam in a Hamilton bout broke Poggi's back, and no one dreamed that he ever would be other than a cripple. Surgeons grafted a piece of shinbone to strengthen the back and now Poggi, following a miraculous return to heatlh, is trying the mat game again."

All over Ontario, and more especially in the Eastern part of the province, the hockey mentors are ridiculing the O.H.A. in relationship to that body's recent questionable decisions in the matter of junior hockey. Let them say what they like and ridicule to the limit but 'tis safe in betting they'll all be back in the fold stronger than ever next year, including Sam Curry's Tweed charges.

Dan Parker in the New York Mirror informs his readers that it takes only two-fifths of a second for a delivered baseball by a pitcher to reach the catcher. Dan never saw Jack Williams throw one of his floaters we'll bet.

Failing miserably to display their usual form, the three local Collegiate basketball teams were eliminated in the first round of provincial interscholastic competition last night. The only local district winner was the Trenton junior girls' squad who advanced to the finals by trimming Owen Sound 33 to 8. Peterboro C.I. downed the local senior boys, Niagara Falls proved much too good for the local junior boys while the B.C.I. senior girls battled hard and went down fighting before the more-seasoned St. Catharines lassies. Exit interscholastic basketball in Belleville for another season.

Y.M.C.A. ALLEYS

In the Ladies Afternoon League the Aviators got all four points from the Troopers.

Ladies' Afternoon

Troopers 0 points.
Mrs. Black	126	133	112—471
Mrs. Fisher ...	103	98	132—333
Mrs. Shorey ...	147	102	157—406
Mrs. Warham .	116	143	133—392
Mrs Doe	100	100	100—300
Total			1802
Aviators 4 points.
Mrs. Sills ...	184	168	135—487
Mrs. Skinner ...	104	149	173—426
Mrs. Reid . . .	85	187	130—402
Mrs. Mather . ..	125	144	154—423
Mrs. Graves ...	111	109	167—387
Total			2126

DUKE OF MANCHESTER COMMITTED FOR FRAUD

Claimed Jewelry Pawned Belonging to Late Mother

London, March 30—(AP)—The Duke of Manchester was committed for trial today at London's Old Bailey on charges of obtaining £650 ($3,250) under false pretenses with intent to defraud.

Specifically the charges were the 58-year-old Duke pawned two pieces of jewelry belonging to his late mother, Consuelo, Duchess of Manchester.

It was contended the jewelry on which he received loans rightfully belonged to the general trustees under the will of the late Duchess, although the Duke said:

"It is my own property and I have a perfect right to deal with the same."

Hurled from Running Board

Hamilton, March 30—(CP)—Hurled from the running board of a car as it rounded the curve at the bottom of Hamilton Hill in Dundas this morning, Kenneth Wright of Blackheath, was killed instantly when his head struck an iron standard. The tragedy occurred when Wright was being driven back from a dance in Dundas.

At the Training Grounds

(By Alan Gould)
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New Orleans, March 30.—(AP)—After capturing three of the last four world series, the National League is all steamed up for one of the gaudiest seasons in its 60-odd years of existence.

With Babe Ruth in the circuit for the first time as an added attraction at the box-office, and Cincinnati Reds all set to introduce night baseball as a fresh stimulant to cash customers, there's an unprecedented display of showmanship by baseball's erstwhile and conservative old guard".

There is a demand for more slam-bang baseball in consequence of the popularity of the more primitive tactics practiced last season by the Champion Cardinals. There is no doubt challenges will be issued and accepted with alacrity as the season unfolds. It may even be necessary to call the cops.

The Rookie Reds of Cincinnati alone can be counted definitely out of the picture. Three of the four clubs in the Western half of the circuit will be very tough indeed but Cardinals and Giants, have the most effective-looking combinations of pitching, power and defence. It's a toss-up between the Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates for third place.

The Giants look best this spring for several reasons. They beat themselves last September, blowing a seven-game lead that would have been impossible for the Cardinals to wipe out except for the utter collapse of the New York Club. Bill Terry already has the best pitching staff in the league, considering the fact he has four aces to the Cardinals' two deans.

DON'T LOOK "FORMAL"
if you want to look Fashionable

WEAR A NEW
"Club Clothes"
STYLE SUPREME SUIT
Styled in the new Sport Mode

Comfortable, sensible suits that don't cramp a man's good appearance or his bodily ease.

Pleated and satchel pockets give them an easy-go-lucky swing and take away that stiff strained severity of yesteryear's styling.

● Saunter in to see them and you'll saunter out wearing one.

Quick & Robertson
"CLOTHIERS OF QUALITY"

Dit Clapper Boston Ace Winger Out of Playoff Series but Bruins Expect to Score Win

King Clancy May Also be Given Rest by Conny Smythe

Teams up With Barry And Kaminsky On Scoring Line

Toronto, Mar. 30 (CP)—This Saturday-night hockey town was prepared today to welcome a National Hockey League championship before midnight, and a terrifically disappointed town it will be if the celebration is either deferred or postponed. Boston's Bruins hope to quash the entire business.

They can defer any celebration 72 hours by beating the Maple Leafs in the fourth game of the league title series and squaring the count at two victories each. Manager Frank Patrick says they will do it; Eddie Shore is sure they will if the greatest defenceman in hockey has to play all 60 minutes to put it over.

With Dit Clapper, the only Bruin who has scored in the series, out of the game with water on the knee the Boston fighters have pulled in their belts, called young Jack Shill into the huddle and emerged with an announcement that all is not yet over. There is wallop in the Bruin paw.

Having been held scoreless in two straight games, absorbing bitter 2-0 and 3-0 defeats in the second and third games, the Bruins are unable to see any defects in their own defence. And something in that Toronto defence has got to crack, they think. The Bruins are something better than a goal-every-three-games team.

Shill, a left winger purchased from the Leafs before the start of the season, will take Clapper's place beside Max Kaminsky and Marty Barry. That will leave Nels Stewart, Charlie Sands and Jerry Shannon for a second attacking division and Alex Motter, Peggy O'Neill, Red Beattie and Paul Haynes to look after the checking.

Bruins to Open Throttle.

George Hainsworth's hope of marking up a third straight shut-out, equalling the playoff record set by John Ross Roach in 1929 when the Rangers held New York Americans goalless in two games, then won the next from Toronto 1-0, was not exactly bright.

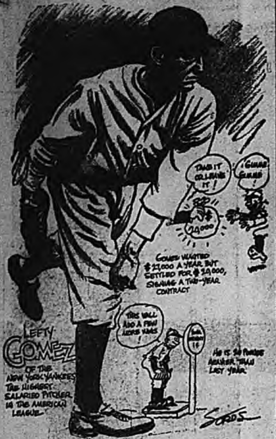
For one thing the Bruins may open up the throttle and throw away their strictly defensive measures, allowing Shore to lead a smashing offensive. For another thing, Little King Clancy may be given a night off. Manager Conny Smythe of the Leafs can't quite make up his mind whether to play Clancy or not.

The mightiest little defenceman in the game, Clancy has given and taken enormous punishment in all three series games and the Toronto boss thinks he needs a rest. If he gets it Andy Blair will team up with Red Horner on one rearguard.

The probable line-ups for tonight:

Boston—Goal, Thompson; defence, Shore and Siebert; centre, Kaminsky; wings, Shill and Barry; subs, Davie, McElhenly, Stewart, Sands, Shannon, Motter, Beattie, O'Neill and Haynes.

Toronto—Goal, Hainsworth; defence, Day and Hollett; centre, Thoms; wings, Finnigan and Kilrea; subs, Horner, Blair, Conacher, Primeau, Jackson, Ball, Cotton, Metz and Kelly.



TAKE IT OR LEAVE IT!
GIMME GIMME!
$ 20,000
GOMEZ WANTED $23,000 A YEAR BUT SETTLED FOR $20,000, SIGNING A TWO-YEAR CONTRACT
THIS WILL ADD A FEW MORE WINS!
HE IS 10 POUNDS HEAVIER THAN LAST YEAR
LEFTY GOMEZ OF THE NEW YORK YANKEES THE HIGHEST SALARIED PITCHER IN THE AMERICAN LEAGUE
SORDS

BAER WILL SOON BE MARY'S LAMB

Mary Kirk Brown Martin, daughter of a social register family will become Mrs. Maxie Baer, prize-fighter's wife, when she obtains final decree from Robert Martin, Broadway playboy, New York is being told. She's seen with Maxie and in close-up.

GILL-SIZED ROOKIE

NICK TREMARK

Only five feet five inches tall, Nick Tremark, recruit outfielder at the camp of the Brooklyn Dodgers in Orlando, is one of the smallest players in the game.

TERRY PLEASE NOTE

CASEY STENGEL

Last year the Dodgers [illegible] the Giants out of a National League pennant. And here's Casey Stengel, manager of the Flatbush flock, at Orlando, Fla., taking [illegible] at something or other, perhaps the same target. That's for Bill Terry, boss of the Giants, to worry about.

BATTLE OF CENTURY; DEAN VS. RUTH

Babe Ruth is thirsting for his next crack at Dizzy Dean, after being held hitless in first game in which he faced him, at St. Petersburg, Fla. Largest crowd in Florida baseball history turned out to see Dizzy make good his promise to keep Ruth off bases. To show there's no ill-feeling, however, they grin at each other after game, during which this remarkable photo was made.

FROM KAYAK SAILING TO BACK-STOPPING

This Eskimo boy with sporting blood finds he can "no catchum seal" at this time of year so decides to "catchum baseball" He is a rookie catcher (perhaps) of the Wakeham Bay Sealers in the Eskimo league. They are not expected to displace St. Louis Cards as world series heroes this year. The team has no high-falutin' ideas about expensive training camps. down south, their idea of south being limited to somewhere north of the international boundary.

SCHMELING'S WIN BRINGS "HEIL HITLER"

Though Joe Jacobs, manager of Herr Maxie Schmeling, is strictly non-Aryan, he is shown raising his hand in the Nazi salute after the German heavyweight had knocked out Steve Hamas in Hamburg, Germany. Schmeling is at the LEFT in this group (top), and Jacobs at the extreme RIGHT. Below the camera caught the action as Schmeling landed a right hook to Hamas' jaw. The Black Uhlan unleashed a vicious punching attack which left Hamas stunned and semi-conscious for several days. Valoni, the Belgian referee, is crouched just behind the fighters.

SPRING BRINGS GOLFERS TOGETHER FOR BOBBY JONES TOURNAMENT

Francis Ouimet
Al Espinosa
Bobby Jones
Horton Smith
Ed Dudley
Paul Runyan

Ranking professionals and amateurs of the United States will compete, April 4, in the second annual national tournament over Bobby Jones' course at Augusta, Ga. Jones, who tied for thirteenth place in the first Augusta tournament over the course on which many holes of world-famous courses are duplicated, has trained earnestly for the matches this year. Some of the 138 invited stars who will play, and an air view of the part of the course called a "golfer's paradise," are pictured above.

WOMEN OXONIANS PREPARE FOR BOAT RACE FEUD WITH CAMBRIDGE

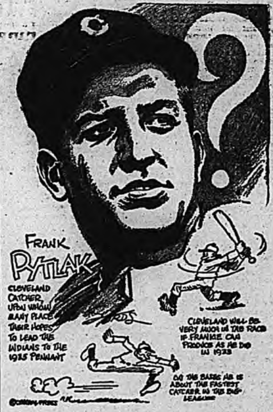
Interest throughout England is once again centred on the Oxford-Cambridge rowing tussle, as Varsity crews from both universities prepare to take the water in their annual brush. Not as widely know, but still stiffly contested is the other inter-varsity race when the women representing each college match their strength. Here are the Oxford ladies shown on the Thames during a workout.

GAR WOOD UNLOADS MISS AMERICA 10TH

Grooming his mighty watercraft, Miss America 10th for a tilt at his own world speedboat record, Gar Wood, the water-racing 'Silver Fox' looks things over in Miami, Fla. He will attempt to set a new speed record on Biscayne Bay. This is the same craft in which the present mark of 124.86 miles per hour was established. Commodore Wood is seated at the RIGHT.

BRADDOCK COMES BACK; LASKY FADES

Jimmy Braddock (Left), the rejuvenated Irishman, who has sprung from the discarded heap to a place in the heavyweight limelight, and Art Lasky mix it up in the centre of the New York ring, with Jimmy dominating matters. That about tells the story of the scrap which Jimmy won. It was Braddock all the way despite the fact that his opponent was three to one favorite to win. Laskys ope of ever wining the heavyweight title were just about ended by the defeat. Braddock must now be reckoned as a potential challenger.



FRANK PYTLAK
CLEVELAND CATCHER, UPON WHOM MANY PLACE THEIR HOPES TO LEAD THE INDIANS TO THE 1935 PENNANT
CLEVELAND WILL BE VERY MUCH IN THE RACE IF FRANKIE CAN PRODUCE AS HE DID IN 1933
ON THE BASES HE IS ABOUT THE FASTEST CATCHER IN THE BIG LEAGUES
SORDS

JEWISH TIGERS—Two of few Jewish players in the majors are Tigers. They are Isadore Goldstein, LEFT, and Hank Greenberg TAG!—Baxter Jordan, first baseman of the Braves, tags out Ben Chapman of the Yankees, caught napping on the baseline.

Daily Short Story

Lucky Break

(Copyright 1935 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Mr. Robert Ford passed around the salad plates. There were none to deny her the honor of being peer among salad makers. And why not? Hadn't she kept a boarding house for five years after the death of her mother! And didn't all the boarders praise her of her cooking?

One of the guests laughed and in typical trite fashion remarked: "So that's how you got your husband—you got to his heart through the feed bag."

Some of the others smiled and the chance remark would have been forgotten, except that Mrs. Ford replied rather gravely: "On the other hand, we got married after he shot up my place."

Some of them knew the story but they never tired of hearing it and those who didn't know it bent forward a trifle the better to hear it. She began..

It was ten years ago when it happened. At that time, Bob and I were in love. Not in the moon-calf silly sort of woy that puppies and 18-year-olds love. Both of us had long passed the age of sweet romance. I was nearing thirty and Bob had passed it by several years.

But we had a deep and abiding affection for each other. I really can't explain how or why. But I did get a thrill everytime I heard his lumbering footstep at the door and I presume he felt the same when I smiled at him. Incidentally, that's about the only thing he used to say he liked about me—my smile. But I do know he went for the scrawny, thin-legged women—and I was always a bit buxom.

Well, I liked him. But I had a business to attend to. I ran a boarding house for rheumatic bachelors and wizened spinsters. I had inherited it from my mother and found it a fairly decent livelihood. So I was what one would really call a business woman. And believe me I needed no copper to help me collect my bills. I had a better system—if they didn't pay they didn't eat.

A Bachelor

Bob was a bachelor, too. But he was one person barred from becoming a boarder. I was afraid to mix business with pleasure. And hadn't I said that it was a pleasure seeing him? So it really isn't true to say that I won him with my cooking. He never had anything more than tea in my house. But I was pretty liberal in that respect. I never charged him for the tea.

I did have one business deal with him. I had a four-car garage and no car of my own. So I used to rent out the place— and Bob was one of my garage tenants. It was a convenience having his car in my garage. Sundays—and week nights when we felt like it—we could always take a spin in his car. It was handy.

Well, Bob kept pestering me to marry him. And sentimentally I had no objection. But he was just a patrolman in those days—and I hated going to live with him on his income. I didn't relish giving up my business and my independence for a husband with a starvation wage. So I gave him a promise—we were to wed on his promotion.

One evening we were having tea as usual. He had finished his cup and remarked also as usual: "Well dear—how about a spin around town?" I answered with the usual: "O.K." And he replied as had been the custom: "I'll blow the horn as soon as I get the car out of the garage. Get your furs on in the meantime."

So I got my furs on—which consisted of a cloth coat and a shiny hat in the latest style and waited for the horn to blow. Well, I might confess it was the longest wait that I can remember. In ten years of married life I have never waited that long for my husband. You see he's rather punctual in his ways.

The minutes ticked away and I grew impatient. I figured perhaps something was wrong with his car and he stopped to repair it. I was tempted to run out and reprimand him for not letting me know at least what happened so that I shouldn't be kept in suspense. But I had learned patience in my business and so I continued to wait. It must have been half an hour before the horn blew. I rushed downstairs.

Four Police Cars

The sight that greeted my eyes was not a very enchanting one. Certainly, a man wouldn't take his sweetheart out for a ride with four other police cars on the same block. Adn certainly a man doesn't go courting with a body guard of half dozen policemen hidden in the hallway of the girl's home. So I opened my mouth about to tell him something—when he motioned frantically for me to keep silent.

"Tell me, Eve," he asked as I came close to him, "any new boarders in the house?"

"Just a few transients," I replied, "just drove in from the West. Very pleasant men—cheerful, look like salesmen. Were looking for a quiet respectable place."

"Very pleasant," sneered Bob, "I guess you know your men. They left their car in the garage, didn't they?"

"Why yes," I replied, "I'm charging them for that, too. What's the matter, any trouble."

"Not very much Eve," he replied "but I'm sorry I got to do my duty. It'll probably ruin your reputation, but it can't be helped. You see—you're harboring suspicious characters.

"And I suggest," he added ominously, "that you better move away about half a block because I'm going to carry out my sworn duty and I love you too much to see a bullet come between us."

I started to protest but one look at his face and at the group of policemen with him—and I figured it was more prudent to follow his advice....

Well, for the next half hour I cursed him plenty. And I don't mean the gentle cursing either. How would anyone of you feel to see your house riddled with bullets before your eyes. At least so it seemed to me. Bang—bang—bang—bang. It appeared as if the firing would never cease. And Bob, of course, in the thick of it. I'll admit I worried about him, too.

Three Men Held

Well it was over in fifteen minutes, although it seemed like an eternity to me. Bob came out with several of the other policemen and with them three men in handcuffs. I went into the house and the damage was not as bad as I had feared. One room was riddled with bullets, and there was quite some damage in the corridor near the room..

Late that night the telephone rang. It was Bob. He insisted that he come over and explain things. Well, I was still too excited to say "No." I met him in the parlor. He was all enthused.

"Eve," he cried, "I guess we can get hitched now. I'm being promoted. I did a good day's work. And it was all because of our love affair."

I stared at him while he continued: "You see, had we not been in love I would not have kept my car in your garage. And if I had not kept my car in your garage— I would not have noticed the car of the three prisoners. And the license number—that license number had been sent out to all the police only early this morning. We were asked to watch it. The three had looted a bank last night, and had stolen the car. And I was the lucky one to spot it."

I continued to stare at him. I knew the papers would be out the next morning hailing Bob as a hero. Still I did not feel so well. He clinched the argument.

"Besides," he added, "you can't continue the boarding house. Who will come here now after the reputation it will get. What a lucky break for me!"

Well, all I can say is—that after ten years—I think it was a lucky break for me, too.

* * *

Little Benny's Note Book

THE WEAKLY NEWS

Weather. Various.

SISSITY PAGE

Miss Mary Watkins the well known charity werker is so tender harted she has been feeling sad and ony using her left hand ever since last Monday nite when she dreemed somebody shut the door on her rite hand.

LABOR NOTES

A meeting was held werking home from school Thersday afternoon and severel speekers demanded shorter hours and a longer recess.

SPORTING PAGE

Reddy Merfy, who has just got over the mumps, and is still feeling kind of pale, announces it is a good time for anybody to challenge him to a fite, which nobody hasn't so far.

POME BY SKINNY MARTIN

One's Enough

I feel lucky when I think how many nitemares
With high falls and blud curdeling screems
There must be loose in the air at nite.
And how few of them get in my dreems.

TRUE ADVENTURE STORIES

Presents of Mind

One Sunday afternoon my father fell asleep in his chair and a spark from his pipe started to bern a hole in his vest, and with grate presents of mind I ran and got a glass of water to put it out, ony I missed my aim and it all went in his face, and by that time the fire had put itself out without leeving a mark and my father put me out, pritty neer leaving a mark.

Send in by Sam Cross.

SPRINGBROOK ITEMS OF NEIGHBORHOOD

Springbrook—Mr. Ritchie Mason left on Tuesday for Oshawa where he has been successful in securing a position there.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Runnalls were in Peterboro on Wednesday.

Miss Iva Brown and Mrs. John Brown of Bonarlaw were guests of Mrs. Murney Fleming on Wednesday.

Mrs. Isaac Brown of Bonarlaw was the guest of Mrs. Fred Fenn on Wednesday.

Mrs. Reg. Morgan spent Tuesday in Stirling with her mother, Mrs. Donahue.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Skillicorn have taken up residence in Mrs. C. A. MacConnell's house.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bateman spent Wednesday evening at Mrs. C. Joyce's.

The many friends of Mr. R. Reynolds of this village are sorry to learn he is ill and all join in wishing him a speedy recovery.

TEX AND HIS PALS (ActualPhotographs)

Saturday and Baths

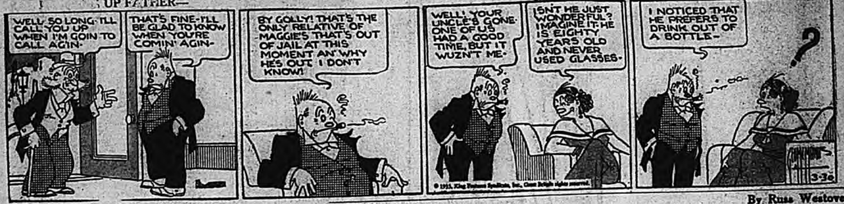
Copyright, 1935, by Harper Features, Dallas, Texas, U.S.A. All Rights Reserved

By Leslie A. Hill

HURRY! I WANT TO GET YOU PUPS CLEAN BEFORE MOTHER SEES YOU.
GEE, THIS TUB IS HEAVY!
I HOPE SHE LETS US STAY HERE.
KEEP STILL FUNNYFACE!
LOOK TEX! THERE'S A LADY COMING.
WHAT A STUCK-UP DOG SHE HAS!
I'LL BET IT HAS PEDIGREES!
OUCH! YOU'RE GETTING SOAP IN MY EYE!
WOOF! LET ME DOWN, I'LL RUN ALL THOSE ALLEY CURS AWAY.
TEX! WHERE DID YOU GET ALL THOSE HOUNDS? ONE DOG IS ENOUGH ON THIS PLACE!

By George McManus

[illegible] UP FATHER—



WELL SO LONG- I'LL CALL YOU UP WHEN I'M GOIN TO CALL AG'IN-
THAT'S FINE-I'LL BE GLAD TO KNOW WHEN YOU'RE COMIN' AGIN-
BY GOLLY! THAT'S THE ONLY RELATIVE OF MAGGIE'S THAT'S OUT OF JAIL AT THIS MOMENT AN' WHY HE'S OUT I DON'T KNOW!
WELL! YOUR UNCLE'S GONE- ONE OF US HAD A GOOD TIME, BUT IT WUZN'T ME-
ISN'T HE JUST WONDERFUL? IMAGINE IT-HE IS EIGHTY YEARS OLD AND NEVER USED GLASSES-I NOTICED THAT HE PREFERS TO DRINK OUT OF A BOTTLE-
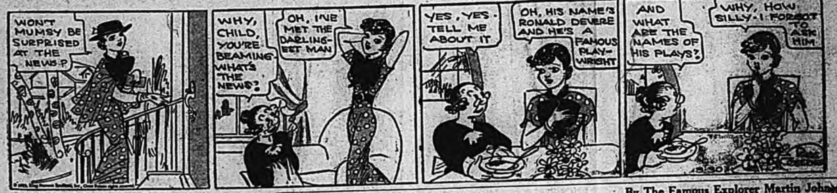
?
3-30

By Russ Westover

TILLIE [illegible]R—



WON'T MUMSY BE SURPRISED AT THE NEWS?
WHY, CHILD, YOU'RE BEAMING- WHAT'S THE NEWS?
OH, I'VE MET THE DARLINGEST MAN
YES, YES. TELL ME ABOUT IT
OH, HIS NAME'S RONALD DEVERE AND HE'S A FAMOUS PLAYWRIGHT AND WHAT ARE THE NAMES OF HIS PLAYS?
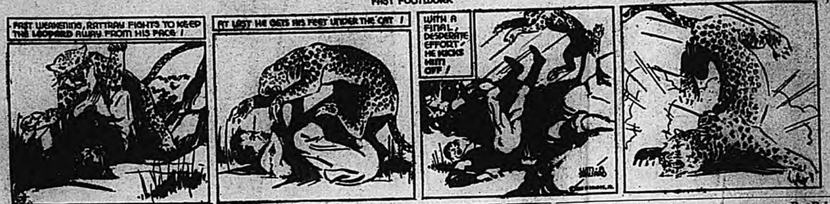
WHY, HOW SILLY- I FORGOT TO ASK HIM
3-30

By The Famous Explorer Martin Johnson

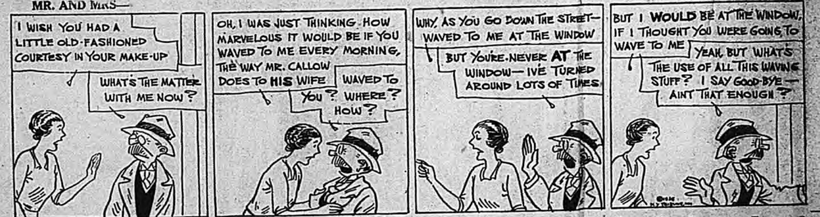
FAST FOOTWORK



FAST WEAKENING, RATTRAY FIGHTS TO KEEP THE LEOPARD AWAY FROM HIS FACE!
AT LAST HE GETS HIS FEET UNDER THE CAT!
WITH A FINAL, DESPERATE EFFORT HE KICKS HIM OFF!

By Briggs

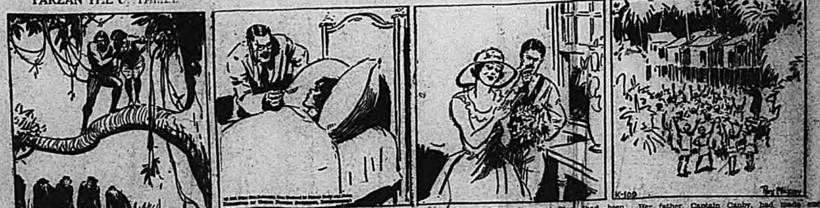
MR. AND MRS—



I WISH YOU HAD A LITTLE OLD-FASHIONED COURTESY IN YOUR MAKE-UP
WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH ME NOW?
OH, I WAS JUST THINKING HOW MARVELOUS IT WOULD BE IF YOU WAVED TO ME EVERY MORNING, THE WAY MR. CALLOW DOES TO HIS WIFE
WAVED TO YOU? WHERE? HOW?
WHY, AS YOU GO DOWN THE STREET—WAVED TO ME AT THE WINDOW
BUT YOU'RE NEVER AT THE WINDOW— I'VE TURNED AROUND LOTS OF TIMES
BUT I WOULD BE AT THE WINDOW, IF I THOUGHT YOU WERE GOING TO WAVE TO ME
YEAH, BUT WHAT'S THE USE OF ALL THIS WAVING STUFF? I SAY GOOD-BYE— AIN'T THAT ENOUGH?

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

TARZAN THE UNTAMED



When the apes quieted by Tarzan's declaration that Olga was his "she", and not to be molested, the two humans were allowed to pass unchallenged from the scene of the dum-dum dance.. Some hours later Tarzan lifted the girl lightly into a great tree.

The muffled pounding of the apes' dum-dum dance reached her from the distance. She recalled the time in India, long ago, when beating drums drove a tiger toward her elephant and how her crash from his back had put her near death.

"If I, Patricia Canby," mused Olga, "had been killed that time, there would never have been an Olga Boresch, spy for the Reds!" . . Loving care and her own zest for life had pulled her through. Summer found her girlish prettiness blooming into real beauty.

Her father, Captain Canby, had made exciting plans for her. Lady Cecil, his colonel's wife, invited Pat to spend several months with them in their mountain place. The Captain himself could not leave his post, for an uprising threatened in a native state to the north.